"If there ever was a valid arguent against free trade there not the semblance of one today.
As a result of the war the productive capacity of any possible competition is non-existent. Nobody has anything to "dump" on us. Are we afraid of Russia's slave export business England is actualstarving its population; can a when there is such a shortage of both in this country? We fear inflation and yet we bar entry of the stocks which will hold down. We have a shortage of copper wire and a tariff on copper. Printers and publishers are crying for paper while a ceiling on wood pulp is diverting Sweden's surplus of this product to other shores. The beeves of Central and South America are going elsewhere because of a hoof-and-mouth fiction,

"If, as has been said, the nations of the world are too impoverished to buy what we can offer, then it follows that they are too impover-ished to pay back the dollar loans we are making them. We make these loans on the assumption that Canada is chuckling over his role when they get back to production lithey will become sellers of their countries) will-come the funds for repayment. Well, then, if we can trust them with our dollars we can trust them with our goods. Even if they have no wine to ship us now, the French have always been pretty good winemakers and we can depend on it they will make shipment against any trucks they may take now. Olive oil from Italy would indeed be welcome on any American table supplies offered by South American wells, owned, incidentally, by these same interests. There is no nation in the world which does not to send them.

The inclination is strong to ex-tend this argument for preparedhess via free trade to other indus-tries. We have seen how all sorts of plants were turned almost overnight into war machines; and since free trade must increase the prod-uctivity of all industry by the simexpedient of widening market, it is evident that free trade is the best assurance of a ready-made, well-oiled and superlor defense potential. But, there is one industry which merits special attention, since its need in time of war is most essential, and which our protective policy threatens to extinguish. That is our merchant marine. In any war which we can envisage our navy must play important part, and what kind of a navy would we have without a merchant marine? PAY YOUR POLL TAX . . . AND BUY PAMPA

If I was a young man and wanted to get started in business for my-self I would consider this welding shop that I have for sale. It is con-sidered one of the better shops that operate in Pampa, and you couldn't put any more equipment into it, as it has everything that you could possibly need for one of these shops. The owner has done quite well with it, over the years, and I believe some good terms could be worked out. Would like to talk this over with some of you young welders.

Here's a little political announcement that I have been requested to announce. Everybody that lives in Ward One is cordially invited to attend a meeting in the Court House at 7:30 tonight to discuss your candidates to run for commissioner of Ward One, and to also discuss some timber for mayor, Better come out if you're interested, and you'people that don't have a poil tax, better get one. You know it takes one to vote, if you haven't passed that certain age.

Do you want to buy a three-bedroom home in Pampa that has one of the best basements that I've seen in a long time? This home is really a dandy, and it is in an ideal location. The basement is fixed up with a place to do the family laundry, as it has a drain, and stationary wash tubs. This house is not one of the fancy kind, but it does have just about everything that I've always wanted in a house, and we are not asking any $20,000 for it. If you would be interested we would sure try and sell it to you, and you would have immediate possession.

An old boy was just in, and I've had his house for sale for a long time. We started out at $5500, and then he came down to $4500, and we just sat down and had a long talk, man to man and I finally talked him out of another $500, and now I can sell it for $4000, and he will pay a commission. That's taking off $1500, and that's a lot, omnoney to lose on a house, but he's got to sell, so there's no use beat ink around the bush about it, so $\mathbb{E}$ you want this house for $4000, come around and we will fix up the deed. He owes some money on I too, so it wouldn't take too much to handle the deal.

I have a good four-room house for $4300, furniture and all, or you can have it unfurnished. I have a pretty good four-room close in for $3750, and if we got right down to trading I might take off a little.

Another four-room that is a dandy for $2800, and $1400 down would handle it

I can sell you all the cattle you want, any kind, any size, any price . . . and a ranch to put them on.

time since 1941. The college played basketball on a limited scale during Football League was chortling today over the double-barreled joke it handed the All-America Conference when it snatched Charley Trippi and Clyde LeForce from under the very noses of its rivals.

Trippi, All-America halfback from Georgia who apparently was all set to lug the leather for the All-America Yankees of New York next fall reversed the field yesterday and went to Chicago for a tete-a-tete with Charley Bidwell, wealthy owner of the National League's Chicago Cardinals. And the dark, curly-haired product of Pittston, Pa. is expected to contract with Bidwill today or tomorrow to play with the Cardinals the next four years for a total of slightly less than $100, Francisco, signed a two-year con-tract to play with the Detroit Lions of the National League in preference to several bids from the All-America Conference, including one from the San Francisco Forty-Niners. Coach Gus Dorais of the Lions disclosed no terms but it was believed the contract called for not less than $10,000 a year.

Trippi's document with Chicago will leave him free to deal for his baseball services. And Bidwell said he would recommend to Charley that he accept an offer to hook up with the Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs, Bidwill disclosed, would give Trippi a $10,000 bonus to play with their Los Angeles team of the Pacific Coast League next season, and then, if he proved himself a big eaguer and went up to the Cubs the following year, would pay $20,-
