

Announce New Program for 4-H Members

"How can we best apply our leisure time?"

That query from farm youth throughout Texas has brought an answer in the form of a 4-H Recreation and Rural Arts Award Program. Designed to promote group action, the program promises to be a decided influence in developing community spirit.

Activities encouraged include 4-H members forming outdoor or indoor sports teams, quartets, orchestras, bands, presenting one-act plays, or pageants, and taking camping or picnicking. In rural arts and crafts, members may work in drawing, painting, carving, collecting leaves or some other hobby, may receive recognition at state exhibits.

A blue ribbon will be presented to each local 4-H Club determined by the county extension office, as having conducted a recreational program worthy of an outstanding rating. A $25.00 cash award will be provided to the club winning a blue award group of 4-H Clubs for the purchase of recreational equipment.

Individual efforts to get club members together in carrying the recreational activities will also be recognized. Top 4-Hers excelling in recreational leadership in each of the four extension sections will both receive an educational trip to the 1945 National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago.

All awards, in addition to funds for training clinics at which specialists will instruct local 4-H Club leaders in recreation and rural arts, are provided by S. S. Rubber Co. The leaders in turn pass the instruction on to their club members.

County extension agents will furnish full information regarding this new program.

Fuel Shortage Hits Incubator Chicks

WASHINGTON (AP)—This year's incubator chicks have reacted to wish for the old-fashioned sitting hen.

The Agriculture Department reported today that the modern mechanical "mothers" aren't doing so well. The fuel oil shortage is the cause.

That, coupled with a drop in demand, caused commercial chick output in January to drop some 10 percent below that of January, 1947, the department said.

Twelve Local Farmers, Wheat Men Given Merit Certificates

Interest ran high at the wheat school held here Tuesday at the Scott Implement Co., according to Keats Soder, director of the Texas-Oklahoma Wheat Improvement Program, who was in charge. Of the 12 who attended all stayed for the full course of instruction and took the variety identification test. All 12 were "graduated" and will be presented certificates of merit as "primary selectors" of wheat varieties. They learned enough about kernel characteristics to distinguish between "good," "fair" and "poor" milling and baking wheat, Soder said.

Heading the staff of instructors here was the school was Fred Jones of the Agricultural Department of Texas-Oklahoma Flour Mills, Amarillo. Jones, who as a national leader in this field spent two years outlining the subject for these present.

Another instructor was Kenneth E. Porter of the Agricultural Experiment Station, Amarillo.

Market prices of wheat for good quality wheat varieties that have been paid at major markets such as Fort Worth, Amarillo, Kansas City and Omaha all fall are now being passed on to local elevators, Soder stated.

"The way of one price for wheat is already over at the terminals and about over at county points. Local managers who thought it impossible to keep good and 'poor' wheat separate are now looking for a way to get the most money from their wheat," Soder told. The group.

Soder said wheat growers must change to good varieties or accept the penalties, and that this would be increasingly true as the present huge foreign exports of grain stopped off.

He stated there is at present a present differential by counties on the grade of wheat in that area as a whole. The only alternative to the discount area is to have good and poor grades run separately, in different elevators and stamps, this being impractical with many country elevator systems, except where there are two local elevators under the same management. Flour mills are forced to supply bakeries in lots of around 150,000 pounds, and therefore quality must be consistent.

County Agent Ralph Thomas pointed the "volunteer" wheat problem. In the discussions, Soder said he realized this would slow down the change to better varieties in many areas this year. It was brought out that harvest.

"But when beginning journalism students at Texas Technological College say "hell box," they might mean almost anything, as proved by the following definitions gleaned from final examination papers:

"The complaint department of a newspaper office."

"A file for feature articles to be used to fill space."

"Place where articles are thrown that aren't used."

"A container for all newspaper that has already been used."

Land Policy Need Scored On Ag Panel

"The products of our soil are now the strongest arm of our foreign policy," E. H. Taylor, social editor of Country Gentleman, said recently calling for establishment of a national land policy to halt the depletion of the Nation's soil resources.

Taylor made the statement in a panel discussion before the Association of Southern Agricultural Workers in Washington, D. C.

Other participants in the discussion on the need for a national land policy were Chairman Clifford R. Hope and Representative W. E. Poage of the House Agricultural Committee, Representative Paul F. Jensen, member of the House Appropriations Committee, and Kent Leavitt, president of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts.

"Without the products of our soil," Taylor said, "the European Recovery Program or any other effort to stay the march of communism in Europe would be impossible. But these requirements of our foreign policy are already putting a strain on our own food supply and our food-producing resources. I am for the European Recovery Program, but I wish its advocates would recognize this warning lesson that is so clearly demonstrated. Our food-producing resources will be no less indispensable in the future. Upon their maintenance depends our strength at home and the ability to produce the surplus supplies needed to back up an effective foreign policy. A sound land policy, conserving these resources, is a necessary support of a permanent American foreign policy."

"The maintenance of our food-producing resources is, in finality, the very foundation of our national security. A nation without adequate sources of food or a surplus upon which to draw is a second-rate nation. Never, in all our wars, have we had to worry about an ample supply of food. We have always been able to take care of ourselves and to provision our allies as well. The surpluses we had built up the years ago, and the reserves of fertility in our soil helped to carry us through the last war. But the surpluses are now gone and we are using up our soil resources faster than we are restoring them. Our rivers for world production is master of the greatest land area and mass of natural resources on earth. In various ways we are preparing against the possible contingencies in the present hazardous state of affairs. Yet we are neglecting one of the absolute necessities for our survival. Shall history record that we repeated the folly of past nations that now "whisper out of the dust?" Or shall we realize, in time, that a stockpile of productivity, stored in the soil, is as necessary to the national security as a stockpile of goods or of weapons?"

Just What's a Flying Farmer

By LOUIS FRANK

Extension Editor Texas A & M

The Texas Flying Farmers are meeting at Texas A. & M. on February 25-26. This will be the third annual meeting, so maybe it's time to take a look at the purposes and objectives of the organization.

Some people think the Flying Farmers organized for the fun of it, so they'd have a reason to go to some common meeting place, get together and swap stories.

Flying Farmers are, by a large, a convivial, comradely lot, and there is no doubt that there is a sort of fraternalism common both to farmers and to aviators.

But if Flying Farmers were interested primarily in aviation, their provisions for membership would not so arbitrarily rule out non-farmers. Their by-laws state that to be eligible to join the organization an applicant must first hold some sort of a pilot's license and secondly, have at least 51 percent of his capital invested in agriculture.

That shuts the door pretty firmly in the face of people who fly only as a hobby.

Talk with the average Flying Farmer and you'll find that he's interested in farming or ranching, the contribution an airplane makes to his operations, and flying for the fun of it, in that order.

For the record, there are now close to 800 farmers and ranchmen in Texas who use planes in their business.

D. W. Williams, vice president for agriculture at A. & M., said in his talk before the 1947 annual meeting that many of the more progressive people engaged in agriculture would be found among the Flying Farmer membership. His reasoning was that aviation—especially in connection with farming and ranching—is new, and that it is the progressive people who take the lead in trying out new things and who are receptive to new ideas.

Charles Walker of Plainview, president of the Texas Flying Farmers, sort of kyocked the long-time objectives of the organization the other day when he outlined the February 25-26 program.

"Sure," he said, "we're interested in comfort, safety, pay load, speed, take-off and landing ability of planes, and we think some smart manufacturer someday is going to come out with a plane designed to meet our needs, instead of trying to prove to us that whatever model he has is the one to go with."

"I thought E. W. Gill, Jr., of Whon, Colman county had a good point at last year's meeting when he said that the Flying Farmer of the future would have two planes, just as he has two cars now—a sedan for family use and pickup truck for work."

"But it's getting to the point where we need some real basic, down-to-earth information on the place of planes in agriculture."

"We need to have some dope on the relative efficiency, cost and effectiveness of the use of planes in applying insecticides, fertilizers and chemicals, and in planting operations as compared with on-the-ground operations."

"We need to know more about the methods of applying 2,4-D on rice and aerial foliar on cotton, both from the standpoint of preventing damage to other crops and of weather conditions and their influence on the action of the chemical."

"The agricultural engineers can tell us a lot about hoppers and their openings. We need some kind of an all purpose hopper that can be adjusted to dust calcium arsenate one day and plant lover seed the next. Today our hopper settings and rates of application are on a hit-or-miss-guess and estimate basis."

"We need to know a lot more about interval spacings in dusting, seeding and fertilizer work. The way it is now, either waste seed, chemicals or fertilizer, or don't use enough."

"It seems to me that this is the kind of thing the new Research and Marketing Act was intended for. This is what the Flying Farmers of tomorrow will need to know."

Texas Livestock and Crop Damage From Cold Appears Slight

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Texas livestock and crop damage appears only slight in last week's cold snap.

The Department of Agriculture reported today that northern wheat should benefit from the snow. Freeze damage to small grains is not expected to be serious.

Livestock was reported to have lost flesh. Some loss of new-born lambs was reported from Edwards and Hamilton counties.

Commercial vegetables continued to move actively from most southern districts, USDA said. Early planted crops were reported not growing and the inclement weather delayed setting of additional acreage.

The World Could Do With A Little More Tolerance

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
Surely newspaper columnists must have been in mind when it was pointed out in The Book of Proverbs that "the way of transgressors is hard."

Your columnist has had his knuckles soundly rapped by a reader for views expressed at the time of Mahatma Gandhi's assassination.

My reader critic demands how I explain that statement about Gandhi's life encompassing Christianity. "In the light of Exodus 20:3—thou shalt have no other gods before me?"

For 100 odd years to get involved in technical religious arguments, being the son of a Methodist minister and thus knowing something of the pitfalls for amateurs. So I am going to stand pat and add a couple of stories about some little incidents which long have seemed to me to be an invitation to tolerance. On my first visit to India a generation ago I was the guest of the late Maharajah of Bikanir, an Arabian prince among the potentates. He was a grand gentleman who followed the highest moral code and insisted on the same from his officials and court.

But his highness was a Hindu, and through his own friendly connivance I saw him in a ceremony which probably no other non-Hindu ever had witnessed.

I saw him and his two little princes prostrated on the floor of the temple before a stone idol. I was shocked and troubled as I tried to weigh that sight against his grand morals. Then came that incident inviting tolerance.

The day I left Bikanir the Maharajah also was traveling by

Protector Can Be Made at Home

AUSTIN — Make your own fire insurance!

That is the admonition of a University of Texas Home Economics Department member to parents worried about small children getting too close to open stoves.

With a few simple tools, parents can make or have made at a reasonable cost a simple stove protector, says Miss Sallie Beth Moore, University nursery school director.

The box type protectors used in the nursery school consist of a wooden frame joined with close-meshed wire. Wood is the best construction material since it is not a good conductor of heat, she said. The protector should be built large enough to fit over and around the stove at a distance great enough to prevent heating of wood or wire.

Musk, a perfume ingredient, is obtained from the musk-deer of the Far East, but the odor is also emitted from the musk-ox and musk-rat of India, the musk-duck of West Australia, the musk-shrew, the musk-beetle, the central America alligator and other animals.

Increased Insurance Sale Is Announced

AUSTIN — Ordinary life insurance sales in Texas increased 18 percent from November to December, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported.

Texas life insurance sales totaled $67,189,000 gaining 7 percent over December, 1946. Throughout the nation, the total was $1,472,120,000 a 17 percent advance over November and 23 percent above December, 1946.

ART vs. LIFE

Henri Verdoux strolls past a poster announcing a coming feature on Paris movie screens, "Monsieur Verdoux." The picture is based on the life of the French murderer, Landru, played by Charlie Chaplin. The fictional Verdoux is a bank clerk specializing in exchange work and has a 5-year-old son. The real Verdoux is a bank clerk specializing in exchange work and has a 5-year-old son. This coincidence in name, occupation, and family has caused the real Henri Verdoux great embarrassment, he says, so he tried to get the film banned. Failing in this, he is now suing for damages. Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—One theory of history holds that emergencies produce the heroes to meet them. Thus a muddy street in England created the legendary deed of courage—Walter Raleigh spreading his cloak before the dainty feet of Queen Elizabeth.

Who acted quickly and coolly to meet this emergency and lost his hair later in another one. From the Crimean War came Florence Nightingale and the development of modern nursing. From the ruins of the 1919 baseball scandal rose a new figure—the Babe Ruth.

History is full of such examples. Out in Chicago the present emergency—the high cost of living—may have produced a new Joan of Arc for budget-bothered housewives.

This lady is 22-year-old Mrs. Ruth Berbes, who last week launched a one-woman drive against present food prices by going on a "high cost of living fast." Her passive rebellion began after she was charged 28 cents for a quarter pound of butter.

Mrs. Berbes immediately went on a diet consisting of five slices of bread a day and two glasses of milk. In the first few days she lost three pounds. She said other housewives were taking up the idea.

Stingy bachelors will benefit more. They will show up at their girls' houses with a loaf of bread and a bottle of milk and say: "Let's stay here and enjoy a nice meal at home, honey. We'll fight this inflation together." Personally I think Mrs. Berbes is overlooking an even better way to reduce her grocery bills.

She works at a drugstore soda fountain. I did this for two years during high school and found my worries about food costs were at an end.

When I took the job I weighed an anemic 135 pounds. Technically we were supposed to pay for any delicacies we consumed. But with me the public always came first. From time to time I found it necessary to taste a spoon full of ice cream to see that its flavor and consistency were proper for the customers. I also regularly checked the marshmallow, the fudge sauce and the crushed pineapple.

After two years the store manager found that my wholehearted devotion to the public welfare was costing him about one gallon of ice cream out of every five. So he moved me over to the tobacco counter.

I had gained twenty-five pounds, could hold a case of soap overhead with one hand and tear a Kansas City telephone book in half. I even went out for the high school football team and would have made quarterback except that another fellow tried out for the job that year.

I hadn't bought any meals for months and months, and had money in the bank to start college. It just takes initiative to whip inflation. If everybody in the country would go out and get a job in a soda fountain they could cut food prices in half within a week.

University Speech Department Comes To Aid of Non-English-Speaking Students

AUSTIN — When the limited food vocabulary of a non-English-speaking foreign student is forcing him to live on a diet of pie and coffee, the University of Texas Speech Department hurriedly comes to the rescue.

In classes set up specifically to aid the newcomer to this country, Mrs. Eva Garcia Currie, speech instructor, explains to a bewildered foreign student that faulty pronunciation resulted in his receiving a bowl of soup instead of a bar of soap in a campus drugstore.

Essentially the classes purpose to give the students a comprehension of simple English to meet campus social and classroom conversation needs. But when the student who saw cowboy movies in Baghdad wants to know where the "six guns" are, and other students want to know Americans leave milk bottles on their porches without fear of having them stolen, the classes also become an orientation in United States manners and custom. With electrical recording devices, pictures, and poetry, Mrs. Currie teaches eager students the rudiments of English conversation. She works information about campus dress, activities, and U. S. business and social customs into the lessons.

One of the first words she emphasizes is "milk." Foreign students had difficulty making waitresses understand a request for "meek," and in many instances stopped drinking it rather than struggle to make the request understood.

The foreigners are interested not only in English but in languages of their fellow students. Mrs. Currie walks into the classroom and finds Arabian, Turkish and Spanish phrases written on blackboards in what was a pre-class language lesson exchange. Recently a class organized and agreed to a one-cent penalty each time a member reverted to his native language during a class lesson. "The pennies were few because the students were much

Washington's Life Sketched at Meet

The life of George Washington, his achievements, faith in God, and his beliefs were sketched yesterday for Rotarians during their weekly meeting in the Palm Room.

Entertainment was furnished by 13-year-old Bobby Patterson who played two selections on the electric guitar.

After one semester of English, the students enter into regular University courses on a full schedule. Mrs. Currie says the number of foreign students should continue to increase and the United States will replace Europe as an educational and cultural center.

Announcements of the Fat Stock Show to be held Feb. 23 and 24 in Pampa, and the Girl Scout benefit dinner scheduled for Monday, March 1, in the High School Cafeteria were made by Clyde Carruth and the Rev. B. A. Norris, respectively.

Pinkey Vineyard, newly elected and reinducted Rotarian from Amarillo and purchaser of Heard's Creamery was inducted into the Pampa Rotary Club by Travis Lively. The transplanted Rotarian pledged his undivided lifelong allegiance to Pampa and the Pampa Harvesters before accepting the membership pin of the Pampa Rotary.

Virgil Mott led the club singing and Ray Evans presided over the business session.

Oil Situation Parley Slated

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—The nation's crude oil production continued its record-breaking trend during the week ending Feb. 14 by averaging 5,375,947 barrels daily, the Oil & Gas Journal reported today.

The Journal said the daily average increase for the week was 6,340 barrels over the previous week's all-time high.

Mississippi accounted for the biggest part of the net gain, increasing 6,709 barrels to 114,175 daily.

Other increases included: Louisiana, up 2,250 barrels to 476,400; Arkansas, 1,000 to 88,500; Kansas, 2,450 to 271,250; Montana, 2,000 to 24,400; Wyoming, 1,260 to 320,400; California, 1,500 to 52,000.

Florida increased its daily average production by 50 barrels.

Largest decreases were recorded in the Eastern Area, down 1,470

'Trouble-Shoot' Budget Is Waning

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Beauford H. Toler's contingent expenses fund has been "earmarked" near depletion.

The fund, provided by the Legislature to "trouble shoot" department budgets which won't balance, now contains about $10,000, the Governor estimated.

But he said he had promised top priority on the fund to the State Prison Board and he expects they will need between $100,000 and $125,000.

He said he also intends to look after soil conservation needs.

The two "earmarks" would leave only between $10,000 and $15,000.

"It looks like the fund is just about taken care of," the Governor commented.

Losses of 800 barrels or less were reported in Kentucky, Oklahoma and Alabama.

Production in Texas, New Mexico and Nebraska was unchanged.

Box-Toppers Say Theirs Is Nation's Number 1 Hobby

CLEVELAND, Ohio (NEA)—America's most popular hobby is entering contests. So says Albert C. Couture, founder and head of Cleveland's contest club. If you're inclined to doubt that statement, Couture has some pretty convincing arguments to advance.

He tells about one of the club's members, who has collected two cars, 10 radios, 25 wrist watches, three diamond rings and enough mixing machines, toasters, irons and assorted junk to stock a hardware store, all by winning contests.

He tells about the six or seven contest publications, the correspondence schools which "teach" "contesting," the contest clubs scattered from coast-to-coast. He tells about 1947's biggest contest, which attracted over two-and-a-half million entrants.

Couture, who has been sending in box-tops for more than 10 years, writes a column for a national contest publication.

In many cities, Couture found that contesters profited from being organized into clubs. A few months ago, he started one in Cleveland. There were only 12 persons present at the first meeting in July, and but 36 in August. The September meeting, however, drew over 60.

Apply enough, the club's first business was to hold a contest. Object: to pick a name and a motto. The winning name was

Be suitable and apt

Mrs. X, the 23-year-old woman, who would rather not have her name used because judges are funny about the same people winning too often, has a four-point program for writing winning statements:

1. Know the product—and know its competitors. Don't say, "I like Fuzzy-Foamy Soap because it smells too, too exotic," but, instead, give a specific, concrete answer, based on a real advantage the product has over its competitors, which you've discovered by actual use.

2. Know the advertising. But don't merely quote an advertising slogan. You must have a thorough knowledge of the products selling points.

3. Put yourself in your answer. In other words, be original. WHEN a judge has to look at a couple of million answers he'll flip through them until one, that is not exactly like all the rest, hits him in the eye.

4. Be suitable and apt. If it's a soap contest, don't say you like Fuzzy-Foamy because it fits your soap dish. They'll never sell any soap that way. Tell them you like its rich, sudsy lather, or how gentle it is on grimy, red paws, or how it makes your filthy baby clean in a half-jiffy.

"Most beginners," says Mrs. X, "make their mistake by not obeying the rules. If it says print your name and address, it means print. Or they leave out the box-top, or put in a box-top from the wrong product, or send their entries too late, or forget their names and addresses."

Another point contesters have to watch closely is income taxes. In a good year, the top contesteer will knock down about $10,000. The Internal Revenue Department keeps an eagle eye on winning lists, and woe to the winner who neglects to report his prizes.

Be suitable and apt

Hit the judges in the eye.

Philip, Elizabeth In Traffic Mishap.

LONDON (AP). Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip were in a pe-d unscratched, yesterday when their limousine and a taxi bumped near Buckingham Palace. Court sources said the King and Queen were uneasy over the accident. They received King George's warning to Philip about his driving after his car crashed, without injury to himself, before the royal wedding last November.

Philip was driving Wednesday from Kensington Palace to The Admiralty, where he has a desk job. Elizabeth, the heir-presumptive, was to be dropped off at the palace. Traffic was heavy.

Take a common motorist. Philip told a traffic policeman at a congested Hyde Park corner that his car and the taxicab "just bumped and I'm sorry it happened." Court sources said Philip was driving carefully.

The cab driver apologized upon recognizing the royal couple. He said the few dents in his fenders were nothing. The officers waved everybody on, since there was no injury. All parties said there would be no complaint.

Philip's keenness for speed is well known among his navy friends and other associates. King George likes to drive fast, too, but he warned his son-in-law last fall he should take no undue risks.

The upper Engadine Valley in Switzerland has been known since Roman times for its mineral waters and invigorating climate.

New Highway Map Is Out

AUSTIN — The spring edition of the Texas Highway Department's official travel maps is being released for public distribution, State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer has announced.

The new four-color map incorporates all changes in the state road system through December occasioned by the department's vast postwar road building program.

There is a generous display of color pictures representing a cross section of the State's industrial and recreational assets.

A message from Gov. Jester is printed on the cover. Addressing "motorists everywhere," the Governor invites all to "see and travel in Texas, revel in its sunshine, its modern cities, and scenic beauty."

Except for revisions in the road system and the new pictures, the edition is similar to others issued since the war which have been acclaimed among the best of the state road maps published throughout the nation.

Standard highway warning and directional signs are reproduced on the map to familiarize drivers with road markers.

Size of the Lone Star State is again graphically told by a table of comparative distances. The 868 miles from El Paso to Orange is greater than the 815 miles from El Paso to Los Angeles. It is also farther than the 760 miles from Laredo to Mexico City.

Included also is a small-scale map of the United States showing all state capitals and major federal highways.

Copies of the new Spring Edition are available to the traveling

Family Starts 850-Mile Stroll

JONESBORO, Ark. —(AP)—A 79-year-old man and his barefooted wife and daughter have started a walk of 850 miles to their home in Texas.

They hope to make it in a month.

Bennie Phillips, his wife, Minnie Lee, 39, and daughter, Bessie Lee, 12, passed through Jonesboro Wednesday on the way to San Antonio. They had come about 60 miles since they started at Dell, Ark., Saturday.

They said they had walked from San Antonio to Dell late last summer to pick cotton. The harvest is over now and they are on their way back.

Phillips—who was wearing his shoes—explained that he had enough money for train or bus fare but "I like to walk—it keeps me trim."

Asked why she and the daughter were barefooted, Mrs. Phillips replied: "Oh, we have shoes. It's just more comfortable barefooted this warm weather and we'd rather walk that way."

The temperature in Jonesboro at the time was about 60 degrees. Traveling with the Phillips are two pups, one being carried

Backache, Leg Pains May Be Danger Sign Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg

First Baptist Church Honors Youth With Sweetheart Banquet

A Sweetheart Banquet was given Friday evening, Feb. 13, in honor of the Intermediate and Senior Training Unions of the First Baptist Church, which was attended by over one hundred and forty people.

The program was presented by the young people themselves under the direction of Mrs. J. L. Brown, who acted as mistress of ceremonies; Mrs. T. J. Worrell, who supervised the orchestra; and Mrs. W. B. Franklin, who arranged a girls' chorus.

Colorful cartoons were arranged on the walls of the banquet room and other decorations were carried out in the Valentine motif.

As the Grand March was played, the Sweetheart couples and the others who attended found their places at the beautifully laden tables. After the banquet meal was finished, those in charge of the program led the group in many minutes of enjoyable entertainment which included a vocal solo by John Young, a musical reading by Ann Jordan, two boys' quartets and several numbers by the orchestra. This is not the entire program, but every number was well received by its audience.

WORLD DAY OF PRAYER

The program in observance of the World Day of Prayer which was called off last week on account of the storm will take place tomorrow morning in the Church of the Brethren. Coffee will be served at 9:30 and the program will start at 10 o'clock.

New Members of Community Concert Association to Be Guests Tonight

Gertrude Hopkins

Paul Schreiber

Two persons of outstanding prominence in this evening's presentation of the St. Louis Sinfonieta Orchestra are Gertrude Hopkins, harpist, and Paul Schreiber, the director.

One of America's most distinguished harpists, Gertrude Hopkins, has appeared on the concert stages of the country, before school and college audiences, clubs and as soloist with leading orchestras. A pupil of the great Marcel Grandjany, she was chosen from among some hundred applicants, for a role in the Ziegfeld musical extravaganza, "The Three Musketeers" in which production she appeared during its New York run of one year on Broadway. She has performed as soloist with both the National Orchestral Association and the American Orchestral Society and has played under such well known conductors as Giuseppe Bambaschek and Paul Boeppe.

Miss Hopkins will be harp soloist with the St. Louis Sinfonieta which appears in Pampa tonight at the Junior High School auditorium. This concert is the fourth Concert Association for this season.

The Sinfonieta is under the leadership of Paul Schreiber, a native of St. Louis.

Bringing its audience a new experience in symphonic music the Sinfonieta is said to have begun its career in 1937 with but a single tour which can now be compared to its annual bookings which require traveling thousands of miles. In its early years, the group appeared exclusively in colleges and universities. However, its programs soon attracted the attention of the Civic Concert Service and

Honest, I Didn't Know USED FATS WERE STILL BADLY NEEDED!

Lady, where have you been? Used fats are needed now more than ever, because the shortage of fats and oils today is the greatest in the world's history. Our government warns us that the supply simply cannot meet today's industrial needs. You can help prevent this supply from getting too low by continuing to turn in your used fats.

You say you re-use them for cooking? Fine! But even the drops left after that are worth salvaging. Then how about melting down fat trimmings, skimming gravies? Those tricks yield plenty!

And come to think of it, what other kitchen waste can you convert into good hard cash? It's a point to remember—these days of high food costs! You know, prices butchers pay for used fats are up, on the average. So please... don't throw your fats away. Save 'em, and turn 'em in!

Mrs. D. A. Caldwell Is Club Hostess

Mrs. D. A. Caldwell was hostess, Feb. 17, to the Meriton Home Demonstration Club. Following a short recreation period, Mrs. H. H. Threatt, president, conducted a short business meeting. Plans were made for the all-club luncheon to be held in the City Club Rooms at 1 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 20.

Mrs. A. Swafford gave some suggestions on the care of house plants.

Mrs. J. C. Steward, finance chairman, announced a called meeting to be held at her home for the purpose of completing plans for the club to serve refreshments at the fat stock show to be held in Recreation Park, Feb. 23 and 24.

Miss Ann Hastings, home demonstration agent, talked on kitchen storage. She pointed out that a half shelf between full-size shelves in the cabinet would make room for dishes and there would be less breakage. She stressed the importance of the sink and table being the proper height for comfort. Refreshments were served to the eighteen ladies present.

Las Crecas Club Announces Sponsors

The Las Crecas Club held its meeting this week with Mary Lou Mazy, 622 N. Banks. The meeting was called to order and further plans were made for the "Scarecrow" dance to be held March 8 at the Pampa Municipal Airport in one of the hangars.

Anyone taking out a new membership before the concert of March 8 will be allowed to attend that concert as a bonus. Renewals are now being taken by mail and it is hoped that all members may secure their memberships for the coming year before the end of March.

23 Percent Decline in Sales Is Noted

AUSTIN — Texas retail sales reached an estimated $391,000,000 in January, a 23 percent decline from December's record. High preliminary tabulations of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research show.

January sales of Texas retailers were 12 percent above January, 1947.

The December-to-January decline was less than seasonally expected, but most separate types of stores reported sales trends following regular seasonal patterns.

Jewelry stores had the greatest monthly decline, —73 percent. Apparel store sales dropped 52 percent; department stores, 51 percent; general merchandise, 48 percent; and florists', 41 percent.

Counter to the seasonal pattern, automotive store sales increased 5 percent from December to January. Restaurant sales remained steady during the same period, instead of making their usual 3 percent gain.

Despite higher food prices, January sales of Texas food stores exceeded year-earlier figures by only 2 percent, a 5 percent drop below December, 1947. Compared with January, 1947, lumber and building material dealers turned in the biggest gains. Increases for durable-goods stores averaged 19 percent against 4 percent for stores handling non-durable items.

OFFICE Nurse

By Adelaide Humphries

THE STORY: Janice Barry, pretty, efficient young nurse to popular and handsome society doctor Eric Holbrook, runs his office for him. Eric and Janice have fallen in love—although Eric already has a wife (who is away)—and Janice has a boy-friend (Ben Archer). For a while Janice is content just to know Eric loves her—then the strain of the secret relationship begins to tell. She resolves she and Eric will have to come to a definite decision.

That same day Ben meets Janice outside her office. His friend Ed has dug up a lead on the possible whereabouts of Mrs. McRae's husband and the child he kidnapped. Ben takes Janice along with him to Grand Central Station and they board a train.

When Janice doesn't show up at the office next day, Eric is frantic. He soon decides they must go on as they have been and makes up his mind to ask his wife for a divorce.

"I CAN'T believe it! I simply can't believe it!" Eileen McRae sobbed, crushing her little girl against her as she knelt beside her.

"I told you," Janice said, her own throat tight at this poignant reunion, "we could count on Ben." "I don't deserve the credit," Ben disclaimed. "If it hadn't been for Ed tracking your husband down—well, I told you, Ed was a pretty good sleuth. But"—he returned Janice's look with a wide, appreciative grin—"Janice, here, had the brightest idea of all."

"There's no way I can thank any of you," Eileen said. She brushed her tears away with the back of her hand and got to her feet. "Will you tell me what happened?" she said. "Did he try to make trouble?"

"He didn't make any trouble," Ben gave a short laugh. "He doesn't know that when he gets in from his job today Edna Mae won't be there."

"You don't mean you just walked off with her?"

"Well," Ben explained, "we couldn't very well just walk in and take her away from her own father. And we knew that you lives were not in sympathy with him or that they were not willing to have the care of the child."

"I expect," Ben said, "you're not interested in all these details. Mrs. McRae. You've got your little girl back; that's enough, I know. And I feel pretty sure you won't have to worry any more. You see Janice left a note saying she was taking the child, and I added a postscript. I told him—in straight language—that if he ever made any trouble again the matter would be put in the hands of the police."

"I agree with Ben," Janice said. "I think you'll find that he will let you alone. After all, he didn't get any help from his relatives. He found it wasn't easy to take care of a small child himself and he said he had had trouble getting anyone to do it for as little as he could pay. So I imagine he has had a lesson."

MAYBE, maybe he has, Eileen thought. But she did not intend to face that chance. She was going away; she was taking her baby with her. She would be gone almost as soon as Janice and Mr Archer left. She could have told them her plans, but it was better if no one knew.

"I'm not worried," she said. "I said before, there's no way I can ever thank you. You know how much I wish there were. I can only say God bless you both." The tears sprang to her eyes again.

Janice got up to go over and pat her on the shoulder.

"We were glad to be able to do it—Ben and I," she said. "But I suppose we both ought to be getting along now. You needn't come in to the office for a few days. Eileen," she added, "in fact, you needn't come in until you get good and ready."

Eileen thanked her. She said, "I'll tell you from me in a few days." And so she would. She would write explaining that she would mail her letter en route.

Yes, it would be better that way, not to let anyone, even such wonderful friends as these, know where she and Edna Mae could be found.

New Electronic Photo Engraving Machine Tried

HACKENSACK, N. J. —(AP)—Culminating a century of development, a new electronic photo engraving machine which automatically produces "cuts" from which pictures are printed is on trial in three New York area newspapers.

One of the new machines was shown at the offices of the Bergen Evening Record here by the Fairchild Camera and Instrument Corp. of New York, which produced it.

Others are at the Newday at Hempstead, N. Y., and the Ridgewood Herald-News.

Twenty-three other test engravers are being installed, but general production is not expected to be under way until July.

The new engraver was acclaimed by publishers who saw the demonstration as economical and a spur to increased use of pictures in newspapers, particularly smaller newspapers without conventional photo-chemical engraving plants.

The machines will rent for $160 a month, and Fairchild does not plan to sell them outright.

The engraver produces only half-tones, not line cuts, and makes the conventional dot pattern by puncturing a plastic sheet with a heated stylus. The test machines turn out 65-screen engravings. Laboratory models produce cuts of better than 100-screen.

An operator can learn to produce photo-engravings on the electronic machine in "a few hours," the firm reports. After being loaded with a picture and the plastic material on which the engraving is made, then adjusted, the machine functions automatically.

The Fairchild engraver turns out cuts at the "top rate of four square inches a minute. It will produce the maximum size engraving it will accommodate—8 x 10 inches—in eighteen minutes.

The new engraver produces engravings only of the same size as the picture copy. Pictures of other sizes must be enlarged or reduced to the required size.

Free Ride For You—on the Freedom Train!

We had a real thrill in Our Town just the other day—when the Freedom Train stopped by!

You've heard about it, of course—an actual train that's touring the country to remind us again what true Democracy means. It carries such Americans as the Declaration of Independence, the Bill of Rights, and other immortal documents that guarantee every citizen his liberty.

A great idea! And from where I sit, we're all riding along with that Freedom Train—right now—by living in a country that protects our individual liberties—whether they apply to our right to vote, to choose our church, to speak our minds, or enjoy a glass of beer with friends.

Only thing is—we've got to prove ourselves worthy of the ride... by guarding zealously against whatever forces of intolerance encroach upon our American concepts of live-and-let-live, in a free and strong Democracy!

Aid for China Now Too Late

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman's plan to give China a $570,000,000 economic shot in the arm raised a cry of too little and too late in Congress today.

Bridges is chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee which will have a big say over how much money China is to get and how it is to be spent.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee announced that it will start hearings on the subject tomorrow. The committee is still working on European recovery legislation, but plans to start writing a foreign aid bill, or bills, by March 2.

Murray and Woods Seek Reelection

AUSTIN—(AP)—Two more state officials had taken their places at the starting post today for next Summer's political race.

Railroad Commissioner William J. (Bill) Murray, Jr. of Houston and State Superintendent of Public Instruction L. A. Woods announced their candidacies yesterday.

Both will seek return to their present posts.

Murray, 33, took office last January by appointment by Beauford H. Jester as his successor when he resigned to become Governor. Murray seeks election to the unexpired two years of the six-year term Jester began in 1944.

Claiming to know nothing of politics, the young graduate petroleum engineer said he was going to make the race at the insistence of friends.

He promised continued determination to do whatever he could to further oil and gas conservation and to give study to proper controls over transportation industries "for the welfare of both the public and the operators."

superintendency continuously since 1933, said he would base his candidacy on past accomplishments and future plans.

He cited seven specific accomplishments during his tenure:

1. Increase in per capita apportionment from $16 to $55.
2. $2,000 minimum teacher salary law passed.
3. Increase in rural aid from $2,500,000 to $18,000,000.
4. Texas' rank raised to 15 among states in financial support of schools.
5. Teaching standards improved until all accredited schools are demanding teachers with recognized college degrees.
6. Number of school districts operating schools have been cut in half.
7. 90 percent of the children of the state now have available an accredited school.

Pshaw, Nurses Say to Shaw

NEW YORK — George Bernard Shaw has drawn the fire of the American Nurses' Association by his remarks that "nurses are trained to kill their patients by untimely washings and unwholesome diets," and today he will be pondering a cablegram from the association, reminding the author of "The Doctor's Dilemma" that the nurses are not to blame.

"If patients suffer from diets or are inconvenienced by untimely washings," the association told the author, "don't blame the nurse. We nurses do all we can to feed the patients properly and keep them comfortable and clean. Diets are prepared by doctors' orders, not nurses'. With you, we regret that untimely washings occur. Still, you must have heard about how a world-wide nursing shortage has disrupted hospital routine. You will agree, we feel sure, that cleanliness is next to godliness, even when it happens to be untimely.

Ella Best, executive secretary of the association, amplifying the gentle protest, said that Shaw—who made his remarks Feb. 7, in response to a request for a message opening a London nurses school—at 91 was up to his old tricks of shocking people into attention.

"There is a grain of truth in Mr. Shaw's gibe at untimely washings," Miss Best conceded. She said that when a patient's rest is broken at 8 p. m., or some such hour, it is solely because there aren't enough nurses to assure every one timely washings.
