FARMER'S IN THE SCRAP

Cupid did with one shot what the Japanese failed to do with many—downed "Kirk of San Sabá" of Flying Tiger renown. Blue-eyed Norva Cate and Mat-

Nation Determined To Avert Food Shortage

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—A freezing of essential workers to the farm, by giving them the choice between agricultural production or military service, was suggested today by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service chief, as one possible means of alleviating a growing farm labor shortage.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—With one eye on the nation's youth and the other on its bread-basket, the house agriculture committee today sought the advice of three top-ranking officials to aid it in formulating legislative recommendations to avert what Chairman Fulmer (D-S. C.) described as "a rapidly approaching food shortage."

Called as final witnesses in the committee's long study of the food outlook were Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, selective service director; Paul C. McNutt, head of the war manpower commission, and Donald M. Nelson, war production chief.

Hershey was scheduled to take the stand today after testifying before a senate sub-committee studying manpower. McNutt was slated as Tuesday's witness, and Nelson was expected to appear Wednesday.

From Hershey, who last week told the committee 23 per cent of draft registrants up to last June were from farm regions but only 13 per cent of men in the army were farmers, Fulmer said his group hoped to get an idea of the future manpower needs of the armed services.

McNutt, whom Fulmer accused of being "more interested in industry's needs regardless of the effect on food production," was expected to be asked about how many more men, if any, industry would take from the farms.

Nelson, Fulmer said, will be asked for the information on which he based a recent statement attributed to him by Representative Pace (D-Ga.) that there was no danger of a food shortage. The statement, which Pace termed "a critical error," was in direct conflict with the general views and beliefs of committee members, Fulmer declared.

"As soon as we hear these three men, who have so much to do with the war program and the distribution of manpower," Fulmer said, "the committee probably will submit to congress some definite recommendations to avert what is certain to be an acute food shortage unless something is done quickly."

Under the law, the tenant has the right to bring action against his landlord for treble the amount of overcharge, or $50, plus attorney's fees and costs, whichever is greater.

The rent control law's provisions are applicable only to those areas that have been placed under control and in which area rent offices have been opened and rent directors have been appointed.

Although 78 areas have been designated as defense-rental areas in this six-state OPA region, the law thus far has been invoked in only 27 areas. On October 1, rents in nine more areas will be brought under control.

President To Bide Time On Inflation Plan

BULLETIN WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Farm state senators offered a compromise today to their demands for higher farm prices in the anti-inflation bill but administration leaders flatly rejected it.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—President Roosevelt was reported today to have agreed to delay an executive move to control the cost of living until congress completes action on pending anti-inflation legislation, even if the final draft does not reach him by his Oct. 1 deadline.

In his you-do-it-or-I-will message of Sept. 7 the President told congress that present controls would not hold the cost of food and clothing down beyond Oct. 1, and requested action by that time.

But Senator Brown (D-Mich.) told reporters he had been assured Mr. Roosevelt contemplated no immediate action and would wait a reasonable length of time for congress to finish its work on a measure directing that prices, wages and salaries be stabilized at Sept. 15 levels, so far as practical.

With the farm bloc apparently on the run in the senate after winning an overwhelming victory in the house, the national farmers union asserted that "a change in the formula for determining parity prices will not solve the production problem" and inclusion of wages in parity calculations "is negligible."

In telegrams sent to members of the senate, W. M. Thatcher, legislative chairman for the organization, suggested that congress leave to the President "the matter of increasing prices or higher ceilings for certain commodities and other measures necessary for full production by and protection to agricultural producers."

A cross-section report from great plains and corn belt farmers, Thatcher said, indicated that parity prices "as now determined" are adequate if sufficient farm labor is assured and farmers "have the protection of such prices for a period of years following the conclusion of the war."

Before this could happen, however, the administration first had to make good its claims of sufficient votes to insert in the measure a compromise amendment directing President Roosevelt to raise farm price ceilings in cases where they did not reflect increased labor and other costs.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—The government debt today reached $90,000,000,000—more than double what it was before the United States began preparing in 1940 for the present war.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—The war has given major credit by the census bureau today for a population increase of 1,327,000 in 1941, boosting the nation's estimated population on Jan. 1 to 133,965,000.

DALLAS, Sept. 28 (AP)—A thief with plenty of brass in his makeup added to it last night by taking a dozen cuspidors set out by the chamber of commerce for the scrap drive.

MOTORISTS URGED TO CUT AUTO USE 60 PER CENT NOW

Motorists in the Panhandle and throughout the nation were urged today to restrict their driving to about 60 per cent of normal pending institution of gasoline rationing about Nov. 22 as a tire conservation measure.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson announced over the weekend that the national program would follow closely the system already in effect in the East with a basic ration of slightly less than four gallons a week.

Supplemental rations will be available in certain cases, but Henderson served notice that they would be issued "only on proof of need and in quantities strictly limited to the degree of essentiality to life."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Price Administrator Leon Henderson, in a letter to Senator Connally (D-Tex.), said that the prospects of stable cattle market were good and that feeders "who buy wisely" could face the coming year with confidence.

He gave his views in response to a communication from G. R. Bauer, president of the Coastal Cattle Association, Beaumont, Tex., which had been transmitted to the OPA by Senator Connally. Bauer had expressed concern about proposed price ceilings on beef cattle, urging that there be no discrimination against growers in the fixing of ceilings.

"The Office of Price Administration fully appreciates the unusual war-time conditions with which the cattle producer is now confronted, and is prepared to do all it can to make cattle production and feeding as profitable as it is consistent with the parity concept," wrote Henderson.

"The information available to us indicates that the average price for beef cattle received by farmers from July 1941 to June, 1929, was $7.18 per hundred pounds and that average price for June was $10.75 per hundred pounds x x x

"The prospects of a continued strong demand for beef cattle should make the market more rather than less stable as compared with other years. There is every reason to believe that feeders who buy wisely, that is, feeders who buy to feed according to a program which is the most efficient under the war-time relationships between cattle prices and the production costs, can face the coming year with confidence."

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Men, women and children by the millions began today the greatest concentrated hunt in American history—a nationwide search for metal scrap in homes, factories and farms—by states, cities, towns and counties.

For the next three weeks more than 1,000 newspapers in most states will lead the intensive drive to find junk metal to feed the hungry steel mills turning out weapons against the Axis.

Second Front Now Assured, Says Wavell

LONDON, Sept. 28 (AP)—An assertion by General Sir Archibald F. Wavell that British and American troops would fight their way onto the European continent as soon as possible shared attention today with labor leaders' demands for an immediate government answer to Wendell Willkie's for a second front to aid Russia.

Wavell, commander in chief of India, spoke in New Delhi in a review of the global aspects of the war and voiced his firm conviction that the United States, Britain, Russia and China would fight on together to ultimate victory.

"It is quite certain that as soon as ever possible both American troops and ourselves will start a second front, but I can't tell you when or where," Wavell declared.

A Big Problem "It's a big problem starting on the continent. We'll have some casualties—very considerable—both American and ours—before we get back into the continent. But we'll get back."

While Wavell was giving this assurance, Lord Stablogi, labor peer, was demanding in a speech at Wimbledon that the Churchill war cabinet reply "without delay" to Willkie's assertion in Moscow that the best way to aid Russia was to open a second front before next summer.

Emanuel Shinyell, Laborite member of the house of commons, said he was deeply impressed by Willkie's outspoken statement and expressed his opinion that Britain and the United States should take the initiative immediately.

The opposite view of the situation was given by Lord Croft, parliamentary secretary of the war office, who said in a speech that Britain already had fought on 13 fronts—"mostly against great odds"—and that she had performed great services for Russia by aerial assaults upon Germany and by delivering supplies to the Soviet in the face of great difficulties.

Russian hopes for quick aid, meanwhile, were given a boost by Georgy Alexandrov, chief of the Communist party's propaganda department in Moscow, who predicted the opening of a second front in the near future.

"The time is not far distant," he wrote in the party organ Pravda, "when our allies will introduce their armies against the common enemy. It will be an important and real factor for the victory."

Germany's outward reaction to all this second front talk was voiced by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop who declared that the Germans would welcome an Allied attempt to invade western Europe.

AUSTIN, Sept. 28 (AP)—Governor Coke R. Stevenson disclosed today he had referred to the state highway department for consideration a request from the council of state governments to decree a 35-mile speed limit on state highways.

The governor who last spring re-announced a 40-mile speed maximum said he had no direct request from the office of defense transportation to decree a 35-mile limit, proposed as part of the rubber conservation plan soon to be clamped on the nation.

Cool Wave Ends Here As Mercury Hits 82 Degrees

After a week of coolness, Indian summer weather came to Pampa yesterday, pushing the mercury up to 82, while a norther over the week-end brought some Texas points their coldest weather in years.

Sunday's minimum temperature was 40, but the coolness was short-lived. Early this afternoon the temperature was 64 degrees.

The temperature dropped to 44.8 degrees at Houston early Sunday and the weather bureau there said it was the lowest recorded in bureau records going back to 1891.

The 36 degrees at Dallas early Sunday was the lowest since about 1920, but the low early today was only 46.

Temperature of 46.6 at Port Arthur at 7 a. m. Sunday was the coldest there since 1917. It was 50 degrees there today but cold enough to bring out overcoats and gloves.

Continued cold in the east portion of East Texas was forecast for tonight except slightly warmer in the Rio Grande valley. In the

Americans Held In Nazi Roundup

BERN, Switzerland, Sept. 28 (AP)—The Germans have seized some 300 Americans in occupied France as potential hostages, diplomatic quarter here learned today, in a move which added to the tension in Pierre Laval's government in Vichy.

News of the seizures came from private sources in Paris. American diplomatic sources were without official word but it caused no surprise, since Americans in the occupied zone are liable to internment by the Nazis as enemy aliens.

Those held were Americans who for one reason or another remained in occupied France pending negotiations for their repatriation. It was assumed that if repatriation were permitted the Germans would ask for the return of an equal number of Germans in the United States.

The roundup and other incidents, especially the United States' endorsement of the British occupation of Madagascar, have served to create the most critical situation thus far in American-French relations, French observers of the Vichy scene said.

Laval is faced with the greatest difficulties in the negotiations with Germany for 120,000 French workers, which private sources said had been demanded within three weeks. Mindful of the sentiment of the French, Laval declared that this would involve strong compulsion which he dared not exert, information from Paris said.

According to these advices, Laval Frenchmen. There was one rumor that he had even threatened to go as far as to pursue collaboration in his own way. If he chooses to stand against full conscription of workers, there is a possibility of his being pushed out of the government, it was reported in such a case he could play the role of having stood against the rights of North Africa.

It was reported without confirmation that Charles E. Bédoux, friend of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor whose wife is the former Miss Fern Lombard of New York and Tours, France, was among those taken into custody.

Russians Battle New German Penetration Of Stalingrad

Stalingrad still stands. After five weeks of battering, the Germans were reported today to have broken through the city's defenses by air transport in a mighty, climatic effort to overrun Stalingrad before a Russian counter-offensive awing at their northern flank turns the city into another Leningrad.

Airborne reinforcements are needed by the foe to replace the thousands falling every day that Stalingrad holds out.

The Germans said that several more districts of Stalingrad had fallen to its troops, that the northern section of the city was being mopped up house by house and that Russian diversionsary attacks both south and north of the city had failed.

German propaganda, restrained about Stalingrad, was keyed chiefly today to claims that three transport vessels and a destroyer were sunk

Willkie Goes To China After Weekend Visit With Stalin

MOSCOW, Sept. 28 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie was enroute to China today after a whirlwind visit to the Soviet Union, climaxed by a Kremlin party given in his honor Saturday night by Premier Joseph Stalin.

Carrying a cane made from a tree of Tolstoy's old home, Willkie left by plane yesterday and dispatches from Kulyshyev reported his safe arrival at that provisional Soviet capital.

He wore the same double breasted blue suit which he left the Kremlin party in the early hours of Sunday. The affair, one of the most intimate ever tendered a visiting Allied representative, was attended by Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov, U. S. Ambassador Admiral William H. Standley and British Ambassador Sir Archibald Clark Kerr.

The Soviet press meanwhile gave prominent display to Willkie's Saturday statement advocating a second front.

HITLER IS CONFIDENT BERLIN, (From German Broadcast), Sept. 28 (AP)—Adolf Hitler "emphasized his absolute confidence in victory" in an address today to 12,000 young officers and cadets of the German armed forces in the Berlin Sports Palace, DNB reported in a dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio.

Even If We Weren't At War

In a dispassionate, unvarnished statement of facts, Elmer Davis has made it clear that James Petrillo's ban on musical records is a blow to our war program.

There are some hundreds of radio stations which could not exist without "canned music." The Office of War Information uses these stations as outlets and would miss them if they were closed.

Moreover, our soldiers, sailors, marines and factory workers are obtaining valuable recreation from juke box music in places that could not, by any stretch of the imagination, be suspected of financial ability to hire musicians for personal appearances.

And surely Mr. Petrillo does not expect individual families to hire name orchestras when they feel the urge to bright up the home with a bit of syncopation or a few tunes from the classics.

These arguments have validity and weight, but somehow they do not stir us as much, for example, as the tale of the Mobile shipyard that was closed two days because the workmen objected to paying 5 cents a day ferry toll.

We are perturbed by the strictly non-war aspects of Mr. Petrillo's ban on musical records.

Mr. Petrillo is not fighting employers who have been unfair to laborers or to their union. He's attempting, single-handed, to stop the whole progress of technology.

The complaint of Mr. Petrillo is, frankly, that mechanization, which makes music available to those who otherwise could not have it is throwing union musicians out of work.

Assembly line methods made it possible to make an automobile with much less labor than before. Did that throw men out of work? Not at all. It made more customers for the cheaper, better automobiles, and created enormous new employment.

The same is true of every field of manufacture. Every labor-saving invention has opened up new jobs, made possible higher pay, and given to thousands or millions the ability to have what before had been prohibitively expensive.

That is the whole secret of American prosperity. That is why our workmen get higher pay, have better homes, travel more, eat better, can educate their children.

But Mr. Petrillo is agin' progress. He won't stand for it. He would rather throw thousands of his subjects out of work than see music made available in the American way.

If there weren't a war, Mr. Petrillo still would be wrong.

Courageous McNutt

A bright spot in a sometimes disappointing capital is Paul V. McNutt. There were many who rated the Indian as a political opportunist playing to the grandstands. Obviously these did him less than justice.

When Mr. McNutt took his stand publicly in favor of government control over manpower he joined a select group who are placing the war program ahead of every other consideration. The courage required of Mr. McNutt was greater than with most, he alone of that group has active aspirations for the presidency.

We do not believe that whatever chances the manpower administrator may have had will suffer for his patriotic boldness.

LET THIS GREASED PIG GO (Philadelphia Inquirer)

The hundred scientists and philosophers who have been meeting at Columbia university to discuss means of clarifying the democratic process, or devising a better civilization, or something—the precise objective is puzzling, have adjourned in self-confessed confusion after a five day wrestle with the problem, whatever it is. They say they guess they'll have to call on some "men of affairs" to help them out of their rangle.

The definition of philosophy as "hunting in a dark room for a black cat that isn't there" will immediately occur to the layman, especially after reading the statement of the conference that "the very concept of a pluralistic civilization in which various fields of creative thought are integrally related and yet autonomous is one which is hard to grasp and transmit."

Brothers, you're absolutely right. Such a concept is as difficult to grasp as a greased pig at a county fair. Why not let it go, particularly when the nation has something a bit more important on its mind—such as the war, for instance? As for "men of affairs," they're too busy beating the axis to have time for chasing abstract concepts.

The first job is to save civilization. After that we'll see what we can do about integrating the various fields of creative thought. At the moment the American people are a lot less interested in thought than in action.

WHERE DO WAGES COME FROM?

Labor unionists are invariably contending that labor unions not only materially benefit those in the union but benefit workers outside of the union as well.

In order to determine whether this contention is true, we should learn first what wages really are and where they come from.

The rewards for production are divided among different groups and called different names. The rewards that workers get on a fixed reward are called wages or salaries. The reward that an employer gets for the labor of his decisions and direction is called profits. When his decisions and directions are not beneficial to society, he is fined and has what we call a loss. The rewards that go to capital are called interest and the rewards that go to the landowner are called rents.

Contract Wages Should Be Voluntary. Wages are arrived at by contract and this contract should be made on a voluntary basis without threats or intimidations from either party of the contract. The minute either party threatens or intimidates, they are not voluntary contracts, they are not real wages.

The total of all rewards paid, in order to be permanent, must come from one place and one place only—that is from production. It is true that for a while some workers can get more than they produce, measured on a competitive basis; but when they do, other workers of necessity must get less than they produce.

When Wages Reduce Profits. Unionists who contend that labor unions can raise the standard of living of all workers usually would have the public believe that their extra wages for the same production secured by threats, come from reducing the profits or the rewards that go to the employer. They would have the public believe that there will be just as many entrepreneurs—employers—if the profits of the employer are reduced, or even if a loss is sustained. If this were true and labor unions could raise their wages without raising production by threats, then labor unions could claim that they benefited the working class of people.

But there has never been any proof given that when the profits of the employing class have been reduced by raising wages by collective bargaining threats that this does not either reduce the number of employers or their ability to employ at these forced wages. And when the number of employers are reduced we have less total amount of ingenuity and foresight to direct labor and, thus, add to the wealth of the land. So reducing the profits eventually reduces the employers and the capital that makes it possible for labor to produce more and thus earn more.

And since the rewards for labor of all kinds cannot come out of this air, unless one believes in miracles, than any extra material rewards that collective bargainists can temporarily get, will in the long run reduce the standard of living of the workers as a whole, instead of increase it, as is claimed by labor union advocates. So, since wages come from production and production only, the only possible way of raising the total wages of workers is not by taking it from the employer or out of the air, but by increasing total production. And the more production is increased, the more total wages of all workers will be, whether or not we have labor unions.

If labor unions help increase production, they will help increase the total wages that can be drawn. If they retard the increase of production, as they invariably do, because their whole principle is a scheme of making things scarce, so that certain groups can extort from other groups, then labor unions keep wage levels down, or from increasing as they should increase.

the English constitution to wage war on the English crown.

Nathan Hale rebelled and Nathan Hale was hanged. But he issued from his scaffold no call for the protection of the English soldiers who stood around him.

To plead for the protection of government while seeking to destroy that government is like asking for a police guard while the offender is dynamiting the city hall. It is like asking federal troops to protect him while planting a mine under the national capital.

Rebels have known always that rebellion forfeits the rebel's right to the protection of constituted authority. Heretofore rebels have been brave enough to face the consequences of their deeds. They have known that they forfeited every constitutional right when they planned the overthrow of that constitution.

UNDOING WHAT THE DODOES DID (St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

The dead wood has been pruned from our army well pruned, it is to be hoped—and promotion by seniority has been replaced with promotion by merit, but the ghost of fumbling dodoism still stalks from time to time. Undoubtedly, the acts of the fumble-sabers and dodos will continue to be felt. It was but 15 months ago that Joseph Harsch, formerly Berlin correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, wrote: "I happen to know that reports of some of the most important lessons to be learned from the German army have been held up by officers in control of transmission whose preconceived notions prevent innovations in the German army from being fully aired in Washington."

In such a blind era did military dodos do the damage that affects our course in war right now. There are two classic examples of their deadly work. One is that of Lieut. Col. Truman Smith, who sent in accurate reports on German war preparations that he was accused of being pro-Nazi, was yanked back from Berlin to an obscure post in this country and almost thrown out of the army. The other is that of Col. Phillip R. Faymonville, who, after three tours of duty as an observer in Russia, Siberia, and Japan, sent in glowing but accurate reports from Moscow on the formidability of the Red war machine. He was recalled, discredited, and given humdrum assignments. He stuck to his guns and insisted Russia would halt the Germans if they tried a blitzkrieg on Joseph Stalin. The Russians did halt Hitler. As unobtrusively as possible, the army took Faymonville out of the doghouse, as well as Smith. Whoever the dodos were that took Faymonville from Moscow, took Smith from Berlin and sat on vital messages that other attaches sent—their stupidity must have been appreciated by the axis.

RIDDLE OF THE YEAR

News Behind The News

The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

NORMALCY: The close of the controversial primary period furnishes an opportunity to examine trends among the electorate which may be reflected in the November Congressional and state elections. National politics here are bumping the midnight oil in an attempt to anticipate what will hit them on the third of that month.

The outstanding discovery is that the voters seemed to disregard war issues in their ballot box behavior. Deep dyed noninterventionists were returned in vast instances (Brooks and Day of Illinois, Fish of New York, all Republicans, despite Administration efforts to cut them down. Only about thirty per cent of the eligibles participated in these preliminary tests and this apathy affected Republicans as well as Democrats, although in certain polls, notably California, the G. O. P. rolled up larger totals.

The farm group appears to be returning to the old conservative homestead after running around with the New Deal since 1933. Likewise the Labor people seem to be cooling toward the "ins." James A. Farley's victory in New York, as well as the large protest registration scored in Massachusetts by John P. (Honey) Fitzgerald (D.) against Representative Casey, a White House favorite, indicate that the urban crowd is not so solid for Farley in power as it has been for more than a decade. In short, despite the national and international issues born of the conflict, the United States apparently is heading back to political normalcy.

FEAR: National G. O. P. Chairman "Joe" Martin is not yet ready to assert that he will be the next Speaker of the House. But private—the popular Bay State legislator thinks that Sam Rayburn will have to hand the official limousine to him after the 1st of January. It will be quite welcome, for Joe now rides the crowded busses and trolleys from his residence to Capitol Hill.

It is not generally realized, but a five per cent shift in the vote at the election of fifty minority members in addition to the number the Republicans have now. A ten per cent change will give them a gain of a hundred seats. They need only fifty-two to obtain nominal control of the lower chamber, and they need only a majority of thirty to elect their own speaker. They ought to boost their totals by about sixty. Even if they win only thirty or forty places, the House will be definitely anti-Roosevelt except on the question of a vigorous prosecution of the fight against the Axis and the Germans.

Presidential fear that the larger branch of the Congress will be politically hostile underlies F. D. R.'s strategy of obtaining a revenue bill, an anti-inflation measure and a National War Service Act for mobilizing manpower before the Seventy-seventh Congress dies. But the G. O. P.-ers and conservative Democrats are awake to this consideration and they will probably refuse to enact anything except a law designed to keep down the cost of living.

POCKET: Republican members of the House now wish they had heeded whisperings of the Martin-Ditter group when President Roosevelt forwarded his April message for a measure placing a lid on both farm prices and wages. They had assurances that sufficient Democrats would join them to pass such a control. At that time, with strikes blocking the war effort in many key industries, people were crying for regulations that would step-up production. Threat of a fierce rise in living costs was not so serious or imminent. It seemed the minority had everything to gain and nothing to lose. Had F. D. R. vetoed the proposal, he would have been placed in an embarrassing position. Had he accepted it, the men who forced it on him could have grabbed the glory.

The anti-inflation bill now wanted by the Administration, however, had a hard road to travel. House Banking and Currency Chairman Steagall has several hidden plays in his pocket and he has the support of numerous Senators hitherto friendly to the White House. He will score several victories for the farm bloc before the compromising and trading are finished.

ALLAH: It is not known outside official circles that one of the most fruitful sources of news about the shenanigans of the Germans and Italians in French African colonies is the Arabs of Spanish Morocco and other Franco controlled sections of the Dark Continent. These nomads ride their camels along the coast and spot Nazi U-boats, mysterious visitors to Dakar and other didos. A few gold coins loosen their tongues. Subsequent checkups by United States and British intelligence have confirmed the credibility of the reports.

The Nazis are double-crossing Vichy again. Instead of merely snapping the whip over colonial officials, Axis intriguers are undermining the loyalty of the natives to the Petain regime. They hammer into the ears of the Senegalese that the overlords have lost the war and that hereafter the Fuehrer will be their protector. The motive for this treachery is to prepare the population and the mercenary soldiers for swift submission to the swastika in case the Berlin boss takes over.

American aviators on the African ferry service say that various Moslem tribes have been taught a slogan with which to greet one another. Freely translated it is: "Allah in heaven but Hitler on earth." Those who are familiar with the shenanigans of the Vichy regime fear that Uncle Sam is missing one pro-paganda bet: He should promise to jack up the pensions of the French administrators if they will serve DeGaulle. These minor officers, clerks, engineers etc. are more college bred than their own future liege lords than about international politics. If they could be sure of their jobs they might work for the General rather than for Laval.

QUARREL: One of Wall Street's most confidential—and heretofore reliable—pipelines states that as soon as General Fedor von Bock liquidates Stalingrad he will offer peace terms to the Kremlin. He has Hitler's permission to act in the name of the Reichswehr without waiting for either the approval or the ban of the Nazi Party. This fantastic prediction is not considered an opium dream by many diplomats who have been following recent inside developments.

They say the Teuton army believes the Russians capable of lighting another year. This Muscovite view is the worst families in history this winter but the fatalistic race has survived similar calamities before. It will not perish from hunger as might a nation with a higher living standard. Hence the offer is a smart move for the German viewpoint. Its coming from the generals and not from the Brown Shirts is designed to placate the calm who months ago announced that his quarrel was with the Hitler gang and not with the people of the Vaterland.

A religious revival is developing beyond the Rhine. The number of those attending churches or field services by chaplains is increasing beyond all records. The stable element will merge with the old military class and together may be powerful enough to reorient the course of Germany. Protestant ministers and Catholic priests think and act alike in this particular situation. Those who know about this surge of faith read implications of profound significance in Myron C. Taylor's return to the Vatican as the representative of the United States Government.

WPB-Army 'Row' Is Merely Bit Of Good Teamwork

By PETER EDSON

Appointment of Ferdinand Eberstadt as a vice chairman of the War Production Board with complete power over the flow of raw materials, while cheered by all, is apt to be the subject for more and more discussion in coming weeks.

Because Eberstadt comes to WPB from the chairmanship of the Army and Navy Munitions Board, the first Washington reaction to the switch was that this was a "victory" for WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson. This thought emanates from the bench of Washington sideline experts who have been trying to make the most of a feud between Army and WPB over who is to be the real boss of war production.

The fact that Nelson takes a man from the Army, even though that man be a civilian, is therefore translated into a touchdown for WPB and a shutout for Army. In such manner are Washington feuds supposed to be scored.

Wise guys at the War Department just smile at this particular bit of naive expertise, for the Army brass think they know where the Eberstadt sympathies and interests lie and if anything, the Eberstadt move gives the Army a better first in WPB than it had before.

But all this talk of a feud between Army and WPB is a lot of balderdash anyway, for if this war is to be won on the home front, it will be won by all these water boys carrying the bucket for the same varsity team.

IT'S VERSATILE SQUAD

The fact that a man can be transferred from Army to WPB or vice versa—as in the case of Douglas Macneachan and William H. Harrison, former WPB directors of Purchases and Production, who were given commissions and jobs in the Army—is a healthy indication that this is a versatile squad, where a man can play and or half or wherever he is needed most.

Why the Eberstadt appointment to WPB will cause more future comment will come from reasons other than its relation to any real or imaginary jealousies between the managerial material.

In the first place, this appointment indicates another revision of the priorities system—the four-Purchasing agents and manufacturers of private business who have to wrestle with these government priorities problems can groan as much as they like about that, hoping in the meantime that here, at last, is a man who will give them the answers. First was Stettinius, then Nelson, then Knowlson and Batt with the Production Requirements Plan, and now Eberstadt.

Giving to Ferdinand Eberstadt this Herculean labor of moving mountains of materials which may not be the best thing to do, might light a man who thus far in his Washington career has been able to shun it. The Joint Army and Navy Munitions Board is a fairly secretive organization—small, though with broad powers. A man can do a lot of important work there without ever receiving wide attention.

SERIAL STORY OF BRIGHTNESS GONE BY HOLLY WATTERSON

CANDACE CARRIES ON CHAPTER XVI

SHE moved slowly, heavily, as though unseen weights were dragging at her limbs. Her mind felt heavy, too, and numb. She thought, this isn't really happening. It can't be. I'll wake up presently to find it's just a horrible dream.

With exaggerated care she closed the door behind her. Closing Martin inside, herself outside. Other doors, in their brief time together, had closed between them, but never like this. Oh, never like this, separating them forever.

When she was part way down the stairs she saw the street door open and Peter come in. She could not know that in that dingy hallway she was to Peter everything lovely, a flower springing from mud, the first crocus after winter. He tried to tell her something of that.

He said, "You look like a pansy in that dress. It's the same almost-purple as your eyes. You look like a pansy from my grandmother's garden."

But if he had managed to keep his tone light, his kind young face turned upward to her was white, and grim. And she thought, he knows. He's known all along. That date with them tonight he'd broken, that "emergency call" that had taken him away so that she and Martin might have the apartment alone, that was to give Martin a chance to tell her.

She was a girl who had thrown herself at a man who didn't love her, who didn't want her. And Peter knew. In spite of her numbers, of this dead feeling inside her, shame stung her into hot color; abruptly it was gone, leaving her eyes appearing black in the white of her face, her rouged mouth a crimson wound.

No need trying to put on a show for Peter, she was thinking; and even while she thought it she heard herself trying to fool him into believing things were all right. She murmured something carelessly about Martin having a big head as well as a big day to look forward to tomorrow, and she had advised bed for him and a taxi for herself.

She had forgotten the remark the next instant, and Peter strode beside her; but he was to her less real than the grinning images of the Duchess, of Gates, who had come to mock her. They strode along, too, sometimes sedately alongside, sometimes capering up ahead: "Dumb," "Miss Make-a-Jibe," "severely," "very dumb"; and Gates jeered triumphantly, in a weird chant that set the pace for their steps, "Never chase a man, never chase a man, never chase a man."

She started to run, in a hysterical effort to get away from them, and she tripped and would have fallen but for Peter's hand under her elbow, steadying her. That sobered her a little. The others faded away and there was only Peter's footfall and her own, hollow-sounding in the early morning streets.

BACK at Merrymount, planning on her transfer, she had thought, "Even though I won't be able to be with Martin often it will still be something just to hear his footsteps along a corridor." . . . Well, she'd still be hearing them; only now they would be something from which to shrink. And she knew, suddenly, that she would shrink from Peter's as well, because always from now on he would be bound up for her with the pain and humiliation of this night. . . .

They had given over all pretense of things being as usual. Leaving her at her hotel Peter said, troubled and worried for her, "I have some time off tomorrow. I'll take you home."

Gently, as though she were ill, she thought. Or recently bereaved. Pitying her. "No," she said stiffly. "No, I don't want that."

He thought it wiser not to press the point. "I must talk to you, though," he said. "You'll let me see you? Soon?"

She had forgotten that Peter didn't know that last bitterness. She said dully, wearily, "You could, because I'm going to Good Samaritan, too."

Today's War Analysis

(This column, conducted as daily feature by DeWitt MacKenzie, Wide World war analysis is written during his absence for a few days by Glenn Babb.)

Speculation on Japan's next move begins to eliminate some of the possibilities. The British obviously feel a growing confidence that India can be removed from the list and the Australia is not in immediate danger. General Sir Archibald Wavell who ought to know something about Japanese conquest schedule by now, having directed the joint fight for Malaya and the Dutch East Indies, last winter, puts it picturesquely:

"As to the Japanese, he's got his hands full. He's like a box constructor which army conquest, which army he needs time to digest it in a corner. Japan is not likely to take on a job like the invasion of Australia or India."

The most indigestible part of Japan's goat continues to be, as for five years past, conquest of the Philippines. The Japanese in a few weeks had seized the Oriental possessions of the United States, Britain and the Netherlands, there was a worldwide guessing contest as to the territory Japan would try next to add to her expanding empire, which along with the conquest of the dimensions which neither Japan nor her enemies had believed possible in so short a time.

Then, as in recent weeks, it generally was assumed that the Japanese would try some distant, glittering prize—India, Australia or Siberia. Then, as recently, little attention was paid to the likelihood that the next major effort of the Japanese army would be against China. But so it turned out to be, for since the occupation of Burma, the only large-scale campaign in China's east-central provinces of the Mikado's land forces have been Chekiang and Kiangsi.

Thanks to the steadfastness of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's still ill-equipped infantry divisions which have held on, and to the small United States air forces in China, those operations failed. That has been the Japanese army's big show of the last six months. The Coral Sea, Midway, the Aleutians and the Solomons were primarily naval operations. And the Japanese army cannot be expected to accept the Kiangsi-Chekiang defeat without an early effort to wipe out the stain. Its prestige at home as well as the empire's prestige in the Asiatic world—the "too-prosperity sphere"—calls for action.

For every ship so lost (by U-boats), American production and assembly-line methods will retaliate two-fold.

But there are limits to courage, there ought to be limits to the things one should be forced to endure; and when Faith Hartshorne recognized him and, smiling, started toward them, he blandly turned his back on her. The girl halted, certain that it couldn't have been deliberately done and yet uncertain how to proceed; while she stood hesitating Peter took Candace and Bruce each by an elbow and moved off with them into the crowd.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The chemical warfare division of our armed forces will not be caught napping by our enemies in this branch of modern warfare. One development of chemical warfare is the flame thrower... blistering, devastating destruction.

We must be well supplied with flame throwers since the Nazis and other Axis enemies have used this type of attack against our allies. Your purchase of War Bonds can help buy the necessary supplies of flame throwers used in fighting with fire. AT LEAST TEN PERCENT of your income should go into War Bonds every pay day if we are to adequately finance this global war.

Only Four Freedoms?

President Green of the American Federation of Labor has offered an amendment to the Four Freedoms. It is "the freedom of workers in every land to join free and democratic labor unions of their own choice."

The amendment is a good one. If we are going to guarantee the Four Freedoms to all men everywhere, the right to join labor unions should be included.

Mr. Kaiser, the miracle man of ships, also suggests a fifth freedom—freedom to produce. This, too, seems like a good amendment. In fact, one begins to wonder why President Roosevelt came out in favor of Liberty, Limited.

The four freedoms listed by the President are great and important ones, but they are too many. The concept of liberty itself. There are others equally important.

Omitted is freedom of enterprise, freedom to choose one's occupation, to leave the farm for the city or vice versa, to quit one's job and seek another, to do what one likes to do.

Missing among the Four Freedoms is the right of a man to the fruit of his own toil, the right of a worker to more than the shirk, the beer more than the drone.

Although government, like an insurance company, can alleviate temporary distress, no government can permanently guarantee its people, or the people of distant continents, against want.

When you stop to examine them, every one of the Four Freedoms might be substantially enjoyed in the concentration camp of a fascist state.

U. S. Bombers Raid Balkans

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Sept. 28 (AP)—American-made B-24 bombers, flying from undisclosed bases with bomb loads as great as four tons, have been spreading the message of the United Nations' growing might among the Axis satellites in the Balkans for the past two weeks.

Reliable reports reaching here of Axis movements of troops and war materials across the Balkans recently toward Africa and Russia bring into sharp focus the importance of the Balkan targets.

It is no secret that there were more air raids in the Balkans recently than Russian and British communications accounted for.

NEA Service Staff Correspondent—Well, it looks as though Ingrid Bergman, who replaced Zorina in the second inning of "For Whom the Bell Tolls," is there to stay.

It means that Paramount is not going to shear the hair off any more Hollywood glamor girls to see if they resemble the cropped-topped heroine of the Hemingway novel.

Ordinarily, two glamor girls with a new kind of haircut are enough to start a national custom.

STYLING DOESN'T TAKE—For some reason that is not quite clear, however, Zorina and Bergman have failed to put the Hemingway hairdo across.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

In the square of a little village not far from here I came on the prettiest flower garden you ever saw.

It was a lot of flowers all mixed up—hundreds of different kinds, I guess. So I asked a passerby if he could tell me about it.

"Well," he says, "in this town whenever anybody plants a flower garden and has any seeds left, they scatter them over this plot."

Then he leans over and pulls out a couple of weeds. "We all have to help pull out the weeds, too," he tells me. "That way the village has a flower garden to be proud of."

That's about as pretty an illustration of co-operation as I ever come across. But there's plenty of examples of co-operation and civic spirit these days.

We were talking just yesterday about how the brewers and the beer distributors are working together and co-operating with law enforcement authorities.

You see a lot of friendship and fine old customs have grown up

From where I sit, it looks like a fine idea... a mighty practical example of how honest co-operation works out to the benefit of everyone—the brewers, the beer retailers, and us plain citizens that like our gardens and our pleasures—with the weeds kept out.

Temple-Amarillo Battle Tops High School Race

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Temple's terrific Wildcats meet Amarillo's roaring Sandies this week and the crash will be felt throughout Texas schoolboy football.

This is the top battle of a thrilling round of games sending fourteen unbeaten teams against each other and pitching eight of the sixteen districts into the midst of the championship race.

Temple and Amarillo are members of the dwindling column of undefeated, united outfits that today numbers only 29 after three weeks of play.

The Wildcats beat Austin, the South Texas power, 7-0 last week while Amarillo was rolling as of old in punching Abilene from the ranks with a 19-7 decision.

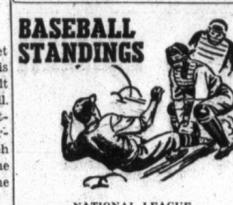

Already state championship talk comes from Temple, the opinion being that the Wildcats have probably more worry inside the district than they will have out of it in Waco's Tigers who haven't been scored on in two victories in which they haven't been defeated but have been tied—Lubbock, Reagan, Stephenville, Weatherford, Corsicana, Jacksonville, Lufkin, Lamar (Houston), Orange, Kerrville, Laredo, Robstown, San Benito and Sweetwater.

In addition to Amarillo, Temple and Waco other undefeated, united teams are: Quanah, Brownfield, Vernon, Wichita Falls, Big Spring, Paris, Sherman, Highland Park (Dallas), Amos Carter Riverside (Fort Worth), Paschal (Fort Worth), Poly (Fort Worth), Sunset (Dallas), Woodrow Wilson (Dallas), Ranger, Stephenville, Weatherford, Corsicana, Jacksonville, Lufkin, Lamar (Houston), Orange, Kerrville, Laredo, Robstown, San Benito and Sweetwater.

This week finds Sherman playing Wichita Falls, Paris meeting Vernon and Kerrville clashing with Laredo while Big Spring, Woodrow Wilson and Robstown meet, teams that haven't been defeated but have been tied—Lubbock, Reagan (Houston) and Edinburg respectively.

The championship race opens in districts 3, 4, 9, 14, 15 and 16 this week and there more concern whether the club would be going into the playoffs or just going home. He said: "We sit around at the winter meetings and talk about what a swell thing it would be to have an eight club race right up to the last minute. But we don't mean it."

Anyway, there's some consolation for Brooklyn fans. The football Dodgers are winning.

Cards May Be Exhausted By Flag Drive

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The shooting and the shouting are over for baseball's 1942 season, and the only thing left for the boys to fight about is whether the St. Louis Cardinals are a tired ball club after their skyrocket ride into the National league pennant, or whether they'll still be hotter-than-foxtrot-dollars against the Yankees in the world series.

The war's first campaign wound up yesterday, with considerable confusion over what baseball can look forward to for the rest of the war, and with the Cards winning both ends of a doubleheader from the Chicago Cubs to knock the Brooklyn Bums out of the National league throne.

Yesterday's twin win marked the 43rd victory the Cards chalked up in their last 52 games to come from far back and take the flag. And, while that's par for the course, pals, no one can be quite sure until the Redbirds' stack up against the Yanks whether that drive took too much out of them to keep up the pace.

On the other hand, the Yanks were just waiting along since they sewed up their sixth American league championship in seven years on Sept. 14 and in their finer yesterday they were nosed out by the Red Sox 7-6 to finish with a nine-game bulge over the Boston. In this taffy-pull, Tex Hughson treated himself to his 22nd victory of the year.

The Yanks go into the series Wednesday as 5 to 9 favorites in the betting, in spite of such St. Louis elbowing as may be offered by Mort Cooper and his sidekicks, among them Ernie White and Johnny Beasley, who turned the trick over the Cards yesterday. It was in the first game, with White searing a five-hitter, that the Cards clinched the flag by winning, 9-2. Beasley took his 21st triumph of the year in the afterpiece, in which the Cards clicked by 4-1.

Incidentally, one note of pessimism for the Cards is that the series is that no fast-ball flinger has beaten the Yanks in a single game of the six series in their current run as baseball's top outfit.

The Dodgers ended their year yesterday with a 4-3 win over the Phillies to run their closing streak to eight straight. This was good for just a loud hoo-hum—and second place in the National league.

The two third-place clubs, the New York Giants and St. Louis Browns wound up the season by taking a day off.

The only change in the standings on the final day saw the Pittsburgh Pirates pummel the Cincinnati Reds twice, to climb over the Cubs into fifth place in the National league. The Reds hold fourth place safely in spite of the double head-to-head.

Cleveland clinched the rear end of the American league's first division by whitewashing Detroit 8-0 behind Jim Bagby's six-hit hurling. There was no other action on the big league front.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—Those cadets from the four pre-flight schools may not yet be able to fly but there's no denying that they are ground gainers of the gridiron.

Victors in all their football games to date, they dominate this weekend's program again, along with such strictly college-age struggles as Notre Dame-Georgia Tech, Pennsylvania-Harvard, Northwestern-Texas, Oregon State-California, Fordham-Tennessee and Alabama-Mississippi State.

The sailor-flyers present a schedule that has the Iowa Seahawks coached by Lieut. Col. Bernie Bierman, tangling with Minnesota at Minneapolis. St. Mary's cadets roaring into UCLA at Los Angeles and the Georgia and North Carolina contingents knocking each other out in a Friday night game at Athens.

The Iowa Seahawks followed their 61 to 0 pasting of Kansas on Sept. 19 with a 20 to 12 thumping Saturday at Northwestern.

Minnesota, where Bierman had numerous national champs before returning to the Marines, prepared for Bernie's "homecoming" by walloping Pittsburgh, 50 to 7.

Georgia's cadets, underdogs to Pennsylvania although the lineup contains a liberal sprinkling of former pros, downed the Quakers, 14 to 6, and the North Carolina Clubsters counted two quick fourth-period touchdowns to blank Harvard, 13 to 0.

St. Mary's Californians had the hardest tussle, needing a last minute field goal by Bob de Lauer to get over Oregon, 10-9.

Notre Dame, slightly de-emphasized by the 7 to 7 deadlock at Wisconsin, may be all the harder for the Georgia Tech Engineers to handle.

The men of Bill Alexander, mainly Eddie Prokop and Clint Castleberry, got in the mood for the South Bend, Ind., visit by squashing Auburn, 15 to 0.

And that loss to the Seahawks might be just the hint for Northwestern in Saturday's fray with Big Texas. The Longhorns worked on Kansas State, 64 to 0, Saturday for their second top-heavy score of the season. A week earlier they downed the Corpus Christi naval air station, 40 to 0.

Fordham spluttered to a 14 to 0 triumph over Purdue on two passes by Steve Filipowicz while Tennessee was held to a scoreless draw by a surprisingly tough South Carolina outfit.

Alabama, 54 to 0 conqueror of Southwest Louisiana Institute, finds out how tough the Southeast conference defending champions from Mississippi State are this year on Saturday. The Star Line Martoons swarmed through Union university, 35 to 2, in their preliminary.

Other games this week send Tulane, a 27 to 13 victor over a slow starting Southern Illinois outfit, against Auburn with the Trojans trying to get back into stride against Washington, which whipped Coach A. A. Stagg's College of the Pacific, 27 to 0.

Louisiana State, which wrecked the theory that Texas and M. was unbeatable this season, takes on another Northwestern foe in Rice.

Bobcats Favored In Lone Star Conference Race

SAN MARCOS, Sept. 28 (AP)—The Southwest Texas State Bobcats can't complain if the critics pick them to win the Lone Star conference championship.

Their record to date indicates Joe Bailey Chevrolet's boys should be given No. 1 rating without further ado.

To begin with the Bobcats opened the season with a 6-0 decision over Howard Payne, perennial champion of the Texas conference. If so happens that Howard Payne beat North Texas State, always a top outfit of the Lone Star conference. And then East Texas State, the team usually battling North Texas for the title, has already taken two beatings.

Sam Houston State, the fourth member of the Lone Star conference (the fifth school, Stephen F. Austin, quit football this season), is also unbeaten, holding a 20-0 victory over Lamar Junior college which also lost to Northwestern, which stumbled before Schreiner Institute.

This week Southwest Texas plays Schreiner and that should give some kind of comparison between the Bobcats and Sam Houston.

This game is scheduled Friday night. Meanwhile Sam Houston plays Southern Louisiana Institute at Natchitoches, La.

Saturday finds North Texas State engaging Hardin-Simmons, conqueror of Baylor of the Southwest conference, while East Texas meets Howard Payne.

It is estimated that there are 4,000,000 physically handicapped men and women who, after proper training, are fitted for certain war jobs.

1942, and Williams is boss of just about every other slugging department as well.

The "loose-as-a-geese" clown fell far off his fantastic 406 mark of last season, but wound up with his second straight American league by 25 points over his teammate and nearest rival, Johnny Pesky. What's more, Williams tagged the home run title, with 36, and the run-batted-in honors, with 137, on his hitting championship.

Southworth Jubilant Over Cards Triumph

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28 (AP)—"Billy-the-Kid" Southworth was so happy today over the achievement of his St. Louis Cardinals in winning the National league championship that the buttons are about ready to pop off his vest. He was immensely proud. He was proud of the team spirit of his players. He praised that spirit with emotion.

"They're simply great," the usually mild-mannered little manager said. "I'm proud of the boys, proud of what they've done, but we still have a big job ahead. We're going to beat those Yanks. I'm confident of it."

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, Sept. 28—The National league race was a thriller, all right, but we wonder if the Cards will be able to get themselves steamed up for the world series by Wednesday. . . . The Yankees, who over the Cards yesterday, are an inevitable letdown when the pennant is clinched, whether it happens on the last day or a month before the season ends. . . . One minor league official hit it right on the head when he was waiting to learn whether his club would be going into the playoffs or just going home. He said: "We sit around at the winter meetings and talk about what a swell thing it would be to have an eight club race right up to the last minute. But we don't mean it."

Anyway, there's some consolation for Brooklyn fans. The football Dodgers are winning.

Precious Pigskin
The Columbia-Fort Monmouth game last Saturday drew only about 6,000 customers, but when the game football was auctioned off between the halves a total of $8,475 in war bond purchases was pledged by the bidders. . . . The winner of the autographed ball was Mrs. Betty Cohen, who "bid" at $3,000 bond.

Monday Matinee
If Leo Durocher leaves the Dodgers for the navy, the guys in line for the Brooklyn manager's job are Chuck Dressen, Bucks Harty and Billy Herman. . . . The fight mob is giving a farewell party for Jimmy Braddock and Joe Gould Wednesday night, giving them time to recover before they enter the army Friday.

Another soon-to-be-soldier, George Edmond, sports editor of The St. Paul Dispatch-Pioneer Press, will be the sixth member of his sports staff to enter the services. . . . Dyke Eddleman, the crack sports III, basketball and high jumper, was given the punting job for the Illinois U. freshmen when they scrimmaged the varsity the other day. His first kick went 73 yards in the air. . . . Nat Fleischer of the ring magazine is back on the job after an operation but couldn't make the trip to New Orleans to present a plaque to the city commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Corbett-Sullivan fight.

Today's Guest Star
Jim Schlemmer, Akron (O.) Beacon Journal: "Last year fans were calling them 'the pennant-winning Dodgers.' This year they are calling them, among other things, 'the pennant dodgers.' Few teams ever have done a better job of dodging a pennant which was practically nailed to the flagpole."

If those navy pre-flight school football teams have any weak spots, they won't have 'em for long. For instance, Fred Varzo, the blocking back from Northwestern who has been playing for the North Carolina Clubbusters during his indoctrination term, is heading for Tex Oliver's St. Mary's Flies and N. N. Langdale, Alabama tackle, is heading for Bear Wolf's Georgia outfit. . . . Angelo high school near Chicago is doing all right by the war. At least 8,000,000 working days can be saved this year if war workers keep fit. That means 14,000 more bombers, 10 dreadnaughts, 33,000 tanks to help us win the war.

Redbird Ace Hurler Ready For Yankees

By GAYLE TALBOT
ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28 (AP)—Without benefit of any pitching from their great man, Mort Cooper, since last Thursday, the Cardinals had the National league pennant stowed away today and were awaiting calmly for their opening clash with the New York Yankees in the World Series starting Wednesday.

The fact the Cards were able to wind it up with a double victory over the Chicago Cubs, 9-2 and 4-1, 1937, was a very significant because it proved the Red Birds won with plenty to spare and would enter the play-off with their ace flinger rested and ready.

St. Louis as a whole appeared to be pretty cool and confident about the impending clash, taking no stock whatsoever in the odds that favor the Yankees to win by 5-9.

Far from being worn out by their terrific effort, the stadium, the Cards planned to hold light workouts at Sportsman's park both today and tomorrow. The Yankees were not due to leave New York until tonight, and so could not arrive until nearly dark tomorrow, too late to have a workout on the series site.

Johnny Beasley's stock as a probable starter for the Cardinals in the series took a big jump when he sat the Cubs down in Sunday's second game. The freshman star allowed only seven hits in capturing his 21st victory as he had won a game only four days previously. It was felt that Manager Billy Southworth went to some pains to keep the kid's arm in top-top shape.

There was no doubt in anyone's mind, of course, that Cooper would pitch the first game for the Cards, as well as the fourth and seventh, providing it went that far.

There was considerable cheer in the fact that Captain Terry Moore, who had been out for a fortnight with a game leg, returned to his cheslerfield post with the Cards in the series took a big jump when he sat the Cubs down in Sunday's second game. Martha Price And Vester Lee Smith To Wed

Wedding Date Revealed At Coffee Given Sunday By Honoree's Mother

Announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Martha, to Vester Lee Smith of McLean, Mrs. W. D. Price entertained with a coffee Sunday morning at home, 521 North Somerville street.

Miss Price will become the bride of Mr. Smith in a ceremony to be solemnized Saturday morning, October 10, at 10 o'clock in the home of her parents.

Guests at the door were Miss Dorothy Burton. In the receiving line Mrs. Price, Mrs. Vester Lee Smith, mother of the bridegroom-elect, Mrs. J. T. Hicks of McLean, sister of the bridegroom-elect, and the bride-elect.

The honoree was attractive in a two-piece ensemble of black crepe with a corsage of red roses.

Decorating the table at which Miss Price was seated was a ring of white mums and carnations arranged on a blue base centered with a miniature bride and bridegroom standing beneath an arch to which wedding bells tied with blue ribbons were attached. Matching arrangements without the wedding party formed the centerpiece on the smaller tables, where a blue and white theme was observed. The names of the betrothed couple and the wedding date were revealed in small individual wedding bells to which split carnations were tied with blue ribbons.

Serving the breakfast were Mrs. Robert Patterson and Miss Harriett Price, sisters of the bride-elect. Another sister, Miss Margaret Price, presided at the registry.

At the table with Miss Price were Mrs. Price, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Hicks, Mrs. W. D. Kelley, and Mrs. C. P. Buckler. Other guests were Mrs. Charles Cook, Mrs. Ben Gull of Amarillo, Mrs. R. G. Allen, Mrs. C. A. Burton, Mrs. A. B. McAfee, Mrs. Bob Tripplehorn, Mrs. Rex Rose, Mrs. Clinton Evans, Mrs. W. T. Price, Miss Jeanette Cole, Miss Dorothy Burton, and Miss Margaret Price.

Miss Price, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Price, was graduated from Pampa High school where she was a member of the pep squad and was chosen the most popular girl in her class. She received a B. S. degree in vocational home economics at Texas Tech college in Lubbock, while attending Texas Tech, she was beauty queen for four years, a member of the D. F. D. social club, president of the Inter-Club Council, and she was recognized last spring in the Women's Recognition service at the college.

Following his graduation from McLean High school, Mr. Smith attended Kemper Military academy at Booneville, Missouri. For the past two years he has been a student at Texas Tech college where he is a senior now. He is president of the Silver Key fraternity and the Men's Inter-Club Council; also he is a member of the Student Council, publications committee, and Saddle Tramps.

Casserole Dishes Demonstrated At Coltexo HD Club

Coltexo Home Demonstration club recently in the home of Mrs. Julius Romines when a demonstration on casseroles was given by Mrs. Romines and Mrs. Betty Shepherd's pie, vegetable casserole, and tamale pie were demonstrated. The shepherd's pie recipe is as follows: 4 cups potatoes, 1 egg, beaten without separating, 3 cups ground, canned meat (lamb, beef, or pork) 1/2 cup bread crumbs, 1/4 cup chopped onions, 1/2 cup diced carrots (cooked in salt water), 1/2 teaspoon salt, and 1/2 cup milk or beef stock.

Lightly grease a baking dish with butter or fat.

Line the baking dish with part of potatoes. Mix beaten egg, meat, bread crumbs, onions, carrots, salt and milk or broth. Put into baking dish. Cover with remainder of potatoes. Bake in a moderate oven 350 degrees, 30 to 40 minutes or until brown.

New members present were Mrs. M. J. Perdue, I. F. Peterson, and A. T. Cobb.

Regular members present were Mrs. M. L. Robert, J. L. Lockard, L. D. Rider, J. E. Willis, and

Visitors Honored At Several Social Events While Here

Mrs. Helen Butterfield and Mrs. Carl Kitchen of Boise, Idaho, who have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cady, have returned to their home after being honored at numerous social affairs during their stay in Pampa.

Coffees complimenting the duo were given by Mrs. Alex Schneider, Mrs. George Rainour, Mrs. Bob Tripplehorn, Mrs. J. R. Wheatley, Mrs. Kenneth Thornton, and Mrs. R. E. McKernan.

As a farewell courtesy to the guests, Mrs. Cady entertained with a luncheon at the Schneider hotel. Mrs. Butterfield is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cady.

Mrs. Lusher Named President Of Clara Hill Class For Year

Clara Hill Sunday School class members of First Methodist church were entertained when Mrs. Glenn Radcliff was hostess in her home.

Following a social hour, the hostess presided over the regular business session in which reports of committees were given and new officers for the ensuing year were elected. They are Mrs. Don Lusher, president; Mrs. C. E. Boswell, vice-president; Mrs. J. W. Crisler, secretary; Mrs. Roy Pearce, treasurer; and Mrs. Walter Dugherty, teacher.

Fall clothing and a birthday for the girl provided for by this class in the Methodist home was discussed.

A vase of roses and an overnight bag were presented by the class to Mrs. Radcliff in appreciation of her work for the past two years. Also a gift was presented to Mrs. J. B. White, who has a leave of absence from the class.

Outgoing officers received gifts from Mrs. Radcliff. They are Mrs. C. F. Walton, vice-president; Mrs. J. C. Payne, secretary; and Mrs. E. P. Hollingshead, treasurer.

A salad plate was served to Mrs. J. B. White, L. C. Lockhart, E. C. Rupp, Roy Pearce, Don Lusher, C. F. Walton, Walter Dugherty, C. E. Boswell, Roy Kilgore and J. C. Payne.

Mildred Kraizer Named Honoree At Linen Shower

Mrs. E. C. Kilpatrick honored Miss Mildred Kraizer, bride-elect of Cadet John H. Hiale, with a linen shower in her home at 1005 E. Fisher, Friday evening.

Miss Kraizer was presented with a corsage of white tube roses and gardenias by the hostess. After registering in the bride's book, which was laid on a table decorated with a lace table cloth over blue paper, and small airplanes encircling a large bouquet of red and white dahlias, each guest was given a slip of paper with "Linen" printed in the left margin. They were asked to write a rhyme with each line beginning with each letter l-i-n-e-n.

The rooms were decorated with red and white dahlias in blue vases carrying out a red, white and blue color scheme. Miniature airplanes were placed around the rooms with a large plane on the mantle.

Refreshments carried out the patriotic color scheme, and plate favors were small airplanes made of blue paper, with "Mildred" written with white ink on one wing and "Johnny" on the other.

Those attending were Mrs. Charles Madeira, Robert Brown,

Dog Saves Boy's Life In Dense Ohio Woods
 McARTHUR, O., Sept. 28 (AP)—Thanks to an alert shepherd dog, Carl McKinnis, 7-year-old county ward, awoke saug in his own bed today after being lost in dense Southern Ohio woods more than 24 hours.

With other boys from the Vinton County Children's home, Carl went out-gathering Saturday. "Brownie," a shepherd owned by a neighbor, romped at his heels.

Carl was not missed until his companions returned to the home. Volunteers scoured the woodlands thru the night and Sunday. Then one encountered "Brownie" as the dog came barking from a thicket. There the rescuer discovered the prone boy—exhausted, hungry and cold.

One-sixth of the nation's boys and girls—about four millions—now ride to school, chiefly in buses. About 93,000 school buses are in daily service.

Same Yankees As Last Year To Play Again

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 (AP)—With one minor exception, the same Yankee infield that chilled Brooklyn's hopes with seven double plays in the '41 world series will be there performing near-miracles again when the first wartime play-offs open a week from today at Sportsman's park in St. Louis.

The lone newcomer to the champions' inner circle is Budet Hasset, the Irish thrush who has replaced Johnny Sturm at first base. While he is not exactly a ball of fire, Hasset is at least as good a first sacker as Sturm, his hitting having shown improvement since he learned to "pull" them to right field.

Incomparable Joe Gordon still holds down second base and three or four acres of adjacent territory; little Phil Rizzuto scampers like a rabbit around the shortfield, and the veteran Red Rolfe at third is in better health than he was a year ago. It is, without much argument, the best infield in baseball and considerably better than that of the Cardinals.

To cover any possible contingencies, it might be noted that the Yankee quartet also is better than Brooklyn's, as it demonstrated conclusively in the '41 series.

Yankee partisans do not go so far as to claim that Gordon is better than he was a year ago, even though his season batting average is nearly 50 points higher. They are perfectly content to say that Joe is "just as good." What they do think, though, is that Rizzuto has taken on a little added polish by having played another season with the flash.

Rolfe was a very sick third baseman during the '41 series and was not able to play a game until mid-season this year, but since then his health has improved slowly and surely and he declares he feels strong enough to hustle right through a seven-game series.

That is the Yank infield—a great one mainly because it includes Gordon, perhaps the most valuable player in baseball. He hit 500 in the '41 series, including a double, a triple and a home run; knocked in five of the Yankees' 16 runs and fielded sensationally.

About the best that can be said for the Cardinals' inner defense is that it numbers a couple of the National league's outstanding stars—Martin (Slats) Marion at short and Jimmy Brown on second. Johnny Hopp, playing his first full season at first, has not lived up to his promise of last year. George Kurovski, a rookie, has played fine ball during the Cards' pennant dash, but he scarcely stacks up for world series purposes against a man of Rolfe's experience.

Marion, after putting on some 20 pounds of needed weight, has developed into a near-sensation at shortstop this year. He would have to be rated at least the equal of Rizzuto in any department, and he has shown more speed and fire lately than the Yank half-pint.

Brown, shifted from third to second when Frank Crespi bogged down in the spring, is perhaps the most valuable all-around infielder

RUSSIANS

In U-boat attacks on a troop and supply convoy enroute from the United States to England.

There was no confirmation, and such German claims in the past have been shown up repeatedly as exaggerations. But it was Germany's first claim of success against a troop-bearing convoy.

The high command claimed destruction of one 19,000-ton vessel, one of 11,000 tons and a third of 11,000 tons. Two others were damaged by torpedoes, the communique said. Eleven submarine sinkings in other parts of the Atlantic also were claimed.

Stalldrag, battling with her back to the Volga, still dominated the War news.

Still fighting from rooftops, windows, street corners and barricades of tumbled rubble, the Russians were reported in Russian dispatches to be holding their own against the air-home forces trying to swamp the defense positions.

Pravda correspondent caught the picture of Stalldrag in one dramatic sentence: "The whole city is in convulsion from the incessant explosions of bombs and shells."

The defense of Stalldrag, more than ever a pivot of Allied strategy, offered heroic parallels to the defense of Leningrad where for more than a year German siege forces have been held off, and actually rolled back from time to time in various places, by a northern Red army.

As at the start of the battle of Stalldrag, the besiegers of Leningrad spoke at first with glib assurance of victory; as at Stalldrag they actually fought their way into the built-up metropolitan area; as at Stalldrag the battle continued under great odds of terrain, with the defenders taking the counter-offensives at the propitious moment.

The parallel, of course, is not complete. The snow and cold of 1941-42 helped save Leningrad; the temperate weather of Stalldrag's latitude will not be such an ally. But as against the German's shorter supply lines to the Leningrad position, the route to Stalldrag on the Volga extends more than 600 miles deeper into Russia and is exposed to Russian attacks.

The dramatically reiterative word that Stalldrag still stands fitted the battle of Stalldrag; the puzzle into an Allied strategy which appeared to be aimed at exacting as much time as possible for the preparation of action against the Germans on another front.

There were coinciding week-end statements by Wendell L. Willkie and General Sir Archibald P. Wavell, Britain's top-drawer strategist who commands British forces in India, which riveted new attention on the battle of Stalldrag.

Russia, Wavell said, would stick it out and British and American troops will fight their way onto the European continent as soon as possible.

Willkie, before leaving Moscow for Chungking, called in forthright fashion for creation of the second front before next summer when, he said, it "might be too late." Allied military leadership, he added, might "some public prodding" and British labor leaders, taking the cue, called for an immediate answer to Willkie by the Churchill government.

Dr. Leake attended the session, his first since succeeding Dr. John W. Spies as head of the Galveston branch.

Judge Orders Enemy Bumped Off At Dollar Per Head
 FT. BRAGG, N. C., Sept. 28 (AP)—Pvt. James Newman of New York, an inductee, was unable to appear in magistrate's court in New York to answer a traffic violation charge, and so informed the court when the summons was forwarded to him here.

He received this letter: "The usual fine in these cases is four dollars. You are hereby directed to knock off four Nazis or Japs at $1 apiece. Best of luck to you. Your case is closed at this court as far as we are concerned. Signed, Wm. Fallon, uptown traffic court, City of New York."

New Berry Commander
 DENISON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Col. Robert W. Warren today was named commanding officer of Berry field, succeeding Col. Donald G. Stitt, transferred to Kansas City, Mo., as commander of an air force storage depot.

In the National league, he is a "ball-players' ball-players" a born scrapper and a terror on the base paths. He has been the heart and spirit of the Cards' terrific last-half drive. But he is not the equal of Gordon, and there's no use pretending.

Junk Dealer Important Link In Nation's Scrap Metal Drive

To quiet a rumor salvage officials consider worse than Axis propaganda, let's consider the case of the junk dealer in the nation's drive for scrap metals.

Many uninformed citizens of Texas have protested against selling their scrap to junk dealers in the belief that the junkman was making a handsome profit out of the war.

"Frankly, I'm worried because so many people refuse to turn in their junk simply because it has to go through a junk dealer," said Lewis C. Huff, executive assistant secretary of the Texas Salvage committee, who will speak at an A. P. I. meeting in Pampa Oct. 13.

"I don't think it is Axis propaganda; it is far more deadly than any propaganda those buzzards could possibly conjure up."

"Either you and I and all the other salvage workers are going to overcome this Prince of Saboteurs or else I shudder to think of the consequences."

The government of the United States isn't in the junk business. Just who would handle, process and ship these mountains of rusty steel and iron to the steel mills if it weren't for the junk dealer?

Huff explained that one half of all the iron and steel being used in building implements of war is scrap junk.

"Still, so many people refuse to turn in their junk because it has to go through a junk dealer. Certainly it has to go through a junk dealer—that's the business."

"If we didn't have them to sort, grade, collect and prepare this junk for the steel making furnaces the war would soon be over for us. Bear in mind that there are over seventy grades of iron and steel scrap, and over one hundred grades and types of metal."

"All of this junk must be carefully and accurately graded and prepared to specifications and then shipped to the mills in carloads in one grade."

"What else but a junk dealer has the knowledge, experience, equipment and ability to perform this very necessary service?"

Does anyone complain about qualified shipbuilders, plane factories or munitions plants doing their essential job? Hardly. The junkman also has his role in this war.

The government has no facilities or organization to salvage scrap metal. The government has authorized and ordered junk dealers to cooperate and pay for such scrap metal.

Experts Believe Rationing Will Halt Oil Deficit

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Government experts believe the deficit between eastern petroleum needs under recurrent rationing plans and the quantity of oil now being supplied that section, can be wiped out by the end of this year.

A well-informed source who declined to be named, said today these experts were confident that a 40 per cent increase in the rail movement of oil into the Atlantic seaboard could be obtained quickly by adopting plans now under consideration for pooling oil industry facilities.

That would mean an increase of more than 300,000 barrels of oil daily, on the basis of Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes' latest report, which showed daily rail movement averaged 856,710 barrels for the week ended Sept. 19.

It also would reduce the gap between the East's estimated daily needs—now placed at approximately 1,400,000 barrels—since heating oil is about to be rationed along with gasoline—and the current movement of 1,000,000 or more barrels, by about 75 per cent.

This remaining deficit of about 100,000 barrels would be turned into a slight safety margin on completion of the 550-mile pipeline from Texas to Illinois, which is designed to free great numbers of Midwest tank cars for use in the East.

Further, government oil men estimated that more than 100,000 barrels daily would be added to the East's supply when various pipeline extensions of a 40 per cent increase in the rail transport of oil were grounded on the contention that handling in full train lots and short hauls could be eliminated by pooling facilities.

Only 5 Merchant Ships Lost Last Week In Atlantic
 (By The Associated Press)
 The announced sinkings of Allied merchant ships in the western Atlantic since Pearl Harbor stood today at 477, according to an Associated Press count, after a week in which only five merchantmen were reported sunk—lowest number over a seven-day period since America declared war.

Sixteen seamen perished in the westerly Atlantic submarine encounters reported last week; 183 others were rescued.

Underwriters credited a reduction in shipping insurance rates to the new and improved methods of convoying and other protective methods including the rapid expansion of the Coast Guard and its escort to ocean convoys. It was the second reduction in a month. The drop in rates was matched for shipments in the Gulf of Mexico by a new premium of $7.50 instead of $10.

Police Department Makes 16 Arrests
 Business apparently is on the boom for the Pampa police department, judging by the number of arrests made over the week-end.

Down on the books were three traffic violations, one case for the county, one case of driving while intoxicated, one charge of assault and 10 charges of intoxication.

Police Chief Ray Dudley said that it seemed almost like old times as the jail filled almost to the point of over-flowing.

2 German Prisoners Break Out Of Camp
 SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 28 (AP)—Two Germans who escaped from an internment camp at Stringtown, Okla., Sunday, were sought in San Antonio and the Southwest today.

The men were identified by the F. B. I. as Herbert Karl Reckeffuss, 34, whose permanent address was given as Acapulco, Guerrero, Mexico, and Heinrich Peter Passenbender, 24, of El Paso.

Agents of the F. B. I. local police, sheriff's offices and all peace officers in Texas and the Southwest were asked to join in the search for the two men, natives of Germany.

Texas Gunning For Wildcats

By RICHARD WEST
 Associated Press Staff
 The Southwest conference seeks national recognition and prestige in four important inter-sectional games this week but there'll also be big doings within the official family with the opening of the championship race.

Fireworks will be the hottest Saturday at Evanston, Ill., and Houston where, respectively, the Texas Longhorns meet Northwestern and the Rice Owls play Louisiana State.

But there'll also be a lot of popping over at Fort Worth where Arkansas and Texas Christian hook up in the conference opener.

Texas, which appears almost as powerful as that 1941 team which was ranked by some as the best in the nation, has been gunning since the start of the season for Northwestern.

Texas' coach, Dana Bible, will tell you that Southwest football is tops. But there are other members of his profession who believe the Midwest is stronger.

In the first two games the steers scored 104 points and blanked the opposition.

Last Saturday they slaughtered the Kansas Aggies 64-0, gaining 306 yards by land and air to only 47 by the Kansas. Jackie Field, who stepped into the graduated Jack Crain's position, alone made 161 yards in the 19 times he carried the ball for Texas.

Rice has a hard-charging line and its fastest backfield in years. But the Owls will have their hands full with L. S. U., who Saturday night staged one of the major upsets in whipping mighty Texas A. and M. at Baton Rouge, 16-7.

Rice the same night beat the Corpus Christi naval team 18-7. The two other inter-sectional games of interest Saturday are Southern Methodist vs. Pittsburgh in Pittsburgh and Baylor vs. Oklahoma A. and M. at Oklahoma City.

S. M. U. was none too impressive in edging by an unusually weak North Texas State team last week, 26-7.

Baylor lost to an inspired Hardin-Simmons team Saturday night in Waco, 13-0. The Bears will have to show more speed and power to defeat the Oklahoma Aggies, who held Oklahoma university to a scoreless tie last Saturday.

Texas Christian's Frogs won their opener last Friday night in Los Angeles, rallying in the last quarter to whip U. C. L. A., 7-6.

Arkansas showed an amazingly-versatile offensive Saturday in defeating tough Wichita university 27-0.

The Texas Aggies—favorites along with Texas to cop the Southwest championship—return to College Station after their battering by L. S. U. and will meet the Texas Tech Red Raiders Saturday.
