Many Firms Report Plate Glass Broken

Strong gusty winds that increased steadily in velocity from yesterday afternoon to an estimated 60 miles per hour early last night shattered plate glass in several downtown stores and blew out door and window glass in many Pampa homes before it finally subsided.

The hard, driving snow, blown almost horizontal by the wind, cut visibility to zero for several hours last night. Highways 60 and 152, to Amarillo and Borger, were closed from about 6 p.m. until about 11, when the snow storm began to clear. The highway to Wheeler was impassable for about three hours early in the evening. Chief of Police Louie Allen said this morning, "because I was caught out on it, you couldn't see past the radiator cap."

The most serious damage to a business house was suffered by the S-Q Clothiers at the corner of N. Cuyler and Francis. During the store's opening night celebration, the front plate glass windows cracked and shattered, ripping suits and hats in the window display to shreds. Fortunately, no one was injured, but neckwear and other merchandise in the front part of the store was damaged and some was ruined. Congratulatory floral pieces from clothing manufacturers were ruined and parts of the tile flooring in the front part of the store were scratched and torn by falling glass.

Earlier in the evening, plate glass in other parts of the new building, not yet occupied, were blown out. About the only glass left whole today are the doors and transoms. A six-by-nine foot display window at the J. C. Danley automobile agency, 219 W. Tyng, was blown out about 6:45 p.m. yesterday and the two front display windows at Wilson's Drug, on the corner of W. Tyng and S. Cuyler, were blown out around 5 p.m. Aside from the glass, the only other damage at the drug store was by one bottle of perfume that was broken in a window display.

No estimates of repair costs were available this morning. Among the dozen or so doors and windows in residences and

Schools Close For Change in Gas System

McLean and Alandree schools were shut down today because deteriorating gas line connections forced the city of McLean to move an old line and replace it with a new one. Mayor Boyd Meador of McLean said this morning the old line of the city from the government when the POW camp was closed.

Meador added that in moving the line to run direct from the gas well into the city made them shut down the well until the line is completed. This well, situated four miles north and east of McLean, supplies the schools as well as business buildings and private residences. Because the pressure was too low from another well, located in Wheeler County, to deliver enough gas to the area, the schools were closed.

The mayor said he expected the new line to be ready for service by Monday. The new line will run direct from the temporary shut down well to the city instead of through the POW camp.

Department Store Sales Lag Two Weeks in a Row

WASHINGTON (AP)—High prices may be slowing up department store sales. Or may be the weather, or something else. Whatever the reason, fewer dollars clinked into department store tills across the country in each of the first two weeks of November than were rung up in the same weeks of last year.

The drop was eight percent in the first week of the month, nine percent last week. That meant the actual amount of goods sold was even less because prices are higher than they were a year ago.

Since the end of the war, department store sales have risen in one new high after another in Federal Reserve Board surveys.

Declines for two consecutive weeks have been so rare officials couldn't recall offhand when it last occurred.

But these officials caution that a two-week showing is not enough to establish a definite trend. Also, there are other factors which might explain the sales dip at least partly.

One is weather. In some sections, merchants thought business was hurt by unseasonable warmth, in others, by unseasonable cold. But the decline showed up in all 12 Federal Reserve Districts blanketing the nation.

Another possible explanation for the decline, officials said, is that perhaps American consumers are returning to their traditional practice of waiting until the late hours of the month, or even the last minute, to do their Christmas shopping.

Last year, as in preceding years, goods went back into the wartime consumers were making it a practice to do their Christmas buying early partly for fear of scarcities.

This year, there is a good supply of most goods and in some lines such as radios and some clothing items stocks have been so plentiful that prices have been marked down.

One reflection of price consciousness cited by officials was the good showing of basement bargain counters in comparison with "main floor" sales.

The department store figures for the first two weeks of November showed the dollar turnover was 220 and 246 percent, respectively, above the weekly average for pre-war 1935-36.

U.S. Companies To Buy Interest In Arabian Firm

NEW YORK (AP)—Two American oil companies plan to purchase an interest in American Arabian Oil Co. which will make expanded Middle Eastern petroleum available to European countries and relieve the strain on American resources.

The two companies are Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) and Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. Inc. Standard said it will acquire early next month a 30 percent stock interest in Arabian American and Socony said it will purchase a 10 percent stock interest in Arabian American and in Trans-Arabian Pipeline Co.

Standard in March, 1947, guaranteed $75,000,000 of Arabian American bank borrowings, and Socony last year guaranteed a $25,000,000 American Arabian loan. Purchase prices to be paid by the two companies will be used to retire the two loans.

Tension Eased by Victory U.S. CHARGED WITH MAD ARMAMENTS RACE

PARIS (AP)—Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky told the United Nations today the United States is building up a Western European system directed against the Soviet Union. He charged also at a full session of the General Assembly that the United States and Britain are carrying on a "mad armaments race" against Russia. In both countries, he said, there is a "war psychosis" against the Soviet Union.

The Russian spoke after John Foster Dulles of the United States attacked the Soviet proposal for a one-third arms cut as "almost irresponsible" and a "cruel deception."

Dulles, speaking at a full meeting of the assembly, urged it to approve unanimously a majority proposal calling for further study of steps toward arms limitations. Russia attacked that proposal and tossed in her counter-plan that would reduce military personnel and arms of the United States, Britain, France, Russia and China. The assembly's Political Committee has approved the majority plan and defeated the Russian resolution.

Like Dulles, British Minister of State Hector McNeill and French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman rejected the Russian proposal. McNeill termed it unrealistic and Schuman said it was deceiving. The assembly already has voted down a Russian demand that the U.N. Atomic Energy Commission draw up two treaties: one calling for a ban on the atom bomb and the other establishing an atomic control system.

Vishinsky told the assembly today that the majority has twice brushed aside the atomic control question. He added that Russia has repeatedly turned down the international atomic control scheme put forward in 1946 by Bernard Baruch of the United States.

The Russian said the principle of atomic control by states is "utterly unacceptable" and that such a plan would open the door to abuse by any control organ. The Russians, he said, want simultaneous control over all phases of atomic production in the United States and Britain. Russia is trying to obtain control of atomic raw materials and at the same time is retaining its ownership of the finished product.

The Western powers have rejected Russia's plans for atomic controls on the ground that it does not provide effective guarantees of control. Vishinsky also discussed the German situation, claiming that the United States and Britain, with France's support, "buried" the German question.

Young Rulers of Egypt And Iran Divorce Queens

CAIRO (AP)—The young rulers of Egypt and Iran have divorced the beautiful queens who bore no male heirs to the thrones. This news came with stunning suddenness today in two communiques from Egypt's royal palace.

One communique proclaimed it "God's will" that the ten-year-old son of King Farouk and Queen Fawzia be dissolved. The other statement said the Persian climate endangered the health of Empress Fawzia, bride of Shah Reza Pahlavi of Iran and sister of Farouk, and that this was agreed that she be divorced.

Farouk, now 28, was married in an 1928, before he ascended the throne. On his 17-year-old bride, Sasi Nazi Sultkar, he conferred the name of Farida, which means "peerless." She bore him three daughters.

Under Egyptian law, only male offspring of the King can inherit the throne. The Shah took Fawzia for his bride in March, 1939, when she was 17 and he was the heir to his throne. Farouk's sister, considered one of the world's most beautiful women, was proclaimed Empress of Iran Sept. 17, 1941. The couple have one daughter, now seven. The Shah is 29. Fawzia just turned 27.

An official announcement said the Shah and his empress were formally separated and divorced because of the Empress' continued illness, which forced her return to Egypt. Both the Egyptian and the Iranian announcements said the divorce would have no effect upon the friendly relations of the two countries.

The communique on Farouk's divorce said: "God's will ordered that the sacred relation between the noble couple be broken. This will direct."

WE HEARD . . . Pampa has the youngest grandparents in the Pampa handle, Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Payne, 34 and 31, respectively. Their daughter, Mrs. Everett Lee Carson of Dalhart, gave birth to a daughter Tuesday at the Pampa Hospital. Mrs. Carson is not quite 18.

Manikin Gets Tossed on Ear

DALLAS (AP)—A swank Nieman-Marcus Department store manikin got tossed on her ear into the middle of Maw Street about 2:26 this morning. Cause was an explosion of the store's air-conditioning machinery in the basement. The model was one of these beautiful but dumb items. In fact, she was a dummy. All ground floor windows of the store were blown out. Considerable debris cluttered the basement afterwards. Articles on the ground floor were tossed about a bit.

The company planned to open as usual this morning. Only minor damage was caused to stock. Last year just before Christmas a fire swept parts of the store, causing an estimated half-million-dollar damage. All ground floor windows of the store were blown out. Considerable debris cluttered the basement afterwards. Articles on the ground floor were tossed about a bit.

Adventure Leads to Tragedy—Rescue workers dug for the body of Francis X. O'Donnell, 16, who, with his best friend, John Whalen, 12, was suffocated under tons of dirt after a deep tunnel they boys were building in Washington, D. C., suddenly collapsed. John's body is visible through the window of the ambulance in the foreground. At the rear of the ambulance, with a bag over his shoulder, is Jim O'Connell, an ambulance driver off duty, who responded to the emergency call without realizing one of the victims was his young brother. MARGARET TRUMAN VACATIONS IN COMFORT—Margaret Truman takes advantage of Southern sunshine by donning a sports blouse and shorts for outdoor play at Key West, Fla., where she is vacationing with her father, President Harry S. Truman, and Mrs. Truman. The section of the original picture showing Margaret's legs was eliminated upon the advice of the "Little White House." (NEA TELEPHOTO).

McGrath Promises Civil Rights Drive

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic Chairman J. Howard McGrath today hoisted the election returns as the administration's banner for a drive to push civil rights laws through Congress.

McGrath made it plain that so far as he is concerned there will be no compromise with the Southern Democrats who opposed President Truman's election and have threatened to filibuster his anti-race-discrimination program.

Without laying out any timetable, the national chairman told a news conference yesterday he personally favors a change in the Senate debates rules to kill off filibusters.

Any such move itself would be subject to a talkathon by Dixie members and McGrath wouldn't risk a guess whether the majority of Senate Democrats would support such a change.

Most Republicans, who will be in a 54-to-42 minority in the new Senate, are expected to back it.

How would McGrath convert the Southerners from their traditional opposition to action on any civil rights bill? a reporter asked.

"We'll just show them the election returns," the national chairman replied with a grin. Mr. Truman won Nov. 2 despite the opposition of States' Rights advocates, who corralled 38 electoral votes. McGrath obviously thinks that should convince some Southerners they were wrong in their position.

But McGrath indicated the administration isn't going to try to punish Mr. Truman's Dixie critics by denying them places on Congressional committees. He said that would be denying their constituents representation they are entitled to.

Speaking as a Rhode Island senator as well as Mr. Truman's No. 1 political aide, McGrath predicted adoption of most of the President's program by the new Congress.

McGrath said that as he reads the election returns, the people have called for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law.

But he came out in favor of linking that repeal with some substitute provisions, particularly those that would give the government power to prevent strikes that might paralyze the whole country.

Scout Leaders Study Ceramics

Nineteen Girl Scout leaders took their second lesson in the art of ceramics yesterday morning at the Scout House, 716 E. Kingsmill, under the leadership of Mrs. O. L. Statton and Mrs. Ervin Purcell.

The leaders constructed ash trays, vases and other simple objects and plan to make more complicated pieces of art in the future.

The women are learning the art so they can teach their troops the art during the winter.

PRINCE DOING OK

LONDON (AP)—Princess Elizabeth a physician announced today that she and her infant son are maintaining such "steady and satisfactory progress" that daily bulletins are being discontinued.

National Grange Endorses Flexible Government Support of Farm Prices

PORTLAND, Me. (AP)—The National Grange Convention today endorsed a system of flexible government price supports aimed at preventing future surpluses and shortages of farm products. It took this action after defeating a proposal to continue indefinitely the present wartime support program of 90 percent of parity.

It went on record against a reduction in income taxes during the present period of "high employment and income."

The convention did not say what the range of flexible supports should be in terms of per-

Confidence Vote

PARIS (AP)—The French cabinet today gave Premier Henri Queuille permission to ask the National Assembly for a vote of confidence.

Queuille said he would go before the Parliament Tuesday to ask approval of the way his cabinet throttled the Communist-ordered strikes that cost France nine million tons of coal in seven weeks.

Cabinet Resigns

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Premier Paul Spaak's Socialist-Catholic coalition cabinet resigned today.

The resignation followed that of Minister of Justice Paul Struyce yesterday after a parliamentary debate on his policy of leniency toward former German collaborators.

It is believed Spaak, a Socialist, would refuse to head a new cabinet. Gaston Eyskens, a leader of the Catholic Party, might be named premier.

Fifteen Hanged

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Fifteen more German war criminals were hanged today.

The executions brought to 73 the number hanged in the last six weeks for wartime murders of concentration camp prisoners and American soldiers.

HST Eyes Crises

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—President Truman, nearing the end of his post-election vacation here, kept close watch today on international crises thousands of miles apart—Europe and China.

Fruitcakes Good, Here's the Proof

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Mrs. Paul Saunders of San Antonio has proof today her baked fruitcakes are good.

She called police yesterday when the aroma of honey apparently enticed a swarm of bees to block an entrance to her home. The officer advised her to close the window and door and burn some rags to offset the odor of honey. He stayed long enough to see that his strategy proved effective.

Today

25th Day of the Year

Today is the anniversary of 1752. George Rogers Clark, born soldier, engineer, who conquered the Northwest. James Abraham Garfield, born Civil War general, twentieth president of the U. S. on this day in 1881. Pres. Lincoln delivered the immortal Gettysburg Address, beloved by Southerners as well as Northerners. Today we celebrate Discovery Day, celebrated as a holiday in Puerto Rico. A verse for today: "The Lord shall fight for you, and ye shall hold your peace." Ex. 14:14.

AP Writer Offers Glossary For Understanding the U.N.

By HAL BOYLE
 NEW YORK (AP)—Are you aware? Are you hep to what is going on in the United Nations? Can you astonish your friends with your easy command of diplomatic terms?

Do the people who used to laugh when you sat down at the piano now hold back their hoots until you try to pronounce plenipotentiary? Well, there is a way to end all that. No longer need you babble with the rabble about simple subjects like baseball, the structure of the atom, the eternal whether about the weather. Understanding the United Nations is as simple as A-B-C. Or, rather, it is as simple as learning your ABC's all over again—and backwards. Too help pierce the fog of phrases and phrases that erupt from the U. N. sessions you merely need a dictionary of the new diplomatic language generated there. Somewhere lost in every group of words used by the statesmen is a meaning—something someone is trying to say. The words only need to be translated to be understood. So herewith is presented a glossary of the more common phrases employed at the United Nations which should make its debates crystal clear to everybody: Truce—something which is stranger than friction. Sovereignty—a thing every nation thinks every other nation except itself ought to give up. Veto—a device with five fingers for getting rid of hot potatoes without loss of dignity. Negotiations—a type of conference known in baseball, as "a rhabarb." Bloc—a group of dissident nations whose leader is known to the other side as a "bloc-head." Peace—this is what all the fighting is about. The foregoing are general terms. There follows a strictly Russian glossary: War monger—a nation that won't tell you how to make an atom bomb. Petty bourgeois—one who has three meals a day—and enjoys them. Bourgeois—one who could afford to eat four meals a day if he wanted to. Fascist—a non-Communist. Monarcho-Fascist—a non-Communist with a royal flush. Imperialist—anyone who objects to Russian expansion. Capitalist imperialist—the same, in spades. Birds have an internal "air-conditioning" system to cool them off from the heat produced by their muscular activity. Read The News Classifieds

Lawmaker Plans Bill On 'Runaway' Poppys

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The new Congress is going to get a "runaway poppy" bill from one of its new members. As Rep.-elect Andrew Jacobs (D-Ind) describes it, the legislation will be aimed at fathers who defy court orders in divorce cases by refusing to contribute to the support of their children after moving to another state.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The annual cost for operating the federal government will soar to at least fifty billion dollars, possibly sixty, if President Truman regards his election as a mandate to carry out the handsome pledges he made to so many groups during the presidential campaign.

BUDGET - President Truman is also determined to demand action on several other measures which will eventually mean a great increase in the cost of government.

Should he go through with his civil rights program, and attempt to force Southern filibuster in the Senate fail to prevent enactment, the cost of enforcing it will require a vast expansion of the Department of Justice and its units in every state and city.

Reapers Conclude Football Season With 20-0 Victory; May Cause Playoff of Tie

GENE'S CLEANINGS

The Amarillo Golden Sandies are now the official 1948 champions of district 1-AA within the jurisdiction of the football referees.

Last Saturday, a little drama was enacted on Butler Field in Amarillo, in which the touted underdog scored 32 points in the first half to down our Harvester district crown. A feat which is rapidly becoming a habit. I should I say, became a habit several years ago.

This did the majority of Amarillo residents more good than when Bob Crues pulled his record reading home-run last baseball season. But, sorry to say, for your sake, this did not occur against an athletic organization on Pampa.

It seems as if the Amarillo sports enthusiasts would rather eat our local lard than to eat a figure of exaggeration. The Harvesters turned in a swell game, and many thought they played the Sandies throughout the last half. But anyway, let's bygones be bygones and take up another subject which brings us back to the old phrase, "Just as 'til next year."

This phrase has been coined and distributed since your truly was in knee-pants, and almost every year, right on time, it is taken down from the shelf, dusted off, and put into use. But as your year it is going to be different.

We're not going to ask you to wait a year, not even a half year, but instead only a few months.

The tools for our revenge plot, you have not already figured it out, is a certain group of athletes who have been working on a little revenge plan for themselves.

Coach Clifton McNeely and his band of Harvester basketballers, whether they realize it or not, will be the center of athletic attraction this year, probably more than ever before.

With only one regular back out of a host of "B" squadmen returning, McNeely's cagers will undoubtedly regain their unenviable position of underdogs, once the hard-won season gets under way. Last year they set a District 1-AA record when they compiled a record of 26 wins and only 2 losses. But one of the wo losses came at the hands of Coach T. C. Hull's Sandies, 40-9.

The Harvesters did, however, deem themselves by drubbing the Sandies 43-14 in the district. The Amarillo quarter represented his district in the state playoffs and went a long way before dropping out.

Many thought that the local schoolboys had the best team in the district, and maybe they state out anyway they sat home and watched Hull's boys grab the headlines.

Although I won't be around here (The News) during the coming college season, I'll be watching from a spectator's perch, and if I'm any judge at all, the Amarillo Sandies had better watch their step.

Although our western neighbors aren't exactly accustomed to being habitual losers to the Harvesters, they'll never learn any younger.

Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK — Except for a possibly long discussion of pension legislation, a matter which doesn't concern him much, National League President Ford Christopher Frick is looking for a rather quiet time at the winter baseball meetings next month. "There may be considerable talk about the bonus rule and several amendments have been proposed," Frick admitted, "but I won't comment on that because I'm not an operator. For the league it's only a matter of bookkeeping. Besides, no person says this and another says that, and I don't know what is right solution. Outside of that, everybody is prosperous and everybody is happy. Nobody even wants to start a fight—but let attendance fall off four or five million and they'll start something." On that basis, the minor league gathering this winter may produce the action.

Bowl Bids Flying Through The Air; Several Pairings

EL PASO —(AP)—The Sun Bowl Game Selection Committee today asked Texas College of Mines to represent the Border Conference in El Paso's New Year Day gridiron contest.

Denning, chairman of the committee, extended the invitation to the local school after Texas Tech declined a bid to the post-season game.

Members of the school's athletic council will meet Saturday to consider the prospect for the year. Bids were made by Texas Tech, Baylor and Northwestern.

Southwest Conference Lead May Be Shared Three Ways

By HAROLD V. KATLIFF

Associated Press Sports Editor
Semi-final games in the dying Southwest Conference football race will be played tomorrow with all eyes on Dallas where Southern Methodist's unbeaten Mustangs battle Baylor.

Baylor is at the cross-roads. It must win to stay in the conference, race but if it does it will pitch the leadership into a triple tie between SMU, Texas and Baylor.

Southern Methodist needs just this victory to insure a return to the Cotton Bowl. Chances are that if the Methodists win tomorrow a Cotton Bowl announcement will be forthcoming before sundown. It may be Oklahoma, it may be North Carolina. Cotton Bowl officials are close-mouthed about it but undoubtedly some contacts already have been made.

The conference championship is something else. Southern Methodist still could be tied for it after beating Baylor because a Texas Christian comes along next week while Texas plays winless Texas A. and M.

But even if SMU lost to TCU and was tied for the title by Texas it would have no effect on SMU in the Cotton Bowl. Southern Methodist beat Texas in regular season play and precedent says the team that beat the other is the Cotton Bowl host team in the event of a tie.

Rice and Texas Christian tangle at Houston in the other conference game on tomorrow's schedule. The Horned Frogs haven't won from the Owls since 1944 and have won only once in eight seasons. They aren't expected to change the habit tomorrow.

Arkansas will be helping the conference's inter-sectional record against Tulsa at Little Rock. The Porkers ought to win from the Hurricanes when one arm tied behind their backs.

Texas and Texas A. and M. are idle this week gathering steam for their traditional game at Austin Thanksgiving Day.

We didn't miss any last week and don't expect this time: Southern Methodist vs Baylor at Dallas—SMU passing too much for the Bears—Southern Methodist vs Texas Christian at Houston—Rice is as tough as they come these days. It's a shade late for championship hopes but should be enough to lick TCU by a touchdown or so.

Arkansas vs Tulsa at Little Rock—The Razorbacks won't be trying too hard but won't have to; Arkansas by four touchdowns.

The wind blew, The snow flew, The Reapers won, Where were you?

Those four lines about cover the Reapers' final scheduled game of the season. It was mighty cold and windy at Berger yesterday, but the game proceeded on schedule as the Reapers snowed under the Berger Bullpups by a score of 20-0. A few staunch Berger fans remained until after the first 10 minutes of play, at which time the outcome was pretty well settled.

At that time DeWay Cudney scattered eight yards a round left end for the initial score of the game. Charles Ely added the extra point. The second TD came a short while later when Billy Davis scored from the five-yard stripe on another left end sweep. This time Cudney added the point. The final touchdown came in the fourth quarter when Ely bucked over from the one. He set up the touchdown, too, by intercepting a Pupples pass on the ten.

One of the outstanding plays of the game was a 60-yard kickoff by Cudney into the teeth of a 40 mph gale.

This concluded the Reapers' regular season, and left them with a record of six wins, one loss, and one tie. It clinched at least a tie for first, and if Horace Mann should top one of its two remaining games the Reapers will be kings alone. In case of a tie at the end of the season there is a possibility of a playoff game. The Reapers have already drubbed Horace Mann this season, but Horace Mann has also drubbed the lone team to beat the Reapers.

In case of a tie at the end of the season there is a possibility of a playoff game. The Reapers have already drubbed Horace Mann this season, but Horace Mann has also drubbed the lone team to beat the Reapers.

One of the outstanding plays of the game was a 60-yard kickoff by Cudney into the teeth of a 40 mph gale.

Industry Observes Making Of 100 Million Vehicles

DETROIT — This year the American automotive industry has reached a significant milestone — production of one hundred million motor vehicles.

The 100 millionth vehicle, like millions ahead of it, rolled off the final assembly line in one of 112 car and truck plants scattered over 17 cities in 24 states.

Historians generally credit Charles E. and J. Frank Duryea with building, in 1893, at Springfield, Mass., the first U. S. automobile powered by a gasoline engine.

Since the first Duryea car 85 years ago, the industry has turned out motor vehicles at an average annual rate of nearly 2,000,000.

While American manufacturers, under the U. S. system of free enterprise, were producing 100,000,000 motor vehicles, the other countries of the world, some of which began automotive production before the U. S. were turning out 24,000,000 motor vehicles. Of the 240 million vehicles produced in America, a total of 21 1/2 million units went into export markets.

Today, the automotive and related industries employ nearly nine million persons, or more than one out of every seven individuals earning a living in the United States.

A total of 96 U. S. firms now produce 21 makes of passenger cars, 39 makes of trucks and 20 makes of motor buses.

The assembly plants are supplied by more than 1,000 parts plants, while about 20,000 other firms furnish a long list of essential materials, supplies and services. Materials for automotive assembly come from all 48 states and more than 50 foreign countries.

With the automotive industry at present turning out about 30 new cars and 10 new trucks and buses every minute of every working day, it is entirely possible that the second 100 million motor vehicles will be produced in the U. S. in less than half the time required for the first 100 million.

Motor vehicles — passenger cars, trucks and buses — have brought about profound changes in America since the first crude "horseless carriages" made their appearance. They have helped to boost the American standard of living to a level far higher than anywhere else in the world. They have made the average family a new form of transportation to overcome the barriers of cost, time and distance.

It was 1925 before U. S. car, truck and bus manufacturers achieved production of their first 25 million vehicles.

The next 25 million were made between 1925 and 1931, an era of high output. In 1929, the industry set an all-time record by making 5,358,000 cars and trucks.

It took eight more years, until 1939, for the industry to produce its third 25 million vehicles.

The fourth 25 million cars, trucks and buses took nine years to build. However, nearly four of those years saw the U. S. automotive industry entirely devoted to military production — the first time in history that car assembly lines had been completely suspended.

Last year some 4,798,000 cars, trucks and buses were produced. This output was exceeded only by 1929, 1937 and 1941 production. If the present rate of production is maintained for the balance of the year, 1948 output will be second only to 1929.

No Nobel Peace Prizes Will Be Given This Year

OSLO, Norway, (AP) — The Norwegian Nobel Prize Committee announced that no Nobel peace prize will be awarded this year.

Two-thirds of the amount awarded for the prize from the will of Alfred B. Nobel, Swedish explosives magnate, will go into the Nobel Institute's "special fund," the committee said. The prize last year amounted to nearly $41,000.

The peace award last year went to the United States and British organizations of the Society of Friends (Quakers.)

Free Enterprise Seen as Key to U.S. Standards

DETROIT — In a special report marking U. S. production of 100 million motor vehicles, the Automobile Manufacturers Association today pointed to individual economic freedom, which results in business competition, as the basic reason why the average American family has the highest standard of living in the world.

In a 40-page booklet, the AMA reviewed the growth of the U. S. motor vehicle industry since 1893 discussed automotive industry profits and car prices, and declared that motor vehicles — born in Europe nearly 100 years before any were built in U. S. — have become a symbol of American ability to "create more wealth, and to spread it more widely among the people, than any other nation on earth."

While in Japan, Maj. Donald C. Surles of Cisco, Tex., put together this ultra-streamlined car at a cost of $2000. It's powered by a jeep engine, and has push-button windows and doors. Surles shows it off in Chicago.

Application of Parable Returns $2,124 to Church

BUTLER, Pa. — (AP) — The Butler Trinity Lutheran Church is going to have a brand new $1,100 heating system thanks to the ingenuity of the pastor and 110 of his parishioners.

Last June the Rev. Hudson M. Clements borrowed $900 from a Butler bank and distributed the money to 110 members of his church in amounts varying from $2 to $10.

The 36-year-old minister told the 110 to invest the money in any manner they saw fit and to bring in their capital and any profits.

This week the 110 reported with a total of $2,124, enough to

Abilene Drivers To Pick Union

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Employees of the City Transportation Company of Abilene, Tex., will have an opportunity soon to choose a union to represent them in collective bargaining.

The National Labor Relations Board ordered that the election by secret ballot be held within 30 days after date of the order, which was Nov. 12. The election was asked by the Amalgamated Association of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America, Division No. 1409.

Mrs. Lewis Kurt brought in $64 with the report that she had baked and sold 48 pies, 52 dozen buns, 137 dozen cinnamon rolls, and one cake.

Evelyn Huselton brought in a dollar for each of her six years, explaining she had invested her $2 in strawberries.

Other parishioners reported they had sold balloons at the Butler County Fair, washed cars, sold brooms, mowed lawns, painted pictures, made Christmas tree decorations and raised rabbits.

Texas Has Part in U.S. Auto-Making

With the automotive industry this year noting the production of 100 million vehicles, Texas assumes some of the credit for this American achievement.

Currently, one passenger car manufacturer operates a major assembly plant in the state. According to the Texas Employment Commission, there are nearly 4,000 Texans who earn their livelihoods with firms making vehicles, bodies, parts, accessories, tires and tubes. Annual wages for workers in these industries exceed $11 million.

Indirect and partial automotive employment is found in such Texas industries as copper mining, synthetic rubber production and petroleum refining. From Texas farms, automotive companies receive cotton, wool and mohair.

Ranking fifth among the states in the number of vehicles registered — with 2,052,379 reported in 1947 — Texas' highway transportation business is one of the leading industries in its entire economic structure.

According to recent figures, there are 364,969 truck and bus drivers in the state. Another 81,987 persons are employed in sales and service work, while 14,634 are engaged in building and maintaining highways.

Texas holds fourth place nationally in the number of retail outlets for new motor vehicles, with 2,072 such businesses.

Out of the state's grand total of 196,615 miles of roads, approximately 71,651 are surfaced. It ranks third in the amount of paved highways, with 13,842 miles.

The Texas Employment Commission estimates that last year 675 persons who were paid wages in excess of $75 million.

Ford Looks for New Wage Hike

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — Henry Ford II, president of the Ford Motor Co., said a fourth round of wage increases "is inevitable."

"Workers are going to get another pay boost," Ford told a news conference. "I don't think anything can prevent it."

Ford came here to inspect the Ford assembly plant at nearby Chester, Pa.

The 31-year-old executive, commenting on the probable wage increase, said flatly:

"Prices can't go anywhere but up. If wages go up and materials go up, prices too must go up. There is no place else for them to go."

Would price control help?

"No," Ford insisted. "Price control would wreck the nation—the auto industry included—and ruin the economy."

"It is ridiculous to think that any person sitting in Washington can tell a company how much to charge for its product."

Oil Company to Drill Huge Gulf Salt Dome

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — Because of a huge shallow salt dome in the location, the California Oil Co. plans a major drilling program in the Gulf of Mexico off LaFourche Parish where a gas well is now on fire.

A company spokesman said the dome measures several thousand feet across at the top, one of the largest of the type known.

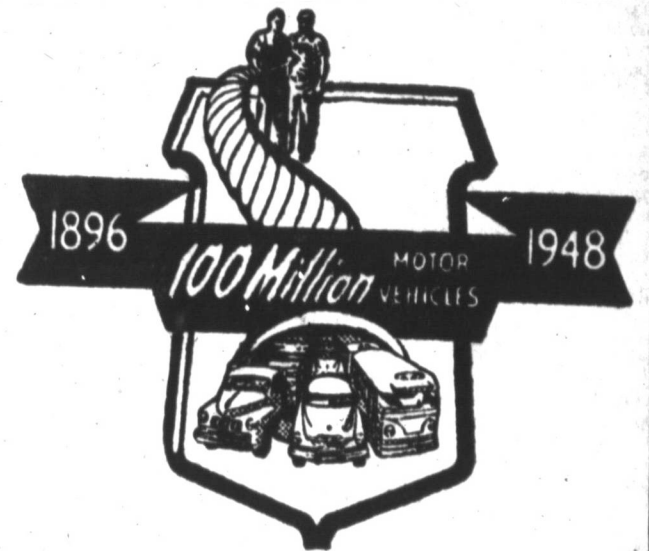

The American Niagara Falls are about 10 feet higher than the Canadian Falls.

state employed nearly 3,000 persons with wages of $8 million. It also reports 3,733 persons working in automobile repair shops with annual wages of $8 million. Sales of vehicles, parts and accessories gave jobs to 26,675 persons who were paid wages in excess of $75 million.

COMMEMORATING

THE PRODUCTION OF 100 MILLION MOTOR VEHICLES

"PRODUCTS OF FREEDOM"

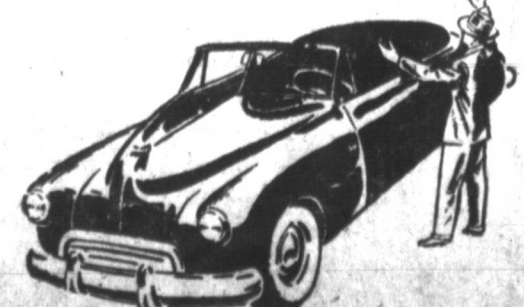

IT is newsworthy that the automotive industry of the United States has produced one hundred million motor vehicles. It is more deeply significant that this tremendous production was attained while the rest of the world built only one-fourth as many. Such achievement could not have happened but in America. For here men have been free to try new ways . . . free to compete with one another. And people have been free to earn, and to spend for whatever they wanted. Today, one in every seven in the United States is employed in some automotive field. More far reaching is the method of production created by the industry; for it is the basic difference between our standard of living and that of less fortunate people of the world. The automobile is a symbol of our way of life—the product of freedom.

Decision for All Made by Only Half, Columnist Says

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A friend said "I want to say something I wish you'd write." So he told me: And this is it.

I'm writing it because it affects all of us in one way or another. He said all that follows: We talk a lot about our rights. But what about our duties? A duty like voting.

I know people who look up the stockmarket page every day to see how they're doing because they have ten shares of something.

But they don't vote. They don't have enough interest in their government to vote.

Yet they have their lives and their future invested in the government, a far bigger investment than they have in stocks and bonds.

People in this country scream that they don't want any interference with their rights, like freedom.

But they can keep those rights only so long as this democracy, which guarantees the rights, works.

Since we are all citizens enjoying those rights, then it is our duty as citizens to see that this democracy works at its best.

And it works best when everyone does his duty as a citizen by voting.

The last election shows pretty well what I mean. Only about 47 million out of 94 million people of voting age had enough interest to vote.

So one-half the people of voting age left it up to the other half to make the decision for all and do the duty all should have carried out.

If Congress or the President makes a bad mistake which could ruin this country, in foreign affairs or something at home, then—

Congress in desperation might think it necessary to curb some of our freedoms or wipe them out.

If that happened we no longer would have the same democracy we had before. Once the change started, no one could say where

Command Set Up For National Air Defense Control

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Air Force set up the Continental Air Command to direct the nation's air defense.

Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeier was named head of the new command which will have headquarters at Mitchell Air Force Base in New York.

The super-headquarters will have over-all direction of the present Air Defense Command (the fighter force) and the Tactical Air Command (the light bomber and attack-bomber force). The two commands will continue as operating organizations.

The reorganization also will do two other things:

1. Make the six Air Force areas of the United States coincide geographically with the six Army commands. This is aimed at better coordination with the Army and Navy in national defense.

2. Bring training and control of the two civilian forces, the Air National Guard and Air Reserve, under closer coordination through the Continental Air Command and the six Air Force area commands.

Half a million tons of water fall over Niagara Falls every minute.

Camels can travel three or four days in the desert without suffering hunger or thirst.

It would stop.

Sure, the same thing might happen even if all the people of voting age voted. A full vote is no absolute guarantee against mistakes.

But if democracy broke down after a full vote of the people, then it would be a failure of a democracy which had had a full chance to work.

It wouldn't be a failure because half the people, failing to appreciate what they had, left it up to the other half to make the decisions for them.

Truman Expected To Ask Increase in Postal Rates

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman will renew with vigor next year his plea for higher postal rates to help balance the budget, those in the know said.

The Postoffice Department now seems likely to wind up $800 million in the red next June 30 — an unprecedented loss which would account for more than a third of the deficit forecast for the entire government's operation this fiscal year.

Officials told a reporter privately the increases most certain to be proposed will involve chiefly of newspapers and magazines.

They said the reason is that the Postoffice Department rates that category its biggest money-loser. They insisted the fact that a majority of the nation's press opposed Mr. Truman's election is beside the point.

To emphasize their non-retaliation contention, they recalled that the President recommended postal rate boosts in each of the last two years and followed up the first suggestion with a specific bill drafted by the postmaster general.

A feature of that bill was sharply boosted rates for second-class matter. But it never got out of committee for a vote in either house of Congress.

When Movie Star Misbehaves He Is Reprimanded

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — What happens when a star misbehaves in public?

This question was directed at Dory Schary, production boss at MGM, most star-laden of the studios.

"The star is brought to the studio and talked to," Schary answered. "He is told to straighten himself out, not only for his own good, but for the good of the studio and the industry."

Does being jailed and other bad publicity hurt a star's popularity?

"The history of the United States shows that the American public is essentially sympathetic. When an American reads about a star being caught drunk, he figures, 'That's all right, I've been drunk myself.'"

"However, if the offenses are repeated, or the star is involved in an unsavory scandal, he will lose the public's sympathy and suffer a gradual decline in popularity."

That brought us to the question: "What makes a movie star?"

"It takes several factors—talent, appearance, personality. But most important is what you can call animal magnetism or projection. It's the ability to reach the sympathy of an audience."

"Sometimes magnetism comes over immediately. Jimmy Cagney was an instant hit when he played Lew Ayres' friend in 'Doorway to Hell.' Others take longer to put it across."

"Clark Gable was well known in pictures, but was never a top star until 'It Happened One Night.' Spencer Tracy was another slow starter."

Can a studio create stars?

"No. The studio can provide many things for players—create a personality for them, give them leading roles and get them before the public by means of the columns and magazines. But only the public can make them stars."

Colorado River Valley Predicted Cradle for Great Civilization

Plans for West

Declaring that developing the water resources of the West to their fullest extent is "an American-size problem," Reclamation Commissioner Michael W. Stratus has sent to Congress an American-size program for the development of land and water resources in 17 semi-arid western states. The seven-year program, to be considered by the 81st Congress, calls for expenditures of $4,000,000,000 to $7,000,000,000 on some 250 reclamation projects.

Schary illustrated with a top stage actress who made several artistic successes in Hollywood, but was never a boxoffice star. The public never went for her.

I could name several who never hit the big time despite heavy ballyhooing—Simone Simon, Anna Sten, etc.

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — Some day the Colorado River Valley, now little more than a desert wilderness, may produce a civilization as great as those that grew up along the Nile, the Tigris and the Euphrates.

That is a prediction of William E. Warne, assistant secretary of the interior and one of the country's leading experts on irrigation.

Warne spoke here to the 17th annual convention of the National Reclamation Association. Delegates from all the 17 Western states heard him prophesy that the Colorado, when completely controlled by dams, will generate nearly three times its present power load.

Before Warne spoke, delegates heard a number of suggestions and formal proposals in the field of irrigation and public power.

The more important ones were:

1. Favorable power rates for the public, but high enough to repay cost of the projects and handled so as not to upset competitive and established practices.

2. Letting the federal government assume a portion of irrigation project costs on the basis that part of the long-term benefit is to the nation as a whole. This was suggested by Oklahoma's Governor, Roy J. Turner.

3. Ending of long-term contracts by which the federal government sells water as a public utility. This was an officially proposed resolution.

4. More planning of a basin-wide nature, proposed by Governor Turner, who praised the work of the Pick-Sloan plan for the Missouri River and contrasted it to fragmentary planning in the Arkansas and Red River basins.

U.S. Wants Strong Europe—Dulles

PARIS — (AP) — John Foster Dulles said Americans want a strong and unified Western Europe capable of standing up for itself.

In a speech before the American Club of Paris, Dulles denounced as "ignoble" any charge that the United States wants to use Europe merely as a base for achieving world mastery. He said it was absurd for some to claim that the United States wants to dump its surplus goods in Europe.

Dulles, an American delegate to the United Nations Assembly, warned that if Western Europe chooses to remain feeble and disunited, its separate pieces may be drawn, one at a time, "into the orbit of the East."

Americans will not tie their fate indefinitely to a Western Europe that insists on disunity, he said.

He emphasized that his speech was not an expression of an official American position.

Cotton Consumption Drops in October

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Census Bureau reported that cotton consumed during October totaled 698,887 bales of lint and 115,116 bales of linters.

This compared with 739,139 bales of lint and 108,977 bales of linters consumed during September of this year, and 828,567 bales of lint and 103,559 bales of linters consumed during October of last year.

Cotton consumption for the three months ending Oct. 31, totaled 2,163,758 bales of lint and 328,823 bales of linters, compared with 2,370,046 and 275,040 for the corresponding period a year ago.

Waltz into Darkness

BY WILLIAM IRISH

THE STORY
 Time, 10:00 Place, New Orleans
 Louis Durand, 27, a well-to-do architect, has been corresponding with Miss Julia Russell, whom he has never seen. He has proposed marriage and she has accepted. According to her sister, Miss Russell is dark-haired, strong-featured and of average height. Durand goes down to the dock to meet the boat that is to bring her from St. Louis. He is disappointed when an exquisite young blond creature introduces herself as Julia. She explains her little device by saying she didn't want "him to fall for just a pretty face." They are married and after a gay wedding supper, Durand takes his bride to the lavishly appointed ballroom he has built for her.

HE lifted her bodily in his arms. She came clear of the ground with a little foamy rattle of skirt bottom. Moving sideward so that his shoulder might ward off the loose-swinging door, he carried her over the sill and in. Then dipped again and set her back on her feet, a little froth of lace neck.

She stepped aside, closed the door and looked at him.

She was looking around standing in one place but moving her body in a half-circle from there, to take in everything.

"Like it?" he asked.

"He went to a lamp, turned the little wheel, heightening it from a yellow starlight. Then he stepped to another, wherever they had been left. The wall, lightened from dull ivory to purest white. The newness of everything became doubly conspicuous.

"Like it?" he beamed.

Her hands were clasped and elevated upward to height of her face; held that way in a sort of stylized rhapsody.

"Oh, Louis," she breathed, "it's ideal. It's exquisite."

"It's yours," he said.

She moved her hands out in no time of her face now still showed and smiled her cheek against them contently.

the other side, and repeated it there.

"Oh, Louis!" was all she seemed capable of saying. "Oh, Louis!"

They moved around then on a brief tour, from room to room, and he showed her the parlor, the dining room, the others. And for each room she had an exclaiming "Oh, Louis!" until at last it seemed breath had left her altogether, and she could only sigh "Oh."

THEY came back to the hall at last, and he said somewhat diffidently that he would lock up.

"Will you be able to find our room?" he asked as she turned toward the stairs. "Or shall I come up with you?"

She dropped her eyes for a moment before his. "I think I shall know it," she said chaste.

He placed one of the smaller lamps in her hands. "Better take this with you to make sure. She probably left lights up there, but she may not have."

With the light brought close to her face that raving upward into her face from the glowing core held at about the height of her heart, there was to him something madonna-like about her countenance. She was like some irrepressibly beautiful image in an old cathedral of Europe come to life before the eyes of a single devotee, rewarded for his faith. A miracle of love.

She took a step. She rose another. An angel leaving the earthly plane, but turned backward in joyful farewell.

"Goodbye for a little while," he murmured softly.

"For a little while," she breathed. Then she turned. The spell was broken. She was just a woman in an evening gown, going up a stair.

The graceful back-drapery of the most beautiful costume-gown in a hundred years-gently undulated with her climb. Her free hand trailed the banister.

"Keep an eye out for the wallpaper," he said. "That will tell you."

She turned inquiringly, with a look of incomprehension. "How's that?"

"I meant, you'll know it by the wallpaper, when you come to it."

"Oh," she said docilely, but as though she still didn't fully understand.

SHE reached the top of the stairs and went over their lip, shrinking down toward the floor as she went on, until her shoulders, then her head, were gone. The ceiling-halo cast by her lamp receded past his head, down that same illusory incline.

He went into the parlor, first, and then the other downstairs rooms, latching each window that had not already been latched, trying those that had, flinging out the drapes and drawing them sleekly together over each one. Then at last blotting out each welcoming lamp, room by room.

The last lamp of all went out and he moved slowly up the ghost-stairs in the dark, that was already a familiar dark to him though he'd been in this house less than half an hour.

He found his way toward their own door, in the equal darkness of the upper hall, but guided now by the thread of light stretched taut across its sill.

He stopped a moment, and he stood there.

Then he knocked, in a sort of playful formality.

She must have sensed his mood, by the tenor of the knock alone. There was an answering playful note in her own voice.

"Who knocks?" she inquired with mock gravity.

"Your husband."

"Oh? What does he say?"

"May I come in?"

"Tell him he may."

"Who is it invites me to?"

The answer was almost inaudible, but low-voiced as it was, it reached his heart.

"Your wife."

Australian Drought Worst in Century
 CANBERRA —(AP)— More than five million head of sheep and cattle have perished in one of Australia's worst droughts of this century. Parts of the rich grazing lands of western Queensland and northern territory have been without adequate rain for the last three years. Unless rain falls within the next few months soil experts fear for the recovery of the affected land. Read This News Classified

... And He Knows How to Get It Out!

Building an airplane in your basement can be tricky business, but Bert Dudek, of Cleveland, O., knows how he'll get this one out. A World War I aviator and long-time aircraft mechanic, Dudek has been building this replica of a 1915 biplane in his spare time since 1936. When it's finished, the 20-foot-long, 30-foot-wide, 10-foot-high biplane will be ready to fly. The plane, with an 80-horsepower motor, is capable of flying.
