

British Rush Reinforcements Into Palestine Area

Jews, Arabs Sign New 48-Hour Truce

JERUSALEM—(AP)—Jews insisted today, in the face of denials, that Syrian and Lebanese armies have invaded northern Palestine.

The British rushed soldiers back to the country to deal with what they called a "seriously deteriorated" situation, less than two weeks before the May 15 date they have set to end their rule.

They guarded a new 48-hour truce between Jews and Arabs in the southern Katamon Quarter of Jerusalem while they negotiated for a truce to cover the whole city and its Christian, Jewish and Moslem shrines.

The first British reinforcements were an estimated 1,000 soldiers in battle dress who reached Haifa yesterday from Cyprus aboard the troopship Empire Test.

Before that, competent sources had estimated British strength in Palestine at 25,000 troops, including skelton armored and gun forces. The British Army has been shipping out under a pledge to be gone by Aug. 1.

Official sources in Amman, Trans-Jordan, said Thursday that Syria, Lebanon, Egypt and Iraq would send at least 30,000 regulars to "rescue Palestine before May 15."

The strength of the Jewish Military Haganah is estimated unofficially at 35,000 and that of the Jewish underground, Irgun, Zvai Leumi and Stern Group together at 2,500 to 7,000.

Haganah, which had announced an Arab invasion Saturday of Palestine's northernmost thumb, said in Tel Aviv last night attacks on five Jewish settlements there had been beaten off but Syrian troops still were massing on the border.

The latest announcement said Ramot Naftali had been attacked with tanks, armored cars, 25-pounder cannon and mortars, and Lahavot Habashan, Kefar Sade, Dan and Dafne also had been under assault, which had subsided.

British statements yesterday made no mention of an invasion. The Royal Air Force said it fought over the whole northern frontier showed "no Syrians in sight."

Joseph C. Goodwin of The Associated Press reported from Damascus that he had toured the frontiers of Palestine and seen no sign of an attack.

He said he noted no troop movements on the road from Damascus to Panjaya, and Dan and Dafne, viewed from a mile or more away, looked peaceful and undamaged.

Arabs told him, "there has been no battle." But Goodwin said Syria's big Katana military camp was deserted and foreign military observers were wondering what had become of an estimated 5,000 to 6,000 troops who left there Saturday.

Two days—just the flick of an eyelid as time goes when a fast-moving emergency like this is faced! At best, the U. N. will have to pull a rabbit out of the hat to handle the situation.

And when one stops to survey the whole complicated muddle the question naturally arises whether there would be greater danger in the continuation of the present stalemate or in an inability of the U. N. to do anything about it.

Certainly a failure of the peace organization to do something constructive would be a terrible blow to the morale of its supporters.

Anyway, England is giving her mandate on May 15, and expects to have her troops out of Palestine by August 1. Further, the British say that after the surrender of the mandate they will employ the 17 diminished armed forces merely defensive to protect the completion of the withdrawal.

In short, all restraint will have been removed from the developing conflict unless there is U. N. intervention.

Meantime the situation in Palestine is (to use the language of the British Army) "seriously deteriorating." Yesterday the British announced that they were rushing troops, tanks and guns to the Holy Land from Malta and Cyprus to cope with the worsened condition.

House Committee Approves Draft Bill

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The House Armed Services Committee today approved 28 to 5 a two-year draft bill.

The vote puts the issue for selective service formally before Congress for the first time since the war.

Before voting, the committee heard Secretary of Defense Forrestal call the measure "excellent."

"There is an immediate and imperative demand for something to augment the size of our armed forces," Forrestal said. "This bill provides it."

The five committee members voting against the bill were Reps. Short (R-Mo.), Bishop (R-Ill.), Philbin (D-Mass.), Haverener (D-Calif.) and Hefferman (D-N.Y.).

Rep. Clason (R-Mass.) asked that the vote be taken in secret. Chairman Andrews (R-N.Y.) and Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.) opposed and there was a public vote.

The committee voted down a motion by Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa.) to defer action until the Senate acts on a combined draft-UMT bill tentatively approved by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Under the Senate bill, there would be a draft of men for regular service in the armed forces and a draft of 18-year-olds for training as reserves.

The House bill provides only for a draft for regular service. Chairman Andrews (R-N.Y.) called Forrestal and Secretary of the Army Royall in for a final look at the measure before a formal committee vote. Royall said it is "thoroughly acceptable to all the services"—Army, Navy and Air Force.

They did not ask that the committee put in any provision for limited training of 18-year-olds, but Forrestal emphasized that he still believes universal military training is needed.

Andrews has been assured by House leaders that the bill will be called up for debate next week.

As the committee gathered, there was a possibility that one of its members might try to hook a delayed-action universal military training amendment onto the draft bill when it goes before the House.

Tests Show Poison Trace In Man's Body

The body of A. M. Downs, found in a weed patch on a farm east of Wheeler last month, contained "traces of strychnine," according to a report from the Department of Public Safety, Jess Swink, sheriff of Wheeler County, said today.

The report, signed by J. H. Arnett, toxicologist for the department, stated that the capsules and the small phial found near the body contained the powerful poison, and that "definite traces" of the poison were found in the stomach, liver, and kidneys sent to the department for analysis.

This report would indicate that poison was the cause of death, but Sheriff Wheeler, Jan. 17, Swink said, met his death through suicide or murder still remains, Swink said. And there is still the vexing problem of how he arrived at the farm where he was found.

Apparently Downs did quite a bit of traveling around after he left Wheeler Jan. 17, Swink said. He did go to Des Moines, Iowa, where he spent a night in a hotel on two different occasions. In addition to his movements previously reported, he spent the period from Feb. 13 to 15 with his stepdaughter in Los Angeles. He is reported to have told her that he traveled from Iowa with a Dr. Townsend as far as Salt Lake City, where he then boarded a train for California.

At other times, he is reported to have told various persons that he was going to buy the practice of a Dr. Towner, a veterinarian in Iowa, and that he had purchased an automobile in Des Moines.

Neither Dr. Towner nor Dr. Townsend has been identified. Swink said, nor can he show that Downs ever bought an automobile.

The body of the farmer-veterinarian of Wheeler was found in the weed patch after he had been lying there for more than a month. In addition to the poison found, there were definite signs of foul play. The Texas Ranger stationed in Amarillo has been called into the case, and there are several stages in recent investigation that are not yet ready for disclosure. Swink said.

Group Approves Panhandle Dams

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A House Agriculture Subcommittee approved today a bill authorizing a $1,150,000 appropriation for two dams in the Texas Panhandle.

The bill, by Rep. Worley (D-Texas), would provide $750,000 for the reconstruction of the Wolf Creek Dam near Perryton which was destroyed by flood a year ago, and $400,000 to repair the flood-damaged Rita Blanca Dam at Dalhart.

The money would be appropriated to the Secretary of Agriculture and work done by the Soil Conservation Service.

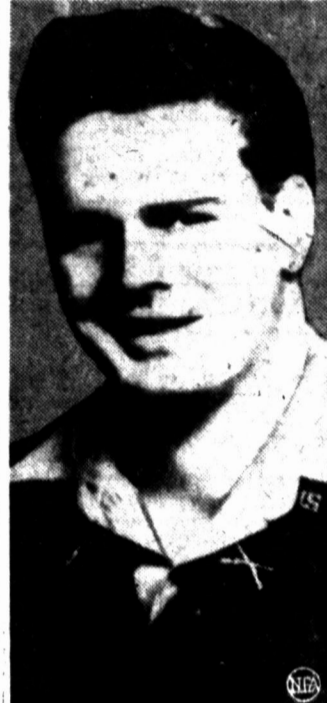

Worley told a reporter he did not "want to be too optimistic" about final Congressional approval of his measure because the present policy of Congress is against appropriations for such work except when done by the Army Engineers or Reclamation Bureau.

Two Killed as Plane Crashes

MINE RUN, Va.—(AP)—Two men were killed and a third was injured in the crash of a four-passenger Beechcraft plane in Orange County last night.

Killed were Gilbert Wilson of Pittsburg, Texas, and David Reed of Austin, Texas. Injured was C. A. King of Dallas, Texas, who was reported in a critical condition today at a Fredericksburg hospital.

The crash occurred about a half mile off route 8, approximately 20 miles west of Fredericksburg. The plane was enroute to Washington.

'NO' TO RUSSIAN—Sgt. Frank Druschel of Aurora, Ill., released the demand of a Russian officer that the flag of the American-leased steamer, Stadt Passau, be lowered, after a break in the oil line grounded the ship at a point where the Danube separates the American and Russian zones. The steamer was towed into Linz after two American soldiers and the wives of two American crewmen rowed to the shore and notified American authorities.

Efforts to Avoid Strikes Being Waged

By the Associated Press

Labor-management relations entered a crucial period today in the railroad and automotive industries.

Strikes in both have been set for next week, but last minute efforts are being waged to stave them off.

The nation's major meat packers meanwhile, reported some success in their back-to-work drive, but the CIO Meat Handlers Union said its members were holding firm.

Members of the National (railway) Mediation Board resumed conferences in Chicago designed to avert a strike of some 190,000 railroad workers set for May 11.

Three days of conferences last week proved fruitless, but Executive Chairman Frank Douglas said negotiators still were hopeful of finding some basis for settlement.

The conferences are the last steps provided by law for avoiding a strike of engineers, firemen and engine men and switch men. Railroad workers do not come under the Taft-Hartley law which provides for possible court injunctions to halt strikes that are not yet ready for disclosure. (See STRIKES, Page 8)

Men Picked Up for Former Offenses

Members of the Sheriff's Department picked up three men Saturday night in various parts of the county, and put them in the county jail for former offenses.

B. M. Wilson arrived in Pampa Saturday and was re-arrested on a "hot check" charge. Wilson has been in California and Mexico since he first passed the checks in Pampa.

"Red" Silvers had a fight at Lefors about a year and a half ago. He was fined $175 at the time, but failed to pay $75 of his fine. Therefore, he will be held at the county jail until he either pays the remainder of his fine or serves the time.

Roy B. Chancie was picked up in The Flats Saturday night after several complaints had been turned in saying he was disturbing the peace. Chancie also owes part of a former fine.

Taft, Stassen Wind Up Ohio Battle Today

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft and Harold E. Stassen wind up their Ohio delegate battle today amid signs that the outcome may sway early GOP presidential balloting at Philadelphia.

Both candidates planned last hour appeals over state-wide radio hookups tonight in their contest over 23 of Ohio's 53 presidential nominating votes.

Both camps expressed confidence in the results when upwards of 700,000 Republicans go to the polls in tomorrow's primary.

Politicians were watching the outcome for its possible effect on the delegates from such states as Illinois and Pennsylvania, where the bloom of favorite sons might fade quickly.

From the Taft camp came reports that a majority of the 56-vote Illinois group is ready to come their way speedily at the national convention.

In fact, some of the Taft followers are predicting the Ohioan can have 51 on the first ballot, despite previous plans to back Gov. Dwight Green as a favorite son. Green has been named as the national convention keynoter.

But these Taft supporters admit privately that unless the senator can stand Stassen off with a half dozen or fewer delegates from his own vote, Green is a favorite son. Green has been named as the national convention keynoter.

Mandate by Britain Ends In 12 Days

By DEWITT MACKENZIE, AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Twelve days from now, Britain will surrender her mandate over the Holy Land and the lid will be off the Arab-Jewish war—unless a harassed United Nations can evolve a plan to prevent a catastrophe.

Twelve days—just the flick of an eyelid as time goes when a fast-moving emergency like this is faced! At best, the U. N. will have to pull a rabbit out of the hat to handle the situation.

What Is Marriage?

Some people think Robert Louis Stevenson was when he said that marriage is more a field of battle than a bed of roses. But according to the Woman's Home Companion April Marriage Clinic, he was right, for the most that the fruits of marriage, the sweets of marriage, have to be fought for and worked for. Dr. Davis Mace, director of the British National Marriage Guidance Council, who writes the Companion article, says that the greatest crisis, the most serious crisis in marriage is the birth of the first child. And he pulls no punches in telling why this is true. He points out that the arrival of the first baby fundamentally changes the whole character of a marriage and that while it is the blossoming of the mutual love between a man and a woman into the sweet and fruitfulness of a family, still it is a trying and hard experience before there is any beauty in it. "What women need to be taught," he writes, "is that while nature will in most cases do all that is required to make a wife into a mother, the wife must also take upon herself the task of making her husband into a father." However hard a task this may be, Dr. Mace believes that upon the solution the success or failure of most marriages depend. In the article, he takes up many points such as habits changed, and the just plain do-what-you-please-and-mess-that-someone's-thing result from having a baby in the house. He mentions the fact that no more can a couple impulsively go to a movie or jump in the car for a weekend in the country, and he writes of all these facts as being really important as they are.

★ WE, THE WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

NEA Staff Writer

In a few short months Mrs. America has become such a slave to fashion changes as she never again will be free.

The designers are already telling her those exaggerated clothes she bought last year in honor of the "New Look" are just too, too extreme.

So Mrs. America now shops in fear and trembling. The suit or dress shown her looks okay right now. But will it be the right length in a few more months? Will the business still be in the right place?

It's quite a problem. So Mrs. A. reads all the fashion news she can lay her hands on, goes from store to store "just looking," and when she does buy something, worries over a whether or not she has made a mistake.

ENTER THE JITTERS

The clothes industry treats its slaves with utmost contempt. It turned out a lot of outlandish numbers and told women they must go in for them or be out of style. So women bought them. Now the fashion industry looks with an amused and superior air on those same styles and comes up with a modified silhouette in much better taste—it says.

So Mrs. America has the clothes jitters. She can't build an adequate wardrobe with any assurance whatsoever.

Good, perhaps forever—are the good old days when the basic dress or the "good" suit was a sound investment. Today it's just another risk.

Size of Farm Mortgage Up

Rising steadily throughout the war years and since, the average size of farm mortgages recorded reached $4,280 in the first half of last year, nearly double the average of $2,190 in 1939, according to data compiled by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

However, whatever individual positions may be, farm mortgage debt as a whole declined substantially during the war as farmers used increased income to pay off debt, and has shown no important increase since.

The gain in average size of new farm mortgages is even greater than in the nonfarm area where Home Loan Bank Board figures show that the average size of new home mortgages recorded rose from $2,722 in 1939 to $4,512 in 1947, an increase of about two-thirds.

Civic Groups Held Responsible For Location of New Industries

Adequate housing facilities and the enterprise of local civic groups are two factors that can be expected to play increasingly important parts in the selection of industrial locations, according to Frederick Kimrich, Cleveland, chairman of the research and education committee of the Society of Industrial Realtors.

The SIR is an affiliate organization of the National Assn. of Real Estate boards whose members specialize in the brokerage and development of industrial properties and sites.

"Wartime development of skilled workers and the development of new methods of production utilizing semi-skilled workers have enabled industry to find a trained labor supply in many sections of the nation. Providing adequate housing facilities for this labor potential is the problem now facing industry in the selection of sites and factories. I believe living conditions will play a more important part in the selection of an industrial location in the years to come," Kimrich said.

"The individual initiative and enterprise of groups and individuals like real estate boards, planning commissions, development agencies, chambers of commerce and industrial realtors will become a vital factor in selling an industry on a specific site or community.

"The problems we face today in industrial location are manifold. We are witnessing:

- (1) A struggle between cities, states, and industrial areas to keep all of the production capacity they have now and obtain more.
- (2) A struggle between the various basic metals and plastics for prominence in all fields.
- (3) A struggle of industries to dominate their own field and new fields which have been opened to them as a result of the war.

"I believe that there are eight basic factors which govern an industry's selection of a site for building or of an existing factory. In addition to adequate housing facilities, they are labor supply, transportation facilities, location of production materials and components, location of markets, cost of fuel and power, laws and regulations, and local tax structures.

"Communities having favorable proportions of some or all of these factors should let industry know about it. Today is the time for all communities seeking industry to tout their own horn. If they don't no one else will," Kimrich concluded.

Hints on Taking Care of Carpet

When making plans to buy a new carpet or rug, include a good rug pad or cushion in the budget. It is worth many times its cost in preventing wear by smoothing out any rough spots in the floor in addition to giving added luxury underfoot. If your present floor coverings are in good condition, make them stay longer by purchasing springy cushions.

Have your bubble gum expert in the family? Keep a bottle of carbon tetrachloride handy for removing gum from upholstery and rugs when Junior is practicing for the neighborhood championship. Moisten the gum well before attempting to work loose. A spoon is easier on the fabric than a knife. Apply the solvent liberally as you work. If Junior is invited to help remove the damage, chances are he will practice in the yard.

Daily use of a vacuum cleaner on carpets where traffic is very heavy will not injure the fabric. Quite the contrary. Dirt is the enemy present enemy of wool floor coverings. Five minutes a day on heavy traffic areas will remove the dirt before it has time to settle into the back of the rug. Be sure the vacuum cleaner is whistle clean at all times. A dirty, overloaded cleaner wastes your time and does an inadequate job.

From 1939 to 1945, Canada's total production more than doubled the pre-war level, from 5.1 to 11.75 billion dollars.

Remodeling Way to Save Home Value

Hand in hand with new building, a substantial volume of home repairing and modernization is helping the nation overcome its unprecedented shortage of housing, building authorities report. Activity in the remodeling field, while temporarily overshadowed by the more spectacular boom in new construction continues strong and is an important factor in raising the nation's housing standards.

Remodeling and repair, the experts point out, play a greater part in keeping America well-housed than is generally realized. Well built homes wear out slowly. They are more likely to become obsolete because of out-moded appearance and lack of modern features than through structural failure. A little "face lifting" and some interior modernization often will work wonders with old homes.

Homes with the "old look" can be given a smart, up-to-date appearance and at the same time made additionally weatherproof by the application of a new siding over the old. A material specifically designed for that job is asbestos cement siding, made from two non-combustible materials, asbestos fibers and cement.

A re-siding job gives the owner many benefits. One is the protection against fire afforded by its nonflammable composition. Another is saving in maintenance costs, for no initial painting or subsequent preservative surfacings are required. The siding and the asphalt felt over which it is applied provide added protection against air infiltration and loss of heat from within. The fuel savings thus effected will continue for the life of the building.

TSCW's Mexico Summer School Opens in July

DENTON — The eighth six-weeks session of the Texas State College for Women summer school at Saltillo, Coahuila, Mexico will begin July 15, according to Dr. Rebecca Switzer, director.

Attended annually by over 100 students from all over the United States, Saltillo is a school for undergraduate and graduate students of Spanish, for teachers of Spanish, and persons interested in Mexican culture and civilization. Combining recreation with study, students are taken on horse-back rides and picnics high in the Saltillo mountains, and to parties given by the city and state officials. Permanent headquarters are in the historic Casa Colonial, though typical homes are maintained for actual residence.

With a staff of ten professors from the United States, and fourteen visiting Mexican instructors such courses as Mexican literature, folklore, civilization are taught with the regular conversation and language courses.

Good Fittings Stand Up Well

From a maintenance standpoint, what's inside the mechanical parts of plumbing fixtures—the shower, accessories, fittings and valves—is of major importance to the home owner, says the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau.

"What's inside" the working part of the fittings is built to conform to a rigid standard of quality when made by a reputable manufacturer. Modern fittings are extra heavy and made of ingot brass, electrically melted to obtain the finest possible grain. Washers are made of long-wearing composition of rubber and asbestos fiber.

What's inside the shower fittings—for instance, the self-cleaning heads—guarantees shower satisfaction. The self-cleaning head has no holes in it, therefore it cannot clog up. Instead there are tapered grooves in six plungers, through which full, round, unbroken sprays are emitted. By turning a lever handle, these plungers can be extended or retracted at will, giving a choice of spray from a splashing rain shower to a fine stinging, gentle shower, as desired by the bather.

A mixing valve mixes and measures hot and cold water to a mechanical exactness and measures the volume so that an equal amount of water passes through the shower at all temperatures. Cold water follows the first fractional turn of the handle, then warm, and finally hot. When properly installed, it is impossible to get hot water first.

The valve construction of fittings for bathtub and lavatory is superior because of renewable seats, swivel discs, washer screws. All valve parts subject to wear are renewable. Thus it pays, the bureau advises, to select showers and fittings made by a reputable manufacturer. Quality fittings will give years of satisfactory trouble-free service. If repair parts are ever necessary, they can then be obtained and installed easily and quickly.

Lighting for Farm Tasks

(Editor's note: This is another in the series of articles on lighting for the farm and answering the questions most often asked of General Electric lighting specialists.)

Many of a farmer's tasks are seasonal; and when it's time to sort potatoes, for instance, he needs generous amounts of light to help him see quickly and accurately.

Here's a practical hint from General Electric farm lighting specialists for a way to make one lighting fixture serve several jobs. The fluorescent fixture shown in the picture above is equipped with an extension cord and chains, making it possible to move it from place to place in a farm building as you would a portable lamp in the home.

The farmer in the picture above finds this sturdy fixture with its two 40-watt fluorescent lamps ideal above his workbench. Two hooks are mounted in the ceiling above the bench so that the fixture can be suspended by chains and plugged into the nearest wall outlet.

When its time for sorting, the farmer moves it to the sorting room located in another building and suspends it again from two hooks located above the sorting table.

Unused Attic Space Convertible to Den

Unused attic space, particularly when it has a finished floor, usually can be converted into a comfortable and attractive den or playroom at little expense. An ideal material for the walls and ceiling of such a room is decorative insulating board which comes in large sheets which are easily applied to wood framing. Besides serving as an interior finish, the insulating board keeps a home warmer in winter and cooler in summer.

Fair Enough... by Westbrook Pegler

The rioters who lay down at the New York Stock Exchange and slugged police had received undesired sympathy from the Civil Liberties union in a "report" composed by one Louis Bender. The Civil Liberties union, contrary to its name, is not a Communist organization. In fact, the liberties crowd got fed up and threw their own Communists out, a high-handed way of doing but the human thing to do, after all.

Mr. Bender is introduced by the Civil Liberties union as a former assistant to the attorney general of the United States, apparently with intent to recommend him. They might better have said nothing about it. The attorney general has been cluttered with some very dubious assistants in the last 15 years. Some were Communists, some were paltry ambulance chasers and some were draft dodgers who sat out the war and, in the Department of Justice, accumulated for their own profit, in private practice and blackmail later, great bulging folders of confidential information about the private business of other citizens.

The riot at the stock exchange was an organized insurrection against the authority of government and the safety of New York. Those who took part in it knew they were flouting law and the police authority. They deserved to be clubbed senseless, but that was necessary to be clubbed to death in the interests of public order and government. The police should always use all the force necessary to maintain order and, in all emergencies amid the confusion of disorder, should use more force than is necessary, rather than less. To err on the scant side in such cases is to invite horrors and incur blame.

Every day, somewhere in the United States, some policeman or sheriff kills a holdup whose reward is applauded as good risk and a public service. In New York it is customary to hand medals and private gifts or money to cops who perform these shining deeds. But the gunman or mugger who is thus commended by the police and the cop is much less dangerous to the general safety of the community than the picket-line rioter. He has no friends, even in the attorney general's office or, indeed, in the White House. The rioter, on the other hand, is a labor leader.

I can and often have named about a hundred such murderous wantons who did comply with the New Deal's amenities and thus enjoy honors and powers beyond the reach of the ordinary man. All were catalogued in the FBI's files and the records of the New York police department and to say that the Department of Justice, the Department of Labor and the Labor Relations board didn't know these rascals were operating under New Deal credentials is to impugn the very virtue as well as the legendary wisdom and efficiency of these bureaus.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOLES

Analyzing Sproul's Refusal to Talk. I am reproducing below an article written by Attorney William C. Ring analyzing why people will not discuss what they are doing. Attorney Ring is one of the six people willing to debate with Dr. Robert Sproul. Dr. Sproul would not, for $1,000 attempt to harmonize tax-supported schools with the Ten Commandments or the Declaration of Independence. The article follows:

"Compulsory Education Or Any Other Artificial, Human Institution That Places Itself Above Inquiry Is An Indefensible Tyranny." "R. C. Holes, Publisher of 'Santa Ana Register', and several other newspapers throughout the United States has been striving intelligently, fairly and relentlessly for several years to focus public inquiry upon various fallacies rampant in our individual, economic and social political dilemma. His conclusions concerning many of these matters may be debatable but the duty and right of each of us to seek the truth about anything affecting or involving the lives of ourselves or our neighbors are as undebatable as the verities of the Universe which, for centuries, men have talked and written so much and know so little. Indeed, the fact that most of life's problems are debatable because of inferior knowledge is one of the reasons for free and open expression.

"There is not, never has been and never will be any legitimate religion, science or philosophy of life, society, economics or government that is not built upon the rock that the truth shall make ye free and whose stepping-stone is 'Seek and ye shall find.' All of the enlightenment, liberty, security and progress that man has, ever had, or ever will have springs from that inexorable law of life whose attainment is an individual evolutionary process. It is not the 'Our Constitutional Founders recognized the indispensability of Truth in the first article of the Bill of Rights.' 'Mr. Holes has been inviting and offering to compensate a scholar to debate in public debate compulsory public education and coercive taxation therefor. Some weeks ago 'Newsweek' published a scurrilous misrepresentation of his activity along this line. Recently, he invited Robert C. Sproul, editor of the 'Chicago Post', to appear and Dr. Sproul declined with this statement: 'Free public education supported by taxes has been, and will continue to be, one of the foundation stones of this democracy. To imply that it is anything but a noble idea of democracy is somehow questionable.' 'Note the assumption, — first that compulsory public education is 'free'; second, that it is fundamental to democracy; and fourth, that a purely human institution is beyond inquiry.

"The basic fallacy in compulsory public education is illustrated by the attitude of these 'leaders' of the 'free' press in their pretense that their system is 'free.' But 'free' to whom? The innocent child whose choice of submitting to their canned nostrums or of being committed to Juvenile Hall has the choice between the parents who face delinquency charges in default of tribute to the Trust have no better freedom than the millions of tax-payers who are compelled to support a frankenstein that exercises a more vicious despotism over the child than all other sources of slavery combined.

"But slavery never stops with its first manacles. Besides enslaving its immediate subjects to the current trend-mold, compulsory, public education embeds in the conscious mind of the child the ghoulish myth that the State is the author of intelligence and thus the final arbiter of Truth, Righteousness and Justice. That myth is the genesis of all totalitarianism and tyranny whose bases are idolatry. That is why Dr. Sproul will not possibly reconcile with the First Commandment, 'Thou shalt have no other gods before Me.' 'The logical consequence of all tyranny is to justify despotic ends by any corrupt means for their attainment. The truth in and of itself is never more than a convenient coincidence and is usually so distorted by surrounding lies that it lends color to their veracity. A forcible example appears in last December's 'American Magazine' in an article by Chancellor Hutchens on the subject of a defense against the atomic bomb. Mr. Hutchens is a patriarch in the Pedagog Trust. After conceding that the 'unknown' far exceeds the 'known' about atomic energy, he brusquely insisted that there is no defense beyond mankind's getting together, acting house-broken and adapting itself to 'blueprints' prepared by the Trust to 'chart' the atomic world! Can anyone conceive of a drunken sea captain proposing to 'chart' the 'unknown' for a crew oblivious as himself of the rocks and reefs?

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news by RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The most flabbergasted group of men around Washington these days are the owners, managers and large stockholders of the nation's private utilities. Under especially heavy fire for their open and avowed opposition to extension of TVA's facilities, they cannot understand why they are pilloried so violently by the Roosevelt-inspired press. They figure that they have suffered sufficiently for their sins, paid proper penance and deserve better treatment from the customers.

WASHINGTON — The first sign of the utilitarians' reawakening came when they organized the National Association of Electric Companies, and opened an elaborate set of offices in the same Connecticut Avenue building that houses the Democratic National Committee, erstwhile Trust Buster Thurman Arnold and former Price Administrator Paul Porter. Purcell Smith, a Midwest operator, was engaged as head at $65,000 a year and Stephen Walter, a veteran public relations expert, at $50,000. They registered as lobbyists. They appeared publicly before Congressional committees and federal agencies dealing with their problems.

WASHINGTON — When it was suggested that they were "putting their neck out," they replied in injured tones: "Why shouldn't we? We've been in the doghouse long enough! We have cleaned up or been cleaned up by Washington! We have nothing to be ashamed of!" The point is that, at Washington and elsewhere, the utilities have been afraid to step out until recently. They lobbied and fought for survival, or so it seemed to them, behind closed doors of state legislatures and Congress. Their agents rarely put their names on their office doors or labeled themselves as "public relations consultants." They hardly dared to appear openly in Capitol Hill.

LICKED — The immediate cause behind the ancient feudists around the Capital is President Truman's proposal for a $4,000,000 appropriation to construct a $54,000,000 steam plant as a TVA auxiliary generator at New Jerseyville, Tenn. Ordinary industrial demands and the prospect of a war are the reasons behind the White House request. The utilities admittedly oppose the suggestion as a precedent that might mean the government's entrance into nationwide fields of public power. Whereas TVA was supposed to provide for flood control, navigation, water and land conservation, with power generation as a secondary and overflow activity, they maintain that this new scheme depicts TVA as an out-and-out power project. They figure that they are licked if it is approved by Congress.

The Nation's Press

One of the most cockeyed permutations of language in the tangled history of labor relations is the overtime-over-time concept. This queer interpretation results from the ambiguous language of the Fair Labor Standards act, providing for payment of one and a half times an employee's "regular" rate for all work in excess of 40 hours a week. Now suppose a man puts in 48 hours in a given week. If his base pay is $1 an hour, then you would assume that he has received $40 for the first 40 hours plus $12 for overtime—$52 in all.

There are the 40 hour base pay totals 40 times $1.03 or $41.20 and the overtime is 8 times $1.625 (the new time-and-a-half rate) or $13.00. And $41.20 plus $13 gives $54.20, the weekly wage claimed by the union representatives. And please note that the time-and-a-half rate was used in their formula not once but twice. In other words: overtime-over-time. What we have here is no la-de-da debate between rival mathematically. It is a matter of deadly peril to hundreds of American companies, menaced with suits for back wages. The sums involved are enormous. Damages equal to the back wages are also recoverable.

Two of the suits are already before the Supreme Court—Aaron vs. Bay Bridge Operating Co. and Blue vs. Hurco Stevedoring Corp. The National Federation of Shipping is spearheading a drive by about 100 companies for remedial legislation. Two curative bills, one by Rep. Goodwin (R., Mass.), and one by Sen. Ball (R., Minn.), have been introduced into Congress. The Ball measure has a retroactive feature which, like that of the wage-scale arithmetic validated—with consequent loss to industry of huge sums in back wages — it should best itself.

The language of the wage-hour law must be clarified beyond the power of anyone to twist it into legal pretzels.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

By HAL BOYLE. CUSTER, S. D. — (P) — Badger Clark, a bearded poet-philosopher of the Black Hills, has never let love, honor or money stand between him and his life aim—a quiet quest for God. "I don't suppose any man in the state has a smaller income than I do—or worries about it less," remarked South Dakota's official poet laureate—a title that costs the taxpayers nothing as he gets no pay. "The Badger" is a tall, distinguished man with a Van Dyke beard who wears a green necktie, forest green sweater, whipcord breeches, and polished riding boots. For 25 years he has lived alone and liked it in a "cabin with four rooms and a path" he largely built himself in the Custer State Park. He pays $10 a year ground rent and hasn't had a steady job for 43 years—since he was 22. "I escaped early," he smiled. He told me of his semi-hermit life as he lounged in the state game lodge, Calvin Coolidge's summer white house in 1927, after dining on tender but rough-grained Buffalo steaks. His cabin is known as "Badger Hole," and he has the neighbors' waning and waning deer and birds. He feeds all he can with his small income. "The birds make a cloud about my head when I step outside," he said. Badger has written some 200 poems and 30 short stories. He is a kind of western-style Rudyard Kipling and at least two of his "verses" are his preference to call them—have become national anthology favorites. They are "The Job" and "The Cowboy's Prayer."

Shall We Imitate The Failures?

There is a sentence in the second annual report of the President's Council of Economic Advisors which should be read and pondered by every American who has the slightest interest in the preservation of our liberties. The sentence says that it shall be "the continuing policy and responsibility of the federal government to use all practical means to coordinate and utilize all its plans, functions, and resources, for the purpose of creating and maintaining conditions under which there will be afforded useful employment opportunities, including self-employment, for all who are willing and seeking to work, and to promote maximum employment, production, and purchasing power."

The language of that is pretty bleary, but the meaning is clear. It amounts to a recommendation that the government should use all its resources to direct and to control all the industrial and agricultural and other production tools in the country. For, unless that is done, how will it be possible for the government to guarantee that everyone who will have a job, everyone will be prosperous, and everyone will have credit to the grave security?

It is, of course, the old planned economy argument couched in highly generalized terms. The fact that no country in the world has been able to make a planned economy produce anything except a lower standard of living and a browbeaten people doesn't seem to bother the Economic Advisors in the slightest. Nor does the obvious fact that giving unlimited authority to an army of politicians, many of whom have never demonstrated a talent for anything except hanging on to a public job, is the surest way to gum up the production machine.

The doctrine bears a very suspicious resemblance to that followed with fanatical singleness of purpose by England's labor government in bringing the British Empire to virtual bankruptcy. Going farther, it isn't different in any essential from the policy which underlies the economic and social policy in the Soviet Union. The state plans everything, does everything, guarantees everything. And the individual pays the tax bill and does what he is told or else.

The whole tone of the Economic Advisors report is that free enterprise is bad and dangerous thing, and that it should be replaced by more and bigger government—in other words, that we should follow the same socialization pattern that is destroying freedom in England and Europe. It looks as if we need a thorough house cleaning among the deep thinkers at the top level.

QUICKIES

I'm in favor of higher wages. There is no doubt that wages should be increased in some industries, but the increase should be based on increased production. —Seg. Robert A. Taft (R.) of Ohio.

SYMPATHY FOR WHOM?

America may have reached a new peak in misplaced sympathy. In the name of humanity the government has committed the U. S. taxpayer to a European Recovery Program which will cost upwards of $20 billion in the next four years. This program takes food and clothing and steel from the people of one country to give it to other countries. It puts the price higher and increases scarcities in one country to put people of other countries in WPA lines. Marshall Plan "humanity" for Europeans spells cruelty to Americans.

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN. Well, I see that a big New York high school is giving a course in proper use of the telephone, and I must say it's about time. I don't know the curriculum yet, but I hope it does away with the custom of calling people when they're in the shower. And I hope the teacher promptly flunks any student who calls up anybody and says, "Guess who this is?"

Funny Business

The Taft-Ellender-Wagner bill, if passed by the House, will cost American taxpayers (meaning all business men and all job holders) approximately $160 million a year for 40 years, a total of $6,400,000,000 — plus administrative costs. The money will go to a small group. Washington poses as benevolent, but Washington is a con man. This is your money. The money is taken from you for propaganda purposes in this election year. It is to enable some political parties and office seekers to compromise with the left wing.

His conclusions concerning many of these matters may be debatable but the duty and right of each of us to seek the truth about anything affecting or involving the lives of ourselves or our neighbors are as undebatable as the verities of the Universe which, for centuries, men have talked and written so much and know so little. Indeed, the fact that most of life's problems are debatable because of inferior knowledge is one of the reasons for free and open expression.

White Deer

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Election of delegates from the White Deer precinct to the county convention was held Saturday afternoon in the White Deer Independent School office, with W. J. Stubblefield, precinct chairman, presiding. Elected as an instructed voting unit were W. J. Stubblefield, E. C. Harris, J. C. Jackson, Mrs. B. R. Weeks, J. W. Eversly, and Mrs. Dalton Ford, with W. C. Powers, Dalton Ford, and Claudia Eversly as alternates.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

By HAL BOYLE. CUSTER, S. D. — (P) — Badger Clark, a bearded poet-philosopher of the Black Hills, has never let love, honor or money stand between him and his life aim—a quiet quest for God. "I don't suppose any man in the state has a smaller income than I do—or worries about it less," remarked South Dakota's official poet laureate—a title that costs the taxpayers nothing as he gets no pay. "The Badger" is a tall, distinguished man with a Van Dyke beard who wears a green necktie, forest green sweater, whipcord breeches, and polished riding boots. For 25 years he has lived alone and liked it in a "cabin with four rooms and a path" he largely built himself in the Custer State Park. He pays $10 a year ground rent and hasn't had a steady job for 43 years—since he was 22. "I escaped early," he smiled. He told me of his semi-hermit life as he lounged in the state game lodge, Calvin Coolidge's summer white house in 1927, after dining on tender but rough-grained Buffalo steaks. His cabin is known as "Badger Hole," and he has the neighbors' waning and waning deer and birds. He feeds all he can with his small income. "The birds make a cloud about my head when I step outside," he said. Badger has written some 200 poems and 30 short stories. He is a kind of western-style Rudyard Kipling and at least two of his "verses" are his preference to call them—have become national anthology favorites. They are "The Job" and "The Cowboy's Prayer."

SO THEY SAY. If production can be increased Europe will be on the way to prosperity. A half-hearted program is likely to be worse than useless. Paul Hoffman, ERP administrator. It would take two years to get the 70-group Air Force. The other services can be brought into balance in that period. —Rep. Carl Vinson (D) of Georgia. This great nation has never wanted anything but peace in the world. —President Harry S. Truman. One out of two farms are electrified whereas only one in twenty-eight had such facilities 15 years ago. It looks as if the utility boys had slept too long in their doghouses. The Republican Congress may head their pleas, but TVA has become so deeply embedded in the valley's economy that it may prove difficult to uproot it or prevent its expansion. Ditto Bonneville, Boulder Dam, Grand Coulee and similar public power projects.
