Firmer Attitude Toward Russia Gets Unofficial Senate Approval

Vandenberg Makes UNO Meet Report

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—The senate lined up today behind the stand of Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) that the United States take a firm line in dealing with Soviet Russia on controversial global problems.

The backing was unofficial, since no legislation was involved, but Vandenberg evidently had won his colleagues' support in the formal report he made on his observations and conclusions as a delegate to the recent UNO session in London.

Housing Program Jeopardized by New GOP Drive

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28—(AP)—The administration's emergency housing program fought with its back to the wall today as the house pressed toward a vote on the legislation asked by President Truman to provide 2,700,000 new homes.

Threateningly strong support mustered behind a republican-proposed substitute for the administration measure, although Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the banking committee told newsmen that "the President's housing program couldn't operate" if the substitute prevails.

In an effort to speed a decision one way or the other, the house was convened an hour earlier than usual.

Republicans and some democrats were lined up behind the substitute legislation sponsored by Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich) which strikes at two key features of the administration program. It would deny Mr. Truman's request for "anti-speculation" price ceilings on all houses and refuse the $600,000,000 asked for subsidies to encourage larger production of scarce building materials.

Wolcott's bill would create a housing office with broad powers to issue directives to other agencies, including OPA. It would continue for another year government powers on priorities and allocations to channel building materials to home construction. And it would increase by $1,000,000,000 the government authority to insure mortgages on new homes.

The administration program devised by Wyatt is pivoted on the use of subsidies to break the bottlenecks in building materials production.

Wyatt contended his bill would give Wyatt authority to adjust materials prices to get production.

Hospital Meeting At Lefors Tonight

A mass meeting of citizens of Lefors and outlying districts will be held at 7:45 tonight at the Lefors high school auditorium to discuss the proposed Gray county hospital.

W. B. Weathered, president of the Pampa chamber of commerce, will be the main speaker. Figures and facts concerning the proposed hospital will be presented.

Special entertainment will be provided during the program by the Lefors grade school. Numbers from the recent Pampa Lions Minstrel will also be featured.

All citizens of Pampa interested in making the trip to attend the mass meeting with a group from Pampa are requested to report to the chamber of commerce office before 7 p. m. in order that Pampans may make the trip in a group.

Those planning to attend include members of the hospital committee of the chamber of commerce.

More Donations Are Made to Red Cross

In addition to the Red Cross donations reported yesterday from the sale of Junior livestock Tuesday, $38.81 was added to the Red Cross fund by Culberson Chevrolet Co. with the reselling of a 247-pound pig to the Panhandle Packing Co. at 14.5 cents a pound.

Total amount donated to the Red Cross from the sale of livestock is thus hoisted to $226.82. The pig donated by Culberson Chevrolet Co. had not been resold yesterday at the time the report was made.

Fishermen Get Early Start at Lake Marvin

CANADIAN, Feb. 28.—(Special)—Jack Lawrence, concessionaire at Lake Marvin, says the fine weather of the past week brought out the fishermen much earlier than usual. About fifty people were fishing at the lake last Sunday, and Lawrence was unable to meet the demand for boats. Since he did not expect the fishing to start so early, some of the boats have not yet been conditioned for use.

Four Factors In Pacific Are Answer

International security in the Pacific is dependent upon four factors, W. Leon Godshall, author, world traveler, and lecturer, told a group of Pampans at the Junior high school auditorium last night.

He was the third in a series of four speakers sponsored in lectures here by the Pampa Rotary club in conjunction with Rotary International.

Following a broad, first-hand knowledge of the key countries touching the Pacific, Mr. Godshall, quite communicative in delivery, enumerated these as the four factors conducive to peace in the Pacific:

1. A MILITANT RUSSIA must be induced to support the idea of peace, through a straightforward diplomatic policy on the part of the U. S.

2. JAPAN'S PEOPLE must be indoctrinated with the ideas of democracy, the principle of live and let live.

3. CHINA MUST BE accelerated from her sluggish traditions through the help of the United States. She must become a strong nation industrially and socially.

4. UNITED NATIONS organization must develop a power of "policing" through consultation, and must exert that power with the unified consent of the members, especially by the three big members—U. S., Russia, and Great Britain.

The speaker spent a good deal of time explaining why he thought the factor of military force and potential play an important part in the relations of nations. He did not say that might made right, but emphasized the fact that the forces of right must be exerted through diplomacy and commerce.

The world is less isolated today, he said, because relations among men are more intensive. Relations clubs, such as Rotary and the institute of international understanding, have made peoples more appreciative of each's aims and needs.

Among speakers, however, many other speakers on world politics, said he did not believe we had to fear Russia. "Our interests parallel, touch, but they do not clash" at any place. But those conditions, he warned.

Rotarians Have Farmers as Guests

Farmers day guests at the Rotary club luncheon yesterday learned of some of the work being carried out at the Amarillo agriculture experiment station.

Dr. C. S. Whitfield, director of the station, explained the operation of several different projects now being conducted.

He explained that it takes months at a time to prove whether a new variety of crop of some new method is valuable, because each experiment is proven conclusively good or undesirable before it is made public.

Among the more important crop projects completed there recently was the development of Westar wheat, which is coming into increasing popularity in this section of the country.

Several wheat farmers of this area planted the wheat and found it to be more drought resistant and higher yielding.

Dr. Whitfield invited farmers and ranchers of this area to visit the station at any time to inspect the facilities and to formulate new ideas in scientific farming.

The station is located 16 miles west of Amarillo on Highway 66. Farmers of the Pampa area were guests of club members at yesterday's meeting. There were also several out-of-town Rotarians present.

The promenade is a gravel road; the greenward lawn green—It's modern; and the ivy-covered walls are bare lumber, but it's home for married students at Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Cambridge, Mass. Housing above was erected at Westgate, adjacent to the M.I.T. campus, for the married vets. There are 100 houses.

H. B. Hill Withdraws From Judgeship Race

There was a definite new development in the political picture in this area today, when H. B. Hill, prominent Shamrock lawyer and former political aspirant, announced he was withdrawing from the race for 31st district judge due to bad health.

The only other candidate who has announced for that office is the incumbent district attorney, Walter Rogers, of Pampa.

In a general newspaper release in this area, Mr. Hill said "I am compelled to give up the idea of being your next district judge. I therefore withdraw from the race, leaving it to others who may seek the office."

One other announcement was made this week. Earl Johnson announced that he would seek the office of county commissioner, to represent precinct 3, which is located at Groom. He made his formal announcement yesterday in The Pampa Daily News.

The following letter was written by Mr. Hill and addressed to the voters of the district, which is composed of Gray, Roberts, Wheeler and Lipscomb counties:

"On Feb. 4 I went to San Antonio for a check up by a specialist, believing there was nothing materially wrong with me. After five days of observation the doctor told me I had a rather serious kidney trouble and prescribed a course of treatment for the next few months. He rationed my time to such an extent

Merchants Salute Your Red Cross

Tomorrow the drive to raise $14,040 as the Pampa Red Cross chapter's quota in the current drive, will get under way here.

All the business district workers in the drive are urged to attend the Texas coffee in the Palm Room, city hall, tomorrow morning at 9:15, which will mark the beginning of the drive in the business district. Supplies will be given out at that time. Joe Fischer, drive chairman, said.

Today's edition of The Pampa Daily News is demonstrative of the way the business concerns of this area are willing to support this cause. Turn through the pages of this Red Cross Edition and view for yourself the response.

RED CROSS MUST FIGHT ON: HOME SERVICE DEPARTMENT OFFERS VARIETY OF SERVICES TO VETERANS

By MRS. BETTY HASTINGS Home Service Secretary

War is never over for the Red Cross. Another battle has begun. That of helping the returning veteran adjust himself successfully to civilian life. Part of the money contributed by you in the 1946 Red Cross financial drive will be used for this purpose. Home service in the Pampa Red Cross chapter will still be available 24 hours a day offering a variety of services to veterans and also to the men still serving in the armed forces at home and overseas.

These services might best be illustrated by listing inquiries typical of the 2,595 received in 1945 in the home service department of your local Red Cross chapter. Every service listed in the following story has been rendered at least one time this month and often on more numerous occasions.

17 Japanese To Pay for Deaths Of B-29 Fliers

SHANGHAI, Feb. 28—(AP)—Seventeen Japanese military men were sentenced today—five to the gallows, 12 to prison—for the strangulation and cremation of three American B-29 fliers at Hankow in December, 1944. An 18th defendant, the lone civilian to be tried, was acquitted.

The U. S. military trial commission decreed death by hanging for: Maj. Gen. Masataka Kaburagi, chief of staff and deputy commander of the Japanese 34th army in Hankow; Warrant Officer Tsutomu Fujii, who supervised the killings; and the trio who pulled the cords about the helpless airmen's necks; Sgt. Major Shozo Masui, Sgt. Koichi Masuda, and Pvt. Yosaburo Shirakawa.

American defense counsel said the condemned men probably would ask Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, theater commander and reviewing authority, for clemency—but the no higher appeal was planned.

Col. Kameji Fukunoto, commander of Japan's Hankow gendarmerie, was sentenced to life imprisonment. Terms of other ranged from 18 months to 20 years.

Four other Japanese, former officers, are awaiting trial here March 11 on charges of complicity in the execution of three Doollittle raiders whose plane crashed in China after taking a surprise blow at Tokyo in April, 1942.

Included among the defendants is Lt. Gen. Shigeru Sawada, former commander of the Japanese 13th army in Shanghai, accused of ordering the farcical court martial which meant death to Lt. William G. Farrow, Lt. Dean E. Hallmark and Sgt. Robert Spatz.

ALLEGATION OF AFFECTIONS LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28—(AP)—Mrs. Theima Neiditch was granted a divorce from Bernard Neiditch. She testified her husband told her he could support either her or his race horse and that he was more interested in the horse.

Santa Fe Agent Sent To Amarillo Office

CANADIAN, Feb. 28.—(Special)—Joe G. Tyler, Santa Fe station agent here the past four years has been transferred to Amarillo where he is to be employed in the freight agent's office. Mr. and Mrs. Tyler moved to Amarillo Tuesday. They have sold their residence here. D. J. Raymond has been transferred here as station agent.

Charges Made, Fines Paid in Gray County

Eight persons were arrested this week by county officers principally on charges of driving while intoxicated or illegal transportation of liquor.

Weldon M. Slater was arrested yesterday charged with driving while intoxicated and was fined $50 and costs of $18.05. Curtis W. Hucks was arrested on a similar charge Tuesday and paid a $100 fine and costs.

B. B. Robertson was also arrested the same day on a like charge. Result of the hearing was not available. Lloyd Adams was arrested Tuesday charged with transportation of liquor without a permit, and paid a fine of $200 and costs of $22.20. Hugh Sanford was arrested Monday, charged with unlawful transportation, and fined $100 and costs.

One charge was made of a person passing a hot check. Margaret Harris was fined $500 and costs for driving while intoxicated. A charge was filed against Sam E. Carlton for carrying a pistol.

'Please Find My Husband at Once!'

"Please find my husband at once!"—was only one of the numerous requests received this month in the local Red Cross office. The plea was contained in a letter written by a deserted wife in a nearby town. However, she gave only her husband's name and no other identifying information as to where he might be.

Another letter was received asking that we charge the father's name on a child's birth certificate so that a woman's present husband might receive additional points as a father and be released from the army.

Typical as these requests may seem they are not ignored. Further investigation is always made and help given when possible. If Red Cross is unable to offer the service requested referrals are always made to the proper authorities.

Hopes of Averting Phone Halt Killed

By the Associated Press

Three thousand marchers broke through police lines today in Philadelphia, scene of the most turbulent current labor dispute in the nation.

Commanders of 575 policemen on duty sent an emergency radio call for reinforcements at the strikebound General Electric plant in Philadelphia. The marchers, defying a court injunction outlawing mass picketing, bowled over several motorcycle policemen.

Mounted officers then galloped into the picket ranks and a free-for-all ensued.

Ten CIO Electrical union strike leaders already faced contempt charges as a result of violence yesterday when club-swinging policemen clashed with 800 pickets. Yesterday was the first violence since the Philadelphia G-E strike began Jan. 15.

PHONE STRIKE THREAT

Meantime hopes of averting a nationwide strike March 7 of the 250,000 telephone workers received a setback.

After a 14-hour conference in New York between the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and the federation of long line telephone workers ended with no settlement of the wage-hour dispute, Union President J. J. Moran said:

"We are finished. Our answer will be March 7."

LONG LINE UNION

A company spokesman said no further meetings between the company and the long line union were scheduled, "but the company will be very willing to meet with union representatives any time."

Moran said the federation, representing 10,000 long lines traffic employees and 9,000 other workers, agreed to accept a $4 to $8 weekly wage increase with the provision that the union would have the right to distribute the boosts according to its own seniority scale. The union had demanded weekly pay raises of $10 and a reduction of the work week from 46 to 40 hours.

TRAFFIC EMPLOYEES

Moran said the company offered a flat $5 weekly hike for traffic employees and boosts of $4 to $7 for plant employees.

In Washington, soft coal operators awaited the first move by John L. Lewis in attempting to win higher wages.

USES Placements Steadily Growing

Placing of persons on jobs during the past month has "probably exceeded" the number placed during any previous month since V-J day, said L. P. Fort, manager of the local United States Employment Service office.

A substantial number of requests for laborers is coming in to the local office aside from the regular orders for skilled laborers which are difficult to fill, said Fort.

Larger construction companies are coming to life, according to Fort, and have requested placed about 30 orders for men during the past week, 60 the week before.

A few jobs are coming in from restaurants, and a number of requests for jobs are a great help in the balancing of the labor situation.

There is also a "sprinkling of jobs over the fields" for drillers and roustabouts.

On the whole the improved labor picture of last week has continued this week. Fort stated, adding that Pampa is in an enviable position in relation to employment primarily because of lack of war-time industries which could not be converted to peace-time production.

Although the office has about as many contacts for jobs as before, it is believed that immigration of potential workers has slackened off, the balance being filled by returning veterans.

Atom Specialists Will Have Place On Police Force

ROSWELL, N. M., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The 58th bombardment wing, atom bombing specialists, will have a top position in this nation's contribution to the projected United Nations organization police force.

The AAF wing, veteran of aerial bombardment of Japan, now is in the process of reorganizing into a fully equipped strategic force ready to strike anywhere in the world—with atom bombs if the job requires.

At the moment, the atom bombing unit of the wing is the 509th composite group based at this New Mexico desert air field which also is advanced headquarters for the wing.

With permanent headquarters at March Field, Calif., the wing is made up of four groups—the 444th based at Merced, Calif., the 462nd at McDill, Fla., and the 469th and 509th at Roswell.

The strength of the wing and its component units now is less than 10 per cent of its authorized level.

So far as is known, the 509th group with its 393rd squadron is the only unit in the world trained for the intricate task of dropping atom bombs. Men and officers of the group as well as of most of the wing are career men of the regular army.

Brig. Gen. Roger M. Ramey and his staff of the 58th look upon the forthcoming atom bomb test as a Godsend. Immediately after the notice was received the wing was given a high priority and now is busy preparing itself for both the test and its future prominent role in the world security police force.

The men of the wing look upon the Bikini atoll test chiefly as a means of keeping in practice. Pilots, bombardiers, air and ground crewmen of the 509th are hard at work training. When not in the air making practice drops of dummy atom bombs, the crews are busy on the ground.

Checks for Livestock Sales To Be Mailed

All 4-H and FFA boys who sold livestock at the Junior Livestock sale held Tuesday will receive checks for their livestock by mail, announced E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the chamber of commerce which sponsored the show and sale.

The checks will be mailed as soon as all records are completed.

School Census To Begin Tomorrow

Taking of the school census in all counties will start tomorrow. The census includes all children between the ages of six and 17. Schools receive $30 for each student included in the school census in their respective area.

Each school is responsible for the taking of their school census. Parents not contacted by the census taker should see that their child is enumerated, advised Hueylyn Laycock, county superintendent of schools.

The census is to be completed by April 1.

"Murder!" They Cried By DOROTHY STALEY

Copyright, 1946, NEA Service, Inc.

XXVI
I GOT ready for bed and then decided that some warm milk would help me sleep. On my way back, I noticed a light still burning in the library and went in to put it out. But Fletch was there on the divan, a drink in his hand, his long legs stretched out in front of him.
"Having a nightcap, Nana?" he asked. "Come in and have it with me."
I sat down beside him. "Don't you think you should go to bed? Tomorrow won't be so much easier than today."
He hunched forward, rotating the glass between his hands. Finally he said, "I think it will be for me, Nana. Thanks to Dad. I've made a hell of a lot of mistakes, but you can make mistakes and still be a right guy, can't you?"
"If you're thinking of your father..." I said.
"I am. I'm thinking of him, and I'm thinking of myself and of my boys and the years to come. We're off to a bad start, but if I can give them what my father has given me, then I'll command their love and respect..."
"And admiration," I added.
"And great admiration," he replied.
He got up and put his glass on the table and lit a cigarette. "I may not come through this war, Nana. You know that."
I nodded. How can anyone forget that when there is some one dear to them in a war?
"But if I don't, Dad's still a comparatively young man. The boys will be in good hands. His and Mother's. And Betsy's." He turned to me quickly. "You know Betsy's going to be all right. We're in a hell of a mess all the way around, but Betsy will come through. She has just lost her way for a little while."

WE sat silently for a few moments. I knew there was more he wanted to say and finally it came out.
"It was Phil who was never able to find her, way, and there never was anyone to help her. She was like a person who fights his way through the brambles to reach his goal when all the time there is a road right there which he can't see." He stopped and I waited. He didn't want an answer I knew. He wasn't really talking; only thinking aloud. "Sometimes I used to feel sorry for her. I don't think she even knew what made her act the way she did. She had had a crazy, twisted childhood. It might have been that. I'm not up on complex and such things." Fletch got up and took my empty glass and put it on the table beside him. "When we get to the bottom of all this, Nana, we will find somewhere, somehow that it was Phil's ungovernable temper that was responsible for her death. That, or one of her crazy, warped ideas."
Then he took me by the shoulders. "Come on, baby," he said. "It's time we got some sleep."
We went up the stairs together, Fletch's arm around my shoulders.
I COULDN'T sleep. It was hot and I could hear the trains in the valley. But their eerie cry was gone and I lay there wondering if it had been the train whistles we had heard, or whether it had been some other force, some other power that the disquietude in our lives had conjured up which had filled the air and gone screaming across the valley. There was no sound now except the uneven buzzing of the night insects in the woods.
I don't know what time it was when my Miss Jenny came to my door and whispered, "May I come in, Nana? I can't sleep."
She lay down on the bed beside me and after a while her voice in the darkness said, "I don't know whether I did right today or not, Nana. I'm so mixed up I don't think I know what is right and that is wrong. It has been that way all these years. Now I don't know whether it was wrong to tell Fletch and Betsy the truth today, or whether it would have been wrong to let Fletch think his father was..."
"I would have been very wrong," I said. "We mature, Jenny, by incidents, not by years as people think. Fletch and Betsy have taken a great stride forward today. They have been shaken by what they have learned from you and Stephen, but so much has happened in their own lives in the past 48 hours that they have a greater depth and understanding. They can understand and appreciate your problem."
A bitter little laugh escaped my Miss Jenny. "We are all mixed up, aren't we? My children can't understand what happened in their parents' lives because of what has happened in their own. I always thought it was the other way around."
I reached for her hand. "It's often that way, Jenny," I said. "but very few are fortunate enough to gain that knowledge so early. Would it make you feel better to know that Betsy is already comparing Pen Downes and Hebard Pharr, and that Fletch has lost some of the bitterness he has known in his marriage to Philippa because of things that happened before he was born?"
My Miss Jenny began to cry quietly, and I just held her hand and said nothing. I was becoming reconciled to the idea of storms that cleared the atmosphere.

9 More Pampans Enter Army Corps

Nine men including two veterans and seven original enlistments were accepted in the new regular army at the Pampa recruiting station during the past week according to Sgt. Fred G. Daggett, recruiting officer. Forty-six men have entered the army through the local recruiting office this month.
Veteran reenlistments include Ernest J. Shurtz, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Smart, 203 East Brown, and husband of Geneva Lee Smart, 321 East Francis. Ernest was a prisoner of war for 26 days and was liberated by the 2nd armored division in the Rhine river sector. He holds the Bronze Star medal, the ETO ribbon with four bronze stars and the Conduct medal. A veteran of 33 months in Europe, Ernest plans to join his brother, Jessie L., who entered the service in January and is stationed in the cavalry at Fort Knox, Kentucky. Ernest has also chosen the cavalry and wants to return to the European theater.
Fred A. Riley, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Riley, 420 North Crest, is a veteran of five years service with 21 months in the European theater with the infantry. He is the holder of the Bronze Star medal, Combat Infantry badge, Distinguished Unit badge, Purple Heart, Good Conduct medal and the ETO ribbon with three bronze stars. Fred reenlisted for duty with the infantry and has chosen the European theater for his years.
Three-year original enlistments include George R. Ibsen, 17, son of Mrs. Sybil D. Spotts, route 2, Pampa. George enlisted for the cavalry in the European theater.
Leo Ira Gililand, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel V. Gililand, 709 North West, has joined for three years and also has chosen the cavalry in the European theater.
Hudson John Garvin, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison J. Garvin, McLean, has chosen the army air forces in the European theater.
Original 18 months enlistments include Kenneth Riley, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Riley, 420 North Crest, and brother of Fred A. Riley was enlisted for 18 months unassigned.

PAGING SUPERMAN
Red Cross disaster relief operations, now using war-developed medical discoveries, helicopters, "walkie-talkies," assault boats, and amphibious jeeps, would be further streamlined if scores of proposals pouring into Red Cross headquarters should materialize. Suggestions have run the gamut from television and the "free fall" cargo bomb to parachuting of disaster workers and conversion of hospital transport planes to home-front disaster use.
Production of natural gasoline has tripled in this country in the last decade.

WELCOME HOME

Additional servicemen of the Plains due to arrive in the States as reported by the Associated Press are:
On the Marysville Victory, due at Seattle from Korea Feb. 26—Capt. Frank Jamieson, 402 N. Ballard, Pampa; T/5 Bernardo Pesina, Kemp; Capt. James Eiland, Wellington.
Hagerstown Victory, due at New York Feb. 28: T/Sgt. James R. Modgill, Pampa; Sgt. John C. Ashcraft, C. Ardmore; Pfc. James E. Gallagher, Hereford; T/5 J. W. Allen, Claude.
Tufts Victory, due at New York Feb. 28: T/5 Billy W. Pfeffer, Borer; Sgt. Howard N. Brixer, sr., Amarillo.
S/Sgt. Andrew C. Enloe, Pampa, was to arrive today at New York.

Simple Services Are Held for G. B. Dealey

DALLAS, Feb. 28 (AP)—Simple funeral services, as he requested will be held for George B. Dealey, publisher of the Dallas Morning News, at First Presbyterian church today at 2 p. m.
Mr. Dealey, who died Tuesday at the age of 36, had specified that any eulogies be brief and also asked that friends make contributions to charity rather than send flowers to his funeral.
Dr. Frank C. Brown, pastor of First Presbyterian church, will conduct the service assisted by the Rev. R. A. Deason, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church.
A quartet will sing hymns from a list of Mr. Dealey's favorites, including "Lead Kindly Light," "Abide With Me," "Crossing the Bar" and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."
Burial will be in Grove Hill cemetery with only members of the family, and a few close friends attending.

Most County Liberated Prisoners Are Back in the Normal Swing of Things

A recent check shows that the majority of Gray county liberated prisoners of war have returned to normal life after years in Japanese and German prison camps. Red Cross will continue to serve these men just as they served them during war time by helping them adjust to civilian life.

Jack Moss, son of Mrs. V. S. Keshey of Pampa, is now training on the job in Amarillo to be a master machinist. Since his liberation from a Japanese prison camp he has married an Amarillo girl, Miss Nellie Jo Rexroad, formerly of Bryce, Texas.

Mervin Suttle, who was a prisoner of war of the Japanese, is still a patient in Ward C-5 at Pitsman General hospital, Denver, Colorado. However, his parents have recently received a letter stating that Mervin's appearance is "very good and that his condition is showing slight improvement very fast." He has written that he might be home in three months.

Alfred Myers has returned to the U. S. naval hospital at Norman, Oklahoma, for observation following a three months' rehabilitation leave. He received a broken right hand and a broken foot while imprisoned; but plans to accept a job in Pampa as soon as he is released from the hospital and is able.

Joseph D. Hedgel is now in Pampa on a 104 day furlough. A former prisoner of the Japanese, he has been dismissed from the hospital and expects to receive his discharge soon. He plans to go into the construction business in Pampa and Borger.

Ernest Smarit, who was a German prisoner of war, has rejoined in the army.

Charles O. Slavens, former Japanese prisoner of war, married Bonnie Jean Roberts February 19, 1946, and is now in California on his honeymoon. At the end of his 104 day leave, he will report back to Brooke hospital at San Antonio, Texas.

Gordon W. Giddens is in good health now according to his mother, Mrs. Alma Giddens. Gordon was a prisoner of war in Germany and plans to work in the oil fields soon.

Charles L. Bryan is in Seranton, Kansas, at the present time with his family. His father, J. E. Bryan, recently reported that Charles is feeling fine in spite of his imprisonment in a Japanese prison camp.

James W. Russell, former German prisoner of war, was married to Miss Georgia Carroll September 2, 1945, and is now living at Edgewater Beach, Santa Monica, California.

Donald Crossan is now in good health following his liberation from a Japanese prison camp according to his father, H. C. Crossan of Lefors, Texas.

Other liberated prisoners of war in the county who could not be contacted were Robert L. Miller, shall always have a kindly feeling for the people of the 31st district.

Jack Hopkins, and Ross N. Buzard.

Mr. Hill formally announced his candidacy in the News on Jan. 3, tracing his career. He had sought the office in the race against the retiring Judge W. R. Ewing four years ago. He has served two terms in the legislature of this state, representing the district.

Mr. Hill said in another letter to the News that he had been allowed 2 1/2 hours per day, divided between morning and afternoon, for his work, and that he was not to work any at night.

NO BIDS
ALTON, Ill., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The city council advertised for bids on two new motorcycles to replace two old machines now being used by the police department.
Not a single bid was received. Instead, the council got an offer for the two old motorcycles.

Olsen To Assist in Organizing Cub Pack

Gray District Scout Executive Hugo Olsen will be in Follett, Texas, this afternoon to conduct a meeting with citizens of that community interested in organizing a cub pack.

Olsen said the Rev. A. M. Armstrong, pastor of the Methodist church at Follett, contacted him and said the church was interested in sponsoring the pack.
Tomorrow, Olsen will present the charter to Cub Pack 60, sponsored by the Guyton, Okla., Lions club.

Paper was invented in China by Tsai Lun in 105 A.D.

Tractor Victim To Be Buried Friday

Funeral services for Earl D. Pinnell, 42, who was apparently smothered to death when his tractor dragged him under a heavy plow, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the First Christian church here.

Burial will be at the Fairview cemetery. The Rev. M. E. Wells, White Deer, will officiate.

Mr. Pinnell died Tuesday afternoon while plowing on his farm 12 miles south of Pampa. He was found later by his father, who had seen the tractor stalled in the field for some time, and went to investigate.

Surviving are his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. Pinnell; one sister, Mrs. Opal Mae Johnson, Dumas; three brothers, Roscoe and Elmo of Adrian, and Owen B. of Pampa.

Active pallbearers are to be Everett Vanderburg, Tommie Bird, Dock Mackie, Jim Hopkins, Marlon Husted, Fred Vanderburg, Bruce Ginn, and Bill Ridgway.

Disaster Story
Sixteen Negro nurses stampeded shelters in the Ohio Valley flood. Negro case workers in Louisville, Kentucky, and Negro cantine units at many points made disaster history in Red Cross relief operations by their outstanding service. Flood refugees and Red Cross workers alike were unanimous in reporting that shelters operated and managed by the Negro leaders were among the best organized and managed along the 1,000-mile flood front in 1945.

A Vital Message To Men Who Feel Old

Why not regain the vim and vitality you once enjoyed?

If life apparently has lost its zest, you again may be able to enjoy life as you did in your youth. If added years have slowed down your vim, vitality and youthful pleasures, here is a simple method that may change your whole outlook on life. Just ask your druggist for CASSELLA's stimulating tablets. Take as directed on label. Don't feel old and worn out at 40, 60 or more. Take these tablets regularly until you feel that you have regained the pleasure of living you once enjoyed. Why be discouraged? Why not try CASSELLA tablets and regain the vigor and zest of a much younger man? There is nothing harmful in these tablets. They contain Celery seed, Thiamin Chloride, Passion Flower, Iron. Ask your doctor or druggist about this formula.

aid he was willing to give up his own religion if the time ever comes when Hindus and Moslems clash over the issue of having a united India or splitting into separate states.

He had no rather singular idea of how the Hindus might circumvent the Moslems, who are outnumbered three to one and want to set up their own country - Pakistan. "If enough of us Hindus become Moslems," said seriously, "we could outvote the old Moslems and keep India one nation."

Just to keep the record straight I asked one young Britisher who had served for six years in the Indian army how he felt about the independence issue.

Rickey Demands Action Against Players Who 'Jump' to Mexico

3-Year-Olds To Try To Pick up 'Losse Change'

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The large bundles of loose change lying around California and Florida this winter for horses with a fast set of feet have the three-year olds rushing off the farm as never before, trying to lay up some oats in the bin early, against the tough times ahead.

There are half-a-dozen or more of the early-season gallopers catching the eye, headed by the logical winter-bred entry of Knockdown and Star pilot.

Among them are the jinx-cracking Galla Damron in California, now coming around again after suffering an injury early this month, and the surprising Alworth, who was so lightly regarded he wasn't even nominated for the Flamingo.

The Texas bargain baby, Air Rate, who was picked up by Fred Wyse of Houston for $3,200 and so far has a bank account of $101,180, looks to be the best of the others in the California campaign.

Back of Bound View and Alworth in the Florida follies this winter, the likeliest of the lot appear to be War Admiral's stocky Indiana-born son, Wee Admiral, hero of last year's Canadian and Detroit, doing but who like Air Rate, may not be any ball of fire over a mile; the Virginia-bred Cedar Creek, who is rapidly looming as the best son of the imported Bahram, greatest British racer of his day, and Pellicle, who ran into bad racing luck in the Flamingo and finished out of the money for the first time this year.

By TED MEIER

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Branch Rickey, president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, today urged Commissioner A. B. "Happy" Chandler to take strong action against major league players who jump from organized baseball to the Mexican league.

Rickey did not mention names, but it is likely he was fuming over the loss of Luis Olmo, hard-hitting outfielder, who sent back his Dodger contract unsigned and announced he would play in the Mexican circuit.

"Our contracts are valid and players who disregard them should be Mexican players for the rest of their lives," Rickey said. "It would not do to have one major league club take back players who jumped and other clubs refusing to do so."

Meantime, in an interview at Tampa, Chandler took a blast at colleges who have proposed that their players be left alone by big league scouts until they graduate.

"Only about one-third of the colleges play baseball," Chandler pointed out. "If they want us to go along with their proposals they should give baseball a bigger place in their sports picture and not let other sports encroach on the game."

Other training camp items included: Balboa — Alexandro Carrasquel, here en route to join the Chicago White Sox in California, may pitch against the New York Yankees today.

West Palm Beach — Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics announced that infielder Gene Handley and outfielder Frank Demaree were holdouts.

Son Bernardino, Calif. — Pittsburgh's "A" team beat the Pirate "B" squad, 5-2, in a six inning game.

Lakeland — Pitcher Rufus Gentry, who held out throughout the 1945 season, arrived in the Detroit camp along with infielders Pinky Higgins, and outfielders Doc Orahner and Ed Mickowicz.

Avalon, Calif. — Chicago Cub Manager Charley Grimm plans to start the first series of intra-squad games Sunday.

Pasadena, Calif. — Catcher George Dickey has joined the Chicago White Sox squad bringing the number in camp to 56.

St. Petersburg, Fla. — Infielders at Schoendienst and Emil Verban will have their first workouts with Cardinals today.

Anaheim, Calif. — Signing of Pitcher Jack Kramer left the St. Louis Browns with only Shortstop Vernon Stephens as a recognized holdout.

Bellingham, Wash. Gale Bishop, Washington state star, said he had agreed to sign with the Boston Braves because they "came in with an offer that I couldn't turn down."

Southwest Cage Attendance Mark Is Up 50 Percent

DALLAS, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Southwest conference basketball attendance for the 1945-46 season which closed this week showed a gain of more than 50 percent over last year and executive secretary James H. Stewart attributes part of it to gradual growth of the game in this area.

Increased interest in basketball, release from war tension, increased student bodies, returned service men with their families, a stronger brand of play and a close race were reasons given by Stewart for this year showing more than 54,000 attendance above 1944-45.

The figures are: 161,142 for 74 home games for the 1945-46 season as compared to 106,940 for 70 home games last year. This year's was the greatest attendance in history for the seven-team conference.

"There has been a gradual growth of interest over the past five years," said Stewart. "This year that growth added to the other factors gave us a big jump."

Baylor university, which won the conference championships, showed the heaviest increase. The Baptist school had 24,500 for 7 games compared to 6,000 for 5 in 1944-45. The University of Texas drew 41,000 for 11 games against 37,500 for 13 games last year. Texas Christian had 15,000 for 10 games against 8,000 for 12 games in 1944-45. Arkansas reported 29,102 for 15 games compared to 9,757 for 8 games last year. Texas A. and M. played before 31,500 in 11 games this season against 17,700 for 9 last year.

Rice and Southern Methodist showed decreases. But S. M. U. which didn't win a game in 12 starts, had 9,138 for 11 games while last year it attracted 11,010 in 12. Rice drew 10,902 for 9 games against 16,973 for 11 last year. Rice, champion in 1944-45 finished fifth this season.

Five More Teams Due To Qualify
By The Associated Press
Five more teams may qualify for the class AA division of the Texas schoolboy basketball tournament at Austin in games tonight.

Greenville already is in the tournament, having won its bi-district series with Sulphur Springs.

Tonight Amarillo meets Graham at Amarillo. Amarillo won the first game. Paschal (Fort Worth) plays Crosier Tech at Dallas. Tech took the opener. Lufkin entertains Henderson, passing only a victory to go to the Austin meet. Jeff Davis (Houston) travels to Goose Creek. The Houston team won the series opener. Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio), which defeated Kingsville in the first game of their play-off, meets Kingsville at San Antonio.

Ablene and El Paso start their series at Abilene tonight while Brownwood and Waco continue theirs at Waco tomorrow night. Brownwood won the first game.

Class A and class B starts regional play-offs tomorrow, each division to determine tight teams for the state tournament.

Class A tournaments will be held at Levelland, Colorado City, Mt. Vernon, Nacogdoches, Goose Creek, San Antonio and Alice while one region—No. 2—will determine its representative in a different way. Iowa Park plays Bowie at Wichita Falls and Birdville will be at Gatesville tomorrow night. The winners will clash for the regional title.

Class B regional tournaments will be held at Lubbock, Abilene, Dallas, Kilgore, Houston, San Marcos, Kingsville and Marfa.

Hialeah Waging 'Losing Battle'

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The Hialeah publicity department headed by Everett Clay, is trying heroically to blow some life into the $50,000 added Widener handicap which is to be run on Saturday, but it looks like a losing fight.

The big race, crowning event of the Florida winter season, is afflicted with 'Concordian' trouble, and the general opinion is that the only reason for running it at all is to see what horses will finish second, third and fourth behind the rangy chestnut owned by Barney Murphy of Philadelphia.

First money of about $46,000 is being conceded to the swift Concordian, which ran off with the McLellan Memorial race two weeks ago and will carry only 109 pounds in the Widener, if they can find a jockey that small. Warren Wright's Armed, considered the best handicap horse in the business, will tote a back-breaking 128 pounds, and his trainer, Ben Jones, says frankly that he is out to get the $10,000 second money.

As of last night, seven horses were listed rather hesitantly by the racing secretary as probable starters. The owners have been withdrawing their steeds at a great rate since Concordian revealed his hand, and it would surprise few others if the field dwindled to five or six by Saturday.

The navy must be strong enough to carry out any task assigned to it, and dynamic enough to keep abreast of a rapidly changing and shrinking world.—Admiral Nimitz, Chief of Naval Operations.

Threat of Strike at Santa Anita Abated

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The threat of a strike by owners, trainers and grooms at Santa Anita track apparently has been completely dissipated, and there is every assurance that the horses will continue to chase each other around the big dirt oval during the remainder of the meeting.

The California horse racing board took matters in hand yesterday, and after a conference it appeared that the most pressing demands of the California Thoroughbred Owners and Trainers association, and the affiliated grooms organization, had been satisfied.

The Allies are now setting up conditions which 20 years ago fostered nazism and which, if they continue, inevitably will force German youth into some new expression in militarism and fascism.—Dr. Franz Moeller, German anti-nazi leader.

Cropped Hair Is Easily Managed

If you have to belabor your hair to keep it up, why hang on to a lot of lengths. Usually the reason hair is an unmanageable heap is because it grows old and tired in its effort to produce length. You can make it as seductive as a Persian kitten's by chopping off tired or lifeless ends and putting a permanent into brand new growth. For obedience to your slightest whims and pretty styling of hair nothing beats new, healthy, close-to-the-scalp growth into which you put a soft permanent. The change is one from half-beated response-

Methodist W.S.C.S. Groups Have District Organizational Meeting

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church entertained representatives from the W.S.C.S. groups in the northern half of the Clarendon district at an organizational conference here yesterday. Theme of the meeting was "Preparing for Peace." A number of district officers were present including the president, Mrs. L. E. DePew, Shamrock; Mrs. H. C. Rippey, McLean, secretary of organizational and promotion; Mrs. N. S. Daniels, Lefors, secretary of supply.

Other officers in district attendance were Mrs. J. E. Beard, Pampa, district secretary of Christian social relations and local church activities; Mrs. C. E. Hunt, Pampa, secretary of youth work; Mrs. M. E. Allensworth, Clarendon, secretary of missionary education; and Mrs. Marshall Adams, Shamrock, district vice-president. The guest speaker, Miss Kathryn J. Eleri, a field worker for the organization, discussed at length the duties of the local society officers, during the morning session. After a luncheon served by the Pampa W. S. C. S., Miss Eleri addressed the group again, telling of the need for Christianity in India, South America, and China, as she had observed it in those countries. She described ways that Christians might help in taking the faith to such places. Mrs. R. C. Rippey opened the morning session and introduced Mrs. N. S. Daniels, who gave the morning devotional on the theme, "Preparation for Peace." Mrs. Rippey gave the benediction and invocation. During the afternoon, class sessions and departmental meetings were held. District chairman were able to meet with the groups they represent and discuss plans for the year's work. Mrs. J. M. Porter of Wheeler dismissed the meeting with a prayer.

Culture Club Has Study of Texas

Study topic for the Twentieth Century Culture club was "Texas Personalities," when that group met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. E. L. Henderson. Roll call was answered by each member stating a "Fact about Texas." In a discussion of "Thumbnail Sketches of Texas," Mrs. Jack Merchant said Texas was named from an Indian word meaning friendly. Mrs. E. K. Griffith spoke on "Texas Humor," stating that Texans are known far and wide for their Texas brogue and their tall tales. "Big Foot" Wallace, one of the early settlers, is credited as the originator of many of the tall tales that are repeated today. Icebox cake and coffee was served by the hostess to the following members: Mrs. L. N. Athison, Mrs. V. L. Hokes, Mrs. Kester June, Mrs. Huelvy Laycock, Mrs. Julian Key, Mrs. Douglas Nelson, Mrs. H. Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing, how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcenate (formerly called Barcol Concentrate). Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly blot disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Help Your Red Cross Give Generously

Maybe You Know... by Conroy

RED CROSS INVOLUTIONS LAST YEAR TRAINED MORE THAN 400,000 VOLUNTEERS AND ADULTS IN SHIRTING AND WHITE SAFETY COUVERS WERE GIVEN IN RURAL COMMUNITIES WHERE THE RED CROSS IS PRESENTLY THE ONLY AGENCY PROVIDING SUPERVISED SWIMMING.

A FORMER BARRAGE CLERK IN TOKYO WAS DRENCHED BY A RED CROSS CLUB SHORTLY AFTER OCCUPATION. THOUSANDS OF SOLDIERS AND SAILORS USE IT AS A DAILY REMEDY.

"The Friendly Hand of this Nation reaching across the sea to sustain its Fighting Men"

—from an address before Congress on June 18, 1945, by General Dwight D. Eisenhower

THE RED CROSS, with its clubs for recreation... its readiness—even more important, the devotion and warmhearted sympathy of the Red Cross girl—has often seemed to be the friendly hand of this nation, reaching across the sea to sustain its fighting men." So speaks one of our greatest soldiers—the GI's own "General Ike." He has seen your Red Cross in action—be knows! He knows, too, that more than a million young Americans still on foreign soil, and the many thousands of our wounded in military hospitals need your Red Cross.

Our returning veterans need it, to help them with advice, cash to tide them over in case of emergency or delayed benefits, advice and aid with the thousand-and-one problems involved in their return to civilian life.

They gave us Victory. We must not fail them now. They need your Red Cross. They need it now. Won't you give to the Red Cross—today?

YOUR Red Cross MUST CARRY ON... GIVE!

The New Bread— What Will It Be?

What is eighty per cent extraction flour? What sort of bread will it make? What qualities will it have? How will it affect cake and other bakery products? Will this new bread baked in American bakeries have the nutritional value that our enriched white bread has?

These are questions which people ask as a result of President Truman's wheat conservation order (War Food Order No. 144), which becomes effective March 1.

This White House order to stretch the wheat supply of the United States that we may give bread, this vital food to the hungry of the world, that we may do our part to prevent starvation, is receiving a whole-hearted cooperation on the part of the baking industry. Bakers and millers are taking steps to guarantee to the consumer a product fully equal in nutritive value to what he has received in the past. Enrichment of both bread and family flour will be continued.

Eighty per cent extraction, which is the wheat conservation directive, means that from each one-hundred pounds of wheat the miller must get at least eighty pounds of human food. Department of agriculture experts estimate that 198 million bushels of wheat in the form of flour will be required before the next crop is harvested and milled.

Texas Today

By JACK RUTLEDGE
AP Staff Writer

A report on the state of south Texas:

South Texas is blooming and blooming.

Spring comes earlier down there. While that tree that grows in Brooklyn (and upper Texas, too) is still barren of leaves, way down south on the gulf coast it's green and fresh and flowers are blossoming.

It's warmer, and there's more sunshine per square foot because those Yankee northerners sometimes don't get that far south.

But the important thing is business. Like East Texas, which was reported on last week, business in South Texas is soaring.

Fundamentally agricultural, one sees sleek and shiny new tractors being driven down highways by proud owners. Farm equipment, the paint still bright and gaudy, rips into rich brown soil.

Streets are crowded, and if you think there's a parking problem in the big cities, try to get around a small South Texas town on a Saturday night.

Near Austin, a regular epidemic of night clubs is noticeable. (Austin isn't South Texas, but you have to get through there, as a rule, to get where you're going.)

Industry is growing. The tire pressure meter company of Harlingen has a brand new plant. They make a gadget you may be seeing on lots of cars some day.

Four little bulbs are neatly arranged on the dashboard of your car. When the air gets low on, say, the left front tire, the left top bulb turns on. The bright red attracts your attention, you stop and get air, and maybe save yourself a lot of trouble, including sudden death.

Service stations are still understaffed. Many have just one attendant, and he's so busy you get your own water or boll.

Homes are going up everywhere, and new subdivisions are numerous. Business houses dot the main streets—new ones, we mean.

Farmers are repairing fences, somehow getting war-scarce wire. Houses are being painted.

There's a peace on!

The great rise of unions seems to be creating a new kind of economy. No one really knows how this economy will work and how wages and prices in it will behave.—Prof. Sumner H. Slichter of Harvard U.

Streets are crowded, and if you think there's a parking problem in the big cities, try to get around a small South Texas town on a Saturday night.

Near Austin, a regular epidemic of night clubs is noticeable. (Austin isn't South Texas, but you have to get through there, as a rule, to get where you're going.)

Industry is growing. The tire pressure meter company of Harlingen has a brand new plant. They make a gadget you may be seeing on lots of cars some day.

Four little bulbs are neatly arranged on the dashboard of your car. When the air gets low on, say, the left front tire, the left top bulb turns on. The bright red attracts your attention, you stop and get air, and maybe save yourself a lot of trouble, including sudden death.

Service stations are still understaffed. Many have just one attendant, and he's so busy you get your own water or boll.

Homes are going up everywhere, and new subdivisions are numerous. Business houses dot the main streets—new ones, we mean.

Farmers are repairing fences, somehow getting war-scarce wire. Houses are being painted.

There's a peace on!

W.A. Elects New Officers Monday

Officers were elected for the Y. W. A. of the First Baptist church at an organizational meeting of that group at the home of Mrs. Homer Doggett, Monday.

Selected to head the new group was Miss Betty Mosley, who will serve as president with Miss Betty Prigmore, vice-president; Miss Betty Greene, secretary treasurer; Miss Edith Mae Morrow, assistant secretary.

Miss Anna Allen, program chairman, with Misses Mildred McClelland, Ramona Matheny and Kathryn Rose, on the program committee; and Miss Billie Marie Money, reporter and social chairman.

Refreshments of punch and cake were served to Misses: Ramona Matheny, Margie Nuekols, Mildred McClelland, Edith Mae Morrow, Donn Holden, Kathryn Crowley, Pat Thornhill, Betty Jean Mosley, Anna Allen, Betty Jean Prigmore, Rebs Joyce Bain, Sarah Beth Bradshaw, Billie Marie Money, Janice Doggett; the sponsors, Miss Inez French and Mrs. Jack Morris.

The meetings are planned for the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at 7 o'clock. The next meeting will be in the home of Miss Betty Prigmore, 333 E. Francis on Tuesday March 12.

Both the color and taste of beets make them popular in winter meals. The modern way of cooking: Pare the raw beets; then, if small, cook them whole or slice them or cube them. Use just enough boiling salted water to be absorbed in the cooking and cook quickly until tender. More vitamins are retained.

Beets With Herb Sauce
Half dozen small beets, 2 tablespoons fortified margarine, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 tablespoon minced onion, dash thyme and tarragon.

Wash, pare, slice the beets. Add margarine, salt and boiling water

GEORGE BANNERMAN DEALEY

When George Bannerman Dealey was 11 years old, he and his parents turned their eyes toward the land of promise—America. This English lad first stood on American soil when the boat docked at Galveston. That marked the beginning of one of America's most colorful newspaper careers.

He was office boy, traveling agent, staff correspondent at Waco, Houston and finally went to Dallas, where he helped establish The Dallas Morning News. This happened in the eventful years of 1882-1885.

He closed 71 years of journalism Tuesday when he died at Dallas, his home—71 years with the same organization, The Dallas Morning News.

G. B. Dealey was more than a Texas newspaperman. For the saga of great newspapermen invariably spreads to all the corners of this news-conscious nation.

Mr. Dealey is an example of the "champion of the right" for not once was he ever known to have taken advantage of his power as the head of an organ that could have been used to promote the wrong, just as he promoted what he thought honestly to be the right.

The things Mr. Dealey instigated for the betterment of Dallas and the state and the nation are too numerous to mention here, but when he died there was a vacant space where he stood in the community and the nation.

It is said that his first job paid him $3 a week—as an office boy. He was the publisher when he died. This, we think, is the epitome of Americanism. It is the spirit of a free land; and we can but look upon it today with no small degree of nostalgia. Unfortunately it is not the same today—as much as we might like it to be.

We see the passing of not only a great figure in journalism, but a great man. Though dead, his life is living proof of the theory that a man can rise from pumping the church pipe organ to the position where he could speak out for the right in a virile voice . . . a clarion call of free men.

Bills The Federated Council Of Churches Is Advocating

Very few laymen of the 24 Protestant churches that belong to the Federated Council of Churches of Christ of America know what their churches are supporting in the line of socialistic anti-Christian legislation.

The Federated Council of Churches of Christ of America profess to represent 24 million church members. They use this power to influence legislation that the leadership of the Council want passed. Most members of Protestant churches as individuals would be staunchly opposed to the laws the Federation is attempting to have passed.

The Christian Century of January 30 gives the federal bills that the Federated Council is endorsing. According to James Myers, Industrial Secretary of the Council, there are five of these bills being supported. Mr. Myers says the Council has gone on record as favoring extension of old age and survivors insurance to agricultural workers, domestic servants, employees of non-profit organizations and the self-employed. It favors a sound plan of public health and disability insurance.

Who in the world doesn't favor a sound plan of public health and disability insurance? But it can't be sound if it is compulsory—if the state compels people to insure themselves. For the state to compel people to insure themselves is a form of a collectivist state. It is nonsense for the Federated Council of Churches to profess to be Christian and advocate the state using force to make people do what the heads of the Federation think they ought to do.

Mr. Myers goes on in this article and says the Council is for the inclusion of the churches in a federal social security plan offering protection to their lay employees. Again they are advocating force instead of voluntary persuasion.

The Federation supports the increase in minimum wage from 40c to 65c with a further increase to 75c after two years.

If there was ever a discriminatory law it is a minimum wage law that makes it almost impossible for the young and the old and inefficient to get a job when there are minimum wages. How can any man profess to be Christian when he advocates a law that puts the slow and inefficient at a disadvantage against the efficient. The employer if he is obliged to pay a fixed wage will always select the men that can and will do the most for this minimum wage. The slow and inefficient are out. They must be subjects of charity or state aid. They thus lose the right to use their talents. It is nonsense and a delusion to profess to be Christian and advocate a law that works a hardship against the improvident, as a minimum wage law certainly will.

The article goes on to say "At the present moment the industrial department of the council is most anxious for church support of the Pepper-Hook bill (S. 1349 and H. R. 3014) increasing the minimum wage to 65 cents an hour. It calls the present minimum of 40 cents a 16 for a 40-hour week—wholly inadequate under our present standards of living and a denial of the Federal Council's standard of a living wage as a minimum in every industry."

It is a nice miracle, a nice dream, a nice utopia, a pure nonsense to think that the standard of living of the unfortunate can be raised by passing a law that would pay them a

FEEDING A WORLD (The Daily Oklahoman)

Evidently more difficulties are involved in feeding the world's hungry than the difficulties of collecting the food and conveying it long distances to the areas of starvation. There is an added difficulty of supplying the kind of food that will suit the stomachs and taste of the recipients.

In certain countries it has been discovered that even starving people do not eat what is available. In the case of Greece, for example, the food that has been given to starving Greeks was later found in the black markets in Athens. The starving people might eat rats and dogs but they simply would not eat the canned meat that came in from America.

In certain sections of the world rice eaters will not eat wheat products. In other sections wheat eaters will not eat rice. And in both areas the people have shown a complete ignorance of how the rice should be prepared for consumption. In addition to bringing in the food the relief dispensers had to show the people how to cook it.

In some countries (particularly British India) food dispensers have collided head on with an uncounted number of religious scruples and prejudices. The food supplied to the natives has been pronounced sacramentally unclean and therefore destructive to the soul. Cargoes of pork will not be received by certain religiousists.

COURAGE, AT LEAST, IN THE HOUSE (The New York Sun)

Passage of the Case bill in the House by a roll-call vote of 255 to 155 was a chief meaning from the willingness of members of the House who must face the voters within the year to stand up and be counted. This bill has patent defects, but it does represent the determination of a majority of Republican members of the House and of almost half the Democratic majority to attempt to find a formula for industrial peace.

The bill could be sent to the Senate by snail-mail, for all the effect on its fate. The Senate Committee on Education and Labor, to which it will be referred, is the barying ground for all bills of this description. Sound arguments must be made against legislation in haste or in emotion, but those who raise them in the Senate are not likely to be wholly sincere. Arrival of the Case bill in the Senate might be the signal for a fresh examination of the whole problem, including consideration of the basic defects of the Wagner Act and the superfluity of the Smith-Connelly Act.

certain amount, whether they produce it or not.

It is too bad that the laymen of the Protestant churches belonging to the Federation do not realize what their denomination by belonging to the council is doing to the American Christian way of life. They are in reality advocating a system of the very antithesis of the Christian way.

The columns of this paper are open, of course, to anyone to refute the above conditions. They must, of course, be willing to answer questions without contradicting themselves.

LID—Powerful influences within the federal reserve system have launched a movement to make "Regulation W" a permanent control over consumer credit instead of a wartime device invoked to prevent disastrous inflation during the crisis. The proposal has been fought bitterly by retail interests, by labor unions and by representatives of returning veterans. It is one of President Truman's newest headaches.

Regulation W requires a down payment of one-third on any purchase and the amortization of the total bill within twelve or eighteen months. It also provides that all other bills must be paid within two months under penalty of losing the advantage of a charge account.

It has been almost impossible to enforce this restriction, and it is frequently winked at by even the best merchants. But the lid has been kept on so far as buying of substantial commodities is concerned.

It will play a greater part in our economy as soon as automobiles, refrigerators, radios and household furnishings are produced in volume.

BENEFICIARIES—Some federal reservists insist that the nation will face serious inflation unless this form of control is maintained. They point to pent-up savings totaling $145,000,000,000, and argue that they need a barrier to prevent all this money from swamping the retail market.

They also warn of the problem of the returning veterans who want to set up homes immediately on the money they have saved and the prospect of peacetime jobs. If they are allowed to spend their cash on easy terms, once Regulation W is rescinded, it is contended that they will indulge in buying orgies.

According to this viewpoint, they will go heavily into debt and eventually lose the articles they have acquired. Under this alarmist theory the only beneficiaries will be the hock shops, the secondhand merchants and the money lenders.

PAYMENT—Anti-Regulation Wers, however, reply that permanent imposition of strict control over credit will benefit those who have profited from the war at the expense of demobilized soldiers and low-paid workers.

They have produced statistics to prove the boarded $146,000,000,000 is held by people in the higher brackets—at least above the $5,000 class—and that the supposed rainy day money is not rattling around in the pockets of the "little fellows."

A veteran, they insist, cannot establish a household if he must make a down payment of one-third and clean up the balance within the short time allowed under Regulation W. Assuming that furnishing his house requires a total expenditure of $1,500, he will be forced to put up cash of $500 and pay off the remaining obligation at the rate of $80 or $50 a month, depending on whether he signs up for twelve or eighteen months.

Few ex-soldiers, despite their savings and their discharge bonuses, can afford such a heavy outlay, in the opinion of their spokesmen at Washington. If necessary, they say that they will sponsor legislation designed to ease their chances of getting a new start in life.

CREDIT—Labor union spokesmen are even more clamorous in demanding relaxation of federal control of credit. They insist that their private surveys refute the general belief that their people have been able to set aside large sums of money because of their high wartime wages.

The average workman, according to their charts, had a backlog of bills at the time his wages hit the upgrade after the fall of France in June of 1940, when the United States was transformed from an economically depressed nation into a prosperous "arsenal of democracy." They owed money for food, shelter, clothing, doctors' care, etc. They spent their extra earnings on getting square with their creditors and keeping just one jump ahead of the sheriff.

As proof of this contention, they cite that the hat had to be passed among friends to support striking steel and General Motors workers during their walkout. They had no surplus even for bare existence, according to this argument.

SOLUTION—Some of President Truman's closest advisers have come up with what they regard the perfect political solution to the problem that Harold L. Ickes' abrupt resignation dropped on the White House doorstep. They propose the transfer of Henry A. Wallace from the com-

MACKENZIE'S Column

AP World Traveler

FRANKFURT, Germany, Feb. 28—It would be easy for the traveler in Germany to lose his perspective of the Reich's true position, because the terrific devastation wrought in cities across the whole face of the land by Allied bombing tends to obscure everything else.

It's hard to believe that this unprecedented devastation isn't a mortal blow.

But this destruction isn't a mortal blow, although it may be called the knockout blow. It isn't even the paramount problem of rehabilitation.

More important than plucking chairs and bay windows is food. And that is the number one problem in Germany at the moment.

Interlocked with the food, of course, are transport and fuel. It takes transport to distribute the food, and coal to run the transport, as well as to provide fuel for the use of the campers out.

The American military government in this zone, and the other three Allied occupation authorities, are having to proceed with rehabilitation on the basis of top priorities. Reconstruction of Germany's ruined cities is not the top priority. And it must wait.

When reconstruction becomes possible, it will take years to rebuild any of the destroyed cities.

This column has reported that experts estimate it will require as long as 30 years to clear the rubble in places like Berlin and Essen. For a long time to come thousands upon thousands of city folk will be saved dwellers. Can the Germans take it?

The answer is, I believe, that they can if they have sufficient food and warmth. They have the guts, and are displaying the determination to carry it through.

Yesterday I saw an aged man and woman who must have been 75 working side by side, one driving the team and the other guiding the plough. That ancient pair is typical of German resolution. However, we must overlook that these folk are employing stored energy.

Perhaps the outcome will depend on how long this stored energy lasts. There are lean years ahead for Germany, and the immediate future is precarious. Next winter may be even worse than this in the matter of food, the coming summer's crop won't be up to par.

There is a scarcity of food in all zones. There still is danger. Tuberculosis is increasing and there are threats of epidemics in some parts of the country. However, the basic work of rehabilitation is getting ahead. Importation of foodstuffs may solve the other pressing need.

The first steamship to cross the Atlantic was the Rising Sun, which made the voyage in 1818.

Peter Edson's Column:

ISSUE IS NOW CONTROLS OR NO CONTROLS

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, (NEA)—Experience in the six months since V-J Day proves that too many wartime controls have been removed too fast, says Chester Bowles in making the opening arguments for renewal of Stabilization and Price Controls for a year beyond June 30. Too rapid removal of controls, says Bowles, will lead only to inflation. He therefore recommends playing it safe on inflation.

"Too many people are betting on inflation," he says. "There's too much loose talk to the effect that inflation is inevitable or that it is already here. Actually," he says, "it is only in the uncontrolled areas, such as the stock market, real estate where there is any runaway inflation."

On the other hand, National Association of Manufacturers and the other business groups leading the fight to kill off OPA, maintain that price controls hamper production and therefore encourage inflation through continuing scarcity of much-needed goods. In trying to build up their case, these pressure groups maintain that business is in a straitjacket, bound, gagged and helpless to get relief.

CONGRESS MUST DECIDE THE ISSUE

These two exactly opposite points of view state the issue which congress now has to decide, so a little background information may be in order.

In the six months since V-J Day, price controls have been completely removed from nearly 1000 items and price increases have been authorized on 9000 more.

In the building materials industry, which has been putting up one of the hardest fights to have all price ceilings removed, increases have been granted on 36 major items. The list includes southern pine, western hardwood shingles, northern hardwoods, brick, tile, cement, ready-mixed concrete, gypsum, plaster, vitrified clay pipe. Other increases are coming, for the sole purpose of encouraging production.

Any industry can get price increases authorized for its products at any time the industry can prove that to deny an increase would cause it a hardship or cause it to make less money than it did in the 1936-39 base period.

In the case of the steel industry, which has just been granted a price increase to cover wage increases, it will be possible for the industry to appeal to OPA for further price increases whenever the present prices do not seem to assure it of prepar profits.

QUICKER PRICE RELIEF IN SIGHT

Under the old stabilization policy, an industry had to wait six months after a wage increase had been authorized before asking for increased prices. The idea was that this "cooling-off period" would enable the industry to try to absorb the wage increases without decreasing its profits. Under the new wage-price policy which Mr. Bowles had just been called up to administer, this six-months' waiting period is done away with. Quicker relief is in sight. This is the policy governing an entire industry. In the case of indi-

Well, I don't know whether it's the Ingrid Bergman influence or not, but all the lady dentists who attended a convention in Chicago seem to be approaching dentistry from the psychological viewpoint rather than the actual business of chipping at teeth.

For instance, the lady dentists all agreed that you should definitely not tell your child that the dentist won't hurt him, because Junior will soon find out differently, and then he'll be as mad at you as he is at the dentist.

The lady dentists claim it hurts them as much as it hurts the youngster when he comes wailing in, expecting a pleasant, painless afternoon, and then gets his little brain knocked out.

Therefore, mothers, be sure to tell your lot that the nice dentist will positively hurt him, and then Junior won't hate you after he leaves the dentist's office. He'll hate you before he goes.

What your RED CROSS Chapter does in PAMPA

YOU KNOW what the Red Cross has done overseas in World War II. The World knows it. Another glorious page in the history of your Red Cross is being written.

Each of the 3,754 chapters in the nationwide Red Cross network . . . just as our local chapter . . . did its full share to make possible all the help and comfort given our fighting men. But that is only half the story. Here is what your Red Cross chapter is doing now and will be doing for years to come.

Home Nursing. The Red Cross teaches the fundamentals of home nursing to many citizens. They learn how to care for illnesses under the doctor's direction.

Junior Red Cross. Boys and girls learn first aid, accident prevention, safety, nutrition, and home nursing in order to become citizens of tomorrow.

Volunteer Special Services. Your neighbor next door is probably a member of one of the many Red Cross Volunteer Corps. She may sew for our hospitalized men; she may drive for the Motor Corps; she may be a Nurse's Aide or a Gray Lady. Perhaps she's a Staff Assistant, or a Home Service worker . . . but whatever she does . . . her time and effort help stretch the Red Cross dollar.

Disaster Relief. In this country last year the Red Cross gave relief in 260 disasters. Our chapter has a disaster committee set up and ready to act at the initial warning of catastrophe . . . to provide emergency shelter, food, clothing, and medical care for the victims. And after the first shock has worn away comes the long job of rehabilitation.

Home Service. The Home Service worker is a home town troubleshooter for the serviceman and his family. Our chapter has Home Service workers available for 24-hour duty . . . trained people equipped to act in emergencies. The Red Cross two-way communications system reaches around the world, so that in a sense the serviceman is no further from his family than our chapter.

First Aid. A crash on the highway, a slashed wrist, severe shock without proper attention, all can produce serious results. Our chapter in cooperation with individuals and organizations maintains mobile first aid units and highway first aid stations manned by trained first aiders. First aid, water safety, and accident prevention classes are conducted throughout the country.

THINK of the thousands who look to our Red Cross for aid and comfort in lonely hours of desperate need. Think what its many services and safeguards can mean to our town . . . to you, and your loved ones. Then remember that our voluntary services, backed by your contributions, make it possible for Red Cross to carry on in our community. Your individual gifts are its only source of income. Without you and your neighbors, there would be no Red Cross. Give to the Red Cross today.

WHAT, WHY AND HOW OF INCOME TAX EXPLAINED

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Husbands and wives ask: "Do we save money by filing separate or joint tax returns?"
There's no one simple answer. A joint return may save for one couple by giving them full benefit of exemptions. It may cost another couple money by boosting them into a higher surtax bracket. But remember:

Where husband and wife can file jointly on Form W-2, the withholding receipt, do so. You'll save time and effort.
Treasury experts say that where a wife has income less than $500 and she and her husband are going to file on Form 1040—they'll save money by making a joint return.
Husbands and wives—if their combined income was less than $5,000—can file jointly on Form W-2, or the 1040 short or long-form.
If their combined income was $5,000 or over but individually less than $5,000, they can file separately on Form W-2 or the 1040 short-form or jointly on the 1040 long-form.
If they file jointly on Form W-2 or the 1040 short form, they are allowed one deduction of about 10 per cent, but it is 10 per cent of their combined income.
If they file separately on the 1040 long-form, with the income of each $5,000 or over, each is allowed a

Balkans Given Help by Plane

In a small clearing near Grevena, Greece, ragged villagers shivered in the cold wind, anxiously watching the sky. Finally a Wellington bomber appeared, then roared low over their heads. From its bomb bays came not death and destruction but warm, new clothing from the American Red Cross.

During the war more than 50,000 garments were dropped by bombers to isolated villages in the Balkans. In other regions transportation difficulties compelled deliveries by ox cart. Thus, by old methods and new, more than 36,000,000 garments were distributed to civilians overseas.

More than $22,000,000 worth of textiles purchased with government funds were made into garments by 2,200,000 volunteers in the 3,754 Red Cross chapters in this country. Their production included: 6,000,000 sweaters; 1,000,000 pair of socks; 750,000 lavettes; for women and girls, 1,500,000 dresses, 2,600,000 skirts, and 1,500,000 blouses. Other items were mufflers, mittens, afghans, toddler packs, operating gowns, nightgowns, and pajamas.

Program Began in 1939
Distribution of these garments and other supplies overseas has been organized and supervised by American Red Cross civilian relief workers in cooperation with the military.

A foreign war relief program began in September, 1939. Since that time the major events of the war provide an excellent outline of American civilian relief operations in which distribution of chapter-produced clothing played a major role—aid to the Low Countries and France; to Greece and Yugoslavia; to Finland in 1939; to China; relief, including 7,000,000 garments to the bombed-out civilians in Britain; medical aid and 3,500,000 garments to Russia; garments to refugees throughout the Middle East; assistance in Africa, Italy, Sicily, Western Europe, Norway, Finland, Poland, the Marianas, and the Philippines.

Asked To Continue
Many of the countries in which the American Red Cross had been operating asked it to continue its supplementary emergency program. The Red Cross does not attempt to meet all the basic needs of any community or country. It tries to do the best it can within the limits of its budget.

Operations this winter continued in France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Austria, Finland, Norway, USSR, Italy, Albania, Greece, Yugoslavia, Poland and China. Supplies valued at approximately $33,500,000 formed the bulk of supplies; hospital and medical supplies accounted for $9,000,000; the balance consisted of food, soap, and automotive equipment.

A New York printer, John Wesley Hyatt, developed celluloid while looking for a substitute for ivory, then used in the manufacture of billiard balls.

Standard deduction of $500.
If they file jointly on the long-form, they are allowed one standard $500 deduction, not a $500 deduction for each.
Husbands and wives using the 1040 short-form jointly should note the little box on Page 4 under the table. It tells them to take 3 per cent of the lower income—but not more than $15—and deduct it from the joint tax found in the table.
There are two kinds of taxes on your income: A-normal tax of 3 per cent on all incomes, high or low; and a surtax starting at 20 per cent on incomes up to $2,000 and rising by brackets to 91 per cent on the highest.

There are also two kinds of exemptions: A-normal tax exemption and a surtax exemption. You subtract the normal exemption from your income before you apply the normal tax to the income; you subtract the surtax exemption from your income before you apply the surtax.
You always get a $500 normal exemption and a $500 surtax exemption for yourself.
You never get a normal exemption for a dependent but you always get a surtax exemption of $500 for each dependent. (A wife is not considered a dependent.)

Local Chapter Is Organized For Disasters

The Pampa chapter of the American Red Cross has been organized to assume its responsibility for the relief of people suffering from disastrous fire, extensive train wrecks, etc.

This organization is made up of following committees and chairmen: Joe Gordon, survey committee; H. M. Cone, rescue; Dr. C. E. High, medical aid; Rev. E. B. Bowen, shelter; Verl Hagaman, food and clothing; Frank Culbertson, transportation and communication; Mrs. L. K. Stout, registration and information; Huelyn Laycock, central purchasing; L. G. Langston, public information. The organization has recently been brought up to date and put in written form by Ed Wells, Pampa chapter disaster chairman.

The keynotes published by the American Red Cross midwestern area office, St. Louis, Mo., had this to say about Pampa's disaster plan: "Convenience is the outstanding feature which makes the new disaster plan edited by the Pampa chapter a model for all chapters. On its front cover are names, addresses, and phone numbers of all committee members and of the police and fire departments. . . in case of a disaster, all one has to do to find out what buildings are to be used as emergency shelters is to look along the indexed tabs of the copy, to the one marked "sub-committee on shelter." . . wording is concise and restricted to simple instructions."

Massive sea walls now protect Galveston, Texas, from a recurrence of the 1900 hurricane's tidal wave.

Unsung Heroines
Added to the lengthening list of unsung heroines of global war are 4,790 nurses who served the ill and injured of 226 Red Cross disaster relief operations on the home front during the war years. For the most part ineligible for military service, they came from all corners of the country. Some were grandmothers; some left their families temporarily to travel far in the desperate nurse shortage. Without fanfare all gave sure and efficient care to thousands of disaster sufferers.

The United States contains one and one half million square miles favorable for the accumulation of oil, only half of which has been explored.

3,500 Slippers Sent To Utah in 48 Hours

It took a lot of telephoning; it took a lot of figuring; it took a lot of work; but when a request came in to "ship 3500 slippers and hurry" it was answered immediately, according to American Red Cross workers at Fort Douglas, Utah.

The request from the army personnel center dispensary was for 3500 washable bedroom slippers. That was Monday, Wednesday, 48 hours later, the goods were delivered and the bulk had to come from the Los Angeles (Calif.) Chapter, 700 miles away.

The attorney-general was not a member of the President's cabinet until 1814.

The local Red Cross chapter was organized and received its charter in January 1918. However, work was started during 1917 sometime after the declaration of war. The first war fund chairman was C. P. Buckler, and under his direction $4,712.02 was raised as a part of the national effort to raise $100,000,000. Pampa chapter has continued to play an important part in the activities of Pampa to the present date.

Mrs. J. B. White has served as executive secretary of Pampa chapter since March 1940. Mrs. Betty Hastings has served as home service secretary since March 1945. Miss Billene Moseley has served as office secretary since November 1935. Other assistance in the office is provided by volunteers. The following workers are volunteering their service at the present time: Mesdames L. K. Stout, Joyce Hickman, Carl J. Wright, Frank Culbertson, J. B. Massa, Knox Kinard, Bob Sanford, and Clyde Blackwell.

Market Briets

WALL STREET
NEW YORK, Feb. 27—(AP)—A comeback was negotiated by the stock market today with steel, rubbers, motors, metals and chemicals achieving advances. Dealings divided sharply after an active opening, and leaders receded somewhat from their best levels. Total transfers in the neighborhood of 1,500,000 shares compared with yesterday's 2,650,000.

Near the close, a number of leading issues held gains of 1 to 3 points. Few scattered losers reflected the thinness and sensitivity of the market.

Brokers reported some buying based on the theory that the list was at least temporarily oversold after the sharp downturns, while customers who cashed profits were tempted by more attractive prices to reinstate their accounts. Favorable dividend actions provided a further impetus. American Power & Light preferreds as much as 4 points climbed on declaration of the first dividend since 1942.

Leaders on the uptick included American Telephone, Union Carbide, Dupont, E. Steel, Pillsbury, Chrysler, B. F. Goodrich, Goodyear, American Smelting, Kennecott, Caterpillar Tractor, International Harvester, Southern Railway, General Electric, Eastman Kodak and John-Manville. After touching a new low Philip Morris rebounded on announcement its January sales were the largest in its history.

Bonds showed some improvement.

Busy Nurses
During a recent 15-month period public health nurses from 189 Red Cross chapters gave maternity and bedside care, taught home nursing classes, and acted in some instances as school nurses. Approximately 654,000 visits were made in handling 179,000 cases. In addition, 33 nurses on duty in the camp community emergency nursing service made 102,000 visits giving care in approximately 28,000 cases.

Author Turns Over Proceeds of Story

Cattle in South Africa became a source of Red Cross funds recently when O. Quinton Smith, a young rancher in Kinton, Val. Transvaal, submitted an article on cattle raising to a livestock journal. With the manuscript went instructions: "Turn any remuneration for the article over to the American Red Cross. I should like to show the appreciation of myself and others for the great part the Red Cross and the United States have played in this dreadful war."

Soon afterward the editor sent a check for $25 to the local chapter.

BIG TIME
When American Red Cross club workers in Chengtu, China, wanted to run a dance for U. S. servicemen, they had difficulty rounding up dance partners, finally obtained permission to have Chinese girls from the nearest city, 200 miles away, flown in to the base.

Red Cross Assists 991 Jews From Dachau Into Palestine

Out of Buchenwald, and Dachau, Belgium and Switzerland, 991 Jewish men, women, and children converged this fall at Toulon, France, to embark for Haifa, Palestine. This was one of the last large scale movements under the White Paper by which the British established immigration quotas for the past five years.

Arrangements for the trip were handled by the Jewish agency for Palestine and by Miss Cordelia Trimble, American Red Cross civilian relief worker who was in charge of the group for their passage on the British ship "S.S. Mataoka."

Most of the travelers were young; about one fourth between 17 and 21, stated for education and vocational training in colonies under the Youth Aliya (immigration) plan. 228 boys and girls 16 years old or younger, many of whom had spent the major part of their childhood in concentration camps; one baby boy born an hour after the ship started.

Their determination to get to Palestine was strong. The mother of the new baby endured hours of standing and of jolting by truck because she was afraid if she admitted she expected the child so soon she might be refused passage. An 84-year-old Rabbi walked almost five miles at one stage of his journey from Switzerland to catch up with his companions because religious customs forbade his traveling by vehicle on the Sabbath.

Crowded berths

But the five-day trip was hard. Only 110 were berthed in dormitories, which contained bunks; over 300 slept in hammocks and the rest in staterooms; all were quartered in the aft part of the ship on the lower decks except for the elderly people who could not climb ladders to the holds. British soldiers on orders were barked forward.

Only people who came from the deprivations of a concentration camp would have kept all their boxes and satchels in their sleeping quarters instead of putting everything except hand luggage in the hold. Only such a group would have found it impossible to believe that the same amount of food would be served tomorrow as was served today and hence thought it necessary to save pieces of bread and fish and butter from each mess for future consumption.

The group's desire for white bread was almost insatiable. Everybody received one fourth of a freshly baked loaf per meal. Children under three received milk every day and the babies' formulas were prepared in the ship's galley under the direction of two of the refugees who assumed this job throughout the trip.

Shower Appeal

Everyone took such delight in the showers and the possibility of washing their clothes as often as they desired that the washrooms were constantly crowded, scarcely ever empty enough to clean.

The doctors in the group made discoveries, too. The ship's senior medical officer showed them how to use the sulfa drug, for example, and brought them up to date on other medical discoveries they had missed in the isolation of Dachau. One of the doctors was chosen as chief; he and the other doctors, as well as the nurses on board, volunteered their services for daily sick parade and hospital visits.

For the endless and laborious task of cleaning up, group leaders were chosen, and all who felt the urge helped. Information given on the public address system, went in at least seven languages, for few spoke less than three, many used six or eight languages.

It was the Sabbath when the ship docked at Haifa. The Chief Rabbi of Jerusalem gave special permission for the Orthodox to disembark. After sunset the group was taken to a clearance camp whence they would leave within a day or two for their new homes. As the refugees walked down the ship's ramp, one of the young boys stopped the chief officer. "Sir, please let me stay for a while and help clean up," he begged. "We don't want the officers to be left with such a dirty ship."

The chief officer explained that it was all right; he knew such crowded conditions made it impossible to keep to troop ship standards. The boy wasn't satisfied. "The people are tired, you know, after so many years in concentration camps. This mustn't prevent others from coming. So many, many of us want to get away from all memories of Germany."

Fund Provides Seeds For Patients' Garden

The best dam builders in any U. S. military hospital is what convalescent patients at the Army and Navy General Hospital, Hot Springs, Ark., call themselves. And they point to an 80-foot dam they built to irrigate their victory gardens.

The local camp and hospital council of the American Red Cross provided seeds, plants, fertilizers, and plant foods for the victory garden project. Farmers loaned mules, tools and farm implements. Patients, mostly those being treated for polio and arthritis, were the gardeners. But when the gardens didn't grow for lack of moisture a patient suggested damming a creek that meandered through the 2½-acre garden plot.

When the local camp and hospital council heard the request of one of the gardeners for materials, the community got busy. Lumber companies donated the necessary planks for pilings. Construction equipment was loaned. Dealers gave cement and offered to help pour and set the piling. With the dam finished the gardens grew.

Ready Several hundred Red Cross chapters the country over now are engaged in the forest fire prevention program undertaken during 1945 at request of the U.S. Forest Service. Extensive studies of disaster hazards are being made by the Red Cross to provide communities with practicable disaster prevention help.

ARC Sets Up New Service For Veterans

Hospital statisticians, their eyes cocked at charts, are watching the flow of millions of World War II servicemen and women back to civilian life with these facts in mind—

1. There were 3,000,000 admissions to veterans' hospitals following World War I.
2. The nation mobilized four times as many men and women in World War II as in World War I.

The veterans administration was planning expansions before Pearl Harbor, to care for a peak load of World War I veterans in 1949. Then came Pearl Harbor. As the nation poured men and funds into World War II, hospital figures were revised upward.

That is why Red Cross has set up a department called Services in Veterans' Hospitals.

The Red Cross has always striven to aid the veteran. When peace came, the need for Red Cross expansion in veterans' hospitals became evident from the following:

Forecasts indicated more than 300,000 beds would be needed in the next few years, as compared to the present 95,000 available and construction under way for 15,000 more.

Red Cross, with its 28-year record of meeting needs of the disabled veteran, moved promptly to keep pace with the expanding government hospital program.

The new service was inaugurated by agreement with the veterans administration. At present Red Cross is busy staffing hospitals with paid full-time field directors whose duty will be to plan and coordinate activities of Red Cross volunteers. Through their efforts the work of thousands of Gray Ladies, arts and skills instructors, and other workers will be welded into one all-embracing, continuing hospital program.

During the war Red Cross workers were familiar and welcome sights in service hospitals. World War II men and women learned to rely on them. As veterans they expect to find the Red Cross continuing to fulfill their needs.

War End Adds New Duties To Red Cross

Services to occupation forces, services to the thousands of hospitalized soldiers and sailors, and services to veterans—the three continuing battle fronts of the American Red Cross—were not diminished but highlighted and intensified by VE Day and VJ Day, symbols of war's end for the nation.

In the years 1941 to 1945 American Red Cross services to the armed forces became the most extensive operation of its kind in the history of the organization. At the close of hostilities it had nearly 9,500 workers overseas engaged in welfare, hospital, club, and canteen work, besides more than 9,000 in the United States. The Red Cross was operating 820 clubs and rest homes, with no immediate letup in the need for them in sight.

After cessation of hostilities in Europe the need for Red Cross continuance there became abundantly clear. And in the Pacific the recreation problem for American forces is even greater than that in Europe. Few islands offer anything in the way of amusement, American style.

Serve in Hospitals

At home, recreation and welfare services are being continued for able-bodied men in camps and naval bases and for the thousands of hospitalized, large numbers of whom will need Red Cross attention for months. Families of these men will find their Red Cross chapters sources of help in solving financial problems and meeting emergency situations. Chapters will be continuing centers of information, consultation, and guidance in readjustment problems.

Red Cross work with veterans is expected to show a sharp rise during the next five or six years as millions of men are discharged from the armed forces.

At field stations and hospitals workers are trained to help veterans prepare applications for pensions and benefits. Field directors at veterans administration offices are in close touch with chapters throughout the country to assist with claims. Chapter aid, both financial and advisory, is available to veterans and dependents. Help and advice is being offered to the thousands of foreign war brides of American servicemen.

Postwar Services

The Red Cross, never exclusively a war agency, will have increased postwar usefulness in its regular services such as disaster relief, first aid—which is being called for more and more by industrial plants and workers—water safety, and accident prevention.

And as the result of wartime developments in the collection of blood donations Red Cross chapters may, at the request of recognized medical agencies, use the experience gained during the war to recruit blood donors for civilian needs. All blood and blood derivatives in such local programs will be made available to patients without charge.

At Home

The Red Cross college unit at the University of Southern California is the only one in the country having its own building—a five-room house donated to the unit for offices and workrooms.

Stricken Areas Receive $150,000,000 Relief

The American Red Cross has provided civilian relief consisting of food, clothing, medical supplies, and other items in 48 war-stricken areas since 1939. By the end of the war, goods and services valued at nearly $150,000,000 had been made available by and through the American Red Cross in cooperation with the government and various relief agencies.

Many have asked the Red Cross to continue its supplementary emergency relief program.

Most men are as lazy as they dare to be.—R. B. Corbett, secretary-treasurer American Farm Bureau Federation.

The Grin That Won a War...

DON'T LET HIM LOSE IT NOW!

He went into battle with a grin and a wisecrack... he took everything the enemy could throw at him and suffered in silence when wounded. The Red Cross helped him keep that spirit then... it will see that he keeps it now he's a civilian once again. If he returns disabled, the Red Cross will help him file a claim, will give him temporary financial assistance until his benefits start coming

It's mighty tough to lie in a hospital cot with nothing to do. The Red Cross will provide entertainment and recreation for him... will do the same for the boys who face loneliness and boredom overseas. Yes, he still needs you. You and your Red Cross. You won't let him down, will you?

Red Cross Goes To School Again

The American Red Cross has gone to College.

I went to college first, to the extent of setting up units on the campus—to form a constructive outlet for the energies and ideas of students who wanted to make a contribution to the war effort. Now that the war is over, college units will continue to give students an opportunity to participate in Red Cross peacetime community services.

Each unit is part of a local Red Cross chapter, and reports indicate that in many cases new life and vigor have been given chapter activities by the addition of student ideas and talent. Educators have recognized these groups as a means of developing participation in constructive social activity and community leadership.

Serve As Nurse's Aides

College unit members carry on activities in every field of Red Cross service. They have found interesting jobs as nurse's aides and in canteen work. Those with ability in handicrafts serve with the Red Cross Arts and Skills Corps or as hospital and recreation workers in military hospitals. Camp and hospital council activities also have a wide appeal for them.

Certain Red Cross courses now are accredited as regular parts of the curriculum in a number of colleges and universities. College students help promote Junior Red Cross through practice teaching in grammar schools. And they help in Red Cross fund drives. In the 1945 Red Cross War Fund Campaign college unit members at 10 institutions within one metropolitan district solicited $7,000 from their student bodies.

Her name may be Lamb but she came out like a lion when two men attempted to rob the American Red Cross clubmobile in Shanghai, China.

The heroine is Virginia Jane Lamb, 24-year-old clubmobile worker of Evanston, Ill. She describes the incident in a letter to her father: "At 4 a. m. I heard noises, peeked out the window and discovered that two men had removed the tailgate of our truck."

"We had a lot of valuable movie equipment in addition to Red Cross supplies aboard. I just saw red at the nerve of those boys breaking in right outside our window. So I packed a rifle, which we kept in the room, and stormed out to point blank range at them and demanded to know exactly what they thought they were doing. They stammered something about looking for doughnuts."

Miss Lamb was amazed that she should be given an award for protecting property. But the military whom the truck actually belonged, thought differently. The capture of the two men stopped temporarily at least the looting of supplies in the area.

Anticipating continued expansion of water safety activity, plans are being made for a record enrollment in the Red Cross National Aquatic Schools this year. Nurse's Aides Fill Vital Need In Emergencies

Since July 1941 the American Red Cross has trained 211,536 nurse's aides. Serving in hospitals, clinics, and public health centers during the war when these institutions were carried by 1,303 chapters throughout the country, with 2,339 hospitals cooperating by giving the necessary training.

Nurse's aides have made a place for themselves by doing the dull, routine drudgery of hospital work voluntarily and cheerfully, meeting their pledge for service without faltering. Their record during the war has been highly praised by the medical and nursing professions.

The war experience demonstrated the worth of nurse's aides as a service which the Red Cross deems too valuable to be dropped as long as any need exists. Consequently, national headquarters has made provisions for the Volunteer Nurse's Aide Corps to be divided into active and reserve units.

The active unit will continue under the same regulations as heretofore, with each aide giving at least 150 hours of volunteer service annually. The reserve unit will serve in communities where nursing needs have diminished since the peak of war emergency and will include aides who can give only 50 hours of service annually.

Victims of Polio Win Swimming Certificates

Seventeen handicapped children of Rochester, New York, most of them victims of poliomyelitis, earned Red Cross beginner swimming certificates after a course conducted by Red Cross volunteer instructors in a program sponsored by the city's Elks Club.

The demonstration by these children, who gave an exhibition of their swimming skills at the end of the course, was highly commended by education and health leaders of the city. Similar projects of convalescent swimming among handicapped children are carried on at summer camps. This type of Red Cross activity faces great expansion.

Forgets Cane

A famed soldier found that designing leather objects engaged his enthusiasm so much that he told his Red Cross instructor: "This is the best thing that ever happened to me. I've forgotten I can't walk without a cane, and I go all over this room for the tools I want. I'm really learning to walk."

The opposum measures about one-half inch at birth.

All Treatment And No Play Made Wounded Soldiers Dull

What They Say . . .

JAMES FORRESTAL, The Secretary of the Navy. The end of the war has intensified the need for services rendered by the American Red Cross in its mission of succor and assistance to members of the armed forces, the veterans, and their families.

War's aftermath has made even greater the need for the Red Cross in providing welfare and recreation to the armed forces abroad, and to wounded here. I am sure the American people share my conviction of the importance of this activity and will give the support required so generously that the current goal of the Red Cross will be abundantly fulfilled.

FLEET ADMIRAL C. W. NIMITZ

U. S. Navy. In my capacity as Chief of Naval Operations, I am pleased to have this opportunity to lend every support to the American Red Cross Fund campaign for 1946. I wholeheartedly urge continuing full support of the worthy efforts of the American Red Cross during these critical times of readjustment from war to peace, a period which will directly influence the peace and stability of the future.

GEN. H. H. ARNOLD

Commanding Gen. Army Air Forces. Once again we are granted the privilege of participating in the American Red Cross campaign. Now as during the war we must respond. While the guns of the world have been silenced, our aircraft fly only on missions of mercy and our gallant fighting men are no longer called upon to face an enemy, the American Red Cross still has a gigantic task. It's the care and service to the battle-injured and the sick; the fight against the misfortune and disruption of normal living; and against the loneliness of our military men who guard our peace and security at distant outposts. This is a real responsibility that the American Red Cross knows best how to meet.

As it needed your support to carry on its many contributions during the war, so it needs your support today. We, America, cannot let it down, for then we fall to do our part for the soldier who made today's happiness and peace possible.

BRIGADIER GENERAL BENJAMIN O. DAVIS

(Brig. Gen. Benjamin O. Davis, only Negro General in the U. S. Army and graduate of West Point, is one of the best-known friends of American Red Cross clubs in the European theater. He is now in Washington in the Inspector General's office—Editor's note.) The American Red Cross stands high with the army and with the wildest men. Its directives are fair and without favoritism or discrimination. Whenever any friction has occurred it has been due to workers, both black and white, who were not properly oriented and who failed to keep in mind the mission of the Red Cross.

Because the veteran has formed the habit of looking to the American Red Cross for help in his problems, that organization promises to be of great service now that peace has come.

CLUBS MUSHROOM BESIDE PACIFIC FIGHTING AREAS

In the march of war across the Pacific scores of Red Cross clubs, thrown up many times within the sound of battle, became homes for hundreds of thousands.

Impoverished from the wreckage and salvage of strenuous conflicts on beachheads, in jungles, and up the ash slopes of volcanic isles, these clubs are scattered from Guadalcanal through the Marianas, the Gilberts, the Marshalls, the Philippines, the Ryukyus. Needless to say, they are found in enemy countries where our occupying forces are stationed.

A Red Cross club is something battle-weary men hungered for during the searing days of jungle battle, a thing occupation troops need as much — Home. A place where they could relax, meet friends, luxuriate in pleasant surroundings.

How are these clubs made and of what? Not in the large cities where buildings are generally available, but elsewhere. They are made with the willing help of the men themselves — but of the material potpourri of advancing war — by bamboo sticks and thatched palm of splintered lumber and canvas, of material from wrecked ships, in caves in the shell-carved hills.

If you furnish a place in the war-torn islands you do it with what's around. That problem never stumped the Red Cross.

High empty pools, left along jungle trails as the signal corps tied wire snags into the muscles of war, become tables. Red Cross workers deftly hand-craft the seats with rope, paint the spool-boards, and

Trucks Blow Up In French Town

ASNIERES-EN-BESSIN, France. — A Red Cross disaster worker in the United States for four years, Gladys Guinaw, San Francisco, Calif., recently had her first disaster assignment in Europe when 10 U. S. army trucks loaded with explosives blew up here.

Seven American soldiers, 24 German prisoners of war, and eight French civilians including one child were killed, out of a population numbering only 150 persons. Buildings collapsed, the church was destroyed, and villages were as destitute as though the town had been bombed.

Under the direction of Miss Guinaw, clothing from American Red Cross Civilian Relief was immediately distributed. Articles included woolen sweaters, socks, stockings, trousers and shirts, plus candles for a town left without any electricity. The United States army furnished food and bedding.

Mobile Home Nursing Makes Indiana Debut

Red Cross mobile canteens are a common sight but a mobile home nursing classroom is something new. It happened in Indianapolis. Women in an outlying suburb had been clamoring for home nursing instruction but they couldn't get to town. Help was scarce and transportation difficult, but the need of learning how to care for their sick was great. So the chapter rigged up a mobile classroom and took instruction to the students.

Parked behind a schoolhouse the mobile classroom hooked its power cable to the school plant and set up for business. There was a bed, an electric hot plate, plenty of material for improvising sickroom equipment, and an eager class of P. T. A. members. The result was an enthusiastic graduating class of home nurses.

Alaskans Give Furs During Fund Drive

"Fur" the Red Cross and right off the back of a seal was the $57.35 received by Juneau (Alaska) chapter's fund raising chairman recently. Thirty-eight Alaskan natives were responsible for this exploitation of an animal's ambitions. Eskimos in this region trap for a living, but instead of trading the skin through the usual "channels" for a fur coat, they sold seal outright and turned over the entire amount to the Red Cross.

Man has cultivated the date as a food for 5,000 years.

simple design. Strips of canvas washed up on the beaches become bench coverings under which a cushion-like softness is provided by native grass. Shell cases become lamp standards and the natives' huge trimmed straw hats become shades. Battle-tired GI artists let go with talents translated by ship and house paint, and racy line murals go up on walls. Others experiment with palm-planting, turn out wicker chairs and lounges, and fashion bookcases out of jungle woods.

"Living rooms in the Pacific," one GI called the Red Cross clubs. Living rooms, indeed! Room to realize one is still part of a land remote but longed for.

The Grin that Won a War

DON'T LET HIM LOSE IT NOW!

HE WENT INTO BATTLE with a smile and a wise crack . . . he took everything the enemy could throw at him, and suffered in silence when wounded.

We can't let him lose that spirit now. During the endless months of impatient waiting to come home . . . or the long weeks of convalescing . . . thoughts may weigh heavily on his mind.

We at home helped him keep his chin up. When he's back, proudly wearing the little gold eagle, emblem of an honorable discharge . . . will that grin fade? Will that happy-go-lucky smile change to bitterness? The grin that won a global war can win a private one and the Red Cross is ready to help wherever need for its counsel and guidance exists.

Through the long, grueling years of war the Red Cross reached across the sea and extended a friendly hand to our fighting forces . . . and those returning home can find in every local chapter the same symbol . . . the same spirit of helpfulness.

YOUR Red Cross MUST CARRY ON . . . GIVE!

THE CABOT COMPANIES

"You'll be okay, Soldier!"

HIGH UP on the crowded deck of a hospital ship, a homesick Yank strains his eyes for a sign of home. On the dock below he sees a Red Cross Motor Corps driver. At the sight of her heart-warming smile, he knows she's saying:

"You'll be okay, Soldier!"

He knows, because he's heard other Red Cross girls say those same simple words of cheer. On Luzon. In the hospital. On the dock where he took ship for home. Aboard the hospital ship.

He knows that they are not mere words, for he has seen the helpful service that inspires them. He knows, too, that he can find the same friendly, understanding helpfulness in his home town Red Cross chapter.

And while this girl and her comrades throughout the world represent the Red Cross, in reality you are the Red Cross. She, the Red Cross worker, is still needed. You who make the Red Cross possible also are still needed. Without you there would be no Red Cross.

So let your dollars follow your heart. Give to the Red Cross. Give all you possibly can.

Ex-Prisoner Gives $500 to Red Cross

A young lieutenant walked into the Red Cross office of a Mississippi town. Home on leave after eleven months in a German prison camp, he had dropped by to make a contribution to his Red Cross Chapter. The check was for $500!

oners of war everything possible. To this the lieutenant replied, "What is $500 against a person's life? To me Red Cross meant my life. The only way I would reconsider would be to tear up the check and make it for a larger amount."

Swank Detail
Services to men in veterans' hospitals are important in the program of American Red Cross camp and hospital councils. They are furnishing lounge rooms; building golf courses; supplying beach umbrellas and tables for outdoor patios, pool tables, boxing gloves and tennis equipment, birthday cakes and gifts; arranging picnics and tours of nearby places of interest; and planning entertainments for hospitalized veterans.

Home Nursing. The Red Cross teaches the fundamentals of home nursing to many citizens. Mothers and high school girls learn how to care for simple illnesses, and how to follow the doctor's instructions in preventing serious ones.

Junior Red Cross. From eager first-graders to high school students young volunteers stitch, hammer, and plan for the Red Cross. Many also learn first aid, accident prevention, water safety, nutrition, and home nursing.

Volunteer Special Services. Your neighbor next door or just around the corner is probably a member of one of the many Red Cross Volunteer Corps. She may sew or knit for our hospitalized men; she may drive for the Motor Corps; she may be a Nurse's Aide or a Gray Lady. Perhaps she's a Staff Assistant, or a Home Service worker... but whatever corps she serves... whatever she does... her time and effort help stretch the Red Cross dollar.

Red Cross Efforts Save German Family

KEESSEL, Germany.—"Hello! Was ist das? Dies ist mein Heim!" An indignant head appeared from a deep hole that as detachment of engineers was filling in at this railroad center that had suffered repeated bombings since 1942. A bulldozer was standing by to flatten out the rubble in preparation for building a road to the new American Red Cross club in the only building left standing in the downtown section. Madeline Himes, Nevada City, Calif., ARC club director, who was standing by to supervise the evening of the club, ran to investigate. "Dies ist mein Heim!" the German repeated as he climbed up through the hole. Madeline peered down. There in the dank cellar his wife and three children were huddled around a small stove. It was the only shelter they could find in the destroyed city. Madeline requested the engineers to move their road 30 feet to the side and the road building went on.

Our Home was lost...

But the Red Cross gave it back!

"IT'S SOMETHING we'll never forget . . . the heavy rains . . . the darkness and cold . . . the river rising so rapidly we had to leave our home. "We lost everything in that flood . . . the house . . . our clothes, everything. When you're faced with that, you're desperate. We had no money, nothing. Then—the Red Cross came to help us. "They took over completely. "Clothes . . . food . . . shelter . . . money . . . they provided everything until they could arrange to have our home rebuilt. What They Say . . .

Here's what they said overseas about the American Red Cross:

BOB HOPE

"This war was won by teamwork, and one of the star members of the team was the Red Cross. I saw it on every war front I visited—doing the same great job it has done during every disaster, flood and hurricane that has hit us in years."

JACK HENNY

"I don't have to tell you about the Red Cross. Just ask that returned serviceman you know—your son or brother or the kid next door. He knows how much the Red Cross meant to him and his buddies, and now that peace is here, the Red Cross will return once more to the tasks waiting on the home front."

DINAH SHORE

"I saw the Red Cross at work overseas, and I've heard about its work ever since I got back—in letters from Red Cross workers who have written for wounded boys who couldn't write themselves, and in conversations with returned veterans who have told me how much a Red Cross clubmobile meant when they were lonesome and weary."

AMOS 'N' ANDY

"We were among the first entertainers to hit Germany after our army took over, but the Red Cross was already there and had the situation well in hand. We did most of our shows in hospitals. That's where you find out just how much that wonderful Red Cross treatment means."

CLARK GABLE

"Throughout the entire war the American Red Cross did an outstanding job with our armed forces. Uppermost in the memories of the air forces overseas are the Red Cross and clubmobiles who eternally met the returning missions."

ROBERT MONTGOMERY

"Red Cross workers with the armed forces—both overseas and in this country—have done a magnificent job. Their spirit of cooperation throughout the world has added to the mutual understanding of all nations. Your contribution to the American Red Cross means assistance to your own family in times of disaster, as well as in wartime."

ROBERT P. PATTERSON

For four years the Red Cross did the work of joining millions of homes in cities and villages and farm communities in the United States, with millions of men in camps, on ships at sea, in overseas bases, and on battlefields all over the world. Your family assistance was of a kind that the military establishment, with its chain of command, could not effectively render. Our men will never forget it. In the future we will still need the wholehearted support of the Red Cross. We will not throw away the peace we have won. That means that two million Americans will be still with the colors a year from now, with more than 600,000 overseas. The welfare of these soldiers and sailors and marines is a national responsibility of top priority. Their welfare will not be secure unless the Red Cross is with them wherever they may be, reminding them that the people at home have not forgotten.

GEN. DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, Chief of Staff United States Army. The Red Cross contributed mightily to the successful prosecution of the war. With the peace its services are even more urgently needed to assist in maintaining the highest morale among American troops. Until every American in uniform overseas is home again the Red Cross will be called upon to play a major role in contributing to his comfort and well-being.

GENERAL MARK W. CLARK, Com. Gen. U. S. Forces in Austria. In every war, in every disaster, the victims and sufferers have been able to retain one glowing spark of hope for prompt and effective assistance. That hope has been the American Red Cross. It is a pleasure, therefore to extend my wholehearted endorsement to the American Red Cross, and to its activities. I express the sentiments of all members of the U. S. forces in Austria in stating my sincere trust that the fund campaign, which can insure the continuation of the Red Cross program, will meet with the greatest success.

MAJOR GENERAL B. F. GILES, Com. Gen. Africa-Middle East Theater. Now that the war is finished, and tribute is paid to the All-Allied fighting forces throughout the world, it is only fitting that I pay a special compliment to the American Red Cross in the Africa-Middle East theater for the outstanding successful war in which they have unselfishly served our troops since the beginning of the war. Inconspicuously perhaps, the end of the war means no widespread exodus of Red Cross workers from this theater. They are now faced with a tremendous job of providing entertainment for the soldiers impatiently waiting to go home. Our chief mission to service and supply activities of the air transport command must continue until such services to the Far East are discontinued. Likewise, the field of communications must be maintained to link the occupational forces in Japan with the United States. During this last period of waiting, when every effort is made to demobilize, I have personally requested that the American Red Cross continue to fulfill its responsibility to the American soldiers in the same unselfish way that it served my command during time of war.

Game Chests

More than 8,000 recreation chests filled with games, puzzles, balls, and books have been supplied by community groups all over the country working through American Red Cross camp and hospital councils. These chests have been shipped to all overseas theaters for distribution by Red Cross Clubmobiles to troops in isolated occupation units.

ARC Has Travel Service for GI's

A travel service—nicknamed "Going My Way"—for furloughed military personnel, bouquets of flowers and bright jacketed best sellers for bedridden veterans, or professional instruction on how to make items such as fishing flies, models, and other articles are a few of the many and varied activities which members of the American Red Cross Volunteer Special Services perform throughout the country for veterans of the armed forces and dependents.

Bathrobes, bedside bags, socks, slippers, wheel chair pillows, and other articles by the thousands are made for patients in federal hospitals for production corps volunteers.

Canteen workers at one hospital serve tea daily to injured veterans and their visiting families. Dietitian's aides help prepare meals and carry trays to patients. Staff assistants give clerical work directly with servicemen in some instances, preparing pension applications and appeals for discharge.

Provide Entertainment Entertainment, including books and flowers, is provided for veterans by the Hospital and Recreation Corps. Arts and Skills Corps specialists teach creative occupations such as painting, weaving, and sculpture to war casualties. Motor Corps takes convalescents on outings and gives transportation to hospital workers, patients' visitors, and entertainers.

Red Cross Home Service furnishes information, advice, and emergency financial aid to servicemen, ex-servicemen, and their dependents. This work is done entirely by volunteers in 2,662 Red Cross chapters situated in small or rural localities. In the larger communities trained Home Service Corps volunteers help professional carry out the program. Production Corps workers help by making clothing for servicemen's families found by Home Service to be in need.

At separation and induction centers canteen and staff assistance work continues. The Canteen Corps, among many other duties, serves food to troops in transit.

Serve Local Hospitals With war's end many volunteers have turned their attention to civilian hospital needs, performing tasks such as making surgical dressings, sheets, and linens.

Community needs, such as school lunches, are not overlooked. In one city Home Service workers and staff assistants conducted a survey as a basis for well baby clinics. In another a Red Cross chapter organized a placement bureau to furnish volunteers to welfare agencies. In New York members of the Motor Corps have participated in activities of the Eye Bank. Anywhere in the United States trained volunteers of every corps are ready for relief work and are prepared to go into action whenever the need arises.

SEVERE CLIMATE Temperatures in Sendai, Japan, sink to 20 and 10 degrees with heavy snowfalls throughout the winter, according to American Red Cross workers now stationed there to serve the 11th Airborne troopers.

WHEEL CHAIR VOLLEY BALL—Varied forms of recreation for the hospitalized are developed by Red Cross workers. It is wheelchair volleyball at Bushnell General Hospital. Medical authorities here agreed on the value of sports recreation.

Movies Near Top Of 'Must' Lists

A public opinion poll of American pastimes would put the movies in the top brackets of entertainment among men, women, and children. Medical authorities have thrown in their vote, too, and today through the American Red Cross Hospital Motion Picture Service, hospitalized men in army, navy, and marine hospitals are receiving their share of Hollywood's best product—free of charge.

"They're just like kids at a Saturday matinee," said a Red Cross hospital worker describing a ward of veterans of Iwo Jima and Okinawa campaigns following a performance of Betty Hutton in "Incendiary Blonde." "The whistles and cat-calls almost drowned out the sound track" she said.

Like Girl Shows Servicemen like girl shows best but they're quick to appreciate stories of sincerity and truth. "The Song of Bernadette" and "Going My Way," two religious films sensitively portrayed, won quick response from service patients last year, and although they are usually reluctant to be shown war movies, the memorial to Ernie Pyle, "The Story of GI Joe," also struck a sympathetic chord. But just as convalescent servicemen are quickest to applaud what is honest, they are first to spot foot-prints of sentimentality and false heroism.

Since 1941, 35 men films have been shown in Red Cross recreation rooms of army station and general hospitals for ambulatory patients, and since 1942 there have been 16 mm film programs on army and navy hospital wards for the bedridden men. Recently the program has been expanded to wards of marine hospitals. During the past year movies distributed by the Red Cross were viewed by a total hospital audience of more than 15,000,000 patients.

Americans Eat 1,250 Tons of RC Food in Europe

WASHINGTON, D. C.—American soldiers in European occupied territory have been eating as much as two and a half million pounds of refreshments each month this past winter in American Red Cross clubs and other installations, according to Red Cross supply officers.

Of that amount, a million and a quarter pounds of flour and a like amount of shortening, sugar, and milk combined were made into 25 million doughnuts a month, all served by ARC workers in Germany, Austria, and Czechoslovakia.

Large electric doughnut machines in two sizes, producing 2,000 to 5,000 doughnuts an hour, operated in cities with large concentrations of troops.

In addition, approximately 500,000 pounds of ingredients a month went into cookies. These Red Cross clubs varied the menu with plain and filled cookies and served tea and cocoa in addition to coffee.

The Red Cross also distributed articles to men in transit or ill in hospitals. Monthly figures show that 425,000 packages of cigarettes and 250,000 packages of chewing gum went out from the supply department during a 30-day period.

TEDDY BEARS AND ELEPHANTS

Turning out stuffed toy animals during the crafts hour at Cushing General Hospital, Framingham, Mass., one convalescing GI reports he plans to go into the business when he is discharged. The potential manufacturer explains he started the project in an English hospital where he cut up—secretly—army blankets to make playthings for toy-starved British children.

Until 1750, sugar was considered a medicine.

BINGO!—A Red Cross recreation worker calls numbers for patients enjoying a lively game while convalescing from war wounds. Hospital authorities predict an even greater need for such morale building.

Red Cross Gave Swimming Classes On Famous Isle

Swimming lessons on Okinawa where the hazards included hidden Japanese, coral reefs, and infected water is one of the war experiences returning marines of the First division will now be telling.

A group of these marines, as well as men from the 11th special Seabees, also on Okinawa, received training in combat swimming and water safety in an instructor course started just after V-J Day by American Red Cross Field Representative Ellis D. Fysal.

In addition to the Japanese, some with hand grenades only 200 yards from the enlisted men's beach, whose surrender was forcibly effected while the course went on, swimmers faced the menace of lacerating coral and the needle-like spikes of the small sea urchin. They wore heavy socks, but a medical corpsman was constantly on hand to guard against infection from the inevitable cuts.

The course lasted five hours a day under a perpetually broiling sun. Not far from the beach were springs where the men might seasily have quenched their thirst — had not the surgeon analyzed the water, found it contained deadly liver flukes.

VOLCANIC MENACE

Latest now-it-can-be-told war story concerns the rushed production of 5,000 gas masks for the marines invading Iwo Jima last March. For 17 days the marines had been harried by the clouds of fume and mist-fine ash swirling across the island. A call went out to the Hawaiian division of the American Red Cross who put the hand-made masks on a plane 12 hours later.

Detecting By Laundry Man Saves Pension

This time it isn't the milkman who solved the missing pension problem, but the laundry man.

The Veterans Administration asked the American Red Cross Home Service in Los Angeles to help locate a veteran who had filed a pension application without signing it. Only two days remained before the claim would be denied because of incomplete application. Thus, the veteran would be ineligible in the future for a pension award dating back to the filing date of his original application.

The Red Cross worker pounded pavements, but the veteran had moved without telling anyone his destination. As she turned nearby to report back to the office, she noticed a laundry truck moving up the street. On a hunch she rushed over to the driver and told him her story.

In the driver's route book they found the veteran's name listed in another neighborhood. It was a simple matter to travel across town, find the veteran. Within three days the man had a notice that payment of back pension was authorized and on its way.

A synthetic motor oil for year-round use has been perfected; it does not become thick in winter or thin in summer.

NOT ABANDONED

A six-months-old baby whose mother was called out of town on emergency business turned up on the doorstep of an American Red Cross field director at a Western camp. The father was there, too, worried because he couldn't keep to the baby's bottle schedule and his orders of the day. The field director hustled, discovered a family who could care for the child until the mother returned.

Umbrellas were used in ancient Egypt.

You can take General MacArthur's word for it!

"The Red Cross has done a 100 per cent job in this theatre. Mathematical limitations alone prevent my saying the Red Cross services here have been more than 100 per cent."

—General Douglas MacArthur

SO speaks a distinguished eye-witness of your Red Cross in action. General MacArthur saw the Red Cross at your fighting man's side, all through the gruelling months of war, bringing a touch of home to homesick, heartsick men.

He knows, as you do, that your Red Cross cannot yet say, "Mission accomplished." It still has an enormous task to do. With your help, it will carry this task to a successful completion.

One War is over... but another War has begun

Thousands of our men still in veterans' hospitals and in faraway lands overseas need comfort and cheer now, as they did when the bombs were bursting.

And when disaster strikes here at home—fire, flood, tornado—your Red Cross must be ready with aid for the victims. Its war against human misery is never wholly won.

But remember—it is your Red Cross. It depends on you for its very existence. So give from your heart. Give generously. Give today!

Foreign Women Taught to Speak English by ARC

SEOUL, Korea—The English language, music to the ears of U. S. servicemen stationed here, has been provided unexpectedly by one Korean and three White Russian women now working in an American Red Cross club.

When Eleanor Rosenberg, Red Cross worker, attempted to enlist the services of the White Russians, they asked: "You mean you wait on soldiers?"

Today, however, the three, who speak English as well as Korean and Japanese, describe their club work as "good fun." In addition to daily chats with GIs, they serve coffee, sew on emblems, play games.

The Korean woman learned English as a student at Oberlin college, Ohio. She married a Korean student at New York university and lived in New York City for two years before returning to Korea. During the years of Japanese occupation, she had to hide or burn all her American souvenirs because the Japanese made frequent searches.

Yanks in Paris Show Appreciation of Work

Spontaneously and feeling, on VJ Day, American soldiers in Paris thanked the American Red Cross field directors for the message they had delivered from home, the clubmobile girls for steaming coffee served at dreary outposts, the Red Cross club girls for music and dancing and food and books, the hospital workers for their sympathy and cheerful help. "Thanks," said the GIs, and shipped in $2,450 to prove they meant it.

The lumber used in the United States in one year, 30 billion board feet, would make a boardwalk 30 feet wide, and an inch thick, reaching to the moon.

Have you ever seen a Brave Man Cry?

IT HAPPENED somewhere in the Pacific. The boys of the 5th Air Force were "occupying" a God-forsaken jungle island which had been taken from the Japs. The heat, and the bugs, and the dirt were unbearable. The loneliness was almost beyond belief.

Then—on a sweltering airstrip one morning a plane came down out of the sky. And out of it stepped two Red Cross girls, American girls.

"Hi there, Soldiers!" Their voices were like magic. American girls, like the sisters and sweethearts they hadn't seen for so many long months—greeting them as they'd been greeted so often in the old, happy days at home. Yes, tears filled the eyes of more than one of those fighting men. Brave men they were, crying unashamed!

Many thousands of our men are still overseas. They're lonely. They're homesick. They need your Red Cross now. And Red Cross men and women are at their side. But only you can keep them there. Through your contributions you make it possible for the Red Cross to see them through. Give today!
