

At Least 10 Die, Area Is Glazierized

GRAND FORKS, N. D.—Ten were known dead today and 30 were in hospitals after a tornado ripped down the fertile Red River Valley to cut an 80-mile long path of death and ruin from Southern Manitoba, Canada, into North Dakota and Minnesota.

Telephone and electric wires were torn out, scores of farms leveled, many head of livestock killed and a dozen towns and villages hit by the roaring twister. Witnesses said hardly a tree remained upright along the windy trail.

One man was killed at Windy Gates, Minn., 100 miles north of Grand Forks, where the blow apparently originated. Seven died in North Dakota before the roaring funnel blew itself out after killing a farm couple at Oelo, Minn., 20 miles northeast of here.

A second storm swept the Mayville-Portland, N. D. area 40 miles south of Grand Forks to level the buildings on at least a dozen farms but there were no known casualties.

Heaviest death toll was at Auburn, N. D. There, six died when the wind collapsed a farm house quartering a half dozen migrant Mexican farm workers and their families. Two of these victims were babies.

At Warsaw, N. D., a town of 100, Frank Rogalla was killed and his wife was reported missing. Early reports said only the church and town hall remained standing at Warsaw, but a later aerial survey showed only one wrecked building.

Once Blind, Man Advocates Aid to Less Fortunate

"Imagine if you can, having spent the first 18 years of your life in a world of shadows, shadows so deep that no light could penetrate to bring you any concept of the world about you," said George Campbell, noted lecturer on safety first education and practice at the Lions Club meeting yesterday.

Campbell, who was born blind and remained so for his first 18 years, gave Lions a dramatic insight to blindness and made a stirring appeal to each, not only to carefully preserve his own sight but to also do his utmost to save or secure sight for other persons.

Born with congenital cataracts covering both eyes, Campbell explained the three steps that were predominant in giving him sight. He explained that he has dedicated his life to preserving the sight of other people.

Campbell has addressed thousands of industrial workers and school children throughout the United States. The local club hopes to have him address Pampa School students sometime during the next school year.

Do You Want Me to Be Bald? Lana Queries

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Never say die, Lana Turner has warned her studio bosses.

The feminine star, whose tresses have been almost every shade in the beauty parlor, says she is going to remain her current blonde. "Just finishing 'Cass Timberlane,' she has to do detakes 'Green Dolphin Street' in which she was brown-haired, and then may have tangles on 'Cass.'"

"I said I wouldn't dye any more," she told me, "unless they wanted me to be bald the rest of my life." Con-stant treatment is damaging to the hair. MGM execs assured her she would not have to dye again, and the task of matching her darkened tresses with previous footage is up to technicians.

Unexpected Twist Is Given to Death Case

TYLER—(AP)—Bonner McLane, 62, and his wife, Mrs. Laura McLane, 80, had dinner downtown here on the occasion of their first wedding anniversary.

Shortly afterward McLane became ill and died. Mrs. McLane also became ill but recovered. Today Mrs. McLane was under charges of murder by poisoning in connection with her husband's death on April 21.

City detectives Jim Adams filed the charge after the body of McLane was exhumed and a report from Austin said poison had been found in the viscera.

Mrs. McLane was released on $3,000 bail.

Things Aren't What They Seem, Girls!

AUSTIN—(AP)—At the University of Texas, it's men, four to one. That's the proportion of men to women students this summer, Registrar E. J. Mathews' registration figures indicate. Of the 8,712 total enrollment, 7,837 are men, and 1,875 women.

The ratio is not that good for the girl seeking a mate. Many of the men are married.

President Leads Nation's Festivity

(By The Associated Press)
President Truman, who journeyed to the home of Thomas Jefferson on an address to the American people and the world at large, led Americans at home and abroad today in observance of Independence Day.

The day was not without its tragic note, however, as reports of traffic fatalities mounted throughout the nation while a tornado roared through Southern Canada, Minnesota, and North Dakota, leaving at least 10 dead in its wake and injuring 30. (See Column 1.)

A storm, too, was raging out in the Atlantic Ocean and vessels in its path were cautioned against gales off the Middle and North Atlantic Coast for the next few days. The gale was expected to reach a position about 150 or 200 miles southeast of Nantucket Island later today.

Mr. Truman chose the porch of Monticello, home of the third president of the United States and author of the Declaration of Independence, as the scene for his address. (See Column 8.)

A later war, as is planned to lay a wreath on Jefferson's tomb.

In Tokyo General MacArthur reviewed 15,000 troops of his command—the first parade he has overseen officially since pre-war days—under a humid, lead-grey sky whose low clouds brought cancellation of a scheduled mass flight of 350 American and British warplanes.

A protesting crowd of soldiers and civilians lined the parade route. The celebration in Japan's capital was being duplicated wherever American units are stationed on the island.

At home, Americans were on the See FESTIVITY, Page 2

General Points To U. S.'s Part

VICKSBURG, Miss.—(AP)—General Dwight D. Eisenhower, chief of staff, declared here today that unless the United States helps plan a structure of world peace, humanity "may suffer the Gogolgia of a third world war."

The five-star, Texas-born general, principal speaker at the third annual Cornin of the Confederacy, pointed to the uniting of the North and South after the War Between the States as a basis for international cooperation to prevent such a conflict.

"Either the nations work together for the common good," General Eisenhower said, "or one by one they will perish; or slowly in withering decay; or quickly under the impact of a total war, as is more likely the way of the future."

Death Started Early in Series Of Catastrophes

(By The Associated Press)
Thirteen persons had been killed in highway mishaps in eight states today, hours before the expected record mass holiday travel had reached its peak.

As an estimated 30,000,000 automobiles streamed onto the nation's highways, railroads, bus and airlines reported they had prepared for a record passenger business for the three-day holiday weekend.

The National Safety Council said the jam on highways would be the greatest in history and predicted that 275 persons would be killed in automobile accidents by Sunday night.

In the first report, Florida had five traffic deaths, Arizona two, and Alabama, Montana, New York, Ohio, South Carolina and Utah one each. New York reported two deaths from miscellaneous accidents, and New Jersey one.

Harry Jones of Houston was elected president of the taxation, trade and commerce section, succeeding Rupert N. Gresham of San Antonio; R. B. Cannon of Fort Worth was elected vice-president and Ray Rosoff of Dallas, secretary.

GOP Says It Has Votes to Pass Tax Bill

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Republicans claimed today they have the votes to crash through another Presidential veto and reduce taxes by $4,000,000,000 for 48,000,000 taxpayers in 1948.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) of the House Ways and Means Committee, author of the tax bill, said "it looks like we have the fight won."

Other supporters declared only a Senate filibuster could keep the measure off the statute books. There were rumblings that some senators might try to talk it to death unless its authors write in a community property amendment.

The Ways and Means Committee approved the bill yesterday by a thumping 18 to 6 vote as two Democrats, who stood by President Truman's veto of the first version, switched over to the majority. The new bill is identical with the vetoed measure, except that the tax cuts would be effective January 1, 1948 instead of July 1, 1947.

Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) predicted a second veto could be overturned in the House easily. He said probably 20 Democrats who supported the President the first time around are ready to go along with the GOP.

Texas Attorneys Pledge Fight on Tideland Issue

DALLAS—Members of the State Bar of Texas, holding their eighth annual convention here, turned their attention today to mineral law affecting the state's present and future.

Attorney General Price Daniel, speaking on the U. S. Supreme Court decision against California's right to submerged lands in the famous tideland case, pledged a fight to retain Texas ownership of lands off the Gulf Coast.

He outlined a two-fold campaign to sustain Texas' special claim in court and to support Congressional action for states' rights to tidelands.

Texas has two special claims to its tidelands, Daniel stated. They are the general property rule for all states, severely shaken by the California case, and the Texas annexation agreement, under which the Congress of the Republic of Texas ceded the tidelands to the United States.

Marshall Newcomb of Dallas, general attorney for the Lone Star Gas Co., in an address on "the producing and marketing of natural gas," outlined economic, regulatory and legal problems which affect the production and marketing of natural gas.

Two Dallas men were elected to head sections of the State Bar. They were Ross Madole, elected chairman of the Junior Bar, and Dist. 7197, Will Wilson, elected chairman of the district and county attorneys section.

Madole succeeds Mike E. Powell of Fort Worth as the Junior Bar head. D. N. (Bill) McMahon was elected vice-president and Clarence Cuitard of Dallas re-elected secretary.

Wilson succeeds Ecco Walter of Abilene as head of the district and county attorneys. Bill Allen, district attorney at Hamilton, was elected vice-president; Bob Long, Co-manche County attorney, secretary; and J. P. Fuller, Beaumont district attorney, treasurer.

Economy Talks Will Be Brief Is Report

PARIS—(AP)—French officials predicted today that the forthcoming European conference on the Marshall recovery plan would be brief, as France and Britain awaited replies from 22 nations invited to join them in the meeting here a week from tomorrow.

The French foreign ministry sent the joint invitations last night to Paris embassies and foreign ministries aboard of every sizable European country except the Soviet Union and Spain. The conference will work from the British-French proposals.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov turned down these proposals Wednesday in the breakup of a three-week Paris meeting, but the British-French offer was left open to "all European states," except Spain so long as she remained under Franco.

Because of the duplicated invitation, the replies may be given either at a Paris conference or in diplomatic quarters said that in the usual case the foreign minister likely would reply to the French envoy in his own capital, so that all the answers might not be in till early next week.

The conference will be in line with Secretary of State George C. Marshall's June 5 offer at Harvard University of United States help in any joint European recovery effort.

Greece and Denmark announced today they would take part in the European economic consultation conference projected by Britain and France under the Marshall proposal.

Premier Knud Kristensen of Denmark told of his nation's intention in a speech of thousands of Danish-Americans celebrating July 4 in the rebuilt National Park in Jutland. He termed the preparations initiated under the Marshall proposal "a peaceful offensive."

Greece accepted today the invitation by Britain and France to a Paris conference of 24 nations July 12. It was announced in Athens that she would be represented by Finance Minister Demetrios Helms.

Harry Truman, re-elected executive secretary, said the state executive board would probably take no action as to the federal and state labor laws until the national board formed a policy at a meeting in Washington July 9.

Aceman described the current wave of labor legislation as an attempt "similar to that which followed World War I, which was used to smash unionism." He said that economic force was employed at that time while political pressure is the current procedure.

Chief Speaks At Monticello, Jefferson Home

CH A RLOTTEVILLE, Va.—(AP)—President Truman today described as "folly" the refusal of any European nation to take part in a cooperative plan for the continent's economic recovery.

Without mentioning the Soviet Union by name, Mr. Truman struck out at "organized mistrust" which he said leads the world's people "away from peace and unity."

He called for an end of "propaganda attacks upon other nations."

The United States is "living up to its responsibilities for creating the economic conditions of peace," the President said in an Independence Day address prepared for delivery from the porch of Monticello, home of Thomas Jefferson.

Then, in an obvious reference to the breakdown of the preliminary Paris conference on the European aid proposal of Secretary Marshall, he declared:

"Yet certain nations today are withholding their support of reconstruction plans on the ground that this would mean interference by some nations in the internal affairs of others.

"This is as fallacious as the refusal of a man to enter a profitable business partnership on the ground that it would involve interference in his private affairs.

"Surely after two world wars nations should have learned the folly of a nationalism so extreme as to block cooperative economic planning among nations for peaceful reconstruction."

The Chief Executive listed these four requisites for what he called "peace for all time."

1—Common adherence to the principle that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed. "There must be genuine effort to translate that principle into reality."

2—Common respect for basic human rights. "No country has yet reached the absolute in protecting human rights. In all countries, including our own, there is much to be accomplished."

3—Free and full exchange of knowledge, ideas and information among peoples and maximum freedom in international travel and communications.

4—National economic and financial policies which will "support a world economy rather than separate nationalistic economies."

The President did not indicate what specific steps this country may take in view of Russia's adamant stand against the British-French cooperative reconstruction plan, but said:

"I believe that the United States is living up to its responsibilities for creating the economic conditions for peace for all time."

Executive Board To Map Strategy

DALLAS—(AP)—The Texas State Federation of Labor has decided to leave action against the Taft-Hartley act and newly-enacted state laws restricting labor activities up to its executive board.

Delegates to the 49th annual state meeting were on their way home today after a session devoted almost exclusively to criticism of the new legislation. Leaders agreed that organized labor in Texas would have an uphill battle in modifying the state laws.

Most revolutionary measure of the convention was the resolution which authorizes the election of a Negro vice president in the Federation's executive board. He will be chosen at the 1948 convention to be held at Fort Worth.

Harry Truman, re-elected executive secretary, said the state executive board would probably take no action as to the federal and state labor laws until the national board formed a policy at a meeting in Washington July 9.

Aceman described the current wave of labor legislation as an attempt "similar to that which followed World War I, which was used to smash unionism." He said that economic force was employed at that time while political pressure is the current procedure.

All-American Golfers Near Half-Way Mark

CHICAGO—(AP)—Two Yankee Doodle hot-shots and a South African importation provided the big fireworks today as the $36,000 All-American golf championships, the game's richest show, moved towards the half-way mark.

Torching the professional division fuse yesterday with six-under par 60's were Ed Porkey Oliver of Wilmington, Del., Herman Kaiser of Akron, Ohio, 1946 master's champion, and Bobby Locke of Johannesburg, South Africa, the pre-meet favorite.

Despite the flying start of this trio, however, the 72-hole chase at George S. May's gaily-festooned course still appeared to be up for grabs among at least a half-dozen other contenders—all 70 or under for the inaugural 18 holes.

Rybicki, once a captain in the French Foreign Legion, later was said to have acted as a translator at supreme headquarters of the United States Army in Europe.

Specific accusations include that Rybicki engaged in large-scale operations in helping Poles to flee this country with valuable air objects.

Red Split With West

Red Split With West Brings Us No Nearer War, Says Mackenzie

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AF Foreign Affairs Analyst
Probably the question foremost in the minds of 99 people out of 100 is whether the split between Russia and the Western Allies at the Paris Conference will increase the economic parity will increase the danger of another war.

The answer, as your columnist sees it, is definitely "No."

Mind you, there's danger of further conflict. But that threat existed long before the Paris Conference and has no relation to the tense drama of the past few days.

On the contrary, I believe that the Paris showdown, in which Moscow has emphasized that there are in fact two blocs of nations and to expand her zone of influence if she can.

We now know exactly where we stand. It is estimated that Russia intends to continue consolidation of her Eastern bloc of nations and to expand her zone of influence if she can.

Of course, the Western democracies long realized this was the trend, but they temporized. They hoped that Moscow's ambition would be satisfied when its zone of domination included those countries which it deemed necessary for security purposes.

That was a vain hope, but we needed the Paris demonstration to make its futility crystal clear.

The Western allies now can get busy with the economic rehabilitation of all European countries which want to participate in the program.

Economic stabilization will act as a cyke against the communistic tide which has been sweeping westward, because chaos favors communism.

Festivity

of peace. We must realize that these responsibilities are continuous. Even the emergency aspects of the job are not yet behind us.

"It is not enough, however, for one nation to live up to its responsibilities, aiding reconstruction and for cooperating in the production and exchange of goods. The cooperation of all nations is necessary if the job is to be done. To extent that any nation falls behind in food, clothing and shelter, remain unfilled."

Mr. Truman appealed to all nations and peoples "to break down artificial barriers that separate them."

"I appeal," he said, "for tolerance and restraint in the mutual relations of nations and peoples. And I appeal for a free flow of knowledge and ideas that alone can lead to a harmonious world."

He said virtually all members of the United Nations subscribe to the principle that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed.

"In many countries, however," he continued, "progress toward that goal is extremely slow. In other countries progress in that direction is non-existent. And still others the course of government is in the opposite direction."

Regarding his third requisite for peace—free exchange of ideas and information—Mr. Truman declared the United States has taken a leading role in furthering this ideal, but added:

"Unfortunately, a number of countries maintain barriers against the flow of information and ideas into or out of their territories. Many of these restrict international travel. Some of them, behind barriers of their own creation, present to their citizens carefully selected or distorted versions of the facts about other countries. They teach and broadcast distrust and scorn of their neighbors."

These activities of organized mistrust lead the people away from peace and unity. They are a far cry from contributing to the full and free exchange of knowledge and ideas which we need if we are to have a peaceful world.

"The first step to end ignorance and suspicion would be to stop propaganda attacks upon other nations. The second step would be to let down the barriers to information, ideas and travel. The final step would be to cooperate with other nations who are so earnestly endeavoring to increase friendly understanding among men."

Mr. Truman said that "as the spirit of freedom and the spirit of truth spread throughout the world, so shall there be understanding and justice among men."

"This is the foundation for peace—a peace which is not merely the absence of war, but a deep, lasting peace built upon mutual respect and tolerance."

"Our goal must be—not peace in our time—but peace for all time."

Motorists Made to Carry Insurance

BERN—(AP)—Effective July 1, drivers of foreign motor vehicles entering Switzerland or Liechtenstein must carry liability insurance.

Drivers of incoming automobiles are to be charged three francs at the frontier to defray the cost of collective liability insurance. From these funds the Swiss federal government, through an insurance company, will pay personal and property damages inflicted by foreign automobiles.

In lieu of the three francs, the driver may present a liability insurance written by a company doing business in Switzerland.

The insurance will not cover claims of the foreign driver himself.

Perk Up Frocks With Gay Ribbons

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

The profusion of new and vividly-patterned ribbons that brighten showpieces again can be used as pretty and inexpensive pick-me-ups for summer costumes.

Pert cotton frocks, for example, are being belted in best-dressed circles by ribbon corsajets. If you want to try one, use individual "belts" of narrow ribbon in contrasting colors around your waist. The effect is prettier when ends of ribbon hang down in graduated lengths from each "belt" that you tie at the pin.

"Bouquets" of taffeta or grosgrain ribbon, doubled or added stiffness, make charming caps for the armholes of sleeveless blouses. Power of this ribbon by using it also as a headband or hat trimming.

Grosgrain striped like ribbons of honor makes gay trappings for jeweled pins. Two short ribbon streamers, notched to create the effect of "metal ribbons," can be used to enoble the simplest pin.

Saucy bows of ribbon, used for fastening the French cuffs of a blouse or shirtwaist dress.

No Charges Filed in Canyon Men's Death

AMARILLO.—Funeral services for O. A. Baker, 40, one of two Canyon, Tex. men killed in a high-way accident near Canyon early yesterday, have been set tentatively for Saturday morning in Canyon.

Baker and Garland Austin Langford, 26, were struck near their car parked on the highway they were apparently were changing a flat tire.

Highway Patrolmen said that the men were hit by an automobile driven by a Plainview man who, they said, reported that he was blinded by the lights of approaching cars when the parked car "all at once jumped up in front of me."

No charges have been filed.

and she had been entertained from morning to night; that she had taken up golf and tennis as well as the new dances; that her house was large, her two servants well trained; that she had a lovely garden and had been elected a member of the Pittsfield Garden Club, a great honor for a newcomer; that she often went into Boston for the symphonies and plays, and that Boston was just a few miles away. I begged Father to come too, either then or for Christmas, but he wouldn't. I was the more disappointed because Bill had applied for another year's leave in order to study at Oxford for his Ph.D. He got the leave, and we settled in Oxford for almost a year and had a different sort of time, almost as happy as in Paris. In the early autumn of 1922 we at last came home, and for good.

Father and Bill's father and mother met us in New York, and we had a few days together. Then Bill went back to Boston for a week's visit, while I went home with Father. On the train Father told me all the news.

Flora was giving me a big party the evening after my arrival. Flora and Sam bickered and fought, but because of the children he thought Sam would stick it out, and Flora had no choice but to stay where her livelihood was. Father said that Annabelle seldom wrote home and then only to her mother; her letters were full of boasts of new possessions and social triumphs, but Flora told him she never included a single word about Frank Hartwell. As far as he knew nothing had been heard from Mr. Tolliver for seven years or so,

Men Doff Hats as Courtesy . . . Women Don't

"Woman Lawyer Forced to Doff Hat for Judges" says the headline over a news story bearing a Los Angeles date line.

And here's the story. A veteran woman-attorney approached the bench of Superior Judge Allen W. Ashburn and asked: "May I address the court out of turn?"

"You may not until you remove your hat," said the judge.

Purely from a standpoint of etiquette it looks as though it was the judge who spoke out of turn.

He explained his stand by saying: "Women lawyers practice on equal terms with men and I feel they should observe the same rules and formalities in courtrooms."

But look, Judge. Men remove their hats as a gesture of respect and deference. They bare their heads when they enter churches, homes, elevators, when they greet acquaintances, when the flag passes by.

WOMEN ARE DIFFERENT

But the rule works in reverse for women. Women wear their hats in church, they put them on for all important events—except when they are wearing evening clothes. Wearing, not doffing a hat, is their tribute to the importance of an occasion.

So maybe before you hand down any more decisions on the etiquette of women's hats you would do well to consult a book of etiquette—as well as your books of law.

Lawyers Converge on Convention City

DALLAS.—(AP)—The State Bar of Texas begins its annual convention here today with approximately 2,000 lawyers expected to attend. Dr. Carl B. Rix of Milwaukee, president of the American Bar Association, is scheduled to speak at the opening session.

Directors of the State Bar yesterday authorized a committee to arrange for a series of regional institutes to assist lawyers.

The new board of directors will meet Saturday. H. Grady Chandler, Austin, is president-elect.

but Nelson claimed that Amy knew where her father was and occasionally wrote to him.

Nelson and Amy were extremely happy—the other Tollivers hadn't seemed to do so well when it came to marrying, but Amy's marriage was a complete and brilliant success. That was because Amy had character and integrity, which Flora and possibly Annabelle lacked. Amy was a giver as well as a taker. There never was a taker woman than Amy Forbes, and her marriage had brought out all the best in her.

I HAD looked forward to seeing old friends, to describing new and novel experiences, to being fussed over. But my welcome home turned out a complete and awful fizzle.

My friends flocked to see me, and I went to as many as five parties a day—breakfasts, lunches, card parties, teas, dinners—but at all these affairs I barely had the chance to open my mouth except to ask an occasional question. Otsago was interested neither in my marriage, my life in Paris, nor my housekeeping in Oxford. For it came out the morning after my arrival home, Amy Forbes the day before had run away from Nelson, her mother, and her charming twin boys; with the traditional letter left on her husband's pin cushion.

The letter was brief. It asked Nelson's forgiveness and her mother's forgiveness. Amy hoped that Nelson, in the kindness of his generous heart, would not forgive her boys to hate her. She loved little Nelson and Johnny, she loved them all, and she thanked Nelson for his continued kindness, but she had to go. There was no further explanation. She had taken less than $20 and only a small suitcase. If she went by train, no one had seen her. Nelson hired detectives, but he could find no trace of her.

What did my homecoming amount to, compared to this spicy and provocative letter? Otsago, I believe, has never had such a good time. When I left for Ithaca, a sadder if wiser woman, no trace of Amy Forbes had been found.

When Columbia University picked General Ike Eisenhower for its new president it got a fine man. I admit I'm not a college president but I'm sure his military background will be a big help. He could issue a general order that students who failed an exam could eat nothing but beans or he could threaten to turn all the flunkers into second lieutenants.

I wish education and military procedure had gone together when by brother Willy was in the first grade. He'd be distinguished now with sixteen service stripes on his arm for the years he spent in it!

Borger Gassers Basted 12-1 As Oilers Get Three Homers

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Back in dad's day, the Fourth of July was the biggest sports holiday of the year. . . . Major summer boxing matches were held on the holiday—for instance, Freddy Welsh vs. Packey McFarland, Jack Johnson vs. Jim Jeffries, Johnson-Jess Willard and Willie Ritchie—Joe Rivers. . . . And fans who couldn't get to these big events broke into the fun, even if it was only for a potato race or a picnic ball game with a keg at third base.

Today, look at the independence day program. . . . Major league ball parks, with one exception, are having sedate afternoon doubleheaders. The horse parks are operating as usual and so is the A.A.U. track and field meet. . . . Outside of that, the major sport headlines go to the British Open golf championship, the All-England tennis championships and the Royal Henley Regatta.

Pampa's Oilers really got their bat's booming last night, as they basted Borger's Gassers 12-1, in a game that was dedicated to Joe Fortin, husky Oiler outfielder, who was injured recently in a game with Lubbock. The win slapped the Gassers out of fourth place and let the locals advance to the upper bracket.

Homers by second baseman Al Summers, third baseman Tony Range, and right fielder Ray Bauer, were three of the 15 hits the Oilers collected off left-hander Clayton Fries and relief, righthander George FoeHLinger.

Bauer was by far the most dangerous man at bat as he had a perfect evening with five hits in five trips to the plate. Besides his 340-foot drive over the right center wall he directed three singles and a double.

Lefty Al Johnston chalked up his ninth win against four losses as he held the visitors to eight hits, never allowing more than two in the same inning.

Working a new center fielder, Jack Selby, formerly of Sherman in the Lone Star League, the outer garden was operating smoothly. Following a comic chasing of shortstop Verdon Gilchrist's hit to short, right center, in which both left-hander T. D. Johnston and Selby slid down, the gardeners settled and turned in one of the best outfield shows held here this season.

The infield too, was working smoothly, as the whole club turned in a near flawless performance for the benefit of Fortin, his parents, and second sacker R. C. Otey, who is now up following his injury at Amarillo, recently.

After a double by center fielder Leon Cato had scored Gilchrist in the first, the Oilers came in and collected four hits that were good for four runs and a lead that was never challenged.

Second baseman Al Summers homered added a run in the fourth, Summers and T. Johnston accounted for two runs in the fifth. Three more singles, by shortstop Tom O'Connell, third baseman Tony Range and Bauer tallied three more runs in the sixth. Circuit clouts by Range and Bauer in the eighth added the final two counts.

TOLD YA SO

A note from Tony Zoppi of Longview, Texas, recalls one he wrote a couple of years ago advising this dept. to keep an eye on Harry Stiller, then High School grid coach at Lufkin. Last year Stiller assisted Jess Neely at Rice and the other day he moved over to help Homer Norton at Texas, and M. . . . Norton, you'll remember, was the guy they couldn't fire last fall for Harry's reasons and Zoppi figured when Homer does move out, Harry will move in.

Houston Buffs Will Be Host To Texas Loop All-Star Tilt

It's definite now—Houston will be the site of the Texas League All-Star game on July 8.

However, in knocking over San Antonio 12-3 last night to clinch the honor, the Buffs had to take some bitterness with the sweet.

Hal Epps, Houston outfielder and second leading hitter in the loop, received a shoulder injury when he crashed into the centerfield wall in the opening inning. The team physician said Epps probably will be out of action for two weeks—meaning he'll probably miss play in the All-Star fracas.

In other games, Fort Worth defeated Tulsa 8-2, Dallas beat Oklahoma City 4-1, and Shreveport conked Beaumont 2-0.

Houston's win gave the Buffs a clean sweep of their series with the Missions. When the injured Epps left the game in the first stanza, Vaughn Hazen was moved into the outfield spot. And he showed up well, leading the Houston attack by collecting four hits in five.

The game was called at the end of the eighth to enable San Antonio to catch a train.

Houston will meet an All-Star team chosen by the Sports Writers from the other seven clubs in the circuit. Balloting will get underway today.

Under Texas League rules, the team leading the league after games of July 4 serves as host for the classic. Last night's victory enabled the Buffs to maintain their two and one-half game lead over second-place Fort Worth.

The Cats won their final games of the series at Tulsa handily. Although losing the last three in a row, the Oilers managed to end a 24-game home stand on the sunny side of things—winning 17 and losing only 7.

At Oklahoma City, the Dallas Rebels—trailing 0-1 with two outs—rallied to knot the count. Then they followed in the tenth with three runs to settle the matter. Oklahoma City's Len Gilmore and Dallas' Floyd Giebel gave the fans a tight pitcher's duel until the ninth when the Rebels' right-hander weakened.

Good pitching also featured the Beaumont-Shreveport. The Sports grabbed a run in the fifth on two hits and a walk off Bill Trotter in the eighth on two hits. Earl Dothager kept things well in hand for the Louisiana club, giving the Exporters five well scattered hits and only one pass.

There's a complete switch around in the schedule for today's Fourth of July doubleheaders—Beaumont goes to Houston, San Antonio visits Shreveport, Fort Worth plays at Dallas and Tulsa moves to Oklahoma City.

Home Run Hungry New York Giants Blast League Leading Dodgers 19-2

By the Associated Press

Fourth of July finds Brooklyn leading the National League but you never could prove it by the home run-hungry New York Giants.

The Dodgers, clinging to first place by their fingernails and two wobbly percentage points, ran into the stiffest punching since Joe Louis sank Max Schmeling in one round when they were shelled yesterday by the Giants, 19-2.

Beaten, drubbed, routed, embarrassed, disgraced and humiliated, Uncle Bert Shotton was lucky to get his Brooks off the field with two pitchers left for today's morning-afternoon doubleheader with the self same Giants.

It was so brutal that one tabloid newsman suggested in his story, "This should go up on page 3 with the axe murderers." It was that kind of a ball game.

Apparently Mel Ott had a talk with his faithful charges after they had bowed to the Brooks, 11-3, Wednesday night. They came out with a will to kill and wasted little time. Two in the first, nine in the second, when Walker Cooper hit a grand slam homer, seven in the third and a single score in the fourth off Johnny Mize's 22nd homer was the capsule story of the rout.

Brooklyn's story for the day was confined to Jackie Robinson who celebrated the news that Cleveland had signed another member of his race to a major league contract by beating out a bunt single and doubling to run his consecutive game hitting streak to 20.

Bobby Thomson hit two homers. Sid Gordon, Cooper and Mize one each in the savage attack on Hal Gregg, Hank Behrman, Joe Hatten and Clyde King. As a result the Giants cracked all sorts of records for homers in successive games.

Reading from left to right their homer total now reads 15 in 4 games, 16 for 5, 19 for 6, 21 for 7, 24 for 8 and 28 for 9.

While this legal assault was going on, Dave Koslo was enjoying the scenery on the scoreboard and coasting home with a 10-hit eighth victory. It was his easiest task since he left home at Menasha, Wisconsin, years ago.

To further scramble the first division standings, the Philadelphia Phillies shut out Boston, 3-0, dropping the Braves into third place on Tony Hughes' first complete game of the season. Tom allowed but five hits in registering his second win at the cost of Warren Spahn's third loss. Skeeter Newsome's triple drove in two of the runs and Harry Walker made it three with his single. . . . Hank Borowy outpitched Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, 4-2, to lift Chicago into an exact fourth place tie with St. Louis, four games back of first. Don Johnson raked Erie and Ralph Kiner one each in Jittsburgh's 7-3 romp over Cincinnati's John Hetki. Kiner's 18th came with two on in the seventh. Greenburg now has 13 and Rookie Westlake 11.

Jim Bagby hurled his first complete game for the Pirates, his second victory on an eight-hit effort.

Only two games were played in the American League where the leading New York Yankees, Washington, Chicago and St. Louis were not scheduled, but the first division standings were jumbled.

Detroit moved into second spot, Philadelphia took over third and the defending champion Red Sox, who were out front by some 6½ games at this time last season, fell to fourth.

The Tigers blew a five-run lead and just managed to edge out Cleveland with an unearned run in the ninth, 6-5, on Joe Gordon's boot of a double play ball. Freddie Hutchinson, the fourth Detroit pitcher, was credited with his sixth win after the Tribe ousted starter Dizzy Trout in the eighth. Reliever Steve Gromek was the loser.

Phil Marchiondi boosted the A's into the rare air of third place, only 6½ games back of the Yanks, with his eighth win of the season, an 8-4 job over Boston's Harry Dorish despite Ted Williams' 15th homer with the bases empty in the eighth. Eddie Joest's home run with two on in the fourth clinaxed a decisive five-run rally.

No Grid Practice Before September

AUSTIN—(AP)—No High School football practice will be permitted before Sept. 1, this year, Interscholastic League Director Roy Bedchek warned today.

"A few schools have the idea that the recent referendum abolishing spring practice, voted after nearly all spring practice was over, re-adjusts the date for fall practice to give additional time in August.

"This is not the case. The state committee will penalize any member school which begins practice before Sept. 1," Bedchek said.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
Scripture: Job 1:1; 27:1-5; 31:19-29
By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Are there problems that are "modern" in the sense that men have never encountered them before our time? Such a thing is neither impossible nor improbable. For the external conditions of life have changed greatly within single generations, and new occasions and environments must surely bring some new problems.

We are all playing in a world that has become smaller by reason of new devices and means of transportation. But at the same time that world has become an immensely enlarged environment to each individual by reason of that very fact. Facts and contrasts strike a great deal deeper in the new occasions. And so a poet has told us teach new duties and therefore present new problems.

Nevertheless, some problems are as old as man himself, and one thing that is unchanged is the fact that man himself has to be the problem solver. We are not to be a passive recipient of the problems that are as new as the new-born day.

Deep and unchanged in human life is the problem of suffering and especially the suffering of the morally guilty. Much human suffering is the result of the fact that man may not alter its acuteness. It is the direct and observable result of the suffering of the guilty. But the suffering of the guilty is another thing.

As this problem in the new occasions of the Book of Job deals. The Book has suffered a "sublime drama" of God's providence and man's suffering. Its central character, Job, a man of more reverence and apparently blameless life, is stricken with dire calamity, in himself, his family, and his new-born day.

The situation is made acutely dramatic to bring out the full reality of the problem. Yet it is no more extreme than that which many men and women have experienced today, especially the thousands of innocent people who suffered war's ruthlessness and Hitlerism.

Three of Job's friends sought to comfort him with plausible or conventional notions. These notions centered around the idea that suffering is a sure sign of sin and the Job must be guilty of some secret fault.

This easy view Job refuses to accept. His faith is tried, and he is tempted to "curse God and die." But while he finds no solution of the problem of suffering, he finds a solution of his personal problem in the conviction that the Judge of the earth will do right, and in the determination to trust Him no matter what may happen.

BUILDING—A bill involving billions of dollars' worth of home and factory construction throughout the nation will be broken under Hartley-Taft provisions outlawing jurisdictional strikes, provided the labor unions are not able to block the application of this weapon through court action.

THINK A LITTLE FURTHER
 Almost always the good things of life, when we are given to their use for any length of time, become fixed in our minds without our knowing it. As a result, we take them for granted.

Perhaps that can be said with full accuracy in regard to the day which we call Independence Day.

On this day celebrated without any attachment of any particular religious faith, most people are apt to be thankful that they have a job from which they can escape for a day and to which they can go back.

But it is more than that. We are enjoying the blessings of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness today because, 171 years ago, 56 (some history books say 59) delegates to the American Continental Congress signed a declaration, in the midst of a precarious revolution which stated that those blessings are the unalienable rights of all men.

We are enjoying those rights because, 13 years later, the nation started functioning under a constitution which established those rights and blessings by law.

That is no trite statement, but, as we said before, most of us come to take it for granted. It is much greater—the value, we mean—when one looks at the rest of the world.

It is a greater heritage because, two years ago, and 29 years ago, Americans gambled their lives for it. Some of them lost, and we should forever be grateful for the sacrifices they made.

The danger of two years ago has passed, but new dangers will arise and are arising. As the number of us who fail to see the danger increase, the danger will grow in proportion.

So, while you're thinking of how fine it is to be away from the office or the work bench or the store today, think just a little further than that. Think of the fact that this is about the only place in the world where you can complain to and criticize your government, where you can criticize the courts, where you can say and do just about what you want so long as your acts come within the limits of good taste and don't infringe on the personal rights of someone else.

That's not bad for this year of our Lord, 1947.

In Hollywood

BY ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
 (Johnson on KDDN Monday thru Friday, 2 p. m.)

HOLLYWOOD—I think it's about time for the school teachers of America to do something about Hollywood's historical trash.

The youngsters go to see a picture with a historical background, and the facts are so garbled that young history students sneer at their teachers.

"That's not the way I heard it," Charles Laughton did it different. The studios have expensive research departments. But somewhere between the time the research department gives the facts and the time the youngsters see the pictures, somebody gets mixed up. Hollywood invariably rewrites history to fit its boy meets girl stories.

If Hollywood touches on history, the movie makers should be right about it. I've seen studios spend thousands in getting the extra type of furniture, lighting fixtures, costumes for the ladies, and lace cuffs for the men in historical movies. But then they take history and twist it to fit the star and the same old love story.

It makes the whole thing just as far wrong as having Washington crossing the Delaware with a sifterbug at his side blowing bubble gum to the accompaniment of a QUICKIES

IMPORTANT COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON. (NEA)—After six months of life in which it has done no more than any babe of similar age, Sen. Robert A. Taft's Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report shows a few signs of getting ready to crawl. Appearance of President Charles E. Wilson of General Motors before the 14-man committee marks the start of a month's hearings to wise up members on where we are and whether we drift. If the committee finds out what goes on in that time, it's good, though Taft says they may not do anything about it till fall.

Most witnesses will be representatives of the same old crowds that are always making statements to congressional committees. NAM, Chamber of Commerce, AFL, the Farm Bureau, CIO, the Grange, CERA, small business, ADA, etc.

A few will be individuals from banking or business. Representatives of the President's Council of Economic Advisers will sit in as observers, but so far haven't been invited to testify. No witness for any government agency has been invited to testify for that matter. It's to be an outside job.

What this infant Joint Committee on Economic Report is fed and the way it grows up are pretty important as a sign of what it's going to amount to. If the (Full) Employment Act which created the committee is tied up, it can become the "Pumpkin" steering committee for both houses of congress.

COMMITTEE WILL HAVE A LEGISLATIVE SAY-SO
 As such it will have a say-so on all legislation touching national welfare which includes practically everything: taxes, appropriations, welfare, public works, even military and foreign affairs.

In this respect, the Committee on Economic Report can be even more important than the Republican and Democratic caucuses and policy committees. It all depends on whether Chairman Taft and his successors want to make this new committee that important. If the chairman want to make the committee impotent, they can stunt its growth and activities, as has been done so far.

Since Congress convened the committee has met only three times. It practically ignored the President's first Economic Report and allowed Congress to go on handling matters piecemeal, as before.

The committee has named a staff of three consultants. It is headed by Charles O. Hardy of Chicago. He was for 20 years with Brookings Institution, where he was closely associated with Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, now head of the President's Economic Council.

Fred E. Berquist is assistant director. He has been in government 20 years, with Justice, RFC and Temporary National Economic Committee. Third staff member is John W. Layman of Wisconsin, who has been with Bureau of Labor Statistics, Federal Reserve and the

WASHINGTON

BUILDING—A bill involving billions of dollars' worth of home and factory construction throughout the nation will be broken under Hartley-Taft provisions outlawing jurisdictional strikes, provided the labor unions are not able to block the application of this weapon through court action.

In view of the importance of the building industry to promotion of economic recovery, employment and high purchasing power, authors of the measure regard this section as the most effective and immediate contribution which the new statute makes to the national economy.

It is not generally realized that a serious bottleneck these intra-union and C. I. O.-A. F. of L. controversies have created in the construction and other fields.

JURISDICTIONAL—Fred Hartley of New Jersey, chairman of the House Labor Committee, got the inspiration for a nationwide investigation into this problem after he looked into jurisdictional difficulties and disasters in the northern section of his own state. His quiet inquiry there convinced him that conditions were worse than he had imagined.

He discovered that $50,000,000 worth of industrial construction and $10,000,000 of home building had been halted for months because of a labor war between the contractors. They have quarreled over the simple question of which group should haul lumber on the job.

CARPENTERS—The two protagonists are big, headstrong and belligerent men—William L. Hutcherson, carpenters' boss, and Joseph V. Moreschi, the hodcarriers' president. Neither have made any attempt to settle the dispute, spending most of their time at Washington, Indianapolis and Florida, despite the workmen's desire to get back on the job.

Hutcherson slugged it out with John L. Lewis at an Atlantic City convention, has been the central figure in most of these conflicts. With new methods of construction born of the war gaining headway, he fears that his carpenters will lose their jobs. Worst of all, he suspects that he may lose power and prestige in the inner councils of the labor movement.

So, at the top of what or a hammer, he has called strikes in which his union members bickered with the electricians, masons, mechanics, hodcarriers, plumbers, etc.

BLOCKADING—Mr. Hartley has named an investigating subcommittee which is headed by Ralph Waldo Gwinn of New York, who handled labor relations when he served as a special assistant to the War Shipping Board in World War I, and subsequently as an aide to the late Secretary of War Newton D. Baker. This group has already uncovered many practices that may call for amendment of the act recently passed over President Truman's veto.

Spokesmen for western lumber interests testified that construction of 210,000 homes had been held up almost since V-J Day because of a dispute between C. I. O. and A. F. of L. units. Assuming that each residence would cost at least $15,000, the sum which would otherwise have been paid out for materials, transportation, labor and other services totals at least $3,000,000,000.

For the country at large, it is estimated that jealousy or jurisdictional disputes may account for the blockading of $15,000,000,000 in all kinds of work waiting to be done.

BOYCOTT—The Gwinn group has also discovered a more insidious call for labor union conflict than the ordinary jurisdictional arguments, disastrous as they have been. This kind of cut-throat game has hit many large industries throughout the nation, but its effects have been especially severe in New England.

C. I. O.-organized plants, which fabricate equipment for factories, bridges, railroads, highways and even homes, cannot obtain secondary contracts. If the finished articles are handled on the job by A. F. of L. workers, and vice versa. Large engineering firms, like Stone & Webster, recognize this state of affairs. They must buy both raw materials and the completed product from a firm organized by the same union which controls the construction gang.

This kind of cold, deliberate boycott is driving numerous small and large companies to the wall, according to evidence in the hands of Congressional Committees.

WIVES—A nagget of human evidence dug up by the Hartley and Gwinn investigators suggests that these work stoppages are fomented by labor higher-ups like Messrs. Hutcherson and Moreschi rather than by the workmen themselves. Incidentally, the wives of men tossed off their jobs by a walking delegate's abrupt orders are reported to be especially resentful.

When the Hutcherson or Moreschi representatives visit a plant and ask if there are any "intra-union" disputes, the men assure them that everything is fine, and that there is no cause for a strike, even though the dispute may be unresolved. Apparently, the individuals with families to feed and rent to pay do not want the two forces, who had rolled simply for the aggrandizement of the international officers at Washington and Indianapolis.

DEBT—Harry S. Truman's friends think he owes a heavy debt to James A. Farley and George E. Allen for their inside stories of the Roosevelt regime, as published in two national magazines. They may have stripped the halos from the heads of the two former Cabinet members who trouble the man in the White House—Henry A. Wallace and Harold Ickes.

The two forces, who were close to both F. D. R. and Mr. Truman, write that the rebels were disliked and distrusted by both Chief Executives. As long ago as 1938, according to Mr. Farley, Ickes called Mr. Wallace "undependable," and had decided to dump him as a v. p. candidate in 1944.

In the light of these revelations, Ickes' advice is made more difficult for them to continue to carry a Roosevelt torch, and to light fires under the Missouriian's seat.

Cooperatives Based on Un-American Ideologies

If there were no special privileges given cooperatives by the government, it would be indeed very difficult for them to compete. They are not based on the American principle of each individual having a stake in management in proportion as they contribute to the enterprise.

Under a partnership or a corporate business, each man has as much to lose as he has to gain in proportion as he contributes to its finances. Not so with the cooperatives. A member who contributes $10 has the same voting power as the man who contributes $4,000. Men with good judgment and foresight wouldn't want to enter into a partnership or a corporation where the man who put in $10 would have as much say about the management as he did. This practice of cooperatives is thus un-American. It is patterned after the European or collectivist state idea where things are determined by majorities or by force rather than in proportion to the services rendered. They are special in a way similar to the belief that the men should have equal pay whether they contribute equal amounts or not. It is a form of communism.

It is the record of history that 1/3 the degree in a reward or have control in proportion as they contribute, to that degree does that group of people succeed and surpass those groups where people are not rewarded or have power in proportion to their contribution.

Tax Exemption
 Cooperatives have been able to thrive in spite of the un-American labor union practices because they have received various forms of subsidy from the state or the various subdivisions of the government. The consumer cooperative, for instance, has been exempt from the income tax on their savings for their consumable items. The cooperatives also can retain their savings and re-invest them without paying an income tax or an excess profits tax as do corporations. This gives them an unfair advantage.

Many states exempt them from taxes in various ways. In Ohio they pay a flat $10 a year tax in lieu of corporation taxes which run into thousands of dollars for some corporations. In Ohio the rural cooperatives are tax exempt from 10 per cent of their operating equipment.

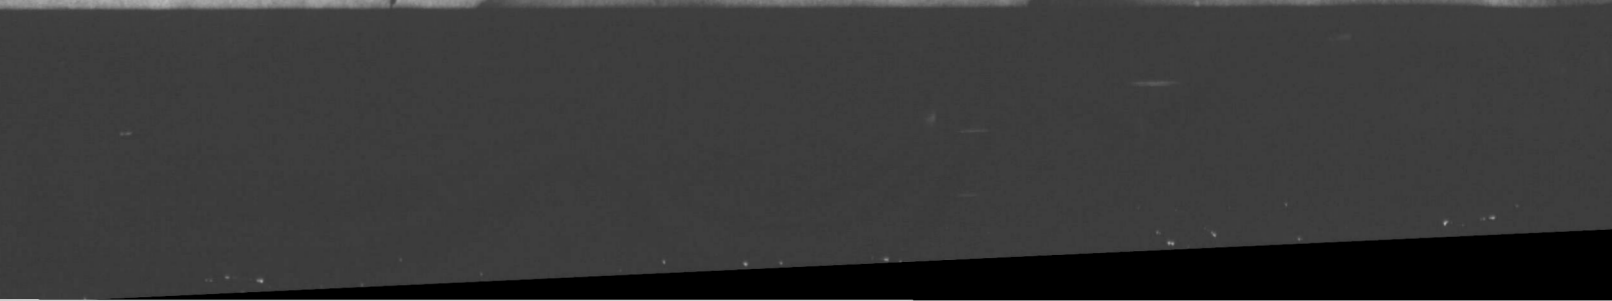

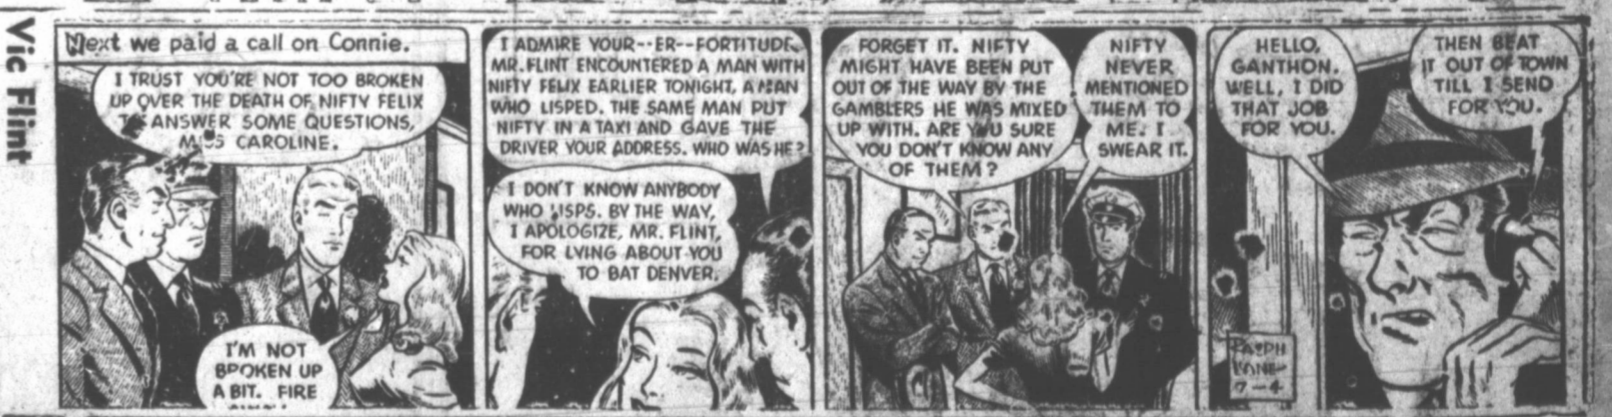

Besides these tax exemptions, cooperatives are privileged to borrow from the Federal banks as a non-competitive rate.

If cooperatives were on a competitive basis with private enterprise, they would have mighty chance of success. They would get the class of people into them who didn't believe in the American way—that people should have control of assets in proportion as they own them rather than have an artificial and unequal asset. In other words, they would get the socialistic and communistic group of people and wouldn't get the people who believe that ownership is nothing but management. The cooperatives deny this principle that ownership is management by their method of voting and electing their management and in this they are extremely socialistic and communistic.

They operate in this manner on the same theory as the CIO where people are not rewarded in proportion to what they produce, and yet the cooperatives object to being compared to the CIO when they are aping their socialistic nostrums.

If political figures want to appear their best before television cameras, they must have extra make-up touches. Governor Dewey and Senator Ball are just naturally telegraphic, but the United Mine Workers' chief, John L. Lewis, would offer one of the greatest problems of a tax factor. Make-up expert.

When the Marine Corps asks for new weapons and training methods, it is not to start a war. It is to prevent one—Gen. A. A. Vandegrift, Marine Corps Commandant.
