Tension Acute as British Pour Reinforcements Into Bombay

Royal Indian Navy Mutiny Is Continued

BOMBAY, Feb. 22—(AP)—City-wide civilian riots touched off by a seaman's mutiny flamed in Bombay today amid machinegun fire. British troops, planes and warships converged on the city of 1,400,000 which Ma. E. Coffin, deputy police commissioner, declared to be in a state of "absolute rebellion."

NAVY MUTINY
The Royal Indian navy mutiny continued here but at Karachi parachute troopers with artillery fired for 25 minutes on the H. M. I. S. Hindustan, 1,000-ton sloop seized by rebellious seamen, and forced the mutineers to run up the white flag.

LOOTING FREE
In Bombay rifle and machinegun fire crackled in many sections against mobs which beat, stoned and knifed their victims, set fire to many police and military trucks and private cars, smashed store and bank windows and went on a looting spree.

At least 18 were reported killed and 250 injured, including 165 wounded by bullets, in the rioting. BOMBERS ARRIVE
Hundreds of British Tommies poured into the city in trucks and armored cars with orders to fire on occasion demanded. A heavy force of bomber planes arrived at airfields ringing the city. In the harbor mutinous Indians still in control of a flotilla of 10 small warcraft were faced by the advance guard of a strong royal navy force ordered here to put down the mutiny. Heavy artillery was being sent to the city.

Two small British naval vessels, H. M. S. Nith, and escort frigate with a normal complement of 200 men, and H. M. S. Seabelle, a yacht type vessel each with four-inch guns, steamed into the harbor. At 9 p. m., curfew was imposed.

TEETH ON NYLONS
FORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 22—(AP)—A department store's lost and found department has a pair of unclaimed false teeth found on the floor near the nylon counter.

The only explanation: Clerks said they saw a heavy set woman drop something which slid across the floor as she ran to the nylon line. She clamped her hand over her mouth and stuck firmly to her place in line.

Teen Canteen Membership Eligibility Set

All youths in Gray county between the ages of 13 and 19 inclusive are eligible for membership to the Teen Canteen. It was decided at the last meeting of the Canteen officers and councilmen along with their senior advisors, held Tuesday night at the Canteen.

The session was presided by Bob Parkinson, president, and Harold Wright, general chairman of the Canteen.

It was reported this morning by John Luidsey, publicity chairman of the council, that the Cabot Co., has given the Canteen approximately 85 books from their lending library.

Membership cards are to be distributed to eligible members. Guest cards will be issued. All county servicemen 21 years of age and under will be admitted to the Canteen.

Youths from surrounding towns and cities from 13 to 19 years of age will be admitted with a guest card.

Such cards may be obtained by having a teen-ager holding a membership card vouch for the person.

Assistance of Nation's Victory Gardeners Asked

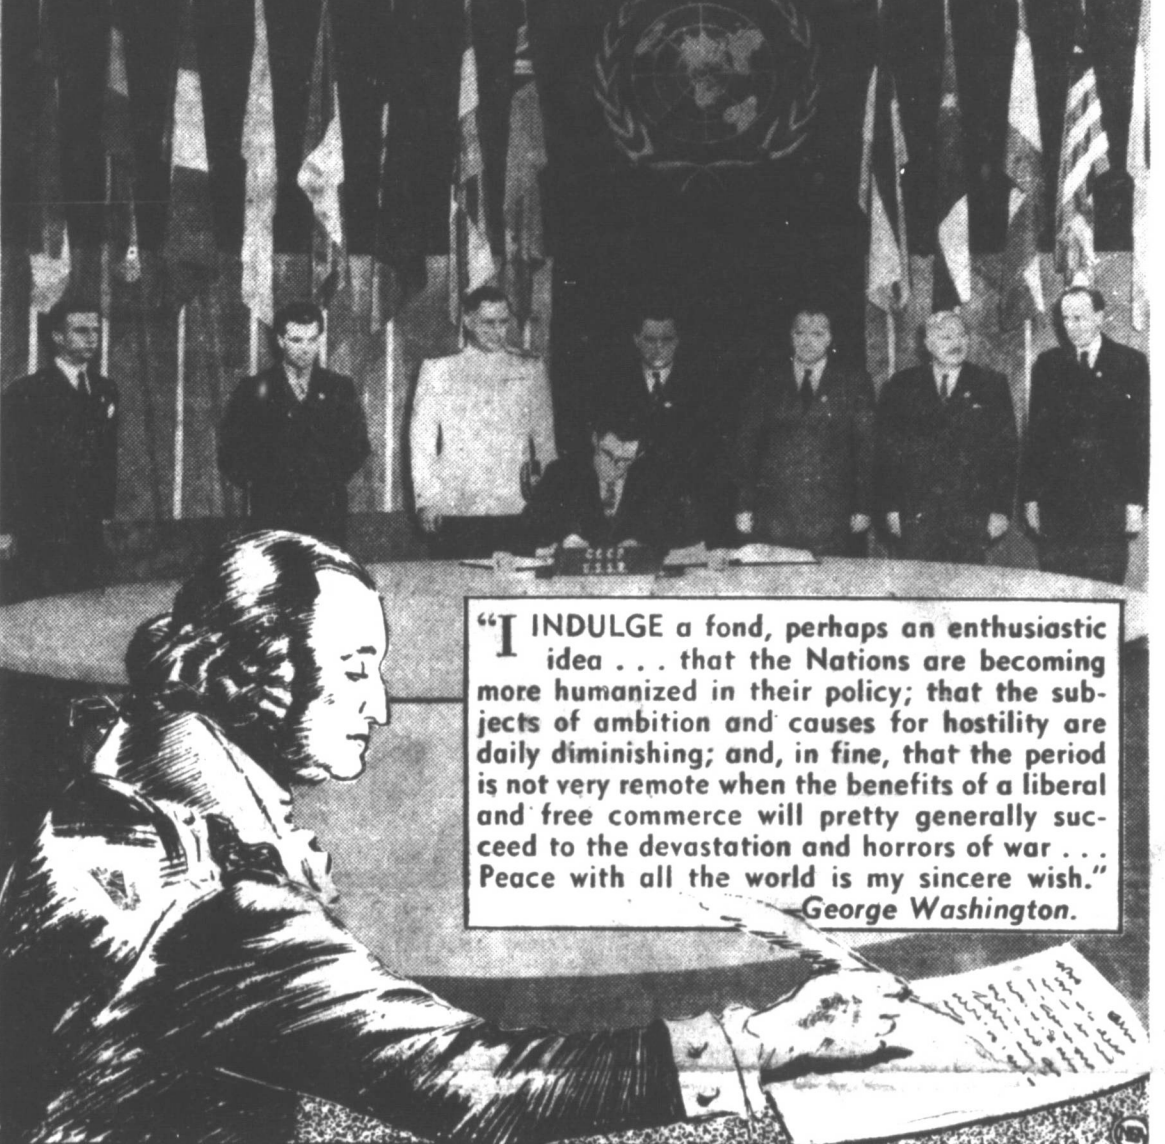

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—(AP)—The nation's victory gardeners were called on today to duplicate their yeoman wartime service and help relieve the postwar global food shortages.

The appeal came from President Truman who said urgent needs from abroad "for food from this country emphasize the importance of continued effort to add to our total food supply."

The stringent food outlook also was stressed by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson in a simultaneous statement late yesterday. He summoned the nation's farmers to increase their 1946 foodstuff planting by more than 3,200,000 acres.

In congress, meanwhile, price aspect of food products vied for attention, with subsidies and ceilings to the fore.

UNO Can Make Washington's Dream of World Peace True

"I INDULGE a fond, perhaps an enthusiastic idea... that the Nations are becoming more humanized in their policy; that the subjects of ambition and causes for hostility are daily diminishing; and, in fine, that the period is not very remote when the benefits of a liberal and free commerce will pretty generally succeed to the devastation and horrors of war... Peace with all the world is my sincere wish." —George Washington.

As in so many things, George Washington was ahead of his time in foreseeing friendship replace fear and hatred among the nations. But really, not so far ahead, for a hundred years or so is but a moment in history. Today the majority of the world's peoples, disillusioned of war, strive through the United Nations organization to achieve Washington's ideal of lasting world peace.

Industrial Area Faces Second Power Walkout in Two Weeks

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 22—(AP)—The steel, Pittsburgh industrial district and its 1,300,000 residents, still feeling effects of a four-week steel walkout, today faced the prospect of another paralyzing power and light strike.

PAY BOOST SOUGHT
Approximately 3,400 Duquesne Light Co. employees, seeking an immediate 20 percent pay boost, are scheduled to quit work at 12:01 a. m. next Tuesday.

They struck for 19 hours on Feb. 17 forcing schools, stores and industrial plants to close, and darkening homes and streets at intervals during the power blackout.

TRUMAN INTERVENTION
Mayor David L. Lawrence, however, hoped intervention by President Truman would avert the crippling strike.

George L. Mueller, president of the independent association of Duquesne Light company employees, said if no settlement is reached by midnight Monday "the strike will be on," cutting off power in all Duquesne lines serving an 817 square mile area in the heavily populated and industrialized Allegheny and Beaver counties.

Mueller said the union would not alter its demand for an immediate 20 percent raise, with an additional 17 percent to be negotiated. Company spokesmen, just as persistently, asserted Duquesne could grant no increase greater than 7 1/2 percent.

Both the company and the union agreed to continue negotiations until the strike deadline.

New Cardinals Get Rings in Final Ritual

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 22—(AP)—Twenty-seven new cardinals created in a five day cycle of unparalleled religious pageantry joined with their colleagues in the sacred college today at a final ceremony at which they received the final symbol of their rank—their rings.

Henceforth, they will be on an equal footing with the old cardinals, in transacting all the business of the sacred college.

This morning's consistory was marked by the time-honored ritual of "the closing of the mouth" and "the opening of the mouth," symbolizing the cardinal's duty to counsel the pontiff and keep the secrets of their office.

Members of the sacred college, attired in purple ceremonial robes and scarlet hats, arrived early for the assembly, filing through the sunlit courtyard toward the second floor hall in the apostolic palace.

The holy father, in white robes, entered the consistorial hall at 9:28 a. m. (3:28 a. m. EST) for the final secret consistory of the busy week.

Five of the new cardinals were unable to attend the final ceremony because of illness.

During the consistory, Pope Pius also assigned to each new cardinal a See CARDINALS, Page 6

Senate Democrats Eager to Avoid Party-Splitting

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22—(AP)—Senate democrats eager to avoid a possible party-splitting vote appeared today to be pursuing a twin line of strategy aimed at withdrawal of Edwin Pauley's nomination as under secretary of the navy.

One democrat senator who says he is inclined to doubt the wisdom of the appointment but hasn't said so publicly, told his reporter he has been urged by his party colleagues to make a statement similar to one by Senator Stewart (D-Tenn) calling on Pauley to step out of the fight.

The strategy, as this senator explained it, involves an attempt to convince the former democrat: national treasurer that enough democrats are lined up against him to make confirmation impossible.

Pauley has contended that he can be confirmed, despite indications that such result is extremely doubtful.

The second democratic move afoot is one which his sponsors believe might make it easier for Pauley to withdraw with face-saving all around.

These legislators said they thought it might be possible to obtain from the naval committee—one Pauley asked officially for withdrawal of his name—a summation of evidence finding that the charges against him had not been substantiated.

Chief accusation is that by former Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, who testified Pauley See PAULEY FIGHT, Page 6

Nationwide Halt To Affect 250,000

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 22—(AP)—The nation's organized telephone workers girded today for an industry-paralyzing walkout on March 7 as the government offered its aid in adjusting grievances.

STRIKE NOTICE FILED
The executive board of the National Federation of Telephone workers last night ordered a general strike of the 17 affiliated unions which have filed strike notices. The walkout is effective at 6 a. m. (each time zone) Thursday, March 7.

At the same time, Joseph A. Beirne, 35-year-old president of the independent labor organization, said the walkout would be nationwide and would affect all of the federation's 250,000 workers.

Approximately 150,000 employees are represented in the 17 unions directly affected by the strike call. The other 100,000 employees of the American Telephone and Telegraph company will be affected by picketing.

STRIKE-BOUND
Beirne told a press conference: "As long as one picket remains on a line anywhere in the country we will consider the industry picketed as strike-bound."

He added: "The forceful removal of pickets (through injunctions) will not in the minds of strikers constitute the actual removal of those lines."

CONFERENCE OFFERED
Beirne said he had received a telegram from Secretary of Labor Schwelb in which the cabinet member said he would "be happy to confer with us."

The youthful union official added that he would be in Washington next week.

(By The Associated Press)
Ray Hackney, chairman of the Texas area, Southwestern telephone workers union, said last night that local action in the threatened national telephone strike March 7 will have to receive ratifying votes of See TELEPHONE STRIKE, Page 6

Decision to GM Dispute Is Seen

DETROIT, Feb. 22—(AP)—Pressing for an end to the 94-day-old General Motors strike, Special Labor Mediator James F. Dewey said today that he expected to get a definite "yes" or "no" from management and union by midnight tonight on all issues in the dispute.

Earlier Dewey told newsmen "I expect the company and the union to reach an agreement on all issues, including wages, today."

When today's session of General Motors and CIO United Auto Workers negotiators recessed for luncheon, Dewey said he had not intended to imply a settlement of the costly strike might be expected by midnight.

The strike has kept 175,000 production workers idle at a cost to them, according to union estimates of $106,220,000 in lost wages to date.

A Washington dispatch to the Detroit News today asserted that high level government action might be brought into the strike parleys if an agreement is not reached promptly.

Dewey and UAW Vice President Walter F. Reuther agreed that the wage question still was a troublesome issue as today's negotiations began.

Dewey, who declared after yesterday's seven and a half hour session that "but for a few technicalities, we brought to a conclusion arguments over maintenance of membership," added: "There are still several more things to be settled. One of these is the matter of wages."

"Yes, sir," Mayde popped up. "Can you order the captain to let me out of bed?"

First President Is Being Honored

(By The Associated Press)
Texas was celebrating Washington's birthday today (Friday) except at Laredo, where Feb. 22 annually is the city's big day.

Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, commander of the 4th U. S. army and hero of Bataan, is scheduled to present the congressional Medal of Honor to the father of Manuel Perez of Nuevo Laredo, Mexico. The ceremony is part of the big Washington birthday celebration attended by Gov. Coke Stevenson of Texas and other celebrities.

A street parade, a rodeo and barbecue at the big "O" ranch, a bull fight in Nuevo Laredo and a fireworks display are on today's program.

Last night a pageant was featured. The celebration this year is a five-day event which began Feb. 20 and will end Feb. 24.

Elsewhere in Texas observance of the day was spottier. A Washington birthday "mas" concert was State and federal offices and banks closed, but few if any business houses did.

At Beaumont, one Catholic high school closed, and there was curtailed postal service. A Washington birthday "mas" concert was Beaumont's only scheduled observance.

At Kilgore, Herman G. Nami, San Antonio commander, department of Texas, American Legion, is to address the 15th annual Washington birthday banquet of the Kilgore Legion post tonight.

IT'S ON AGAIN TONIGHT:
LIONS CLUB MINSTREL SHOWING IS BIG RIOT

If you didn't attend the Lions club Dixieland Minstrel last night you had better plan to be on hand tonight at 8 o'clock sharp at the Junior High auditorium or you will miss one of the best performances during your lifetime.

Showing before a full house last night, such performers and numbers as Elizabeth Sewell's "You Can't Get to Heben," Bunny Schultz's "Lonesome Road," Irma Francis' "Sweet Georgia Brown," "Doc Brown's red hot trumpet, Maribelle Hazard's "St. Louis Blues" received a big hand as did other numbers to be heard and seen again tonight.

Candy sales were a riot from start to finish—only 10 minutes after starting time. A total of 650 boxes of candy were sold at 25 cents each and the Lions have announced that a new supply for tonight's performance is being flown in today to take care of the demand. A fresh supply of prizes will be had.

It's a good show and for a worthy cause—Lions park. Plan to attend tonight!

Former Officer At PAAF Made Army Recruiter

Entering on his third term of service in the Army of the United States, Fred G. Daggett, former medical corps officer at Pampa army air field, whose home town is Houston, Texas, rejoined the regular army Wednesday in the grade of master sergeant in the U. S. army recruiting station in the Post Office building, Amarillo. M/Sergeant Daggett is assigned to the recruiting service of the West Texas district and is stationed with the Pampa recruiting station. He has reenlisted for three years in the air force.

"I have reenlisted in the new regular army," said Sergeant Daggett, "principally because of the retirement benefits afforded. With this enlistment I have begun my tenth year of service, having served in various capacities in three different branches of the army. Beginning with duty with the Eighth cavalry at Fort Bliss, Texas, in 1933, I later reenlisted for duty with the medical department at Moffett field, Calif. I trained at army schools for medical technicians.

"I have gained valuable experience," added Sergeant Daggett, "which has brought numerous promotions at frequent intervals."

Having attained almost all the non-commissioned grades during the war, he was chosen for Medical Administration corps duty in the school at Camp Berkley, Abilene, Texas, where he earned a commission as second lieutenant. Daggett earned successive promotions to the grade of captain. He was released from active duty in that grade in the Medical Administration corps on November 29, 1945 and still holds the captaincy in the MAC in the reserve.

Mrs. Daggett, the former Miss Marie Hoover, whom Sergeant Daggett met and married when stationed at Pampa army air field, resides in Pampa at present. Mrs. Daggett attended school at Pampa high. Her father is associated with Cree & Hoover Oil Co., Pampa.

"It is my desire after retirement at the age of 38 to remain in the employment of the government in a civil service commission," stated Daggett, who is sold on the security offered by the regular army today.

The peacetime regular army has many additional advantages and benefits. Reenlistment in grade held at time of discharge if within three months of discharge and payment of reenlistment bonus of $50 for each year served in last term of service are two of the most attractive benefits of the current program. Men reenlisting within 90 days get the reenlistment bonus of up to 90 percent travel paid both ways at five cents per mile.

Applicants have their choice of three-year, two-year and eighteen-month periods of enlistment. Men joining for three years have their choice of branch of service and of choosing the overseas theater where they desire serving. Twenty per cent additional pay is received for this duty. One or more of over 200 trades or skills can be learned in the regular army and further study and schooling can be carried on even overseas through the United States armed forces institute, which has branches throughout the world. See your nearest Recruiting Officer, Room 4, P. O. Bldg., Pampa.

NO. 5—USE OF 1040 SHORT-FORM: WHAT, WHY AND HOW OF INCOME TAX EXPLAINED

(Editor's Note: This is the fifth of 12 stories explaining who does what about his income tax return.)

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 —(AP)— If you use the 1040 Short-Form you don't have to figure the tax on your 1945 income. You find the tax in the table on the back of the 4-page form.

That table shows tax on income up to $5,000.

You can use the 1040 Short-Form if your income was less than $5,000 from any source and if your deductions were not more than 10 percent of your income.

If your deductions were more than 10 percent, don't use the 1040 Short-Form. You'll lose money. Use the 1040 Long-Form.

In filling out the 1040 Short-Form, most people will need only page 1. Some, such as those with income from pensions and annuities, will have to answer questions on page 2. Then you find your tax in the table on page 4.

You tear off that first page—pages 1 and 2 are back to back—and turn it into the internal revenue collector. If you have to pay money, turn that in with the return.

If you've already overpaid your tax, there's a place on page 1 where you indicate whether you want the overpayment refunded or credited to your 1946 taxes.

You don't list your deductions—such as for charitable contributions—if they were not more than 10 percent of your income.

But if your deductions actually were more than 10 percent of income, use the 1940 Long-Form. Form 1040 is called the Short-Form and the Long-Form, depending on how you use it.

As a Short-Form, you handle it as already explained.

Using it as a Long-Form—this is for people with income of $5,000 or more or with deductions over 10 percent—you have to figure your tax and itemize your deductions.

Husbands and wives: You can file a joint return on the Short-Form if your combined income was under $5,000.

If your income combined was over $5,000 but individually less than $5,000, you can file separate returns on the Short-Form or a combined return on the Long-Form.

But one can't use the Short-Form and the other the Long-Form, if your combined income was over $5,000 but individually less than $5,000.

Gray County Farmers To Get Approval for ACA Payments

Approvals of conservative practices planned by Gray county farmers should be obtained now in order to be eligible for payments through the Agriculture Conservation Agency program, it has been announced by Miss Evelyn J. Mason, secretary of the Gray county ACA.

Approvals must be obtained by county ACA committee before the practice is started in order that individual farmers qualify for payment under the plan.

They may be obtained by either contacting the local ACA office in person or by mail. The office is located on the second floor of the county court house.

Out of $300,000,000 authorized by congress to assist farmers in 1946 conservation practices, Gray county's share is $53,396, said Miss Mason.

Practices which have been approved for payment by the Gray county committee, and which require prior individual approval before payment can be made are:

Construction of standard and spreader terraces, drilling or digging wells, protecting summer fallowed acreages, contour listing of cropland, contour farming of cropland, seeding drilled crops on the contour, pit cultivation, leaving stalks and stubble on land, deferred grazing, seeding perennial pasture grasses and control of bindweeds.

The amount of assistance to be made available will be determined by the county ACA committee on the basis of conservation needs and the funds available to the county for the specific purpose, said Miss Mason.

Steps in obtaining conservation practice assistance are:

1. Apply to the local ACA committee before the conservation practice is started for the amount of assistance required in carrying out the practice.
2. Carry out the conservation practice in accordance with the specifications in the 1946 handbook of conservation practices for Texas, available at the local ACA office.
3. Inform the county ACA committee or county office within the time fixed by the county committee of the completed practice.

The entire allocation of funds for Gray county is available now, according to Miss Mason. The committee urges farmers to apply for conservation assistance immediately.

Out of the 2,485, 138 appliances manufactured in 1944 and 1945, General Electric shipped 98%.

AFTER the war ended, we weren't able to get back into production of some appliances as soon as we had hoped, and production rates weren't as high as we had hoped. A number of unforeseen things like material shortages made the job harder.

But there were only 120 days between V-J Day and December 31, 1945, and in those 120 days we partly reconverted our factories from war to peacetime goods and got production started. During the year we turned out 2,313,791 electrical appliances.

We shipped these appliances out practically as fast as made—so fast that at the end of the year more than 98 per cent of those we'd built since reconversion began were out of our factories. Most of them were in the hands of users.

Then, on January 15, 1946, our plants were closed by the strike. Not a single electric home appliance has been built or assembled there since. And, because our warehouses are practically empty, your dealer won't be able to obtain any more until we can get back to making them.

We want to get back to producing as fast as possible. The manufacturing organization is set up; the machines are ready, waiting to be set in motion. These factors will help us to do an even faster job than we did in the months before the strike.

But we can't pick up production quite where we left off. Production lines are too complicated for that. A great many things have been dislocated by the strike.

When the strike is over, and the refrigerators and toasters and radios you've been waiting for begin to come off the lines again, we'll get them into hands of our dealers just as fast as we can. They'll be competitive in price. They'll be General Electric quality.

So, please don't be impatient with your dealer—or with us.

Family Album Fashions Shown

Grandma's Stole Is Back in Style Now

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK — The stole which gives grandma her fashionable airs in the family-album picture bows to a modern encore this spring and threatens the supremacy of the coat and the jacket.

Almost as enveloping as coats are the stoles which come down to her in front and swing from the back like any jaunty cape. Lovely in the new honey and champagne shades of beige fleece, they can take on one-by-one a daytime dress or suit of any color or description.

Sprightliest theme, however, is the stole-suit, which gives you a stole for a change, in lieu of a jacket. Sponsored by top-flight designer Adele Simpson—she borrows her idea for the stole from the Mexican rebozo—her new "jacket" is waist-length in the back and has two scarf-free ends in front which are belted down over a blouse.

Shown are two examples. At right, a print crepe of black wavy lines on a white background makes a stole-suit which is embellished with a black crepe blouse. The suit, left, is made of beige-colored wool and has vertical bandings of navy blue woolen blouse or contrast.

Service Mother Proves Spirit of Red Cross Work

A real gesture of appreciation for his work has been received by the mother of a German prisoner of war who learned, first hand, of the world-wide service of that organization.

Five checks, representing money sent for cigarettes for her son in a German prison camp were mailed to the local office as a contribution in the current drive.

Joe Fischer, drive chairman, explained the mother's contribution this way:

The money was sent to a nationally known cigarette manufacturer to pay for cigarettes to be sent to her son in a German prison camp. For some reason, the cigarettes were never delivered and the company refunded the mother's money.

In her letter to the Red Cross here she stated that she considered keeping the checks but decided that even that small amount might help somebody.

The mother also said that she received notification of her son's liberation through the Red Cross.

Her son was liberated after spending over 14 months in the camp and is now back in the states. As a gesture of appreciation, he sent workers at the Red Cross a dozen roses.

Fischer said he wished to publicly thank the mother for her contribution on behalf of her son. He added that it was contributions of this nature and those given in this spirit that would put Pampa over the top in the current drive.

Labor Market Is Improved

The labor market in Pampa is more balanced now than during the last two months, according to L. P. Fort, manager of the local United States employment service office.

However, this is not an invitation to outsiders to seek work in Pampa, he quickly added, for Pampa is still struggling against rising unemployment.

A week ago an all-out campaign to find available jobs in Pampa was initiated by the local USES. The results, said Fort, have proved temporarily successful due to the splendid cooperation of employers in response to publicity and door-to-door campaigning for jobs by USES employees.

Job-openings have risen from 54 to 97 with the greater demand for semi-skilled and unskilled workers. Ninety per cent of the increase in job openings were filled by veterans, said Fort.

It is believed that the monthly labor report of the Pampa area will prove one of the best in the state, with a better balance between demand for work and the demand for employees.

Employers are urged to contact the USES office by calling 436 if they can provide a job, without waiting for personal contact, because of the long-range program the office has outlined.

Particularly during the next week

American Legion May Buy Tribune Building

DISCHARGED

MIDLAND, Tex.—First Lieut. Tom A. Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Howell, 619 Cuyler, has been released from the army air forces after three years of service.

Howell served as a pilot trainee and pilot during most of his military service and earned the commendations of his superiors for his skill and efficiency.

He was a pilot at Midland army air field, Midland, when his years of honorable service and high discharge priority brought about his transfer to a separation center.

Pampa Will Be Represented at Livestock Show

Representing Pampa and the Top of Texas Rodeo and Quarterhorse show in the 17th Southwestern Livestock show to be held at El Paso March 26-31 will be Alice Cockrell, well-known horse-woman of Pampa, riding her favorite mount Patches.

Mrs. Cockrell has participated in a number of shows held in the Panhandle region, including those at Claude, Amarillo, Stamford and Pampa.

She has lived on a ranch most of her life and has ridden for the same length of time.

At the Top of Texas Rodeo and Quarterhorse show held in Pampa last fall Mrs. Cockrell was hostess-sponsor.

Patches is a sorrel part Morgan Quarterhorse.

Entries in the cowgirl contest which Mrs. Cockrell has entered will ride in the Parade de Rancheros, with cash prizes to be awarded the best attired and mounted Mexican and American cowboys and cowgirls, school bands, and horsedrawn vehicles, mounted organizations and commercial floats from both sides of the border.

The cowgirls will be judged in the contest on their riding ability, costumes, mounts and on their ranch skills to be displayed in the arena. The champion cowgirl will receive a $50 hand-tooled saddle.

National breeding organization will enter the Southwestern show for the first time in its history. Total premiums have been increased to $12,000. Last year's premiums totaled $2,200.

Siberia is almost twice as large as continental United States.

Community Wide
Health Program
Is Good Business

AUSTIN, Feb. 22—A community mental health program is a matter of good business—and community leaders know that mental health is indispensable in the successful adjustment of human beings in every relationship. Robert L. Sutherland, director of Hoff Foundation for Mental Hygiene at the University of Texas asserts in a pamphlet mailed this week, titled "Essentials of a Community Mental Health Program."
"The neglect of mental health is costly in human suffering and in rehabilitative expense to the community," Dr. Sutherland writes. "Preventive measures require only a fraction of the cost of clinical treatment or of institutional care. The efforts of any community to improve its condition of mental health would take on larger meaning if they were viewed as a part of a long-time program."
In the pamphlet, which is being sent to 2,500 professional workers and lay leaders in the field of mental hygiene, Dr. Sutherland outlines nine tentative guideposts for community planning. These include: Mental health counseling service, education of adults in mental health, mental health in business and industry, in the schools, in family life, in religious education, in leisure time, in the treatment of delinquents and in community organization.

The annual conference of the Texas Society for Mental Hygiene will be held in Galveston, March 7 and 8.

Plans Being Made
For A-Bomb Test
Against Seapower

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series from Kwajalein and Bikini atolls on preparations and personalities involved in the forthcoming test of the atom bomb against seapower.)
By DON WHITEHEAD
Kwajalein, Feb. 22.—(AP)—Commodore Ben Wyatt isn't worried about what will happen to the Marshall Islands when the atomic bomb explodes in the Bikini atoll tests this spring.

If any of his men mention the possibility of a tidal wave sweeping the islands, he snorts derisively: "Hell, we're right in the middle of one of the greatest experiments of our times. Let's look at the good that might result from this experiment, and then think we are lucky to be part of it."
Commodore Wyatt, Williamsburg, Ky., is having a big chuckle at his friends who felt sorry for him when he was assigned to command the Kwajalein base. He now has one of the navy's choice assignments—handling preliminaries for the historic tests.

Kwajalein, known as the hellhole of the Pacific when Wyatt took command in June, is vastly changed today. Some 4,000 sailors, soldiers and airmen are stationed here.
Wyatt had a small, private war of his own when he took over command. There were some 30,000 to 40,000 Japanese still in the Marshalls, even though the main fighting had moved on.
When the surrender came, Wyatt was busy accepting surrenders throughout the atolls.
Then came the "crossroads operations," (code name for the atomic bomb test), dumped at his doorstep.
Friends of the commodore are getting superstitious, about him.
They believe that if anyone wants to be where things are going to happen, then it's a good idea to stick with "Battling Ben."
The average amount of electricity in a lightning flash is far less than the amount that can be charged into a storage battery.

Navy Mutiny

Advanced headquarters of the southern Indian command were set up in Bombay with Lt. Gen. R. M. M. Lockhart in supreme command of all royal Indian navy, army and air forces as the British moved to cope with the mutiny.
War Secretary Philip Mason estimated that nearly 12,000 Indian sailors were involved in the mutiny.
Accounts from Karachi said parachute troops with artillery took up positions half a mile from the wharf where the Indus was lying. An ultimatum was sent for the surrender of the crew, and, when the deadline was reached, an accurate artillery fire was laid down. The mutineers replied with a random fire from their naval guns, but the paratroopers accurate artillery blew up the Hindustan's battery positions and fire broke out.
Twenty-five minutes after the opening of the engagement the mutineers raised the white flag and the troops closed in and took control of the vessel.

Any committee action of this kind probably would find republican members in violent opposition. And sponsors of the plan acknowledged that they are not at all certain all of the democrats would go along. There are 11 democrats and seven republicans on the committee.

Beauford Norris Returns to Pampa

Beauford A. Norris returned to Pampa Monday to resume his ministry with the First Christian church. Mrs. Norris and son, Bill, will arrive from Enid, Okla., in about a week.

Mr. Norris has been on leave of absence from the local church for the past three years while serving as a chaplain with the air corps. He served as group chaplain with 58th air service group for twenty-eight months in the Southwest and Western Pacific.

The 58th air service group was stationed at Townsville, Australia, at Port Moresby, Nodzab, Maffin bay, and Gusap in New Guinea, at Owi island in the Schuten islands, at Morotac in the N.E.I., on Leyte and Mindoro in the Philippines and on Okinawa and Ie Shima in the Ryukyus.

Mr. Norris arrived at Tacoma, Wash. last December 17, twenty-eight months to the day after sailing from San Francisco. He was discharged at Ft. Sam Houston on January 12.

Of his experience as a chaplain, the local pastor said, "I'm glad I went and did what I could. I'm thankful I was spared and that I'm back in Pampa. The returning veterans will always have a special place in my heart and I hope all churches serve them well."

Calvary Baptists To Hear Missionary
Miss Lillie Mae Hundley, Shanghai KuCentral China, will speak to the people at the Calvary Baptist church at the regular preaching hour, 7:30 Sunday evening, Feb. 24. Miss Hundley has been a missionary to China for several years, having taught in the girls school there, as well as having done much personal work among the Chinese.

Miss Hundley was recalled from her place of service when the women were evacuated from Shanghai during the war, but she expects to be sent out again by the Foreign Mission board of the Southern Baptist convention at anytime. While awaiting instructions to return to her field, Miss Hundley is at her home in Claude, Texas.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
Scripture: Deuteronomy 5:34, especially 6:4-12
By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.
Recitation of the verses of the sixth chapter of Deuteronomy known from their opening Hebrew word as the "Shema," constituted a fixed part of the worship in the Synagogue from Sabbath to Sabbath, occupying a prominent place in the Jewish service of the Lord's Prayer occupies in church worship of today.

One can imagine the effect upon the hearers of the stately words: "Hear, O Israel, the Lord, our God, is one Lord, and thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might." But there was more than this impressive exhortation and statement of faith. Parents were instructed to keep these words in their hearts, to teach them diligently to their children, and to talk of them in the home, when walking, and "when thou liest down and when thou risest up."

The whole passage is striking and present. It on grasps it well, a remarkable record of religion in the home. In this, perhaps more than anything else, is the secret of strength and survival of the Jewish people, despite centuries of suffering and persecution.

Jewish families for the most part have been bound together by strong hope ties, and observance of such religious practices to be observed in the home has had a profound influence.

A Jewish friend once bemoaned the fact that the younger generation had grown slack and careless, and that strict observance of the weightier matters of the law had fallen into decline. That is an old and familiar note. Possibly it has some truth. Decline and revival of interest in religion and its practice have marked the religious history of peoples. But observance of the injunctions of our lesson is still strong in many Jewish homes.

A friend recently told of his experience as-guest in a Jewish home. He was so impressed with the family worship that he thought it might be a special occasion. On inquiry he found it was the expression of the normal religious life of the home.

In many Christian homes, family prayer and the reading of the Scriptures was once, as in my own home, the established practice. But I fear such homes today are the exception, and there is the even larger number of homes where there is no recognition of religion at all.

Many of those who now make no practice of religion grew up in homes where there was religious faith and practice.

One could view the future of our country more hopefully if, in every home throughout the land, parents were diligently teaching to their children the great truths and principles of religion, as devout Jews were enjoined to do.

Church Was Not Present at Yalta

By DR. DOUGLAS E. NELSON

THE LATE Archbishop of Canterbury, William Temple, remarked during the war that the Christian Church, if it were to be heard at the peace-table, would probably speak through the lips of a woman, Madame Chiang Kai-shek.

Madame Chiang Kai-shek was not among those present at Yalta or Potsdam. Neither, it seems, was the Christian Church. Perhaps the leaders of the nations felt that this would not be "practical." Christian idealism is one thing, practical politics is another. This ancient bromide has begun to sound more than a little silly. A good many intelligent people are wondering about the "practicality" of a policy which allows ninety million humans to face death by starvation or disease. Our present President and his advisors have, it seems, known since June that this would be the case. Perhaps at that time it was not practical to take steps.

LET US consider this dreamy Christian idealism. In less than 20 centuries it has caused an incredible upswing in western civilization. It has brought the common man to a place where liberty, equality, and dignity are at least possible. Behind our thousands of schools and hospitals lies the motive power of Christian ideals. But Christianity has never been "practical." Never in the Potsdam sense.

The bitter squabbling of the U.N.O. makes us wonder. The altruistic spirit of the congressman who proposes to ban all wheat shipments to starving Europeans until we have been assured our normal supply of WHITE bread makes us retch. We might possibly use a bit of Christianity.

WE ARE dealing now not with production charts nor assembly lines. We have to do with human passions, despair, fear, hatred—in fact, with souls. No power but Christianity has ever dealt victoriously in this realm. It might be practical now to face the fact, Christianity or chaos!

Central Baptists To Hear Prayer Topic

The message at the morning service Sunday in the Central Baptist church will be "The Place of Prayer in the Program of the Church." The message brought by Rev. Rudolph Q. Harvey will be preceded by a special number by a quartet. All records were broken last Sunday in Sunday school when 451 filled the departments and classes. There were 170 members making a total of 170 since the beginning of the fiscal year.

Last Wednesday the pastor began a series of messages on "How to Successfully Live a Christian Life." There were 102 present to hear this message. Dr. Giles of Nashville, Tenn. The Vacation Bible school has been set for June 3 through 14.

Rev. Dallas F. Lee of Graham, Texas, will be here April 7 through 21 for a revival. A census is to be taken March 4 through 15 to make preparation for the revival.

The pastor and some of the Sunday school workers will go to Floyd-dada to attend a Vacation Bible school conference March 5 and 6.

Women in the Church
By MARY FOWLER
Sponsored by the Berkeley, Calif., Council of Church Women, a Sunday school is conducted by the California Council for the Blind. These classes are for children who are unable to visit their parents during the weekends. During the three years that the project has been conducted the children have responded enthusiastically. The classes are taught by a group of young women from Berkeley, assisted by the organizer from the First Baptist church, who teaches music to the blind children.

Church women, individually and where organized into societies, should help build a public conscience concerning conditions in their local communities, their states and the nation, says Miss Eleanor Neff, social worker of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church. "They can interpret the human side of economic problems and indicate the meaning of better standards for the American family, the community, the nation, the world," she says. "They can help interpret the ethical and spiritual implications of any issue. They can discover areas of agreement with other agencies and groups, and recognize their joint responsibility for the welfare of mankind. They can have the knowledge and courage to go beyond prevailing traditional concepts. In industrial conflicts, this would mean giving serious attention to labor's better standards of living as well as to management's story, the seeking of relevant facts, and the judging of each case on its own merits. Where labor's demands seem justified, more courageous support of the church and church women should be expressed."

The National Committee on Group Care of Children, of which Mrs. Monica B. Owen, of New York, is executive secretary, fears that with the withdrawal on March 1 of federal funds for the care of children, hundreds of child-care and pre-school centers in all states will be closed because local support is unprovided. The committee is urging church women to study the problem in their communities, and to unite with other groups to remedy the situation. They urge immediate steps to save such portions of present programs as can be carried locally and will be of most value to the children. In each community, they say, a permanent planning group should be organized, and this should include representatives of all churches, civic and welfare bodies.

First Baptist To Have Full Day

Three choirs will make their appearance Sunday night during the hour worship at the First Baptist church. The chorus choir, under the direction of R. Virgil Mott and the youth choir, which has been trained by Mrs. N. B. Ellis and the Lattie chorus under the direction of Miss Meribelle Hazard. The choirs will be accompanied by Mrs. Virgil Mott and Miss Eloise Lane, and will present two numbers each. Rev. E. Douglas Carver will preach following the music program. The subject to be discussed is "David's God."

Rev. Carver, pastor of the First Baptist church, says: "February promises to be the best month in average attendance that this Sunday school has ever made during any winter month."

The average attendance thus far has been 750, with one Sunday left in February. Rev. Carver will discuss the ABC's of the gospel at the morning hour of worship Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The Sunday afternoon activities will begin at 2:30, when the Training Union executive committee will meet at the church to arrange the program of visitation which will begin at 3 o'clock.

The golden text is: "Teach me, O Lord, the way of thy statutes; and I shall give my law unto me, and I shall keep thy law, O Lord." (Psalm 119:33, 34.) Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "The counsel of the Lord standeth for ever, the thoughts of his heart to all generations." (Psalm 33:11.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind is the grand creator, and there can be no power except that which is derived from mind." (page 143.)

Christian Science Sunday Study Topic
"Mind" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 24.

WASHINGTON WOULD EXPECT IT OF US

"Perhaps the man who is so often called the 'father of our country' could foresee the day when the land of America would spread between two vast oceans and become the master of all it surveyed."
It was on September 17, 1796, three years before his death, that George Washington said in an address.

"If we remain one people, under an efficient government, the period is not far off x x x when we may choose peace or war, as our interest guided by justice, shall counsel."

And so it was with prophetic words that Washington, whose birthday we celebrate today, looked forward to the day when the United States, at that time in their embryonic stage, would hold the balance of power within their own borders and by their own wealth and genius.

A strong people working together, in general, for the welfare of ourselves as part of a great land—that has been our greatest assurance against the forces which might attack us from without. That was the means we used when there was a tendency on the part of other nations to distrust. Not that all distrust has disappeared. But we have come a long way as a world, and we are trying harder even now, with the United Nations.

As modern Germany a few years ago held within her hand the power to "choose peace or war," so it is with the United States today, as Washington envisioned it 150 years ago.

If there is any lesson we can take from these words of a great soldier and a great leader of statesmen, perhaps it is that, as the relations of peoples and nations become more complicated, it is the charge of the United States more than ever before to play an active part in a world free of war and misunderstanding between nations.

Even if the seat of the new world organization were not to be located in this country, our job would be to work for amicable relations between nations. As it is, it is our sacred duty to do as much as it is humanly possible to see that the UNO works as Washington would have us make it work.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES
"A right course of action is one which may be adopted by all."
Herbert Spencer.

Waste, Waste, Waste
The Army seems to be carrying out the theory of scarcity of the New Deal and labor unions. I was riding on the train the other day with First Lieutenant Earl Dunham, Athol, Massachusetts. The lieutenant had been in the Army for nearly seven years, most of the time in the Air Forces. He was in both the European and Asiatic theaters of war. He was rather disgusted with the way the Army is handling surplus. He said at Tampa, Florida, they would take good wrist watches and sun glasses used by the flyers and put them in a black and white bag.

It might be possible to understand why heavy machinery located in distant parts of the world might be destroyed because of the danger of it being used against our own troops and the cost of returning them. It is difficult to understand why such things as wrist watches and sun glasses should be deliberately destroyed by the Army rather than being turned over to civilian use.

GOVERNMENT GRABBING SURPLUSES
Another instance of government methods of doing business was related by a salesman for the Underwood office equipment machinery. He was asking him whether there wouldn't be plenty of ledger posting machines available shortly from the Army. His answer was that every other sub division of the Federal government was given a chance to take these surplus items without cost. If the Federal government didn't take them, the state and county governments were given opportunity. If they didn't take them the manufacturer was given an opportunity. He said that a company had not been able to get one single bookkeeping posting machine from the Army. He related a case where one federal office before the end of the war had had nine posting machines but had just taken 13 additional ones from surplus stocks. It is hard to conceive how any office that should be disbanded could use more than twice as many bookkeeping posting machines as they originally had.

It looks as if there will be very little salvage value of Army surplus. Our taxes will certainly not be greatly reduced from Army surplus.

Publishers Worried About Apprentices

A news dispatch quotes one of the leading publishers in California lamenting the fact that few 20s or young men are taking up apprentice-ships in the printing trade. These publishers had better analyze the reason why people do not want to become apprentices in the printing business. Many of the publishers who have signed union contracts are to blame for this security of printers.

Why should any self-respecting, sane man want to be an apprentice under Printer's union privilege which prevents for five years the apprentice from having the right to learn to do the things that are most needed to done in every shop, namely, to make a linotype. The union will not permit a union apprentice to touch a linotype until he has labored around by hand for five years.

Then after the poor apprentice has done his year, no matter how efficient he may be, no matter how much better he might be able to fill a position than the union printers, if there is not a position open for a journeyman printer, he is barred from doing any more until he can be a first class printer.

It Might As Well Be Fall (Election Time)

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER
HARSH—The normally mild and kindly President Truman has amazed numerous White House visitors urging larger contributions of food to Europe, especially to the liberated and enemy peoples, by his indifference and impatience toward the problem.

The White House apparently feels that some Capitol Hill critics aim to make political whoopee out of the question, with the votes of the German-Polish-Balkan-Slav-Italian blocs as the bait-box prize. They, in turn, regard his recent program for increasing wheat shipments as an attempt to strip them of their thunder, although they insist that he still allows partisan considerations to block any real relief to the starving.

Unfortunately, the President's resentment against the clamorous food-for-central-Europe faction in the senate has led him to deal abruptly and harshly with other delegations inspired only by humanitarian motives.

PROMISE—Mr. Truman showed, for him, a surprising outburst of indignation when representatives of forty-eight national organizations appealed to him to appoint an American relief mission to coordinate all private and public activities on behalf of the distressed peoples of Europe.

Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, of New Jersey, widow of the late senator-ambassador, headed the delegation. Among the organizations represented were the federal council of churches, the general federation of women's club, the American federation of labor, the C. I. O. and the farmers union.

The President exhibited annoyance when Mrs. Morrow spoke of "starvation in Europe." He referred to some "Europeans who didn't do anything for themselves, but just sat around and waited for the birds to feed them."

When she mentioned "our" promises to aid them after the conflict, he interrupted: "We didn't promise them anything."

"But," she reminded him, "President Roosevelt said—"

"Well," he snapped, "I didn't promise anything!"

JOB—When the A. F. of L. spokesman intervened to support Mrs. Morrow with his own findings and suggestions, the President conceded that there was a "job to be done in Europe."

"It has two aspects," he continued. "We are getting different responses over there. Some are working with us and working hard. Others are sitting back. We are more inclined to help those who help themselves."

He added that certain Scandinavian neutrals had shown the greatest energy and initiative whereas some of our former Allies were looking to the U. S. for everything. The labor leader then suggested that the neutrals were in a better position, psychologically and economically, to stage a comeback, in contrast to the peoples whose lands were ravaged—France, Belgium, Holland.

Finally, the delegation urged that he organize an American relief mission like the A. R. A. Herbert Hoover headed. Mr. Truman did not seem to relish that idea at all, although he may eventually embrace it.

POLITICAL—The chronology of the controversy over large-scale American relief to Europe shows why—and how—it has become involved in partisan politics.

In December Senator Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska, a republican whip, introduced a resolution proposing that a house-select committee of twelve members make an independent investigation of conditions in occupied and liberated areas. Cosponsors were prominent republicans and one progressive—Taft of Ohio, Hawkes of New Jersey, Capahart and Willis of Indiana, La Follette of Wisconsin.

For statesmen setting out on a lifesaving mission, their preamble read like a political war cry. It declared that the "victors' policies" were producing starvation, and that the U. S. was necessary to this crime against humanity. They deplored that in the framing of the postwar program, congress had been "ignored and by-passed."

Ensuing debate disclosed that the senators were upset over the harsh treatment accorded Germany by UNRRA, the army and the administration. They assailed Henry L. Morgenthau as one who sought the "destruction of Germany."

Senator Hawkes hurriedly produced a letter from President Truman in which he said that it was administratively impossible to succor "even many innocent people in Germany who had little to do with the Nazi terror."

PRESSURE—Subsequently thirty-four senators—twenty-two republicans and twelve democrats, including loyal administration men—signed a presidential petition for creation of the same kind of relief mission that Mrs. Morrow's delegation asks. Republican whip Wherry was one of the principal round robbers, although his name is you-know-what at the White House.

An anti-Truman explosion on this question was ignited on the senate floor on January 29, 1946. The republicans charged that the administration wanted to "Morgenthauize" the Germans.

In view of the G. O. P.'s heavy role in these congressional battles, the President held back and fought back, as his retorts to Mrs. Morrow indicate. But the pressure grew too strong. At 1600 Pennsylvania avenue and on Capitol Hill the mail bulged with pathetic demands that we help feed Europe, if only to prevent anarchy and breakdown of civilization. There were more letters on this subject than on wage-price disputes and the strikes.

On February 7 the President produced his solution with what Secretary Anderson unhappily described

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—Hollywood's master of suspense, we can report today, even if it suspenses into a plate of cold roast beef.

Two waiters, a blond at a nearby table and your Hollywood reporter can testify to that.

"Roast beef—very lean," said Hitchcock to a waiter. Then he explained to us as he suspended into a plate of cold roast beef.

The results were pretty obvious: Only 215 pounds of Hitchcock where once there were 305.

The roast beef arrived. It wasn't too lean.

"Hmm," said Hitchcock, frowning. "Foreign started trimming off the fat with the precision and meticulous care of a surgeon wielding a scalpel. A piece of beef started rising on one corner of his plate. The waiters, the blond and Johnson, watched fascinated. Would he miss?

Hitchcock's knife split the last piece of beef. It skidded around the corners. The fork rose to his mouth. Yes, there was still a small piece of fat—or was there? The forking roared, the blond leaned forward. The waiter's eyes bulged. Johnson trembled. No, there wasn't. The beef disappeared, Hitchcock pushed back his plate, beamed and said:

"Rather fatty, but wonderful roast beef. Thank you very much. The waiters, the blond and Johnson practically collapsed.

That's Hitchcock's suspense. Talking to Hitchcock, you soon learn how such a mild little fellow can capture such suspense on the screen in pictures like "Rebecca," "Foreign Correspondent," "Lifeboat" and "Spellbound."

"There's suspense in everything," he says, "especially the commonplace. There's even suspense up at my house. I live next door to a golf course. When I sit in the living room, I feel a constant suspense whether some guy is going to drive a golf ball through my front window."

LOADED WITH IDEAS
Hitchcock has some swell ideas for new pictures but hasn't worked them out yet. One picture opens with a panoramic view of Death Valley. The camera pans slowly from one end to the other and then stops, suddenly on a man in white tie and tails standing there alone on the desert.

"What suspense," leered Hitchcock. "Hitchcock has a system all his own for developing a screen play. He works on the script himself until the story is licked, and then calls in a writer for a polish job. He doesn't like to read a novel before filming it either. He still hasn't been sure to find a countermeasure for the atomic bomb. He pointed out that every new weapon seems frightful at first, but we always figure out some way to block it. It struck me that this doesn't apply only to weapons.

Goodness, the double feature movie was pretty right at first until we thought of taking rubber cushions along with us. And the permanent wave eliminated the practice of women appearing at breakfast with a head full of tin curls."

"Mind you, I don't say we haven't had our failure here and there. So far we've worked out no countermeasures for middle-aged women who wear bobby socks or men who wear their wife's hats at parties or people who eat peanut-brittle in theaters. Georgia says the invention of the shot-gun takes care of all those cases, but that seems a little too drastic.

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN
Well, a military authority has said that we're sure to find a countermeasure for the atomic bomb. He pointed out that every new weapon seems frightful at first, but we always figure out some way to block it. It struck me that this doesn't apply only to weapons.

Goodness, the double feature movie was pretty right at first until we thought of taking rubber cushions along with us. And the permanent wave eliminated the practice of women appearing at breakfast with a head full of tin curls."

"Mind you, I don't say we haven't had our failure here and there. So far we've worked out no countermeasures for middle-aged women who wear bobby socks or men who wear their wife's hats at parties or people who eat peanut-brittle in theaters. Georgia says the invention of the shot-gun takes care of all those cases, but that seems a little too drastic.

"Granted," Jeff answered, "but at this moment we are supposed to be finding out first whether any of these people had an opportunity to commit a crime." He was finally called the whole thing off at 2 o'clock. Mr. Willson, my Miss Jenny, Fletch and Betsy by common impulse moved off upstairs together, and I knew that Stephen Willson was going to take his children back to another town and to other young people caught in the rising tide of emotions.

Uncle Andrew polished and re-polished his glasses and finally walked from the room, stopping on his way to pat my shoulder and then, strangely enough, to pat my hair. He had been so kind as to pat my hair, and then, strangely enough, to pat my hair. He had been so kind as to pat my hair, and then, strangely enough, to pat my hair.

ONLY Dru and I were left in the room. We were a part of this family, they loved both of us, but at this moment we were the outsiders. Family circles draw close at a time like this.

I said to Dru, "Come with me." For it was a story that Dru should know as well as Fletch or Betsy. But when I turned to her in the little upstairs sitting room, I didn't know how to begin.

After a moment of sorting remembrances, I said: "Remember, Pharr was a handsome man."

He had been, too. I could remember it all very clearly. Tall, with very blond hair and clear skin and, strangely enough, clear eyes. But if you gazed at him steadily, you'd find that you would be left with the feeling of having missed a step in the dark.

My Miss Jenny had met him in Washington just shortly before Joel Stiles had said I should come to town to stay because his Jenny needed someone to talk to.

But Jenny only wanted someone to talk to about Hebard. How handsome he was in his naval uniform, how important he was in the inner circles in Washington, what had been said to him at the British Embassy; how often he had been asked to the German Embassy.

I can see her so plainly that summer in a white linen skirt and a waist of sheer material with a high collar held stiff with boning. Her hair was very dark and she wore it in a pompadour without any of the "rats" that most girls had to use. Her eyes would sparkle and the would around while she told me the things Hebard had said and done.

Then he came for a week-end and I didn't like him.

Progress Reported on Car Driving Aids for Disabled War Veterans

DETROIT, Feb. 22—Progress in getting car driving aids for disabled war veterans into volume production has been consistently good since the devices left the research stage, according to a survey made by the Automobile Manufacturers association at the request of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators.

The special equipment is intended to compensate for every known combination of limb amputations suffered by veterans as the result of combat or other injuries. Hand controls include throttle, brake and gear-shift levers for left hand operation, a special knob for steering and electric signaling lever, buttons for control of lights, starter lever, and a flip switch to throw the clutch to manual or automatic control. Also provided is a hill holder unit whereby a handicapped driver is able to hold a car from rolling back when an ungrade when temporarily stopped in traffic.

While the devices are not yet available, indications are they soon will be as the following signs suggest.

Automotive parts suppliers appear to have done a more rapid job on readying facilities for making driving aids than they have on their regular commercial output. In some cases as much as six months have been cut from schedules in order to get some of the assemblies to passenger car firms at the earliest possible date.

Nearly every supplier reports that final production designs are completed. One manufacturer anticipates the output of 1500 kits by the end of March. The Automobile Manufacturers association cautions, however, that predictions at this time regarding the date when equipment will be generally available for all makes of cars would be misleading.

Most manufacturers are currently making final checks on the safety, interchangeability and fit of the approved designs, the Automobile Manufacturing association survey discloses. Engineers of one passenger car company, for example, are checking to insure that a single standard driving aid kit will be usable on all makes of cars produced by the organization. Studies are also being made of the applicability of the designs, to older model cars.

Some stars worry because they don't make enough pictures. They should worry because they make too many, said the Hartford, Conn., actress.

Katie, who carried no calla lilies but wore the inevitable slacks, said movie work is "like falling off a log."

"The studios should send their stars to the stage every year so they can appreciate working in the movies," she said.

In the film palaces ——"Road to Utopia" (Par-80 min) has some very merry moments as well as some dull stretches. The picture tries to maintain a high quality of crossfire gaggy throughout, and naturally that is impossible. But then, a movie with Hope, Crosby and Lamour could scarcely fail to entertain. Funniest sequence: An old time vaudeville routine by the two happiness boys.

Something new in film locations: PRC has four planes to fly cast, crew and equipment to Alta, Utah, for ski scenes of "Avalanche." One flies the film to Hollywood daily. — Joan Crawford has drunk five quarts of ginger ale as the dipso in "Humoresque" and says she is getting tired of the stuff. — Jack Oakie is using one of W. C. Fields' old suits in "Love Takes A Holiday" and he swears he found a Martini in it.

In the early 1800's, no newspaper had a circulation of 1,000.

"Murder!" They Cried

NO there it was. The story that Westbrook had forgotten and glibly said with a shrug, the one Westbrook had never known.

The glances that winged their way around that family circle were as strong and proud as eagles in flight. I knew why Stephen Willson had said, "He is my son. No matter what I say, him or my Miss Jenny he would not have Fletch think he was the son of a man who had betrayed his country."

Jeffrey Hazlett at that point swung into full control. "I think the points that are being raised here are totally irrelevant."

"If there's blackmail," Straub pointed, "it's motive and should be brought out."

"Granted," Jeff answered, "but at this moment we are supposed to be finding out first whether any of these people had an opportunity to commit a crime." He was finally called the whole thing off at 2 o'clock. Mr. Willson, my Miss Jenny, Fletch and Betsy by common impulse moved off upstairs together, and I knew that Stephen Willson was going to take his children back to another town and to other young people caught in the rising tide of emotions.

Uncle Andrew polished and re-polished his glasses and finally walked from the room, stopping on his way to pat my shoulder and then, strangely enough, to pat my hair. He had been so kind as to pat my hair, and then, strangely enough, to pat my hair.

ONLY Dru and I were left in the room. We were a part of this family, they loved both of us, but at this moment we were the outsiders. Family circles draw close at a time like this.

I said to Dru, "Come with me." For it was a story that Dru should know as well as Fletch or Betsy. But when I turned to her in the little upstairs sitting room, I didn't know how to begin.

After a moment of sorting remembrances, I said: "Remember, Pharr was a handsome man."

He had been, too. I could remember it all very clearly. Tall, with very blond hair and clear skin and, strangely enough, clear eyes. But if you gazed at him steadily, you'd find that you would be left with the feeling of having missed a step in the dark.

My Miss Jenny had met him in Washington just shortly before Joel Stiles had said I should come to town to stay because his Jenny needed someone to talk to.

But Jenny only wanted someone to talk to about Hebard. How handsome he was in his naval uniform, how important he was in the inner circles in Washington, what had been said to him at the British Embassy; how often he had been asked to the German Embassy.

I can see her so plainly that summer in a white linen skirt and a waist of sheer material with a high collar held stiff with boning. Her hair was very dark and she wore it in a pompadour without any of the "rats" that most girls had to use. Her eyes would sparkle and the would around while she told me the things Hebard had said and done.

Then he came for a week-end and I didn't like him.
