New York City Resumes Normal Business Activities as Order Is Revoked

City Assured Of Essential Supply of Oil

NEW YORK, Feb. 13—(AP)—New York City, which for 18 hours yesterday was as quiet as a country hamlet, roared back to its normal spirited pace today following revocation of a fuel-saving edict that imposed the most drastic business shutdown in the city's history.

Just as suddenly as it had come, the order clamping a lid on all but essential activities was lifted last night by Mayor William O'Dwyer who said the fuel crisis had abated and that the city was now assured of a sufficient flow to meet essential requirements.

Otherwise, the city quickly swung back to normalcy. Thousands of commuters again jammed subways, buses and trains to get to offices from which most of them were barred yesterday. Transit lines, whose operations had been curtailed 20 percent, were operating full blast in time for the morning rush.

Business leaders gloomily took account of their losses. It was estimated the shutdown cost the garment industry $5,000,000, department stores $10,000,000 and other businesses $20,000,000.

Four possible means of staying the rising trend of unemployment were listed by Belk as: (1) Settlement of strike grievances. (2) Availability of more merchandise. (3) Increased supply of building materials. (4) Community action in fostering new industries and civic improvements.

A 60-day delay in these factors, said Belk, may have serious implications. At present there are approximately 150,000 applicants on file in all offices of USBS in Texas. To match this there were only 12,000 jobs listed on Feb. 1.

Temporary Home of UNO Is New York

LONDON, Feb. 13—(AP)—A United Nations assembly committee voted overwhelmingly today to establish temporary United Nations headquarters in New York City. The committee rejected a proposal that the temporary site should be in San Francisco.

One other top issue, the Indonesian question, remained to be settled by the security council before the United Nations could adjourn its current meeting. Trygve Lie, secretary-general, was reported to have expressed the opinion the assembly would wind up its business by Friday night.

A Lebanese delegate said negotiations for an outside settlement were almost completely deadlocked and "the matter will definitely go to the security council." The security council adjourned yesterday to give members a chance to consider an Egyptian plan to solve the Indonesian issue, in which the Ukrainian delegations had demanded the appointment of a commission to probe British military activities in Java.

An open letter from Texas

When eastern folks come down to visit Texas their eyes bug out like a horned toad's. Why?

- 'Tisn't cattle nor ten-gallon hats. They expect them. 'Tisn't our football teams—they've seen their eastern teams larrupped by 'em too often. 'Tisn't those wide open spaces—their grade school geographies taught 'em Texas is tremendous. 'Tisn't oil wells and cotton fields—they've heard about them too.

Well, what is it that causes tremors of surprise to run through those visiting easterners? They don't look for skyscrapers, and they find them in clusters in a dozen Texas cities. They don't expect Texas seaports, and they learn that in ocean commerce four of our Texas ports are among the first dozen in America. They have never counted Texas as an industrial state, and they see steel mills, refineries, synthetic rubber plants, chemical, paper and food processing plants and all kinds of other industrial units from Texas to breakfast. They don't anticipate "seats of higher learning" and they can count more than two-score of the most modern colleges and universities, to say nothing of our art museums, libraries and other cultural institutions. And their eyes tell 'em pretty fast why our city girls are setting a lot of fashion styles these days. Everybody should visit us and see modern Texas for himself. So, in order to spread the light, we're printing this Texas message.

Santa Fe, a Texas partner and booster since 1880, and serving Texas with 3,693 miles of rail, with automatic block signal protection all the way from Galveston to Chicago, presents the above Texas Tribute as a mark of our appreciation for the great job Texas is doing in almost every phase of industrial activity.

How women and girls may get wanted relief from functional periodic pain

Cardui, many women say, has brought relief from the cramp-like aches and nervous strain of functional periodic distress. Take like a tonic, it should stimulate appetite, aid digestion, thus help build resistance for the "time" to come. Started 2 days before "your time," it should help relieve pain due to purely functional periodic causes. Try it!

FAMILIAR STATEMENTS

Postwar American history is repeating itself, the January report of the Navy Industrial association points out in its leading article. Popular revisionism from everything connected with war is as strong today as after the country's other major conflicts, the author of this article finds. And the discovery brings him no comfort.

So he makes statements that are as familiar as the situation he attacks. They have been spoken to deaf ears by the army and navy in the years between. Press and public have discovered their truth in time of conflict and repeated them in chorus. But now the deafness seems to be returning.

Perhaps, then, it is well to read these familiar statements in the light of the present circumstances. The Navy Industrial association's writer has stated them well. They are, in part, as follows:

"Foreign powers have long been intense students of American history. They know that we are an outspoken, unregimented people, basically not interested in conquest or imperialism. They know that all we want, usually, is to be left to ourselves so that we can work on the problem of raising our high living standards higher.

"They know that once the shooting stops Americans regard a war as ended and that a reaction takes place against all things militaristic. They know that in years of peace we do not prepare for war because we do not want war, we do not even like to think about war. They know that a great number of Americans are going to be against military training and conscription simply because they regard war and killing as fundamentally wrong.

"They know that it is extremely easy to turn American public opinion against the military and naval systems, although Americans will always be sentimental about individual heroes.

"They know that American people have sunk more American ships than any enemy. In the wars of 1861-65 and in World Wars I and II, the United States did not get there 'first with the most.' We got there last—with the most.

"Science has set the tempo of a possible third World War and it is perfectly obvious that we cannot defend this nation by 'getting there last with the most'—we have to be there first, with the best."

The obvious flaw in all this, of course, is the failure to give any consideration to the United Nations Organization, but the omission does not necessarily imply an absence of faith, or a proposal of an armed and suspicious isolationism.

The thoughts quoted above are those of a special pleader for the retention of a nuclear naval armament, shipbuilding and aviation industry in peacetime. Such an industry is doomed to share the unpopularity of "all things militaristic" in peacetime America. Yet the unpopular profession and industries of military science are still vital to our safety.

The organizing of the United Nations for peace does not mean that unrest has ceased, that problems are solved, that we need never fear again. When the United Nations Organization has faced the first real threat to peace and emerged triumphant, when a sincere and unquestioned willingness to disarm is evident among all of the great powers—then, and only then can we safely forget such statements as those quoted here.

FREEDOM AND CHURCHMANSHIP

By ATTY. WM. C. RING

Freedom cannot exist in America nor elsewhere, except as the reward for personal integrity and there is no integrity apart from God. Our Constitutional Founders realized the futility of legislating virtue and doing freedom as Washington uttered this epochal ambition, "Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair; the event is in the hand of God."

Those who charted our course had no better assurance that subsequent generations would adhere to the noble standard of independence than the unequivocal realization that infidelity and idolatry never deprive man of his cherished liberty. But neither America nor the world has profited by false empires laid waste by false ambition. We have yielded to the opium of ease and an illusive security to become stupified to the realities of existence. This paralysis may be encouraged externally but "the fault is dear Brutus, is not in our stars, but in ourselves that we are underlings." Truth's eternal war against falsehood is as relentlessly exacting today as it was when Tom Paine wrote upon the drumheads of the Revolution:

"These are the times that try men's souls. The summer soldier and the sunshine patriot will, in this crisis, shrink from the service of their country; but he that stands it now, deserves the love and thanks of man and woman. Tyranny, like hell, is not easily conquered."

The call today is imperative for ghosts like Moses, Jesus, Peter, Paul and Lincoln who became a flame in their zeal for human emancipation. Home, church and state, like the nest of the fledgling bird and the wings of a loving mother, have no more exalted mission on earth than to nurture the seeds of righteousness that the tiny acorn may grow into the mighty oak. There is no alternative. "For we can do nothing against the truth but for the truth." (2 Cor. 13:8)

Coddling, appeasement and compromise never mixed with truth, liberty or justice, except as those were the losers. Let man stand by his inspired convictions despite majorities, heat and high water and the waters will extinguish the fire to disappear in its own evaporation and he will be the majority. Let him continue to mock God and bend his knee to the principles of this world and he will lose his soul and a dominion that he is no longer worthy or capable of possessing.

Where is our highly advertised new order of justice and peace? Where is our family altar, our repentance and tolerance? Where is our concentration camp?

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

PROGRAM—The search for a safe solution of the wage-price dilemma has been taken away from the "small fry" by President Truman and placed in the hands of top-level fixers.

Three politico-economists—State Secretary Byrnes, Chief of Staff Vinson and Reconstruction Director Snyder—have supplanted the Andersons, the Colletts and the Schwellenbachs. The trio is now framing and rationalizing a program for a general upward wage in income and living costs designed to suppress strikes, compensate employers and keep the voters of the vast workingman's bloc in a good mood.

NECESSARY—President Truman hopes to be ready with a broad, co-ordinated program covering many key industries for submission to the businessmen and industrialists after exploratory talks at Washington. He is striving to hit upon a Little Steel formula, in reverse—namely, an upward revision of sweeping increases in pay and prices based on a system of calculated but controlled inflation.

His advisers recognize that an upward spiral is almost unavoidable. What they aim to accomplish is to ride it instead of let the movement run away from them. They want to organize and lead the parade, as smart politicians always do, and then take credit for the performance.

The Byrnes-Vinson-Snyder school has recognized itself to the thought of its members in all living costs—the theory that, in view of the prospective scarcity of goods for many months, especially automobiles, tires, furniture, refrigerators and other heavy things, pay boosts totaling many billions of dollars annually will precipitate wild and unbridled price rises without regard for OPA ceilings.

The price increases, they now argue, are necessary to sop up the additional purchasing power which worker-consumers and their families will enjoy.

NARROW—The appointment of this central board of economic dictators was essential, in President Truman's opinion, because of the conflicting and compartmentalized policies which his various lower-level aides were handling the problem. Each saw the picture from his own narrow viewpoint and did not try to grasp the whole panorama.

Clinton P. Anderson, secretary of agriculture, felt that it was his responsibility to provide food. He asked a six-cent a pound increase for butter to step up production. He was willing to hike the cost of meat to end the strike. Sugar will go up a half-cent a pound because he had to appease hard-bargaining Cuban growers.

SCRAMBLED—Mr. Snyder lifted restrictions on home building, although the shortage of materials forced him to invoke them again. He is agreeable to an increase of $4 a ton for steel, possibly more, to settle that dispute. Economic Stabilizer John C. Collett recently told an off-the-record conference of labor leaders that he favored their demand for a ninety-cent an hour minimum in the brick industry. Reason is the need for additional production.

Labor Secretary Schwellenbach, working in his separate star and seeking to satisfy his customers, has plumped for more money for employees.

Looking over this scrambled scene, the distressed and puzzled Mr. Truman decided that he had carried the idea of delegating problems to the responsible officials a bit too far. So he called on Messrs. Byrnes, Vinson and Snyder to pull something out of the politico-economic hat.

EXTENSION—The normal consumer will not feel the effect of the increased cost of basic materials with the exception of food and clothing. He may pay out more cash for rent, for transportation, for heavy goods and for services, for the reaction will be widespread. But he will feel it only indirectly, and not protest too violently.

The program for offsetting serious shortages in the kitchen budget contemplates retention and possibly an expansion of food subsidies, although it had been planned to let them expire. They now amount to about $1,800,000,000 annually, but the expenditure of that amount has pleased some growers while keeping the consumers contented.

support of the wage-price structure will appeal to the Truman trio, who are pure conservative in their economic thinking than the men down below.

EMANCIPATOR—John L. Lewis' friends and aides are feeling their oats since the return of the United Mine Workers to the American Federation of Labor and his election to a seat in its inner councils.

The current issue of the United Construction Workers News, the publication of District 50, carries the photographs of Mr. Lewis and Abraham Lincoln side by side in a box. Both were born on February 12. The general caption says, "In Commemoration—The Birth Date of Two Great Emancipators." Beneath the two pictures appear these cut-lines: "Emancipator of the Slave" and "Emancipator of All American Labor."

Many observers of the labor scene, including members of congress, have speculated on whether the reaffiliation of the U. M. W. with the A. F. of L. presaged industrial peace or warfare. Here is the possibility significant editorial comment by A. D. Lewis, brother of John L. and president of District 50: "The affiliation of the United Mine Workers of America will make the American Federation of Labor the outstanding labor movement of the world. It will also provide opportunities for labor to acquire better working conditions and hours of work."

In Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

NEA Staff Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD—For three months, Rufus Blair, the Paramount press agent, has been touring the country, handing out "The Lost Weekend" and an Academy award for Ray Milland. Other day he returned to Hollywood, convinced that every man, woman and child knew about the picture. Blair was relaxing smugly in his office over a top well done when his secretary ushered in the managing editor of a big eastern newspaper to acquire better news with his wife and family.

After a few minutes of small talk, the editor asked: "Tell me, Mr. Blair, what picture do you think will win the Academy award this year?" Blair looked astounded, then fairly belittled. "Why, 'The Lost Weekend,' of course."

The editor, unimpressed, then asked, rather blankly: "Well, tell me, who is the star of this picture?"

Rufus Blair, they tell us, fled from his office and hasn't been seen since.

Thanks to secretaries at Paramount, Douglas Dick is playing the prize role of Sam, the returned soldier, in the film version of the William Hellman play "The Seaching Wind." Producer Hal Wallis ran tests of four candidates and asked the girls to vote. They voted Dick into the job with such comments as: "That's for me." "I'll buy that dress." "Will you over with all ages." "Loads of personality and charm." "Wonderful personality."

Dick rails from Versaille, Kentucky, where his father is an insurance man. He was a quartermaster, third class, in the navy, saw sub patrol duty off Florida, then transferred to carrier pilot training. When the war ended he had 50 hours in the air. His only acting experience was in Little Theater production while going to the University of Arizona.

LONG-RANGE POVERTY
One of our favorite Oscar Levant stories concerns the time he was sitting with Ira Gershwin in a Brown Derby. Lavant was complaining about his sad financial condition. He gave a brilliant picture of his penury. He was down and out, didn't have a cent and was practically walking on his socks. Gershwin was agast at Oscar's pitiful state and said, as he reached for his wallet:

"Good heavens, Oscar, how long can you continue like this?" "Well," replied Levant, "roughly, I'd say about 10 years."

TALK OF THE TOWN
Carole Landis and Gene Lockhart, who play man and wife in the film, "A Scandal in Paris," occupy twin beds in a period almost 100 years before twin beds were invented. You can blame the censors.

Maxie Rosenbloom's billing on a personal appearance tour—"The personified low-cost homes, essential household goods and clothing. But that liquor concern in connection with the film, "The Seaching Wind," is a typical example of the kind of thing that we are seeing today. It is a typical example of the kind of thing that we are seeing today. It is a typical example of the kind of thing that we are seeing today.

MACKENZIE'S Column

AP World Traveler
MEDEMBLIK, Holland, Feb. 13.—From the top of the great dyke which holds back the aggressive waters of the Zuider Zee there stretches out before you on the land side as far as the eye can reach a scene of devastation that is logged in United Nations records as one of the meanest war crimes of the nazis.

This was the flooding of the great Worringernmeer farm colony of 48,000 acres by dynamiting the dykes and letting the Zuider Zee flood.

Three villages and 512 farms were wiped out. The Germans did this without military reason but solely as an act of hate on April 17, 1945, just before their surrender.

But you can't beat the Dutch that way. Today, only ten months after the flooding, the great electric pumps of the development have drained the land, and the farmers already are starting to plow for the crop.

To be sure, the snug houses and barns that had been destroyed and the farmers with their families live miles away in surrounding towns, but the land hasn't been ruined because, forsooth, the waters of the Zuider Zee aren't salt.

The colony was brand new, for the land was reclaimed from the sea only 15 years ago.

The farmers and their wives were youthful folk just starting out in life.

However, it is a characteristic of the Dutch to smile through their tears. There's the pretty young housewife standing on a tiny island in the flood with a basket of eggs on her arm, looking as though she is afraid she will see her feet wet.

There's a fat and perplexed pig on another island that's just big enough to hold it. And a contended farmer is catching fish from the roof of his barn.

The government is paying for the losses sustained by the young couples and will replace their houses and barns. When the war broke out there were attached to this model colony some 300 young German Jewish men and women who were studying the system for use in colonizing work in Palestine. All these were taken away to Germany. Only a bout 20 have returned and it is reported here that all the rest are dead.

COMPLICATED OR SIMPLE?
ST. LOUIS, Feb. 12.—James P. Finnegan, internal revenue collector, is confused, he admits.

"This is the way I see it," says Finnegan. "The simplified federal income tax form is one of the most complicated I have ever seen and the so-called regular (complicated) form is one of the most simple."

To prove his point: Forty-eight clerks are far behind processing simplified return forms; 19 clerks are managing very well with the complicated version.

There were only 200 golf courses in the United States in 1914—there are about 5,000 now.

With "The Lost Weekend" saying that "some people shouldn't drink," Tony Martin telling friends how ga-ga he is about Rita Hayworth. . . . Every studio in town throwing offers at Producer Bob Fellows now that he's out of RKO, and the time he is taking about making up his mind which one to accept.

"Murder!" They Cried

By DOROTHY STALEY
Copyright, 1946, NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Stephen Wilson tells Nana something that will have to be done about Phillips, that he will have to find some way out of the impossible situation for Fletcher. Later Andrew Slices says "I want you to remember, Nana. I've got now to have done, I have done for Jenny."

XII
AFTER Andrew Slices went off to bed, I had some notion of waiting for Fletcher; but when I heard the clock in the town striking 12, I decided not to sit up any longer. As I climbed the stairs to my room, the incongruous thought, "And the morning and the evening were the first day" went through my head.

I am not one to think in scriptural texts, and I don't know why I did them. And yet that whole day had seemed to be something set apart, a time for all the seething, turbulent under-cover emotions to rush to the surface, and I had the feeling that it was only the beginning. A train went through the valley, its whistle shrieking wildly, and it seemed to me to fill the quiet house with its banished war, and the walls seemed to echo. Or was it a similar wild, uncontrolled something in the house answering whatever it was that lay in the valley?

I couldn't sleep; if anything, it was hotter than it had been all day, and now to the weird swarming of the whistles in the valley was added the dull rumble of distant thunder, the kind that Fletcher when he was small had insisted was the rumbling of the ten pistons of Rip Van Winkle's little parties, I hadn't expected her to be so firm; but her answer just seemed to fit in with all of that emotion-torn day. The silver-steel lightning was now clanging at the highest arch of the sky, and the thunder was a continuous frustrated bowing, to which the whole house seemed to reverberate.

to wait to find out, for the steps on the stairs were Fletcher's. There were too many years that I had been awake listening for them not to know his particular tread on the stair. But his steps didn't turn upward to the third floor as they should. I next heard a rap on the door across the hall and his soft whisper, "Dru." Then there were two voices whispering and silence.

I DIDN'T intend to fall asleep. That's one of the meanest tricks old age plays on you. You can't sleep when you intend to and you fall asleep when you don't want to. It was the closing of a window that woke me and as I opened my eyes, I didn't know for an instant whether it was wrath or a human that I saw. But it was only Betsy in her white dress.

I asked the inevitable question of every one wakened from sleep, "Is that you, Betsy?" She said, "Yes, Nana. I came in to close your windows. It's storming."

The last statement was superfluous for at that moment I think all heaven and earth opened up. I supposed it was that which made Betsy seem so breathless.

"What time is it?" I asked. "Something after one," she answered.

"Aren't you home early?" Her voice faltered a little. "I was tired. I wanted to come home."

Perhaps it should have seemed strange to me that young, gay, fun-loving Betsy should be tired and ready to come home at one when knowing Ann and Fred Quillman and their crazy-kind of parties, I hadn't expected her to be so firm; but her answer just seemed to fit in with all of that emotion-torn day. The silver-steel lightning was now clanging at the highest arch of the sky, and the thunder was a continuous frustrated bowing, to which the whole house seemed to reverberate.

ate. I lay there on my bed, watching the storm, watching Betsy with her face pressed close to my window looking out over the rock gardens.

As the storm continued to rage some of the inner stress which I had been feeling seemed to lessen, and I wondered if it were the same with the rest of my family; if the fury of the elements were making the fury of their emotions seem puny and worthless. At that instant there was a mounting crescendo of thunder and then a crash of lightning that turned the whole world outside my window into a vast shell of fire.

"Dear God!" I cried. "Betsy, come away from that window!" I had taught both children, just as I had taught my Miss Jenny, to be unafraid of storms, to admire the beauty of the lightning, to hear the music of the thunder, but this was too much.

"That lightning struck somewhere near," Betsy said shakily, and stooping to lay her face against mine for a moment, she went on to her own room. It was several minutes before I realized that the moisture on her cheek could not have been caused by the rain. The window was closed.

The storm continued for a while after that and then rumbled off somewhere beyond the horizon. I got up and opened my windows; the air was cool and sweet and everything was quiet. Somehow I felt akin to the earth; as though I too had been swept by a storm, which had held me from being and now was left to rest. I heard Betsy opening her window and in other parts of the house I could hear windows being opened to the cool breezes and I wondered if the rest of my family felt the same way. I went back to bed and to immediate deep, peaceful sleep.

Peter Edson's Column. HOUSING CRISIS DIDN'T COME OVERNIGHT

By PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON.—(NEA)—Big objective of new Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt, Jr., is to "Build as many houses as possible, as fast as possible, to rent for as low a price as possible."

"It isn't going to be done," he says, "by business as usual, building as usual, or labor as usual."

"What is not generally appreciated," Wyatt declared on his first appearance before the house banking committee, which is considering new housing legislation, is that this housing shortage did not come up overnight."

Today's housing shortage began back in the 20's, when more new families came into being than new houses to shelter them, Wyatt points out. In 1925 and '26, building peaks reached their peak. They got so high people practically stopped building houses.

"There can be a recurrence of that situation," says Wyatt, "so people shouldn't be frightened out of housing today."

All through the depression 1930's, with from eight to ten million people unemployed, there was unneeded new housing built. Over a million families lived doubled-up with relatives.

In 1940 there were a million marriages, but only 700,000 new housing units. The 300,000 unit shortages was typical of the past 20-year period.

In five years of war, during which the population increased eight million, little new permanent housing was built. People had the money to pay for it, but the materials weren't available. So they continued to live doubled-up or in government-built temporary housing.

SHORTAGE OF 2,500,000 FORESEEN IN '46
Today five million discharged veterans have been piled in, and by the end of 1946 it will be ten million. Housing authorities estimate a minimum shortage of two and a half million houses by the end of 1946, three million by the end of 1947, then 600,000 more every year after that.

It is to clean up this mess that Expediter Wyatt is bringing forth his new program to get housing construction started again. He will have four major approaches.

First will be to get materials flowing so that a house won't have to be stopped once it's started. Increased production of substitutes and new materials will be encouraged. Mass production techniques learned during the war will have to be used.

Second will be the labor problem. There is no shortage of construction workers today. But as materials begin to flow, there will be a labor shortage. Apprentice training will have to begin immediately.

TRANSPORTATION IS BIG PROBLEM
Third, every available bit of shelter will have to be used. Temporary war housing will have to be used. Where remote from urban centers, transportation lines will have to be extended to them.

Fourth, every community will have to work out a local program of its own. Building codes, which are wild but sacred cows, will have to be broken where they interfere. Home sharing will have to be continued and encouraged. Veterans should be given first call on any vacancies.

More rental housing will have to be built. More materials will have to be channeled into low-rent housing projects.

Housing priority, subsidy and price control problems are particularly ticklish. Authority for these controls will expire June 30 and will have to be continued if the housing job is to be done in an orderly manner.

All these emergency measures tie in, says Wyatt, and they have to be balanced in relation to each other. It is a two-year job at the least. It will cost money.

Shamrock Reports Series of Thefts

SHAMROCK, Feb. 13. (Special)—Thieves are at work in Shamrock again, having burglarized two Shamrock business firms and stole an automobile within the past week. First the robberies took place at the Lee Way Motor Freight Line warehouse on Friday night of last week, when a thief or thieves entered the building through a south door and made good their get-away with a small iron safe containing a small amount of money.

Saturday night, some time after 10 o'clock, the 1940 model Buick sedan belonging to Ray Tatum, was stolen from the driveway of his home at 430 East First street. The car, a blue, four-door Century sedan, was parked within a few feet of the Tatum's bedroom. There were visible tracks where the car had been pushed out of the driveway and either towed or driven away.

Some wolf hunters discovered the stolen automobile in a shinnery patch east of China Flat Wednesday afternoon. Milt Williams reported the discovery to Deputy Sheriff C. G. Cantrell, Sr., who with Tatum, went out and returned the car. Little damage had been done to the vehicle. Tatum stated. Tuesday night, two adding machines and a typewriter were taken from the Shamrock Wholesale Gasoline Service Station on South Main street. The culprits entered through an east window, and Deputy Sheriff C. G. Cantrell, Sr., who is working on the case, says that no fingerprints were left, indicating the work of a professional thief.

A Ford coupe belonging to Walter Pendleton, Sr., was stolen from in front of his office on West Second street on Sunday afternoon of last week. The next day, two boys, 15 and 16 years old, were arrested in Borger after they had broken into a residence. Pendleton's car was in their possession and returned to him undamaged.

Shamrock Irish Band Plans Concert Tour

SHAMROCK, Feb. 13. (Special)—The Shamrock Irish band will play good will concerts in five neighboring towns between now and May 1, Major Ed Chenette, director, announced this week.

The local band will make appearances in Wheeler, McLean, Keller, Wellington and Kellerville, Okla. The bands from Kellerville and Wellington will come to Shamrock and play concerts, Chenette said. The Irish band will present the first of a series of concerts on Washington's birthday, February 22. The program will be at Clark auditorium at 1 p. m. and will be about an hour of entertainment. Other concert dates will be announced later and will be about four weeks apart.

There will be no admission charge and the public is invited to attend. Erection of new churches and refurbishing the battle scarred ones of Europe would cost an estimated one and one-half billion dollars.

Association Is Answering Your UNO Questions

Do you have any questions on the United Nations Charter? To help the people of this country better understand the Charter and their responsibilities to world organization, the American Association for the United Nations is answering questions received reflecting the tremendous interest today and always for lasting peace.

Q. What action was taken by the security council in Greece?
A. The Soviet Union withdrew its charge that the presence of British troops in Greece was a threat to the peace of the world. Nine members of the security council after hearings, rejected the Soviet charge. The security council is now considering the problem of Indonesia put before it by the Ukraine.

Q. Who is chairman of the economic and social council?
A. The economic and social council elected Sir Ramseswarri Mithalair of India as its president, and the president of the security council is Norman J. O. Makin of Australia.

Q. Has the world court started to meet yet?
A. The court will meet at the Hague this summer for its first session. The judges to the international court of justice were just elected by the general assembly and the security council. An American was chosen as one of the fifteen judges—Green H. Hackworth, legal adviser of the state department.

Q. With the United Nations coming to this country, what will happen to the league building in Geneva? Will the league continue to function with the United Nations organization?
A. Transfer of league of nations assets and functions to the United Nations is being constantly discussed by the committees of the league and of the United Nations. The general assembly will have to approve, for the United Nations, what these committees decide, and the league of nations will have to take similar action. The United Nations will have to decide what use they will make of the league's buildings. Once complete transfer of league assets and obligations is accomplished, the league of nations will cease to exist.

Texas Today

By JACK RUTLEDGE AP Staff Writer

A city official was asked if a resident who was not satisfied with a zoning designation would have to wait six months before applying for a change.

"The rule was promulgated by the city plan commission to prevent a person, after his application has been denied, from coming back the next day with a new application on the same property, and if that is denied, coming back the next day, and so on," said Asst. City Attorney A. J. Thuss. "As I understand it, this was the thought of the city plan commission in having this regulation included in the ordinance. Now, holding in mind this was the purpose behind the regulation, and viewing the present question in the light of the intent of the regulation, and with the further consideration that the property owner in this case has not submitted an application but has, instead, submitted a protest before the zoning designation is actually made, in my opinion he could bring in an application for a change in zoning within the six-month period following the zoning."

For a moment there was silence in the Dallas council chamber. Then Mayor Woodall Rodgers, himself an attorney, leaned over and said solemnly: "Ladies and gentlemen, he said no."

AUSTIN, Feb. 13.—Thirty-three general topics, covering hundreds of subjects, make up the library packages which may be obtained from the University of Texas extension loan library.

Material on any important current topic may be obtained from the extension loan library, which is a part of the division of extension, subject matter ranges from agriculture and rural life to the World War II, and the United Nations.

In a new catalog just issued by the package library service, all subject matter is listed, and rules and suggestions for borrowers are included.

The catalog may be obtained without charge from the extension loan library.

"The catalog will be particularly valuable to teachers, program committees of women's clubs and students seeking information on current topics," Miss LeNoir Dimmitt, library director, said.

Texas has only 74 tax-supported municipal libraries, 30 tax-supported county libraries, and 35 small club and community libraries which give free service. The University of Texas extension loan library and the State library in the capitol are the only agencies through which a large portion of the population can obtain free reading material.

Golfers at New Orleans Back in Pre-war Stride

By KRIS KREEGER
NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Is golf back in its pre-war stride, or have the pros who recently hung up their uniforms some personal re-conversion to do?
Fred Corcoran, who shepherds them around the PGA circuit, can look back six years and not see much difference.
"In 1940 when we passed through here it was Nelson, Hogan and Snead," he said. "Today's it's Nelson, Hogan and Snead again."
He was talking about the New Orleans open, which begins here Thursday.
Corcoran quoted Byron Nelson as expecting a tussle for the title he is defending.
"Nelson thinks competition will be tougher and might affect his average, which was 68.33 last year. With the competition too close, the medal play itself might be affected."
Corcoran himself is high on Nelson's future.
"I don't think he's had his greatest year," the tournament manager declared. "He's going to be even better. He wants so much to keep on and his concentration is so great he'll be on top again."
More observations by the Boston-based traveling companion to the linkmen:
"Ben Hogan won six tournaments since he got out of the army last August. But he is playing too conservatively a game. Vic Ghezzi, who played with him on a recent round, said Hogan would have made five more putts if he had gone for the hole. He was playing safe and was short, but he'll improve."
"Jimmy Demaret, out only six weeks, won the Tucson open, was second at Fort Worth, and third in the Los Angeles open.
Corcoran nominated seven golfers as those likely to push Nelson hardest: Little, Mangrum, Demaret, Ghezzi, Hogan, Snead and Sam Byrd, who had 129 on the last 36 at San Antonio.

BALBOA, C. Z. Feb. 13.—(AP)—Former serviceman Joe Gordon and Phil Rizzuto are thrilling the visitors at the New York Yankee workouts at Balboa stadium with their spectacular fielding feats.
The one-time championship key-stone combination delighted some 700 spectators yesterday as they grabbed hot grounders, hauled down line drives and executed imaginary double plays in skillful fashion.

Morgenthaler Is Leader in Cage Scoring Scramble

By TED MEIER
NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(AP)—A seven-foot, one-inch giant with a mouth-filling name to go with his height, Elmore Morgenthaler of New Mexico mines — is the new leader at 458 points in the national collegiate individual basketball scoring race.
The 23-year-old star from Amarillo, Texas, went on a 95-point scoring spree in four games last week to vault from fourth place to first. He replaced Bill Hall, of Marshall, who riddled 32 points in two games, but fell to second at 450.
A graduate of Hobbs, N. M., high school, Morgenthaler has sparked the miners to six straight victories in the New Mexico conference and an overall season mark of 14 triumphs in 22 games. He worked for the Santa Fe railway during the year after being rejected by the army.
George Mikan, of DePaul, the early season leader before Hall went to the front, corralled 44 points in two games, but slipped from second to fourth at 422 as Fred Lewis, of eastern Kentucky, collected 50 points in three games to take over third place at 425.

'Moonshine' Liquor Industry in South

WASHINGTON, Feb. 13.—(AP)—The south is still the stronghold of the "moonshine" liquor industry.
In nine southern states the federal alcohol tax units seized 7,397 illicit distilleries in the 1945 fiscal year. Only 947 were seized in the remaining 39 states and Hawaii.
Texas, not included in the nine southern states mentioned above, yielded 123 illegal distilleries last year compared with 89 in 1944.
These statistics contained in the house appropriations committee's report to congress on treasury department activities for 1944-47 funds also showed that Georgia was the best hunting ground for the revenue agents. They seized 1,645 illicit stills there last year.

EDINBURG, Texas, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Ray Elliott, head football coach of the University of Illinois, will be one of the major instructors at the annual Texas coaching school at Corpus Christi in August.
Bobby Cannon, coach of Edinburg high school and who is president of the Texas high school coaches association, announced today that Elliott had been obtained to work with D. X. Bible, University of Texas coach, as head instructors.

Pampa Triumphs on Randall Clay's Goal

District One's northern division basketball race turned into a "watching and waiting" game today, with the Pampa Harvesters on the uneasy end of it.
The whole thing depends on whether the Berger Bulldogs beat Amarillo's Sandies at Berger Friday night. If Berger does, all three teams will be tied up.
Randall Clay, captain and high scorer of the Harvesters team, assured his team of a chance for a tie the last night as he sank a "last-second" field goal to give the local eagles a 26-24 victory over the mighty Sandies before nearly 1,000 screaming fans at the Junior high gym.
Clay's field goal, which gave him 12 points for the night, broke a 24-24 tie which came about when Jimmy Carter sank a charity toss for the Sandies.
Just as the ball hit the floor after going through the basket, the sun shined and it was all over but the shouting—and there was plenty of that.
Amarillo took a 6-3 first period lead, after Clay had made the initial score of the game. The large crowd and abundance of noise made both teams nervous.
Pampa rallied in the second quarter to take a 12-11 halftime lead on field goals by Clay, Gooch and Brown and free throws by Clay, who made two, and Gooch.
The see-saw third period began with Carter sinking a field goal for the Sandies and putting them ahead 13-12. Leon Crump made one of his three shots from the far corner to bring Pampa back into the lead 14-13 but Bill Henry scored for the Sandies and led changed hands again. Clay tied it up with a free throw but Jack Steele put the Sandies out in front with a field goal, making the score 17-15.
Clay again came through with a field goal to tie the score and Crump added another corner shot for a two-point, 19-17, lead for Pampa. The third quarter ended with Paul Carroll sinking a free throw for the Sandies, making the score 19-18.
Carroll came through with a field goal just as the final stanza began and Amarillo went ahead 20-19. Clay broke the tie in the fourth with a free throw to tie the score but Henry put the Sandies out in front with a charity toss.
Gooch was fouled a few seconds later and sank one of his two tosses to tie the score again. Pat Sasser, however, sank a long shot and Amarillo led 23-21. Crump again sank a corner shot and the score was tied at 23-23 with four minutes to go.
The score remained the same until Bernie Brown scored a free throw with one minute and 10 seconds to go. Carter's free throw followed a few seconds later and the game seemed almost certain to go into over-time until Clay sank his winning goal.
Carroll of the Sandies went out in the fourth period and Henry was replaced by Larry Wartes, who after two fouls, was taken off the court by the referees for slugging.
Clay's 12 points gave him high-scoring honors for the night, followed by Carroll, who made nine before he went out. A total of 31 fouls were called in the game by Referees Kimmins and Tucker. Of these, 17 were on the Sandies and 14 on Pampa.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Although the major leagues officially approved commissioner Happy Chandler's baseball promotion department at their recent meetings here, they will get a $50,000 to run it until he presents a comprehensive plan that is approved—the minors have to give their okay, too, since they're putting up $12,500 of the dough—one story is that Chandler told the club owners he would need six months to work up such a presentation.

MAKING BOTH ENDS MEET
The Bonneville county sportsmen association of the Snake River valley in Idaho will hold its annual jamboree at Idaho Falls Friday and Saturday. The piece de resistance will be a meat loaf made from a moose and a half, bought from the state game commission after confiscation from poachers, plus a bit of beef and pork to make it large enough to feed 4,000 people—the big loafers!

SHORTS AND SHELLS
Boston sports scribes are almost unanimous in blasting B. A. A. officials for the sprint fiasco in Saturday's track meet and director Des Wentworth apparently didn't help matters when he tried to equalize Eddie Conwell for a speedy start after he had reinstated Barney Ewell and Harb Thompson—Dean and MacDonald Mathey, sons of the former intercollegiate doubles tennis champ, are about as good at hockey as they are at tennis—which isn't half bad.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—(AP)—Willie Hoppe, erstwhile "box" wonder of billiards, today held a 200-185 lead over veteran Jake Schaeffer as the two former world champions moved into the fifth and sixth blocks of their 1,000-point three-cushion match here.

Dodgers Are High on Rookie First Baseman
SANFORD, Fla., Feb. 13.—(AP)—Fresno Thompson, one of Brooklyn president Branch Rickey's chief aides, high on first baseman Jack Gran. Seven other Dodgers are seeking the first berth but the slugging rookie says confidently "the guy who beats me out of the job will have to go some."

Market Briefs
WALL STREET
NEW YORK, Feb. 12—(AP)—State banking commissioner Elliot V. Bell said today that a new agreement with Mayor O'Dwyer banks will be open for business tomorrow after having been closed today for the Lincoln birthday shutdown.
Officials of the New York stock exchange still were undecided as to how the city's tax-strike emergency would affect their operations tomorrow but it was emphasized that if the downtown skyscraper offices remained closed it would be almost impossible to have regular market dealings.
Major domestic exchanges were closed today for the holiday observance.

Leaves From a Correspondent's Life Notebook
By HAL BOYLE
CALCUTTA, Feb. 13—(AP)—Panhandling cows lead an easier life than beggar men in teeming India. Capitalizing on the Hindu religion, which regards the cow as the most sacred of animals, bovine wanderers roam lazily through the streets leading the life of Riley. When the browsing proves unprofitable some of these four-legged hoboes stroll around to the nearest Hindu restaurant and stand patiently at the door until the proprietor comes out and feeds them. I asked one long-time India resident what would happen if a cow ever made a mistake and called on a restaurant run by a Mohammedan. "If nobody was looking at the dirty and pockmarked with diarrhea, poverty and caste. It takes time and patience to learn about the clean new heart beginning to beat more strongly in an old and rotten core. The drive into Calcutta from Dum Dum airport—original home of the dum dum bullet—was a parade of transportation through history. Nowhere have I ever before seen so many modes of travel. We passed bullocks and horses, man-drawn carts and horse-pulled carts, rickshaws and elegant Victorian automobiles, motor cycles, bicycles, trolleys and expensive motor cars. And, of course, military trucks and jeeps. The prices of cars here are fabulous. Tiny Austins fetch 6,000 rupees—$2,000—and a British captured car in the market is priced for one well known American car in good operating condition was ten times that. Calcutta looks like the Arabian nights and any British city shaken up in a single civic cocktail, with heifers and cows active, strong to higher; bull steady; vealers and calves strong; stockers and feeders in light supply; dairy steady; beef steers predominated in receipts; good and choice grade slaughter steers 15.00-17.00; medium and good grades 13.50-15.75; good cows steady; most common and medium 12.50-14.75; few cutters and common yearlings largely 14.50-16.00; medium and good beef cows 19.00-25.50; cutter and common grades 12.00-14.00; few butchers' stock, 100-120 lbs., 11.00-12.00; low grade stockers scarce.
Hogs 1,500; active in ally interests at ending levels; good and choice 17.00 and up 14.45; sows mostly 13.80.

Navy Announces New Benefits for Re-Enlistment in Regular Service

The navy has just announced valuable new benefits for men enlisting or re-enlisting in the regular navy.

Men volunteering for a first enlistment or re-enlistment in the regular navy are now given an option on the length of time they wish to serve. Seventeen year olds may enlist for either two or three years or until their 21st birthday. However, 17-year-olds must bring birth certificates or school records showing their correct age and consent papers must be witnessed by and signed in the presence of the local navy recruiter.

Applicants aged 18 to 30, inclusive, may enlist for two, three, four or six year periods. And you can now join the regular navy even though you have already taken your pre-induction physical. But, you must enlist before receiving your notice of final induction.

Benefits have been modified to the effect that regular army personnel receive all privileges of the G. I. Bill of Rights. Family allowances have been extended for the full period of enlistments or re-enlistments in the regular navy made prior to July 1, 1946. If assigned to sea duty or overseas service, a man will receive a 20 percent extra allowance for such duty. Those men discharged from the regular army or naval reserve for the purpose of enlistment or re-enlistment in the regular navy collect mustering-out pay at once.

Free mailing privilege for men in the armed forces has been extended until December 31, 1947.

Your local navy recruiter, Chief M. E. Pierce, 302 Post office Bldg., Amarillo, Texas, will be glad to give you all details in regard to any part of the navy's new program for enlistment or re-enlistments in the regular navy.

Two Survivors of Bataan Retraavel Remember Road

By PAUL B. MASON

BALANGA, Bataan — (AP)—Two army staff officers who survived Bataan's death march, traveled again their road of tragic remembrance a few days ago, and found both disappointment and a challenge along the rough way through the jungle.

Disappointment, they said, "that time and perspective have changed the scene a lot," and a challenge, in that "the country must see to it that we never have another Bataan or anything half so horrible."

They were Col. John H. Ball of Williamsport, Pa., corps artillery officer for Maj. Gen. George H. Parker's Second corps, and Major Achille G. Tisdelle (232 E. Walton place) Chicago, aide to Maj. Gen. Ernest

F. King, commander of Luzon forces who on April 9, 1942, capitulated to Japanese General Masahara Homma in a schoolhouse in this village.

Nearly four years later, the road of America's Gethesemane was lined with the rusty, rotting relics of that army.

Return of the two officers to this peninsula was arranged not only as a "sentimental journey" for two men who spent more than three years each in Japanese prisons, but, more importantly, to prove army historians with first-hand accounts of the death march by men whose official status at the time of surrender, gave them possession of information available only to a few.

Up the road toward Cabacaben, the still-white painted slogan in 12-inch letters "keep 'em flying" appeared on the wide-spreading roofs of a baleta tree — mocking reminder of a day when the hopes of a besieged army were pinned on planes which had not yet been built.

A three-foot iguana slithered from our path.

"Right over there I was clipped across the temple with a Jap rifle butt because the guard said I was leading the column too slowly," he said.

Not far away, we entered a cleared space bordered on one side by a banana and bamboo thicket.

"In there," Ball remarked, "Bodies were piled—they were thick. We had gone far enough when we reached here so that the marchers were very weak and dying fast."

Maybe it's spring! But regardless of season, those fast-growing little Presidents and First Ladies will love PIED PIPER SHOES for their comfort.

They can prance and promenade as they will because PIED PIPER SHOES give them plenty of toe room... are long wearing, with snug heels... no irritating seams over moving parts of the feet... and smoother because they are made a better, different way.

Reeves first ship saw action at Okinawa where she was under attack by Jap suicide planes. In one attack she shot down six and probably two more, of 12 Kamikazes. One of the planes exploded nearby and did considerable damage, causing it to retire for repairs.

In another instance, when a Jap plane exploded near the minesweeper, damaging the rudders, the Adams made a remarkable 7,000 mile trip back to San Francisco, without benefit of rudders, steering with her engine.

After the surrender she served as an escort in Chinese and Japanese waters. In November she left China en route to Pearl Harbor and San Diego to be placed in the inactive reserve.
