LONDON DOCK WORKERS JOIN IN GROWING DRIVERS STRIKE

Use of Troops To Move Food Is Protested

LONDON—AP—A mass meeting of London dock workers voted today to join some 30,000 union laborers in a walkout protesting the use of troops to move food supplies held up by a nine-day strike of London truck drivers.

The decision, which may affect all London's 24,000 organized dock workers, was reached at a 40-minute noon hour meeting attended by between 1,200 and 1,400 men who ignored the appeals of union leaders to remain at work.

With food distribution throughout England threatened by the spreading walkouts, government officials, employers' representatives and union leaders hurriedly set up fast-moving machinery to negotiate a settlement.

More than 2,000 soldiers—angrily termed "Blacklegs (strike-breakers) in uniform" by the strikers—and 800 service vehicles meanwhile began their second day of lugging meat and other food to retailers serving 10,000,000 inhabitants of the Greater London area.

With the soldiers taking over delivery duties, food limited quantities began re-appearing in London shops that had been almost drained of supplies during the work stoppage.

After the strike vote, two officials of the powerful Transport and General Workers Union, which was headed by Ernest Bevin before he became foreign secretary, mounted an air raid shelter to rally strikers but their advice to return to work was shouted down.

The truck drivers walked out last Monday in protest against a government order to return to work.

Central Group of Expedition Ships Winning Ice Battle

ABOARD U. S. S. M.T. OLYMPUS—AP—The central group of Byrd Antarctic expedition ships was winning its battle with huge floes of ice off the Ross Sea today and driving steadily toward Little America, while tales of the heroism of the task force's rescued men spread from crew to crew.

Six convalescents aboard their seaplane tender Pine Island in the eastern group 1,000 miles from the M.T. Olympus, received radioed congratulations from the task force's commander, Rear Adm. Richard H. Cruzen.

The Pine Island's chaplain, Lt. J. LeCompte, "died," told their story in full detail for the first time.

From interviews and from diaries of their two weeks' ordeal the icy desolation of unexplored Ellsworth land, after they survived the explosion of their plane, the chaplain pieced together his report.

At first they were so dazed by the aerial explosion, crash and fire that they were unable to do anything; they slept, or sat dumbly, by mid-afternoon of the second day, however.

Aviation Radioman James Robbins, San Diego, Calif., began to hunt for food.

That night—New Year's Eve—they celebrated with their first hot meal, spinach soup heated over a fire of salvaged gasoline.

Gradually, more and more food and survival gear were recovered from the scattered pieces of wreckage. Capt. Henry C. Caldwell, skipper of the Pine Island, who was one of the survivors, devised games for them to play—fighting the deadly monopoly of the icy solitude.

For five days, the men spent most of their waking hours huddled in a portion of the broken plane. On the sixth, they pitched two salvaged tents; on the seventh, they had gained enough strength to dig graves for their three dead comrades, and said a burial service.

Hour after hour, the men listened for the sound of a rescue plane—yes, when it finally came on the thirteenth day, it was fading in the distance before they could scramble outside to signal.

Captain Caldwell battled stubbornly against their new-felt hopelessness; the plane would return, he assured them. And it did. This time, a signal fire was lighted, and the men saw the plane turn, heading directly toward them. As the searchers first sighted them, they were dancing in wild joy despite their injuries.

Warning Issued on Mailing Tax Reports

Persons mailing income tax reports were warned today by Postmaster W. B. Weathered to be certain that they have attached sufficient stamps before mailing.

The Internal Revenue Office is not authorized to pay postage shortages on reports mailed to them so the Dallas post office returns the reports to the sender. This might throw your report late and cause a series of unhappy consequences, Weathered said.

Willie Francis To Face Death Second Time

NEW IBERIA, La.—AP—Lenky Willie Francis is rubbing elbows with death today but he's right interested to find out if he can die like the man he thought he was.

Francis, who once cheated the electric chair when a mechanical malfunction allowed him to walk away from it alive, was singularly cool when he learned that the United States Supreme Court had ruled him subject to another trip to the chair.

"I always sort of wondered if I was a brave man," the tall, cocoa-colored Negro said in an interview.

"Now I guess maybe I'm gonna find out. And I'm gonna find out the hard way, boss, so there won't be no doubt in my mind when I leave. A lot of men never find out. A lot of men die still wondering if they was the men they thought they was."

Told by his attorney, Bertrand S. De Blanc, that a motion will be filed for another Supreme Court hearing, Francis said simply:

"It's the same thing. The same old thing. I got four books and some funny books and the Good Lord's Bible, and I still got the breath in my chest. No thanks."

Gov. Jimmie H. Davis has said he will sign another death warrant for Francis as soon as his office receives the Supreme Court's mandate that a second trip to the chair would not constitute cruel and unusual punishment.

Told of this Francis said:

"Death and me is old neighbors. But remember this, I'm a closer neighbor of the Lord."

Francis was sentenced to die for the robbery slaying of Andrew Thomas, a St. Martinville druggist.

O'Daniel Opposes New Appointment

WASHINGTON—AP—Senator W. Lee O'Daniel of Texas has announced that he will oppose, either before a Senate committee or on the Senate floor, the confirmation of Herbert E. Arnold, Greenville, Texas, as internal revenue collector for the Second Texas District.

O'Daniel had recommended Dr. Fort Worth Judge, Atwold McDonald and Frank Culver.

Arnold has been acting collector under a temporary appointment. Dooley, a former president of the Texas Bar Association, was recommended to President Truman by Senator Tom Connally. O'Daniel had recommended Dr. Fort Worth Judge, Atwold McDonald and Frank Culver.

Pampa-Perryton Highway Fund Is Still Short $2,210

The Pampa-Perryton right-of-way fund is still $2,210 short of the $50,000 needed to take care of the expense necessary to fence the right-of-way and drill several water wells, it was announced this morning.

Business owners and managers who have not sent in their checks are urged to do so as soon as possible.

The following checks have been received on the fund since the last list was published October 20:

Dr. R. D. Falkenstein $50.00

Top o' Texas Rodeo Directors to Meet

Directors of the Top o' Texas Rodeo and Horse Show Association will meet tomorrow evening at 7:30 in the Chamber of Commerce office, Wade Thomasson, association president, announced this morning.

All members are urged to be in attendance.

PUBLIC DEBT SOARED THROUGH TROUBLED TIMES—Newschart above shows how the U. S. public debt, already rising through the era of depression and recovery, shot to monumental heights during the war years and declined but little since the peak in fiscal year 1946. President Truman's estimate for fiscal year 1948, which begins July 1, is higher than the $260,000,000 estimated for the current, 1947, fiscal year.

Continued Defiance of Lewis and Union Cited

WASHINGTON—AP—Attorney General Tom C. Clark contended in the Supreme Court today that John L. Lewis' course in last fall's soft coal strike was "an insult to the United States itself."

Asking the high tribunal to uphold the $3,510,000 in contempt fines imposed on Lewis and the United Mine Workers, Clark argued the government sought only to maintain governmental functions when it turned to the courts for an order against a coal strike.

When Lewis disregarded that order, he said, it was a "contempt" that was an "insult" to the country and that "compromises all law and invites mob rule."

"Surely," Clark said, "government has the authority and the power to defend itself against destruction from within—as it has the duty to defend the country from destruction from without."

"When that issue is involved no one is immunized—no person or group is beyond the reach of the arm of the law. No person is above the law—and this is a country and government of laws."

Clark led off for the government in a case expected to set far-reaching precedents in interpretations of laws applying to organized labor. One is whether the Norris-La Guardia Act, which has been on the statute books for many years, bars the government from seeking an injunction against a union.

The law outlaws injunctions (orders to do this, or not to do that) against unions in labor disputes with private employers.

Lewis' attorneys contend the law applies also to the government and that hence the Miners' Union chief, John L. Lewis, is within his legal rights when he ignored an order by U. S. District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough against a strike. They said Goldsborough had no right to issue the order.

Goldsborough ruled the disregard for his order was "contempt" and levied the fines. To spend a final ruling, the case was taken directly from his court to the Supreme Court.

Lewis then called off the strike until the Supreme Court could act. His miners are under orders to continue until March 31.

Clark told the justices of the highest court that in this case the government is not seeking "to infringe in the slightest" on any rights of labor or on the freedoms guaranteed to all citizens by the constitution.

But it does seek, he said:

1. To uphold its right and authority to operate the coal mines which it seized last May for war purposes and under a temporary war-time statute.

2. To "vindicate the power" of the federal courts to "prevent irreparable injury to the people of the United States."

Pardon, Parole Affairs Probe Appears Certain

AUSTIN—AP—A legislative inquiry into pardon and parole affairs is expected to get far-reaching in the coming weeks, it is believed.

Two Senators, Jim Taylor of Kerr and Kyle Vick of Waco, reiterated previous demands that an investigation be instituted immediately. Sen. Jimmy Phillips of Angleton also urged such inquiry.

Taylor and Vick urged two different routes, however.

Taylor suggested that the Senate's general investigating committee take on the job and Vick thought a special committee should be appointed.

"The investigation should be immediate and thorough," Taylor said. "It should be completed in time for the committee to be in a position to make recommendations for corrective legislation to this session."

Phillips said the investigation should be "bottom to top," full-fledged inquiry.

Members of the Board of Pardon and Paroles recently in a formal statement addressed to the Legislature urged an investigation of charges that Texas convicts are under the impression they can buy their freedom for $1,000.

This demand followed publication of a statement attributed to Riley Wyatt of San Antonio, chairman of the prison board, that there is a "feeling abroad among 95 percent of the convicts in Texas prisons that they can get free on a pardon or parole if they have $1,000."

Rep. George Parkhouse of Dallas has already written a bill proposing detailed reorganization of the pardon and parole set-up in Texas.

Democrats Named To Committees

WASHINGTON—AP—Tentative assignments of Texas representatives to house committees have been completed by Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee.

The Texas assignments, which must be approved formally tomorrow by all House Democrats, include:

West. Ways and Means Committee: Tongue, Veterans Administration and District of Columbia; Lucas and Fisher, Education and Labor; Burleson, House Administration; Wilson, Expenditures in Executive Department; Combs and Lyle, Postoffice and Civil Service; Gossett, Judiciary; Mansfield, Public Works; Fattman, Banking and Currency; Fosse and Worley, Agriculture; Mahon and Thomas, Appropriation; Thomson, Johnson and Kilday, Armed Services; Beckworth, Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

House Minority Leader Sam Rayburn of Bonham, Texas, is understood to have voluntarily declined appointment to a committee.

American Praises German Constabulary

BAMBERG, Germany—AP—Major Gen. Ernest N. Harmon, commander of the U. S. Constabulary in Germany, praised the German police today as "honest and efficient."

He suggested they should be allowed to arrest anyone caught committing a crime, including American soldiers.

Further Study to Be Given Water Protection Plan

Installation and service contracts for the cathodic protection of the city's water tanks were found unsatisfactory in many points while other parts of the contracts were satisfactory, City Manager Garland Franks told the City Commission this morning.

Franks said that the service contracts and guarantees were not entirely clear in that they did not specifically state how far the service contracts go in charges for labor and renewal of equipment.

The commission authorized the City Manager to City Engineer to study the matter further and contact other cities that recently made contracts with the companies.

Franks also announced during the session that the city would have to put in its claim for the Camp Howze pipe section supply, now up for sale by the WAA, by 4:45 p. m. today and listed the price at $35,990 subject to discount determined by the WAA administrator in Washington.

Final reading of Ordinance 476 granting the Fort Worth and Denton Railway to construct a switch track over Duke Street was passed.

No definite action was taken on proposed revision of tax assessments and collections on motor vehicles of the city.

The situation was discussed and tax assessors will make a further study.

Assets Totalling $167,000 Found in Possession Of Three Old People in Meager Surroundings

By NATHAN POLOWETZKY
NEW YORK—AP—The wizened old lady slowly climbed down the three flights to a neighbor's basement apartment, dimly knocked on the door and when the neighbor appeared, asked for a cup of coffee.

The priest called police. The police physician studied the ancient figure kneeling as if in supplication. He took out his card and wrote: "Dead on arrival. Natural causes."

The women were taken to Kings County Hospital where doctors diagnosed Anna Edwards' ailment as malnutrition.

The neighbors talked. They said the Edwards had lived in such poverty as long as they could remember. And they recalled that the only extravagance the Edwards' ever indulged in was Delia's custom of occasionally slipping out to buy an ice cream cone after her brother had gone to bed.

Soon the detective came. In desultory fashion they dusted off the documents and papers that littered the Brooklyn cold-water flat. They stopped short.

For underneath all the rubbish were bankbooks listing $67,000 in deposits and mortgages and bonds valued at $100,000.

Atom Control May Highlight HST's Report

NEW YORK—AP—Authoritative sources said today President Truman would submit to Congress within two weeks a complete report on American operations in the United Nations, probably placing sharp emphasis on atomic energy control.

The President, these sources said, may take the opportunity of spotlighting the atomic control question in a letter accompanying the report.

The report is now being drafted by the American U. N. delegation and is expected to be completed this week. It will cover all fields of work in the United Nations.

Meanwhile, the Security Council prepared to meet tomorrow to continue discussions on atomic energy control and world disarmament.

At that time, the basic argument between Russia and the United States over priority for atomic energy control or general disarmament may be resolved.

Authoritative sources said Great Britain would support the U. S. in insisting that atomic energy control be given priority, if there is a showdown with Russia.

Russia is insisting that "all phases" of world disarmament be taken up immediately. Atomic energy would be included, but without any special priority which the Americans deem necessary.

Most Security Council delegations believed it unlikely that any action would be taken in tomorrow's session. The most they expected was a lot of discussion.

It was pointed out that the U. S. is now in the midst of a series of administrative changes that involve both the atomic control and disarmament discussions.

These changes include Gen. George Marshall's appointment to succeed James Byrnes as secretary of state and Warren R. Austin's assumption of the post held by Bernard M. Baruch on the atomic energy commission.

American sources said they did not expect any change in U. S. policy on atomic control when Marshall and Austin assume their new duties.

50th Biennial Session of Texas Legislature Opens

AUSTIN—AP—The 50th biennial session of the Texas Legislature opened today with the closing of the war-convicted at 12:01 p. m.

Showing rare agreement in purpose as well as punctuality, the two branches of the Legislature got off on precisely the same moment.

Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith, who will preside for a week in the Senate, brought his gavel down while Secretary of State Claude Isbell called the House to order.

Gov. Coke Stevenson took a seat at the press table in the House after circulating among his friends on the floor, and Gov.-elect Beauford H. Jester entered the hall of the House a few minutes before the session started.

Many high state officials including Lieut. Gov. Allan Shivers were in the Senate. House galleries were crowded but there was plenty of room for visitors in the Senate's gallery.

There was only one uniformed legislator in evidence in this first post-war session. He was Rep. Herman Yeak of Brenham, a first lieutenant in the infantry, who said he would soon be out of service.

It was a young legislature, faced with multitudes of difficult problems. Numerous controversies were in prospect. Already more than 300 bills have been prepared for submission and it was expected that as many as 2,000 measures would be introduced.

In the House, the speakers stand was banked with red and white carnations.

Recent Crashes Are Cause for Concern

WASHINGTON—AP—The Senate Commerce Committee called in the Civil Aeronautics Board today to discuss "the whole air picture" in the light of recent crashes which some Congress members say have shaken public faith in commercial flying.

Senator Brewster (R-Me.), committee member, told reporters, "We have got to see if we can find out what the difficulty is."

"The situation is destroying public confidence. There won't be anybody flying if this keeps on. People are getting afraid to fly and that's a bad thing," Brewster said.

He predicted a government air safety board separate from the CAB may be proposed, and another committee-man, Senator Capehart (R-Ind.), declared that such a move "may be a necessity."

This would remove crash investigation authority from CAB, which also makes the rules for flying.

In the House, Rep. Rivers (D-Sc.), said the American people "are horrified and scared to death. If there is something wrong with the whole dog-eared set up, then something should be done."

Rep. Hinshaw (R-Calif.), urged a "complete and thorough inquiry."

Capehart told a reporter that "something has got to be done and done quickly."

"The people are very much concerned. My observation is that the planes are not as well filled as they have been in the past. I don't know the reason other than the fear of accidents inspired by the number of recent crashes."

W. G. McGrath, general manager of the United States Eastern Division, said in New York "there can be no question that the recent unfortunate series of aviation mishaps has contributed to the present air travel situation." He blamed it mainly, however, on "a temporary lull in business activity."

Commercial airline payloads averaged about 37 percent last year, but have run much lower in the last three months, American airlines had just furloughed 150 pilots and reduced its scheduled mileage by 14.8 percent.

Capehart said he hoped the hearing would help the airlines provide "better service and more safety."

On the other hand the airline safety figures from 1939 through 1946, laid before the Senate yesterday by Senator McCarran (D-Nev.), showed last year's accidents were the best in that period.

The statistics, furnished by the Commerce Department, showed that in 1946 domestic lines operating on regular schedules suffered only 124 passenger fatalities per 100,000,000 passenger miles, compared with 214 in 1945.

The number of passenger deaths, however, dropped only one from the 76 killed in 1945 while mileage jumped from 3,554,714,828 to 6,046,000,000 in 1946. Also, 22 crew personnel were killed last year against 12 in 1945.

Old Barber Shop Quartette Is Back

Attention all bathroom-baritones, Bing Crosby's of the show, the early morning bassos and Irish tenors!

Many music lovers in Pampa are attempting to arouse interest in the finer arts of the real, old fashioned, barber shop quartette.

The initial meeting of the group will be held in the Palm Room, Thursday night, at 8. The ultimate aim of the organization is to become a singing club. The Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber-Shop Quartette Singing in America.

To the uninitiated, barber-shop quartette singing is a style of singing that excels in close harmony. It originated in the musichouse era during slack days in the corner shop, and provided a source of enjoyment and mutual self-appreciation on the part of those who joined in the "swives" and on a "blue chord."

Those who sit in these organizations are often unable to read a single note but that is not important. All that is required is an ear for the finer points of harmony and an desire to create a thing of beauty from any ordinary song.

The majority of the numbers sung are "The Sweet Adeline" and "I Had a Dream Dear" days, because these tunes lend themselves to the harmonizing that is necessary for barber shop quartette singing and are more familiar to the average group that enjoys harmonizing.

Everyone who enjoys singing of this type is urged to attend this meeting and take part in the formation of this new organization.

Two Wards Fail To Endorse Men For Commission

Amidst some confusion and bickering Wards 1 and 2 last night failed to pick any state or specifically endorsed any candidate for commissioner or mayor.

A well-attended meeting of Ward 1 was held in the Horace Mann School's cafeteria. Discussion got into the question of who the qualified voters and who aren't. Those meeting—75 or 100 voters—did agree that a careful selection must be made in both commissioner and mayor selection.

After an hour of discussion the group voted to hold another meeting at 7:30 in the District Court Room Friday, Jan. 17, and elected Attorney C. E. Cary as ward chairman. This move was made after several of the group suggested that more voters from Ward 1 be urged to attend and give their opinions.

Nominations for commissioner and election of a committee to meet with other ward committees on the mayoralty question are expected at this meeting. It was brought out that more people would have attended the meeting had they been informed earlier. The meeting had hardly started when Frank Carter was nominated from the floor to run for commissioner. Carter immediately refused the nomination and said the matter should be discussed more thoroughly. See the closing of See POLITICS, Page 6

Salvation Army Fund Half Raised

B. R. Nuckols, chairman of the Salvation Army drive for funds, said today that the goal of $6,500 had been about half reached.

He said a meeting of the advisory board had been called for 5:15 p. m. Thursday, and expressed hope that workers can either have their cards completed and turned in before that time, or on that day—if at all possible.

"We feel the results have been very good on the basis of what has been reported—and we think that if all can give as generously as we will reach our goal," the chairman said.

The drive, he said, should be completed by the end of this week.

The Bobbysoxer Got Lots of Attention

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

Next time a bobbysoxer—her blue jeans rolled halfway to her knees, her shirt-tail flying—passes by, don't stare and wonder out loud why any girl would get herself up to look like that.

Take a long, lingering look. The bobbysoxer is about to retire to the pages of history.

At least, that's the prediction of a sociologist who claims the bobbysoxer acted as she did because she craved attention and wasn't getting any, what with her parents engrossed in war news, the young men away, etc.

Well, if it was attention she was after—she certainly got it.

Wearing one of her dad's old shirts and a pair of blue jeans, she attracted more attention than a milk-coated matron with a flower garden atop her head.

She created a new lingo—and saw it picked up eagerly by her elders and handed back to her in advertising copy, cartoons, columns, etc.

She revived the art of swooning, and helped to build her radio and motion picture idols into top-salary entertainers.

SHE GOT HER WISH

New magazines were created especially for her, and new newspaper columns began offering her advice in as near as they could come to her own language.

Every now and then somebody even took the trouble to list her plenty slang and its approximate meaning.

Whatever else history has to say of the bobbysoxer, it will have to admit that if her one aim in life was to get attention, she was strictly on the beam.

Farewell Party for Mrs. Wayne Anderson

A farewell party and miscellaneous shower was given for Mrs. Wayne Anderson Sunday evening in the home of Mrs. Fred Genett of the Schafer Camp, with Mrs. S. O. Dunham acting as co-hostess.

The Andersons have lived at the Schafer Camp for the past 13 years where Mr. Anderson has been employed in the Schafer office for the Slickly Oil Co. They are leaving to make their home in Guymon, Okla.

After several games were enjoyed, Mrs. Anderson was presented a large box of lovely gifts which she opened and passed around for all to see. Refreshments of coffee and cake were served to Mesdames Anderson, E. A. Mosely, Roy Beck, Denver Allen, Robert E. Farley, Bud Barker, T. H. Lamb, Misses Reva Anderson, Geneva Vreal and Lucille Harmon; and L. F. Korlin, B. A. Wesner, L. D. Cowart, Roy Carr, Fred Genett, S. O. Dunham, Loyd Wells, and L. Barrett.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe your own. It's easy—no trouble at all, and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your drugstore and ask for four ounces of liquid Barco-nate (formerly called Barcol Concentrate). Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

PREPAID PROTECTION for hospital service was born in Dallas, Texas, December 20, 1929. It started when Baylor Hospital contracted with a group of city school teachers for such service. Acceptance of insurance against the costs of hospitalization was immediate.

At the end of 1945, according to the most authentic figures available, there were more than 40,000,000 persons in the United States insured against hospital costs through plans sponsored by the American Hospital Association, Insurance Companies and employers. An additional 3,000,000 persons were insured against medical care costs, through various Medical Association sponsored plans. Other millions had all, or partial medical care coverage through Insurance Companies and private industry plans.

One national coverage Insurance Company executive estimates that at the end of 1945, more than 25% of the population of the United States was insured against the costs of hospitalization, surgical care or medical care.

Doctors, Hospitals, Industry and Insurance Companies are daily working toward the further extension of health care—the VOLUNTARY way.

MARSHALL SEEMS TO BE THE MAN

Most of the nation's newspapers have looked upon the appointment of Gen. George C. Marshall to the post of secretary of state as a political move devoid of politics. They point to his outstanding record as chief of staff in which he played an herculean part during the war.

The confidence the press has shown in the general seems to have been well borne out in the fact that his appointment as successor to James Byrnes came rapidly, and with little or no dissension among the lawmakers.

There seems to be no doubt from our standpoint that Marshall is such a man as would be desired for the high post, and that Pres. Truman knew what he was doing.

In the first place, Marshall knows first hand, as former U. S. envoy to China, the civil strife in that country; and there seems to be good chance for trouble there, and it would be the kind of trouble, being between Chinese central government and Communist forces, that could embarrass various sections of the world—including the United States.

Secondly, his career as a soldier-leader has tempered his thinking along non-partisan lines. Even though he will be working under the aegis of a Democratic President, there are indications that he will not stoop to partisan politics on matters that affect the whole world.

Third, he has the global concept. The columnist Walter Lippmann said a few days ago: "General Marshall was the man who, above and beyond all others in this country and abroad, maintained the conception of a global strategy in a world-wide war. Upon him there beat all the pressures of the governments in the coalition, of the theater commanders, of the several services."

It is very likely he will keep the global concept, putting into practical terms the fact—yet unrealized in some circles—that peace is not divisive, that if the East is at war, the West is sooner or later going to be drawn into it.

Perhaps he is the man who can succeed James Byrnes, who turned out to be a practical, forthright "dealer" in the commodity known as diplomacy. It seems that the government has not betrayed the people of Europe, who were told by Byrnes just a few months ago that they would not be forgotten. Marshall won't forget them.

Common Ground

Free Trade Best Preparedness

The best way to prepare ourselves against any outside nation is, of course, to put ourselves in harmony with moral laws. One of these moral laws is that all men have a right to trade with any person in this country or any other country. Getting people to believe that is the best preparedness for peace.

With this idea in mind I will quote for three days from an article from Analysis under the heading, "Free Trade Best Preparedness." I quote:

"In the matter of preparedness, the war emphasis is too facts. First, that a large standing army is neither a deterrent nor protection against aggression; second, that offensive and defensive equipment designed on the basis of past experience becomes obsolete almost as soon as the fighting begins. The massive French and Russian armies, even with allied accretions, could not protect the borders of these nations, nor did their elaborate fortifications prove as impregnable as the builders thought; while the initial mechanical nature of the war was liquidated by the inventive genius of a nation uninhibited by a blueprint. The arms which won the war were designed and built as the battle raged.

"Since no formula for international peace has as yet been devised, preparedness will continue to be the concern of politicians, and the larger and more affluent nations the more the emphasis put upon it. Which means that as long as the United States retains its present position in the world, insurance against war will be a constant national concern. We should, therefore, learn well the two lessons of the war and apply this knowledge to our benefit.

"If we follow through on these two lessons we come to the conclusion that the most effective instrument of preparedness is thorough-going peace-time free trade. How does this follow? Let us take one important industry and see how the breaking down of our trade barriers would improve our capacity for making war. The automobile industry is perhaps the best example, because it impinges on practically our entire economy in the first place, and, in the second place, because it has proven itself a necessary and profitable industry during war. Its factories and its engineers and its know-how came in mighty handy when the going was toughest; out-will make the Biblical Joseph seem to be dressed for a funeral.

ROOM—Only a few observers in and out of Congress see much real hope of the original GOP proposal for a straight 20 percent cut in rates. Most of what hope remained vanished with President Truman's budget proposals—it will require terrific slashing of the budget to get the total in balance with revenues after a 20 percent cut.

Furthermore, there appears to be increasing sentiment for a greater reduction in the lower brackets than in the higher.

However, once the 20-percent proposal goes out the window, there will be a lot more room—and consideration—for various special proposals. One proposal that is gaining wide support is to remove part of business profits set aside for reserve from the taxable amount.

PERSUASIVE—There are some persuasive arguments for such a change from both large and small business men. They point out that they face a period of uncertainty and that the uncertainty is heightened by the fact that prices may go much lower. Therefore, they urge, to flourish in this unsettled economy, they will have to build up cash reserves. The entire country would benefit if business were allowed to take chunks of its 1946 profits, before they were taxed, and store them away against an unseasonable winter of discount.

They agree that there should be limits to the squirreling process; that only a part of the profits be so allowed to accumulate and that these accumulations be exempt from taxation for only a limited time.

However, this proposal would probably produce a storm of protest from individual tax payers. Their plaint would be, "If business can salt away part of its profits without taxes, why can't I save up part of my earnings against hard times with the same kind of concession?"

COMMUNITY—One bit of patching that appears to have some chance of being sewn on is the proposal that individual married tax payers in all states be given the advantages of couples in the few community-property states.

In community property states, the law says that the earnings of either husband or wife are the joint earnings of the couple. The U. S. Treasury accepts this law. Therefore, if Mr. Jones of California, whose wife does work gets paid $5,000 a year, in law Mr. Jones carries $5,000 and his wife carries $2,500 and each pays taxes on those sums. But Mr. Jones of New York, similarly wedded, earns $5,000, it's all his and he pays taxes on that amount.

Since the taxes on two $2,500 earnings are considerably less than taxes on one $5,000 income, the Jones in New York and about forty other states feel that Uncle Sam is shaking his piggy bank too hard.

FAVORED—Legislation to treat all married couples on a community-property basis is understood to be favored by many Treasury thinkers. However, even that proposal may create considerable protest. An unmarried Jones, working side-by-side with a wedded Jones for the same salary would be paying much more in taxes.

And the only way he could get out of it would be to get married, which appears to be a somewhat drastic, though under certain circumstances pleasurable, solution.

In addition to these, there are hundreds of other proposals, far too numerous to catalog here. One of the most common are variations of plans to exempt new businesses for a certain period.

The thump was considered the fashionable "ring finger" during the 15th and 16th centuries.

Bellowing Cops Get Toning Down

OKLAHOMA CITY.—(AP)—Morose veterans of the Oklahoma City police force, who once took pride in bellowing that could be heard half a mile, started with astonishment at the bulletin: Henceforth, all routine cops must take voice lessons.

Police Chief L. J. Hilbert explained: "We have new FM radios in all the police cars and voices carry better. If they continue to bellow, we'll have to take them down through their lips instead of from the corner of their mouths."

BACK ON THE ROAD

WASHINGTON, (NEA)—The way Harry Truman can fall into a puddle of mud and crawl out garlanded with roses beats everything.

He gets all splattered with Ed Pauley—and emerges with "Cap" King as Secretary of the Interior, in place of Harold Ickes.

He dives in over his head to support Henry Wallace and comes up without Wallace, but with Averell Harriman.

Pat Hurley throws a lot of mud at Truman on Chinese policy. He rubs the mud off on George and comes out clean with Gen. George C. Marshall as ambassador to China.

Last month Truman issued a long, pointless and apparently unnecessary statement of policy on China. There was some difference of opinion in the State Department, where it was drafted, as to what should be included. It added to the confusion over the present state of Chinese affairs.

Now, in the most polite language in the world, General Marshall "supplements this statement" with impressions gained at first hand. Normally, this would have reflected discredit on the President. But at this precise moment, Secretary of State James E. Byrnes had to resign because of ill health. Truman appoints Marshall to succeed him. And Truman, crawling out of the hole, emerges a hero.

WHICH WAY NOW? The middle still to be answered, however, is just where U. S. Chinese policy now stands. To all appearances, it would seem to be right back on Stilwell Road.

MACKENZIE'S Column

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, new Republican chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, sounded warning in his address before the Cleveland Foreign Affairs Forum last weekend that "we face the intimate necessity of refreshing our indispensable Pan-American solidarity."

"There is too much evidence," declared the senator, "that we are drifting apart—and that a Communist-inspired chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, sounded warning in his address before the Cleveland Foreign Affairs Forum last weekend that "we face the intimate necessity of refreshing our indispensable Pan-American solidarity."

Yesterday there came from Brazil a news dispatch which forms an important parenthetical addition to Vandenberg's statement. President Eurico Gaspar Dutra of Brazil advised his countrymen for the first time not to vote for Communists in next Sunday's election. He said the people must support only "those parties which do not propose to scrap the constitution and take power for their own dictatorship, for one class or group. He added:

"Democracy neither is nor must be passive. It has the right to defend itself. It is unthinkable that the liberalization of its freedom go as far as its own destruction."

And why the need of solidarity among the many nations of the Western Hemisphere? The answer obviously is "mutual advantage." Specifically the chief gain lies in the military security which would be afforded—at least in these perilous days when peace is on the wing, with far too many folk blazing away haphazardly with pump-guns in its vicinity.

Back in March of 1945 just such defensive solidarity was provided for in the act of Chapultepec adopted by the Pan-American conference.

on the Chinese situation boils down to is a confirmation of everything General "Vinegar Joe" Stilwell and ex-Ambassador Clarence Gauss knew about China four years ago:

1—The Chinese Nationalist government of Chiang Kai-shek is made up of corrupt politicians.

2—The Yenan government has irreconcilable leanings toward Communism.

3—Within the Yenan government there is a strong element of liberal leadership, genuinely interested in China's reform.

Gauss and Stilwell wanted to build on this slim foundation of decency. If Gauss and Stilwell had been listened to and backed up, the United States might not be in the middle of its own Chinese puzzle. The chance Gauss and Stilwell had may be lost forever.

The fact that the Gauss-Stilwell policy was not followed can't be blamed on Harry Truman. That was before his time. But what's to be done next is very definitely in his time.

Now before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is a new, five-year Treaty of Friendship, Commerce and Navigation with China. Article I says it's to maintain "peace, and free and lasting friendship" between the U. S. and China. That's an order.

No Competition in Sight

Even before the war American automobiles and trucks found foreign competition negligible. What Japan can offer any now? Germany is finished, England is done, and Japan will have little to export for many years. Russia is still, in spite of its bombastic claims, a backward nation. In automobiles—and in practically everything else which can be made with machinery—the markets of the world are ours for the asking. If we made it possible for the world to pay for them, American cars would soon cover every strip of concrete, every dirt road which connects any two towns anywhere on this globe. As one consequence, Detroit would be entirely inadequate and we would have a dozen such monstrous automotive centers situated in various parts of the country, despite the fact that protective decentralization; as another, the world-demand would stimulate competition to a point where no American could not afford a car. A consequence of this, from steel-making to road-building, would have to keep pace, increasing our military potential in every direction. pay for them, American cars would soon cover every strip of concrete, every dirt road which connects any two towns anywhere on this globe. As one consequence, Detroit would be entirely inadequate and we would have a dozen such monstrous automotive centers situated in various parts of the country, despite the fact that protective decentralization; as another, the world-demand would stimulate competition to a point where no American could not afford a car. A consequence of this, from steel-making to road-building, would have to keep pace, increasing our military potential in every direction.

Furthermore, everything we grow in the nation has to be done by hand or made in one way or another finds its way into the automobile, and if free trade can build this industry into a more potential war-machine it can likewise strengthen our entire economy.

Common Ground

Free Trade Best Preparedness

The best way to prepare ourselves against any outside nation is, of course, to put ourselves in harmony with moral laws. One of these moral laws is that all men have a right to trade with any person in this country or any other country. Getting people to believe that is the best preparedness for peace.

With this idea in mind I will quote for three days from an article from Analysis under the heading, "Free Trade Best Preparedness." I quote:

"In the matter of preparedness, the war emphasis is too facts. First, that a large standing army is neither a deterrent nor protection against aggression; second, that offensive and defensive equipment designed on the basis of past experience becomes obsolete almost as soon as the fighting begins. The massive French and Russian armies, even with allied accretions, could not protect the borders of these nations, nor did their elaborate fortifications prove as impregnable as the builders thought; while the initial mechanical nature of the war was liquidated by the inventive genius of a nation uninhibited by a blueprint. The arms which won the war were designed and built as the battle raged.

"Since no formula for international peace has as yet been devised, preparedness will continue to be the concern of politicians, and the larger and more affluent nations the more the emphasis put upon it. Which means that as long as the United States retains its present position in the world, insurance against war will be a constant national concern. We should, therefore, learn well the two lessons of the war and apply this knowledge to our benefit.

"If we follow through on these two lessons we come to the conclusion that the most effective instrument of preparedness is thorough-going peace-time free trade. How does this follow? Let us take one important industry and see how the breaking down of our trade barriers would improve our capacity for making war. The automobile industry is perhaps the best example, because it impinges on practically our entire economy in the first place, and, in the second place, because it has proven itself a necessary and profitable industry during war. Its factories and its engineers and its know-how came in mighty handy when the going was toughest; outside the war, everything we grow in the nation has to be done by hand or made in one way or another finds its way into the automobile, and if free trade can build this industry into a more potential war-machine it can likewise strengthen our entire economy.

No Competition in Sight

Even before the war American automobiles and trucks found foreign competition negligible. What Japan can offer any now? Germany is finished, England is done, and Japan will have little to export for many years. Russia is still, in spite of its bombastic claims, a backward nation. In automobiles—and in practically everything else which can be made with machinery—the markets of the world are ours for the asking. If we made it possible for the world to pay for them, American cars would soon cover every strip of concrete, every dirt road which connects any two towns anywhere on this globe. As one consequence, Detroit would be entirely inadequate and we would have a dozen such monstrous automotive centers situated in various parts of the country, despite the fact that protective decentralization; as another, the world-demand would stimulate competition to a point where no American could not afford a car. A consequence of this, from steel-making to road-building, would have to keep pace, increasing our military potential in every direction.

Most Veterans Are Studying Engineering

AUSTIN—(AP)—Overcrowded Texas schools, packed with ex-servicemen, may be better able to undertake advance planning as that aspect of a survey released here by the University of Texas Veterans Advisory Service.

More than half of the 50,000 veterans now in school are freshmen and more than one-fourth are majoring in engineering.

The next largest interest expressed by ex-servicemen appeared to be in the field of arts and sciences. There they are preparing themselves for the fields of foreign service, geology, academic activities, journalism, liberal arts, sciences and social sciences.

T. A. Rouse, head of the Advisory Service said that conclusions to be drawn from the statistics will be up to the school administrators.

Flyin' Revenooers Baffle Moonshiners

LEXINGTON, C. C.—(AP)—The state constabulary is using airplanes in raiding stills.

The planes are used to buzz the suspected still location as officers land from the ground, so the motor noise will cover up the crackle of dried leaves under the feet of the raiders.

It works, too. Surprised this way, one still proprietor gave up without a fight because, he explained to the officers, "I just can't figure out how you fellows got out of that airplane if you can work a trick like that, there ain't no use in my rummin' away."

IN the hall, Sidney paused uncertainly, and Hannah came padding down the attic stairway. "What's the matter?" Hannah said. "Nothing." "But Rose is crying." "Eavesdropping, eh? Have you got any money? A dollar, maybe?" "I've got forty-five dollars." "WHAT?" "In the bank downtown. I sold some of the old things in the attic to Miss Muth. You know, the lady that runs the antique shop. Mamma said it was all right."

Texas Production Of Oil Decreases

TULSA, Okla.—(AP)—Crude oil production in the United States averaged 4,561,383 barrels daily for the week ended Jan. 11, a decrease of 114,270 barrels from the previous week's output, the Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

The large decline was due mainly to Kansas production drop-off 70,000 barrels to 189,900 and Texas fall by 42,235 barrels to 1,931,615.

Other states with decreases were Oklahoma, down 8,550 barrels to 355,800; Illinois, off 2,800 to 194,700; and the Rocky Mountain area of Colorado, Montana and Wyoming, 1,430 barrels lower to 1
