Arbitration Plan Set Up For Disputes

WASHINGTON — P — A plan of construction contractors and the AFL to arbitrate pay and other disputes with the aim of avoiding strikes was announced Saturday by President Truman as a "notable step along the road to labor peace."

THREE IS DOESN'T INCLUDE ROVER—A young master bids his dog a fond goodbye at home before starting a school with a friend at St. Joseph, Mo., where parents have been asked to cooperate in securing that dogs do not follow youngsters to school. Mothers, teachers and agitated citizens near schools have complained of schoolyard dog packs.

It sets up machinery for "final and binding" arbitration. The actual submission of disputes to this binding arbitration remains a matter for voluntary action by the disputing parties, but they promised "to exert every effort to see that these procedures are used wherever possible."

Girl Scout Receives Letter from Germany

In the recent old clothing drive some of the members of Girl Scout Troop 11, Mrs. W. B. Franklin, leader, included a note in the dresses and other clothing they donated.

Dear American Friends:
Surely you will think that your dress has not reached Germany, but some days ago we got a number of American clothes. Among these things we found the dress of you with the kind letter.

We are the daughters of the clergyman of the Protestant parish at Bremen-Blumenthal and so the things coming from the American Christians first reach us and we give them to those who are poor, hungry, and without anything to heat with.

In our family we are six girls and one boy. I am 16 years old and one of my sisters is 15. Just we are living in the dear Christmas-time.

We visit a higher school in Bremen-Negesack. Perhaps you have heard in the Radio Beemer the Chorus of Youth of Bremen-Negesack. On Friday evening we often sing in the radio.

Other letters received by the Girl Scouts will be printed from time to time as space permits.

Defending Champ Takes Command At Tucson Meet

TUCSON—(P)—Defending Champion Jimmy Demaret of Houston, bringing up his second consecutive 65, went into the lead for the 72-hole $10,000 Tucson Open golf tournament yesterday with a three-round total of 199.

He had a 67 on opening day. Demaret's consistent performance enabled him to supplant the half-way pace-setter Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, whose game blew up today.

Keiser, who set a new course record—an eight-under-par 62—and equaled the national mark held by many others, had a 37-35-72 for his third round, giving him a total of 201.

The Akron entry's game was bad from tee to green. He three-putted on the 18th hole.

Moving up also was the tournament's favorite, PGA Champion Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., who blasted the flat, easy 6,400-yard El Rio course for a 65 and a three-round score of 200 even.

The final round of the $2,000 first prize will be played today.

Caddy Tourney To Be 'Big League' Event

COLUMBUS, O.—(P)—The National Caddy Association yesterday set Aug. 27-31 for its second annual tournament and announced plans for molding the event for the nation's youthful golf chasers into "a big league affair."

"The tournament for boys under 18, sponsored chiefly by newspapers across the country definitely will be a big league affair this year," said E. Hugh Davis, executive director of the association.

Women's Golf Meet Set for April 20-26

CORPUS CHRISTI—(P)—Corpus Christi Country Club will host April 20-26 to the Women's Texas Golf Association tournament to decide the state women's champion. It was announced yesterday by Mrs. W. A. Maley of Corpus Christi, association secretary-treasurer.

The event is being revived after being discontinued during the war. The last tournament was held in Galveston in 1941 when Miss Kay Pearson of Houston won the crown in a field of 91 contestants.

She will be here to defend her title. Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite of Fort Worth, who won in 1940, also is expected to compete.

GOOD NEWS

Maurice Lockhart, captain and center of the 1946 Harvesters football team, was (to say the least) very happy yesterday when informed that Dick Harris, two-year all-conference center at the University of Texas, would be shifted to tackle by Coach Blair Cherry. Lockhart plans to enter the school in the fall and will be out for football, joining his former teammate, Randall Clay. Lockhart, in his two years as regular center here, has never made a "bad pass" from center.

Scott's Scrap Book

By SCOTT RAFFERTY

Hal Crozier, jovial sports editor of the Amarillo Times, is up in the air about Amarillo's proposed $15,000 "water faucet," as he calls it, to be built in a park in a ritzy section of the city and to be built with city funds as appropriated by the city commission.

Hal argues that the money should be spent on facilities for recreation for children instead of on something that will make the surroundings of the well-to-do Bivins Addition Amarilloans more beautiful. The proposed fountain has been dubbed "Jenkins' Folly" for its originator, Mayor Joe Jenkins of Amarillo.

It was also reported that a group of Amarillo mothers called on Mayor Jenkins and demanded that the money be used to build additional recreational facilities for children. It seems that Mayor Jenkins positively told the ladies that it was the city's money and the city commission had a right to do with the money what it pleased.

The Amarillo commission, by the way, is "outgoing," just as the one in Pampa.

If there is any money in the Pampa city treasury which can be spent for additional recreational facilities, we say that the present commission, or the one to be elected, could really do something worthwhile.

The Lions Club with their park in South Pampa and the Kiwanians with their softball diamonds north of the city have done a lot, along with other organizations. We suggest that it is the city's turn now, but no water faucets, please.

Bowling bits. Jackie Mazy of the K Shop team in the Ladies League gets one of the two blind prizes for one of the oddest happenings in the past several seasons—a series reading like this: 123-124-125.

And, on the darker side of the ledger, Ted Evans of the Imperial Furniture team of the high-class Major League gets the other blind prize for—of all things—a stupendous single game of 105 in league competition.

Both bowlers will get two free games, but we imagine that Ted would rather not have had them.

Texas Will Open Spring Football Practice Monday

By BILL HARDING

AUSTIN

The muscle trust of the University of Texas considers Monday the biggest day of the semester—it is the opening day of spring football practice.

The Longhorn spring training session will be closely watched by interested fans and sports writers to see how the Longhorns adapt themselves to the "T" system which will be installed by Blair Cherry, new head coach.

How Bobby Layne will fit into the system is of particular interest.

Coach Cherry has no fears about Layne's adjustability and thinks that Layne will be a top-notch "T" quarterback.

The "T" system does not make use of a blocking back, and Joe Magliolo and Jack Halpenny are too good on defense to be benched. Cherry is moving both of them to guard positions. Whoever does fit into the guard slots will have a hard time keeping Vic Vasilek out of the picture.

Dick Harris, two-time all-conference center, will be shifted to tackle, a noticeable weak position last season. Ed Kelley, who was held back by injuries most of last year, is given a good chance to hold down the other tackle post.

Cherry will have plenty material for the backfield positions. Besides Layne, the "man under slot" will be sought by Travis Haven, Bobby Coy Lee and Paul Campbell.

Co-Captain Raymond Jones will be on hand to furnish line-cracking power.

Baseball Adopts Pension Program For All Personnel

NEW YORK—(AP)—Baseball adopted a far-reaching pension plan yesterday in unprecedented joint major league action by which players, coaches and trainers will receive from $50 to $100 monthly for life after the age of 50 if they have spent at least five years in the big leagues.

Fulfillment of this retirement scheme, an outgrowth of last year's player committee meetings, depends on participation by at least 75 percent of all major league athletes. At least 60 percent of any club's eligible players must belong if any are to participate in the plan.

All players on the roster of major league clubs on opening day 1947 will be eligible for membership by a series of annual payments ranging from $43.45 in the first year to $454.75 in the tenth year. After the player has paid in $2,500 his yearly premium would be $250.

Each major league club would pay $250 for each participating player and the remaining costs would be provided by the net receipts of the annual All-Star game and the sale of radio rights to the World Series.

Week's Activities
JAYCEES—A round of comradeship was enjoyed by the club this past week, when the two sides competing for membership both claimed victory in a little contest they had devised. Club President Jack Nimmo, captain of one of the teams, conceded defeat (although we can't understand why since he chairmanned the meeting) and the Don Foster group was acclaimed victors. Nimmo, on the basis of such action, is likely to be suspected as being democratic hereafter. There are now 78 members of the club, which is working toward the establishment of a Community Center here.

Ken Bennett appeared with members of the cast of the Top O' Texas Revue, to be enacted Monday and Tuesday night.

ROTARY—Dr. Frank L. Jewett, retired head of the Bible School, Texas U., explained Bible courses as given by that university.

Two vocal solos were given by Mrs. Shirley Norris, accompanied at the piano by Charlotte Alston.

Quentin Williams made a report on an inter-city meeting at Amarillo.

Work of Junior Rotarian John Spearman was outlined by County Agent Ralph Thomas.

LIONS—A group of songs, to be heard in the annual Top O' Texas Revue this week, was presented at the regular meeting of the Lions this past week. It was announced during the session that plans are being forward for the annual Lions Club Minstrel.

KIWANIS—Kiwanian Frank Williams, principal of the Pampa Senior

High School, discussed briefly school affairs, observing that the school endeavors at all times to ferret out individual talent and seek to help the students further develop that talent. He then introduced the A Cappella Choir, which, under the direction of LaNelle Scheitgen, was well received by the membership. They sang a number of songs, and then were called back for an encore. They received a standing ovation from the club.

Fred Shryock, president, told a reporter that the board of directors would meet at 7 Thursday night at Huey Laycock's office at the Courthouse, and stated that any members who would like to make up attendance should be at the meeting. He forgot, he said, to make the announcement at the club.

Betty Henderson made an announcement relative to the Top O' Texas Revue this week.

Wyoming had an estimated total of 11,000 horses on Jan. 1, 1946.

Bidding for Champ To Open at $10,000

HOUSTON—(AP)—Bidding for the Grand Champion Steer of the Houston Fat Stock Show will start at $10,000, it was revealed Friday after Flat Top, 865 pound hereford steer owned by Jim Boo Steen, of Goldthwaite, Tex., was named best of the show.

Bill Williams, Houston restaurant proprietor, is the bidder at this figure for the 16-year-old 4-H Boy's steer.

Reserve champion calf went to Simon Angus Farm's Aberdeen-Angus 1,250 pound animal. Angus Farm is at Malze, Kans.

Young Steen told J. W. Sarwelle, show president, that in winning "I can go to Texas A and M College next fall and study animal husbandry."

The Grand Champion steer was bred on the Flat Top Ranch at Walnut Springs. Young Steen fed his calf under the direction of County Agent Calvin Holcomb.

Automatic Rating Sought for Men Held Prisoners

An automatic disability compensation rating for veterans who were prisoners of war was urged Saturday by the Disabled American Veterans.

Dewey Belmont, Commander of the Pampa Chapter said the national DAV organization has pointed out to the Veterans Administration the "injustice accorded former prisoners of war who have difficulty in proving their illness or disability is service-connected."

"Prisoners of war underwent great hardship both in the European and Pacific theaters, and they are certainly entitled to an automatic disability compensation rating from the Veterans' Administration," the DAV commander said.

"Any man who was a prisoner of the Nazis or the Japs for even a short time wasn't on any vacation. He underwent physical abuse, mental torment and despair, and almost in every case there was a lack of proper foods. He was a prisoner only because of his military service."

"Despite this, the majority of our prisoners of war were released from the service on points, and there is no recorded evidence of disability. Our enemies were not sending back records of disability, disease, or treatment. Yet these men did not leave the service in the same physical condition they entered. Our national DAV medical officer, Dr. Clarence Strickland, has estimated that it will take five years for complete recovery of most prisoners of war."

Commander Belmont said most former prisoners of war suffer stomach trouble, dental troubles, and disturbed sleep, as well as loss of vision and nervousness.

Your Mouth Is

What You Make It

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

More mouth adds to a girl's expressiveness. But if yours is too ample to suit you, lipstick is your tool for minimizing size, says an authority on this subject—Martha Raye, soon to be seen in a "Comedy of Murders."

When Martha is working behind the footlights or a clicking camera as a comedienne, her mouth is expansive. When she's Private Citizen Raye her mouth is what she makes it with a lipstick color in a subdued red, applied with a brush.

The trick of dwarfing, she says, is to make an outline that curves gently past an arched cupid's bow and stops short of corners. Next, you fill in color, fading it out from the center of the mouth.

To make rouge stay put, the trick, says Martha, is to fluff on powder while lipstick is moist and blot off any excess oil by biting down on cleansing tissue.

Garage Fire Results From Trash Blaze

Considerable damage was caused at 12:15 p. m. yesterday when a burning trash barrel was overturned and ignited a nearby garage at the rear of 905 N. Gray St.

The garage, owned by Paul P. Crouch, was damaged heavily both outside and inside when the flames ate through the rear wall, licked up to a quantity of turpentine stove and other equipment, and caused it to explode, firemen said.

No estimate of the damage was made by Fire Chief Ben White. First country in the western hemisphere to grow olives was Peru.

Tips for Teens

Returning G.I.'s, many of them still in the teens, expected to have to get adjusted to civilian life, but there are some things they just can't get used to. They tell us that they wish teen dream-dolls wouldn't:

- 1—Whistle at boys. Human nature hasn't changed, war or no war, and men still prefer to do the whistling.
- 2—Ask boys for dates. Until the unexpected happens and human nature does change, men prefer to do the dating. Be subtle about encouraging dates, they advise, and don't do the pursuing job obviously, like a cave-woman with a club. It makes men scamper in the opposite direction—fast.
- 3—Be so noisy in public, shouting, pushing, scuffling, jostling innocent bystanders. Men shy away from noisy, boisterous girls and hate to be made uncomfortable.
- 4—Have about between stars and chatter forever about "swooning" in stead of enjoying the company of the guy who brought you. It makes the lad feel unnecessary, unappreciated, and perhaps a little scorned.
- 5—Wear dunce caps on the street. They're OK for picnics, hikes and sailing, but not for general lounging and street wear, according to the experienced.
- 6—Wear sweaters and skirts, instead of dresses for dates. A man likes to think that the date means enough for a girl to put on something pretty and dress up a bit instead of wearing just another sweater, same as every day at school. "Girls," they explain, "expect boys to perk up for dates, instead of wearing a school sweater 'no tie or

Expectation of Life at Birth Tops All Time Record

NEW YORK—The expectation of life at birth reached an all-time high of 65.6 years in 1946 among American wage-earners and their families, the statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company report on the basis of the experience among the company's industrial policyholders. This is a gain of more than a half year over 1945, a gain of more than five years over the past decade, and of almost 19 years since 1911. The report of the statisticians for 1946 summarizes the year's experience for the company as follows: The age-adjusted death rate from all causes set a new minimum. Record low mortality was registered for scarlet fever, whooping cough, diphtheria, pneumonia, diarrhea and enteritis, appendicitis, and the conditions incidental to childbearing. The signal victories achieved over these diseases in recent years reflect, in a large measure, the benefits derived from the newer methods of treatment, including the use of the sulfa drugs and penicillin. Among the principal communicable diseases of childhood, the mortality from measles alone showed a slight increase, but 1946 was a "measles year." In spite of the relative prevalence of the disease, the death rate remained very low—only six per million policyholders. Of the diseases of middle and later life, the age-adjusted death rates from cancer and diabetes showed practically no change from 1945, and the group of cardiovascular-renal diseases registered a decline from the previous year. An epidemic of acute respiratory diseases early in the year was reflected during January and February in high mortality from influenza and pneumonia and a considerable, though temporary, increase in tuberculosis mortality, but the effect of the epidemic was offset by low mortality from these diseases during the succeeding months. Infantile paralysis also reached epidemic proportions with more than 25,000 cases in the general population of the United States, second only to the all-time high of 29,000 in 1916. The death rate among the policyholders last year, however, was only 1.4 per 100,000 as compared with 12.2 in 1916. The statisticians note a decline of nearly 13 percent in the mortality from accidents of all kinds, although the motor vehicle death rate rose sharply, returning to the level of 1942. Suicides and homicides, also registered higher rates during the year. Careless parking causes more passenger car tire failures than does fast driving.

Hoof and Mouth Disease Is Greatly Feared by Texans

By WILBUE MARTIN Associated Press Staff

Four words from Mexico have flipped back nearly a quarter of a century for the best Texas livestock industry.

"Hoof and mouth disease" have been vividly remembered.

Since a wide outbreak of the highly contagious disease several weeks ago in Mexico, border states have watched its progress with apprehension. Though the international boundary has been closed to importations, there is no fence along its length. Any cloven-hoofed animal can be a germ carrier. So, too, can man.

Boasting the number one position among cattle and goat producers in the nation, Texas livestock men recall the result of the 1924 and 1925 outbreaks.

To help Mexican officials combat the disease, several experts from the United States have joined in efforts to control and eradicate the disease.

In the two brief periods of the disease in Texas, livestock with an appraised value of $5,000,000 had to be destroyed, the United States Department of Agriculture reported at that time.

Almost as old as man's civilization, hoof and mouth disease has brought economic poverty to many European countries. It has gained such a foothold across the Atlantic that the United States Department of Agriculture reported in one bulletin that it has probably become a permanent infection.

Attacking tissue such as the lining of the membranes of the mouth, tongue, and digestive tract, the disease has a relatively low mortality rate. Its most ravaging effect is in its being so highly contagious; its effect on so many varied breeds; and the resulting devaluation of animals due to loss of weight, productivity and crippling.

Economically, an epidemic is staggering. Germany lost an estimated $119,000,000 in 1920 and 1921.

Confined to Harris, Galveston and Brazoria counties in the two Texas outbreaks, the disease took a toll of 29,323 cattle, 1,429 sheep, 621 swine and 345 goats.

It first made its appearance in a herd of Zebu cattle near Houston, in September 1924. The period of disease was just 30 days, though in 1925 it again broke out in the same area. This time it was reported in Galveston County and a portion of Brazoria County.

To eradicate the disease is a costly, consuming task in time and manpower. Texas Rangers augmented linemen and guards in quarantines.

Slaughter and quarantine are the means employed to eradicate the disease in the United States, with special precautions as to slaughtering.

Incineration was used successfully in Texas as was disposal by burying. Drag line outfits were used to dig trenches capable of holding 1,000 cattle each. It required 20 hours steady run to complete.

The danger and communicable nature of the disease can be illustrated in some respects as to the origin in Texas in 1924. It also explains present-day unwellcome recollections.

The disease first appeared in a pasture on a ranch about 20 miles from Houston, on the Galveston-Houston Highway. Water was supplied the pasture from wells by means of windmills. There was a circular iron watering tank. This was in full view of the highway, some 600 feet away. A well-worn path testified that many persons visited the tank, some bathing or washing clothes. It was thought this was the germ's introduction to Texas.

Numerous other sources were investigated, including close check on merchandise from South America.

Compulsory Arbitration Means Simply: 'I'll Decide for You'

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — Is there any one way to stop strikes, is there any law Congress can pass to stop them?

If there is, no one has come up with it. Yet, you'll hear people say: a compulsory arbitration law could stop them.

It isn't that simple. Congress won't pass such a law, at least not now. Compulsory arbitration means simply: "I'll decide for you."

Neither employers nor unions want the government, through law, to be another possibility was that live animals carried by some ships—such as British ships with Hindu crews—might have been infected and the disease carried ashore by sailors and stevedore on landing.

Hoof and mouth is the common name for the disease. It is also known as aphthous fever, aphtotic aphtha and eczema contagiosa.

The National Association of Manufacturers has come out flatly against it.

There's no serious talk in Congress of such a step. But why are unions and employers against it?

It would take away their freedom to strike or shutdown a plant. Freedom to settle problems as they see fit. In short: freedom to slug it out.

Through compulsory arbitration the government would be able to say pretty well what wages should be.

If so, the next step would be to say what prices should be. In time, if it set wages, it would have to set prices.

If that time came, we'd no longer have what is now called a "free economy." Government would control labor and business.

Compulsory arbitration would not be a guarantee against strikes. While this country pretended to be free, no law could compel men to work.

Further, the Supreme Court probably would decide compulsory arbitration was unconstitutional. The reason:

It would compel workers and employers to accept working conditions against their will.

Some unions and employers have able to decide their problems for them.

Compulsory arbitration would go like this:

A union and an employer can't agree. The union threatens to strike. The employer threatens to close down his plant.

The government steps in and says: "There can be no strike and no shutdown. This case must be submitted to arbitration."

The government would set up one man, or a group of men, as arbitrator.

Or the government would order an arbitration board set up by this way: one man representing the union, another the boss, and a third the public.

After hearing the arguments on both sides, the board would give a decision which would be final. Union and employer would have to accept it.

Unions and employers both strongly oppose compulsory arbitration.

Sunday, Feb. 2, 1947 PAMPA NEWS PAGE 15

voluntary arbitration agreements. But that's different from a law compelling arbitration.

Under a mediation law—before there could be a strike or shutdown—union and employer would have to let a government official try to help them settle their problem.

Sharks do not have to turn over on their backs in order to bite.

TEAMWORK

★ With the passing of each year, a great number of facts are added to man's increasing store of knowledge. Not over seventy-five years ago a man of superior intelligence could possess a working knowledge of all of science. Now, however, the realm of the known is so vast that it is necessary for men to specialize in order to master one small but deep corner of scientific knowledge.

Thus we have the physician, who diagnoses disease and prescribes medication and treatment. The pharmacist compounds and dispenses. Both the physician and the pharmacist benefit greatly from the researches of the biologist, the chemist, the physiologist, and the physicist, to name but a few. Through the teamwork of the allied sciences, increasingly better medical service for all is assured.

Love Has Two Faces

By Irene Lonnen Ernhart

THE STORY: Cassie Fletcher is the main subject of her family and feels such a burden of responsibility toward them that she turns down Mike Carrell's proposal of marriage, even though she is in love with him. When Leni, her spoiled 17-year-old sister, and wealthy Lon Cavendish try to slope, they are headed off by Cassie and Parker Hamilton, a friend of Leni's. Leni vows she'll get even. Some months later, Cassie meets Parker Hamilton accidentally and he asks her for a date. She has an unexpected good time. Leni is openly jealous. "You are good for me, but I notice you sure grabbed the chance to get out with Parker Hamilton," she accuses Cassie.

CASSIE hadn't meant to go out with Parker any more, even though the evening had been pleasant. For one thing the remark Leni had made, "I suppose you think he'll marry you!" ruffled and stung.

But Parker, for all the gentle spaniel look in his eyes, had persistence. He coaxed her to go to lunch with him. They went to drives once or twice on Sunday afternoons, and finally she relented and they started having dates rather regularly.

Leni got a blue velvet dress for Christmas. Cassie saw to that, and tiny black suede sandals to go with it. She wore it to sing in the Christmas cantata at the school. She sang the lead. They all went—even Papa. Parker took them in his father's big limousine. Leni sang surprisingly well. Her voice was thin and untrained, but it somehow had an eerie clear quality that made chills go down one's back.

But Lon Cavendish didn't phone Leni at all until the week after Christmas, and then it was just sort of a duty call. He didn't ask for a date. Leni knew that evening why he hadn't. There was a half-page spread in the society column of the Mortonville Herald. "Martin-Cavendish rites set for sitting in one of these small country night clubs, floor show, dancing, drinks, an obscure place, but clean and cozy. Parker leaned toward her across the table. "You haven't got the money to pay for the lessons, is that it?"

Cassie was glad the lights were dim, for she could feel the flesh creeping up her throat and across her face.

Parker put a long brown hand over one of hers. "Cassie! There was something new and urgent in the way he said her name. "Look, Cassie, you've got to let me help you."

"I don't need help."

"I've watched the way you try to keep things going, the way you worry over how to make ends meet, and it breaks my heart. It's much for you to carry all alone."

"LOOK, Cassie, darling—" He stopped, a bit embarrassed. The "darling" had evidently slipped out. He was quiet a moment, staring at her, as though summoning courage from the sight of her face.

"I love you, Cassie," he said in a rush.

"Parker!" she whispered. She glanced about to see whether anyone had heard.

"Heck, what do I care if people know it. I do, and I'm glad I finally got up the nerve to tell you, Cassie," he whispered urgently. "Marry me."

"But I don't think I love you. I mean—I just couldn't."

"You've still got Mike on your mind, haven't you?" Parker said.

She wished she had never told him about Mike. His dark, thin face twisted and he looked away from her.

"I haven't Mike on my mind, exactly." True she hadn't thought nearly so much about him lately. "It's all over, you know. But I just couldn't ever feel like that about anyone again."

"I wouldn't want you to," Parker said eagerly. "I want you to feel differently about me than you ever felt about anyone else. I want you to learn to love me, Cassie, and I think I could make you happy."

hap should befall me. I have crawled these brief notes so that some record may be left to guide future explorers who chance upon this unusual community.

I have discovered no place quite like it in adventurous travels on five continents.

It appears to be inhabited by two warring tribes, one called "Democrats," and other "Republicans." An overwhelming majority of the residents neither till the soil nor fish in the river for their sustenance. Nor do they engage in trade.

They appear to earn their livelihood by obscure labors in huge community stone huts jointly set up by the two great tribes to avoid bloodshed.

There are signs that these vast tepees are unhealthy at night. For by 5:30 p. m. they are emptied, the workers feeling well and swarming aboard public vehicles at the risk of life and limb to escape to the security of the salubrious suburbs.

In this mad race to leave the

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Note Book

HAL BOYLE, who covered fifty foreign countries in four years overseas, has gone alone and unaccompanied on an exploring trip through darkest Washington, D. C. The first dispatch by "The Fear Man's Philosopher" to reach the outer world follows:

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Here am I in this strange village by a broad flowing river which the friendly natives have named the Potomac, probably after some forgotten chief-fan.

The world I knew is very far away. Shall I ever see it again? In the event some unknown mis-public building area by dusk men hustle heedlessly past women and children. I must look into this mysterious peril that affrights them.

Food and supplies of wampum to sustain the inhabitants of Washington—a most Euphonious name—are shipped in from time to time by outside communities grateful for their efforts.

These contributions do not always, however, appear to be voluntary. Often they are really levies, and one in particular—called the "Income tax"—has stirred up considerable resentment among the outlanders.

The Lattitfield for the two tribes is the interior of one of the largest stone tepees, cunningly designed to segregate the big chiefs, known as "Senators," from the more numerous smaller chiefs, called "Congressmen."

Atop the big dome of the tepee is a bronze statue of an early native hero called "E Pluribus Unum." The "E" probably stands for "Egward" as that is a common name

Dogs Bite Young Child to Death

VIRGINIA, MINN.—(AP)—Glen Brace, five, was bitten to death here Friday by six Doberman Pinscher dogs, that got free from their pen as the lad arrived to admire them.

Dr. J. Arnold Malstrom, deputy coroner, said Glen the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brace of Virginia, died of multiple bites and resultant loss of blood. A. W. Bibbins, the dogs' owner, discovered the tragedy when he heard the animals barking, and ordered the seven months old dogs shot.

No 'Lame Duck' Appointments Seen

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman said yesterday he expects to make no "lame duck" appointments in the government.

He told reporters he has no set policy on the subject, but has not appointed any defeated legislators as yet, and does not expect to.

Mr. Truman also said he will give Congress his views on how to curb the withdrawal of official papers when Cabinet and other Federal officers retire or resign.

This issue arose in connection with the request Secretary of the Treasury Snyder made of former Secretary Henry Morgenthau, Jr., for return of a "major part" of the voluminous files Morgenthau took with him when he left the Cabinet in June, 1945.

The President said he never had heard of a published report that he intended to poll State Governors for advice in deciding major public issues. He smiled as he remarked that if such a story came from the White House it must have been from one of the crooks.

An original grove of seven orange trees in the Lower Rio-Grande valley gave rise to the giant Texas citrus industry.

Scientists Solve Another Corner of Nature's Puzzle

By ROGER E. GEIGER
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Scientists have solved another corner of nature's atomic jig-saw puzzle by flying 50,000 miles in an Army Air Force B-29 Laboratory.

Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society and Dr. W. P. G. Swann, director of the Bartol Research Foundation of Swarthmore, Pa. — concluded that most Mesotrons are born in the earth's atmosphere from protons, or charged particles of atoms.

other forms of electromagnetic radiation." In a Geographic Society statement telling of their findings, the two scientists said that protons apparently split into ten Mesotrons in the earth atmosphere. Each Mesotron has a proportionate share of the proton's energy. But they live for as short a time as a two-millionth part of a second.

The origin of Mesotrons was studied on plane flights last summer by counting them in a special instrument that is sensitive to their rays, at various altitudes. The counts showed the Mesotrons are more abundant at higher altitudes, as was expected. But the ratio at which Mesotrons increase is only 33 percent at 33,000 feet. At the lower altitude of 25,000 feet the rate of increase jumps to 50 percent, the flights showed.
