Bonds To Be Awarded In Rubber Drive

Gray county citizens have only one more day to wind up the scrap rubber campaign. Seventy-five dollars worth of defense bonds will be awarded to winners who have collected the most scrap rubber since June 22, midpoint of the campaign.

There is still time for an individual, non-profit group, troop, or organization to dash out and collect up a lot of scrap rubber and get into the contest.

The Monarch Construction company will award a $25 defense bond to the individual bringing in the most scrap rubber.

The Danciger Oil and Refineries, Inc., will award a $25 defense bond to the club, troop, or other non-profit organization group bringing in the most rubber.

The wholesale oil and gas agents will jointly give a $25 defense bond to the service station collecting the most rubber.

The contest was started in the middle of the rubber drive. Rubber collected prior to June 22 will not be counted in the contest so anyone who can do a good job today and tomorrow likely has a good chance to get into running.

Wholesale agents who are buying the rubber turned in to various service stations will check up early July 1 to see how Gray county stacks up at the end of the rubber campaign.

Results will have a definite bearing on gasoline rationing in this section. This means more to this part of the nation than the average community because Pampa is in the heart of the oil producing territory and every citizen of Pampa depends upon the oil industry directly or indirectly.

The county wide rubber salvage committee is headed by Jack Hane, chairman and Sherman Hart, co-ordinator of civilian defense. Crawford Atkinson is chairman of the wholesale and retail gasoline section. The 4-H clubs, boy scouts, girl scouts, farmers, oil companies, and all groups, agencies, and companies have been cooperating to put the campaign over.

"Gray county with over 104 tons of rubber on hand has done an excellent job," Judge Sherman White said today. "With a day and a half to go, let's all get out and make a strong finish."

FBI Arrests Band Of Nazi Spy-Saboteurs

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—Seizure of "several contacts and associates" of the band of eight Nazi spy-saboteurs landed by U-boats on the East coast was announced last night by the FBI, which promised more arrests within a few days.

New developments in the starting case of the eight German agents submarine-borne to Long Island and Florida beaches with explosives intended to wreck vital American industries included the discovery of an additional cache of $20,000, increasing the total of "pay-off money" carried by the saboteurs to $170,000.

Neither the number nor the names of the persons arrested as aides of the invading saboteurs were disclosed by Earl J. Connelley, assistant to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, in announcing the new roundup 24.

Quick senate approval of the legislation, already passed by the house, had been expected.

Rubber Drive Extended 10 Days By FDR

Speaking for Mr. Roosevelt, Presidential Secretary Stephen Early told reporters:

"In the face of the very serious needs for rubber, the total collections as reported today are disappointing. Hence the continuation of the drive."

The total of 219,000 tons was exclusive of rubber turned in since Saturday and also of that in the hands of some 20,000 junk dealers in the country, Early said. It compares with a total of 100,438 tons collected during the first six days of the campaign, which began June 15.

Early told reporters that he thought part of the lack of success of the scrap rubber campaign was due to hoarding, and he said there might even be people in official life who were doing a little hoarding.

Early said he suspected a great deal of rubber could be dug up in public buildings. In his own interior department building, officials of the public buildings administration recently refused to permit floor mats to be turned in for scrap.

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—President Roosevelt extended the rubber drive today for an additional 10 days because collections through Saturday had brought in a disappointing total of 219,000 tons.

Originally scheduled to have ended at midnight tomorrow, the campaign now will continue through July 10.

The continuation was ordered upon the recommendation of Secretary Ickes, in his capacity as petroleum coordinator, and William R. Boyd, See RUBBER DRIVE, Page 3

M'Nary Complains Congress Being 'Pushed Around'

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—Asserting that members of the senate were being "pushed around" by demands for unduly hasty consideration of war measures, Minority Leader McNary (Ore.) objected today to immediate senate action on a $42,820,000,000 army supply bill.

McNary told his colleagues he was informed that the war department had $35,770,000,000 in appropriations at the present time that had not been committed in any way and remarked that no harm could come from permitting senators to read and study the lengthy bill over night.

Senator Thomas (D-Okla.), floor manager for the measure, said McNary was within his rights in demanding additional time, although he urged that the measure be passed before midnight tomorrow, when the fiscal year ends.

McNary said he "was not impressed that all of the money that is voted for the war is properly used and properly expended" and wanted time to look into what he described as a "huge" unprecedented, unexampled expenditure of public funds.

Quick senate approval of the legislation, already passed by the house, had been expected.

Hail Damages Wheat Around Farrington

Hail and rain hit the Farrington community northeast of Pampa late yesterday afternoon causing considerable damage to wheat and overflying a lake which in turn covered U. S. Highway 60. Highway department trucks are being used to haul cars through the water, covering about 200 yards of the highway at a point 12 miles northwest of Pampa.

Although no official check has been made, farmers in the community estimate hail damage to be between 40 and 50 per cent. They place the rainfall at five inches. The heavy rain continued east, hitting the new air base section where no rain fell Saturday night.

Rainfall in Pampa yesterday evening total 38 inch. To date Saturday night was 96 inch. The fall this year a total of 17.64 inches of rain has fallen in the Pampa area, which is nearly an inch more than up to the same time last year.

The heavy rains hit wheat farmers in the area. Cutting was just getting underway Saturday when the first rain fell. Yesterday's rain will delay cutting until the latter part of the week, farmers say.

Some wheat was knocked down by the rain and wind yesterday but most of it will straighten. The rain will cut the test, however.

Reward Offered For Arrest Of Thieves

STRATFORD, June 29 (AP)—Angry stock raisers and citizens have offered $500 reward for arrest of men making up the motorized theft ring that has been operating several weeks in Sherman county.

The latest raid was on the Ellison Brothers ranch, four miles west of Stratford. They used the Ellison loading chute to run seven big steers into a truck.

Truck thieves have also been making heavy raids on hog pens.

Many U. S. Planes Enter Wild Battle

The Axis announced today that its forces in Egypt captured Matruh this morning, thus reducing the first of the defense strongholds on the road to the rich valley of the Nile, the naval base of Alexandria and the Suez canal; and the British did not deny the claim.

But indications were that the Allied forces making up the eighth British army had withdrawn to take another stand in desperate search for positions from which the Axis juggernaut could be halted after its impairment in isolated engagements and reinforcement of the defense.

The tactics seemed to call for avoidance of a full-scale clash with Field Marshal Rommel's columns so long as the defenders stood under the handicap of inferiority in tanks.

On one point of the Axis claims there was official British agreement—that Rommel's forces, successively by-passing Matruh's western and southern defense positions in two days of battle had reached around to the southeastern or Nile valley side of Matruh, prized railhead, 160 miles from Alexandria.

The Alexandria area was raided this morning by Axis planes but they caused little damage and no casualties, according to official Egyptian report.

Berlin and Rome said that at Matruh, Rommel captured more than 6,000 prisoners and that he was continuing the eastward drive.

The 6,000 figure suggested that the bulk of Matruh's defenders had been withdrawn. The Axis claimed a much larger prisoner haul—33,000—at Tobruk, just eight days ago when that last British foothold in Libya was captured.

Today's RAF communique from Cairo contained no hint on the course of the land battle. It reported merely that Axis truck and tank concentrations were attacked throughout Saturday and Sunday nights, with large fires springing up between Matruh and Salum, at the Libyan border, and that during Sunday day fighters reconnoitered the foe and provided cover for the defense forces.

A London military commentator said there was reason to believe that the British had withdrawn from the "Matruh area."

At the same time the long-heralded main offensive of the German armies in Russia was reported under way in the Kursk area, south of Moscow and north of Kharkov, where the enemy appeared to be attempting a wide-swinging move to cut communications between the Russians' central and southern fronts, to prepare the way for a drive into the Caucasus.

The full weight of Germany's all-out assault in Russia was bearing down on the Red armies in both the Kharkov and Kursk areas.

At the Axis pincers on the Middle East, the Suez canal and Alexandria took shape in the coordinated drives in Russia and Egypt, aimed evidently at closing in on the Suez region and Asia Minor from two directions, through the Caucasus northeast of Suez and through Egypt on the west.

On the basis of today's communique from the British, Matruh seemed threatened with isolation by land unless the defenders retained power to cut off that Axis arm or could withdraw from Matruh to a new stand somewhere deeper eastward on the coastal road to the all-important valley of the Nile, less than 200 miles away.

The Cairo communique said that

6,000 Troops Captured, Say Rome, Berlin

Continuous and heavy fighting raged on today in a wild melee of men and machines over an ever-broadening battlefield around and southeast of Matruh, main British bastion 175 miles west of Alexandria.

(Both Berlin and Rome announced the capture of Matruh together with 6,000 British troops and there was little doubt in London that their claims were true.)

Many newly arrived planes, including those of the United States air corps, were thrown into the battle to help stem the Axis tide.

The desert struggle has been in progress without a break since Saturday afternoon, when an Axis armored force, from the west, taking advantage of the glare of the sun in the defenders' eyes, struck at positions southwest of Matruh.

Marshal Rommel loosed the full fury of his forces against the British at 5 p. m. Saturday—his favorite hour for launching attacks to the east.

The battle then developed into fast moving fights between tanks and mobile artillery, the latter being shifted from position to position the better to strike at opposing tanks. Mobile infantry has been used mainly to occupy points after rounding up prisoners.

A full moon permitted the fight to continue through Saturday night and last night with scarcely any waning in intensity. The great Egyptian moon, shining on the glistening sands, makes it bright enough to read a newspaper and produces curious shadow effects which pose problems for gunners and tank crews.

Today's dawn found the battle for Egypt, now in its third day, moving deeper toward the valley of the Nile with one big battle swinging into the desert southeast of Matruh, British headquarters here announced.

British and United States bombers, blasting hard and often at the advancing Axis forces, ranged over the eastward moving Axis columns all weekend, setting afire numerous fuel tanks between Salum, near the Libyan border, and Matruh.

The RAF also bombed moving Axis transport and tanks, and RAF

New Selectee Group To Leave Wednesday

Number of selectees who will leave here Wednesday has not been determined. The group was to have been the largest so far but with passing of the law temporarily deferring married men until the single list has been exhausted has necessitated revising the original list.

Employees at the draft board office were swamped today preparing the new list, which they said would be ready for publication tomorrow.

Eight men left here yesterday for induction at Fort Bliss, El Paso. They were given a send-off by members of the Pampa Rotary club and the Pampa Business and Professional Women's club.

Youths To Register In Gray Courthouse

Uncle Sam tomorrow will register millions of youths of the 18 to 20 year age group. It is estimated that between 400 and 500 Gray county youths will register in the county courtroom here and at McLean and LeFors where registration booths will be set up.

Registration will be between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. Tomorrow's registration will be for youths 18 and 19 years old and for 20 year olds born between December 31, 1921, and June 30, 1922. The 20 year olds are subject to the draft. An amendment to the Selective Service Law would be necessary for the 18 and 19 year olds to be drafted.

An estimated 3,000,000 youths will be registered tomorrow, giving the government a record of about 43,000,000 men—every man in the country between 18 and 65 years of age.

The youngsters registering tomorrow will be given the same set of questions already answered by their elders. They will be asked their name, residence and mailing address, date and place of birth, and their employer's name and address.

There will be no lottery to determine the classification of the new 20 year olds. Local draft boards will simply classify them by the dates of birth. The oldest will be called first.

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—New York state will be asked to buy $171,596,000 of war bonds in July, slightly more than one-sixth of the national quota of $1,000,000,000, Secretary Morgenthau announced today.

The New York goal for the month is more than double the $84,925,000 set for Illinois, which has the second largest quota.

July is the first billion dollar quota month. The war bond sales campaign was put on a quota basis in May, with an initial goal of $600,000,000, which was increased by $200,000,000 in June and by a similar amount for July.

Quota by states include: Arkansas $5,079,000; Louisiana $8,623,000; New Mexico $1,771,000; Oklahoma $8,895,000; Texas $33,677,000.

Plane Flies Hour With Unconscious Pilot At Controls

ANN ARBOR, Mich., June 29 (AP)—An airplane with an unconscious pilot inside circled the Ann Arbor city airport crazily for an hour last night while spectators below watched in frozen fright.

Miss Joan Tesh, 19, of Ann Arbor, an employe of the Willow Run bomber plant, took the ship aloft in the early evening and fainted while still in the air.

With the rudder and elevator fixed so it would go in approximately level circles, the plane continued to fly. Robert Young, an airport instructor, took another ship up and saw that Miss Tesh was unconscious at the controls.

For almost 60 minutes, the plane continued its wild perambulations. Then the girl revived.

Two efforts at landing were unsuccessful, and as she was about to try a third her gasoline supply ran out. She glided the plane to a stop in a field at Ellsworth road and state, striking a fence in the effort.

Miss Tesh stepped out of the cabin, uninjured, and fainted again. She was treated for shock in St. Joseph's mercy hospital today.

The plane was injured only slightly. The girl had four hours of solo flying time before last night.

Axis Atrocities

Rightly, we think, Americans tend to be suspicious of atrocity stories in wartime. During World War I this country was deluged with such tales, many of them sponsored by official Allied propaganda speakers and writers. Afterward, we became convinced that most of them were false.

Some, apparently, had no foundation at all. Others were exaggerations. The vast majority of verified incidents turned out to be individual acts of excitement, sadism or lust.

At best, war is brutal. It brings out the worst in the individual. Pillage, rape, torture, murder always have been among the deplorable accompaniments of war. Some soldiers yield to their basest passions, and some officers condone or even encourage and participate.

Having these things in mind, nevertheless the record makes it clear that in World War II the two principal Axis powers are deliberately, officially instigating and enforcing a campaign of savagery that must make the inquisitors of old Spain twist enviously in their sepulchers.

These are not exaggerated rumors. They are eyewitness stories told by competent and credible observers, some of whom have been victims and lived to escape.

Some of the worst, indeed, like the martyrdom of Lidice, reach us out of the mouths of official Nazi spokesmen, and in too many instances have proven to be understatement of what was done under specific instructions from Berlin.

Given a choice, probably most of us would prefer falling into German hands rather than Japanese. That is because we might hope to find individual Germans possessed of normal human decency, whereas the Japanese as a race appear to glory in bestiality and to get a sensual pleasure out of human suffering.

But for mass brutality, organized sadism, deliberate and considered inhumanity conceived and ordered and executed as a national policy, approved by the highest governmental agencies, the barbarous Japanese have not even attempted to emulate the Nazis.

Nor can the German people escape by placing responsibility upon Hitler and Himmler. There are too many evidences that, as a people, they have shown no compunction about carrying out terrorist orgies which no civilized people could have stomached.

Because of what they have done and are doing, we have a right to hate the Nazis—not as our adversaries in a clash of national ambitions, or even as our deadly enemies in a warfare of ideologies, but as brutal beasts who cannot be permitted to mingle among normal human beings.

The same can be said of the Japs, but of them it is universally conceded. Of the Germans, let us not forget.

Today's War Analysis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE, Wide World War Analyst

Things apparently weren't going well for the British in the battle for Egypt as this great engagement, upon which so much of Allied hope depends, moved into its third day of fierce fighting.

Both Berlin and Rome claimed that Axis forces had occupied Matruh, the coastal stronghold to which the British right wing was anchored. Simultaneously a London commentator said there was some reason for thinking that the British had withdrawn all troops from the Matruh area.

There was no official confirmation of the Matruh claim, but should it prove to be true it would mean that the British situation had become exceedingly grave.

It would make most precarious the position of the great naval, air and military base of Alexandria, 160 miles away. And should Alexandria succumb it would be a catastrophe.

British headquarters in Cairo did announce that the conflict had penetrated deeper into this strategic zone—meaning, of course, that Nazi Field Marshal Rommel had fought his way farther forward. Word that the battle had spread to the southwest of Matruh made it clear that he was trying to turn the British southern flank and that he might be making progress. The British line stretched from Matruh a bit southwestward for some 20 miles across the desert, and the commander of Matruh made it clear that he was trying to turn the British southern flank and that he might be making progress.

NOT SUBSIDY TO OFFSET PRICE CEILING Leon Henderson is reported to have said that he will resign if the government does not pass an appropriation to be used to help keep businesses from going broke and who cannot sell under the price ceiling and still stay solvent.

Of course, many businesses will go broke. The bureaucrats and heads of the government have every private business at their mercy.

But we should not, even at that, pass any appropriation to keep private businesses from going broke because of price ceilings. To do so is just another step giving the bureaucrats more tyrannical control, more chance for favoritism, more chance to use bribes to keep themselves permanently in office.

What we want to do is to repeal the price controls and let all the people, instead of the bureaucrats and representatives of the bribed bare majority, establish the different values of things and services.

If we do this and put enough tax on consumers to pay our bills as we go, then we would not need price ceilings.

But the administration refuses to put a tax in proportion to consumption. They refuse to do this because they are not then in a position to bribe the voters by permitting millions of voters to be relieved of paying the government what they owe the government for the service the government renders to them. This is simply bribery.

But in the long run, those temporarily relieved will pay even more taxes. This will be paid by having lower wages and higher costs and/or not being able to buy things at all.

But this is what too many voters, who have not made a study of who pays taxes, cannot see. Every student of free enterprise knew that price ceilings would break untold numbers of business men. But the New Dealers and the theorists and dreamers could not see it. Or if they did, they did not care so long as they have better jobs than they ever had before.

TWO KINDS OF FORCE—ONE GOOD, ONE BAD As government is, nothing but force and as our government is becoming larger and larger and, thus, using more and more force, the question arises as to what kind of force is right and what kind is wrong; that is, what kind of force is beneficial to mankind and what kind of force is harmful to mankind.

Certainly the only kind of force, that is beneficial to mankind is force used to make people comply with some universal, eternal principle. This kind of force, when wisely used, is beneficial to mankind.

But force, simply to put in control the changeable will of some men, or group of men, who recognize no universal, immutable rules, is force that is harmful to mankind. Force used to attempt to make people live by some universal rule, is the kind of force used by a true democracy; a government with the consent of all the governed.

But the pity is that our government is using force not to make people comply with some eternal, immutable, impersonal principle, but they are using force to make people live to comply with the changeable personal will of those in control of our government.

We are using more and more force that, instead of being beneficial to us, will help destroy our moral and material wellbeing.

OUR BIG WASTE Never has there been a time in American history where there has been so much waste. All this money waste, of course, is in reality, simply a waste of human energy. We do not waste money. Money is only a measure of the waste of human energy.

One of the tests of civilization is that people learn to live together on some universal rule or principle that reduces to the minimum human waste.

STARTING OUT ON THE NEW JOB

Round Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON

HOLLYWOOD, June 29—Two French refugees are working on the set of Warners' "Casablanca," and each has an interesting story of escaping to America.

Madeleine Le Beau is a shapely 19-year-old with large liquid, brown eyes, an appealing manner, a charming accent, and a studio contract. For her screen test she stood before the camera and told of her journey from Paris to Portugal, the weeks of waiting, and the nightmare voyage on an insufferably crowded little ship, and the discovery that her Chilean visa was fraudulent so that she faced a return to Lisbon. But when the ship was about to depart, she was rescued by an American movie man who whisked her into Canada on a special permit.

It was quite an experience, although I must admit that the lovely Miss Le Beau would have attracted masculine audiences on the set if she merely recited passages from the World Almanac. Evenings, the actress has been telling her story to an assortment of men-about-town such as Errol Flynn, Raymond Hains, Clifford Odets, and Eddie Judo.

REAL LIFE THRILLER The other refugee is a blond, mild-looking man who was a movie producer in France and is serving as technical director on the picture being made here.

Ten months of that was all he could endure. Aisner had been meditating on the similarity of his French uniform to that of the German labor corps, and was lucky enough to be able to steal a German cap and armband. Next day he slipped away from a work detail outside the camp, put on the stolen articles, and began three weeks of starved wandering to cross a border.

PRISONER HELPS HIM He was hiding in a freight car in the Munich yards when they were bombed by the British. At the Rhine border, at Kehl, he was arrested and held 10 days in a military prison. A fellow prisoner coached him in the details of an elaborate fiction: He was an Alsatian whose father had served and died in the German army. He had grown up in France, had been interned there because of his father's name, but had been arrested because he spoke little German, but had been released after investigation and was going back to occupied France.

The story won his release. From Strasbourg, Aisner was aided and sheltered by the marvellously efficient and daring underground organization of the French. He reached Paris with false papers, and crossed into Vichy France by a daring arrangement which had best not be explained.

People You Know

By Archer Fullington

This columnist has put his foot into it again. This time, it's the landlords who are raising Cain.

And so let it be said that their side will be given, but let it also be emphasized that nobody but the government fixed the March 1 rent as the ceiling price for Pampa. Remember, the OPA, not us, made the rules. . . . Well, a number of landlords called up to here. They say it's not fair to fix March 1 rentals as the ceiling price. . . . One landlady said she had been renting her house for $25, dropped it to $18 at that time; another said that she had been getting only $15 and that she was going to raise the rent.

Most of the owners who called up cursed the tenants; they said you would be surprised to know how slow people were in paying rent and how they would impose on you. Another landlord said that many people in Pampa were getting rent on the cuff, with a promise to pay when they got their money.

Another landlord said that there is lots of rent owed today in Pampa; several women said that they raised the rent to get rid of tenants, or because they were getting the rent on the paper or the floor, didn't cut the grass or burned the lights too much. . . . Here's a suggestion to the tenants: If we are going to keep down the rentals, the biggest gripe the landlords have now is that they are beat out of a lot of rent, or that tenants don't treat them right. . . . One landlord suggested that a Rent Board be formed in Pampa, like the one they have over Amarillo where the date for expiration of the 60-day voluntary rent-control period ended last night. A federal rent-control administrator may be appointed by the OPA there by Aug. 1. The same procedure is expected to be followed later on in Pampa. . . . Violators of the order for maintaining rent as of the March 1 level will be liable to civil and criminal proceedings. Under criminal laws, rent violators are liable to a maximum fine of $5,000 and a year prison term, and not only that but the OPA may sue the landlord for $50 or triple the amount by which the rent exceeded the maximum rent, whichever is the greater, plus attorney's fees and costs as determined by the courts. The tenants can also sue the landlords in federal court or in district court. . . . The OPA recently stated that evictions were under strict control in federal rent-control areas and that it shall be unlawful for a person to "remove or attempt to remove from any defense area house accommodations the tenant or occupant thereof." All services provided by the landlord are controlled by Federal Rent Regulations. Reductions in services call for a comparable reduction in rent. Federal officials from the Dallas office are expected to make a survey of the Pampa area in the immediate future.

HIGH LIFE And low life in The BIG City

By Stella Hault

If the war teaches us anything it is to mind our own business. Mind your own business requires great concentration. Judging the neighbor's war effort is a useless occupation for who can judge his neighbor? On the surface all seems quiet, even untroubled. Then suddenly your neighbor does something bigger than you ever thought of.

Take George, high school boy, 18, who has no cares in the world. Said he never read the papers, couldn't do anything about conditions, didn't want to bother his head. That's the way he talked. Yesterday he joined the marines. And he's never been away from home in his life.

There's Helen, you wouldn't think she's heard about the war. Hasn't lifted a finger to do anything. Suddenly she goes down and gives a pint of blood at the Red Cross. Took real courage because she's scared to death at the sight of a nurse of the thought of blood.

The point is you can't tell how the war strikes people about yourself. It doesn't matter a bit what your neighbor does. What you do is all that counts.

Behind The News In Washington

By PETER EDSON

You get to thinking that war production is coming along famously, and then you bump into machine tools, which provided the country with the original Public Bottleneck.

No more was back in October, 1940, when the country was just getting defense conscious. Well, the machine tool bottleneck has been widened considerably but you still can't get a machine tool through the eye of a needle, or you can't make a machine tool out of a sow's ear, or something.

Preliminary figures on machine tool production for the merry month of May run to $118 million. That figure is at the rate of $1.4 billion worth of machine tools a year. Compared with 1932 machine tool production, which was only $22 million for the entire year, that's wonderful. It means that in May, 1942, the country's 100-odd machine tool builders turned out five times as many pieces of metal-working machinery as the industry turned out in the whole of the bottom depression year, and nearly as much as in that one month as in an average $150 million year.

Yes, that's wonderful, but it's still not good enough. In February, 1942, machine tool production required was placed at $2 billion worth for the year. Though the rate of production is going up every month, from 20,000 units in February, to 24,000 in March, to 25,400 in April, and 29,500 in May, $2 billion worth of machine tools a year means 500,000 new units a year or over 41,000 a month, and the industry is still quite a way from that goal.

What's wrong? Recent figures of the bureau of labor statistics indicated the industry as a whole is still averaging only 40 hours a week. The theory of putting the industry on a three-shift, 168-hour work week is still a theory. Some of the big plants have attained it, but a lot of the smaller ones haven't. Not enough machine tool makers for one thing, and a certain independence want to bother his head. That's the way he talked. Yesterday he joined the marines. And he's never been away from home in his life.

There's Helen, you wouldn't think she's heard about the war. Hasn't lifted a finger to do anything. Suddenly she goes down and gives a pint of blood at the Red Cross. Took real courage because she's scared to death at the sight of a nurse of the thought of blood.

Fallen animals, mangled dead ones, are exempt from maximum price regulation to encourage their sale for rendering of fats and oils.

Older wool remnants unwanted by the army may be used for civilian clothing. . . . One hundred fifty million egg cases will be required to move the 1942 egg crop and only 30 million new cases are being produced, resulting in a boom and price freezing on used crates. . . . Importers have been granted permission to sell some commodities above market prices. . . . Inter-city bus service to beaches and resorts will be permitted during the summer. . . . Navy Boosts Jap Losses At Midway

By Eugene Burns Pearl Harbor, T. H. June 29.—The defeat of the Japanese invasion fleet off Midway Island was even worse than first reported.

The navy, waiting until it had rounded up all the reports and checked them, flatly wrote off as Japanese losses the aircraft carrier Akagi, 26,000 tons; the aircraft carrier Kaga, 26,900 tons; the aircraft carrier Soryu, 10,050 tons; the aircraft carrier Kiyu, 10,050 tons; two heavy cruisers, probably the 8,500 ton Mogami and the 8,500 ton Mikuma; three destroyers and a cargo or transport vessel.

The navy's tally added up to at least 10 ships set to the bottom in the big sea-air battle earlier this month off Midway. The definite reports of four carriers sunk contrasted with tentative reports on June 10 of "two and possible three."

The carrier losses included the destruction of 275 Japanese planes and their crews.

An Associated Press staff man who witnessed some of the Midway battle from a cruiser reported later that the Japanese fleet included five carriers. So only one of them got away.

The staggering totals add up to a terrific cost paid by the Japanese for their self-styled "diversion" to permit the landing of troops in the Aleutians.

On the other side of the ledger, the United States has admitted the loss of one destroyer and damage to an aircraft carrier.

Survivors are the husband, two daughters, Maydene Wanda and Jerry Georgene; her mother, Mrs. J. C. Hicks, Roswell, N. M.; three brothers, L. J. Hicks, A. L. Hicks, and B. W. Hicks, all of Roswell; and four sisters, Mrs. S. E. Pettet of Mexia, Mrs. J. W. Perkins of Fort Worth, Mrs. H. E. Huffaker of Post, and Mrs. L. H. Rogers of Hargerman, N. M.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the First Methodist church with the Rev. A. L. James, pastor of the Nazarene church, officiating.

Program To Boost Bond Sales Studied A program to further stimulate the sale of Victory Bonds and Stamps will be discussed at a meeting of the retail trade promotion committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce in the BCD office in the city hall at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

Four Aircraft Carriers Sunk In Midway Fight

The war in the Pacific and the Orient was marked today by a clinching post-mortem report on the Japanese naval defeat in the battle of Midway, word of a record-length air attack on Japanese bases in New Guinea and signs that the Japanese are more involved than ever in the morass of Chinese resistance.

The United States navy, in final assessment of the Midway victory early this month, entered the following losses for the Japanese: Sunk Four aircraft carriers.

Two or three battleships. Three or four heavy cruisers. A light cruiser and four transport or cargo vessels.

Against this imposing array, accompanied by unofficial estimates that 18,000 or more Japanese went to death under aerial bombing and torpedoing of the invasion force, was the original acknowledgement, upon which the navy still stood, that the United States lost one destroyer and suffered damage to one aircraft carrier.

A spokesman at Allied headquarters in Australia, reporting on overnight assault on Japanese lodgements at Lae and Salamaua in New Guinea, said the action, lasting several hours, was the longest raid yet delivered in that area.

The Allied airmen also attacked the wharf area of Tulagi, in the Solomon Islands, but no details were given.

Chungking, proud of the start which its new air force made last week in bombardment of Japanese positions in eastern Kiangsi province and in the sinking of two Japanese warships in the Yangtze, declared that its land forces had thus far barred the enemy from a major objective of the offensive in eastern China—Kiangsi's rich tungsten fields.

These deposits, making up a good portion of China's tungsten production, which is 90 to 70 percent of the world's output, "are hardly less important than the fields of Ghekiang and Kiangsi put together," a government statement said.

The Japanese, who have failed to close the 50-mile gap remaining between their hands along the railway linking Chekiang and Kiangsi provinces, devoted most of their claims today to a "mopping-up operation" on a 40-mile front along the common border of southeastern Shansi and northern Honan provinces, in north China.

The Chinese had already reported recapture of Linhsien, at one end of the Japanese "front" but the Japanese said the Chinese 27th army had been routed into the hills, leaving over 1,000 dead.

Will O' The Wisp Girl Jailed After Fantastic Story

A 19-year-old Pampa woman is being held in the county jail under observation of the county physician.

She was arrested early yesterday morning by city officers following a willow-the-wisp chase and turned over to county authorities today.

The city desk sergeant, according to Police Chief Ray Dudley, answered the telephone about 6 o'clock yesterday morning.

A woman called and said she had been kidnapped and beaten up, and that she was at the Empire Cafe.

The officer had no sooner returned to the police station than a third call was received, this time from Hampton and Campbell streets.

While the desk sergeant kept the woman talking, the officer rushed to the station where he caught the woman.

He immediately recognized her as a young Pampa girl who had been arrested on several previous occasions and under similar circumstances.

After being placed in a cell in the city jail the woman broke a glass and cut her wrists and throat, just enough to bring a few drops of blood. Later she broke a light bulb and repeated the performance, Chief Dudley said.

The woman's story was fantastic, she claimed to have been kidnapped and beaten up, and that she was at the Empire Cafe.

The conflict was spreading over "a very large area" but added, that no details were available, leaving the general situation in doubt on this third day of the whirling battle on which the whole Allied position in the Middle East may depend.

Mobile and armored forces of both sides were reported fiercely engaged southwest as well as southeast of Matruh.

By the accident of geography and military design, this little seaside Arab community, perched on the edge of Egypt's scorching western desert, had been made the pivot of the battle for strategic position in the Middle East.

Matruh is the terminus of a railway leading to the Nile valley and the British base at Alexandria. From it the British had extended a narrow-gauge line to supply their now liquidated invasion of Italian Libya. Matruh lies 130 miles inside Egypt.

An additional threat—still not materialized to the Mediterranean flank of the defense forces in Egypt was a concentration of German air power and air troops on the island of Crete.

If the Axis claim of victory at Matruh is borne out, an attempt at "vertical envelopment" of defenses positions at the rear of the battered British eighth army may be expected at any time.

The Italians declared that 36 tanks and "numerous" artillery pieces and trucks were captured or destroyed in the Matruh assault.

Axis planes, Rome said, hit two steamers in the harbor there and set one of them on fire and shot down 17 planes. German and Italian planes also struck near at British positions on the mid-Mediterranean island of Malta.

London authorities evidently were not clear on details of the Matruh battle. A military commentator said that if the defense forces actually had withdrawn, as suspected, it was to hold a line farther east.

"This was done while limited British tanks, artillery and armored cars engaged advancing German troops," he said, emphasizing that Matruh "is not the last bastion between Tobruk and Alexandria."

Flying Training Command Will Be Set Up In Texas

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The war department announced today that headquarters of the army air forces flying training command would be transferred from Washington to Fort Worth, Texas, effective July 1.

Major Gen. Barton K. Young, commanding general of the flying training command, said the necessary liaison between the flying training command and the office of the commanding general, army air forces, would be continued here but that actual headquarters would be directed from Fort Worth.

The department said that army air forces training schools were located principally in the southern portion of the United States and that Fort Worth was in the approximate geographical center of this area.

Moody Dares O'Daniel To Debate Him

Dan Moody, Austin attorney and candidate for the U. S. senate, has issued a challenge to Senator W. Lee O'Daniel, candidate for reelection, to debate with him in Lubbock Thursday, July 2.

Moody said he wants to discuss O'Daniel's official record.

Both candidates are scheduled to speak in Lubbock Thursday, but the program, so far, calls for separate rallies.

O'Daniel could not be reached for comment.

"If he meets me (in Lubbock) he will be treated as a gentleman and his record will be dealt with in detail," Moody said. "If he doesn't meet me, I shall nevertheless be in Lubbock, right while he is there and will lay his record to the people of Texas in a merciless fashion."

Jr., chairman of the petroleum industry war council.

Meanwhile the senate appropriations committee received an estimate that the nation's rubber resources might fall 250,000 tons short of supplying military and public transportation requirements by the end of 1943.

This was the testimony on the $42,820,000,000 military supply bill given by Brig. Gen. L. D. Clay of the army services of supply.

Clay said the war department had arranged with Price Administrator Leon Henderson to purchase from private dealers some approximately 21,000 tires it would need for its passenger cars and other light vehicles until 1944.

Yanks Hit Bottom, Lose Doubleheader To Chisox

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer
It begins to look as if the New York Yankees, expected by many to be making a starting pitcher for the world series by the fourth of July, won't even be in first place at that stage of the campaign if they don't pull out of their current spin.

second-place Boston Red Sox and salvaged the final contest of a four-game series.
To make matters worse for the Yankees, Manager Joe McCarthy was put to bed with a recurrence of the internal ailment that plagued him last season and wasn't able to leave with the team last night for Philadelphia.

13 pitchers bombarded for 60 hits, including 18 doubles, two triples and two home runs.
The Brooklyn Dodgers, leaders of the National League, narrowly escaped the Yankees' fate when Joe Medwick hit a triple to give them a 2-1 triumph over Cincinnati in the second game after the Reds had bagged the opener, 6-3.

World Series May Go On Tour In Fall

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—Will the world series be revamped—even to permitting the annual classic to wind up on the Pacific coast?
Ford Frick, president of the National league, was due in Chicago today for a conference with K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, and the New Yorker's journey immediately revived talk heard in every major league dugout during the past few days.

Betty Jameson Wins Western Open Title

CHICAGO, June 29 (AP)—"We're homeward bound," Sports Writer Betty Jameson wired today to her paper, The San Antonio Evening News, "with an extra item in my suitcase—the cup symbolizing a win in the Women's Western Open golf championship."
"it is a very sweet victory, one of the biggest thrills in golf the writer has ever had. Our only regret is that Phyllis Otto's play Saturday was far off form—certainly far from a fair comparison of our games."

Success Story

For a good many years, the most ardent supporters of the Rocky Mountain N. C. high school football team has been a local restaurant owner. He accompanied the team on its trips and personally fixed up the soups, steaks and salads for the gridders. Finally the players voted to award him a school letter.
Businessmen in Rock Mount paid for the sweater and Coach Henry House, in presenting it, asked him to continue sitting on the bench as long as he had a football team.
Which definitely made Spiro Koumoukias a letter man.

Get Your Supply Of Vitamin C In Cooling Summer Beverages

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX Tired and gasoline restrictions make it important to use foods that will keep longer in the refrigerator and therefore can be bought in larger quantities. Oranges, lemons, and grapefruit, ideal for summer "coolers," can be kept in a cool, dry place for at least two weeks.

For the long Sunday at home on the porch, try these beverages rich in essential vitamin C:

Orange Cooler (Makes 1 1/2 quarts) Two cups orange juice, 1/4 cup lemon juice, 1/4 cup maraschino cherry juice, 1 cup ginger ale, 2 tablespoons honey, 1 pint vanilla ice cream, 2 tablespoons sliced maraschino cherries.

Mix fruit juices and ginger ale; add honey; mix well. Chill thoroughly. Add ice cream; stir until blended. Serve in chilled glasses and top with cherry slices.

Citrus Ginger Ale Punch (Serves 12 to 15) One quart orange ice, 2 quarts ginger ale, orange slices, maraschino cherries with stems, sprigs of mint leaves.

Place orange ice in punch bowl and pour in ginger ale. Garnish with orange slices cut attractively and floated in punch. Also add cherries and sprigs of mint.

Orange and Melon Delight One medium honey dew melon, 8 oranges, 2 lemons. Chill melon and scoop out 24 balls. Extract juice from rest of melon, oranges and lemons. Combine melon juice, orange and lemon juice, and chill well. Fill glasses, adding melon balls as a garnish. Serve cold.
