Germans Push 75 Miles South Of Rostov In Caucasus Area

Stalingrad Drive Reported Halted

By RICHARD McMURRAY Associated Press War Editor

Soviet Russia grimly acknowledged today (Sunday) that German armies questing for the oil of the Caucasus had pushed steel spearheads at least 50 to 75 miles south of Rostov and the Don river in extremely bitter battles. While the United Nations acclaimed a British second front raid which left half the steel-making German arsenal of Duesseldorf in ruins, the Russians announced fierce battles were being fought by Soviet forces in the areas of Kuschchevka, 50 miles below Rostov on the major rail lines to the oil fields, and Salsk, about 100 miles southeast of Rostov and 75 miles due south of the Don river.

The Germans were said to be throwing numerically superior forces against the Russians in those western Caucasian areas and the Russians said their troops were pressed back slightly in the Salsk sector.

The Nazis have claimed the capture of Salsk, which is on the Krassnodar-Stalingrad rail line. The Germans also have claimed their troops were pouring across the Stalingrad-North Caucasus rail line on a wide front.

The midnight communique said that Soviet troops in the Kleiskaya area, some 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad, "withstood enemy pressure and in places counter-attacked."

Heavy fighting also was reported from the Tsimlyanka area, the other half of the German drive against the Don Bend. The Russians reported they had thrown back German counter-attacks in the Voronezh area, the northern end of the great battle line. They apparently hope in the Voronezh action to relieve German pressure to the south.

The ferocity of the fighting in the Caucasus was indicated when the Russians reported that in stubborn fighting near a river crossing 1,500 German officers and men were killed and "several dozen" enemy tanks were destroyed.

Hardy Cossacks and marines were thrown into the Russian lines in the western Caucasus and along the Sea of Azov. With 90 to 95 per cent of Hitler's military might gambled in an immense effort to knock out Russia before the snow and ice descend again, the huge British bombers struck Germany perhaps the most destructive concentrated air attack in history.

Hundreds of thousands of incendiaries and at least 150 two-ton bombs, each of which will level a solid block, were dropped on the

Saboteurs' Fate In Hands Of Generals

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The trial of eight alleged Nazi saboteurs ended today and their fate was in the hands of a military commission appointed by President Roosevelt.

No indication of when a decision might be reached was given in a brief announcement that the 18-day trial had been concluded.

However, spokesmen for the seven-member military commission said informally that they anticipated no announcement "over the week end." The commission recessed late in the day, without saying whether it would meet again.

Generally it was expected that its recommendations would be submitted to the president without any previous announcement even that a decision had been reached, and that first word of a verdict would come from the White House.

If the commission should recommend a death penalty, President Roosevelt would have the responsibility of fixing the time and place of execution. This is provided in courts-martial regulations which direct that the reviewing authority—in this case the president—shall issue orders for execution of a sentence.

The commission would be required to direct the manner of death—either before a firing squad or by hanging. It was pointed out that a sentence to death by hanging is considered more "ignominious" and customarily is used for execution of spies.

50 Receive Tickets In Stamp Cases

Pampans who thought Uncle Sam was just foolin' when he said automobiles must have a vehicle use tax stamp affixed in a conspicuous place got slipped up on yesterday.

A total of 50 persons received notices to appear before Ralph Kenniston, deputy collector, Dallas, bureau of internal revenue of the second Texas district at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Reason for the notice was that their cars failed to have the stamps. The $5 automobile tax due on July 1 and could not be purchased at post-offices after July 31.

Waiting until after the deadline, the revenue collectors swarmed over every section, meanwhile requiring that all stamps sold be through them. Locally police and county officers joined in the stamp hunt.

Yesterday was the first day of a concerted drive to round up delinquents.

All persons using their cars without the stamp affixed will be vigorously prosecuted, according to the bureau. Such tax evaders will be subject to a $25 fine and 30 days imprisonment in addition to payment of the tax, according to a statement released by the bureau.

Whether the total weight of the law will fall on all the 50 or more who had their cars tagged here yesterday remains for the hearings tomorrow before Collector Kenniston to disclose.

"The most important thing to remember is that the $5 automobile

Gasoline Prices Will Be Reduced

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced today that retail gasoline prices on the eastern seaboard would be reduced 2½ cents a gallon, effective Wednesday.

Simultaneously a reduction of nine tenths of a cent on kerosene, 1½ cents on light heating oils and 15 cents a barrel on residual fuel oils will become effective.

The action will wipe out a gasoline price increase which OPA established June 29 in an effort partially to compensate oil companies for increased costs of transporting petroleum products to the east coast.

Henderson said the reductions were made possible under an arrangement from OPA, the office of petroleum coordinator and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation whereby, beginning today, the RFC will absorb the additional transportation costs.

SINCE mid-January Axis submarines and mines have taken a toll of more than 400 Allied and neutral merchant ships in the western Atlantic, the Gulf of Mexico and the Caribbean. Sinkings show magnitude of these slappings. July figure in chart inset may go higher when all navy reports of sinkings are in.

Navy Tells Story Of Escape From 'Rock'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The navy department disclosed today how Lieut. Commander John H. Morrill of the minesweeper Quail and 17 of his men scuttled their ship when Corregidor fell and made a perilous, month-long 2,000-mile trip to Darwin, Australia, in a 36-foot motor launch.

The report of Lieut. Commander Morrill, 39, of Waverly, Virginia, told how on one occasion his men whittled an emergency propeller shaft out of driftwood. At another time the engine failed in a strong current and their little launch drifted through the midst of a Japanese patrol flotilla while a repair job was underway.

The men all gained weight during the month's hazardous journey from a diet of corned beef, sardines, coconuts, canned milk, and rice which they bought after pooling all their funds for a provision pot of $600.

On one occasion the little launch was so cleverly camouflaged with leaves and branches that it blended in perfectly with the tropical vegetation and escaped discovery by a Japanese plane which flew only 500 feet above the boat. Casting off the camouflage that night, the crew prepared to put out of the bay in which they had taken refuge.

At that moment an enemy destroyer came into the bay and dropped anchor only a few hundred yards from the motor boat.

"Throughout the night we stood ready with rifles and automatic rifles, but the destroyer did not sight us," Morrill reported. "It left the cove shortly after dawn."

Morrill, a native of Miller, South Dakota, had earned the navy cross for heroism in the Philippines during the Japanese bombardment of

Three Enlist In Navy Saturday; County's Quota Cut Down To 19

"If I didn't want to fight for my country I wouldn't want to live in it," said Willie Garth Christie in explaining why he, his brother John Christie and their life-long friend, Ralph Mitchell Smith, all of Pampa, joined the navy.

That left Gray county's August naval enlistment quota at 19, and County Attorney Joe Gordon, recruiting chairman for Gray county, said that Gray county was definitely in the race to be the first Panhandle county to go over the top.

"Every time I saw a fellow in uniform," said John, "I wanted to get in. Now my mind is at ease and my conscience is clear. There's a lot of guys like that," he said.

All the boys quit good jobs to join the navy. One of the boys, Ralph Smith, is an orphan, but the Christie boys' father, E. M. Christie, was made his legal guardian by County Attorney Gordon, and he signed the boy's release. Ralph is 17 years old. He was employed at a local service station. John was employed by the Pool Construction company at the airforce school.

FDR Warns Of Shortage In Fuel Oil

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—President Roosevelt today warned eastern householders who heat with oil to expect severe fuel shortages this winter, and, meanwhile, OPA cancelled its recently ordered increase in the price of gasoline and other petroleum products along the Atlantic seaboard.

Mr. Roosevelt said there could be no guarantee that the Easterners would receive enough fuel oil to keep them warm, and Secretary Ickes, the petroleum coordinator, added that some houses with oil furnaces may be in for heatless days.

Urging that oil furnaces be converted to the use of coal, Ickes said it might become necessary to refuse oil deliveries to consumers in the eastern shortage area who can make such a conversion and fall to do so.

During the day, a special house committee of Easterners recommended a broad extension of rationing of petroleum products to alleviate a "dire and dangerous shortage of gasoline, residual oil and domestic heating oil" in the East.

The committee, investigating the rubber, gasoline and petroleum supply, proposed that gasoline rationing be extended to Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, all un-rationed Eastern areas, and all sections not served directly by pipe lines.

"It seems obvious to this committee that if these states are rationed

Block-Buster Bombs Scourge Duesseldorf

LONDON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The RAF scoured the Rhineland last night with 150 two-ton block-buster bombs and a great weight of other explosives and incendiaries in a concentrated 50-minute attack probably without destructive precedent in aerial warfare.

The RAF reserved air ministry announced the raid was made in very strong force and added that the deluge of destruction was a "ceaseless rain" of bombs and fire-busters.

Smoke billowed up almost four-fifths of a mile from the industrial plants scoured under the weight of the two-tonners and daylight reconnaissance found fires still burning in the city of 350,000 population in mid-day.

The number of planes was not specified beyond the mention of a number of 4-motored Lancaster bombers as well as a great force of all other types of heavy and medium bombers.

But from the announced loss of 31 British planes it can be guessed that there were hundreds participating in the raid, somewhere between 500 and 1,000.

Duesseldorf is heavily defended against air attack, being a Nazi arsenal of prime importance.

Japs, Look Out For 'Grim Reapers'

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 1 (AP)—Japanese fliers—beware of the "Grim Reapers."

If you see a plane coming at you with a heading like the boney hands swinging a scythe—that's a "Grim Reaper."

The newly-commissioned navy fighter plane squadron has "Mow 'em Down" for its motto; its commander and several of its members are veterans of the Coral sea battle; and every father's son of them is determined to make the "Grim Reapers" more feared by Japan than the "Flying Tigers."

The squadron, composed of 26 fliers who have been training together in San Diego for several weeks, was commissioned at a dinner last night, attended by Pat O'Brien and other Hollywood film colony members.

Lt. Comdr. J. H. Flatley, of Green Bay, Wis., the squadron's first commanding officer, was master of ceremonies. He administered the oath of allegiance.

"We shall be the most feared squadron of fighting planes in this war," said Flatley. "We're going to make the name 'Grim Reapers' more feared than 'Flying Tigers' by our enemies, and the 'Reapers' all will come back from the war, if they do what they've been taught to do."

'Battle Will Be Won' Says Jimmy Allred

(By The Associated Press) AUSTIN, Aug. 1—James V. Allred will open his run-off race against U. S. Senator W. Lee O'Daniel with a speech in Abilene Tuesday night.

Optimistic, and refreshed from his first primary vote hunt that made him runner-up to O'Daniel, he asserted: "Fifty-two per cent of the voters exploded one myth in the first primary.

"On August 22 the people will answer my opponents' newest prediction of a cinch run-off victory."

O'Daniel, noting that he had received slightly more than 48 per cent of the July 29 primary vote recently declared his opposition knows "that with approximately 49 per cent of the vote my re-election is assured."

"The run-off that wasn't going to be will open in Abilene Tuesday night," Allred countered in a formal statement.

The former attorney-general-governor-federal judge conferred with supporters here and announced he was mapping a detailed itinerary to follow his Abilene appearance.

Answering questions, Allred said he planned no conference with Dan Moody, third man in the primary senatorial sweepstakes.

He added the picture was not nearly as dark as it was two weeks after the primary in 1934 when Allred was second man to Tom Hunter in the gubernatorial primary.

"All my opponents in the first race then swung over to Hunter yet I won in the run-off by a 40,000-vote majority."

I-B Men In Draft Being Accepted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The first of an estimated one million men holding a deferred I-B classification in the draft because of minor physical defects were accepted today for limited military service.

Undisclosed quotas to be filled by men with faulty eyesight, teeth and other defects which disqualified them for many combat duties, went out July 3 to local boards, to become effective today, Aug. 1.

Those accepted under the relaxed standards will be assigned to duty with corps area service commands and the war department overhead, it was announced.

The individual would continue to pay his quarterly installments as usual, just as if he were paying on the income he made in 1941, but legally he would be paying on his 1942 income. If at the end of the year, his 1942 income proved to be smaller than his 1941 revenue, then he would get a rebate. If it proved larger, he would have an additional

Spies Dismissed As Medical School Dean

Isolationism Condemned By Amarillo Demos

(By The Associated Press) AUSTIN, Aug. 1 (AP)—In a quadruple move to sweep away dissonance in the medical branch at Galveston where members said a "grave emergency" existed the University of Texas board of regents tonight:

Dismissed Dean John W. Spies, effective immediately.

Declared all headships of teaching department vacant at the end of the current fiscal year, Aug. 31. Named Dr. Titus Harris, professor of Neuro-psychiatry, as acting dean.

Appointed Dr. E. W. Bernier of Houston as temporary director of the university's new cancer research program.

The board unanimously adopted resolutions removing Dr. Spies and department heads, said University President Homer P. Rainey.

The president added "substantial progress" had been made toward the selection of an executive vice-president of the medical branch, a position created by the board after an on-the-scene investigation of the medical branch which has been re-organized by an administrative controversy for several years.

Board members emerged from an all-day closed meeting wearing broad smiles and freely congratulating each other on what they described as decisive steps to clarify the medical branch turmoil.

Members said they would meet again next Saturday to clear items on the unfinished business docket, including the 1942-43 medical branch budget.

In a formal statement authorized by the board Dr. Rainey declared:

"The board feels regretful that it has taken such drastic action, but it appeared that this was the only way to clear up the long-standing controversy and to lay the predicate for a great medical program for Texas.

"If these actions do not fully clear up the matter, the board is ready to take further steps may be necessary to end the controversy and

'Daylight Savings' Tax Plan Advocated

By JACK BELL WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—A "daylight savings" plan for the payment of advance of individual income tax collections to a current basis was under serious consideration today by treasury experts and members of the senate finance committee.

Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the latter group said the plan had some "intriguing" aspects which were being analyzed by both treasury and congressional leaders.

While George would not commit himself, he said the proposal held out some possibility of simplifying the problem of collecting taxes from individuals who would be hard hit by the higher rates of the pending revenue bill.

The bill is designed to raise $6,271,000,000 in additional taxes, bringing total federal revenues this year to between $22,000,000,000 and

A newspaper knows that new people are coming in and that the town is growing when its circulation figures take a jump.

Within the past ten days 75 new families within Pampa's city limits have ordered The Pampa News delivered to their homes. The largest increase in city circulation was in the last four days of July with 51 new subscribers. It is to be remembered, too, that many new families going into a city do not immediately subscribe to the local paper until they become settled and acquainted.

Subs Attack Three Allied Merchant Ships

(By The Associated Press)

Submarine attacks upon three Allied merchant vessels, all on the same day, about 50 miles off the east coast were disclosed by the navy yesterday, but only one ship was sunk and only two seamen were lost in the encounters.

The vessel sent to the bottom was a small Nicaraguan ship. A medium-sized United States merchantman and a medium-sized Panamanian cargo carrier safely reached ports along the coast. The lone sinking boosted to 407 the Associated Press tabulation of announced United States neutral nations' sinkings in the western Atlantic since America's entry into the war.

Immediately after an undersea raider torpedoed the Panamanian ship, a United States navy plane scored two direct hits on the submarine by diving within ten feet of the ocean before releasing depth charges. A big oil slick and a mass of debris appeared on the surface where the depth charges were dropped.

In the Caribbean area, United States torpedo-carrying planes sank a German U-boat after it had surfaced, a TACA airline announcement in San Jose, Costa Rica, disclosed. Acting on information from a TACA pilot who sighted the undersea craft while on a routine flight, the American Caribbean military headquarters sent patrol bombers and four torpedo planes to the scene, the report said.

The attack on the Nicaraguan vessel July 15 broke her in half, but the 23 crewmen aboard, having sighted the torpedo's wake, rushed to the opposite side for protection. The ship listed immediately. Seamen boarded rafts and a lifeboat, and shortly after abandoning the vessel were sighted by another craft.

In his second torpedoing within four months, 18-year-old Joseph J. Sokolowski, of Bayonne, N. J., was thrown 75 feet into the air when his vessel, the Panamanian merchantman, was torpedoed July 15.

"The next thing I knew I was in the water and was being whirled around like a top," he said. "I realized I was being dragged into the suction of the propeller so I swam away as fast as I could."

About 40 minutes later, a naval vessel sighted and took him aboard. His own ship had not stopped to rescue him.

al tax to pay on the difference. Then he would be credited with having paid all income taxes due up to the end of 1942.

With the start of 1943, he would calculate his 1943 income at the same amount he actually earned in 1942, and would begin payments on it at the rates fixed in the new revenue bill. This system would be followed from year to year.

Ruml pointed out that while this, in effect, would wipe out 1941 taxes, the treasury would obtain the same amount of immediate revenue and would lose receipts only when taxpayers died or when their income slumped. (Under the present law, if a man dies, say, on Jan. 1, 1944, his estate must pay taxes on his 1943 income. Likewise a person whose income decreases or ceases altogether faces the problem of paying full taxes on the previous year's income.)

take the medical school off probation.

"The administration turmoil at the medical branch has caused the American Medical association to place the school on probation and the council of the Association of American Medical colleges has recommended like action to its parent body which meets in October."

Dr. Bertner will work with President Rainey in setting up the cancer research program financed by a $500,000 state appropriation and a like amount granted by the Anderson Foundation of Houston. Dr. Bertner is a former president of the State Medical association and former president of the Medical School Alumni association.

Dr. Spies in addition to being dean of the medical branch was professor of preventive medicine and public health and principal administrator of hospital attached to the school.

The resolution ordering his dismissal said that "it is the judgement of the board that the interests of the medical branch x x x as well as the best interests of the University of Texas require that Dr. John W. Spies as dean of the medical branch, professor of preventive medicine and public health, and principal administrator of hospital, be removed from said positions, effective as of this date."

The school's recent history has been storm tossed. Several times regents have made administrative readjustments and other policy changes in an attempt to smooth out difficulties between opposing groups. Always the controversy flared anew.

The Alumni association, the State Medical association and other groups suggested methods for solving the disension, including the appointment of an administrator by the A. M. A. and A. M. C.

A committee of the state house of representatives once investigated the medical branch and recommended dismissal of Dean Spies and certain faculty members to be determined by Dr. Rainey.

Regents themselves investigated school administration at Galveston this year and determined at the conclusion of their inquiry to select an executive vice-president to administer the branch.

there will be built up a surplus of petroleum products in the Great Lakes region which can readily and easily be transported during the next few months over the waterways of the Great Lakes and New York state canal to the city of Albany.

"From that point some of these petroleum products can be shipped down the Hudson to the metropolitan area and the middle Atlantic states, and others of these products can be shipped by short haul car and tank trucks to the New England region."

OPA, meanwhile, ordered a decrease of 2 1/2 cents per gallon for gasoline, 9/10 of a cent on kerosene, 1.1 cents for light heating oils and 15 cents a barrel on residual fuel oils, effective Wednesday.

Increases in those amounts became effective June 29 to reimburse oil dealers for the additional cost of transportation to the East and oil products formerly hauled by water. Since then, the RFC has arranged to absorb the extra transportation charge.

OPA also turned down, during the day, the appeal of eastern traveling salesmen for extra gasoline allowances. They have been given B cards supplementing their regulation A cards, and this, OPA said, must suffice.

Also affecting the Eastern oil shortage, RFC announced plans for converting a number of steel dry-cargo barges for the transportation of petroleum products, through the inland waterways.

Rhineland city within 50 miles. Thirty-one planes fell but the flames were still rising from the city of 350,000 at mid-day.

"Smoke and fire shot up nearly a mile and was visible from the French coast, which also was bombed. Such targets as the sprawling Rhineland Iron and Steel Works and the Vereinigte Stahlwerke felt the explosive concussions of the two-tonners.

It was a refinement on the destruction of Cologne, Bremen, Hamburg, Roslock, Luebeck, Essen and other German cities making tools for Hitler's army. The Germans announced blandly that two hospitals and residential quarters were hit.

The equally critical battle of shipping in American waters. The Germans said 128 ships of 815,900 tons were sunk in July and the U. S. maritime commission said 71 ships and tankers of 790,300 tons were launched by American shipyards alone during the month—a world record. But coming with British, Canadian and other Allied output, the United Nations were barely keeping pace with Axis submarine attacks.

The land front in Egypt was stagnated by dust storms, but the Axis raided the holy Moslem city of Cairo again which again recalled Winston Churchill's threat of reprisal against Rome.

U. S. bombers were disclosed to have struck successful blows during the week at Axis supply bases in North Africa and Crete and convoys moving across the Mediterranean. The very assertion that the convoys and transports were en route was foreboding to the British army of the Nile, backed within 80 miles of Alexandria.

The Japanese extended their hold on the Solomon islands by seizing Guadalcanal island suitable for air fields. No further advance on Port Moresby, New Guinea, was recorded and Allied bombers probably hit a Nipponese cruiser.

U. S. air force planes destroyed nine Japanese craft which tried again to raid their Chinese base at Hengyang. At least 17 were downed in two days at the cost of four U. S. ships, all of whose pilots were saved.

The Japanese landed anew on China's Chekiang coast 30 miles south of Wenchow and started driving inland.

As Britain and the U. S. apparently prepared to invade western Europe to relieve Russia, the Germans were reported intensifying their defenses. The Canadian chief of staff, Lieut. Gen. Kenneth Stuart, arrived in London.

Russian tanks fought grimly Saturday, remembering perhaps that 23 years before Germany declared war upon her.

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko appeared to have withdrawn skillfully the bulk of his army across the Don to better defense positions, except the forces in the Big Bend.

87 'Dangerous' Aliens Arrested

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—The federal bureau of investigation today announced the seizure of 87 "dangerous" enemy aliens, including a Japanese, who had maps of Pacific air and sea distances and navigation charts of the Aleutian islands.

In contrast to previous arrests here, P. E. Foxworth, assistant director of the FBI, used the word "dangerous" in describing the aliens. The group, composed of 68 Germans, 15 Italians and six Japanese, was nabbed in raids yesterday in the metropolitan area.

All were taken to Ellis island for internment hearings.

FBI agents quoted the Jap who had the maps as saying: "I want to see Japan win the war. I would not fight against the Japanese under any circumstances. My emperor, Hirohito, is a good man. He is my ruler and I must obey him."

Foxworth said that this man was a leader of Hokoku-Dan, which the FBI officials described as a Fascist-type Japanese imperial service group. It was formed in this country three years ago and was frequently addressed by Japanese army and navy officers.

Three of the Japanese and seven of the Germans entered this country illegally and all 87 had filed formal declarations of refusal to serve in the United States armed forces, the FBI reported. Fifteen of the Germans had registered with the German consulate for military service in the Nazi army.

Foxworth declared that one of the Germans was a caretaker at a German-American bund camp and had an uncle and 16 cousins in Hitler's army. He told agents who arrested him: "If you induct me into the army I will surrender the very first opportunity I have."

14 Enemy Ships Sunk In Far East From July 18 To Aug. 1

(By The Associated Press) Japanese invasion spearheads, steaming south and east from Japan since Dec. 7, have suffered the loss of 14 vessels in all categories, an Associated Press tabulation of official announcements disclosed yesterday (Sat.).

Included in the total are 14 enemy ships—seven naval craft and seven merchantmen—whose destruction by United States air and sea forces in the Far East is based on reports received between July 18 and Aug. 1.

During this period, the torpedoing of the 14,457-ton liner Taiyo Maru off Hongkong early in May by a United States submarine was disclosed by American reparations up on their arrival at Lourenco Marques, Portuguese East Africa. Reports indicated that more than 180 passengers and crew were lost in the sinking, including 600 Japanese organizing technicians who were en route to newly-conquered territories in Southeast Asia.

A total of 239 Japanese naval vessels are included in the compilation, as well as 75 merchant ships. The two groups, so far as is known, aggregate nearly a half million tons.

Prison Board Head Favors Release Of Prisoners For Army

HOUSTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The armed forces of the United States will receive an increment of several battalions if the recommendation of Dr. Sidney M. Lister, chairman of the Texas prison board, is followed.

Doctor Lister said today that he, as well as a majority of the board, favored the release on parole of 1,500 or 2,000 of the penitentiary's inmates for the duration of the war. Besieged by hundreds of requests and petitions from inmates, Dr. Lister said he "hoped that something can be worked out whereby a selected group could be paroled to join the armed forces for the duration of the war."

Dr. Lister explained that such a course would require either legislative action or affirmative approval by the board of pardons and paroles. The prison board, he added, was without jurisdiction in either case, but its opinion would have some weight in the matter.

The board chairman said that by a selected group he meant short-termers, those serving from two to five year sentences. "Of course, the offense that sent them to prison would also have a bearing on the matter," he said. "And naturally their physical condition would play a big part."

Requests for paroles to join the army or navy have not been confined to male prisoners, Dr. Lister added. Inmates of Goree, the women's farm, also have petitioned for paroles.

Workers May Be Assigned To Jobs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—A proposal soon may go to congress, a government official said today, to give President Roosevelt authority to assign any one of the nation's 55,000,000 to 60,000,000 workers to the job where his skill is most needed.

The official, who stipulated that his name not be published at this time, said this power would be aimed at total mobilization of human resources behind the war effort, and if approved by congress would be administered through Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt.

Such job assignments probably would bring about employment readjustments for only part of the total number of workers, it was said, because the majority simply would be told to remain at the jobs they now are doing. This power, no doubt, would put an end to "labor pirating"—the practice whereby one plant entices the workers of another by offers of larger pay and opportunities of longer overtime.

Moreover, the official said, it might give force of law to the government's recently announced policy that no war production workers should labor more than 48 hours a week.

It was understood that any war service legislation would give consideration to the collective bargaining rights of labor.

Today's War Analysis

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Wide World War Analyst

Increasingly grave as Russia's plight in the Caucasus and along the Don river below Voronezh has grown, it offers no explanation of the most recent Nazi propaganda phenomenon.

Herr Goebbels' present war-of-nerves target appears to be German and French nerves. He has concentrated on many devices and outwittings, including a Paris parade of Hitler's own special corps of Elite Guards, reputedly back from new victories in southern Russia, to impress Germans and restive Frenchmen alike with the idea that while an Anglo-American second-front attack may be and probably is coming, adequate preparations to smash it have been made.

The Paris parade of Nazi SS troops—not German army regulars—allegedly recalled from Russia to bolster western defenses in conquered France, came while Russian advisers insisted that Hitler had withdrawn a score or more divisions from the west to fill gaps in his expanding Russian lines.

Hopes of encouraging or expediting Allied second-front efforts could underlie such Russian reports. It is obvious, however, that if they are true and 300,000 or more German troops have been withdrawn from occupied France, the Low countries, even Denmark and Norway to bolster the Russian campaign, the restlessness and sullenly resentful peoples of those regions know it. Word of such large withdrawals of occupation forces would be bound to drift about by underground channels.

The peoples of Germany living along the routes of troops being rushed from west to east must also believe that something not indicative of an impending Nazi triumph in Russia is in process.

Just how well informed they are as to the growing land, sea and air strength of Britain and the United States is doubtful. It is an unforgivable crime in Germany to listen to enemy broadcasts, but the air has been filled with American and British reports on those preparations for many weeks. The Goebbels technique is proof-positive that there are whispers of second-front apprehension afloat in Germany and that the people of occupied countries are agog with expectation, eager to help.

To meet that, the Nazi master propagandist has poured out assurances that the 2,000-mile coast line from northern Norway to the Franco-Spanish border is bristling with guns, forts, pill boxes, tank traps and every other defensive device. Goebbels wants it believed that there is a defense belt many miles deep walling off any Anglo-American invasion project.

The implication, if not the stated meaning of the Paris parade, is that victory was so close in Russia that shock troops now could be spared in the east to man western defenses. No doubt it is further explained that such units as have gone from west to east, were second line elements, good for garrison duty but not major action.

What the people of Germany alone but of Nazi occupied regions in the west certainly know is that British air power is in action aggressively and that American planes are coming up behind it.

It can only be to meet public reaction on the continent that Herr Goebbels is conducting his new war-of-nerves campaign in reverse—not to frighten the British, but to soothe the Germans.

To pass army tests trucks must operate without overheating in at least 120-degree atmosphere temperature. The carburetor, oil level in engine, transmission and rear axle lubricant, and all other functional accessories must operate on grades as steep as 65 per cent.

Sports Writers At Houston Cooperate In Bond Promotions

HOUSTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Bruce Laver, sports editor of the Houston Post, looked at the story he was writing.

"Say," he mused, "I'll bet the Chronicle and Press would like to have that."

So he called a messenger and sent copies posthaste.

Dick Freeman, sports editor of the Chronicle, was turning out a bit of copy on a bowling tournament. "Cosh," he said, "I sure want Pal Bruce and old Andy Anderson to have this."

So copies were rushed to the Post and Press.

There the boys of the press write each other's copy; boost the opposition in their columns; have luncheon with sports writers they would have given an arm to scoop six months ago.

They expect the result to be $1,000,000 worth of war bonds.

It started with the Texas league season. The boys auctioned off baseballs for $18,500 in bonds.

Dick, Bruce and Andy thought they had something. They told Claude Hamill, chairman of the county bond sales committee, they wanted to go to work. He liked the idea, named Anderson chairman and they jumped into the thing with six feet.

A bowling tournament raised $70,000; a softball tournament contributed $184,200; pocket billiard players joined in to the tune of $12,000.

Next the boys will hold a war bond regatta, a ball-casting tournament, an amateur baseball meet and so on.

"EXCLUSIVE BUT NOT EXPENSIVE"

Motorist Who Slew Deaf Mute Sought

SILVER CITY, N. M., Aug. 1. (AP)—A motorist who fatally shot a deaf-mute after an automobile collision was sought today by border patrolmen and sheriff's officers in southwestern New Mexico.

Hugh Franks, 61-year old ranch worker, died of an abdominal wound today less than 18 hours after the accident four miles east of Silver City.

Police obtained the story of the shooting with difficulty from Franks and another deaf mute, Florentino Marquez, 50, who was riding with him.

The officers said that the motorist jumped angrily from his automobile after a collision with Franks' pickup truck, drew a weapon, fired at the truck, hitting Franks, and sped away.

Because Franks was unable to reply to inquiries, passersby who brought him to a hospital here apparently did not know that he had been shot.

BUY VICTORY BONDS $1,500 Bond Set In Car Collision

Bond of $1,500 was set in justice court here yesterday for E. E. Van Pelt, charged in a complaint with assault with intent to kill, in alleged connection with the collision of two motor vehicles early Friday morning, in one of which his wife was riding with two other women.

Place of the collision was on Murphy street and the incident leading up to the filing of the charge was that Van Pelt, according to police, rammed a truck into the rear of the other automobile, overturning it, and causing minor injuries to the occupants.

After the crash, Van Pelt, according to records in the police department, got out of the car brandishing a car crank.

He was arrested by police, then turned over to the custody of county officers, yesterday morning.

Greenland Crew Rescued As If By A Miracle

LONDON, Aug. 1. (AP)—The crash of an American bomber in Northern Greenland and the rescue of its crew of three in an adventure reminiscent of an old-fashioned melodrama of the Arctic was disclosed tonight through the British air ministry.

The crew, Ferry Command Pilot J. Shaw Webb of Vermont (home town unavailable), Navigator Robert Franks and Radio Man Louis A. Caldwell, both of the RAF, had flown a Lockheed "Hudson" from Montreal to Newfoundland. There they got an urgent call to make a survey flight over Northwest Greenland.

They completed the mission but encountered a sleet and electrical storm which crippled all navigation instruments. Then one of the two engines went dead.

Webb tried twice to come down on ice-covered sheets of inland water, but the wheels broke through and he had to climb. Finally the gasoline was exhausted and he had to land. The plane's nose tilted forward.

"With a roar like thunder it crashed through the ice," said Webb. "We were getting ready to swim when we saw and heard something of the kind which only happens in story books."

"Heading toward us across that wilderness of mountains, ice and water was a team of dogs, and behind them a file of men." It was an American detachment sent to establish a post eight months previously.

They told the fliers there was an Eskimo village nearby, and not another one for 500 miles in any direction.

Their radio signals were picked up and relayed by transatlantic planes.

For 45 days rescue was impossible because there was no place for a plane to land. Finally an 80-mile-an-hour wind cleared the ice from several miles of water, leaving space for a flying boat to alight.

The rescue plan also brought an 8-month collection of mail for the American ground force.

Plane Dives Within 10 Feet Of Ocean To Sink Submarine

AN EAST COAST PORT, Aug. 1. (AP)—Diving within ten feet of the ocean, a U. S. navy plane scored two direct hits with depth charges on an Axis submarine immediately after the undersize raider had torpedoed a large Panamanian cargo ship off the Atlantic coast more than two weeks ago, survivors of the merchantman reported on arrival here.

Announcing the attack by submarine and the vengeance taken by the plane, the navy said today that survivors related that a big oil slick and a mass of debris appeared on the surface where the depth charges were dropped.

Statements to this effect, the navy said, were made by Robert E. Gibson, officers' messman, of Akron, Ohio, and Z. W. Osinski, junior assistant engineer of Philadelphia, who were among 58 survivors landed at this port the day after the attack. The torpedo blast killed one crew member, Storekeeper Clemente Colmenero of Santander, Spain.

Twelve of the survivors were members of a navy gun crew, which had no opportunity to fire at the submarine because the deck gun was put out of commission by the torpedo explosion.

Gotta Horse? Coast Guard To Patrol 'Invasion' Beaches

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—Got a horse?

You may be just the man for the coast guard's newly-organized mounted patrol, if you have.

The organization of the beach patrol was announced officially today when the coast guard put out a call for volunteers among horsemen living near the Atlantic or Gulf coast.

Their job would be to protect the shores against invasion by submarine-borne spies and saboteurs as well as the more routine duties of watching out for persons in distress and ships which need help.

The first call is for horsemen who would enroll both themselves and their mounts for duty. The second is for horse owners desiring to make their animals available to the government although they themselves would not join up.

The owners, in the latter case, would be expected to provide harness and saddles.

Three or more persons are required to start a riot, according to law.

Scringeurs: As our humble contribution to the lexicology of this war, may we explain how the verb "to scringeur" and the adjective "scringeur" may come into everyday use?

The Scringeur family—William, his wife and his sons, Maxwell and C. Bailey—averaged $420 a day each during 1941, as sales engineers in connection with war contracts. Horace Ward averaged $780 a day for 18 months and F. C. Nichols, A. P. Shirley and F. D. Olcott averaged $150 each day this year in similar activity, all perfectly legal.

But there isn't much color to "warding" or "nicholing" or "shirring" or "olcoting." The Scringeurs happen to have a name that few will remember how to spell but most will recognize when they see it again.

So from now on, when we hear of "sales engineers" making fortunes out of military contracts, while soldiers die all over the globe at $50 a month "and found," what could be more natural than to think of "scringeur"?

Oh, Say, Can You See? There is merit in the suggestion, contained in a clipping whose source is not apparent, that we concentrate upon the last verse of the Star-Spangled Banner.

"Does the Star-Spangled Banner yet wave?" Indeed it does. Not over Corregidor or Guam or Wake, unfortunately. But over the homeland it does, and over Hawaii and Midway and Alaska and Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands and the Canal Zone and Samoa.

To the victims of Japanese treachery and brutality in the Philippines and Guam and Wake, could we give better pledge than the final words of the last verse of the anthem:

"And the Star-Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Filipinos Fight On: It is reassuring to hear, from the Japanese invaders of the Philippines, the complaint that the stubborn inhabitants of those islands are still resisting. Or as the Japs express it, "obstructing reconstruction."

Americans know something about that, remembering their own experience with the natives in the Spanish-American War. But the Filipinos who fought the American invaders then are now fighting the Japs not only for their own freedom but as loyal allies of the United States.

The friendly American conquest of those gallant Filipinos, when their resistance had been overcome, is one of the brighter spots in this country's brief dream of colonial empire. Now, as the half-civilized Japs try in vain to conquer them by force for their robbery and enslavement, Americans applaud their courage and give new pledges for their liberation.

Rubber, Hemp, Quinine: The United Fruit company is growing and encouraging on South and Central American plantations the planting of products for which in past time the United States has been dependent on the Far East, such as rubber, hemp and quinine.

With bananas rotting in Central America this year for lack of shipping, the one-crop farmer is having a hard time, whereas the one who has planted crops essential to the war effort will have something to sell which he can market.

The company announces that it is building an agricultural school in Honduras which will be open to students from Central America. It has been experimenting with these more varied crops for some time. The announcement states that "once this movement is under way it will result in a higher standard of living for the countries interested and a greatly increased market for farmer, manufacturer and business man."

The Nation's Press (Indianapolis News): A hint of what is to come in the fall campaign was given in the keynote address at the Democratic state convention. Much of this important declaration of intent was devoted to blaming the Republican party for the failure of the United States to be ready for the war when the administration delivered its ultimatum to Japan and waged an undeclared war against Germany in the Atlantic. Apparently the intent of the New Dealers is to attempt to prove in the fall campaign that the opposition has controlled their national policies for the last 10 years.

The record shows that the New Dealers took control of congress in 1931 and of the entire administration in 1933. They had better than a 2 to 1 majority in both houses in 1933, and never since that time have they had less than a substantial working majority.

In the same year Hitler became dictator of Germany, Mussolini announced his intent to restore the Roman empire, and Japan resigned from the league of nations when condemned by the league committee for military aggression in Manchuria. Thus the parallel was established. The contest between tyranny and democracy was on, as any one can now see by reviewing the events of the decade.

At any time during the last nine years the New Dealers had the complete and sole power to prepare for the defense of the United States in a new world war. At no time was there a Republican opposition strong enough to vote a national policy. The New Dealers proved their power by voting billions of dollars for wasteful relief. They made that choice instead of voting the money for defense, which also would have provided relief thru useful work. Now they are electing to offer a false alibi instead of frankly admitting their mistake and pledging all their strength to overcoming it.

CONGRESS AND THE MISSING LEGS (Chicago Tribune): The measures taken so far by the administration to curb inflation have been described as a stool needing four legs of which only two have been supplied. Ceilings have been placed on the Common Ground

By R. G. HOILES: "I speak the plain-worded truth, I give the sign of democracy. By God! I will accept nothing which all cannot have their counterpart of on the same terms."

ROOSEVELT'S INCOME DILEMMA: Here are some figures that are the result of the New Deal tax and labor policy. They are as natural as any physical law.

Last year we produced about $74,000,000,000 worth of civilian goods and services; this year, at the same price level, we will produce $65,000,000,000 worth of goods. Last year the money income was $92,000,000,000; this year, it is estimated to be $117,000,000,000. This is $25,000,000,000 more of money income with $9,000,000,000 less of production of consumable goods.

When people have more money to spend, than there is goods to buy, they bid it up. The result is higher prices. The government, because consumer taxes tend to lose votes will not put a consumer tax in effect. But they must do something. So they put ceilings on prices. Who will get the goods will give them more power, more votes.

There are all kinds of chances of corruption and favoritism. This larger money income is, of course, due to the policy of the administration. Every time they permit a group of workers to black-mail the government into increasing wages, the government has to borrow more money from the bank in order to pay for these higher wages. Last week, the war labor board authorized an increase of 44 cents an hour to a group that was already getting more than the average wage. War labor boards seem to think that money wages can be increased so that all people will have the same standard of living. The board said, "groups whose peace time standards have been broken are entitled to have the standard re-established."

They do not tell, of course, how increasing "money wages" without increasing production can re-establish their standards.

If this theory were strictly applied throughout the country, it would bring about the increase of many billions of spendable income, without bringing about any expansion in the supply of goods on which the income could be spent.

The government is also loaning 100 per cent on farm crops to farmers. This increases the spendable income.

Roosevelt has got the bear by the tail as to how he can prevent money inflation without completely eliminating free enterprise.

Every man who has made any study of natural principles, rules and laws of social relations knew in advance that sooner or later there would be more credit money issued than there were goods and service to be bought; that this extra credit money in the form of wages and loans issued by the government for the purpose of being popular with the voters, was working the worst kind of exploitation and oppression on the groups of honest workers who are patriotically trying to serve their fellowman and were not asking for special privileges.

But the administration and the socialists never think through any of their soap bubble methods of relieving poverty and want. They only see one side of the picture. They do not see the destitution and poverty and misery that are bound to result to women, orphans, children and elderly people from this method of the federal administration paying to some workers a much larger fraction of the total production than they actually produce.

It is an expensive lesson. The people must pay for believing the short cut Utopias advocated either through ignorance or a desire to get and hold power.

The great trouble with most teachers and reformers is that too often their teaching and reforming leaves them no time for learning.

prices of manufactured products, but not on farm products which of the two groups have probably the greater effect on the cost of living. Rents are frozen (in defense areas) but wages, which are the largest single factor in the price of most articles, are subject to no restraint.

It is generally recognized that the stool either has to be given its missing legs or it will fall, with disastrous consequences to both the conduct of the war and to the savings and living standards of the people. Congress is being widely blamed for failure to act.

It is alleged that the farm bloc members and the labor bloc members in congress are so determined to serve the selfish interests of their special groups that they are willing to neglect the national welfare. That indictment is being pressed most strongly by the New Dealers in the executive branch of the government.

How do they clear their own skirts? Only once in more than nine years have Mr. Roosevelt and those about him failed to get congressional approval of any major policy they have proposed. That was when they tried to take over the courts. Has the farm bloc, the labor bloc, or any other bloc in congress suddenly become so powerful that it can defy the executive branch of the government, or isn't the executive department particularly interested in freezing wages and farm prices?

If it is interested, it has managed to conceal the interest successfully. There have been, it is true, a few statements paying lip service to the fight on inflation. But in the past, when the White House really wanted a law passed, it got it passed. It promised rewards and threatened punishment to get votes.

Have any judgeships been offered to get votes for anti-inflation measures? Not that any one has heard. Have recall laws been threatened with purges or loss of patronage? Not that any one has heard. Have Mayor Kelly and other proprietors of strings of rubber stamp congressmen been called on to put their men thru the hoops? Not that any one has heard.

There are more customers than merchants, so it is popular to put a ceiling on prices. There are more tenants than landlords, so it is popular to put a ceiling on rents. But wage earners and farmers are powerful groups at the polls, the groups whose support the New Deal has wooed and purchased for a decade. The administration has taken credit for and made political capital of its sponsorship of the popular parts of inflation control. Why permit it to shift to congress its failure to put into effect the unpopular measures—the missing legs of the stool?

TWELVE TIMES AS MUCH (Daily Oklahoman, Oklahoma City): Taxes collected in the 48 states now total 12 times the taxes collected 25 years ago. War conditions and the necessity for saving the country at any cost do not explain this increase. For the curve of taxation began to rise sharply in 1915. That was long before the attack on Pearl Harbor. It was even before the World War broke in 1917.

It would take volumes, perhaps, to explain this terrific increase in the maintenance cost of state government in the 48 commonwealths. Even if fully explained, it would be difficult to understand. Big as it is, if you are too busy to master the subject and digest the details, you might entertain yourself with this question, "Is state government worth 12 times as much to me as it was 25 years ago?"

People You Know

Maybe everybody knows more of what's going on than I do, but I didn't know until yesterday that Attorney Arthur Teed is the government agent for the Gray County Selective Service board. That means that he represents both the government and the men in appeals. He reads every questionnaire, and he notes all classifications. If he thinks that somebody is classified wrong he can call attention of the board to it. If some man thinks he is classified wrong, he can appeal to Mr. Teed. If some one thinks that somebody else is classified wrong he can take the matter up with Art. Any appeal from the local board's determinations must be made thru Mr. Teed who will take it up with the board of appeals at Amarillo. The final appeal of course can be made at Washington. Mr. Teed has made no appeals for the government, although a number of appeals have been made by registrants. In each instance the board has been upheld. Mr. Teed donates his time to the board, and that amounts to about 30 minutes a day. So you see, Mr. Teed is attorney for the draft board and his actions are approved by him, else he can appeal. Needless to say the country is fortunate in having a lawyer as conscientious and forthright as Mr. Teed for its appeal agent. And it might here be stated that Mr. Teed has found no fault with the board, or vice versa, and that's to the credit of both.

A smiling, confident and happy soldier arrived in Pampa, Friday night to spend three days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Nash. The husky young man is First Sgt. Albert Mayse, Nash whom everybody called "Boo!" when he was a star on the Harvester football and basketball teams. Sgt. Nash enlisted in the army, or rather the 7th cavalry, 19 months ago, as a buck private. For the first ten months he did his job cheerfully, but he was waiting, like everybody else, for the time when he would get out of the army. At times he got pretty fed up with being nursemaid to the horses. Then along came Pearl Harbor and Pvt. Nash took new interest in the army. In fact, he took so much interest that all at once he was promoted from private to first sergeant, an unprecedented promotion. In that role he had more than a hundred men in his charge. Well, Mayse made good at that, and last week he received orders to attend the cavalry officer candidate school at Fort Riley, Kans., and he will leave in about a week for Fort Riley with 29 men in his charge, all of whom will attend the school. He will be there three months, and at the end of that time, if everything goes right, he will be commissioned a second lieutenant. But Mayse doesn't intend to stop here—you know that if you know Mayse. In war time promotions come fast and if I had a guess I'd say that Mayse is liable to be a colonel before this war is over. The army now means everything to Mayse and he wouldn't trade his job in the army for the best you could name in civilian life. Mayse was always easy to get along with, but now he's a fighting man, and he believes that the place for young men is in the armed forces. Pampa has many young men to be proud of, and Mayse is one of them. Especially since he worked his way up from the buck private rank. Mayse will return to

News Behind The News The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

EXPANSION: The cancellation of the contract for 22 ships scheduled to be built at Andrew Jackson Higgin's New Orleans yards reflects credit rather than criticism on the marine branch of American industry. The makers of the wooden bridges across the seas, especially the Kaiser interests on the west coast, established records which nobody at Washington dared to dream of or blueprint. When these miracle men cut the construction for one 10,000-ton Liberty freighter from more than 200 to 105 days, it was believed that the millennium had arrived. That a space of time was hailed as basic, and the general program as well as all future requirements was estimated in accord with this tempo. Not even when Edgar Kaiser, son of the family head, began to chip off a few weeks from this table in his Oregon plants did the maritime commission see any cause for concern or for revamping its charts. It attributed his achievements to superior executive and managerial ability. He was, in reverse, "the ugly duckling" of the flock. Then the California companies controlled by the same people hit a similar rate of speed. The fever spread to rival Gulf and Atlantic coast corporations. Freight cars overloaded with materials—steel, lumber, engines, etc.—had to be rerouted from one spot to another in a dizzy manner because of these premature and surprising demands. Now it is figured that the number of days from laying the keel to final launching can be reduced to 35, which obviates the need for spending new millions and using scarce items on additional ways. Admiral Emory S. Land believes that the quota of 28 million tons for 1942 and 1943 can be met without further expansion.

DEBATE: Another factor contributes to the decision to call a halt to the "unbalanced growth" in the shipbuilding industry. While high officials do not care to discuss it publicly, they concede privately that the steadily mounting submarine sinkings may force a revolutionary shift in the method of moving troops and supplies to the United Nations' far-flung fronts. Negotiations have not progressed beyond the "controversial and exploratory stage." Higgins plea that they be permitted to change over to the construction of fleets of "flying fish." But it is feared that surface vessel production, no matter how swift, will never be able to catch up with losses from the U-boats. Although figures are secret, almost two million tons of United States merchantmen have gone to the bottom in western waters since Jan. 15. So the cry arises for concentration on sky freighters. The immediate problem is to determine how much material shall be divided between air liners and the old-fashioned 10,000-tonners. For obvious reasons

Fort Bliss Monday, stay several days and then take himself and his men to Fort Riley.

One reason why the draft board has to draft older men is because most all the young men volunteer. Yesterday and Friday got nine Pampa boys, and that's quite a record in two days. Joining the navy were John and Willie Garth Christie and Ralph Smith. The marine enlistments were Ralford Allen, James Barclay and Eugene Jeffers, and coast guard enlistments were Bert Isbell, T. G. Burnings and Buster Wilkins. All these boys had or could have had jobs in defense plants, but they decided they had heard enough about the boys who fight, and that they wanted to be those who hear about.

Half Truths Malign Flying Fortresses

By PETER EDSON

One of the most persistent of the whispering campaign stories about American aircraft has been a report that the first time American Flying Fortress bombers were sent over Europe on a daylight raid, five of the seven ships were shot down.

This story has received wide circulation. Its effect has been to spread the idea that the Flying Fortresses were unsuited for use against the Germans and to destroy confidence in what has been hailed as the most potent air weapon of the war. So alarming has been this word that the army air force and Boeing company, which made the original ships, assigned some of their personnel to run down the source of the story. It is now possible to tell what really happened.

The main fact of the story is essentially accurate. Seven Flying Fortresses, flown by RAF pilots, were sent on a daylight raid against an important objective, and five of them were shot down. But the facts behind the raid reveal an amazingly careless disregard for correct tactical handling of the big ships, and this caused the heavy losses.

It was not the first time the Fortresses had been sent over the continent, either, but the second. On both trips they were unescorted by fighter planes. The first time, the planes went over at high altitude, which is what the Fortresses were designed for. Daylight precision bombing at heights above ack-ack and pursuit plane ceilings. The course to the object was flown blind, there being a heavy haze.

ON THE NOSE: Not being able to see their target, no bombs were dropped, this first raid, but when the planes reached the point where the navigators said the target should be, photographs were taken, using filters and trick infrared photographic equipment. The planes, unchallenged, flew home.

When their films were developed, it was discovered the planes had been right over their target. Had they dropped their bombs, they would have registered direct hits.

Elated, the RAF command ordered the planes sent back on the same mission the following day. This time the pilots were told to go in at 15,000 feet. Why, will never be known. Maybe it was because they had encountered no opposition when they had gone over at much higher altitudes.

Anyway, the weather on this flight was clear. The pilots obeyed orders. And the Germans were waiting. Apparently warned by the previous day's flight, they came up with everything they had in the vicinity. What they did to the big bombers was plenty. German attack planes went after them from above, below, and the sides. And five of the seven were shot down. One limped home and made a crash landing. Photos show the fuselage riddled with bullet holes.

It was from this tragic misuse of the Flying Fortresses that the planes began to get their bad name in England. The story was repeated, and word got around that the Flying Fortress was a washout for use in Germany, though it might be all right against undefended objectives.

CHANGES UNFOUNDED: The Flying Fortress was said to be too slow, to be insufficiently armed, to carry an inadequate bomb load—two tons against British first seven months of our participation.

PACIFISTS: The Scringeurs of Washington, D. C., appear to be working both sides of the street. The comparatively unknown family, which recently admitted before a Congressional committee that it had cleaned up a million dollars in brokers' fees on rearmament contracts, owns a business structure on a popular downtown boulevard. It occupies the first floor where deals involving all sorts of munitions have been negotiated daily. One flight up is the office of the National Council for the Prevention of War. The organization is headed by Frederick J. Libby, one of the world's most noted pacifists. But Washington is like that these days!

DEFENSE: Members of congress are becoming increasingly provoked over the tendency of press and public to assail them for their errors of both omission and commission before and since Dec. 7. But recent outbursts displayed a tongue-in-the-cheek pose. The solemn seizure of editorial castigation as a means of laying the blame for the unfortunate conduct of the war on the administration. A careful reading of their statements shows they they attribute lack of alertness at Pearl Harbor to Secretaries Knox and Stimson but not to their former colleague Hull. Shortages now threatening the building of an army and navy are due, they insist, to lack of foresight in the War Production Board. They maintain that the apparent inability to overcome submarines knocking at our ports and the alleged poor performance of our planes as compared to Japanese planes are not the faults of Capitol Hill. They emphasize that they appropriated every penny asked but that they do not have a voice in its spending. The Congressional defense proved the worst tongue-lashing F. D. R. has received from any source since this nation formally entered the conflict. And that is what members mean if to be. Moreover it was delivered mainly by key men in the President's own Party. The incident demonstrates that the boys with their ears to the political and journalistic ground are wise to the fact that their constituents are not at all satisfied with our beligerent accomplishments for the

The Fortress, known to the army as the B-17, is faster than the Consolidated B-24 and was built for long-range, high altitude bombing—around 3,000 miles at 30,000 feet or better—carrying two tons of bombs at this extreme range. When the range is cut down to around 500 miles and the gasoline load can be decreased, the bomb load can be increased accordingly. —

Flying Fortress armament has been stepped up with each new model. The first Fortresses carried only 30-caliber machine guns, and no tail gun. The Japs found that out and did considerable damage to Fortresses in the Far East. That was corrected and in the battle of Midway the big bombers had a field day. —

Today, the Fortresses carry eight or more 50-caliber machine guns, including two in the tail, and are the world's heaviest armored planes. Better big bombers unquestionably will be built before the war is over, but the word from the air force today is not to sell the Flying Fortress short. —

SPORTS IN WARTIME

By HUGH WILLIAMSON Associated Press Staff

Vic Kormeier, who will never be happy until every man, woman and child in Dallas is spending all leisure time at the public playgrounds, gnawed his cigar and wondered where his next horseshoe was coming from.

Kormeier revealed that one of his colleagues from the park department went to the hardware store to buy a keg of horseshoes for the benefit of those who pitch same for diversion. The man returned without the horseshoes.

It seems that horseshoes are being sold under a war production board order, only to those who have horses.

There is such a thing as a special shoe for pitching, of course, and the serious followers of the sport use this kind. The experts in horseshoe pitching's upper brackets provide their own implements, just as a bowler totes his own ball and a golfer his own clubs.

But the casual player does not know a regulation shoe from something that once adorned the left hind hoof of a mule, and doesn't care.

Kormeier called around the sporting goods stores and learned that there are a few of the regulation shoes on hand, and that when those are gone, there won't be any more. "We'll weld 'em," Kormeier said, snapping at his cigar. "When the horseshoes break, we'll weld 'em together again. We'll keep on welding 'em until there is nothing left to weld."

Horseshoe pitching is a popular sport here. At one park here are five regulation courts that are occupied daily from dawn to dark. A tournament is held weekly. But when the shoes all wear out—what to do?

Kormeier's cigar stopped bobbing up and down and held a point on the ceiling.

"Silver dollars!" he said. "Why, of course. Those things that are lying around in banks taking up space and not being used as a medium of exchange or anything else."

There's the answer, Kormeier said. When the horseshoes are all gone, silver dollars will take their place. People will dig little holes in the ground, stand away a few yards and try to pitch the dollars into the holes.

The horses will get the shoes and everybody will be happy, including Kormeier—provided the parks are jammed every day with people hurling hard money around.

VAN LINGLE MUNGO, the old bad boy of Brooklyn, joins New York Giants, his former feuding partners, after minor league comeback.

Mungo Still Has Fast Ball And Temper Too

By BURTON BENJAMIN NEA Service Staff Correspondent NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Two years ago, visions like this probably would have committed you to an institution.

The door of the New York Giants dressing room opens. Van Lingle Mungo walks in. No one notices him. He is in a room of odor of tar and feathers.

Dick Bartell stands up. "Your locker's right next to mine, Van old son," he beams.

They smile, exchange little social amenities. The room is heavy with esprit de corps. It has come to pass. Mungo the Magnificent has been reincarnated at Cooogan's Bluff.

The transition will alarm sociologists. From near infancy, Mungo was trained by such gentle souls as Wilbert Robinson, Max Carey, Casey Stengel, Burrell Grimes and Leo Durocher to loathe the New Yorkers.

His hate for the Giants is legendary. There was that charming afternoon when he dusted off Bartell and Rowdy Richard charged him with flashing spikes. The set to terminate with Mungo clamping a half-Nelson on the noisy, little infielder and throttling him quite unmercifully.

TERRY APPROVED MUNGO'S PITCHING 'Yet, if time will not heal these wounds, Mungo's fast ball will. He comes highly recommended. Scout Dutch Reuther of the Chicago Cubs calls him the "best pitcher in the minors." General Manager Bill Terry gave him a personal once-over before the Giants bought him.

Reports from Minneapolis, where he won 11 and lost 3 with the so-so Millers, say he is in perfectly workable condition. His main trouble there was his inability to pitch in 1934, in shutouts in '35 and in strikeouts in '36.

Mungo hurt his arm pitching with his usual ferocity against the Giants in 1937. For six innings, he was unhittable, but he pulled a muscle in his back and was knocked out of the box.

This injury strained his arm when he pitched in the all-star game in Washington. After two useless seasons, he went on the voluntarily retired list in 1940 to have it operated on. He returned as a coach later that season.

After his Havana episode, he was shipped to the Dodgers' Montreal farm. He was sold out of the Dodger organization this year and began his remarkable comeback at Minneapolis.

Van Lingle Mungo still is the most fabulous and revered personality in the history of Brooklyn baseball.

Heafner Quits St. Paul Open

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 1. (AP)—"I'm just a screwy guy—been trying to figure myself out for years." With that explanation, big Clayton Heafner today withdrew from the $5,000 St. Paul golf open.

A pre-tournament favorite, the Liville, N. C. pro, who in the last month won the Mahoning valley open at Girard, O., and was runner-up to Byron Nelson for the Tam O'Shanter title, in a play-off, missed a short putt on the sixth hole.

Turning to the score keeper, he said: "I'm through, don't keep my card."

He finished out the nine holes with unofficial 37. He was far behind the leaders yesterday with a first round 75, three over par. "I like the course and the folks fine," he said in the locker room, "and I was hitting my shots pretty well. But I just don't feel like playing. I can't figure myself out."

200 Football Players Now Wear Uniform

By ROMNEY WHEELER

ATLANTA, Aug. 1. (AP)—If southern football looks strange of face this season, and a bit ruffled around the edges, here's why.

More than 200 players—half of them undergraduates—have been contributed to the nation's war effort since Jan. 1 by the Southern conference... plus 25 coaches, assistant coaches and trainers.

Alabama, 1942 Cotton Bowl champion, has lost a dozen eligible players to the armed services, along with 11 graduates and five members of Frank Thomas' coaching staff.

Georgia, Orange Bowl champion, has sent 14 undergraduates, plus 11 graduates and four coaches.

Mississippi has only 15 players left from its varsity squad of 41 which challenged last fall for the unofficial conference championship.

Twenty-two undergraduates are in service, seven others in war plants. Seven graduates and four members of Coach Harry Mehre's staff are at war.

Auburn reported three varsity men in service, along with five graduates and five coaches. Florida has sent 10 graduates into service, three undergrads and six coaches.

Georgia Tech listed 12 grads, four undergrads, and three coaches; Kentucky nine seniors, six undergraduates and four coaches.

Least affected was Mississippi State, losing one sophomore guard to the army, two others to war work. Eight 1942 seniors and three coaches are in service. Tulane has given 11 undergrads, 12 seniors, one assistant coach. Tennessee saw Col. Bob Neyland go in 1941, subsequently lost one assistant coach and three seniors.

Five Vanderbilt graduates, six eligible players, and Line Coach Paul Bryant are in service, while Louisiana State has contributed four players, ten seniors, and two coaches.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 1. (AP)—Pete Reiser, batting on borrowed time, smacked a three-run homer in the eighth inning today and the Braves were easily enough to give the Brooklyn Dodgers a 6-4 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

The Dodgers, who were destined to win an argument sooner or later, finally prevailed upon an umpire to change a decision, although it probably couldn't happen any place except in Brooklyn.

With the Dodgers leading, 6-2, and two men on and two out, Reiser cut a 2-2 pitch which he barely ticked. The ball popped into the mitt of catcher, Clyde McCulloch, and Umpire Lee Ballanfant called the National league batter leading over on strikes.

But the Dodgers claimed that the ball struck the dirt before McCulloch caught it and Umpire Babe Pinelli backed them up in their protest. Ballanfant reversed his decision and called Reiser back to the plate.

Lieut. Moser is a dashing triple-threat halfback who passes as well as he runs and runs as well as he kicks. He made several All-American selections last season.

Candidates with Lieut. Moser for the army eleven that will play against the pros are Nathan Burak, George Washington University lineman; Lloyd Kipping, center from Iowa; Warren Frewitt, a quarterback from Southwestern U.; William Henley, quarterback at Tennessee Poly; Emery Kennedy, 246-pound tackle who played one season at the University of California; Wilber Nasta, 235-pounder, a tackle for five seasons with Bridgeport, Conn. in east coast pro competition; Forrest Lee, Centenary college halfback; Edward Simmons, a 230-pound lineman with the Kisco Maroons independent team in New York state; and Clyde Boyer, Chicago semipro halfback.

Their names are being submitted to an army agency which will select the teams.

Roland Phillips Of Pampa Named On All-Star Squads

ABILENE, Aug. 1. (AP)—The football season in Texas is not supposed to open officially until Sept. 1 but you'd think somebody had his dates crossed by a glimpse at the goings on here Monday.

Forty-eight huskies will be mailing the pigskin out at Hardin-Simmons university and some 150 men will be absorbing the latest strategy of gridiron warfare from a crack company of experts.

It will be the opening of the tenth annual football clinic held by the Texas High School Coaches association.

Bill Carmichael of Bryan, secretary-treasurer of the association, said attendance would be about half of what it was last year, this being attributed to the transportation situation and to the fact that so many coaches have joined the armed forces.

The 48 youngsters to don the moleskins will be stars of last fall's campaign who have finished their high school eligibility. They will tangle Saturday night in the eighth annual all-star game.

Heading that faculty for the school will be Frank Leahy, youthful coach of Notre Dame, and Wallace Butts, colorful mentor of the Georgia Bulldogs.

In addition to conducting the football clinic, Leahy will coach the North all-stars and Butts will tutor the South.

Edward McKeever of Notre Dame, Jack Sisco of North Texas state and Joe Balley Cheaney of Southwest Texas state also will serve on the staff of instructors.

A crowd of 7,200—capacity for the stadium—is expected for the all-star game, proceeds of which will be divided between army, navy and local USO after expenses, purchase of awards for players and instructors' salaries are taken out.

Here are the all-star squads: North: Centers—Pete Lewbit, Corsicana; Roland Nabors, Lubbock.

Guards—Burrell Collins, Amarillo; Garland Fawcett, Hillsboro; Earl Easley, Overton; Jack White, Paris; John L. Rudasill, Tanguis.

Tackles—Gus Gallagher, Breckenridge; ROLAND PHILLIPS, PAMPA; Tom Collins, Abilene; Weldon Springer, Greenville.

Ends—Troy Stewart, Wichita Falls; A. J. Coker, Comanche; Nick Lanza, Adamson (Dallas); Wick Mason, Plainview.

Backs—Gene Hill, Wichita Falls; Gus White, Lamesa; Loarn Weems, Nacogdoches; Wayne Burnett, Tyler; Bill Blackburn, Sunset (Dallas); Marion Flanagan, Sweetwater.

They pinned this picture of Marty and his kid over the Timeclock!

It was a swell idea. Because the timeclock, like Marty who used to work in the machine shop, was a symbol. America was fighting desperately for time. Time to produce more planes, more tanks, more ships, more shells.

Time plus energy. Put them together and call them manhours. It takes 25,000 manhours to build a fighter plane, 15,000 manhours to build a big tank.

Where are they coming from in a hurry? Add a third ingredient to time and energy. Light!

We know that light—good light—is one way that increases production, cuts down waste and accidents. Therefore, it saves time. We know that light—good light—saves energy by reducing nervous tension, by helping people see faster, with less effort. That it adds to cheerfulness and builds morale in the home as well as the factory.

Today, poor lighting is a peacetime luxury we can't afford... not any longer.

Not now. Not with Marty's picture before us.

Father And Hero Son Re-United

SEATTLE, Aug. 1 (AP)—Old Frank Dixon looked up from his hospital bed incredulously today.

There, at his bedside were four of his sons. Three of them in business suits. The fourth, in naval uniform, of an aviation chief machinist's mate, was Harold Dixon, who bobbed around on the Pacific with two companions for 34 days last winter after their plane sank beneath them.

Frank Dixon hadn't seen Harold since the latter ran away 19 years ago to enlist in the navy. Now, seriously ill and with the long-absent son restored, Frank Dixon rumbled his own snowy hair and lifted a glass of tomato juice.

He pushed a glass of grape juice toward his hero son. The other three, Carl, Melvin and Frank, Jr., picked up glasses of water.

"All of you boys take a drink with me," the sick man's voice quavered happily. "I don't like to keep repeating this, over and over, but you will never know how much this means to me."

Harold laughed: "Here's mud in your eye, father! and many of 'em!" "Skool!" said the others.

They all drank.

Then Chief Dixon was telling his father and brothers all about that epic drift in the Pacific, on a rubber raft, of how he and the two younger sailors lived nearly five weeks on a bird, two small fish, a bit of shark, two coconuts and what rainwater they could catch in "basins" made of underwear.

Old Frank smiled happily, but there still was an incredulous look in his eyes.

They hadn't told him Harold was going to be there—Harold, who'd run away to sea 19 years ago, and now was home again, and with a navy cross on his breast for his dad to see and finger with trembling hand.

"You'll never know" repeated the sick man happily, "how much this means to me!"

Carl, from Hartford, Kas.; and Melvin, from Bartlesville, Okla., and Frank, Jr., of Seattle, laughed happily, too. It meant a lot to be around that bed—just about the size of the little rubber raft on which Harold had come back from the dead.

Salesmen Denied Gasoline Rations

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration today denied extra gasoline rations to salesmen, because of the "increasingly grave petroleum transportation shortage in the East."

Emphasizing that OPA had considered problems of traveling salesmen for several months and would continue to do so, Joel Dean, chief of the fuel rationing division, declared there was not sufficient gasoline available in the rationed area to allow salesmen more than a "B" ration book in addition to their "A" book.

"Every possible step has been taken to assure fair consideration for salesmen because we realize their important contribution in pioneering new goods and new markets," Dean declared.

"Yet we had to weigh against our admiration for American salesmen the serious petroleum shortage we are facing today."

Under rationing regulations, he explained, traveling salesmen could get as much as 448 gallons of gasoline a year, estimated to be about 45 per cent of the amount the average salesman uses.

The salesmen, under the leadership of the United Commercial Travelers and the Travelers Protective association, have based their pleas on the contention that present allowances were totally inadequate to meet their minimum needs and would in effect deprive them of their livelihood.

Funeral Of Grand Duchess Will Be Held In Private

NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—The funeral of Dowager Grand Duchess Marie Anne of Luxembourg will be held Monday in the strictest privacy in observance of her deathbed wishes.

To royal members of her household who gathered around her prior to her death in Doctors hospital last week, the 81-year-old former ruler of the tiny independent Duchy said that because of "affairs of the present day" she would prefer no outsiders at her last rites.

The former ruler had found sanctuary in the United States after fleeing to Portugal and thence to this country by trans-Atlantic plane.

DSC Posthumously Awarded Major

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 1 (AP)—The distinguished service cross was awarded posthumously today to Major David R. Gibbs "for extraordinary achievement and for gallantry under fire" in the Philippines.

Four generals and the personnel of the Albuquerque army air base participated in the impressive military ceremony in which the decoration was received by Major Gibbs' widow, Mrs. Marguerite (Becky) Gibbs.

Major General Ralph K. Cousins, commanding general of the West Coast Air corps training center, made the award.

The citation read in part:

"During an hour and a half of intense bombing and ground strafing in a raid on Clark Field, P. I. (Maj.) Gibbs proceeded calmly on foot to the dispersed positions of the squadrons he commanded. With no opportunity for cover, he supervised the protection of his equipment and directed his ground crews, all of whom were under fire for the first time."

Farmers Asked To Use Wheat Lands For War Crops

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 1—Can you shift part of your wheat acreage to war crops?

The Texas U. S. Department of Agriculture War Board this week asked wheat growers that question and urged them to "think twice before seeding your entire wheat allotment."

"Where land usually planted to wheat is suitable for the production of war crops, we urge farmers to cut their wheat plantings and increase their plantings of war crops," B. F. Vance, board chairman, declared. "The national wheat acreage allotment of 55,000,000 acres, the minimum under the law, will produce far more wheat than we can use, especially in view of the two-year supply already on hand."

Other crops more vital to the war effort can be grown in place of wheat in most of the Texas wheat area, Vance pointed out.

JUST BETWEEN US GIRLS

[By JOHNNIE DAVIS]

The "luck" that I believe in
Is that which comes with work;
But no one ever finds it
Who's content to wish and shrink;
The men the world call "lucky"
Will tell you, every one,
Success comes not with wishing,
But by hard work, bravely done.

After what seemed to be an exceedingly short week of vacation, this writer is back on the job again. . . Even though we can't realize how time slips by so quickly, this week will mark another anniversary for us—Just five years ago on August 4 was our first day as society editor of The News. . . Something we've always imagined we might like is a 12 to 1 lunch hour. . . For five years our lunch hour has been from 11:30 to 12:30 o'clock and for the two preceding years it was from 1 to 2 p. m.

Numerous wedding anniversaries will be celebrated by Pampa couples this month. . . Yesterday Mr. and Mrs. Raymond W. Harrah observed their nineteenth anniversary. . . Next Tuesday, August 4, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hoare will have their twelfth anniversary observance. . . One year ago tomorrow, Louise Stotts and Frank Scott said their I Do's on home plate of the Oiler baseball diamond. . . Second anniversaries will be celebrated by Maxine and Ray Evans on Monday and Eula and Burton Hobson on August 6. . . Congratulations to all.

With each era of development, a new group of people comes to Pampa to make their homes, some temporarily, others permanently. . . First were the pioneer ranchers and wheat growers; then in 1926 the oil boom began and after the boom many of these families remained because of various oil industries such as refineries and supply houses. . . Incentive for many new residents in Pampa now is the twin-engine bomber base and other defense work. . . These newcomers include Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Howard, formerly of Tulsa and New York; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Pfeiffer, Mr. and Mrs. James L. McCrary, Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Smith, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas V. Leahy, all of Tulsa; Mrs. Homer E. Council and Mrs. William T. Pinley of Oklahoma City; and Mrs. Gerald B. Nash. . . A new architect in town is Lieut. George W. Aderholt of Oklahoma City. . . Pampa is glad to welcome these new residents and all others not named. . . Some of the most ardent Red Cross workers in town are in this group of women. . . Which reminds us that more volunteers are needed for cutting and sewing in the local Red Cross production room. Knitters have continued to work throughout the summer but more help is needed in cutting and sewing garments for the next Red Cross shipment.

Two pioneer families will be united this morning when Polly Oswald becomes the bride of Bus Benton in a sunrise ceremony. . . Polly's parents are old-timers at Mobeetie and Bus is a member of one of the best known families of Gray county. . . Polly is receptionist at Radio Station KPDM.

There is no place for snobbishness in war time. And yet there is plenty of it around. . . The civilian population falls all over itself to be friendly and helpful to officers. The slight of an officer's uniform has the magic of a good address, expensive clothes, or "fine old family." Everybody is impressed by officers. . . But the men who are giving up more than anyone else, the fellows who aren't yet officers and likely never will be, aren't getting the respect, courtesy, and gratitude due them from a great many civilians.

You even hear the phrase "just a private." He's "just a private" the girl who is dating one says apologetically. "He's just a private" a mother feels called on to explain to a snobbish friend. . . The men who are giving up most and who are going to have the toughest time in this war, the men we should make heroes of, aren't getting their due from civilians. . . That is not only snobbish, it's ungrateful. So let's not have any more "just a private" talk. The "just a private" guys are going to win the war, and the people whose homes they are fighting to preserve ought to treat them with sincere admiration and respect. If there is going to be any "just a—" talk, let's say "Just a civilian."

Nomination for one of the smoothest dancers: Dan Williams.

Patty Rutherford has been elected vice-president of Colts, a new club formed by the younger girls at Camp Arrowhead near Hunt. Mary Rutherford is president of Tapaderos, club for Western riders, and is a sponsor of the Colts club. She is active in the Pawnee tribe at Arrowhead and Patty is a member of the Kickapoo tribe.

There will be plenty of sitting under the apple tree this summer because there won't be any other place to go—much. . . So the best way to meet the situation is to build a barbecue pit or an outdoor cooking arrangement of some kind so that the entertaining sure to take place can be cheerfully out-of-doors. . . Or, if you're apartment bound, invest in a portable grill you can take to the nearest green spot beyond the city limits. . . Or settle for any simple outdoor cooking equipment with which you can comfortably hike. . . We're about to discover the unvarnished pleasures of our grandfathers.

Young Joan Lunsford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lunsford, is unusually talented for her age. . . She is spending the summer in learning to swim. . . Already she plays the accordion and piano exceptionally well.

It was George MacDonald who said "The old days never come again, because they would be getting in the way of the new, better days whose turn it is."

One practice this writer never gets through emphasizing and trying to correct is that of having every woman use her husband's name when signing a guest registry. . . If your name is Mrs. John Smith, sign it in that manner and not Mrs. Mary Smith or Mary Smith. . . Even though most clubs and lodges have adopted the practice of having members call one another by their given names, a newspaper story is no place for such informality. . . On several occasions we have taken time out to check the names in the city directory, but heretofore we are not going to do that and all names will be left out entirely unless they are properly signed Mrs. John Smith and Mrs. Tom Jones—not Mary Smith and Susie Jones.

A diminutive trio includes Mrs. F. C. Maddux and her daughters, Cherry Jean and Barbara. . . Barbara has always envied her older sister because of her curly hair, and Mrs. Maddux tried to convince her that straight hair cut in a Dutch bob was more becoming to her little face. . . But when Barbara finally talked her mother into letting her have a permanent wave, she told her mother that "curly hair was most becoming to her little face."

On June 14, United Nations Day, President Roosevelt, in his radio broadcast, gave to the nation the following prayer, written by Stephen Vincent Benet. It is being read in churches all over the world. "God of the free, we pledge our hearts and our lives today to the cause of all free mankind. . . Grant us victory over the tyrants who would enslave all free men and nations. Grant us faith and understanding to cherish all those who fight for freedom as if they were our brothers. Grant us brotherhood in hope and union, not only for the space of this bitter war, but for the days to come which shall and must unite all the children of earth."

"Our earth is but a small star in the great universe. Yet of it we can make, if we choose, a planet unweaved by war, untroubled by hunger or fear, undivided by senseless distinctions of race, color or theory. Grant us the courage and foresight to begin this task today that our children and our children's children may be proud of the name of men. . . The spirit of man has awakened and the soul of man has gone forth. Grant us the wisdom and the vision to comprehend the greatness of men's spirit, that suffers and endures so hugely for a goal beyond his own brief span. Grant us honor for our dead who died in the faith, honor for our living who work and strive for the faith, redemption and security for all captive lands and peoples. Grant us patience with the deluded and pity for the betrayed. And grant us the skill and the valor that shall cleanse the world of oppression and the old base doctrine that the strong must eat the weak because they are strong."

"Yet most of all grant us brotherhood, not only for this day but for all our years—a brotherhood not of words but of acts and deeds. We are all of us children of earth—grant us that simple knowledge. If our brothers are oppressed, then we are oppressed. If they hunger, we hunger. If their freedom is taken away, our freedom is not secure. Grant us a common faith that men shall know bread and peace—that we shall know justice and righteousness, freedom and security, an equal opportunity and an equal chance to do his best, not only in our own lands but throughout the world. And in that faith let us march toward the clean world our hands can make. Amen."

SNAPPED AS THEY GATHERED for a plunge into the cool waters of the Guadalupe were Elizabeth Ann Sturgeon of Pampa and girls from Amarillo and vicinity, during their recent vacation at Camp Waldemar, near Kerrville, where they spent six

Mrs. Boles Oldest Person Attending Primrose Party

The lawn of the First Methodist parsonage was the setting for the annual primrose party sponsored by the Council of Church Women Friday afternoon when presidents of various local church organizations served as hostesses to men and women of the community who are 65 years of age and over.

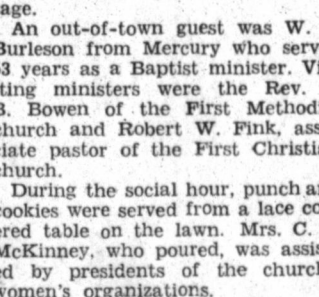

Paul Briggs of the First Baptist church led in a sing-song during which time old songs were selected by those present. Mrs. Claudie Gallman was at the piano.

Small groups were formed in which amusing childhood incidents were related. The outstanding entertainment of the afternoon was given by J. O. Merriman, 81 years of age, of Wheeler, who went from group to group playing his Stradivarius, which was made in 1718 and brought by him to Texas in 1887.

A bouquet was presented to Mrs. Margaret Boles for being the oldest person present. Mrs. Boles is 85 years of age. A. F. Rhodes, the oldest man attending, received a defense stamp boutonniere. Mrs. J. M. Garrett was given a defense stamp corsage as her birthplace was the farthest away. She was born in Germany. A. F. Rhodes, the man whose native state was the farthest away, was presented a defense stamp boutonniere. Mr. Rhodes is from Pennsylvania and served as a Methodist minister for 40 years. The oldest woman who had attended all three primroses was Mrs. J. M. Cash and she was awarded a defense stamp corsage.

An out-of-town guest was W. P. Burleson from Mercury who served 33 years as a Baptist minister. Visiting ministers were the Rev. E. B. Bowen of the First Methodist church and Robert W. Fink, associate pastor of the First Christian church.

During the social hour, punch and cookies were served from a lace covered table on the lawn. Mrs. C. L. McKinney, who poured, was assisted by presidents of the church's women's organizations.

PAGING FALL—This is the fingertip-length, boxy fur jacket style that's big news in forthcoming fall-winter collections. Persian lamb is used here. Tiny shawl collar, armholes big enough to be comfortable over a suit and big sleeves are fashionable details. Less expensive wraps also take this beautifully simple design this year, because it's a natural with WPB-slim skirts.

Miss Polly Oswald And Bus Benton To Wed This Morning

Miss Polly Oswald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Oswald of Mobeetie, will become the bride of Bus Benton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Nuptial vows will be read before an improvised altar of white gladioli, baby breath, fern, and lighted pink tapers.

Miss Oswald will wear a velvet suit of victory blue with brown accessories and a corsage of white rosebuds.

V Notes RED CROSS VOLUNTEERS

By MRS. FRED ROBERTS

Two conferences on the volunteer services of the American Red Cross were called this month by Mrs. Dwight Davis, national director of volunteer special services. The conferences, held in Los Angeles and San Francisco, were devoted to a discussion of improvements in the various corps, and the need for more women volunteers, especially in the production corps, to meet the vastly increased quotas of garments for foreign war relief and the army and navy.

In Pampa this need for more volunteers is also being felt. Mrs. J. B. Massa reports that there are still not enough women cutting and sewing to take care of the huge quota of blouses that is on hand now. This week the material for the new quota arrived and the old one is far from being completed. Cutting and sewing should be jobs that most women can do. There may be little glamor in such service to the people of Russia, but you can think of anything that you can do at home that is more worth while?

We hear that if Russia cannot hold out against the Germans, we will need 10 million men in our fighting forces and women will be drafted for all defense work. Surely sewing and cutting should be jobs that most women can do. There may be little glamor in such service to the people of Russia, but you can think of anything that you can do at home that is more worth while?

Cutting days are still the same—Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday afternoons from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock. You may get some sewing any day but Sunday, from 9 to 11 a. m. and 2:30 to 4:30 in the afternoon.

Mrs. M. F. Roche, production chairman, wants to ship blouses this week. If you have a blouse at home, can you finish it and get it in the first of the week, so that there will be time to get the buttons on and the buttonholes in before we ship? Mrs. Roche would especially like to ship all the size 46 blouses.

There are only 14 more olive drab turtle-neck sweaters of the emergency quota for the army left. Mrs. Roy Bourland would like to get these out this week. If you are an experienced knitter and are working on another type of garment, please try it aside and come in for one of these sweaters or helmets. Our deadline is Aug. 15.

Mrs. F. M. Baker sewed the best blouse for the week ending July 23 according to the vote of the production room assistants. Congratulations, Mrs. Baker.

Mrs. Clarence Kennedy sewed a size 38 blouse this week which is somewhat different from the larger sizes. It will be used as the first model blouse of that style. We start cutting them this week.

Miss Marie Klein, nursing consultant from the St. Louis Red Cross office, conducted a home nursing conference for three days last week at the Red Cross chapter house in Amarillo. This conference was held to assist nurses throughout the Panhandle who are now teaching Red Cross home nursing classes and those who are interested in teaching. The home nursing instructors and others of Pampa chapter who attended were Misses J. B. White, Margaret Dial, P. M. Culbertson, Fred Radcliffe, M. P. Downs, A. R. Sawyer, F. E. Leech, and Miss Ruth Shellhorn.

To those trained nurses who have not found time to offer their services as instructors, the Red Cross is directing a special appeal. Chairman Doyle Osborn asks you to con-

Memo To Prospective WAAC's: Enthusiasm Is Most Basic Need

By ELEANOR RAGSDALE
WASHINGTON—The army wants members of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps to be hard-working, well-disciplined soldiers—powered by a dynamo of enthusiasm. Col. Don C. Faith, the slight, gray-haired officer with a whimsical face and a charming directness of manner, who is commandant of the WAAC training center at Fort Des Moines, Ia., introduces his analysis of training principles by saying: "These girls and women must have purpose and enthusiasm—anything done without enthusiasm is poorly done." Doing K.P. duty, cleaning barracks, typing supply lists—and there'll be plenty of that for the WAAC's in "administrative companies"—can be drudgery. It will be drudgery, unless both officers and auxiliaries have that zest given by a knowledge that they are serving a vital purpose in the big army drive for victory.

Leadership must be developed. Discussing his first big problem, that of training the initial cadre of officer candidates who will take over the handling of regular auxiliaries next September, Colonel Faith emphasizes the importance of leadership. There are four approaches to leadership training, according to Colonel Faith. The first and simplest: taking turns directing eight-man squads and 50-man platoons in military drill—once the girls have mastered the rudiments of this military basic themselves. Second: the WAAC's will be given lectures on the set-up of the army—its organization, insignia, functions. This is to show them how they can fit in, not as inferior servants, but as essential parts of the whole great machine. Third: the girls to get an idea that they must have special privileges to reward them for "the great sacrifice" they are making, comments the commandant with a brown-eyed twinkle, indicating his grasp of feminine psychology despite the fact that his three children are all grown boys. "If we give the WAAC's beauty parlors—as we shall—it's simply because the men have barber shops. But their barracks life, their obligations to serve wherever and in whatever capacity the army demands—that must be just like the men."

To develop in the officers that pride and esprit de corps, which is essential to any group which must learn to function as one, all the WAAC's fill be indoctrinated with army tradition. They'll learn the taboos like no smoking on duty, for instance. Finally, the basic eight-week course for the $50-a-month officer trainees will teach them self-reliance, independence—how to take care of themselves without being a burden to the service. First aid, setting up exercises, tips on group living, adherence to a rigid regime from reveille to taps, polishing their own buttons and shoes will be part of this instruction. Just how the final testing for determination of rank will be done, Colonel Faith says, is "rather hazy just now," but will be evolved during the summer course. Graduates will be divided up. Some will be sent direct to posts for service in command of companies or platoons. Others didn't quite make the officer grade but remain in service as auxiliaries. Some will be given additional special training—such as aircraft warning or commissary management. A certain per cent will be kept as instructors for the first large group of enlisted auxiliaries who will be admitted to Fort Des Moines, beginning Sept. 15, at the rate of about 700 per month. From the ranks of these "privates" all future WAAC officers will be promoted.

Around Hollywood

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 1—Actors wanted. Experience desirable, but not essential. Must be personable and reasonably handsome, but should have physical handicaps such as waddling leg, leaky heart or 10 per cent vision. Special preference given a married man with large family. Ages 25-40 favored, but open up to 50 considered. Excellent opportunities for fame and fortune while working with stars such as Hedy Lamarr, Ginger Rogers, Dorothy Lamour, Rita Hayworth, Gene Tierney and others. Applicants should send into little-theater or stock companies to be judged by talent scouts.

Movie companies haven't got around to advertising for grease-paint recruits, but every major studio has talent scouts combing the country for actors in the classifications outlined above.

HOLLYWOOD needs actors who are almost certainly immune from the draft and are unlikely prospects for volunteer service. The studios frantically want men with types of immunity which will allow them to be publicized as actors without obligations for their not being in uniform. The time is not far off, I believe, when pictures will certify that: "All male members of this cast have satisfied their military obligations."

Various quarters in Washington have urged that important actors not subject to early drafting remain in Hollywood and help the movies in their morale effort. But they're not remaining.

Jimmy Stewart, David Niven, Richard Greene, Robert Montgomery, and Douglas Fairbanks were among the early departures and nobody was much surprised. But Clark Gable's enlistment was something else again. He's 41, and Errol Flynn, who was flatly rejected because of a bad ticker, is flying east again to try to persuade the army he can do something useful. Cary Grant is heading for an air corps job as soon as he finishes "Once Upon a Honeymoon." Rudy Vallee, who at 41 started a real career of acting, enlisted as a private.

AS soon as 20th-Fox can rush him through a submarine training school story titled "Crash Dive," Tyrone Power joins the navy. Another actor who has been deferred—reluctantly as far as he's concerned—is a graduate of the Shamrock High school. Mr. Turney came to Shamrock about four years ago from Duncan, Okla., and has been employed at the Lone Star Gas company compressor station as an engineer. Both are well known in this section and will make their home in Shamrock.

Others recently lost to Hollywood, Mickey Rooney, I understand, will put on a navy uniform soon.

Victor Mature, Robert Stack, George Montgomery and Jack Briggs are other important characters.

MIDDY FROCK

Lively young girls, flying back to school in September, will be wearing middies and skirts! The middies are streamlined—shaped smoothly through the midriff, topped with neat tailored collars—just as you see in our pattern today! This blouse can be worn out, as shown in our big sketch, or tucked in, as shown in the small view.

Pattern No. 8231 is in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. Size 8 years, short sleeves, takes 2 3/4 yards 35-inch material for middy and skirt.

PALL MADCAP—This madcap hat, a little like the French revolution's famous mob cap, accents the new fall "must"—high crowns. The felt is a fashionable hue—plum—that foretells a strong-color hat scene. It's trimmed with purple gros-grain ribbon. This is a millinery fashion inspiration original.

Marriage Of Miss Schlegel And C. J. Turney Announced

Special To The NEWS
SHAMROCK, August 1—A wedding of interest was that of Miss Lillie Mae Schlegel, daughter of Mrs. Clara Schlegel, and C. J. Turney, both of Shamrock.

Mrs. Turney was reared in Shamrock, and is a graduate of the Shamrock High school. Mr. Turney came to Shamrock about four years ago from Duncan, Okla., and has been employed at the Lone Star Gas company compressor station as an engineer. Both are well known in this section and will make their home in Shamrock.

Phillips Hits Oil In Gas Test Southwest Of Pampa

The Phillips Petroleum company, drilling for gas southwest of Pampa, struck oil in its No. 1 Lehman, section 185, block B-2, H&GN survey, last week. Flow was estimated at five barrels an hour. The oil pay was found in granite wash formation at 2,997 feet. The test will probably be deepened and completed as an oil well.

Phillips made eight gas locations in the area. Two previous tests by other companies within a mile of the new oil well found oil pay but the oil either disappeared or water encroached. Many operators believe there is a good oil pool in the area.

First intentions to drill field at the local office of the Texas Railroad Commission passed completion in the Panhandle oil field last week for the first time this year. But not many more than half of the locations have actually been drilled because of the 40-acre spacing rule and inability to secure pipe.

A total of 194 first intentions to drill have been filed while a total of 189 new wells have been tested and given open flow potentials.

Eleven new locations and five completions were registered in the field last week.

The Panhandle wildcats are either drilling ahead with no pay reports or are preparing to spud in.

In Carson county Standind Oil and Gas company is rigging up for its wildcat test six miles south of St. Francis at the intersection of four counties. The well is being called "Old Tack" No. 3 as well as J. E. Griffin No. 1. It is the third attempt to hit oil near Amarillo.

In Hall county the Humble Oil & Refining company's wildcat is drilling in hard formation below 3,300 feet while in Dallam county the Pure Oil company's wildcat is going ahead below 5,000 feet.

One of the most interesting wells of the year was completed last week when the Skelly Oil company brought in its 150th well on the Schafer ranch located in Gray and Carson counties. The well was gauged for 190 barrels.

Total potential of the five new wells was 704 barrels with three tests in Hutchinson county and one each in Gray and Carson counties.

Six of the new locations staked were in Gray county, all by the Magnolia Petroleum company on its Fee 227 land in section 14, block 3, I&GN survey. Three new locations were in Carson county and two in Hutchinson county.

Completions by counties:

In Carson County
Skelly Oil Co., No. 150 Schafer ranch, section 196, block 3, I&GN survey, was given a potential of 190 barrels.

In Gray County
Bus Baldrige No. 4 Davidson, section 65, block B-2, H&GN survey, gauged 65 barrels.

In Hutchinson County
Gray County Production Co., No. 4 Jasper, section 23, block 2, TCRR survey, tested 36 barrels.
J. M. Huber Corp., No. 5 Bryan, section 2, block M-21, TCRR survey, gauged 231 barrels.

The Texas Co., No. 11 S. B. Burnett, section 127, block 5, I&GN survey, was given a potential of 182 barrels.

Cities Service Oil Co., Fields No. 7, 330' from the north and 330' from the east line of section 13, block 7, I&GN survey, Carson county.

Second Urgent Calls
Come From Panama
The second urgent call this month came from Panama today for additional boatbuilders, marine copersmiths, boilermakers and machinists, riveters, shipfitters, and shipwrights, according to Vaughn Darnell, secretary, local U. S. Civil Service board.

"Men between the ages of 18 and 55 who have experience in any of these trades are urged to serve their country where their skill is needed most," Mr. Darnell said.

Wages range from $1.48 to $1.52 an hour with time and one-half for overtime.

Appointees will be furnished transportation from their homes to the Canal Zone and will be reimbursed for the cost of their meals.

Specific information regarding these positions can be obtained from any first or second class post office in Louisiana or Texas, or from the manager, 10th U. S. Civil Service district, Customhouse, New Orleans, La.

By BERNARD S. O'HARA
NEW YORK, Aug. 1 (AP)—Further quiet in the grain market today enabled the stock market to emerge from a spotty week tilting slightly upward on balance. Wheat and corn were a trifle in the majority from the start, these inclined to keep commitments light throughout on the belief that war news might tend to reverse over Sunday. Attendance in boardrooms was exceptionally scanty.

Dealings were more sluggish than those a week ago, transfers of 114,830 shares comparing with the previous two-hour session turnover of 115,970. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks held a net gain of 1 of a point at 86.5 but on the west was off 2. For July the composite registered an advance of 1.1 points.

Steels lacked the spirit of Friday although Bethlehem moved up a point on a total of 400 shares for the entire proceedings. U. S. Steel advanced 25 minutes late up 1/4 on 100 shares. Another 100 changed hands near the finish, and that was all the business this weather did. It held the 1/4 advance and Republic Steel was up 1/4.

Dealings were rather well, reflecting the outlook for mounting box office receipts. Lowe's was up 1/4 at a new top of 18.9. Paramount advanced a trifle. Among rails Atlantic Coast Line edged into new high ground for the year. Others on the improve side included Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Great Northern, Union Pacific, Chrysler, Goodrich, American Telephone, United Aircraft, and Phillips Morris.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1 (AP)—Hedge sales placed against purchases of substantial amounts of cash grain to come to Chicago today. Dropped wheat prices fractions to new seasonal lows and corn more than a cent to the lowest quotations for a month.

Wheat later recovered but corn showed little rallying power. Favorable weather for corn development and prospects that the government will announce lower prices for feed wheat early next week depressed the feed grain. War news remained a disturbing factor in all pits.

Wheat started higher, reflecting short covering and some buying credited to mills, but quickly weakened. September fell 1/2 cent from the early high to 1 1/2, off 1/4 from last night, before rallying. Closing prices were 1/2 off 1/4 higher compared with yesterday, September, 1.18 1/2, December, 1.19 1/2.

Corn closed 1/4-1/2 lower, September 87 1/2, December 90 1/2; oats 1/4-1/2 off; soybeans 1/4 higher, and rye 1/4-1/2 lower. Wheat prices were off 3 to 4 cents compared with a week ago; corn 2 to more than 3 cents.

Lamarr Fairest 'Eater Of Words' In All Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—This town's steady diet, whatever other eating fads may come and go, is words. Its own words. Never a day passes but somebody eats a positive statement. Today's prettiest word-eater is Hedy Lamarr. Hedy is the girl who said, emphatically, that no movie would ever get her into a sarong, a slendang, or any form of related drapery. And Hedy is the girl who today is playing Tondeleyo, the fiery little viper of tropic passion, in "White Cargo."

"Ah!" said mercurial Hedy, flashing a brilliant white smile through the copper dusk of her make-up. "Ah! Somebody is always remembering what people say last month, or two months ago!"

In other words, the gorgeous Lamarr had changed her mind. She was playing Tondeleyo because she liked it, and she was holding no punches. Her Tondeleyo would be a wicked, very wicked little girl, with a heart as dark as her skin, and there would be none of Hedy Lamarr's allure, to Lamarr's sarong—but Leon Gordon says it's just an elongated loin-cloth, a loose skirt. Gordon ought to know because nearly 20 years ago he wrote "White Cargo" and saw it launched on its strange career as a theatrical legend—a play saved for posterity by an Army-Navy football game.

It was a story of Africa's gold coast, of white men as victims of the heat, the withering, sweating climate. It was meller-drama through and through, and its locale, its characters were calculated to make it click. Gordon opened it in a Greenwich Village theater,

RAF Roasts And Toasts Duesseldorf

By DREW MIDDLETON
WITH THE RAF BOMBER COMMAND, Aug. 1 (AP)—This is bad moment. Outside in the moonlight you can hear bombers a long way away. But you don't know whether they are units of this squadron returning from the attack on Duesseldorf or Jerry on the prowl. The where it starved. There were more mice than customers in the theater, and even the mice were indifferent. The closing notice went on the board backstage. The play was dragging through its death throes when one night Gordon, as usual, asked about "the house." He expected the usual "It's empty." Instead, he got the reply: "It's full!"

"The only way I can explain it is that football game," he says. "Broadway was crowded after the game, and all the other shows were sell-outs. Those who couldn't get tickets for anything else must have taken what they could—which was 'White Cargo' downtown. And after that—"

"White Cargo" caught on, built and built, and held on for a six-year run, thus foreshadowing the experience of the later "Tobacco Road." Gordon, 12 years a Metro writer, still gets occasional royalty checks from road and stock shows of his play, but he sold the movie rights years ago to a British company which made a "very bad" silent film of it. Metro bought the property after Gordon presented an idea for revising its more torrid (and censorable) angles.

RAF Roasts And Toasts Duesseldorf

Everyone listens and grins. Then a red-headed girl gives D for Donald instructions for landing. The huge wing of the Lancaster bomber that is D for Donald are moonlit as the plane thunders across the field and glides majestically to a perfect landing. A few moments later, the blond pilot assures you:

"That was a big one for Duesseldorf, a regular 'Coloqner.' We just went in there and 'pranged 'em' and got away. There is a lot of future in a raid like that."

"A lot of future" is the highest praise in the RAF for a well-done bombing job.

"There were hellish big fires. They were still burning when we recrossed the coast on the way home. Every time we dropped a two-tonner into them, the fires seemed to jump at you."

In they come—F for Freddy, B for Beer... that's the way the RAF identifies their planes. They are big black planes manned by grinning youngsters who fly into the teeth of the German defenses—tonight, tomorrow, any night.

Sgt. Eugene Chouiniere of Waterford, N. Y., was the rear gunner on one of the planes. He is a 19-year-old freckle-face with steel-rimmed glasses and a mild manner.

"We did okay," he said. "Duesseldorf was roasting when we arrived and we gave it plenty more. We straddled the target from every direction. You could see flames running through the factories. Naw, I didn't see a Jerry night fighter on the whole trip. Not much flak either. I must be unlucky. I ain't seen one yet."

Chouiniere and Sgt. Alfred Parkyn of (436 Lincoln st.) Fallades, Park, N. J., were the only Americans in the squadron. Both expect to be transferred to the United States Army corps soon.

SECOND HONEYMOON

CHAPTER VIII

"I've taken a bath. I've brushed my teeth. I've shaved and dressed. But before I tackle my hair, please tell me whether I have a date with you or not."

Bart stood in the doorway, grinning at her. Christie laughed, letting her eyes dwell admiringly on her handsome husband.

"You've a date with the family—a luncheon date. And you won't mind because you'll be the big shot. They're so proud of your uniform, the brass buttons and especially the wings. Get set to tell them how good you are."

Just as she had foreseen, Mrs. Colton asked scores of questions. "But isn't it lonesome, Bart? All those boys had wives, sweethearts, mothers. They've been accustomed to going about, doing things. Then, suddenly, they're dumped into some place with nothing to do."

"Nothing to do?" Bart laughed. "Have you a hostess house?" Mrs. Colton continued, "and do you have any fun?"

"Yes," Bart answered both of her questions. "We have shows, field meets, tea dances, suppers—oh, yes, we have fun in between practice flight, saber drills, aerial reviews, and the regular routine."

"That reminds me," Bart added, "Sandra drove to the field the other day. She has an idea that she'd be a good entertainer."

Christie didn't speak for a moment, afraid her irritation would show. Of course, Sandra had every right to visit the field, every right to become an entertainer if she wanted to. If this were not Bart's field, she'd probably agree that it was a good idea.

She lifted her eyes from her plate and smiled at Bart. "I imagine Sandra would be pretty good at that," she said. She thought Bart looked relieved.

A moment later, Christie glanced at her wrist watch. "Hate to run," she said. "But there's a meeting of my surgical dressing unit. I'm the instructor, Bart."

"Good for you!" But Bart looked doubtful. He added, "What am I supposed to do?"

"Jan, you and Mother keep Bart amused," Christie commanded. "I'll be through about 4:30."

Bart was at his mother's the next morning when Jan came by the apartment.

"You're all bones again," Christie said seriously. "You and that cigaret habit—and I don't know why. Something on your mind?"

Jan was staring out of the window, moodily. She wheeled around: "Why don't you run around more with Bart when he's at home, instead of letting Sandra amuse him?"

"You forget I have a quota to meet. . . committee work—" she broke off. "Sandra! What in the world do you mean?"

"We all landed at Sandra's yesterday afternoon. She was having a party—a good one, too. You should have seen the ridiculous skit she put on. . . and you should have seen her showing your husband a new jit-step."

Christie frowned. "It doesn't sound dignified for an officer."

"I think he forgot he was an officer and was just a man," Jan replied.

"Why are you talking like this, Jan?" Christie asked in a low voice.

"Because I feel all mean inside. I guess," Jan's voice was bitter. "You've been quarreling with Stephen."

"No, it's worse than that. Stephen doesn't care enough to quarrel."

Christie said, "Maybe he does care. Men have a harder time when they feel they can't support a girl."

"It isn't that, either," Jan's voice was so low it was almost a whisper. "I think he cares for someone else."

"I shouldn't let it worry me," she said quickly before Christie could speak. "He's really an awful fool, Christie. He says the most awful things, and he is going to lose his job at the Wainwrights if he isn't careful. He talks about Versailles and what the Allies didn't do to stop future wars when they had the power."

Things like that. Betty Wainwright said he would make a perfect fifth columnist and she wasn't joking when she said it."

"It is silly of Stephen to say things people might misunderstand," Christie agreed. "He's as loyal as we are. But he will lose his job. I'm going to speak to him."

"I'm leaving my coat," Jan said, turning to go. "It's turning hot as blazes." She looked at Christie and added, "He's so fortunate in having you for a little girl scout."

Christie hung Jan's coat up mechanically. Funny, Bart hadn't told her he'd stopped by Sandra's. Maybe he didn't think it was important. Then, when Stephen spouting off things which might not have sounded unpatriotic before the United States got in the war, but which had an almost treasonable sound now.

On an impulse she went to the telephone, called the Wainwright Chemical Co. She must warn Stephen. He was a nice boy with a mother to support—and Jan was certainly in love with him.

STEPHEN was out, the girl at the office said. She took the number and said she would ask him to call.

Christie was in her bath when the phone rang. Bart had come home, and she heard him answer. When she came into the living room later, Bart was bowed over the afternoon paper. "Hello," he said. Christie stood near him, waiting. Then she stooped and kissed him.

"Hello, yourself. Your welcome is as cold as my shower. Did I hear the phone ring?"

"You did. It was your friend, Stephen. I was about to tell him he had a damn lot of nerve calling my wife, but just then he said he was answering your call."

"He was," Christie said. She was about to explain why she had telephoned, and then decided against it. It would give Bart another reason for disliking Stephen.

Something in the deepening silence made Christie very angry.

"Why didn't you tell me that you went by Sandra's?" she asked.

"I didn't think you were interested," Bart answered. "You were so deep in that lecture business."

"Coming from a fighting man who should know how essential all that 'business' is, your remark is a little strange," Christie said.

They were quarreling. She must be very careful. This was the first rift, and it could be widened by the wrong words.

"Bart," Christie said, "we're silly." She sat down on the arm of his chair. Bart reached up quickly, pulled her down on his lap and smothered her with kisses.

"I'm sane and sensible," he said. "But sometimes I think you haven't a brain in your head. I don't know why I love such a dim-wit."

"For the same reason that I love one," Christie laughed. She sat up straight. Forbidden words were still so tantalizingly near the tip of her tongue.

"Bart, you like Sandra."

"Christie, she's a nice girl—she's fun."

"Why don't you think up some superlatives," Christie flamed. Anger was darkening in Bart's eyes.

"I won't have you going to Sandra's. I don't like her—and I don't trust her," Christie said.

"What I'm going to say has nothing to do with Sandra," Bart said, steadily. "I'm an individual, even though I'm married. And I don't take orders from anyone except a superior officer."

Flying Fortress Fights Off Dozen Jap Zero Planes

AN ADVANCED ALLIED AIR BASE IN AUSTRALIA, Aug. 1. (AP)—The crew of a United States flying fortress which fought off a dozen Japanese Zero fighter planes and returned to its base with some 200 bullet holes in the bomber described the encounter today.

The Americans fired more than 3,000 rounds of ammunition in an hour to blast their way out of what seemed a sure death trap high over the mountains and coast of New Guinea.

Two of the crew, Corporal Earl E. Curtis of Manchester, N. H., and Sergeant K. E. Gradi of St. Louis were grazed in the head by machine gun bullets.

Others in the fortress were Lieutenants L. S. Humison, of Puyallup, Wash.; Pilot Ernest L. Reid of New Haven, Conn., and Co-pilot Chester H. Budz of Housatonic, Mass.; Sergeants Bob Forsyth, Irwin, Pa., and Ben Hale, San Francisco, Calif., and top turret gunner; Corporal William Clarke, Chanute, Kas., side gunner; Sergeant Robert Freeman, Salisbury, Md., bombardier, and Private Harold Vandorn, Detroit, side gunner.

The Japanese hit the bomber with a number of cannon shots as well as more than 200 bullets but it shot down one enemy plane and possible others.

And when Pilot Reid landed the riddled machine, he was handed a cable announcing that his wife in America had a baby.

Humison said the fortress first ran into anti-aircraft fire.

"We were circling to get out of it when we saw five Zeros coming at us from shore," he continued. "To seaward the weather was bad, so we kept edging toward the land. We were 2,000 feet up when they jumped on us the first time."

"We ducked into the first cloud, and from then on it was a race from one cloud to another, with guns firing every minute we were in the clear."

"Soon seven or eight other Zeros joined the attacking force from all sides. They came at us from all quarters, but mostly from the front, and usually from the top."

"Then Hale got a blast into a Zero. Its engine cowling snapped off, and she just seemed to fly apart in the air."

From then on it was a fight to get over the mountains. After we were over we had to fly blind. We had to groundloop the plane to land but only beat a wheel."

The Rev. Edward C. Deer, pastor, had charge of the services and interment was in Shamrock cemetery by Clay Funeral home.

Mrs. Nixon was a pioneer of the Panhandle and lived in Shamrock for 30 years, moving here from McLean. She was born in Memphis, Tenn., on Aug. 11, 1864.

She is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Lola Nixon, Dozier, Mrs. Minnie McCracken, Shamrock, and Mrs. Ollie Dollar and Mrs. Viola McLemore, both of Amarillo; one son, Arthur McElroy, Amber, Okla.; one sister, Mrs. Mollie Slutter, Graham; and 30 grandchildren and 30 great-grandchildren.

R. H. Forrester presided over the meeting at Wheeler. Talks were made by R. D. Holt, president of the Wheeler Lions club, and Dr. V. N. Hall, past commander of the Wheeler American Legion post. The affair was under joint auspices of the Lions club and the Legion.

In Shamrock, Mayor Bill Walker and attorney Clayton Heare addressed a large crowd gathered in the downtown section. The Boosters club and Charles De Shazo post of American Legion were joint sponsors.

Following the program at Shamrock the Boosters club was host to the drafted men at their regular luncheon meeting in the Methodist church.

Parties such as these given in Wheeler county have been prohibited in the past but new selective service rules now make them possible.

Ghost Nervously Reacts Slaying

DENVER, Aug. 1. (AP)—A strange little man with fierce dark eyes set under black, bushy eyebrows, who took sanctuary in the garret of a fourth Denver home for nine months after slaying the homeowner, his one-time friend, nervously reenacted the crime for detectives today.

Still pale and weak from his self-imposed imprisonment in the tiny space under the rafters of the modest brick house, Theodore Edward Coney staged the gruesome blood-goon-slaying of Philip Peters for Detective Captain James Childers, Chief Deputy District Attorney David Rosner and Detectives Fred Zarow and John Toll.

Coney admitted the slaying in an 8,000-word statement dictated last night, Captain Childers announced.

But to clear up minor inconsistencies, the ghost-man was returned to the scene.

"What do you want of me?" he asked Captain Childers in a creaky voice.

"Just repeat what happened after Mr. Peters caught you robbing the icebox on October 17," the captain directed.

Nervously, Coney told the story of the fight that started in the kitchen, progressed through the house to the front door and ended in a front bedroom with the death of the 73-year-old retired railroad auditor, his skull crushed in by blows from a heavy iron stove shaker.

Half-Dozen County Women Interested In Enlistment

A half-dozen Gray county women have made inquiry here concerning enlistment in the Women's Army auxiliary corps, Sgt. R. D. Shert, in charge of the local U. S. Army Recruiting station, said Saturday.

To date, however, he has not received any notice to provide transportation to the district recruiting and induction station at Lubbock, where candidates are to report.

Lieut. Col. Marvin B. Durrette, commander of West Texas recruiting and induction district, Lubbock, stated today that his office is now accepting applications from women for the WAAC auxiliaries.

Colonel Durrette stated women previously recommended to Washington whose applications for officer candidacy are awaiting final decisions as to eligibility as officer candidates may be enrolled as auxiliaries without prejudicing their rights if later selected as officer candidates.

Applications who have already sent applications to the war department are advised to resubmit them to the nearest army recruiting and induction station.

Applications will be accepted from women without regard to color, between the ages of 21 and 45.

It is believed by traffic experts that unless 20,000,000 of the 30,000,000 cars are kept on the road during the war the American transportation system will be seriously dislocated.

Send-Off Parties Given For Wheeler County Draftees

Special To The NEWS SHAMROCK, Aug. 1.—A large group of Wheeler county men who left Wednesday for Fort Sill, Okla., to begin their military training, were given send-off parties at Wheeler and Shamrock.

Music by the Shamrock Irish band and patriotic speeches by civic leaders of Shamrock and Wheeler made up the program at both cities. Cigars and cookies were given to the men.

R. H. Forrester presided over the meeting at Wheeler. Talks were made by R. D. Holt, president of the Wheeler Lions club, and Dr. V. N. Hall, past commander of the Wheeler American Legion post. The affair was under joint auspices of the Lions club and the Legion.
