Solons Wrap Up Tax Package

Congressmen Head Home With Halos

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With an election year directly ahead, congressmen took home for preliminary voter inspection today a mixed Christmas bag of successes and failures.

House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford, perhaps in a harbinger of Republican campaign tactics for 1970, labeled the yearlong session a "do nothing" Congress. He said it had done almost nothing about President Nixon's legislative program.

But Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called the session "most productive." He gave Congress good marks not only for its legislative attainments but its start toward redirecting national priorities from the Vietnam War to home front needs.

The first session of the 91st Congress, which ground to a halt at 3:10 p.m. EST, Tuesday, accomplished more than most observers thought likely when it convened Jan. 3 with Democrats in charge on Capitol Hill and a Republican about to take office as president.

Some political standoffs did develop and, for a time threatened to keep Congress in session through the holidays. But in the end tax loopholes had been narrowed, taxes for everybody reduced, and Social Security payments increased by 15 per cent, effective next month. Draftees hereafter will be selected by lot.

But basic draft reform was put off until next year, at a second session that won't start until Jan. 19. So was action on President Nixon's plan to get the mails moving by raising rates and abolishing the Post Office Department. Nixon's anticrime package—for whatever it was worth and Democrats said that wasn't much—lay untouched in House and Senate committees.

The new President's traditional honeymoon with the Congress lasted longer than most people expected, considering Nixon's many past political struggles. But by adjournment time politics was dominating the scene.

A hint of the political tack to be taken by liberal Democrats came from Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, who said in a statement, "It seems clear that the administration's efforts were clearly directed for the fat cats and not the average American."

Churchyard Shelled By Viets Just Before Christmas Truce

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. and South Vietnamese troops joined Communist soldiers today in a Christmas truce marred by the deaths of four Americans in a mine explosion.

The Allies began their 24-hour cease-fire at 6 p.m. Christmas Eve (5 a.m. EST), 17 hours after the Viet Cong's three-day standdown had begun following a rash of terror attacks that killed at least three Vietnamese and wounded 66.

The costliest of the pre-truce terrorism, late Tuesday, saw a Vietnamese boy plant a bomb amid a crowd of 300 persons in a churchyard on the northern coast. He walked away and the bomb exploded, killing two Vietnamese and wounding 62, many of them children.

Military spokesmen reported "a few" guerrilla violations after the cease-fire began but said none was considered significant. Allied commanders kept patrols in the field with others to fire only if fired upon. Four GIs from one of these patrols were killed when one of them stepped on a land mine 24 miles northwest of Saigon just after the Communist truce went into effect. Another five Americans and two government soldiers were wounded.

This was the only fatal incident reported since the beginning of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese cease-fire at 1 a.m. today (noon Tuesday EST).

U.S. B52 bombers maintained their attacks until just before the later-starting Allied truce, hitting suspected infiltration trails along the Cambodian border and along the Laotian border in the northern quarter.

Three bomb blasts echoed through Saigon's streets Tuesday night, before the guerrilla truce, killing one civilian and wounding four, but the costliest attack occurred far to the north. Reports from the scene at Xuyen Kieu Village 362 miles north of Saigon said about 300 Vietnamese—civilians and soldiers—had gathered Tuesday night in the churchyard for a Christmas show put on by government propagandists.

Witnesses said a small boy, about 14 years old, walked into the crowd with a basket that appeared to be laden with food. He put it down and walked away, they said, and the basket exploded.

Spokesmen said about 30 of the wounded were children, one of whom had his legs blown off. Nine were South Vietnamese. (See CHURCHYARD, Page 2)

U.S. Eyes Trade With Communists

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress passed in its closing hours Tuesday a bill opening the way for a big expansion of trade between the United States and the Communist world.

House and Senate negotiators first adopted the Senate approach but the House turned it down. The negotiators met again Tuesday morning, softened the bill, submitted it to both chambers and won approval by voice vote. President Nixon was considered certain to accept it.

The President continues to enjoy discretionary power under the new bill to prohibit and regulate U.S. exports to the Soviet Union and other Communist countries.

But the rules under which thousands of items—ranging from automobiles to milk, and including brassieres and wigs—are considerably relaxed.

U.S. trade with Communist nations is now just a small fraction of its total of $33 billion worth of exports. Only about 2 or 3 per cent of the Communist world's exports go to the United States.

Families Receive Letters

War Prisoners Names Are Told

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The names of 132 American prisoners of war have been released by two members of a peace group who were the first American women to visit a North Vietnamese prison camp. The women told a news conference Tuesday they brought back 138 letters from the prisoners and mailed them in San Francisco Sunday on their return from a two-week visit to Hanoi.

Some of the prisoners' families had not heard from them for years.

Mrs. Cora Weiss of New York City and Mrs. Madeline Duckles of Berkeley, Calif., told newsmen they and Mrs. Ethel Taylor of Philadelphia spent about an hour talking to three of the prisoners.

They identified the men as Mark Gartley, 25, Greenville, Maine, Paul Gordon Brown, 26, Newton, Mass., and Bill Mayhew, 27, New Manchester, W.Va. The women released a photo of the three prisoners.

"Speak Against War" The women, members of the Women's Strike for Peace, said the prisoners "spoke highly of the antiwar movement and spoke militantly against the war." They said they were not allowed to talk to any other prisoners.

Mrs. Weiss outlined an apparent change of policy by Hanoi in regard to mail for prisoners, who up to now have rarely been allowed to send or receive letters or packages. Mrs. Weiss said Hanoi would now allow families of prisoners to send one letter a month and a package of less than six pounds every other month. She said mail should be addressed with the prisoner's name and serial number in care of "Camp of Detention for U.S. Pilots Captured in the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Hanoi, DRV," with "Via Moscow" written on the envelope.

Claims Information Withheld The chief of North Vietnam's delegation to the Paris peace talks said Monday that Hanoi would notify prisoners' families "directly" from now on about captives because the United States was withholding information.

Mrs. Weiss called on the State Department to release all the names of prisoners that are known to be held by North Vietnam.

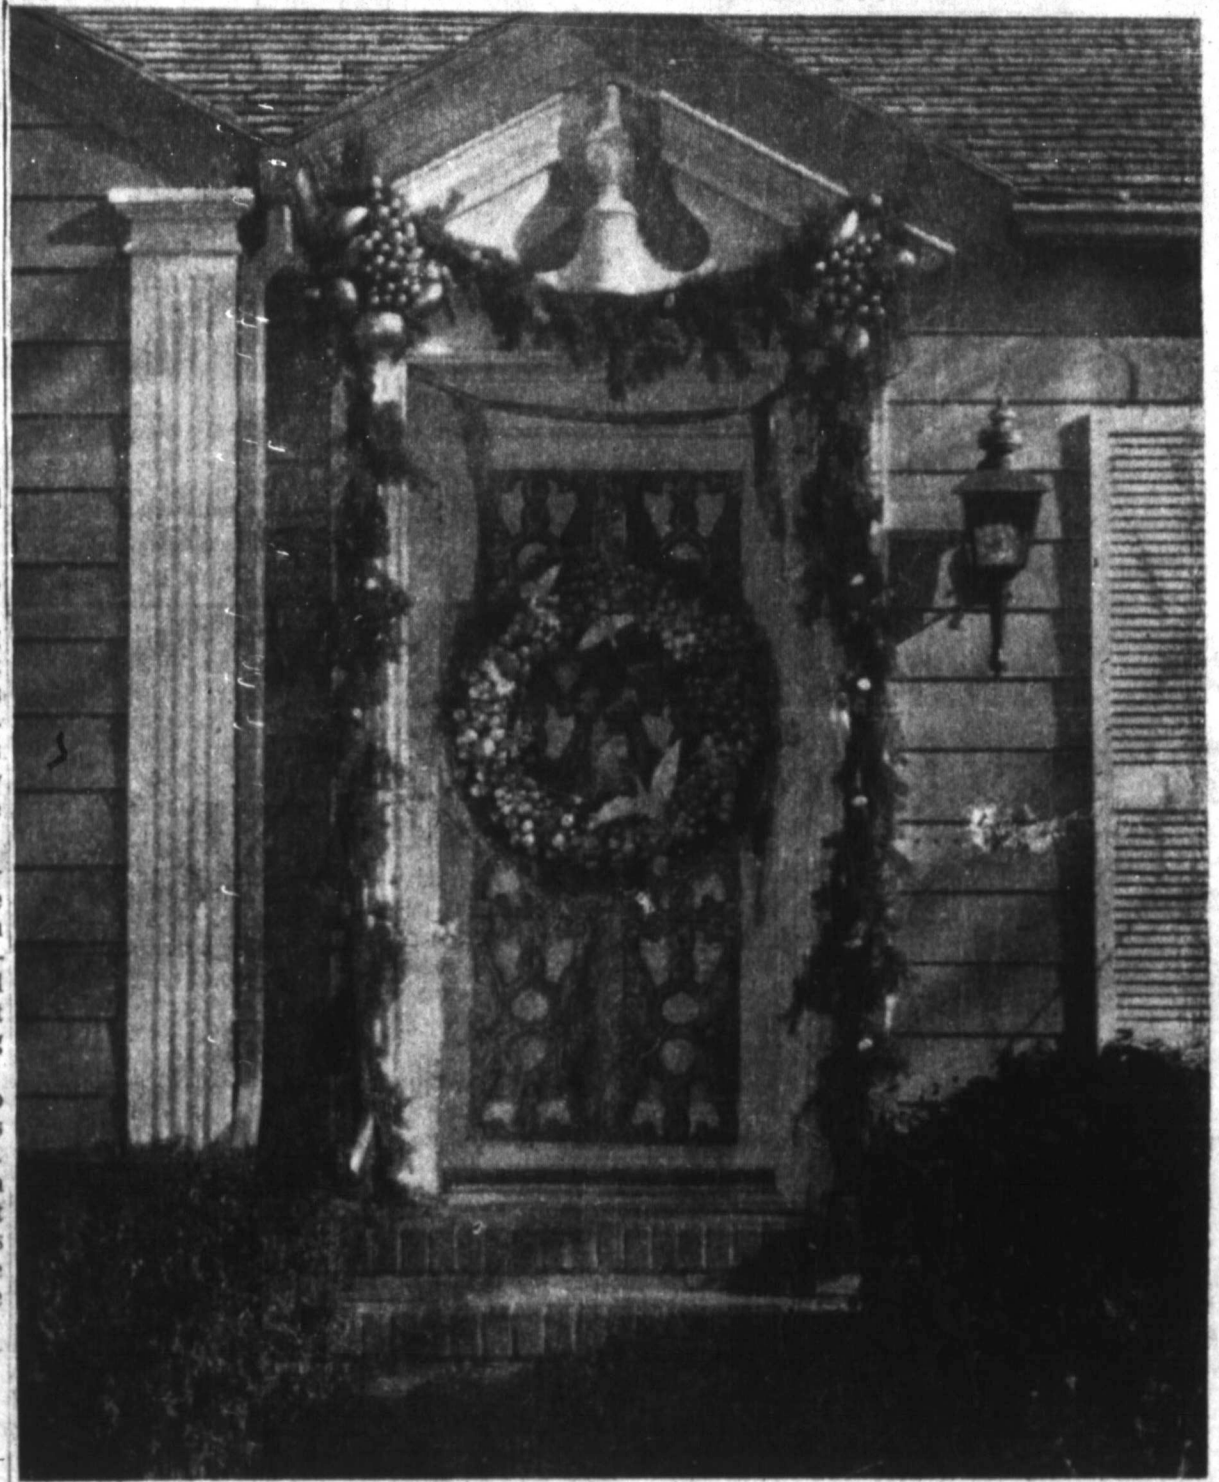

"I challenge them to release the names of confirmed prisoners," she said. "I understand the State Department has a list of names it has not released."

The women, who said they paid for the trip to Hanoi via Paris out of their own pockets, said that all the prisoners in North Vietnam would receive Christmas dinner.

Chartered Jet To Take Families To Peace Vigil At Paris Embassy

DALLAS (UPI) — Billionaire H. Ross Perot has chartered a jet to send about 150 wives and children to American prisoners in North Vietnam in the hope that the children can "learn more about their fathers."

The jet, chartered by United We Stand, an organization founded by Perot to support President Nixon's Vietnam peace program, is scheduled to leave New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport tonight.

The families will spend Christmas Day in Paris to try to learn more about their missing fathers and husbands. Their search could include a peace vigil at the North Vietnamese embassy.

"Time after time when we have asked these children what they want most, they have said they wanted to know something about their fathers," Perot said.

The computer company founder said he chartered the plane, "The Spirit of Christmas," to fly families to Paris who have not been to see the North Vietnamese.

United We Stand has sponsored other trips by wives of American prisoners. All of the women's efforts, however, have failed to give them any new information about their husbands. On each visit, Hanoi's representatives have told the women their husbands are criminals and do not deserve the same treatment as prisoners of war. Perot said he hopes to visit Hanoi to explain that in Ameri-

No Let Up In Fighting In Holy Land

By United Press International
Christmas Eve brought no let-up in fighting in the Holy Land. Israel said its warplanes bombed Egyptian military positions along the Suez Canal today.

Israel launched the air raid as its troops locked a security chain around Bethlehem to guard against Arab guerrilla attacks during the Christmas season at Jesus' birthplace.

The troops and policemen set up roadblocks around the Judean town and admitted only residents and tourists who had gotten passes to visit the manger site.

An estimated 10,000 visitors and Christian pilgrims were expected to pass through the roadblocks in bus convoys from Jerusalem.

No Paper On Christmas Day

There will be no editions of The Pampa Daily News tomorrow, Christmas Day. The yule holiday is the only day of the year The News does not publish a paper. The policy was established many years ago in order to give employees an opportunity to observe Christmas with their families.

While Japanese Premier Eisaku Sato and his Socialist opposition debate weighty international issues in preparation for Japan's Dec. 27 election, Michiko Watanabe talks about things most Japanese understand better.

She talks about dangerous streets, dirty playgrounds, the housing shortage, smog and rising prices.

In short, many of the same things Americans talk about. Mrs. Watanabe is a 37-year-old lawyer and also a beauty upon whom her opposition has pinned the label, "the beauty contest candidate."

But whatever the label, she also is given a good chance to win a seat in the 486-member lower house of Japan's parliament, and further enhance the prestige of her party which is the fastest growing in Japan.

Is Called "Komeito"
It is called Komeito, meaning the "clean government" party. It was formed in 1962 and in the space of seven years has become the third largest in the Japanese parliament and the second in the Tokyo city assembly.

It follows a brand of Buddhism founded by a Buddhist holy man in the 13th century and is the offspring of Sokagakkai, a society persecuted in the 1930's because it refused to recognize the divinity of the emperor. After World War II it sprang to life again. Today it claims 10 million members and has its own publishing empire.

The average age of its 76 candidates for parliament is 39, school teachers, office workers, products of the American equivalent of U.S. "street car colleges" and not the prestige universities which traditionally supply Japan its leadership.

Fights Traditional
Japan's parliamentary elections traditionally have been fought out by Sato's Liberal-Democratic party and the Socialists.

Sato's party is expected to benefit from his success in obtaining a U.S. promise to return Okinawa in 1972, adding perhaps 20 seats to the 272 it now holds. The Socialists, fragmented between peaceful parliamentarians and violent rebels, could lose 20 to 30 out of their total of 135.

Komeito, aligned not with the United States and seemingly impervious to Communist infiltration, is giving both a run for their money and could double its present membership of 25.

Not Much Christmas In Bethlehem This Year

BETHLEHEM, Yugoslavia (UPI)—It's not much of a Christmas in Bethlehem this year, according to Mihail Serman. Nor, for that matter, in Jerusalem.

Serman fumbled in the cold with the large brass key to the door of the 17th century

Catholic church serving the towns of Bethlehem and Jerusalem, Yugoslavia.

"Do you know we didn't even celebrate Christmas?" he said. It was more a declaration than a question.

"There aren't enough priests to go around. One comes here every Sunday from Nikolaj Bel Fridau, down the road. But he can't make it for Christmas — too busy."

Keeps An Eye On Church
Mihail Serman is 67. His gray, drooping moustache matches the faded fedora jammed on his head. He lives down the hill and in his words, "keeps an eye" on the church building.

Like the 100 or so others in this tiny Slovenian wine-growing community he has become resigned to the fact that at Christmastime both Bethlehem and Jerusalem are among scores of northwest Yugoslav mountain villages almost snowed in for the winter. "Oh sure," he said, a tired smile lifting the moustache. "The names always draw visitors, especially during the summer. We've had 10,000 visitors in the last two years." He leafed through the worn pages of an inch-thick, gilt-edged guest book on a table at the rear of the yellow stone church.

"You know, Bethlehem really doesn't exist any more. That is, Jerusalem is the bigger community and just sort of incorporated it. But local folks here still make a distinction between the two," he said.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: That "UNDERPAID SITTER" sure gave me a laugh. I am a 27-year-old mother who (two years ago) used to sit for 25 cents an hour, and I did more for my quarter than any sitter I've ever had for 50 cents.

Sitters in our day were expected to entertain the kids, pick up after them, bathe the little ones, and put them all to bed. Then, do the dishes.

Now all the sitters do is sit! The kids can pull the place apart and the sitter doesn't lift a finger to straighten it up. And sitters can eat you out of house and home. But what gets me is they won't even bother to carry their own empty bottles, glasses and dishes into the kitchen, let alone wash them. They just leave everything right in the room where they had their refreshments. I think I'd faint if one ever cleaned up after herself.

For my part, I wouldn't mind paying 75 cents an hour if I came home to a house that looked as tidy as it did when I left it.

But I think 75 cents an hour for someone who watches TV, talks on the phone and adds $5 to my grocery bill is 50 cents an hour, too much.

HAS BEEN SITTER

DEAR ABBY: Don't let me get started on sitters and how "underpaid" they are. Some of the dillies we've had should have paid us!

One quiet little thing who always carried a Bible in her purse, thoroughly cleaned our liquor supply before leaving town.

Another one (a bosomy college freshman) physically attacked my husband while he was driving her home one evening. So surprised was he, he hit a telephone pole and broke his nose. (She said all she wanted was a kiss!)

We had a whole series of hungry kids who ate the fridge to the bare walls, but one had the gall to work out of the deep freeze and thaw stuff out in the oven.

But we decided to use only elderly ladies after a neighbor called the fire department to extinguish a fire in our house. Our teen-aged sitter and her friends were having such a gay party they didn't even know the house was on fire!

Thank heavens we don't need sitters anymore.

"FREE AT LAST" IN WOODSIDE

DEAR ABBY: That letter signed "UNDERPAID SITTER" sure got to me, but I think my experience with a sitter last week tops them all. Listen to this: A friend of mine recommended a high school girl to sit. I called her and she asked me if we had a color TV. I told her we had one so she said, "Good. I'll come."

She came and I told her that the older girl (10) could bathe herself and put herself to bed, but the younger one (six) might need a little help, so she should see that she brushed her teeth and got into bed by 8 p.m. Both children had had their supper and the kitchen was spotless. I left a sandwich for the sitter and told her to help herself to a soft drink in the fridge.

When we came home at midnight, we found the front door wide open and every light in the house was on. The TV was blaring so loudly we heard it half a block away as we approached our house. We found the sitter sound asleep on the sofa. When I went into the kitchen I found that she had made popcorn and fudge for herself and left the mess for me to clean up. She had also opened two cans of crabmeat and finished them off. She had drunk three bottles of soft drink and had eaten nearly a quart of ice cream!

I checked on the children and found the little one curled up

Cost-Profit Squeeze Hits Santa's Toymaking Elves

NEW YORK (NEA) — Victor Herbert immortalized toyland as "dear little girl and boy and." He didn't know what a prophet he was. It is indeed "dear."

With each Christmas season, the price of toys increases. It's difficult to find a toy for under $10 and no trouble at all to find one at $20 or over.

Does this mean that the toymakers laugh all the way to the bank? "Not so," said Saul Robbins, chairman of the board of one of America's five top toy companies, and a spokesman for the industry.

Higher toy prices, Robbins explained, rather than indicating excessively high profits for toy manufacturers, reflect the increasingly costly process involved in designing, producing and marketing ultrasophisticated toys on a mass scale.

"Making and marketing a toy today is not a simple task performed by a handful of people," he said. "It is a large, complex team effort, involving hundreds of persons and the expenditure of substantial outlays of money."

"Parents object to paying today's prices, yet they demand stronger and better toys."

Even with higher prices, though, Robbins believes that today's toys deliver as much or even more than many other products in the same price range.

Typical of such excellent values is a battery telephone intercom set that sells for $7 or $8 as a toy. Yet the same item has been sold for $16 as an inexpensive intercom set by an electronics house.

"As much metal wiring goes into some electronic toys as goes into a real radio," Robbins said. "Yet the toys are priced far below the radio."

The pressing economic facts of life faced by major toy companies can be exemplified in his own operation, according to this industry spokesman.

Over the past five years, the company has expanded its product line more than 50 per cent and now offers such technically complex items as a doll that turns somersaults, a talking astronaut base and a school bus with automatic doors.

To design such toys, a large, well-paid staff of engineers and technicians is employed in the research and development department. Robbins refers to them as "creative engineers."

"Some toy industry engineers," he said, "are so expert that they are capable of designing jet aircraft."

To produce extremely sophisticated toys on a mass basis also requires the purchase and maintenance of highly expensive injection molding machines that make the toys' component parts. The cost of these machines has risen nearly 30 per cent over the past five years.

In today's self-service retailing, packaging has become a major factor in the merchandising of toys. And the cost of packaging has risen four times in the course of one year, according to Robbins.

"Practically speaking, the best toys cost the most money," he said. "The real test is to ask a parent to choose, regardless of price, the toy he would like to buy. In most cases, the higher priced toy is selected. And that's simply because it's the best toy."

Parents often attack today's ultrarealistic toys by citing the fact that they played with general household objects when they were kids and that this stimulated the imagination. According to Robbins, playing with cigar boxes and clothespins simply represents a return to the depression era.

"Today," he said, "children can play with a selection of toys directly related to the world around them. These toys stimulate their imaginations and fulfill their normal fantasies in ways that using crude materials never could do."

"The industry is just as frustrated as anyone else about spiraling prices. But the toy industry isn't the only industry putting things out at a high price."

"Consumers accept the higher prices of other industries and they should be willing to accept ours, considering the superior values we offer."

So the kids can walk on a toyland moon, shoot a toy rocket and operate a toy voice-control astronaut base as long as mom and dad have enough of the green stuff to buy these toys.

CANDY CANE SANDWICH TRAY
... meat spreads on miniature sliced bread

Candy Cane Sandwiches Welcome Yuletide Guests

Sometimes the simplest ideas are the most effective. Everyone knows the miniature party breads — pumpernickel, rye and cheese. But how many have thought of filling them with handy canned spreads and arranging them in the shape of Christmas-wreath or candy canes?

This year welcome your holiday guests with a sandwich tray that says "Christmas!" as surely as cards over the mantle or carols from the stereo. The candy cane sandwich tray shown here makes an excellent centerpiece. It may be used as part of a buffet or simply passed as an evening snack.

Sandwiches may be all one kind or mixed. Just fill the little oval slices with the tasty fillings given below. Stand them on edge in the shape desired, secure ends with garnished toothpicks, and wait for the compliments! Sandwiches may be made ahead and covered with clear plastic wrap or aluminum foil.

CANDY CANE SANDWICHES (Sweet Ham Spread)

- 1 4½-oz. can deviled ham
- 2 Tbsp. Chopped Parsley
- ¼ Cup Orange Marmalade

30 Party Pumpernickel slices
Softened Butter...

(Chicken Confetti Spread)

- 1 4¼-oz. Can Chicken spread
- ¼ Cup Chopped pimiento-stuffed olives
- 2 Tbsp. Mayonnaise

30 Party rye slices
Softened Butter...

(Creamy Pate Spread)

- 1 (4¼-oz.) can liverwurst spread
- 3 Oz. cream cheese
- 2 Tbsp. Chopped Scallions

30 Party Cheese slices
Softened Butter...

Combine first three ingredients. Spread bread with softened butter. Spread half of bread slices with meat spread mixture; close sandwiches with remaining slices. Each recipe makes 15 sandwiches. Arrange sandwiches, on edge, in shape of candy cane. Secure ends with toothpicks garnished with parsley and a whole cranberry. These recipes make 2 candy canes of approximately 22 sandwiches each.

Playing With Christmas Toys Is For Children, Not Parents

COLLEGE STATION. —Dad sits on the floor altering tacks and thumbing switches, maneuvering the electric train around the living room floor. And Junior sits watching Dad. Recognize this scene? It is too often a common one.

Parents tend to buy Christmas presents for themselves rather than for the child. They buy what they want, for status or to impress others, says Lucille Moore, Extension recreation specialist at Texas A&M University. The child is being cheated when the toy is for the parent.

Toy gifts should fit a child's needs, and a child is not nearly as hard to please as adults believe, Miss Moore says.

The activity instigated by the toy should meet the needs of each age group. The recreation specialist recommends: Preschoolers—activity for developing large muscles, using the hands and imaginative play. Young elementary—developing large muscles, social development such as stories, dramatic plays parties and trips and coordinating fine muscles such as arts and crafts. Older elementary—gang development such as team sports, acquiring skills through hobbies, painting, music, swimming and individual and social development.

This fills a primary prerequisite for a child's gift — the need.

The toy should give the child a feeling of adequacy, suggests Jennie Kitching, Extension family life specialist. Give him something he can do and something which sets the appropriate standard for physical and mental development.

For example, many mechanical toys may be too intricate for children under four years old. A toy should be complicated enough to intrigue and interest, yet not too complicated to bore or discourage.

Give toys which are not restrictive, advises Miss Kitching, and toys with several uses. This encourages the child to use his imagination and to be creative.

The two specialists recommend building blocks, clay, paints, books and puzzles. Big crayons are easier for the youngster to manipulate. They prefer opaque paint because it is more colorful than water colors.

Above all, recognize individual differences, says Miss Kitching, and develop them in a child with hobbies, musical toys, toys for dramatic play such as puppets and dolls and science toys for school age youngsters.

Children love role-playing with puppets, dolls, dress-up clothes, housekeeping kits and other equipment. This dramatic play is important to the child, says Miss Kitching, because from it, they learn roles. They identify with their parents, the policeman on the corner, with the shop keeper.

It is especially good for boys, who need to identify with men and men's occupations, according to the specialist. Boys don't know what Daddy does today. He leaves the house and goes to an office unlike past years when the son followed his father and was familiar with what Dad did.

Most important, the toy should be safe. The National Safety Council recommends that parents consider the following safety factors:

1. Good construction with no items which can be pulled off and swallowed, broken off, leaving sharp edges to cut.

2. Non-toxic paint and strings of a non-conducting material such as cotton. However, any string will carry electricity when wet.

3. Securely fastened handles on hammers and mallets and wheels on wooden toys, fastened preferably with screws.

4. Keys of toys which do not revolve when the toy is working.

If ever in question about a youngster's toy, buy him a book, says Miss Kitching.

Miss Waincott Installs Officers For HD Members

Progressive Home Demonstration Club members, meeting with Mrs. D.A. Rife, 1901 Chestnut, announced new officers which were installed by Jimmie Lou Waincott.

New officers were Mrs. B.F. Dorman, president; Mrs. F.L. Symonds, vice president; Mrs.

E. L. Truman, secretary; Mrs. Herb Peoples, treasurer, and Mrs. Grady Grant, council delegate.

After installation of officers, refreshments were served and gifts exchanged to guests attending. Mmes. Rife, Humberson, E.P. Templin, R.L.

Gordy, Peoples, Trumm, G.B. Hogan, Dorman, G.B. Ward, E.A. Revard, and Miss Waincott.

Hostesses were Mrs. Rife and Mrs. Humberson. Christmas trees and Christmas decorations were used throughout the home.

SPIRIT OF HOPE

Perhaps I should have mentioned this earlier, but I'll take the chance that you haven't yet mailed your Christmas cards. If you promise not to send me a card with a picture of Santa Claus drinking a Martini, I'll promise I'll not send you one with a picture of a girl winking sequin eyes.

By the way, I'd like to thank the reader who sent the beautiful Christmas card last August. (I mentioned that I thought it would be the very best time to receive one and she remembered a year later.) She included no return address or I'd have sent one in return. Or, perhaps I'd have mailed a New Year's card in September or October. After all, isn't any month good for new beginnings? But we're talking about Christmas and promises, aren't we?

It isn't that I don't understand about Christmas cards. Some send cards with no traditional decorations because, for one thing, they're not exactly sure how you feel about Christmas. For another thing, they aren't sure how they feel about Christmas. A line drawing of a green walrus saying "Season's Greetings," is an exercise in sidestepping and I can understand that. A Scottish terrier hoisting a Tom and Jerry while he says, "Hoot Mon, A Merrie Xmas to Ye," is a complete cop-out and I don't understand that.

Getting back to promises, we might as well promise about presents as well as cards. If you promise you'll not send me a mink-lined toilet seat, you can be sure I'll reciprocate by not sending you pajamas with a "sex guide" embroidered on the pocket. Actually, I'll not send you that even if you promise me nothing. And you can count on me never to send you a cigarette lighter that plays "S'Ment Night" when it's lit. Or a liquor decanter that plays "Joy to the World" when it's tilted.

When it comes to Christmas, I simply won't agree that I'm a square, although I might admit to being slightly rectangular.

I know the Christmas festivities can't be Norman Rockwell all the way. I'll be happy even if you can't tolerate candy canes on your front door. I concede your right to red satin ornaments on an artificial white tree even if I prefer a real tree with assorted decorations—some bright and new, some broken and faded.

But, to me, some of the so-called cleverness in decorations, and gifts comes across as a degradation of the very idea of Christmas.

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TEXAS PANHANDLE
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Let Peace Begin With Me!

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessings. For only when man understands freedom and is free to control himself and all he produces can he develop his utmost capabilities.

We believe that all men are equally endowed by their Creator, and not by a government, with the right to take moral action to preserve their life and property and secure more freedom and keep it for themselves and others.

To discharge this responsibility, free men, to the best of their ability, must understand and apply to daily living the great moral guide expressed in the Coveting Commandment.

Our Christmas Message

It's Christmas Eve again. And we go back to about the middle of November when our thoughts turned to the ever recurring problem of a Christmas editorial. What, of significance, could we say this year that hasn't been said before, or possibly won't be said better by others?

Then we begin making notes, both mental and written. On the job, while talking with people who drop in for a visit, while scanning the mountain of mail coming across our desk; driving to and from the office; during meals; over coffee with the wife after our responsibilities are safely tucked away for the night; while engrossed in a book or perusing the news; during that twilight moment, between sleep and full consciousness, when "thoughts arise unbidden"; the note-making process continues.

Slowly, in bits and pieces, phrase by phrase, sentence by sentence, we build the Christmas editorial until, finally, along about the middle of December, we begin thinking: "Ah, this year, there will be no problem; this year, it is there, already written in our mind, waiting to be put on paper."

And then, calamity descends upon our editorial cubicle, attesting to the fact that others have been making some notes of their own. Christmas time copy from our editorial page Columnists begins coming in; day after day, the double-spaced typed pages fall on our desk.

And as we read the copy, giving silent thanks for such an abundance of talent, we realize with a start that each, in some way or another, has touched upon the Christmas theme; and that each, in his or her own way, has taken the bits and pieces of our mental Christmas Editorial and, in phrases and sentences and paragraphs of their own, expressed the thoughts better than we could hope to.

Humiliating, that's what it is. One by one, we cross out our laboriously assembled mental and written notes, until, finally, we sit stricken at a blank sheet of copy paper in the typewriter with a single note remaining from our almost written editorial.

The note reads: "Compete or perish."

And, since the thought that triggered the note is in consonance with the Spirit of Christmas, the Golden Rule, and "Peace on Earth, Good Will Toward Men," we now submit it to the consideration of our readers as The Pampa News all.

Professors On Slavery

W.L. Brown, who is on the engineering faculty at San Diego (Calif.) State College, has taken to verse to comment on "educational freedom" on our campuses. Pointing out in what few esteem tax payers are held, he concluded that scholars claim, "All we want from you tax payers: Keep paying the freight!"

It seems cutting irony that the very ones among the loudest lamentation about "society's" collective guilt for the once upon a time practice of enslaving black people apparently would feel no twinge of conscience about enslaving all citizens of all colors to support their mastery in the halls of academe.

The verse was submitted by John Gilbaugh, a professor at California State College, San Jose, who writes a weekly commentary on colleges for

Helsinki Strategy Reticent

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—If President Nixon seems hard-pressed about the arms talks with Russia and not overly interested in reaching agreement, it's part of a strategy devised by his advisers.

These men have spent a great deal of time going through the minutes of past meetings with the Russians. A series of studies have been written on Russian negotiating techniques and on why the Reds do what they do in conferences. Most of the old timers with major experience in talking with the Kremlin's men have had their brains picked in considerable detail.

Out of this has come what might be called "the strategy of reticence." Paraphrased, it runs as follows: By all means, don't let the negotiations be hailed as opening a new era in U.S.-Soviet relations.

Quick eagerness to believe in the sincerity of Soviet intentions tends to strengthen Soviet hardliners. It could tempt the Kremlin to use the negotiations to dissipate Western suspicions rather than seriously seek arms control.

Don't be in a hurry for a solution. Don't seem eager, in fact, for any solution at all. Act as though time were not of importance.

Once the Soviet government learns the United States (or any other country) has a time limit, or is overly anxious for an agreement, historically Kremlin negotiators have sat down and waited patiently for time to run out in the conviction they would then get their way.

Don't go into serious talks with the Russians unless the initiative comes heavily from their side.

As former U.S. ambassador to Moscow George Kennan has put it: "Russians can be dealt with satisfactorily only when they themselves want something and feel themselves in a dependent position."

Prepare to let the Russians argue every point ad nauseam—and be patient with them. That's their hang-up. They're caught in a system which compels it.

As Philip Mosely, former director of the Russian Institute at Columbia University put it: "In numerous instances, Soviet negotiators, even when under some pressure to reach agreement, have shown that they are in mortal terror of violating any part... of their instructions, and are extremely reluctant to report to Moscow that they cannot get every point and every wording in their own drafts. Making recommendations for even slight changes in their instructions exposes them to serious risks. It means that they consider their own superiors slightly less than omniscient. It may mean giving undue weight to the that they can be accused of viewpoint of another government and thus of falling captive to imperialist insinuations."

"Therefore any point which has finally to be abandoned must be given up only after a most terrific struggle."

Don't offer compromises. The word compromise is not of Russian origin. It normally follows the adjective "putrid."

Call for frequent recesses. Soviet negotiators, even those of the highest rank, cannot respond or change their stand even on elementary matters except after thoroughgoing discussions among the top men in Moscow. This takes considerable time. Recesses give that time. Otherwise the Russians merely repeat over and over again what they've said before, which gets very dull.

AN EASY CHOICE

A top trainer of thoroughbred horses was once asked how he happened to choose his career.

Mr. Price—When I was a boy on the farm, I was wild about horses and cows. I knew I would spend my life raising one or the other.

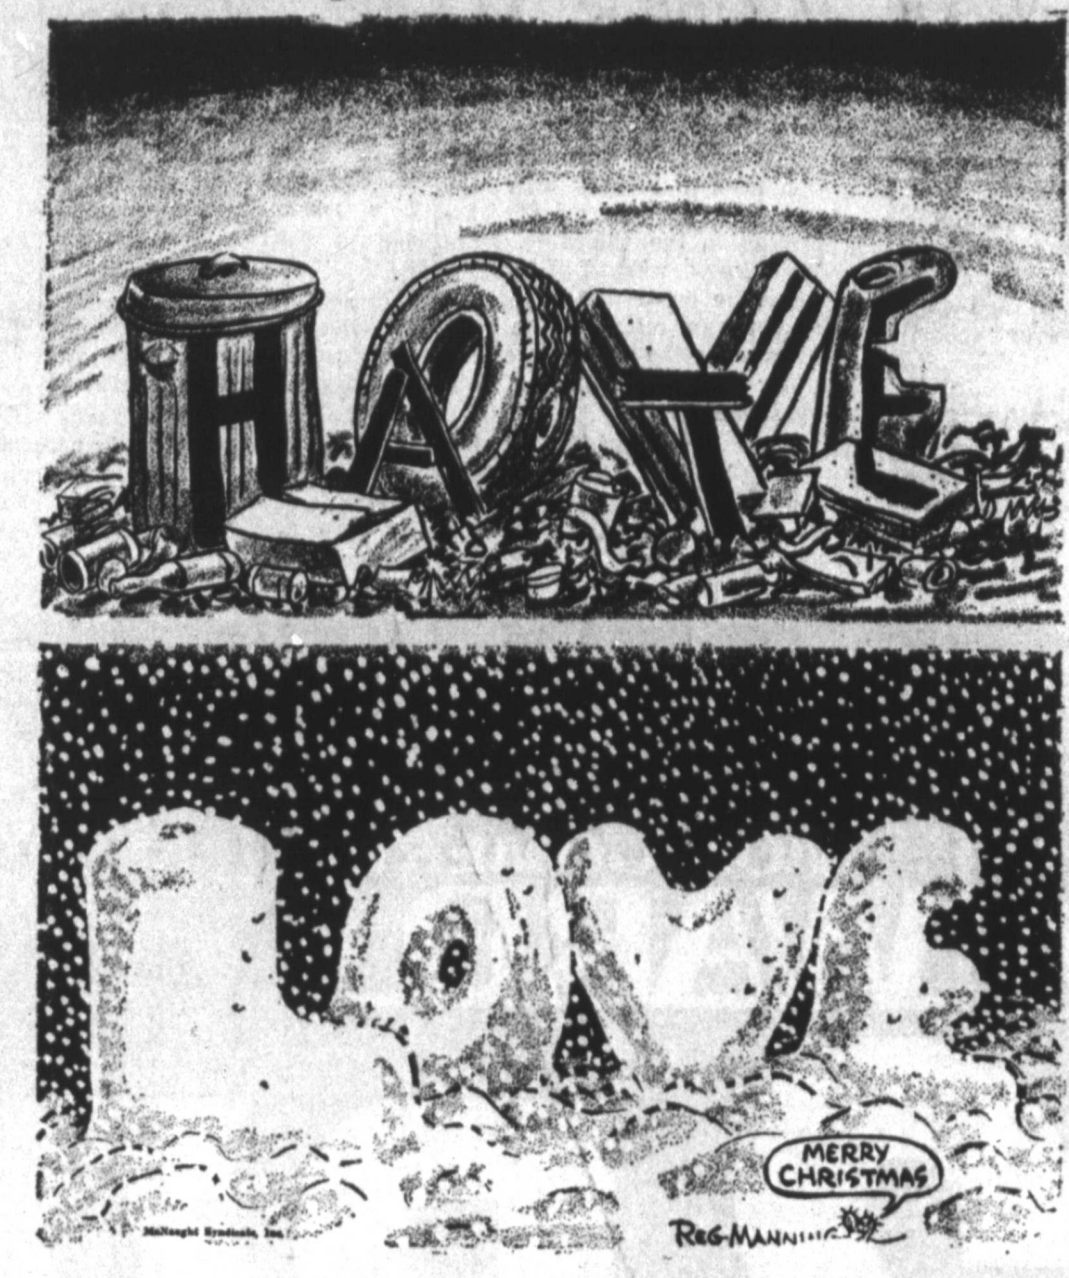

Mr. Rich—How did you decide which?

Mr. Price—That was easy. I didn't have to milk horses.

Society's Pure Hypocrisy In Attitudes On Violence

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Nobody in this country with the capacity to read a little history ought to need any primer lessons on the obviously common tendency toward violence among Americans—or for that matter, most peoples on earth.

It is pretty easy to show what an old and quite general story it is. To suggest that the alleged atrocities at Song My in South Vietnam reflect a "new national sickness" among Americans is patently foolish. Volumes are filled with the evidence that the veneer of civilized behavior is very thin almost everywhere.

The really deep difficulty about violence is that far too many "good" people, particularly in categories of status and leadership, are not really against it—yet ought to be without equivocation.

The cry of shame should be shouted most loudly against those here and abroad who apply a double standard to judgments of violence, who either say or imply that it is "justifiable" or "inevitable" if the cause is right, or seem to argue that some kinds and degrees of violence are all right but others are not.

Consistently among the worst offenders in this regard have been some of this nation's liberals (and their counterparts abroad). They are commonly guilty of the grossest hypocrisy on the subject of violence.

In the 1930s, when U.S. workers were struggling for union recognition through a rash of what then were called sitdown strikes (the occupying of factories), hardly a liberal voice was raised against the frequent violence of the men. The "cause" was just.

That really has not changed in 35 years. Beatings and burnings associated with picket line activity are taken in stride today. One of the worst strikes in recent times involved long-haul transporters of steel products. Strikers, always comfortably disowned by union leaders, openly fired guns at "offending" drivers form overpasses on the busy Pennsylvania turnpike. The potential for death in a truck gun wild is obvious. But the silence is thick at such times among labor's "friends."

No reporter, probably no historian, could take the time to document the endless stream of utterances from some liberals offering "deprivation" as the excuse—not just the explanation—for much of today's crime.

Well, in the first place, a lot of crime is committed by people who are not deprived, and millions of the deprived never commit a crime. To listen to the "justifiers," one would expect every one of this country's hungry folk old enough to hold a weapon to be out blazing away.

Moreover, the "deprivation" argument usually stops short of dealing with the mindless beatings and killings which so often accompany theft.

If the confused liberals do deal with it, they usually find a handy answer in the "range" deprived people feel against "offending society." If we cannot condone American soldiers' rage at Song My after reportedly seeing some of their companions killed by mines and booby traps, then we cannot justify translating rage into killing anywhere.

The truth is that violence is all of a piece, and a civilized person should not open the door to any of it.

Nixon's Viet Moves Rated High By G.O.P. Governors

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (NEA)—President Nixon, always styled the consummate politician, has had a mixed first year as a political figure. But he is closing out on a strong rising note.

Whatever mutterings may still be heard from some of his party colleagues on Capitol Hill, a canvass of his fellow Republican governors turns up almost no current, significant criticism.

His role as the GOP's top political leader cannot, of course, be wholly divorced from his policies and performance across the board. So, especially with the latest Vietnam troop withdrawal announcement, most governors for a starter give the President high rating for his program of disengagement from the war.

Yet, while this feeling is clearly general among men whose positions as state leaders keep them close to public attitudes, there is some uneasiness, that Nixon could lose his evident advantage if he does not maintain a steady withdrawal pace.

Says one western governor: "His status is fragile. It depends on his keeping up the motion on Vietnam."

From a midwestern governor: "The President's 'silent majority,' which I think is real enough, undoubtedly includes lots of people who would like to get the war over soon and could quickly become impatient."

Policies and programs aside, the President's showing as a political manager is seen today in much brighter tones than last spring. Then he was being widely assailed for messing up patronage, failing to attend to countless gripes, not doing what he should to position promising party people for major races in 1970. Now the praise is lavish.

He is seen as having been heavily instrumental in the election of two off-year governors, Linwood Holton in Virginia and Rep. William Cahill in New Jersey. The victories put GOP holdings at 32 of 50.

Nixon's credits include good marks for the timing of his personal intervention in each state (late, when the candidates were gaining), and the abundant technical guidance lent by his administration.

In Holton's case, for instance, a national party campaign task force went into Virginia to measure his problems, gave advice, and then the Republican National Committee provided a resident campaign manager, Marvin Collins.

As for Cahill, though he plainly benefited hugely from Democrats' disenchantment with their own candidate, former Gov. Robert Meyner, the Nixon forces did key polling which helped pace and direct the President's entry into New Jersey and fuel the candidate's confidence. Moreover, there was vital expert advice from people closely tied to the President's political setup in Washington.

That structure right now is meeting broad approval from GOP governors. They see the national committee under Chairman Rogers Morton as highly competent on technical grounds, as co-operative and aggressive. Most also think the President's White House operation under Harry Dent (who now has other duties) has done well lately.

It is no longer news that Vice President Agnew's surfacing as a blunt-speaking Nixon political agent—with a large role for 1970—gets endorsement from most governors. Only one or two say Agnew's tone has had any damaging effect in their states—and that was fairly minimal.

Even in GOP-held states which Nixon lost in 1968, like Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, the President is judged well today as a politician and is felt to be far better off than when he ran. In states he won, this same higher gauge is put on his popularity.

Most governors tend to forgive the early confusion—bad as it was. Some call it the new administration. Others accept the judgment often advanced that the President at first consciously turned from politics to build an image as "statesman." At least a few see this as the "best politics," especially with a war on. Says one:

"If he had come out in fully combatant political attire, it would not have been good for him or for us."

Yule Greeting Cards Welcomed by Hospitals

One of the healthiest customs connected with Christmas is the sending of greeting cards. It fulfills a deep human need to keep in touch with widely scattered friends, especially if a brief personal note or family snapshot is included, the custom started in England in 1846, when Henry Cole, noting that he had more friends than he could honor with a personal letter, had an artist design and hand-color 1,000 special cards.

This innovation quickly became popular and its originator was knighted. As a spin-off benefit, the rehabilitation and occupational therapy departments of many hospitals take cards donated by public-spirited persons and use them to make wall hangings or scrapbooks for children's wards or to decorate baskets and other objects.

The Manion Forum

A BEAUTIFUL PERSON
You knew it before Spiro Agnew said it — not everyone in the Nation is screaming, or rebelling, or plotting to destroy society. Still, after digesting the day's news, one wonders if the old-fashioned virtues can still exist in our new-fashioned, sophisticated world.

Dick West, editorial director of the Dallas Morning News, wrote a lovely column not long ago that does one's heart good. In this day and age, anything that can do that deserves repeating. So here it is:
"It was a warm Indian summer afternoon, and in the front yard of a neighbor a man was crawling on his hands and knees in the freshly cut grass... His head turned one way, then to the other. We watched another minute, walked across the driveway, then asked: 'What's wrong—may I help?'"
"You sure can. I can't find my cane."
"It was only four feet away, so we picked it up and helped him to his feet."
"How long have you been blind?" we asked.
"Since I was 11 — and I'm in my 78th year."
"Ed G. Pope, blind but far from helpless — and in anybody's book a great American — has been supporting himself selling brooms, mops and mats for more than half a century."
"Door to door he goes, always grateful, perennially cheerful, smiling at a life he can not see..."
"They taught you in those days to provide for yourself, to love your country, parents and your environment; to salute and revere the flag; to cherish your heritage and always fight and work to protect it."
"When Ed Pope was only 11, his father died. His mother was left to rear Ed, his twin sister and four younger girls."
"She took the children to Grandfather Gregory Thue's farm to live, and it was there that young Ed — was — driving

Question Box

(We invite questions on economics and the proper function of government which will not injure anyone.)

QUESTION: From the standpoint that men are free because they are rational, shouldn't people be prevented from becoming voluntarily irrational even if they trouble nobody at the time?

ANSWER: The problem is determining just what is rational and irrational. For instance, at one time nearly everyone believed the world was flat, and those in the minority who believed otherwise were considered irrational. Copernicus believed the earth rotated on its axis and that the planets rotated around the sun, and was considered irrational at the time. A great many scientific discoveries have been made by individuals whose thinking was considered irrational at the time.

Thus, we know of no way that it can be determined that an individual is rational or irrational. Believing that freedom is a reciprocal condition where there is no outside coercion, any individual who is not violating his and others' freedom or infringing the rights of others should not be forcibly prevented from peaceful activity.

Any infringement on such peaceful activity may prevent another Copernicus or Thomas A. Edison from developing and adding to the knowledge and well-being of all people.

Q—What could cause pleural effusion? Does it ever go away?
A—The causes include heart disease, tuberculosis, kidney disease, pneumonia and lung cancer. It won't clear up until the cause is removed.

Q—Twice in the past year my lungs have filled up with water. What causes this?
A—See the answer to the preceding question.

Q—What is the cause of pleurodynia? Is there any cure?
A—This is an inflammation of the fibrous tissues (ligaments, tendons and muscle sheaths) in the chest. The usual cause is the Coxsackie virus. The average duration of the disease is four days but it may last for several weeks and relapses may occur. There is no specific treatment. Pain relievers will make you more comfortable while you are waiting for nature to effect a cure.

Q—My mother had a proctoscopic examination two years ago and the report said: "Small areas of lymphoid hyperplasia in the distal rectum." The doctor said no treatment was necessary. What does it all mean?
A—Lymphoid tissue occurs throughout the digestive tract. It is characterized by small follicles that are similar to lymph nodes. When such tissue is more prevalent than usual, hyperplasia exists. This may have been caused by irritation of the tissues or a chronic low-grade infection. But in the absence of any other evidence of disease, it is of no significance.

The Pampa Daily News

By RON CROSS

The Pampa Harvesters swarmed all over Perryton here Tuesday, hit over 60 per cent of their field goals, broke a three game losing streak and Jim Gallman, Mike Edgar and Richard Bunton gave a sparse crowd quite a show.

Gallman scored 28 points and Edgar 20 and Bunton grabbed off 13 rebounds as the Harvesters blitzed Perryton, 58-46, in what was really a better game than the score would indicate.

Pampa started slowly, making more mistakes than points and the Harvesters battled the Rangers to a 12-12 first period tie after trailing by as much as three about midway through the period.

But sophomore Edgar and senior Gallman shot the Rangers out of the fieldhouse in the second period. Edgar poured in six field goals and Gallman had four and added a field goal and the Harvesters built up a 33-24 intermission lead.

Edgar was by far at his best. The 6'2" sophomore missed the first shot he took in the opening period and then never missed again, hitting his next nine.

Gallman had only one bad quarter, the third, when he tallied only four points. But he wound up 11 of 14 in the game and chipped in six of six free throws.

For the night Pampa hit 24 of 38 from the field (63.1 per cent) and had another good night from the charity line, connecting 10 of 13. Terry Slaughter and Jerry O'Brian paced the Rangers with each getting 16 points.

Perryton hit 17 of 48 and knocked in 12 of 16 from the free throw line.

Bunton, who leads Pampa in rebounds continued his hot pace with 13 for the night, almost as many as Perryton got as a team. Bunton scored seven points and had three baskets that just refused to stay in.

Defensively Pampa showed their form of old with Vernon Johnston, Randy Marsh and Allen Sieve Scott doing a good job against the Rangers. Johnston also picked off four rebounds.

Perryton's last lead was 12-10 shortly before the first period ended. Gallman tied it with three seconds left then at the start of the second period Edgar gave Pampa its lead to stay, hitting from six feet away. Gallman added his first of two three-point plays of the night for a 17-14 lead and Pampa was never head.

Pampa stretched its lead to 48-47 after three periods and Gallman's outburst in the fourth quarter gave Pampa a 57-43 lead at one point.

The Pampa Shockers broke a three game losing streak also with a 60-36 victory. Micky Sims 19 points and 13 Gary Haynes paced the Shockers, now 6-3 for the season.

Irish Squad To Attend Banquet

DALLAS (UPI) — The host Texas Longhorns and Notre Dame's Irish, making the first bowl trip for a Notre Dame team in 45 years, will make their only official Dallas appearance prior to the Cotton Bowl Game at the annual Texas Sports Hall of Fame Luncheon.

The two squads and their coaching staffs will attend the luncheon, scheduled Wednesday, Jan. 31 at the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel, and will be introduced to the 1,000 guests by head coaches Darrell Royal and Ara Parseghian.

UCLA Swamps LSU Five, Holds Maravich To 33

By United Press International

To say that Pete Maravich, college basketball's leading scorer, was overmatched Tuesday night, might be the understatement of the year.

UCLA "held" Maravich to a season low of 38 points, 10 below his average. Tuesday night while setting a club scoring record for the second time in 11 days with a 133-84 triumph over Louisiana State.

LSU was playing its fourth game in six nights, having logged nearly 6,000 miles on its current road trip, but Coach Press Maravich refused to make any excuses for his club.

In racking up its fifth straight win, UCLA placed six men in double figures. Forwards Curtis Rowe and Sidney Wicks each had 23 points, while Henry Bibby scored 17, Steve Patterson had 15 and John Ecker contributed 12.

Calvin Murphy of Niagara, second only to Maravich in scoring with a 33-point average, made a quick recovery from a pre-game pain in his side to tally 36 points as the undefeated Purple Eagles downed Xavier, 91-83, for their seventh triumph.

Fourteenth-ranked Southern California used Dennis Layton's 24 points to rout visiting St. John's of New York, 95-59. The Trojans, in upping their record to 5-2, ran off 18 straight points during a second half rally to wrap up their victory.

Jim Ard scored 26 points for Cincinnati as the Bearcats continued their hex over intrastate rival Dayton.

Renfro Leads Interceptions

DALLAS (UPI) — Free safety Mel Renfro was the only member of the Dallas Cowboys to win a National Football League individual statistical title, but several others finished high in the rankings.

Renfro's three thefts in the last two games gave him a total of 10 for the season, best in the league, a new club record and two ahead of Detroit's Lem Barney and Minnesota's Bob Bryant.

Cowboy rookie Calvin Hill, hampered by injuries for six weeks, still finished second to Chicago's Gale Sayers in rushing with 942 yards, just 90 behind the Bears' ace.

Hill and Walt Garrison, whose 818 yards ranked him sixth in the league, gave the Cowboys the best one-two ground punch in the league and they shared the second best NFL average of 4.6 yards per carry.

NEW PRESIDENT

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Lynn Stone, an assistant vice president of the Liberty National Bank and Trust Company in Louisville, was elected unanimously Tuesday to succeed Wathen Knebelkamp as president of Churchill Downs.

Stone, on Jan. 1, will officially take over as president of the track where the Kentucky Derby is run each year.

Yuletide carolers herald the season of peace, joy

Secret Diplomacy Makes Comeback

LONDON (UPI)—Secret diplomacy, banished by the major Western powers after World War II as the product of an authoritarian policy concept, has staged a remarkable comeback.

The United States, once the most outspoken opponent of secret diplomacy, has significantly taken the lead in restore it, if only on an experimental basis.

The key test case now in operation is the Soviet-American talks in Helsinki on the possibility of limiting strategic arms (SALT).

The outcome may determine the future of inter-state relations in the 1970s.

Postwar Policy Shifts

Western postwar policy, moving away from the earlier practice of secrecy, shifted toward full scale open diplomacy by the mid-1940s. It has since determined the major East-West developments of the past quarter century.

Cold war diplomacy was essentially an open diplomacy, with the West, at any rate, giving full publicity to its major policy moves and designs.

International negotiations proceeded in the limelight of full publicity, to the point of being over-publicized at times.

The postwar peace conferences, the many Big-Four negotiations, the summit meetings, the Far Eastern conferences all enjoyed utmost publicity, often on a blow-by-blow basis.

Critics of open diplomacy have argued that greater discretion might well have helped to produce better results.

Television In Review

Holiday File: NBC-TV's "Today" program will devote all of its two-hour Christmas Day broadcast to filmed greetings from wounded servicemen in Vietnam to their families and friends back home. . . Same network's "Tonight" show will offer coverage of the annual New Year's Eve celebration in New York's Times Square. . . CBS-TV's new half-hour cartoon special, "Frosty the Snowman," was a smash ratings hit. . . And NBC-TV's "Hallmark Hall of Fame," usually a stranger to high ratings, got a whopping audience with its original musical for children, "The Littlest Angel."

Add Ratings: President Nixon's recent televised talk was the No. 1 program in the rankings for the week of Dec. 8-14. . . Next came another NBC-TV children's special "Hans Brinker". . . ABC-TV's new musical series headliner, Engelbert Humperdinck, also scored well with a special, finishing 11th among all shows. . . Ann-Margret, meanwhile, came in 25th — respectable, but not overpowering — in her CBS-TV special. . . But Jack Benny scored a tremendous success in his recent NBC-TV variety hour with Gregory Peck, placing fifth.

The Headliners: Harry Belafonte and Lena Horne will have an hour musical special on ABC-TV March 22. . . Composer Burt Bacharach and his actress-wife, Angie Dickinson, are hosts of the same network's "Hollywood Palace" Jan. 10. . . Gene Kelly, director of the newly released movie "Hello, Dolly," is set for an hour outing of music and comedy on NBC-TV Jan. 14. . . The same day, NBC-TV's previously announced Rowan and Martin special, which will satirize television, will offer the Smothers Brothers as guests. Dick Cavett's premiere as host of ABC-TV's late-night series next Monday will include Woody Allen. . . Henry Fonda, as an English teacher, and Elsa Lanchester, as a non-English-speaking cleaning woman, are guests on NBC-TV's Bill Cosby series Jan. 11 in an episode in which all three principals are stranded overnight in an elevator. . . The Los Angeles cast of the musical "Hair" will perform a medley of the show's songs in a 15-minute segment on ABC-TV's "Music Scene" next Monday.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UP)—There should be no shortage of "TURNAROUND" issues in the market at the end of the year when tax-loss selling and switching comes to an end, Spear and Staff Inc. says. The firm looks for a gradual recovery in blue chip stocks "based on a rekindling of interest in exceptionally low price-earnings ratios."

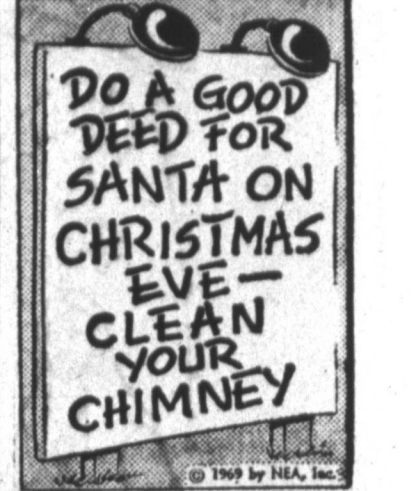

Though the general outlook for corporate profits is down both for the current quarter, "and most probably, at least through the first half of 1970," Abraham Co. believes his prospect is already discounted in most stock prices. Investors should consider low multiple issues of companies which, though subject to recessionary influences, have already discounted several quarters of lower earnings and have good growth prospects, the firm says.

Johnson Thought Of Resigning

NEW YORK (UPI)—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson seriously considered resigning in 1965, three years before he announced he would not run for reelection, his wife's press secretary said Monday. "Even in his Senate days, LBJ would occasionally talk about going back to Texas," Liz Carpenter said in an article published by McCall's magazine. "As vice president, he wondered if he wouldn't be happier living at the ranch. "He toyed with the idea of quitting before the 1964 convention in Atlantic City.

The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. Weather Service will be observing its 100th anniversary in February and it behooves us all to celebrate accordingly.

But, outside of blowing up a few weather balloons, what is "accordingly"? A good question, sir or madam, and you have come to the right place for the answer.

When the disc jockey on my car radio finished reading the day's weather forecast the other morning, he noted that a new forecast would be available in 15 minutes. As he said this, I couldn't help thinking how discouraging being a weather forecaster must be.

I mean, here some knowledgeable, dedicated Weatherman had prepared what I regarded as truly excellent forecast. It sounded solid and reassuring, with just a bit of poetic lilt. The forecaster obviously had put his heart and soul into it.

Yet it would have a life span of only an hour or two before being revised.

In my day, weather forecasts were more durable. A good forecast in those days would last you up to 12 hours, maybe longer. But everything lasted longer then.

Anyway I got to thinking what a pity it was that weather forecasts had become so transitory and expendable. And it was then that I got this idea for the weather service's centennial celebration.

What I have in mind is having President Nixon appoint a panel of distinguished meteorologists to serve as judges in the selection of America's 10 all-time greatest weather forecasts.

These would be engraved on plaques and hung in the weathermen's Hall of Fame, to be created by act of Congress.

Each December after that, the panel would pick the year's 10 top forecasts, which also would be enshrined in the hall.

In addition, the hall could be used for honoring other outstanding achievements. Let's

"IT WAS GREAT, here in the Bahamas, 'til they started the cute-hat bit." In Nassau's straw market, a slightly disgruntled pooch seems to be weighing the merits of a warm sub-tropic sun and a loss of dignity against snow, slush and a dog sitter at home.

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI) —When former President Lyndon B. Johnson met President Nixon in a two-hour breakfast conversation at the White House recently, there was widespread speculation about what they discussed.

The White House released a sparse list of foreign affairs topics which came up in the talks, but nothing more. Before returning to his Texas ranch, Johnson avoided reporters except for a few of his favorites.

Even with them, however, the conversation amounted essentially to small talk.

But with former associates in his administration, LBJ did drop a few hints about his talk with Nixon.

Among other things, Johnson during his brief Washington stay spoke of how Nixon was being mistreated by the press.

He felt the current chief executive was on the right course in Vietnam, but the public was being disturbed unduly or confused concerning Nixon peace efforts.

That situation was attributed in large measure by what Johnson viewed as biased interpretation by columnists, commentators, cartoonists and journalists.

From second and third-hand accounts, it was difficult to determine the extent of which Johnson compared Nixon's difficulties with his own experiences as a widely criticized President.

Johnson, however, was quoted by one friend as having said after his first White House visit since he turned over the presidency to Nixon last Jan. 20:

"Dick Nixon is doing a lot better as President than most people realize. And he would do a lot better (in conduct of the Vietnam War and peace efforts) if the blankety-blank press would leave him alone and give him a chance."

Dodd Cleared Of Duplicity After Justice Department Investigation

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Justice Department has completed its investigation into the financial affairs of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd D-Conn., and decided that no criminal prosecution was warranted.

The decision was revealed by Bennett Williams, Dodd's attorney, from Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

The letter said "This is to inform you that the United States will institute no criminal prosecution against your client. This decision by the department is based upon the recommendations of the staff of the tax division and the assistant attorney general in charge of the tax division and the staff of the criminal division and the assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division, that no criminal prosecution is warranted."

Williams read the letter to reporters at a news conference in the Capitol after Dodd said the Justice Department decision cleared him of any wrongdoing.

Twin investigations by the Internal Revenue Service and the Justice Department were instituted after the Senate censured Dodd for converting campaign contributions to his personal use.

Dodd said he had "been subjected to the most intensive investigation on every facet of my life" and he was "grateful" at the outcome. He said he still planned to seek reelection next year.

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is ordinarily a rather temperate man whose utterances reflect a fair amount of diplomatic restraint.

I was therefore astonished by the severity of the charge that the Arkansas Democrat made Monday against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Fulbright arose on the Senate floor and, while the very skies trembled at the audacity of his remarks, accused Agnew of being soft on flattery.

Or at least that was the inference I drew from his comment.

What Fulbright actually did was question whether Agnew himself was being completely objective when Agnew recently questioned the objectivity of certain news media.

Quest For Objectivity Agnew's "quest for objectivity" appears to be directed at administration critics rather than supporters," Fulbright asserted.

Those are strong words, not only for what they say but also for what they imply.

For one thing, they imply that if television commentators had been unanimously favorable in analyzing President Nixon's Vietnam speech last month, Agnew would have left their objectivity unchallenged.

This amounts to an allegation of one-side objectivity. Which is a rather serious charge of itself.

Aluminum Foil Creates Shiny Christmas Toys, Table Decor

NEW YORK (Sp1) — Ever been bothered by what you should do.

When your youngsters are restless and pestering you? Here's a wonderful hobby to start right away.

Sure to keep the kids happy and busy all day.

What's more, you can brighten your Christmas decor.

Create beautiful toys, gala gifts and much more.

All you need is some foil (the aluminum kind).

And a few other items it's easy to find:

or can purchase for pennies at any small store.

Just follow directions; you'll all have a ball.

And this Christmas will be the most shining of all!

SILVER TEDDY BEAR. You will need a 12" high paper bag from the food market, old newspapers or cellophane packing material, a styrofoam ball, pink ribbon and aluminum foil. For Teddy's body, stuff the bag with crumpled newspapers or packing material. Tape it closed and cover with foil, then mold to shape of body.

For the head, cover the styrofoam ball with foil, form a nose from crushed foil and attach with pins. For ears take several thicknesses of foil and mold to shape, lining the insides with pink ribbon or cloth. Attach to head with pins. For eyes, pin shiny black buttons in place.

Next form legs and arms by crushing and molding foil. Shape arms with hands turned in and legs with feet turned up.

Poke holes in arms and legs where they join body and pull wires through. Knot or poke wire back through into arms and legs to hold them in place. Tie a pink or red bow around Teddy's neck and tie on small jingle bells if you have them.

JOLLY SNOWMAN TABLE CENTERPIECE. Cover one large and one small styrofoam ball with aluminum foil. Use toothpicks to fasten together. Make a face on the smaller ball with buttons for eyes, yarn for eyebrows, a tiny red ball for nose and a crescent of yarn or red paper for mouth. Pin buttons down the front. Crush foil for arms, make hands with red mittens from cardboard and yarn. Fasten these to body with toothpicks or common pins. Stand the snowman on a circle or star of cardboard covered with foil and marked with bright yarn. Make a hat from a paper drinking cup covered with foil. Tie red yarn around the brim and make a scarf from several strands of yarn braided together.

SILVER CHRISTMAS TREE.

- (1) For a 12" high tree, fold a 12" square of light cardboard in half. Cut freehand the outline of a Christmas tree in a wooden tub. This will be your pattern.
- (2) Tear off eight 12" squares of aluminum foil and four squares of paper (cut from old magazine covers). Paste together, using rubber cement to make four strong squares, foil on top and underneath with paper in the middle. Trace tree pattern on squares and cut out four trees.
- (3) Put four trees together and staple up through center.
- (4) Open out in all directions. The base is formed by the tub and the tree should stand up nicely. Decorate with tiny Christmas balls. This tree may be made any size.

SHINING FOIL ANGEL. You can make her in five simple steps. You will need lightweight cardboard, aluminum foil, newspaper, tape, styrofoam ball, wire or small pencil, two pipe cleaners, tissue paper, adhesive tape and pins.

- (1) Make wings. Cover both sides of cardboard with foil using rubber cement to adhere foil. Sketch two wings on foil cardboard.
- (2) Make body. Use six page thickness of newspaper. Form a cone and seal it with tape to make it firm. Wrap foil around cone, smoothing to keep in place and securing ends with rubber cement.
- (3) Make head from styrofoam ball, tinted with powder and rouge. Cut eyelids out of blue paper and eyelashes from foil. Cut mouth out of pink paper. Paste eyelids, lashes and mouth on face.
- (4) Put angel together using a straight wire to form hook at one end and force through top of head and then into body. Make small holes in upper part of body and insert pipe cleaners to form arms. Glue to secure and wind ends with flesh-tinted adhesive tape for hands. Attach wings with pins.
- (5) Fix her hair by winding angel hair around the top of head. Attach with pins and spray with hair spray. Cut a star or ornament of foil and glue to hair. Bend eyelash fringes up for final effect.

SILVER ROSE WREATH. Foil Christmas roses can be used for wreaths, topiary trees, to decorate place cards or gift packages. What's more, they're easy to make. All you need is Aluminum foil creates shiny Christmas toys, table decor.

Christmas Gaiety

Still on the lookout for original and inexpensive ways to decorate the house for Christmas? Here's the brightest idea of the season, adaptable to trees, wreaths, angels, garlands and all kinds of traditional motifs.

All you need, basically, is a roll of scalloped crepe paper streamers and the ruffling accessory on your sewing machine. Run through the ruffler, folded and topstitched, green crepe paper looks like garlands of evergreen, to be draped around mirrors, mantles, over doors. In white, the ruffles can be used for angel wings, white trees, and ruffled Christmas stockings. Crepe paper ruffles can edge a tablecloth or Christmas tree skirt or add flirtation to your basic paper dress.

A sewing company offers these instructions for ruffling crepe paper: Set sewing machine ruffler at No. 1 (fine gather) and stitch length at eight stitches per inch. Stitch through the center of the streamer. Set machine for straight-stitching, removing ruffler. Fold streamer in half, lengthwise on stitching line, and top-stitch fold close to edge.

Decorations of crepe paper are gay and inexpensive, and — most importantly — fire-resistant.

The decorations sketched here are made of crepe paper ruffles — the angel, the tree, the wreath, and the dainty old-fashioned pantalette to hang by the chimney.

For patterns and instructions on making these four items, plus a leaflet of non-seasonal items which may be made from paper-by-the-yard, write to Stitchin' Time, Co Pampa Daily News, Box 503, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y., 10019. Ask for Paper Leaflets, and include 50 cents, plus your name, address and zip code. You'll receive a bargain package of two sewing-with-paper leaflets.

BIG PUT ON

LAKEWOOD, Colo. (UPI)—When Mrs. Rita Clinch spotted two men trying to enter a neighbor's home, she grabbed a gun and held them at bay until law officers arrived.

A deputy sheriff asked her to lower the weapon when he approached, but the housewife assured him he had nothing to worry about. The gun was just a toy pistol she had found lying around the house.

The two men, Dennis Baca, 19, and Bennie G. Lovato, 29, both of Compton, Calif., were held for investigation of attempted burglary.

St. Mary's Chimes Wear Mini Skirts

HITCHIN, England (UPI)—The chimes of St. Mary's parish church ring their tidings of Christmas good will. And, Vicar Roland Meredith says, create a problem this year. The belles wear miniskirts. The new view on Yule disclosed by the belles of St. Mary's who pull the ropes to the parish church chimes came to the attention of Meredith, he said, when he found a poem pinned to the belfry: The miniskirted peach who WILD ALARM... "It is quite amusing," Meredith said. And reprinted the poem in his Paris magazine.

Priest Asks Immoral Girls Have Their Legs Stamped

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—The city's irascible police commissioner, Moacir Belot, said Tuesday he has under advisement a priest's request that the police department stamp be placed on legs of "immoral" girls, such as those who use miniskirts. So far this year Belot has incurred the wrath of the citizenry for slaying 400 vagabond dogs, striking an army officer with his fists, banning the use of the bikini swimsuit and cutting off trouser legs of young men wearing tight pants. Father Peter, 29, parish priest of San Antonio de Padua, who has evicted from church services women worshippers wearing miniskirts, slacks or blouses with plunging necklines, suggested police stamp the legs of immodest females.

Allies-Cong Observe Cease-Fire

SAIGON (UPI)—The Viet Cong's 72-hour Christmas cease-fire went into effect early Wednesday with American and South Vietnamese on guard for expected violations. The allies were observing a 24-hour cease-fire beginning at 6 p.m. Christmas Eve.

In advance of Communist proclaimed cease-fire which started at 1 a.m. (12 noon EDT Tuesday), Viet Cong gunners shot down two U.S. helicopters in widely separated incidents, killing two Americans and wounding four others.

"Pokey" is gonna get hitched! Most battle fronts were quiet with only light and scattered combat reported. Communiqué said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong gunners shelled 17 targets "He Haw" Pokey is henpecked! In the 24-hour period ended at 8 a.m. Tuesday. Spokesmen said the barrages killed one American and wounded three.

A Viet Cong broadcast Tuesday night ordered Communist units to honor the cease-fire. Bit it said any "military actions" by allied forces "should be punished." U.S. headquarters said American troops would suspend major combat operations during the allied cease-fire.

There will be no long range type patrols but we will send out patrols near positions of our units so that units can keep alerted," a spokesman at U.S. headquarters said. "We will only stop attacking the enemy." The absence of agreement on the term of the cease-fires seemed certain to make this Christmas period another time of bloodshed as have been the 13 previous cease-fires in the war.

A similar overlapping cease-fire situation prevailed last Christmas when U.S. headquarters said two Americans were killed and 36 wounded in 133 Viet Cong violations. The Communists countered with cease-fire violation charges against American and South Vietnamese troops.

A thought for the day: From the Gospel of St. Matthew in the New Testament: "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you."

Nixons Spend Yule In California

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon and his family will fly to San Clemente, Calif., Friday, for a holiday stay, the White House announced today. The chief executive will be accompanied by his wife Pat, and his daughter, Tricia. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said he expects Nixon to remain in California at least until Jan. 5, perhaps longer. He said that the President plans to work on his State of the Union Address and the 1971 fiscal year budget during his West Coast stay. In 1928, a permanent coast-to-coast radio network was established in the United States by the National Broadcasting Co.

Letters To Santa

Dear Santa, I'm six years old and I've been a pretty good girl most of the time. I'd like for you to bring me a Mrs. Beany typewriter, Easy Bake Oven, talking Ken, Spirograph and some clothes. I will leave you some cookies and hot chocolate on the kitchen table. Santa remember all the boys and girls too. Thank you. I love you very much. Melinda Gail Hogan 1307 N. Sumner

Dear Santa, I'm 3 years old. I've been a pretty good girl most of the time. I would like for you to bring me a Mrs. Beany typewriter, a Sing-A-Song sewing machine, a talking Ken and some clothes. I will leave you some cookies and hot chocolate on the kitchen table. Santa remember all the boys and girls too. Thank you. Alisha Gaye Hogan 1307 N. Sumner

Dear Santa, I was good, but not as good as I should have been. But would you give me some toys? I'll leave you some cookies for you. I want an electric football set, a tape recorder, a pair of skates, a super Spirograph, a game, two rifles and two pistols. Yours truly, Jimmy Standridge 1821 N. Christy

Dear Santa, I want two guns to shoot and a horse. I am a girl and I want three horses. I am a girl and I was three on my birthday. Lisa Danielle 307 E. Kingsmill

By United Presidential NO MORE ROOM CLEVELAND (UPI)—Business was so good at the Cuyahoga County Jail Monday that it had to turn away people. Sheriff Ralph Krieger allowed no more inmates at the jail because of overcrowding. The jail, designed to accommodate 350 persons, has 733. Krieger expected to transfer some of the inmates to the city workhouse today to make room for newly arriving prisoners. Ninety-five county prisoners already are at the workhouse. NOT THE SAME

Sex Becoming Way Of Life On Stage

The cast of the off-Broadway hit "Che" was arrested for, among other tidy little charges, sodomy. Among those arrested was the wardrobe mistress, presumably for providing the actors' skins.

"The Beard" was one of the first off-Broadway plays to be very graphic about a sex act. Someone wondered why the police didn't close the show, which had a fairly short run several months ago. A veteran Broadway observer said, "They didn't have to. The public didn't come, and it closed by itself."

Today, the public is coming and in such numbers that the producers can sell seats in the first rows of the theater where "Oh, Calcutta," the erotic revue, is playing for $25 per ticket.

Groucho Marx said, "I'd rather go home, look in the mirror and save the money."

There was once a playwriting rule that stated "Never take a character into the bathroom or the bedroom." Admittedly, sex could be moved with relative ease into the living room. But it was done usually with taste and left much to the audience imagination.

"Hair," which had been a moderate hit off-Broadway, and closed only to reopen in a theater cafe, closed again to open on Broadway with something it hadn't had before: nudes facing the audience.

There is not one dramatic season for them to take off their clothes. "How can they get away with it?" everyone asked just a short couple of years ago. No one asks that today. The freedom is accepted.

But is Broadway booming? Are shows opening at the rate of three a week, the average this time of year?

As of this date, six shows have opened (this doesn't count revivals or repertory companies). Two have closed ("The Penny Wars" and "Angela"). One is a smash hit ("Butterflies

Bonus Envelope Becomes Reason For Unbugging The Yule Season

NEW YORK (UPI)—If hambug replaces Merry Christmas as the standard Yuletide greeting on Wall Street this year, the Christmas bonus envelope is the reason.

A UPI survey of Wall Street brokerage houses shows that most have cut bonuses in degrees ranging from moderately to drastically. A few have eliminated the bonus entirely. Some are merely making a token payment.

"It will be an extremely rare, retail-oriented firm which will pay as much this year as last year," said Adrian Banky of Association of Stock Exchange Firms. But he noted that institutional brokerages (those whose business is chiefly from mutual funds, pension funds, insurance companies and banks) "may not be too far different than last year."

He estimated that about four of five retail firms will be paying less in bonuses. Other industry sources said as many as one quarter of the retail firms on Wall Street will be unable to pay any bonus this year.

The reason is the much discussed and lamented profit pinch which has hit virtually every brokerage firm this year. The average daily volume so far this year has been a shade over 11 million shares, compared to more than 13 million the year before. The New York Stock Exchange estimates the industry's break even point at just over 10 million shares. But the industry wasn't even making that much until fairly late in the year when a fall buying surge helped boost the average over the 10 million mark.

The nation's largest brokerage firm—Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc.—has cut bonuses about one third. Bonuses last year ranged from 10 to 22 weeks pay. This year the range is from 7 to 15 weeks, according to a spokesman.

Goodbody & Co., one of the street's biggest, will not pay a bonus at all this year, it is reported. This will mark the first time in 25 years the firm has not paid out some kind of a Christmas bonus.

Among other large firms which will pay little or nothing in Christmas bonuses, according to sources, are Walston, Francis I. Dupont and Bache—Co.

A thought for the day: James Russell Lowell once said, "There are few brains that would not be better for living on their own fat for a little while."

MAY THE SEASON BRING YOU MUCH JOY!

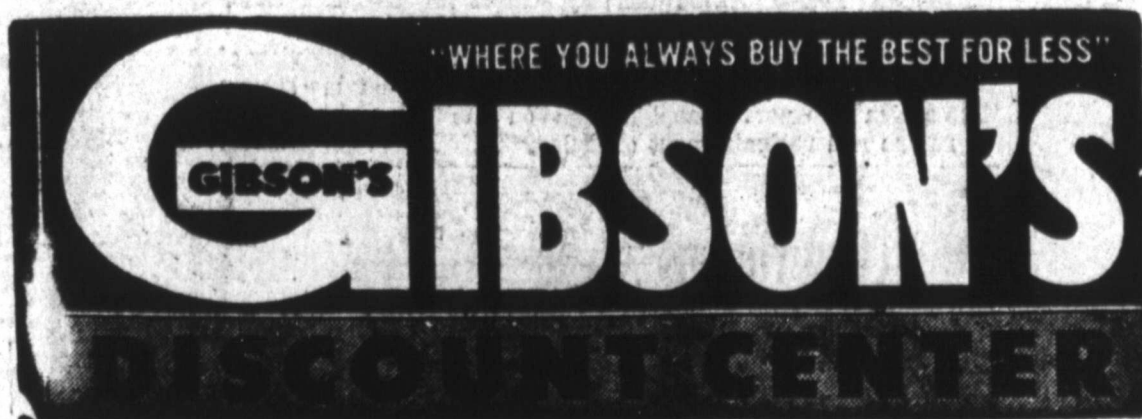

Holy Scriptures tell us of wise men from the East who came in search of the Crist Child. They followed a star until it came to rest over the place where the Child was... and "when they saw the star, they rejoiced exceedingly with great joy." We wish that joy to all who follow the star of Bethlehem.

Merry
Christmas
