SOLDIER CONFESSES TO 'BLACK DAHLIA' SLAYING

Signed Statement Describes Murder

FORT DIX, N. J.—P—Capt. William H. Florence, head of the Army's Criminal Investigation Division here, said yesterday that Cpl. Joseph Dumais had signed a statement confessing to the slaying of Elizabeth Short (the Black Dahlia) in Los Angeles.

Capt. Florence said Dumais, in a lengthy handwritten statement, had described the mutilation of the attractive brunette and listed markings on her body which were corroborated by Los Angeles police.

Post Public Relations Officer Major Cornelius T. Morris, who released the statement from Florence, said the 29-year-old Dumais had admitted the brutal slaying after 20 hours of questioning.

Morris said the soldier admitted he met Miss Short in New England in 1942 and had dated her frequently since. He said he had had a date with the slain girl on Jan. 9, six days before her body was found in a vacant lot. Morris quoted Dumais as saying that his mind "blanked out" at the time and he remembered nothing until he found himself in New York's Pennsylvania Station.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Capt. Jack Donahoe of the Los Angeles police homicide detail, said yesterday that it would be "a day or two" before his department could check out details of the statement on the Elizabeth Short murder made at Fort Six, N. J., by Corp. Joseph Dumais. "From some of the information given to us by the army's criminal investigation department," said Capt. Donahoe, "it appears that some evidence might be given the man's statement, but we won't have anything to say until we have gone into the thing extensively, and that may not be before Monday, at least a day or two."

There are notes from postboxes in every state of the union, often with copies of replies sent by the White House Secretariat. Some of these letters—along with many notes—and others sent items ranging from printed calling cards to a four leaf clover.

Archivists of the Greystone Library which adjoins the Roosevelt ancestral home here have arranged the collection in eight standard library file boxes. Approved researchers may peek at the items while a library employe, unobtrusive but watchful, hovers in the background.

A typical letter is one from Long Beach, Calif., signed "TOPSY," with an enclosed picture of the "writer." Topsy offered to share a flower bed full of bones. One writer asked information on Pampa's menu and Presidential Secretary Steve Earl based his reply on a memorandum in Mr. Roosevelt's handwriting, also in the file, which read:

"To say in regard to the dog's food, it is too difficult to describe but consists of various diets of all kinds."

What Shall It Be?

He Prays for Rain

HUNTINGTON, W. Va.—(AP)—The kids still were zipping down Pogue Street Hill on their sleds today but Street Superintendent O. M. Phipps felt as whipped about as a snow man in Miami.

Some resident, who better not admit unless adept at dodging snowballs, complained to the mayor that the city is obligated to put cinders on the dead-end street for safety's sake.

Mayor Douglas C. Tomkies called Phipps. Phipps ordered out the cinder crew.

The kids got the word and went running to the Rev. E. Dean Barr of the Westmoreland Christian Church. He called the mayor. The mayor called Phipps. Phipps recalled the cinder truck.

The pro-cinder people now are pestering the police. The police pass all such complaints to Phipps. He is praying for rain.

Taft Against Knutson Plan For Tax Cuts

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) tossed a monkey wrench into plans of House Republicans for a quick cutback in income taxes with an announcement yesterday that he will oppose making any reduction effective before July 1.

This would halve the $3,500,000,000 reduction which a 20 percent cut would make over a full calendar year.

Taft said that while he remains convinced income taxes can be slashed a net of 20 percent, he thinks individuals ought to contribute to the present rate until the new government fiscal year begins next July.

This would keep payroll withholding taxes at their present level for the first half of 1947. After July 1 they would drop by whatever percentage Congress decides.

For persons who pay their full year's taxes in advance March 14, the Senator proposed rebates later covering the last six months of the year.

This stand by Taft, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee and a member of the Finance Committee, collided directly with the announcement intention of Chairman Knutson (R-Minn) of the House Ways and Means Committee to rush through a tax bill making reductions retroactive to Jan. 1.

Knutson's committee has ordered brief hearings beginning Feb. 19.

These will be limited to treasury and internal revenue officials, but Knutson invited all persons "interested" to file briefs with the committee outlining their arguments.

In explaining the decision to limit the hearings, Knutson said in a statement that his measure, calling for a 20 percent across-the-board tax slash, except in the brackets above $300,000, is retroactive to Jan. 1 and added:

"To prolong the hearings indefinitely would be to make the measure inoperative."

Church Movement Is Inaugurated Here

The Pampa Kiwanis Club's committee on churches has begun a campaign to urge more attendance at churches, it was announced this week.

As a means of prosecuting this drive, auto stickers have been printed and will be distributed through the tax collector's office where auto licenses are purchased.

All persons who buy auto licenses have been urged to accept these stickers, which will be distributed by the clerks in the office of F. E. Leach, it was said.

Highway signs are being prepared, and will be located at 10 positions along the roads leading into Pampa.

Ickes Lashes Out At U. S. Policy

NEW YORK—(AP)—Harold L. Ickes, former Secretary of the Interior, last night termed United States policy in Palestine "completely inexplicable" and said Jewish immigration into the Holy Land should be permitted under United States and British protection, it was said.

Ickes made the recommendation in a speech prepared for delivery at a dinner held in connection with a two-day conference on Holy Land sponsored by the American League for a Free Palestine.

"Those Jews who want to go to Palestine have the right to do so and ought to be permitted to do so to absorb them," Ickes said.

The former cabinet member said, "loans should be promptly and generously forthcoming, principally from the United States, not as charity, but to help them develop their land."

Ickes criticized the British government, headed by Churchill, for not honoring the Balfour declaration and added that "if the policy of successive British governments is difficult to understand, that of the United States is completely inexplicable."

Portal Pay

 minutes, or too trifling to merit damages.
 The Court did not attempt in his decision to define how much time must accrue before the "De Minimis" doctrine becomes ineffective.

However, he said that if the Supreme Court ever sets such a figure industry should not be liable before June 10, 1946.

Judge Picard suggested further more than any portal time under "30 to 25" minutes is customarily considered trifling in industry and should not require compensation.

He added:
 "Let us not be understood as holding that all portal to portal suits should be dismissed. There may be, and perhaps are, many instances where walking and the preliminary activity time consumed is of such an amount as to call for compensation that the worker is not now receiving. But this is not one."

 The Court gave as examples unformed plant policemen who might be required to stand inspection before beginning work.

The Pottery Workers sued for overtime in 1941. A Master in Chancery, Donald F. Quillie, appointed by Judge Picard, found that the employees were not entitled to any compensation.

Judge Picard in 1943 overruled the Master and awarded the employees nominal damages for overtime, in so doing, he discounted all portal time.

The U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati reversed Judge Picard and held with the Master that the employees were not entitled to overtime.

The Supreme Court held similarly but added that Judge Picard must consider the portal time in computing overtime. They sent the case back to him last June with instructions to compute the portal time, if any, and to access it as "De Minimis" or otherwise "in the light of the realities of the industrial world."

Yesterday's 29-page opinion followed public hearings in which the National CIO fought for portal pay while the U. S. government and the National Association of Manufacturers opposed it.

Judge Picard held that industry, attempting to abide by the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 in regard to overtime, had little to guide them except administrative bulletins and vague court decisions, not necessarily directly related to their own industry.

Therefore, he reasoned, it was not until the Supreme Court enunciated the portal theory in the Mt. Clemens case last June that industry could be expected to be liable for portal time.

Judge Picard said that actually the portal to portal theory, while enunciated by the High Court, was injected into the Mt. Clemens case because "the defendant company overrold its defense before the Master four years ago in explaining why its employees reported 15 minutes before starting hours."

"This was quickly taken advantage of by plaintiffs in the interim between the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court," he continued.

The Court held that walking time and make-ready time should be added together to make portal time and that the De Minimis rule applied to this total rather than to the two separate figures.

"As we interpret the instructions of the Supreme Court however, it makes no difference in this case," the opinion continued.

Judge Picard said that in only three departments of the Mt. Clemens firm, a small suburban Detroit pottery company employing about 1,200 persons, was there any preliminary activities "that we would consider in any way not part of the job and necessarily performed before the employee started to work."

The sum total of these activities for any one person would be a mere two or three minutes daily, the opinion asserted.

Citing a number of law cases and pleadings, Judge Picard concluded one phase of his opinion as follows: "From the above it is apparent that this Court not only could but should, by the great weight of what authorities there are, declare all walking and preliminary activities time involved in this case as De Minimis. We so hold as to activities."

The Court then admitted that the solution to the question of walking time "isn't quite so simple."

"It is elementary to this Court," the opinion continued, "that one who is on his way to his own lunch in the cafeteria set apart for him by his employer, or outdoors, is walking there for his own convenience and necessity and not necessarily and primarily for the benefit of the employer and his business."

Judge Picard compared the Mt. Clemens case to cases where miners are forced to travel "long distances in the bowels of the earth" and found an "entirely different picture."

The court then said that, assuming that the Supreme Court considers at least 12 minutes of walking time involved in the Mt. Clemens case as not De Minimis, this time must be limited to that involved in going "to and not from the work bench."

CHICAGO GRAIN
 All grain futures closed strong on the board. Trade today: March wheat, under profit in the closing minutes to finish with net gains. However, the contract did not reach yesterday's 2 1/2 year high.

Deferred wheat contracts forged ahead fractionally, and the gains were sufficient to establish new seasonal highs for these options.

Feed grains generally were at new highs for the current season, and were bid by good demand for the cash grain. Expected conditions which would be expected to show a further rise.

Wheat closed 1/4-1/8 higher, March 82 1/2-83 1/4, and oats 3/4-1/2 higher, March 79 1/2-80 1/4.

Coal Crisis

 and many political forecasters said Conservative Chieflain, Winston Churchill, might pick that day as the date to petition the government with his long-threatened motion of censure.

Attorney General Sir Hartley Shawcross, speaking in Lancashire, center of Great Britain's giant cotton industry which will be closed, solemnly declared:

"Certainly if we don't succeed in overcoming this situation and improving coal production the Labor Government will fall and there will be an end to any idea of Socialism in our time."

"The whole situation is just as serious as it was in 1939 and 1940," when Britain waged almost unwarred defense against Hitler, he said.

Shinwell, under fire from Laborites as well as Conservatives, told a news conference the government had to have public cooperation on the conservation measures or "in the next ten days we shall find ourselves in a position of complete disaster."

By "complete disaster," he said he meant we would not have any fuel or electricity at all.

 day labor with the peace mission," Vandenberg said. "A man in my position is not needed on routine matters, but at the major points and I'll still be there at the major points."

Convention leaders side-tracked a resolution endorsing Vandenberg for President, apparently on the theory it would "expose" the senator to greater political attacks.

But convention gossip indicated the leadership's intention to keep the Michigan delegation tied and support for Vandenberg and place him in line.

In position for Presidential maneuvering, Vandenberg proposed that "Straits against the government, or summary strikes against public health and safety like any other civil rebellion, cannot be tolerated. Jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts must stop."

"Many of our churches have their workers in Europe, and the situation there is well known. Here, for instance, is a cablegram just received in Pampa from Dr. M. R. Zigler of the Church of the Brethren:

"PARIS, France, February 1, 1947—The church survives. Europe must have extraordinary expression of Christian love. It must begin with food, clothing, and end in spiritual brotherhood. Otherwise, crisis upon crisis will result in dark despair. True Christian people will continue to respond to human suffering. I saw Brethren materials in Germany, Austria, Italy, Poland, and France. I urge all Brethren people continue identifiably with those in need by sharing generously money materials undergirded with prayer."

 head of the Communist organization in this country and said Eisler's refusal to be sworn and testify before the committee "is far from the end of this case."

The "conspiracy" to overthrow the government, Thomas declared, "already has got a good start and must be stopped."

He indicated that new hearings may be called within the next ten days and said the committee "will not rest until it has accomplished its objective of exposing and blocking this conspiracy."

Thomas did not detail the nature of the forthcoming hearings but another committee source called them "dynamite—more so than the Eisler case."

"We are just getting into this thing," he added. "Eisler is a key figure, but he is far from the only one."

Horan says that total rural aid school funds now available for re-appropriation amount to $6,704,364, and that the amount needed to carry out his program would still leave an estimated balance of $350,000 at the end of the fiscal year.

He insists that his proposed amendments (features of his own bill) to the Morris bill are as essential to the state education program as the increase in teachers' salaries.

The Ohio senator said he does not believe the Republican-controlled Congress can afford to increase the government's anticipated deficit of $2,300,000,000 for the financial year ending June 30. A 20 percent tax reduction, carried back to Jan. 1, would pile an estimated $1,250,000,000 more on the deficit.

New Magazine on Southwest Out

First issue of Scene, "The Magazine of the Southwest," is being distributed to subscribers and went on sale at newsstands this week. Wayland and Clyda Boles, Dallas publishers, have announced.

Cover of the 56-page magazine depicts typical southwestern scenes in nine colors on a glossy black background. Printed on heavy enamel paper, inside articles and features are illustrated with large photographs and multi-colored layouts.

One feature article tells how a group of armed GI's used their bullets rather than their bullets to oust a long-entrenched political machine at Hot Springs, Arkansas, titled "Revolt at the Spa," two versions, one for "lowbrows" and another for "highbrows," are used to completely cover the manner in which the state of GI's outwitted their machine opponents. One verslon was written by Baucum Fulkeron, secretary of the Arkansas Bar Rules Committee, who is now in England on a Rhodes scholarship. The other version bears the byline of Harry "Spider" Rowland, columnist on the Arkansas Gazette and author of a burlesque etiquette book entitled "Burp."

"Oklahoma Comes Home" is the heading of a feature describing the goings-on in Oklahoma City at the time of the first showing of the musical comedy "Oklahoma" in the Municipal Auditorium there. Colorful pictures are shown of the show cast, along with Oklahoma's Governor, radio star Bob Burns and the officials of the Theatre Guild who came to Oklahoma City for the showing which set a new world's record for attendance at a musical show.

The amazing career of E. L. DeGolyer, Dallas oil man who owns controlling interest in the nation's top literary magazine, the Saturday Review of Literature, is told in a scenario written by Evelyn Miller Crowell, Dallas author.

Seitz To Pilot 1947 Oilers; Several Players Returning Oley, Harriman, Fortin, White, Johnston To Play This Season

By SCOTT RAFFERTY
News Sports Editor

At last, it's come. The long-awaited announcement concerning Pampa's baseball future has been released along with the news that Grover Seitz, only manager in the history of the West Texas-New Mexico League to win two pennants, will be here to manage the 1947 club.

The Oilers went all out under Seitz last year to capture the league playoff, after finishing second behind the Abilene Blue Sox, and then swept past Henderson of the East Texas League to capture the Class C championship of Texas.

Local baseball fans will see several familiar faces when April rolls around. Among them (those who definitely will be here) are R. C. Oley, balling in his second season; Foster White, lanky right-handed pitcher with a 16-11 record in 1946; Earl Harriman, hard-working shortstop; Joe Foran, husky right-fielder, and Ed Johnson, adept in the outfield and no slouch at southpawing them across the plate.

Seitz has written to Joe Isaacs, right-handed pitcher who won five straight one last year, and has sent a contract to Catcher Al Zigelman, but the latter has already requested his release and will probably request the document unsigned.

Seitz said he had traded outfielder Jack Riley and Pitcher Ed Lieker to the Clovis Pioneers in return for Pitcher Bill Hewitt, who captured eight victories while losing 12 for the seventh-place Pioneers last year.

Third Baseman Tony Range may not be around this season and Seitz said he is "dickering" for a replacement for Range but has no definite line on any one player.

Another position to be filled will be that of Virgil Richardson, first baseman and the club's leading man with the popo stick last season. Richardson, who clouted 26 home runs last year, was "drafted" by Montgomery of the Southeastern League.

In the hurling department, the situation is still vague with only Foster White definitely due back. Johnston won two and lost two on the mound last season and showed definite promise as a southpaw hurler, in addition to some good hitting and capable outfielding duties.

Isaacs, who last year was still not fully recovered from war wounds although he had the club's best earned-run average, would give the club much-needed pitching strength if he signs but replacements for Warren Hacker (20-4) and Lefty Bill Garland (23-9) will be hard to find. Both hurlers were sold to Shreveport of the Texas League.

On the front office side, the West Texas-New Mexico loop will hold its annual pre-season meeting here February 16 at 10 o'clock in the morning. Discussion will center on raised salary limits and the adoption of the playing schedule.

Spring training for the Pampa club will open in Pampa March 31 and several exhibition games will be played prior to the opening of the season. Last year, the club trained at Elk City, Okla.

Top Bowlers Matched In Attraction Here
Some of the top bowlers of the Panhandle will participate in a series of matches at the Pampa Bowl this afternoon at three and five o'clock.

In the three o'clock matches, Jim Petrie and Beryl Haynes of Pampa will be pitted against Jimmie Shane and Ruth Doris of Amarillo. The doubles team will roll five games here today and five at Amarillo Wednesday.

The five o'clock matches will see one man's and two women's teams each from Pampa and Borger roll series.

SPORTS

Harry Todd of Dallas in Lead at Texas Open Meet

On The Sports Beam
By SCOTT RAFFERTY

Those Pampa sports fans who have never paid particular attention to a tall, dark-haired athlete (he's handsome) may have really been missing something because he's fast making a name for himself in the word of sports.

We're speaking of Doyle "Tex" Auld, former Harvester basketball and football great, a star of the great 1943 Randolph Field football team and now the property of the Boston Red Sox in the field of baseball.

Tex was the end who caught Glenn Dobbs' pass that enabled Randolph Field to tie Texas U. in the 1944 Cotton Bowl game. Last year, he was a pitcher for the champion Scranton team of the Eastern Baseball League and this year he'll be at Louisville in the American Association, just one step away from the major leagues.

In Pampa for the winter, Tex played for the Heiskels, an independent cage team and was working for Frank Dial, one of our town's more enthusiastic sports fans. Baseball players sometimes have trouble getting winter jobs but Frank was more than glad to help him out.

We think Tex will go far in baseball. He was a good hitting catcher at Scranton last year and came through "in the clutch" several times. At Scranton, Tex caught games pitched by Tommy Fine, another Texan, who matriculated to the Boston Braves this year.

Attention, fishermen and hunters
Don't forget the Panhandle-wide sportsmen's club meeting here February 21, for which the McClellan Lake Rod and Gun Club will be host. All similar clubs of the Panhandle have been invited to send representatives. Among the guests will be Doc St. Clair, president of the Texas Federation of Wildlife Clubs.

Also, news about more members in the local organization? The more members such clubs have, the easier it will be to enforce campaigns for legislation to benefit sportsmen of this state. The dues are a buck a year and Don Martin, club secretary, will be glad to put your name down.

Pirates Beat McLean In Cage Tilt, 38-29
LEFORS (Special)—Led by the point-making of Harold Sims, the Pirates rode over the McLean Tigers, 38-29, in the main event of a four game bill here Thursday night.

In the other games, McLean Junior High squeezed by Lefors Juniors, 21-20, the Lefors Freshmen won a 38-21 victory over the McLean Freshmen and the McLean reserves defeated Lefors "B" team 29-19.

Greenberg Expected To Join Club Today
PITTSBURGH (AP)—Contract negotiations between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Hank Greenberg are expected to end here today with the big slugger putting his name on a one-year agreement calling for at least $55,000—the salary he received from the Detroit Tigers last year.

Frank McKinney, president of the club, and John Galsbrecht, vice president and treasurer, checked in from New York Saturday morning with word that Hankus Pankus would arrive this afternoon in time for a conference before attending the Baseball Writers' dinner.

Whitey Baccus Resigns as Basketball Coach At S. M. U., Effective at End of Cage Card

DALLAS (AP)—Forrest C. (Whitey) Baccus, resigned yesterday as head basketball coach and assistant football coach of Southern Methodist University and will establish an automobile sales agency at Lecky.

The resignation, announced by Matty Bell, SMU athletic director, becomes effective upon completion of the Mustangs' 1947 basketball schedule next month.

Announcement was made only a few hours before the SMU team was to play the University of Texas in Dallas in a game holding strong hearing on the Southwest Conference championship. Only Texas, Arkansas and SMU remain in the running for the title.

It is estimated that U. S. plants will turn out enough floor and wall tile in 1947 to cover 850 average square city blocks.

Town's 'Kids' Will Play 'Basketball' Tuesday, That Is
WHEELER—Cries of "foul" "libel" and "absurd" everything else are in the air as citizens of this community get ready for a pair of "basketball" games here Tuesday night, proceeds from which will go toward making improvements at Mustang football field.

Matched in the main event are Wheeler's "not so trusty" School Trustees and the educated element of the town, the Wheeler faculty.

Because he is an avid follower of George Washington (but swears he never knew personally that memorable character) County Superintendent Allen Kavanaugh has consented to referee the game, but not the preliminary game between the P-TA and the women faculty members, mainly because his is an elective office.

Only after written proof was dug out of the archives did the Teachers consent to allow one Cecil Johnson to play for the Trustees, Johnson was alleged to have attended grade school at Kelton.

The probable rogue's gallery: School board—Fred Waters, Cecil (I swear I went to school), Johnson, R. G. Russ, Joe Tiley, Luther Parks, Otis Ford and Henry Greenhouse.

Teachers—W. O. Carrick, coach, superintendent and convict (cager, get it?), J. E. (Hippo) Osborne, Judge A. C. (To maintain dignity) Wood, Clyde Johnson, Jess (No relation to Ted) Williams and Sheriff Jess (How did he get in here?) Swink.

Those who have never seen a basketball game probably won't Tuesday night.

Trippi To Sign With Atlanta Baseballers
ATHENS, Ga. (AP)—Charley Trippi, Georgia's all-American half-back and much sought after as a professional baseball player, said yesterday he would sign Wednesday to play with Atlanta of the Southern Association.

Trippi, who recently signed a $100,000 contract to play professional football with the Chicago Cardinals, did not disclose the terms offered him by Cracker President Earl Mann other than to say they were "the same ones we discussed several weeks ago."

Harvesters Win
BROWNFIELD—Pampa's Harvesters won their third conference victory of the season here last night, eking out a 56-27 victory over an inspired Brownfield five that went down to its eighth straight District 7-AAA loss.

In other conference games, Amarillo pushed back Plainview, 44-35, and Lubbock took a 48-40 decision from Borger.

A magnifying lens of rock crystal has been excavated from the ruins of Ninevah, dated from 721 to 705 B. C.

It cost $8,000,000 in 1946 for a squadron of 10 B-29s with equipment.

Certain Firearms To Be Registered With Government

Certain types of firearms must be registered before ownership of them is transferred by gift or sale, under the conditions of the National Firearms Act of 1934 and Regulations 89, it was announced this past week from Dallas.

Sawed-off shotguns and rifles, and firearms such as machine guns, full automatic rifles and pistols capable of firing more than one shot with a single pull of the trigger are subject to the requirements, it was said.

The regulations require that the weapon be registered, that a permit be procured before ownership of the weapon is transferred by gift or sale, and that a $200 transfer tax be paid by the transferor. Tax is cancelled if the weapon is deactivated.

Officials said: "Returning servicemen have brought into the country, as trophies of war, many firearms subject to the outlined registration and transfer requirements. These guns, by their and ill-considered sale, are being acquired by gangsters. In gangsters' hands they constitute an ever mounting menace to the security of the law-abiding citizen.

"Failure to comply with the requirements of the National Firearms Act and regulations issued thereunder may result in penalties up to $2,000 fine and five years' imprisonment for each violation.

"For information as to forms and procedure, and to determine whether or not your gun is subject to registration, contact the Alcohol Tax Unit Investigator in Charge in your area."

The investigator in charge is Ralph S. Daniel, 823 U. S. Terminal Annex, Dallas, Texas.

First Prosecution Of DA Successful

Newly elected District Attorney Tom Braly tried and won the first murder trial of his career Thursday, in Wheeler County, when Jimmy Poe Evans was found guilty of murder without malice and sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary at Huntsville.

Evans was tried before District Judge Lewis M. Goodrich in Wheeler County 31st Judicial District Court last week.

Evans was charged with the murder of Roy Henderson in the fall of 1945. Henderson was killed with a shotgun blast over a fifteen cent gambling debt the night before he himself was to go on trial for murder.

Other convictions obtained in Wheeler County District Court by District Attorney Braly were all burglary cases.

Two brothers, Hulbert and L. B. Elrod, were each sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary for burglary and Wesley Bunch, a teenager, received a five year suspended sentence for burglary. Bunch entered a Wheeler County residence and stole a pistol. He was caught later sitting along the road with the pistol underneath him. The Elrod brothers were found guilty of burglarizing the White House Lumber Yard in 1945.

WE, THE WOMEN You're Never Too Old to Dress Well

By RUTH MILLET, NEA Staff Writer

"There exists for every woman the possibility of being a creative artist in terms of her own person. To whatever degree women at any age dress to suit men, the older woman, if she has retained her desire to be pleasing in men's eyes will do the same."

That comment didn't come from a fashion or beauty authority but from psychologist George Lawton, who probably knows as much about the problems involved in "Aging Successfully" — the title of his book — as any man in the country.

Most young women (bobbysoxers excluded) approach the job of making themselves as attractive as possible in the manner of the creative artist.

Dry Skin Thoroughly To Prevent Chapping

By ALICIA HART, NEA Staff Writer

Best safeguard against chapping is to dry skin thoroughly after a bath. The hurried slapping-on of a towel may pass the water, but it leaves warm water but in the winter this hit-or-miss method invites skin dryness.

Recommending the friction of a rough towel to rub off dried skin tends to make legs and shoulders look chapped or rough, beauty-wise model Mary Mohr says. Her routine is too often skimped. The extra time taken, she says, will reward you with a smoother skin.

Mary's tip for emerging more sleek-skinned from your bath is to sink bath oil into your water. Its value aside from perfuming the water and making a bath more pleasant, according to this model, is in imparting a lubricating film to the skin that insures sleekness for the day.

Wise girls, like Mary, make a point of drawing a tub of rinsing water after the soapy water is drained. If the second tub is cool, your rinse does its duty of washing off every trace of soap and closing pores relaxed by the heat from a hot bath.

Among the dances to be seen here will be "Galatea: The Dream of Pygmalion" (Debussy), "Romeo and Juliet" (Tchaikovsky), and "Student Performance" (Ponchielli) with Svetlova and Roland. Imaz will present "La Dolores Jota" (Breton) and "Serenata" (Mialetti), while a solo number by Roland will be "Buffoon-Dance" (Rimsky-Korsakov).

SQUIRREL HUNT

WAUKOON, Ill.—For two days Mrs. Evelyn Finel was unsuccessful in coaxing a squirrel out of its home atop the damper in her chimney fireplace so she called the fire department.

Two firemen let down a 10-foot pole into the chimney as a third fireman heckled and threatened the squirrel from the fireplace below. The object was to encourage the animal to run up the pole and out of the chimney.

But the squirrel fooled the firemen—after teasing them for an hour. He ran down the chimney into the house. Then Mrs. Finel and the firemen spent another 10 minutes chasing the animal around the house until he left — by the front door.

Scarf Gives Your Collar a Break

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Scarves are needed for woman service to protect your winter coat from your neck make-up. Even if you don't like these neck pieces, you ought to wear one out of respect for a coat collar that can't be cleaned as often as a scarf.

A scarf should be tied with some taste or draped for effect — not flung around the neck like a prize fighter's towel.

Since a scarf has the power to make or wreck your costume—even one topped by a fabulous mink coat—it should be picked with care.

Properly, the dominant color in a scarf should pick up the dominant color of your clothes. A woman with a discerning eye for effects will think time well spent in searching for a scarf that echoes as many as two colors of her costume. Say, for example, she wears a gray suit with a yellow blouse. She wouldn't be attempting the impossible if she wanted to slouch down a neckchief that combines these two colors.

If the coat that completes this ensemble is brown, she might even find a scarf which saucily integrates the gray, yellow and brown colors of her clothes.

Raucous Laughter Mars Loveliness

A woman can be beautiful, well-dressed, saucily maneuvered and know her way around the world, yet have these impressions of charm wrecked by her loud or raucous laughter.

Charm exponent Margery Wilson describes that kind of laughter as nervous explosiveness. She says it's often mirthless, and is more apt to be a defense mechanism than a happy emotional reaction.

But luckily an unpleasant outburst can be changed into a merry, rippling laugh which, says our expert, is the way a laugh should sound.

To remedy the trouble which effects the boisterous laugh—it's trapped in the throat by muscular contractions—Miss Wilson says to re-train it to start from the diaphragm. At that point of origin a laugh can be controlled, made flexible, be released loudly or softly.

The training? Practice deep-breathing exercises. While breathing deeper, as deep down as the diaphragm, says Miss Wilson, practice exploding silent, mirthless ha-ha sounds from that point of origin in jerky gusts of air.

These exercises create a channel for a laugh which with practice will take to the new longer route with hearty, bubbling or rippling sound.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcetrane (formerly called Barcol Concentrate). Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky-fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Plan Formulated on Migration of Workers

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Recommendation of joint U. S.-Mexico agreement designed to prevent migration of Mexican workers to the U. S. and their employment there at wages below approved standards, was disclosed last night by the foreign office. It was announced that the joint U. S.-Mexico Immigration Commission had agreed to recommend to the two governments that these measures be put into effect. 1. Increased border precautions to prevent illegal entry into the U. S. 2. Investigation by U. S. authorities of the possibility of legal action against employers who hire Mexicans illegally in the U. S. 3. Return to the U. S.-Mexican border of all Mexicans presently in the U. S. illegally, in order that a selection of workers be made, their status regularized, and some returned to work in accordance with contracts approved by both governments.

OUR CIVIC CLUBS

JAYCEES—Tues., Palm Room. Rotary—Wed., Palm Room. Lions—Thurs., Meth. Church. Kiwanis—Fri., Meth. Church.

Week Activities

JAYCEES—The first check has been deposited in the account opened for the Community Center, a project upon which the club is concentrating its effort this year. . . . It was announced last week that 30 new members of the club will be inducted Feb. 21, the place to be announced. . . . A sports film on high school football was shown at the club this past week.

ROTARY—John McCarty, Amarillo newsman and writer about the Old West, discussed pioneer lore as guest speaker before the club. . . . L. N. Atchison announced that the drive for Boy Scout funds will begin this week. He is general chairman of the drive for $6,000 in Gray County. . . . Rev. B. A. Norris had the program.

LIONS—One of the big shows in Pampa each year, the Lions Minstrel, will go into rehearsal tomorrow night. It was announced last week. . . . Angela Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Wade Duncan, appeared for two piano solos. She is the club sweetheart of the month. . . . The Boy Scouts from Pack 14, Sam Houston School, appeared on the program under the direction of Mrs. A. A. Schuneman and Bill Heskew.

KIWANIS—Rev. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church, appeared as the guest speaker under the sponsorship of the Inter-Club Relations Committee. In an interesting talk, prefaced by two or three well-received jokes, he set forth three requisites for solving our problems: 1—we must be men of character; 2—we must have "courage without hate"; and, 3—we must have courage with ideals. His talk embraced both the idea of necessary religion and patriotism. A representative phrase: "Our future and the future of the world is no stronger than the men who assume the power." Nations, now, he said, are somewhat like the sick man, who, the doctor said, must have the will to live. Medicine and science had done all they could to save him. Ed Weiss introduced the speaker. . . . The club will take part in the Boy Scout fund drive, along with the other clubs. . . . Clarence Qualls, local photographer, was installed as a member.

Consultant to Help Veterans

CANADIAN—(Special)—Morgan J. Stacey, Veterans Administration contact representative, will be at the courthouse here on Feb. 12, and twice weekly thereafter, to consult with veterans on their problems. The hours will be from 12:30 to 4:30 p. m. The following date will be Feb. 26. He will discuss such matters as compensation, insurance, education, and hospitalization. The representative is being sent here, it was said, due to the fact that at the present time veterans must travel long distances for such information.

Month's Sale Goes Beyond Last Year's

Total annuity and new life insurance written by Southwestern Life Insurance Co. during the past month exceeded that produced by the agency during 1936, John H. Plant, local representative, said Saturday. For the month just closed, it was in excess of $9,700,000; while for the same period last year, it was little more than $8,370,000.

Revenue Officer Proffers Help

Internal Revenue Deputy Collector Cecil B. Williams will be at the Pampa Postoffice Building, Room 10, from March 6 to March 15, inclusive, it was announced Saturday from Dallas.

His purpose here will be to offer free information to those taxpayers who wish to consult him relative to income taxes. Acting Controller H. C. Arnold, in his statement, said: "Existing laws do not impose this duty upon us or our employees, but we desire to assist wherever possible. The deputy collector's advice and assistance

1—Word of Thanks

WE WISH to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from our many friends during our sad bereavement in the death of our beloved daughter, sister, granddaughter and niece, Joyce, who passed away Jan. 31st at the age of 12 years. Your kindness helped us to bear our grief. Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Brake and Vivien, Mrs. J. E. Brake, Mr. and Mrs. W. Haiduk, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cook, Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Flaparty.

A little child shall lead them—Isaiah 41:5.
Where has she gone since yesterday—And left us lonely here? Who yesterday was near? No nap of ours, on sea or land. Her journeying may trace. We only know she's reached her home. And seen her Father's face.

And she'll be learning fast. The mists of earth are cleared away. The sun of truth in radiance glows. All shadowless and bright. Undimmed by any cloud of earth. Undertaken by its night.

And she has grown since yesterday. And she'll be growing still. The bonds of time and space and space that bind her closer will were broken by the angels from the south.

In first upward flight. The weary body frets no more. The spirit, freed and light. O dear, familiar yesterday! O dear, familiar yesterday! Yet who would call the glad soul back To rouse the resting clay? Or who would wish that she might share Our sorrow's toll and strife, Who, loosed from Death and all its pains, Has entered into Life?

WE WISH to express our heart felt thanks to all who assisted in any way at the untimely death of our niece, Mary Catherine Kiehl, who passed away Jan. 27th. For the beautiful services of Clegg's Funeral Home and floral offerings of friends and especially the family, who did so much for her loved one.

—Mr. and Mrs. James F. Thornto, Pinekeyville, Ill., E. L. J.

Then shake Jesus again into them, saying, I am the light of the world; he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.—John 8:12.

I cannot say and I will not say That she is dead—she is just away With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand. She has wandered into an unknown land. And left us dreaming how very fair It must be since "she" tingers there.

For you—oh you, who the wildest dream For her old time step and glad return. Think of her as faring on, as dear In the love of there as the love of here.

Think of her still as the same, I say; She is not dead—she is just away.

THE DRILLER'S LOG

By Bob Bray

A drilling crew of 15 men arrived here last Tuesday from Odessa in preparation for the drilling of the Phillips Petroleum Company's Roberts County Wildcat, the No. 1 Jenkie. Yesterday, the construction work on the 136 foot derrick was almost completed. The derrick has a 20 foot base, as compared with the regular 20 to 24 foot base for drilling to lesser depths. Heavy equipment too indicates that the test might drop to 15,000 feet.

It has been reported that the Magnolia Petroleum Company has been leasing land in Southwestern Lipscomb County. This very wild, wildcat territory, which borders the Amarillo Basin is apparently becoming quite popular with some of the majors. Prices have safely averaged $1.50 per acre and in some instances have climbed considerably higher.

J. C. Ferris, junior engineer for the Stanolind Oil and Gas Company, has been temporarily transferred to the company office at Fort Worth.

The Phillips No. 1 Stoebuck, which is located in Gray County approximately 15 miles south of Lefors, was last reported drilling below 2600 feet. No shows have been officially reported but our most reliable RUMOR source tells us that the well has had a very good show of gas. We hate to report rumors, as bad as you hate to read them, but in some instances they are unavoidable.

Another Phillips deep test, the No. 1 Chuck, in Sherman County started out a tight test and is evidently getting "tighter" all the time. At the last reading they wouldn't even give us the drilling depth.

In Cimarron County, Okla., the Ohio Oil Company's No. 1 State was last reported drilling below 3800 feet. No shows of oil or gas have been encountered.

Some time back, we received a copy of the completely illustrated book, "Oil for Victory," compiled and published by the editors of "Lamp." Since we thoroughly enjoyed reading it ourselves, we want to take this opportunity to endorse it to members of the industry. It is a book about you and your friends that you will enjoy.

The Oil and Gas Division of the Railroad Commission last week tested seven new oil wells and eight new gas wells.

The oil wells showed a total potential production of 2,660 barrels of oil daily. This is an average production of 273 barrels per well. The gasers tested a total potential production of 46,995 mcf of gas daily. This is an average yield of 6,076 mcf of gas per well.

More than 188,000,000 pounds of starch were used in 1945 by U. S. textile manufacturers.

DR. K. S. PITZER

Dr. K. S. Pitzer, of the University of California, Monday began at Humble Oil & Refining Company's Baytown refinery a two-week course of lectures on "Spectra as Related to Structure and Thermodynamic Properties of Molecules."

Dr. Pitzer's course is a scheduled part of the "Humble Lectures in Science" series begun last year. His lectures are being attended by Humble's technical and research personnel at Baytown, and are bringing those people the newest developments in their own and related work.

Dr. Pitzer is the fourth nationally known scientist and educator to take part in the series since its inception last August. His course is of special interest to the company's research groups who are studying hydrocarbons by physical, rather than chemical, means. Emphasis is being placed on interpretation of results obtained with such physical instruments as mass and absorption spectrometers and spectrophotometers.

Organic and physical chemistry lectures now being conducted at the university graduate level by Drs. F. A. Matsen and H. L. Lochte of the University of Texas are expected to be completed at Baytown in June.

Results obtained from the first year of the lectures have been so satisfactory, according to Humble officials, that plans are already being laid for the second year's work. Others of the nation's most qualified and best known scientists and educators will be invited to participate.

Houston Oil Man Opens Race Track

HOUSTON—AP—George H. Echols, Houston oil man, today announced that his new racing plant fronting on the old Spanish Trail, six miles from the downtown section, will open late in May with a quarter horse meet. He estimates that the plant, Arrowhead Park, will cost $1,250,000.

Echols expects to offer a year-round sports program, with quarter horse races, rodeos, trotting races, horse shows, cattle shows and other events. The plant will be equipped with a $68,000 lighting system which will make most of the events night affairs.

The track is a half mile oval with a three-eighths of a mile straightaway out of the chute.

Phillips Plans Second Test In Acreage South of Lefors

It was officially announced last week that the Phillips Petroleum Company has commenced work on a new Gray County wildcat, which will be known as the No. 1 Undergraff. The test will be located approximately three miles south of another Phillips wildcat, the No. 1 Stoebuck, and about 18 miles south of Lefors. The proposed depth is 3000 feet.

Thirteen commencing and ten completions were reported in the area during the week. Hutchinson County led the "well starts" report with a total of five while Gray County set the completion mark with three oil wells. All were very light producers.

Radar and Airborne Magnetometers To Help With Search for New Oil

By BILL RACHMAN
Those Nazi-busting, U-boat sinking wartime cronies—radar and airborne magnetometers—are up to their scientific armpits in a relentless punctate search for new oil.

Where once they hunted subs they are now probing the continental shelf, a saltwater haven of hard marine fossils and, it is hoped, immense sunken reservoirs of petroleum.

Developed during the war to locate approaching objects and for determining a plane's position with reference to a given found point on blind bombing missions, radar is helping oilmen pinpoint their position precisely while working on water jobs.

It likewise serves them in mapping or making geophysical surveys of jungles, mountains and other inaccessible spots.

Even the magnetometer—one of the first instruments used in exploration geophysics—now has been improved and has taken to the air.

Gulf Oil Corporation scientists pioneered in the early development of this unique detector, which was used to point out submerged Nazi U-boats.

Commission Members In Dispute Over New Gas Allowable Order

AUSTIN—AP—The Lone Star Gas Company yesterday received permission from the Railroad Commission to produce 60 million cubic feet of gas per day in excess of the January allowable in the Garthfield field.

Commissioner Olin Culberson strongly dissented with the order, Commissioner W. J. Murray, Jr. said he signed the order solely for the purpose of extending the emergency order granted before he became commissioner "until such time as I may be able to obtain information which will allow me to determine whether in my judgment any emergency exists at this time necessitating continuance of this order."

The commission order said that "The Lone Star Gas Company and Tennessee Gas Transmission Line submitted additional evidence before the commission, which evidence shows that the emergency still exists for additional gas to supply the big inch."

In his dissenting opinion, Culberson said the only evidence before the commission in support of the necessity for "continuing this discriminatory special allowable is a self-serving letter from the Tennessee Gas and Transmission Company that it is 'indicated' that the distribution companies served by them through the Big Inch are in need of this gas."

Added Culberson: "This commission has already by its decision of Aug. 23, 1946, signed by myself and Chairman Thompson, rejected and denied the very procedure which this order provides."

API Program Group To Meet Monday Nite

The initial meeting of the program committee of the Panhandle Chapter, American Petroleum Institute will be held in the Schneider Hotel at 8 tomorrow night, Fletcher Kennedy, committee chairman, announced recently.

Purpose of the meeting is to choose a topic and outline the discussion program for the regular API meeting, which is to be held late this month.

Members of the committee are Earl Blackburn and Gordon Burch, Berger; J. N. Perkins, Phillips; and Dallas Bowsher, D. H. Luke, Leo F. J. Nestage, John O'Brien and E. E. Schwartz, Pampa.

Kennedy urged all members of the committee to be in attendance for this opening meeting and help get the year's program schedule off to a good start.

Texas Today

By JACK RUTLEDGE
 Associated Press Staff
 Longview discovered an easy way to raise money for benefits. It's hard on the nervous system, but it worked for the March of Dimes. The Optimist Club was holding its regular luncheon. While members were eating, the hat rack was rolled into the dining room. O. V. Penney announced he was going to auction off the fedoras, snap brims and Stetsons.

corn out of Ray Howard's hat. Bidding promptly picked up. Members didn't want to see their hats ruined, or lose them to a friend who, just for the delivery of it, would bid $2 and walk off with a $20 number.

The hat slashing act, incidentally, was an act. But it worked, and the club raised $116.

In San Antonio they don't slash hats but they mangle the English language with a new sort of pig Latin called Op-Latin. You place "Op" before each vowel. It is, says the younger set, "Those vopropy nopopist thoping" (the very newest thing).

"Kopp hopobobypopoxer wopill hope opable topa topak topo apantophoprer opulopess shope knopows opop-lopapin," they say, meaning "No bobbysoxer will be able to talk to another unless she knows Op-Latin."

One young miss said she's been studying Spanish for three months "and I still can't hardly talk it at all, but after only a week of studying Op-Latin, I find I can express myself pretty well."

Speaking of hats again, there's Myron C. Shellman of Texarkana. Mr. Shellman hasn't worn a hat for 20 years. He's ticket agent at the Union Station and gets about quite a bit. But come sleet or snow, rain or sunshine, you'll never catch him in a hat.

Twenty years ago, he says, he was driving from New York to San Francisco. He had bought a new Stetson for the trip. Accidentally, he smashed the crown. In a fit of irritation he tossed it into the age-brush, vowing he would never wear a hat again.

He never has.

World Seal Chosen By United Nations

LAKE SUCCESS, New York — The United Nations now has an official emblem and seal.
An alteration of an earlier, unofficial design, the new emblem is a map of the world as seen from the North Pole. The map is surrounded by olive branches and is centered on the Meridian of Greenwich, which extends to 60 degrees south latitude and includes five concentric circles.
The map is inscribed in gold on a field of smoke-blue. Water areas are white.
The design was made official when the 54 Member Nations voted their approval. At the same time, they agreed that governmental action should be taken to safeguard the emblem and the words "United Nations" from unauthorized use.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

By IAL BOYLE
NEW YORK—(AP)—He got so he came every night—that tiger. He came in my dreams before dawn, would be snoring away and all of a sudden there would be a great gold and black striped bengal tiger crouched at the foot of my bed.

He was a beautiful tiger with a terrible smile and a great slowly switching tail.

The first time he came I just lay there silently fearful that he would catapult in a fearful arc with me at the end. But the tiger never left his haunches.

He yawned with that incredibly smug self-satisfied yawn of the cat family, as delicious contentment of the muscles. Fascinated, I watched the stiff, bristled black lips part like waves to disclose the red furnace of his mouth.

I tried with my gaze to seize and hold his fiery eyes—black pools in an amber wrapper. He looked indifferently away.

Then, through some unfortunate reflex, the big toe of my right foot wiggled. He turned to it with the quick attention of a kitten.

He stretched out a fabulous paw and I awoke, perspiring like a train window on a frigid day. I told my wife about it the next morning.

"Quit eating peanuts before going to bed," she said.

But the tiger wasn't peanuts. He came again a few nights later. This time he grabbed my right foot in both paws, put his great mouth around it—and I woke up with my wife shaking me and asking why I was mumbling "Help Help Help!"

"CAPTAIN OF THE MEN OF DEATH"

Pneumonia is a disease which strikes swiftly and proceeds quickly and dramatically to a crisis. Until recent years little could be done to help the patient. The brief decisive struggle between the infection and the patient earned for pneumonia the dreadful title, "Captain of the men of death."

In the parlance of the army, the captain has been "busted." First came anipneumococcal serum, which removed one bar. Later, powerful sulfa drugs teamed up with serum to completely break the captain. Both of these powerful weapons are kept in readiness in our prescription department, waiting only for the physician's order.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE . . . with . . . MAJOR HOOPLE

AAH! AN ACUTE CONSUMPTION, COUPLED WITH RESPIRATORY TENSION AND A DEFINITE STATE OF FEBRILITY! NO DOUBT ABOUT IT! A FASHIONED MEASLES!

DOC, DID I TELL YOU HOW I CURED MY AUNT'S STIFF NECK? I JUST FLATTERED THE LADY AND IT TURNED HER HEAD KYUK-KYUK?

MEASLES? GREAT CAESAR! AND PEEKS AT ALL TELLING THOSE SOKES! WHAT GRIM FATE HOLDS ME IN THIS WEIRD LODGING HOUSE?

WELL, FOR ONE THING, THE MEALS ARE OKAY!

She decided the tiger meant I had too many blankets on the bed. She lightened the covers until I slept in shivering naps. But still the tiger came with his terrible grin.

My wife began to think I must have something on my conscience. I read drugstore dreambooks and Freud and Jung and all the other Marco Polos of the sleep world.

The dreambooks suggested that such nightmares reflect a feeling of guilt or insecurity. But I never have robbed an orphan or knuckled my mother or wife. And I am eating three meals a day. What did I have to worry about that would dream up a bedside tiger every night?

The other day I went to the store and bought a new pair of shoes. I had been wearing a pair left over from before the war.

"Been overseas?" asked the clerk. "Yes, why?"

"Your feet have grown. Most fellows found they did. You need a larger size. The ones you wore in here must have been killing you."

So I bought a larger pair, and boy, they feel wonderful. And for three nights that tiger hasn't come at all.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Washington notes: Many White House correspondents fear President Truman will wear their legs off up to their knees. They have given up accompanying the President on his morning walks about the Capital. No reporter could do that and still have the zip needed later in the day for the exhausting requirements of the toughest newspaper job in the world — covering the White House.

But when Truman leaves on one of his numerous trips about the country, they feel they have to stick with him night and day. That means they have to bounce—maybe roll—is a better word—out of bed before dawn in order to go along with him on his daily two-or-three-mile pre-breakfast stroll.

This is necessary because the President often pauses to chat with passersby—chance encounters that produce many good human interest stories.

Nothing gives you more of a feel of wealth than to ride in a Washington taxicab. Fares are exceptionally cheap for short runs about the Capital, and there is a kind of city-wide conspiracy to keep tips low.

If you tip a Manhattan caddy two bits, he will usually grant to show he recognizes you are alive. But hand a Washington driver a quarter above the toll and—after he is certain you just haven't made a mistake—he bows you out with a long surprised "Tha-a-a-ak you, Mister."

It leaves you feeling rich and foreign—like a Sultan on payday.

His army career took Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley out of Missouri, but nothing can take his early Missouri out of the general.

He can't say "can't." It still comes out "kaint," just as it did back in Moberly when he was a boy.

In his public addresses now as Veterans' Administrator General Bradley skirts the issue by substituting the word "cannot."

"I still kaint say kaint," is the way he puts it. But the hero of Normandy can say "no" quite clearly—and that has been much more important in his life.

SOME DAY WE'LL READ THE STORY OF THE GREAT MONSTER

Someday a great writer, with an adroit sense of proportion in things, may write a great story about the obtuseness of labor unions. It will be a great story because there plenty of material to draw on. As they say in the world of the literati, it can be drawn on a vast and unimpeachable canvas.

The story could develop from a simple theme, and the great and near-great could gambol to and fro—playing their little parts, showing the folks of men a side which would be a story relating how man, seeking a better position, built up a strong economic organization—purportedly to "protect" the rights of the working man. It would become so strong that it would consume itself, as well as that other great balancing force, management.

For a case in hand, in our effort to demonstrate this "animal," the union, we select the CIO guild, and the Philadelphia Record, which was no inconsiderable newspaper. We said "was."

It's a matter of fact, of course, that the publication has been suspended, and a competitor has bought the great asset—the circulation—of the defunct Record. It is 1,500 employees who are still in the hands of carriers, are now numbered among the ranks of the unemployed.

Of course, someone is supposed to have won in this case, but we haven't got around yet to finding out just who it is. Someone will continue to work for the CIO and the AFL—if there aren't some changes made. Loose talk has been going around lately, to the effect that, since the coal strike and John L. Lewis seem to be matters likely to be solved soon, there will be no need for remedial legislation for this wave of economic disaster. But with the Philadelphia Record were still in going concern, and there had been no strike of its workers, we would not believe that.

We won't ever believe that men have a right arbitrarily to boycott a business through laws handed down by our government, until it goes broke.

And, moreover, we are wondering if the remainder of the country is going to continue to believe that things on the labor front are on the up and up, and that there will never be a story written about the big labor monster's devouring himself.

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
(Johnson on KPND Monday Thru Friday, 3 P. M.)
HOLLYWOOD—Artie Shaw and Mickey Rooney can start blushing. We've just been talking to the ex-wife, Ava Gardner, that beautiful bunch of everything, right where you want it.

In fact, we're still blushing, after interviewing Artie. (Now don't get excited, Mr. Johnson.)

Ava said she didn't feel too well—she looked wonderful in red silk pajamas—and when I please sit down. Her maid Marie brought me a chair (damn it!), and Ava cocked a sheet up around her neck, smiled sweetly and apologized for her slip-and-slide in the bathroom. "It's a terrible joint," which she rents from Red Skelton.

Ever since seeing Ava in "The Killers," we have been sure she is the logical successor to Jean Harlow. And now M-G-M thinks so, too, and she's due for some tremendous ballyhoo as Clark Gable's night-sister in "The Killers."

After that, we predict right now, M-G-M will start re-making some of those sizzling old Harlow-Gable pictures, like "Red Dust" and "China Seas," with Ava and Clark. They're dopes if they don't. And if they don't, Louis B. Meyer had better buy back his horses.

But to get back to Ava's ex-husbands, Artie and Mickey.

TOO OLD—AND TOO YOUNG
Artie, as you know, is now married to Kathleen ("Forever Amber") Winsor.

When Ava was married to Artie, she said, he insisted she read books like "The Life and Times of Thomas Paine."

"He wanted to improve my mind," Ava said, "and I suppose he was right, because I had never done much reading. But one day I bought Forever Amber and brought it home. Artie saw it and made me throw it away, saying, 'I don't want you ever to read such trash!'"

Ava dismissed that with a shrug. "Being married to him was like being married to a child."

Ava said she had been reluctant to give interviews with the press "because they crucified me when I divorced Mickey. They said I was a gold-digger, and that I wanted to further my career and a lot of silly stuff like that."

As a matter of fact, it wasn't until Ava worked for the M-G-M job, in "White Heat" and "The Killers," that M-G-M realized she was a potential glamour doll of the Harlow type.

"But," protests Ava, "I'm not a glamour girl. I prefer blue denim and sneakers and old shirts. I dress up at the studio."

But there wasn't much dreaming (or material) put into the gown Ava wears in her love scenes with Gable in "The Killers." There isn't much gown.

NEWS NOTEBOOK

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—When Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire introduced a resolution to designate the week of Feb. 14 in each year as "National Heart Week," it sounded for a minute as if Love had come to Congress—or at least to Senator Bridges. The Valentine's Day interest, however, turned out to be only coincidental.

What Senator Bridges proposed was that the President be authorized to issue an annual Heart Week proclamation, telling people to watch out for disease of the heart and blood vessels. The danger of cupid's bows wasn't mentioned once.

State Department officials who have been called into General George Marshall's office to tell their stories have found that the new secretary of state is a good listener. He may ask a few pointed questions but he makes little comment.

It's what he does and what he says in his few words that is important. His statement on change of policy in China, withdrawing U. S. offices from the three-nation Nationalist-Communist-American coalition teams, took only 13 lines—102 words.

'Private Property Is A Moral Right'

I have been quoting for two days from Dr. Orville Watts' booklet "So You Believe in Rent Control?" issued by the Foundation for Economic Education. It is available from this office for 10 cents a copy.

Now I want to quote again stressing the immorality of rent control. And anything that is immoral is not sound economics. I quote:

"Do you believe you have a right to a better car or radio or house, if you can afford it and are willing to pay for it?"

"Or, do you believe that the lady across the street should get as much and live as well as the industrious and thrifty? To do so, they will have to share in the earnings and goods of other people."

"It comes down to something like this: Do you believe that anyone has a right to what he makes? Or, do you believe that I have the 'right' to take what you produce or own if you have more than I?"

"Over the ages, man has come down from savagery and a sordid, dirty, sickly existence, only as he obeyed certain moral laws. A good outline of these laws is called 'The Ten Commandments.' Among these Commandments is one, 'Thou shalt not steal.' What does it mean?"

"It means you must not take another man's goods without his permission. And he must not take yours."

"That means the right of 'private property,' big words to say 'something - you - must - not - steal.'"

"But what has all this to do with rent control?" you ask.

"If Mr. Jones borrowed a lawnmower and later refused to give it back or pay for it what the owner asked, we would say he was keeping something that didn't belong to him. We would say that it was stealing. Is it any different if the object is a house instead of a lawnmower?"

Government Makes The Law, Not The Right
"Under rent control, dwellings have been taken over by the tenants, with the backing of government and on terms set by government. Landlords get no income from these properties. But they can no longer say who shall or shall not live in them, or set the terms on which these properties shall be used."

"Under OPA rules, Mr. Jones can hold on to a house which belongs to someone else. He can refuse to get out when asked, or to pay what the owner wants and asks for it. Mr. Jones and the OPA take the use of the house by force; and they take it for less than the owner thinks it is worth, less than he would insist on getting if he were still his to do with as his own."

Of course, the OPA says it is all right. But government officials are only men—human and fallible. They did not make the Ten Commandments. They do not decide what is stealing and what is not. They only decide whether or not they will punish it. They may not even think it is stealing. That makes no difference: To take and hold another man's property against his will—what is that if it is not stealing? No matter how rich the owner is. And even if the OPA says, "More power to you!"

Stealing Means Stealing
"First of all, tenants—forty to fifty per cent of all households—are frozen. It is not only rents that are held down. People are held, too—pinned, or panned, in their present living quarters. They give up thought of moving because they know they will find it so hard to get a house, flat, or apartment."

"So, they stay where they are. These 'lucky' tenants pass up chances for better jobs. They give up the hope of moving to places they think they might like better. They settle down into a rut of petty routine and try to forget their hopes and desires for a better living, a better job, and new pleasures."

"These 'lucky' stay-at-homes lost most of their freedom to move as soon as they agreed to live under the vacancies everywhere to be found when rent control first went into effect. Since then, every rise on all Executive Department activities. Hoffman believes much of the trouble in these government bureaus is with officials who go beyond the law and their authority. He tells about his experience with his own family to prove his point. "My children never did anything. They never disobeyed me deliberately. But they could always think of things to do faster than I could think of things to tell them not to do."

Government administrators, says Hoffman, are like that.

Sessions of Congress normally begin at noon, but the absence of senators and congressmen from the floor during lunch hour is a historic disgrace. Sen. Charles W. Tobey of New Hampshire gave this account of speaking off the floor a few days ago, when he arose and announced: "Mr. President—I like to play fair with my colleagues. I shall speak for the next 30 minutes, and if any of them desires to leave and return after I have concluded, it will be perfectly agreeable to me."

Tobey then proceeded to bawl out his fellow Republicans for making a pretense of aiding small business while at the same time they prepared to pass the Reced bill—formerly known as the Bulwinkle bill—which would exempt railroads from the anti-trust laws.

MACKENZIE'S Column

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
(Subbing for Mackenzie)

A renewed propaganda campaign by representatives of the Baltic states operating in exile indicates an effort to bring their situation before the United Nations.

Latvians, Lithuanians and Estonians still operate legations here which are listed as officially recognized by the United States government.

But nobody dared to make an effective stand against Mr. M. as long as his Hyde Park neighbor sat in the White House as a friend and protector, and to mention Mrs. Roosevelt's great fondness for "Henry the Morgenthau," as F. D. R. called him. Now, such is the whirling of politics, there is nobody to defend him.

DECISION—Treasury officials even from upon his promise to deliver the "diary" either to the Roosevelt Museum at Hyde Park or to the Congressional Library.

"Who is he," they ask, "to decide where those official papers shall be placed? We will make that decision—after we get them back."

TARIFF—The lines are drawn tight for a major controversy between President Truman and a hostile Congressional coalition over the sale abroad of the vast agricultural and industrial surpluses which administration economists forecast for 1946 and ensuing years.

For displays of partisan differences and bitterness, it may rank with the tariff battles of McKinley-Hanna and Smoot-Hawley days.

In private talks with manufacturers and agriculturists, Mr. Truman has revealed himself as a more enthusiastic advocate of "free trade" than Franklin D. Roosevelt or Cordell Hull.

He has also said he is prepared to ship and sell our excessive production at almost any price.

GRAVITY—He favors large loans to foreign customers, even if there should be only a slight chance that they would be repaid. Any recompense from the buyers, he believes, would be minimal. "Gravity" is his own expression of it. He hopes to maintain a high scale of wages and prices in this country. He thinks, however, that we can accept paying in the form of raw materials not obtainable in the United States.

The President is also sold on the idea that American generosity in the form of money has served to freeze every tenant more firmly in his place. Demand rose ever higher above supply. The "shortage" of housing became daily more acute. Now, however, no one can move unless he can afford to buy a house, or is willing to pay a bribe, or "knows" a friend who can get him something.

"So, our young people get the idea that debt is not a bad thing—nothing to worry about, no sense in being honest and saving. They are kept just a 'scrap of paper.'"

"The landlords? Oh, they get along. Stealing doesn't really injure the victim as much as it does the thief. Too often we forget that the thief, if he is not taken by force, is being enslaved to some extent. That is, the fruits of their labor and saving are expropriated by a 'master.'"

"But landlords usually have a place to live. They can sell where they have and buy a place elsewhere, if they want to move."

What Injures Landlords?
Hurted tenants.

"Some landlords, of course, are widows, or retired and elderly people who have a hard time scraping along with the rise in costs of living, while their rents are held down. Some of these people feel bitter about it, and their tenants, at least the more decent of them, feel ashamed and embarrassed."

Foreigners and ministers might consider how rent control is causing a decline in good will and standards of fair dealing between tenants and landlords. They might ask themselves if this is not because OPA bonds are really licenses to steal.

"But the economic evils are clear and serious enough. Who wants to invest in building houses or apartments to rent when tenants are ready to vote a rent freeze any time costs and prices begin rising? Unless the people of the United States—farmers, wage earners, housewives, ministers and almost everybody—realize the evil nature of rent control, no progress will be made. The government will not soon again put much money into building apartment houses and dwellings for rent."

"And the chief sufferers from this lack of confidence on the part of investors will not be the investors themselves. They will keep their money, and be little the worse off for not investing it. The chief sufferers will be the young people and those who cannot yet afford to buy homes—the very ones that advocates of rent control thoughtlessly believe it protects."

export field will spearhead a counter-offensive against the spread of aggressive Communism throughout Europe, the Middle East and the Orient. As he showed when he served as a special emissary in China, Secretary of State Marshall upholds this theory.

Capitol Hill Republicans, however, are beginning to show their teeth at this program. Some even want to scrap or modify the reciprocal trade agreement setup, which does not envisage as broad an export plan as that contemplated by the White House.

"SECRET"—The amazing aspect of the excitement over the Morgenthau Diary incident at this particular moment is that it was no secret during the period when the former secretary of the Treasury was assembling his 900-volume library of supposedly data on domestic and international finances.

His aides knew of his collection, and it was frequently mentioned to President Roosevelt in a general way. The Federal Reserve's "open market" committee felt such resentment over Mr. Morgenthau's stenotyping of its discussions that it refused to meet with him again unless he abandoned the practice. He did.

CRUMBLING—The late Lord Keynes and other negotiators of the British loan rumbled privately to other members of the Cabinet over the American secretary's recording of their account of the Empire's sad financial state. Time and again ment, although the countries were attacked by Russia six years ago and actual trade with the zone is handled through Russia's trading corporation, Amtorg.

The Lithuanians are particularly bitter, accusing the Soviets of deporting their fellow-countrymen for slave labor by the thousands and of practicing all the brutalities which have become attendant on such enslavement movements in Europe under totalitarian governments.

Russia occupied the Baltic states in 1940 following through on her deal with Germany for the division of Poland and her campaign for strategic position in Finland. She staged plebiscites which resulted in requests for incorporation of the little states in Russia, of which they had been a part from 1795 until they obtained their freedom during the 1918 revolution. After World War I they had been recognized as independent and became members of the League of Nations in 1921.

In the spring of 1943, when the Germans had taken over John Colburn, Associated Press correspondent, reported from Stockholm that only fear of Russia prevented an open revolt against the Nazis. He said the Germans, however, had been welcomed in the beginning as liberators.

"Now Germany is considered almost as great an enemy as Russia," Colburn wrote. For any country to consider Germany "almost" as great an enemy as someone else bespoke a real grudge against the other fellow in those days.

"Thousands of Baltic fought in the Nazi armies against Russia because they feared the Reds. At the same time, their families at home were conducting a battle of passive resistance against the Germans, and by the forests men gathered by the tens of thousands to fight whom ever necessary for liberty at the proper time. They were led by the patriots, despite stringent German requisitioning. But by the time the Russians drove out the German's guerrilla warfare was of no avail."

"Ever since the plebiscites, independence leaders among the Baltics have looked to England and the United States for help. They had offers to revolt against the Germans in 1943 and 1944 provided only Russia would give assurance of post-war independence, and now they are demanding recognition for their anti-Nazi work."

The legal grounds they cite, of course, appear good. Their percentage of Russian population is small, and they have treaties to cite. But unfortunately they live in an area which, like parts of Finland, Russia felt she must forfeit for self-defense. Their absorption by Russia is one of those things which happen when big nations get to trampling around. Since recognition of the republics as independents has never been withdrawn, their renewed campaign, if it generates enough steam, could cause considerable embarrassment at Lake Success.

Margaret Jones Is New Head For PHS English Department

Miss Margaret Jones has been chosen to succeed Miss Anne Louise Jones as head of the Pampa High School English Department.

Miss Margaret Jones taught in Pampa several years before the war, and was at that time head of the English Department. She returned here last year and has been teaching both Junior and Senior English classes.

Miss M. Jones received her B. A. and M. A. degrees from Texas State College for Women at Denton, and has done further work at the University of Texas.

Besides assuming the department head, Miss Jones will also become head sponsor for the Senior Class, and sponsor of the National Honor Society.

Mrs. Ruby Capps, freshman English teacher, will take Miss Margaret Jones' classes as well as assisting Mr. Jack Edmondson with the Student Council. Mrs. Capps has had two years previous work with student councils in other schools.

Miss Dozier, now teaching at Port Neches, Tex., will arrive Monday to take over the position vacated by Mrs. Capps.

Miss Anne Louise Jones resigned recently to accept a position in the Odessa Junior High School.

Pledges Give Program; Miss Jones Surprised

"The Life of Hiawatha" was portrayed by the seventeen pledges of the Tri-Hi-Y for the regular Wednesday assembly. Betty Myatt was director of the play and Betty Joyce Scott the reader. Ida Ruth Taylor was Hiawatha.

Bill Speer, president of NHS, presented the National Honor Society banner to the seniors for the highest average for the third six weeks. The banner was accepted by Harold Anderson, vice president of the class. Following the presentation, Bill explained the requirements for membership in the National Honor Society.

Miss Anne Louise Jones was surprised with presents from the Student Council, National Honor Society, senior class, and her homeroom. All of which she sponsors. They were presented by Bill Bain, Jean Pratt, Bill Speer and Harold Anderson respectively.

Sophomores Plan Party To Be Western Style

The officers, homeroom presidents, and sponsors of the sophomore class have been discussing further plans for the Western party, scheduled for February 22.

Donald Thut, sophomore class president, called a meeting after the student council meeting on where tickets reported, and an estimate of expenses was asked for. Plans for entertainment were continued and all sophomores who can or will be in the program are asked to see Donald Thut or any member of the entertainment committee. Also, any sophomore, or other student, who can give information on where to obtain some hay for a haystack at the party, see Betty Bolin.

Glenn Ward, chairman, Margie Goddard, Carol Sloan and M. McCray are in charge of the food with Mr. E. Carter, Mrs. L. Owens, and Mr. K. Walters, sponsors. Betty Bolin, chairman, Billy Bond, and Ray Bab are in charge of decorations with Mrs. J. B. Johnson, Mr. Miles Morgan, and Mrs. M. E. Lamb, sponsors. Entertainment is under Gene Garrison, chairman, Donald Thut, Clayton Eike, and Jackie Williams, with Miss Mary Winston, Miss Ruth Stapleton, and Miss Edna Poe, sponsors.

Sally Is New Addition To Harvester Staff

The Harvester has added another member to its staff and expects great results from this addition. Sally, as this new arrival is dubbed, now fills the room with song, for she is practicing her vocal chords in order to gain admittance into the Cappella choir, directed by Mrs. Louella Schlegel.

This fair, blond haired lady caused quite a commotion when she entered the Harvester office the first period last Tuesday, but unheeding this attention, Sally gracefully settled herself down to her work.

When asked of her future intentions, Sally merely waved them aside, for, according to various reports, she will stay at her present task—that of catching all the mice in the Little Harvester Office. Meow.

Seniors receive N.H.S. Banner; 117 Make Mid-Term Honor Roll

The Senior Class led all the classes for the mid-term average with 16 percent of their class making the honor roll. Following close behind were the Juniors with an average of 15 percent; next came the Freshmen with 12 and last were the Sophomores with 9.

The Seniors have led the other classes for the last six weeks, and they were presented the National Honor Society Banner.

Out of 918 students enrolled in PHS there were 117 who made the honor roll with all grades 90 or above or with all 90's except one.

All Grades 90 or Above: Seniors - Rosalie Bradford, Lou Ella Butler, Jeannine Conyers, Mary Lou Lane, Edith Morrow, Lynn Osborne, Jean Pratt, Patty Jean Reynolds, Bill Speer, Marjorie Taylor, Sammy Wampler, Dan Williams.

A day to remember . . .

February 12 marks the passing of another anniversary of the birth of the noted statesman, Abraham Lincoln.

Today we have a world of peace, but we are reminded on this noteworthy occasion of a world at war. During the term of Abe Lincoln as president, a war was fought for the rights of "the Blue and Grey." The Civil War was a major factor in determining the status of the United States today and this plain, honest, country "fellow" held this nation together in its time of need.

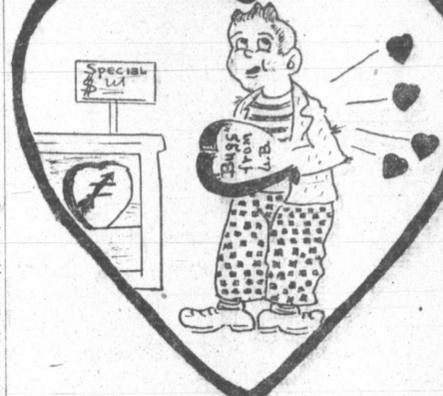

We remember Lincoln as one of the greatest presidents the United States has ever had because of his ability to show, not tell, the people what they wanted and needed for their progress. In his "Gettysburg Address" Lincoln explained in very few words the feelings of the North and South alike, though they were so engrossed in other things that they failed to understand his heart warming words.

Keep him always in your heart, though his death came nearly a century ago; Lincoln, the man of the people!

Miss Jones Honored At Faculty Breakfast

A costume jewelry pin was given to Miss Anne Louise Jones, resigning English department head, at a breakfast given by the high school faculty in her honor last Tuesday morning.

Mr. Frank Wilson, principal, made a short farewell speech. Attending were the honoree and the members of the high school faculty.

Oh, my love's like a red red rose, That's freshly sprung in June. My love's like a melody, That's sweetly sung in tune.

Burns, in his poem, expressed perfectly what most of us want to say when Valentine's day comes. There is perhaps no other holiday that brings such a mingling of feelings that range all the way from indifference and contempt to passion and great joy.

The state council delegates were entertained Friday night in the Adolphus Hotel's Grand Ball Room with a dinner and immediately after with a dance in the Ball Room.

A business meeting was held Saturday morning for the election of the Association's officers. Pampa High School did not run for an officer of the T.A.S.C.

Art Exhibit Sponsored by Twentieth Century; Pastels, Oils and Water Colors Are Shown

The exhibit of art, given by the students' art club and sponsored by the Twentieth Century Club, at the City Club on Thursday night was a very startling surprise for me.

Upon entering the room I was greeted by many beautiful and artistic works. The progress that has been made is extraordinary, every one of the exhibits was outstanding. The work done on portraits was remarked upon as being exceedingly good.

When Mrs. Lewis commented on the fine work done in portraiture, I hope that she had Roger Long's new painting in mind. This is a portrait of a woman, and it is a masterpiece of art.

Seniors Win Banner For Third Six Weeks

The Seniors won the National Honor Society banner for the third six weeks period. The banner was presented to Harold Anderson, vice-president of the senior class, by Bill Speer, president of the NHS.

The banner is presented each six weeks by the NHS to the class with the highest percent of students on the honor roll. This is the first year this practice has been used and its purpose is to make students conscious of good scholarship and strive for better goals.

The banner, which hangs in the trophy case in the front hall, is made of gold satin with green lettering. The plaque with the class name in it is also in the trophy case. All the work on the banner was done by members of the National Honor Society this fall.

ANOTHER PAMPA HOME OWNED BUSINESS

Love Has Two Faces

By Irene Nonnen Ernhart

THE STORY: Parker is enthusiastic about reopening the Hamilton Machine Works. He tells Cassie she has given him a purpose in life. Leni announces she has secured a singing engagement with a dance-band in New York.

XV
LENI went to New York. Nothing could stop her.

"I'm 18, and my own boss now!" Her blue eyes, once so soft and childlike, were calm to the point of hardness. Her hair, once worn loosely about her face, was drawn into an exotic knot on the nape of her smooth white neck. She affected dark lipstick and no other make-up save nail polish to match.

In Leni, Cassie glimpsed a hard, relentless purpose that nothing could touch. She knew Leni was going to New York to see Lon.

Sid's excitement over the military school in Florida gave way at the last moment and he almost wept on Mama's shoulder when they saw him off at the station.

Papa said with fall coming on his rheumatism was bothering him again, and so he'd have to give up his watchman's job. The caretaker at Parker's farm had quit, and when Parker suggested he and Mama go out there to look after things, they bundled up their things and went.

"We may end up there ourselves if things don't get started soon at the Machine Works," Parker joked to Cassie. And that was the first hint that she had that things were not going well.

They spent Christmas at the farm. Mama wanted them to.

The farmhouse was an old-fashioned sprawling affair, with tiny dormer-windowed bedrooms under the eaves, an enormous kitchen with plenty of room for Mama's rocking chair. And there was a range that looked about the same as the one on Carson street, where Papa could prop his stocking feet on the open oven door and read his paper in comfort.

The living room, which Mama kept closed off, was long and comfortable looking with lots of white men and participating citizens, thus making an inestimable contribution to the civic enterprise of this and countless other communities, and woodwork and a stone fireplace and charming sprigged wallpaper. The chintzes were faded and the rugs threadbare, discarded from the house on 1/4 hill, and the floors were worn and rough, but Cassie was enchanted by it.

Sid came home for the holidays, resplendent in his uniform. Only Leni was absent. She had a special night-club engagement and could not leave.

THE baby was born in February, a blustery day, with wind and snow and sleet tearing at the hospital windows as though the very elements were part of Cassie's agony.

The child was a girl. They named her Ellen for Parker's mother.

Holding the child in the crook of her arm, rubbing the dark silk tuft of hair from its forehead, Cassie felt a surge of warm love that reached out and encompassed the three of them.

Parker's thin face worked with emotion until she thought he might even cry. He was so young acting sometimes—as though he had never grown up inside, Cassie felt as maternal toward him as she did toward little Ellen.

She was wise enough not to try to probe into the psychological aspects of that feeling. It was enough to be happy and warm and protected. To have no room for fear, no need for anything else.

On the evening she was to go home, it was in the paper about the machine works, "Possibility of re-opening of the Hamilton Machine Works fuses in a writer of Government red-tape inability to procure some essential materials and insufficient funds."

Cassie read the last phrase with blank disbelief. "Insufficient funds." When all the Hamilton money was back of it?

A white-capped nurse stuck her head into the room, and Cassie rolled the paper and put it under her pillow.

Parker came in, awkwardly and almost on tip-toe, as usual. She noted tonight that his thin face had lined in it she'd not noticed before, and his eyes were sober. He smiled, however, his mouth quirked up in a way that reminded her of Ellen.

"YOU about ready to go home, Mrs. Hamilton?" he asked gaily.

The nurse was getting her street clothes out of the closet, so that she could dress her.

"More than ready!" She laughed up at him. "You mean though, 'Are you and Ellen ready to go home?' don't you?"

Instead of replying, his face whitened, and he went and stood by the window looking out. She knew that he'd seen the paper folded under her pillow.

It was true, then, "Insufficient funds."

The nurse dressed her quickly, talking in low pleasant tones. Parker remained staring out of the window. It was getting dark. The snow in the street was blue in the twilight and the street lights blinked on.

It was good to be going home, little Ellen held a warm sleeping bundle in her arms, Parker beside her, squinting at the road a little, talking of inconsequential things. Home, with Ellen tucked safely in the crib in the newly furnished nursery. Cassie, sitting before a fire in the living room on the divan, laid her head against Parker's shoulder.

"Why didn't you tell me about it?"

"Oh—that." There was a break in his voice. He tried to laugh. "You know how newspapers exaggerate things. I didn't want you to worry. I'll work it out, somehow."

Cassie knew, in spite of the bravado of the words, that Parker was frightened and bewildered. She knew he was lying.

He went over to his piano and began to play, his dark serious face bent over the keyboard, his long, keen brown hands busy with chords.

It was as though the music was more of a comfort to him than she.

U.S. Has Bumper Crop of Babies During Year '46

NEW YORK, N. Y.—More than 3,350,000 babies, the biggest crop in our history, were born in the United States in 1946 according to an estimate by the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The number of births during the year was 450,000 greater than that in 1945, and exceeded even the previous high record of 1943 of 200,000.

The new record is accounted for very largely as the consequence of the rapid demobilization of the armed forces and the subsequent sharp increase in the marriage rate. The increase in births in 1946 was virtually country-wide, report the statisticians. In general, the largest increase were noted in the northeastern and mid-western regions.

At the same time that the record high number of births was being established, the report continues, the country's death rate fell to a new low of 10.2 per 1,000. As a result the natural increase of our population—that is, the excess of a few years ago, the statisticians report, is much brighter than it was. The report notes that the rate of natural increase of the population for 1946 was close to 14 percent, or practically double the annual average observed during the prewar decade and that the year was the sixth in succession in which the rate of natural increase reached or exceeded 1 percent.

"The outlook for population growth will reach a maximum of 165,000,000 about the year 1990."
