

Another of Many Efforts to Amend State Constitution Is Under Way

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press

AUSTIN — In its 100th year of sovereignty and statehood, Texas has had five different constitutions and now a new serious effort to write another has been started.

The Texas Association of Commerce took the first step, with the blessing of Gov. Beauford H. Jester, at a recent meeting here. It hopes to enlist the aid of influential organizations of all sorts in the effort on a statewide basis. The Association of Commerce is a young but thriving and powerful organization. It is a sort of clearing house of activities for the state's three big regional chambers of Commerce.

Plans made by the association at its winter meeting indicate it will not attempt a whirlwind campaign but move solidly and carefully in the direction of legislation to call a constitutional convention to revamp the fundamental document of 1876 completely. It might be ready to press for action at the 53rd session of the Legislature, one year from now.

There have been few legislative sessions since 1883 at which no effort was made to call a constitutional convention. These efforts have died a variety of deaths, ranging from dry rot to outright murder in committee or on the floor of one house or another. The most recent was during the 49th session.

The Constitution which is now the state's fundamental law was written in 1875 and signed by such dominant figures of early statehood as John H. Reagan, Edward Burleson, John H. Brown, Thomas Nugent, William Crawford, I. S. Ross. It was ratified in 1876.

The ink of its finely-written script was hardly dry before Texas started amending it. This process has continued. More than 90 amendments have been adopted, and others are pending for action at the polls now. Five amendments were tacked on between 1876 and 1882.

None of these amendments, incidentally, has ever been actually added to the original document. It may be found in a vault in the secretary of state's office. It is a legal-size black book with brittle paper and somewhat tattered. No legislature has deemed it worthwhile to make any special provision for preserving it.

The 90-plus amendments are recorded, of course, in the original resolutions of submission filed with the secretary of state, as well as in various legal books.

The first Constitution was written in 1876 by a band of dauntless pioneers who conceived the Republic of Texas. It was a trail-blazing document recognizing women as a legal entity, abolishing imprisonment for debt, and giving mankind the homestead law.

When Texas joined the union, Thomas J. Eusk presided over the constitution. This was ratified at the polls and Texas became the 29th state. Another constitution was written in 1866, still another in 1869.

The chief criticisms of the present constitution are that it is outdated and that it has been amended so often that it forms a legal patchwork difficult to understand.

meeting the requirements of the program or don't undertake it at all."

On the question of time, Marshall said, "the sooner this program can get under way the greater its chances of success... unless the program can be placed in operation on or soon after April first, there will undoubtedly be a serious deterioration in some of the basic conditions upon which the whole project is predicated."

In connection with the problem of cost, Marshall gave this reply to whether the American people can bear the costs and make the "sacrifice" he considers necessary to success:

"A world of continuing uneasiness will create demands for constantly mounting expenditure for defense. This program should be viewed as an investment in peace. In those terms, the cost is low."

The "investment in peace" should pay out, Marshall said, by enabling Europeans to restore their war ravaged economies "against the avowed determination of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party to oppose and sabotage" the recovery program "at every turn."

He pictured the alternative to economic recovery as a Western European collapse in which "the historic base of western civilization... will take on a new form in the image of the tyranny that we fought to destroy in Germany."

"Our national security will be seriously threatened," he said. "We shall live in effect in an armed camp, regulated and controlled."

Marshall appealed to his Congressional audience not to attach strings to the aid beyond seeing that the funds and goods are "effectively used to promote recovery and not diverted to other purposes which would 'cover their nature.'"

Critics of the fundamental law of 1876 note that it was a model document for its time, but that times have changed. Texas was then predominantly a rural community. It is rural now, they say, but that phase is just a part of the whole.

The Navy Department said Mrs. Brisker works as a clerk in the petroleum purchases section of its Bureau of Supplies and Accounts and is paid approximately $3,300 a year.

Her name also turned up on a list of "burn traders" yesterday showing that she held 10,000 bushels of wheat on the long side and 5,000 bushels on the short side last June 30.

Brisker, who said he has testified at a closed-door session of the committee, identified as his sister-in-law a Mrs. Sarah Brisker whose name appeared on the list of wheat futures traders.

Chairman Ferguson (R-Mich.) declined to discuss the nature of the testimony Brisker and his wife had been called upon to give, or to say whether they would be called in the open hearings slated to resume Friday.

Leading Texas Baptists Well Pleased With Baylor President

WACO — Dr. William Richardson White, Southern Baptist leader and pastor, on Feb. 1 will become the 10th president of Baylor University at Waco.

He succeeds former Texas Governor Pat M. Neff, who retired Dec. 31.

Dr. White, now pastor of the First Baptist Church at Austin, was unanimously elected to succeed Neff Saturday at a meeting of 29 of the Baylor board's 36 members. He accepted the presidency in a telegram yesterday to Dr. W. W. Melton, president of the Baylor board.

"I feel so unworthy of such an honor and sacred trust," the 56-year-old educator and minister said in his reply to the board's offer. "To carry such a responsibility, to succeed such a group of notable administrators as cluster about the name of Baylor University will necessitate the usual cooperation of trustees, faculty, student body and administration."

In happy anticipation of that reality and having been led as I believe by our common Lord, I now accept the presidency of Baylor University to become effective Feb. 1, 1948.

After the board announced that Dr. White had been named as president, Neff said the trustees had made a "wise selection."

In Dallas, Charles R. Moore, chairman of the Dallas executive of the Baylor board, said that Dr. White would take over the presidency "in the prime of life and exceptionally equipped for the job."

Dr. W. A. Criswell, board member and pastor of the First Baptist Church of Dallas, said: "Dr. White has the love and confidence of all the Baylor constituency of Texas as few men have ever commanded it. He will make a great president."

Dr. W. T. Gooch, head of the Baylor Chemistry Department and chairman of the graduate council, is interim president of the school. Dr. White said that for the next three months he would leave the university's administration to Dr. Gooch and Dr. Monroe Carroll, dean.

The new president said he hoped to advance the institution scholastically and make it "more potent otherwise he would announce specific policies or plans to announce."

Dr. White, born on an East Texas farm, was educated in Texas Baptist colleges. He has served the Baptist denomination in Texas in practically every available position of leadership and has been a member of many of the denomination's south-wide boards and committees.

For more than 30 years he has been connected with Baptist educational institutions as a teacher, president, or board member. He was a former president of Harding-Summons University at Abilene. He had been pastor of the Austin church since 1944. Before that he was editorial secretary of the Baptist Sunday School Board in Nashville, Tenn.

At the Texas Capitol, Dr. White became the unofficial spokesman for Texas Baptists in legislative matters. He played a leading role in the defeat of a bill to legalize pari-mutual betting at horse race tracks during the 50th Legislature.

Dr. White is an ardent dry and a frequent speaker before Baptist meetings on civic righteousness.

'Vandals of the Night' Gives realistic Description of Filth in Food Handling

C. R. Breedlove's lecture, movies and slides became so realistic and vivid in yesterday's session of the food handlers' school being held daily this week at the Palm-Room of City Hall that at least one woman was seen to leave the room.

"I want it to make you sick," Breedlove said, in describing conditions of filth and disease as a result of the growth of rats, houseflies and cockroaches. He complimented the class for staying with him during the session. "This is the roughest day we have," he said.

Today's sessions, at 9 a. m. and 2:30 p. m., are concerned with washing and sterilizing dishes and the handling of dishes before they are placed before the diner.

The first film shown yesterday was "Vandals of the Night," in which it was emphasized that although the rat was responsible for an economic loss of hundreds of millions of dollars annually, far more serious was the rat's role in the spread of deadly diseases.

Although the rat wastes feed and grain, stock in dry goods and groceries, causes fires by gnawing insulation and spoils food, the rat is far more dangerous in spreading trichinosis, bubonic plague, typhus fever, dysentery and similar diseases.

"A rat-free community is the only protection," Breedlove declared. "There are no more 'pied pipers'." Breedlove said if everyone in Pampa really wanted to work on the project, all the rats in town would be eliminated in six months.

Some suggestions offered were:

1. Rat-proof the building.
2. Eliminate feeding and breeding places.
3. Exterminate rats present.

The need for vigilance even with a rat-proofed place was illustrated with a case where two rats entered a rat-proofed building in a load of coal. In three or four months 60 rats were found in the building.

A film on the housefly illustrated how the fly spreads disease, first crawling over garbage and filth, then over food; and by deposited disease and filth from the fly's stomach on the food.

In all discussions of the rat, housefly and cockroach, Breedlove emphasized the necessity of cleaning up breeding and feeding places. Open garbage pails, open toilets, manure, any moist place with some type food offer ideal conditions for the fly and cockroach. He said the cockroach carries many types of disease germs, both on and inside its body.

Attendance at the school, sponsored locally by the Lions Club and conducted by the State and City Health Departments, grows daily as word spreads of the quality of material presented in the films and lectures.

Services Held for Mrs. Sarah Grewell

Funeral services for Sarah Alice Grewell, 78, were held this morning at 10 from the Clegg Funeral Chapel, with Rev. B. A. Norris, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiating.

Mrs. Grewell, a resident of Pampa for four years, died last night at 6:15 in a local hospital, following a stroke which she suffered at her home at 519 S. Russell last Saturday morning. She was found on the floor at her home, and she was rushed to a hospital, but she was conscious very little after the stroke.

She came to Pampa from Paducah. She was a member of the Christian Church.

Interment is being held this afternoon at Paducah, where she is being buried by the side of her late husband.

Survivors are one daughter, Mrs. Jarvis Johnson of Pampa; five sons, Mark of Pampa, Mason of Odessa, Bain of Ozono, Charlie of Paducah, and Jim of Duncan, Okla.; one sister, Mrs. Lewis Anderson of Royce City, Texas; 14 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Writer Believes That Religion Can't Be Killed

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Religious people of Russia celebrated Christmas yesterday—just "being" December 25 according to the calendar of the Orthodox Eastern Church—and throughout the vast union ruled by atheistic communism the churches were crowded with worshippers.

Now that's both interesting and important, because it provides further striking evidence that belief in God cannot be stifled.

Go where you will and even among the natives of the African jungles you will find an almost universal belief in some sort of god.

Ever since the Bolsheviks came to power in Russia they have sought to wipe out religion on the ground that it is the dope of the masses. During the first score years after the revolution of 1917 there was heavy anti-religious propaganda sponsored by the government. Many thousands of churches were destroyed and other thousands were converted to diffused, systematic religious instruction of the young was prohibited and theological schools were closed.

However, in 1943 it was announced that Premier Stalin had approved plans for the reestablishment of all the early rights and privileges of the Russian Orthodox Church. It isn't clear just what developments have followed, but news dispatches from Moscow do tell us that this Christmas was widely observed in religious services.

This doesn't mean by a long shot that communism's efforts to kill religion have slackened, but merely that another line is being pursued. Perhaps the Reds are following a policy which was indicated by one of America's leading Communists in an address to the students of a theological seminary in the "Time of the Moscow announcement. The speaker said in substance:

"The Communist Party doesn't bar anyone from membership because he is religious. However, it is best that you shouldn't labor under any religious illusions. You may be sure that once you have joined the party we shall do everything in our power to take you away from religion as being delimental to progress."

So the Bolshevik battle against religion continues, although thus far there has been little evidence that it is meeting with great success.

Despite the efforts of Hitlerism and Bolshevism to destroy religion, I don't believe it can be done. Belief in God strikes me as being pretty well inherent to mankind, despite the relatively few deserters.

And unless religion can be destroyed, communism as practiced by Bolshevist Russia can't succeed, because totalitarianism and religion are incompatible.

If Europe fails to recover, the peoples of the continent might be driven to surrender their basic rights to totalitarian controls. This might well bring about a change in the American way of life.

—President Truman.

We must not conjure up imaginary ghosts when so many real specters are at large in the world today.

—Secretary of State Marshall criticizing the misuse of propaganda.

Thad's Feet Hurt

After a long, hard day's work on the farm, Thad's idea of how to spend an evening is to take off his shoes, and relax with a mellow glass of beer.

But his missus has other ideas. After being in the house all day, she's all for walking to the village, if it's only for a soda. Likes to see people, catch the latest gossip. But Thad says, no, his feet hurt! Begins to cause unpleasantness in Thad's home.

Then Bill Webster comes up with an idea. If Thad takes the missus to Andy's Garden Tavern, Thad can relax with his glass of beer, and the missus can also chat with all the neighbors there. Each gets his (or her) own way.

Worked, top! In fact, now the missus likes an occasional temperate glass of beer herself. And Thad finds it's pleasanter to enjoy his beer with good companions, rather than alone. In fact, his feet stopped hurting too!

Hawaii Fighting Communism As Main Bar to Statehood

HONOLULU. (NEA) — If Hawaii fails to become the 49th state next year, communism will be one of the chief reasons. Communist activity here has caught the attention of visiting congressmen.

Senator Patrick McCarran told islanders that they must oust the Communists before they could expect favorable Congressional action on the pending statehood bill.

Reps. Earl Wilson (R-Iowa) and Roy Clippinger (R-Ill.) of the House Public Works Committee, on a trip to inspect roads and harbors here, said they would vote against statehood if they had the opportunity again. They previously had voted for Hawaiian statehood in the last session of Congress.

Governor Steinback: He battles Reds, the CIO battles him. He is the only Republican in the House of Representatives from Hawaii.

For the past year, Hawaii's Gov. Ingram M. Steinback has been leading the fight to expose island Reds. He has quoted from Red documents that the Communist Party planned first to attack the Hawaii National Guard by disarming its units and then to campaign against teaching Christianity in the territory's public schools. Evidence shows that the party already has started this.

Steinback said the Communists next steps will be to create friction between various religious sects and to campaign against the school ROTC units.

Unprecedented Birth Rate Noted in 1947

NEW YORK, N. Y. — The natural increase in population in the United States set a new record in 1947. According to the statistics of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., who estimate that more than 2,400,000 were added to the population in the past year, through the excess of births over deaths. "The record for 1947 was so extraordinary that it may never again be equaled," the statisticians say. The number of babies born during the year reached the unprecedented high figure of about 3,900,000, which is more than 400,000 above the previous record established in 1946. The record-breaking crop of babies is attributed by the statisticians to the remaining of families broken by the war and to high postwar marriage rates.

"The 1947 birth rate, a little more than 27 per 1,000 of population, is the highest in at least 25 years," the statisticians note, "and is 50 percent above the figure for 1933, when the birth rate dropped to the lowest level in our history."

Infant mortality established a new minimum in 1947 with a rate of about 32 per 1,000 live births, a decrease of more than 10 percent from the previous year.

the Democratic Party well enough. Hall's own union, which is headed by Harry Bridges, was attacked recently in a pamphlet written by an islander of Japanese ancestry who described himself as a former Communist. In the pamphlet, "The Truth About Communism in Hawaii," he accused the Hawaiian ILWU as Communists. He also included the names of two school teachers in Honolulu schools.

Russian Spy Film to Avoid All U. S.-Soviet Relations

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD. (AP) — The film story of Russian espionage in Canada, "The Iron Curtain," will be treated merely as a spy yarn, and won't deal with American-Soviet relations.

This information comes from the set of the picture, which is being rushed to hit the nation's screens as early as April. International disagreements will be avoided in the film, although there will be mention of the Communist propaganda line.

Dana Andrews tells of meeting Igor Guzenko, whom the actor portrays in the film. When Dana was on location in Ottawa, he was escorted by the Royal Canadian Police to a hideaway address. There he had a two-hour conversation in a small room with the former Russian Embassy clerk whose information led to the Canadian spy trials.

Cornel Wilde is still searching frantically for a play. Reports that he had found one were premature. He has six months off from films and is eager to face the footlights again.

Victor Mature may join Gene Tierney in "Symphony." Preston Sturges' first film is too long. Robert Coote joins Van Heflin as the second musketeer in MGM's Dumas classic. The actor, who appeared in "The Exile," will play Aramis.

Linda Darnell is aiming for a pilot's license and has already soloed several hours. Director John Huston plans to take "Moby Dick" with him when he leaves Warner. He hopes to star Bogart in it.

Humphrey Bogart says he has not yet received a telegram cancelling his invitation to the celebrated Bob Topping-Lana Turner party at the Mocoambo. Says Bogie: "The party is still on as far as I'm concerned. I'm going to show up anyway, have a ball for myself and charge the bill to Topping."

More glances from the gallery at Texas' colorful Congressional delegation swinging into action at Washington today.

Wright Patman of Texas—champion today of the co-operators of the oil business. And then plunging for Daingerfield steel. Gets angry, very angry, when somebody castigates the Communists and does not mention the Fascists.

Lindley Beckworth of Gilmer—friendly as a shepherd dog, say other members of the House. One of the letter-writing champs. Beats the bushes in election year, and off-years, too. A vote-getting demon.

George Mahon of Colorado City—tall, boyish and lank. A Sunday school teacher, he'll tell you quickly. A member of the important Appropriations Committee.

Eugene Worley of Shamrock—handsome, easy-going. Likes his golf. One of the more popular members of Congress. Is growing in stature in Congress and attends to his business.

John E. Lyle of Corpus Christi—not the biggest man in the delegation, but not the smallest either. Working hard at the job. A little distant. Serves good coffee in his office.

Tom Pickett of Palestine—rode an enviable record as district attorney into Congress. Typically Texan. Thoroughly Democratic and one of the more competent members of the delegation.

Milton West of Brownsville—loves chili, tortillas and the Rio Grande Valley. Tall, lanky, hard-bitten. Votes Republican more than any other member of the House from Texas, but he rallies the other Texans around him when he needs votes for a Rio Grande project. Respected by his colleagues.

O. Clark Fisher of San Angelo—nearly killed in an auto accident about 36 months ago. Works hard for the wool-growers and took delight in badgering John L. Lewis at investigation of coal strike a year ago. Tense and earnest. Will loosen up over a coffee cup.

Paul Kilday of San Antonio—One brother is a Catholic priest, another a law officer. Combines dignity with jollity. An able lawyer, his chief interests now are getting more military installations for San Antonio and watching his political enemy, Maury Maverick, who shows signs of wanting Kilday's job, which he once held. Kilday likes to give imitations of Winston Churchill when the party begins to drag.

'Twas Said With Flowers—at a Price

DALLAS. (AP) — A pickpocket said it with flowers, and a carpenter, out $103, complained to police.

The carpenter said a chrysanthemum salesman accosted him on a street here, delivered a fast sales spiel, snatched him on the back a couple of times and walked off.

He didn't make a sale, the carpenter told police, but he did make off with his wallet, including the cash and a union card.

Coaches Doubtful Over Sanity Code

NEW YORK—P—The NCAA's "sanity code" starts through the final mill today with athletic chieftains freely predicting its approval but many of them foresee failure in the accomplishment of its aims.

"You can't enforce it," one eminent coach said. "Many will go for the code while figuring ways to beat it." Such expressions as "just a cape of paper" and "rules without teeth" were bandied about in the National Collegiate Athletic Association's annual meeting prepared to dig into the code today.

The code, a group of proposed institutional amendments designed to curb athletic subsidization, will be placed before the entire NCAA membership Saturday. Institutions are to meet only after and no organized resistance.

Representatives of the Southwest and Southern conferences where the loudest protests were expected, said last night they expected the new standard of conduct to be approved without trouble.

But many of them were cynical, asserting it would do little to purify college athletics. "I am sure you still see a lot of poor boys going to college because they are good halfbacks," commented coach Carl Snively of North Carolina.

Dana X. Bible, athletic director of the University of Texas was one of the more optimistic. "I am sure a set of standards will be worked out this week end that will be satisfactory to everybody," he predicted.

The code has been liberalized somewhat since it was first presented to the NCAA a year ago. It permits grants to athletes under certain conditions and allows institutions to contact players as long as they keep their sales within catalogued bounds.

The NCAA plan calls for enforcement through special committees which investigate complaints and take measures against offending members.

In the major meeting yesterday the rules committee of the American Football Coaches Association decided the football game is fine as it is and recommended no major changes.

The group headed by coach Lou Little of Columbia, suggested two minor alterations in rules: (1) After a second successive out of bounds kickoff, the ball goes to the receiving team ten yards in front of the kick instead of on the kicker's 40. (2) When a player is injured after the fourth time out in a half, only the injured player can be substituted for a certain period.

These recommendations were approved by the NCAA. (1) The National Collegiate Track Coaches Association recommended that a straight Olympic program be adopted for the 1948 NCAA meet at Minneapolis June 18-19 and the staged under the Olympic system.

The American Association of College Baseball Coaches voted to join the NCAA to recognize their association as the only organization to promote U. S. baseball participation in the Olympics and to ask that the sport be placed on the 1952 Olympic program.

Ford Frick, national league president told the baseball coaches the proposed major-league agreement which would forbid the signing of college players to pro contracts is unsatisfactory in its present form. He said the plan isn't a good one because colleges don't have a standard form of eligibility.

Blackwell Signs Reds' '48 Contract
CINCINNATI—Ew e 11
Blackwell, the whipcracked right-hander who put together the 18 straight wins including a no-hitter in winning 22 and losing eight games for the Cincinnati Reds last season, today was under contract for the 1948 campaign, at a salary that may exceed $25,000.

Reds' President Warren Giles announced yesterday that the limit on the total base-pitcher from San Dimas, Calif., had accepted terms.

One source close to the club's backstagers and players guessed Blackwell's new salary at $25,000. Another said $27,000.

Pro Baseball Reaches All-Time High in Texas With 7 Leagues

DALLAS—(AP)—Texas will have seen professional baseball leagues with 57 and possibly 38 clubs next season—the all-time high for the state.

Still another league that operated last year has been formed, the La-Tex, a class D circuit made up of six Texas and Louisiana cities. The Longhorn League class D loop that started up last year, plans to expand from six to eight clubs but is having trouble getting there. At this time the Longhorn League has seven members but will drop back to six unless an eighth club is obtained.

Texas will have every classification of baseball from class D to class AA. This was the year the baseball leaders thought the state would become the nation's leader in total clubs but North Carolina, the only state to eclipse Texas last year, held the pace. That state will have at least 40 clubs in seven leagues next spring and may have still another circuit. Efforts are being made to form the Central Carolina League but the number of clubs has not been determined.

Here is the Texas professional league roster for 1948:
Texas League (class AA) — Houston, San Antonio, Dallas, Beaumont and Fort Worth (Tulsa and Oklahoma City, Okla., and Shreveport, La., other members).
Big State League (class B) — Wichita Falls, Paris, Sherman, Denison, Texarkana, Austin, Waco, Greenville, Gainesville.
Long Star League (class C) — Longview, Marshall, Jacksonville, Henderson, Byram, Kilgore, Lufkin.
West Texas New Mexico League (class C) — Amarillo, Lubbock, Pampa, Lamesa, Abilene (Abilene and Clovis, N. M., other members).
Arizona-Texas League (class C) — El Paso only Texas member. Other members—Phoenix, Tucson, Globe/Miami, Douglas, Bisbee, Ariz. and possibly Juarez, Mexico.
Longhorn League (class D) — Big Spring, Sweetwater, Ballinger, Odessa, Midland, Vernon, Angelo (Aitua, Okla., probable eighth member but if no eighth club obtained San Angelo to drop out).
La-Tex League (class D) — Port Arthur, Orange and Galveston, Tex.; Lake Charles, Crowley and Opelousas, La.

Mustangs Win Loop Opener Over Frogs
By the Associated Press
The Southern Methodist Mustangs opened their campaign in the Southwest Conference basketball race last night (Wednesday) with a 62-58 victory over the Texas Christian Horned Frogs. Rice and Texas had opened the conference season Monday night when the Longhorns came from behind to down the Owls 59-44 Arkansas and Texas A & M will begin a two-game series at College Station tomorrow (Friday). Saturday Baylor will challenge SMU at Dallas.

Harvesters Play in Childress Cage Tourney Friday
The Pampa High School Harvesters basketball quintet opens its first round of play tomorrow morning in the Childress Invitational Basketball Tournament when they meet the Electra Tigers at 11 o'clock.

Le-Tex League (class D) — Port Arthur, Orange and Galveston, Tex.; Lake Charles, Crowley and Opelousas, La.

However, competition in this tournament should prove to be much rougher than that of the Spearman meet and the Harvesters should face their first real test of the season.

Teams entered in the tournament are Pampa, Electra, Graham, Nocona, Carey, Estelline, Wellington, Memphis, Childress, Quanah, Wichita Falls, Borger, Vernon, Iowa Park, Paducah, and Phillips.

Bowling Tournament Draws Record Entries
CHICAGO—(AP)—Two of bowling's richest events—with total prizes of $60,000—have drawn a record entry of 2,550, including most of the nation's top-ranking shooters.

The first portion of the big money event—the Louis P. Petersen individual classic, an eight-game test—will get under way Saturday. The classic, drawing bowlers from 180 cities, will offer more than 500 cash prizes totaling a new high of $64,000.

Petersen's 2-in-1 singles meet opening Jan. 24 will bring his total prize distribution to approximately $90,000. He also will conduct his special post-tournament test of four games involving the first four finishers in the classic.

We want a democratic Germany but not a bogus democracy where a few men exercise tyrannical powers to bend the people to their ends.
—Ernest Bevin, British Foreign Minister.

Ex-Navy Stars Called to Study Sports Situation

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—(AP)—The Navy, which has watched its middle football team founder in the doldrums for the last two seasons, has called in a group of star athletes of other years to look over the whole sports situation of their old school.

The word is that the eight-member panel convened this week by Rear Adm. James L. Holloway, Jr., academy superintendent, will spend most of its time going into the pros and cons of the Navy policy of periodically assigning officers to a tour of duty at Annapolis as football coaches.

The system has been under criticism for some months, and the question was pushed into the open recently by Adm. Jonas Ingram (ret.), former academy director of athletics.

Ingram, now head of the All-America Professional Football Conference, said that under the present-day competitive setup a graduate coaching system doesn't work.

He recommended the Navy retire Capt. Tom Hamilton, now coach at Annapolis, and rehire him as a civilian coach.

Training Guide

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of six guides prepared as an aid to young boxers anticipating boxing in the Pampa News Junior Chamber of Commerce sponsored District Golden Gloves Tournament to be held at the Sportorium, Jan. 19-21.)

SPECIALIZED TRAINING
Use of pulley weights, rope-skipping, punching of the light and heavy bags, shadow-boxing and actual boxing itself make up specialized training.

The best way to learn how to box is by boxing. Be serious when boxing during the training period. Don't loaf and don't clown. Work toward perfection of form and over coming of weaknesses. Box with various types of opponents—taller, heavier, shorter, and faster.

Timing and judgement of distance thus will be developed. Box according to a set number of rounds, resting a minute between each. Remember that Golden Gloves bouts are for three rounds—two minutes of fighting each and one minute of rest between rounds.

Use of pulley weights is good for a good warm-up period. This exercise loosens arm and back muscles.

Rope skipping is good for feet, ankles and legs and develops endurance.

Light bag punching should be done only a few minutes of the workout. Overdoing here develops bad hitting habits.

Heavy bag punching is valuable in learning since it develops hitting power and strengthens hands, wrists and arms. It should be avoided in later stages of training because of danger toward

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
NEW YORK—(AP)—The reason the coaches football rules committee voted a slight change in the free substitution rule in the case of players injured after a team had used up its time outs was, of course, that a lot of the coaches were cheating a bit with faked injuries. . . and that prompted a cynical baseball coach to remark "well, aren't all rules made to be broken?"

SERIOUS BUSINESS
While a mob of football men, and others, were waxing convivial at one of yesterday's social events, Bob Woodruff, Baylor coach, looked them over and drawled: "Look at all those football coaches here, laughing, shaking hands and being the best of friends. And if a good left halfback walked in, there'd be the goad dandiest fight you ever saw."

One-Minute Sports Page
Keeping up with the lobby rumors at the NCAA sessions, Howie Odell, who had been mentioned for almost every vacant job, has talked with Washington and West Virginia representatives but hasn't made any move to leave Yale. He's just a willing listener. . . Add Frank Leaky rumors: That he's interested in a pro club with the idea of buying enough stock so that he wouldn't be fired as coach after a poor season. . . The thought behind the Bears' trading their pro draft rights on Ray Evans for Bobby Layne, regarded as strictly a passer, is that Layne is 22 years old and Evans 24, play many pro seasons.

League Approves Purchase of Waco Club by Pirates

DALLAS—(AP)—Club owners and representatives of the Big State League have approved the purchase of the Waco club by the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League.

At a meeting here yesterday, Greenville opposed the purchase in the open meeting but after the session changed the vote to make it unanimous.

Greenville vice president J. I. Holderness protested the move on the grounds that it was "chain store baseball."

The new club will train in Waco, A. H. Kirksey, vice president of the club last year, said. He said a field manager would be named soon.

Any league member except Austin was represented at the meeting. The next meeting of the league will be Feb. 8 at Texarkana.

No Help Is Offered for Godfathers

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Child guidance experts never bother to give advice to the people who need it most—godfathers.

Their books on the care and feeding of ordinary children have more rules than a modern landlord's lease. But they are all written for parents—the people who have children. You can find therein how to burp junior, how to decide whether he has colic or cigarette cough, or how to tell him about the stock and who brings Santa Claus.

But a man will scan them in vain for slightest hint on how to get along with his godchild. This is unfair and undemocratic and discriminates against a large and little appreciated class. Few people give much thought to the matter, but actually there are probably more godfathers in America than there are fathers.

Take a family with four children, for example. They all have the same father—unless mama took a trip to Reno along the way—but each has a different godfather, four in all.

You'd think that with the adult population simply crawling with godfathers someone would write a book for them. But no! Their duties, privileges and responsibilities are usually kissed off vaguely by the proud father in this manner:

"You're little Junior's godfather. I know that or anything happens to me you'll watch over him until he can stand on his own feet."

Outside of that pleasant prospect, the godfather has no more work to do than a stand-in for a cigar store wooden Indian.

Some time ago a friend announced he wanted me to be godfather to his son. I accepted gratefully. I like kids but I am still battling .000 in the paternity league myself, so I thought this would enable me to have some of the joys of child-raising by proxy.

Well, I went over one day and my friend formally introduced me to my squirming godson: "See the nice man, Terry. He's your godfather. If anything happens to daddy, the nice man will send you through college."

The infant took one look at me and let out a yell as if I had scalped him. He wept and screamed and red in the face, and everytime I ever glanced his way he broke out in wild calls of terror.

That was a year ago. Every month or so I drop by to visit him. The same thing happens everytime. He sees "that nice man" and immediately erupts in a wailing Niagara of tears.

At the age of fourteen months he has only one word of greeting for me: "Ugh!"

I get along famously with every other kid in the neighborhood. They even drop by sometimes to share their used bubble gum.

The only thing I can figure out is that the child is allergic to higher education.

Tomorrow I'm going around to see him and say: "Terry, I don't care what happens to your daddy I'm not going to make you go to college. I'll get you a job racking up balls in a poolroom, kid."

MYSTIC BURMA REGAINS ITS INDEPENDENCE

After 2000 turbulent years, marked by incipient warfare between petty Burmese monarchs, Burma came under British control following the three bloody Burmese wars. These struggles, ending in 1886, conquered the fabulous land of jungles, pagodas and elephants.

Burma's fight for freedom entered its final stage when the Japanese were driven out. Bewildered natives told of the Japs' cruelties during the occupation. The British government invited Burmese leaders to a conference early in 1947, and independence plans were made.

The mystic land of Burma, which suddenly shot into world importance during World War II, has become the first of Great Britain's possessions to leave the British Commonwealth. While India and Pakistan assumed dominion status, the new Republic of the Union of Burma is a completely independent nation.

Ruled by a succession of governors, Burma became a province of India in 1823. This infuriated the Burmese, who consider themselves entirely different from the Indians. They are more Mongolian in appearance, have different customs, and no caste system. Their nationalist spirit, long dormant, sprang to the surface. There were some riots, but mostly a policy of non-co-operation prevailed. Britain acceded to their wishes in 1937, by constituting Burma a separate crown province, governed by its own constitution and legislature, with a British governor.

Burma, though it differs from occidental nations in many things, has one point in common. It has political squabbles. However, Burma's politics frequently flare into violence. It had long been the custom for Burmese kings to massacre any pretenders to the throne. In July, 1947, U Saw, left, a leader of Burma's opposition Myithee Party, was arrested after jeep-riding gunmen killed the country's interim premier, U Aung San, right, and six cabinet members. U Saw is under sentence of death with his henchmen. Aung San had led the strong Anti-Fascist People's Freedom League.

With the coming of World War II, Burma became a mighty battleground. Its strategic location, traversed by the Burma and Ledo roads, made Burma a land of bombed bridges and burning pagodas. The Japs set up a puppet government, but many Burmese fought with the Allies to world peace.

Burma's location in the resurgence is strategic. Its natural resources are many. It is one of the few countries in the Orient that is under-populated and under-developed agriculturally. But head-hunters and wild animals still inhabit the thick jungles of upper Burma.

Rep. Teague, of Texas, Gives Account of Greek Conditions

By TEX EASLEY

AP Special Washington Service WASHINGTON (AP)—Report on his brush with mortar-firing bandits on the Greek border, Rep. Olin E. (Tiger) Teague of Greece Station, Texas, wrote from College that he learned he can still hit for a foxhole "in a hurry."

The congressman speaks from considerable experience. As an Army colonel, he was wounded six times in the fighting for the Rhine and a gateway into Germany.

In letters to Mrs. Teague and his office staff, the Texan gave a graphic word picture of conditions in Greece. Some of the letters were notes scribbled in pencil in dimly lighted Greek villages by night; others were written in planes flying so high that he complained of being "nearly frozen."

"Athens is just like any large city and almost as modern except I have not had hot water to shave or bathe in but about twice a week."

"The peasants, farmers and villagers in Northern Greece are wonderful people and they are going through a hell on earth."

"Talking about the bandits driving on us with mortars, the bandits had mined the road and we stopped to remove the mines and they fired about seven mortar rounds at us. I learned that I can still get in a hole in a hurry."

The bandit situation in Greece is much worse than I realized. It is a situation that is almost impossible to cope with. The bandits live up in the hills and come down occasionally (raiding) small villages, killing and robbing a few people and robbing farmers of their wheat or anything they want.

"To recruit more bandits they force men at gunpoint to go with them, mostly young men. If the men do not go with them they kill them. If the men desert or run away the bandits kill their families. Roads are mined by the bandits with the terrible German color mine."

"Many civilian and Greek army personnel and a few Americans have been killed. You cannot come by train from Athens because the bandits have blown up the railroad."

In every little village before dark you can see all the men with guns taking their places to defend the village at night. The refugee problem is a big one. After the bandits raid the village, they take the people to a safe place and then they are sent to a camp. I saw the picture of his older brother and told of bandits putting out his brother's eyes. His brother died."

TRUMAN AT A GLANCE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Here, briefly, are President Truman's recommendations on major issues in his state of the union message yesterday.

TAXES
Cut income taxes $2,200,000,000 by granting a reduction of 40¢ for each individual taxpayer and for each of the taxpayer's dependents. This "cost of living tax credit" would be made up by increasing corporation taxes proportionately. After inflation dangers are passed, taxes should be reduced through a revision of the entire tax structure.

FOREIGN AID
Congress should promptly authorize an outlay of $6,500,000,000 to start the Marshall Plan for European recovery next April 1 and carry it on for the ensuing 15 months. He described this as an "initial amount" and one that would be a "decisive contribution

Foundation Sets Up Conservation Stock Program

AUSTIN — A six-point campaign to avoid waste of feed and loss of meat by controlling livestock disease during the coming winter months has been launched by the American Foundation for Animal Health.

Farmers everywhere were urged to join in a thorough, well-rounded program of livestock health conservation — based on these six practical measures:

- (1) Exclusion of diseased animals. "Buy only tested, disease-free stock. Then keep the new stock away from the home herd for at least two weeks."
- (2) Quarantine. "If disease does strike, have the trouble diagnosed immediately. Isolate the infected animals, and quarantine the premises." (3) Strict sanitation. "Thorough cleaning and disinfection of buildings and equipment is a wise precaution at all times. It is a vital necessity when a disease outbreak does occur." (4) Disposal of infected stock. "In some diseases, sick and, exposed animals must be disposed of immediately. In all cases, carcasses of disease victims must be destroyed at once in a manner complying with the state law." (5) Vaccination. "Immunization is the only sure means of preventing certain livestock diseases such as hog cholera and erysipelas." (6) Wise feeding practices. "Provide balanced rations, and watch for signs of nutritional deficiencies." "If these measures are applied intelligently under veterinary supervision to meet the special conditions existing on the individual farm, valuable livestock can be saved to help meet the world food emergency," the American Foundation declared.

Cardinal Becomes a Fire Chief

2,500 Baptist People To Convene at Dallas

DALLAS — A statewide Baptist evangelistic conference designed to give inspiration and aid to churches in planning simultaneous revivals will bring an estimated 2,500 pastors, singers, and evangelists to Dallas January 12-14.

Inaugurated by the Department of Evangelism of the Baptist General Convention of Texas last year, the program of simultaneous evangelistic campaigns has now been adopted by all the states of the Southern Baptist Convention, Dr. C. Wade Freeman, Texas evangelism superintendent, said. He explained the program as a series of simultaneous evangelistic meetings held in all the churches of a Baptist association, which usually include one or more counties. The Dallas conference, which will have as speakers leading Baptist ministers and educators from throughout the South, will be in preparation for associational simultaneous campaigns usually held in the spring. More than 75 campaigns are already scheduled for 1948.

Animals From 18 States Will Enter
1948 Southwestern Fat Stock Show

FORT WORTH — Animals from 18 states including first-time entries from additional major American show herds will be housed in the new livestock buildings at the 1948 Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, Jan. 30 through Feb. 8.

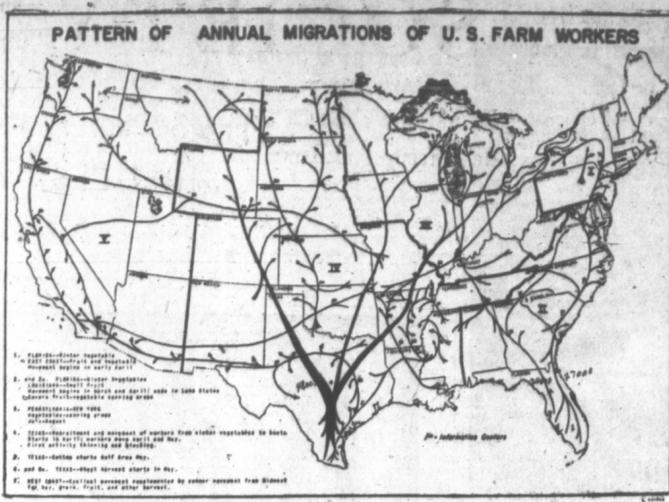

Figures announced by W. A. King, general livestock superintendent, show that Hereford breeding entries totaling 631 head have greatly exceeded the last show's 477-head total. Entries in other divisions that have topped 1947 marks include Shorthorn breeding entries, Aberdeen-Angus brought a 228 total up to 206 for 1948, and fat and breeding sheep entries totaling 763 show a 108-head increase.

Total entries in the Boys' Show, including fat steers, lambs, swine and dairy calves, are not yet tabulated. In this group more than 1,000 entries are expected.

Q: Is the International Trade Organization (ITO) one of the U. N. specialized agencies?
A: No, not yet. The current conference in Havana is being held to draw up plans for making ITO an agency affiliated with U. N. It will attain full fledged agency status upon ratification by the proper number of countries.

North Dakota's 1948 production of creamery butter totaled 51,041,000 pounds.

Texas has a big stake in the National Farm Labor Program as shown in the above migration pattern. In 1947 twenty-four states used Texas migratory farm workers. On Jan. 1, the Texas Employment Commission took over the program from the U. S. Department of Agriculture, to which it was transferred as an emergency measure in 1945. First migration takes place about April 20 and is followed by other major migrations as late as December. Texas Employment Commission's 100 full-time local offices and 87 itinerant are located in the areas of heaviest agricultural activity, from which the flow of interstate and intrastate farm labor supply and demand will be controlled.

Truman Calls for Continuation of Price Supports

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman called yesterday for a continuation of government price support programs for farm products as a means of helping to assure agricultural prosperity and an abundance of food for consumers.

The government supports prices by several means, including (1) outright purchase of a part of the supply and (2) loans to farmers on a price-depressing surplus of a commodity, which would be held off the market until prices improve.

During and since the war, the government has engaged in price support operations while at the same time trying to hold down food prices. The price support operations were limited, however, to commodities which, because of the temporary oversupply, were not bringing the farmer the guaranteed price.

Mr. Truman made other farm program proposals. He asked for a strengthening of crop insurance, for continuation of an "adequately financed" school lunch program which would help use farm surpluses, for extension of rural electrification to all farmers, and for aid to farmers in conserving their soil.

He said farm cooperatives, which have been under attack from some business groups, must be encouraged in their efforts to "improve the means of getting farm products into the hands of consumers."

Six New Buildings
To House Entries
At Stock Show

FORT WORTH — Six large livestock buildings, being built at a cost of over $1,500,000 on Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum show grounds, will be available for entries in the 1948 Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show here, Jan. 30 through Feb. 8.

The mammoth buildings, eliminating the need for tents, will accommodate in warm, clean, modern quarters over 6,000 cattle, sheep and swine. Improved and improved stables immediately adjacent to the Coliseum arena entrance will provide permanent shelter for about 600 horses.

Of steel frame and brick construction, the single span buildings include one for sheep and goats, one for swine, one for baby beef and three for cattle. Each building includes innovations and special features particularly adapted to the needs of the animal to be housed.

The buildings, 100 feet wide by 400 feet long, are spaced 70 feet apart along a 900-foot frontage just south of the Coliseum on the show grounds. Space between them will be used for livestock exercising and parking. Connecting the group will be a covered arway for visitors' convenience. Along the sides of each building will be a 12-foot canopy extending over a concrete sidewalk.

Special judging arena, office space and dormitories with show space for Club exhibitors and herdsman will be included in the buildings which are being rushed to completion in time for the show's opening.

Entry deadlines are Dec. 15 for cattle, sheep and swine; Jan. 5 for American Quarter horses and cutting horses; Jan. 10 for foaled and other show horses, and Jan. 15 for Palominos.

Hungry Parisians Look for Food Not Fashions

Typical street market scene in Paris shows housewives shopping on the Rue Leprie for food they can afford to buy.

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Fashion Editor

PARIS (NEA)—Rubbing shoulders here with the New Look is the old look of hunger's pinch and poverty.

At a plush fashion show I saw a frail, elderly French newspaperwoman give a shocking display of hunger. While toying with her champagne and pretending to watch the show, she crammed fistfuls of party food into her mouth as avidly as a greedy child. This woman who dived ravenously into bowls of food as fast as they were refilled was not guilty of bad manners—but of hunger.

Her champagne was neglected while she sat her hunger for the kind of food of which the average Frenchman is deprived. More welcome to this woman than champagne would have been milk. Under the strict rationing system in France, milk is allocated to children up to three years of age.

Other scarce foods rationed are fish, bread, sugar, chocolate, cheese and coffee.

COFFEE IS $5
French coffee, which horrified the prewar American visitor, is worse now, if that's possible. The so-called "national cup" that cheers is a bitter brew of acorns and berries which makes you want to crawl under the table and cry.

MEAT IS SOLD ONLY TWO DAYS A WEEK—Saturdays and Sundays. Before the war only the poorest French families ate horse meat. Today, a middleclass family considers itself lucky if once a week it can have horse meat, which costs about half the price of beef.

FISH IS SOLD IN THE MARKETS EVERY DAY. With the exception of the cheaper varieties, such as plentiful catches of skate or mackerel, fish is usually too dear for families in the lower income brackets to buy.

IN-SEASON VEGETABLES AND FRUITS ARE PLentiful, but are also dear. Grapes sell for from 33 to 43 cents per pound. Twenty-three cents a pound for tomatoes may not seem higher to the American housewife than what she is accustomed to pay, but it is steep for the French "bonne femme" whose "white collar" husband's income is the equivalent of a $100 monthly pay check.

IF YOU WERE picking a typical middleclass Mr. and Mrs. France—did a leading French magazine in order to show how their submarginal living conditions mirror the plight of millions—here is what you would find:

How to make that monthly $100 income keep pace with the soaring costs of food and of other price inflated necessities constitutes an ever-present, insolvable problem.

Their monthly expenses for local taxes, tax on radio, medical insurance, rent, light, heat, gas, clothing, household maintenance, shoe repairs, clothing and the husband's carfare, lunches and cigars (Mr. F. smokes 10 packages a month) amount to $22.50.

The Merten Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Allan Say. Mrs. H. H. Threault, the president, was in charge of the business session and Mrs. A. Swafford led in a short period of recreation.

Mrs. John Brandon gave a ten minute parliamentary drill.

Mrs. Swafford was elected to fill the position of vice presidency, vacated by Mrs. E. R. Jay, and Mrs. C. H. Hammett was appointed for community service.

Miss Ann Hastings, the home demonstration agent, gave a talk on kitchen planning and arrangement. She said the location of windows and doors to give proper lighting was of great importance. She reminded the members to keep in mind the work to be done when building or remodeling. She suggested that the ideal arrangement is to have the sink in the center between the refrigerator and the stove.

Refreshments were served to those mentioned and Mesdames G. H. Hammett, D. A. Rife, Florence Warriner, C. A. Jones, T. G. Groves, Frank Bailey.

It was announced that the next meeting would be in the home of Mrs. Bailey Jan. 20.

Phyllis Scheig Is Sub Deb President

Phyllis Scheig was elected president, Johnny Sue Hart was reelected vice president, June Ann Fable was selected secretary, Donna Beagle was elected treasurer, and Patsy Brannon was elected reporter. The next club meeting will be held the 20th of January in Barbara Carlson's home. Thirty members were present.

Matrimonial Agencies Clean Up in Britain

LONDON—(AP)—Britain's marriage market is booming.

The head men of the two biggest matrimonial agencies in London reported today that business is up about 20 percent over previous days—and most of the increase comes from the youthful.

The lonely hundreds pick a prospective mate from the printed offers, then badge themselves with a buttonhole flower to keep a rendezvous—object matrimony. Often the objective is attained; more often comes disappointment—and a new try.

One man has had 278 introductions and is still hunting a mate. Another met 86 different women and finally chose the tenth one he met.

Robert Charlesworth, 39-year-old editor of The Matrimonial Post, said he regards his business as "a public service" and advocated a state-sponsored scheme for matching lonely hearts.

"There are thousands of men and women in Britain today who are doomed to years of bitterness," Charlesworth said. "They do not realize that marriage agencies exist."

Charlesworth and Robert Radford, editor of The Matrimonial Times, agree closely on the sky traits of their clients.

Their favorite meeting place is a railroad station usually under the station clock.

If they decide to marry they always invite the editor whose columns brought about the meeting. He never goes to the wedding.

They usually send him a piece of wedding cake. He never eats it. They don't tell their friends how they met.

Both papers charge a flat rate of ten pounds (ten shillings $42) for each client, male or female. Radford gets it all in advance. Charlesworth will settle for one third down and the rest when the marriage happens.

Charlesworth bills his agency as "the only marriage negotiator for the nobility, gentry, commercial and all classes." The Matrimonial Post, he warns on its front page, "is not published for a joke."

In the current issue 213 women and 194 men offered themselves. One fourth are under 30. Two-thirds have never been married. About 40 percent of the rest have been divorced.

Ages range from a 21-year-old blonde girl to a grandmother of 70.

Typical of the youthful who have swelled the postwar ranks of marriage seekers is a 24-year-old stenographer, blonde with a slim figure and a taste for music and the theater. She wants a man, "age 27 to 34, tall and dark, loyal, affectionate, home loving." Charlesworth thinks she will find a lifelong mate.

"People who meet and marry through matrimonial papers rarely figure in divorce courts," he said. "They have something in common and that can't be said for all couples who marry the ordinary way."

Know Your STUFF

About Shoe Repair—Good shoe repair continues to take the place of new shoes because of the shortage of footwear, and if you know your stuff about repair workmanship.

The pinch stays in to torment the wearer, however, if the repaired shoe fails to settle back to its original size. Best safeguard against change of shape or size when shoes are resoled is to have the work done on a wooden last.

Better than the use of nails for repair—they weaken a shoe when they penetrate its inner part—are more up-to-date stitching and adhesive processes.

For longer-wearing lifts on heels, ask that prime (first grade) leather be used. Also noted for long wear is composition rubber, which is now available for keeping the list out of heels.

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — I give you today John Ford's "Rosebuds"—"Hedy" Vogel and "Greta" Crowley—the two most colorful personalities among Hollywood's 6345 extras.

The Rosebuds, discovered and christened by the director—because he wouldn't hurt our feelings by calling us battle-axes"—are listed in Central Casting's files as Eleanor Vogel and Jane Crowley.

But, at every studio in Hollywood, when their versatile acting services are needed for a picture, it's "Get me John Ford's Rosebuds," or even more succinctly, "the Rosebuds."

Because they're both fifty-ish, dark haired and of similar build, and because they work hard and will do anything a director asks of them, the girls are always hired together. They were just teamed again by Ford for "War Party," supporting Henry Fonda, John Wayne and Shirley Temple.

Whenever a director like Ford, who has used them in every picture he's filmed in Hollywood for the past 24 years, has a bit for one Rosebud, but not both, he apologizes for the omission.

Apart from their outward appearance, the Rosebuds have individual characteristics which distinguish them.

MURDER AT MY HOUSE

By Rene Ryerson Mart Copyright by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: The police question me to find out if Art had been drunk at the party, since I had seen him going in top speed when it happened over the cliff. I take a tumbler full of whiskey myself in order to sleep.

XV
I DON'T know how long the telephone had been ringing, before it penetrated my slumber like a fog bell off Santa Monica pier. I struggled up out of the depths and lay there blinking at the bright sunshine and finally realized that it was daytime and that the telephone beside my bed was ringing. I lifted the receiver and said, "Hello."

"Miss Donn?"
"Yes."
"This is Madge Narney. Are you going to be at home this morning? I—I want to see you."
I was more than a little surprised. "Yes, I'll be here. You know what has happened?"
"I didn't until I reached the studio. It's horrible. The papers are full of it."
I still didn't understand why she wanted to see me.

"Well, come on over," I said. "Do you know where I live?"
"Yes, I found your address in the phone book. I'll take a taxi." I crawled out of bed and looked in the mirror and decided I'd better do something before Madge Narney saw me or there'd be another person thinking we'd had a wild drinking party the night before.

"A steaming hot tub, a cold shower and a brisk rubdown. I just had time for that and to run a comb through my damp hair and get into a robe when the doorbell started ringing.
It was Madge, of course.
"Come in," I invited. "I haven't had breakfast, yet. Perhaps you'd join me?"

night clubs many years ago, has a deep, husky voice, which still gets her an occasional singing bit. Hedy's voice suggests the pungent flavor of her native Atlanta's corn pone and black-eyed peas.
"Some directors," says Hedy, "won't give me a break on account of my accent. They say I look like a Russian until I open my mouth. Can I help it if I'm a southern belle?"
Greta, her girl friend claims, is also a southerner—"she was born a spittin' distance from At-bothering me and left and I was free to go back to sleep.

I decided to finish my nap in the patio which was awash with warm noontime sunshine by this time.

I AWOKE to look straight into a cool and noncommittal pair of gray eyes as I have ever seen. I struggled to a sitting position in the deck chair, glared at the intruder and gathered additional facts. He was tall and he had thick dark hair combed straight back from his forehead, and he was too thin and his face looked awfully tired.

"Sorry I frightened you," he said.
"You should be," I was trembling. "Don't you know enough to ring a door bell?"
He said patiently, "I rang it for five minutes and then I started looking around."
Some authority in his voice checked my anger.

"I'm Lieutenant Leiphon of the Los Angeles police department," he said.
I asked him to sit down and when he did so I noticed the discharge button in the lapel of his plain clothes suit and about the same moment I noticed his right hand with its stiff unmovable fingers. My eyes went back to his face.

He held his hat between his two hands, swinging it casually back and forth. "I'm here to ask you some questions about last night," he said.
"I've already told the police everything that went on here last night."
"I know what you told Rad and Matthews. I've read their notes. But I want you to tell me again. I want to know who was here. Everybody. And exactly what you had to eat and drink."
"I don't see the reason for this," I said. "Just because a couple of people were killed in an automobile accident . . ."

"They weren't killed by accident," Leiphon said.
"What do you mean?"
"They were killed by premeditation. Murder is what we call it, Miss Donn."

Justice Dept. Not Overrun With Texans, As People Might Believe

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Department of Justice, the legal and law enforcement arm of the government, is located in a downtown building which occupies an entire block between Pennsylvania and Constitution Avenues.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark of Dallas is the big boss of the D.O.J. His right hand man, with the title of "The Assistant to the Attorney General," is Douglas W. McGregor, former federal district attorney in Houston.

There are some 600 to 700 lawyers working in the department. Contrary to belief in some quarters, the place isn't overrun with Texans. This little story is told by McGregor:

At a recent private gathering someone poked a good-natured jab at Clark, telling him "I suppose your place is full of fellow Texans."

The cabinet member smilingly denied the accusation, saying he actually didn't know just how many there were, but that he would check up. The result was he found only 11 other Texas lawyers in the department, not counting Federal Bureau of Investigation agents. McGregor was the only Texas lawyer who had joined the department since Clark became Attorney General.

The others are: Rhodes S. Baler, Jr., of Dallas, a tax division expert; Ben Brooks, Forney; Albert Joggens, Waco; Frank Cunningham, Dais; Joe S. Davies, Fort Worth; C. Maxley Featherston, Petersburg; Edward L. Fulton, Wichita Falls; Robert M. McKee, Crosbyton; David V. Swann, Odessa, and James Kilday, former federal district attorney in Houston.

The senior Texan from stand point of service in the department is Swann, who is head of the Veterans Division, handling such matters as insurance and other claims. A veteran of World War One, he came to the department 18 years ago.

Kilday, a brother of San Antonio's Congressman Paul Kilday, is probably the department's most authoritative legal expert on matters of interstate commerce. He sits in on ICC rail and bus rate hearings to see that the law is complied with by all parties.

As head of the department, the attorney general is the chief law officer of the federal government. He represents the United States in legal matters generally and gives advice and opinions when requested by the President or by the heads of the other executive departments. He also appears in the Supreme Court in cases of exceptional importance and gravity.

To help him carry out the functions of his department, there are scores of employees in stenographic and clerical positions.

FBI officials said there are 22 Texans who are special agents assigned on duty in that division of the Justice Department here by name, however, explaining that to disclose the identity of the others might be detrimental to their operations.

The pair who were identified are Henry L. Sloan of Whitesboro, who is in charge of the Firearms Training Center at Quantico, Va., and J. A. Carlson, former dean of Baylor University Law School.

Death Ends 13 Years Of Sleeping Sickness

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Death has ended 13 years of sleeping sickness for 16-year-old Yvonne Fischer.

Dr. Nathan H. Spritz, who had been her physician all through the illness, said the cure Mrs. Mortimer Fischer had given her only child over the 13 years was "remarkable."

"Leah just shut herself out from the rest of the world and sat at Yvonne's bedside," said the father, a furniture dealer. Dr. Spritz said Yvonne was "dazed and helpless" all through her illness.

At no time was she able to carry on a conversation or walk.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging back ache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, successfully by millions for over 60 years. Doan's give happy relief and will be the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush of poisonous waste from your blood. G. Doan's Pills.

fy their dramatic ambitions.
"We haven't worked now in two weeks," Hedy wailed, "and it's driving us crazy!"

Bill Goodwin is up for the comedy lead in "Queen of Hearts." Ann Sothern wins the title of the most glamorous tramp of the year. For a gag sequence in "April Showers," she impersonates a knight of the road complete to whiskers, wide mouth and a red nose. Frank Loesser's "I Wish I Didn't Love You So" introduced in "The Perils of Pauline," looks like a cinch winner in the Academy song race.

Fur Coats Grow Wild Back There at Home in Indiana

Foxy Hoosier: Tight out of the wilds of Indiana, Glendon Bandy trapped these nine gray and red fox for a week's haul at market at Spencer. In the same week, he also trapped for raccoons, two mink, and three muskrat to help boom Spencer's open market.

They're Not All From The Far North Woods

By NEA Service
That fur coat you're wearing (or the one you'd like to wear) didn't necessarily start at the end of a trap line in the frozen north woods. It might well have come from the Hoosier state of Indiana, and if it did, it's more than likely the pelts found their way to market on the lawn of Spencer's Court House square.

Although Indiana is not noted for its wild animal population, it ranks eighth in the nation's fur business, and Spencer, in the southern part of the state, is its largest pelt market center. Right now, $6000 worth of pelts are sold here on an average Saturday morning.

Last year, an influx of furs stored during the war in Russia, China and Japan hit the U. S., and Spencer's business dropped off. This year the price is up on short-haired furs, mink and muskrat and down but brisk on the long-haired fox, raccoon, skunk opposum and weasel. Spencer's fur men think they'll be able to stake out a claim as the largest open fur market in the country. Already, they can claim a unique method of doing business. After the trappers toss their pelts on the lawn, the buyers make their appraisal. Bidding is silent, jumbo associated with such business; the buyer writes out his bid for the trapper, who indicates by a nod or a shake of his head whether the bid is the highest.

Coyote Menace Seen Again in Dallam Co.

DALLAM CO.—Dallam County commissioners have placed a three-dollar bounty on coyotes to run at least until May 1. Coyotes in the county again are becoming a major menace to poultry, young calves and other livestock. The county paid bounties on coyotes for several months in trapping. The bounty was removed when it appeared that the predators were under control.

Traces of human occupancy of Carlsbad Caverns, New Mexico, date back at least 4,000 years.
