Japs Storm Bali, Only Mile Across Channel From Java

Vital Points On Bali Destroyed

By ROGER D. GREENE
Associated Press War Editor
Japan's sea-borne invasion armies stormed at the eastern gateway to Java today, attacking the storied island of Bali and landing troops on the jointly owned Dutch-Portuguese island of Timor farther to the east.

"Vital points on Bali have been destroyed," an N. E. L. communiqué said tersely. "Strong action is being taken against landings which the enemy is carrying out."

Dispatches from Batavia said the defenders were exacting a heavy toll as Japanese landing parties swarmed ashore on the gleaming beaches of Bali amid a hail of machine gun bullets, bombs and shells.

The Dutch high command said Allied warships and submarines attacked the Japanese invasion armada around Bali last night, adding: "Further particulars are lacking as no complete report has yet been received."

United Nations headquarters said Allied planes smashed heavily at the invaders, scoring three direct hits on one or more Japanese cruisers, two direct hits on transports, and eight "near misses" on a destroyer.

There were also direct hits with lighter bombs on a cruiser and a transport ship," the communiqué said.

Four Japanese fighter planes were shot down in the attack, without loss to the Allied defenders.

The communiqué further reported that five Japanese bombers and five fighter planes were shot down in air battles over the big Dutch naval base at Soerabaya, Java.

Bali lies across only a mile-wide channel of water from Java, the heart of the Indies and headquarters of Gen. Sir Archibald F. Wavell's United Nations command in the far Pacific.

A bulletin from N. E. I. headquarters said Dutch troops were fiercely resisting the invaders on Bali, but details were being sought.

The communiqué reported a half-moon arc of Japanese bases threatening Java from the north, extending from Lower Sumatra on the west, through Borneo and Celebes Islands to Bali on the east.

Imperial Tokyo headquarters said that Japanese troops, protected by the guns of warships, landed at dawn on the mountainous 300-mile-long island of Timor. The landings were executed near Dilli and Koepping, respectively the Portuguese and Dutch capitals.

Tokyo made no mention of resistance, but Australian and Dutch troops were known to have occupied the Portuguese section of the island and were reported to be fighting in the mountains to combat such an assault.

Rich in gold, copper, gypsum and petroleum, Timor lies at the eastern tip of the Dutch Indies archipelago, only 450 miles northwest of Darwin, Australia.

A Dutch bulletin said that the Japanese landing on Bali, home of 1,200,000 Indonesians, was carried in considerable strength.

Soviet Sees Collapse Of Nazi Armies

(By The Associated Press)
Russia declared today that her great winter offensive was rolling on unchecked, crushing German counter-attacks with bloody losses, and the Soviet army newspaper Red Star confidently predicted the defeat of Adolf Hitler's heralded spring campaign and the collapse of his armies this year.

Asserting that the fighting coalition of the United States, Britain, and Russia far surpassed Germany both in resources and manpower reserves, Red Star declared:

"Economic resources will mean the final decision. The help we are receiving from our Allies is growing continuously."

Red Star said that Hitler already had lost 6,000,000 men in Russia, and that he could not replenish his manpower.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill countered the storm of criticism over British military reverses in North Africa and the Far Pacific by "stream-lining" his war cabinet in a shake-up in which the dynamic Sir Stafford Cripps, former ambassador to Moscow, emerged as the outstanding new figure.

The cabinet was reduced from nine to seven members. Lord Beaverbrook, known as "one of Winston's bright young men," became minister of state in charge of production. He had been in the war cabinet as minister of state for the Middle East.

Three veterans of the inner circle criticized for reverses capped by the loss of Singapore last Sunday stepped out.

The BBC in an early morning broadcast put on the air a message from Sir Stafford directed to German workers in which he said Soviet industry had been placed on a 100 per cent war basis and "every English worker is determined to do his part" to crush Hitler.

"Between Hitler and his certain defeat there stands nothing, but the (Nazi) spring offensive," he said.

Stripped of war cabinet rank in the shake-up were: Lord Beaverbrook, former production minister, who is to come to the United States shortly for pooling of United Nations resources.

Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer.

Arthur Greenwood, labor minister without portfolio.

Russian dispatches told of the death of 3,300 Germans in recent fighting and declared the invaders had been thrown back with heavy losses when they insisted counter-attacks.

One Soviet infantry unit captured seven German tanks and 26 field guns and "the enemy lost more than 2,500 soldiers and officers," a communiqué said.

Money derived from the contributions will be applied toward the party's deficit and to the election of new Democratic congressmen.

Churchill Shakes Up War Cabinet

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill, under attack for recent British military reverses, answered his critics today by pruning his war cabinet from nine to seven members in a swift shakeup from which Sir Stafford Cripps, former ambassador to Moscow, emerged as the outstanding new figure in the government.

Cripps, a dynamic personality advanced ideas once gave him a reputation as a radical, was named Lord Privy Seal and House of Commons leader—a dual post which many political observers believed would make him second in importance only to Churchill himself.

At the same time Oliver Lyttelton, known as "one of Winston's bright young men," was appointed Minister of State in charge of production, supplanting Lord Beaverbrook, who will go to the United States shortly to carry on the task of pooling the resources of the United States.

An official announcement said Lord Beaverbrook had declined an invitation to join the new war cabinet on "grounds of health." Two other veterans—Sir Kingsley Wood, chancellor of the exchequer, and Arthur Greenwood, labor minister without portfolio—simultaneously relinquished their places in the inner cabinet.

The only other change in the war cabinet involved Clement Attlee. He surrendered the post of Lord Privy Seal to make way for Cripps and was named secretary of state for dominion affairs—a move dictated by dominion demands for representation—and retained the title of deputy prime minister.

Viscount Cranborne, former dominions secretary, was not a war cabinet member.

Prime Minister Churchill himself retained the portfolios of defense minister and first lord of treasury.

The other holdovers in the war cabinet are Labor Minister Ernest Bevin, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Lord President of the Council Sir John Anderson.

Aussie Predicts Attempt To Invade U. S. This Summer

ONAHVA, Feb. 20 (AP)—Dr. Hew Roberts, Australian member of the RAF reserve, predicted last night that Australia will fall in two months and an invasion of the United States may be attempted this summer.

"The great difficulty of the midwest American is to get over the feeling of complacency which results from an inadequate knowledge of economic geography," Dr. Roberts told an American Association of University Women's group.

Pointing to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, he declared the American government seems to be making the same mistake in the English in delegating military authority to the most vigorous soldiers. He advocated a bigger job for MacArthur than defending a fortress "which must inevitably fall if assistance from the outside cannot reach it."

Can You Meet Death? Or Are You Afraid?

By THE ROVING REPORTER
Can you meet death here? Can you meet death any place? Do you fear death so much that you cannot reconcile yourself to the thought of dying for your country? Do you find yourself unable to even consider the possibility of death?

You who are now being told that it will be necessary to kill two million Americans to win this war, might with profit, become better acquainted with death by attending the Junior play which will be staged Feb. 26 and 27 at the Junior High school auditorium.

You might profit because the play is "Death Takes a Holiday," in which for three days no one dies and people who were supposed to die lived miraculously.

The R. R. attended a rehearsal of the play last night, and Director Bob Ratcliffe has achieved the atmosphere all right. Students, namely Filin Berlay and Erben Elier.

Doctor Testifies Against Dean Spies

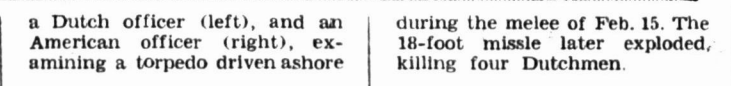

By WILLIAM T. RIVES
GALVESTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Dr. Donald Duncan, professor of anatomy at the University of Texas medical branch here, testified today that Dean John W. Spies told him last July "I'm going to get rid of some regents" of the university.

At that time Doctor Duncan told a house of representatives investigating committee, it was reported that Doctor Spies would not be rehired as dean of the medical school.

"I was in doubt as to what attitude I should take," Doctor Duncan said. "Doctor (Homer E.) Rainey, university president, was in town and the word passed around that he wanted to see the faculty members."

"Doctor Spies told me 'Tell him anything you want to. I'm going to win this fight and then I'm going to get rid of some regents. Waggoner, Stark and Branson—they're all going to go.'"

Army Has New War Plans Chief

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Appointment of Brigadier General Dwight D. Eisenhower as chief of war plans for the army general staff left Brigadier General Harry T. Twaddle today as the only Pearl Harbor holdover among heads of the high command's five divisions.

The war department announced last night that Eisenhower would succeed Major General Leonard T. Gerow, who has shifted to command of the 29th division. Eisenhower had been chief of staff of the third army at San Antonio, Texas.

Officials explained the change, like the three which preceded it, in less than two months, was to implement the policy of General George C. Marshall, the chief of staff, to "revitalize" the high command by rotating high ranking officers between staff and field assignments.

Previously Brigadier General John H. Hildring took over from Brigadier General Wade Haislip in G-1, the personnel division; Brigadier General Raymond Lee succeeded Major General Sherman Miles in G-2, military intelligence, and Major General Breton H. Somervell became boss of G-4, general supply, in place of Major General Eugene H. Raybold.

Twaddle continues as chief of G-3, operations and training. As assistant military adviser to the Philippines from 1935 to 1940, Eisenhower helped General Douglas MacArthur plan the military organization of the islands.

Phillips To Build Synthetic Rubber Unit At Borger

The Phillips Petroleum company and its subsidiary, the Hycar Chemical company, are preparing to spend more than $30,000,000 for two hydrofluoric acid alkylation units, a butadiene unit, gathering lines and a unit for synthesis of rubber substitutes at its Phillips, Texas, refinery, according to the Oil and Gas Journal.

This program will be under the supervision of the natural-gasoline and engineering departments of the company who will cooperate with federal engineers.

All material needed for construction will be given a high preference rating in keeping with the fact that the new units will manufacture 100-octane gasoline and butadiene, a constituent of synthetic rubber, both highly important in the country's war program. The importance of the program is also shown by the advance of this sum of money by the government.

CAREFUL PLANNING MAKES IT POSSIBLE to keep most types of available garden tools in use constantly. Above three farm lads of Berkeley, W. Va., have arranged their garden tasks so as to have their three different implements in use at the same time.

Canvass Your Community For Unused Garden Tools And Other Equipment

By NEA Service

With the greater part of the nation's production of metal diverted to war needs, less and less is being made available for civilian use, so that metal gardening implements may become more expensive and may possibly become hard to get at any price.

However, students planning a school garden can overcome this limitation by starting a systematic hunt in their community to round up idle spades, hoes, rakes, wheel barrows, watering cans, hand cultivators, and other equipment neighbors might be willing to donate, loan, or rent to the school for the duration of the garden.

Of course, some of these "idle" garden tools may be idle simply because they are in poor condition. But boys in manual training and handicraft courses can recondition many broken down implements, and have them nearly as good as new by painting them. A new handle for rake or hoe, oil and grease for movable parts, rust-removing and fresh paint can do wonders in renovating garden tools.

WORKING OUT A BOOKKEEPING SYSTEM
Students on the supply committee will want to work out a system of bookkeeping so that borrowed implements can be returned to their rightful owners in as good or in better condition than when they were borrowed.

Some of the tools, of course, the seed flats and cold frames that will be needed, as well as simple wheelbarrows, tool boxes, convenient benches for sorting and such can be made or may be brought from home by the student gardeners. Tools should be stored under cover and checked in and out to the children each gardening day so that none will be forgotten out in the garden to rust over-night in the rain.

At least a part of the gardening implements might well be made right in the school's workshop by the manual training classes. For instance, boys in woodworking classes might easily build all packing and baskets or other containers. Older girls in sewing classes might make some adaptable garden apparel—aprons, overalls, sunbonnets, or kneeling pads, or follow some of the special gardening outfits designed by the U. S. Bureau of Home Economics. County, state, or federal agricultural officials can provide more information about these designs.

GREATEST NEED IS FOR EXPERIENCED LEADER
In some cities and towns a group of gardening enthusiasts in a neighborhood may want to start a community garden. Many problems are similar to those encountered with school gardens. The most important point is to have an experienced leader.

Just as students may pool their gardening implements and idle tools in the neighborhood or use in their school garden, so may an adult garden group pool their resources to use in a productive community garden.

In a community garden, seed, fertilizer, and insecticides may be purchased in large quantities for economy, and may be used more efficiently than if each gardener in a community were to grow his own little back-yard garden.

Lions Club Has New President

The Pampa Lions club had a new president at its luncheon yesterday. Acting as president was John V. Osborne, Lion member and Pampa attorney, who will be inducted into the army on February 26, next Thursday.

The club presented him with a traveling bag as a gift. Frank Culbertson made the presentation.

Mrs. Clifford Braly presented a vocal quintet which sang three songs, "America, I Love You," "Hey, Zeke, Your Country's Calling," and "America."

The singers were Betty Clifford, Joan Hawkins, Anna Lois Alford, Anna Barnett, and Alexia Brown. A talk was made by Foster Fletcher on restrictions the federal government had placed on private planes.

Attendance at the luncheon was 62. Guests were John L. Smith, Wayne Maddox, Steve Matthews, Garnet Reeves, Jeff Bearden, and Joe Gordon, all of Pampa. R. R. Watson was in charge of the program.

Texans At War

"In the face of the disrupting processes of war we Texans are preparing for one of the most difficult periods of our lives," Gov. Coke Stevenson said last night (Thurs.) in a speech at the annual banquet of the Jasper county chamber of commerce.

"We can and will overcome these hardships and do the things that we must do for victory's sake," the governor declared.

D. Harold Byrd, Texas wing commander, instructed the fifteen civil air patrol groups in the state to enroll as many competent members as possible.

Specifically needed, he said, are pilots, airplane owners, mechanics, radio control tower operators, instrument men, meteorologists and clerks.

Regional meetings to discuss the rationing will be held over the state, Mark McGee, state director, announced.

McGee termed successful such a gathering, the first of its kind in Texas, held yesterday at Midland.

A large class of aviation cadets received silver wings and became second lieutenants in the United States army air corps after graduation at Foster Field, Victoria.

Dedication of the class to the memory of First Lieutenant Arthur L. Foster, for whom the field was named, will be part of a ceremony Sunday when Mrs. Ruth Y. Foster, widow of Lieutenant Foster, will unveil a plaque in honor of her husband, who was killed 17 years ago while serving the air corps as an instructor.

Mind To Be Topic Of Lesson-Sermon
"Mind" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 22, 1942. The Golden Text is: "The Lord is a God of knowledge, and by his actions are weighed" (I Samuel 2:3).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Behold, God exalteth by his power: who teacheth like him?" (Job 36:22).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "If Mind was first chronologically, is first potentially, and must be first eternally, then give to Mind the glory, honor, dominion, and power everlastingly due its holy name" (page 148).

Four Indicted By Grand Jury

Four indictments were made by the grand jury as it recessed yesterday afternoon. The grand jury is to reconvene on March 9.

Indictments and charges were: W. H. Mayberry and Cirbie Hill, theft; Roland Baker, burglary; Ray Bell, burglary; Odell Davis, forgery.

A severance was granted in the first case. Piled in 81st district court Thursday was a five-year suspended sentence in the case of Mayberry. The charge was in alleged connection with the purported taking on January 29 of two cap bearings and one connecting rod, valued at $300, and described as the property of L. V. Miller.

Baker, who last week was sentenced to three years on a charge of theft in alleged connection with the Diamond Shop's loss of a quantity of jewelry on January 9, was charged with burglary in alleged connection with the taking of four tires and four tubes, valued at $80, from L. M. Key, on January 9.

The same offense is alleged in the indictment against Bell, who yesterday was assessed a three-year sentence on a charge of theft in alleged connection with the Diamond Shop case.

Both Baker and Bell had previously been indicted on offenses of like character, according to the indictments filed here. The prior indictments were in Amarillo district court, that against Baker in February of 1937, against Bell on March 23, 1936.

The indictment against Davis alleges that on January 30 he passed a check for $300 purporting to be signed by "Lee Bain."

Chairman Jack Love, representative from Fort Worth, asked: "Have you been compelled to deposit $1,000 of your salary in any bank?" and the witness answered "yes."

Doctor Duncan testified he treated the $1,000 account as under the control of his department and for use by the department with the full knowledge of other department members.

Chairman Love asked: "Don't you realize such an agreement is a conspiracy to violate the state law?" and Doctor Duncan answered: "No, sir, I didn't know that."

The witness was asked whether he was aware that each department had special laboratory funds, and answered in the affirmative.

'Hell From Heaven Boys' Down At Midland Proud Of Themselves

By OSCAR OWENS Written for The Associated Press SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 20. (AP)—With twenty-two army air corps training schools in cowboy land, Texans hear a lot about pilots, bombardiers and gunners; but they haven't heard a lot about what Uncle Sam's flying nephews call themselves.

Out on the level plains in West Texas, where even a short man can see more from a soapbox than a tall one from the cockpit of a flying airplane in other parts of the world, are the airmen known as the "Hell from Heaven Boys."

They're the bombardiers at Sloan field, near Midland. Meanwhile, down in South Texas at Victoria, near Matagorda Bay, war has brought another dangerous-sounding name to the fledgling pursuit pilots at the air corps advanced flying school at Foster field. They're being called "Satan's Angels."

The bombardiers are called the "Hell from Heaven Boys" because they're the ones who are going to drop the right loads from the sky in the right places. They're the fellows who are going to give the little beer-colored boys of the Pacific the bomb's rush.

"Pilots may do the swinging, but the 'Hell from Heaven Boys' deliver the knockout punch," they claim with pride. Just as war changes everything else it changes the names by which the men in the air corps refer to themselves. For instance, "Satan's Angels" at Victoria before Pearl Harbor were called "Dive and Zoom Boys" and even by the uncomplimentary term—"Pea-shooters."

Uncle Sam will soon be training even more of these "Angels" when his new fighter school at Lake Charles, Louisiana, opens next month. The students in the audience laughed. Recently the announcement was made that a faculty member was dismissed because it was learned he had been posing under false pretenses.

Near the end of his testimony, Doctor Duncan was asked: "Have you heard of any shortage of $16,000?" He answered "no." Then Love asked: "Have you heard of a dean spending $16,000 more than he had?" and the doctor answered: "Yes, I believe so."

The President canceled his press conference today because he still had a head cold. Cripps Once Considered Too Radical

(By The Associated Press)

Sir Stafford Cripps, new figure in Britain's war cabinet, is a scion of aristocracy who once was ousted from membership in the British Labor party because he was considered too radical.

The recently retired ambassador to Russia and long-time advocate of co-operation with the Soviet Union was reported to have earned $200,000 a year in legal practice—only to give it up in the '30s because he grew tired of "taking large sums of money from one capitalist to give it to another capitalist."

Now Lord Privy Seal and leader of the commons, where he will be Prime Minister Churchill's lieutenant, Sir Stafford once was called "the most dangerous revolutionary in England."

He is the youngest son of the First Lord Palmerston and was reared in the traditional "old school" atmosphere but with this man who recently declared for full political collaboration among Britain, United States and Soviet Russia has shown some regard for precedent.

Still, bespectacled, 53, he appears in public in the conventional black coat and gray-striped trousers of the barrister—but to his farmer-neighbors he is known as "square," recognition of his knowledge of agriculture demonstrated in the field.

Science was his first interest after his education at Winchester college and University college, London, but he left the laboratories of Physicist Sir William Ramsey for a legal career.

In World War I he drove an ambulance in France, but officials "drafted" him, because of his scientific knowledge, as manager of a government explosive factory in England.

By the time he was 41, in 1930, he had been elected a member of the bench of the middle temple, named solicitor general in the Labor government, and knighted by King George V.

As a Labor member of Parliament, he was a gadfly critic of the conservative party of appointment.

But he was ready a critic of his own party leaders when he considered them over-cautious, leading to his expulsion by the Laborites in 1939 for efforts to consolidate all progressive elements in a united front against Fascism.

From the advent of Adolf Hitler to power in Germany in 1933, he began warning his country that "war is inevitable."

Early and late, even after the Russian-German non-aggression pact of 1939, he urged close relations with Russia as essential to the survival of both Britain and the Soviet Union.

Two Die In Chair At Sing Sing

OSSENING, N. Y., Feb. 20 (AP)—A double-execution at Sing Sing prison shortly after midnight sent two more members of Brooklyn's infamous Murder, Inc., gang to their death.

Frank (the dasher) Abbandano, 35, and Harry (Happy) Malone, 32, died within a few minutes of each other after being twice tried—the first conviction was reversed—a and twice sentenced to death.

They were convicted of the slaying in 1937 of George Rudnick, a Brooklyn stool pigeon, whose talk they silenced with 54 ice-pick jabs.

Austin's Picture Given Most Prominent Place In Senate Hall

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
Associated Press Staff

The Father of Texas has been promoted.

That is to say, a portrait of Stephen Fuller Austin (better known as Stephen F.) has been given more recognition in the hall of the Texas senate.

For the last two years, the portrait, a two-by-three-foot, head and shoulders affair, had languished in the northwest corner of the chamber.

Not only was the light bad (one almost had to strike a match to obtain a good view of the face) but the portrait hung below that of another, of lesser prominence in Texas history.

The latter was W. P. Zuber, one of the last few survivors of Sam Houston's army in the War of the Revolution from Mexico.

When the door to the senate reception room was open—and much of the year it stands open—Austin and Zuber had the same degree of display. Both were blacked out completely.

Moreover, for untold years before its hanging near the reception room the Austin portrait had rested in the southeast corner of the chamber, behind the water cooler.

Not all that has been changed. The thousands of visitors to the Texas capitol and the senate chamber no longer see the father of Texas in the shadows, behind a door, or behind a water cooler.

His portrait has been placed in the most prominent spot in the hall. It is right in the middle of page one, top of column. It has been hung on the heavy, red drapery behind and above the rostrum of the president of the senate.

It is the first of the famous collection of historical portraits in the senate which the visitor is likely to see. For a long time it was the last, or it might easily have been overlooked altogether.

As often in the past, when a matter of history interpretation and appraisal has been concerned, the Daughters of the Republic of Texas had a hand in the shakedown.

One or more of them reportedly espied Austin's portrait in the corner—history doesn't reveal how it happened to have been placed there—and asked Senate Secretary Bob Barker why. Or words to that effect. Secretary Barker was willing to talk it over—or to listen while his callers talked—and was informed in substance that someone hadn't done right by Texas' Austin.

He sympathized. He expressed desire to cooperate. He disclaimed any personal animosity against the Father of Texas.

At only one point he balked. He positively declined to take down a portrait of David B. Culbertson, which hung in a very favored position on the north wall, and to put up Austin's there.

One woman objected that Culbertson hadn't come to Texas until 1856, which, she indicated, was downright modern compared with Austin's advent.

But Barker was adamant. He cited Culbertson's record as a colonel of Texas infantry in the Confederate army, adjutant general of Texas, member of the state senate, and 22 years service in the national congress. Especially, he reminded that he was the father of Texas' beloved Senator Charles A. Culbertson, who died in 1925.

So a compromise was worked out. Culbertson was not disturbed, and Austin went upon the draperies.

Those draperies, incidentally, are more than just that. They are sometimes called the "mystery curtain" of the capitol. Few things in the statehouse arouse more interest among visitors.

Few strangers explore the senate chamber who do not seek, usually surreptitiously, to draw them aside

Today's War Analysis

By DeWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

The appeal by Lieut. Governor Van Mook of the Dutch East Indies to the United Nations to take the offensive, search out the enemy and fight, has been followed by a quick promise of initiative from our own Secretary of War Stimson.

Whether Mr. Stimson was replying to Van Mook doesn't appear, but the secretary made his statement in reply to criticism which he said had been voiced because of the failure of the United Nations to seize the initiative. However, what matters is that the war secretary declared "we will seize every opportunity for counter-attack and the offensive, and every opportunity for surprise."

That will come as welcome encouragement to the people of this and Allied countries who have been asking and rather impatiently on the whole how long it will be before the Allies are ready to lash out. The time seems long when there is a piling up of reverses such as are being suffered now in the Orient.

Mr. Van Mook emphasized his appeal by declaring that if the Allies didn't assume the offensive they would risk losing the war. That thesis long has been very generally held by military experts, it being based on the truism that you can't win a war or fair lady by remaining forever on the defensive.

However, while the need of initiative has been apparent, and some experts hold that it already has been too long delayed in instances, the experts also have recognized that there is a difference between legitimate initiative and foolhardiness and that premature offensives often lead to disaster. In other words, while there must be initiative it must come at the right moment. And that can only be determined by the supreme command which has all the facts before it.

But the Dutch official didn't stop with the plea for initiative. He continued with this:

"The Japanese are using ships recklessly. I think we could emulate them."

Well, of course, great daring has to be used in war, as this column has been emphasizing, and Hitler has exemplified the value of legitimate gambling time and again. But when you talk about using ships recklessly in a world-wide war like this, it gives pause for consideration. Probably Mr. Van Mook didn't mean that word "recklessly" literally but rather had daring in mind.

On that evil day of December 10 the British recklessly employed two of their most powerful men-of-war, the new Prince of Wales and the Repulse, to meet the Japanese attack off Malaya—sent these two magnificent war-machines into action without air protection. Result: Both the great ships were sunk by Jap planes, and this loss of seapower upset the balance and had much to do with altering the complexion of the struggle in the Orient.

Then, too, we must remember that anything done in the battle of the Pacific affects not only that theater but the entire structure of Allied plans for all theaters. Now when the Allies have won this war (as they will their victory will in my view rest in very large degree on control of the seas. They will have temporarily lost domination of the western Pacific, but they will regain it as the American and British sea-strength continues to increase.

If Hitler once breaks through that British blockade which has been garruling him, and he is able to join hands with his Japanese partner in crime, there's no telling how far the Axis might go. The latest word from Berlin is that the fueler is straining his economic structure to the limit to get ready for the crucial spring fighting.

We have no present guide as to how strong he may emerge when the fighting starts. Most certainly he is girding himself to try to break the Anglo-American domination of the oceans.

That being the case, the supreme war council must be the judge of just what risks can or cannot be taken. Figuring out the Allied strategy in this great crisis is no job for amateurs.

Explosion In Shell Loading Plant Kills Two, Injures Four

Youth Presented As Proof Of Cure For Paralysis

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20 (AP)—Mason Hohl, 18, was given a perfect physical rating in his medical examination at the University of California at Los Angeles. Doctors probably wondered how he got that two-inch scar on his right leg, just below the knee. But they didn't ask.

Young Hohl didn't mention that it was his only physical reminder that he barely was able to stumble along only 18 months ago. He was badly crippled by infantile paralysis.

Now he's a member of the UCLA R.O.T.C. unit and walks and runs as easily as any of his fellow cadets.

Hohl was presented to the Los Angeles County Medical association last night as Dr. Anthonie van Harrevel and Dr. Harvey E. Billig, Jr., a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy Medical corps, told how they discovered a polo treatment which effected marvelous results on five patients. Dr. van Harrevel is a faculty member at California Institute of Technology and Dr. Billig has been assigned to active duty there for research.

The treatment consists of crushing the entire nerve, degeneration of which caused paralysis in the muscle. As the nerve fibers struggle to re-establish connection with the muscle, they grow and multiply by division. Thus they eventually motivate not only the muscle fibers which the nerves supplied before the crushing, but many times that number.

Dr. Billig said the research began with rabbits and it "took a bit of daring to try it on the first human"—Hohl, son of Dr. Elizabeth Mason Hohl, president of the American Women's Medical association.

How much do you think advertising costs?

100 to 1 your guess is too high!

TAKE, for instance, a widely advertised can of soup which you purchase from your grocer for 10 cents.

Then ask your neighbor how much of that 10 cents goes for advertising. She'll probably say—"Oh, about 1 or 2 cents" or "10 to 20 percent."

That's where you can correct a great American illusion. The actual cost is only 36/1000 of 1 cent.

But here's something else you can mention. Actually advertising absorbs its cost because without the wide volume of sales brought about by advertising, the soup couldn't be sold for 10 cents. In fact, this soup 15 years ago cost you 12 cents retail. Advertising by expanding distribution and increasing sales made economies possible which cut 2 cents off the retail price of soup.

The same economic process works with most articles, autos, soap, cameras, hose, etc.

Advertising is the working man's friend, the low income man's friend because it continually acts to lower the cost of living. In the long run it actually costs nothing but is absorbed by the economies it makes possible—economies which are passed on to you in the form of lower prices, better value and better service.

What to do!

FIRST—Make advertising your buying guide.

NEXT—When the argument comes up, correct the illusion that advertising costs a lot because it doesn't. Show them how it lowers prices by expanding sales and effecting the economies of mass distributor

Sandie Coach Guest Speaker At Panhandle Grid Banquet

Special To The NEWS
PANHANDLE, Feb. 20—The Panhandle High school Panthers held the annual father and son banquet at the high school cafeteria recently. Coach Howard Lynch of the Amarillo Sandies was guest speaker. Superintendent K. L. Turner acted as toastmaster, and introduced the program. The invocation was given by Gary Simms. The welcoming address was given by J. M. Knowles, principal of the high school. Spicer Gripp, member of the squad, gave the response to the welcome.

Jack Griffith, Panhandle merchant and loyal supporter of the Panthers, talked on community opinions of football. He discussed the physical, educational, and mental attitude of the players, and told how the people of a community reacted to them.

Coach Lynch discussed the various phases of football and how it affects the boys. He advocated more competitive sports in the nation along with increased physical development. He declared that had the nations of the world played football and other sports in the manner of Americans, today there would be no war. Football takes care of the excess energy and emotion of boys and eliminates the necessity of youth camps which were set up by European dictators.

Robert Bonner, captain, spoke briefly and presented a leather bill-fold and key ring to Coach Jack Atkins as a gift from the squad.

Those attending were Eileen Ketchum and father, John Baird O'Keefe and father, Wilfred Boyles and father, J. T. Broadway and

Two Pampa Teams To Play Tonight In Amarillo

Two Pampa basketball teams will battle in Amarillo tonight when the Junior high Reapers meet Sam Houston juniors to decide the champion of the Panhandle Junior High conference and the high school Harvesters tackle the Amarillo Sandies in their last game of the season.

The Reapers and Sam Houston will meet in the Sam Houston gymnasium at 7 o'clock while the Harvesters and Sandies will meet at Central gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

The Reapers will start Clay and Cree, forwards, Sheehan-center, Noblitt and Allen, guards. He will have Beasley, Hatcher and Custer as first string reserves.

Coach Oscar Hinger will take a team to Amarillo determined to break the Sandies' undefeated conference record which has run for seven games, two over each team in the conference.

Tonight the Harvesters will flash their new-found offense which they hope will baffle the Sandies who were able to eke out a 26 to 24 game over the Harvesters here three weeks ago.

Coach Hinger will start Halter, Burge, Flanagan, Ott and either Allen or Dunham.

Coach T. G. Hull of the Sandies will start his five starting lettermen back from last season. Reserve strength, including a string of veterans, will be on the side of the Sandies.

Her escorts will be attended by the remainder of the starting five on the team. They will be Miss Elkhay Drennan, escorted by Charles Halbert; Miss Lynn Edwards, Jack Maddox; Miss Muriel Faye Phlegley, Bill Stockman; and Miss Jerri Dronogole, Price Brookfield.

with the Texas Golden Gloves team rated the best heavyweight ever to represent this state in national competition.

Phillips was reared in the elite River Crest district of Fort Worth where as a big, blond kid, he caught for Billy Conley, star Texas golfer, just for the fun of it.

He was an honor student at Rice institute for three years and was offered a scholarship the fourth year, but went into the office of his brother, Edwin, passing the examination and being admitted to the bar just one day before enlisting in the army as a private.

Phillips is not one of those brain-over-brawn guys. You might expect him to claim that distinction since he was an honor student in college and was admitted to the practice of law. This and the fact that he won the heavyweight championship of the Golden Gloves over opponents much larger than he would indicate the tall, handsome, 188-pounder made boxing a science just as he did everything else.

SPORTS IN WARTIME

By RICHARD WEST Associated Press Staff Jittery? Worried? War got your nerves on edge?

If the answer's yes, go to the golf courses. A noted Dallas physician says: "Gold is a mental healer, a life-saver to men whose business has been disrupted by war and who work overtime on the war effort. A round of golf is three hours of relaxation—three hours when you forget everything but hitting the ball. It fortifies you for the next day's work."

"It's a contribution to national defense." There's your excuse, gentlemen. Next Sunday when your wife fumes as you pull out for the course, tell her it's for national defense.

In all Southwest football history probably the greatest mystery was the temporary fall of Texas' great 1941 team in being tied by Baylor and losing to T. C. U. after crushing previous opposition by four and five touchdowns.

An old master of football, Coach Paul Tyson of the Waco High Tigers, has an explanation: "I was in the Texas dressing room just before the Longhorns went on the field against Baylor. I never saw such a beat-up bunch of boys. Three of the first string could hardly walk. Another had a huge boil on his arm."

"Magazine publicity did not hurt that team. There was no dissension. I could tell that in their faces. But that Texas team, a superlative machine, was like a car that had traveled a long journey at 90 miles an hour and some of its parts had fallen out. It had to stop. And I knew it would run smoothly again once it had been repaired."

It did. Ask Texas A. and M. and Oregon. A new game making the rounds of parties and luncheon clubs is called Sports-for-Defense Quiz, designed for sports page devotees who can recall the names of athletes at a moment's notice.

Here's how it's played: The master of ceremonies, for example, announces that the quiz will be devoted to Southwestern football, basketball, baseball, etc. Letters of the alphabet are placed in a hat. Each contestant draws out a letter. In 10 minutes you must name a team composed of players whose last names begin with the letter you drew.

The winner gets defense stamps. (We won the other night at a party with the letter "B." Our football team, named in six minutes, was: Schoonover, Ark. and Sikes, A. and M., ends; Sprott, A. and M., and Spain, S. M. U., tackles; Steam, S. M. U., and Simes, S. M. U., guards; Smith, Texas, center; Stollenwerck, S. M. U., Sloan, Ark., Stafford, Tex., and Shuford, S. M. U., backs.

Other for the Temple High Wildcats. This school, which has had a glorious football history, took $3,700 from its state championship game with Wichita Falls and bought defense bonds.

Temple, which has never won a championship, has been in the state finals two out of the last three years and usually wins or finishes high in its tough Central Texas district.

The Wildcats usually make fine college players. Few other schools its size have turned out such stars as El Aldrich, Boevey Koch, Noble Doss and Euel Wesson—the first two All-Americans.

Central Texas fans are already looking forward to a great game next fall when Lubbock, perennial West Texas power, meets Temple Oct. 23 in Temple.

Buffs Smash Arizona State Five 87-39

Canyon's Towering Buffaloes added another victim to their long string last night when they defeated Arizona State of Tempe 87 to 39. Tonight the Buffaloes will meet their third Arizona foe of the week when they tangle with Arizona university again led the Buffaloes with 17 points. Maddox and Halbert followed with 11 each while R. Stockman and Chat Johnson, reserve guard, picked off 10 points each.

McNabb slipped 13 points through the hoops for Tempe with Jones a close second with 10 points. The game was a nip-and-tuck affair for 10 minutes, Canyon leading by only one point at that time. Then the tall Buffaloes hit their stride and were away to the races.

Tonight will be Queen Night at West Texas State college when Miss Norma Lee Blue, student from Canadian will be crowned Basketball Queen for 1941-42.

Football coach Leslie Van Meter will be master of ceremonies at the half time program which will see Miss Blue crowned by Captain Frank Stockman of the World's Tallest Team. She will be seated at a throne in the center of the east or student's section of Burton Gym.

Her escorts will be attended by the remainder of the starting five on the team. They will be Miss Elkhay Drennan, escorted by Charles Halbert; Miss Lynn Edwards, Jack Maddox; Miss Muriel Faye Phlegley, Bill Stockman; and Miss Jerri Dronogole, Price Brookfield.

Frogs Tackle Rice Tonight

(By The Associated Press) Texas Christian university makes its final bid for the Southwest conference basketball championship with five games, in nine nights and that's certainly doing it the hard way.

The Frogs, coming along in second place, just a game away from pace-setting Arkansas, will tackle fast-moving Rice tonight at Houston.

Defeat for either team will remove it from the race because Rice, too, has lost a couple and Arkansas has dropped but one.

Tonight, Texas and Arkansas open a series at Fayetteville that might be important in the final outcome. Should Arkansas lose one—and Texas always has been tough for the Razorbacks—the Frogs could be pitched into a tie for the lead either with Rice or T. C. U.

Also tonight, Southern Methodist and Texas A. and M. battle at College Station, while tomorrow night, in addition to the Texas-Arkansas game, T. C. U. goes over to College Station to play the Aggies and Southern Methodist meets Rice at Houston.

Sprained Knee Keeps Gregg Rice From Night Workouts

By GAYLE TALBOT NEW YORK, Feb. 20 (AP)—Word that Gregory Rice, the greatest distance runner this nation has produced, was to be seen every night racing around a pitch-black track up at Columbia university all by himself, no matter how cold it got, was sufficient to haul this observer out of a warm room last night to make a personal check.

"Well, it looked for a long time like nothing was going to happen. The track was there, all right, and a biting wind, but no Rice. And then out of the gloom came an apologetic little guy bundled to the ears. It was Rice.

"I'm awfully sorry I can't work out tonight," he said. "But I fell down a few steps a couple of days ago and sprained my knee. It isn't much. I'll be all right for the meet in the Garden Saturday night. I think, but it might do more harm than good to run tonight. You see, I haven't got a coach to tell me these things nowadays."

Upon being reassured that he hadn't caused anybody much trouble, and that, anyway, it was mighty cold to be out running, Rice finally consented to go on home and forget about the whole thing. He still was protesting, though, as he walked off around the track. The darkness swallowed him after about 20 feet.

This is the little athlete who has been dealt one of the cruellest blows of all by the war. In normal times he would have been very famous about now. In him the United States finally had produced a distance runner who could run the heels off the Finns, including the fabulous Paavo Nurmi and Talsto Maki. It is time for his "World Series," but we are not having any this year.

Instead, Rice is putting in a full day working for a toy manufacturer on 14th Avenue, and taking the subway up to Columbia and working out by himself. He goes round and round the track, with only a dim light down at one end. On Saturday nights he gets out and runs two or three miles here or in Philadelphia or Boston against the best opposition they can gather, but as a rule it isn't much of a race. Rice always wins. At least, he has won his last 41 races, indoors and outdoors.

The little fellow with the big chest tried to get into the army, but they turned him down. He has a double hernia, which causes him to wear a brace around his middle. In a big race early this winter the brace came loose at the start and flopped disconcertingly against his legs for the best of two miles, but didn't keep him from winning.

Rice is the undoubted king of the two-milers. His time of 3 minutes, 51.1 seconds, made indoors, is the best ever. Also, he holds the world record of 13:51 for the indoor three miles. Also, he is this country's cross-country champion. He beat Talsto Maki, the Finnish star, each of the three times they met in 1940.

The only runner in the United States who can give him an argument at two miles is Gil Dodds of the Boston A. A., and Rice has pretty well taken the starch out of Dodds by a series of beatings lately. Rice's knee is no worse than he thinks it is, he will be favored to take Dodds again in the N. Y. A. C. games tomorrow night. And in the three-mile championship of the A. A. U. meet a week hence.

at a telephone job that is vital

Telephone construction crews everywhere have been breaking records month after month.

Within the space of a year, Southwestern Bell crews completed extensive telephone systems at scores of military or military supply locations in Texas, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, and Oklahoma, finishing each job on time... or ahead of time.

In some exchanges where the inrush of workers in armament plants created an extraordinary demand, these crews have helped as well to double the number of telephones in service.

All told, 30,000 Bell Telephone folks in the Southwest march ahead these days, doing their best with such materials as are available to give you... and the nation... all the telephone service possible in time of war.

A Ship's Testament

Always men have thought of a ship as being more than a conglomeration of wood and steel. So strong and dependable and alive it seems that men endow it with personality; so graceful and lovely, that men feminize that personality, and use the pronoun "she."

The U. S. S. Augusta, sturdy cruiser of the battle fleet, has now added to that tradition of personality by drawing a will. Naval vessels have bank accounts, representing profits from operation of the ship's service facilities. The money is used from time to time for improvements and additions to the equipment.

This ship has been given not only a personality, but a heart. BUY DEFENSE STAMPS.

What's Going On Here?

Somewhere in the state department ought to give a simple, clear, public explanation of how these two news items happened to be capable of appearing at the same time:

1. A shipload of American supplies left for Vichy, France, during the last week of January. 2. British broadcast reports that "Vice Premier" Darlan of France has agreed to send two shiploads of supplies weekly to Nazi General Rommel's forces in North Africa.

Unless a fairly clear definition is made as to just what is American policy toward France since we entered the war (and bear in mind that General Rommel is now fighting us and our policy can scarcely be what it was before Dec. 7) people are going to begin to wonder what's going on here.

Maybe it's all baby-food that is going to France; maybe it's something that cannot even be used to substitute for what is being sent to Rommel. Maybe there is a good answer. Oughtn't the American people to know what it is?

SWITZERLAND'S UNIQUE FUNCTION (New York Herald Tribune)

It is appropriate, and not altogether fortuitous that the turn of national alignments leaves tiny Switzerland the custodian of foreign interests of belligerents of both factions in this second World war. The Swiss Federation, dating back 650 years, has maintained her neutrality for all practical purposes since 1815; she, a functioning democracy, has united under one banner blocs of German, French and Italian peoples; she has afforded European and Asiatic capitals, we formerly represented, for example, Great Britain and her dominions, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxemburg, Jugoslavia, Greece, occasionally Egypt, China, and Central American republics, in Berlin, Sofia, Budapest, Rome, Saigon, Bangkok, etc. We still represent—but who can say how long?

When you know you can't possibly make more than a specified amount in any one year, there is sure to be a lag and a letdown when you've reached your quota. That's human nature, high and low.

It is an economic fallacy which would lose the war for us. Let's bury it right now and never dig it up again. BUY DEFENSE STAMPS.

CORNERSTONE OF THE COUNTRY LIBRARY

(New York Herald Tribune)

Almanac fanciers who are consulting crisp 1942 numbers of the World, the Old Farmers, Dr. Miles' Nervine or other old standard works of this kind may be surprised to know that a farmer's almanac of nearly three thousand years ago is still in print and makes interesting reading. It is Hesiod's "Works and Days," which, if not wholly given up to weather predictions and celestial phenomena for a particular year, still bears a close resemblance to the almanac of modern times.

THE LIMITED-INCOME NONSENSE

(Colliers)

We're all going to endure privations throughout this war. Okay—we can take them, so long as taking them actually helps our war effort. But we move that all of us resolve here and now to hold out like a stone wall against all doctrinaire proposals to limit incomes to some flat-top—$25,000 a year, or $15,000, or $10,000—against such things as Henry Morgenthau's lightly considered and quickly withdrawn proposal to limit corporation profits to 6% of the original investment.

"I speak the pass-world universal. I give the sign of democracy. By God! I will accept nothing which will not have its counterpart on the same terms."

WALT WHITMAN.

HOW BEST TO FIGHT EXPLOITING

There are various forms of exploiting. Probably the most common is exchanging a service and getting more in the exchange than the service is really worth.

What most people fail to realize is that under a true democracy—that is, a government with the consent of all the people—all people can fight and help relieve exploiting. If any individual thinks another worker or firm is getting more than his service is worth, then this individual can demonstrate his belief by performing the service for less. Thus, those who are being exploited are helped and the exploiters are not harmed, because they have not lost anything that really belonged to them.

But how different this fight against exploiting becomes under a dictatorship or a mere majority rule country! Under these forms, only the government has the right to determine whether or not an individual or a company is exploiting others. Thus, exploiting can continue for much longer under a dictatorship or a pure majority rule country than it can under a country where the government has the consent of all the people.

No country in all the world made as much progress in reducing exploiting as we in the United States made when we more nearly had a government with the consent of all the governed. During that time, anyone who thought another was making more profit or a higher wage than he was entitled to, had the right to prove to the world that he could perform the service for less. Thus, all the customers were benefited.

Yes, the best way to reduce exploiting is free enterprise or true democracy—where every man is free to produce anything that anyone else has a right to produce.

PRACTICES BARRING THE FINDING OF TRUTH

There are two practices that make it impossible for some people to find the truth.

If a man is not put to rout and subdued at a contradiction and does not recognize that it proves his whole proposition wrong, there is little hope of convincing him of anything.

Or, if a man recognizes no impersonal, immutable rule of right conduct, except his own personal opinion or interpretation of right, there is little chance of persuading him of his errors.

It requires two different things in order to reason. But if the individual uses himself as a starting point of rightness, there can be an unlimited number of standards of right and wrong. All he needs do is change his mind and then right changes.

CONVENIENT CONSCIENCE OF SOCIALISTS

Socialists, like union leaders, have a very convenient conscience. It changes at will. They will write no immutable rules by which they will agree to abide. They know no limitations, except the limitation of force against their will.

It behooves all people who believe in the law of equal freedom to unite in exposing the selfish motive back of all socialists and union labor leaders.

They will not contend that all people should have an equal income whether they produce it or not. Neither will they agree that all people should have all that they produce. What they want to accomplish is to put themselves in a position to have arbitrary control of the distribution of production. They want their will, in how wealth shall be distributed, to be the norm of rightness.

They truly have a very convenient conscience.

shrewdly than the next fellow, you will make more money. The government may take most of it away in taxes afterward, so that you will actually net little if any more than the next fellow. But you'll have had the adventure of working for it and the gratification of winning it; and that makes literally all the difference.

EARLY IMMIGRANT

Her real name isn't Peggy Drake.

Neither is it Lise Lotte, as the studio believes. It's Lise Lotte Mayer, the first wife of the famous comedian, Charlie Chaplin, in honor of a godmother. She was born in Vienna, Oct. 6, 1921, but became an American immigrant at 3.

The girl began dancing at 5, studied ballet, but "somehow never had the confidence or feeling for it." She became an interpretative dancer in the barefoot, posturing manner of Mary Wigman. Pretty soon she wanted to be an actress, but the route to her goal through work and walk-on bits in Hollywood.

Peggy Drake, as she was to be called, was getting nowhere fast when an agent got her a test for the picture "The Turtles of Tahiti." Examine Our Democratic Faith

By THOMAS WOODLOCK—(Wall Street Journal)

As events move into the past their dimensions and their significance tend to become plainer. Their place in the moving sequence of history gradually settles itself, and their meaning can be more clearly seen and appraised.

Already it is dawning upon us that the Pearl Harbor disaster exemplifies a condition vastly more important than that of a localized and sporadic instance of blindness to facts. The state of mind of the military and naval command of the post itself, when viewed in the light of its consequences, has shocked us all. But it is just as well as we recover from the shock to reflect that we have been slow to realize the full character of the thing against which we are now summoning all our resources to fight. Emotionally we are fortunately aroused to the fact that we are in real danger and danger that is imminent. But it would be equally important and encouraging, even if we are far from clearly envisaging the extent of the hardships that each and every one of us must face in the days that are ahead.

We shall face them, no doubt, in the American way, with a mixture of grimace and growls, jokes and satire, grumbles and criticisms, but under it all an unshakable resolution to see it through to the end. In that way, we can, with confidence, count upon the end. But it would be as much if we had a clear vision of what it is for which we are fighting; what it is that we intend to save.

Of course we are fighting to save "democracy." We can all agree upon that. But what we agreed upon when we agreed to fight for "democracy" means? Christopher Dawson (in the leading article of the January Dublin Review on "Freedom and Vocation") speaking as a Brit-

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20—Having escaped a month-long siege of pneumonia, Peggy Drake was back at the studio and "The Turtles of Tahiti" was resuming where it had left off.

While idle between scenes, the dark-eyed, curvaceous 20-year-old actress sat on the set and talked amiably. Called for work, she'd slip on a red silk robe, kick off her slippers, bathe, across in the so-called stage barefoot in a nightgown and climb into a big bed.

The job was not a concession to Miss Drake's convalescence. In fact, the sequence was more difficult than most. When her movie mother, Florence Bates, came in and awakened her, Miss Drake stretched sinuously and became starchy-eyed as she told of a pleasantly realistic dream she had had—of how Chester (Jon Hall) had come into her room.

And I remember so clearly how he took me in his arms and kissed me. Then he said, "You are my wife, Tamara, and nothing in the world can keep us apart." And—and that's all I remember of my dream.

Miss Bates, folding some clothing on a chair, replied: "It was a woman-derful dream, all right! Only the next time you have that dream, remind Chester to take his bath before he goes to bed."

It was quite a scene, but perfectly all right. It turns out that Chester and Tamara really are legally married, and the censors can't complain if a lover's visits are furthered for the mere purpose of avoiding the "blue heret of the press."

Actually Miss Drake isn't married, or even in love. (The line forms on the right, gentlemen.) "I suppose I'll marry an actor, sometime," she said. "I know it doesn't always work out very well, and I believe my husband ought to be in the same business, or he'd never understand. It isn't that I want to talk about work. I don't. My mother always wants to know what's going on at the studio, and I drive her crazy because I hate to talk about the movies."

EARLY IMMIGRANT Her real name isn't Peggy Drake. Neither is it Lise Lotte, as the studio believes. It's Lise Lotte Mayer, the first wife of the famous comedian, Charlie Chaplin, in honor of a godmother. She was born in Vienna, Oct. 6, 1921, but became an American immigrant at 3.

The girl began dancing at 5, studied ballet, but "somehow never had the confidence or feeling for it." She became an interpretative dancer in the barefoot, posturing manner of Mary Wigman. Pretty soon she wanted to be an actress, but the route to her goal through work and walk-on bits in Hollywood.

TEX'S TOPICS

By Tex DeWeese

YOU PROBABLY have read by now that Rubinfoff and his Violin will be in Pampa for afternoon and evening concerts on Thursday, March 5. Here is an opportunity to attend in their own hometown an outstanding attraction that usually does not play in a city under 50,000 population.

Rubinfoff happened to be coming through this area from a concert in Oklahoma City on his way to the West, and he only decided to come to Pampa when he learned he was being asked to appear in a concert for benefit of the defense program.

Proceeds of his Pampa appearance will go into the city's Civilian Defense Fund—so buy needed equipment for civilian defense in the event of an emergency because of the war.

The afternoon concert will be a popular matinee for school children at the amazingly low price of 25 cents. The night concert will be open to the public with reserved seats at $1.65 and general admission $1.10.

He will be met there also by a Pampa delegation headed by Mayor Fred Thompson and will be brought to Pampa for his afternoon concert.

THE MUSIC of Rubinfoff and his Violin has been heard by countless millions of music lovers the nation over, through his many appearances in motion pictures, radio and the concert stage. His popularity other instrumentalist, and he has won wide acclaim of the general public as well as the press, establishing him as "America's Foremost Instrumentalist."

On his nationwide concert tour last year, he visited over 360 cities, where capacity audiences thrilled to the glorious melodies of his famous $100,000 Stradivarius as presented by the celebrated maestro.

On this tour he stopped in Amarillo and many Pampans went to hear him.

Hundreds of thousands of American youth have been encouraged and inspired by Rubinfoff on his many visits to schools in every state of the union.

In recognition of his ability as a violinist and his contributions as a composer and musical director he has been awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Music in addition to other outstanding honors.

When in Pampa Rubinfoff will be heard over KPDM.

THE current concert tour of Rubinfoff is the direct result of a mutual agreement. Following successes in Hollywood and on the radio Rubinfoff contemplated a coast-to-coast concert tour.

He wanted to meet, face-to-face, the many people who had been hearing his music for several years.

He wanted to meet some of the countless writers of fan letters. Thereupon his office selected, from this fan correspondence, a variety of addresses at random and dispatched letters soliciting a reaction to the proposed tour.

Thus far on the tour capacity audiences have approved this innovation in the concert field.

Rubinfoff, the violinist, is one of the most popular in the nation. He plays in the approved manner and attributes his success to selecting only such songs as will appeal to the greatest numbers of persons.

He has been referred to by the press as the "Artist of the Masses." Aply titled he has attracted all audiences, young and old, conservative music lovers and followers of the more modern type of music.

AND when Rubinfoff plays his famed violin solo at the Junior High auditorium here in a concert of light music, a week from next Thursday, he will be using one of the most precious instruments in the world, a Stradivarius violin insured for $100,000.

He possesses such an instrument has the overwhelming desire of his life in just the same way that mother dreams of a milk cow or father yearns for a new house.

Satisfying his desire for a "Strad" required a search of European markets for old and valuable violins were placed at his disposal by music dealers and collectors but none were just right.

When finally he tested the Romanoff-Stradivarius, as his "Strad" is known, it sent him into raptures.

Made in 1721 by Antonio Stradivari in Cremona, Italy, the violin came, eventually, into the hands of the Romanoffs—the Russian royal family.

During the revolution the "Strad" disappeared but turned up later in Paris in the possession of a former Russian prince who had taken the valuable instrument with him when he fled the country.

The violin is elaborately decorated with the bejeweled coat of arms of the Romanoff family as well as the identification marks of Stradivari and the date it was manufactured.

Colored a deep brown-shaded, it is superbly perfect in form and intricate design, and detail mark it as representative of the best work of the master.

RUBINFOFF will play several of his own compositions on the "Strad," including his own version of "Rhapsody in Blue" presented as a violin solo as well as his famous "Dance Russe," "Tango Tzigane" and "Bajo Eyes."

When he plays these numbers the full range of the instrument as well as its deep tone gives these songs a quality impossible to attain on any other instrument. If you'll take a tip, you'll get your seats early for the biggest musical attraction ever brought to Pampa.

WASHINGTON ROAD SIGNS Eighty per cent of the automobile and truck trips are for fewer than 20 miles. . . . Fewer than two per cent of the cars and trucks go more than 100 miles from their starting point on any one trip. . . . Fifty-four per cent of farm tractors are new rubber tired. . . . A litterbox to nameless peak in the Great Smokies has been dubbed Mount Lanier, after the southern poet, Sidney Lanier, died in 1891.

(This is the last of a series discussing the war's impact on U. S. automobile civilization.)

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20—Dislocation of the automobile industry itself is only the first step on this downward trend of America's pre-war civilization on wheels.

Loss of jobs by 500,000 or more automobile factory workers, while the plants are retooling, is temporary. They'll all get other and perhaps better jobs in war plants.

The real blow comes below the manufacturing level, hitting the 40,000 or more dealers with their 500,000 employees, the 55,000 repair establishments, the 95,000 other retail outlets—only a few of which will be able to continue in a business run on a rationing basis.

The industry is certain to be run on a rationing basis. Cars, buses, trucks, taxis, and retreading are already rationed, when present stocks are sold. It will be a business that begins to spread. Nine out of 10 dealers and their employes may have to find other work.

Their troubles are passed on to the real car operators who hold the leases of the automobile dealers who go out of business. These landlords must find new tenants. The tenants must find ways to terminate some of their leases. Parking lots are included in this business, too.

Banks or insurance companies holding any mortgages on the rented properties face a loss of interest while the premises are vacant. Banks holding commercial paper from the lessees may have to look to their collateral for settlement if they avoid heavy losses.

Finance companies which carried the car owner during the purchase period that will collect their installments and then have to look elsewhere to invest their money.

USED CAR TRADE MAY BOOM One new field may open up here, the financing of used car purchases. There is a possibility of some turnover in some used car business in the used car market, though what will happen here hasn't developed clearly.

Owners of old used cars may create a buyers' demand for better used cars just to acquire better tires. If that happens, it will first price ceilings for used cars as well as new, and watch next for rationing of used cars. Yes, it's possible you may have to get permission to buy a second-hand jalopy. You'll have to prove you need it.

So, until restrictions are put on the used car market, there is the possibility that the finance companies, which once scored a loan for used car purchases, may get into the second-hand car business.

It is to ease the financial burdens on all these upsets to normal business that Reconstruction Finance Corporation may make available some $10 million to finance the war period by loans that private banks can't make.

Your chain of consequences leads next into the fields of taxation. Last year, congress passed a whole new set of tax laws, many of which this source of revenue would yield another $245 million to help pay war costs. But all these taxes were calculated on normal car use. With production of motor vehicles curtailed during the war, these taxes are cut way down.

Furthermore, state and local automobile tax collections face a drop. The total of all automobile taxes, federal and local, has been estimated for next year is about $250 million. This means that $250 million in war taxes will have to be raised from other sources.

Drop in auto taxation, drop in automobile use means a decline in state funds for highway maintenance since most of the money for this work comes from gasoline taxes and license fees. The roads you ride on, therefore, won't be as good as the roads you are used to.

In the whole motoring world picture there is only one really bright patch: There is no gasoline shortage. There has been a little of gasoline and 72 octane grades having been dropped to 76 and 68 because of a lead shortage and in order to increase production of 100 octane gas for aircraft.

Tanker diversion, increased sinking of tankers, might affect the supply in some areas. And gas might have to be rationed just as during the gas shortage scare last summer, and this egg might be pulled out of the Ickes henhouse as an emergency measure if the crisis deepens.

Planned for next year is a new highway program. Secretary Ickes was hatching a rationing plan during the gas shortage scare last summer, and this egg might be pulled out of the Ickes henhouse as an emergency measure if the crisis deepens.

Harvesters Face Powerful Sandies In Last Contest

Tonight will be the last chance for the Harvesters to redeem themselves in the eyes of the fans. They must beat the all-powerful Amarillo Sandies and at least break even in conference play. The game will be played in Amarillo.

The Sandies are undefeated in conference play and have already clinched the district title. The most the Harvesters can do is stay in third place over the Berger Bulldogs. The Bulldogs have won three and lost five and the Harvesters have won three and lost four. Lubbock is securely in second place with five wins against three losses.

If L. J. Halter can do against Amarillo what he did against McClan, the game will be on level footing. The game will be on level footing. The game will be on level footing.

The Pampa "B" squad ran under, around and over the McClan "B" team to win 2-4. Oscar Brothers, lean center, poured in 14 points.

The smooth-clicking "mighty mites" from Thalia dropped a close game to the Harvesters Tuesday, 32 to 30. The Thalia team came up fast in the final quarter to put the outcome of the game in doubt. The Harvesters led at the half, 20 to 17.

L. J. Halter of the Harvesters led the scoring for both teams with 12 points. Pat Flanigan, Harvester center, and Payne of Thalia followed with ten points apiece. Adkins, Thalia guard, also played a fine game, sinking all five of his free throws, making a total of nine tallies.

Thalia played a fast, open game. Their passing and ball-handling ranked with the best seen in Pampa for a long time. Pampa had the edge in height, and made 30 percent of their shots, but Thalia whittled Pampa's lead down with accurate shooting. Only 10 personal fouls were called by Referee Dick Livingston. Four were committed by Thalia, six by the Harvesters. Two technical fouls were called on the Harvesters late in the game when tempers flared, giving the visitors two points.

The Harvesters were to play McClan on Wednesday night so as to be ready and in shape for the Sandies tonight in Amarillo. This will be the Harvesters' last chance to mar Amarillo's unspooled district record.

Playing for Thalia were Abston and Payne, forwards; Johnson, center; and S. McBeath and Adkins, guards. McBeath played for a time as substitute. Burge, Halter, and Bridges played at forward for the Harvesters. Flanigan played at center, and Dunham, Cui, and Allen played the guard positions.

Classes Receive Two New Sewing Machines

Two new Singer Sewing machines have arrived for use in Mrs. Leslie Hart's sewing classes. The machines are of the Singer model 15 cabinet type. The machines boast a stitch control, and can sew on shirts, jackets, and in reverse. There are ten machines in the school with the addition of the new ones, but five of these will be taken to the junior high class.

The second year students will become acquainted with the machines by sewing on shirts, jackets, and singhams dresses. The more advanced students will work on wool suits, and special occasion and evening dresses. When material arrives, the classes will sew on Red Cross layettes, pajamas, and robes.

Seniors To Compete For Nine Scholarships

Nine college scholarships are to be awarded to students who fill the requirements of the Phillips Petroleum company in Oklahoma and Texas.

To be eligible, the applicant's parents must have been employed by the Phillips Petroleum company or one of its subsidiaries for at least two years and must not make more than $300 a month. They must also be ready to attend college next fall.

The scholarships are awarded each year to six boys and three girls. Past scholars record, future promise, and financial conditions are considered. The nine winners are chosen from 20 boys and ten girls who will be selected from among all the applicants to take tests for scholastic aptitude.

Student Council Is To Sponsor All School Prom

Orchestra Music Will Be Featured

Student Council plans are flourishing for an all-school prom. An orchestra will be engaged and the prom will have all the "trimmings." Several orchestras are being considered and the one chosen will be announced.

"The date, place, and time have not been set but I think it will be next month," Aubrey L. Steek, Student Council sponsor, said after the Student Council meeting Tuesday.

Mollie Kennedy, sophomore, is chairman of a committee appointed by the Council to make plans for the all-school prom. Gret'n Ann Bruton, senior, and Mary Nelson, junior, are committee members. Other persons will (James Fridde) be appointed from the student body to assist in making the affair a success.

"It is the first time a prom of this type has been planned. Previously the junior-senior banquet was the only formal dance given."

Burge Is Junior President

The president of the junior class is tall, gangling Leslie Burge. He was elected the "Best All-Around Boy." Leslie likes all sports. He played on the Harvester football team two years. He was elected the most valuable player for the 1941 season by his teammates. Leslie is the captain of the Harvester basketball five. His most popular nickname is "Iron Man."

The vice-president of the junior class is Imogene Sperry. She was a candidate for "Personality Queen" and has been a member of the Harvester band for three years. "Sperry" is an alto in the capella choir.

Dorace Jean Caldwell is secretary of the junior class. She is editor of the Little Harvester and vice-president of West Texas Scholastic Press Clinic. Dorace's grade average is around 97. She is vice-president of the Quill and Scroll and vice-president of her home room, 107.

Alexander Heads Sophies

President of the sophomore class is Jerry Alexander, who is also president of his home room 216. He is one of the most friendly boys and helps run the defense stamp book. He was president of the freshman class last year and he is secretary of Student Council and parliamentarian of Hi-Y.

Vice-president of the sophomore class is Charlie Boyles, who is a "football hero." He played fullback on the Harvester football squad for the season of 1941; before that he played with the Reapers for two years.

Secretary of the sophomore class is brown-haired Janice Wheatley, who is also secretary-treasurer of her home room. She was a member of the Junior Council in Junior High school for two years and was one of the active members of the graduating class last year. Miss Louise Warren is head sponsor of the sophomore class.

Students Outline Ideal Personality Of Teachers

Students state they like for their teachers to be jolly, have a personality, and know how to explain the work.

Martha Brummett, junior, favors a teacher that "gives you a fair chance, takes an interest in you, and explains the work clearly."

Margie Brummett, sophomore, likes a teacher with the "ability to handle students."

Belton Bearden, senior: "Easy to get along with, can control his temper, and has discipline."

Dora Jane Phillips, junior: "One that can be a lot of fun and then serious as the occasion appears."

Joyce Turner, junior: "One who will cooperate in helping the students to learn."

Flint Berlin, junior: "Funny, not conceited, and does not assign lessons."

Gret'n Ann Bruton, senior, says she likes "one that comes down to earth and has a good time with you and is not stiff."

Harold Craddock, senior: "One that has a personality and courtesy."

No Person Dies As Death Rests, In Strange Theme Of High School Junior Play

One week from tonight Pampa audiences will have their last chance to see the junior class play, "Death Takes a Holiday." This much-publicized play has been given on several well-known stages and has been made into a movie version. The play presents Death as a concrete thing by giving it the form of a mortal.

For three days while his majesty, Death, amuses himself by visiting the earth as a mortal, there are no deaths. A man falls from the Eiffel Tower, which is several hundred feet tall, and picks himself up unharmed. For three days there is no bloodshed. On the way fronts there are no lives lost. Not one leaf falls from any plant. Flowers, plants and trees green in profusion. Flowers refuse to die or wilt. Throughout the play there is an aura of tenseness. But after three days things return to normal. One character feels like praying whenever she sees the Prince who is Death. She seems to remember seeing the man in the dream before she had when she almost died in the hospital. Another finds his understanding, knowing that he is somehow supernatural. This character is a famous soldier who has faced Death on the battle field many times but has never extended his hand to shake hands with Death.

Death takes the form of a queer but kind mortal. He offers no one

Deans Say Developing Study Habits Is Problem

Twenty college deans say that development of study and work habits is the most difficult problem college freshmen are facing.

A college preparatory survey has been recently made by Assistant Principal Herod. A questionnaire prepared by Mr. Herod was sent March, 1941, to the deans of colleges and universities which are frequently chosen by Pampa High school. Sixteen said that adjustment to new social environment is a great problem faced by college freshmen. Another problem lies in finding a vocational purpose for attending college, 13 answered.

Poor study habits is an important reason why college freshmen fail, said 35 of the college deans. 35 answered that lack of preparation in fundamental subjects is another important reason. Over participation in extra-curricular activities is also an important reason why many freshmen fail.

College deans said college freshmen show their greatest weakness in English, 32 answered that mathematics is a subject in which freshmen are weak.

Reading was reported by 29 to be a weak subject with freshmen.

The college deans were asked if they thought a high school student should attain a certain level of scholastic standing before contemplating college entrance. If so, what should be the minimum average mark on class ranking? 13 said that the student should be in the upper one-half of the class. Nine said that the student should be at least a "B" average, eight thought that the student should be in the upper three-fourths of his class. Two thought that the students should be superior in at least two fields.

"You should make the best possible use of your time in high school, and determine to do your best from the time you land on the college campus," says R. T. Boger, dean of McMurry college.

'Manly Art Of Self Defense' To Begin At School Monday

Lodging Is Sought For Hi-Y Delegates

Local Hi-Y members are making plans for the coming Hi-Y convention March 13, 14, and 15. Members at present are as work securing lodging for the 150 delegates expected to attend from this district. High school students can help make this important convention a success by taking delegates into their homes for the two days, March 13 and 14. Fill out the blanks to be found elsewhere on this page and return it as soon as possible.

The convention program will include well-known speakers, banquets, and group meetings. Delegates are expected to come from Amarillo, Plainview, Lubbock, Tucumcari, and many other towns of this area.

Plans are complete for the annual Hi-Y banquet to be held next Monday. Winston Savage, principal of Junior High school, has agreed to serve as toastmaster at this banquet.

Sagebrush

Valentines, snow, rain and bad weather may get some people down and out, but not the Sage. So here he is with his throat still O. K., even though Cecil Bradford threatened to cut his throat if he told that Cecil had lipstick smeared on his face after a party recently.

Harry Kerbow was naming a cut shoulder that had to have five stitches taken in it.

Lucille Mathus and former writer of Sagebrush, Kenneth Bond, were married recently. Congrats are in order for the young couple.

Norma Lux still continues to have her heart belonging to someone outside of school.

Does anyone know where there is a tuxedo small enough for John McCoy? Please let the costume crew of the junior play, "The Sagebrush," know.

Dewey Johnson thinks he is Tom Mix the second but we beg to disagree with him.

Double daters are Willis Dean Ellis and Harold Craddock, Mary Ann Speed and Delbert Crowley.

More high schoolers who have said their "I do's" are Winifred Lowery and Dell Falls.

Robert Addington and Wanda Roberts are "Two in Love."

Former P. H. S. boxer L. V. (Lefty) McDonald was back in town visiting friends.

Well, another annual sale has gone by. There are several disappointed students because they forgot to bring their money.

"I've Got My Eyes on You" should be Janice Wheatley's theme song in Jimmy Wanner's case.

Well, until next time when the Sage hoes to be back, throat and all, so long.

Baptist Pupils Are To Be Given Supper

A chuck-wagon supper will be given for Baptist junior and senior high school students by the young people's department of the First Baptist church Feb. 24, from 6:30 to 8 o'clock. Mrs. C. Gordon Bayless, superintendent of young people's department, announced today.

This will be a regular chuck-wagon supper with all the trimmings just as you would get it on a ranch. The church will be decorated in ranch style and the program will include cowboy music.

Junior and senior sponsors are also invited.

Graduating Seniors Are Asked To Give Names To Registrar

In what form do the 1942 graduating seniors prefer to have their names written on their diplomas? This is the question that is confronting Mrs. Lou Roberts, registrar, who requests the seniors turn in their names as they wish them to appear on their diplomas.

The diplomas will be the same as in preceding years, Mrs. Roberts stated.

Choosing of the valedictorian and the salutatorian will take place toward the end of the school year. The valedictorian will be the student having the highest scholastic rating in the graduating class. Second highest will be the salutatorian.

The valedictorian must have attended Pampa High school during his junior and senior years and one who has enrolled not later than 15 days after the opening of school each September.

The steps at the east end of the hall seem to be almost home to John Humphries and Gracie Hines.

Oriental Couple Express Hope For China's Future

Although for four and one half years the Chinese people have continued to battle an unscrupulous enemy against tremendous odds, they know what they are fighting for, and with the aid of their allies will win a lasting peace, Phillip Yung Lee, Chinese good-will missionary to the United States, said when he presented "China Sings On" in high school assembly Wednesday afternoon.

Dressed in Chinese fashion, Mr. Lee asserted "I bring to you a greeting from the student body of China."

Shortly afterward, laughing, Mr. Lee explained the advantages of the Chinese method of dress and the advantages of the American custom. Although he prefers the American dress for some occasions, he thinks that the Chinese custom is much more practical for lecturing and singing.

In America Since 1933

Mr. Lee said from his home in Canton in 1933 to study western music in Chicago university. Here he received his bachelor's degree in music. Chinese instruments which he plays are the Chinese flute, Chinese guitar and the yanzhchin or the Chinese piano, which was played by Mr. Lee with bamboo sticks.

Two former junior high girls who have taken some high school girls' boy friends away are Roberta Lovett and Doris Mae Jarvis.

Garry C. Myers Will Be Speaker For P.T.A. Meet

Education Clubs Are To Sponsor

Dr. Garry C. Myers, editor of "Children's Activities" magazine, will speak tonight at 8 o'clock in the Junior high auditorium. This meeting will be sponsored by the Parent Education Club.

Before the present school year has expired, Dr. Myers will have spoken almost daily before parents, teachers, and youths in scores of cities, and nearly half of the states of the Union.

He has served under the auspices of universities and colleges, public schools, teachers' associations, American Association of University Women, mother's study clubs, newspapers, child welfare agencies, men's service clubs, and church groups.

Local Parent-Teacher association discussion groups and several other clubs in the Council of Clubs are cooperating with the Parent Education club in sponsoring the lectures.

The capella choir, under the direction of Miss Helen Martin, will sing in the evening.

Mrs. Luther Pierson, president of High School Parent-Teacher association, invites all parents and students to attend.

Student Defect Similar To Draft Fault, Survey Shows

Do you realize that defects that hold students back in school are the same ones that keep young men from getting into the armed forces of America?

U. S. Public Health Service gave a public report showing that the physical defects that rejected men from service were the same ones that the men had 15 years ago when they were checked in school. The largest defect is found in teeth, which show 27.6 per cent. Other smaller per cents are defective eyes, ears, infected lungs and other miscellaneous ailments.

These are the same conditions that Miss Ursula McCarty, health nurse, Miss Maxine Richardson and Oscar Hinger, physical education teachers, are checking Pampa High school students on and the results are similar, as the largest per cent are teeth defects. Letters are being mailed to the parents of students with defects and there will be a checkup made next semester to see what the students have done about them.

Campaign For Books Is Now Underway

The victory book campaign to provide books for the boys in camps is now getting under way in Pampa high school, Principal D. F. Osborne announces. Various books are being placed in the two boxes which are located in the front hall and the library.

Among the books turned in are "Escape" (Ethel Vance), "The Life and Death of a Spanish Town" (Elliott Paul), "Bread and Wine" (Ignazio Silone), "The Winnie of Barbara Worth" and "When a Man's Man" (Harold Bell Wright), three volumes of "Captain Horatio Hornblower" (C. S. Forester), "Code of the West" (Zane Grey).

This contest is sponsored by the American Library Association, American Red Cross and the United Service organization.

Principal Osborne urges more students to contribute books in this drive.

Bible Class Shows 24 Per Cent Increase

One of the most popular teachers with his students is the Rev. Newton Starnes, teacher of the high school Bible class. This class is a half-year course and has an increase in enrollment of 24 per cent more than last semester.

Now studying the Bible, the class spent the first two weeks studying the era before Christ was born. Since then the students have been studying the life of Christ. The class will finish the Bible before the end of the semester.

Rev. Starnes is a good golfer, and golf is one of his favorite pastimes.
