NATIONAL NEWSPAPER WEEK SALUTES FREE PRESS

YOU WERE THERE

Remember this scene. The U. S. S. Arizona, first victim of the Japanese stab-in-the-back Pearl Harbor, blazes to her doom. Sure, you remember Pearl Harbor. You saw this very monument to treachery, even though in reality you were thousands of miles away, enjoying a Sunday afternoon in an America at peace.

waged—to make your living room easy chair a ringside seat at the greatest battle in history: Today newspapers all over America are marking the start of National Newspaper week. Each day during this week the Pampa News will print another picture from our files. It will be a familiar picture, one you do doubtfully recognize. You'll know it because, through America's newspapers, you were at the spot when the action happened—be it on a foreign battlefield or in a local store.

Press Busy With War Jobs As Newspaper Week Opens Today

NEW YORK, Oct. 1 (AP)—The men who make a business of converting the world's events into ink so that all may read and know paused today and figuratively took stock of their record.

Its commander in chief, Franklin D. Roosevelt, put it this way: "Our free press has not only survived—it is an essential part of the steady ballast which enables our ship to ride, the storm."

Vital Information

An appeal to citizens in all parts of the country to act as "salvage scouts" has been issued by WPBs conservation division. Any person who knows of idle metal in abandoned bridges, mines, buildings, railroad and street rails or abandoned machinery is requested to send information on the nature, location and if possible the ownership of such material to the special projects salvage section, WPB, Washington.

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, today issued the first of a series of orders cutting down government publications and mailing lists, in a move to clear channels for war information. The order affects 523 federal publications and series of publications, and also provides machinery to make further cuts. All general mailing lists, built up from requests for "all releases and/or publications," are abolished. Agencies are permitted to form selective lists based on requests for specified publications.

Nelson Declares War Production Is Still 'Spotty'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board reported today that munitions output in September still was "spotty," indicating that the month's output of planes, tanks, ships and ordnance would not be closer to the goal than the August production record, which he has described as not a record "we can brag about."

Motorists of Pampa, Gray county and Top O' Texas territory in general began observing today the new speed limit of 35 miles an hour, which has been recommended by the Baruch rubber committee report as a means of conserving the tires now on the wheels of the nation's trucks, cars and buses.

Gray county sheriff's office said today that while no definite policy has been planned in regard to violators of the 35-mile limit in this county, it is the patriotic duty of every one living in this area to slow down to 35 miles in order to conserve tires.

Reds Digging In For Winter Fight

By ROGER D. GREENE Associated Press War Editor

Defenders of siege-torn Stalingrad are facing the "most decisive moment" in 38 days of assault, it was announced officially today. As fresh German tanks lunged deeper into Volga metropolis at a terrible cost in men and machines.

Red Star, the Russian army newspaper, said it was the hour of supreme peril and declared there was no place to retreat.

A Moscow radio broadcast said at least 15,000 German troops had been killed in storming the city during the last week, and added: "The situation remains serious . . . but the city's defenders are determined to fight to the last drop of blood for every house and for every yard of the streets."

District Four Turns In First Load Of Scrap

First load of scrap metal in the county-wide salvage campaign since the two-committee meeting of the Pampa Civilian Defense council was held Tuesday night has been received and is waiting shipment.

Swinging into action rapidly, R. B. Saxe, chairman of district 4, one of the 10 into which the county is divided, directed the collection of 35,870 pounds of metal in his area.

All of it was from the C. N. Oehlert lease, District 4, which includes the lease, is composed of the south oil field, bounded on the north by Highway 152, on the west by Highway 18.

This is only the beginning of the work to clean up scrap metal out of that district.

C. K. Trease, chairman of the industrial scrap metal salvage committee, today announced that Wayne Ekeley, superintendent of the Alamo Oil company, had been added to the group that will work in Wheeler county, directed by Bob Posey.

Joining in the campaign will be Pampa school children, along with other Texas children, who today were commissioned as Texas Junior Rangers. Although more than a million badges for the Junior Rangers have been put in the mails, none have been received here.

George Asks For Speedy Passage Of Huge Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—A speedy adjustment of senate and house differences which would send the administration's anti-inflation legislation to President Roosevelt for his signature within 24 hours was forecast today by congressional leaders.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, said he saw no reason why the bill should not be laid before the President by tomorrow at the latest. That would be one day beyond the deadline set by Mr. Roosevelt in his Sept. 7 "do-it-or-I-will" message on cost-of-living controls.

Backed by an 82 to 0 vote in the senate, administration lieutenants sought an agreement with house members to the major features of a compromise senate version directing the President to stabilize prices, wages and salaries at Sept. 15 levels, so far as practical.

Rail Passenger 'Skeds' Frozen

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Director Joseph B. Eastman of the office of defense transportation, today ordered the "freezing" of all railway passenger schedules and ruled out operation of special trains to football games, races and other sporting events.

The order, effective October 4, restricts railroads to the passenger train schedules existing on September 26, forbids the running of any special passenger trains or the addition of new trains to existing schedules.

Where Are Those Junk Cars?

If you own an automobile that for any reason has ceased to be transportation, our soldiers in Australia, in England, and on the deserts of North Africa want it. Not that they don't want old jalopies for joy riding, but they need tanks and guns, and these can't be made without scrap metal.

The war production board wants a record of every old car in Texas that is no longer serving a useful purpose. If you have one yourself or know where one is located, fill in the following form, mail it to Editor, The Pampa News, and a WFB inspector soon will contact the owner and get the car headed for a junk yard.

OPA Denies First 4 Protests On Rents

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Price Administrator Leon Henderson, denying the first four protests against rent ceilings to reach him, today held in one case that the act under which rents were frozen was not intended to see to it that every landlord was receiving an "adequate" or "fair" return on his investment.

Theresa E. Reimel of Philadelphia, had asked that the rent regulation in that area be amended to permit her to charge $60 instead of $45 a month for her property, on grounds that the freezing of rents at levels of last March did not enable her to obtain a fair and reasonable income from the property.

Henderson said congress had chosen the freeze system of rent control in order that rents would be stabilized "at the level which landlords and tenants had worked out for themselves by free bargaining in a competitive market which had not yet been affected by the impact of war activities."

Life was trying, and one of the 17 crew members went insane.

Rent Registration To Be Started Here Oct. 15; Office Opens Today

Another R-day—with two R's—(rent registration) will be held in Gray Carson, and Hutchinson counties on Thursday, October 16 when registration of hotels, rooming houses, and dwelling units is held in compliance with the rent control measure that today froze all rents as of March 1, 1942.

There will be 30 days in all for here registration to be held, with hotels and rooming houses registering at the same time, on November 1. Other types of rent dwellings will be registered by owners at another time.

Landlords will be required to fill out registration cards on each unit they rent. This information will be the basis that will guide action of the rent control area office, which was established here today at 212 N. Ballard, with W. L. Boyles, former Panhandle mayor, as director.

It will not be necessary for landlords in all three counties to come to Pampa to register, it was explained by Paul C. Beresford, representative of the rent division of the regional office of price administration at Dallas, who is here for a few days to help Mr. Boyles start his work.

There will be several places set up for registration in Pampa, others

Farmers Advised To Keep Half Of This Year's Cotton Crop

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Cotton farmers were advised by Senator Bankhead, (D-Ala.) today to withhold at least half of this year's crop from the market and assure themselves a price of approximately 21 cents a pound.

Under house and senate anti-inflation bills, he said in a statement, "no hurtful change has been made in the price ceiling on cotton goods or raw cotton."

Bankhead said the price administration

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eye, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

CHICAGO, Oct. 1 (AP)—A grain market advance based on senate passage of anti-inflation legislation which would raise commodity loans granted by the government to producers was short-lived today and late profit taking reduced or erased the gains.

However, the real progress of the school dates from the establishment of classes in the sheet metal building at the rear of the new high school building.

At the present time there are three sections in welding, and one in machine tool operation. A section is composed of 15 pupils. Completion of the machine tool course requires 432 hours, or 12 weeks of 36 hours each; welding, six to 12 weeks. Each individual sets his own pace and is recommended for employment when he is able to pass the required tests.

How To Enroll New students may enroll at any time. They should confer with Fred H. Kowalec, shop supervisor, telephone 229, 111 E. First street, and obtain a referral card from the U. S. Employment service, 206 N. Russell, telephone 436.

Management of the school is under the Pampa Independent School district and its policies are made by a local advisory committee of which V. L. Boyles, trucking contractor, 115-19 N. Ward, is the chairman.

Rudyard Kipling expressed the ideal of thrift in the following words: "Savings represent more than mere money value. They are the proof that the saver is worth something in himself. Any fool can spend; any fool can waste and meddle; but it takes a man to save, and the more he saves the more of a man he makes himself. Waste and extravagance unsettle a man's mind for every crisis; thrift, which means some form of self-restraint, steadies it."

CARDS RALLY BLAST RUFFING RECORD IN SERIES OPENER

Shutout Fails But New York Wins 7 To 4

By GAYLE TALBOT

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1 (AP)—The picture of lion-hearted Red Ruffing, on the brink of world series immortality, suddenly going to pieces and being pounded from the hill under a four-run assault by the ever-fighting Cardinals still was fresh in the minds of every man, woman and child who watched yesterday's thriller as the Yankees and the Cards prepared to clash in the second game at Sportsman's Park today.

It was a game, that first one, that will be remembered a long time. Those who saw it probably will forget the final score in time—7-4 for the Yankees—but they will remember how the 38-year-old Ruffing, within one out of a two hit world series shutout, had his dream shattered like a thunderclap from the blue.

Some thought the ninth inning deserved to rank in dramatic quality with the storied seventh frame of the final series game in 1926, when old Pete Alexander struck out Tony Lazzeri, and with another wild inning in the '29 classic, when the Athletics scored 10 runs to overcome an eight-run Chicago Cubs' lead.

An important difference was, of course, that the rally failed to win yesterday's game for the Cards. Ruffing, too, received credit for his seventh world series victory, a record unmatched by any pitcher, in spite of getting his ears knocked down at the finish. But that blazing rally of the Red Birds might have an important bearing on the remainder of the series.

As the Cards went in behind their great Youngster, Johnny Beazley, to try to trim the Yanks today and carry the series all-square into New York, they at least knew that Yankee pitching could be hit. Having blasted Ruffing, they probably stood in much less awe of Ernie Bonham, the Yankees' big forkballer, than they would have if Ruffing had intimidated them right to the end.

The youngsters really looked pained down for the first seven and two-thirds innings. They were over-anxious and obviously nervous, a perfect set-up for a crafty old stager like Rufus to lead, whose ball ball is what it used to be. Ruffing's first pitch to Stan Musial in the opening inning, with two Redbirds perched on base as a result of walks, was a slow ball on which Musial nearly broke his back.

Up to the ninth inning, Captain Terry Moore was the only Cardinal who even looked like he might get a safety off the former coal miner. Twice he had sent Yankee outfielders chasing far back to pull down his drives before he came up with two down in the eighth inning and pumped a clean single into right field, the first hit off Red the Terminator.

In pitching seven and two-thirds innings of hitless ball, Ruffing, at least, smashed the previous world series record of seven and one-thirds frames, held jointly by Herb Pennock and Montie Pearson, who were, of course, pitching for the Yankees when they did it.

St. Louis players and fans were surprisingly light-hearted about losing the opener. The town has a lot of solid confidence in the scrapping club that set such a searing pace to overhaul Brooklyn and win the National league flag. Roy Stockton of The Post-Dispatch said last night, "They won't feel natural until they've lost the first two games."

Many of the nearly 35,000 spectators had left the park when the Cards staged their amazing outburst in the ninth. They missed something that would have renewed their faith in their team. Starting with Walker Cooper's single that Red Rolfe tagged at third base but

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1 (AP)—Thirty-five thousand persons paid $150,000 to see a baseball game that wasn't being played for them at all.

The spectators at the world series opener between the New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals yesterday seemed to sense they weren't the fans for whom the teams were performing.

The game had all the normal trappings and pageantry—the band, the buffoon and the bustle—but little of the usual tumult and shouting. The crowd was frequently silent and even its cheers lacked a full-throated, booming roar. There was almost a feeling of why all this fuss over a ball game when a war is being fought.

If nothing else, a little sign told why.

High on a radio booth under the eaves of the grandstand roof, it read simply: "BBC British Broadcasting corporation."

The sign's message was plain, even without the sight of two army bombers winging low over the field. It said, in effect: "This game is being played for American forces in the British Isles, for the navy on the seven seas, for the bulletin board 'Gazette' of the helmet-clad marines on Guadalcanal island."

In the dressing rooms after the little war they're fighting, Yankees were serious, the Cardinals somber.

couldn't handle cleanly, the Red Birds slugged six hits, including a triple into the right-field corner by Shortstop "Slats" Marion.

The bases still were loaded, the tying run on first, when Musial bounced to Hasset at first for the out that ended the game. Spud Chandler, figured as the probable Yankee starting pitcher in the third game at Yankee stadium Saturday, finally had retired the side.

The betting commissioners, to whom sentiment is only a three-syllable word, were quite frank in thinking that the Yanks, with Bonham breaking his forkball and fast one past the Cards, had the inside track today. James Carroll, the city's top price-maker, had the Yanks 3-to-5 favorites to win the second game and 1-to-4 choices to capture the series. That is, anyone wishing to wager on the Yanks today had to put up $5 to win $3. If he liked the Cards, he could win $7 for his $5.

Harvesters On Alert Against Cats Air Power

The spring Pampa Harvesters, who are showing improvement game by game, will be prepared for a possible Childress Bobcat aerial attack when the two elevens meet on the gridiron at Harvester stadium Friday night at 8:30.

In Wednesday's lengthy drill, Coaches Buck Prejean and George Scott mapped out a defense against a Bobcat team that is expected to throw passes from "here to yonder" in an effort to average a beating the green and gold handed Childress last season.

The coaches strongly intimated today that fans may see a revamped Harvester lineup Friday night. Illness and injury making several changes in the lineup which saw action against Burkburnett and Sunset High of Dallas.

While the injury list is shrinking with the return of Halfback Bob Danham to practice, Gene Robbins, reserve end, is definitely out and will not see any action. A shift of guards and tackles may be in order too, as several boys who fill these positions are ailing. Richard Bynum, tackle, isn't up to par and may not answer the opening whistle.

The Harvesters will taper off tonight, running thru signal drill and mapping final plans for the contest.

Undoubtedly the Harvesters will be favored to win this one, but the coaches have warned their boys that Childress will probably prove to be a better team than their record of two defeats shows.

THOSE SUPER - COOPERS

MORT COOPER, right, probably wasn't smiling as much as this yesterday but that grin of his and brother Walker, left, shows the Cardinals aren't out of the running for the World Series crown yet. Walker caught 125 games for the stretch-burning St. Louis Redbirds, batted .280, Mort won 22 games, 10 of them shutouts.

Cardinal Fans See Game Today As 'Must' Win

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 1 (AP)—A victory in today's game is a must in the books of the record-minded Cardinal fans. These followers point to the series history book which shows that no team ever lost the first two games of a 7-game series and then came back to win the World's championship.

About an hour before the first game started news reel cameramen asked the early customers to give out with cheers for a crowd picture. The fans obliged so willingly that people waiting to get into the park yelled frantically—believing the game had actually started.

Double plays: Most writers believe this will be the last series until peacetime. St. Louis then would have held both the first and last of the classics. The original interleague contests were held here in 1885 with the Browns meeting Pop Anson's

McPherson is a transfer student from Georgia Tech.

Horned Frogs To Open Conference Season Saturday

FORT WORTH, Oct. 1—Razorbacks and Horned Frogs meet on the gridiron in Fort Worth Saturday afternoon in the first 21 conference contests that will make up the 1942 Southwest Conference football season.

Arkansas has not won from T. C. U. in Fort Worth since 1934. Coach Dutch Meyer's first year at the helm for the Christians. Last Arkansas victory was at Fayetteville in 1939, when the Razorbacks managed for a 1-point by a 14-to-13 count.

Saturday will mark the 10th consecutive year that the two teams have furnished the curtain raiser for conference competition.

Through the years, starting in 1920, the two teams have met on the gridiron 18 times. The Frogs have won 12 of these, the Razorbacks five and one game ended in a 7-to-7 deadlock.

Temple-Amarillo Grid Game Tops Schoolboy Race

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

A dozen conference games send the Texas schoolboy football field into the middle of the championship scramble this week-end but the battle for survival among the state's fast-tumbling list of unbeaten teams takes most of the interest.

Top games of them all is Temple's invasion of Amarillo, throwing together outfits with unsullied records from far-flung sections.

Temple, they say, is stronger than last year's state finalists. Well, the Cotton Sannies of Amarillo, now rolling as in their championship days, will put that forecast to the acid test.

At least ten teams with undefeated, untied records appear due to fall by the wayside. In addition to the Temple-Amarillo game, Paschal (Fort Worth) goes to Vernon and Kerrville to Laredo for battles between unbeaten, untied elevens.

Big Spring, Woodrow Wilson (Dallas) and Robstown, also members of the select list, tackle teams that have been tied but not defeated, clashing with Lubbock, Reagan (Houston) and Edinburg respectively.

Fire Prevention Week Winners To Get Thrill Ride Aboard Truck On 'Fire Call'

Pampans are going to see as well as actually read and hear about fire prevention this year.

In observance of National Fire Prevention week, October 4-10, the local committee headed by Harold Wright has arranged for a ride on a Pampa fire truck for the students who win a quiz type program at each school on fire prevention.

Everybody likes to see a fire truck in action. It's as American as hot dogs and baseball and that's why even a ride on a truck will have a tremendous appeal to Young Pampans.

The ride will start will be at 12:35 p. m. Friday, October 9. The truck will go to Horace Mann, Baker, Woodrow Wilson, and Sam Houston schools in order named.

There will also be rides on the truck for pupils of Carver school. For the junior high school pupils, it has been planned to award the winners in each grade (sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth), five points to count on intramural competition. Pupils of Holy Souls school will also be invited to ride on the fire truck, just as in the case for the five public elementary schools, Fire Chief Ben White said. However, no contest is planned.

Contest Arrangement
Yesterday, Winston Savage, junior high school principal and member of the fire prevention week committee, distributed 2,000 copies of a pamphlet entitled "Fire Defense Quiz" to the city's elementary schools.

Children will study these during the first part of National Fire Prevention week.

Then each homeroom will choose by election or competition one student to represent that room in the all-school assembly during the week. This assembly will consist of a quiz type program on fire prevention, on the order of the Kay Kysor program, Information, Please, Doctor I. Q., conducted by a prominent business man of Pampa.

Winners from each grade, 1 to 5 inclusive, will be taken for a ride on the city fire truck with all sirens blowing.

Chairman Wright, at a committee meeting held yesterday, announced that Dan Gribbon and Fred Shryock had been selected as the speakers on radio programs of the special week.

Other speakers are to be secured to address schools, parent-teacher associations, the junior chamber of commerce, Rotary, Lions, and Kiwanis clubs.

Allies Learn How To Combat U-Boats By Meeting Problems

LONDON, Oct. 1 (AP)—The steadily increasing effectiveness of the Allies' anti-submarine campaign is reaching a point where pack attacks by U-boats and even bombing by shore-based planes can be coped with successfully, authoritative British sources said today.

These sources, who could not be identified by name, said "various means of defense, including smoke screens, anti-aircraft fire from ships and escort vessels, and fighter plane defense from aircraft carriers, are mounting."

They reported that interception of reconnaissance planes used by the Nazis to spot convoys for attack by packs of U-boats was lessening an earlier German advantage.

Uncertain Train Schedules Make Drivers Careless

AUSTIN, Oct. 1 (AP)—Just because the 7:25 a. m. express was running late or because a troop train happened along when no train was scheduled, there was a gain of 86 per cent in Texas accidents involving trains and motor vehicles during the first eight months of this year, state police said today.

Police statisticians, suggesting that habit is killing a lot of Texas people, based their conclusions on these facts:

All 44 of the drivers killed were men; 40 lived in rural areas, and 38 lived near the scene of their accident.

"The victims—mostly farmers, truck drivers and tradesmen—failed to realize that train schedules are not what they used to be," a state police bulletin explained. "They are people who used to know when the trains ran and they never bothered to look out for a train unless one was due.

"Now troop and supply trains are passing at all hours and these people are being killed by trains that were not supposed to be there."

The statistics show that train-auto accidents increased from 2.69 per cent of the total for the eighth month period last year to 4.89 per cent this year.

State Finances Looking Good

AUSTIN, Oct. 1 (AP)—Based on a preliminary study of budget needs and revenue estimates, the state financial condition for the next biennium beginning Sept. 1, 1943, should be fairly good despite declining revenues from some sources, Governor Coke R. Stevenson predicted today.

He said general fund revenue, derived from numerous sources, should be about $32,000,000 yearly for the biennium, about $4,000,000 below this year's income for general fund purposes.

Offsetting the decline was a budget requirement of about $33,000,000 a year. The estimate was made by the board of control in joint sessions with the governor who declared it was entirely possible that additional economies would balance the budget.

The cheery prospect for the general fund is not shared by the highway building and maintenance fund whose revenue comes from the gasoline tax.

"We will be in pretty good shape financially except for the highway department," the governor declared. Although the available school fund derives part of its income from a portion of the gasoline tax, expected to decline sharply if rationing is ordered, the school fund property tax was increased this year from 16 cents to 33 cents per $100 valuation and largely should make up the difference.

Although gasoline tax collections probably will drop, the governor was of the opinion that the oil production tax, part of which goes to the general fund, should not necessarily decline sharply.

His reasoning was based on the prospect of continued oil production to meet war needs.

A decline in inheritance tax collections which go to the general fund was estimated at about $1,000,000.

Round up your scrap metal—it's needed to make steel. Steel for armor plate to protect him from bombs and bullets. Steel for weapons to help him do the job that must be done before he can come home again.

You don't want production figures. It's enough to know that 50% of all new steel is made of scrap—that our steel mills now have only enough scrap in sight to last another 30 days at the most!

What happens after that depends on all of us. If production falls and you've not done your part, will you rest easy?

Next week we're starting a collection drive—to build the biggest stockpile of scrap metal you've ever seen. Then when the mills need it, we'll have it—because you came through... for his sake!

This Item Is Of Interest To All Women Readers

To save time and to provide a more complete coverage of society and club news, the following rules are being outlined for all persons who will be contributing to the woman's department of The Pampa News.

Due to the war, regular staff members find it necessary to handle more copy than ever before, therefore, it is imperative that certain deadlines be observed in reporting news to the society editor.

Reports of all club meetings, church society and Sunday school class activities, parent-teacher associations, home demonstration club reports, showers, and recital notices should be written and brought or mailed to the woman's editor immediately after each meeting or not later than 10 o'clock the following morning. The deadline for all woman's page news, including items to be added to the social calendar, is 10 o'clock. Social calendar notices may be telephoned to the woman's department.

Club reporters are asked to turn in guest lists for dances and other entertainments in writing to assist in speeding up the work of the department. These and all other guest lists should be complete with initials or first names. When the last name is given, the name will be left out entirely.

Timeliness is very important in the display given to parties and meetings. The most recent news deservedly gets the most space and the best position.

Lengthy recital programs will not be printed on the society page because of lack of space and cuts of music of dance students will not be printed in connection with recitals or programs.

Since The News does not maintain an engraving department, pictures must be sent out of town for photo-engraving. At least four days must be allowed for ordering society cuts, which are paid for by the individuals ordering them.

Wedding news must be submitted in person whenever possible and at all times must be verified. Lengthy wedding stories should be turned in four or five days before the ceremony.

The deadline for the Sunday society page is Friday afternoon at 6 o'clock. This includes items to be added to the social calendar, advance notices of forthcoming meetings, as well as all stories. Reports of Friday afternoon meetings should be brought or sent to the woman's editor immediately after the meeting. News of Friday evening, Saturday and Sunday events should be submitted in advance Friday at 6 o'clock in order to be included in the Sunday paper.

Friday is the busiest day in the woman's department; so, if news for the Sunday paper can be sent in earlier, the last-minute congestion may be relieved.

Please do not call for the society editor at The News office or at home on Saturday morning, afternoon, or evening. Any call for the woman's department on Saturday will interrupt those in the business office answering the telephone and slow down their work.

It will be impossible for the society editor to attend parties and clubs meetings in person. Each organization is urged to appoint a responsible member to serve as press reporter.

These rules are offered at this time in order that, through a better understanding with the contributors, this department can handle a greater volume of news. The woman's news editor will appreciate your cooperation and as in the past will welcome all contributions of interesting bits of news.

Look Under The Surface

Don't be deceived by the detail which the congressional banking and currency committees are writing into their anti-inflation bills. Look beneath the doodads and gewgaws and what do you find? Exactly. The buck is passed to the President.

The senate version, which comes closer to having teeth, would stabilize pay at the Sept. 15 level. At that time pay scales had risen so much above those of August, 1939, that buying power was up more than 25 per cent. The senate proposes to peg it there.

Both senate and house bills specifically give the president the power to make adjustments whenever, in his opinion, inequities exist or the prosecution of the war will be aided by such changes.

This of course removes all onus from congress, and places an enormous burden upon an already over-worked president. It makes of the ostensible wage peg a futile gesture.

Moreover, both bills fix the ceiling upon the prices of farm products at or above parity. But parity is mercurial. It changes almost hour by hour as the prices of the farmers' purchases change. And the cost of what the farmers buy is controlled by wage scales.

By his power to adjust wages the president is given complete authority to manipulate both wages and farm produce prices.

Therefore, although the committees have given the appearance of accepting their legislative burden, and fixing standards for the battle against inflation, in fact they have tossed the hot potato to the president.

There is much disagreement as to the formulae which should be applied to establish these ceilings. Some want them high, some want them low. Perhaps wage-earners should get 43 per cent more buying power now—when there is little to be bought—than they got in 1939, when our industrial plant was booming on civilian production. Let's waive that for the moment.

The important thing is that congress is abdication. The legislative branch is ducking out and leaving the nasty task up to the president.

Mr. Roosevelt may want the power, or may not. Surely he would appear to have enough work to do, as commander-in-chief of our armed forces and unofficial chairman of the board of directors of the United Nations, without this chore. Even that is immaterial.

Policy, we repeat, is congress' province. It is to make national policy that we pay 531 representatives and 96 senators, provide them with excellent working quarters and ample staffs.

Expanding The Legion

The American Legion wants its congressional charter revised to permit the fighting men of this war to become members.

There is a hazard which perhaps is not the business of congress. Addition of, say, 12,500,000 to the 4,000,000 who are eligible already to Legion membership could create the most powerful pressure group ever known. Did Legion leaders think of this?

The Nation's Press

BE TRUE TO OUR FREEDOM!
 (Los Angeles Examiner)

"Agriculture, manufactures, commerce and navigation, the four pillars of our prosperity, are the most thriving when left most free to individual enterprise."—Thomas Jefferson, in his second message to Congress in 1801.

What Jefferson saw with such clear eyes to be true 141 years ago is justified and confirmed today as it never has been before.

It is the individual enterprise of this nation of industrialists and inventors that is making us more powerful every day.

It is our "capitalistic" system—as it has been sneeringly called by Communists and their alien-minded, reactionary fellow-travelers—on which France, Russia, China and a dozen other nations now depend to free them from Germany and Japan.

One of the clearest and most vigorous defenses of our economic system that has ever been written comes to hand in a pamphlet, "Is Patriotism Bunk?" written by Harry Desmond Farren, of the National Foremen's Institute, of Deep River, Conn.

Mr. Farren says: "Free enterprise is the backbone of this nation. If ever the American system of a regulated capitalistic system was justified it is right now. The ships, planes, troops, tanks, trucks and all other materials of war which this great nation produces for ourselves and our allies are the direct product of 300 years of free enterprise."

"The immense wealth from which our Government can draw billions and billions and more billions with which to keep our war effort at peak production is drawn from the sweat and labor and industry and genius of individual Americans who gladly surrender their all for our common defense."

"The voluntary cooperation of the individual has always been, will always be, the core of American liberties. The government cannot do more than predict in sundries, ice cream, and sherberts, fruit, and Klondike strawberry." On other occasions the department has surprised American readers with such releases as "War Places New Burden on Eastern Russian Agriculture" and a bibliography on agriculture of American Indians.

The library of congress contributes its share under titles such as a "Bibliography of Latin-American Folk Music."

Johnnie, who has been known to handle comic weeklies behind his geography in a manner reminiscent of surreptitious literature of another generation, says he will not be at all sorry if the shortage deprives teacher of her rubber heels.—Christian Science Monitor.

Common Ground

By R. O. HOLMES

"I speak the plain-word primer. I give the sign of democracy. By God I will accept nothing which I cannot have their counterpart of on the same terms." —WALT WHITMAN.

WHAT WAS THE START THAT LED US TO BELIEVING IN PRICE CEILING?

Where and when did the American people get the idea that we wanted to adopt the European system of price ceilings and ration cards? A few years ago, when we were more nearly a democratic country, we would never have thought that people would so generally be clamoring for our government to regulate prices. This belief has crept on us from a small beginning. When it started, people did not realize where it eventually would lead.

Its Start

Its start was when people began to interfere with workers having the right to freely exchange their services. It can be traced to any belief, or law, or custom that puts an obstacle in any man's way for exchanging his services freely with any other man in this country.

And the first real practice of this kind that to any degree interfered with men, freely exchanging their services was collective bargaining, labor unions that set an artificial price on the work of one group of workers and would not permit other groups to enter this field and make the exchanges interchangeable.

This led to one group getting so much, that we were compelled to issue a lot of artificial "money" so that there would be a little left for those whom the collective bargaining group would not admit into the privileged class.

This step led on until we had so much money or credit, or what might be called orders for wealth, that we now find our money is going to be of little value and that we are going to have wild inflation, unless we have complete regimentation of prices—unless we have the government step in and make us all trade with each other on the arbitrary terms which the government establishes.

Few people realize what this really means. It means that we are turning our back on the American way of life. It means that we are adopting the same kind of a government that Hitler and every dictator uses.

We seem to be willing to try anything without knowing what it will do to us, how much it will enslave us, how much poverty it will bring on us. We thought there were too many ills in competition, in free enterprise. So we blindly "fly to others that we know not of."

The people who are vainly hoping that price ceilings and ration cards and a black market that always go with price ceilings will produce fewer ills than the competitive system had, are really flying to other ills that they know not of. It will be a costly lesson.

They have not read history or thought things through, or they would put the rascals out of office who have led them into this terrible misuse of bank credit, this terrible interference with free exchanges that makes them think they prefer to be chattels to the government rather than to be free men with responsibility that goes with free men having the right to freely exchange their services as they see fit.

KEEPING PATENTS OFF MARKET

A few days ago this column set down specific conditions under which a reward of $100 would be given to the first person who could find a party who had bought up patents and suppressed them. Now one of the New Dealers who has been proclaiming that patents are bought up by the wicked corporations and suppressed, writes thusly:

"Editor, Register: We find it is impossible for anybody to comply with that clause in your specifications which would oblige us to offer to buy a patent which has been suppressed. But we never did have any intention to deplete your bank account by a hundred dollars or even a penny. Our sole interest in your proposition is to establish the truth."

The proposition did not require that the patent be bought. The only requirement is that they find someone who has bought a patent and has not spent anything on it for three years and who says he will not sell it for what it cost him.

This ought to make the claiming of this $100 offer easy, if there be any such party in the United States who buys up patents and suppresses them, as the socialists repeatedly claim that the rich, avaricious corporations do in order to rob the poor.

Those who believe this story, should find this party and claim the $100 or never again repeat the story.

It is based on free employers and free labor. This should be our great post-war work:

To preserve this system of free enterprise, this "capitalistic" system—with necessary regulations against abuses—so that the United States of America will tower among all the nations of the world in years to come as the freest, most prosperous, most powerful and most humane nation that the world has ever known.

To consummate that end only one thing is needful:

To be true to ourselves. To be true to our past. To be true to that economic system that is slowly but surely breaking the backs of Hitler and Tojo.

We are indebted to the citizens' emergency committee on nondefense expenditures for bringing to light some instances of federal publicity that might be spared if we were going in for nondefense economy. Four days before Pearl Harbor the navy department released to the nation the favorite recipes of navy officers' wives. One recipe was for "niu moa ai," a Hawaiian concoction of coconut and chicken. Another was for "rum bumble pudding." Nearly five months after Pearl Harbor the department of agriculture released for the edification of taxpayers, "fashion predictions in sundries, ice cream, and sherberts, royal apricot, Stanwick nectarine, Russian fruit, and Klondike strawberry." On other occasions the department has surprised American readers with such releases as "War Places New Burden on Eastern Russian Agriculture" and a bibliography on agriculture of American Indians.

America Needs It NOW!

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

NEA Service Staff Correspondent
 How a Chinese boy parlayed a Brownie camera, a pair of blue eyes and a black velvet curtain into a fortune sounds like a Horatio Alger story in technicolor. It's the story of James Wong Howe, one of the screen's greatest cameramen—a story as fabulous as Hollywood itself.

The Brownie camera helped him learn the rudiments of photography as a youngster in a small town near Portland, Ore. The blue eyes belonged to silent film star Mary Miles Minter.

The black velvet curtain accidentally happened to be behind Howe when he snapped Miss Minter's photograph—a prank of fate which elevated him from third assistant to chief cameraman.

Film in those days was inferior to modern celluloid. One of its faults was "washing out" blue eyes to almost whiteness. Mary Miles Minter was blue-eyed blonde. But in Howe's snapshot, taken with a cheap still camera, she had lovely dark eyes.

James Wong Howe was as amazed as Mary Miles Minter. He didn't know how or why it happened. But when the elated star asked him, "Can you make my eyes dark with a movie camera?" he assured her he could.

REFLECTION DID IT
 He couldn't recall just how the camera was set, but when he went back to the stage where he took the picture he found the reason. Miss Minter was facing a wall covered with a black velvet curtain when he took the picture. The reflection gave her the dark eyes.

From then on Howe was Mary Miles Minter's favored cameraman. Behind him is a record of 17 years photographing the screen's top stars and pictures—the first man to recognize the merits of panchromatic film—the first to use low key lighting—the first to capture moods on film—the first to discover need for new types of camera lenses when talking pictures eliminated noisy arc lights.

But like most Hollywoodmen, James Wong Howe has his ups and downs. The talking pictures he improved almost ended his career. He'd had a salary tiff with MGM and took a vacation in China to cool off. While he was away "talkies" were born and when he returned to Hollywood no one would hire him because he'd never worked on a sound picture.

MADE OWN TALKIE
 Turned down by all the studios, he decided to make his own talkie—a movie for the Japanese market. Not until the picture was completed did he discover there were only two theaters wired for sound in all of Japan.

Now he had to get a job and once again he made the rounds. Producer Harry Sherman gave him a nine-day job photographing a western. He did another quickie for Columbia, then got back on the cinematic map for his work in "Trans-Atlantic" at Fox.

When he's not squinting through a camera lens, you can find James Wong Howe greeting customers at his Chinese restaurant in Hollywood.

News Behind The News
The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

CREDO: The war manifesto adopted by the House Republicans conference has immediately become a political best seller. Members of the Senate as well as candidates for local and state offices throughout the country are writing to Washington for copies of the minority's platform for the forthcoming elections.

The legislators' action represents a sensational and novel departure from G. O. P. practice and custom. While the framers are not advertising it, their bold innovation means that they demand greater voice in Party affairs. As the men who will win or lose by the policies they advocate in the campaign, they feel they should have the right and responsibility of fixing principles.

For that reason they drew up the document without consulting those on the National Committee, a Senate membership which contains several potential Presidential candidates, or such 1944 possibilities as Wendell Willkie, Thomas E. Dewey, Harold E. Stassen and John W. Bricker. They defied the traditional interests and bosses.

The group which hammered out the credo in advance of presentment to the whole body was named by Representative J. William Ditter of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Congressional Committee. He has been one of the Administration's severest critics as a member of the House Appropriations. But he brought forth a charter to which the warmest interventionists and pre-Pearl Harbor isolationists said "Amen."

REVELATIONS: The Government's war-born invasion of industry and finance may soon penetrate a field which has thus far been left alone by the national law-sports. Thurman Arnold is likely to become a triple threat man in the realm of baseball, football and boxing.

Army-Navy benefits have illuminated certain dark corners. Investigation disclosed that a supposed millionaire—like Joe Louis, as well as other fighters, borrows from promoters between bouts. The city of Los Angeles and George Marshall's Washington Redskins gridiron team drew almost twenty-five per cent of the receipts from a "relief" match on the Coast. In contrast with these "grabs," Irving Berlin must shell out five fifty for a ticket if he wants to see his own musical comedy, "This Is the Army."

These revelations may hasten decreases prohibiting professional contests for the duration. They may result in decisions or statutes to the effect that all the great American pastimes constitute interstate commerce and are therefore subject to drastic federal regulation of players' contracts, charges to customers and other details now untouched by Uncle Sam.

VOICE: The American educational system de-emphasized vocational training after the First World War and began to exhibit more concern for pupils who would eventually wear overalls. In discussing problems precipitated by the current conflict, private and public teachers anticipate an ever greater shift in the new direction.

The little red schoolhouse may never be the same. Many structures will not be needed because of the ensuing shortage of students and instructors. Both groups will return to classrooms in smaller numbers should the struggle last several years, as was true after the comparatively short 1917-18 affair. Civilian courses will hardly appeal to boys and girls who have gone

Jeffers Toiling Long Hours In His 'Plush Row'

By PETER EDSON

William M. Jeffers, new boss of the country's rubber program, has been daily installed in one of the "parlor, bedroom and bath" offices suites along with the hired hands in the War Production Board call "Plush Row"—fifth floor north of the New Social Security Building which is WPB headquarters in Washington.

These suites where the brass hats hang out aren't really so plushy at that. Carpeted, upholstered, yes. But all in restrained taste. They are plush only when compared to the crowded tempos—temporary office buildings—where desks are jammed against each other and wires dangle from the ceilings to phones whose numbers are constantly being changed.

Anyway, on Plush Row the new rubber administrator, the ex-railroad president, is learning all about rubber. Only he isn't.

All the time since his appointment, Jeffers has spent in Washington, wrestling with just one thing—the problem of rubber rationing. How to conserve the rubber that is already rolling and ration the recaps is Mr. Jeffers' first headache to break, and all his attention has been centered on that que thing to the exclusion of the synthetic program, butadiene, buna, butylene glycol, polymerization, grain alcohol vs. petroleum alcohol, and all the other intricacies that had everyone going around in circles.

RATIONING WORD AWAITED

As a result of this concentration of interest, the word went out that the first public statement to be heard from Mr. Jeffers would be announcement of his gasoline rationing program. His conferences so far have practically all been with the government's rationing experts and ODT people who are supposed to know what has to be hauled in the nation's 27 million passenger cars and five million trucks and buses. It acted as expected.

Now as the Baruch committee report is concerned, Mr. Jeffers apparently hasn't gotten beyond page two of the printed version, but he is working early and late. He's that kind.

He has established residence at Washington's Mayflower hotel, but he goes there only to sleep. He left his family in the west, bringing with him only his secretary, a pleasant young man named Cunningham who knows the Jeffers ways.

All of WPB's old rubber division men are still around from former Co-ordinator Arthur S. Newhall on down. But that is no assurance there won't be some changes made. Jeffers has been known to fire vice presidents on his railroad.

BARUCH REPORT EYED

Now that the ink is dry on the Baruch report it has had much more careful appraisal in Washington. The more the report is read, the more the conviction grows that it is a pattern for any other reports that may have to be made in the future, whether on cargo planes, aluminum, scrap metal, sugar, coffee, meat or what haven't you.

Carefully analyzed, the Baruch report can be shown to find that the country's rubber program as it had been conducted up to the time the report was made was not as bad as the confusion indicated. "Our committee is convinced that the government's present program is technically sound." . . . "It is fortunate that the program for the needed plants is generally in the hands of as competent engineers as there are in the country." . . . "Present process for manufacturing synthetic rubber . . . must not at this date be changed."

"Normally such a rubber development would require a dozen years." And so on.

The Baruch report text called for the appointment of an experienced rubber man as administrator. Mr. Jeffers is not. But maybe, from his suite on Plush Row, he doesn't have to be. If he can just keep in their proper places the Ickes oil faction, the Henderson rationers, the Jones financiers and rubber reservists, the Gillette grain alcohol enthusiasts and the Eastman transportation defenders.

Today's War Analysis

By DeWITT MacKENZIE

Wide World War Analyst
 LONDON, Oct. 1.—Herr Hitler's boastful promise to his people yesterday that he will retaliate against Britain for the bombing raids on Germany finds John Bull quite unmoved and stoically reconciled to renewal of the Nazi air war from the air.

However, while there can be no question of our re-entrant's intention, to resume his aerial hymn of hate there is considerable doubt how far he will be able to carry out his plans. He no longer is the mighty man he was before he tangled with the unconquered Bolsheviks.

He can't just say as of old, "Let Britain be bombed," and know that his genie has done the job.

Hitler's ability to conduct further wholesale bombing of Britain is contingent on several important things. One of them is whether the Allies open up that second front about which he has shown by deed and word that he is worried.

However, once the Caucasus show slows down, the Nazi chief will be obliged to withdraw a large part of his air fleet.

Whither then?
 Well, it strikes me that he will be faced with numerous difficult problems which are developing.

In the first place, his air fleet is no longer the great weapon which he started the war with. As reported previously in this column, he is short of warplanes, pilots, oil and gasoline.

A corollary to this problem is the Anglo-American air strength already in the British Isles and steadily growing. The Allies have superiority in the air over western Europe and are reaching for absolute supremacy.

Finally we come down to the question of that second front. In connection with this it is interesting to discover that the British public is experiencing a lively hunch that the Allied high command is cooking up something in the way of a new offensive.

I've encountered this feeling among military observers on both sides of the Atlantic recently. There's nothing you can put your finger on to stir for old time's sake. It isn't without substance. Now along comes der fuhrer to say he's seen the ghost.

John Bull and family are eager to come to death-grips with Adolf Hitler.

The old flower lady in Piccadilly Circus—for these colorful characters in London life still stick to their posts despite the bombing, God love 'em—summed the thing up for me when she stopped to buy a rose and have a little chat for old time's sake. "Sure, we're going to win," she said, "but we wants to get ahead with it."

SERIAL STORY OF BRIGHTNESS GONE
 BY HOLLY WATTERSON

REMEMBERING PITY
 CHAPTER XIX

MARTIN appeared already dead. His head had a crushed look and from his nose and the corner of his mouth trickled a thin dark stream.

For the space of a breath that seemed ages long they stood, Peter and Candace, arrested in attitudes of horrified disbelief. The shocked group gathered in the doorway understood that: after all, Dr. Martin Corby, one of their own, "out on the highway," the policeman was saying, "They hit the back of a truck. You should see their car. Folded up. Like an accordion."

Peter spoke, releasing her. His voice, cool, peremptory, was the voice of a doctor ordering her to duty; mechanically she moved to obey.

Peter's hands were moving swiftly, cutting away cloth, deftly probing. Under those searching fingers Martin stirred, his eyelids fluttered open. He managed what was almost a smile. "No—use, Pete," he gasped painfully. "Number 8."

Peter said gruffly, "Nonsense, boy!" would stir her straightened from that hurried examination his own face was gray.

Martin's gaze slid beyond him, seemed to search for something; when his eyes fell on Candace he had found it. "Candace," he said, "Candace." Painfully. A mere breath of sound. "It's been all wrong. Wrong. You shouldn't have let me—"

Peter nodded at a hovering orderly, then walked away, and a screen was put round Martin and Candace, closing them in alone in a cold white stillness.

Outside in the room a girl was crying. She screamed once, a shrill crescendo of pain and loss, "Martin, Martin!" When he didn't even stir at that, when she knew finally, irrevocably, that Martin never would stir again, Candace left him there and stepped outside the screen, drawn unwillingly, like a sleepwalker, to that cry.

CANDACE had seen Faith Harts-horne often, driving about in her open car with her bright curls blowing, or sitting outside the hospital in it waiting for her fiancé, Dr. Corby. The curls were matted now, the young face smeared with tears and dirt and discolored by an ugly forehead bruise, the eyes that Candace had seen crinkled with laughter were bruised and discolored too.

Blue, those eyes, blue as a smiling inland lake, but clouded now with a grief too terrible to be borne, a wild look, a lost look. Candace had seen a look like that once before, in eyes that had stared back at her from a mirror in a lonely hotel bedroom; the puffy-dark eyes of another girl who had lost Martin a long, long time ago. . . . In swift remembering pity she bent to touch the girl's straining hand.

Faith clutched at her fingers, searching her face with a fierce hunger. "Nurse, did he—did he say anything?"

The way of Martin's going had left the other girl with a festering core of bitterness; for her sake this should be a clean wound, one that would heal. Candace lied gently. "He asked for someone named Faith. He said, 'Tell Faith I love her.'"

She turned swiftly, made blindly for the door. Peter would cover her, he would know she couldn't stand any more.

He was at the doorway as she reached it. "Candace," he said. His voice was warm, and compassionate. For a dizzying instant she fought with a longing to clutch at that girl had done.

The moment passed. Pity! She hardened herself. She wanted no one's pity. She said bitterly, "Your perfect machine in operation, Doctor. The patient's condition called for something special in the way of treatment, and your machine trotted it out."

His own expression hardened. "Perfect machine?" he broke down in the middle of a job.

Peter worked with one eye on her and another on the clock. He watched Candace moving about, obeying orders as in a daze, and he was grateful for the confusion that would keep anyone from noticing that or his own distraction. He dreaded the blank moment that would come after the Harts-horne girl had been moved upstairs.

Dr. Patterson had been summoned, others, she remembered swimming about; he hoped that the confusion would last until the nurse who was to relieve Candace, and his own relief, had come. He was almost prayerfully thankful when the two turned up practically simultaneously and they were left face to face.

He threw his topcoat about his shoulders and waited to catch Candace at the outside door through which she must pass. He grasped her elbow and steered her firmly past the nurses' home, down the path to the room. If she was feeling even remotely as he himself felt she wanted to run, she wanted to scream, to release all the emotions pent up inside

Second Air Cadet Class Will Start Studies Thursday

Flying training for Pampa's second civilian pilot training class will start today and ground work on Monday, following the "graduation" of the initial class of 10 students Monday night.

The graduates are now awaiting call to an army glider school. One of these is located at Amarillo, another at Dalhart, and there is one at Big Spring and a fourth at Artesia.

It is likely, however, that the cadets will be sent first to El Paso where they will be outfitted in flying tops.

In conjunction with the starting of the new class, a call has been made for the loan of 45 caliber pistols. Paul F. Blankenburg, who instructs the cadets in infantry drill, said he would like to have the pistols not later than the middle of next week.

"Care and use of the 45 is a regular part of the cadets' study," said Mr. Blankenburg, "and persons who loan pistols can be assured they will be well taken care of and the pistols will be cleaned thoroughly before their return to the owners."

Pampans who have pistols to loan are asked to notify any one of these three men:

Frank M. Culberson, 218-22 N. Ballard, telephone 366; Thomas Herod, high school assistant principal, 1461; or Mr. Blankenburg, at the time he trains the cadets.

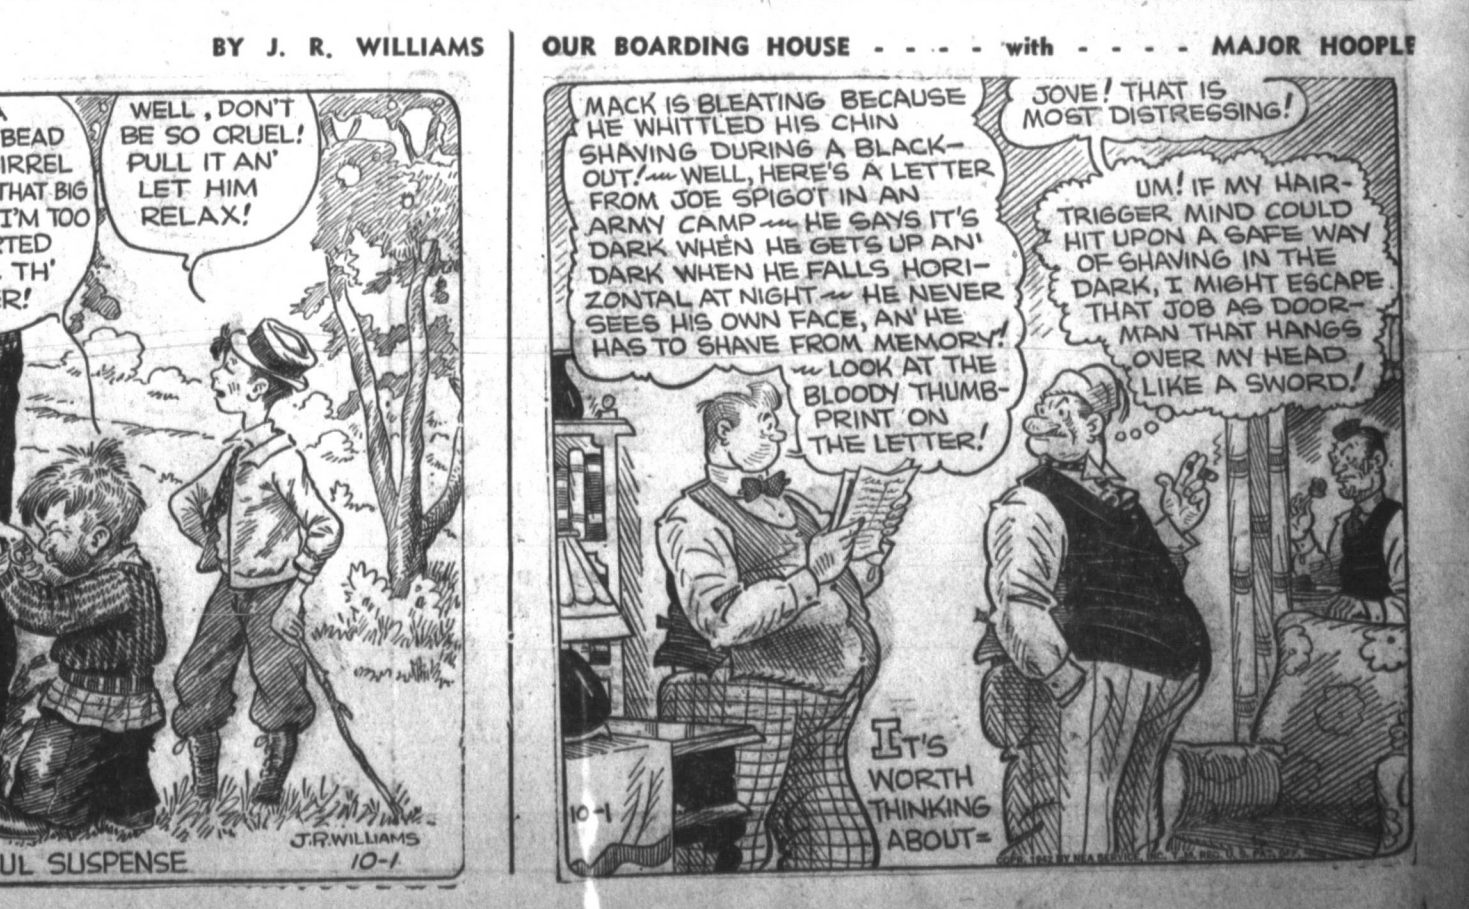

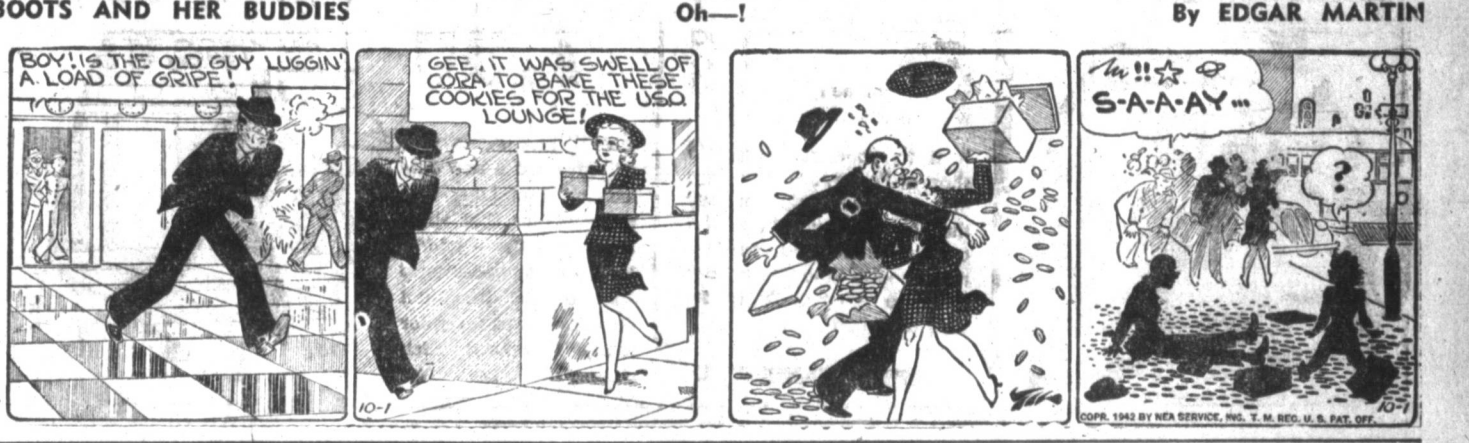

There were 32 present at the graduation dinner of the initial class, held Monday night in the junior high school cafeteria.

Cadets presented Mr. Blankenburg, who is first sergeant of Company D, Texas Defense Guard, a brown leather billfold stamped with the American Legion emblem, in appreciation of the instruction given at no cost by him.

Other guests included Frank M. Culberson, CPT coordinator; and Mrs. Culberson; Henry Reynolds, instructor, and Mrs. Reynolds; Mr. and Mrs. Roy McMillen, Supt. and Mrs. L. L. Sone; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Herod.

There will be 12 or 14 members of the second class. Period of training is eight weeks. Coordinator Culberson said he hoped to get the quota of 21, but there was not sufficient time to enable several prospects to enroll in the class.

Plane Factories Increase Output 113 Per Cent

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1 (AP)—California's eight principal aircraft factories have increased their deliveries more than 113 per cent since war came to the United States, while making gains in efficiency which are sharply out of the man-hours required per plane.

Donald D. Douglas, plane manufacturer and retiring president of the aircraft war production council, made this report yesterday. Cargo plane deliveries, he said, has increased more than 1,100 per cent since Pearl Harbor was attacked Dec. 7, and production efficiency has been so improved that the dollar value of airplanes produced per man hour worked was boosted 36 per cent, resulting in vast savings in time and money.

He said that the American steel industry "is dedicated in the year ahead" to the job of fabricating "steel to a multiple of war uses, to supplement the production line to make bits and pieces that our arsenals and our factories may turn out more of everything."

Germans Arrest 1,400 Americans In Occupied France

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—About 1,400 American citizens have been arrested by German military authorities in occupied France, Secretary Hull said Wednesday.

The secretary of state told his press conference that information received from the American charge d'affaires at Vichy included reports that the arrest and detention of the 1,400 was in reprisal for the alleged arrest of Germans in this country.

He said he hesitated to credit this explanation of the German move, since there were no justifiable grounds for such action in the treatment of Germans in this country.

Texas 'Wide-Open' Spaces Grow Smaller

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Texas' "wide-open" spaces are comparatively crowded.

At least, the housing census for 1940, just released by the Bureau of the Census, indicated that the medium size of the rural-farm households was 3.72 persons.

The medium-size household in the rural non-farm areas was 3.22 as against 3.12 persons in the urban sections.

Under the housing statistics, a household consists not only of related occupants, but also of lodgers, hired hands and other servants who may be under the same roof.

The median size of households throughout the state was 3.30 persons.

There were more two-person households in the state than households of any other size. Two-person households numbered 415,818 and constituted 24.8 per cent of the 1,678,396 households in the state. One-person households accounted for 6.8 per cent of the total and 3-person, 22.9 per cent.

More than three-fourths of the homes had more than one person for each room. More than two persons per room were found in 8.2 per cent of the homes.

Room crowding was less common—in 1940, before the current shift in population took place—in urban places than in rural areas. Of the urban homes, 27 per cent had more than one person per room. In farming areas 38.4 per cent of the dwellings housed more than one person per room.

Of the 15,274 homes in the state which had 11 persons or more, 7,390 were in farming areas, the remainder in urban and rural non-farming sections.
