State Wins Suit To Halt Neches Water Pollution

AUSTIN, May 13 (AP)—By action of the supreme court, the state today won its suit for an injunction restraining oil operators in the Neches river watershed from polluting waters of the stream. The tribunal refused a petition for a writ of error to Goldsmith and Powell and other operators. In effect, leaving standing a Dallas civil appeals court opinion affirming a trial court ruling which granted an injunction against ten defendants. Five, including Goldsmith and Powell, appealed. The suit was filed by Attorney General Mann against 150 defendants on grounds they were owners of oil wells in the watershed and were permitting salt water to flow into the river, destroying fish and vegetation and rendering the water unfit for domestic or agricultural purposes. The Dallas court, finding the stream polluted by chloride, entered a judgment perpetually enjoining each defendant from allowing salt water and other deleterious substances to flow from tanks, pits and other reservoirs into the river or its tributaries. The appeals court listed as controlling questions: Did the state have a right to maintain such a suit? Was there sufficient evidence to sustain findings of the jury? It answered both in the affirmative and, finding injury to state property, ruled that such injury should be prevented by injunction. The opinion pointed out that a large number of oil wells in the huge East Texas field were located in the Neches river watershed.

Members Of Civic Clubs To Attend Grandview Picnic

Ideal weather is in prospect for the trek of Pampa civic club members and many other citizens who annually attend the Grandview school barbecue which precedes the closing of school for the summer months. This year's barbecue and program will be held tomorrow noon and everyone's invited. President Jack Johnson of the Junior chamber of commerce has issued a call for members to meet at the city hall at 11:15 o'clock to make the trip in a body. President Crawford Atkinson has issued a call for 100 per cent attendance of the Lions club because the Grandview affair will take the place of the regular weekly meeting scheduled for tomorrow noon. Lions club members are asked to meet at the city hall at 11 o'clock. Kiwanis club and Rotary club members will also attend the barbecue. It rained for last year's barbecue and as a result attendance was small.

Prof Hurls Cup Of Coffee At Another In Fuss Over FDR

SANTA ROSA, Calif., May 13 (AP)—A professor who broke the solemnity of a faculty luncheon by throwing a cup of coffee at another instructor in an argument over President Roosevelt found himself virtually out of a job today, but ready to go into court to obtain reinstatement. He was Howard T. Wheeler, 47-year-old language professor at Santa Rosa Junior college, whose scuffle with Otto Carl Ross, 33, an engineering instructor, was described last night before the college board of trustees. In an unexpected move, Floyd Bailey, president of the college, recommended that Wheeler be dismissed and Ross be retained, pending further investigation. The trustees then voted not to renew Wheeler's contract. "I'm going to sue, probably for defamation of character, if the board fires me," Wheeler had told newsmen earlier. Wheeler said he threw a cup of coffee at Ross and then came to blows with him last Friday when the engineering professor referred to President Roosevelt as a Communist. Ross denied he had ever called the president a Communist and said he merely was criticizing the administration's farm policy when "the next thing I knew a coffee cup came flying through the air. I managed to duck, sat up and took another bite of my sandwich, and there was Wheeler beating me over the head."

I HEARD . . .

Supt. L. L. Sone wishing he could thank everyone personally who aided in the sugar rationing registration here last week. He said that everyone did a swell job and that he and Jimmie Massa, chairman of the Gray County Rationing board, appreciate the cooperation given them.

By W. F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—A doughboy-minded house held out the prospect of $50 a month minimum pay for soldiers and sailors today but military committee members predicted the pay increase bill would emerge from congress at only $42. Chairman May (D-Ky.) and other influential committeemen indicated they would not force a roll-call vote this afternoon on a proposal adopted tentatively yesterday to increase the pay of low-ranking soldiers and sailors beyond the $42 base already ordered by the senate, but they predicted the extra raise would be knocked out when the bill goes to conference. "It was unfortunate that the amendment was put in the first place," one committee member said privately. "Of course, we'd all like to give our fighting men a lot of money, but there's a limit. This bill already stands to cost in the neighborhood of half a billion dollars annually." The house added the amendment to the service pay adjustment bill on a voice vote at the suggestion of Representative Rankin (D-Miss.), who said it might prevent "a bonus fight" after the war. It would give privates and apprentices $50 a month compared to $30 now paid and $42 approved by the senate, and first class privates and second class seamen $54 compared to $36 now received and $48 voted by the senate. The house made no changes in other base pay or allowance provisions of the bill, which is applicable to the army, the navy, the marine corps, the coast guard, the coast and geodetic survey, the public health service and the nursing service. Base pay increases were provided for men in the lower ranks up to and including second lieutenants and ensigns, with hikes in allowances for rental and subsistence of higher officers.

Ensign Saves Life Of Manuel Quezon

WATERTOWN, N. Y., May 13 (AP)—Ensign George E. Cox saved the lives of Philippine President Manuel Quezon and his family during a torpedo boat trip through the South Sea, the state disclosed today upon his arrival here for a civic dinner in his honor. The 27-year-old hero of torpedo boat attacks on Japanese ships in the Pacific was reluctant to discuss his exploits, brushing them aside as "merely in line of duty." But a Philippine government citation for a distinguished conduct star disclosed that, during the escape of the Quezons from the islands in a PT boat, two torpedoes shook loose in their tubes due to the rough passage. Cox jumped behind the wheel and assisted in the release of the torpedoes, the mechanisms of which had been set into action. This act, the citation reads, "saved the persons on board the motor torpedo boat from death."

Trinity Floods Most Of Liberty County

LIBERTY, May 13 (AP)—The Trinity river, which has flooded two-thirds of Liberty county, was down 2 feet of a foot today from the record 28.9 feet reached yesterday. The former high of 28.1 feet was reached in 1908. Southern Pacific trains crawled over three miles of tracks covered by several inches of water. Highway 90 traffic also continued at a slow speed, conveyed by state highway department cars and trucks. Red Cross relief stations were set up at Liberty, Dayton, Hardin, Roman, and Cleveland. The Red Cross estimated 200 families were homeless in this section.

Draft Boards And Employes To Meet

Legion Auxiliary Makes Arrangements For Poppy Day

New names on America's roll of honored dead give new meaning to the memorial poppy this year. Mrs. Ann Heske, president of the local American Legion auxiliary unit, pointed out as she worked on final arrangements for the distribution of the little red flowers Saturday, May 23.

"Wearing a poppy is the individual way of honoring the men who have sacrificed their lives in the nation's service," said Mrs. Heske. "Ever since the First World War the poppy has been worn in tribute to the men who gave their lives in that conflict. Now new names are being inscribed among America's heroic dead. The poppy is for them, too. It is a symbol of our sorrow and pride. It is a pledge that we will always remember them and serve on in the cause for which they died."

"The poppy springs from the blood and tears that are the price of victory—the price of freedom in this world of conquest and oppression. Again and again Americans have had to pay this price to win and maintain their existence as a free nation. When we wear the poppy this year we will be showing that we are not shrinking from paying the great price once more in order that we may pass on to Americans to come the heritage of a free America.

"As we honor those who give their lives, we should think, too, of those who sacrifice health and strength, and of the families left in need because a father or son has served his country. They are still within the reach of our help. Let us be generous in our contributions for the poppies. Every penny of the money given goes to support the work the American Legion and the auxiliary are doing for the disabled and dependent families of the First World War and of the present conflict."

Final Word On Coughlin

The silencing of Charles E. Coughlin's voice in public affairs, where it has long been on the edge of sedition if not over the edge, now seems complete. The government has done its part with quiet thoroughness, and the troublesome priest's own ecclesiastical superiors have done likewise.

There was never any indication of church support for Father Coughlin's erratic career as a publicist. Apparently his ecclesiastical superiors tolerated his journalistic adventures and offenses, so far as they did so, unwillingly but in a spirit of democratic tolerance of free speech.

"I had a definite and explicit commitment from Father Coughlin on May 1 that, from that date forward, his severance of all connection, whether direct or indirect, with the magazine, would be absolute and complete. My understanding with him is sufficiently broad and firm to exclude effectively the recurrence of any such unpleasant situation."

Mr. Addes Misunderstands

George F. Addes' complaint, that the President's program will not enable labor's pay envelope to catch up with higher living costs, misses the whole point of Mr. Roosevelt's speech on inflationary curbs.

The idea—which millions of workers seem to appreciate better than the United Automobile Workers' secretary-treasurer—is that our national standard of living must come down. Labor, like all consumers, will find less in the stores to buy.

Please Use With Care

Only nine no-longer-so-old men can know whether the Supreme Court's wire-tapping decision was influenced by the war emergency.

Screwloosity

Perhaps it was indirectly to answer rumors that Signor Mussolini's intellect has cracked, that Benito and Adolf got together in Salzburg.

To agree with Hitler is no evidence of sanity. To stick one's hand into the lion's mouth even suggests what might be dubbed screwloosity.

And Ill Duce's legions beat up the Lion of Judah. But no sane dictator would regard that as sound precedent for trying to handle Hitler.

Doctors Flay 'Interference' Of Dean Spies

HOUSTON, May 13 (AP)—A resolution endorsing the faculty of the University of Texas Medical School and condemning the "unwarranted faculty interference of Dean John W. Spies."

"We condemn the situation which has brought about the resignation of an outstanding teacher, scholar and gentleman as Dr. Donald Duncan, for we believe that his loss to our school is irreparable and could have been prevented by the administration."

"We do therefore urge the board of regents to take immediate action to remedy this situation, by requesting the American Medical Association and the Association of American Medical Colleges to supply an administrator for the medical school."

"Whereas the Alumni association of the medical branch is vitally interested in the welfare of its alma mater; and whereas the alumni are cognizant of the recent recommendations of the Association of Medical Colleges that our medical school be placed on probation to its lasting discredit and disgrace; and whereas the situation is intolerable and demands immediate action by responsible authorities, now therefore be it resolved by the Alumni Association of the University of Texas Medical Branch, in its regular annual meeting, that

"I do hereby heartily endorse or dislike it. They help him to make it forceful. They hear what he is writing in his 'riffle' letter designed to hit a definite target. In many cases they help a job seeker to blow his own horn. Good workers are often shy people and underestimate their past experiences. They know a lot about the fine art of a letter of application at the Man Marketing Bureau. Too good a letter is just as bad as too poor a one. The man who presents his case too beatifully may be the sort who reveals in job-hunting but gets quickly bored with the job."

"The German soldier gets his tomatoes, cheese, jam and applesauce in powdered form."

"The first census of the United States, taken in 1790, revealed a population of 4,000,000."

"The German soldier gets his tomatoes, cheese, jam and applesauce in powdered form."

Common Ground

"I speak the past-word principle. I give the sign of democracy. By God! I will seek nothing which cannot have their counterpart on the same terms."

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING, PRIMA CAUSA OF INFLATION

It is plain to all who have given social problems any study that it is impossible to prevent inflation when a people believe in and sanction collective bargaining. Inflation is absolutely necessary, when certain groups of people are permitted to take too large a fraction of the total production. When they are given orders for too large an amount of the total production then there is mighty little left for the rest of the producers.

Then the only thing that can save the rest of the producers is to change the amounts that these units of orders—their money—will get from the common pool of production; that is, we inflate the currency. We raise the money prices of things so that these collectivists cannot get so much for their money. This leaves more for those whom the collectivists would rob.

When we practice collective bargaining we either have to have inflation, that is change what the unit of money will buy, or we have to have the government step in and do the distributing. Of course, this is tyranny of the worst kind.

We started this inflation act when we passed the Clayton Amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust law in 1913 that permitted labor unions to exclude part of the people from having the right to help establish values. From that time on, we have made law after law that made inflation, or complete regimentation, absolutely necessary.

It is too bad that many well meaning people have endorsed collective bargaining without any restrictions as to what the collective bargainists had a right to attempt to bargain for, when these people who endorsed collective bargaining did not really know what they were endorsing.

We are paying a terrific price to learn what rational people, who oppose collective bargaining, could force. It is the destruction of the democratic form of government. It is the antithesis of Christianity.

The columns are open to any defender of collective bargaining who will answer questions to refute the above conclusions.

CONSCRIPTION OF SOLDIERS NO REASON FOR CONSCRIPTING CAPITAL

At first thought, one might think that because soldiers are conscripted by the government, for this reason, the government has a right to conscript private capital.

A true democratic form of government would not conscript the services or capital of any man. It would not do this because true democracy is a government with the consent of all the governed—not a government of force by a bare majority. A true democracy would raise the reward, both materially and spiritually, of soldiers sufficiently to get a supply to protect the country, just as a county or city raises the reward for sheriffs and policemen, so that it is not necessary to conscript in order to get local police service.

But even at that, conscripting capital is quite different from conscripting all men into military service. One includes all people and the other includes only those who have made the sacrifice to accumulate capital.

Many of the soldiers in the service are already contributing in the taxes they pay many times their income as soldiers. So when we conscript the time of the soldier and his earnings too, we are making a discriminatory law against the most efficient. We are, in short, making a government by mediocres, of mediocres, for mediocres rather than a government by all the people, of all the people, for all the people.

So conscripting soldiers, when all people are subject to this conscription, is no excuse for conscripting capital that only affects those who have had the willpower, the ability and the courage, to furnish tools that make defense of a nation possible. If it were not for those who had formerly sacrificed and furnished tools, soldiers would be absolutely helpless and there could be no real defense of the nation.

Behind The News In Washington

WASHINGTON, May 13—This $100 million congressional appropriation to aid small business is only the beginning.

As the Murray bill, it passed the senate 81 to 0, which sounds a little bit like Notre Dame vs. Vassar, and it probably will not be determined, for after all this bill must pass the house and be signed by the president before it is law. It can be assumed that a brand-new organization won't have to be set up. The bill provides for appointment of a special deputy and a five-man board of directors by War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson. Under that, the Contract Distribution Branch of WPB with more than 130 local offices scattered about the country, could be taken over by SWPC—call it "Sweetpeace" if that will help the same stick in your mind—the Small War Plants Corporation, and these local offices would now be authorized to do the job. It wouldn't be necessary for the 45,000 smaller manufacturers to come traipsing into Washington to get their loans. The loans will be brought to the smaller manufacturers, instead.

In effect, SWPC would become a prime contractor. Its first job would be organization of an inventory of all machine capacity. Suppose there were an item wanted like rolling field kitchens. In a given area there might be a stove works, a wagon factory, a pot and pan manufacturer and a sheet metal works. Each of these could make the bits and pieces of a rolling kitchen. But there might be lacking facilities for assembling. SWPC would be authorized to make a loan for erection of a new plant, extension of an old one, purchase of missing links of machinery to establish a pooling operation for doing the job. And it would let the contract to the pool, with sub-contracts to the parts makers.

This is taking care of the "conversion of small business enterprises to war production," which was the purpose of the present bill. Small businesses which can't be converted to war production will have to wait for another bill to relieve their aches and pains.

Of course, a lot of these small manufacturers won't need help. The German soldier gets his tomatoes, cheese, jam and applesauce in powdered form.

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON HOLLYWOOD, May 13—A big wind arose on Paramount's Stage 6 today and blew up the Fredric March-Susan Hayward wedding. It tossed the assembled guests into a state of disarray and confusion. It blasted the groom into the arm.

The sequence will be funny on the screen, but it was even sadder to witness in the filming. Some 60-odd gaily attired people were seated in a large living room which also contained a lot of flowers and an orchestra. Along the camera's path on one side of the room stood a wind machine and a couple of prop men with mixed armloads of bouquets and hats. Also out of camera range, lining a balcony, were 10 property men holding fishing poles with invisible strings attached to hats worn by some of the seated feminine guests. Still another technical aide, a red-faced, grinning fellow in working clothes, was concealed as he lay out on the floor behind the chairs of the camera operators and held a compressed-air hose.

At this point I'll have to go back and explain more. One of March's great-great-grandfathers had been responsible for the burning of a witch and the planting of a oak tree on her grave. Thus conventionally imprisoned, the lady had fretted for a couple of centuries until released by a lucky bolt of lightning. None the less, she was the ancestor of the descendant of her persecutor, and her plan is to break up the wedding and bewitch March into falling in love with her so that she can break his heart into suitably sized pieces. The picture is titled "I Married a Witch," and is adapted from "The Passionate Witch," which mostly was written by the late Thorne Smith.

So at the beginning of this sequence, which Veronica Lake and her perpetually pie-eyed sorcerer-father, Cecil Kellaway, appeared suitably dressed for the wedding. The big doors at the rear of the room swung open, and with them came their principal hurricane. The biggest wind machine on the lot went into action, women began screaming in alarm, and the prop men on the balcony started yanking hats up into the rafters.

Another giant fan joined the wind machine, and the camera moved past the terrified guests. The prop man on the floor got busy with his air nozzle, poking it under the skirts of stampeding women and providing a display of girths, legs and lingerie.

Quite a blow. The end of the room was a shambles of sheet music, hurtling corgies, overturned chairs, cowering musicians and a badly buffeted Fredric March. As he could grab them from a table a prop man on the setlines threw hats, bunches of flowers and an occasional glove and furpiece at the bewildered bridegroom. In his enthusiasm he even started to pick up the table, but just as the director Rene Clair bellowed "Cut!"

Everything had to be cleared up and put back for another take. This one had been fine except that some of the people hadn't got to laughing in time. The picture is titled "I Married a Witch," and is adapted from "The Passionate Witch," which mostly was written by the late Thorne Smith.

People You Know

From Editor Albert Cooper of the Shamrock Texan comes word that Congressman Gene Worley, now a lieutenant-commander in the U. S. Navy, left recently for duty in Pearl Harbor and the southwest Pacific. So it looks as if Gene is going to see active service after all. He said that if he didn't get out of the branch he was in and into one in which he would see combat service.

This column used to devote a lot of space to chronicling the deeds of one Aubrey C. (Foxy) Green, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Green, but since Junior started to A&M he shuns publicity even more than a doctor does, and shortly after he went to A&M he hints at none too subtly, either, that he did not like to see his name in the paper. It seems that when an Aggie rates even the personal column he gets an awful raging from his pals, but this columnist can't refrain from reporting the grandstand what it is, a recent horse show held at A&M and brought back by a Pampan who attended the show. He says that Junior is a real horseman and that he won a lot of honors in the Aggie horse show, and he says that he is now ready, ready for Foxy. (That reminds me of the time when Foxy was 13 and he rode one of those wild horses from Hoover at a Boy Scout pageant. When the cannon firecrackers began going off Foxy's horse took off and made that space in the grandstand what it was meant to be—a race track.) But that just goes to show you what A&M will do for a guy. Junior was one of the boys of his battery selected to continue training for a commissioned officer. He went to school this summer and finish next year. And that's right, too, because what the armed forces need right now are trained men—they have all the men they need, but not enough trained men, and A&M is the best place in the country to train for the army. You know that in World War II as well as World War I A&M has more commissioned officers than West Point? And that most of the officers on Bataan and Corregidor were from A&M? Any boy who is going to be a professional or trade school now should stay in it, even though the temptation to enlist in the navy, air corps, army or Marines is strong to the point of being almost overwhelming. If a boy is really learning to be an officer, or a profession or trade school, because the army and navy would only send him to school again, and their schools are crowded. But if any boy is so dissatisfied that he can't do anything else then he might consider joining the armed forces. I have a letter from a former Pampan who the other day who is now up north going to a technical school and he wanted to know if his friends thought he was a slacker because he hadn't joined up. Nobody is going to think a 19-year-old boy is a slacker if he is going to school and learning a trade or profession. That's exactly what the president wants him to do. You don't become a slacker in this war; the draft board has the say about that. However, while defending and praising the boys who are going to school, one can't repress that great feeling of elation when one thinks of the boys under 21 years old, most of them 17 and 18, who are fighting and winning this war. They're NOT all going, and when they feel that way you have to let them go. They are the heroes and always will be. May their breed never run out.

Norwegians Declare Teachers Tortured

LONDON, May 13 (AP)—The Norwegian government-in-exile charged today that German occupation authorities in Norway had established a concentration camp at Joerstadmoen where 700 school teachers were systematically tortured to "break them physically and spiritually."

In an 8,000-word document, the government reviewed alleged attempts by Maj. Vidkun Quisling, the puppet premier, to Nazify the school system through threats and terror and asserted that 1,300 teachers who refused to join the Nazi teachers organization were in concentration camps.

After 14 days of a terroristic regime, the statement declared, 20 of the 700 teachers collapsed and agreed to withdraw resignations from the teachers' front, but the remainder held out.

Five hundred of the more obstinate teachers were thrown aboard the 38-year-old ship Skjerstad, bound for forced labor in the Arctic, the statement added. It said the teachers were "packed into the hold where they had bare standing room."

The statement said that Quisling had ordered all Norwegian teachers to join the teachers front, whose duty it would be, the Norwegians charged, "to serve as a straight jacket for all those who were unwilling to do their duty to the state and the Norwegian youth."

Insignia You Should Know!

This Is The Insignia of The AIR RAID WARDEN

United States Office of Civilian Defense

The duties of an Air Raid Warden are to know everyone in his sector. Know every house, lamp post, manhole, gas and electric connection in your sector; know what people could do and put them to work doing it, to see that every house is made fire resistant, to see that garden hose, nosel and spray are always handy. The warden should know how to do the various duties including putting out incendiary bombs. He should know where the other services were located, especially to know where, when and how to report a "bomb incident." The Air Raid Warden has all of these things and many more to look after, because he is in complete charge of a sector containing the homes of about 500 people. To them the Air Raid Warden is the embodiment of all Civilian Defense.

Dirigible War On Submarines Planned

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—As Axis submarines stalked their prey within sight of American shores, penetrating even into the St. Lawrence river, the attention of congress was drawn today to the possibility of building huge plane-carrying dirigibles that could seek them out and destroy them far and wide.

A first step toward authorizing the construction of great aerial balloons, as large as or larger than the ill-fated German airship Hindenburg, was taken by the House Naval committee yesterday when it struck a "non-rigid" limitation from a bill providing for 24 more blimps to augment the coastal patrol.

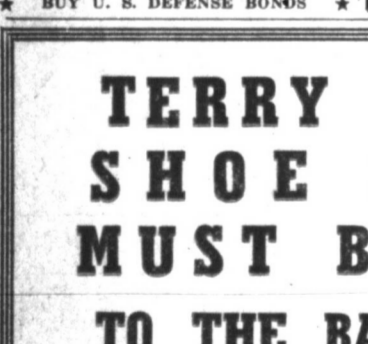

The bill, already passed by the senate, was approved unanimously by the house committee.

Rep. Mass of Minnesota, the committee ranking Republican member, declared the navy's hands should be freed to construct rigid as well as non-rigid type, for patrol work outside the range of a blimp.

Captain Charles E. Rosendahl, in charge of navy blimps, told the committee that the "rigids would fit in to the picture."
