Victory Tax Seen As Key To Quick Passage Of Bill

BULLETIN WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—The senate rejected today a proposal by Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis) to boost corporation taxes $219,000,000 yearly by increasing normal and surtax rates to a combined total of 50 per cent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis) protested in a report filed today that the revenue bill now before the senate "places an unfair and dangerous share of the increased tax burden upon lower income groups."

In a minority report submitted as the senate began its second day of debate on the record breaking measure, LaFollette urged adoption of amendments which he said would jock up corporation taxes and close loopholes of the present law to obtain an additional $1,269,000,000 over the $7,800,000,000 in new revenues sponsors say the bill will raise.

U. S. Warns French Of Bombing Raids On Nazi Factories

LONDON, Oct. 7 (AP)—The BBC broadcast a United States warning today that French people should evacuate places where work is being done for the Germans because of increasing American air attacks on France.

The warning followed another night raid on Osnabrueck, German industrial and railway city, by heavy bombers of the RAF last night—the second on the enemy homeland in a row and the fourth in six nights.

This hint of more United States air smashes on occupied France came also as the house of commons was looking into a comparison of losses for the RAF and the United States flying fortresses, of which but two have been lost in more than a dozen daylight raids.

War Criminals To 'Get Their Dues' When War Is Over

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—President Roosevelt asserted today the United States was prepared to cooperate in establishing a United Nations commission, after the war, for the investigation of war crimes of the Axis and said it was the intention to mete out just and sure punishment to "ringleaders responsible for the organized murder of thousands of innocent persons and the commission of atrocities."

It is the intention of the United States, he said in a formal statement, that "the successful close of the war shall include provision for the surrender to the United Nations of war criminals."

With a view to establishing the responsibility of the guilty individuals through the collection and assessment of all available evidence.

Hitler Shoves New Troops In Fierce Fighting

By ROGER D. GREENE Associated Press War Editor

Adolph Hitler threw fresh masses of troops into the welter of blood and flame that marked the 44-day-old siege of Stalingrad today, but the Russians declared they had virtually wiped out a German wedge in the northwest suburbs and crushed a series of ten assaults along the 40-mile northern barrier.

"The enemy is drawing up fresh forces and hurling them into battle immediately after marching," the Russian command announced, in its noon communique.

Red army reinforcements also were reported to have moved up during the night to meet swelling Nazi siege forces.

Dispatches to Red Star said a dangerous situation developed as the Germans reached the depth of an industrial settlement—evidently in the northwest suburbs where the main battle raged—but said heavy Soviet counterattacks cleared much of the district, with Elite Russian guardsmen driving the invaders from streets, houses, gardens and orchards.

Many civilians were reported among the casualties, and the settlement was pictured as blasted by incendiary and explosive bombs.

At least 1,200 German troops were reported killed in fighting for the Volga metropolis yesterday, many of them going to their deaths directly after forced marches from the rear.

Millions of Pounds of Scrap Collected Throughout U. S.

Splendid Job Being Done In All 48 States

By The Associated Press
It was like a roll call of the nation with states, cities and little whistle-stops chanting: 'Look what we're doing.'

America, deep in the job of gathering every bit of steel and iron junk for reversion war mills, today pointed in heartening reports on progress in the 21-day special metal salvage drive led by the nation's newspapers.

The reports, although unofficial and incomplete, showed the country really bending an elbow to get old metal started on the way to its eventual abode in planes, ships, guns, tanks.

This was part of the story: 10 states alone have collected so far in the campaign—which started Sept. 28 and ends Oct. 17—an estimated 200,000 tons of scrap, or 520,000,000 pounds if figured at the rate of 2,600 pounds to the ton.

Those figures were released by the national newspapers' united scrap metal drive committee in New York, which said it was receiving hourly information showing the total metal salvage is becoming tremendous.

Pennsylvania was leading so far on a tonnage and per capita basis, according to the committee, with 283,770,000 pounds collected, or 28.6 pounds for every man, woman and child in the state.

Figures on what the other states have done so far, listed first on a per capita basis in pounds and then by tonnage—were:
Michigan: 152-40,000; Maryland: 13-12, 334; Virginia: 105-14,000; Missouri: 9-17,000; Oklahoma: 6.9-7,706; West Virginia: 6.5-6,218; Maine: 6-2,530; Iowa: 5.8-7,368; Massachusetts: 5.5-12,000.

Here are some other parts of the story, which will grow as the drive continues, showing estimated collections so far in other states or towns or cities:
Alabama: Mobile, 500,000 pounds, or 6 pounds per capita; Auburn, about 455,222 pounds, or 96 1/2 per capita.
Arizona: 20,000,000 pounds on reports from 12 of 14 counties on this basis per capita collection was 53 pounds.
California: San Francisco, about 7,614,422 pounds, or 12 per capita.
Colorado: 3,430,000 pounds reported from 22 of 63 counties; the Town of Pees, population 207, has collected 160,000 pounds, or 772 pounds per capita.
District of Columbia: Two drives led by Washington's newspapers on Sept. 20 and 27 yielded estimated 5,242,000 pounds of domestic scrap; the district salvage committee figures total scrap collected in past three months at 24,000,000 pounds.
Georgia: No figures available yet for the current campaign but Fulton county (Atlanta) a couple of weeks ago collected 3,500,000 pounds.

School Salvage Drive Underway In Hemphill

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
CANADIAN, Oct. 7.—The 631 pupils of the Canadian public schools are engaged this week in a drive to collect scrap metal. School faculty and trustees are expecting these girls and boys to make a thorough job of it, giving each citizen an opportunity to contribute scrap.

Each child has been urged to try to collect at least the equal in pounds of his own weight. Each one attaining this goal will be given a ribbon badge to wear.

Around 10 carloads of scrap metal have been collected so far this year in Hemphill county. The committee for the duration Frank J. Shaller, chairman, L. A. McAdams, and Bassett Bryant.

Men, Women Wanted For Aircraft Plants
Employment in the aircraft factories of Texas will be open to an increasing number of men and women during the coming year to replace aircraft workers being called into the armed forces.

Men over 18 years of age and women between the ages of 19 and 31 interested in obtaining such employment should see the training supervisor at the U. S. Employment service office, according to a letter received here by the Pampa Chamber of Commerce from a Fort Worth aircraft company.

First step in getting employment, after such an interview, is a six to 10-weeks course, consisting of four hours of work experience and four hours of aircraft training each day for six days of week.

Individuals who meet the National Youth Administration requirements will be assigned to these courses and paid $24.60 per month on local projects.

In cases where they are assigned to resident centers they will receive room and board and a monthly wage of $10.80. Resident centers are located at Ranger, Waco, Inks Dam, and Marshall.

SKILL OF THE CRAFTSMAN, the old fashioned pride in working with one's hands, comes back to America to fill a well-deserved place in the scheme of education. First aim, of course, is to further America on its road to victory by providing the tools and the men to operate them that turn out war material, but far-seeing educators view this as a base for a revolutionary change in school curriculum, with emphasis more and more on the practical, after the war is over. In the picture above, Floyd A. Hollenbeck is shown bending over a machine, and J. T. Hughes is at work in the corner of the shop of Pampa's National Defense school, where these two and other men are trained for shipyard welders and bench tool machine operators.

Michigan Solon Cites Harm Done To Free Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), one of two senators at issue with Publisher Marshall Field's statement that the Associated Press is a monopoly, says "this war has done enough damage to the free flow of public information without using this critical moment to permanently hamstring the basic principles underlying a free press."

Vandenberg and Senator Byrd (D-Va.) also challenged, in statements to the Baltimore Sun, the government contention in an anti-trust suit that the AP should be classified as a common carrier and available to all newspapers.

Field, whose Chicago Sun was denied AP membership, told a convention of Canadian newspaper circulation managers in Peterborough, Ont., yesterday that the AP is a "monopoly" and as such "a distinct threat to our nation's future."

Wright couldn't believe it—especially when he saw an unperturbed elephant was getting the job done.

Wright abandoned ship, scurried to some carnival folk and yelled, "Call off your elephant!"

They did—explaining it had been trained to rescue cars from such situations.

Why your own car's Zero Hour comes at 00 miles an hour

ON THE OFFENSIVE you've got to be on the instant. Eager fighters, frisky jeeps, and all that's going along, must get going together—exactly at Zero Hour. But on the home front these brisk mornings, will your own precious car and its engine lubrication get going together—without deadly oiling delay? You can be as sure as shootin', with your engine OIL-PLATED for Winter by patented Conoco Nth motor oil... oil that OIL-PLATES!

Even while the speedometer snoozes at 00 miles an hour—and you're still snug in your "kivers"—the chilly insides of your OIL-PLATED engine will already be coated by lubricant. Protective OIL-PLATING is really sort of "magnetized" to piston rings, bearings, and straight up the cylinders, by Conoco Nth oil's strong "power of attraction"—created by an added modern synthetic. This keeps the OIL-PLATING from all draining down to the crankcase overnight—over week-ends—and longer.

No complete lack of lubrication then, at 00 miles an hour—starting up cold. No long needless risk till cold oil comes inching along through passages as slim as spaghetti.

You're off safely, because OIL-PLATING safely stays on—ready to lubricate before any oil can circulate. This season don't merely change oil. It's fully as simple and inexpensive to change to an OIL-PLATED engine. Just change to patented Conoco Nth oil at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company

For Better, Or Worse

Like it or not, American business ain't what it used to be. And probably never will be again. Unquestionably there are both good and bad in that fact.

Ever more rapidly under the lash of total war the voice of management is becoming fainter along the industrial front. Except for the broadest matters of policy, stockholders and managers now have little to say about how their business shall be run.

It used to be that a man or a group deciding to go into a promising business would raise the money, acquire the plant, hire workmen in a competitive market, manufacture their product, sell in a competitive market, and profit the results.

Now, assuming that priorities would permit inauguration of a new enterprise, only the first two of the six steps are under control of the entrepreneurs.

Having their capital and their plant, they must hire workers under the rules of whatever union controls their field. If there happen to be two unions battling over jurisdiction, there is likely to be trouble right away.

The unions, with government backing, decide who can be hired, how much shall be paid, how many hours shall be worked and under what conditions.

If the workmen aren't capable, or are lazy or insolent, that is the employer's hard luck. He can't fire them. Tomorrow, or the next day, in all probability, the men won't even be able to quit if the labor freezing program is carried out.

When the product is ready for market, its top price is fixed. Suppose costs have moved up. Nothing can be done but write the loss into the books in red ink.

If there are profits, along come corporation taxes, the surtax, and a variety of other taxes, and there go the profits. If there are losses, that is everybody's hard luck.

Some of the laws and regulations that take management away from ownership are vitally necessary wartime measures. Some others are unquestionably beneficial social restrictions.

Perhaps you don't like the new setup. Perhaps you look hopefully toward happier times.

However you feel, you might as well accept the situation. It's here, and in large part to stay.

PROPHET OF GLOOM

(Ohio State Journal)

Dr. Hans Elias of Middlesex University predicts the post-war world will be so impoverished that "women will have to return to spinning wheels and men build their own cottages." There will be no radios, washing machines or refrigerators in the world that will exist after the war, he says, because everybody will be crushed by the burdens this conflict will have left for them to carry.

THE PEOPLE ARE DEMANDING MORE EFFECTIVE LEADERSHIP

(Sacramento Bee)

Ralph A. Bard, assistant secretary of the navy, in a recent speech to shipyard workers in New York, urged the nation to come to grips with realities—to understand that thus far "we are losing the war," adding:

It will take all we've got to win—what are you going to do about it? It is a good question, but it is the deep seated conviction of the American people that the answer is not to be found in any perfunctory official appeals to the average citizen to do this and do that, to become conscious of this or that, to be prepared to sacrifice this comfort or that other pound meat or sugar.

No, if this war thus far has not gone as it should and as we wish, the responsibility lies in other quarters than with the people.

Let us call the roll for the benefit of Bard and other brass hats in Washington who think we need evangelistic exhortations in patriotism.

Was it the American people who permitted the Japanese to sneak up and destroy Yankee airplanes on the ground, not only at Pearl Harbor, but even more disastrously at Manila?

Was it the American people who were responsible for the utter failure to pile up useful rubber stocks before Pearl Harbor?

Was it the American people who, six months after it became certain that no more natural rubber would be available for the duration of the war, permitted rival interests to make an unholy

Common Ground

By R. O. HOLLERS

"I speak the plain-word primer. I give the sign of democracy. By God I will accept nothing which I cannot have their counterpart of on the same terms." -WALT WHITMAN.

THE ADMINISTRATION AGAIN DEMONSTRATES ITS BELIEF IN MAGIC

When the President proposes to freeze the selling price of farm products and refuses to take into consideration the cost of farm labor, he is again demonstrating that he believes there are no economic laws; that we can operate by miracles or magic. If we set the price of farm commodities so that the farmer cannot compete with the government or with industry in securing help, we can be sure that we will sooner or later have the greatest shortage of food this country has ever experienced. If continued it will be a famine.

It seems very nice on paper to imagine that inflation can be stopped by putting maximum prices on certain necessities. We can, of course, use up the surplus crops we have on hand or in the process of production, but if labor has greater rewards in other lines than is permitted in farming activities, we can be sure that we will be scarce of farm products when our present supply is exhausted.

Belief in Omnipotence of Legislation But this is a natural result when the Administration, judging from the kind of laws they have passed, seem to believe in the omnipotence of legislatures. They seem to believe we can pass a law in Washington and pay no attention to economic or chemical laws that will plant and harvest the crops without labor.

Why the Administration should say that farm labor should not be considered in establishing farm prices and appoint a war labor board that constantly raises the wages of industrial labor so that their wages will buy as much as they did on January 1, 1941 is only because Mr. Roosevelt does not think things through to the end result as is evidenced by all his economic nostrums.

He evidently believes that we can have the product of the farmer and pinch the farmer and his labor down in his reward and let the industrial labor be established on an arbitrary, vote-getting basis.

Let the City Workers Try Farm Work

Any individual who has actually worked on the farm and then worked in the city well knows that if farm labor were paid on the basis that city labor is paid and got time and a half for over 40 hours, that what the city people would have to pay for farm products, would be two, three or four times as high as it is at present.

Any attempt to make the farmer bear the brunt of the war, as would be the case with farm prices frozen, would simply be a form of peonage. If these farm prices are established without the consideration of the cost of labor, it will only be a question of time until we are very short of food. Then we will hear the clamor that farm labor must not be permitted, to leave the farms without the consent of some government bureaucracy. It is hard to see how this is very different from the Middle Ages; or what they are doing in Germany.

The way to fight the war is the democratic way—a free market for all things with taxes on the man who consumes wealth enough to pay our bills as we go and no taxes at all on the man who furnishes the wealth to win the war and raise the standard of living.

In the past, we have won wars without becoming totalitarian and there is no reason to believe that we cannot win again by following the real democratic way rather than the totalitarian, collectivist way.

show out of the synthetic rubber program?

Did the American people pigeon-hole an offer, without any strings attached, from Soviet Russia for her synthetic rubber formula?

Was it the American people who persisted in putting into American planes a certain type of engine which every expert knew would not carry it to the altitude where more and more of the air fighting over Europe was taking place?

Have the American people held up the new revenue bill for eleven months while Stalingrad burns?

Are the American people engaged in straining adequate price control legislation?

Is it the American people who have denied Uncle Sam's forces a unified command and permitted interdepartmental jealousies to handicap the imperative cooperation of all the armed forces?

Is it the American people who have retained in the navy the hoary system of seniority through which only recently an admiral without air training became head of the navy bureau of aeronautics?

Is it the American people who are keeping known incompetents in federal positions of responsibility, yes, even in the president's cabinet?

Such questions are not being asked in a spirit of captious criticism, but because the people want to win this war.

They are becoming increasingly impatient with the whole policy of making them the scapegoat for the failure of their leaders to face reality, to get tough, to throw out all the time servers, the yes men and the backslappers, whether in the civilian war setup or in the army and navy. They urgently pray for less talk and more action.

JAPANESE AIR POWER MAY BE LOSING ITS OLD PUNCH

(The Sacramento Bee)

American forces, holding the Solomon Islands, have anticipated a full strength attempt by the Japanese to recapture these lost positions.

Thus far no such action has taken place. There have been a number of sneak attacks by destroyers and also landings by a limited number of Japanese troops, all of whom have been disposed of speedily by the marines.

And as late as last Saturday, a Japanese naval force of considerable proportions was reported to have been turned back by an attack of United States Army land based bombers which met no air opposition in their attack.

What does this situation suggest?

It is too early to draw any final conclusion, but the facts available clearly indicate a waning of Japanese air strength.

This in turn may be due to any one of three factors—a decreasing number of trained pilots, an inadequate number of planes or deficiency in carriers, the latter being particularly important in any operation which the Japanese might try in the Solomons.

They seem all have not forgotten their own success in destroying the British battleship, the Prince of Wales. Their knowledge surface craft, without a cover of air protection, simply are inviting destruction when they come within range of land based planes, and apparently our forces have many such planes at Guadalcanal.

How many plane carriers Japan had at the beginning of the war is guess work.

THE FARMERS ARE GLAD TO SEE THEIR CONGRESSMEN

News Behind The News The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

LOSSES: Army-Navy strategists are gravely concerned about the rash of books and magazine articles maintaining that the United States can whip Germany by air power alone. To be specific, they have placed writings by such authors as Seversky, Ziff and Williams on the black list.

The High Command no longer minimizes the value of the plane, although it did for many years. A battleship man, President Roosevelt, has stepped building sea wagons and has shifted to aircraft carriers.

Whereas only thirteen aerial experts were serving on the General Staff when France fell twenty-seven months ago, there are now thirty-one flyers on the planning board. Deputy Chief of Staff Marshall is Major General "Joe" McNarney, a veteran pilot and an advocate of intensive cloud warfare.

Washington finally awakened to the possibilities of a stratospheric blitzkrieg, thanks largely to the persistent pounding of the publicists mentioned above and to the other present day descendants of the late "Billy" Mitchell.

However these enthusiasts argue that mass bombings alone can crush Hitler. Consciously or unconsciously, they convey the idea that we can win without a land invasion and heavy losses of men. That theory is all wrong, according to our top-notch military experts. Except for the sky advert, there are no high-ranker believes that Germany or Japan can be defeated save through an attack by ground forces which will sustain serious casualties.

IDEAS: Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter now is in the bad graces of the White House, where he once had the run of the place as legal and partisan scribe of the "hot doggers." First he switched from a liberal to a conservative viewpoint on the high tribunal. Then recently he affronted F. D. R. by attempting to interfere with the management of foreign policy.

Few months ago there appeared several stories intimating that Secretary Cordell Hull was too ill to continue in office. The Tennesseeans was on vacation and the rumors about his health obtained some credence in high circles. Almost at the same time articles were published insinuating that Under Secretary Sumner Welles also was not well and therefore would resign soon. Mr. Welles was astonished though not alarmed by the medical and political diatribes.

Now it is charged that Mr. Frankfurter spread these ideas to a couple of friendly newspaper men on Capitol Hill. Apparently he thinks that our State Department is not sufficiently aggressive with respect to specific policies and certain countries. The jurist's candidate for Mr. Hull's job is Dean Acheson, one of his Harvard Law School students and now Assistant Secretary of State. Like his old professor, Dean is a world remaker and reformer.

DOGHOUSE: President Roosevelt's amazing chastisement of the Congress, the American press and his outspoken associates in Washington has confused and confounded nearly everybody in the Capital. Indications here are that it has definitely handicapped the war effort.

Legislators are irritated because he blamed them for the steady increase in the cost of living although for five months he personally made no effort to check inflation. They are also angry about his accepting advice from a few New York City economists in framing his famous

THERE was h—lo pay at Warner's. Humphrey Bogart, the toughest guy on the lot, was undergoing a case of pique. With his left fist he had grabbed a terrified press agent by the shirt front; with his right he was menacing the fellow's chin with a rolled up newspaper. And in the deadly tone that has sounded the doom of many a movie villain, he was demanding:

"Whaddya mean by a crack like that?" Bogart had read a story in the newspaper to the effect that just as Clara Bow had "It" and Ann Sheridan had "Oomph," Humphrey Bogart had "Biv."

"Where's that dictionary I asked for?" he roared. One was supplied by the prop man and Bogart seized it, thumbed furiously to the Bs and drew a quivering index finger down the page.

HOLD IT, PAL "Wait a minute, Bogey," urged the intended victim. "Don't you get the idea? 'Biv' is just a contraction for 'ambivalence.'"

The executioner paused. "How's that again?" "A m b i v a l e n c e. A-m-b-i-v-a-l-e-n-c-e."

Bogart consulted the dictionary again. "Oh. Ambivalence. Simultaneous attraction toward and repulsion from an object, person or action. Also, simultaneous attractiveness and repulsiveness of such an object, person or action."

"See?" said the press agent hopefully. "It says I'm repulsive, don't it?" "No, you don't get the idea. The way Dr. Popenoe explains it in that newspaper story..."

"Who's this guy Popenovitch?" "Popenoe, Dr. Popenoe. He's the psychologist. Head of the Los Angeles Institute of Family Relations. The guy who says you're ambivalent."

"How's he know?" asked Bogart suspiciously. "I never even met the guy."

UNSAFE FOR WOMEN The press agent started to retreat and then said, "Look." He carefully removed the newspaper from Bogart's hesitating fist, unrolled it and started to read: "Ambivalence," said Dr. Popenoe, "is that quality in a man which simultaneously inspires fear and love in a woman—or love through fear. It is what a woman does not mean when she says a man is perfectly safe to be out with."

"Don't forget Clark Gable," the press agent added. "What's he got to do with it?" "I guess you didn't read that far. Dr. Popenoe says Gable's got 'Biv,' too."

"Yeah? Well, the way I figure it, it makes us both look like a couple of glamor boys."

Humphrey Bogart might have resorted to violence but Director Lloyd Bacon called him back before the camera.

The press agent vanished from the set.

Here's Story Of The Prince And 'Lowly Scribes'

By PETER EDSON

Once upon a time there was a Great Prince who ruled a Perfect State, Well, an Almost Perfect State. It was 94 per cent to 95 per cent efficient every place except in the Prince's capital where, alas, the council of state was filled with men who didn't understand, the town criers and pamphleteers didn't seem to know what went on in the country which caused them to give out many sententious views which did infinite harm, and the third, fourth and fifth assistant ministers never knew the whole story, though they told what little they did know to the town criers and pamphleteers who eked out precarious livings by picking up sundry gossips in the coffee houses and passing them on to the curious citizenry.

Now the Great Prince was wont to travel among his subjects. Most of the time he went in coach of state, with great fanfare of trumpets and large retinues of court followers, and much interviewing of lord mayors and governors and high sheriffs.

But it came to pass that the Almost Perfect State became involved in war with certain evil men who had over the seas. This kept the Great Prince very busy, for many of his subjects came to his capital to see for themselves what gave.

Nonetheless, in due time the Great Prince became afflicted with the itching foot, and he longed to roam once more up and down the land. But all his new advisers and his marshals and his commodores kept him so busy that he couldn't get away.

So he bethought him of a plan. HE RIDDLES A RIDDLE First, he would propound a riddle—a great riddle—a riddle which would so occupy the minds and attention of all his council and his third and fourth and fifth assistant ministers and even the town criers and scrivener pamphleteers, that the Great Prince would be able to sneak away.

The riddle which the Great Prince pronounced was this: "How can the exit of a sword be kept down while the wage of the blacksmith goes up because the bag of barley meal which the blacksmith eats rises in price because the country squire must offer hire of a shilling more to find peasants to thresh the barley because all the peasantry want to be 'smiths or are off to the wars? What is it?"

Now this was truly a great riddle. The Great Prince gave his capital two weeks to guess the answer, and took a runaway powder.

The Prince decided before he left that he would travel incognito. He would tell the pamphleteers and town criers that he was going, but he would charge them specifically to remember that when he got there, it would not be he, so no mention was to be made of it. Moreover, he told all the pamphleteers and town criers that he should tell no one that he had left, until he got back.

So for two weeks the Great Prince traveled up and down his country, watching the smithies forge their plowshares into swords, watching his shipwrights, watching his wheelwrights fashion chariots of war, watching his alchemists make gunpowders and wondrous light and strong metals out of the very clay, seeing his armies, inspecting his fleets, looking in awe as his state hunters trained their falcons to dart down out of the skies like birds of war. It was truly an Almost Perfect State—94 per cent and 95 per cent perfect, anyway.

A GREAT SILENCE FALLS And all this time, not a pamphleteer printed a word and not a town crier spoke a word about the Great Prince inspecting his subjects, for was not the Great Prince traveling incognito, and were not the pamphleteers and town criers loyal and faithful subjects?

And all this time the council and the third and fourth and fifth assistant ministers of state wrestled with their riddle, for they were determined to solve it ere the Great Prince returned.

So it came to pass that in two weeks time, the Great Prince came back to his capital, and then and only then did the pamphleteers and the town criers spread the word that the Great Prince had been away, though he had been seen in many a great city and many a small village and hamlet and Army camp.

And what do you suppose the council and the third and fourth and fifth assistant ministers and the pamphleteers and town criers got for being such good and obedient subjects while the Great Prince had been away?

They got a bawling out for being such dopes.

Recently a woman consulted a lawyer relative to a divorce. After talking to her, he thought matters might be simplified by talking to the husband. He called him in and told him of the impending action: Husband (demanding) - But what grounds does she have for divorce?

Lawyer—Oh, I don't think she'd have any trouble proving infidelity.

Husband (bristling right up)—Huh! That ain't so. She can't get a divorce on that ground. She knows I believe in god.

The lawyer got her divorce just the same.

Today's War Analysis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

LONDON, Oct. 7—This is a friendly, intimate message to the folks back home about the moral welfare of their boys in the army over here and it is good to be able to say right at the start that while there are some rather spotty places you can rest easy in your minds.

I figured you'd be anxious to know how things are going and were entitled to the facts about a subject that is very close to the hearts of all of us. I had heard some stories and observed some things which, while not of vast importance in themselves, set me to thinking.

So I've been looking about a bit and talking with army people who know how the battle of morals really goes. I discussed the matter with Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower during a conversation on military affairs. It is not permitted to quote him but his remark was in effect, condemnation of those living and showed clearly his abhorrence of that sort of thing.

Since then I have run across plenty of evidence that the AEP commander in chief is indeed a clean liver and sets an exemplary standard for his men. It is small comfort that we find the vast majority of them keeping step with him and members of his staff who make it their business to try to keep stragglers from falling out of line.

Right here, and before we discuss these spotty places, I'd like to intrude the testimony of two distinguished officers immediately associated with the welfare of our boys.

First meet Colonel James L. B. Lakeney, kindly-faced, business-like chaplain-in-chief, who tells me General Eisenhower, backs his chaplain up 100 per cent.

"Twenty-six years he's served in the United States army, and he remarked with a grin: "I've seen a lot of life in that time."

Sure, he's seen a lot and he knows his soldier as few others do. Here is his summary of the position of morality among our troops in the British Isles.

"On the whole our standard is very, very high. There's no more letting down of moral standards than there is at home."

Then there is Colonel P. B. Rogers, headquarters commandant. He started as a private and worked his way up through every rank until he reached his present high position.

And he's seen a bit of life, too. "There's no problem with our boys," he told me in his crisp incisive language. "They're well-disciplined, well-behaved. They are an amazing lot. The British people are astonished at their good manners. They are fine gentlemen."

"The trouble in London relates to one per cent."

Well, it's no worse than any other great metropolis in wartime, and it's better than many. Wherever there are a lot of troops there will be an army of bad gals following them. That probably has been true since the first primitive army went into the field.

So London has a host of hundreds—some of them shockingly young, who chase every soldier in sight. The same is true of some lesser British towns.

The streets are always full of soldiers of many countries who are on leave or off duty for a few hours. Among them are some of our Yankee boys and a few of them succumb to the blandishments of camp followers—that would be the one per cent of which the colonel spoke.

I quizzed him about that one per cent and questioned the chaplain about it, too. Just as my observation had led me to believe, this tiny percentage of backsliders who allow themselves to associate with some of the toughest, most slovenly women of the street represents the men who have no breeding and weren't much good back home.

"When you raise an army of a million men you don't go into their morals," remarked the colonel dryly. "You get a mixture of all sorts, from extremely religious to the bad."

"You can't raise a man's morals by putting a uniform on him."

"A good boy in our army can keep good. He is given every opportunity for good environment."

"But you can't say he must stay beside a piano and sing songs."

HARVESTERS TREK SOUTH TOMORROW FOR EL PASO GAME

Bowie High Plays Pampa Friday Night

From the rain-soaked plains of the Panhandle down sunny Mexico way, Pampa's Harvesters will travel tomorrow for their first out-of-town game of the 1942 football season, when they play Bowie High school of El Paso at 8 o'clock Friday night at Bowie's field.

Bowie is the favorite in its district this year and the Harvesters may have a hard time repeating their victory over Bowie of last year. The El Paso eleven has won all of its three games to date this season.

Meanwhile, the Harvesters haven't done so bad, either, with only one loss, and that by one-point, in three games played.

Coach Buck Frejman wasn't sure today what his starting lineup would be for the Bowie game, but said he expected the Harvesters starters would be Arnold and Lard, Ends; Bridges, center; Casey and Elson, guards; Berlin and Bynum, tackles; Boyles, Arthur, Dunham, and Emler, backfield.

Practice of the Pampans this week has been devoted to polishing up plays and pass defense.

Up before the sun will be the Harvesters tomorrow because a guy named Schickelgruber has made gasoline and the rationing along with reduced speed, an essential measure in this nation to help win the war.

Work-Out in Brownfield
It will be a long, slow trip. Meeting at the junior high school gymnasium at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning, the 22 boys making the trip will get in five private automobiles and head south, traveling within the speed limit of 35 miles an hour.

Lubbock will be the first stop, where the boys will eat lunch. Then on to Brownfield for a work-out that afternoon, into Hobbs, N. M., for supper, and Carlsbad, N. M., for an over-night stop.

Friday morning the Harvesters will arrive in El Paso, ready for the game that night.

It will be a sort of Panhandle-Southwest Texas cavalcade in high spirits.

school football this week and the next. Saturday night, Amarillo's Golden Standard will attempt to engulf Austin, another El Paso school, at El Paso.

Next Friday, October 16, the El Paso High school will sweep northward to meet the Harvesters here. Pampa's football team has done all right to date, even with one loss, for they have accumulated a total score of 78 points won to only 7 lost. After swamping Burk Burnett 52 to 0 in the opener, the Harvesters then were nosed out 7 to 6 by the strong Sunset High team of Dallas, came back last Friday to tame the Childress Bobcats in a two-period mud battle here 20 to 0.

Maxie Shapiro Wins Decision Over Montgomery

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7 (AP)—The myth of Bobcat Bob Montgomery's greatness was exploded last night, and today, in squat, game Little Maxie Shapiro, a tough guy from New York's east side, the fight world hails a new ranking contender for the throne of Lightweight Champion Sammy Angott.

The flashy Negro bobcat, who whipped Lew Jenkins in a non-title bout when Jenkins was the crown, was battered to unexpected defeat by Milling Maxie, a 5 to 1 underdog, in 10 riotous rounds that kept the crowd of 6,730 on its feet almost constantly.

Shapiro won by a split decision. Referee Benny Leonard casting the deciding vote. He weighed in at 132 1/2, a quarter pound more than the Philadelphiaan.

Montgomery held a slight edge until the third round, when Shapiro landed a right to the chin that virtually decided the fight. Montgomery staggered, Shapiro went in flailing and the bobcat went down for one count. Montgomery went half way through the ropes, came back, went down again for one, hopped up, and was floored a third time for three.

Then, for fully two minutes, while the once-mighty bobcat sagged against the ropes helpless, not landing a blow, Shapiro pummeled him at full strength. He stopped from sheer exhaustion—and with the bobcat still standing.

Montgomery revived in the fourth and fifth, but his punches lacked steam. From the sixth on, it was Shapiro's all the way.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—While American soldiers are lend-leasing baseball to the British and Australians (and causing them no end of confusion) we're getting a taste of rugby in return. . . . A team of Australian and New Zealand flying cadets will play a Royal navy outfit as a preliminary to the Columbia-Brown game Saturday and two squads from the R. A. F. flying school at Ponca City, Okla., will put on an exhibition for Oklahoma City fans a week later. . . . From all we hear, it's a rough, fast game. . . . Looks as if the football rules, frozen for the duration, will have to be defrosted. The new shift Dick Harlow uncovered at Harvard makes the current offside ruling look rather silly and Lou Little, head of the coaches' advisory committee, will ask to have it changed. . . . Race-hoss experts point out that the ban on special trains to the tracks is making the horse players walk rather than sit in the bleachers. . . .

Johnny On The Spot
A lot of guys would be willing to give the shirts off their backs to help win the war, but the Reds' Johnny Vander Meer actually did it. . . . After pitching a benefit exhibition game in Jersey the other day, Johnny contributed the shirt of his baseball uniform to be raffled off. . . . It went to the day's biggest war bond buyer.

Series Scrapings
A couple of years ago our old man—a fair country baseball expert, you remember—told us: "These National League clubs can't beat the Yankees by trying to play their game, but if they'll play National League ball, they can win." . . . Isn't that just about what the Cards did? . . .

Week's Best Crack
After viewing that nudist infield at Sportsman's park, Gooty Gomez (who isn't) came up with this one: "A rolling ball on this diamond will gather no grass."

CRYSTAL BALL OF GRID WEEK

Saucy Redbirds Set Eyes Upon Title in 1943

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7 (AP)—Most baseball clubs would be content just listening to the applause for this year's accomplishments—but not those saucy St. Louis Cardinals. They arrived home yesterday, these new world champions, and the highlight of the impromptu show put on by 15,000 fans was Manager Billy Southworth's promise: "We hope to give you another championship club next year."

Hail, The Gang's All Here," as bands always do, when the train bearing the Cardinals hissed to a stop. The idea was good, but not quite accurate. Missing were outfielder Stan Musial, Catcher Ken O'Dea and Pitcher Lloyd Moore, all of whom had dropped off at their respective homes.

First to pop out of the train was First Baseman Johnny Hopp. Apparently he was sent out as a scout, to see what the team could expect, for the others held back while Hopp was pummeled, back-slapped and congratulated by the happy fans.

The rest ventured forth to be greeted by Missouri's governor, Forrest C. Donnell, and St. Louis' mayor, William D. Becker. Practically everyone made a speech, none of which is expected to be included in "Famous orations of history." But the good humored crowd found it all wonderful.

Scrap Metal Rally To Replace Bonfire At Football Game

MARSHALL, Oct. 7 (AP)—Instead of the traditional bonfire and pep rally Thursday night preceding the Marshall-Gladewater football game, football fans here will hold a scrap metal rally.

Shift Of Infielders Won Cards Flag

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 7 (AP)—One of the reasons why the St. Louis Cardinals were able to spring a surprise on the New York Yankees in the world series, and on a lot of other people including the Brooklyn Dodgers, was that they finished with a different team from the fluttering Redbirds who started last spring.

When the Cardinals came streaking down the stretch in the National League, their rivals consoled themselves with remembrances of the earlier Redbirds and figured they would return to their previous pace.

It took the world series to prove that winning 43 of their last 52 scheduled games was nearer the natural gait of the Cards than their performance in the first half of the season when they reached the all-star game intermission with a record of 43 won and 29 lost.

At the start of the season the St. Louis infield had Rookie Ray Sanders on first, Frank Crespi on second, Martin Mariani at short and Jimmy Brown at third. The experts were saying the Cardinals had sold away their pennant chance by letting big John Mize go to the New York Giants.

George (Whitey) Kurowski, whose homer in the fifth game of the world series clinched the championship for the Cards, was considered likely timber for Rochester or Columbus, or some other Redbird farm. His short right arm, from which three inches of bone were removed in a childhood operation, made him a dead leftfield hitter.

Kurowski rode the bench for weeks and it was not until his closest friend, Crespi, failed to hit that the Reading, Pa., rookie received his chance.

The Cards dropped a doubleheader on May 24 and at that point had won only 19 games to 17 lost. Manager Billy Southworth decided the time was ripe to start masterminding.

The next day Brown moved to second and Kurowski became the regular catcher of the hot corner. The team won four straight. Then came the next step in the rebuilding act of the Redbirds: On May 25 Jimmy Hopp was installed permanently at first base. The change would have been sooner except that Hopp had injured a thumb soon after the season started. However, right along about here the Cards received a rude setback because their southpaw stars, Ernie White and Howie Pollet, developed arm trouble. A lump as big as a chestnut swelled up on White's left arm and he could not raise his hand to throw the ball.

He pitched an eight-inning and won on the day Kurowski made his debut, May 25. But from then until June 13 he never got into another ball game and he never won another game until July 1. This pitching problem helped lead to the discovery of Johnny Beasley. He was going into games as a relief pitcher, holding the 1-0 score for four or five innings, and he finally convinced Southworth it was a mistake to spot the other teams three or four runs before putting in Beasley.

So the manager made up his mind to make the lanky rookie a starting pitcher and a week later sold Lon Warneke to the Chicago Cubs for waiver money $1,500 in a deal that shocked the baseball front. Some folks thought the Cards were conceding the pennant to the Dodgers. It was just the other way around. From the day the Cards made this misunderstood deal they won 63 games and lost just 19.

In every respect it was a managerial triumph for Southworth, who took the material that was given him by the front office and knitted it into a world championship.

As one fan said after the series, "Now the Yanks know what the Dodgers were up against!"

Mexican Girl Champs Defeat Iowa Cagers

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 7 (AP)—The Stenos of Davenport, Iowa, world champions of women's basketball, lost their second straight game, 21 to 28, to the Politas, Mexican champion team, tonight.

Old Steam Engines Just One Source Of Huge Husker Salvage

By GEORGE GRIMES
Managing Editor, Omaha World-Herald
OMAHA, Oct. 7 (AP)—Years ago in Nebraska and many farm states, steam engines mounted on huge iron wheels with great boilers were used to generate the power to operate the threshing machines. Modern farming, with combines and gas engines displaced those old steam farmers, which were hauled to farm gutters and abandoned. There are five to ten tons of scrap metal in such old engines. In Nebraska the old engines were given decent burial in junk piles, then hauled off to steel mills. Now they are becoming Howitzers, guns, tanks. Nearly every farmer accumulates a huge scrap pile. Thinking to replace broken parts on his machinery...

"WAKE UP, AMERICA!"

Should the Dies Committee Be Discontinued?
As debated by The Hon. Hamilton Hicks, Justice New Castle, N. Y.
DR. LOEB ASSESTS: Yes, because—1) It gives direct aid to our enemies as proved by the Federal Communications Commission report that "Representative Dies received as many favorable references in Axis propaganda to this country as any living American public figure." 2) It gives direct aid to American Communists by its indiscriminate labeling of all liberals, including clearly anti-Communist individuals. 3) It has completely failed to investigate such obviously subversive individuals as George Sylvester Viereck, Mrs. Dilling, Louis Ingalls, and many others. 4) Its chief target has been, not "un-American activities" but the Administration. 5) It has even engaged in electoral activity by the timely issuance of its reports, specific examples being the cases of former Governors Murphy of Michigan and Benson of Minnesota, and the present Congressional elections. 6) Its method of investigation (the issuance of reports without hearings and without consideration by the entire committee, and its misuse of Congressional immunity) invalidate the basic rights of Americans to a fair trial. 7) It is not only a useless duplication of governmental effort (unless you have no confidence in the F.B.I.) but it has actually handicapped the work of the Department of Justice, as Attorney General Biddle recently testified.

Music Teachers Needed By State

Residents of Pampa and Gray county who can qualify for temporary certificates to teach music are asked to notify Supt. L. I. Sone, head of the Pampa Independent school district, at his office, telephone 1460.
This is in accordance with a letter received here from L. A. Woods, state superintendent, who proposes to determine who might be available to teach music here or elsewhere, in view of the inroads the war department has made on the personnel of Texas music teachers.
There are two types of temporary certificates, one for elementary work, one for special music work in high school.
For elementary applicants must have completed one year of college work, 30 semester hours, including one course in elementary education, one course in English, one course in government (which may be taken by correspondence if not already completed), one course in special methods in music and one other course which is required for a degree by the college attended. The state department of education will evaluate work done in a conservatory.
For special music work in high school:
1. They must have completed two years of college work (60 semester hours), including the courses listed above and 8 semester hours of special music methods. (The Department will evaluate work done in a conservatory.)
2. They will take a two weeks short course which will be offered by most of the colleges and universities in Texas, especially for the purpose of preparing such people for temporary work.

Take Care of Your Electric Cords

EACH IS A LIFE LINE TO A VITAL SERVICE IN YOUR HOME
Materials necessary for making new cords are needed in war production now. So make your cords give you extra years of service by giving them extra care. First see that they are working perfectly then follow these simple suggestions:
1. When removing a plug from an electrical outlet, grasp the plug itself and remove with a firm pull. Jerking the cord may damage the wires.
2. Make sure that cords are not rubbed against edges and rough surfaces. Avoid running cords under rugs where they will be stepped on.
3. Avoid kinks and bends in cords.
4. Keep cords dry and free of oil and grease.
5. Store cords in loose coils and lay them on a flat surface. The insulation on cords hung over hooks or nails will crack.
6. Have broken or damaged cords repaired immediately... Keep them working!

BACK TO DUTY

HALFWAY up the stairs Peter stood.

Once before they had stood like this, Peter ascending a stair, she in a billowing gown at its head. The similarity must have struck him: he stood an instant, as though doubtful, searching her face for some sign of remembering of pain.

She ignored his hesitation. She flung the door invitingly wide, smiling. "Boy, you got here almost as quickly as I did," she said gaily. "How come, did Uncle Bruce phone you?"

"Dad?" he said, puzzled. "No, why should he?"

She saw that he hadn't yet talked with Bruce. "Oh, nothing," she said, "except that I had lunch with him and I waited around for a while on the chance you'd come. I thought he might have told you."

"No," he said, "no, I haven't seen Dad since I left this morning."

Peter sprawled himself comfortably in a chair. "Whew," he said, "you've been harder to reach this past couple of weeks than a foreign ambassador. I've been phoning you almost daily. I expected at least you'd call back."

"I didn't even get the message," Candace said. "But that isn't Flint's fault. I've been on a case until just two days ago, and I wanted a couple of days to shop before going away, so I told her if anyone called just to say I couldn't accept another case."

"Going away? Vacation?" Peter asked, glancing at the new clothes and heavily laden trunks. "No," she said shortly. "The same case."

She felt flushed and uncomfortable, she didn't want to have to discuss the Harper case with him. She added reluctantly, "Old Mrs. Harper. Do you know her?"

"She's Dr. Patterson's case. She thinks that a trip to Nassau will set her up again, and she wants me to go along to take care of her."

"I think I've heard her mentioned," Peter said noncommittally. "It's the patient I mean, though, that shouldn't be any sort of a secret, isn't she? You'd be wasted—and you'd be bored stiff."

Candace shrugged. "It's a job. One job or another, what does it matter?" She added defiantly, "As a matter of fact, I'm looking forward to it. I'd take a sort of a case to get away from here, to have a vacation."

Peter rose and went to stare out of the window. She had thought he looked tired, and now she saw that his shoulders had a weary, discouraged droop. "That shoots my proposition then, I guess," he said.

She said firmly, steeling herself against the appeal in that tired voice, those eloquent shoulders, "If it's another case, I'm afraid so." Then she added, more gently, "What is it, Peter? Something special?"

PETER turned about. "Does the name Eustis mean anything to you? It should, it's a pretty important one in this town. Young Mrs. Harvey Eustis has just had a baby. A week ago, by Caesarian section. The operation went fine, everything went off swell, but—well, she just doesn't seem to want to get better."

"Why? Unhappy with her husband?"

"Peter had begun a jerky pacing up and down the room. "She shouldn't be," he said impatiently. "Eustis is a pretty decent chap all around, good-looking, pleasant as they come, and he adores her. Add to that a father and mother who dote on her, who have given her all her life everything she wanted, and now this little boy that's cute as a button—"

"Sounds like a recipe for a full and happy life," Candace commented.

Peter stopped his pacing. "Mrs. Eustis is the former Faith Harts-horne," he said.

Candace whitened as though he had struck her. She reached for a cigarette finally, lighted it with unsteady fingers. When she felt she could trust her voice, "She didn't wait very long, did she?" she said.

The operation went fine, everything went off swell, but—well, she just doesn't seem to want to get better."

"Why? Unhappy with her husband?"

"Peter had begun a jerky pacing up and down the room. "She shouldn't be," he said impatiently. "Eustis is a pretty decent chap all around, good-looking, pleasant as they come, and he adores her. Add to that a father and mother who dote on her, who have given her all her life everything she wanted, and now this little boy that's cute as a button—"

"Sounds like a recipe for a full and happy life," Candace commented.

Peter stopped his pacing. "Mrs. Eustis is the former Faith Harts-horne," he said.

Candace whitened as though he had struck her. She reached for a cigarette finally, lighted it with unsteady fingers. When she felt she could trust her voice, "She didn't wait very long, did she?" she said.

"I think that's what she feels. I think that's part of it," Peter said gravely.

After an instant of heavy silence Candace snuffed out her cigarette impatiently and rose. "I don't see what you expect me to do about it. I don't expect you to do anything. But for some reason she wants you, she's been asking for you, the nurse who was in emergency at the time of the accident. Her father's almost frantic, he'd offer anything to induce you to come."

"Nothing could induce me." Her voice was hard. "There's no reason why I should do anything for her."

"All right," Peter said gently. "We'll forget it. I didn't really think you could do it." He grimaced wryly. "I must confess my own concern hasn't been entirely unselfish. After all, this is the first time the anointed have bestowed

"Pampa and Gray county are going to make a determined effort to sell more war bonds and stamps this month and as the initial move in this October campaign, I urge everyone who possibly can attend the Victory war bond auction Thursday night at the LaNora theater," Walter Rogers, chairman of the Gray county war bond and stamp committee, said today.

No one is going to profit or make any money out of this bond auction except Uncle Sam. Regular admission prices will prevail at the theater, of course, but patrons will receive their money's worth in the usual bill of entertainment, beside the entertaining bond auction that starts promptly at 9 o'clock Thursday night.

Pampa merchants are donating the many worthwhile gifts that will be auctioned off, bidding to be received from the audience. The successful bidders will be amply rewarded by receiving the gift they bid on and placing the amount they bid in war bonds and stamps.

You do not have to bring money to the theater, but bond clerks will be on hand to take your name and address and make sure that you receive your war bond next day.

Dallas Negro Vote Issue To Be Probed

DALLAS, Oct. 7 (AP)—The Times Herald said today that the department of justice may order district attorneys here to file criminal informations against several Dallas county election officials who refused to permit certain Negroes to vote in the recent Democratic primaries.

The Times Herald said this step their favor on me. I wouldn't mind having a paying case or two. I only got the chance at this one by fluke, because I took care of her first after the accident." Because, too, she thought of him as Martin's friend, he knew; but he didn't add that. "And I'm going to lose the case. Curtains for me in this town, among the upper crust at least; because I can't very well go around explaining, 'The patient deliberately died on me.'"

He had gone again to the window and stood with his back to her, staring out. The eloquent droop of those shoulders hurt her. He had probably been planning to get married on the strength of this, and if it went wrong—

SHE said cheerfully, as though wishing to change the subject, "I hear you're being married, Pete."

He whirled sharply. "Who told you—?"

He had blushed crimson. Candace said lightly, "I don't think the person who told me meant to do it. It slipped out."

"But who?" he insisted angrily. "No one you can punch in the nose for it," she said smiling. "It was Dr. Patterson. Since apparently it's meant to be a secret," she tried to hide her hurt at that under a light tone. "I won't refer to it again. But I'd like you to know," she added gently, "that I think the girl's awfully lucky, Peter; and that I wish you both all happiness."

Peter said, gruff, embarrassed, "Thanks."

She busied herself with a package to avoid looking at his strained face. She thought, if anybody ever deserved a break it's Peter. . . . She was remembering suddenly in an uprush of warm feeling the innumerable things he had done for her; and she found herself saying quickly, "Very well, Doctor, when do I report for duty?"

Testy old Mrs. Harper would probably fling her aside in outraged indignation. That would mean that Duffy would be lost to her too, and with him all the well-ordered future. The dreary waiting would begin again, the waiting for another break that might never come. But she said reassuringly to Peter, "It doesn't matter."

After he had left, Candace went again to the mirror. She looked at the mouth that made her apologetic a practical person, a woman capable of making sensible decisions. "Liar!" she accused it. But she was faintly smiling. (To Be Continued)

Negro Confesses Killing Girl During Show At Opera House

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 7 (AP)—A powerful negro theater porter was arraigned on a murder charge in the brutal killing of pretty Mariani Oliver during a movie show at the old opera house.

The nude, battered body of the 20-year-old factory worker was found yesterday behind the theater and Middlesex County Prosecutor John A. Lynch said today John Swan, 26, six-foot-four-inch porter and bridegroom of a month, had confessed he killed the girl in the women's lounge after she bitterly fought his attempt to rape her.

Swan, discharged from the army for inaptitude last month and employed at the theater only two weeks, was held without bail for the grand jury by Recorder Joseph T. Takacs.

Lynch said that Swan, a former resident of Helena, Arkansas, was drafted into the army last November in Chicago and had been stationed at Camp Custer in Aberdeen, Md., military arsenal near New Brunswick, and at Fort Dix before being discharged September 5 as unfit for further army service.

Food Costs Hit New High In September

AUSTIN, Oct. 7 (AP)—Retail food costs in Texas hit a new high last month but should level off or perhaps decline slightly.

The state bureau of labor statistics reported a September survey showed an increase of 28.5 per cent over April, 1941, and 84 per cent over last August.

The OPA regulation fixing all prices should check further increases, said Labor Commissioner John D. Reed. Heretofore numerous food items were exempted from price ceilings.

The labor department surveys the cost of 85 items in 19 Texas cities each month.

Old Age Assistance Checks To Increase

AUSTIN, Oct. 7 (AP)—Old age assistance checks will increase an average 25 cents to $20.57 in October, the department of public welfare announced.

October payments will total $36,708,631 to 180,291 persons. Aid to the blind will cost $86,329, an average of $23.06 for 3,743 persons.

A cut of 10 per cent case will continue in grants for aid to dependent children, an average of $10.61 per case, and a total of $229,916.

COLLUSION PREVENTIVE

Infections such as the common cold can be guarded against by a plentiful supply of butter, eggs, and green or yellow vegetables in the daily diet.

was revealed in a special Washington dispatch that the action was planned as a further attempt to provide a test case for the United States supreme court on whether Negroes must be allowed to vote in Democratic primary elections.

The department of justice the Times Herald said, asked the recent federal grand jury here to indict the election officials. The jury refused to take this action and in its final report filed in federal court last Friday pointed out that the election officials had merely carried out the wishes of the party.

KPDN Victory Bond Auction At LaNora Tomorrow Night

How would you like to receive a worthwhile gift merely for investing with Uncle Sam thru the medium of war bonds and stamps?

That's exactly what you may receive if you attend the bond victory auction on the stage of the LaNora theater Thursday night at 9 o'clock, made possible by patriotic cooperation of many Pampa merchants, Station KPDN and the theater.

This war bond victory auction, first to be held in this territory, was originated by Dave Elman and is called Elman's War Bond Victory auction, but Thursday night it will be called Pampa's salute to the boys at the front, and the first move by this city and Gray county to go over the top in October bond and stamp sales.

You simply can't lose by attending and bidding at this auction and consequently an audience that is expected to pack the theater will undoubtedly turn out for the event.

Here's the setup for this show: Various merchants of Pampa have contributed worthwhile gifts and these can be jewelry, clothing, car accessories or any number of other items—will be auctioned from the LaNora stage. For instance, a person in the theater audience could obtain an item that he fancied by bidding ten dollars. If this were the highest bid, he would be entitled to receive the designated article and in addition would have the ten dollars in war stamps that he bid. Those in the audience do not need to have the cash with them, but must purchase the amount of stamps or bonds that they bid within one week. In other words, it's just like any other auction, except that winning bidders actually do not pay anything for the article they receive, but instead make a high bid and promise to invest that sum in either war bonds or stamps.

The theater audience simply can't lose by attending this novel feature at the LaNora theater, starting Thursday night at nine o'clock. The winning bidders keep the amount that they bid, investing it in war bonds or stamps, and in addition they will receive the article for which they bid on successfully.

Mrs. John Doe may help her country Thursday night by purchasing, thru bidding $500 worth of war bonds. And during her evening of fun and entertainment, she may receive an article of clothing in the form of a new dress or hat, or an attractive piece of jewelry, or any other item which she may successfully bid for.

Mr. John Doe may see the auctioneer hold up an expensive pipe or a pound of tobacco or even a package of cigarettes. He may bid one bond, $25, $50, or—to keep in the spirited bidding which is expected to develop—may even ante $100, and be the successful winner. Then Mr. Doe will receive the article on which he was bidding, provided he buys the amount of his bid in war bonds within one week!

Telephone calls will also be accepted during the theater program and in this way many others can participate in the show.

Invest your money in war bonds and stamps at the Victory Bond auction Thursday night at 9 o'clock at the LaNora and perhaps you will receive a worthwhile gift

Mozdok sector, 50 miles north of the Grozny oil fields, but said the Red armies subsequently rallied to beat off Nazi tank and infantry assaults.

German field headquarters claimed the capture of Malgobek, 20 miles south of Mozdok.

Other developments:
Western air war—squadrons of RAF bombers, perhaps 120 strong, made a concentrated attack last night on the German industrial and railway town of Osnabrueck, the British air ministry announced.

It was the second attack on Germany in 24 hours and the fourth night raid out of six nights this month.

RAF bombers were listed as missing.

In Parliament, Air Ministers Sir Archibald Sinclair disclosed that 1,082 RAF bombers were lost over northern Europe in the nine months ended Sept. 30, but he declared that Britain was inflicting lower rates of casualties than the German air forces attacking this country.

Egyptian campaign—British headquarters announced that British patrols Monday night raided and destroyed the garrison of an Axis stronghold, 100 miles west of the 35-mile El Alamein line, but said the land front was quiet yesterday.

Nazi terror—Germany's ruthless Gestapo agents sought to crush a rising tide of sabotage in consequence of the German soldiers' revolt against Nazi rule, while reports from Denmark and a bomb explosion in a Paris movie theater killed two persons and wounded 18.

The Paris bomb blast followed a talk on "the Jewish problem" by a propagandist of the pro-Nazi French people's party.

Nazi firing-squads executed 10 prominent Norwegians in Trondheim, according to advices reaching London. Gestapo agents arrested 700 others and a state of emergency was proclaimed in Trondheim and along a 400-mile coastal strip.

Norwegian government quarters in London quoted an official German report on the executions as saying "the men were shot as an atonement" for acts of sabotage, but underground reports said the Germans haphazardly picked out prominent citizens on the streets and shot them. A bank director, two lawyers and a civil engineer were among those executed.

A Stockholm radio broadcast said the reprisals were taken to avenge attacks on German soldiers and as a warning against further attempts to sabotage the Trondheim-Mosjoen railway.

Nazi Commissioner Josef Terboven sent fresh contingents of Gestapo agents into action to ferret out Norwegian patriot activities, and declared bluntly:

"My generosity is finished." Danish quarters in London expressed fear that Denmark would soon vanish into a German "new order" federation of North Sea countries. Hitler was reported to have demanded that King Christian X turn over control of the Danish police and key posts in the ministry of justice to the Germans.

The Oslo radio reported an increasing series of clashes between Copenhagen residents and 1,100 Danish turn-coat volunteers who were from the Russian front, where they fought for the Germans.

Webb School Out Digging For Scrap

Webb school, located on Star Route 2, Pampa, is the first county school to report its progress in the scrap metal campaign. There are 25 pupils in the school, located 14 miles east of LeFors.

Amount of metal collected was not stated in a letter received here by W. B. Weathered, county superintendent, as the drive has just begun at the school.

However, the letter indicates that a record amount may be expected, as Floyd N. Smith, Webb principal, writes:

"We are 100 percent in the present scrap metal drive and we feel sure our Junior Texas Rangers will collect their weight and more in scrap metal. You may count on us."

"We listened to the Texas School of the Air last Friday and immediately organized for the drive after the program. We took the oath and our boys and girls are proving they mean to stand by the oath."

"Our student body is divided into two groups, headed by two eighth grade boys, Lieutenants George Quarel and Jim Bill Copeland."

"Not only are we collecting metal for our armed forces but we are buying Victory stamps regularly. Our enrollment is small but we have sold $40.45 worth of stamps since the beginning of school."

Shortly after the President's announcement the state department disclosed the signing of a British-American-Soviet protocol covering the delivery of supplies to Russia and giving formal acceptance to agreements already in effect providing for uninterrupted continuance of the supply program agreed on at the Moscow conference a year ago.

Details of the arrangement were not announced, but it was noted that the signing of the protocol and the announcement that Ambassador Standley was coming here to report followed closely on Premier Stalin's blunt statement of Sunday that Allied aid was relatively ineffective and calling on the Allies to "fulfill their obligations fully and on time."

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 7 (AP)—Gov. Homer M. Adkins accepted the challenge from Gov. Sam Jones of Louisiana to a scrap collecting contest between the two states.

Commenting on Jones' suggestion that Arkansas put up 10 pounds of bauxite against 10 pounds of Louisiana sulphur as a wager, Adkins said "Sam ought to throw in a gallon of blacktop molasses to boot because our bauxite is worth more than their sulphur."

State salvage headquarters announced today that in 19 of the state's 75 counties, 78,825,864 pounds of scrap had been collected from July 1 to Oct. 1, or 166 pounds per capita.

failed to plug loopholes of the present law and failed to tax large incomes and inheritances heavily enough.

In the second place, he said the high individual income tax rates in the lower brackets threatened to encroach upon subsistence standards of living, "in effect taxing bread out of people's mouths."

La Follette proposed to raise an additional $219,000,000 annually by increasing surtaxes on corporations with yearly income of $25,000 or more, so that they would pay a combined normal and surtax rate of 50 per cent.

Other increases he proposed included:

Compulsory joint individual income tax returns, $300,000,000; taxation of income from existing and future issues of state and local securities, $225,000,000; elimination of percentage depletion not allowed mines and oil wells, $124,000,000; increased individual income surtax rates, $208,000,000, and increased estate and gift taxes, $193,000,000.

With the normal rate unchanged at 24 per cent, the house proposed a 21 per cent surtax on net income above $50,000, or a total of 45 per cent. The Senate Finance committee reduced the surtax rate to 16 per cent, for a total of 40 per cent.

Under his amendment, La Follette said, the surtax would be 28 per cent on net incomes over $25,000. To ease the effect of that change on small corporations, La Follette said he would propose a $10,000 exemption for excess profits tax purposes, as contained in the house bill, which the senate reduced to $5,000.

Chairman George (D-Ga) of the Finance committee was expected to oppose the 50 per cent combined rate, since he reported to the senate the committee considered even the 45 per cent in the house too high and thought it "would result in severe hardship on many corporations crippled by priorities and other effects of our war economy."

The senate operated in high gear yesterday in approving non-controversial committee amendments to the bill. Within slightly more than four hours after chairman George began his opening statement, the senators had run through all 577 pages of the measure, reserving decisions only on disputed paragraphs.

George was so encouraged by the showing that he predicted a final vote could be reached this week, sending the bill to a joint senate-house conference committee where final adjustments would be made.

Willkie Says Its Time For All-Out Fight By Allies

CHUNGKING, Oct. 7 (AP)—Wendell Willkie called upon the United Nations today for an "all-out armed offensive everywhere" and said he expected to dedicate his life to urging a post-war world "where all men can be free and with governments of their own choosing."

"It is my personal opinion that the time has come for an all-out armed offensive everywhere by all United Nations," Willkie said in a statement on his tour of 13 nations.

"We are ready to deliver some knockout punches if I can believe what I have seen with my own eyes."

Shortly after issuing his statement Willkie had an hour's talk with General Chiang Kai-Shek—his fifth conference with the Chinese leader—and then left for an undisclosed destination.

(Previous Chungking dispatches said the American envoy would visit the Chinese front but that his itinerary would be kept secret to lessen the danger of Japanese air attack.)

Since arriving in Chungking Willkie has spent a total of ten hours with Chiang, with the generalissimo's American-educated wife doing most of the interpreting.

At the press conference at which he issued his review of his journey to this point, Willkie said "this is my own statement, my own personal statement."

"That goes for all my public statements," he continued. "I speak for one else and no one else ever speaks for me."

In answer to questions he said he had been commissioned by President Roosevelt to do certain things and that in anything connected with them he was the President's representative and acted accordingly.

"But when I speak for myself," he said, "I'm Wendell Willkie and say what I damn please."

Amendment In New Bill Would Save Additional Taxes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 (AP)—The new tax bill, up for consideration in the senate, contains an amendment by Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) which estimates would save employees and employers at least $895,756,900 yearly in additional social security taxes.

Under terms of the social security act, the present 1 per cent payroll tax on employers and 1 per cent wage tax on employees would be increased to 2 per cent.

The Vandenberg amendment would prevent this automatic increase for 1943.

The 1942 contributions, for some states, were: Oklahoma, $6,786,700; Texas, $19,774,900.

Negro Pupils Get Thrill As They Ride Fire Truck

Pupils of the Carver school, 441 Oklahoma, got the thrill of a lifetime today when Pampa firemen gave them a ride on No. 5, one of the three trucks of the Pampa Fire department.

There are 104 students in the negro school, and the ride on the shiny scarlet vehicle was a part of Pampa's observance of National Fire Prevention week.

Similar rides will be given pupils of other Pampa elementary schools, beginning at 12:15 p. m. Friday.

One of the themes of this year's observance of the special week was contained in the radio speech Monday night over Station KPDM, delivered by F. E. Shryock:

"Your factory, warehouse, store, garage, even your home is a part of the nation's assets. If it is destroyed at a time when the nation needs every ounce of her vitality, her ability to win the war will be lessened to a proportionate degree."

"The best time to fight fires is before they occur. Fire is not mysterious. It has been thoroughly studied and its causes are well known. Most fires may be prevented by the simple process of correcting conditions that start fires—conditions easily recognizable not only by experts but by the thoughtful property owner."

That Extra Something!

...You can spot it every time

To DO a special kind of service takes that extra something. Coca-Cola does a special service to thirst because it has that extra something, too. More than just quenching thirst, ice-cold Coca-Cola brings energy-giving refreshment that you feel . . . and enjoy.

And Coca-Cola brings you the deliciousness of its clean, exciting taste. A finished art in its making blends special, wholesome flavor-essences to merge all the other ingredients into a unique taste all its own. No one can duplicate it.

To think of refreshment is to think of ice-cold Coca-Cola. Its quality, taste and refreshing goodness set this original drink apart from all others.

It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called Coke. Coca-Cola and Coke mean the same thing. . . the real thing. . . "a single thing coming from a single source, and well known to the community."

While you're exchanging pictures, why not exchange your thirst for an ice-cold Coca-Cola. You'll go for the sparkling goodness of its delicious taste and you'll welcome its after-sense of refreshment.
