SENATE GOES ON OVERTIME IN EFFORT TO WIND UP BUSINESS

WASHINGTON (AP)—(P)—Republican leaders put the Senate on an overtime schedule today as Congress drove to wind up its business and adjourn next Friday.

Senator Wherry (Neb.), acting Republican leader, told reporters there will be a night session of the Senate tonight.

The chamber is scheduled to vote at 4 p. m. (EST) on legislation to extend the reciprocal trade agreements act.

Wherry said he hopes the Senate can pass tonight bills to provide funds for the Interior Department, the Navy and a number of government corporations.

He said debate on the long-range farm bill is scheduled to start tomorrow.

Half-a-dozen major bills may be brushed into discard in the drive to have Congress quit Saturday. Congressional leaders have said privately only a reversal of adjournment plans can save the oleomargarine tax repealer, pay raises for federal employes, the anti-Communist bill, tidelands measure, an anti-lynch bill and an anti-poll tax proposal.

Both believe they can make it. And barring a change of mind, when the House and the Senate adjourn next Saturday they will quit until next January unless GOP leaders recall the legislators before then. The recall provision is a "string" Martin wants to tie to the adjournment resolution. Without it, only President Truman could reconvene Congress.

In addition to the usual department money bills which always close up the closing day's calendar, there are on the "must" docket bills to—

1. Draft men 19-through-25 into the armed services.
2. This has passed the Senate and seemed likely to clear the House Rules Committee today.
3. The main difference in the views of the two branches is an ap-

RULES GROUP SENDS DRAFT BILL TO HOUSE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Rules Committee voted 6-4 today to send the draft bill to the House floor for debate later this week.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Rules Committee today postponed action on clearing the draft bill for House action.

Chairman Leo E. Allen (R-Ill.) called the committee to meet again later in the day (12 p. m. EST). The morning session was recessed when members left for a rollcall in the House chamber.

Indications are that the bill eventually will be sent to the House floor by the committee, although reluctantly and by a close margin.

Republican leaders have the measure on their "must" schedule for tomorrow, and they expect it to pass with but a single day's debate.

Even the bill's most energetic opponents concede it will pass easily once it hits the floor.

Fatalities In Weekend Total 21

By the Associated Press

Traffic accidents and drownings led a weekend death march which claimed 21 lives in Texas.

Ten persons died in automobile accidents, nine in drownings Saturday and Sunday. A Negro woman was mutilated by her slayer. And a five-year-old boy was killed by a piece of wire that punctured his brain in an unexplained accident.

Traffic victims:

Clemente Perez, about 17, a Texas National Guardsman, was killed and 20 others were hurt, one critically, when a truck carrying about 50 guardsmen overturned. The men were returning to Fort Worth from the National Guard base on Eagle Mountain Lake.

Orie C. Montgomery, 37, of Arcadia, was killed instantly when he was struck by a car as he walked across Highway No. 6 at Arcadia.

Tommy Cunningham, 19, was killed when his pickup truck crashed into a bridge excavation near Hamilton.

Thurman James Baker, 40, of Tishomingo, Okla., was struck and killed by a car north of Dumas, Tex.

Lionie E. Teague, 45, Abilene, died in Santa Anna hospital of injuries suffered when a car hit him on the highway south of Abilene. (See FATALITIES, Page 8)

Shows Cool West Texas

Shower yesterday and overnight cooled off sections of West and Northwest Texas, and a 100k series of rain clouds following a front sprinkled most of the Oklahoma and even reached to Oklahoma City, the Pampa U. S. Weather Bureau office reported today.

Amarillo received 0.3 of an inch rain yesterday morning. The eastward-moving rain clouds left 11.0 of an inch here between 11:30 a. m. and 1:20 p. m. yesterday, deposited .56 of an inch at Gage, and reached Oklahoma City about 5:30 p. m.

Other spots receiving moisture were Wichita Falls with 23 of an inch, Big Spring 11, and San Angelo 28.

Clear skies prevailed over all the state today, the Associated Press reported and a bright sun set at 6:15. Temperatures climbing again. Yesterday's maximum temperatures ranged from 82 at Pampa to 108 at Presidio.

Airplane in Question Not Based Locally

Roy A. Webb, Jr., manager of the Municipal Airport here, said today a BT-13 plane which buzzed a residential section in the west part of Pampa and the airport yesterday afternoon is not based at the local port.

A number of complaints were lodged with Webb after the plane, reported from Berger, allegedly disturbed the peace. He said the NC number had been confirmed. Webb, who said he was "really teed off about it," stated that two officials of CAA, located at Amarillo, would be here today to take action against the pilot. Webb said "he'll likely lose his license and his plane will be grounded" since it was not properly licensed.

He said a charge of disturbing the peace would be filed today "if anybody will take it."

The local manager stated that he had asked for a city ordinance making it illegal to buzz over the community, but that nothing had been done about it.

"If those people these planes have been buzzing will complain to the City Commission, we might get something done," he stated.

He added that people who are bothered by low-flying, buzzing planes will report to him numbers from the ships, he said the numbers would be turned in to the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Webb said such violations could cause the local airport to be put at a standstill. He said the problem is not a local flying business, he said.

Post-Truce Fighting Ends In Palestine

CAIRO (AP)—The Arab-Jewish truce was reported to have broken quiet to Palestine at last today. The United Nations mediator was in Rhodes setting up headquarters for negotiations toward lasting peace.

Both Jews and Syrians charged new violations in northern Palestine yesterday of the four-week armistice that began Friday morning under U. N. sponsorship. The Jews said they had been forced to fight back. The Syrians threatened to do so.

But two truce observers, United States Naval officers, got back to Tel Aviv from the northern front last night and reported all quiet there. A Jewish communique said the fighting stopped yesterday morning.

The Jews welcomed 420 immigrants to Tel Aviv last night. They got their first food convoy in over seven weeks through from the Jerusalem yesterday, using bypass routes built around Arab roadblocks. Both moves created problems for U. N. truce checkers.

The U. N. mediator, Count Folke Bernadotte, flew into Rhodes, a Greek Mediterranean island off (See PALESTINE, Page 8)

Court Order to Restrain Threatened Maritime Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—A U. S. District Court judge today granted the government a temporary injunction restraining a threatened nationwide strike of more than 100,000 maritime workers.

The strike had been threatened by the seven unions involved for anytime after tomorrow midnight.

It would involve dock workers on the East, Gulf and West Coasts as well as the seamen who man most of the nation's merchant shipping.

Anti-Lynch Bill Given Group Okay

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee today approved 10-to-3 a bill to make lynching a Federal crime.

A Southern opponent promptly promised to "fight it to the bitter end."

The bill, conceded only a remote chance of Senate passage during the closing week of this session, would provide criminal and civil penalties against members of a lynch mob.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.), chief committee backer of the legislation, still held out a hope for time on the jammed Senate schedule to consider it. Southern Democrats have promised to try to take to death any civil rights legislation.

The Republican Policy Committee has placed the bill high on its priority list without actually assigning it any time.

Voting against the measure at a nearly three-hour closed-committee session were Senators Moore (R-Okla.), Eastland (D-Miss) and Fulbright (D-Ark.).

Favoring it were Chairman Wiley (R-Wis.), who announced the results, and Senators Langer (R-Ind.), Revocomb (R-W. Va.), Donnell (R-Mo.), Cooper (R-Ky.), Ferguson, McCarran (D-Nev.), McGrath (D-R.I.), Kilgore (D-W. Va.) and Magnuson (D-Wash.).

Eastland said he will try to defeat it with every means at his disposal.

"The statement is made that what is in the bill is already in the law," he told reporters. "If that be true, then the bill is an attempt to humiliate the Southern states."

"I am going to fight it 'til hell freezes over."

Workers for Texas Refused

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Responsible Foreign Office sources said last night Mexican contract farm workers "braceros" will be permitted to go to Texas "if and when" the Texas Legislature passes an anti-discrimination law or Gov. Beaufort Jester issues an anti-discrimination decree.

Texas farmers had pressed for cotton pickers to send an envoy to Mexico probably this week to discuss the problem with Mexican officials.

Governor Jester said he would ask Secretary of State George Marshall to intervene in the affair.

The statement by the Foreign Office official coincided with previous statements by the Department of Interior government several months ago that Mexico could send a delegation to Texas showing Texas' good faith in ridding the state of discrimination against Mexicans.

Bond Election Being Called For June 30

The County Commissioners Court at 10:41 this morning called the additional $85,000 bond election, to equip the Gray County hospital, for June 30.

Petitions bearing the signatures of more than ten percent of the qualified property-taxpaying voters were presented to the court shortly before the vote was taken to call the election for June 30.

County Clerk Charlie Thur reported he had ceased checking validity of signatures of qualified voters when he found he had more than passed the required ten percent mark. However, the count will continue this afternoon when the few remaining petitions that had not been returned by early this morning are being tabulated and placed on record.

The vote was unanimous.

The court unanimously confirmed C. C. Stockstill as election judge for Precinct 7, Farrington School, to replace Jess Goad who died since his appointment as an election judge by the Commissioners Court in February.

Payment of current bills took up the remainder of the commissioners time during the morning session.

The order, calling the election for June 30, appears in today's edition of the News.

Gray County Area Has Surplus of Combines, Trucks

There is a surplus of combines and trucks in Gray, Roberts, Wheeler and Hemphill counties at present, L. P. Fort, manager of the Texas Employment Commission, says.

Generally these equipment owners go south to start the wheat harvest. In many places this year the operators found crops light and consequently finished sooner than expected. Therefore most of them headed back north to find the crops here in spotted condition.

Yield per acre in many cases is running better than farmers anticipated. Wheeler County still has quite a lot of green wheat. The four counties around the Pampa area have wheat that will not be harvested until about the first of July.

Within an hour in Wheeler Friday, 25 combines were counted. Fifty were counted in and around Canadian at one time. Some of them were stopping, others leaving and still others undecided.

The local TEC will have a representative at the office of the Canadian Record Starting today; he will work back to Miami with the county agent. He will try to assist farmers and operators in getting together. A man will also work out of Wheeler and spread the word at the office of the Wheeler County agent and AAA office, Fort said.

Shamrock will be served as needed from information furnished at the Chamber of Commerce and elevators. A representative from Pampa will give any needed aid to McLean.

Again Fort urges farmers to contact the local employment office at 206 N. Russell for farm laborers and combine operators.

Two Injured in Plane Accident

HOUSTON (AP)—Two persons were injured when a modified Army basic training plane crashed through a power line just outside Sam Houston Airport yesterday.

The man was identified as Harry Butler of Houston. Airport officials said the girl is Gwenn Cordell.

Officials said the plane's motor apparently cut out after the take-off.

Rites Set Today For Stein Infant

Stanley Joel, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Stein, 420 N. Gray, died at 6 p. m. yesterday in a local hospital.

He was just one day old.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Stein, and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Crawford, all of Pampa.

Graveside services were held at 3 p. m. today in the Baby Garden of Fairview Cemetery with the Rev. Douglas Carver officiating. Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the Clegg Funeral Home.

Former Pampan Dies in Oklahoma

Word was received here of the death of Mrs. Addie Buzbee, former Pampa resident who has been living in McAlester, Okla., for the past three years. She was about 60 years old when she died yesterday morning.

While living in Pampa, she was active in the Young People's Department of the Calvary Baptist Church.

Everybody Expecting to Win GOP Presidential Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new holdout trend among favorite sons threatens today to stretch out the Republican National Convention's presidential balloting.

Followers of some major candidates report that several of their colleagues with single-state backing have become increasingly cagey about making any second or third ballot promises of support.

Warren, also on hand for the meeting, sidestepped questions about his own chances. He said, however, he intends to talk to as many other governors as possible.

There are indications that Taft, like Dewey, believes the issue will be settled fairly soon, but Rep. Clarence Brown, Taft's manager, has said there may be seven ballots.

If the trend set by Warren works out, Massachusetts' 25 votes may be held in line for Senator Leverett Saltonstall much longer than has been expected, a New Jersey's 35 for Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll and Connecticut's 19 for Senator Raymond Baldwin.

Rep. Charles Halleck has indicated he wants Indiana's 29 votes for him on the first ballot to be more than complimentary. But Taft forces are claiming they controlled the state convention which picked the delegates and will get the early support of it for their man.

There are signs some of those with a voice in the disposition of Pennsylvania's 72 votes—to be cast for Senator Edward Martin on the first ballot—also want to hold out for developments rather than try to start a surge for top spot after the first test.

Illinois' 56 votes will be cast for Gov. Dwight Green on the first ballot. The hope has been that most of them will go to Taft early. But if the deadlock fever spreads, some politicians are not so sure of that result.

Republicans get into action Thursday when the convention Platform Committee, headed by Senator Lodge (Mass.), begins hearings in Philadelphia.

The same day a national committee subgroup will hear contests over delegate seats. Chief of these is a battle between Taft and Dewey followers to seat their delegations from Georgia which has 16 nominating votes.

Taft personally will invade Dewey's stronghold for a New York City speech Wednesday before a convention of sales executives.

The Republicans have picked all of their delegates but the Democrats have slightly less than 100 to go in rounding out the list for their July 12 convention.

President Truman, heading back toward Washington from his Western trip, apparently has a bout enough delegates in line to give him the nomination on the first ballot.

But there are disputes not only over the simply claimed 100 delegates the President has those formally pledged to him as well.

Annual Red Cross Meeting Tonight

The blood program will be discussed at today's annual Red Cross meeting at 8 p. m. in the City Commissioners Room of the City Hall. Mrs. Paul Hill, executive, announces.

The public is invited to attend the meeting to ask questions and make recommendations on the various phases of the Red Cross work.

"We hope those assisting in the Red Cross Fund Drive will be present for we want to give them special thanks for their services," Mrs. Hill said.

Rio Grande Gins First '48 Cotton

The cotton, picked on the farm of Pablo Rivera at La Grulla in Starr County, was ginned yesterday at the McAllen Cotton Gin Company in McAllen.

Rivera and Jesse Castellon of the gin company headed for Houston with the bale in a truck.

Citation Begins Brief Rest Before Trying Chicago Races

NEW YORK—(AP)— Citation began a brief, well-earned vacation today, praised as the greatest American thoroughbred race horse since the days of Man O'War more than 25 years ago.

Fresh from his thrilling Belmont Stakes triumph Saturday, a victory which clinched the coveted Triple Crown, the Calumet Farm star prepared to move on to Chicago in search of further conquests.

"He's the best we've ever had," said Ben Jones, Calumet general manager, after Citation's mile and a half victory in the Belmont. "He's one of the best of all time."

Son Jimmy Jones, the Calumet trainer, smiled and nodded agreement.

"There's no doubt that Citation is the best horse seen on an American race course in many long years. One of the horses of our time," Jimmy said.

Citation is scheduled to leave Belmont Wednesday for Arlington Park, along with Armed, Faultless and other members of the nation's most powerful racing stable.

The Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont victor is getting a five weeks' rest before returning to the racing wars. His next major objective is the $60,000 added Arlington classic July 31.

Jimmy Jones said Citation probably would time for this in the $25,000 Dick Welles Stakes at Arlington July 21. Then he will go after the $60,000 American Derby at Washington Park, Chicago, August 28.

Ben Jones left yesterday for Chicago shortly after completing plans with Jimmy to move the Calumet horses west. Coattown, Bewitch, and Whirlsome were among those shipping west.

Fervent, Free America and others are to depart tomorrow.

ZALE REGAINS TITLE

Rocky Graziano lies unconscious in the ring after being knocked out in the third round of his third middleweight championship fight with Tony Zale in Newark, N. J. Zale, starting for a neutral corner in the picture, regained his title in the short-lived scrap.

Zale Upsel Gives Louis-Walcott Return Bout Tremendous Boost

NEW YORK—(NEA)— Tony Zale's smashing comeback against Rocky Graziano in the Newark last night gave the Louis-Walcott return at Yankee Stadium, June 23, a tremendous lift.

For the time being at least, people will quit making fun of the old peppy guys. Joe Louis may still be able to wrap punches together, and hasn't that Jersey Joe Walcott a remarkable pair of legs?

Tony Zale Rocky Graziano

After all, Louis and Walcott are no older than the 34-year-old Zale. And look what the Man of Steel did to the 26-year-old Graziano.

Another meeting of old gentlemen is now in the making for September, the 32-year-old Marcel Cerdan being the first choice of the Zale connections.

The Old Guard has the floor, and will hold it until the younger fellows go to work.

The downfall of Graziano, exposed definitely as nothing more than an over-publicized club fighter, was another striking illustration of the mediocrity of the newer crop.

The sterling character from New York's Second Avenue actually looked like a bloke who never had a glove on.

Those who made Graziano a 12-5 favorite and better, believed he would sail into Zale's with the confidence that comes to the average fighter with a championship.

But Zale quickly demonstrated that this was too much to expect of Graziano, and you suddenly realized that the Dead End Kid crown well for the 11 months he held it, anyway.

Old-timers chuckled about Graziano having been compared with the great Stanley Ketchel. "Ketchel," they reminded you, "would have knocked him out by retiring at him."

Graziano's only defense has been an unbridled attack and a right-hand wallop. But on this occasion against Zale, he stood there with his left leg and his right down.

Haskins Whips Oilers Twice As Locals Lose Doubleheader

Locals Beat Childress, Irish In Inter-City Golf Tournament

Righthander Chris Haskins, of the Lamesa Lobos pulled a very rare stunt in the West Texas-New Mexico League yesterday afternoon when he pitched both ends of a double header and showed the Pampa Oilers near the grasping hands of the Amarillo Gold Sox when he whipped the Oilers twice 10-8, and 8-1.

This double loss coupled with Amarillo's 6-5 win over the cellar-dwelling Clovis-Pioneers knocked the Oilers down to within two games of the rejuvenated Gold Sox. The Sox last Saturday night, 10-8 to the Pioneers and had it not been for this fact, the Oilers would only be one game in front.

Despite the fact that the Oilers lacked only one hit garnering as many as the Lobos, their failing to hit in the clutch cost them the twin bill.

In the first contest, George Payte started on the mound but after running into trouble in the first four innings he relinquished his position to Lefty Roy Parker in the fourth. Parker finished the game allowing the Lobos only two more plate crossings.

The Oilers got nine safeties in their first encounter while the Lobos managed 10. R. C. Otey got his sixth homer of the season while Tony Range also parked one over the left-field wall for his ninth circuit wallop of the season.

Lobo fans received quite a surprise in the second contest when pint-sized Haskins again took the mound. He again went the complete route, blanking the Oilers for the first four innings and allowing one run in the fifth.

The tally came when R. C. Otey again found one to his liking and again parked it over the center-field wall.

Howard Bass was charged with Oiler loss as he went the complete route for the losers giving up eight hits while his mates got the same number of Haskins.

The Oilers remain in Lamesa tonight for their final game with the Lobos and then return home tomorrow night for a nine day stay. They open their home stay against the third-place Albuquerque Dukes.

Track Head Has 'Stop Doping' Plan
SALEM, N. H. — (AP)— Lou Smith, general manager of Rockingham Park, thinks he knows the way to curb doping of race horses.

He suggests establishment of a central pharmacy at all tracks, where horsemen would keep all their medicines.

A licensed pharmacist would be on hand 24 hours a day so that the medicine would be available if a horse was taken sick during the night.

"Every horseman has a bottle after bottle around his stable," said Smith. "They even keep them for years until they have forgotten what's in some of them."

Smith said that from time to time checks could be made of stables where trainers are suspected of doping their horses.

During the past few years we've had several cases around the country where stable employees had confessed to stimulating horses with medicines containing narcotics in order to win a bet."

Ann McCabe, Bill Carthel Are Wed in Home Rites

PANHANDLE—(Special)—Miss Ann McCabe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. V. McCabe of Dawn, became the bride of Bill W. Carthel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Carthel of Dimmitt, in a beautiful double-ring ceremony Tuesday, June 1, at 1 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents.

The home was decorated throughout in bouquets of spring flowers including Regal lilies. The vows were spoken before a bower of pink roses between baskets of roses.

Mrs. Ray T. Stewart of Dawn accompanied by Miss Earlene Eustace of McLean sang "Because" and "Indian Love Call." Bill McCabe, brother of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly." Betty Elliott, cousin of the bride, played "Clair de Lune" and the traditional wedding march from Lohengrin.

Miss Earlene Eustace, maid of honor, wore a floor-length dress of orchid chiffon and carried a nosegay bouquet of white roses and white sweetpeas tied with yellow and white satin streamers. Shirley Carthel, small sister of the bridegroom, carried the rings on a white satin pillow. She wore a full gathered pink taffeta dress. Jim McCabe, brother of the bride, was best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin dress fashioned with a lace yoke outlined in seed pearls, designed basque fashion, with lace covered buttons down the back and full length sleeves extending in points over her wrists. Her only ornament was a pearl necklace. She carried a bouquet of white and yellow roses tied with white satin streamers. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a garland of white and yellow roses.

At the reception which followed, sweetpeas and white roses decorated the table, which was centered with tall white tapers. Patricia Walton of Dawn, and Dorothy Carthel, sister of the bridegroom, served punch and Mrs. Floyd Tomlinson, aunt of the bridegroom, served the wedding cake.

The couple left for a wedding trip through Colorado. On their return they will be at home near Plainview, where the bridegroom is engaged in farming. For traveling, Mrs. Carthel wore a light blue wool suit with pink hat and white accessories.

Mrs. Carthel attended Panhandle High School and is a senior music major in West Texas State College. Mr. Carthel graduated from Dimmitt High School and served two years in the U. S. Army.

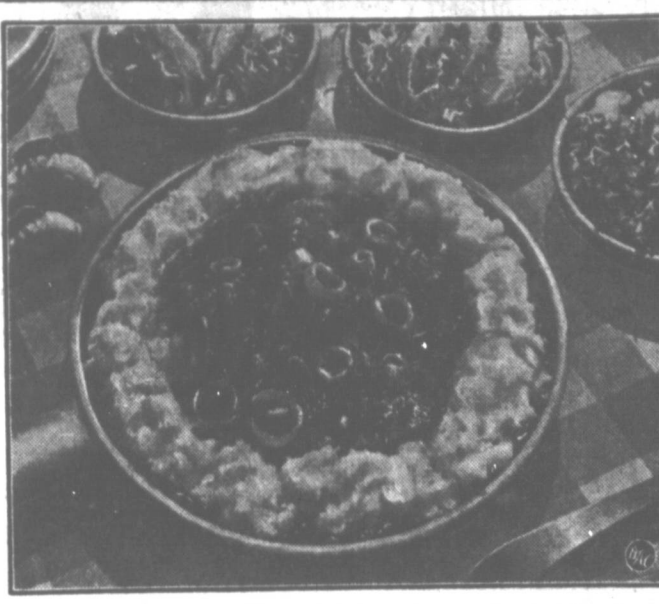

Among the close friends and relatives attending the ceremony were three grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. McCabe, Amarillo, and Mrs. Mary Byrd, Dawn, and Mrs. Taylor Golden of Lockney, grandmother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Harvey Deahl, Amarillo.

Prior to the wedding, Miss McCabe was honored with two showers. The first, a tea in the home of Mrs. Iverson Leake of Canyon, with Mrs. Floyd Tomlinson as co-hostess was given on May 14. The guests included her college friends and teachers, and other friends from Canyon and Amarillo.

Mrs. Ray T. Stewart with Mrs. H. H. Miller and Mrs. Floyd Walton, as co-hostesses entertained at a tea in the home of Mrs. Stewart on May 21. Friends and relatives were present from Dawn, Hereford and Dimmitt. The honoree received many beautiful and useful gifts on both occasions.

Fish and Farina Casserole Provides a Hearty Main Dish

FROM King Neptune's lair comes fish, and from waving fields of grain comes grain-derived farina to serve up fish in a brand new way. A subtle ingredient to carry the fish and Creole sauce flavors, farina adds substantial nutrition to this meal-in-one-dish. Proving that thrifty foods can be served with a flourish, you'll find details of this fish-'n'-farina specialty follow:

Farina Fish Casserole
 3 tablespoons fat 2 cups drained, cooked tomatoes
 1/2 cup sliced onion 1 teaspoon salt
 1/4 cup diced celery 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 1/2 cup sliced green pepper
 Melt fat, add onion, celery and green pepper; cook slowly until onion is yellow. Add tomatoes and seasonings; cook slowly for 15 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Farina and Fish:
 1 pound fish 5 cups boiling water
 fillets or fish steaks 2 teaspoons salt
 1 1/2 cups farina

Simmer fish in 2 cups of the water with 1 teaspoon of the salt for 6 to 10 minutes; remove fish and flake. Add remaining water and salt to water in which fish was cooked and bring to a boil. Gradually add farina to salted boiling water. Cook over direct heat stirring until thickened. Reduce heat and continue cooking 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add flaked fish; mix well. Spread a half inch layer in a shallow baking dish. Cover with the sauce. Spoon the remaining cereal mixture around the edge of the casserole. Bake in slow oven (325°F.) for 30 minutes. YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

At the regular meeting at Pampa Country Club on Thursday, June 10, seven members met for business session and putting contest. Nola Fade won low and Daisy Bellamy second.

Postoffice Meets Post-War Conversion

AUSTIN—(P)—The Postoffice Department is going through an era of conversion and expansion to meet postwar public needs, Texas Postoffice clerks were told.

NO SHUTDOWN HERE

DALLAS—(P)—Production at the Dallas assembly plant of the Ford Motor Co. will continue without letup or layoff, Plant Manager C. F. Jessee said. Each member answered roll call with a suggestion for a gift. Miss Ann Hastings, county home demonstration agent, showed how to make attractive articles both for children and for adults.

Some of the suggestions included etching of glass, linen decoration, sock toys, powder mitts, dolls and house shoes made from turkish towels.

Mrs. H. B. Taylor, Jr., gave a ten-minute demonstration on seams and finishes.

Articles needed by Boys Ranch were discussed by Mrs. Taylor and members made plans to take socks and underwear for the boys between the ages of seven and fourteen, to the next club meeting.

Modern Home Shrinks as Construction Costs Expand; Families too on Numerical Decline

The American home is shrinking. Today it is about half the size of the typical house in grandfather's time, and astute observers do not expect it to grow again. Necessity has made the home smaller, and popular preference shows signs of keeping it small. High building costs, jobs for women, the family automobile, the shortage of domestic help, smaller families and even the neighborhood movie are among factors making the modern dwellings a miniature. Such factors have turned family interests away from the home. They are making the home a streamlined utility for brief moments of privacy. "Our changing attitude toward the home must eventually result in a changed house," this was the consensus of 52 architects, builders, housing officials, sociologists and other experts in a recent report compiled by the Woman's Foundation, a non-profit research organization. "Our houses have barely commenced to change in response to our present needs and desires," these experts add. Nevertheless, homes are changing relentlessly in size, at least. The $4,000 that bought the average six-room house 30 years ago pays for only about three rooms today. Ten years ago the average size of houses built under Federal Housing Administration mortgage insurance exceeded six rooms. Now less than five. Forty years ago the average of all apartments built in New York's apartment-packed borough of Manhattan was five rooms. Now the average runs less than three. The smaller house trend is pronounced throughout the country and architects link it directly to costs. "Building costs have affected design a great deal," observes Elmer Gyleck, architect of Elgin, Ill. "Many people want homes and they realize now the only way they can build is to reorganize their thinking into a more simply designed home. This means omitting unnecessary ornamentation and it means less living area. "They all seem to insist on at least two bedrooms and many of them want three bedrooms, but in this area of the house they will find that they may have to give up the third bedroom with the possibility of adding it at a later date. "The combination living and dining room is becoming more popular. We know that this type of plan, where the dining room is an alcove or definitely part of the living room, has proved to be our best seller. "Another Midwestern architect finds the demand for modern mechanical equipment stronger than the demand for space. At the same time he finds this demand for utilities one of the biggest factors in cutting down the size of houses. "Our standard of living has been increasing steadily through mechanical and technical improvements, but at an ever increasing cost," points out Walter T. Anicka of Ann Arbor, Mich. He explains that central heating, the modern equipped kitchen, the automatic laundry, a second bathroom, storage walls and new floor and wall coverings "are all taken for granted in any house which is now put up for sale. "But each one of these items has increased the cost of the structure," Anicka adds. "There is only one way to put in these improvements and that is by reducing the cubage or the number of rooms. "The designer, caught in the squeeze of ever mounting costs and increasing demands for the latest improvements, has had to come through with plans which are more flexible and multi-useable. "Present plans, with fewer but larger rooms, provide better and more efficient living than the larger houses with a series of small cubicles called rooms in the 1920 era. "Anicka cites the combined guest room and study, the living room, dining room combination, the laundry and heater room. Each of these rooms, if used by itself, he says, might only be used 25 percent of the time, but combined they serve an economic and living purpose 100 percent of the time. Easterners seem the most reluctant to give up conventional rooms. "I think that most people in New England like special purpose rooms where family privacy for the individual is provided," comments A. Raymond Ellis, West Hartford, Conn., architect. "The open plan with almost a common living room is partially for several functions is not widely accepted and neither is it economical," Mr. Ellis contends. However, he admits that "current or transitory inflationary costs" are reducing room sizes and "eliminating the better and more expensive finish. "Nevertheless speculative builders who could save the most of eliminating frills when they build hundreds of houses at a time, are clinging to those embellishments. Rudolph Matern, Long Island architect, who plans many houses for developers, argues that costs are not affecting architectural style in the least. Matern tells of having planned a house that included a large picture window. The builder dropped the picture window for economy. When sales hit a temporary slump he restored the picture window in the next house he built, and his sales picked up. "The added cost was more than offset in sales value. The builder now is 'sold' on picture windows. George Gross, whose Gros-Morton Corporation has built more than 8,000 houses, sums it up this way: "People want houses that look like houses. They'll ac-

Architecture Shows Effect Of Used Cars

Used cars are changing the style of architecture. Since people discovered during the war that automobiles can last much longer than previously assumed, many stopped worrying about keeping cars outdoors. Building costs made garages expensive for their brief overnight use and popularity of the "car port" began to spread. A car port is merely a roof supported by columns. In many cases it can serve as a porch. In others it may have one wall on the weather side, or one end providing closet storage for garden implements. "The car port has not had a good reception so far in New England," reports one architect. "The principal objection is that it is a trash collector and presents a messy appearance to the detriment of the property." Another architect in the Chicago area finds "people still want their cars completely enclosed in this territory, even if it is only a shell for a garage. Although the car port has not proved very popular as yet, I do think that some will accept it soon."

Wet Basement Is Not Likely Under Codes

Chances of a wet basement are not great. In most localities subject to underground water conditions, building codes and FHA requirements guard against this. Provision for waterproofing and dampproofing is mandatory in low lands. Concrete is not water-tight, but it can be made so. One way to do it is by integral waterproofing. This is attained by mixing a compound with the concrete. It makes the texture more dense, but cracks can destroy its effectiveness. Membrane waterproofing consisting of several layers of asphalt impregnated felt applied to the bottom of the floor and outside of the walls is most dependable. Condensation, however, is still a factor in either case. Only constant ventilation can combat that. Except so-called modern designs in the kitchen, and perhaps to a lesser degree in the dining room or a bedroom. But as soon as they get to the living room and the front of the house they go completely conservative. "In building 3,800 garden type apartments in one group, Gross insisted on such details as brass knockers on doors at $10 each—although doorbells were used—and shutters on windows which were equipped with Venetian blinds. One critic pointed out that the 15,200 window shutters required were costing something around $80,000. Gross replied that he needed no lapels on his suit—that all the lapels on all men's suits constituted a needless extravagance. But men want lapels to make a suit look like a suit. So Gross kept the shutters and other ornaments to make his homes look like homes. Because of such inconsistencies in human nature, the rambling style of one-story house, popularized as the "ranch house," has been growing in popularity while building costs have been mounting. Such spread out designs with wide porches and patios cost more to build than two-story dwellings with the same number and size of rooms. Also they require larger sites. A rambling one-story dwelling calls for more foundation work, more roof construction and more construction for usable space obtained than a compact two-story, nearly rectangular design. Although many clients and their architects, too, shun the idea of a basementless house in northern states, they accept a rambling structure with part basement and with the rest as unexcavated as any basementless structure. Aside from costs, the smaller size of families has been distinctly reflected in architecture. "The American family of today is smaller by more than one-fourth than its predecessor," said the Woman's Foundation report. Architects are aware of the significance of this. For instance, Anicka observes that the smaller family "has been an economic necessity, because it is not possible for the average parent to feed, care for and educate a large number of children to the level which is now expected as standard. "This in itself has brought the size demand for houses down considerably," he says. "The cost of maintenance, too—an important item in home ownership—has forced owners to reconsider the contemplated size of homes. "The economic necessity of both man and wife working in a very large number of cases has also influenced the trend toward smaller and more efficient homes, which can be taken care of after working hours. "Just the fact that the modern wife spends more time out of her home than in it, makes her demands for a home different than those of the wives of a few years ago, when the home was their only diversion. So although the American home buyer still seems to lean over backward when confronted with the idea of a "machine for living," he is making concessions to the functional and has come long way from the barn-like mansion and old-fashioned front veranda of grandfather's day.

Tile Piles, Workers Up

That yen for a cottage small will result in huge outlays for housing this year in Texas. The state's urban residents will spend a whopping $281,750,000 for new homes during 1948 and will construct a total of more than 58,150 dwelling units, according to estimates released by the Tile Council of America. In 1947, $2,866 units were built in Texas cities, at a cost of $225,403,000, government reports reveal. "Home builders can expect an increase not only in the quantity of new houses this year, but also in quality," declared Malcolm Schweiker, chairman of the council's residential construction committee. Easing of the construction situation has resulted both from acceleration of apprentice training and increased building material output, according to Schweiker. For example, 2,000 men are training as tile setters and tile production is at record highs. This promises enough tile and tile setters to satisfy the nation's mounting demand for bathroom, kitchen and other home installations of tile, he said. About 350,000 of the 950,000 dwelling units to be constructed in the United States this year will go into urban areas, the council estimates. Expenditures for new homes are expected to top $6,000,000,000, according to the Department of Commerce.

Fire Safe Materials Pass Tests

Great strides have been made in perfecting fire resistant building materials. You can now build or remodel a home with more safety from fire than ever before. Some of these new materials, oddly enough, utilize wood. Others are made of glass, volcanic ash, and a form of mica—vermiculite. Homeowners or builders intending to use such materials should make sure they bear the label or listing of Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc. (U.L.) Materials listed by those laboratories must pass a standard fire test. It usually consists of exposure of panels made of the materials to an intense gas flame for a specified time. Then the panel is subjected to a stream of water from a 2-1/2 inch fire hose. If it survives those tests and retains its strength it may be approved. A fire safe home might be constructed of the following approved materials: 1. Concrete masonry units, made up of Portland cement, sand and gravel, cinders, blast furnace slag, burned shale, etc. 2. Cellular glass blocks, a thermal insulating material. 3. Lumber treated to reduce fire hazard. This is usually Douglas fir, southern yellow pine or plywood, treated with a pressure process that forces metallic salt or other chemicals into the wood. 4. Asphalt-asbestos-protected metal. This is corrugated sheet steel with asphalt saturated asbestos applied with a metallic adhesive on one or both faces. 5. Plaster bases in sheet form, some reinforced with woven wire. When installed on both sides of a partition according to U.L. specifications these plaster bases furnish protection against passages of flame and dangerous transmission of heat for one hour. 6. Wallboard in 48-inch sheets, was given a 45-minute fire resistance classification when installed on both sides of a partition. 7. Fire-resistant plywood flush-type doors withstand a standard fire test without losing shape or allowing passage of flame or smoke. 8. Fire-retardant coating material—a new paint—can be applied by brush or spray. It reduces combustibility and is suitable for doors and wood trim. 9. A new fabric wall covering has negligible fuel and smoke contribution. It is useful in kitchens, nurseries and hospitals. In addition, glass bricks have been approved for window openings with high fire exposure. In all cases these materials should be installed in accordance with the manufacturers' directions.

Rock Piers Make Good Foundation For Log Cabins

A solid foundation is as important to a rustic cabin as it is to any building. A small cabin can rest on piers of concrete, or if the ground is very solid, rough native stone may be adequate. Rock supports should be used at corners and for every 5 to 10 feet between. At least two large flat rocks should be used for each pier. The bottom rock will absorb dampness from the earth but it will not transmit it to the rock above. No mortar should be used for that reason. Dig down to solid earth for concrete piers and wider footings if the ground is soft. Place a flat rock on top of the pier. Even off piers with the aid of a string and level. Masonry or concrete foundations are required for larger structures to prevent sagging. Such continuous foundations will keep rodents out. But they should be provided with small openings for ventilation to prevent dry rot. When using poured concrete, sill logs can be anchored with large L bolts imbedded in the concrete.

HE ROLLS UP MILES

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—C. Johnson of Maryborough (Victoria, Australia) recently bought a steamroller from the Melbourne City Council. He drove it the 112 miles home to Maryborough, averaging five miles an hour and taking a week for the trip. His steamroller burned up 18 bags of coke, two tons of wood and a lot of patience.

REFRIGERATOR FOR CAR

Of special interest to fishermen, an electric refrigerator has been produced that can be placed in the auto's rear compartment to preserve the catch. It weighs 60 pounds and operates off the car battery. All acids in fruit do not remain acids in the body. Citrus fruit acids change to alkaline.

Reparations Cut to Make Control More Palatable

By JOHN FISHER

Cutting Rumania's $300,000,000 reparations bill in half last week was no act of magnanimous generosity by Stalin. There is good evidence that it was forced on the Kremlin by rising dissatisfaction in the Balkans.

The heavy burden of reparations, plus the ruthless sovietization of the country, was making it difficult for Rumanian Premier Petru Groza to convince the people that his government was their friend.

He has personally begged the Kingfish of the Kremlin to reduce the levy and Stalin complied, also halving the reparation levy on Hungary, where the rigors of Soviet "friendship" are equally severe.

Rumania's grievances are accumulating. Recently returned Washington officials told me "Rumanians hate Russians. They are invaded by the czar's troops in 1878. The Soviet Union snatched Bessarabia in 1940. At the close of the last war, Moscow demanded of the starving people 900,000 cattle, sheep and pigs as reparations. Since then the Soviets have plucked the country like a chicken."

LIVES OFF COUNTRY Stalin at Yalta in 1945 promised the United States and Great Britain to permit the Rumanians to set up a representative government under guaranteed freedoms. But the conference barely ended before the Soviets began to strip the country of its liberties.

So it may be that the loud-mouthed leftists really want to see the Mundt-Nixon Bill passed and quickly. This they may hope to have more ammunition to pour at Congress.

At any rate we think Senator Ferguson acted wisely in adjourning the committee hearings on the Communist-control bill indefinitely.

There is a lot of "must" legislation before Congress, but hardly think the Mundt-Nixon measure fits in the emergency category. It should be all to the good if, when the bill comes before the Senate, the hysterical chorus that parroted Communist William Z. Foster's testimony can be considered in its proper perspective.

For the Senate will do well to remember that the leftists are not the only ones who are against this bill in its present form. There are several who have spoken up against it who cannot be suspected of Kremlin connections.

In the Dewey-Stassen debate in Oregon, the governor argued that this bill would not outlaw communism, while Mr. Stassen held that it would. When two men as intelligent as these cannot agree on the basic intent of a proposed law which they have studied carefully, it is safe to assume that there is something fuzzy or ambiguous about the measure as it now stands.

Any law should be put to the test of whether it is proof against unjust use in the hands of the worst possible administrators it might encounter. If the Mundt-Nixon Bill is to be a legal examination, we don't think the country will suffer if final action on it is put off until next session.

American shipping now is dangerously inadequate unless we choose to fight the next war on our own soil.

ALASKA AND HAWAII by Peter Edsn

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Not the least of the black marks to be charged against the record of the 80th Congress are failures to take final action on admission of Hawaii and Alaska as 49th and 50th states. Underlying reasons in both cases appear to be perfectly trivial—the playing of the most petty kind of politics.

Behold Senate rejection of the House-passed Hawaiian statehood bill was a desire on the part of Sen. Hugh Butler's Public Lands Subcommittee on Insular Affairs to take another junket to the Pacific paradise. The Hawaiians have already been honored by some 30 Congressional investigating committees in this century. It is beyond question a lovely place to hold an investigation, particularly when Uncle Sam pays the expenses and the Hawaiians lay out the hospitality the way they do.

LOOKING AHEAD

DO YOU ENVY PROFITS? All the talk about profits and profiteers has put a lot of us on the wrong track. There has been so much of this misleading talk during the past decade that some of our youngsters are beginning to think there is something immoral about making profit at all.

On the contrary, I am convinced that the profit system is the very sparkplug of our economy. I have given this subject a lot of study. However, it isn't very difficult to see that workers are in for trouble if they are employed by a business that doesn't make a profit.

Some people seem to think that if no profits were made at all, the workers would get more wages. This cannot be so. My belief is that the part of the sales dollar called profit actually helps the workers more than it helps anyone else.

Consider an example. Fifty years ago it required 8 hours work for one man to shape the top of a gasoline tank for an automobile. He was paid less than $1 for the job which he did by hand.

Nowadays, an auto worker shapes the top of a gasoline tank in one minute, instead of eight hours. He is happy to work in a clean and sanitary plant. He uses modern tools that are productive and efficient.

What about the public? If the modern automobile like the Ford or Chevrolet had to be made by hand, it would cost $50,000 to make at present wages.

SO THEY SAY We have been pro-Communist and we have been anti-Communist. We have been pro-Zionist and we have been anti-Zionist. There seems to be no underlying principle by which we can judge the question of what our future policy should be.

The Little Savage

news behind the news

WASHINGTON — The Democrats' "misery" as Congress nears its windup is that the Republican record on Capitol Hill might give them an outside chance to win if Henry A. Wallace were not in the race, and if they had a powerful candidate as a substitute for Harry S. Truman.

Leaders such as Sam Rayburn and Alben W. Barkley, minority and majority leaders of House and Senate, respectively, will not admit this opinion openly. But the two convention officials' closest legislative friends do, and they also intimate that this viewpoint is held among the hierarchy of House and Senate.

REFUSAL — The reason for the Democrats' mixed feelings is the GOP's refusal to act on the batch of legislation wanted by great masses of voters, as recently set forth in this space. Another factor is the threatened division among top Republicans on the question of the amount of foreign aid.

BLUNDERS — On June 7, the House adjourned after only a 30-minute session out of respect for the late Representative Thomas L. Owens, who was only a first-terminer. But when Orville Zimmerman of Missouri, a four-term man, died two months ago, they sat until late in the afternoon before paying honor to him by closing up shop.

JITTERY — The more conservative faction of the Republican high command regards the present political picture as so comforting and reassuring that it does not want to dash it.

Gracie Reports Well, the tailors of England are certainly busy with their needles, and in more ways than one. Recently, they gave that beautiful Mr. Anthony Eden a dressing down, not a dressing gown, for the way he dressed.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Here they are, the 10 stars whose names alone or with a big cast, lure people into movie theaters.

I suggested a write-in poll on the subject a few days ago and the result may be surprising to both sides of the fence. Here are the 10 top box-office lures in my private poll:

Gregory Peck, Ingrid Bergman, Robert Mitchum, Cary Grant, Bette Davis, Bing Crosby, Joan Crawford, Barry Fitzgerald, Rosalind Russell and Jimmy Stewart.

Runners-up included Paul Henreid, John Garfield, Ray Milland, Lana Turner, Dana Andrews, Joan Caulfield, Orson Welles, Katharine Hepburn and Ronald Colman.

Hollywood is betting 100 to 1 that Warner Bros. never get Joan Crawford and Bette Davis together for a second prize-winning film, "Women Without Men."

Elena Verdugo is still fighting to keep away from those Latin roles and his signed with a new agent. She will make more money for co-starring in RKO's "Blood on the Moon" than he received during an entire year under his Paramount contract.

Two old song hits, "I'm Nobody's Baby" and "Singin' in the Rain" are due for a big revival. Gertrude Niesen warbles them in "The Babe Ruth Story."

Rity Hayworth is spending more and more time with Bob Schiffer, the Columbia studio makeup man. Dinah Shore is joining the "Dinah" television series with a weekly short, "A Day With Dinah."

GOLD DIGGER Fan mail: "In listening to your radio dramatization of Dale Evans' career, I was reminded of two of my friends' discussions of Dale's marriage to Roy Rogers. One of the little girls said: 'Oh I know HER kind. She doesn't want his horse.'"

Those old cliff-hanging movie serials telecast on a Los Angeles television station are too rough for the youngsters. They're being scrapped in favor of cartoons and fairy tales.

The next hat to be introduced by hat manufacturers, according to Bert Bacharach of the Men's Hat Research Foundation, will be known as "The Cary Grant." It's a hat that Cary will do for the fedora what the late John Barrymore did for the collar that carried his name.

It was fun to watch her. In the evening she sat on the steps and hosed the scarp of front lawn. Once when Lucy and her mother went off to a church meeting Jessica slipped across the street and walked past the house, and the girl called to her, "Hello! Come in!"

Jessica went in and sat down on the steps. The hose splashed and cooled the pavement, hot after a sultry July day.

The girl said, "My name is Doris." "I'm Jessica Blake." "Tom's wife?" Doris stubbed out her cigaret and went off the porch and turned off the hose.

She struggled to win the approval of Tom's mother but Mrs. Blake froze her. Mrs. Blake regarded her attempts with well-deserved contempt and made no effort whatever to help her.

DOES THE WORLD OWE YOU A LIVING?

Well, that's pretty much up to you. You can make the world owe you a living, if you work it right. And it's one of the best tricks that's ever been figured out for getting ahead on the job, or in your own business. Here's the way it's done.

When White, executive secretary of the New York Sales' Executives' Club, for his success secret, he told me: "Make sure you're underpaid."

That's what worrying most people, I told him. They think they're underpaid now. What they want is MORE MONEY.

But Harry explained that it's usually that person who makes it a habit to DO MORE THAN HE'S HAD TO DO—that gets ahead in life.

When you do more than is required to do more in the position of being underpaid.

Life is like a set of double-entry ledgers, Harry told me. What you enter on one side, Life enters on the other. You always get back just what you put in.

When you put in more than is required to strike a balance—then you've got the world in debt to you. You've got the world owing you a living. And when you have a legitimate debt—don't worry, you'll collect—and usually with compound interest.

The habit of doing more than is required—of giving customers better service—always has paid off. Many of the men who have risen from the bottom of the ladder to the top attribute a large part of their success to do more than was expected of them.

Bidault May Give Up Ministry

PARIS (AP)—Premier Robert Schuman probably will win Parliament's approval for the six-nation accord in Germany, but it may cost his middle-of-the-road government the services of Foreign Minister Georges Bidault.

THE STORY: Jessica Gordon, a southern belle, was eloped with Yankee soldier Tom Blake in defiance of her father's wishes. Tom takes her to his home to stay with his folks until his discharge from the army.

It was fun to watch her. In the evening she sat on the steps and hosed the scarp of front lawn. Once when Lucy and her mother went off to a church meeting Jessica slipped across the street and walked past the house, and the girl called to her, "Hello! Come in!"
