Danish Ship Sinks; 150 Are Drowned

VESSEL HITS MINE, SINKS IN KATTEGAT

AALBORG, Denmark—(AP)—About 150 Danes drowned today when the passenger vessel Kjoebenhavn struck a World War II mine and blew up in the Kattegat.

The vessel, carrying 400 passengers, went down ten minutes after the dawn explosion ripped her apart. Scores of sleeping passengers were drowned in their berths. Many saved their lives by diving from the deck of the sinking vessel.

The 1,668-ton steamer, owned by the United Steamship Co. (D. F. D. S.), was enroute from Copenhagen to Aalborg, Jutland.

The first vessel to reach shore from the scene of the disaster was the Danish tanker Dangulf Lube, which carried 13 severely wounded. She touched at the small Hals harbor at 9 a. m. Ambulances were waiting and the survivors were hurried to the local hospital, where doctors had been standing by since early morning.

The Kjoebenhavn was traveling between Copenhagen and Aalborg when she hit the mine. Aalborg is northwest of Copenhagen across the Kattegat.

The company said the ship went down in 10 minutes, four miles south of the Aalborg bay lightship in the northern part of the Kattegat. Early reports to the company, it said, indicated only two lifeboats were lowered before the vessel sank.

AALBORG, Denmark—(AP)—A bedlam of panic was described today by survivors of the Danish vessey "Kjoebenhavn" which struck a mine this morning and sank with 400 aboard in the Kattegat.

First survivors brought ashore were landed from the Danish tanker Dangulf Lube at Hals. They were a miserable group of exhausted, wounded men and women. Most of them did not know whether kinfolk with them on the vessel were dead or missing.

They told of seeing frantic passengers jumping off the foundering vessel, some with children in their arms.

"I was asleep in my berth below deck and was awakened by a terrific burst followed by a rumbling noise," said Helge Petersen, a business man from Aalborg.

"I did not realize what had happened, until I heard the sound of splashing water through the corridor followed by cries from a woman apparently in agony. I thought she was seasick, but suddenly I knew everything.

"I grabbed my trousers, rushed to the deck and jumped into a veritable bedlam. Men and women fought to reach the rail. Others tried to get away from the rail while crew members were pushing people into the water. I climbed a ladder in a frantic race against inrushing waters, when the Kjoebenhavn went down.

"I won and clung to the ladder just above the water, exhausted beyond belief, for two hours until help arrived."

Man Held for Another State

Floyd Hulise, 31, of 925 S. Sumner, employed as a roughneck for a local drilling contractor, was picked up at his residence about 8 o'clock last night by Sheriff G. H. "Skinner" Kyle and Deputy Louis Holmes and Neill Gilson and held for Arkansas authorities. Hulise is from Arkansas.

Kyle said he had received a wire from Sheriff Bruce Crider of Fayetteville, Ark., saying he held a felony warrant for Hulise. Crider added, during a phone call later, that the Sheriff's Department at Little Rock now held three felony warrants on Hulise. Nature of the warrants was not revealed other than bond on several of them would be $5,000 each.

Hulise told Kyle last night Sheriff's Department officials said that he would not sign extradition papers to Arkansas and the long distance lines hummed again. Extradition paper work between Governor Ben Laney of Arkansas and Governor Beauford Jester of Texas was being hastily processed this morning.

Law Covering Junk Dealers Is Reviewed

In response to increasingly numerous complaints of youngsters selling junk and scrap iron of dubious ownership to second-hand dealers, the City Commission insisted that the provisions of the junk dealers' ordinance be fully carried out.

The police were instructed to watch carefully all junk dealers, but the principal fault in the ordinance has not been with the enforcement, the commission pointed out, but with the dealers themselves who have not kept adequate records.

According to Ordinance 182, it is the duty of the junk dealer to keep a record of the name, age, address of anyone selling second-hand goods to him, and also the license number of the seller's car or truck if he has one. This information, with a description of the articles bought, the price paid for them, and the date and hour of the sale, must be kept in a permanent record book.

No article may be resold by the dealer within two days after he purchased it, and no dealer or employee of his shall buy anything from a person under the age of 18 without his parent's written consent.

An annual license is also necessary under the terms of this ordinance to engage in the junk or second-hand business. The ordinance also covers the sale of pawnbrokers, they are covered by a separate ordinance.

Any violation of these provisions is a misdemeanor and is punishable by a fine of up to $200. Copies of this ordinance were sent from the city tax collector's office to all dealers in Pampa to acquaint them with the law.

Warning on Fire Works Issued

"Selling and discharging fire crackers within the city limits is a violation of a city ordinance," Chief of Police Louis L. Allen said today.

In addition to being a misdemeanor, punishable by heavy fines, shooting off fire crackers in the city is a very dangerous practice, he continued.

Throwing a fire cracker near a passing automobile may start a fire, the motorist so that he may lose control of his car and seriously injure or kill someone—maybe even the youngster who threw the cracker in the first place.

The Police Department receives about 15 complaints a day about children running down a street and throwing fire crackers up on the porches of the houses they pass, near passersby, and under the wheels of automobiles.

The Police Department has been instructed, Allen said, to file charges against the parents of these children and against anyone who sells to them, and all the provisions of the ordinance will be strictly enforced if this dangerous practice continues.

All of Texas lies just outside the city limits, and there is plenty of room to discharge fire crackers where they will not injure or frighten anyone, the chief said.

$70 Narcotics Stolen From Hospital Here

An unknown man robbed the Worley Hospital of a considerable supply of narcotics sometime between 11 p. m. yesterday and 3 a. m. today. The Police and Sheriff's Departments have, however, a good description of the suspect.

According to the report of the robbery given to the police, the door to the narcotics room was unlocked, but the narcotics cabinet was locked.

The suspect was wandering through the halls for quite a while last night, but was thought by the nurses to be only a visitor. Apparently he had watched them closely and was familiar with the narcotics room, because he knew where the cabinet key was kept. After he took the drugs, he unlocked the cabinet and returned the key to its hiding place.

Another robbery in which about $3 was stolen occurred last night at the Pampa Bus Terminal, 115 S. Russell.

Mrs. Anne Mae Patton, ticket agent, closed and securely locked the station at 8 p. m. yesterday. When she returned a few minutes after 10 p. m., to meet a late bus, she found the pin-ball machine had been broken and the money taken. The machine had been checked the day before, and only one day's receipts were in it, she said.

The mystery of the robbery is how the thief managed to escape, Mrs. Patton said. When she reopened the station, all the doors and windows were still securely locked. She was in the station for a short while when a local taxi driver called her attention to the broken machine.

An immediate search was made, but no one was found hiding, either in the rest rooms or in the garage behind the station.

One explanation, she said, is that the thief was in one of the rest rooms when she first locked the station, and that he escaped by mixing with the people who had come to meet the late bus.

An unofficial check, giving an approximate number of the narcotics stolen from the Worley Hospital included 42 morphine tablets, ranging from one-quarter to one-eighth grains each; 47 codeine tablets of one-quarter and one-half grains; 18 dilaudid tablets; 42 H.M.C. tablets of number one and number two strength; 13 pantopon tablets of one-third grain; and 21 demeral ampules.

The retail value of these drugs would be somewhere close to $70, a member of the hospital staff said today.

Harry Hoyler, Jr., Injured in Field

Harry G. Hoyler, Jr., 412 N. Somerville, miraculously escaped death Wednesday when a derrick pipe line broke, causing a 550-pound pipe rack to fall four feet hitting him on the chest.

Knocked unconscious, Hoyler was rushed to the Worley Hospital for examination and treatment. X-rays this morning showed he received a chest injury and several broken ribs. His attending physician reports he is "doing very well."

Employed by George E. Cree, contractor, he was working on the Barrett lease north of town when the accident occurred.

PORTLAND FLOODED AS ANOTHER DIKE BREAKS

PORTLAND, Ore. — (AP) — The flooding Columbia River broke through another dike on Portland's outskirts today and raced over a rich lowland area extending ten miles to the east.

Doomed were the Portland airport, four golf and country clubs, a lakeside resort and homes for several thousand persons.

All residents were ordered evacuated days ago, but the sheriff's office feared some might have returned.

The airport siren sounded a warning when the break came in the early morning. The Fire Department at Troutdale, a small community on high ground east of Portland, also wailed a warning to any returnees. Eight sheriff's cars raced over roads ahead of the water with sirens going.

The break, as in previous breaches that flooded Vanport, the Portland Meadows race track and another golf course, came in a side dike, not on the river front.

Army engineers said they would attempt to hold an intermediary dike, ten miles to the east, protecting the $43,000,000 Reynolds Company aluminum plant.

The break unleashed Columbia waters which wiped out V. Portland Memorial Day, then cut through a cross-dike and flooded to the east over the Portland Meadows horse racing plant before being halted by a second cross-dike.

This second cross-dike was the one that gave way this morning, letting the old floodwaters race farther upriver to the east behind the main Columbia River barrier.

Rules Group Holds Fate of Housing Bill

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A surprise Democratic victory in one Republican-dominated House committee today put the fate of long range housing legislation squarely up to a second GOP-controlled group.

Eleven Democrats, voting solidly and with the help of three Republicans, took full charge of the 27-member House Banking Committee late yesterday. That vote approved, by a 14 to 13 vote, the major provisions of the Senate-passed Taft-Elender-Wagner Housing Bill.

The T-E-W measure aims at bringing about the construction of 15,000,000 homes in 10 years—including 500,000 government-financed low-rent and intermediate-rent units to be operated by local public housing authorities. Sponsors say the main emphasis, however, is on private enterprise, with various housing aids.

The housing issue now moves to the House Rules Committee, which must clear all controversial legislation before it can be brought to a vote on the floor.

Petitions to Call Election Are Circulated

An early and intensive drive to raise the additional $85,000 needed to equip Gray County's proposed general hospital, got underway shortly after noon yesterday when blank petition forms, asking Gray County commissioners to call a bond election for June 30, appeared on the streets.

The blank forms were also distributed in McLean, Lefors, and Alameda.

The petitions were placed on cafe, drugstore, and other business house counters, and in doctors' offices in Pampa and the other communities.

Property owning taxpayers, who are the qualified voters on a bond election, were asked to sign the petitions so they could be presented to the Gray County Commissioners' Court at the earliest possible date. The petition requests the commissioners to call and set an election authorizing them to float the additional $85,000 at an interest rate not exceeding three percent yearly and maturing serially not longer than 30 years.

The election is asked to be held on June 30.

Signatures of 10 percent of the county's qualified taxpayers voters are needed to make the petition valid.

The petitions are being circulated through the efforts of a group of citizens and the Pampa Chamber of Commerce.

The medical profession late yesterday added its stamp of approval on the bond election, adding the belief the county should proceed with its 100 bed hospital. The doctors' stand on the question appears in today's advertising columns of The News.

Hospital Aid Is Confirmed

A telegram confirming passage by the Senate of $125,000,000 of Congressional long-range hospital aid program was received by County Judge Sherman White shortly after noon yesterday from Rep. Eugene Worley.

Worley added the county should not experience any delay in receiving the $335,145.17. His wire read:

U. S. Public Health Service advised no question, but no money available for Gray County Hospital. You should experience no further delays, but in case you do, please let me know. Gene Worley."

An Associated Press dispatch this morning revealed that most hospitals now receiving aid in rural areas are averaging 50 beds and costing an average of $500,000 per hospital.

Gray County's hospital, the AP said, is one of 118 projects in 14 states.

Each two dollars put up by local funds is matched with one dollar in the hospital aid plan.

Meanwhile, the County Commissioners Court was meeting this afternoon to dig deeper into the fate of the county's 100-bed hospital. Petitions to call an election on the additional $85,000 are expected to be signed by a sufficient number of voters so they can be presented to the Commissioners Court on Monday.

Incident of the 'Stolen' Car Proves To Be a Case of Mistaken Identity

A little case of mistaken identity was responsible yesterday morning for a Panhandle-wide alarm and a few moments' search for a "stolen" car.

At 10:45 a. m. J. B. Townsend, 1202 E. Francis, reported to Pampa police that his car, a 1941 Chevrolet, two-tone green club coupe, was stolen from the corner of Foster and Ballard. Townsend had parked his car, and had gone into the Postoffice for a very few minutes. When he returned, his car was gone.

The alarm was broadcast over the Pampa police radio to Amarillo and Borger, and alerted the

Drive Slated To Ward Off Disease Here

The death toll from polio and infant diarrhea is mounting in Texas, and has reached the highest number of cases in the nation, but so far, the dread disease has not reached Pampa.

In an effort to keep the deadly killer from invading this city the Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a campaign to put lids on all garbage and trash cans in the city.

A few lids that will fit the 20-gallon oil drums that most people use for their trash are available from the City Health Department. The lids cost $1.25 each, and will be delivered free by the garbage collector, Ray Salmon, city health officer, said.

Recent studies have shown that the common house fly is the link between old and new cases of infantile paralysis. The virus causing the disease is carried by the fly from the excreta of one suffering from polio. If this fly can land on food left open, or onto any article, such as a child's toy, that might be put into the mouth, the cycle is completed, and another victim is stricken with polio.

The City Health Department, using its new fog applicator, finished spraying the entire city with 5 percent DDT today. All alleys throughout the entire city, including the dump ground, the city park, and Recreation Park, were thoroughly sprayed.

The fog machine was rented to Higgins and Dumas this week and officials of both cities said they were very well pleased at the way the applicator throws a penetrating fog to every cranny where a fly might breed.

Either Monday or Tuesday, Salmon said, McLean will be sprayed for the second time this summer, and Lefors will rent the machine for its first spraying.

Experiments during the polio season in San Antonio last year, when the city used a duplicate of the machine Pampa owns, showed a remarkable decrease in the rate of new polio cases each time the city was sprayed with DDT.

Damascus Bombed Prior to Deadline

By the Associated Press

Uneasy peace came to Palestine today to the accompaniment of wailing air raid sirens in Tel Aviv and gun bursts in Jerusalem.

The four-week armistice and arms embargo became effective at 1 a. m. EST. During the truce, Count Folke Bernadotte, U.N. mediator, will seek to resolve the great issue of partition.

The Jews said the cease fire generally was observed several hours before the deadline. They announced a last minute bombing of Damascus. The Syrians said nine bombs, mostly incendiary, were dropped, causing no casualties and little damage.

The heaviest last minute fighting was around Latrun, where the Arabs block the main Tel Aviv-Jerusalem supply road. The Israel claim of "important successes" there.

The Arab Legion of Trans-Jordan said the Jews broke the truce in Jerusalem within an hour, killing an Arab soldier. Random shooting echoed in the Holy City for six minutes after the armistice hour. Jewish mortars drummed the Arabs there for 70 minutes before the truce. A Jerusalem dispatch said a Christian church and Arab hospital were damaged.

An hour and a half after the armistice was effective, sirens started an eerie wail in much-bombed Tel Aviv. There was no report of Arab planes sighted. Two warships appeared in Tel Aviv waters, probably U. N. truce patrols.

Great Britain announced she would not recognize Israel during the truce. A spokesman said such recognition would be "a positive act of intervention" favoring one side.

Born in war, the first Jewish nation since before the days of Christ had its first day of peace. Both sides were frozen in their military positions. It was a day of burials of the slain, tending for the wounded and repairing of the havoc of war.

Hope was high in Israel that permanent peace might come from the impending talks on the Greek island of Rhodes between now and July 2. Confidence was just as high that the Jewish Army—in which 20 or more former U. S. majors, captains and perhaps one general serve—could hold the young state and beat back Arab armies.

The Arabs held little hope for a lasting peace.

Premier David Ben-Gurion of Israel warned the Jewish Irgun Zvai Leumi and the Stern Group, though not by name, that Israel would not tolerate anyone breaking the truce. He insisted on sovereignty. Irgun denounced Ben-Gurion's regime for accepting the truce, saying:

"The government had a choice between shame and war. It chose shame. But there is no assurance... war will be avoided."

Reporting on actions before the truce, the Egyptians said they killed 300 or more Jews three miles from Isdud, below Tel Aviv. The Arab legion said it killed at least 10 at Bab El Wad gorge near Latrun. The Syrians said they took Mishmar Hayarden, in upper Galilee.

His speech, which was broadcast, was made at the concluding session of a child and youth week conference here.

Knutson Meets Murdock In Elimination Tournament

Gil Knutson, of Davenport, Iowa, will be matched against Frankie Murdock, of Waxahachie, Tex., at 8:30 p. m. today at the Sports Forum in the fifth of a series of wrestling elimination tournaments to decide the contender for Wayne Martin's Southwestern Junior Heavyweight championship.

Knutson had worked himself up to the contender's spot by defeating Billy Hickson here last week, and was scheduled to meet Martin tonight, when the title match had to be postponed. According to a report sent to Promoter Vic Burnett last Friday, Martin, a Tulsa police officer, was injured last week, and would be out of wrestling for a week or two.

Murdock, who meets Knutson across the squared circle tonight, is a fast and vicious wrestler, who once held Pittsburgh Al Gotz, the former southwestern states champion, to a draw.

Both men are practitioners of a particularly deadly sleep hold that leaves their opponents groggy for a minute or more, just long enough to get pinned. Murdock calls his "cobra hold," but Knutson, apparently, has not named his specialty.

The essence of both holds is an arm lock brought back across the side of the neck and pressure is applied to both sides of the victim's neck at once, stopping the flow of blood to the brain. Unconsciousness results.

In the semi-final, George Curtis, of Vicksburg, Miss., will meet Olan Boynton, the rough and rowdy wrestler from Amarillo.

Boynton and Jack Wentworth fought to a rocky draw here last week in one of the meanest matches ever staged in the local arena. When the final bell sound-

Fluke Single Shoves Across Winning Run

ABILENE — Bob Crandall's infield tap with the bases loaded in the bottom of the 11th knocked in Gus Stathos with the winning run here last night as Abilene topped Pampa, 4-3, for the Blue Sox second straight triumph over the W-T-N-M League leaders.

Lefty John Kelly went all the way for Abilene, tossing a six hit performance to notch his second win of the season. Howard Bass, who relieved Avon Driggers with two away in the ninth, was the loser.

The Blue Sox got nine hits and three runs off Driggers, the vagabond twirler, in the eight and two thirds innings he worked. Art Bowland, with three for four, led the Sox attack. R. C. Oley, who had gone hitless against Dick Tross Wednesday night, got two, including a two run homer in the seventh, to lead the Oilers.

After the Sox had knotted the count at 3-all off Driggers in the seventh, Kelly, aided by a twin killing in the eighth, got the Oilers in order through the last four frames, giving up only one run that a leadoff single by Earl Crisman in the eighth.

While Kelly was twirling effectively over the last four, the Sox were picking up steam. Jim McNulty's single was wasted in the eighth, and in the ninth the Sox missed a golden opportunity again before two forced plays ended the threat.

In the ninth, after Gus Stathos had lined out to left and Bowland and the game's only error by Riley in left, got runners on second and third to bring in Bass.

The Oiler reliever walked Crandall, first man to face him to load the bases, but McNulty popped to Barko to end it.

Bass got the Sox in order in the 10th, but the jitters got him in the 11th after Stathos led off with a single and Bowland sacrificed him to second. Falapino, here of Wednesday night's triumph, was passed intentionally, and Crandall drew his fifth walk of the game to load the bases again.

Crandall, who worked the hot corner while Rocky Stone took over in left in the reshuffled Sox lineup, cracked a grounder to Oley at second and the play at the plate was too late to nip Stathos who scooted in with the winning marker.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
 NEWARK, N. J. — A professional boxer whipped a swaggering slugger to whom fighting is what comes naturally when Tony Zale reclaimed the World Middleweight Championship from Rocky Graziano last night.

That should be the end of it, for Tony's triumph in their third meeting was the most decisive of all three exciting belling bees but it is doubtful that the public will let it rest there. The fans like thrilling fights and that's what Zale and Graziano gave them.

Sam Pian, Tony's matchmaking manager, said a few days ago that three times is enough and that Zale probably would take on Marcel Cerdan next, but, heck, who would want to see Zale and Cerdan if they could see another Zale-Graziano thriller?

THOUGHTLESS GESTURE
 Graziano's big mistake (besides getting into the ring) may have been an effort to use that left hook he had been learning so painfully. He tried it three or four times in the first round, then Zale demonstrated the same blow and cloaked Rocky right on the chops. It all seems to prove the Rock knew what he was talking about one day up in the Catskills when he explained sensibly: "Every time I try to hit I take a hell of a licking."

Braves Hinge Team Success On Hurling Duo

By RALPH RODEN
 Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn once again are being called the Mr. Right and Mr. Left of the Boston Braves' pitching staff.

Sain and Spahn each won 21 games for the Braves in 1947 and the National League pennant hopes of the Braves hinge on their duplicating that feat this year.

Both however, got off to poor starts. Each won only one game out of his first three contests.

Sain, the righthander, pitched the Braves' first game last night by beating the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-2, in a night game at St. Louis.

It was the Braves' fifth straight victory and second in a row over the Cardinals. Spahn, the lefthander, stopped at their margin by beating the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-2, in a night game at St. Louis.

Both of the previous fights between the poised, silent Zale and the rough and rugged Graziano went six rounds, but Zale needed only half that last night. He floored Graziano after less than a minute of the first round, then lost the second when Rocky came surging back.

But in the third Zale was absolute master. He downed Graziano for the count of seven, twice had him hanging on the ropes, and ended matters with a tremendous left to the head after 1:08 minutes. In between all this punishment Graziano kept on swinging.

The crowd numbered 21,497 in Ruppert Stadium, paid a gross of $25,646, and ended matters with a $405,646 by $45,000 for radio and $25,000 for movie rights. Television was banned by the promoters.

Zale weighed 158 3/4 and Graziano 158 1/2 for the match, set to go 15 rounds.

The betting odds favored Graziano at 6 to 5 on a pick, 5 to 12. Graziano was assured a purse of $120,000, and Zale $60,000. Graziano, whose real name is Rocco Silvio Barbella, comes from Brooklyn, Zale, born Anthony Florian Zale, is from Gary, Ind.

Graziano was numbed, bruised, and baffled after he was revived and taken to his dressing room. He received a concussion and for a time his reflexes were gone.

However, he was pronounced "absolutely okay" early today by his manager, Irving Cohen.

Graziano said he never got over the first punch which Zale landed "I never even remembered the last round," he said.

Zale agreed the first punch was the key blow. The two were in the center of the ring, Rocky facing towards the outfield of the ball park. Zale crouched, drew back his left, and brought it up almost from the floor. As the defending champion started to sag, Zale drove the same fist into his body. Graziano went down but wobbled up at the count of three.

"The way he reacted to that first hard punch, I knew I'd get him," said Zale.

3rd Round KO Regains Title For Ex-Champ

NEWARK, N. J. —(AP)—The champion who came back, Tony Zale, chartered a fighting future today over the prostrate form of Rocky Graziano.

Zale, the underdog, regained the world's middleweight title by knocking out Graziano, just as he predicted he would, in the third round of their third encounter.

Although 34, Zale immediately proclaimed he would not retire. He offered to fight all comers and declared:

"I feel like I'm going the other way again—back to youth."

Marcel Cerdan of France was the boxer mentioned as Zale's probable next opponent, providing Cerdan takes back the European title from Cyrille Delannout of Belgium July 10.

Both of the previous fights between the poised, silent Zale and the rough and rugged Graziano went six rounds, but Zale needed only half that last night. He floored Graziano after less than a minute of the first round, then lost the second when Rocky came surging back.

But in the third Zale was absolute master. He downed Graziano for the count of seven, twice had him hanging on the ropes, and ended matters with a tremendous left to the head after 1:08 minutes. In between all this punishment Graziano kept on swinging.

The crowd numbered 21,497 in Ruppert Stadium, paid a gross of $25,646, and ended matters with a $405,646 by $45,000 for radio and $25,000 for movie rights. Television was banned by the promoters.

Zale weighed 158 3/4 and Graziano 158 1/2 for the match, set to go 15 rounds.

The betting odds favored Graziano at 6 to 5 on a pick, 5 to 12. Graziano was assured a purse of $120,000, and Zale $60,000. Graziano, whose real name is Rocco Silvio Barbella, comes from Brooklyn, Zale, born Anthony Florian Zale, is from Gary, Ind.

THOUGHTLESS GESTURE
 Graziano's big mistake (besides getting into the ring) may have been an effort to use that left hook he had been learning so painfully. He tried it three or four times in the first round, then Zale demonstrated the same blow and cloaked Rocky right on the chops. It all seems to prove the Rock knew what he was talking about one day up in the Catskills when he explained sensibly: "Every time I try to hit I take a hell of a licking."

She's Up to Her Ankles in Rabbits

BELLFLOWER, Calif. — (AP) — When a mother rabbit with 12 young died three weeks ago Mrs. Juanita Siegle took over a 24-hour chore of feeding the youngsters.

With a tiny bottle, equipped with a nipple, she fed the entire brood through the critical period. Today they're fast-growing, sturdy and able to forage for themselves.

"Well, yes, I guess you might say I saved them," admits Mrs. Siegle, "but now I'm up to my ankles in rabbits."

Brazil Nuts Star in Yam Casserole

A VEGETABLE plate claims special attention from the diner when a variety of colors and textures are on the eye. Brazil nuts in combination with yam sweet potatoes provide the texture interest as well as bringing protein and energy food values to the dish. To slice the nuts easily and perfectly, place shelled Brazil nuts in cold water, bring to boiling point and simmer 3 minutes. Then cut nuts lengthwise and sprinkle over canned yams. See recipe that follows for yam dish which is served with cauliflower and snap beans.

All Brides Are Beautiful

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

Old Looks and New Looks may come and go, but the romantic tradition of the wedding gown remains basically unchanged through the ages.

The object of a wedding gown is now and always has been to make the bride look as nearly as possible like an angel. Though in everyday clothes she may be a confirmed tomboy, on her wedding day she must be glorified—and usually she is.

This season wedding gowns are as beautiful and as romantic as ever, and maybe a little more so. White satin and ancestral lace remain the favorites for formal church weddings, but imported organdy is a close runner-up.

The bride may choose between regal and dignified styles with long, tight sleeves and princess lines and the youthful simplicity of a less formal mode, with short sleeves, round neckline less elaboration. She may have a floor-length veil of old lace, or she may choose the more modern headpiece of tulle and flowers, made by a milliner.

The practical bride may even choose a wedding gown which may double as a dance dress later on. To achieve this double-duty purpose, she usually cuts off the train after the wedding, and may even have the gown dyed a pastel tint.

Fashions in wedding rings run more to diamonds this year, with the narrow diamond hoop in great demand. Wide bands, of either yellow gold, platinum or palladium also are being used a great deal, with or without jeweled settings. There also is a trend to build up the front of the wedding band for greater display of the small diamonds used.

It Takes Courage and Love to Stand for God

By WILLIAM E. CHURCH, D. D.
 What does it mean to stand for God? What does it mean to stand for Him? We may find the answer in asking for what God Himself stands. Consider the revelation of God as it is recorded in the scriptures of the Old and New Testaments.

It was a progressive revelation. Those who sought God did not find Him at first in His fullness, the God of Love, whom Jesus revealed in His teachings and exemplified in His life.

The revelation of God was first as Creator. Jesus summed it up and gave to it richer and fuller meaning when He said, "My Father worketh hitherto, and I work." To stand for God is to be a worker and not a slacker in the business of life.

God, the Creator, is righteous.

What does it mean to be righteous? What does it mean in building to have sound and honest foundations, to have things plumb and true, according to the square and the plumb-line?

That's what it means to be righteous in character and actions. And God is the embodiment, the true and complete pattern of righteousness. To stand for God is to be upright and true, with no crookedness, falseness or dishonesty in one's life or thought.

But righteousness is not enough. A just man may be harsh and cruel, if he acts from justice alone, with no pity or compassion for human weakness and error. God is merciful and "full of compassion." So, the man who stands for God will be merciful as well as just.

But if justice must be tempered with mercy, mercy must likewise be tempered with justice. Otherwise it might become weak and compromising with evil. Mercy is not enough. It is only love, which rebukes evil, that can be enough.

So, the God, who is Creator, righteous, and merciful, is revealed in His highest character

Take Off Ugly Fat With Grape Fruit Juice Recipe

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your drugist and ask for four ounces of Liquid Baracrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grape fruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back slimming curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bulk disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you. (Matthew 6:33).

A DIFFERENT OMELET
 Fluffy omelet may be varied from time to time: one way is to add minced cooked ham to the egg yolk mixture before folding in the whites. Another way is to spread it with jelly before folding and serving it.

as a God of Love, with His purpose concerning man not condemnation, but redemption. The man who stands for God will be a man of love.

All this it means to stand for God. There are times of crisis when it does require daring and courage to stand for God. When unrighteousness, violence and hatred have the upper hand, it requires courage to be true to one's self and to one's God.

Daniel, the great hero of faith, was the type of upright man who feared nothing but the God whom he worshipped. His story was written for those suffering persecution, and we need his story today when persecution is rife. Also, it requires daring to stand for God against the easy and complacent ways, that even more insidiously than persecution, are often effective in diverting men and women from the paths of right and truth.

Be Thrifty; Shop Right Stores

By JOHN L. SPRINGER
 AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK—Experts say one way you can fight the high cost of living is by shopping at "right stores."

These authorities say some stores usually sell goods at lower prices than others, while some merchants have lower prices only on certain items. They recommend "comparison shopping" to consumers who must watch expenditures carefully.

On major items where a large amount of money is involved, they say you should explore four or five stores if possible.

According to one study by the Twentieth Century Fund, an independent organization which does research on economic questions, of every dollar spent at retail only 41 cents covers actual costs of manufacture. The other 59 cents go for distribution. These are all the costs that pile up as the goods move from the factory to your home.

WHAT YOU CAN DO
 This study said distribution costs might be trimmed by eliminating these following services: Buying on credit or on time payments; shopping by telephone; shopping at stores which make frequent deliveries and readily take back goods; every dollar spent at retail only 41 cents covers actual costs of manufacture. The other 59 cents go for distribution. These are all the costs that pile up as the goods move from the factory to your home.

The survey found that stores usually add a "service charge" to the price of goods and on the installment plan. In the case of one big firm, this charge often equals 20 percent more than the price for cash.

DELIVERIES COST MONEY
 Fund researchers also found that store's liberal delivery policy can be expensive. Where prices are the same whether the goods are delivered or not, the consumer who takes his purchases with him actually pays for the whim of another who may demand delivery of a trifle.

Returns on unwanted goods also were found to be costly. Often they involve two delivery expenses—from the store and back—without any profit. If the article is soiled or damaged it may have to be resold at a loss. Department store files bulge with stories of persons like one woman who ordered a grand piano, expensive drapes and new clothes to impress her guests at a party. The next day all the merchandise went back to the store—to be paid for, indirectly, by the regular customers.

The Fund researchers urged consumers "to avoid the cost of credit and delivery." They said you can do this by trading with stores "which are strictly cash-and-carry, which charge extra for services, or which give the cash-and-carry customers a lower price."

BUT REMEMBER SERVICE
 Other retail experts agree that prices at cash-and-carry stores should be examined. But they warn that you may miss excellent opportunities if you fail to investigate stores which provide other conveniences.

These authorities say: Many department stores can keep prices low because of the huge business they do. Through intelligent buying their guests at a party. The next day all the merchandise went back to the store—to be paid for, indirectly, by the regular customers.

It Might Be New Campaign Style

American politics has finally come up with something new. It's the off-the-record speech by a presidential candidate to the voters and, to date, the sole possessor of this novel technique is Henry A. Wallace, who tried it out on a select few in Hollywood the other night.

Some of Mr. Wallace's backers gave a cozy little "private" dinner for 450. It cost the guests ten bucks a head. But the press couldn't buy, beg or bully their way in. No, Mr. Wallace was going to talk off the record. And apparently they were going to pass the hat for any charge the guests had after trying for the victuals. For, according to one source, it was explained that the presence of reporters might inhibit potential contributors.

About the same time some people in Mr. Truman's camp were complaining that the "off-the-record" had been neglected to broadcast one of the President's speeches to the west coast. And in Oregon, Mr. Stassen and Governor Dewey were scurrying about, greeting school children, Indians and voters, and putting in about a 12-hour talking day to settle the question of how on the record can you get?

But Mr. Wallace seemingly was content to confine his opinions to a circle of intimates. Just what a candidate would have to say to 450 members of the general public that would be off the record is possibly something that only Mr. Wallace knows. But the idea has its intriguing aspects.

Perhaps as the campaign progresses he will discard this noisy ostentation and concentrate on the unpublicized affairs.

This would save Wallace himself need not have to extort or plead or answer embarrassing questions. He could spend his time recon- vincing those who are already con- vinct that he is the man of the hour. The enthusiasm they could be limited, and the effort almost nil.

Members of the press, who might otherwise be covering Wal- lace meetings, would have more evenings at home. (Any leaks of information from guests at this "biased" as an unparliamentary breach of manners, and ignored.)

The other candidates, of course, would be saved a lot of time. They would not have to read Mr. Wallace's speeches and answer them. They could concentrate on the one or two who were still speaking for publication.

Last of all, the public would stand to benefit. More of their favorite comedy broadcasts would survive if Mr. Wallace withdrew from the frantic political com- petition for the White House. It is a thing to the old belief that there are two sides to every question, without any public intrusion of a third point of view by Mr. Wal- lace.

In fact, the Wallace innovation might be so successful that it would influence our political his- tory. Who knows but that a future candidate for president may have to declare himself on this matter as well as other burning issues with the knowledge that he stands a better chance of election if he promises to play the black-tie and $10-a-plate circuit exclusively, and to keep all his political oratory off the record.

FIXED BALLOT

WASHINGTON — Last week Californians read with understand- ing the story of the fixed election in Czechoslovakia. The Californians, too, found a fixed ballot when they went to their voting places June 1.

Those voting in the Democratic primary had a Czechoslovakian free choice in the section indicated for the presidential nomination. They could vote for Harry Truman or they could refuse to vote.

Those voting in the Republican primary had the "free" choice of Governor Earl Warren or nobody for the Republican presidential nomination.

It was impossible for the voter in either primary to express a choice of presidential candidates. A clause in the "fixed" California election laws declares any ballot to be "defaced" and, therefore, void if the voter writes in the name of his presidential choice, or even scratches out the one name which the all-powerful Central Committee has seen fit to have printed on the ballot.

After sample ballots were mailed out about a week in advance of the election, the rising tide of anti-Warren Republicans gave audible signs of protest. Some said they would refuse to vote at all in the section of the ballot provided for the presidential "choice." If they scratched Warren their ballot for other candidates would be void.

Fair Enough . . . by Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK — Fred Tisdale has bought an interest in the Times, a weekly published at New Milford, Conn. In a comfortable old phrase with rockers on it, he is settling down in the beautiful Yankee country to spend the rest of his life as a small-town editor. Mr. T. is a real professional journal- ist in the finest sense of the word. He was born in West Ten- nese, at a time when the hands of Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest still rode in the moonlight in the shrouds of the original Ku Klux Klan, landed in Kansas City bus- ed, at a tender age, wrote and drew pictures for the Kansas City Star, and played the ground tour of the tramp newspaperman. This included the New Orleans States, the Evening Sun in Baltimore, and under it, Ore., that can't say I ever heard of, and the China Press in Shanghai.

On the China Press he covered the police court and drew pic- tures to go with his copy. One of his stories dealt with a Chinese fellow charged with attempting to commit suicide by jumping from a bridge over the Yangtze. The blotter and Mr. T. nearly drove himself and his readers crazy speculating whether he tossed the brick in the air and tried to get and dived or dove (two for one) on it. They had to go to press before the court got around to the defendant and Mr. Tisdale lost interest next day and therefore never did find out in what man- ner the defendant had tried to end it all by means of a brick. Does it matter now?

The grand tour was variable, like the route of an inveterate ball player some years ago. Few spectacular alcoholics, wan- dered from town to town in the way of that class of cavalry sol- diers called snow-birds, who en- listed for the winter when the cavalry was snowed in and went over the hill in the spring. The mem- bers of the grand tour named Hand which run endlessly in the States in Tucson casually tell of the execution of one of the boys by firing squad of his own com- mand. The captain pleaded with him to yield and do the duty, but he had a stubborn streak so it was nec- essary to shoot him, but Mr. Hand added that they buried him with honors. That seemed to re- lieve the side of meanness.

In those days — my youngling truthfully say that he had work- ed on the Kansas City Star he could hang his hat in any shop in the country. Chicago, Minneapo- liss, St. Paul were on the grand tour. St. Omaha, St. Louis, Denver, San Francisco, Seattle, New Orleans and, for some reason, St. Joe, Mo.

Des Moines, Memphis, Dallas, Los Angeles and Fort Worth were such places in Oklahoma City or Tulsa in the newspaper sense for any other for that matter. The pay ranged from $15 a week for cub, mostly runaway big-city office boys who would pitch in for their lunch, and coffee when they couldn't catch on in the local newspaper shops, up to $35 a week for older hands of 28 or 30 with the knack and com- plement of seasoned men.

There were lots of papers then. We had four in Des Moines when I was a cub there in 1912. There was a cub there in 1912. There was a cub there in 1912. There was a cub there in 1912. There was a cub there in 1912.

Under the shadow of this minor- ity machine, California's Republi- can Central Committee this year handpicked the delegation for the national convention, overriding the wishes of many regular Republi- can communities. When the pick- ing of the delegation was over, the tide of resentment began to rise among conservative Republi- can leaders whose wishes had been ignored.

Among these smaller party workers sentiment for MacArthur originally was considerable. Late- ly, the bungling and high-handed- ness of the Central Committee, coupled with the nationwide ac- claim for MacArthur after he magnificently rejected the Senate invitation to come home under circumstances which might have been called political, have com- bined to redouble the MacArthur strength in California.

It is now known that several of the most influential members of the handpicked Republican del- egation, longtime politicians and willing New Dealers, are sick of the machine and the mess in which they are caught, and privately have expressed a desire for MacArthur as the man who can break up the machine all across the continent.

Well, excusing that word "pon- derous" and noting an exception to that phrase "In the South," the voice of the New Milford Times could be as influential in its own circular field as that of any daily. After all, those metro- politan editors who write, mostly, by the likes of Mr. Tis- dale, hired for their ability to ex- press the policy of the person or the soulless corporation who owns the paper. There is a tradition that practically all of them have one of two ambitions. The first is to settle down to country jour- nalism and the second is to raise chickens.

If we get any honest discussion of the questions which will settle the fate of the United States in the next few years, say four years, and may do for us as a free people, we will get it from the non-metropolitan papers. The Deep South papers are much franker today. I am afraid they would pinch, too, in the same circumstances which have been mailing to all household furnishing stores west of the Mississippi. Colonel Simpson bought 2,000 of these to distribute without asking prices. Harold E. Stassen, vice president of the party, is mailing to all household furnishing stores west of the Mississippi. There aren't any hicks in the United States now. After two wars we are a far-traveled people and higher education is as common as the common cold. An item right under Tisdale's clarion call or outline of purpose on the editorial page says that James A. Long ago, the Daily Gate City of Keokuk, Ia., carried an almost endless rhapsody entitled "Keokuk will be a town like a jewel," a vision of future Keo- kuk after the completion of the great Mississippi dam. This was rough-hewn poetry but as litera- ture it was certainly much bet- ter than the illiterate prattle of night clubs and political preg- nancies for which the metro- politan press regularly pays more money than any poet essayist or great editorial journalist ever got.

About the same time the late Bert Leston Taylor reprinted in the "Line O' Type" in Chicago a saga of a runaway pig named Ottumwa. It was full of power and passion.

"Learning is a waste superior to beauty; learning is better than hidden treasure. Learning is a companion on a journey to a strange country; learning is strength incalculable. A man in this world without learning is as a beast of the field." From the Hitopadesa (Sanskrit) about A.D. 500.

Well, excusing that word "pon- derous" and noting an exception to that phrase "In the South," the voice of the New Milford Times could be as influential in its own circular field as that of any daily. After all, those metro- politan editors who write, mostly, by the likes of Mr. Tis- dale, hired for their ability to ex- press the policy of the person or the soulless corporation who owns the paper. There is a tradition that practically all of them have one of two ambitions. The first is to settle down to country jour- nalism and the second is to raise chickens.

If we get any honest discussion of the questions which will settle the fate of the United States in the next few years, say four years, and may do for us as a free people, we will get it from the non-metropolitan papers. The Deep South papers are much franker today. I am afraid they would pinch, too, in the same circumstances which have been mailing to all household furnishing stores west of the Mississippi. Colonel Simpson bought 2,000 of these to distribute without asking prices. Harold E. Stassen, vice president of the party, is mailing to all household furnishing stores west of the Mississippi.

There aren't any hicks in the United States now. After two wars we are a far-traveled people and higher education is as common as the common cold. An item right under Tisdale's clarion call or outline of purpose on the editorial page says that James A. Lillard, who makes his home up Long Mountain, "was with Jimmy Doolittle on that famed flight over Japan."

Long ago, the Daily Gate City of Keokuk, Ia., carried an almost endless rhapsody entitled "Keokuk will be a town like a jewel," a vision of future Keo- kuk after the completion of the great Mississippi dam. This was rough-hewn poetry but as litera- ture it was certainly much bet- ter than the illiterate prattle of night clubs and political preg- nancies for which the metro- politan press regularly pays more money than any poet essayist or great editorial journalist ever got.

About the same time the late Bert Leston Taylor reprinted in the "Line O' Type" in Chicago a saga of a runaway pig named Ottumwa. It was full of power and passion.

I remember — "as down the street that mare she dashed around and around her tail she lashed" — a man who was set- tling all over the world we set- tled in New Milford because we like it better — but that his editorial purview is bounded by the township line. I expect to see him breaking out all over neverthe- less. — Sen. Alexander Wiley (R) of Wisconsin.

Mr. Tisdale says "after trav- eling all over the world we set- tled in New Milford because we like it better" — but that his editorial purview is bounded by the township line. I expect to see him breaking out all over neverthe- less. — Sen. Alexander Wiley (R) of Wisconsin.

Whether we build the (flood) protection this year or later is not a vital question. But whether we exceed the budget is a vital question. — Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) of Ohio.

Ford in a letter to the UAW. Without the doughboy, with- out an army of sufficient size and strength, I hate to think what would be the fate of America in the world. — Secretary of the Army Kenneth S. Royall.

I want to say to you that dur- ing the next four years there will be a Democrat in the White House, and you are looking at him. — President Harry S. Truman

The United Nations is the world's only instrument for preventing another war in which there could be no victor, no van- quished, but only universal destruc- tion for both sides—and for all humanity. — Secretary of State Cordell Hull, secretary general of the U.N.

Under the shadow of this minor- ity machine, California's Republi- can Central Committee this year handpicked the delegation for the national convention, overriding the wishes of many regular Republi- can communities. When the pick- ing of the delegation was over, the tide of resentment began to rise among conservative Republi- can leaders whose wishes had been ignored.

Among these smaller party workers sentiment for MacArthur originally was considerable. Late- ly, the bungling and high-handed- ness of the Central Committee, coupled with the nationwide ac- claim for MacArthur after he magnificently rejected the Senate invitation to come home under circumstances which might have been called political, have com- bined to redouble the MacArthur strength in California.

It is now known that several of the most influential members of the handpicked Republican del- egation, longtime politicians and willing New Dealers, are sick of the machine and the mess in which they are caught, and privately have expressed a desire for MacArthur as the man who can break up the machine all across the continent.

History of Bread Baking Discussed At Rotary Club

Two speakers yesterday addressed members of the Pampa Rotary Club at the club's weekly luncheon held in the Palm Room, City Hall.

Taking the platform first was Frank Rapstein, manager of the Pampa Baking Company. Rapstein spoke briefly on the history of bread baking, picking up from the time grain was first eaten raw thousands of years ago and showed its progress over the centuries from hand mixing to the machine age and the intricate and accurate methods of today's commercial bakeries.

Art Tved was asked, as a member of the Hospital Board, to explain to the club the hows, whys, and when of Gray County's proposed Highland General Hospital. Tved told the group in detail what the County Commissioners Court was up against in attempting to determine which course to follow—reduction of the hospital's

Communism Is Discussed

Dr. Douglas Nelson, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, presented an after-dinner speech on communism at Lions Club yesterday.

"Communism in itself is not the real threat to this country," Nelson said. "It is communism and the other disturbing elements causing so much trouble that we may be goaded into becoming a police state."

The Rev. Nelson pointed out that if people are led to believe their government cannot handle the economy, it cannot.

"We have in our country right now a good deal of the elements that cause people to believe the government is not capable of handling things—inflation, groups fighting groups and so forth."

"We should stop taking about the misfits in our government and instead talk of how easy it is in this country for us to replace the misfits," Rev. Nelson concluded.

Attorney Arthur M. Teed addressed the Lions urging members

Leonard Belden, chairman of the Finance Committee, was in charge of the program. He introduced Helen Kay Wilson, daughter of Lion Ray Wilson. She presented two piano selections, "Bum-bie Boogie" and a jazzed-up version of "Swanee River." As an encore number she played "Frank and Johnnie."
