Salaries of even typists in the well-staffed offices of Congressmen are far above those of Texas pay most of their state officials.

Few Texas officials make as much as a House member's top secretary. A state senator's yearly stipend is $600. That is half of the money he is paid for a 120-day regular session of the Legislature, held biennially.

Each member of the national House of Representatives is allowed a base of $9,500 per year for clerk salaries with which he may hire a maximum of four employees. The highest salary, usually that for the Congressional assistant, is ceilinged by law at $5,000 annually.

But with differentials, which have been added by Congressional action to cover increased taxes and living costs, this $9,500 actually amounts to about $13,000 yearly.

For instance, a secretary on the clerk-hire rolls for $5,000 per year actually receives $7,022.40, while a part-time typist on the rolls for $900 per year actually gets close to $1,500 annually, a higher percentage of differential pay going to the lower-salaried workers.

United States senators have extra salary allowances for an executive assistant at a base salary of $8,500 annually, or an actual

MURDER AT MY HOUSE

By Rene Ryerson Mart

XXVIII
MARIE was quite—quite dead. No doubt of it. No living person ever lay like that, so utterly relaxed and yet so awkward. Beneath its paint her face was a pasty gray color.

I knelt down at last and looked at her without touching her, and I saw that her blue eyes were wide open and that her pupils were wide and black. And I remembered Jeff Haverson saying that the dilated pupils of Art and Avis were one of the things that had tipped the police off to murder in the first place. It meant that Marie had been poisoned, too.

Marie had been poisoned while I lay taking a sun bath in the patio just outside the windows of her room, and with a policeman still on guard out front somewhere. With no one else around. No one!

I could see myself trying to explain this to Bob Leiphon. Or to anyone else for that matter. My thoughts began to buzz like angry bees whose hive has been molested. There had to be some connection between Marie's death and that of Avis and Art. . . . had to be! Death by poison doesn't just begin to happen accidentally and indiscriminately. There had been no visitors at the house all morning except Jeff Haverson. Only Jeff Haverson. I let that fact sink into my mind. Jeff, one of the suspects in the original murder, had been there in my house that morning.

He must have put the poison into something while he was there. Something that Marie Maloney had eaten or drunk later. My heart skipped a beat—and I went on reluctantly to the logical conclusion of that line of thought. If Jeff had put poison into something while he was there that morning, he was also the one who had poisoned Avis and Art, and regardless of his alibi to Leiphon he must have been the one who had made the attack in the dark on me. Marie Maloney had died by accident. The poison that killed her was meant for me.

I TIPTOED out of the room where Marie Maloney lay and closed the door behind me. I went back to the kitchen and to the icebox. I looked at the leftovers of food. There were only those things which I had had some for luncheon and I had eaten some of all of them—the tomato bouillon, baked chicken loaf, escalloped potatoes and a jello dessert. So the food could not have been poisoned.

That stopped me for a moment. I wracked my brain. There was the liquor upstairs. Remembering Marie's habit of tipping, that suddenly seemed the most probable solution. Jeff had slipped the poison into some of the liquor in the bar upstairs while he was alone in the living room that morning waiting for Marie to announce his arrival to me.

I went up to the living room and over to the bar. I tried to open it. It was locked. And the key was still in my purse where I had put it the afternoon before when I had come home and had found that Marie had been drinking.

My tiny little solution collapsed; my grand theory vanished like a burst balloon.

There seemed to be nothing left except to call the policeman in, show him Marie's body, and let him arrest me as the only possible suspect.

No—not that—not yet. I went back to the room where Marie's body lay. I looked around—there must be some clue there, something to show how she had been poisoned. I looked at the two suitcases lying on the bed. They were both fully packed. I unfasted them and tumbled their contents out on the bed—looking for I didn't know what. There were icy sliken under-things and starks of nylon hose and fancy nightgowns. From the expensive look of most of them, I began to suspect that Marie had had a taste for other people's personal belongings as well as their liquor. She must have done quite a bit of appropriating while she was with Avis. . . .

I LOOKED at the dressing table. A black satin evening bag lay there—I remembered it as the one Avis had carried the night she died. I supposed the police had returned it to Avis' apartment to be put with her other things and Marie had taken a fancy to it, too. Toilet articles were still scattered on the dressing table as if Marie had waited to pack them until after she was dressed. More of Avis' things, I thought—bottles of perfume and expensive face powders and huge jars of creams, and it was then I saw IT. It was still open where Marie had used it, and I knew it from the monogram on the top—an "A" set with small rubies and chip diamonds.

I picked it up and held it in my hand and looked at it and knew how three people had died. One of them by intent—and two by accident. That was the most tragic part of it. Two had died by sheer accident.

Yes, I knew how three people had died, and why the attempt on my own life had been made. Knew, too, with a sudden paralyzing fear, that I was still in danger.

I knew how they had died, but I didn't know why. The motive—the motive, I thought wildly. There had to be a motive for a crime of this sort—a deep, passionate, driving motive.

I stood there with the dead woman at my feet and the beautiful weapon in my hand and thought harder than I ever had in my life.

A lot of things were swimming up out of the depths of my mind. Half-remembered incidents. Small disconnected details. Things that had happened at the studio that last day before Avis died.

They all made a pattern now—a weird, ugly, twisted pattern. But a pattern.

Yehudi Menuhin, born Jan. 22, 1916, was a child prodigy violinist. Now he is hailed as a musical genius. He studied violin at the age of four, was soloist with a San Francisco orchestra at eight and played in Carnegie Hall at 10. Son of a teacher of Hebrew, he was privately educated. Except for two years from 1935 to 1937 when he "retired" to his California ranch, his life has been linked to the concert stage.

salary of more than $10,000, as much as Congressmen received before 1947.

State salaries in Texas are not so high.

The adjutant general receives $4,200 yearly, his assistant $3,000. Highway commissioner gets $4,000 per year, the agriculture commissioner gets $4,200 yearly and the land commissioner is paid $6,000 yearly.

A state senator recently passed the remark that it was a sad commentary on American government when one official's secretary was paid more than a member of the state board of control.

Salary for the latter job is $7,000 annually. But the senator had to find a job other than his legislative work to pay his grocery bill.

Teaching Profession Should Clean House Says Texas Schoolman

OKLAHOMA CITY—(AP)—Dr. S. M. Brown, school superintendent at Tyler, Texas, told a meeting of educators here yesterday that the teaching profession should clean house from within and make the business attractive enough to draw recruits.

The teachers are meeting in Oklahoma City for a two-day conference to discuss recruiting and improving teaching standards.

"Working conditions, not salaries, are running people away from teaching," declared Ruth Armstrong, president of the Arkansas Classroom Teachers Association.

"A classroom teacher can't sell the profession to her pupils because they can see for themselves what a heavy load we have."

They're Going to Kill Off Nation's Rats— Everywhere Except in Casper, Wyo., That is

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON—(AP)—A national campaign was started Thursday to kill off this nation's rats—everywhere except in Casper, Wyo.

The idea is to save food. A rat eats more than he should, and he wastes almost as much as he eats. In short, a rat is embarrassingly like a human.

No rat-ridding information and a mite of explaining. So I hurriedly hunted up Mills Astin, Senator O'Mahoney's secretary and a long time resident of Casper, to ask:

Why are there no rats in your old home town?
"Oh, that can't be so," said Astin. "And yet, now let me think... did I ever? No, I never... never."

"I've lived in Casper since 1915, and in all that time, I never saw a rat there."

"Furthermore, I worked on the Casper Tribune-Herald, and never once did I ever hear rats mentioned."

The hastily formed Astin theory as to why Casper is comparatively rat-free:

Until recent irrigation, Casper had very little agriculture around it. This kept rats from wandering that way. And if any got as far as Casper, they found it a new town, with modern buildings. All of which is most discouraging to a rat.

But for the rest of us who don't live in Casper, the outlook isn't good.

In the first place, we're outnumbered. There's one city rat for every city resident, and two country rats for every person living in rural areas.

Out of every 100 bushels of grain grown in the U. S., four go to the rats. This means that 300,000,000 bushels of grain is eaten or wasted annually by rats, or approximately half of what we are shipping to Europe.

The annual rat bill, in food eaten and destroyed and for sickness brought on by rats: a whopping $2,000,000,000.

The campaign slogan is: "Feed People, not Rats."

Well, you can't argue about that. Unless, of course, you're a rat.

New Year's Eve was when a lot of folks got nowhere getting a head.

State Treasury In Good Shape, Prospect Good

By DAVE CHEAVENS
AUSTIN—(AP)—The state government of Texas goes into the calendar year 1948 with an overflowing treasury and no prospect of a deficit.

This prospect will continue to hold as long as business conditions

For the first four months of this fiscal year, government costs in Texas were 47 million dollars. For the same period last fiscal year, the cost was $6 and one-half millions.

The increase was a direct result of the Legislature's appropriations or allocations of a staggering $220,000,000 from the general revenue fund for the two-year period. It has been conservatively estimated, however, that the grand total to be spent on government in that period will be around 750 million dollars, including general revenue expenditures and all the other various statutory and constitutional fund allocations.

To illustrate how the in-flow of funds has more than kept pace with the out-go, Sheppard's figures showed that the state collected 167-plus millions of dollars from Sept. 1, through Dec. 31, 1947, compared with collections of 112-plus for the same period in 1946.

One big factor in the increase was an additional 10 million brought in by restoration of the general revenue fund's property tax. Because of the surplus in the general fund, this tax had not been levied the year before.

And if the present surplus in the general fund holds throughout the winter, spring and early summer months, the chances are good it will not have to be levied when the automatic tax board meets next summer.

The general revenue fund is generally regarded as the most reliable barometer of the state's financial conditions. On Dec. 31, its surplus was 43 million, compared with a 49 million dollar surplus at the end of November. This dip was accounted for to a large extent by payment of $8,000,000 from the general revenue fund to rural aid schools, which received very little cash in the first three months of the fiscal year.

However, Sheppard saw a prospect of an additional flow of funds to the general fund. He noted that a continued high income from motor fuel taxes and other sources may help enough in liquidating the $65 per capita for all schools to reduce the drain on the omnibus tax fund. The effect of such reduction would increase the amount going from the omnibus account to the general revenue account. This would help maintain a general fund surplus.

Already, $24 or nearly half of the per capita allocation for schools has been paid. This $55 per capita was set, it may be recalled, to help pay the additional costs imposed by the minimum teachers pay bill.

Another important factor in the increased revenue was the increase in oil production and oil prices, which resulted in additional tax revenue of seven million dollars from that source during the first four months of the fiscal year.

Of the 45 groups of revenues listed by the comptroller in his analysis, only eight showed decreased revenues and these were in small amounts.

Among some of the bullish revenue factors were expanding use of automobiles and consequent increase of motor fuel taxes; automobile sales taxes from increased car sales, and even teachers' contributions to their retirement fund. The latter were up a million dollars—because of their pay raises—and unemployment compensation taxes were up by about the same amount.

The comptroller did not attempt to go into the matter of what the teachers, the state, and everybody else was getting back in value received for their increased cash. The law directs him to deal in dollars, and cents, not values received.

A London woman gave birth to three sets of twins in seven years. The report says she's doing well. We'll say!

Citizen Marine Corps Is Being Organized

Men with or without previous military experience may enlist in the U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, T Sgt Leonard V. Smith, officer in charge of the Amarillo station, said.

The inactive branch of the Citizen Marine Corps calls for formal drills or class room work for its members, nor is an obligation in any way except that he keeps the Marine Corps informed of his address and agrees to answer official correspondence. Reserve reserves will be called to active duty only when a state emergency is declared by the Congress of the United States, it is said.

Members of the Citizen Marine Corps may withdraw from reserve at any time. They may also request active duty at any time.

Americans in Berlin Point Out All Don't Play in Black Market

NEW YORK—(AP)—"It must be in automobiles and other things, and that's in the richest country in the world."

"We have 150,000 Americans in Germany—a country beset by privation and want, where millions of people, distrustful of their currency, offer fantastic prices for food and cigars. Temptation is great—greater than any ever known in the U. S. But there are thousands of Americans in Germany who never yielded to temptation, and it can be proved that the crime rate here is lower than for a comparable number of people in America."

"There are thousands of people here, Hal, who work seven days a week at their job. There are tens of thousands who, out of their own pockets, are feeding German families—and we don't mean tossing a chocolate bar to a fraulein for favors."

My colleague objected, however, that accounts like that given by "Berlin Charley" failed to mention the thousands of conscientious American Military Government employees in Germany who are playing the black market.

He said, "a high military government official, commenting on the latest black market investigation which is now being conducted by Judge E. Earle Rives of Greensboro, N. C., as a special representative of Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall, observed: "Of course, there's a black market here, as everywhere else in Europe, and many Americans are in it. So are other nationalities. But it seems to me that I've also heard about a black market in the United States—"

Washington Taxi Drivers Give More Tips Than They Receive

By HAL BOYLE

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Taxi drivers earn their tips in Los Angeles by courtesy—in Manhattan by hypnotizing you out of your loose change by shave or vi-cracks.

But here in the nation's capital, the cab jockeys are plain polite and philosophic by nature.

The Washington taxi driver is a freer man with an opinion than the average legislator. He has views on every subject—the inside of the inside.

His forum is the highway, his rostrum the front seat of his cab, which he probably owns himself—and that makes him a small businessman and therefore gives him the right to say how the country should be run.

Ask him to take it easy at the wheel, and he's off: "I'm in no hurry either. Don't you see, the car home, the drunk drivers. Can't afford to any more. The repair costs to the cars run too high nowadays. It's $100 now where it used to be $18."

"Kinda new here aren't you? I been here most my life. It's a swell city, but I never saw one like it for middle-aged women getting tanked. Darn near ever night gotta drive some ginned-up woman home."

"Tips? You'd think with all these high-priced people around here they'd hand out a little money. But you're lucky if you get a dime from these ten-to-fifteen thousand-dollar men."

"Senators—they hand me a laugh but that's about all. Once one of them tipped me a nickel. However, I took another one home once—pretty good old guy, he was—and he said, 'you have to be a sheep farmer to get that kind of tip.'"

Many Never Suspect Cause of Backaches

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pain, leg pain, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for ever so years. Doan's gives happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

too much to drive. So I got a friend and we drove his car home, and the senator slipped me ten bucks and winked and said, 'now my wife will think I'm all right when she sees the car's home.'"

"Funny thing about the president. Most them do get uppity. But you take Woodrow Wilson. People say he was a cold man. But I saw him at a theater and walked right up and spoke to him. He was real pleasant. A fine man."

"Still and all, you take presidents generally. I don't understand it. But with most them soon's they get to be president right away they begin to think they're a big shot."

"It's hard to say just what it takes to be a hero to a taxi driver in Washington."

Our dollar was designed by a foreigner. And foreigners have had designs on it ever since.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

From Sheepskin to Sheep

There aren't too many college graduates in our town. Good honest thinking, yes...but most folks went from high school into farming.

No harm in that! But I admire veterans like Dick Newcomb... who's 23, but going to college under the G.I. Bill of Rights. Intends to be a sheep farmer—but a better-informed, more scientific farmer, with more know-how!

And veterans like Dick aren't letting anything interfere. What little relaxation they allow themselves is in the form of needed exercise, or books, or conversation and an occasional glass of beer with friends.

Seems as if, just by having their education postponed, they've put a higher value on it...and on things like temperance (that glass of beer, for instance), understanding, and good citizenship. And from where I sit, when Dick gets his sheepskin—he won't have lost much time. He'll be an even better farmer than his Dad. (Exactly what Dad wanted!)

Chandler Reported Agreeable To Peace With Mexican League

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Reports that Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler is agreeable to a peace treaty with the reformed Mexican League today cheered a penitent band of American players under suspension for succumbing to the lure of Pasquel pesos two years ago.

An unquoteable source close to Chandler's plush Cincinnati office yesterday termed "obvious" the purpose of current conferences in Mexico City between Walter McPhee, secretary of baseball, and Alejandro Aguilera Reyes, commissioner of the Mexican League.

And, the source added, should amicable relations be restored, the outlawed players probably would be welcomed back to organized baseball without having to serve out the rest of their five-year suspensions.

Informed his suspension for "jumping" to the Mexican League in 1946 might be lifted, Mickey Owen, former Brooklyn catcher, said at his home at Willard, Mo.:

"I'll be glad to get rid of the stigma of baseball outlaw, even if I never play again. I'll just sit tight and hope that nothing happens to keep me from being reinstated now."

"I've certainly learned my lesson and I'm really not to get back into organized baseball," said Bill (Buck) Tanner, 21-year-old first-ball right-hander who deserted Montreal of the International League to play for Mexico City.

Jorge Pasquel, millionaire sportsman and importer, led the raid on American diamond talent in 1946 with sky-high-figured contracts. Many players soon quit in disgust, however, with loud complaints about such things as playing field conditions and modes of travel.

Among the players who went south of the border and felt the sting of Commissioner Chandler's jolting penalty were three members of the St. Louis Cardinals—pitchers Max Lanier and Fred Martin and Second Baseman Lou Klein; four New York Giants, infielders Nap Reyes and George Hausman, outfielder Danny Gardella and Pitcher Ace Adams; and another Brooklyn Dodger, outfielder Louis Olmo.

The Mexican League reorganized last fall by returning to the commissioner system of rule, with regulations limiting club payrolls and providing that a majority of the players must be Mexicans.

NY District Attorney Charges Boxing Has Criminal Elements

NEW YORK—(AP)—Boxing's dirty linen flaps from a front window today with New York District Attorney Frank Hogan charging the sport is corrupted by "criminal elements" and Commissioner Eddie Egan asking court proof of any crimes in the form of indictments.

After the public servants traded verbal blasts in an unscheduled dinner at last night's tenth annual bout of the New York Boxing Writers' Association acting promoter Sol Strauss of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club rushed to the defense with an impromptu plea.

"District attorney after district attorney has investigated boxing," said Strauss whose thin voice cracked with emotion as he talked over, behind and sometimes into a microphone.

"What did they find? Nothing. Not a thing. Every legislator wants to get his name in the papers and asks for an investigation. I tell you we are just as good as professional baseball, football or any other sport. Why Mike Jacobs (the boxing promoter) did more for boxing in the last 10 years than anybody else."

Turning toward Egan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, Strauss pointed his finger in courtroom fashion as he asked:

"Why was Rocky Graziano suspended? Why can he not fight in New York state. He's just a political football. The public wants him to fight and nobody has the right to say no."

Hogan, whose investigation of Graziano after he allegedly failed to report a bribe attempt, resulted in Rocky's indefinite suspension, had left the hall before Strauss' talk. Egan said nothing.

Earlier both had plenty to say about boxing in general in their first open clash during the district attorney's investigation of the sport that has been continuing since the fall of 1946.

"We have been attempting to expose some of the rottenness of boxing," Hogan claimed. "The deeper we dig the more corruption we find. There's no reason to believe that the roots are so solidly planted. But if the poison is not to spread, a surgical operation is imperative."

Hogan asked the commission to conduct public hearings as the result of the 700 pages of grand jury testimony. He also demanded lifetime punishment for all who "trafficked with criminals" and urged formation of a permanent corps of investigators.

Obviously stirred by Hogan's blast, Egan fired a broadside into the district attorney's office when he said:

"I say to the district attorney. If he's found a crime, for goodness sake, indict the criminal. The commission does not have the power to indict anybody."

Answering Hogan's request for public hearings on the grand jury records, Egan said "when you hand me private records of a grand jury all I can do is call in the fighters. I ask them if they want a public hearing and they say 'no.' All I can do is refuse to give them a license."

"We have a complete file. All I ask is evidence. If there's a crime, let them be indicted and kicked out of boxing. Show me a criminal, show me anything crooked in boxing and believe me, brother, I'll do my damndest."

Al Getz to Meet Johnny Corlin in Ten-Title Bout

Tonight's double-main event at the Sportatorium will highlight a non-title bout between around Southwestern states champion Al Getz of Pittsburg and Johnny Corlin of Tampa, Fla., and on the companion feature, F. E. LaBelle of Portland, Ore., against Joe Kiser of Oswego, Ore.

Although tonight's bout between Corlin and Getz is a non-title bout, Sportatorium promoter Mike Bennett stated that it is hoped that Getz would lay his title on the line sometime in the near future.

Jack Kiser has been added to the card in place of Olan Boynton of Amarillo, who will be unable to appear on tonight's weekly card. Before coming to the Sportatorium a few months ago, Kiser was rated as one of the top junior heavyweights of the Pacific coast. He was Pacific Northwest amateur middleweight champion for five years with the famed Multnomah Athletic Club of Portland. He was coached by the noted Ted Thye, currently a promoter in Portland.

Earl Brown Named As Auburn Coach

AUBURN, Ala.—(AP)—Auburn's week-long search for a head football coach ended today with the naming of Earl M. Brown, Canisius College mentor and former Notre Dame star, to the post.

Salary terms were not disclosed. Brown succeeds Carl M. Voyles, whose contract was bought up by the school after the 1947 season, when the Auburn football team won two games and lost seven. Voyles was named head coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers of the all-American pro football conference by Branch Rickey yesterday.

Streetsweeper To Soon Reappear

The streetsweeper, with his push cart, will soon reappear on the streets of Pampa, picking up paper and other trash that pedestrians could just as easily have carried a few feet further to the nearest trash box and dumped there instead of on the street, City Manager Steve Matthews said this morning.

Matthews said equipment is now in order and a man will have to be hired to pick up paper, cardboard boxes and other trash. He said the cart is being repaired and will be ready to go in a few days.

Several months ago the city purchased two dozen green trash boxes to help keep the streets a little cleaner. Evidently this effort has failed with some of the citizens and visitors, Matthews added.

This morning the City Commission, through Mayor C. A. Huff, requested all persons shopping or working in the downtown area to throw their bags, boxes, or other trash, into the boxes instead of on sidewalks and in gutters.

Woman Fined on Assault Charge

Berlina McCrimmon, 37, appeared in County Court this morning charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. Testimony showed she had whipped out a razor and carved a female acquaintance to the extent that 72 stitches were necessary to repair the victim.

Judge Sherman White set her fine at $72 ($1 per stitch) and 30 days in jail. Testimony revealed "triangle" trouble had developed.

Two men appeared before the court on charges of driving while intoxicated. Marvin R. Oldham of Topeka, Kan., pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and costs. He was arrested by City Police last night when the officers said he was pushing a taxi through a red light.

The other man, Harold T. Olson of Dumas, Kan., pleaded guilty to a DWI charge, but setting of the fine was upheld pending settling of damages which resulted when he failed to have struck a neon sign.

Daisy Belle White was charged this morning with selling beer while license was suspended, but the case was continued until next Wednesday pending consideration of additional evidence.

Operators of the Long Liqueur Store made $500 bond this morning after being charged on two counts of selling liquor after regular hours.

BEVIN

(Continued from Page 1) that the Communist process goes ruthlessly on in each country. It therefore matters little how it is accomplished and how it is financed, and how it is financed, and how it is financed.

Bevin opened a two-day debate on foreign affairs, amid reports that Britain may soon propose a political, economic and military alliance with France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. A government source said "there obviously is something in the Anglo-French-Belux alliance."

Bevin said the issue with Russia was not simply the organization of Poland or any country, but "the control of Eastern Europe by Soviet Russia, whose frontiers have, in fact, been advanced to Stettin, Trieste and the Elbe."

He described affairs in Greece as "a dangerous situation—it is a case of power politics." Bevin accused Russia of a "ruthless attempt constantly maintained to bring that country into the Soviet orbit."

"We have been trying to leave Greece an independent country and get out of it, but we want also, her northern neighbors and all others to leave her alone and get out of it," Bevin declared.

Bevin said the United Nations have "been flouted by the Balkan neighbors of Greece," who repeatedly have been accused of arming, training and supplying Guerrillas fighting Athens government troops.

Bevin said refusal of Soviet satellites to recognize United Nations authority involved "a very serious danger that they and their Soviet mentors may make a great blunder."

"I would advise, in all solemnity, great care. Provocations like this lead sometimes to serious developments which we, and I hope they, are anxious to avoid."

WEATHER

(Continued from Page 1) as driving rain, mist, snow or fog in attempting to clear themselves of a damage suit or use it the other way. Kurtzweil submitted to question after his brief and informative weather lecture.

The March of Dimes Committee to stand duty this Saturday in front of the Court House Cafe was named and duty hours arranged.

Prior to naming the committee Rotarians voted to underwrite all necessary costs involved in taking care of two small boys financially deserted by their father. The boys, in the near future, will be taken to Boy's Ranch near Amarillo. Neither of the two has ever been in any trouble with the law according to information gleaned of Gray County juvenile court records.

Entertainment for the meeting was given by a girl's sextette from the Pampa Senior High School. The girls were introduced by Junior Rotarian Don Lane.

President Ray Evans announced there would be no luncheon meeting next Wednesday, but the regular meeting will be held Tuesday night when the Rotary foots the bill for losing the four-month attendance race with Pampa.

The meeting will be held in the Palm Room with the Rotary Club coming here to feed the victorious Pampa Rotary.

Virgil Mott led the club singing and Evans presided over the business session. Joe F. Key had charge of the program and introduced the speaker.

Attlee Declines Suggestion for New Peace Party

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
Britain's socialist prime minister, Clement Attlee, used just one crisp sentence yesterday in rejecting a proposal in the House of Commons that he organize a meeting with President Truman, Premier Stalin and heads of other allied states in an effort to prevent further deterioration of the international situation.

Mr. Attlee said: "While I am anxious to take any steps which might lead to improvement of the international situation, I do not feel that a conference of this kind would be likely to advance matters at present."

This proposal by a member of Parliament strikes me (and apparently struck Mr. Attlee) as indicating a misunderstanding of the exact nature of the conflict between Russia and the western allies.

"Why wouldn't such a conference be likely to advance matters at present? Well, the cold fact is that Russia is in process of waging an offensive against the democracies for the spread of communism, and hasn't the slightest idea of abandoning it."

We are in the midst of the world revolution which the Bolsheviks projected when they won before the conflict ended. Russia is the general staff for world revolution dissolved in 1945. Its immediate object is announced as defeat of the Marshall Plan for rehabilitation of Western Europe.

The war created the European chaos which was exactly suited to the spread of communism. Even before the conflict ended, Russia was busy establishing Communist governments in eastern European countries occupied by Soviet troops.

As a matter of fact most of the Red advance was achieved by the time peace came. Since then Moscow has been consolidating that ground and laying plans for conquest of Western Europe.

Do you think that the Soviet Union is going to halt her world revolution at this crucial stage? Not by a jug full! Any overtures by the western democracies now would look like appeasement and would do more harm than good.

SOVIET

(Continued from Page 1) titled to use the next harvest—from two and a half to three hundred-weights—but 40,000 tons of potatoes are still lacking and we don't know where to get them.

"The ration is only on paper," some Germans said. Others claimed the distribution of meat and fat often was late, and that frequently substitutions, such as fish for meat, were made. It appeared the food situation on the whole is no worse than in the western zone.

While the Russian officers conducting the tour denied a black market in food exists in the eastern zone, Germans said most of their wages were spent in illegal markets.

The most direct link between the economies of the U.S.S.R. and the occupation zone are completely Russian-owned and directed Soviet companies called the Soviet A. G. They represent the pick of German industry in the eastern zone. Of an original 198 plants selected by the Soviet, 74 have been returned to German hands and nationalized, leaving 124 Soviet companies, according to Minister President Seydewitz.

Their products are shipped almost exclusively eastward. Because they are Soviet companies, Seydewitz said German officials "in no way" have anything to do with them or their products.

The Russian deputy director of the famed Meissner Porcelain Works said its products are sent "100 percent" to the Soviet Bureau in Berlin, which runs a huge trust.

"While the dismantling of plants for reparations in the eastern zone has been completed, all Soviet companies are considered part of reparations and could still be moved to Russia," Maj. Schinkevich emphasized. "It was thought more expedient to leave them in Germany, at least temporarily."

HOOVER

(Continued from Page 1) used "careful consideration." They are Senators Wiley (R-Wis.), George (D-Ga.) and Smith (R-Ind.). Vandenberg has made it a policy not to discuss any proposals made to the committee, and Senator Connally (Tex.), the top Democrat, said he had no immediate comment.

Among House Foreign Affairs Committee members Rep. Herter (R-Mass.), author of a controversial plan to administer the program, said he is "gratified" that Hoover agrees with the type of organization Herter proposes.

Hoover recommended that the program be administered by a bipartisan commission, as contrasted with the administration's proposal to set up a single administrator subject to policy decisions by the secretary of state.

In his letter to Vandenberg made public last night the former president said the power to decide the domestic issues should be with the administration's proposal to set up a single administrator subject to policy decisions by the secretary of state.

Hoover estimated that the "burden" on the United States for the first 18 months of the European Recovery Plan and other overseas aid programs would total nearly $9,000,000,000. He added: "Whether the American economy can stand a burden of $9,000,000,000 of relief in this 18 months must arouse great anxiety. It amounts to about 18 percent of our whole federal tax income during such a period."

British Give Money Back to Arab Town

JERUSALEM—(AP)—The little Arab village of Salameh gave the British army 1,000 lbs. sterling ($4,000) last week because Arabs burned an army truck and made the driver and a companion walk to nearby flats in their underwear, the British announced today. The army gave the money back for use in Salameh's schools.

Green said in a New Year's statement: "Unless the present economic crisis takes an immediate turn for the better, it will be necessary to clamp government brakes on the uncontrolled price spiral." Earlier this week Thomas Kennedy, vice president of John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers, testified that the UMW is "emphatically" opposed to re-establishing wage-price controls. Lewis' organization recently cancelled its AFL affiliation.

3 Unions Block Labor Peace—Refuse Wage Boost Already Accepted by 19 Other Railroad Unions!

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Switchmen's Union of North America, representing 125,000 railroad employees, have refused to accept the offer of the Railroads of a wage increase of 15 1/2 cents an hour.

This is the same increase awarded 1,000,000 non-operating employees by an arbitration board in September, 1947.

This is the same increase accepted by 175,000 conductors, trainmen and switchmen by agreement on November 14, 1947.

Agreements have been made with 1,175,000 employees, represented by nineteen unions. But these three unions, representing only 125,000 men, are trying to get more. They are demanding also many new working rules not embraced in the settlement with the conductors and trainmen.

Incidentally, the Switchmen's Union of North America represents only about 7 per cent of all railroad switchmen, the other 93 per cent being represented by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and covered by the settlement with that union.

Strike Threat
The leaders of these three unions spread a strike ballot while negotiations were still in progress. This is not a secret vote but is taken by union leaders and votes are signed by the employees in the presence of union representatives.

When direct negotiations failed, the leaders of these three unions refused to join the railroads in asking the National Mediation Board to attempt to settle the dispute, but the Board took jurisdiction at the request of the carriers and has been earnestly attempting since November 24, 1947, to bring about a settlement. The Board on January 16, 1948, announced its inability to reach a mediation settlement. The leaders of the unions rejected the request of the Mediation Board to arbitrate. The railroads accepted.

What Now?
The Unions having refused to arbitrate,

the Railway Labor Act provides for the appointment of a fact-finding board by the President.

The railroads feel it is due shippers, passengers, employees, stockholders, and the general public to know that through-out these negotiations and in mediation, they have not only exerted every effort to reach a fair and reasonable settlement, but they have also met every requirement of the Railway Labor Act respecting the negotiation, mediation, and arbitration of labor disputes.

It seems unthinkable that these three unions, representing less than 10 per cent of railroad employees, and those among the highest paid, can successfully maintain the threat of a paralyzing strike against the interest of the entire country—and against 90 per cent of their fellow employees.

The threat of a strike cannot justify granting more favorable conditions to 125,000 employees than have already been put in effect for 1,175,000, nor will it alter the opposition of the railroads to unwarranted wage increases or to changes in working rules which are not justified.

A glance at the box shows what employees represented by the Engineers and Firemen make. They are among the highest paid in the ranks of labor in the United States, if not the highest.

Compare these wages with what you make!

Here is a comparison of average annual earnings of engineers and firemen for 1939 (pre-war) and 1947. Also shown is what 1947 earnings would have been if the 15 1/2 cents per hour increase, offered by the railroads and rejected by the union leaders, had been in effect throughout the entire year 1947. Even hogs are sharing their food with Europe. To save sorely-needed grain, Marie Massarotti, of Pueblo, Col., feeds these porkers a diet of coal mixed with rock salt. Although coal will not fatten hogs, it's a good conditioner and keeps them free of worms. At $6 a ton, coal is cheaper than corn at $4.50 per 100 pounds, and the hogs prefer coal.

No. 1 Labor Peacemaker Sets Out on Full-Scale Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government's No. 1 labor peacemaker set out Monday on a campaign to convince unions that strikes are futile and employers that they should try to get along with unions.

As a starter, Director Cyrus S. Ching of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service arranged to meet with leaders of the Communications Workers of America, an independent union mapping wage demands on the telephone industry.

Beyond that, Ching told a reporter, he has a series of dates with labor and management people—in advance of 1948 wage drive—for this purpose.

"I want to convince the unions on the futility of strikes to gain their objectives. These problems all have to be settled eventually anyway and there is no reason for a strike until every available alternative is exhausted."

"I want to sell employers, too, on the idea that it is to their best interest to get along with unions. After all, our national policy calls for collective bargaining—it's the law. That doesn't mean simply recognizing a union officially and then fighting it from then on. It means a frank and friendly talking out of a problem until a solution is reached."

Ching, former industrial relations expert of the U. S. Rubber Company, took over the mediation service helm after the Taft-Hartley Act divorced the service from the Labor Department and assigned it a bigger role in improving employer-worker understanding.

On Feb. 2 Ching is to take his labor peace message to meeting of union and industrial leaders sponsored by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce at Atlanta—first of a half dozen meetings the Chamber has arranged over the nation.

"What I aim to do," Ching said, "is to talk to these people while they aren't hot under the collar yet."

Mrs. James Beach, of Tulsa, Oklahoma, who was born without arms, wears a wedding ring on her second toe, and is able to manipulate safety pins, play a guitar, or drive a car.

Aina Erlander, wife of Sweden's new Prime Minister, is continuing to teach mathematics and chemistry at a girls' school in Stockholm despite her important new position.

Matador Sidney Franklin Sees Great Bull Future for Brooklyn Proletaire

By REGINALD L. WOOD
 MEXICO CITY—(AP)—Apparently there is something about the Brooklyn, N. Y., air that produces bull-fighters.

Julian Faria, 22, a native of the borough, is the protégé of famed Brooklyn-born Sidney Franklin, the only United States-born matador who has been able to match the skill of the Latins.

Faria, trained by Franklin for the last seven years, hopes to be able to step into the master's gaudy costume and slippers when Franklin relinquishes here. Franklin thinks his boy can make it.

So far young Faria has had only a few professional fights. In three of his first four he cut an ear—a judge's award for a particularly good performance. He has been tossed once but came up unharmed. He handles his sword with the same classic style that made Franklin famous, stands close, aims carefully and kills cleanly.

Faria is being kept under wraps by Franklin, and is permitted only experience-gathering "corridos," or fights, in provincial Mexican bullrings. He will fight later this winter in France and Spain on the same bills with Franklin.

Franklin, who is now 39—which is old for a matador—met his protégé in New York some time in 1939 when he was running a stable of 72 horses.

"One morning a youngster who seemed to know a lot about horses was hanging around the stables," Franklin said. "What do you want?" I asked.

Faria answered: "I want a job. Give me a job and I'll work for nothing."

The boy told him that he came from Brooklyn, that his father was Portuguese, his mother English and his grandparents Spanish. Faria was given a job taking care of horses—and his tutoring began.

He served as Franklin's sword handler in Mexico and at bloodless fights in the United States. When the war came he was traveling as a part of Franklin's rodeo in the United States. Faria went into the Navy.

After the war Franklin took Faria to his ranch outside Mexico City where the apprentice matador worked out with heifers and some fighting stock Franklin keeps for practice.

"His behavior in the ring was superb," Franklin commented after one fight. "His reaction to the crowd was good. Julie has basic qualities you can't buy: a natural liking for animals, ease with the crowd and showmanship."

"I expect him to do in three years what it takes other matadors a lifetime to do."

Franklin himself currently is engaged in a return to the Mexico City bullring after a war-enforced absence. Then the two boys from Brooklyn will show the Spanish and French bullfight fans some imported talent.

Nobody skids intentionally—it's always a slip.

Mrs. Bill Smith To Club Hostess

The Save Your Time Home Demonstration Club met last Wednesday, Jan. 14, in the home of Mrs. Bill Smith. The meeting was opened with a short parliamentary drill conducted by Mrs. P. V. Albinson, the president.

Miss Ann Hastings, the home demonstration agent, spoke to the group on kitchen planning and remodeling. She stressed the fact that the sink, the refrigerator, and the stove should be carefully placed because they are the three working areas. The speaker suggested saving pictures and plans from magazines for ideas for building and remodeling.

Miss Hastings suggested the inclusion of a lap board at the right of the sink as a convenient place to sit and peel potatoes or to serve the children so they will be near the mother as she works. The speaker also stressed the importance of locating the kitchen so it will have the benefit of prevailing winds and at the same time to be accessible to front and back entrances, the laundry, the store room, and the dining area.

New yearbooks were distributed and a short period of recreation followed the formal program. Refreshments were served. Ten members were present.

BETHANY CLASS

The Bethany Sunday School Class of the Central Baptist Church will entertain families of members with a covered dish dinner at the church at 6:30 this evening. According to a statement by Mrs. Carl Jones, "secret pal," will be revealed at this time.

Mrs. John Brandon Is Hostess to Club

Mrs. John Brandon entertained the members of the Merten Home Demonstration Club in her home Tuesday evening.

Mrs. J. C. Steward directed the recreation game of Twenty Questions and the president conducted a short business meeting. Each member answered a roll call by telling something she had learned about textile painting. Some of the things learned were that the pinning down of the stencil is now being outmoded and that the hand painting is being advised. Another item that was learned in the textile study was that washing of the material to remove sizing or starch before painting would insure the holding of the colors.

Success was reported in most cases of washing the materials. Exhibits and demonstrations constituted the program of the evening. One exhibit which particularly interested the group was of silk scarves and covers with hand work brought home recently from overseas by the son of Mrs. V. Smith.

Mrs. E. E. Ethridge showed a lovely nylon head square with a flower in one corner. Other exhibits were a blouse and a hand painted plate encircled with a pleated ribbon to represent a picture. Another was a lunch cloth made by Mrs. A. M. Nash which had harmonizing crocheted edge. Mrs. Brandon showed a dress and pillow top and Mrs. H. H. Threath exhibited placemats and napkins.

A demonstration was given on a rose table cloth of Mrs. Brandon's when Mrs. T. C. Lafoon, Mrs. D. A. Rife, Mrs. A. Swafford, and Mrs. Steward painted its corners.

Mrs. Lafoon and Mrs. C. J. Bryant were guests at the meeting.

Pineapple dessert, cookies, and coffee were served to those mentioned and Mrs. S. E. Waters, C. A. Jones, F. B. Warriner, V. S. Day, D. A. Caldwell, C. H. Hammett, and T. G. Groves.

It was announced that the next meeting will be with Mrs. Frank Bailey in her new location on Feb. 3.

Eat Well for Less

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

On meatless days, try New England chowders as main dish. A new cookbook, "Secrets of New England Cookery" by Bowles and Towle, gives many an old-time tested recipe for chowder. Here are two from the flavorful book that will make your family welcome meatless Tuesday.

Nantucket Fish Chowder
(Serves 4 to 6)

One medium-sized fresh codfish sliced, 1-2 lb. salt pork sliced, water, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 cups hot milk, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, soda crackers.

First, put the fish head in a saucepan, cover with cold water, and start it cooking. Then try out the salt pork in a skillet until the slices are crisp and brown. Remove the pork and fry the onions in the fat until very light brown. Cut the pork slices 1/2 inch, add them to the fat and onion, and put the combination in the chowder kettle. Add the codfish slices and the strained water in which the head was boiled. Then add enough water so that the liquid stands about 2 inches above the fish. Cook slowly for about 20 minutes. Make a paste of a little cold water and the flour. Mix with the hot milk and stir into the chowder. Add the seasonings, and let the chowder boil up once. Place soda cracker halves in the bottom of a tureen and turn hot chowder over them. Serve at once.

Tried and True Corn Chowder
(Serves 6)

One-third cup diced salt pork (one slice), 3 cups boiling water, 2 cups diced potatoes, 2 cups hot milk, 2-4 cups fresh corn or 1 can corn, chopped.

Mrs. Bump Is Hostess to Club

The Worthwhile Home Demonstration Club met Friday, Jan. 16, in the home of Mrs. D. E. Bump for regular business meeting and a demonstration on textile painting, given by Mrs. O. G. Smith who was assisted by Mrs. G. H. Anderson.

It was stated that textile coloring sets may be purchased with either oil or powdered colors and it was found more practical to use the latter. The cutting of stencil designs was demonstrated. The meeting opened with singing and roll call was answered by each member telling something she had learned about textile painting.

Mrs. Anderson presided over the business session in which she appointed a committee, composed of Mrs. Smith, Mrs. W. E. Hinton and Mrs. D. L. Lunstford, to revise the by-laws.

The club members voted to send the "Texas Agriculture" to the club reporter to be used in giving reports of interest to the club during the year.

Mrs. Smith gave a report of the auditing committee and a report on the council planning school held recently. She also conducted the drill on parliamentary rules. An exhibit chairman, Mrs. Smith announced that the Worthwhile club would place an exhibit in the courthouse hall case, Jan. 26.

Refreshments were served to eight members.

Fowl that usually is used for soup or fricassee may be roasted if it is first simmered in water until almost tender.

WOODROW WILSON P-TA — The last Procedure Course of the season for Woodrow Wilson P-TA will be held Thursday evening at 7:30 in the school cafeteria. All members are urged to be present to finish the study.

POLICE AUXILIARY
The Police Auxiliary will meet Friday afternoon with Mrs. J. B. Connor, 414 Somerville.

New Insecticide May Be Answer to Insect Problems

A powerful new insecticide which kills all insect life within the effective area has been developed for use on farms and in greenhouses.

According to entomologists, it promises to be the all-purpose poison that farmers and florists have dreamed of for ages. They point out that while DDT and other newer insecticides are rather specific, effective against certain insect pests and not others, the new formula kills all bug life.

Thiophos 3422, as it has been called since experimental stages, has been sprayed and dusted on cotton, tobacco, fruit and vegetable crops, and on flowers with remarkable results.

Its over-all lethal effectiveness is compared with that of other insecticides in the January issue of Country Gentleman by Dr. R. W. Leiby, Cornell University entomologist, who says:

"When DDT is used to control the major apple pest—the codling moth—it fails to kill mites. And because the insect enemies of the mites are held down by DDT, the mites increase to destructive numbers. But when Thiophos 3422 is used, just about all of the insects on the apple tree are killed—codling moth, mites, some scale insects, any aphids or plant lice, and probably other pests such as leaf rollers or curculions, or the apple maggot."

Thiophos 3422 saves money and man hours, claims Dr. Leiby, who has been experimenting with the compound in the field for more than six months. Peach growers now required to use three different insecticides to rid their crops of pestilence, can get the same results from the use of 3422 alone. Lima-bean raisers using four applications of rotenone, pyrethrin and pyrethrum at a cost of $18 to $20 an acre achieve control that ranges from fair to good. With 3422 they can do the job in two applications, for less money, and the control would rate as excellent, states the magazine.

Reporting on its other advantages, the article continues:

"The new insecticide kills by contact, as a stomach poison, and probably by fumigation. It seems to have a moderate fumigation action even under outdoor conditions. Field tests show it to be superior to other insecticides in controlling aphids or plant lice, and it may be used alone or in combination with some other insecticides to control aphids on such crops as potatoes, cabbage, vine crops like cucumbers, fruit trees and cotton."

Rated according to the three strict standards which farmers and entomologists apply to insecticides 3422 does well, as this scoring shows:

- (1) How long will it kill insects after it is applied? Evidence shows that it is effective 8 to 12 days outdoors and one to two months indoors.
- (2) Does it leave a residue that is poisonous to man or animals eating treated crops, or to the soil? Thiophos 3422 is definitely a poison, the scientists caution, but it seems to disappear almost entirely from crops in 10 to 12 days.
- (3) Are you likely to be harmed when applying it? It can be absorbed through the skin, scientists say, and prolonged exposure to a spray or dust could prove harmful. If you intend to work with it in the orchard or field crops the greater part of the day or night, you probably should wear a respirator, they advise.

"As an aerosol sprayed from atomizers, containers 3422 has shown insect control in floral greenhouses equal to that of any other insecticide or combination," notes the magazine.

Hall County Wins 4-H Merit Plaque

The State Extension office has chosen Hall County to receive a merit plaque for reporting the most outstanding 4-H Better Methods Electric program in 1947. The plaque, which is provided by the Westinghouse Educational Foundation, will be presented to the County Extension office at Memphis.

W. B. Hooser, Extension agent in the county, reported that 603 4-H Club members participated in the county-wide program. They analyzed such typical jobs as wiring houses and barns, and using electricity in sawing lumber, digging post holes, lighting dairy rooms and milking machines. The county agent and local 4-H Club leaders assisted the members in installing electric fences, building pig brooders, poultry houses, and wiring dairy barns.

Gayle West of Memphis won county and state honors in the 1947 National 4-H Better Methods Electric awards program.

Wheat Classification School To Be Held in Pampa Feb. 17

A one day school to teach those most directly concerned to distinguish between "good" and "poor" milling and baking varieties of wheat has been scheduled in Pampa Feb. 17. The class, to consist of a series of six lectures and demonstrations and to include practice sessions and the showing of Kodachrome slides, is to be held in the showroom of the Scott Implement Company.

Eleven such schools are being scheduled in Texas, sponsored by the Texas-Oklahoma Wheat Improvement Assn. in cooperation with the agriculture department of the Tex-O-Kan Flour Mills County Agent Ralph Thomas is in charge locally.

Those encouraged to attend are managers and employees of local mills and elevators, county agents and vocational agriculture teachers, and growers of certified seed. Registration in advance is requested.

Each student will need a magnifying glass, soft lead pencil with eraser, small grain forceps, small flashlight and a one-quart sample of any pure wheat variety.

The sponsors stated that with premiums being paid by several country elevators for "good" varieties and with differentials between "good" and "ordinary" on the Kansas City and other terminal markets averaging 8 to 10 cents or more, it begins to look as if housewives will make their barns and for milking machines.

The county agent and local 4-H Club leaders assisted the members in installing electric fences, building pig brooders, poultry houses, and wiring dairy barns.

Gayle West of Memphis won county and state honors in the 1947 National 4-H Better Methods Electric awards program.

Most Important Long Range Program Cited

TOPKA, Kans. — The most important long-range program for agriculture can be developed and carried out only by farm folks themselves, says Ray Yarnell, editor of Capper's Farmer. The program, he continues, is not much concerned with making more money out of farming, but it is very much concerned with getting more happiness and pleasure out of living.

In his editorial in the February issue of the magazine, Yarnell offers six suggestions for such a program:

- "1. Make your home as attractive and comfortable as you can. Many need remodeling or replacing. The better the home, the better the farmer should be."
- "2. Avoid much of the hard work in farming by convenient arrangement of productive buildings and full use of labor saving equipment."
- "3. Every farm homestead can be beautified with grass, flowers, trees and shrubs with small expense and a little effort. People are happier and work better in pleasant surroundings."

"4. Take part, as fully as you can, in the activities of your community. Encourage your youngsters to do so. The more you play together, the better you will work together and live together."

Growers Protest New Tax Order

HARLINGEN — (AP)—Rio Grande Valley citrus and vegetable growers will protest a ruling ordering retroactive collection of social security and unemployment taxes on wages paid packing plant workers, W. R. Dennis, assistant manager of the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Growers and Shippers Association, has announced.

Dennis said the ruling by the Internal Revenue Bureau makes the social security tax, one percent on employers and one percent on employees, retroactive to last October and the more you will enjoy it all.

"5. Look after your school. If it isn't as good as it ought to be, get busy. Your tax money can't buy anything more valuable than a better education for your children."

"6. Lend a hand to the church or churches in your neighborhood. Your community will be a better place in which to live if the church is active there."

"If all of the 6 1/4 million farm families in the United States will adopt a program similar to this," Yarnell declares, "and will work at it as hard as they did in producing food during the war, sensational results can be accomplished."

and the three percent unemployment tax retroactive to Jan. 1, 1947. The association official said he expected the annual convention of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, now meeting in San Francisco to appeal from the retroactive phase of the ruling.

Jester Ends 1st Year in Office With No Major Achievement in View if He Seeks Re-Election

By DAVE CHEAVENS
AUSTIN—(AP)—Gov. Beauford H. Jester has the end of his first year in office in view, but he is not an opponent for re-election in sight.

The announcement of Rep. Harley Sadler of Sweetwater that he will run for a Senate seat now held by Pat Ullock of Colorado City apparently eliminated him finally as a potential candidate for Governor.

One year ago Tuesday on a clean, cold and dry day Beauford Jester was inaugurated as Governor and for the most part of the first year of his administration has had relatively easy sailing.

Jester himself feels that he has fulfilled his major promise of his campaign—extension of state service in many fields, especially more adequate financial support for the schools, without the imposition of new taxes and with the state remaining in a healthy financial condition, paralleling booming business.

The Legislature failed to go along with him on two major points. It adopted a flat per capita method of increasing state aid for schools and raising teachers' salaries, against his desire for increased aid on a more equalization formula, giving help where local communities were in greatest need. It also failed to give him his requested middle-of-the-road labor mediation legislation.

In the face of the latter, Jester invoked the old and little used state industrial commission law to settle the troublesome Odessa telephone strike.

The Legislature also permitted maximum payments of old age pensions, but refused to remove the sting on such payments. Critics of the Governor said he had waited till rather late in the session to make his request for removal of the cap, as well as his request for mediation legislation. The Legislature meanwhile had passed a more strict labor regulatory bill with Jester's approval.

Jester has had an unusual number of opportunities to make political friends in his first year in office, and generally has seized upon them.

His genial and affable character, the type of speaker much desired by civic organizations, he utilized for air transportation to round over the state to fill engagements and many out-of-state. Jester's office attaches testify it is hard for him to refuse such requests, but circumstances have forced him to on some occasions.

He has flown more miles in his first year than any other Governor in Texas history, and he has also had to fill an unusual number of vacancies in his cabinet offices. Many of these created by deaths or resignations of incumbents. Jester tried to make these appointments only on the basis of the qualifications of individuals concerned, but to see to it all parts of the state are represented.

He made confirmed every appointment he made during the 50th Legislature, and there has been no evidence of opposition to his interim appointments.

He has taken nationwide leadership in his fight for legislation to give the state title to their oil and mineral lands. His out-of-office work has been in the interest of this project.

There has not been much talk of Jester as a possible candidate for the United States Senate, and it is thought generally understood that he will see the traditional second term as a senator. Recent attempts to get him to say so in his two-week preparatory have come to nothing.

Jester has been mentioned as a likely candidate for a group of West Texas men were put out with Jester's name as a possible candidate for the United States Senate, and it is thought generally understood that he will see the traditional second term as a senator. Recent attempts to get him to say so in his two-week preparatory have come to nothing.

Congressman Asks Prosecution of Get-Rich-Quick Operators in Housing

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Prosecution of get-rich-quick operators who exploit the nation's housing shortage to clean huge profits was urged Monday by a Senate House Committee on Housing.

In a 185-page report, the Vermont senator said Congress should instruct the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission "to prosecute and police vigorously" any persons connected with the housing industry "who engage in practices in restraint of trade."

Flanders told a reporter that information on certain dealers allegedly seeking to corner the market already has been turned through their firms. Suppliers have extracted commissions on goods they never handled. And unions have engaged in make-work practices which add unnecessary costs to every house erected.

As a means of breaking the many bottlenecks in the shipment of critical building materials, Flanders said the Office of Defense Transportation should assign freight cars for such materials to assure an equitable distribution. A reshuffle of freight cars, he said, is particularly needed in the Northeast, Southwest and Mid-Central areas.

Flanders lashed out against out-moded "19th Century Methods" of home building as a major factor in the high cost of housing.

"Industry, management and labor, individually or collectively, have conspired to saddle the housing industry with a number of obstacles that have needlessly and substantially increased housing costs," Flanders said.

"80 times such increases arose from designing local building codes so as to exclude new material or new competition. Again they may have favored local interests.

"Builders have prevented the use of materials not purchased

High Cost of Living Breaks The Dog, Teddy

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Teddy, a 13-year-old dog is broke, thanks to the high cost of living.

Teddy, during the first eight years of his life, had all bills paid by the late Mrs. Emma F. Moas, who provided that $1,000 be set aside after her death for Teddy's welfare and comfort. The animal was left in the custody of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver E. Goldsmith.

The Goldsmiths have disclosed that the high cost of living—one of Teddy's favorite foods—and other bills has eaten up the fund.

The Goldsmiths said that Teddy has become almost one of the family and that he will continue to bath in the family tub with bluing and a perfume spray, followed by the usual nap on a rubber mat atop one of the Goldsmiths' beds. But he will sometimes have to forgo that diet of chicken liver, raw eggs mixed with milk and peanut butter.

Mary Miller, of Melbourne, Australia, has introduced something new in duets. She practices singing with her canary. Whiskers, used for its wide range of notes. The canary obligato goes away with the head of a piano accompaniment.
