Mexico Decides To Declare War On Axis

Moody Turns Stump Guns On O'Daniel

TAYLOR, May 23 (AP)—Dan Moody opened a stump tour in his campaign for the United States senate tonight with a rebuke to Senator W. Lee O'Daniel for "his vote to disband the trained army and send it home just a few weeks before Pearl Harbor and his opposition to the building of a pipeline to take Texas oil and gasoline to the Atlantic seaboard."

Lashing at O'Daniel as "a man utterly without foresight," the former governor flung a third challenge to the incumbent-senator to discuss jointly the issues of the campaign.
 Asserting he twice had challenged O'Daniel at a joint debate, Moody declared:
 "I regard his failure to accept as a measure of his courage. If he accepts, I shall demonstrate to the people that he has no capacity for the responsibilities of the office he holds."
 "I shall assert that he is without even the semblance of leadership or influence in the United States senate, and that assertion I will prove by his own admission that he cannot do anything in the senate."

Sixteen years after opening his initial campaign for governor here, Moody asserted "The people of Texas should mark O'Daniel as lacking the courage that should characterize a man in the office he holds and destroy him politically." If O'Daniel does not accept the challenge to a joint debate.
 "He cannot dodge on the claim that he is too busy in the senate to meet a political challenge," he told an audience in the city where he was born nearly 49 years ago.

"O'Daniel admits that he cannot do anything there. Why should he wish to stay there?"
 Launching his platform tour in which he has promised to "take care of Senator O'Daniel and his record," Moody invited a decision

MEXICO CITY, May 23 (AP)—General Salvador Sanchez, chief of the Mexican army's general staff, said today that "all measures have been taken" to meet a war crisis and other measures have been taken or are planned to put the nation on a full war footing.
 This action followed fast upon the government's decision last night to declare war on the Axis.
 The navy department has taken over all lighthouses and other aids to navigation to operate them in the interests of national security. Squads of troops patrolled the capital and other cities of the republic and General Sanchez said the army is now responsible for public order.
 President Manuel Avila Camacho prepared other measures to place the country on a defensive war basis.

Congress is expected to be called next week—probably Thursday—formally to declare war on Germany, Italy and Japan in a move that would place every country in North America in battle against the Axis. It would be the first declaration of war in Mexico's history.
 All property of enemy nations is expected to be seized.
 Troops already were reported moving to strategic zones to protect railway bridges, tunnels, communication lines, war factories, airfields, oil fields and pipelines. The oil wells on the gulf and Pacific coasts are exposed to submarine shelling such as Axis U-boats have directed against the Dutch installations at Curacao in South America.

The fields have been under strict military control since Mexico ruptured relations with the Axis shortly after Pearl Harbor.
 Small detachments of troops marched through the streets before dawn today and groups of two or three men stood before important Axis establishments. The capital was tense but orderly.
 The president's speech to congress will be broadcast to the nation and congress is expected to put the country of 20,000,000 swiftly into the war.

Official sources said the president, in asking emergency powers, would base his request on Article 29 of the constitution which says that in case of "invasion or grave disturbance or anything else puts the nation in great danger or in conflict with the president with the approval of congress" can suspend whatever guarantees that might prove an obstacle to meeting the situation effectively and rapidly.
 Leobardo Reynoso, leader of the chamber of deputies, said a declaration of war would be approved swiftly with no opposition.

20 Dead, 17 Missing In Honesdale Flood

HONESDALE, Pa., May 23 (AP)—At least 20 persons died and 17 others were reported missing as the worst floods in years devastated Eastern Pennsylvania last night and today, causing damage estimated in the millions of dollars to homes and industrial plants.

At least 13 of the 20 died as a raging torrent of water hit this mountain summer resort community of 5,887 population in Wayne county in the northeast section of the state.
 Private Vincent McNulty of the state motor police declared Honesdale death toll "probably will go higher."
 Honesdale was the hardest hit of the communities damaged as the Susquehanna, Lehigh, Schuylkill, Lackawanna, and Lackawanna rivers and many smaller streams burst out of their banks. Hundreds were made homeless, war plants damaged, highway and railroad traffic disrupted. Thirty bridges were washed away.

Several hundred were reported homeless in Honesdale and surrounding towns of Waymart, Promont, Seelyville, Indian Orchard, White Mills and Hawley. In other homes residents had to get along with little light, no gas, no heat, no water and little food. Three emergency food stations were promptly set up by the Red Cross and state agencies.
 Rescue crews set to work clearing away debris in search for bodies as the flood waters ebbed.

Congress Agrees On $42 Soldier Pay

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Rejecting proposals to set the lowest pay in the fighting forces at $50 monthly, a senate-house committee today agreed on a $42 minimum.
 This, the figure approved by the senate, is exactly double the $21 a month now paid army privates and navy seamen when they first enter the services.
 While the house voted for a $50 minimum, Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the house military committee said he expected the joint committee's decision to win house approval.
 Both the senate and house must ratify the committee's action. If President Roosevelt then signed the legislation, the pay boost would become effective one month later.

How Navy Fliers 'Got' 10 Jap Vessels On March 10 Described

Editor's Note: (The following is a first-hand account of an attack by units of the United States fleet on Japanese forces in New Guinea on March 10—a time between the battle of Madagascar straits and the battle of the Coral Sea. Reference to the New Guinea action was contained in a navy communiqué issued at Washington on March 18.)

Heroes of World War II will be especially honored at a Top O' Texas Recreation Day service here next Sunday, May 31. The services will take place at Fairview cemetery.

Parents of all boys in armed forces and especially parents of boys who have already lost their lives in the fight against the Jap and German murderers.

The three Gray county boys, C. T. Hall, Richard Neils and E. T. Autry, who have been reported as killed or missing will be paid special tribute, also the heroes of Bataan and Corregidor.

Principal speaker will be the Rev. E. B. Bowen, pastor of the First Methodist church. The dead of the first World War and of other wars will also be honored in what will undoubtedly be one of the most patriotic Decoration Day services ever held here.

Salute to the dead will be fired by a squad from the Texas Defense Guard, in command of Paul Blankenburg, top sergeant of the Guard.
 Not many people are aware that Gray county has already had three boys who have made the supreme sacrifice. Autry and Hall are from LeFors and Neils from Pampa.

All persons attending the service, the guard and all veterans will meet at the high school and march in formation to the cemetery. Ray Williams will be marshal. Cars may be parked at the high school.

The action took the Japanese by surprise as they moved against the undefended ports of Salamaua and Lae. One officer reported "all except unimportant units were sought out and visited with sudden and very unpleasant destruction."
 Two cruisers were destroyed by bombs dropped from planes of the Pacific fleet. Five transports were sunk, beached, or left ablaze. One destroyer was blown up, another sunk and others damaged by smaller bombs and strafed by machine gun fire.

Axis Subs Using New Incendiary Torpedoes

Regents Decide Not To Move Medical Branch

(By The Associated Press)
 New incendiary torpedoes apparently are being used by Axis submarines in the Gulf of Mexico, the navy revealed today in disclosing attacks on four ships with the loss of three of them.
 All told, 96 men were killed or missing in the attacks on the vessels related today. One was sunk last January off the coast of Panama; another went down in the Caribbean May 16 and a third was blown up in the Gulf May 19. A ship attacked in the Gulf May 16 was abandoned, but later righted itself and was towed to a gulf port.
 Thirty-six persons met death aboard the American vessel sunk May 19, the worst disaster yet reported in the gulf attacks which began 18 days ago and which have caused the loss of nine ships and 144 lives, with damage to two other ships.

Surviving seamen were loud in praise for plucky 11-year-old Betty Lucille Downs and her 8-year-old brother, Ramond Downs, Jr., of San Antonio, Tex., who with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ramond Downs, survived the sinking May 19.
 A survivor said he found Betty Lucille swimming in the darkness and with the captain and first mate they tied together wreckage with an American flag and made a raft to which they all clung for more than 12 hours. Her brother and parents were rescued by fishing vessels after clinging to wreckage through the night and the family was reunited at Morgan City, La.

Although set afire steadily, listing and abandoned by the remainder of the crew after 21 persons were burned to death or fatally burned, the ship attacked May 16 in the gulf later righted itself and was towed into a gulf port.
 A U-boat commander dipped the nose of his craft to lift an injured seaman above water to allow his shipmates to save him, the captain of the ship that went down in the Caribbean May 16 declared.
 Then the commander called out in broken English:
 "You can thank Mr. Roosevelt for this. I am sorry."
 A different story was told by Robert Emmett Kelly of Philadelphia, who said when his ship was sunk last January the submarine crew

Navy Names Two Texas Heroes Of Pacific Battle

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Two Texans were named by the navy today as among the men of patrol wing 10 who wrote an epic of heroism across the Pacific from the Philippines to Australia.

They are Clarence J. Bannowsky, Jr., chief aviation machinists mate of Menard, and Houston R. Cannon, aviation machinists mate, of Bishop.

Each was quoted by the navy in eye-witness accounts of the adventures of the wing that was disbanded after 40 of 42 planes were lost, although six out of every seven men of the personnel survived.

Bannowsky was promoted to chief petty officer for landing a disabled bomber after seeing part of the crew was unable to leap to safety during a patrol out of Java when the airship was attacked by 12 Japanese fighters.

All the fabric was ripped from the wings and four men bailed out. Then, Bannowsky saw the others could not save themselves.
 "Maybe I can land her," he said. "He went to the pilot's seat and took the controls with Jap planes in close pursuit."
 "I was very fortunate in making a good landing as the fabric was missing from the wings," he continued.

"I gave the order to throw the rubber boat over and prepare to abandon the plane. As I started to get the confidential gear, the Japs start strafing us. During this time, the two side gunners had been firing at the Japs and one

Forget All About Rubber--There Just Isn't Going To Be Any More

AKRON, Ohio, May 23 (AP)—America, here it is, straight from the horse's mouth: You can forget all about tires, golf balls, tennis balls, hot water bags and anything else made out of rubber until at least 1944—because there just is not going to be any.

That is what the men who know told correspondents on the National Association of Manufacturers "production for victory" tour of war industries—men like Harvey Firestone, Jr., of Firestone, Thornton G. Graham of Goodrich, P. W. Litchfield of Goodyear, and William O'Neil of General.

They know a lot more about rubber than anybody in Washington and they held out not the slightest hope of relaxing any of the rubber restrictions for the rest of 1942 and all of 1943.
 But—they said—the whole industry is going to bat to make all of the tires, treads, insulating wire and anything else the army, navy and air force need.
 A great deal of the facts and figures they gave are and must remain military secrets. If you were told how many tons of crude rub-

Million Men Fighting In Great Battle

Russians Leave Peninsula To Nazi Invaders

By RICHARD McMURRAY Associated Press War Editor

Russian troops have withdrawn from the Kerch peninsula in the eastern Crimea after fighting bravely for days against the crushing weight of the Germans, Moscow announced today, and on the Kerch front a million men continued a bloody battle for the initiative, the Germans throwing strong tank forces into the fray.

A Russian communiqué said the withdrawal had been accomplished "in full order" and that both troops and equipment were evacuated. With their occupation of the peninsula, the Germans were separated from the Caucasian lands which they covet only by the narrow straits of Kerch.

The German triumph left the long-besieged garrison at Sevastopol the only Russian defenders in the Crimea, and Sevastopol itself was being subjected to increased pressure. The Russians made no mention of losses on the Kerch peninsula. Several days ago the German high command claimed that 169,198 prisoners had been taken there.

The Russian armies battling at the gates of Kharkov consolidated new positions in the face of heavy tank and infantry counter-attacks and broke up a new counter-attack, the midnight communiqué said.
 The Germans claimed to have regained the initiative at Kharkov, and although the Russians denied this, the communiqué indicated that the tremendous battle was a give-and-take proposition with the final outcome still in the balance.

The secret war was one of wild confusion with each side hurling all the armaments of their arsenal into a campaign of bloody and stubborn attrition. Whatever the outcome of the battle—and it was of the world's greatest—the fact remained that Marshal Semicon Timoshenko's bold attack had at least upset the German dream of an easy spring drive into the oil-rich Caucasus.

Elsewhere in the world at war, the action was limited. The Chinese, who said they killed perhaps 12,500 Japanese who landed on Chuan-shih island at the mouth of the Min river in Fukien province, withdrew to designated positions. In other sections of vast China, the Japanese fought inconclusively to extend their conquests of five years.
 A Berlin report of a French fleet built around a battleship being at large in the Mediterranean appeared to be baseless Axis propaganda. The RAF returned to the attack on the Nazi submarine nest at St. Nazaire. German batteries along the occupied French coast shelled the channel. From Australia, Allied bombers shipped and destroyed or damaged 13 planes. Bombers from India raided a Japanese air base at Ak-yab in conquered Burma.

The African front was quiet, and in France and Greece 20 more hostages were shot down by the Nazis. The Reich minister of food and agriculture, Richard Walther Darré, developed one of those mysterious German illnesses and took a long leave of absence, within a few days after Marshal Herman Wilhelm Goering had acknowledged a crop failure.

It was the Russian battlefield, however, that focused world attention because if the Russians could hold their ground until the snow once more descended, Hitler and the heart of the Axis would be smashed and free men could turn their undivided atten-

EIGHTEEN NEW WELLS TO BE DRILLED IN PANHANDLE FIELD

Wildcat To Be Drilled Near Perico

The Panhandle oil field want on its most active drilling spree of the year last week when 18 first intentions to drill were filed at the local office of the Texas Railroad Commission. Of that number, 15 are scheduled to be drilled immediately. It was the acre spacing rule became effective. The new drilling program came just when most of the drilling wells in the field are in process of completion. One of the new locations made last week will be an attempt to connect the Panhandle and Hugoton, Kas. fields. It was the Pure Oil company's intention.

The Humble Oil company made application to the railroad commission yesterday for a permit to drill a wildcat test for oil in Hall county. The test would be known as the Humble Oil company's No. 1. A. S. Morris, in the south half of section 119, block 1, SFRS survey, located seven miles southeast of Memphis. Contract depth is 5,000 feet. Humble has a large block of land under lease.

No. 1 Federal Land Bank, section 17, block 7, Capitol Lands survey, Dallas county. Contract depth is 8,500 feet.

The test will be located three miles due west of the town of Perico and about 25 miles northwest of Dalhart. It is just a few miles from the New Mexico line.

Several attempts to connect the fields have been made to the east and north but all have been dry holes. This is the first try to the west or south of what is known as the "ridge". Attempts to connect the fields have also been made north from the Moore county area through Hartley county and two or three good gas wells have been drilled. However, play petered out.

Pure's new test well is at least 50 miles from nearest production. In the Moore county gas field to the southeast.

Wheeler county will get a connecting test with Pendleton and Vaughn's No. 1. D. D. McDowell in section 55, block 23, H&GN survey, located three miles west of Lela. The test is more than a half mile from production to the east and northwest.

Most of the new locations staked last week were on 40-acre plots with the others being drilled by special permit. The Skelly Oil company announced five new tests, four on their huge Schafer ranch holdings in Cass and Gray counties and the other to extend the Pringle field in Hutchinson county. The Huber Corporation announced three locations, all in the Pringle area.

So far this year a total of 126 new locations have been staked but not more than 50 wells have been drilled. Other completions were started before the 40-acre spacing rule went into effect.

Six new oil wells were tested and given open flow potentials last week, adding 912 barrels to the field potential. Three of the new wells were in Gray county, two in Hutchinson and one in Wheeler.

The Skelly Oil company brought in two outside wells with their No. 1 D. D. Harrington, seven miles west of Pringle in Hutchinson county, making 50 barrels and their No. 1 Bell, east of Shamrock, Wheeler county, testing 104 barrels.

To date this year a total of 148 new oil and gas wells have been tested and given potentials. Completions by counties follow:

In Gray County
The Texas co., No. 3 Benedict, section 55, block B-2, H&GN survey, was given an open flow potential of 283 barrels.

The Texas co., No. 3 Key, section 1, B&B survey, tested 84 barrels.
Phillips Petroleum co., No. 12 Pan-Shannon, section 140, block 3, I&GN survey, gauged 204 barrels.

In Hutchinson County
Skelly Oil co., No. 1 D. D. Harrington, section 20, block M-16, AH&M survey, tested 50 barrels.

In Wheeler County
Skelly Oil co., No. 1 Gideon Bell, section 81, block 17, H&GN survey, gauged 104 barrels.

Panhandle Oil Group Condemns Nationwide Gasoline Rationing

Claiming that rationing of gasoline in large oil and gas producing areas, such as the Panhandle of Texas, would lead to wholesale bootlegging, public resentment, disrespect and violation of the laws and regulations tending to enforce such a condition, the Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners association has passed a resolution condemning nationwide rationing and has sent copies to governmental agencies, senators and congressmen and the governor.

The resolution states that the organization realizes that there is a shortage in the East due to inadequate tank cars and pipelines but the fact remains that 50 per cent of the nation's potential production is centered in Texas and that a market must be maintained.

The resolution continues: Whereas, when a local product or raw material such as crude petroleum exists in such plentiful supply as it does in Texas, any restriction on its use, due consideration being given to other conditions prevailing, is impractical and impossible and only tends to bring about public resentment, disrespect and violation of laws and regulations tending to enforce such a condition as proposed in national rationing program, and

Whereas, in the practical knowledge of the oil fraternity, it is possible to set up with great ease crude stills for the manufacture of gasoline from crude oil in such a manner that it will be possible to distill and manufacture gasoline for motors and for general distribution without paying taxes to the states and federal governments, we therefore Resolve: That such a rationing program as proposed, as applied to the Mid-Continent states, is impractical and unenforceable and that it is the sense of the Panhandle Producers and Royalty Owners association that these undesirable facts should be presented to the Honorable Coke Stevenson, the Honorable Senators and Representatives from Texas and to all governmental agencies charged with the successful prosecution of the war program.

Standard Announces New Rubber Formula

NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—The Standard Oil co. (New Jersey) has worked out a process by which basic materials for synthetic rubber and better aviation gasoline can be recovered simultaneously from petroleum, and call it "the biggest development since we began experimenting with synthetics."

The new process was announced on the heels of a recommendation by Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, that America's synthetic rubber goal be boosted to 1,000,000 tons a year from a scheduled 800,000.

"This process may double or triple the capacity of the plants that are now being built to produce materials for artificial rubber," President W. S. Farish of Standard said yesterday in describing the new technique, worked out by scientists of the Standard Oil Development co., a technical subsidiary.

Robert P. Russell, vice president of the development company and a key man in the discovery, said it could be used by refiners using the fluid catalytic or alkylation process with very little change in equipment.

Farish said the details had been made available to the federal petroleum co-ordinator and other government agencies, and would be available generally under the U. S. oil industry's patent licensing plan.

It was emphasized, however, that any increased output would not be sufficient to meet tires for the average motorist at least for the present.

NO RUBBER

ber have been allocated for use as tires for armored cars of treads for tanks in 1943. German agents might figure out how many of these war weapons we are planning to produce.

The best that can be said is that the majority is going to help the United Nations fight the Axis, and that the average American hasn't a prayer for a new set of tires or a dozen golf balls or even a balloon for little Johnny.

The story these top executives of the rubber business told is not a pleasant one. And anyone who heard it came away with the impression that in spite of all efforts in Washington and Akron to replace synthetic rubber for natural rubber, it's going to be a long pull. And that Jesse Jones' estimate of 600,000 tons of synthetic rubber for 1944 is not only impossible but fantastic because, as Harvey Firestone, Jr., said, "It can't be done in so short a time."

There are synthetic plants in operation and under construction—where and how many must remain undisclosed. Plans also have been made to build plants for making butadiene, the basic ingredient of synthetic rubber.

These executives said that steel, for which airplane manufacturers, tank manufacturers, gun manufacturers and shell manufacturers are crying, is the material they need most to build these plants. They were asked: "Why build a butadiene plant without building a synthetic rubber plant to go along with it so that you can really turn out what you need—and they said they could not answer it."

Firestone said he believed the time is coming when natural rubber, under 1943 allocations, will be exhausted and there will not be enough synthetic rubber to supply ordinary needs, outside of the fighting services. Then, he predicted, there will be a "blank" period—of indefinite duration—until the production of synthetic rubber is increased to meet the demand.

The best answer from conversations with the rubber executives was that neither the rubber industry, nor the petroleum industry which supplies the basic compositions for the manufacture of the synthetic product, nor governmental agencies in Washington have as yet been able to get together on a clearly defined program.

After these conversations one fact stands out: Don't think or even wish for rubber because you're not going to get it at least not before 1944, if then.

Jap bullet got me in the back. I asked the gunners to help me get my flight jacket off. One helped; the other continued firing.

We swam to the rubber boat. Previously the Japs had never attacked anyone after a plane had been abandoned, but now they started strafing our rubber boats and we scattered. Then the Japs made runs for us individually. They strafed us for about 20 minutes. "At first we would just duck under water for protection. Afterwards we got so tired we just watched."

They would shoot at us with two machine guns. As they saw the splashes getting close to us, they would open with cannons. The attack let up and we returned to the boat and rowed to an island where we found the rest of the plane crew. The plane was burned.

Cannon was on watch when 108 bombers from Japan roared down on Port Darwin. "I looked up and saw four formations of 27 planes each coming from the southwest. We immediately got in the whale boat and ran it to a beach across from Port Darwin. We ran the boat under the trees. At 10:10 a. m. the first bombs hit."

The navy added: "That was the beginning of the historic Darwin raid. One hundred and eight bombers, dropping eggs simultaneously, with but one purpose—to put Port Darwin and all ships and docks around it out of existence for all time."

members shot survivors with rifles as they struggled in the water. Thirty-three died, some crushed by the ship's propeller, others by shots in the water and still others of starvation or suicide before being rescued after the sinking near Panama.

Two hundred and ten merchant ships have been sunk by submarines in the Atlantic area since the war's beginning.

In the May 16 sinking, the skipper, Gosta Carlson of Houston, Tex., related how he, members of his crew and three passengers, were picked up by a Norwegian ship after 13 hours adrift in lifeboats.

Carlson said the U-boat surfaced and shelled his ship after a torpedo hit had been scored. He said John Nosk, 50-year-old Houston Cook, clung to the ship through the shelling along with Mercere Vazquez, 45-year-old messman.

He related that Nosk was not seen after the ship went down, but Vazquez was pulled from the water by the submarine's prow and held there until rescued by fellow crew members in lifeboats.

The medium-sized cargo vessel that went down May 19 took the heaviest toll in a single attack since Axis U-boats have been raiding the gulf over several weeks—36 men.

and sinking when last seen. A sea-plane was destroyed by U. S. fighters. The attacking force also damaged or sunk many small boats and barges and inflicted high losses among enemy personnel.

Against all this damage the only loss to the U. S. force was a scout plane downed by anti-aircraft fire. The action put the U. S. naval forces directly into the "hot corner" of the Pacific where the Japanese were aiming at invasion of Australia and disruption of the American supply line to that continent.

Salamaua, only 430 miles from Australia, is a point from which raids could be made not only against Australia, but against the Australian outpost of Port Moresby in southern New Guinea.

One young U. S. flier described the action as "a cinch, a dive-bomber's field day. The Jap ships were going crazy down there trying to get away," he said, "but we nailed them—and how!"

The morning all hands were at their battle stations. Aviators were studying their maps and figuring their navigation. The problem was to plan the attack in such a manner that each group of planes would arrive at the objective at exactly the proper time and be clear of the area when the next group arrived.

Suddenly from the bull horn, the voice of the air officer belted: "Pilots, man your planes!" And after a short interim the final orders from the air officer came over the bull horn: "Go get 'em gang!"

Lusty cheers rang out from all hands and a moment later the first fighter was airborne.

It was a strange, thrilling sensation to sit there and listen by radio to our fliers as they dealt death and destruction to the enemy.

"There are two ships in Salamaua harbor," one pilot told another. "You take the first one. I'll take the second. Let's get 'em all. Turn loose. Give 'em hell!"

Then a few seconds later, a calm, "You got him that time!" "Get the destroyer on our left."

"Okay, let's go back again and get the enemy ship to the left. Okay. Attack cruiser! Attack cruiser!" "Boy, let's get it! Let's go get that Jap over there."

"Enemy about four miles out in the harbor. I'm going over."

"Let's take a look at these islands. Have you seen any aircraft?" "I'm going to get that cruiser on the way down. I'm on the way down."

"Oh, boy, did he go up!" "Who said that? Joe, are you okay?"

The planes were certainly having great success. Now and then, progress of the attack was announced over the public address system. The crew members halted, listened in tight silence, then cheered jubilantly.

Finally, we heard a squadron leader call to his men:

"Let's go home. Join up!" The attack was over.

tion to rooting out Japan from its ill-gotten Oriental gains. The stupendous battle in the Ukraine, nearing the end of its second week, raged along a 125-mile front and developed into a great see-saw struggle with each side attempting to outflank the other. The Germans said flatly they had smashed the offensive.

Probably a half million men were engaged by each side—the German communiqué said the Russians employed 23 divisions and 15 armored brigades before Kharkov alone.

Red Star, the Russian army newspaper, said the Germans had thrown wedges into the Russian lines in the Izyum-Barvenkova sector south of the city where Marshal Fedor von Bock counterattacked to relieve the frontal pressure on Kharkov. But the hard-riding Cossacks and massive Russian tanks were declared to have erased the salients almost as soon as they were formed.

In some sections to the south, the Nazis—employing masses of air borne infantry and paratroopers—were acknowledged to have three-to-one numerical superiority.

The Russian high command said the Red army was "consolidating the positions" in the German account said the "enemy was completely broken and that Hitler's army had shifted to the offensive. The whole widening battlefield had become a graveyard of men and machines in the Izyum area alone. The Russians claimed to have killed 15,000 Germans in three days. The Germans said Timoshenko's men "were suffering the heaviest bloody and material losses."

Far to the north between Moscow and Leningrad, the tempo of fighting increased and the Soviet claimed to have captured four populated places and strategic positions "suitable for further offensive operations."

Democracy Makes Good

In the supreme test of total war, democracy is proving it can produce the goods.

We were slow about deciding what we wanted to do. That was because we decided for ourselves instead of permitting Mussolini or Stalin to tell us what we thought.

We were slow in getting under way because, being democrats, we do not like to fight, had not thought much about the matter, and at first set our sights too low.

But once circumstances, aided by Japanese treachery, awakened us to the sordid facts of international life, we started doing such a job as no other nation could even approach.

A million dollars is pin money today. We talk of government expenditures in terms of billions even in peace times. We appropriate for war at the rate of 40 or 50 billion dollars a year. Perhaps, then, the fact that we now are paying about $132,000,000 a day to finance this war isn't as impressive as it should be.

Let's not think of it as so much money. Let's visualize it in terms of ships and tanks, planes and guns, powder and bullets, jeeps and scout cars and khaki-colored trucks—war paraphernalia we weren't trying to manufacture three years ago and are making today.

We started in 1939 with an industry devoted exclusively to civilian needs. Insignificant, here and there, we made a few tons of powder, a few thousand rifles, a few hundred fighting planes. For many of the things required by a modern soldier we did not even possess blueprints.

In less than three years we have so completely reorganized our industrial setup that in 1942 we will make almost as great a value of war goods as we produced, in 1932 and 1933, of commodities to service the entire American nation!

While we are finding fault with Washington for its confusion and failures of leadership, with capital and labor and farmers for their selfishness and shortsightedness, let's not forget the positive side of the balance sheet.

We have multiplied our plane production 24 times, so that with Henry Ford's new plant operating we, alone, will be making more aircraft than all the Axis nations combined. We are building this year as many cargo ships as the total we possessed Jan. 1, 1941. We are turning out tanks, at last, as fast as we can use them.

But because we went to work so late and so slowly, it would be fatal to become overly encouraged by the supercolossal job of production we have achieved thus far.

We can, however, and we should, realize that Hitler was screwy when he thought the American Democracy wouldn't be able to bury personal, partisan, racial and class antagonisms enough to produce the goods.

More Power To Them

In the midst of the self-seeking, complaining and chiseling which pockmark a generally credible war effort, it is good to run across the story of the railroad shop workers.

Through their unions—which are neither A. P. or L. nor C. I. O. but set an example the big boys might note—these craft workers have agreed to do government war work on their present 48-hour week basis, at their current pay scales.

These workmen might have demanded the benefit of the Walsh-Healey Act's 40-hour week, and pay at the higher hourly rates. They saw no reason for sucking Uncle Sam just because others have found him a good-natured easy mark.

Today's War Analysis

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

Even without the spur provided by that misnamed American flying officer, General Doolittle, and his men, Japan's mop-up campaign in China has seemed the most logical Japanese move since China's Burma road was called off.

The dangerous possibility of air attacks on Japan from bases in the great eastern bulge of China was too obvious to be ignored. The bombs Doolittle's planes scattered on Japanese cities merely made the danger more immediate than Tokyo had anticipated.

Yet, by Chinese estimates of the size of Japanese ground forces engaged, the China clean-up campaign represents a relatively small troop concentration compared with the size of the job in hand.

Available Chungking advices place the aggregate force involved in the four-pronged Japanese offensive in China's eastern provinces at less than 150,000 men. And with that force, fronted by a relatively heavy air power concentration, the Japanese appear to be setting out to complete a job of breaking Chinese resistance or at least to sweep the United Nation frontier in China back far enough to safeguard Japan, Formosa and vital China sea traffic from air attack.

It is quite an undertaking in a geographical sense alone. The coastal and hinterland provinces of China in the eastern bulge south of Shanghai represents an enormous sweep of territory. The greatest threat implied in

ANSWERING DR. ROBERT HUTCHINS' QUESTIONS

In the Clearing House, Dr. Robert Hutchins of the Chicago University, asks some questions in answer to my contention that slums were not undemocratic.

He asks, "Do people live in slums because they prefer to do so?" This question of course is to change the subject. It has nothing to do with the question as to how slums can be eliminated and still have a free democratic state. The answer, however, is, certainly not. But what people wish or prefer has nothing to do with what can be put into practice. If slums could be eliminated by wish or what people prefer, then, of course, slums would be undemocratic. The old statement, if wishes were horses beggars would ride, applies in answer to this. But the only way that slums can be eliminated is by work, not by merely what people prefer. Of course, they have to prefer not to live in slums before they are willing to work enough to be able not to live in slums. But preferring is only the beginning, not the accomplishment.

Dr. Hutchins also asks, "Does indolence make the slums?" The answer is that in most cases it does, provided indolence includes lack of intelligent understanding as to what the functions of a real democratic government should be.

Another question Dr. Hutchins asks, "Do slums make indolence?" They have a tendency to do so. No one, of course, argues for slums. But the only means which Dr. Hutchins or any other New Dealer has ever suggested of attempting to eliminate slums is by taxation; that is, by taking the fruits of the labor of the efficient to give to the inefficient.

And when a bare majority, or even a large majority are willing to use force to take from some, they are not respecting the sanctity or the dignity of those people they compel to surrender part of the fruits of their labor.

Because a man gives wealth to the poor in no way gives him the right to enter a bank and hold up the cashier to get this money to give to the poor. Just so, New Dealers have no right to use force to take from some in order to use this wealth to do what the New Dealers believe should be done but they themselves are not capable or willing to do.

These people who would tax some to give to others are usually doing this for the purpose of relieving themselves of some of their own incapacities or indolence. It is an easy way of relieving themselves of their obligations to the unfortunate. It makes them feel that they are benevolent, while in reality they are trying to be the owners, the overlords, of those whom they exploit by taxation.

So the theory of eliminating slums in a manner that the New Deal advocates is undemocratic. Christian because it recognizes no universal, impersonal rule of conduct. It would substitute the will of those who would have the pleasure of distributing without the sacrifice of creating. It disregards the law of God that each and every man is owner of himself and, in place of this law, use their own will.

THE WASTEFULNESS OF RATIONING

When the government attempts to ration out a certain amount to each individual, the process becomes very, very wasteful. Some people, of course, require much more of one thing than other people do. Yet, the government rationing the same amount to each person, gives no thought to this waste. Some people want infinitely more sugar than others. Some people need infinitely more razor blades than another person does.

And those people who need less in one thing can not transfer this credit they might have to something else they need more of. The only way they can do this is to take their full share of everything and then later on exchange privately with others.

Free enterprise is the most economical way of letting each man exchange his labor for the thing that he believes he needs most.

Our rationing process eliminates this great saving and attempts to mold us all over the same form.

Christianity and democracy were not based on rationing.

UNCORKING IT

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, May 23—Studio fan mail departments and individual stars have been sending out an estimated weekly total of 20,000 autographed photos. But it's all over now, except for the small surplus stocks of pictures already printed. Some of the studios have tried for years to discourage the collectors of autographed portraits, since there was no profit involved or any real benefit to the movie business. In most cases, players have been forced to take care of their own fan mail and photo requests, often hiring a couple of secretaries and even renting an office. The expenses always far exceed the 25-cent fees asked to cover cost and mailing of pictures.

ROUGH ROMANCE

When Maureen O'Hara first cast opposite Tyrone Power in "The Black Swan," she confided happily that he always had been her favorite romantic actor. Their scenes in the production, though, are something less than amorous. In the first reel she's knocked down by her favorite romantic actor. In the second, he picks her up and drops her on the floor. In the third reel she kisses him, but he bites her on the cheek, and in the fifth he kicks her—hard. In the sixth reel, which hasn't been filmed yet, she throws a rock at him. At home evenings, Miss O'Hara is practicing throwing rocks.

Jerry Bergen says heaven must be a place where, when an actor talks about himself, other actors listen.

John Garfield has been chosen for the George Gershwin role in the musical built on the life of the late composer. Another non-musical actor playing a musician is Cesar Romero. He's represented as the pianist in Glenn Miller's band in "Orchestra Wife," and before that he blinged the ivories in "Happy Land" and in "Wife, Husband and Friend."

Jean Hershold has a new war job—a series of short-wave broadcasts in Danish addressed to the people of conquered Denmark. And actor Philip Dorn has been short-waved to Hollanders and Dutch Colonials.

Two of Movietown's most distinguished directors, William Wyler and Major Frank Capra, are working on a short documentary film dealing with Negroes in the army.

This columnist took it upon himself to draft a second woman to meet the troop trains and distribute magazines, playing cards and other conveniences to the soldiers. She is Mrs. Audie Ingram and she lives with her husband "Heavy," and her son, Bobby, in an apartment at the front of the Budweiser warehouse on Atchison street, one block west of the Frost street railway crossing. The reason for drafting Mrs. Ingram is that two can handle the job better than one. Mrs. Marian Sowers who lives on Atchison a block east of the Starweather crossing can now take care of the back part of troop train and Mrs. Ingram the front part.

The distance was too great for Mrs. Sowers to negotiate. The troop trains came through one after the other Thursday and Friday, and I wish you could have seen the brown hands of the soldiers reaching for the magazines Mrs. Sowers had. There were not nearly enough to go around. Even the officers of the train were so pleased that they came down out of the train to thank Mrs. Sowers. But when the boys wanted most of all were playing cards, so all of you people who will give a deck of cards to the boys in the uniform take them to either Mrs. Ingram or Mrs. Sowers and they will give them to the troops when their trains stop for oil and water. Also take them your NEW magazines, not your old ones. Those boys don't like to read an old magazine anymore than you do. Let's have a lot of new magazines and playing cards on hand when the troop trains come through this week.

Quentin Reynolds, famous correspondent who covered the bombing of London, in an article in the May 30 Collier's writes: "They sing a song down there (Texas). The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You. Texas, putting forth her hundred-per cent war effort intelligently, viciously, with hatred in her heart against those who would snap Uncle Sam's suspenders, has her eyes on the rest of us. If we lag in our war effort, Texas is liable to get mad and fight the war alone. Texas is like that. When I die I want to go to Texas. College Station is the home of the great Texas Aggies. I doubt whether they'll have much of a football team there next fall. Those 4,500 students are too interested in learning ways and means of killing Japs and Germans to bother with football."

What does this government-imposed standard of living do to you?

The responsibilities of your government in managing your standard of living, rationing your goods and writing your tax bills, are primarily three:

1. The supply of civilian goods available for distribution among the people must be equitably apportioned. There must be no more of this X cards for congressmen stuff.

2. Price ceilings must be rigidly enforced. If bootlegging and black marketing of scarce supplies are permitted to start, not only inflation will develop, but chaos as well.

3. Every income group must be equitably taxed and assessed for savings. There can be no class exemptions. States which now permit husbands and wives to file separate income tax returns in order to escape the higher surtax rates of a joint return are simply allowing their citizens to welch on a national responsibility.

COST 40 PER CENT

What this full responsibility amounts to, according to some of the government economists who are planning for the management of your wartime standard of living, is that the average family in the next 12 months must be prepared to set aside some 40 per cent of its income for taxes and savings. That is an unprecedented amount. Before the war any suggestion that the American people could set aside 40 cents out of every dollar would have been considered preposterous.

The way this works out for the average person now is something like this: With total national income for the coming year estimated at $117 billion, to be divided among about 130 million people, that makes the gross per capita income around $900 a year. Put 40 per cent of that—$360 in savings and taxes, and it leaves $540 a year for the per capita spending money which will be left for the necessities on this government-managed standard of living.

Bear in mind that these are average figures. Some people will be considerably above those averages. A lot more people will be way below them. Also bear in mind that these are averages per person, man, woman or child. To fit them to a family, multiply those per capita figures by the number of people in your family. For an average family of three—a man, a woman and the baby—it would work out as an income of $720 a year, with $1080 of it going into savings.

Behind The News In Washington

By PETER EDSON

What all this rationing, this conservation, this price-fixing, this increased taxation, this enforced saving and this effort to control inflation amount to is simply that the federal government is taking over the management of your standard of living for the duration.

In peace times this would be known as Socialism or Communism. In Europe it would be known as life under a dictatorship. The short and ugly name for it under a democracy is war.

If you are accustomed to worrying about your standard of living the way you worry about your hips or your arches or your hardening arteries, you should decide whether you like it or not. If you discover that you can take a government standard of living all right, when comes revolution after the war is over, you'll be that much more content.

SAME QUANTITY

What kind of a standard of living do you get for this money? In general, the idea is to give you about the same quantity of food, fuel and shelter that you enjoyed in the past, with certain obvious exceptions and certain shortages in various areas. Sugar and probably most of the imported foodstuffs like coffee and tea and bananas will be down in consumption generally. And in defense areas and war production centers where there have been big and sudden increases in population, shelter accommodations will be reduced.

Where you will be hit hardest will be in the shortages in services like deliveries, the shortages of consumer goods such as house furnishings and clothing.

Interpreting that in terms of stuff you can buy in the stores, it means that you will pay more for food, whether you get it in the grocery or in a restaurant, for the reason that only from 60 to 75 per cent of the food items are covered by price freezing orders. What you can buy in clothing stores, furniture stores, hardware stores, drug stores, filling stations and general merchandise emporiums will be a darned sight less.

You can tell by talking with Coach Buck Prejean that he's pretty much cinched over the showing made in spring training by next fall's Pampa Harvesters.

Incidentally, Coach Prejean is feeling pretty good, too, over the statement made the other day by Lieut.-Commander John Hamilton, head of the navy's new aviation physical training program.

Hamilton, director of the navy grid team in 1934-36, said that school athletic programs by all means should be kept going full force during wartime. Said the lieutenant-commander: "I can't say too forcibly that it is absolutely essential to the armed forces that competitive sports continue in the schools, even in face of financial losses. The problem we face right now—our having to add five months to our training period in order to whip our boys into top physical

Marines Decorated For Saving Wounded

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Five marine corps privates decorated by the army for bravery at Corregidor, won their recognitions for rescuing wounded comrades under fire, the navy announced today.

The five awarded the silver star included Lloyd T. Durbin, Tyler, Texas.

The citations, the navy said, described actions during an enemy bombardment of Fort Mills on February 15. "On that day Japanese forces across Manila bay suddenly forced a violent artillery attack," the navy said. "Naval personnel at the south dock were caught in the fire and suffered several casualties. Observing this, the marines, without regard for personal safety, dashed from their places of shelter and succeeded in rescuing their wounded and helpless comrades."

WILLIAMS, ARIZ., May 23 (AP)—Two men and a boy, members of a party driving from California to Big Spring, Texas, were fatally injured today in the collision of their automobile and a truck nine miles west of here on U. S. Highway 66.

The four-year-old boy, James V. Lloyd, died en route to a hospital. Willard Jones, 23, and Earl Rainey, 21, succumbed to injuries a few hours later. All were from 1343 Fernside Blvd., Alameda, Calif.

The child's mother, Mrs. Dorothy Lloyd, 25, was reported to be seriously injured. The father, Arnold Lloyd, 25, suffered only shock. Mrs. Eugenia Rainey, 19, wife of one of the victims, also was in a critical condition, it was reported at the Edsel hospital here, where the injured were treated.

J. C. Powell, state highway patrolman, identified the truck driver as Joseph Nelson, Taylor, Ariz. He escaped with cuts and bruises.

Inebriated Gent Spends Night In District Courtroom

There's nothing like being obliged.

At least, that might have been the idea in the mind of one intoxicated man who chose the district courtroom as his hotel Friday night.

About 8 o'clock yesterday morning, Custodian Lee Harris found the man, much the worse for his battle with demon rum, stretched out in the dignified 31st district courtroom on the third floor of the court house.

Officers of the sheriff department took the man up another flight and changed his address to the county jail.

A deputy expressed the opinion today that the man wandered in sometime Friday night and probably would have come straight to the sheriff's department had the doors been open.

Clean-Up Will Last All Season

Tomorrow marks the "official" ending of the drive against weeds, trash, and rubbish, but that doesn't mean that the war against the enemies of making Pampa a clean city is over, not any more than because Corregidor has fallen, the war is over.

Triple-intailed Tooley, one of the weed wardens in the Clean-Up campaign, had to really be firm to get one of his neighbors to clean up his yard—but Joe got the job done.

That same kind of direction is going to be needed if all the lots in town are cleared of weeds and trash—and it can't all be done in one day.

This is "only the beginning," for clean-up will last all summer until every weed has taken the ten-count and every pile of trash and rubbish is "hanging on the ropes."

In the alleys has been extended throughout tomorrow. It's easy for a town to slide back, once the pep generated in the first few days of a campaign is over—and that's one thing the sponsors of the movement are seeking to prevent.

Pampa is out for a record as the cleanest town in the Panhandle this year—and it's up to everyone to see that this goal is reached.

Plight Of Salesmen Discussed By Allred

HOUSTON, May 23 (AP)—James V. Allred, candidate for the United States senate, said today the plight of salesmen and other employees, along with hundreds of small concerns, "would become desperate unless the government speedily makes adjustments, provides loans and other fields of employment."

Allred, in a statement, said "these foundation stones of our democracy are cheerfully paying their increased taxes and labor costs, buying war bonds and defense stamps.

"Some are furnishing their own flesh and blood and die on foreign fronts. They are entitled to social security just as much as any other class. x x

"They are entitled to a sympathetic, intelligent junior senator in Washington, one who can get results, a senator of action rather than one of abuse and alibis."

Order No. 6 -- Office Of Defense Transportation

- BRIEFLY -- As it pertains to LAUNDRIES and DRY CLEANERS -- reads: 501.32--Special deliveries, call backs, number of deliveries. Effective May 15, 1942, no local carrier shall: (a) Make any special deliveries except to hospitals and the armed forces of the United States and except deliveries of medicines and other necessary supplies for the protection in emergencies of the public health, life and safety. (b) Make any call backs. (c) Make more than one delivery on any one day to any one person . . . provided, however, that when one day's shipments to any one person exceed the capacity of a single vehicle, then and in that event delivery of such shipments shall be considered one delivery. 501.33--Reduction of Mileage. Effective June 1, 1942, each local carrier shall reduce the total monthly vehicle mileage of rubber-tired vehicles in a minimum amount equal to 25% of the total mileage of vehicles in operation during the same calendar month of the year 1941, exclusive of the mileage eliminated as a result of the requirements of Section 501.32 of this Order. . .

THE PENALTY -- Should We Knowingly or Unknowingly Violate the LAW, is:

"... the power of enforcement granted to the Office of Defense Transportation, which, if necessary, would mean the immediate elimination of the carrier's service in its entirety. . ."

THIS MEANS: Call Backs and Special Deliveries Are Forbidden!

1. All pick-ups and deliveries will be made on regular schedule trips. PLEASE DO NOT REQUEST "SPECIAL" PICK-UPS AND DELIVERIES.

6. We cannot make more than one stop at any one customer's home or place of business in any one day.

(The Office of Defense Transportation has granted a 15-day extension of this effective date to permit local carriers to perfect their pick-up and delivery schedules without undue hardship to their customers.) The above schedules will be put into effect by the undersigned local laundries and dry cleaners June 1.

JUST BETWEEN US GIRLS

By JOHNNIE DAVIS

"Heaven gives us friends to bless the present scene." —Young.
Three popular women who are leaving many friends in Pampa are Mrs. Glen Pool, Mrs. M. C. Overton, Jr., and Mrs. Robert Tripplehorn. Mrs. Pool, first president of the Local Business and Professional Women's club and an experienced gardener, has moved to Wichita Falls, where she and her husband have business interests. Mrs. Overton soon will join Dr. Overton at San Diego where he is stationed with the United States navy. Mrs. Tripplehorn, who will be remembered as Albertsen Schulkey, has joined her husband in Houston after visiting in Fort Worth. Numerous farewell courtesies have been extended to the trio. Mrs. Pool and Mrs. Overton have taken part in the Country Club activities as well as other social groups. Mrs. Tripplehorn was a B. G. K. club member. When London Bridge club honored Mrs. Overton with a farewell shower last week, a "weeping good time" was had by all.

The writer of this column is behind the eight ball in a bad way. To conclude Just Between Us Girls last week we quoted an item from a "yellow" newspaper columnist, Margaret Turner, editor of the woman's page and The Woman's Angle in The Lubbock Avalanche Journal. But, when the type was set, it turned out to be "yellow" newspaper columnist rather than "fellow." Please forgive us, Margaret. Next time we'll try to use more complimentary adjectives.

Since clothing for this spring and summer is practically all manufactured and on the market, women and children likely won't be wearing many Victory fashions until fall or winter. Women who do their own sewing, however, should become acquainted with recent orders of the War Production Board which will streamline ready-made garments to save cloth. Skirts and coats will be narrower. Two-piece dresses are out. So are big sleeves, woolen inner-linings, patch pockets, capes, hoods, all-over tuckings, and wide belts. Like the men, women will give up cuffs on their sleeves and the trouser legs may be only 19 inches wide. This should make them safer to wear. Where color is concerned, black, brown, and blue may no longer be leaders, for these dyes are getting low. Gingham will be available as long as the dyes hold out, and print materials in four colors are allowed until Sept. 1. After that, dresses may be more somber.

Among the most talented young musicians here are tiny Sharyn Rose Pocock and Elizabeth Ann Sturgeon. Fewer pianists, who have studied music as long or longer than Sharyn, are as accomplished as she. Elizabeth Ann must have inherited her singing ability from her father, John, and uncle, Aaron Sturgeon. Both she and Sharyn Rose sang and played at the state convention of Beta Sigma Phi sorority held last week-end in Amarillo.

Thanks to every Parent-Teacher Association member in Pampa for the beautiful compact which this writer received Friday from the City Council of P. T. A.

A food survey of 6,000 school children reveals that 50 per cent had inadequate breakfast, and 20 per cent had no breakfast. "It can't happen here" should be the sign in your home. Morning is a good time to serve vitamin-rich foods such as meats, cereal, and eggs.

The importance of religion in maintaining those standards of democracy and idealism so dear to every American is becoming clearly evident now that the nation is at war. The "old-time religion" may return only in a modern guise but observance of Christian habits each and every day as practiced by the pioneer families of the nation is definitely reawakening. One of the most outstanding movements in this connection is Christian Family Week, May 3 through May 10, announced by the International Council of Religious Education in Chicago, and sponsored also by the Federal Council of Churches and the United Council of Church women. Churches and community leaders will aid in assisting family groups in recognizing the need for a closer unity in the integral part of the nation's well-being—the American home. The program suggested for the week will include going to church, visiting your neighbors, making new friends, getting acquainted with members of your family, and studying the duties of the family as Christian citizens.

Our nomination for the person most capable of holding the undivided attention of an audience is Billy Waters, when he presents the declamation, "I Am Proud." Billy, Pampa High school student, won fourth place in the state declamation contest. Everyone who has not heard this address should avail himself of the opportunity the next time Billy takes part in a program here.

Although only imaginary, the first project of the newly organized Red Cross canteen course is the planning, preparation, and serving of food to 150 men fighting an oil field fire. Suggestions for feeding in any disaster are included in the course. No one should become frightened over the emergency hospital plan being discussed by the local Civilian Defense Council, Red Cross and churches. Even though the idea may have been prompted by present world conditions, it is a measure which should have been adopted many years ago in the event of a New London explosion, Crowsell cyclone, Hedley food poisoning, or similar emergencies. Some persons have drawn the conclusion that because the emergency plan is being considered, Pampa may be bombed just any night. If these people will remain calm and do their part in the emergency hospital plan, much can be accomplished.

A proud grandmother is Mrs. Fred Glass, who has two adorable grandchildren. They are Dickie Barrett, son of Mrs. Freda Barrett, and "Becky" Gray, daughter of Mrs. Bill Gray of Victoria. Three-year-old Dickie and 10-month-old Becky are a handsome pair.

The rain, which fell Wednesday and Thursday upset Mrs. John Bowers' plan for entertaining Queen of Clubs. Originally Mrs. Bowers intended to serve barbecue on her lawn. Even though it had to be served in her house, this party did not detract from the tastefulness of the meal. Despite the muddy roads, the group did not hesitate in making the trip to the Bowers ranch.

"The Incoming Tide," a picture of the Pacific coast, seems to be receiving the largest number of votes at the art exhibit, consisting of 19 original paintings by Effel Stump Deeter, being shown at the high school. Second choice in the display is "Morning Mist," a mountain scene. The exhibit will remain open this afternoon between 2 and 7 o'clock for all who are interested.

University of Texas boys who sing just for the fun of it got together for the last time this year when the Men's Glee club held its final banquet recently, elected new officers, and made awards for outstanding service during the season just closed at Austin. The glee club is strictly an amateur organization, though its sponsor and director, Bernard Fitzgerald, is professor of music education in the college of fine arts. Almost without exception, members are enrolled in other departments than fine arts—many of them are engineering or business administration students. Re-elected librarian of the glee club was John McConnell, arts and sciences student from Pampa. McConnell was also awarded a medal for his work in that position this year.

In the mall came the following motto, which a soldier sent to his mother, saying that he had made it his daily aim to reach:

JUST FOR TODAY

Just for today I will try to live through this day and not tackle my whole life problem at once. I can do some things for twelve hours that would appal me if I thought I had to keep them up for a lifetime.
Just for today I will adjust myself to what is and not try to adjust everything to my own desires. I will take my luck as it comes and fit myself to it.
Just for today I will try to strengthen my mind. I will not be a mental loafer. I will read something that requires effort, thought and concentration.
Just for today I will exercise my soul in three ways. I will do somebody a good turn, and not get found out; if anybody knows of it I will not count. I will do at least two things I don't want to do just for exercise. I will not show anyone that my feelings are hurt. They may be hurt, but today I will not show it.
Just for today I will have a program. I may not follow it exactly, but I will have it. I will save myself from two pests, hurry and indecision.
Just for today I will have a quiet half hour all by myself and relax. During this half hour sometime, I will think of God and get a better perspective of life.
Just for today I will be unafraid. Especially I will not be afraid to enjoy what is beautiful, and to believe that as I give to the world so the world will give to me.

LUCKY AMERICAN JUNE BRIDE OF 1942, with carte blanche from Uncle Sam on goods for her traditional bridal gown, makes two concessions for wartime. She wears a short veil and a short train, if any. Mary Lewis designed this costume. Dress is organdie; jacket, faille belting ribbon.

DOUBLE-DUTY DRESSES POPULAR—Her hat identifies the leading woman of June's forthcoming weddings. This New York creation is beige, linen-like rayon. The hat is softest, whitest straw and ice-trimmed batiste.

Original Paintings Displayed In Art Exhibit Today

"Those who would like to enjoy a lovely experience this afternoon might well spend an hour at the art exhibit at the high school," the Rev. Russell G. West, president of the Civic Art club, stated.
"These 19 original paintings by Effel Stump Deeter have thrilled many who have seen them. At the Thursday showing a number of people said, 'Why don't you let the people of Pampa know about it?' The fact is, it is rather hard to do justice in describing anything that can be classified as art. Art is the expression of a human soul in terms of beauty. If the form of expression is a painting you have to see it. If it is a composition of music you have to hear it. If it is an angel food cake you have to taste it.
Here is a collection of original paintings valued at around a thousand dollars. Mrs. Deeter is noted for her ability to paint the 'mood' of a landscape. And, after all, not overlooking the beauty and loveliness, it is the 'mood' in each picture which will 'get you.'
"This afternoon all children and students will be admitted free. The 10-cent admission fee for adults will be used in a fund to purchase one of the paintings for the school. In the exhibit rooms are chairs for your comfort and enjoyment. The exhibit will be open from 2 to 7 o'clock this afternoon."

RED CROSS
VOLUNTEERS

By MRS. FRED ROBERTS

Every American fighting man going overseas gets a brand new kit bag from the American Red Cross packed full of articles guaranteed to cure a lot of troubles. The Pampa chapter has been given a quota of 360 and already many Pampans are giving their dollars to buy the buttons, sewing kits, waterproof match boxes, etc., that go in them. These items are not available on shipboard and yet are badly needed by the men. Mrs. Mike Roche is chairman of this project and has been busy some time now shopping around to make the dollar stretch to include everything that the government has asked for.

It falls to the production department now to sew the 360 kits within the next week. The khaki twill material will be here by Monday and women are asked to come in immediately to get them. It isn't much of a job to run up one of these kits and it should be no trouble at all to get them all finished within a few days. Holy Souls Altar society has agreed to make fifty of them. Probably other groups could take the responsibility for that many more. They should all go out on Monday or Tuesday and be in by the end of the week.

The material is being furnished free through the national office of the Red Cross and the Pampa chapter is giving $100.00 out of its war relief fund to fill 100 kits. We are continually asking for something to do for our men in service. Here is one way that requires little effort and money on our part and yet will add much to their comfort.

The American Red Cross has shipped 599,000 articles, produced by women volunteers, to the men in America's armed forces.

The largest item is represented by 317,000 knitted sweaters and other hand-knitted garments as follows: Socks, 97,990; mufflers, 53,353; helmets, 43,461. Large quantities of sea boots, beanies, mittens, watch caps, cap mufflers, scarfs, gloves, wristlets and rifle mitts also were sent.

All of the robes but two have been issued but there is still plenty of bed jackets to go Mrs. Ho Wagner feels that when you have finished your spring gardening and house cleaning you will be ready to start sewing in earnest again. The nightgowns have all been issued now and all but a few are in ready. Mrs. Wagner and Mrs. L. L. Davis have already started bundling the robes and gowns and will ship them by the end of the week.

Mrs. A. B. McAfee has probably completed more garments for the Pampa Red Cross than any one else. So far this year she has knit seven sweaters and 2 pairs of socks, and has sewed two skirts, 10 women's gowns, three girls' dresses, 12 pairs of pajamas, and eight men's robes. Since we started production, she has knit 18 sweaters!

The nicest pair of socks ever turned in were turned in by John Haynes. And you would be surprised

DON AMECHE AND ROSALIND RUSSELL, above, have the chief roles in Metro's "The Feminine Touch," gay, four-cornered romantic tangle, showing today, tomorrow, and Tuesday at the Crown. New York, plus Van Hefflin, publisher, and Kay Francis, literary expert, is the testing ground for Ameche's constant derision of all expressions of jealousy. Kay takes author Ameche under her wing while Van Hefflin falls in love with Rosalind. Ameche has the role of a professor who writes a thesis on jealousy before having had any experience with the green-eyed emotion.

how those socks have affected the quality of the work turned in by the women!

Mrs. Roy Bourland, knitting chairman, is elated over the way Pampa women are responding to her call for knitters. All the navy sweaters are out now and only a few helmets and watch caps are left. Four turtle neck sweaters, six sleeveless sweaters, five watch caps, and five helmets are in already and many others are due this week. Mrs. Bourland says the women have been especially good about turning their garments in on time. She herself has made a watch cap and a helmet and is now working on a turtle neck sweater.

We will start issuing the long sleeved khaki sweaters this week—but only to women who cannot use four needles for they will have to help us finish the helmets and watch caps. There are still socks and women's sweaters to be issued too.

Louis Stallings, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Stallings, who because of illness spends much of his time in bed, has knit four afghan squares for the Red Cross.

Mrs. W. G. Morgan is putting our afghan together for the Red Cross.

Three of our sewing machines went out to the Coltolex plant the other day. Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Melvin Roberts, the women are working in the plant's new recreation center and turning out some fine work.

Entre Nous club brought in three more quilts this week that they had pieced and quilted. They furnished the filling for all three and the back for one.

Mrs. Roy McKernan is starting a new home nursing class which will meet every Thursday and Saturday morning from 9 to 11 o'clock. There are eight of these classes in progress now. Mrs. J. B. White says that as she looks over the roll of names in the various Red Cross classes, she finds that women who have taken one course have almost always gone on to take another. This certainly speaks well for the quality of the work done by our Red Cross in-

KISSES FOR LAMOUR—Dorothy Lamour is pretending to be unimpressed by the kisses of those two gay gobs, William Holden and Eddie Bracken, but she drops the hauteur in "The Fleet's In," new Paramount comedy with music opening today at the LaNora theater, in which the trio star with such performers as Jimmy Dorsey and his orchestra, Betty Hutton, and many others.

Yarn is about a book-loving sailor who is cast into the spotlight after his picture appears in the paper kissing a movie star. Sailor was taken unawares but his reputation as Casanova grows and the sailors bet he cannot kiss the Countess, singing star of a Prisco dance hall. Sailor ends up marrying the girl and his pals collect. Film is last directorial effort of the last Victor Scherzinger and a good one. Scherzinger also wrote the music to the songs with John Murray Mercer. "The Fleet's In," "Arthur Murray Taught Me Dancing in a Hurry," "If You Build a Better Mousetrap," and "Tangerine" complete the score.

AN EXCITING TOPICAL SPY DRAMA about the underground movement in France is Universal's "Paris Calling," featuring Randolph Scott, left, Elizabeth Bergner, and Basil Rathbone, showing Wednesday and Thursday at the LaNora theater. Yarn opens on eve of the Germans entering Paris. A wealthy woman, played by Bergner, is warned by her lover and high government official, Rathbone, that she must flee to the South. On the road, the civilians are bombed by the Nazis, and the woman returns to Paris with her dead mother. There she finds an underground meeting going on at her home. She joins and is assigned to a waterfront cafe on the French coast where messages are transmitted in code via piano music over short wave.

PRESERVE WIRE SCREENS

Window screens and screen doors probably will be on the householder's "precious" list for the duration. To take care of those you now have, paint with a wire screen enamel especially designed not to clog the mesh. This prevents rust. Place the screens across two carpenter's horses so that they will be at a convenient height to work on and all areas easily accessible. Apply the finish with a sprayer, a neat little gadget consisting of a piece of napped fabric fitted into a flat metal holder with a convenient handle. The same enamel may be used on the frames, too.

New Mexico Rich Field For Nimrods

For the sportsman who seeks a safari into virgin wilderness where wild life abounds just as it did in the days when only the Indian hunted, New Mexico offers the complete answer, according to the New Mexico Tourist Bureau.

New Mexico possesses six of the seven life zones found on the North American continent, affording the big game hunter greater opportunity for real diversified sport than in most other sections of the country.

In the state the nimrod will find three varieties of deer, two species of bear, wild turkeys and squirrels on which there is a regular open season, in addition to limited permit seasons on elk and antelope.

But in varieties of non-game animals—the mountain lion, wildcat and coyote—the hunter is in for probably greater thrills than those afforded in regular season, for there are no license requirements nor closed seasons on this trio of predators.

Between 75 and 100 mountain lions, nearly 500 wildcats and nearly 2,000 coyotes are taken in New Mexico each year. Many ranchers and professional guides have trained dog packs for hunting of these non-game species, which are available at reasonable cost.

"The sportsman who has not engaged in a mountain lion or bear hunt behind a pack of well-trained dogs has missed one of the most thrilling experiences available to him in the out-of-doors today," says Elliott S. Barker, New Mexico state game warden.

"We encourage the maintenance of good packs of dogs for the control of mountain lions through sport hunting."

As for force of hunting terrain, the nimrod will find New Mexico as one of the few places left in the nation where virgin nature still rules supreme over areas covering millions of acres of timbered lands.

More than 11 per cent of New Mexico's total area is embraced in seven national forests. More than a million acres of natural forest lands have been set aside as wilderness and primitive areas, accessible only by trail, on horseback or by foot travel.

Responsible guides are available to take the sportsman away from civilization and into mountain and forest fastnesses that possess nearly all of nature's original allurements.

Machine Shop Class Open To Applicants

The local office of the United States Employment service is trying to find applicants who are interested in machine shop training for a class to be conducted at A. & M. college starting June 5.

Men 18 to 60 years of age, physically able to do this kind of work, who are not immediately subject to selective service, who have had mechanical experience of any type and who are interested in attending this class should apply at the local office of the United States Employment service for Texas, Combs-Worley building, Pampa.

The class is operated on federal funds provided through the State Board for Vocational Education in Austin, therefore no tuition will be charged for the course. The course runs for approximately 12 weeks and the only expense to the trainee will be approximately $5 for text books. Board and room, which must be paid by the trainee, may be secured in the vicinity of A. & M. college for approximately $30 per month.

Placement reports from other machine shop training classes which have been conducted at A. & M. college show that a high percentage of trainees from these classes have secured employment as soon as they complete the training course.

There is no guarantee of employment from these classes but the facilities of the United States Employment service in securing jobs for trainees is available and every effort will be made to find employment for trainees who satisfactorily complete the course.

Million Texans Will Vacation In New Mexico

New Mexico's cool playgrounds, tucked away in the ramparts of the high country, are prepared for the influx of a million and a half Texas vacationists this year, according to the New Mexico State Tourist Bureau.

A questionnaire survey among Texas visitors last year showed that a majority of them liked new New Mexico for its climate and scenery, and good climate has been one of the potent factors in building the state's reputation as an all-year vacationland.

New Mexico's mountainous forest country, which embraces nearly 11 per cent of the state's total area, is impervious to the swelter season. Even during the hottest days temperatures in the mountain region remain in the 70's, and plummet at night, making blankets necessary.

That New Mexico is ever increasing in popularity with Texans is shown in figures for the 1941 tourist year, which showed a total of 1,531,498 visitors from the Lone Star state—nearly 40 per cent of New Mexico's total tourist volume for the year.

Easy driving distances from any point in Texas make New Mexico's playgrounds, particularly those in the southern portion of the state, accessible without undue hardship on either the driver or his car.

In this southern region lies the popular Lincoln National forest, with its resort centers at Ruidoso and Cloudcroft, Carlsbad Caverns National park, White Sands National monument, the Mesquero Apache Indian reservation, and Bottomless Lakes State park.

Further to the west lies Elephant Butte lake, one of the country's finest bass fishing waters, and a top recreational area for all types of water sports, and still westward is the rugged Mogollon mountain country, with its trout fishing and big game hunting in primitive timber areas.

West Texas and Panhandle visitors have easy access to Conchas lake, near Tucuman, the state's newest fishing water, already noted for its bass, while near Fort Sumner is Alamogordo lake, another fine warm water fishing resort.

The dude ranch and Indian country, and the authentic touch of Old Spain which lingers in New Mexico—all of these offer the vacationist an unending list of things to do and see whether it be for a week, month or a season.

A majority of the dude ranches lie in the mountain areas, where pack trips may be enjoyed under the supervision of competent guides. These recreational havens are as varied as their owners, but all smack of the spirit of the Old West in the days when the cattle barons controlled the ranges.

Along the northern Rio Grande valley and amid the high mesas of the western part of the state, the motorist may glide through the colorful Pueblo Indian country, where a seditary people have maintained the strange, communal villages since pre-Spanish times.

In Northwestern New Mexico, the 16-million-acre Navajo reservation spreads away in a panorama of rugged mesas, mountains and plains. These Indians represent the largest tribe in the United States, and their weaving and silversmithing are unequalled. Within New Mexico, too, are the reservations of the Jicarilla Apache and southern Ute.

New Mexico has more than 2,000 miles of mountain trout streams, the majority of them lying in the northern half of the state. Here the angler is assured complete satisfaction from well-stocked torrents, from whose pools and ripples may be taken Rainbows, native cut-throats, brooks, and Loch Leven.

Developed forest picnic and camp grounds offer free facilities for the entire family. Hiking and riding over well-marked trails may be enjoyed by grownups and children alike—or the shade of a stinging pine may offer an irresistible urge to just loaf.

Whatever type of vacation the Texan may choose in New Mexico, he need never worry about clothes. Blue jeans, comfortable walking shoes or boots for riding, a five or ten-gallon hat, heavy shirt and a jacket will comprise wardrobe enough for complete enjoyment. Frills are taboo.

Typical of thousands of recreational attractions in the playgrounds of Arkansas is the above scene on Lake Hamilton near Hot Springs National park in the heart of the beautiful Ouachita mountains, accessible over modern highways or by bus or rail.

Arkansas Playgrounds Drew Six Million Visitors In '41

The vast vacation playgrounds of Arkansas are playing to near-capacity crowds this spring despite the various conservation policies made necessary by the war. Governor Homer M. Adkins announced this week.

Hot Springs National park in the Ouachita mountains, greatest vacation attraction in the state, has been thronged with visitors from throughout the South and Midwest during May. Reports from the state's two national forests, eight state parks and the scores of other vacation areas likewise indicate the flow of visitors has not been drastically curtailed.

In 1941 approximately 6,000,000 out-of-staters visited Arkansas. Governor Adkins was of the opinion that the near-normal flow of visitors this year was due to the nearness of the Arkansas playgrounds to half the population of the nation, a trip requiring only one day.

About half the visitors this spring have come by train or bus; the other half by private automobile. The latter class of travel is expected to be reduced during the summer and fall as tires on civilians' cars begin to wear down.

Gasoline rationing, if extended through the Mid-continent area, would drastically reduce the flow of motor-vacationists.

Governor Adkins credited the huge volume of vacation travel to Arkansas during the past few years to the intensive development of resort and vacation areas in the Western half of the state.

In this area are two distinctly different mountain ranges, the Ozarks to the north, and the Ouachitas to the south; Hot Springs National park with its great variety of attractions including the thermal, radio-active baths; lakes and mountain drives; the Ouachita National forest and the Ozark National forest; the eight splendid state parks; the scores of well-stocked fishing streams and lakes dotting the playgrounds, and the modern highways and skyways leading to and through the entire area.

Australia To Draft 35,000 Men Into Civil Construction Corps

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, May 23 (AP)—Amid indications that the Japanese are striving to conserve their bomber forces for a large-scale attack in the future, Australia moved today to draft an additional 35,000 men into the civil construction corps which is preparing this country as a base for a great Allied offensive.

The probability that the Japanese were hoarding and building up their bomber power was raised by yesterday's 53rd raid on Port Moresby, New Guinea. It was conducted exclusively by fighter planes. Their half-hour attack was reported to have done little damage, but they dropped small balloons in an apparent attempt to determine prevailing winds. (This would be of importance to parachutists and planes attempting to land.)

Meanwhile Allied airmen renewed their assaults on Japanese advance bases, blasting yesterday at both Koepang and Dill, capitals of the Dutch-Portuguese island of Timor.

Submarine Menace Can't Be Cured, Says Emory Land

WASHINGTON, May 23 (AP)—Chairman Emory S. Land of the wartime Emergency Commission expressed the opinion today that while conditions under which the navy was combating submarines "are constantly improving," complete elimination of the menace was not to be expected.

"You can't cure the submarine menace," Land told a senate commerce subcommittee investigating the possible use of inland waterways for transporting petroleum. "You can ameliorate it. That's the history of the last war and that's going to be the history of this war."

He said the maritime commission believed any development of barges on inland waterways should be undertaken by other government agencies which already had the authority to do the work, including the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the Office of Defense Transportation.

Sister Cities Want To Join Houston Crew

HOUSTON, May 23 (AP)—Houston's smaller sister cities want to "Remember the Houston," too.

Claiming they shared the tradition of the cruiser Houston, they have demanded their sons be accepted in "The Houston Volunteers" to replace the 1,000 men lost in the sinking of the cruiser which bore the bayou city's name, Lt. J. F. Beebe, officer in charge of the Houston naval recruiting district, said today.

Solemnly Lieutenant Beebe declared, "The navy can have but one answer to such a thrilling demonstration of patriotism. That answer, with the deepest gratitude of the navy and of all America, is yes."

Shortly after the replacement program was announced a week ago, the Huntsville Chamber of Commerce contacted Lieutenant Beebe and strongly pressed again for "The Houston Volunteers" to men from Houston and Harris county.

Lieut. Beebe and his assistants debated the question of whether or not to change Washington-approved plans to enlist men only from Houston and Harris county for the volunteers.

Then R. M. Akers, managing editor of the Beaumont Enterprise, telephoned, Beebe said, saying: "Beaumont shared the cruiser Houston and is entitled to share the volunteer group to replace those lost on the Houston."

The Corpus Christi Times heaped coals on the fire in an editorial entitled "Avenge the Houston."

To climax the affair, young Vernon Fisher of Lufkin arrived last Saturday and demanded to be enlisted in the volunteers on his seventeenth birthday, which was Saturday. Lieutenant Beebe made an exception, admitting him to "The Houston Volunteers." This opened the floodgates and Lieutenant Beebe said today he now was obliged to open the volunteers to all men of the Houston area on a first-come-first-served basis.

World's Tarpon Capital Near Texas Great 'Down Hill' City

Corpus Christi, the city with the unforgettable name, offers Texans a summer vacation they will never forget. Located on the western shore of beautiful Corpus Christi bay, a 100-square mile body of water, a wide variety of water sports are offered, and all at so little cost. It is significant, too, that Corpus Christi is "down hill" from all of Texas, a fact, which, in these days of rationed tires is mighty inviting to those who wish to conserve their rubber.

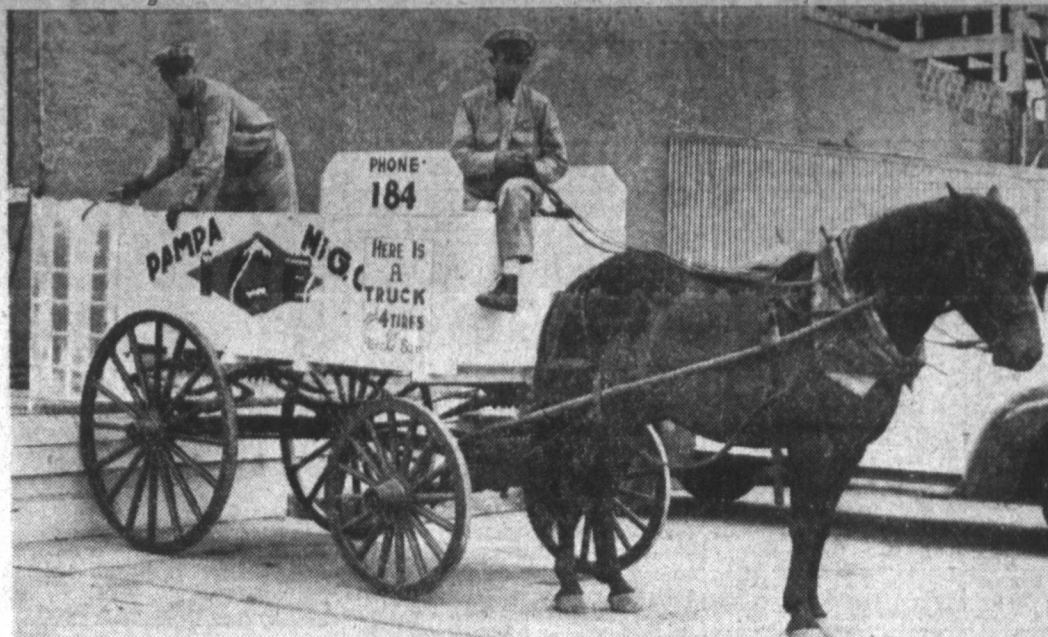

Fishing, possibly, is first on all summer vacationists' lists. Pole and liners had exceptional luck in Corpus Christi bay last summer, and all signs point to another good season. Passes connect the bay with the deep blue waters of the Gulf of Mexico have replenished Laguna Madre, the southern coast's principal fish breeding ground, and from which Corpus Christi draws its supply.

Those who seek larger game—tarpon, for instance, will find Port Aransas, the "tarpon capital of the world," but a short distance away. Port Aransas is reached via Aransas pass, shore terminus for a combined causeway and ferry leading to the lower coast's finest deep sea fishing grounds.

Bathing in the white-capped surf is also popular with Corpus Christi's visitors. The city's principal swimming place is North beach, located on the east shore of a promontory dividing Nueces and Corpus Christi bays. Here will be found the North Beach Bath house, center of the city's summertime carnival activities.

Singers, Dancers To Perform At Officers' Meet

Pretty June Marie Hughes, red-headed leader of the Goblets, will take a song and dance show to Wichita Falls Monday to perform at the North Texas-Southern Oklahoma Peace Officers convention, and perhaps at Sheppard field.

Miss Hughes and her entertainers will give two performances, one 30 minutes long and another 40 minutes in length, before the officers. They will visit Sheppard field while in Wichita Falls.

The dozen entertainers on the program include Miss Hughes who is a singer and tap dancer, Sally Simmons, Juanita Kirby, Maxine Smart, Geneva Nichols, Lou Wilkins, Klair Baker, comedian; Anna Lois Beasley, Harris Lee Hawkins, Bill Rice, Bill Forman, Johnnie Smith.

The program will be strictly patriotic. Both girls and boys will wear blue jackets, and the girls will wear white skirts and the boys white trousers.

Songs the group will sing include "We're All Americans," "Navy Blues," "Anchors Aweigh," "My Buddy," "Long, Long Trail," "Elmer's Tune," "South American Way," "God Bless America," "The Marines' Hymn," and other songs.

One skill will be based on the popular tune, 1942 Turkey in the Straw, with Klair Baker providing the comedy. Another number will be an Hawaiian war chant, and another will be a rope dance. The performance will be at the Hot hotel.

Mrs. Cal Rose, wife of the sheriff and mother of Miss Hughes will be accompanist.

Part of the show will be practically the same that was staged at the Southern club at the Navy relief dance.

Gray Sheriff President

Departure of the Goblets, Sheriff and Mrs. Rose, and Deputy Sheriff Roy Pearce for the convention, will be at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Sheriff Rose is completing a two-year tenure as president of the association. He previously served as first vice-president. New officers are to be elected at this convention, of the association, which meets twice a year, once in the spring, once in the autumn.

Although the convention proper does not open until tomorrow, there will be a meeting of the executive committee at 3 this afternoon and opening of the registration desk one hour later.

Speakers during the convention will include Mac Q. Williamson of Altus, Okla., attorney general of that state; John E. Osborn, agent in charge, U. S. Secret service, Oklahoma City; Forrest V. Sorrels, supervising agent, U. S. Secret service, Dallas; Manny Hill, state ranger captain, Lubbock; Jim Lane, Wichita Falls, highway patrol captain.

For the first time in the history of the association there will be no pistol match. An emergency defense school on national security will keynote the convention.

SERIAL STORY CARIBBEAN CRISIS

BY EATON K. GOLDTHWAITE

THE STORY—Bill Talcott is about to return to New York after six years on a Dutch West Indian island as branch manager for an American chemical firm, to face charges of shortage in his accounts brought by an auditor. Bill is to return with Halsey, who was to succeed him; MacDowell, a private detective; June Peterson, cousin of Bill's former roommate, and two refugees, Martha Svensson and Prof. Constantine, who have been landed on the island by a villainous smuggler named Jackson. Bill faces the auditor, who accuses him in charge, with accusation that latter's charges are a frame-up, engineered by higher-ups.

BILL MAKES UP HIS MIND

CHAPTER XI

AS abruptly as it had begun the conference was over. Struthers, who seemed to have a little use for food as he had for sleep, departed for the office again taking Halsey with him, and thus Bill Talcott was left alone with MacDowell.

The detective was shaky, off-balance and very near collapse. "You ain't such a bad guy," MacDowell muttered as Bill Talcott directed his arm into a sleeve. "I guess you had to hit me—Say, d'you suppose I could have a drink?"

Talcott nodded, summoned the boy, and when the drink was brought MacDowell was clothed. "You ain't such a bad guy," MacDowell said again. Suddenly he put the glass down and tipped to the window, looked out and all around; tipped back to the door and searched the hall beyond. Apparently satisfied, he returned to the center of the room, inclined his head and in a hoarse whisper said, "Ya know somethin' I don't like that guy Struthers."

Talcott covered his surprise. "No? I thought you fellows were buddies."

"Me, a buddy to him? I'd like to kick him in the pants—MacDowell, get up! Do yer dooty!" Talcott swallowed a smile. "Strange, wasn't it, how he avoided all that trouble at the dock?"

"Yeah. Listen, I been watchin' you, an' the more I watch the more satisfied I am some'n stinks besides the fertilizer around here," MacDowell paused. "Listen, can you keep your mouth shut?"

"I can."

MacDowell bent forward further and in his eagerness his eyes were distended until he stared from their tops; his voice was sunk lower still. "Private or public, I'm still a cop, see? I'm gettin' paid to do a job, and so far as anybody knows I'm gonna do it. But I ain't such a bad guy myself. Maybe I framed a few guys for divorce proceedings, but it was because the guys themselves wanted to get framed, see? I never been a party to framing a guy for the pen, and I'm too old to start now."

Bill Talcott could no longer control his surprise. "Do you mean you have evidence that Struthers is trying to frame me?"

MacDowell moved his hands hastily. "Listen, I didn't say that. I only said I don't like how this thing smells. So I'm gonna help you if you'll keep your mouth shut."

WAS this a trap? MacDowell was in Struthers' employ; he had come to Abas with Struthers and Halsey. He was hand in glove with the auditor, and if a plot was cooking, he would be an ingredient. But Mr. MacDowell had taken a few nasty raps that weren't in the cards. Was this just a new twist to the old confidence game, or was the man fed up and sincere? Talcott eyed him speculatively and decided to gamble.

"All right," Talcott said. "What's your proposition?"

MacDowell inhaled sharply. "This is a Dutch island, ain't it?"

"Yes."

"Okay. What happens if you refuse to be extradited?"

Talcott stared. "You mean—"

"If you don't want to go back to New York with me, I ain't got the power to make you. You can tie this thing up in the courts with a writ of habeas corpus. Legally, they can't touch you until you been extradited, and that sometimes takes a long while. From what you said to Struthers, I figure you want to stick around so's to see he don't put any cinchers on you. That way you could do it. See?"

Talcott searched the other's face in amazement. Here indeed was help from an unexpected quarter. Abas being a Dutch island some 600 air miles distant from the seat of government, he could stand on his rights; could dispatch a letter for legal counsel and wait calmly while lawyers and judges argued the matter. He could remain on the island, a thorn in Struthers' side, watching, tabulating and compiling evidence in his own defense. He could squat on his haunches while the little auditor yapped like a terrier. It would be satisfaction in a large measure for what he had suffered.

That way he would get satisfaction. But would it solve the problem? Revenge was like getting drunk; you hurt somebody else because they had hurt you and all the while the more important things were going on without you. You stood and gazed over your antagonist who, in the last analysis, might be merely an agent sacrificed to prevent you from reaching the end. . . .

THERE was something else; deeper, more psychologically significant. Already, in the eyes of the man, Halsey was boss. The new man had proved himself while Bill Talcott had lost face. How would they interpret his continued inactive presence? What would Sebastian and black Tomas and all the others think of him if he were to remain, vindictive but ineffectual, an impotent vegetable ripening to rotteness in the sun? He could face accusations, could fight words and tricks and legal proceedings, but he could never bear to see the light of respect and affection in the eyes of his men change to darkness, bitter and hard with disappointment.

No, the locus of the thing lay in New York; perhaps in the cloistered offices of Federal Chemical itself. No matter what the manifestations, his task was clear; he must avoid and overcome the lesser obstacles thrust as bait in his path. His object was the end. Slowly he turned. "I appreciate your offer, MacDowell. I fully appreciate what it cost you to make it. The advice you have given me is valuable, but I'm not going to take it."

MacDowell's mouth gaped. "What? You mean you're gonna let them go ahead an' smear you? You gonna take it layin' down?"

"I mean I'm returning to New York with you on the Blue Petrel. A man can't run away from his troubles. My trouble is in New York. Maybe I'm wrong but that's the way I'm built. I've got to face Winters for a showdown."

"But while you're outa here, he can—"

"He may do anything he likes. He has taken a stand. So have I. I much prefer mine."

MacDowell started to sputter something in protest when a new voice from the doorway caused him to whirl about.

June Peterson was there, calmly eyeing them. "A very pretty speech, she sniffed. "How such a virtuous creature as you seem to be can get yourself in so much trouble, I don't understand. So you're going on the Blue Petrel too! My, won't that be a jolly party!"

A slow, angry flush stole through Talcott's cheeks. Someday, he promised himself, this uppity cousin of Lowell Byrd's would find herself across his knee.

Pampans Will Attend Plains FBI Conference

Pampa and Gray county will be represented at the area quarterly conference of peace officers, to be held at 2 p. m. June 16 in Amarillo, by Ray Dudley, Pampa police chief, Cal Rose, Gray county sheriff, and as many men from each of these two departments as can possibly be spared.

The conference is another in a series begun subsequent to the outbreak of the war. In September, 1939, President Roosevelt issued a directive instructing the federal bureau of investigation to act as the coordinating agency against espionage, sabotage and subversive activities and called on all local law enforcement organizations to cooperate.

Invitations to attend the Amarillo conference have been issued to all Panhandle police and sheriffs departments and other officers, according to the announcement made today by A. P. Kitchin, special agent in charge of the Dallas division of the FBI.

Nearly every instance of law violation is known to a responsible citizen who should report the information to authorities. Information that cannot be immediately reported by the citizen to the FBI should by all means be reported to local officers.

It is contemplated that all officers attending the conference in Amarillo will receive details on current espionage activity, with suggestions on combating such activities. The work of saboteurs in defense industries will be discussed, and a new motion picture on war activity shown.

Frank White Will Succeed Captain Smith

Ending two years of service as head of the Salvation Army in Pampa, Captain and Mrs. Thomas Jackson Smith, and daughters, May Edith, 8, and Jacqueline, 5, will leave at noon tomorrow for Paris, where they will make their new home and where Captain Smith will become commanding officer of the Paris corps.

Captain John Polansky, who for the past four years has been in charge of the Paris corps, will be transferred to Dallas 2 post.

Succeeding Captain Smith here will be Captain Frank White, who received his commission in Washington, D. C. in April of this year.

Captain and Mrs. White, accompanied by Captain Herman Lambrecht of Lubbock, who was Salvation Army head here in 1936-1940, will arrive in Pampa Wednesday from Littlefield, temporary post of Captain White.

Remaining in Pampa will be Lieutenant Ruth Linden, who came here three years ago. She will be assistant to Captain Smith.

At Paris, Captain Smith will have increased responsibility due to the larger population, and the influx caused by the huge army camp under construction there. Paris, the capital of Lamar county, had a 1940 population of 18,678, or 5,783 more than Pampa.

"Paris has nearly doubled in population," said Captain Smith Saturday, "and there has been a corresponding increase of the duties of the Salvation Army."

In Army 12 Years

Activities of the Paris corps, which Captain Smith will direct, include the Boys Red Shield club, a social and athletic organization with 300 members, and the Girls Red Shield club, with 70 members, two troops of Boy Scouts, and one troop of Girl Scouts.

Captain Smith has been in the Salvation Army for 12 years, receiving his commission in June, 1930. He came to Pampa in May, 1940 from Longview. He had previously been stationed at Gladewater and was in Amarillo from 1930 to 1933, where he was assistant.

His wife is a native of Texas and was living in Amarillo at the time the couple was married.

All of Captain Smith's work has been under the Texas division of the Southern territory of the army, which has headquarters in Atlanta.

In Pampa, Captain Smith has been a member of the Lions club, was in the cast of the last annual minstrel show of the club, was chairman of the health and welfare committee, was secretary of the Pampa Ministerial alliance, and county juvenile officer.

Captain Smith has led the Army in noteworthy welfare work during his tenure as head of the local corps. Salient in the list of accomplishments is the work done by the Army in connection with the distribution of 62 baskets of food, serving dinners to 32 transients, holding a Christmas tree program and giving away 300 gifts last Christmas.

Young people of the corps won the standard of excellence pennant at a regional meeting, awarded for expert knowledge of the Bible.

These achievements, while significant, are naturally only a few examples of the work done by the local unit, but they do give an insight into the work that goes on day by day throughout the year.

Holds Air License

Unknown to most Pampans and only hesitatingly revealed by the captain yesterday, was the fact that he holds a private flying license, dated June 2, 1941, and has 200 hours of flying to his credit.

"I'll bet I learned to fly, and have flown," the captain said, "cheaper than anyone else. Reason for this is that my first instructor was Jack Curry, a friend whom I saw after five years, in a Dallas drug store. We had gone to school together.

"He had started an airport near Dallas and was teaching flying. He took me up several times and let me handle the controls.

"From that time it was only a matter of time until the captain learned to solo, "the grandest, most free feeling in the world."

Curry, incidentally, was in the Royal Canadian Air force and served in the bomber ferry command. His plane another crashed at the conclusion of a flight to England and Curry was killed, several months ago.

Not long ago, Captain Smith borrowed a plane and flew to Amarillo. Near Kingsmill, on the return flight, his motor conked.

Captain Smith was not the least bit excited. He was cruising at 1,200 feet.

"I just looked around, picked out a field, and came down. It's not hard when you're flying a light plane. Imagine what it would be with one of those heavy ones that land at 90 miles an hour! With a light plane you can float around quite a while and pick your field; it doesn't even hurt to land in the treetops."

On landing the captain found he was out of gas, so he simply walked to the nearest farm telephone, and ordered out a supply.

Texas Family Of 4 Saved In Sinking

NEW ORLEANS, May 23 (AP)—The near miraculous saving of a Texas family of four from aboard a medium-sized American merchant ship sunk in the Gulf of Mexico May 19 with loss of 36 lives, the worst ship disaster yet reported in the gulf, became known here today.

The family was Mr. and Mrs. Ramond S. Downs and their children, Ramond Downs, Jr., and Betty Lucille Downs, 11, of San Antonio, whose courage was praised by the few surviving seamen who helped to unite them after separate rescues.

Carl J. Leclere of Daney, Mo., reported the eleven-year-old girl swimming about as calmly "as you please" after the ship went down. He put a life preserver on her and swam a half mile where he obtained a plank on which he placed the girl.

"The parents and son got clear on a life raft and eventually were united aboard a rescuer's fishing boat.

"Those kids could sure take it," a seaman reported. Not once did they show that they were scared or raise a ruckus of any sort.

The family was en route to San Antonio from a Central American city.
