Kissinger To Hold Talks With Thieu

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's top national security adviser Henry Kissinger is winding up a day's meeting with the North Vietnam's negotiator Xuan Thuy in Paris today and will fly from there to Saigon to consult with South Vietnamese President Thieu.

The White House reporting this, said Kissinger was going to South Vietnam on President Nixon's direction for what were termed "regular consultations."

Kissinger went on his 20th trip to Paris for today's talks and no details were given of the peace negotiations.

Kissinger will leave this evening, Paris time, with his entire party and is due to arrive in Saigon late Wednesday evening, Saigon time, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said.

Also in on the consultations with Thieu, Ziegler said, will be U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, Gen. Frederick Weyand, who heads U.S. forces in Vietnam, and also newly named Army Chief of Staff Gen. Creighton Abrams, former commander in Vietnam, who is being sent on a special mission to assess the situation there.

The White House said Kissinger left Washington Monday morning, while President Nixon was substituting for him in an appearance before the National League of Families of Prisoners of War and Missing in Action.

The time of Kissinger's return will be announced when it is known, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said in making the announcement.

Kissinger's last session of talks with the North Vietnamese continued for four days.

In accordance with agreement with the other side, Ziegler said: "I have no other information to provide you at this time." He declined to characterize the status of the talks in any way.

The press secretary said Kissinger could have made his scheduled appearance before the POW families, but when Nixon suggested he substitute, Kissinger left for Paris then.

Legislators Urged To Approve Car Insurance Bill By Midnight

Delay May Cause Another Session

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Preston Smith will call a new special legislative session if the House does not pass a competitive car and home insurance rate bill, Secretary of State Bob Bullock said today.

The current session must end by midnight tonight.

"If they don't get a bill over to the Senate, in my opinion Gov. Smith will call them back. The reason I said that is he told me that 10 minutes ago," said Bullock, a close friend of the governor.

Rep. Don Cavness of Austin planned to seek the two-thirds vote needed for final House action on amended version of the Senate's competitive rate bill. A final vote would send the measure back to the Senate for approval of the sweeping House rewrite of the bill, or for rejection, accompanied by a call for a 10-man conference committee to work out a compromise.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes said he felt the issue was far too complex to be resolved in just a few hours. But he added he would appoint Senate members of a conference committee if that's what Smith wants.

The lawmakers must adjourn by midnight because the Texas Constitution says special sessions may last only 30 days. This one started Sept. 18.

House members advanced the revised competitive rate bill 76-54 Monday night, but they failed by three votes to provide the two-thirds majority needed to take the bill up again for final passage.

Smith has threatened to call another special session if the legislature does not take "clear-cut action"—pass or kill—on competitive rates. He later indicated he might even call a new session if he didn't like a bill that was finally passed.

Smith signed seven bills into law today, but refused to talk to newsmen who wanted to find out whether he still planned to call the legislature back if it did not satisfy him on competitive rates.

"I just don't know. Really, I've got just so much to do," he said brusquely as he pushed through a knot of reporters in his reception room and entered his private office.

Bills signed by the governor include measures setting up a special fund for the governor to use in meeting emergencies caused when state agencies run out of money for certain purposes.

Also signed were bills allowing farm trailers and boat trailers to operate without brakes under limited conditions. Another bill appropriates state funds to finish paying for the May and June party primary elections.

"I am still hopeful that the Legislature will pass a competitive rating bill, which I believe will better serve the needs and interests of the people of Texas than our present system," Smith said in a prepared statement.

The governor called the session mainly to change Texas' system of setting rates for insurance on buildings and autos.

The State Insurance Board now sets rates that must be charged by all companies, although many firms reduce premiums by means of policyholder dividends.

Smith has sought a system of price competition in the belief that the most efficient companies would cut their rates, and other firms would follow such a lead.

The House revised the Senate bill from one in which competition would take place under a ceiling set by the insurance board to a measure allowing almost unrestricted competition. The House measure would require the board, however, to combine the loss experience of all companies into "standard average rates," which consumers could use as guidelines in shopping for insurance.

Texas Oil Allowable Still 100%

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The Texas Railroad Commission agreed today to maintain the statewide oil allowable at 100 per cent for November, the eighth consecutive month for all-out production.

Major oil buyers asked for 3,753,065 barrels of Texas crude oil a day in November, a decrease of 23,538 from the record request this month.

Actual production next month is expected to total just over 3,500,000 barrels a day.

Exceptions in November to the 100 per cent allowable will include the East Texas Field at 86 per cent, Kelly-Snyder at 76, Tom O'Connor at 70 and Big Wells at 80 per cent.

Only one of 15 major purchasers asked for more oil next month than in October, three requested less and 11 sought the same amount in November as this month.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines forecast November demand for Texas crude would be 3,480,000 barrels a day, a decrease of 20,000 from October.

Commission chairman Byron Tunnell said Texas' crude oil stocks as of Oct. 6 total 97.6 million barrels, a decrease of 4.2 million from a year ago.

Tunnell said, however, that the message about the nation's "energy crisis" appears to be getting through to "high-up places in Washington. There are signs that they are even beginning to work on a solution."

Violent Toll In Ireland Stands At 610

BELFAST (AP)—British troops killed four more persons in Northern Ireland Monday as the government went ahead with plans to hold the first elections in five years in the embattled province.

Bloody Protestant riots in the streets of Belfast, apparently spurred by the planned Dec. 6 election, resulted in the "accidental deaths" of a man and a 15-year-old youth, official spokesmen said.

Other troops killed two gunmen at a roadblock near a country village.

The deaths pushed the confirmed toll in more than three years to 610 dead.

Supreme Court Declines To Hear 2 War Cases

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court has refused to hold hearings on two cases related to the war in Southeast Asia, including the question of government control over shipment of newspapers from North Vietnam.

By an 8-1 ruling Monday, the court declined to hear the appeal challenging the constitutionality of government regulations which hold up unsolicited mail until the recipient obtains a government license.

The controls are applied against materials from North Vietnam, North Korea, Cuba and Rhodesia. The case before the court concerned a shipment of copies of "Vietnam Courier," an English-language newspaper published in North Vietnam.

By declining to hear the case, the Supreme Court left standing a ruling by Circuit Court Judge Arlin Adams of Philadelphia that the regulations were "wholly proper" in that their intent was to prevent countries such as North Vietnam from deriving economic benefit from transactions with Americans.

The court also declined to hear an appeal challenging the legality of the Vietnam war because of the way Congress has financed it. Justices William O. Douglas and William J. Brennan dissented in the 7-2 decision.

It was the latest in a series of rulings by the court refusing to consider cases concerning the war.

Two cases relating to the question of state aid for church schools were before the court.

In one, it agreed to rule on the constitutionality of revenue bonds issued by states to help finance church-affiliated colleges. The test case concerns a challenge to the issuance of $3.5 million in revenue bonds to aid a Baptist College in South Carolina.

The court upheld by a 7-2 vote the constitutionality of a publicly financed remedial education program for a Roman Catholic high school in Nebraska. Justice Brennan, in voting with the majority, said the program is completely independent of the Catholic school administration.

Reds Launch New Attacks On S. Viet

SAIGON (AP)—Military spokesmen today reported a new wave of attacks on South Vietnamese villages and said they had been ordered by a new "Resolution X10" from the Communist command.

Sources said the captured resolution orders Communist political cadre to plant the Viet Cong flag in as many villages as possible.

"This is a form of political struggle," said one South Vietnamese officer.

Most of the attacks were in the central highlands.

Two Montagnard villages south of Kontum were apparently overrun before dawn, field reports said. Radio contact was lost with the 150-200 militiamen in the area.

Government reinforcements were trying to reach another village in the highlands that was overrun Monday, but were encountering stiff resistance.

On the northern coast, more than 100 enemy troops invaded a poorly defended refugee camp five miles from Quang Ngai, killed 11 refugees and six militiamen and wounded 32 refugees and eight militiamen.

South Vietnamese regulars came to the aid of the camp and secured it, spokesmen said. The enemy was reported to have withdrawn to the west, having lost nine men.

Major highways leading from Saigon were reported open again, but sections of them were still considered unsafe, and some of the routes were open only to light vehicles.

Small clashes were reported to the north, northwest and southwest of Saigon, ranging from 15 to 35 miles from the city.

Grand Jury Indicts Two

The new grand jury, impaneled for the second three-month term by law, returned two indictments yesterday before adjournment.

Timothy Eugene Russey was indicted for burglary and Jerry Joe Cobb had a bill returned against him for indecent exposure.

The panel will reconvene the first Monday in November.

Severe Weather Blocks Search For Plane Carrying Rep. Boggs

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—Severe weather along Alaska's rugged southern coast threatened to hamper search efforts today for a missing light plane carrying House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs of Louisiana and three other persons, including Alaska's only House member.

A spokesman for the Air Force's rescue coordination center said the forecast for today was for strong wind, heavy overcast and "very marginal flying weather."

Meanwhile, an Air Force HC130 rescue plane searched throughout the night for the missing craft, which failed to show up late Monday on a scheduled 1-2 hour, 560-mile flight to Juneau.

Aboard the twin-engine Cessna 310 were Boggs, 58; Rep. Nick Begich, a 40-year-old Democrat; Begich's administrative assistant, Russell Brown, 37; and the pilot, 38-year-old Don E. Jonz.

Boggs' administrative assistant, Gary Hymel, said in Washington that the last radio contact with the plane came 12 minutes after takeoff Monday, when Jonz filed a flight plan. There was no sign of trouble.

"We assume that the airplane is down," an FAA spokesman said Monday night.

Boggs, who left Washington on Sunday and had been due to return this morning, had gone to Alaska to campaign for Begich, a native of Eveleth, Minn., who is seeking re-election to a second term.

Boggs' wife, Lindy, was the only member of the family at home in Bethesda, Md., Monday night.

As the word spread to Boggs' home state of Louisiana, there was an unmistakable ring of affection for the congressman.

Edward Cocks stood solemnly on the sidewalk outside a New Orleans bar and said that Boggs is "our kind of people."

"It's kind of a Brooklyn area," Cocks said of the surrounding scene. "All kinds of people and Hale Boggs could fit right in with any of them."

At nearby St. Mary's Assumption Roman Catholic Church, the Rev. Reinhard Stump said prayers would be offered at services today.

"And the Sisters in the schools will ask the children to pray. But I guess we have to expect the worst," he added.

Boggs was on the last leg of the lightning-quick fundraising trip for Begich when the plane left Anchorage. It was scheduled to arrive at 5:30 p.m. EDT. A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration said the plane had enough fuel to last until around 8 p.m.

Jonz, president of Pan-Alaskan Airways, a small air taxi service which operates the plane, had charted a course from Anchorage in the south-central section of the state that would have taken the plane across Prince William Sound, then southeastward along the glacier-covered mountainous coastline to Juneau in Alaska's panhandle.

The plane had a search locator beacon, which is designed to activate during a crash.

"So far, we haven't heard a squawk out of it," said William Moore, a spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board in Anchorage.

Maj. Patrick W. Whitaker, the pilot of the Air Force HC130 which flew the search mission throughout the night, said he had "heard nothing" from the missing plane and that visibility in the area "was zero."

Officials said the HC130 is capable of picking up locator beacon signals while flying at high altitudes above bad weather.

The poor weather conditions and fog in the area of Prince William Sound and along the coast threatened to keep Civil Air Patrol planes out of the sky today. They were thrown into the search Monday night but were pulled out due to darkness.

The missing plane would have flown over the Chugach Mountains, which range from 5,000 to 7,000 feet along the coastline.

A spokesman for a firm selling the search locator beacon said the instruments can transmit a radio signal up to 20,000 or 30,000 feet, but would be blocked off by high mountainous terrain.

Temperatures in the area of the search were below freezing.

Boggs, with a 29-year political career behind him, was in Alaska to campaign for Begich.

Boggs began his congressional career in 1941 when at 28 he became the youngest Democrat in the 77th Congress. Two years later he lost a re-election bid and served as an officer in World War II in the Naval Reserve of the U.S. Maritime Service.

He returned to the House in 1946 and steadily moved up the leadership ladder.

Auto Workers Back On Job

Spending Limit And Aid Bill Still Deadlocked In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $250-billion spending limit and a trimmed-down foreign aid bill loomed today as potential snags for legislators anxious to adjourn the 92nd Congress and get home to their re-election campaigns.

Some senators continued to insist that tight curbs be placed on any new power granted to President Nixon to hold down federal spending. They announced they will oppose the compromise worked out by House-Senate conferees near midnight Saturday and expected to pass the House today.

And the Senate chopped $515.4 million off the House's $4-billion spending authority for foreign aid, tossing the measure back for House reconsideration.

But a $6-billion Social Security-Medicare compromise was expected to get through, assuming both the House and Senate can muster quorums.

Campaigning absentees left the Senate short of a quorum Monday—the House took the day off—and the pressure of getting back to neglected campaigns offered Congress' best hope for speeding up settlements of the foreign aid and spending-limit bills.

Pessimists doubted, however, that Congress could adjourn before Wednesday night.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and other senators spoke out Monday against the spending-limit compromise which loosens Senate-passed restraints to give the President more authority over federal program cuts to meet the $250-billion limit.

Nixon requested unfettered authority to choose where cuts should be made.

"We are giving up our constitutional power of taxation and appropriation" with such bestowal of authority, Mansfield said.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said Nixon does not need congressional approval to cut spending. He suggested that the President asked for Congress' okay in order to pose as an economic leader if he got it or the victim of a spendthrift Congress if he didn't.

"The President has set a political trap," Proxmire said. "Either way it goes, he will be the big political winner."

The Senate's $515.4-million foreign aid cut was from an interim continuing resolution to keep the program alive through Feb. 29.

Regular appropriation bills for foreign aid died in a deadlocked House-Senate conference and the resolution, in effect, authorizes continued spending on the assumption Congress will approve regular appropriations next year.

Residents Will Receive Seal Letters

Gray county residents will receive Christmas Seal Campaign letters within the next few days for purposes of financing the association's community health activities here, according to Bill Mackey, county director of the Top O' Texas TV and Respiratory Disease Association.

Stating that a massive tuberculin skin-testing program is slated for Pampa Nov. 6, with testing to be done at Baker School, Pampa Junior High, and the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas, Mackey said the effort is directed toward finding individuals who have been infected with TB germs.

Everyone from age 3 months up is eligible for the Mantoux test without charge.

"We are anxious particularly that middle-aged and senior citizens participate in the program," he said. "The older a person gets, the more susceptible he is to breaking down with TB infection, even though that infection took place 30 or 40 years ago."

Adding that tuberculin testing activities are being done in McLean and Lefors on different dates, he urged Gray County residents to support community health programs in TB, anti-smoking, and respiratory disease research through Christmas Seal contributions.

The panel will reconvene the first Monday in November.

Nixon Aide Denounces Charges By McGovern

By Associated Press
President Nixon's campaign director, Clark MacGregor, has angrily denounced allegations of political espionage against the Nixon camp, while Sen. George McGovern has hurled the charges anew.

MacGregor said: "The mud-slinging, the name-calling, the unsubstantiated charges, the innuendos, the guilt by association, the character assassination, the second-hand hearsay, are all tactics exclusively employed by the McGovernites and their apologists."

McGovern, meanwhile, said Republican spokesmen were trying to excuse political espionage and added: "These ambitious men apparently will stop at nothing to preserve their own power. They would undermine the republic to save their White House parking spaces."

The charges grow out of the June 17 break-in and attempted bugging at the Democratic national headquarters at the Watergate complex in Washington and subsequent allegations by McGovern and others that Nixon campaign supporters engaged in widespread espionage activities against the Democrats.

Most of the statements by both political camps centered on the issue Monday with just three weeks remaining until the Nov. 7 election.

One who didn't mention it was President Nixon, who made a surprise appearance before the National League of Families of Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, which was meeting in Washington.

He told the frequently cheering audience that there will be no settlement of the war that "imposes a Communist government on the people of South Vietnam" and "under no conditions will we abandon our pris-

Anti-Hijack Weapons Developed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eastern Air Lines says it has developed some secret weapons for its flight crews to use against hijackers and has them ready for use when needed.

The airline also is working on baggage tags that will warn of explosives.

The projects were disclosed Monday by Capt. Michael J. Fenello, Eastern's vice president of operational coordination, in a talk before an international air safety seminar of the Flight Safety Foundation.

Fenello said Eastern has installed windows in the doors between the cockpit and passenger area so the pilot can observe anyone trying to gain entry to the flight deck and size up the situation "before he makes a final decision on how to respond to the threat."

He added that the airline has installed a simple air pressure device on rear door stairs of Boeing 727 jets that locks the door in flight, yet permits normal use on the ground.

The man has been involved in a number of incidents involving 14 and 15 year old Pampa youths according to the official report.

Police say he admitted to providing intoxicating beverages to minors on more than one occasion but has repeatedly denied making sexual advances as some of the youths have maintained.

His arrest came after a complaint was filed that he stole into the bedroom of a youth on more than one occasion and engaged in certain sexual practices with him.

Authorities say they will seek an indictment against him.

City Manager To Attend Meet In Amarillo

City Manager Mack Wofford and Milton Saltzman, personnel director, will attend a meeting of the Panhandle City Managers Association Wednesday in Amarillo.

The luncheon meeting is scheduled for 12 noon in the Paradise Too Restaurant, 700 W. 18th.

Jerry S. McGuire, a former Pampa and now city manager of Tulsa, is president of the association.

Man Accused Of Exposure

A 24-year-old Pampa man has been booked into city jail for indecent exposure to minors but a pending formal charge against him could be more serious according to authorities.

Highway Dept. Receives Bids

The Texas Highway Department has received bids on a new highway construction project in Gray and Donley counties. The project is part of the nationwide interstate system. Limits of the project, which is a portion of Interstate 40, is from State Highway 70 near Jericho to 2.0 miles east of Groom.

The project will consist of constructing grading; drainage structures, base, surfacing and three overpass structures. The first overpass is to be constructed at the intersection of Interstate 40 and State Highway 70 near Jericho. The second overpass will be at the point on Interstate 40 where State Highway 70 turns north to Pampa. The third will be constructed over Interstate 40 and the Rock Island Railroad at a county road intersection commonly known as Boydston siding.

Sen. McGovern brings a nine-day 11-state campaign tour to a close today with a rally at Fort Worth, Tex., before returning to Washington. He is scheduled to tape a half-hour speech that will be broadcast on national television Friday night.

McGovern campaign spokesmen revealed that he has received a new influx of donations and his campaign is no longer in serious financial difficulty.

In other developments:

Gus Hall, Communist party candidate for president, asked for "the vote of protest" from Americans, saying both Nixon and McGovern support pro-war policies. Hall spoke in a paid political announcement over the National Broadcasting Co. radio network.

Cooper & Woodruff, Inc., of Amarillo was the low bidder at $5,153,000.

The construction engineering will be handled by the Pampa office of the Texas Highway Department, under the supervision of Mr. T.R. Kelley, supervising resident engineer.

A pre-construction meeting was held at the Texas Highway Department office in Pampa Oct. 16. Various aspects of the project were discussed, and officials of the Texas Highway Department and Cooper & Woodruff, Inc. stated the target date for completion of construction would be October, 1974.

Kelley stated traffic would be routed through the project during the entire construction period. Motorists passing through are requested to exercise extreme caution and to be alert for special detours.

Oil Tool Unit Of Billionaire Will Be Sold

HOUSTON (AP) — A spokesman for billionaire Howard Hughes announced Monday that the oil tool division of the Hughes Tool Co., the foundation of Hughes' vast empire, will be sold in a proposed stock offering of about $140 million.

The Securities and Exchange Commission said Monday that a registration statement covering the proposed issuance of five million shares of common stock has been filed.

The stock would be for a new company, also known as the Hughes Tool Co. in what amounts to a sale of the Hughes Tool name as well as the assets of the oil tool division.

Hughes will have no interest in the new corporation after the proposed offering is made, the spokesman said. Hughes would retain the rest of the Hughes Tool Co. under a different, and yet unspecified name.

The vast Hughes empire had its beginning in the oil well drilling bit, invented by Howard Robard Hughes Sr. in 1909.

Acceptance of the oil well bit came quickly after it had been used by some of the larger drillers and the founder of the company that later became Hughes Tool Co.

The firm originally was Sharp-Hughes Tool Co., but when Walter B. Sharp died, Hughes bought his interest.

When the elder Hughes died in 1924, his son and present sole owner of the company, inherited 75 per cent of the Hughes Tool Co.

The proposal to make a public offering of the Hughes Tool Co. stock marks the first time that any of the Hughes holdings would be in anyone else's hands.

Cotton Prices Drop; USDA Chief Blamed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cotton prices have tumbled by one-third since last spring because of a sharp increase in 1972 production, the largest crop in seven years, and Democrats are saying the Nixon administration is to blame.

But the Agriculture Department, which administers cotton acreage control programs, says the production buildup was long overdue and that the 1972 crop of 13.7 million bales will be an asset in meeting domestic and export commitments.

Jean Westwood, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said last weekend the drop in cotton prices came after Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz incorrectly estimated the United States would need much more cotton for export "when there was no need at all."

Mrs. Westwood said the Democrats would release further details this week in support of the charge that Butz and other USDA officials had urged farmers to grow more cotton than required.

The 1972 crop of 13.7 million bales, estimated as of Oct. 1, would be 31 per cent more than production last year. In recent years, because of poor weather, acreage cutbacks and other factors, cotton output has lagged behind demand.

That has resulted in reduction of carryover or reserve supplies. The carryover on Aug. 1, beginning a new crop year, was 3.3 million bales, the smallest in 20 years.

Voters Express Views On Agnew And Shriver

By Stanley C. Plog, Ph.D.

MRS. GRAHAM PURCELL

Mrs. Purcell To Visit Pampa; Reception Set

The wife of U.S. Congressman Graham Purcell, candidate for re-election in the newly created 13th Congressional District which includes Gray County will be in Pampa at 2:00 Wednesday to present two books to the Lovett Memorial library.

An informal reception will be held for Congressman Purcell's wife, Nancy, at Lovett Memorial Library immediately following the presentation. The public is cordially invited to attend both the book presentation and the reception.

The books, a token of friendship, purchased by Congressman and Mrs. Purcell for the library are "We The People" and "Mount Vernon."

"We The People" traces the history of the nation's historic Capitol on the hill in Washington, D.C. When time allows, Congressman Purcell welcomes the opportunity to take his constituents through the Capitol and acquainting them with history about our great country and its Capitol.

"Mount Vernon" is the story of George and Martha Washington's lovely estate. The Purcell family lives directly behind the historic home of the nation's first President. Mrs. Purcell enjoys taking their constituents through President Washington's lovely home.

Mrs. Purcell, the former Nancy Attebury, is the daughter of Mrs. Arnold Attebury and the late Mr. Attebury of Amarillo, an old pioneer Panhandle family. She attended Amarillo public schools and graduated from West Texas State University. She received her degree in Secondary Education with her teaching field in English.

A dedicated worker in several Parent Teacher Associations, Nancy is also active in the Congressional Wives' Prayer Group, the Texas State Society, and the Congressional Club.

The Purcell children range from ages 23 to 6. Blaine Purcell, the oldest, recently graduated from Texas A&M, his father's alma mater, with a degree in veterinary medicine.

and is currently serving with the Green Berets.

Other family members, Kirk and Jannie are enrolled in college in Virginia; Dave, Kell, and Blake, who spent the summer working in the Panhandle, have recently returned to studies there as Melissa. She along with her sisters May Lynn and Sara have actively campaigned for their father at parades and barbecues throughout the district.

Congressman Purcell serves on the Agriculture Committee and the Postal and Civil Service Committee. He is currently Chairman of the important Livestock and Grain subcommittee.

Active participants in the Congressional Prayer Group in the Congress, the Congressman has served as president of the group for two terms. He has also been the key speaker at a number of Prayer Breakfasts and luncheons throughout the country.

One of the highlights of the Congressman and Mrs. Purcell's year is the Presidential Prayer Breakfast held in February of each year.

The Purcell family is active in their neighborhood church, the Washington Farm Methodist Church in Alexandria, Va.

Mrs. Purcell is being accompanied by Beth Kimbrough Oliver, daughter of Mrs. Frank Kimbrough and the late WTSU athletic director.

Arrangements for the event here were made by Mmes. Harold Miller, Wiley Reynolds, Jim Osborn and Don Cole.

The only Gaelic college in North America is in Canada. Every summer an average of 165 students arrive at the 400-acre campus overlooking St. Ann's Bay on Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, to study the ancient language of the Celts.

Leaving an open package of baking soda in the refrigerator of a recreational vehicle is a good idea as the soda absorbs food smells. When you come back to take your next trip, the musty smell that would normally greet you is absent.

cause of this, he is sometimes described as having the potential to be a great president but a poor candidate.

His strongest backers feel that Agnew's decisiveness could lead Americans out of many of its problems. But they recognize his blunt approach could alienate some voting blocs if he ran for president in 1976 and did not modify some of his positions.

Voters who dislike Agnew are often emotional in expressing their hatred and distrust. They see him as a reactionary and a racist, opposed to everything that America should stand for today. They think that he may not be in control of himself when he makes some of his well-publicized statements, or they believe that often he is a puppet for President Nixon, saying things that the President wants to try out but does not want to say himself.

The Democrats would appear to have a significant advantage in the vice-presidential comparison because Shriver does not evoke strongly negative reactions, even from Republicans. But neither is he praised very strongly.

His supporters talk most of his past accomplishments, as head of the Office of Economic Opportunity and the Peace Corps and he is generally seen as a capable and effective administrator. But more personal descriptions are largely absent. Although Shriver is seen as intelligent, with a considerable amount of personal energy and enthusiasm by those who describe him at all, very few voters feel they know the man well enough to discuss his personality.

Shriver's detractors believe either that he is too liberal or that he is a stand-in for Sen. Edward Kennedy, who, they think, plans to run for president in 1976 and "did not want to get tarnished with the McGovern image. They call Shriver a 'last-minute fill-in' and say he is relatively unimportant in the world of Washington politics. Therefore, what he does and says on the campaign trail is also seen as unimportant."

Spiders are essential to the balance of nature, National Geographic says. Averaging at least 50,000 per acre in green areas, they annually destroy a hundred times their number in insects.

Dr. Plog

The research, which sought to determine how voters view the professional qualities and personality quirks of Shriver and incumbent Vice President Spiro Agnew, determined that each man can expect strong support from party line voters. But it also showed that Agnew continues to be a controversial figure—adored by some and feared by others—while Shriver so far has made little impact.

BASICO conducted its studies in large and small cities throughout the United States with a sample of more than 800 voters who completed questionnaires, participated in probing discussion groups and answered psychological questions. Two of these questions were given in the form of incomplete sentences, which read:

"My feelings about Spiro Agnew are . . ."

"My feelings about Sargent Shriver are . . ."

Each person was asked to complete each sentence with the first thought that came to mind. When the completed sentences are summarized on the basis of whether the comments made are positive, negative or neutral, it can be seen that each man is viewed very favorably by members of his own party.

Agnew Shriver
(Ratings By (Ratings By Republicans) Democrats)

Favorable comments 69% 67%
Neutral comments 19% 31%
Negative comments 12% 2%

More Republicans are critical of Agnew than Democrats are of Shriver; however, more Democrats are undecided or neutral about their vice-presidential candidate than Republicans are about their man.

The other side of the coin is the judgment of each candidate made by voters from the opposite party.

Agnew Shriver
(Ratings By (Ratings By Democrats) Republicans)

Favorable comments 18% 26%
Neutral comments 15% 34%
Negative comments 67% 40%

The results show that Agnew is by far the more controversial of the two vice-presidential candidates. He receives strong support from most Republicans but he evokes great hostility from a majority of the Democrats. While Shriver develops about an equal degree of loyalty from voters in his own party, a majority of Republicans offer either neutral or positive comments about him.

Our analysis fills in the pictures of two entirely different men—at least as perceived by the voters.

Agnew's supporters see him as a strong and courageous individual who speaks out for what is right. He is seen as having qualities of a good president; intelligence, decisiveness, honesty. His most endearing quality to his backers is that "he tells it like it is," without fear of the effect on him personally. Be-

School Children In Red China Learn Early To Combine Work And Study

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Their choice may not be chili suppers or candy sales, but schools in the People's Republic of China are expected to raise part of their own operating money.

Economic difficulties have always prevented China from having a hierarchical education budget, says a U.N. study. As a result, there is considerable local control of schools.

Significant features of the educational system are discussed in the World Survey of Education, published by UNESCO — the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

It covers the school systems of 142 countries and territories, including Taiwan. The 1,400-page book already had gone to press when Peking won a promise from U.N. officials to cease listing Taiwan in statistical publications.

China calls its system of local-national cooperation in education "walking on two legs." At the time Mao Tse-tung proclaimed the Great Leap Forward many nongovernment organizations were encouraged to help build and maintain schools. Local influence remains today.

Factories, mines, communes, civic groups, street committees, the armed forces and private groups were encouraged to provide schools, the survey says, "and to finance them however they could, paying teachers in money or in goods according to circumstances."

"Schools were encouraged to set up firms, factories and other enterprises in an endeavor to sell enough products and services to make themselves at least partially self-supporting."

The survey finds that the trend in the education of China's students is toward compressing the number of years required for a given course of study and toward beginning school at an earlier age.

After the Cultural Revolution of 1966-67, primary education was shortened from six years to four or five and the beginning school age was lowered to 5 1/2 years from 7.

The secondary level, equivalent to American junior-senior high school, was compressed from six years to four. It is followed by two years of vocational training or work in industry, commerce or farming. Higher education, the survey finds, has been reduced from five years to between two and four years.

China teaches its children to combine work with play and study, even at the preschool age. In day-care centers the early work training is in feeding pets and cleaning and caring for furniture and equipment.

By the time Chinese students are in the low teens they are devoting six to eight hours of their 32-hour school week to "productive labor."

The main thing students have to learn during their primary years is some 3,500 characters of the Chinese language. They devote about half their school time to reading and writing the difficult language. Arithmetic, drawing, singing, history, geography and politics fill out the time.

The Chinese language remains a major subject at the secondary level, along with literature, foreign languages, mathematics, the sciences, history, geography, politics and physical education.

BIGGEST BALLET SEASON SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — The New York City Ballet had its biggest audience for a single performance this summer, on July 6, at its summer home in the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

Attendance was ahead of previous years each week and therefore, the company had its biggest Saratoga season ever, with an over-all increase of 19.5 per cent over last year, or approximately 13,000 more people. Total for the season was more than 80,000.

"So much for so little"

Dear Abby

Curious mother, girls should see art museum

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: That letter from the mother of little girls who wanted to bathe her neighbor's little boy [with her little girls "helping"] so they could see what a little boy looked like has been on my mind. Maybe the little boy is just as curious, and should get equal time. Sounds awful to me!

It reminds me that while traveling in Italy many years ago and visiting churches, women with bare arms were not permitted in churches for fear the monks would be "disturbed." Meanwhile, these monks would be seen roaming around the art galleries gazing at the nude paintings!

Perhaps the mother should take her curious daughters to an art museum. There are plenty of nude figures there and no one thinks a thing of it.

NEW YORKER

DEAR NEW YORKER: And if they're ever in Florence [Italy], they shouldn't miss Michelangelo's "David."

DEAR ABBY: Some letters you had in your column from the husbands who were patting themselves on the back because they forgave their wives for having affairs prompts me to write.

About a year ago my wife forgave me for an affair which I knew almost from the start was a mistake. She assured me that all was forgiven. She hasn't mentioned it since, but hardly a day goes by when she hasn't mentioned something she wants me to buy her. She seldom goes anywhere with me, unless it's to see some of her friends. Mine have been crossed off our social list. She hasn't had sex with me for a year. [She says she doesn't "feel" like it.] Do you think she has forgiven me? I am beginning to wish I hadn't crossed the other woman off my list.

TIRED OF IT ALL

DEAR TIRED: She obviously SAID she forgave you. Meanwhile, she's milking your mistake for all it's worth. When you think you've been punished enough, tell her! Unless you want to spend the rest of your life under her unforgiving thumb.

DEAR ABBY: At the beginning of summer I made up a "time schedule" for my children, since I didn't want to go thru another summer seeing them lie around doing nothing all day.

Some children are lucky enough to have summer jobs, or go to summer school, or summer camp, but judging from the favorable comment from neighbors, friends and repairmen who have seen my schedule posted on my kitchen wall, it's a pretty good idea.

I make a "chart" listing chores that must be done daily [Monday thru Saturday—Sunday is a "free" day], and I indicate which child is to do what on each day. It works like a charm, especially when I tell one of them to take out the garbage, and he says, "It's HER turn . . . I did it yesterday." Then trying to be fair, I wrack my brain trying to remember who was right.

I'm sorry I didn't think of sharing this idea with your readers sooner, Abby, but there is always next summer.

LUCILLE H.

DEAR LUCILLE: Thanks for suggesting it now. The summers seem to get closer together each year.

DEAR ABBY: Mighty kind of you to have put in a good word for the much maligned stepmothers of the world with your statement, "Abraham Lincoln was referring to his STEPMOTHER when he said, 'all that I hope to be, I owe to my angel mother.'"

I challenge that. When Lincoln's mother died he was nine years and 235 days old. He knew and loved his mother, Nancy Hanks Lincoln, and I believe he was referring to HER, and not to his stepmother, Sarah Bush Johnston Lincoln. Respectfully,

A STUDENT OF LINCOLN

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 18

Your birthday today: Exploration fills your coming year, includes discovery of inner qualities and fluent channels of expression. By year's end friends will tell you you've changed. Today's natives can exert community leadership when motivated, are not always so successful in amassing wealth.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Passing the buck is seldom the best course, but for the early hours of today it buys you valuable time, saves much trouble.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: If there is a way of mixing things up, your friends will find it. New contacts made later in the day are important for the future.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Wherever there is disagreement, be level-headed and explore the issues in sequence, according to the other fellow's priorities.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Selectivity is the word, as many of those about you care little or nothing for your prosperity or personal goals. Candor helps.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Think twice about what you're getting for your money. Thoughtful listening should show you flaws in most current plans.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]:

Double-check your details and appointments, but do make some definite movement, geographic or symbolic, before the day is out.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Ideas change into material resources with a little effort. An early start is no help as everybody needs to settle down.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: A pause for last minute review of your plans, then a determined, tactful presentation can bring recognition, acceptance.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: You have more chance of using other people's ideas than your own. Experience will tell you what is wrong with both sets of ideas.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Stay with your normal round of routine for near optimum results. Beginnings are the critical stages today. You are too demanding.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Explicit advice is available from proper sources in response to reasonable applications. Don't pass it on as your own or anybody else's ideas.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Short journeys, delayed errands are favored, produce extra results. Distant people offer much stimulus, food for thought.

Quotable Quotes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"My mother made me learn shorthand and typing so I could always earn a living." Dina Merrill, actress and heiress to the Post Toasties fortune.

"I'm just going to take each year as it comes." Shane Gould, 15-year-old holder of five Olympic swimming records.

"We don't want the sort of relationship where we're waving to each other across the ocean." Soprano Carolee Farley, who spent her third wedding anniversary singing in Brussels while her conductor husband, Jose Serebrier, worked in Istanbul.

"I have to work at odd ends of the day because of milking time." Phyllis Turner, a tester for the Dairy Herd Improvement Association.

"It wouldn't be consistent if you say you trust in God at one time and then panic at another." Mrs. Stewart Harverson, on her calmness during a Viet Cong attack on an ophanage at Happy Haven, Vietnam.

"I do not think the essential value of nurturing a family would be questioned today, except in a culture that is in doubt about its own values. In such times, if ever a woman needed to hold her ground as a nurturing, sustaining being, it is now." Eleanor McGovern.

Special for Skin

Dry peeling skin can be painful. A special dry skin cream applied nightly will help prevent this. Try moisturizing your face while in a hot bath so the cream can work in.

To freshen shredded coconut, cover with a little milk and a sprinkling of sugar; soak for a few minutes and drain.

trump. That is, it is sure unless West wins the trick with a singleton jack or king and gives his partner a ruff. This can happen, but it is so unlikely that you don't consider it.

Rubens says to play the low trump and he is eminently correct. This play costs you an overtrick if West holds the singleton king of spades but it saves your contract if East holds the king and jack of spades in addition to the deuce he has already played.

The chance of a singleton king is greater but you are in such a good contract that you want to apply the rubber bridge principle of safety.

Ham Insurance

A large canned ham in the refrigerator is especially valuable company dinner insurance in the summer when parties are often spontaneous and relatives or friends may drop in unexpectedly. A ham can be kept unopened in the refrigerator for several months. What if company doesn't materialize? No problem—that ham will make a fine family meal with leftovers for satisfying salads and hearty sandwiches.

Produce Plus Protein

Now the promises of garden catalogues are coming true, it's time to reap the goodness of fresh vegetables from back yard or grocery and bring more, and more important, salads to the table. To make salads into satisfying meals, add meat. Julienne strips of any one of a variety of ready-to-serve sausages and other cold cuts give substance to a salad. So, too, do strips of leftover roasts.

VFW AUXILIARY
Mrs. Rosalee Smith, Mrs. Pearl Castka and Mrs. Ruth Ing were given the obligation of membership when the Ladies Auxiliary to Veterans of Foreign Wars, Pampa Post 1657 met recently in the VFW Hall.

Mrs. Josephine Blalock, patriotic instructor led the pledge to the flag and gave the chaplain's prayer.

It was voted to send a love gift to the Health and Happiness fund for the children's home in Michigan.

GAMA To Sponsor Refresher Seminar

A general aviation refresher seminar for all Panhandle area pilots will be sponsored by GAMA: Amarillo Flying Service, Flying, Inc., Tradewind Corp., and FAA at 7:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., Oct. 24, 25, and 26 at the Amarillo College Ordway Hall located at 22nd and Washington in Amarillo.

Designed to give local pilots latest information on safe operation of aircraft, seminar topics will include FAA facilities available and how to use them. Movies on instrument flying and equipment, legal aspects, Federal Aviation regulations, survival, and the vertigo chair. The seminar will also provide the opportunity for participants to receive a courtesy standardization flight. An FAA flight instructor or accident prevention counselor will ride with the pilot to counsel him on ways to improve flying.

County School Head To Direct Activities Of '73 Spelling Bee

Mrs. Rena Belle Anderson, Gray County school superintendent, has been named to direct activities of the 1973 Spelling Bee for Gray County.

The 1973 Regional Bee-the Silver Anniversary Bee-co-sponsored by the Amarillo Globe-News and West Texas State University-will climax in Amarillo next April 28, with the naming of the Golden Spread Champion.

More than 11,000 students in the eighth and lower grades are expected to participate and the area includes 46 counties in the Panhandle. There are 26 Texas counties, 10 in Oklahoma, four in New Mexico and three in Kansas.

The 1972 junior division champion was Ronald Palmer, also the son of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer. The deadline for ALL county contests is March 31, 1973. The grand winner will receive an all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. June 4 through 8. In the nation's capital the lucky youngster will compete in the 45th National Spelling Bee along with other boys and girls from all over the United States, as well as Guam and Puerto Rico.

The rules of the National Spelling Bee stipulate that any boy or girl who has not reached his 16th birthday or passed beyond the eighth grade by June 1, 1973, is eligible to enter. Each county director has complete control over the respective county and may conduct the contests as a verbal "battle of the words," or it may be by a written test. However, the regional bee in Amarillo will be conducted verbally.

The study book, compiled by the National Spelling Bee, New York City, contains more than 3,000 words, many of which have been used in the annual

School Finance Focus Of Property Tax Reform

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer

A statewide property tax leads the field of proposals to finance local public schools now that courts in six states have ruled that the present method of using the local property tax is unconstitutional.

But there are four other major reform proposals, including three which maintain a local property tax. And all of them could meet the court requirement that public spending for the education of a school child not depend on the wealth of his neighbors.

Historically have been left to individual communities. Tremendous sums are involved. The total cost of public elementary and secondary education has tripled since 1957-8 to $46.8 billion a year. About 52 per cent of this cost is paid by local government and 80 per cent of all local education revenue, $17.4 billion in 1970, comes from the property tax.

And here-taxpayers have directly expressed their outrage over rising property taxes. Last year about half of all school bond issues were voted down, compared to less than 30 per cent rejected during the 1958-1966 period. And about half the referenda on school tax increases were defeated in 1970.

On Aug. 30, 1971, the California Supreme Court found the current system of financing unconstitutional because "it makes the quality of a child's education a function of the wealth of his parents and neighbors. The court called education "a fundamental interest which cannot be conditioned on wealth."

The court used two districts 25 miles apart in Los Angeles County to illustrate its case. The largely blue collar community of Baldwin Park was able to provide $577 per pupil with its tax rate of $5.48 per $100 assessed valuation. But in wealthy Beverly Hills, $1,238 was raised per pupil from a tax rate of only $2.38.

Worry Clinic

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Harlan expresses our U.S. Navy's stress on versatility in its officers. Note also what Prof. Baird says about the present demand for workers with "Horse Sense" in contrast to the braintruster or bookish graduate. Use the tests below to measure gumption!

CASE V-520: Harlan X., aged 38, was a top navy officer. "Dr. Crane," he inquired, "we'd like permission to use 500 of your newspaper quiz items."

"For we want a practical method of weeding out the theorists among the candidates for officer training in our Navy Air Corps."

"All of these men have a high I.Q."

"But some of them are too 'bookish' and not broadly oriented in practical affairs."

"In your daily 'Test Your Horse Sense' column I have noticed that you cover a very wide range of useful everyday knowledge."

"And you present it in a popular 4-answer format, so we could easily cull out 500 of your test items that would let us then weed out the versatile candidates in contrast to the braintruster variety."

Horse Sense
Harlan is the type of practical educator that I admire, so I was glad to let him use those 500 test items.

And that 4-answer or "multiple choice" format is very popular with students everywhere.

For example, note the variety of fields of human experience indicated by just the 10 items below!

Then imagine how 500 of them would eliminate the academic or bookish Navy Officers.

suggests-BONSTON-PITTS-BURGH-OMAHA-TULSA?

(8) Which cow produces the most milk-HOLSTEIN-JERSEY-HEREFORD-GUERNEY?

(9) Spiro Agnew suggests a-GRIDIRON-DIAMOND-FAIRWAY-TRACK?

(10) Mosquitoes are a chief spreader of-TYPHUS-RABIES-MALARIA-TULAREMIA.

Not only has the U.S. Navy employed 500 of those "Horse Sense" test items but many American industries use them to weed out the impractical applicants from those with versatile human experience.

A number of Dental Surgeons, too, now add this quick "Horse Sense" exam to the battery of employment tests when hiring Dental Assistants.

For the stress today is not on mere academic grades and cultural high-brow Liberal Arts training, but on ability to adapt to changing work conditions.

Recently, C.W. Nickerson said his placement office at Boston had 162 unfilled positions available but nobody to take them!

Despite an unemployment figure of 5 per cent to 7 per cent, many jobs still go begging.

Prof. Hollis Baird, Director of Lincoln College, says the job opportunities are much greater for those with a 2-year Associate Degree, than for the 4-year B.S. graduate or even the Master's (M.S.) degree.

A Phi Beta Kappa whose knowledge is bookish, may thus be surpassed by a 2-year "B" or even "C" student with more versatile practical experience!

If you teen-agers can afford only one year at college, you may get the best chance at good positions by taking the one-year diploma course at any accredited Business School!

Send for my "Vocational Guidance" booklet, enclosing a long, stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, for it also includes a one-hour "Test of Horse Sense."

(Always write to Dr. Crane, Hopkins Bldg., Mellot, Indiana 47558, enclosing a long, stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

The capital of Colorado was named after James W. Denver, territorial governor of Kansas in the mid-1800s.

States could replace the local school property tax with increased state income or sales taxes. But it is uncertain whether this would save money for the individual taxpayer.

POWER EQUALIZING
This is a complex system, but has the advantage of retaining locally set school property tax rates. All communities with the same tax rate would have to spend the same per pupil.

For each tax rate, there would be a fixed amount that could be spent per pupil. The higher the tax rate, the higher the spending that would be allowed. Wealthy communities could generally raise more than the fixed rate and the excess revenue would go to poorer communities.

There are also federal aid plans under consideration. President Nixon is considering a value-added tax, essentially a national sales tax, to provide $13 billion in federal aid to education. The money would go only to states that eliminate state and local school property taxes on residences.

Democratic presidential candidate Sen. George McGovern has proposed that the federal government provide $15 billion in aid to local schools as part of his tax reform program.

There is also the question of equalizing spending between

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, TEXAS—If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss and grow more hair.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

For years "they said it couldn't be done." But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss... but is really growing hair!

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment and see for yourself!

Naturally they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

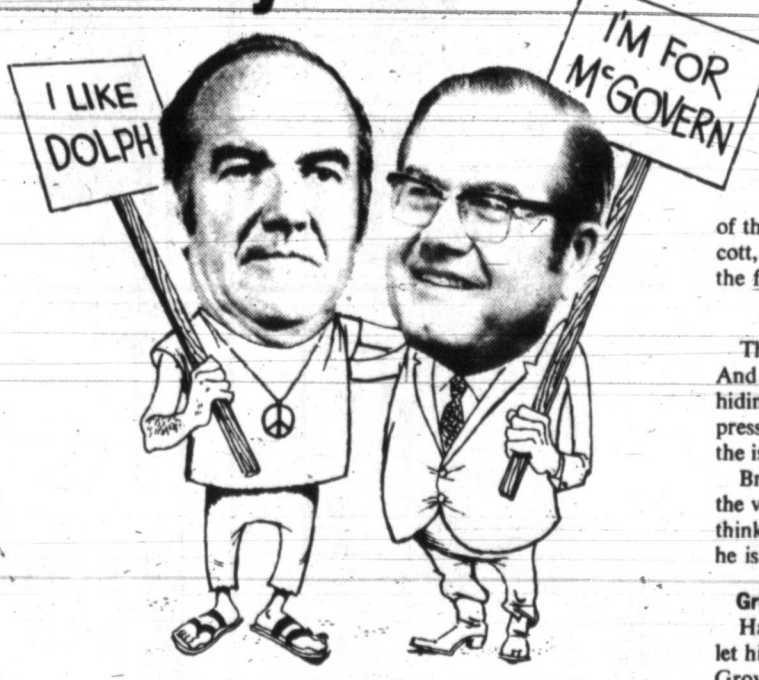

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

Can Dolph Briscoe fool the people of Texas by pretending he's a conservative while he sells out to George McGovern? Hank Grover says NO!

When Dolph Briscoe dropped out of politics 15 years ago he was known as a liberal. Now he wants to be Governor. And now he claims he's a "conservative." But actions speak louder than words. And Briscoe's actions at both the National Convention and the State Convention in Houston prove that his pose as a conservative is as phony as a three dollar bill.

The Miami Double-Cross
In Miami Briscoe first shifted from Humphrey to Jackson. He then visited with Wallace three times and announced he would vote for him. The night before the vote Briscoe assured newsmen he would not vote for McGovern "under any circumstances." Everything was set up for the double-cross.

The rest we remember watching on TV. Briscoe quickly switched from Wallace to McGovern before there was even time to tally the Texas vote.

Harry Castleberry of Lufkin summed up the feelings of the anti-McGovern delegates: "We cannot... feel very kindly to anyone who would even think about supporting McGovern, because McGovern's philosophy is just completely opposite from ours."

Another delegate described the Briscoe flip-flop even more bluntly as "the same old story... do one thing and say another."

Briscoe Goes Back in Hiding
No wonder Dolph Briscoe—who had refused to discuss the issues during the primary—went back into hiding after Miami: The Dallas Morning News reported on August 30th that Briscoe had been refusing to answer or return calls, even from ardent backers, for more than a month. And they quoted a Briscoe source describing him as "simply... tired of politics since the Miami convention." Was he tired? Or was he getting ready for his next moves to sell out the Democratic Party of Texas to the McGovernites?

The Briscoe Sell-out, Phase II
Phase II of the Briscoe sell-out took place in late September at the State Convention of the Democratic Party in Houston. There, under a smokescreen of mealy-mouthed slogans about "party harmony," Briscoe turned over the reins of the party to the McGovern forces.

Briscoe Bending to Labor & Blacks on Bigger Voice
"Briscoe's acquiescence," the story continued, "meant a victory for the George McGovern and radical minority factions... [and]... increased alienation of conservative Texas Democrats."

Briscoe gave two of the three Texas seats on the National Democratic Committee to lead ers of the McGovernite forces. Briscoe also named Calvin Guest, a strong McGovern supporter, State Chairman.

Soft on Busing... Hard on Lettuce
But that wasn't all. To make the sell-out to the McGovernites complete, the convention adopted a weasel-worded plank on forced busing, a plank that called for a "uniform national policy." With their hero, George McGovern, on record as one of the loudest advocates of forced busing we all know what that "uniform policy" on busing would be!

Flip-flop Dolph had knuckled under again and again to the demands of the leftists. But they were still not satisfied. The McGovernites, including long-hairs wearing Briscoe buttons, started hollering. "They massed in front of the podium and made threatening gestures," according to the September 20th Dallas Times Herald. And once again Dolph Briscoe's "Governor's Convention" caved in to their demands. Still another radical plank was written into the platform. This one an endorsement of the California lettuce boycott, another phony "cause" of the far left.

Briscoe's Back in Hiding
The sell-out was complete. And Dolph Briscoe is back in hiding again. He dodges the press. He refuses to comment on the issues. He runs from debate. Briscoe has such contempt for the voters of Texas that he thinks he can win by pretending he is Governor already.

The Ladies Shed Their Pasts

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—If you see Major Hoople around you'd better tell him that his granddaughter is going wild.

That would be Lynn Borden, the lovely blonde daughter of the late Bill Freyre, who drew the cartoon panel, "Our Boarding House," for Newspaper Enterprise Association for many years until he died three years ago.

That was about three years after Hazel died and Hazel was the series Lynn Borden did. She was very proper and prim on it, of course. Then Lynn was divorced — "somewhat traumatic" — and she didn't work for awhile.

Then, after her father died, she got back in the Hollywood swim. But she didn't want to be so terribly proper and prim any more, so she's cut loose.

She's made four movies recently. In "Frogs," she's an unpleasant wife (the one who was turled to death). In "Chorus of Hate" she's a lesbian. In "Walking Tall," she's a tough dame. And in a TV movie she made with Vic Morrow, she's a judo expert.

"It's all part of my campaign to make a new life and a new image for myself," Lynn says.

She even has a nude scene in "Walking Tall," and has a Playboy Magazine layout coming out in the near future. Major Hoople doesn't know about that — and, as a matter of fact, neither does Lynn's mother.

Cutting loose can cost a girl something and it has Lynn. She filmed "Chorus of Hate" in the Philippines — and got typhoid fever. She filmed "Frogs" in darkest Florida and "Walking Tall" in Jackson, Tenn., and learned an eye-opening thing or two.

Texas Scholar Leaves Israel Due To Philosophical Points

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — It was a tough decision to come home from Israel to the good life, leaving idealistic plans behind, but Dr. Martin Yaffe said that as an American Jew, he has something to contribute in the United States.

"My own decision remaining in America was to use its leisure and freedom in order to contribute what I could to the moral discussion," Dr. Yaffe said in an interview after returning from a one-year stay in Israel.

The "moral discussion" to which he refers, Dr. Yaffe explained, is the current American problem of dealing with abundance.

Dr. Yaffe took a leave from teaching in the philosophy department at North Texas State University in May 1971. He and his wife, Connie, and their two-year-old son went to Tel Aviv where the professor taught at Tel Aviv University.

He said his family went to their Jewish homeland with the thought that they might stay permanently.

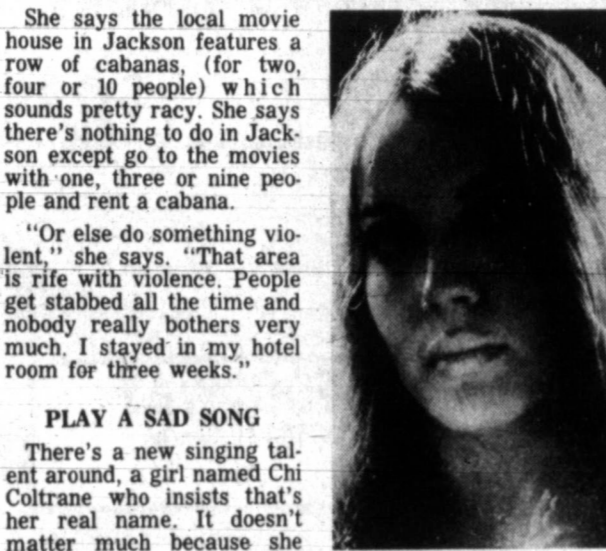

"The serious point about why I returned without wishing to remain in Israel indefinitely is somewhat philosophical as well as personal," Dr. Yaffe said.

"America, by comparison with Israel, is a built-up society with an established way of life.

"To Israel, their national priorities are clear: defense, absorption of immigrants, de-

Lynn Borden
Not so proper and prim any more.

Chi Coltrane
True sadness in her voice.

She says the local movie house in Jackson features a row of cabanas, (for two, four or 10 people) which sounds pretty racy. She says there's nothing to do in Jackson except go to the movies with one, three or nine people and rent a cabana.

"Or else do something violent," she says. "That area is rife with violence. People get stabbed all the time and nobody really bothers very much. I stayed in my hotel room for three weeks."

PLAY A SAD SONG

There's a new singing talent around, a girl named Chi Coltrane who insists that's her real name. It doesn't matter much because she sings pretty and looks prettier. Catch her first album, on Columbia and her semi-hit single, "Thunder and Lightning."

There's a sadness in her voice, and in her eyes, mostly because she hasn't exactly had what you could call a jolly life. Her autobiography could float from the tears of the readers.

She rattles it off matter-of-factly, as though it happened to somebody else. But it happened to her and you can see it in her eyes and hear it in her voice.

Bentsen Cites Postal Reform And Problems

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen said he is amazed by some of the stories of mishandled mail that his office has received since he announced an investigation of mail service in Texas two weeks ago.

"In one case a letter from San Antonio to Hallettsville—some 120 miles away—wound up at a military post 26 miles south of Fairbanks, Alaska," Bentsen said. "It was forwarded to my office in Washington by a serviceman who had heard of my investigation."

In another case Bentsen said a disgruntled postal patron urged that we "not rule out the use of Carrier Pigeons," after experiencing five problems with mail delivery over a 10-day period.

In September, Bentsen asked the General Accounting Office to investigate a deterioration of mail service in Texas. The GAO will send investigators into two of the state's 36 major Postal Service areas.

The inquiry is designed to compare current mail service with that which existed under the old U.S. Post Office Department.

Sen. Bentsen said that a large number of the complaints in his office are from postal employees themselves.

The Senator explained he is considering legislation to amend the Postal Reform Act of 1970 to bring mail service up to par.

Survey Shows People Still Believe Traditional Family Roles Are Best

DES MOINES (AP) — Changing values in society are reflected in the basic unit of American culture — the family — but most people still believe traditional family roles are best.

This attitude is indicated in answers to a survey by Better Homes and Gardens magazine titled "What's Happening to the American Family?"

Forty per cent of respondents to the poll were under 35 years of age, 45 per cent were between 35 and 54 and 15 per cent were 55 or older.

Of 350,000 who participated, 74 per cent feel the traditional roles of wife and mother can be fulfilling. Yet 54 per cent feel the movement for women's rights is a force for the better.

Eight of 10 persons believe a job outside the home is not necessary to give a woman the fulfillment she needs. Working mothers may indeed harm family life, according to 69 per cent of those answering the survey.

Most acknowledge the decline of male dominance and the majority indicate that a new awareness of women's rights has not altered the husband-wife relationship and has not had any specific effect on marriages among people they know.

Respondents split evenly on whether many women are overly concerned with household matters like cleaning and cooking and only a slight majority feel the husband should share those duties. Sixty-four per cent of the men feel they should help around the house.

Nearly two-thirds of the respondents to the 109-question survey believe that premarital sexual intercourse is wrong, even if the parties involved are in love, and nearly one half the respondents think that such a relationship cannot contribute to a happy marriage.

Age is a factor affecting attitudes on this question. Half of those under 35 believe premarital sex is acceptable. As senters drop to 22 per cent of those between 35 and 54 and to only 11 per cent of those over 55. The same difference in age groups arises on the question of whether two people should live together before marriage.

Extramarital sex brings a strong negative response, with 80 per cent believing it does not contribute to a happy marriage. About half feel that, among couples they know, unfaithfulness by either partner would cause a divorce.

Although 82 per cent of respondents say there is too much emphasis on sex in all aspects of society today, most feel that the more relaxed attitude toward sex has fostered freer discussion between husbands and wives.

Ninety one per cent think children should be planned. Over half agree two is the ideal number of children. Six of 10 respondents do not include legal abortion as a favorable method of population control.

Seventy-eight per cent think that birth control methods and information should be available to anyone, including unmarried teen-agers.

Age of respondents is again a factor, with only 14 per cent of those under 35 against this as opposed to 40 per cent of those over 55.

Fully 85 per cent of those taking part in the survey said parents today are too easy with children, and many feel this trend is a threat to American family life. But only one in four was willing to admit that he or she was too permissive with children.

Respect for hard-line discipline methods is high. More than two-thirds of the respondents believe in physical punishment, with the younger favoring it more than the older and men more inclined toward it than women.

Almost half the parents feel their teen-agers don't share personal problems with either parent and 92 per cent say parents never share their own personal problems with teen-agers.

Most feel that parents often put detrimental pressure on young people to join organized activities such as sports and scouting, but nine out of ten feel parents should be involved with their youngsters in such activities. Many insist fathers do not spend enough time with their children.

Pack Beats Detroit, Takes Division Lead

DETROIT (AP)—Those rumors that "The Pack is Back" may not be premature speculation after all.

If the Green Bay Packers aren't back as a contending team in the National Football League then why do they own a 4-1 record to stand atop the National Conference Central Division?

Monday night they had a chance to show their stuff before a national television audience, and they used the opportunity to help crack the pessimistic swamis' crystal balls. Quarterback Scott Hunter fired a 15-yard touchdown strike to rookie wide receiver Leland Glass with just 1:54 left on the clock, and rookie Chester Marcol kicked the extra point, to give the Packers a 24-23 victory.

Green Bay had trailed nearly the entire game before Marcol's closing moments' conversion, and the Lions never recovered from the shock.

"To come from behind in a game like this really raises our confidence," Packer Coach Dan Devine said rather quietly afterwards. "But I'm not saying we didn't have confidence in ourselves before this game. We knew we had a good team and this reinforces that."

The teams entered the game tied for first with 3-1 records, with Minnesota third at 2-3 and Chicago last with a 1-3-1 mark.

"We always thought we could win it," Devine said of the title. "Now we know we can win it."

The Packers trailed 17-7 at halftime. Then Errol Mann of the Lions and Marcol traded field goals of 45 and 34 yards respectively before Packer cornerback Ken Ellis turned the game around by racing 80 yards with a punt return for a touchdown.

"We're in front now and nobody's going to catch us," said Ellis, a third-year man from Southern University, who seemed the happiest person in the winners' dressing room.

"I don't think Green Bay is a better team than us, but they're a sound team," offered Detroit quarterback Greg Landry, who had two passes intercepted by safety Jim Hill. "One point doesn't make them a better team."

Detroit capitalized on two Packer mistakes to score its two first-half touchdowns. Landry ran around right end from two yards out for a first quarter TD and Altie Taylor plunged off right tackle in the second period for the other.

The Landry score came eight plays and 30 yards after cornerback Lem Barney picked off a Hunter pass, breaking the quarterback's string of 80 passes without an interception. The string dated back to last season.

NATIONAL NABOBS

The National Football Conference held a substantial edge over the American Conference in regular season play entering the current season, the NFC having won 50, lost 27 and tied one.

Oklahoma Closing In On Southern California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"In sports the only superstition you have is bad players."

"The first thing all players should do in the morning is look in the mirror..."

"I don't believe in running around the locker room screaming. If we have to do that, let's cancel the game."

So says John McKay, head football coach and athletic director at the University of Southern California, again the No. 1 team in The Associated Press weekly poll.

McKay's Trojans got 28 first-place votes and a total of 948 points, edging second-place Oklahoma, which garnered 20 votes for the No. 1 spot, by 18 points.

Alabama remained No. 3 this week, followed by Ohio State, Nebraska, Michigan, Louisiana State, Notre Dame, Colorado, Tennessee, UCLA, Penn State, Stanford, Texas, Auburn, Air Force, Arkansas, Washington, Arizona State and Iowa State.

This is McKay's 13th season at Southern California.

"It just means I've held the job longer than most guys."

Cole Fraley MVC Player

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—When Cole Fraley threw his first collegiate football pass Saturday and it went for a touchdown it was only frosting on the cake for him.

Fraley, a 6-foot, 200-pound sophomore, had his best week ever and was designated Missouri Valley Conference offensive player of the week.

The running back for West Texas State rushed for 162 yards on 19 carries and scored once on a 42-yard run as the Buffaloes mounted a 63-14 conference triumph over New Mexico State. All those were in addition to the eight-yard touchdown pass he threw.

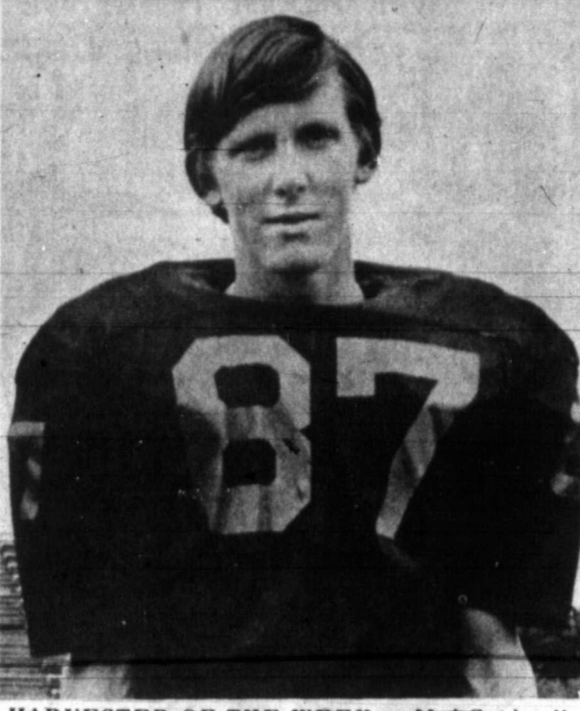

trimmed Illinois 26-7 as freshman Archie Griffin ran for 192 yards and sophomore Harold Henson scored three times. Michigan, No. 5, used Mike Laney's 22-yard field goal in the second period and Gil Chapman's 58-yard dash, with less than nine minutes remaining to beat Michigan State 10-0.

Sophomore Dave Humm passed for three touchdowns and Johnny Rodgers became Nebraska's all-time scoring leader as the sixth-ranked Cornhuskers routed Missouri 62-0 in a game which Coach Bob Devaney said "was really closer than the score indicated."

Notre Dame, rated seventh, used a 56-yard run by freshman Art Best on his first varsity carry and three touchdowns by Andy Huff to beat Pitt 42-16.

Mike Boryla passed for two touchdowns as No. 17 Stanford blanked No. 12 Washington 24-0; Charlie Davis and Steve Haggerty scored twice each and Freddie Lima kicked a Big Eight record 57-yard field goal as No. 13 Colorado beat No. 18 Iowa State 34-22 and No. 14 UCLA mowed down Oregon State 37-7 as defensive tackle Rich Gunther two touchdowns by recovering a fumble and a blocked quick kick.

John Hufnagel led No. 15 Penn State to a 45-0 rout of Army by passing for two first-half touchdowns and setting up a third with a 64-yard dash.

HARVESTER OF THE WEEK — Mel Cockrell, senior end, has been chosen by the Pampa coaching staff as the player who had the best effort in last week's practices. Although he has seen little action in games, "Mel," said coach Buddy Williams, "consistently works hard on our scout team and in all phases of our practices."

Oakland Seeking Third Straight Win

OAKLAND (AP)—The Oakland A's have staggered the Cincinnati Reds with two quick wins and now hope to deliver another solid punch in the third game of the World Series tonight.

"I think we have them on the ropes," said Oakland pitcher Vida Blue. "But you can't count the Reds out yet. You can't let up."

The surprising American League champions were sitting pretty with a 2-0 lead in the 1972 baseball classic as a result of a 3-2 and 2-1 victories in Cincinnati over the weekend.

Added to this margin, the A's also had the theoretical advantage of the home field in the next three games of this best-of-seven showdown for the world's championship.

After playing on Riverfront Stadium's unfamiliar artificial surface, the A's returned home to their field of natural grass at the Oakland Coliseum.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson wasn't too happy about his condition, either—the field was soggy from rain and creaky from use by the Oakland Raiders' football team Sunday.

"I thought (Oakland owner) Charles Finley had more class than this," said Anderson whose team's running game obviously would be hurt by the slow conditions.

In addition, the possibility of stormy weather threatened to further muddle the situation at the Coliseum, where a sell-out crowd of 50,000 will watch the struggle. The National Weather Bureau forecast a 30 per cent chance of showers for the contest, which starts at 8:15 p.m., EDT.

"The situation has got the A's brimful of confidence."

"We're handling the Reds easier than we did the Texas Rangers," said Blue, referring to one of the patsy American League teams.

Oakland Manager Dick Williams was naturally optimistic about finishing off the National League in his cozy Coliseum. He said that when his team first went to Cincinnati for the opener last Saturday, he would have settled for a split of the two games.

"But not after the first game," said Williams. "Then we sure weren't willing to settle for a split."

If the A's have any inhositable thoughts about the visitors, they ought to check Cincinnati's record on the road. The Reds play better away from home, history shows.

"We're a good road club," said Cincinnati left fielder Pete Rose. "We played .700 ball on the road this year."

The Reds also have another thing going for them—confidence. Top to bottom, they're still a swaggering bunch despite the odds against them.

Anderson, who predicted correctly that it would take the Reds five games to win the National League playoffs over the Pittsburgh Pirates, insisted the World Series will go the seven-game limit. Asked why, he said, "because it's going to be tough for us to win it in six."

Joe Morgan, a star in the playoffs who hasn't gotten untrusting yet in the Series, coolly reflected his manager's optimism. "If you think that the A's are going to beat us, you're wrong," said Morgan.

The chances of a team winning a seven-game series after losing the first two aren't very good, though. It's only happened five times since the affair began in 1903.

The Reds will get to see another one of the Oakland Aces tonight—John "Blue Moon" Odom. The right-hander, who notched two victories in the American League playoffs against Detroit last week was 15-6 during the regular season.

Odom is member of an eight-man staff that fashioned a gaudy 2.58 earned run average this season and did even better in the post-season games. Oakland pitchers have allowed only 11 earned runs in the five playoffs and two World Series games.

Jack Billingham, a right-hander who had a 12-12 record and led the Cincinnati staff in strikeouts with 137 this year, has been nominated to pitch for the Reds.

Top-Ranked Teams Remained Unbeaten

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
For the third straight time one of the five top-ranked teams in the Associated Press' schoolboy football poll were defeated last weekend, possibly setting a record for overall staying power.

big win over district rival San Angelo the previous week, while North Mesquite gave up 35 points to Denton, the first time the former had been scored on in six games.

In Class 3A, ninth-ranked Brownwood was the only casualty, while two other teams scored over 70 points. No. 2 Brenham beat Crockett 77-24 and fifth-ranked Mount Pleasant manhandled Jefferson 74-0.

Fifth-ranked Hondo, No. 7 Denver City and 10th-ranked Haskell were the victims of upsets in Class 2A, while third-ranked Refugio was tied by Falgoutas. No. 2 Jacksboro joined Childress in winning easily.

Only one team among the Class A elite was defeated, but in convincing fashion. Mathis, a Class 2A squad, bumped off No. 5 Agua Dulce 54-0. Other Class A headliners—Falls City, Franklin and Rankin—managed 57 or more points in their victories over unranked opponents, however.

Big Sandy and New Waverly, the only other Class B teams besides Rule with first-place support in the voting, rolled to easy triumphs. Big Sandy blanked Union Hill 47-0 and New Waverly stomped Oakwood 57-

Five World Champs Return To Compete

AMARILLO — Five of drag racing's World champions from 1971 will return for repeat shots at their respective titles when the 8th annual NHRA World Finals unfold at Amarillo Dragway this weekend.

Heading the list of defending champions is Texas' own Ken McLellan of Friona who will be bidding for his second straighter Super Stock Eliminator title in the $220,000 classic, driving the same Ford Cobrastang that carried him to victory a year ago.

McLellan will be joined by defending Funny Car champion Phil Castronovo of Utica, N.Y., Competition Eliminator winner Tom Trisch of Rockford, Ill., Modified champion Jim Stephens of Leona Valley, Calif., and last year's Stock Eliminator winner, Dave Boertman of Muskegon, Mich.

Castronovo escaped injury in a spectacular crash during the NHRA Nationals at Indianapolis on Labor Day when the engine of his Dodge Challenger exploded and tore the plastic body off. The machine was almost totally destroyed and Castronovo has come up with a 73 version to race in the World Finals.

Trisch dominated the Competition Eliminator category last year with three national victories in his Chrysler-powered Bantam roadster but has been winless thus far this season. He placed second in divisional point standings to qualify for this year's event at Amarillo.

Stephens also is without a major event victory this year and finished the regular season in third place among the points leaders from his division. He will again drive an immaculate 1929 Ford roadster pickup powered by a 302-cubic inch Ford engine.

Boertman, after winning the Stock Eliminator crown a year ago, switched to the faster Super Stock category for 1972 and will be among the tough contenders McLellan will have to beat if he hopes to repeat as the 1973 champion. Boertman drives a 1972 Dodge.

Missing from this year's field will be defending Top Fuel champion Gerry Glenn of Panorama City, Calif., who did not campaign the World Championship Series this year and thereby did not earn sufficient points to qualify him for entry. Also not among this year's World Finals starters is 1971 Pro Stock champion Mike Foss of Southfield, Mich., who has not entered.

World Finals action is slated to begin at 12 noon Friday with qualifying runs which will also take place on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. setting the seven separate fields for Sunday's finals.

Illegal Fifth-Down Play Gives Miami 24-21 Win

By The Associated Press
Seven of the nation's eight top teams remained unbeaten over the weekend but the big question in the college football world is whether the University of Miami has really won a game.

Well, er, yes...uh, that is, maybe.

And while such powers as Southern California, Oklahoma, Alabama, Ohio State, Michigan, Nebraska, Notre Dame and Louisiana State argue over who's No. 1, the magic number as far as Miami and Tulane are concerned is five—as in fifth down.

The scoreboard at the Orange Bowl read: "Miami 24, Tulane 21" Saturday night after Ed Carney threw a 32-yard touchdown pass to Witt Beckman with 54 seconds left. The only trouble was that it came on an illegal fifth down after a fourth-down pass fell incomplete.

This was the strange sequence of events:
With a first down on Tulane's 18-yard line, Miami's Chuck Foreman gained two yards and Carney threw an incomplete second-down pass. On third down, Carney passed to Foreman for an 11-yard gain but the Hurricanes were penalized five yards for illegal procedure, putting the ball back at the 21.

On the third-down replay, Carney was nailed for an 11-yard loss and on fourth down he threw an incomplete pass. But the officials ruled that Miami still had one more down—in reality, fifth-down-and-24—and this time Carney connected with Beckman.

"At the time the play was run we thought it was illegal," said Tulane Coach Bennie Ellender. "We were holding up five downs with our fingers. All of our offensive players had come off the field."

Miami Coach Fran Curci, whose team had dropped its first three games, said he was "glad we got the extra play" and quarterback Carney added:

"I thought we had used up all our downs so I ran off with the others but somebody told me to go back in. I'm not going to argue with them when they tell me that."

In games involving no more than four downs per series, top-rated Southern Cal trounced California 42-14 as Mike Rae, Sam Cunningham and Charles Young each scored twice; runner-up Oklahoma scored on two big defensive plays—a blocked quick kick by Derland Moore, which Lucious Selmon recovered and a pitchout which Gary Baccus batted into the end zone, where Moore fell on it—to beat 10th-ranked Texas 27-0 and No. 3 Alabama shrugged off a 60-yard touchdown run by Florida's Nat Moore in the first period to beat the Gators 24-7.

Ohio State, ranked fourth,

11—Kansas City-Omaha Kings NBA—Midwest Division

1971-72 finish: W 30, L 52—3rd place

PROSPECTUS: Coach Bob Cousy's nightmare in Cincinnati is a thing of past. Given a new location and immediate season ticket interest, along with some new faces and a change in divisions, the Kings hope to win more. Last year Tom Archibald became a bonafide superstar. Tom Van Arsdale is a perennial All-Star. Johnny Green is a perennial fountain of youth. But Kings can't compete with Milwaukee or Chicago, don't have much at center and have no super rookie. Cousy's patience will be tested again.

FORWARDS: Don Kojis (11.4 with Seattle) may have one good year left. Green, who turns 39 in December, may have three or four more good ones. Neither can go long stretches but will give offense and hustle. Nate Williams, 6-5 hardship case, is a fair shooter (11.9 ppg) but poor rebounder. Elsewhere, there's Fred Taylor (2.6), acquired from Phoenix, and second-year man Gil McGregor (4.1) who'll help some. Ken Durrett would make the Kings a contender if his knee lets him play as he did at LaSalle. Top rookie hopes are Mike Rotiff, 6-8, of Eau Claire, and Sam Sibert, 6-7, of Kentucky State. Rating: B-.

CENTER: Sam Lacey regressed last year, making some mistakes over and over and failing to match his rookie stats in scoring or rebounding. Pete Cross (5.5 with Seattle) hustles and might show Lacey a few things. But not talented enough to play every night. Rating: C.

GUARDS: Archibald, allegedly 6-1 but closer to 5-11, was second only to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar among NBA scorers with 28.2 ppg. He had 12 games over 40 points and finished third behind Jerry West and Lenny Wilkens in assists at 9.2. "Tiny" is a complete player, having eliminated almost all rookie errors. Needs strong defensive guard alongside him to take tall opponents. Tom Van Arsdale is ideal; he'll run through a brick wall for Cousy. Averaged 19.2 ppg. Good rebounder, selfless performer. So is Matty Guokas, whose talent is in passing and thinking. John Mengelt, 6-2, had gummy rookie year, started in spots, good in all phases of shooting but lacks mobility. Rating: B-.

PREDICTION: Kansas City and Omaha fans will see NBA stars, but most of them will be on other team. Third in Midwest.

Colts Can McCafferty

BALTIMORE (AP)—Center Bill Curry sharply criticized today the firing of Don McCafferty, contending the head coach of the Baltimore Colts had been improperly blamed for the team's losing record.

"Mac is a decent man and a talented coach," Curry said, "and the way he has been treated is a real injustice."

Curry also rapped Joe Thomas, Baltimore's new general manager, who fired McCafferty Monday, replaced him with defensive line coach John Sandusky, and said the Colts would "sort of start a new regime with young players."

grid quiz 24

by Dave Nelson, secretary-editor, NCAA Football Rules Committee

The referee declares the ball ready for play on the extra point try during the Delaware-Rutgers game. Delaware had substituted eight players after a touchdown. Before the ball is snapped a Rutgers player jumps offside and contacts a Delaware lineman. Delaware accepts the penalty and sends eight substitutes into the game.

The official should:
1. Penalize Delaware 5 yards for illegal substitutions.

2. Permit play to continue with no penalty.

3. Declare offsetting fouls.

Answer: Number 2. Permit play to continue with no penalty.

Rule (3-5-1) Any number of eligible substitutes for either team may enter the game between periods, after a score or try, when Team B is awarded a first down, when following a kick Team A is awarded a first down, or on a replayed successful or unsuccessful try.

Interpretation: Page 24 (1) On a try down, when unlimited substitutions are permitted, substitutes become players when the ball is snapped.

A Flagrant Abuse

Rep. Sam Steiger of Arizona summed up the case against union compulsion in a speech to Congress a few weeks ago. "It seems to me to be amazing," he said, "that we here in the United States who are so preoccupied and concerned with individual liberty have so long tolerated such a flagrant abuse of individual liberty as compulsory unionism."

support it voluntarily instead of insisting that others support it compulsorily? The usual response you get to a question like that is "free ride." Unionists argue that non-members would get most of the same benefits they get without paying dues. Yet, if those benefits are as measurable as the Unionists claim them to be, why aren't they able to sell non-members on their value?

Sword, Not Plowshare

Peaceful coexistence is the process by which the communists plan to conquer all countries while avoiding the devastation caused by nuclear war. It is not the absence of all war. So-called wars of liberation are an essential part of the process of communization. So is demoralization of non-communist countries by propaganda, infiltration, and subversion.

hand, the aggressive forces of world imperialism and world war are held back; with the other, full support is given to the forces fighting for national independence, and to the peoples moving towards a socialist goal. We doubt that many Americans, even of liberal persuasion, want to see America conquered and placed under the heel of a foreign despot. But there are those who accept the policy labeled "peaceful coexistence" because they believe the policy is correctly identified by the label. They believe the policy means "live and let live," and certainly no rational person would disagree if that is what it did mean.

Psychiatry And Politics

A group of psychiatrists recommends that the President of the U.S. and other "high" government officials undergo annual psychiatric tests. On its face, the suggestion has merit. Nowadays it's quite OK to watch the clock—someone might swipe it.

but you run into trouble on the details. First testing a man after he becomes President is like locking the barn door when the horse already is galloping around the vegetable garden. Furthermore, who will test the psychiatrists? And then politics is so irrational, a man may have to be a little crazy to cope with it.

Some Facts About The Crime Wave

By MARILYN MANION Crime stalks the streets of America, and there is no dearth of explanations for its inexorable continuance. Is poverty the cause? Or lack of meaningful enforcement? Once in a while we get the answer from the horse's mouth. The perpetrator of a bizarre Brooklyn robbery wasn't asked his opinion on the subject, but he gave it obligingly nonetheless. The young man, a homosexual, robbed a bank at gunpoint and then held seven hostages whom he threatened to kill unless his "lover" were released from a hospital. "I'll shoot everyone in the bank," he said. "The Supreme Court will let me get away with this. There's no death penalty. It's ridiculous. I can shoot everyone here, then throw my gun down and walk away and they can't put me in the electric chair."

The pronouncement is sad, but true. The Supreme Court declared in June that the death penalty is unconstitutional, at least in cases where it constitutes "cruel and unusual" punishment. Observers are waiting to see how the Court will rule on challenges to the ruling. In California—where surveys indicate that 66 percent of the public favors capital punishment—the issue of the death penalty will come before voters on November 7.

The death penalty is neither cruel nor unusual when applied to heinous criminals. Who would suggest that the monsters who killed the Israeli athletes at the Olympics deserve anything less? (West Germany has no death penalty.) What of persons who murder in the streets—a commonplace affair in our cities today? It is infinitely more cruel—though not unusual—to leave them not only alive but free on bail or parole so that they may act again.

Capital punishment is, of course, the ultimate deterrent. But even lesser deterrents have vanished from the scene. Liberal sympathy lies with the criminal, not the victim. The courts have coddled the lawbreakers, assigned them their "rights," and then gotten so bogged down that they never get around to actual prosecution. Opines the New York Times: "... the snail's pace of criminal justice has taken much of the risk out of street crime. Long delays between arrest and trial tend to blur the evidence, scatter the witnesses and dilute the factor of human concern. Previous arrest records trail off into a blank, without any indication of judicial disposition..."

Evil men wait for their next victims. The rest of us try to save our skins by staying home behind triple-locked doors. It is cruel and quite unusual. THOUGHTS AND OCCURRENCES

ALONG THE CAMPAIGN TRAIL

A Secret Service man who was assigned to protect Dr. Spock, turned in his resignation instead. A black TV reporter, after a verbal duel with Congressman John Schmitz, American Party presidential candidate, was overheard telling co-workers, "Don't tangle with that cat, he's a tiger..."

What would the American Party do about the Arab-Israeli war? is a favorite question. Answer: The same thing we favor doing about the war in Ireland: stay out of it. A reporter for a left-wing "news" paper asked me if it was really true that I am a member of the John Birch Society. I said "yes," and eulogized the Society as the most effective pro-American, anti-Communist educational organization in the country.

His next question, uttered with deep sarcasm, was: "Mr. Anderson, have you ever belonged to any organization you are ashamed of?" "Yes," I replied, "the Democratic Party." A favorite question asked by reporters has been, "What do you think of Jane Fonda?" I try not to think of Jane Fonda, but when I do, I think she's a traitor. Or is treason obsolete? Should her treasonous behavior in North Vietnam be excused on the basis that she just got up on the wrong side of the kennel that morning?

Is treason obsolete? Is Jane Fonda a traitor? Is Ramsay Clark a traitor? George McGovern? Richard Nixon? Henry Kissinger? What is treason? The dictionary says treason consists of giving aid and comfort to the enemy. Who is the enemy? And what is aid and comfort? Are Russia and Red China the enemies? Is selling (and on credit) wheat, electronic devices, computers, trucks, tires, factories, airplanes to them "helping" the enemy? If it is not, what is? Or is the Constitution of the United States the enemy? Are people and organizations, such as the American Party, who are trying to save and restore the Constitution—are they the traitors? Treason cannot become obsolete. It never has, anywhere, in any time. For either our pro-Americanists are traitors, or the people who are trying to merge with the Communists into a one-world, collectivist society are the traitors. Take your choice. Before you yourself get taken. "Treason doth never prosper."

Info is Offered on Nitroglycerin

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am writing to ask for some clarification about nitroglycerin pills. You said in one of your columns that they are quite all right for the treatment of recurring angina but harmful for persons who had chest pains. What is the difference between angina which my doctor told me I have, and chest pains. How can one tell when he is having an attack of angina without the pain? I was told by my doctor that it would not harm me to take nitroglycerin in anticipation of pain unless I overdo it.

You also said that the reason nitroglycerin didn't harm some people is because they weren't fresh by the time they are taken. How long will they keep and what is the best container to keep them in? I carry mine in a plastic box in my pocket, which I refill from time to time from pills contained in a small glass bottle of 100 pills as they come from the drug store. I have this refilled every three or four months.

Dear Reader — Because the use of nitroglycerin tablets is widespread, it is important that people really understand their use, benefits and dangers. Angina pectoris is the constricting or squeezing discomfort or pain in the chest associated with heart disease. Angina lasts less than 10 minutes. Longer episodes may be a heart attack.

The onset of chest discomfort that resembles angina in a person who hasn't had angina for a month or years, often means a heart attack and the treatment is different. These individuals are well advised not to take anything except under their doctor's recommendation, and he will usually want to see them right away. Nitroglycerin tablets taken at the onset of a heart attack (I'm not talking about angina) can sometimes lower the blood pressure and cause shock, thereby complicating the heart attack and may be very dangerous. You can take nitroglycerin tablets to prevent angina as your doctor has recommended.

Nitroglycerin tablets will not stay fresh unless they are kept in a special container. The small glass bottles with the 100 pills that you get from the drug store is carefully sealed to keep the pills fresh. In this state they will stay fresh for months or years. Once the seal is broken and the tablets are exposed to the air and normal environment, they will gradually deteriorate. The rate of deterioration varies but you should not keep pills longer than six months after the seal on the initial bottle is broken or in a plastic box or other ordinary container. Even this may be stretching it a little for some preparations. Most of them, if kept in their original bottle even though the seal is broken, should be good for a period of three to six months, however.

Here's Why Hanoi Balks at Paris

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A look back to the 1954 Geneva conference on Vietnam helps explain why a Paris settlement is proving so difficult in 1972. Consider these draft notes on 1954 as gathered by a friend now studying that period: France was in Geneva for one purpose: to get out of Indochina with the least possible embarrassment or appearance of capitulation. What it had to offer was removal of the French expeditionary force.

powerful, monolithic and victorious, the government in the South weak, divided and under the discredited and ineffectual Bao Dai. It could only be a matter of time before the South collapsed. But the South proved more durable than anticipated. Gradually the North Vietnamese leaders realized that the passing time was cheating them out of the fruits of victory. On this realization, like a cancer, grew the belief they had been betrayed. The heat of immense moral outrage forged a determined resolve to have what they felt was their rightful heritage.

The Viet Minh were in Geneva to arrange to become the rulers of all Vietnam. What they had to offer was permission for the French to withdraw in peace. The French interest thus was military, the Viet Minh interest political. The Viet Minh strategy was to insist that a political settlement be reached before a military cease-fire. The Soviet and Chinese delegates persuaded the Viet Minh to drop this strategy and discuss a cease-fire and withdrawal of the French before a political settlement was arranged. This was a basic tactical error by the Viet Minh.

It was a sell-out by the Soviet and Chinese, who had been dealing separately and secretly with France in pursuit of their own interests. The effect was to nullify their Vietnamese ally's bargaining position. The cease-fire was arranged and the military issue settled. The moment this was achieved, French purpose had been served. France had what it came to the conference to get—and so grew indifferent to future Vietnam political arrangements.

The Viet Minh no longer had bargaining power. Having granted France what it wanted, a military cease-fire, it had nothing more to offer. Two documents came out of the conference. One, dealing with military affairs, was explicit and detailed on the technicalities of the cease-fire and separation of contending forces. The second document—the Final Declaration of the Geneva Conference on the Problems of Restoring Peace to Indochina—was not a legal paper nor in precise judicial language, hence was unclear and vague in key paragraphs, perhaps deliberately so.

It was not signed by anyone and was denounced, even as it was being issued, by the South Vietnamese government which had refused to attend the conference. Even as the conference ended, influential Communists such as Le Duan were describing the conference as snatching defeat out of the jaws of victory.

But hope that events might turn out favorably for North Vietnam was kept alive for a time by the constantly reiterated Chinese and Russian assessment of the Indochina scene: North Vietnam

H. L. Hunt Writes

"BREZHNEV DOCTRINE"

The "Brezhnev Doctrine," providing for the establishment of the Soviet influence throughout Latin America, is now being implemented. According to columnist Paul Scott, a first step in this plan was the admission of Cuba as a full member of the Moscow-controlled Council for Mutual Economic Assistance (COMECON).

Other members of COMECON are the Soviet Union's Eastern European satellite nations. The organization coordinates trade and economic policies in order to advance the imperialism of world-wide communism. A next step in the "Brezhnev Doctrine" will be the formal admission of Havana into the Warsaw Pact. Rafael Rodriguez, secretary to the Cuba Communist Party Central Committee has indicated that still closer economic ties with Soviet bloc nations are impending. The Marxist government of Chile may soon take similar steps.

Representatives of the Soviet secret police are now in Cuba and Chile to assist these governments in tightening their control over the lives of their citizens. Cuba is already being used as an advance naval and air base by the Soviet military, and communications centers are being developed on the island for overseas units of the Russian military and secret police.

A new international communist commission in Moscow will, according to a Tass report noted by U.S. intelligence, "practically coordinate communist activities on the international plane." This coordination will extend to the Western Hemisphere and assist in the implementation of the "Brezhnev Doctrine."

These ominous actions have received little attention in our press. Yet they represent a serious new threat to the security of our Hemisphere. They also show that "summit conferences" do not slow Soviet imperialistic drives.
