Despite Sale To Buc's, Greenberg May Quit Baseball

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP)—Hank Greenberg probably has hit his last home run.

The end came with shocking suddenness yesterday afternoon. A few hours before the mighty slugger was expected to sign a contract with his new club, the Pittsburgh Pirates, Hank called a handful of reporters to his swanky East Side apartment to admit he was "considering retirement" as an active player.

Although Greenberg left the door open a crack by using the word "considering" instead of announcing an outright retirement, insiders believed he never again would appear as a player.

President Frank McKinney of the Pirates said Greenberg's contract was purchased from the Tigers in good faith and that deal stands as first consummated.

Greenberg made it plain that money was not a factor. In fact, he insisted the Pirates, who bought him for a reported $40,000 after he had been waived out of the American League, offered him more than he ever got in Detroit.

"After 11 years and 1,150 games in a Tiger uniform, I always expected to finish my career in Detroit," he said in part, "since it was decided for me that this could not be done. I do not desire to start anew in a strange environment."

The 36-year-old veteran may have given the real reason for his action when he said "I feel there is yet much good baseball in me as a player and executive."

Only two weeks ago in a radio program he claimed he had applied for the vacant job as general manager of the Tigers in a letter the Detroit office said it never received. It is common knowledge that Hank has ambitions to be an executive and owner.

Forty percent more meat was produced in the United States in the 1941-1945 period than in the 1935-1938 prewar period.

Oliver Takes Texas Open for First Top Victory in Seven Years

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Ed (Porky) Oliver had the shots in the stretch so today he carries $2,000 in his jeans as the fruits of a dramatic victory in the twenty-first Texas Open.

As the tourists of the PGA departed for the next tournament stop—St. Petersburg, Fla.—the clubby Wilmington, Del., professional counted his first major championship since the St. Paul Open of 1940. But the links' round man was in the Army four years and is just now really hitting the comeback rack.

Oliver ran out a seven-under-par 64 in the final round yesterday to close with a 263 for 72 holes—just one stroke over the record Ben Hogan hung up last year on Brackenridge park's 6400-yard par 36-35 course. It was good enough to beat out the music man of the fairways—Jimmy Demaret of the Ojai, Calif., professional by way of Texas. Demaret finished with a 67 and his total fell one shot short of Oliver. Smiling Jimmy put $1,400 into his bank account.

In third place was tall, blond Harry Todd of Dallas, who closed with a 68 after faltering in the third round to use the route-way lead he built up Saturday, while tied for fourth were Vic Chezzi, the big fellow from Knoxville, Tenn., and Fred Haas, of New Orleans. Chezzi and Haas $750 apiece.

Dick Metz of Chicago, playing his first tournament since being suspended for two because of the poke he took at Fred Corcoran, PGA tournament manager, wound up in sixth place with 270 and $600.

Oliver's 263 was 19 strokes under par for 72 holes and it came with this card: 67-64-70-64. At the tournament's half-way mark Oliver carried a nightmarish first round of 74 on the hole-outway of Worsham of Washington, D. C., and at the end of 54 holes was tied for fifth spot. Worsham led the field at that stage but took a three-hole intermission on the hole-outway and dropped down to a tie for seventh at the finish.

The man who was supposed to win the tournament—Ben Hogan—was a nightmarish first round which he shot in 75, and never could come close to catching up. Little Ben wound up with 278 and a tie for fifteenth place. But he held on to first place in money winning for the year. The $152.50 he got here brought his total to $63,853.33. Demaret still is second with a total of $5,053.33.

Dudley Named No. 1 Safety Man in Pro Football Conference

NEW YORK (AP)—To his honors as No. 1 ball carrier and foremost punter in the National Football League, Bill Dudley of the Pittsburgh Steelers today added the title of No. 1 Safety Man for the 1946 season.

The former Virginia All-American, who left the Steelers recently to return to his alma mater as backfield coach, was ranked first in the art of returning punts in the league statistics compiled on the basis of the number of returns and their average distance.

Dudley ran back 37 punts, more than any other player in the league, and averaged 14.2 yards per return. Only Gail Steinke of Philadelphia, who handled eight punts, had a higher average among those qualified for ranking. He averaged 14.5 yards.

Steers, Porkers Prepare for Home Stretch in SWC

By MAX E. SKELTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Undeclared Arkansas and Texas have entered the second half home stretch of the Southwest Conference basketball chase and only the Southern Methodist Mustangs seem likely obstacles to prevent a title determining series between the two perfect record leaders the last two days of the season.

Arkansas moves into Dallas Friday and Saturday to meet the Mustangs who last Saturday bowed to Texas for their second loss of the campaign. The two setbacks, both to the speedy Longhorns, all but eliminate the Ponies from the championship picture but a split or sweep of the Arkansas series would put the S. M. U. five in excellent position to complete the season in the runnerup slot.

The Dallas tilt will be the Porkers' most serious tests of the campaign and will match teams playing a similar type of game, slower and more deliberate than the speedy Longhorns. Both depend on height and the deadly accuracy of individual scorers, such as Arkansas' Al Williams and George Kok and the Ponies' Tommy Tomlinson.

Texas counteracts its lack of all-around height with a fast break attack that spelled defeat for S. M. U. in Austin last month, the speed was fatal in the early minutes of play. In Dallas, however, the Ponies brought out a tight defense and all but matched the speed for three quarters of the game before succumbing to the fleet footed Steers.

Despite the outcome of the Porker-Mustang games, Texas looms an even stronger favorite because of a schedule advance. The Longhorns meet Texas A. & M. at College Station Saturday in their final road trip of the year. After that they play four straight-home games, entertaining Baylor and Rice before an Arkansas invasion.

After S. M. U. the Porkers entertain the Aggies at Fayetteville before moving into Austin.

Texas drew a half game ahead of Arkansas last week by taking three games, 61-41 at A. & M., 2-44 from Texas Christian, and 58-51 from S. M. U. Arkansas took two victories from Baylor's defending champions, 55-50, 68-57.

LIFE OF EDISON PROVES FREEDOM'S WORTH

The memory of one of America's greatest men—Thomas Alva Edison—will be honored throughout the nation on Feb. 11, the centennial anniversary of his birth. The inventor was born 100 years ago at Milan, Ohio. He died Oct. 18, 1931, at West Orange, New Jersey.

Edison's centennial is being observed in schools, by civic organizations and service clubs, by special programs in theaters, and by a commemorative U. S. stamp on sale for the first time on Feb. 11, in his birthplace.

Edison demonstrated how high a man could rise in a free economy. In many countries of this day, where a son could not rise above his father, Edison would have been a maker of wooden shingles because that was his father's trade.

Edison showed also how far a man could go under exceptional handicaps. As a boy he was not strong, and because of his physical condition he was kept out of school beyond the usual age. In fact his formal schooling totaled only three months and was augmented by what teaching his mother could give him, and by his own reading.

Yet Tom Edison, who was considered "addled" by one of his teachers because his young imagination was beginning to sprout with genius, made scientific discoveries and inventions which remade our lives.

When he died in his 84th year, Edison had been issued more than 1,097 patents. Perhaps his most famous was for the electric light. This would have been of little benefit without his establishment of the present day method of distribution of electricity from a central station. The motion picture and phonograph were also first conceived by Edison.

Among his other important contributions are the carbon telephone transmitter, the electric railroad, the universal electric motor, steel storage batteries, giant rotary cement kilns, safety lamps for miners, and a scientific discovery on which radio, radar, television and other electronic devices are based.

It has been said his inventions and methods fathomed the modern methods of industrial research, and that they gave birth to new industries with a capital valuation of more than twenty billion dollars, employing more than four million men and women.

In Hollywood

By ERKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
(Johnson heard on KPDM Monday thru Friday, 3 p. m.)
HOLLYWOOD—Let me hand out the Oscars—H. B. Warner is happy. A drunk in a Hollywood cafe suddenly recognized him as the rum-soaked old drunk in "It's a Wonderful Life." He staggered over to H. B.'s table.

"Far me," he said. "Don't mean 'fense Mr. Warner. Jes' wanna tell ya that outside of me you're the best drunk I ever saw."

So Frankie boy has taken out a permit to carry a gun for "personal reasons." We don't know whether we should be worried or not. Maybe we'd better get a permit too to carry a fly-swatter.

Gleam Ford says these reports of his objecting to Eleanor Powell's resuming her career are not true. "The only time I objected to her dancing again," he laughed, "was when I got a bill for $295, for some opera-length stockings."

WALLY HITS THE ROAD
Wallace Beery will make his first stage appearance in 30 years in "The Bad Man," slated for the straw-hat circuit in Connecticut this summer. He'll co-star with his adopted daughter, Carol Ann, now 15, who wants to be an actress.

Sterling Hayden's current flame, Betty De Noon, has fixed up the cabin of his 65-foot schooner with drapes and frilly curtains. It must be love. Jack Benny will do personal appearances of a week each in New York, Boston and Chicago late in May. "Alice in Wonderland" will be filmed in France with a cast of puppets and live actors.

Jose Iturbi, miler from the set of "The Birds and the Bees," was discovered in the studio barbershop. "But you didn't need a haircut," said Jeanette MacDonald. "Of course I did," said Jose. "Do you think I want to look like a musician?"

"De-Exalting" The Exalted
The reason we are in the turmoil we are now in, is that our so-called leaders have exalted themselves. The public has permitted them to exalt themselves. In Lincoln's time leaders who were blind were "de-exalted" by way of debate. It will be remembered that Lincoln challenged Stephen A. Douglas to debate the social problems of slavery. At that time people did not have much confidence in men who did not stand up publicly and permit their theories to be tested by questions. The result was that we made great social progress. We eventually went from a slave state to a more nearly approached a government with the consent of all the governed than we have ever had in our history.

In ordinary business the way to take the self-exalted opinion out of an individual is to let him go up against competition. To let him go up against the best in his field can serve. If he has exalted himself, the customers soon determine which man is the realist in giving them service. It doesn't take very long for the individual to come to realize that he is not a prize to be debunked by the dreamers, the blind leaders, the wind bags.

It isn't so easy, however, to "de-exalt" the exalted in political leadership. It is difficult because too many people cannot recognize a contradiction or do not think the people need to be consistent or in harmony with the Ten Commandments or the sermon on the Mount or the principles set down in the Declaration of Independence. They usually say they don't agree with the individual as if they themselves were the standards, the moral law, the impersonal rule, the Commandment, the law that no man can make of his own mind. Each man determines what is right and wrong by whether or not a leader agreed with him, we would have as many standards of right and wrong as there are individuals.

EVADE DEBATES
But in modern times, we have accepted exalted leaders who will not debate their social panaceas or if they will, they insist on selecting their opponents so that they can win any discussion, any blind theory, any social premise if they select their own opponents who are not grounded in the principles set forth by the Ten Commandments or the Declaration of Independence.

It seems the only way and the best way to debunk the people who are exalted is to insist on their being willing to publicly test their theories by debate or by an investigation into the truth. No realist, no Christian, no liberal ever needs to be afraid of debating moral ideas. The debator always wins who is in harmony with the eternal principles such as the Commandments and the Declaration of Independence as a guide of human conduct.

Yes, what we need is more old-fashioned debates that will "de-exalt" the false leaders in each and every community. If the leaders of the exalted are "de-exalted" in each community, we will then send meek men to Congress. And if there were ever a true statement, it is "The meek shall inherit the earth." It is only because this country was less exalted, was less sure that the government had a right to use force to coerce people than any other country in the world, that this country won the last two wars. The big trouble is that we are becoming less and less meek and more and more exalted, and the exalted person or the exalted group is bound to be in one war after another.

Beware of the self-professed humanitarian person who professes to be interested in complaints, dignity and who will not debate his methods of reducing delinquency. Beware of the man who has to hit and run in discussing moral needs.

GO AHEAD, RICHARD
There's near-bedlam at Warner Bros. over an unfunny line which is getting hysterical howls and sneaks from the picture, "The Legend of Ann Sheridan's picture, 'Nora Prentiss.'"

Kent Smith's character name is Richard, and in one scene Ann says, "Open the door, Richard." The title, of course, of that song which is driving America crazy.

Susan Hayward's acting job in "Smash Up" proves what we've claimed for years—that she's one of the best actresses in town. It's the acting break of her career.

Ann Dvorak, just returned from Mexico City, spent her last evening there with Ty Power. Competition for Lana? . . . RKO is paying Harold Arlen to do the music for "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," with Ray Bolger playing Ichabod Crane.

Return of Marjorie Berrie to Hollywood reminds us that he and Bob Cummings once did a duo in vaudeville. Wonder who'd be the straight man now.

So They Say
There is almost no such thing as an open newspaper market in which small papers may bid for and buy the paper they need.—Sen. James E. Murray (D) of Montana.

To establish working harmony we've got to get labor relations out of the White House, off the front page, and into an honest effort of fair-minded men to agree. Earl Bunting, president, National Association of Manufacturers.

One effect of the leftist program is that in Eastern Europe attempts are being made to turn the people against us. They say that we are lulling them . . . while we get enough bases and atomic bombs ready to control the world.—Frank R. Shea, U. S. Information Bureau Chief in Romania.

I don't believe that wars are inevitable. I believe the United Nations offers us the greatest chance we have ever had to avert war.—Adm. Chester Nimitz.

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Thirty-three identifiably different ideas for reform of the labor laws are before Congress. They are embodied in some 38 bills—18 in the House and 20 in the Senate—dealing with repeal or amendment of the Wagner Act or the creation of new mediation machinery.

Many of these bills cover similar ground in different ways. The job before Congress is to reduce this blizzard of reform to one omnibus bill which a majority of the congressmen can agree on and the President will sign.

In spite of the current big buildup to make it appear that new labor laws aren't needed, many congressmen hold to the belief that labor has abused its present rights and liberties. Some revision therefore seems inevitable.

Whether or not all the proposed curbs would do what they are intended to do is open to question. A case can be made that many of the suggested reforms would make labor relations worse instead of better. But the right answer to that can be given only by time and experience.

HERE'S THE ABE
The purposes of simplifying all the complex labor bills now before Congress, and as an aid to understanding what all the debate will be about in the next six weeks, the 33 basic ideas for reform may be boiled down to this list:

all states should adopt the interim appointive system under which government could fill vacancies immediately if the leaders were killed, so Congress would always exist to check "any would-be-dictator-minded executive."

Wiley, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, thinks his plan is needed to supplement President Truman's own ideas on the presidential succession.

Since a desire to peer into the future is one of man's most persistent emotions, it's always interesting to follow the leads which such ideas suggest.

First, what is the relative likelihood of such a war? Although it is considered impossible these days to express doubt that the United Nations will work some realists admit that either Communism will prove a false lure, the world will move far enough to the Left politically to eliminate the shape differences between Communism and Western economic practices, or there will be war, sometime.

If war does come, will it be sufficiently soon so that present plans for its conduct will not become obsolete?

If present world unrest results should produce a war its conduct, at least for the first years will follow established practice. If war develops after the nations have spent 10, 15 or 20 years healing the off was puzzlement in many power companies unable to cut current to industry and households without also shutting off essential users like hospitals and food producers.

 The Ministry of Fuel and Power put users of electricity "on their honor" to observe the embargo until the crisis was over—Fuel Minister Emanuel Shinwell said it would last "three or four days, possibly a week."
 Shinwell told the House of Commons Friday that a month-long cold wave had been eating fast into the nation's already scanty coal piles and the shutdown was imperative to avoid outright disaster. However, the cold wave began breaking yesterday.
 Political repercussions of the crisis were scheduled to be aired in the House of Commons today when Prime Minister Attlee was expected to review the desperate fuel situation.

'Inch' Lines

 the lines were costing the Government $65,000 a month for maintenance.
 Built to keep oil flowing to the Eastern Seaboard after U-boats sank much of the American coastwise tanker fleet, the 1340-mile Big Inch runs from Longview, Texas, to the New York-Philadelphia area. This 26-inch tube carried crude oil; its 20-inch counterpart follows an approximately parallel route and was used for high octane gasoline.

 nounced intentions of appealing the case, regardless of Picard's ruling. Industry's fears that the opinion might not set an iron-clad precedent prompted calls for quick revision of the Wage-Hour Act.
 There were indications that such demands might get attention soon in Congress. Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) of the Senate Republican Policy group said portal pay was one of two issues given top priority after a conference with Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) of the House.

Love Has Two Faces

By Irene Lonnen Ernhart Copyright, 1947, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Leni goes to New York. Papa and Mama move out to Parker's farm as caretakers. On the day she is to leave the hospital after her baby, Ellen, is born, Cassie learns that Parker's machine works will not reopen because of "insufficient funds."
 XVI
 THERE were consultations every evening in the library once again. Not with engineers and promotion men this time, but with lawyers.
 Cassie overheard things.
 "If you hadn't let them turn that deal on you at the bank, Parker, your father would have made short work of that."
 "Look, Parker, here's an obligation you can squeeze out of legally."
 Parker's voice, low, embarrassed, saying "I'd rather see the thing through, all the way. If I can save the farm out of the whole smashup I'll be satisfied. I've been a sucker. I can see that."
 Cassie thought of the expensive gifts Parker had showered on her so recently, the money wasted on flowers, the enormous expense of Sid in the Academy in Florida, the money she had spent too, on the house, as though it were water pouring from an everlasting spring.
 Giving up the house on the hill, seeing all his mother's lovely things going on the auction block, trying to keep her balance in the shifting sands of such an enormous change, wasn't half so disturbing to Cassie as Parker's attitude, his dejection and bewilderment, and unending silence.
 She couldn't find out exactly where they stood financially in the light of his evasions and silence.
 THE ways and habits of Carson street had followed Mama to the farm. The sink was always

 (This was where the portal to portal angle came in with a bang).
 Then the Supreme Court further told Picard to figure out exactly how much portal to portal pay the Mount Clemens workers should get.
 But—there was one very important point in what the Supreme Court told Picard about figuring portal to portal back overtime.
 It told him not to consider any overtime that was "trifling." Then the government, through the Justice Department, stepped in.
 The Justice Department attorneys asked Picard to consider as "trifling" the whole suit of the Mt. Clemens workers and to throw it all out.
 That's what Picard did Saturday. He said the whole claim was "trifling" and therefore the workers had no back overtime pay coming.

License Suspended Result DWI Charge

Yemon-Noel Graham, Pampa, was fined $50 and court costs, and had his driver's license suspended for six months after entering a plea of "guilty" to charges of "driving while intoxicated," before County Judge Sherman White, this morning.
 Graham was arrested by City Police last night while driving on North Gray.
 "Do you think anyone up town will give me a job after the fiasco I made of the Machine Works? I sank the entire fortune my father left into the thing. They laughed in the bank till their sides split. 'Hamilton's folly,' that's how they speak of it."
 "Couldn't you get work in—in one of the plants?"
 Parker bridled. "Doing what? What am I good for?"
 Cassie didn't answer. She hadn't realized that Parker had such a peculiar brand of pride.
 "Well," she said after a moment, "we can manage on a hundred and fifty a month perhaps. Five hundred will last quite a while."
 "I bet you're glad you married me!" he said suddenly.
 "Oh Parker!" She came to him, where he stood with one elbow leaning on the mantel. She touched his arm, and he cringed.
 "All the things I was going to do for you!" he said wildly. He ran a hand through his hair, fiercely. "I was going to make you so happy!"
 "But Parker, you have. You—" her mouth shook all at once and a lump of tears rose in her throat.
 "The things I was going to do for your family! I thought I knew how to fix everything! I knew how to make everybody happy, just like I knew better than Father about opening the Machine Works. It would have been better for both of us if I'd never phoned you that night Leni and Leni were eloping. It didn't accomplish anything, anyway—stopping them that night. He's set her up in an apartment in New York!"

Doctor's Discovery FOR FLUSHING KIDNEYS

Backache, loss of pep, getting up nights, and headache are often caused by nothing more than improper kidney action due to excess acid in the urine. Kidneys are one of Nature's ways of removing impurities from the blood. And when these impurities back up, trouble may start.
 So if you have these troubles, give your kidneys and bladder a good flushing out by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. It works on the kidneys to flush them out, increasing the flow of urine to help relieve that excess acidity and ease that burning when you pass water, helps that bladder irritation that gets you up nights.
 Made of 16 herbs, roots, vegetables, and balsams, Swamp-Root is absolutely non-habit forming. Caution: take as directed. For free trial supply, send to Dept. 5, Kilmer & Co., Inc., Box 1255, Stamford, Conn. Or—get full-sized bottle of Swamp-Root today at your druggist.

McLean Resident Suffers Stroke

McLEAN—(Special)—W. A. Gilman, aged McLean resident, was in a serious condition today after he suffered a stroke in the office of T. N. Holloway here Saturday afternoon.
 The man collapsed on the floor after Holloway had left the office. Holloway enlisted the aid of Deputy Sheriff C. E. Nicholson when he was unable to open the office door. Gilman was lying behind the door.
 A local physician said Gilman was apparently paralyzed in his right side and was unable to talk.
