NUMBER ONE POPPY CUSTOMER — Mrs. A.L. Walling, chairman, VFW poppy sales, pins a red blossom on Dolph Briscoe, Democratic gubernatorial candidate. Mrs. Briscoe, "Janie," is at his side. Poppy sales, an annual event, will continue Saturday. Briscoe, campaigning in Pampa, said water was the key to both agricultural and industrial growth of the Panhandle and promised the state would take the lead in bringing water to deficit areas "when he becomes governor." He told listeners at a reception here this morning the next session of the legislature should be the most productive in the history of the state.

Nixon Flying To Philadelphia To Sign Revenue-Sharing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon flew to Philadelphia today to sign a revolutionary $30.2 billion revenue sharing bill in the nation's birthplace.

The chief executive left the White House South Lawn by helicopter at 11:21 a.m. EDT for the ceremony to place into effect the legislation he proposed two years ago.

Meanwhile, in Philadelphia before Nixon left Washington, 18 antiwar protesters were arrested as they set up an early protest of Nixon's planned visit. The demonstrators had gathered Thursday night and those arrested refused to move their demonstration into a designated area.

The measure, pushed through in the final days of the 92nd Congress, is a cornerstone in Nixon's proposed "new-federalism program," which he says aims to return some of the power, responsibilities and revenue from the federal government to the people.

For the occasion, the President chose Independence Hall, the spot where the founding fathers drew up the Constitution.

The White House invited some 200 guests — governors, mayors and congressmen who helped make revenue sharing a reality — and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who was a scheduled speaker.

Under the new law, the government will pump up to $6.4 billion annually over the next five years to states, cities and communities.

The funds can be spent, virtually without restriction, for high-priority projects such as welfare and social services; public safety and public transportation, health and environmental cleanup.

The Treasury Department said the first checks, retroactive payments for the first six months of this year, will be mailed out in the first week of December providing an early Christmas present for some 38,000 localities. They will get final payments on this year's revenue sharing sometime early in 1973.

The prize for literature went to novelist Heinrich Boll of West Germany on Thursday. The medical prize was awarded Oct. 12 to Dr. Gerald M. Edelman of the United States and Dr. Rodney R. Porter of England. The prize for economics will be announced Oct. 25, and no peace prize is being given this year.

The chemistry prize was to be awarded later today.

The science academy in announcing the physics prize said the three Americans demonstrated the interaction among electrons leading to superconductivity.

Their key theory "was indeed very successful in explaining in considerable detail the properties of superconductors. The theory also predicted new effects — and stimulated an intensive activity in the theoretical and experimental research which opened up new areas for research," the academy said.

Their theory is usually called the BCS theory, for the three men, who developed it jointly.

The term superconductivity

Three U.S. Scholars Win 1972 Nobel Physics Prize

Award Is For Theory Of Superconductivity

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Three Americans — John Bardeen, Leon Cooper and John Robert Schrieffer — won the 1972 Nobel Physics prize today for their theory of superconductivity, the Royal Swedish Academy of Science announced.

It was the second Nobel Award for the oldest of the trio, 64-year-old Dr. Bardeen of the University of Illinois. He shared the 1956 physics prize with two other Americans for the development of the transistor.

Cooper, 42, is a professor at Brown University in Providence, R.I., and Schrieffer, 41, is a professor at the University of Pennsylvania.

The three will divide the $98,100 prize money equally.

The physics award was the third of the five Nobel awards to be announced this year.

refers to the complete disappearance of electrical resistance, and the phenomenon was discovered by the Dutch physicist Kamerling Onnes in 1911. His measurements indicated a fundamentally new state of matter, and his discovery won the 1913 Nobel prize for him.

But the central problem, the question of the underlying mechanism of superconductivity, remained a mystery until Bardeen and his colleagues cracked it in the late 1950s.

32 Receive Certificates From TSTI

Thirty-two graduation certificates were presented today to 32 members of the first three Texas State Technical Institute training classes for sewing machine operators at Marie Foundation plant in Pampa.

Dale Greenhouse, Marie Foundations manager, said out of 37 enrollees in the first three classes, only five dropped out and the 32 graduates now are employed at the plant.

Today's presentations were made by Harold N. Roberts, manager of TSTI Industrial Training, and Fred Neslage, president of the Pampa Industrial Foundation which is sponsoring the classes with the cooperation of the Texas Employment Commission.

The first four women to graduate completed the course in four days. Average completion time for the training is ten 8-hour days.

The classes started Sept. 11. The course has been set up to run 20 weeks.

Those wishing to enroll in training classes may do so by applying at the Texas Employment Commission office, 823 W. Francis.

A full new class is started every two weeks. A class of 12 will begin training Monday morning.

Applications are being taken for another class to start Nov. 6.

There is no obligation of a trainee to accept employment. There is no pay during the training period. Trainees who make rapid progress may be employed before completion of the school.

Thieu And Kissinger Reported To Have Discussed Cease-fire

SAIGON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and President Nguyen Van Thieu conferred for nearly four hours today amid reports that a partial cease-fire was being discussed.

It was the third meeting in two days between President Nixon's chief foreign policy adviser and the leader of the Saigon government.

There was no immediate word on Kissinger's next move, but some sources indicated he would remain in Saigon at least through Saturday and most likely would see Thieu again.

Kissinger was accompanied to the meeting today by U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, Deputy Ambassador Charles S. Whitehouse and Gen. Creighton

W. Abrams, the U.S. Army chief of staff.

South Vietnamese sources who reported that a cease-fire proposal was figuring in the talks said it probably called for only a partial truce as a "good will" gesture that could lead to further agreements.

"It is impossible to have any cease-fire that could be enforced, even by international body," said one South Vietnamese official. "It might mean an end to bombing and mining of the North and perhaps an exchange of prisoners, but it would be impossible to guarantee any kind of a cease-fire in the South where the fighting is going on."

The chief stumbling block to a cease-fire agreement has been Thieu's rejection of the Communist condition that he resign and give way to a three-faction coalition government including the Communists.

There has been widespread speculation that Kissinger is trying to persuade Thieu to step down, and the South Vietnamese information ministry in a communique Thursday said the president had renewed his vow "never to accept" a coalition regime.

A number of Thieu's political opponents refused an invitation to meet with him Thursday night to discuss the current status of the peace effort.

Thunderstorm Predicted For Pampa This Evening

Pampans were shivering this morning from last night's 31 degree low and the raw, drizzling rain that had soaked thirsty soil with .30-inch of moisture by 6 a.m.

The local area missed the ice that spotted the Amarillo area during the night but there were patches of fog shrouding early risers.

Pampa had the usual number of "fender-benders" due to rain-slick streets, one of them with a minor injury.

Elsewhere in the state, wet roads were blamed for at least two traffic deaths.

Intermittent rain, drizzle and fog covered most of the western half of the state from the Texas Panhandle into New Mexico and Old Mexico. A few showers also fell in Central Texas. Fog lowered visibility to one mile in some areas.

A collision which occurred Thursday evening as one car skidded sideways on rain-slick US-82 about one mile west of Plains in Yoakum County killed Troy Lee Black, 19, of Denver City and Jerl Wayne Dawson, 22, of Brownfield. Three other persons suffered injuries.

The official word for Pampa and surrounding area is more rain. There is the strong possibility of thundershowers this evening. Cloudy skies and showers will prevail tomorrow but temperatures will moderate.

The expected high for Saturday is 58 degrees. Today's high is forecast at 48 degrees with a low of 40 tonight. This is a contrast to yesterday's high of 35 and a low last night of 31.

Mostly cloudy skies and more rain or drizzle were expected across the state with a little warming by Saturday.

Shriver To Visit Childress

CHILDRESS (SPL) — The McGovern-Shriver campaign organization has announced that Sargent Shriver, vice presidential candidate, will attend the Childress County Old-Fashioned political rally and chili supper here next Tuesday.

Will mark the first appearance in the area of a national candidate, and the first in Childress since Franklin D. Roosevelt made a whistle stop here in the 1930s.

Childress County Democrats are making plans for what they expect to be the biggest political gathering in the state during the campaign season. Virtually all candidates on the local ballot from the County Courthouse to the White House will be represented. Master of ceremonies will be Judge Charles Reynolds of the Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo.

This will probably be the largest gathering of state-wide Democratic candidates who have confirmed plans to attend are: Congressman Graham Purcell, candidate for U.S. Senate, Barefoot Sanders, and Shriver.

Other state senators and representatives also plan to attend, including the Senator Jack Hightower of Vernon.

Estimates put the anticipated attendance at more than 3,000.

Living Costs In September Reported Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of living, led by higher prices for clothing, accelerated in September and pushed the rate of inflation to 3.5 per cent since President Nixon's Phase 2 price controls began, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said that the Consumer Price Index rose four-tenths of one per cent last month, with higher prices for clothing causing almost half of the increase.

The price of gasoline and eggs also contributed heavily to the advance.

Smith Names Former Legislator To Head State Insurance Board

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith, who has been rebuffed twice by the Texas Senate on appointments to the State Board of Insurance, has made Ray Kirkpatrick, Austin lawyer and former legislator, his third choice.

In the same statement, Smith Thursday called on Kirkpatrick, who was made chairman of the powerful board that regulates Texas' insurance companies, to hold "an immediate public hearing" on possible reduction of rates for property and casualty insurance.

Kirkpatrick, 50, a former legislator from Fannin county, was reported out of town and not available for comment. He presently is assistant director of research for the board.

Smith's appointment of Kirkpatrick will be subject to confirmation by the Senate of the next legislative session, probably the regular biennial session beginning in January.

Kirkpatrick will replace Larry Teaver, Smith's aide who was appointed chairman and served almost a year before the Senate last July 7 refused to confirm his appointment. Smith then named Secretary of State Bob Bullock to the influential job but the special session meeting Sept. 17 refused to confirm him before he had taken on the duties.

"Ray Kirkpatrick has the experience and expertise in the operation of state government, in the regulation of insurance, in budgetary matters and in the law," Smith said. "I am completely confident that he will be an effective consumer advocate on the State Board of Insurance."

Smith said that he had asked Kirkpatrick "to do everything possible to reduce rates for property and casualty insurance in Texas."

Smith said that no annual rate adjustments for 1972-73 have been made for fire and extended insurance coverage. "It is our belief that by reducing expense factors by 14 per cent and economic trend factors by 6 per cent, consistent with all available statistics, a statewide premium reduction of approximately $84 million could be obtained. In addition there could be further decreases in rates on certain classes of insurance in certain rating territories because of the reduction in the loss experience for the past year.

"Therefore, I am asking that Ray Kirkpatrick, as new chairman of the board, set an immediate public hearing to consider and adopt rate reductions on these lines of insurance," Smith said.

More Demos Will Vote For Nixon, Poll Shows

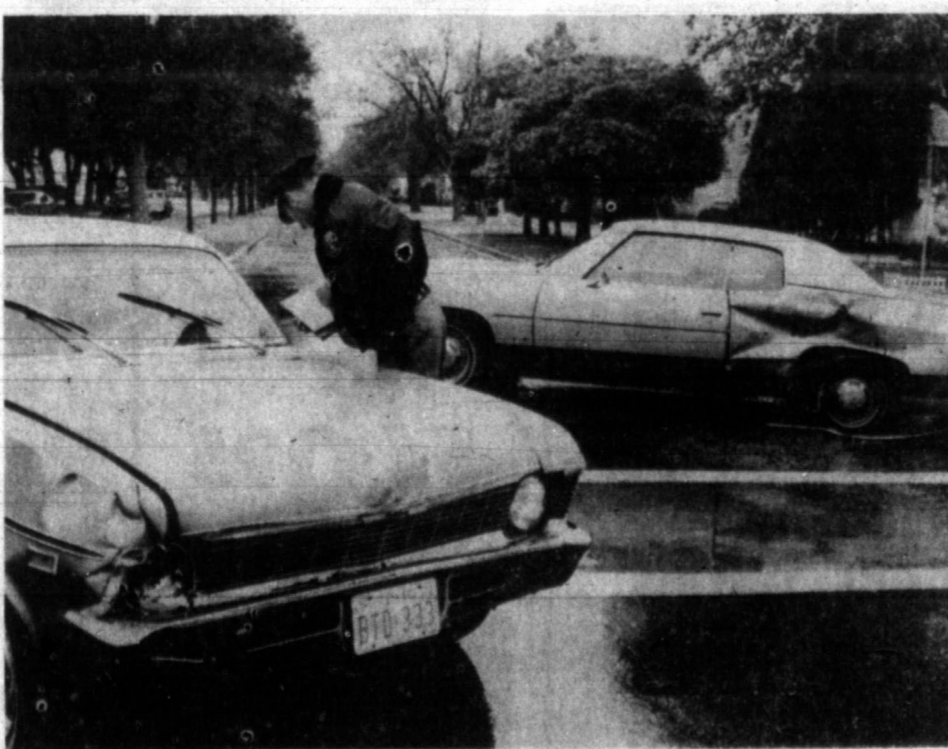

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The Gallup Poll says an unusually high 32 per cent of enrolled Democrats in a recent sampling expect to defect from their party and vote for President Nixon.

The poll was based on a survey of 2,650 registered voters Sept. 29 to Oct. 9.

The poll said that over the past two decades the defection rate among Republicans has gone no higher than 14 per cent except once—in 1964, when 20 per cent of Republicans voted for former President Lyndon B. Johnson over Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

The new poll also reported that voters under 30 years old preferred Nixon over Democratic candidate George McGovern by 51 to 45 per cent—the only time a Republican candidate has gained the edge among younger voters, except in the 1956 election.

The anticipated cross-over rate among Democrats represents a 20-year peak and contrasts with an average figure of 22 per cent in the past five presidential elections, the poll said Thursday.

SLICK STREETS TAKE TOLL of a number of "fender-benders" since the rain began, this was the only injury accident. Ralph Dunbar, 1332 N. Russell was traveling west on Cook St. He stopped for the intersection at Somerville then proceeded. A car driven north on Somerville by Mary Lynn Zellers, 16, struck the left rear of Dunbar's car. He was taken by a passing motorist to a local clinic for examination and treatment. Officer Ken Kieth investigated the accident.

Santa Day Is Nov. 30

Yesterday's Pampa News announcement on Pampa's annual Santa Day observance and start of the Christmas shopping season stated the wrong date.

The story said Thursday, Nov. 3. It should have read Thursday, Nov. 30.

Besides that Nov. 3 is a Friday.

So, again—Santa Day won't be here for five more weeks. Thursday, Nov. 30.

Pampa City Manager Mack Wofford will attend his first meeting as a member of the Texas Municipal League's General Legislative Committee next Tuesday in Austin.

Wofford recently received the appointment to what probably is the League's most important committee. It was made by Mayor Alfred Koebig of Seguin, league president.

The 15-man committee is made up of city officials picked from several TML cities throughout the state.

Purpose of the committee is to establish TML's legislative policies for implementation when the State Legislature convenes in January.

Its members will come up with recommendations for legislative objectives of Texas cities.

The initial meeting of the committee is set for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Commodore Perry Bldg., Austin.

Wofford said he plans to return to Pampa in time for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet that night.

U.S. Food: A Marxist Prop

Since 1922 when Herbert Hoover bailed out Lenin's Five Year Plan, the productive farms of America have served as the food arsenal for the Red bloc's war-making potential.

President Nixon recognized this fact of life-and-death in 1963 when as a private citizen, he condemned a wheat sale then being arranged by the Kennedy administration with the Soviet Union. Mr. Nixon then said rightly that the subsidized shipment "was the major foreign policy mistake of this (the Kennedy) administration, even more serious than... the Bay of Pigs."

"What we're doing," he stated, "is subsidizing Khrushchev at a time when he is in deep economic trouble."

Nine years after that discerning statement Mr. Nixon himself is President, and it is he that is leading the movement to subsidize food shipments to the Red bloc. This comes at a time when American servicemen are being held prisoners of war within the Red bloc. Just as Herbert Hoover was in a position to know the threat that the blood-enriched heroin posed to the future security of American citizens, so President Nixon is in a position to know the savage record and portent of the Red power clique that he now fawns upon. Not only is Mr. Nixon in a position to know he has demonstrated by public utterance that he does in fact know.

The importance of food to war-making capacity long has been recognized by classical economists, and the liberal economists never have been able to ignore it.

In 1776, the British economist Adam Smith pointed out, "It is the surplus produce of the country only, or what is over and above the maintenance of the cultivators, that constitutes the subsistence of the town, which can therefore increase

Forestry And Wildlife

Animals use the forests for shelter, but most of them go out for lunch. So reports American Forest Institute as to the present state of ecology. The institute points out that the main limiting factor to wildlife population is the food supply.

Under natural conditions, fire and wind remove mature trees. The demise of same is followed by an explosion of young plant growth that in turn triggers a boom in wildlife population. In modern times, logging has substituted for fire in the removal of old trees. But regardless of how the curtain of shade is removed, the flood of sunshine on the ground unleashes the growth of grasses, weeds, shrubs and seedlings. The growth draws mice, birds and insects; deer and elk. Predators such as hawks, owls, coyotes and bobcats quickly move in. These reduce the smaller animals to fertilizer which is picked up by the vegetation, all in an endless food chain.

Nature is bountiful. One pair of field mice breeding unchecked, along with descendants, in two years time would produce enough offspring to reach 25 times around the earth and 100 times to and from the moon. Deer also are prolific. Under ideal conditions one buck and five does would increase to more than 1,000 animals in 10 years. Given a food supply, it is hardly likely that a species will perish.

Question Box

QUESTION: One of the better known liberal Democrats has said "Theft has become a way of life." He was referring primarily to the so-called Watergate affair in Washington and the fact that the people of the United States have not become upset over the burglary of the Democratic Party headquarters in Washington. But he also referred to other cases in which the people appear indifferent to criminal conduct as evidence of a moral breakdown in the U.S.A. Do you believe there has been a moral breakdown? Is there a reason?

ANSWER: The answer is yes to both questions, although we can understand the public indifference to the "Watergate incident." The public has become indifferent to the antics of the politicians of all parties, who seem to have placed themselves outside the rules of human conduct. Both Republicans and Democrats seem guilty of all sorts of conduct which is not condoned by most persons or their neighbors. Lying and theft seem to be accepted as a part of politics. And, even when criminal charges are filed before elections, they seem to be dismissed for want of prosecution after the voting is ended. The public seems to believe even the charges of theft, pilferage and spying are only the purpose of influencing the elections.

As to the Watergate incident itself, the whole matter is hard for voting is ended. The public seems to believe even the charges of theft, pilferage and spying are only for the purpose of influencing the elections.

As to the Watergate incident itself, the whole matter is hard for most persons to understand. While there is no reason to defend the entering of private property for espionage or theft, some individuals wonder what there was to hide that it would arouse such great indignation. It is reported that the burglary was an attempt to find something embarrassing against the Democrats. If everything was above board, there should be nothing to become excited about. If, on the other hand, there was something dishonest to be hidden, the politicians have cause to be upset.

As to the moral breakdown in the nation, we believe there has been a great departure from obedience to the great natural laws of human conduct — what the late R.C. Hoiles referred to as the Human Relations Commandments, relating to man's conduct with his fellowman. While one may be in danger from over generalizing, we believe that much of the breakdown is a departure from the respect for private property. By property, we use the definition of Andrew J. Galambos, an individual's life and "all non-procreative derivatives of that life."

Much of the activity of the politicians in government has demonstrated little respect for the lives and property of individuals. The increasing use of taxation (theft) to finance activities in which government has no proper business causes individuals to believe property rights are no longer valid.

And with many leaders of religious groups no longer insisting on obedience to the great moral commandments, but instead boosting more government intervention in human lives, many Americans no longer have a point of moral reference by which to be guided.

The chief would also increase the number of probation officers, thus keeping a strict check on probationers. He would complement this step with a broad increase of parole officers. He asks the courts to reduce drastically the assessment of concurrent sentences. This, he says, might cause a population problem in the penitentiaries but it would reduce the crime rate. He would crack down on the habitual offenders by asking that they be tried as such under state law and given long jolts in the penitentiary.

Chief Dyson, in making his proposals public, was seeking the support of the populace and it would seem that he has come up with some valid propositions. The International Association of Chiefs of Police should give them some consideration. State laws vary on some of the points covered by Chief Dyson but the suggestions the top officer of Dallas makes might generally fit into the law enforcement picture everywhere.

There Are Some 'Nits' To Pick At Peace Table

By PAUL HARVEY
Sen. George McGovern and his running mate, Sargent Shriver, accuse President Nixon of trying for a pre-election peace in Vietnam on terms which he could have had for four years and 27,000 lives ago.

What is the present, right-now asking price for peace in Vietnam?

The Communists at the peace table have not given an inch. When President Nixon first took office nearly four years ago, the Communists in Paris advanced a "new five-point peace proposal."

In essence they demanded total American withdrawal, the ouster of President Thieu and the setting up of a provisional coalition government in Saigon to arrange "free elections."

At the most recent formal session of the Paris peace talks that offer was essentially unchanged from four years ago.

So it's true, as the Democrats say, if President Nixon would settle for peace on these terms, the sacrifices of the last four years would have availed nothing.

But the hard bargaining between them and us has been in private discussions involving our Henry Kissinger and Le Duc Tho who is North Vietnam's Henry Kissinger.

These two, with the sometime intercession of Moscow, are aware that any settlement will have to save face on both sides. Recently a Hanoi broadcast suggested a small but significant modification of their position. It has to do with the makeup of the postwar Saigon government.

For the first time they appear not to demand that they be allowed to dictate the "party of the third part" in a tripartite government for South Vietnam.

They still want President Thieu out of it. But they are suggesting "The provisional revolutionary government (that's North Vietnam) and the Viet Cong (those are the Reds in South Vietnam) and the Saigon administration — excluding President Thieu — will appoint people to participate in a government of national accord... pending free elections.

Presumably those elections, if truly free, could re-elect President Thieu. This would in fact amount to self-determination for the people of South Vietnam which we have consistently contended is what this war is all about.

The voice of Hanoi radio is not binding on their horse-traders, but if Hanoi wanted to encourage a resumption of private bargaining this is one way they might go about it.

So we continue to pound the peace table harder with bombs.

We Occidentals are less patient than Orientals. We quickly grow impatient with the whereas and the nuances and nitpicking involved in collective bargaining.

We are accustomed to demanding what we want.

But this ball game is in their ball park. Before this grotesque American fumble will be recovered, there are some nits to pick.

Think how much work you could get done if you spent less time to dreaming up excuses.

Viruses Cause Common Warts

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Did you once comment on warts caused by a virus? One mother whose child has warts laughed at the idea. I must have mislaid the article so could you please tell me if this is correct?

Dear Reader — You can have the last laugh on your friend. Any competent dermatologist will tell you that all common warts are caused by a virus. They probably belong to a single species of viruses called the papovavirus.

This doesn't mean they are contagious or will spread from one child to another so don't worry about that.

Most of the common warts that appear on the hands and arms and sometimes the face will have a normal life span of about one year. This is an important thought to keep in mind in evaluating any form of treatment. There are several different forms of treatments that doctors use, but usually this is not simply cutting them out.

That can cause infections and since the wart is a virus infection this usually means it comes right back. For this reason doctors often use liquid nitrogen to freeze the wart and then lift it out or electrodissection or other measures.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Why is sugar so detrimental to weight loss? I am an English mother visiting her daughter. My stay has been prolonged by various health problems and I am no longer young. A cup of tea means so much to me. Having tried various sweeteners on the market with tea, I would rather go without. I have failed in so many attempts to lose weight.

Dear Reader — One level teaspoon of sugar contains about 16 calories and only enough energy to walk about a quarter of a mile. The reason people have difficulty losing weight isn't because they use sugar, eat bread or fat meat, but because they eat too much of everything. Sugar does have a lot of calories per weight because it contains little water and no roughage.

If you want to lose weight, though, you should follow a consistent pattern for months directed toward cutting down on excess fats, foods containing flour and sweets or sugar. This helps get rid of the foods that are the richest in calories and lowest in bulk. For a person whose weight is stable a reasonable decrease in calories followed regularly will usually do the trick. Most people tire of their diets and don't stay on them long enough to get effective results, or they go on crash diets that their health can't tolerate any great length of time.

Some people who do not like artificial sweeteners use half sugar and half sweeteners. This is particularly easy to do with the artificial sweeteners that are granulated powders.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on blood sugar send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Blood Sugar" booklet.

Another Explosion in Egypt? — Sadat Pressured for Peace

By ROBERTS ALLEN

WASHINGTON — President Anwar Sadat is in hot water again in his own country.

For the second time since succeeding the late Gamal Nasser in October 1970, Sadat is sitting on a sputtering time-bomb of internal disaffection and revolt.

Dirily ominous for him is the fact that the dissident elements are largely those which enabled him to smash the first attempted upheaval—led by Vice President Ali Sabry, leading Soviet supporter who was known as "Moscow's man in Egypt."

This time the smoldering explosion is from the right—predominantly middle class.

They include younger military officers who are strongly anti-Russian, business and banking interests restlessly champing at the bit to exploit the country's industrial and trade potentials, influential segments of the professional classes and career civil servants.

Significantly, there is increasing sentiment among them that some kind of accommodation should be reached with Israel—even if only of a "temporary" nature—that would permit the reopening of the Suez Canal and resumption of diplomatic and commercial ties with the U.S. and other lucrative Western markets.

Recent visitors to Cairo report that in certain circles there is quite open "peace" talk; that it is not uncommon to hear such statements as: "It's time to stop this interminable saber rattling and war threatening, and work out some kind of modus operandi which we can honorably live with and get on about our national affairs."

Unmistakable in these quarters is growing impatience and resentment at Sadat's monotonously persistent clatter about battle and evident trucking to Libya's fire-eating Col. Muammar el-Qaddafi.

Some knowledgeable authorities, both in and out of Egypt, are of the opinion that Qaddafi is "now the one big stumbling block to an agreement between Egypt and Israel."

A fanatical Moslem and bloodthirsty Israeli hater, Qaddafi is ferociously for exterminating war against the Jewish state.

But—militarily—Libya is virtually powerless. While immensely rich in oil, it has a population of less than 2 million—with a minuscule untried army and an air force, equipped with French Mirage fighter-bombers (that France withheld from Israel) but with few, if any, pilots as yet capable of flying them.

So with Libya unable to do much warring, Qaddafi is using his country's $2.5 billion annual oil income to wage vicarious war on Israel.

Egypt is the principal beneficiary of this gory largesse.

Egypt is the principal beneficiary of this gory largesse.

Egypt is the principal beneficiary of this gory largesse.

Egypt is the principal beneficiary of this gory largesse.

The Sadat regime is getting $40 million from Qaddafi and is literally dancing to his war-mongering tune.

That explains Sadat's erratic and contradictory rhetoric and actions—one moment breathing fire and brimstone, the other professing to want peace; why he abruptly booted Russian troops, technicians and "advisers" (as vigorously urged by Qaddafi) and why the other day Sadat sent Premier Azia Sidky to Moscow presumably to patch up relations.

Another reason for Sidky's sudden trip was the vehement demand of the Egyptian military that immediate arrangements be made to obtain urgently needed weapons and aircraft parts for their Soviet-made arsenal. Without these essential parts, their guns and planes will rapidly deteriorate. Egyptian maintenance is notoriously bad.

While Qaddafi unquestionably carries great weight with Sadat, the strutting, bombastic Libyan ruler is no "hero" in Egypt. He is not popular with either the classes or masses.

Particularly, he is held in little regard by the military—who consider him a grandstanding blow-hard and poseur.

That's why there is growing restiveness and muttering against Sadat—and his constant squirming and puffing, and uncertainty in policy and course.

Time is running out for the harried Egyptian president, and the outcome is a toss-up.

It's questionable whether he can survive another serious internal upheaval—notwithstanding Qaddafi's war-shrilling and oil millions.

Look Who's Talking

Like so many other things Sen. McGovern is glibly voluble about, there is a big credibility gap between his promises regarding press conferences and his performance.

On various occasions both he and his publicity-minded lieutenants have assured newsmen that if elected he would hold frequent press conferences—at least once every other week. But examination of his record during the campaign reveals a very different story.

As of this writing it is almost a shutout.

The South Dakota radical has not held a full-dress press conference in a month. He has had a few brief sessions with local reporters, interested in local matters, and several late-night informal chats with correspondents traveling with him. And that is all!

Even when he appeared before an audience of editors in Washington, it was a hit-and-run performance. Only three questions were accepted, and then McGovern beat it, claiming he had a "tight schedule."

Said one editor: "I wasn't surprised. That's old news with him. He talks a lot but doesn't deliver."

A RELAXING PLACE — For shopping in a pleasant atmosphere, customers can visit Pants West in Coronado Center. When it's time to buy new clothes for the entire family, customers can find a varied selection at Pants West. (Staff Photo)

Pants West Is Pampa's Friendly Shop

When shopping for those informal and casual clothes for the family, why not shop where the atmosphere is friendly and relaxed? Pants West is in town at Coronado Center with clothes for the entire family, from Mom and Dad to brother and sister, including the latest fashions in modern clothes. Whether it be jeans and double-knit slacks or shirts and blouses, Pants West has a great choice of colors and patterns and styles from which to choose those new clothes. Levi, Lee and Mann are three good reasons for shopping in the friendly atmosphere of Pants West. They are among the big names in "relaxed" clothing. Modern shops today tend to offer clothing for one age group, but not Pants West. They have flashy clothes for everyone in the family, including Danagel shirts for Dad, Donmoore shirts for boys, blouses by Levi for Mom and the girls and, of course, pants for everyone. Levis used to be thought of as the old conventional blue jeans. But Pants West has a pleasant surprise. Levis extend from dress pants to stripes, plaids, bell bottoms, straight cuts, almost any kind of pants you can think of. Double-knit slacks have hit in full force and Pants West has them. Double-knits make every man feel better in his clothes. Pants West offers them in waist sizes from 28 to 50. Levi jackets are a current trend for the casual look in men's clothing. Pants West also has them, including jackets for the little boys in the family. And with cool weather coming up, now is the time to get that new jacket. The firm opened May 1, 1971, and with over a year's experience, Pants West knows what Pampans want. And although Pants West is a franchised establishment, it is locally owned. So there are no outrageous prices to help pay some big industry's way. Another big bargain for Pampans and other area residents is the low overhead at Pants West. This means additional savings for the buyer. Donna Slavik, the friendly manager at Pants West, invites shoppers to browse around in the relaxed atmosphere of the firm and let her, Sandy Brewer, Jane Boyd or Debbie Lamar show the latest fashions in clothes for the entire family.

At Sand Creek, Colo., in 1864, a village of Arapahoe and Cheyenne Indians was attacked by a U.S. Army force. Men, women and children died in the battle.

Ward's Auto Service Center Can Offer Better Bargains

Montgomery Ward is known for their fine retail products, but also they are popular for their "after-the-sale" services. Though Montgomery Ward does not have automobiles in stock, they can run better and look better with Ward's servicing. Montgomery Ward has a stock of accessories that make other parts houses envious. Well-trained mechanics are ready to tackle any problem you might have with your vehicle. The main objective of the Montgomery Ward Auto Service Center is to install

Ward's merchandise. The Auto Service Center also features themselves as an official State Inspection Station which is open 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Just a few of the services performed by the service department are wheel balancing, disc and regular brake adjustment and installation, wheel alignment, exhaust systems, motor tune-ups and various other services. If the car or truck needs new tires or the battery has overworked itself with summer driving, Ward's is the place to go for service. Ward's keeps a plentiful supply of quality auto passenger and truck tires and batteries. Ward's has a policy which is hard to beat. They are one of the few retailers to offer lifetime guarantee batteries, mufflers and shocks-and backs them with service to boot. The big word at Montgomery Ward Auto Service Center is "safety." Safety in work, safety in installation and safety in products. If it is safety accessories you need, Ward's again is the place to shop. When your car is inspected at Montgomery Ward, you can be sure that there is no risk of failure on the highway. All of these services alone should make a person want to trade with Montgomery Ward, but there is even more. The store carries everything anybody could need, all in the same building. There are clothes, sporting goods, boats, motors, lawn equipment, televisions, radios, records, stereos and many, many more items. Think of the service and neighborly people at Montgomery Ward and wonder why you are shopping elsewhere.

CHECKING FOR SAFETY — When Dick Burkhardt (above) gets finished working on this car, it will be on the safest on the road. The word at the Montgomery Ward Auto Service Center is safety. The safety-minded mechanics always strive to insure the safety of the car—and of the customer. (Staff Photo)

Ford's Body Shop Can Give Best Body Work For Cars

For the best work in town—and in the immediate area—the business to visit is Ford's Body Shop at 111 N. Frost. Coyle Ford, owner and manager of Ford's Body Shop, has several expert body repairmen, including himself, ready to fix your crumpled fenders and caved-in doors. Ford's probably does the most auto body work in the Pampa area. To protect that freshly seeded lawn, a quick and easy fence can be made of lightweight steel chain attached to 1 x 3 inch wooden stakes. For a more permanent job, get some one-inch pipe at a salvage yard, cut to the desired length and treaded on one end. The pipe can easily be driven into the ground with a heavy sledge. Fit tee-connections on the threaded ends and run the chain through the tees.

Robert McCain, shop manager, said Ford's appreciates the business given them by people from White Deer, Miami, Lefors, Mobettie and other area towns. The people come to Ford's because they know the most modern equipment is used in restoring the once-beautiful features of a damaged car. And with the best equipment and trained, experienced repairmen, you can be assured that the best job will be done. Satisfaction is guaranteed to suit the customer's taste. With as many cars on the road as there is today, it is nice to know that if your car is involved in an accident, there is a place where repairs can be made as cheaply and as beautifully as at Ford's Body Shop. There is always an attendant on duty to help you with your problem if an accident should occur. Ford invites you to come by the shop anytime to look over the fine facilities and check some of the work done at Ford's Body Shop.

Business Mirror

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1960s not only were memorable; they were unforgettable in the sense that changes resulting from market excesses in that decade led to restrictions that every broker in America must live with every day. Performance, the label which identified the derring-do, the hip-shooting of the gunslingers—brokers, trusts, funds that were concerned always with showing the greatest gains at any moment—has been replaced by restraint, by fundamentals, by the long-term view. The quest for a quality market is a direct result of the failings of the gunslingers, most of whom went broke and whose embarrassment was compounded by exposure of their shenanigans in books and congressional testimony. The most humiliating, mud-in-your-eye evidence against them was that no matter how good they looked one year, the odds against them repeating their performance year after year were of a kind a bookie wouldn't touch. One survey after another showed that the swift, in-out trading, the rapid portfolio turnover, the gambles on high-flying speculations might have helped temporarily, but never over the long run. In fact, serious studies led many investors to conclude that an unmanaged portfolio of sound stocks would appreciate just as much over a 10-year period as one managed by a performer. Now a broker can't take his eyes off the tape without missing something. Phases that once blended gracefully now bump each other, flashing onto the scene like slides projected on a screen. And so, the wild days of the gunslingers is followed by the mudslingers, who gloried in revealing the corruption of the market place.

NEW YORK (AP) — The summer rally, Wall Streeters and State Streeters and LaSalle Streeters and Montgomery Streeters are saying, was cut short by the Indian summer slump. No great surprise. Not only was this anticipated by many, but it was considered a necessary prelude to the year-end rally. The securities industry loves labels such as these, because labels seem to explain while really doing little more than identifying the inexplicable, the difficult, the unknown or unbelievable. Nixonomics and McGovernism are widely used to explain market behavior, although many brokers would find it more difficult to list five elements of either program than to list five reasons why you should buy from them. But there may be another reason also for the labels, and that reason is the speed of change. Change is what everyone is betting on, change that will make the future better than the past. And each change must be identified. Change has speeded up. In the late 1930s and early 1940s you could have played a softball game on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange if you didn't make so much noise as to rouse those who wished to rest instead.

Pres. Jawara Visits Gambia
TAIPEI (AP) — President Dawda Ksiraba Jawara of Gambia arrived in Taipei Monday for an eight-day state visit to Taiwan, but President Chiang Kai-shek missed the welcoming ceremony. Chiang apparently skipped the ceremony because of advice from physicians that the 84-year-old Nationalist China leader avoid outdoor activities. Sources close to Chiang said he is still weak from a cold he suffered last month. Jawara, accompanied by his wife, was greeted at the Taipei airport by Vice President Yen Chia-kan and Mrs. Yen.

Do-It-Yourself Course in Citizenship

By Ernestine Guglielmo
 FREEVILLE, N.Y.—(NEA)—Order is called in the courtroom. All rise as Kevin, 18, in somber judicial robes, enters.

Kevin is chief magistrate of the George Junior Republic. He hears cases involving illegal use of tobacco, violation of health codes, trespassing and runaways and hands down verdicts accordingly.

He was on the other side of the bench often enough; a judge suggested to his parents that he be sent to the George Junior Republic. That was two years ago.

Other young people in the room are familiar with courtroom procedures. Difficulties at home, school or within themselves — resulting in truancy, flunking grades and sometimes delinquency — has often led them to the courts.

The courtroom, run entirely by the young people, dramatizes their groping toward a more mature understanding of rules and responsibility.

For 77 years, the George Junior Republic has operated as a school, community and social agency for teen-agers, 13-19, who have been placed there by parents, social agencies or the courts.

One hundred and eighty young people, 135 boys and 45 girls, mostly urban teen-agers, now live on the 1,200 sprawling acres of lush green land located in the Finger Lakes district of New York.

When a teen-ager arrives at the George Junior Republic, he must find a job, a place to stay and decide whether he wants to go to school. After naturalization proceedings, young people become citizens and can vote, run for office, enact and enforce their own laws.

"There probably would be resentment if the administration enforced the rules instead of the citizens," says Kevin. "We're all close in age, know each other quite well and are all going through the same program, so there's little resentment."

The grounds sprinkled with cottages and modern buildings are taken care of by citizens. Preparing themselves for life in a competitive society, the young people go about their daily jobs—building roofs, pitching hay, fixing heavy equipment, painting and making pottery and studying. Their motto is "Nothing Without Labor."

Everyone must work and is paid in the Republic's own currency, according to his job, his experience and his skill. It is the citizen's responsibility to get and keep a job and to earn enough to pay room and board. A citizen may get fired or may quit, but he must supply recommendations for his next job.

'NOTHING WITHOUT LABOR' is the motto of the Republic, and for some a guitar provides a labor of love.

Citizens are also paid for going to classes. "In a sense we hire them to come to school," says Mr. Reinhart, who heads up the academic department. The Republic is accredited by the New York State Department of Education so a citizen may earn junior or senior high school diplomas if they choose to. "But graduation from the Republic and not school is what's important," says Reinhart. "The community is the school."

When a citizen feels he is ready to leave, he writes a graduation booklet evaluating himself in all areas — home life, work, recreation, school life — and this is generally given to his teachers and fellow citizens to substantiate.

Graduation from the Republic doesn't come after a set time. The policy is that a citizen "is expected to remain until he has gained such insight, self-discipline, sense of responsibility and mobilization toward future goals as will enable him to carry on his life effectively elsewhere." Citizens are then prepared to face the world they once found so frustrating.

Michael Daly, assistant to the executive director, believes that "the reason so many other places established to help young people have failed is that they did not give them enough trust and responsibility."

So the George Junior Republic is self governing.

Women outnumber men in West Virginia by a ratio of 50 to 47, census figures show.

In the mid-19th century, California's Imperial Valley was a waterless wasteland "not worth a dollar," according to Daniel Webster. A canal from the Colorado River brought irrigation in 1901, and the valley's year-round harvest now brings $250 million.

Each November, on election day, a president, vice president, secretary of state and secretary of treasury are elected by the citizens. Citizens may practice law in the Republic's courts after passing bar exams. The citizens have arresting officers, or their own police force, their own constitution and law book, their own bank, customs office and Internal Revenue Department.

The skills the citizens acquire are significant and often rewarding in themselves. But the pride and satisfaction derived from accomplishment helps develop their self image.

The George Junior Republic has had some distinguished graduates. But their hope for their graduates is "the ability to cope well, if not achieve notably."

What's in a name? To Viola, everything

By Abigail Van Buren
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I was in the same boat with "Nameless," whose husband of 20 years refused to call her by her name.

This nut I was married to for 13 years would never call me "Viola," which was my name. [It was always, "Tell your mother, etc."]

I once asked him why he never called me "Viola," and he said there was a little town by that name he hated. I quit asking him to call me "Viola."

I'm glad we aren't married anymore. VIOLA

DEAR ABBY: This is in behalf of the man who has not called his wife by her first name in 20 years.

I, too, am such a man. I love my wife dearly, and altho she has a beautiful first name, I have avoided calling her by her name during the almost 50 years of our happy marriage.

Why? Because there is an old Danish superstition that love for one's dear wife should be kept well hidden so the devil doesn't hear about it and do her harm out of sheer wickedness. Consequently a husband will refer to his beloved wife as "The Old Lady" or "The Old Woman" or something slightly degrading, should the devil be listening and identify her.

I realize it's only a silly superstition, but I've never been able to shake it. SUPERSTITIOUS DANE

DEAR DANE: Keeping quiet about one's good fortune, lest the devil "hear" you and reverse your luck is not only a Danish superstition—it's Jewish, too.

DEAR ABBY: I married a girl named "Anita" which happened to be my mother's name. I couldn't bring myself to call my bride "Anita." Worse yet, that's not all I couldn't do, so 100 hours on the couch and $3,500 later I overcame the Mother thing—but what a drag!

BETTER SHRUNK THAN SUNK

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I never call each other by our given names and for a good reason. I am his sixth wife and he is my fourth husband. He slipped just once and called me "Sally." [My name is Bertha.] I was married to two different Bobs and I came close to calling him "Bob" on more than one occasion. We made a deal. He calls me "Baby" and I call him "Pops." A 55-YEAR-OLD "BABY"

DEAR ABBY: About the man who couldn't [or wouldn't] call his wife by her name. I know exactly how he feels because I had the same problem.

I'm a widow now, but I was married for many years to a man I just adored, but I couldn't call him "Charlie" to save my life.

One time, some relatives got a hold of me and insisted that I call my husband "Charlie"—and I could hardly say it. It just didn't sound right. I could call him "Darling," "Sweetheart" or "Daddy" [we had six kids], but I couldn't call him "Charlie" to his dying day, and how I loved that man, and he loved me. CHARLIE'S LOVING WIDOW

POLLY'S POINTERS
Entitled To Service
At Filling Station
By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—I am a service station manager who would like to comment on E.M.'s trouble with getting her windshield cleaned when she buys gas. DEMAND that the windshield be washed because, as a paying customer, you deserve at least that. Do not tip the attendant for, if you have to go as far as to ask for such service, he does not deserve one and is probably too lazy to put the tip in his pocket anyway. No cars leave our station without the windows being washed, the belts, battery, tires and oil checked even if the purchase only amounts to a dollar. Either the personnel in the station she goes to are extremely lazy or they do not appreciate her business. Discuss the matter with the station manager as he may not be aware of the lousy service you are getting.—BOB

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—Our home has electric heating units in the baseboards under the windows. I would like to know what length curtains and draperies I should use that would be attractive, too.—MRS. K. L. H.

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with those people who water their sidewalks more than their lawns. This is a waste of precious water and, if one is walking and perhaps pushing a baby stroller, it can result in a muddy mess.—RAMONA

Answer tomorrow

By Oswald & James Jacoby
What do you think of North's bidding? Sheer whimsy? Or real top level? Top level is the answer. North really doesn't have a bid over West's one-spade opening. If he doubles he expects his partner to bid hearts and his minor suits are just four cards each.
Then East barges into Blackwood in direct response to the one-spade opening. North doesn't know just what is going on but he passes at five diamonds and East settles for five spades.
This gets back to North and North should have a pretty good picture of the East hand. He has tried for a slam with just one ace. He must have a lot of hearts and spades and singletons in both minor suits.
South is marked with an ace and probably nothing else, but he certainly should be long in at least one minor since clearly he can't hold

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21
Your birthday today: Relations at all levels are tested vigorously, the real connections intensified. Begin seeking the simplest course. Today's natives tend to become experts in technical specialties, politics, or philosophy.
Aries [March 21-April 19]: Be accurate, even though it may mean doing much less. Personal responsibility is essential to your success.
Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Confide details of your plans to nobody until the time comes to act. The bright idea that pops today has lasting importance.
Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Close friends and business do not mix. Much of the advice you get comes from people who mean well but do not know enough.
Cancer [June 21-July 22]: It's a bit late for direct enterprise. Try diplomacy and abstinence from controversy while people readjust to changes.
Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: It is just as well that you have enough to keep you busy. Experiments, speculative ventures are not favored, produce unplanned results.
Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Stick with what you know from experience, particularly where financial maneuvers of purchases of unusual items are concerned.
Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: Minister to the needs of older people as they come to your attention, leaving questions and discrepancies for later consideration.
Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Ordinarily useful things may become hazards. Plan alternatives as there is a chance your regular connections may not work.
Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Taking chances may appeal to you, but this isn't the day to indulge in strenuous or unfamiliar activities.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Now is the time to be considerate of others' needs. Your own ventures must be reexamined for relevance to present conditions.
Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Expect those near you to be critical no matter what you do. Conditions at the moment yield much opportunity for conflict.
Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Let wild words go past you half-noted; you will get a fuller story later. More experienced people have advice, if you ask.

Methodists Dedicate
$1.5 Million Plant

SAN ANTONIO — Methodists oldest and largest home for unwed mothers will dedicate their new $1.5 million facility here at 6487 Whitby Road, Oct. 27. The Methodist Mission Home is owned and operated by the six annual conferences in Texas and New Mexico. The 10 a.m. dedication ceremony will focus on the naming of the chapel in memory of J.W. Perry, a benefactor of the home and a long-time member of San Antonio's Travis Park United Methodist Church. Bishop O. Eugene Slater, resident bishop of the San Antonio area and president of the Council of Bishops of the United Methodist Church, will make the dedicatory address. Bishop Slater headed the building fund campaign that began in 1964. The Methodist Mission Home began in 1895 in San Antonio as a "mission and maternity home for unwed mothers." The unique ministry to the unwed mother has continued under different names and at two other locations in the city. This year the home will serve 250 to 300 girls. Dr. Spencer L. Stockwell, administrator, cites the total care received by girls at the home.

"The girl's emotional needs are of prime importance from the time she enters the home," said Dr. Stockwell. "She is assigned a counselor who begins by consulting with the girl and her parents, both together and separately." During the stay at the home, the girls need lose no time in school because accredited courses are offered for grades 9-12 in cooperation with a local San Antonio high school. The home is a licensed adoptive agency.

Old Challenges New In Israeli Leadership

TEL AVIV (AP) — Legend says that when the Old Testament was handed down from heaven, a sword was wrapped in the scrolls. This week two men forged by the sword and the Bible are preparing to take over as chief rabbis of Israel, the new twin popes of the Jewish state. One is a retired brigadier general, Shlomo Goren, silver-bearded former chaplain to the Israeli defense forces, veteran paratrooper, winner of a sharpshooter's badge, and the man who succeeded in moulding ancient Jewish law to suit life in a modern army. The other is Iraqi-born Ovadia Yosef, who as a rabbinical judge in Egypt 24 years ago opposed the authorities and helped hundreds of Jews escape in a modern exodus to Israel. Goren and Yosef were elected last Sunday to head the religious establishment by 150 Jewish Biblical scholars and politicians who reject the intolerance of the previous chief rabbis toward Israel's secular majority. "Anyone who thinks I am going to cause revolutions is mistaken. I do not intend to deviate one iota from Halacha — ancient Jewish law," Goren said after the election. But he added he intends to prove that "it is possible to live in modern times in keeping with the law." Yosef said his ambition was to "restore the rabbinate — which has sunk to an all-time low — to its former glory." Goren, 55, a father of three, and Yosef, 52, who has 11 children, are expected to take office in about two months. Go-

Sunday Will End Baptist
Revival Series

Sunday is the last day of revival at First Baptist Church. The pastor, Rev. Claude Cone is the preacher and John Glover, Minister of Music and Youth from the Monterey Baptist Church, Lubbock, is the singer. According to George Warren, minister of education, each Sunday School department is emphasizing attendance for this last day of revival. Goals have been set for each department with a total of 950. The Church Training Program goal has been set at 300. The Baptist women will go to Hereford Tuesday to hear an address by Mrs. C.J. Humphreys. They meet at the church at 10:00 a.m. The church bus will be taken. Jews, Christians and Moslems alike accept the biblical Abraham as an exemplary model of the man of unswerving faith.

ETERNITY SECURITY
Truth or Heresy?
REV. SAM GODWIN

The advocates of eternal security teach that the believer is sure of Heaven even though his sin is DELIBERATE, REPEATED AND UNCONFESED. (Dr. Pink in his book "Sins of the Saints") Most people who claim to believe in eternal security do not realize how deadly this teaching is because they have never taken the trouble to follow it to its ultimate and logical conclusion. Some of the largest denominations of today were the Revival-movements-of-a-century ago. Most of them today are cold, dead and lifeless and powerless. "Having not the Spirit" (Jude 19) There are still a few good Christians who are connected with these apostate groups but they cannot survive unless they obey God and "From such turn away." (II Tim. 3:5)

The progress of sin:

1. A believer sins through weakness but may be restored to fellowship by repentance and faith.
2. Sin is repeated until it becomes a way of life. Godly sorrow for sin diminishes and the need for repentance is not felt as acutely as before.
3. Weary of constantly repenting and making a new start, finally, sin is accepted and tolerated and is even defended by a doctrine purporting to have scriptural basis. "Holding the truth in unrighteousness."
This is about the ultimate in apostasy. (Rom. 1:18)
II Pet. 2:19-21 "While they promise them liberty, they themselves are the servants of corruption: for of whom a man is overcome, of the same he is brought in bondage. For if after they have—ESCAPED—the pollutions of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are AGAIN entangled therein and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning. For it had been better for them not to have known THE WAY OF RIGHTEOUSNESS, than, after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered unto them."
As an angel of light, there is perhaps no teaching which, at first sight has greater to the sincere believer than this doctrine of "Eternal Security."

The thought that we are as sure of heaven as if we were already there certainly is inspiring. But the Bible teaches that we are eternally secure upon CONDITIONS, and that does not mean WORKS. If I offer you a gift and your arms are full of junk and you drop the junk to accept the gift, you have met a condition, but you have not worked or paid for the gift. There is a difference in works and conditions. Repentance is a condition leading to salvation. (Acts 2:38) FAITH is another condition of salvation. (Acts 16:31) Confession of Christ openly is another condition. (Rom. 10:9-10) If there are CONDITIONS (not works) to be saved, there are also CONDITIONS for being KEPT. The Gospel of grace is a COVENANT. A COVENANT implies a two-fold responsibility. God does his part. We have a part to do. Covenant is also called a TESTAMENT. It is like an "AGREEMENT" OR A CONTRACT. The eternal security teaching throws all the responsibility on God to get us to Heaven. Covenant is a VOLUNTARY agreement. If you VOLUNTARILY enter into an agreement can you not also voluntarily withdraw from this relation? Eternal security says "no." The Bible teaches the possibility because the same conditions that were essential to becoming saved are also essential to remaining saved. We cannot over-emphasize the power of God to keep us but we can under-emphasize and ignore man's responsibility. God cannot save a sinner independent of his meeting certain conditions. To do so would violate man's free, moral agency which is also of divine origin. Neither can God keep a saint unless he meets certain conditions. To say God CANNOT may seem to be a strong statement but we are simply saying that God cannot go against his own word. God's integrity is at stake. II Tim. 1:12 "He is able to keep that which I have COMMITTED unto Him against that day." We must commit ourselves to Him in order to be kept. Heb. 7:25 "He is able to save them to the uttermost that COME unto God by Him." We must COME. Jude 24 "He is able to keep you from falling." IF (vs. 20-23) you "Build up yourselves on your most holy faith, PRAYING IN THE HOLY GHOST, (no such thing in worldly churches today) KEEP YOURSELVES in the love of God, Etc."

Harvesters Open Defense Of Crown

Pampa's Harvesters open their defense of the District 3-AAAA crown tonight as they host Caprock of Amarillo in the district opener for each team. The game will get underway under hopefully clearing conditions at 7:30 p.m. in Harvester Stadium.

Pampa enters the game with a 3-2 pre-district record. The Harvesters have beaten Dumas, Perryton and Canyon and have been defeated by Hereford and Carlsbad, N.M.

The Longhorns from Caprock have beaten Odessa Ector, El Paso, Andrews, Canyon and Lubbock, losing only to Perryton, to compile a 4-1 record thus far.

Coach Buddy Williams had some bad news for Pampa fans yesterday afternoon with the announcement that both of the Harvesters' starting offensive tackles and the quarterback were doubtful for the game tonight.

Harmon Staus has missed practice this week with a light case of bronchial pneumonia and Larry Johnson has had an ear infection. They may see action.

Rich Leverich, sophomore quarterback, severely sprained his ankle in practice Wednesday, and it is extremely doubtful that he will play.

"We had good practices this week, particularly on Wednesday," coach Williams said. "The kids are looking forward to the opening of the district race.

"We have one advantage going for us this year—a plus factor—it doesn't appear to us that the kids are burned out."

"I hope we peak out at the right time and I think that will happen. The kids have determination and the fans are going to see the effort," Williams added.

"The game against Caprock will be real tough," Williams said. "Every year since I've been here it's been a hard-fought, close game."

"Caprock never gives up. Last year and the year before we were ahead and they came back in the last of the game to score on us."

In last year's tilt Caprock scored in the final minute to close to within two points of the Harvesters, 21-19. Failure to make the two-point conversion averted a tie.

"We have to control the line of scrimmage on both offense and defense to win the game," Williams added. "We'll have to put it on them early and keep after them—never let down."

"Caprock has a big front line and big linebackers on defense as well as returning their entire secondary," coach Williams said. "They pursue and hit well. Inconsistency on offense has been their biggest problem so far."

Coach Williams said that he expected the Longhorns to run right at the Harvester defensive line and use play-action passes.

Two-way end Sonny Teague and defensive tackle Mitch Warren are the two Caprock players who have impressed the Harvester staff most.

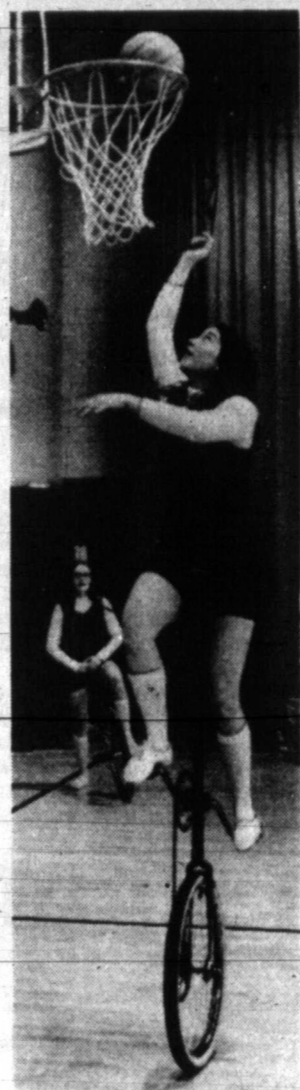

Pampa has added a few plays to its offense in an attempt to keep Caprock from loading up on them outside. That tactic has been the big problem plaguing the Harvester attack this season.

Starting offensively for the Harvesters will be Jesse Hunnicutt and sophomore Howie Lewis at the ends. Bill Cox and Craig Watson at the tackles, Gary Jennings and Ed Townsend at guards and David Lanehart at center.

In the backfield will be Rich Musgrave at quarterback, Steve Mathis at fullback and Richard McCampbell and Joe Curtis at the halfbacks.

Defensively, Jody Johnson and Jack King will be the ends, Billy Lemons and Mark Warren will be the tackles, Ed Townsend will be at noseguard and Hunnicutt and Kim Lindsey will be the linebackers.

McCampbell and Carson Watt will be the safeties and Mathis and Rick Smith will be the cornerbacks.

Ninth-Inning Finish Gives Oakland 3-1 Edge

OAKLAND (AP) — "Get a good pitch you can drive," said Oakland Manager Dick Williams. "Try to get the ball some place."

Pinch-hitter Angel Mangual got the pitch he wanted and put it in the right place—a single to right field that scored the winning run for the A's Thursday night.

The dramatic base hit through a drawn-in infield capped a two-run rally in the last of the ninth inning as Oakland beat the Cincinnati Reds 3-2 and took a solid 3-1 lead in the 1972 World Series.

"I prayed that the ball would go through," said Mangual after driving in Gene Tenace from third base with the winning run.

Three pinch-hitters came through for Williams in that emotion-charged ninth after the A's appeared to be finished.

Pedro Borbon, who had pitched in the eighth in relief of Cincinnati starter Don Gullett, was sitting on a 2-1 lead when the A's came up in the last inning. The Reds' right-hander got the first out of the inning, a harmless grounder by Mike Hegan.

Then Gonzalo Marquez hit for center fielder George Hendrick and singled up the middle, stirring the 49,410 partisan fans at the Oakland Coliseum.

When Borbon went to a 2-1 count on Tenace, Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson thought it was time for his best reliever, Clay Carroll.

Carroll threw one of his sinker balls to Tenace and the Oakland catcher hit it through the infield to left, just beyond the reach of shortstop Dave Concepcion for a single that sent pinch-runner Allan Lewis to second.

"He threw a good sinker to Tenace," said Anderson. "It was just a routine ground ball that got through."

Williams next called on Don Mincher to pinch-hit, telling the veteran first baseman: "Go up swinging."

He did—and promptly brought the crowd to its feet with a single to right field that scored Lewis with the tying run.

Oakland pennants sprouted in the stands and wriggled furiously as the noise from the crowd became ear-splitting.

The stage was set for Mangual with runners on first and third and one out. He jumped on Carroll's first offering—a "fastball right over the plate"—and hit it to the right side of the infield. Second baseman Joe Morgan stretched for it, but it was a couple of feet beyond his reach. Tenace came in with the winning run to the wild cheers and an exploding scoreboard in center field.

Fireworks went off as the Oakland catcher jumped on home plate and headed for a knot of happy teammates erupting from the dugout.

"The man upstairs has been good to me in this Series," said

Tenace, who also hit a home run in the fifth inning to break a 20-inning Oakland scoring drought.

Tenace's third home run of the Series gave the A's a 1-0 lead off Cincinnati's Don Gullett. That small margin lasted until the Reds rallied for two runs in the eighth inning.

Dave Concepcion singled off starter Ken Holtzman and went to second on Julian Javier's sacrifice. A bounce by Pete Rose moved Concepcion to third and at this juncture, Williams brought in Vida Blue to pitch to Joe Morgan.

It turned out to be a mistake. Morgan walked on a 3-2 count, then Bobby Tolán ripped a line-drive double into the right field corner to give the National League champions a 2-1 lead over the American league title-winners.

That hit kept the hometown crowd subdued until the wild, ninth-inning finish. Rollie Fingers finished up and got his first World Series victory, providing the A's with the type of airtight pitching that has muffled Cincinnati's tough hitters.

The Reds, who rode to the National League flag on speed and brute power, didn't hit a home run in the first four games—all decided by one run.

Their usually-lethal first three batters—Rose, Morgan and Tolán—have collected a meager four hits in 44 appearances. And the Reds' top slugger, Johnny Bench and Tony Perez, haven't hit a run nor driven in a run between them.

The A's tried to nail down the series with Jim "Catfish" Hunter against Cincinnati's Jim McGlothlin today.

College Roundup

"We've got a heckuva chance."

Maybe Colorado Coach Eddie Crowder was whistling in the dark when he made that comment since the Buffaloes collide head-on with the nationally second-ranked Oklahoma Sooners in the top college football game Saturday.

At any rate Crowder will have Colorado's star runner, Charlie Davis, and his teammates keyed up for the clash with the unbeaten Sooners who haven't yielded a touchdown in four games.

Colorado was upset by Oklahoma State earlier in the season but climbed back to ninth in the Associated Press Top Ten by whipping Iowa State last week.

Crowder and the Buffaloes would like nothing better than to humble the Sooners and their star halfback Greg Pruitt. The Sooners are favored to make five in a row, but as Crowder snaps "the national championship hasn't been decided yet."

The other teams in the AP Top Ten, also are expected to win handily.

Ohio State, No. 4, is pitted against Indiana, No. 5 Nebraska against Kansas, No. 6 Michigan against Illinois, No. 7 Louisiana State against Kentucky in a night game and No. 8 Notre Dame against Missouri.

Among the AP second Ten, No. 11 UCLA will meet California, No. 12 Penn State goes against Syracuse, No. 13 Stanford takes on Oregon, No. 14 Texas battles No. 17 Arkansas at night, No. 15 Auburn faces Georgia Tech, No. 16 Air Force tangles with Navy No. 19 Arizona State locks horns with Brigham Young and No. 20 Iowa State hosts Kansas State.

CANYON, Tex. (AP) — Quarterback Mike Adams ran for two touchdowns and passed for two more as the West Texas State University freshmen defeated the North Texas State freshmen 65-13 here Thursday night.

Adams threw touchdown passes of 17 yards to Jeff Lloyd and 45 yards to Mike Lozano. Lozano also returned a punt 73 yards for another touchdown.

He wasn't making any promises, but Arnold Palmer—now 43 and rapidly approaching the status of elder statesman of the pro golf tour—was in a tie for the lead again and threatening to add to his collection of some 60 tour titles.

Fifteen Yards for Biting the Ref?

Dick Butkus, the ferocious linebacker of the Chicago Bears was piously denying that he had ever sunk his teeth into a referee on the battlefield.

"If I'd been dumb enough to bite a referee, I would have bitten his arm off," said Butkus as he bared his werewolf fangs at a Life Magazine interviewer.

Just to be safe, though, NFL officials are standing in line for tetanus shots this year because the fans, coaches and players have united to spread some static on the judgment calls that spell disaster by inches to the losing team.

No less than Pete Rozelle's pontifical office rapped referee Norm Schacter and his crew on the wrist for missing a call in the Oakland-Green Bay game the second week of the season. Oakland was awarded a winning touchdown on a 104-yard runback of a fumbled lateral. The rule states that a muffed lateral may not be advanced and so the call was a lapse of interpretation for the NFL crew.

Then there were grumblings in Washington the third week of the season. Post-game films indicated that Redskins receiver Roy Jefferson did indeed twinky-toe inbounds with a game winning touchdown against the upstart New England Patriots. Officials had ruled otherwise on the field and hot contender Washington lost its first game of the season, 24-23.

And after a game with Detroit, Chicago Bears coach Abe Giron opted for the $500 fine levied by the NFL for public criticism of officiating. But Giron had good reason. In that game, the Lions received zero penalties. Can you believe that? Come on now, ref. Not one sneaky little holding on the offensive line? Not one clip, the whooille game? I demand that the Detroit Lions turn in their heraldic motif helmets for stark white... as the NFL's only good guys.

In each of the three situations above, the team doing the grousing lost. And so the stench of sour grapes shrouds the issue.

Still, an ex-NFL player told me that the 'bad calls' of the referees were "part of the game, like the elements of weather, team emotion and luck. You just have to play to make up for the bad calls. Then you have no legitimate gripe."

Human judgment and human error from the players and coaches as well as from the officials will always dominate football. But there are other sports that are trying to remove as much of the error from their officiating as is humanly possible.

Tennis is one. Big-time tennis or nickel-and-dime tournaments are both officiated by men and women who volunteer their time. They are unpaid officials whose availability is more important in some cases than their qualifications. They work sporadically at a job that requires extreme eye agility and instant decision.

To improve the quality of tennis officiating, Colonel Fred Karsten of Houston, Texas, has invented the Electronic Line Indicator (ELI), which was demonstrated at the U.S. Open Tennis Championship at Forest Hills last August.

It will, in theory at least, lower the margin of error on line calls and reduce the number of linesmen required for a match.

ELI consists of sets of transmitter-receivers which pulse infra-red light over and alongside the boundary lines of the court. A logic module interprets the signal interruption and flashes on the official's indicator board whether the ball fell 'in' or 'out.'

Sport is entering the age of the electronic gadget. Football coaches draw up game plans aided by the computer print-out, and soon the officials of the NFL will be offered the use of the ELI, which has obvious applications to football and baseball as well as tennis.

In the meantime, victims from Green Bay, Washington, Dallas and Chicago are calling for a system of checks and balances. There are pleas to allow each team on the field three reviews per game of questionable or crucial calls. Obviously, video tape, instant replay, slow motion and stop-action camera work would be more conclusive in some instances than the eyesight of a referee 10 yards away from the action.

Ah, yes, the day is near when the artificial turf will be rolled out goal-to-goal, mined and wired electronically and further sensitized by Colonel Karsten's infra-red beams pulsing back and forth. And players' joke lists will include that oldie, "Zap, you're sterile," for the guy who trips the switch.

But until that electronic age gets a toe-hold in the NFL, the referees in their prison-striped shirts stand vulnerable to hoots, cat-calls and miscellaneous evil-doing by the likes of Dick Butkus when their instant decisions are questioned.

Longhorn Doug English Credits Braband, Others For Improvement

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A salty sophomore defensive tackle who helped blunt Oklahoma's high-powered offense last Saturday will be one of Texas' prime hopes against Arkansas Saturday night and the Razorbacks' rifle-armed Joe Ferguson.

Doug English, a 6-foot-5, 233-pound giant of a lad, made 16 tackles against Oklahoma last Saturday. Not bad for someone who couldn't even make his junior high school team.

English, a star at Dallas Bryan Adams High School, credits linebacker Randy Braband with helping him become more aggressive.

"Randy tried every approach," English said of the Texas defensive captain, "from jumping on me to taking me out after practice and working one-on-one, blocking on me. That's the thing I remember most, so many players coming by and offering to help me get going."

English has excellent speed for a big man—4.9 seconds in the 40-yard dash. He also has exceptional strength.

English remembers his junior high school years.

"My sophomore year I wasn't fast enough to be an end, I wasn't big enough to be a tackle and I wasn't coordinated enough to do anything," he said. "I thought about giving it up, but I've been taught to hate a quitter."

Texas Coach Darrell Royal loves someone who won't quit.

What Progressive Or Regressive Property Tax Means To Landlords, Businessmen?

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN
Associated Press Writer

In trying to determine which of the various plans to reform the property tax is best for your pocketbook, you enter a thicket of problems on which the economists disagree or are undecided.

But in this election year it will be hard to avoid hearing some campaigner condemn "the regressive property tax" and some real efforts likely will be made to change or eliminate part of it.

It may strike some people as folly to change tax policy when experts cannot agree on the impact of those changes. But it is not uncommon in this country, and others, for social and economic public policy that will affect generations to be made on the basis of the best possible guess of the effect—even though there may not be enough evidence to be certain or the evidence may be contradictory.

For example, in education this country has tried several policies, that might better have been called theories, to improve the education of disadvantaged children. First, there was integration, then compensatory education—spending more money on poor performing pupils where they went to school without regard to integration.

Then there was Head Start—beginning education earlier to make up for the lack in some homes of a familiarity with books and reading, pencils and writing. And still the performance in ghetto schools lags behind national averages and it is still not agreed what public policy will solve the problem.

Now there is a cry against the property tax. And on a fundamental question economists disagree: Do you pay hidden property taxes? That is, do landlords or the businessmen you deal with pass the property tax on their building in the form of higher rent or prices?

The answer will determine whether the property tax can be called progressive or regressive. The argument goes right to your wallet.

A study by the Brookings Institution shows that this is particularly crucial for Americans who make between the national median income of $10,000 and $15,000. For these people, if the tax is regressive, then a plan being studied by President Nixon to replace school property taxes with a federal value-added tax, essentially a national sales tax passed on to the consumer, would mean a tax reduction. But if the tax is progressive then the plan under study by Nixon would mean a tax increase.

The authors of the Brookings study, economists Joseph Pechman, now an adviser to Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern, and Benjamin Okner, did not come to a conclusion. Instead, they printed tables based on both assumptions.

Using 30,000 American family units they calculated what percentage the tax took of income, including not only the amount subject to federal taxes but the untaxable portion of capital gains and other deductions.

Here is what progressive and regressive mean in dollar terms according to their figures:

If landlords and businessmen do not shift the property taxes on their buildings to others, then the tax is progressive from middle incomes on up—in other words, it takes a larger percentage of income as income rises.

The property tax then takes 2.6 per cent of the income of people who make $10,000 to $15,000; it takes 5.7 per cent of the income of people who make $25,000 to $50,000; and it takes 22.4 per cent of the income of people who make $100,000 to $500,000.

At the lowest levels it is not progressive, taking 7.2 per cent of the income of those who make nothing through $3,000, but this can be explained in part by elderly people who make little now but over the years bought moderate or even expensive homes.

If landlords and businessmen shift the property taxes on their buildings to renters and consumers, then the tax is regressive—in other words, it takes a larger percentage of income from the lower incomes than from the higher incomes.

Those who make nothing to $3,000 a year pay 13 per cent of income in property taxes; those who make $10,000 to $15,000 pay 4.9 per cent of that in property taxes; those who make $25,000 to $50,000 pay 4.4 per cent of that in property taxes, and those who make $100,000 to $500,000 pay 3.5 per cent of that in property taxes.

If the tax is shifted, or regressive, what is happening is that when a landlord or a businessman receives a property tax increase he raises the rent or the prices he charges in order to maintain his profit margin. Few tenants have not heard of a landlord saying he is raising the rent because his taxes went up.

If the tax is progressive, the landlord or businessman absorbs a property tax increase and tries to cut costs some other way.

Economist Mason Gaffney thinks that, in general, property tax increases are not passed on to tenants and customers because, according to the law of supply and demand, if the price of an item rises, fewer people will buy unless the demand also increases. Thus, the landlord or businessman who raises prices simply to reflect a tax increase would be left with unrented apartments or unsold goods on which he would either have to take a loss or bring the price back down to rent or sell them.

Taking the argument a step further, Gaffney says that since most property is held by a relatively small but wealthy percentage of the population, a property tax increase which is not passed on must take more from the rich than from the poor.

Citing a number of studies, Gaffney estimates that 5 per cent of all families in the nation own around 60 per cent of the property.

Depending on which of these arguments seems to describe reality for you, then if you make between $10,000 and $15,000 you can tell whether the value-added tax plan being studied by Nixon for property tax relief will raise or lower your taxes, by consulting the Brookings study.

Nixon sent a tentative outline for a value-added tax to the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations to study. The outline suggested raising $18 billion annually with $5 billion to be refunded to lower income groups to achieve a progressive rate structure in part.

The other $13 billion would be given to states to fund local public elementary and secondary schools on the condition that local property taxes for schools be eliminated on residential and nonresidential property.

According to the Brookings study, if you make $10,000 the value-added tax would cost you $110. This would replace a residential property tax for schools of $60 if the property tax is progressive or a residential property tax for schools of $130 if the tax is regressive.

Or to put it another way, under the progressive assumption the value-added tax would increase the total tax bill by $50 while under the regressive assumption it would decrease the total tax bill by $20. Remember these are national averages, which include some very low property tax areas.

How or when will economists resolve this argument? "I'm not sure I can answer that," says Okner. "At some point it may be possible to empirically test it but I'm not sure how one would conduct such a test. It's not the kind of situation where you can run a controlled experiment easily."

"My best guess is that there is some part of the property tax shifted and some part borne by capital in general but I don't know how much," Okner says. "The results may differ from applying or increasing a property tax than from removing or lowering existing property taxes. For instance, I doubt my rent would go down if my landlord's property tax were cut."

"But everything is much more complicated than it first seems. It's easy to draw diagrams and supply and demand curves and write theoretical treatises, but as a professor of mine once said at the end of a lecture: 'Everything depends on everything else.'"

And so the debate on the property tax like the debate on so many other social and economic problems will be conducted and policies will be made on the basis of best guesses.

More Job Training Required for Seventies

By ERNIE HOOD

Eight out of 10 jobs to be filled during the 1970s will be open to people who have not completed four years of college.

Authority for that statement is not other than Secretary of Labor J. D. Hodgson.

But he adds: "more job training will be required of young people in the '70s as industrial processes, technology and business procedures increase in complexity."

The secretary bases his comments on the revised and updated Occupational Outlook Handbook published by the federal government.

Many fast-growing jobs do not require a college degree, according to the handbook. Such jobs include business machine serviceman, construction machinery operator, stewardess, hospital attendant, receptionist, electronic computer operator, and cashier.

Although many jobs that do not require a college degree can be learned on the job, training requirements will continue to rise during the 1970s, and young people with vocationally oriented education beyond high school will be in the best position to compete for jobs.

Jobs in professional and managerial occupations will increasingly require a college degree. But even within this group, workers with only a year or two of specialized training beyond high school will find many excellent opportunities as aides and technicians.

Such subprofessional jobs as social service aide, food processing technician, surveyor, forestry aide, library technician, and occupational therapy assistant are growing rapidly. Many of these jobs offer opportunities for further professional development.

Other fast-growing professional, technical and managerial jobs include vocational counselor, marketing research worker, public relations specialist, oceanographer, urban planner, programmer, system analyst, and nearly all of the health field specialties.

Engineering also is a promising field, despite current employment difficulties for these workers. According to the new handbook, "Engineering has been one of the fastest-growing professions in recent years, and needs for these workers are expected to increase rapidly during the 1970s, although at a slower rate than during the 1960s." Demand is expected to be particularly strong for engineers versed in computer applications and for those who can apply engineering principles to medicine, biology and other sciences.

The 1972-73 edition of the handbook, which is published every two years, has been completely updated to reflect the effects of new technology and changing economic conditions. Many new occupations have also been added.

The Occupational Outlook Handbook ($6.25) and its supplement, the Occupational Outlook Quarterly ($3 for a 2-year subscription), may be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20540. (Make checks or money orders payable to the Superintendent of Documents.)

WHERE THEY STAND

THE ISSUES OF THE 1972 CAMPAIGN

Housing

REPUBLICANS

While pledging to continue housing programs aimed at providing a decent home for every American, the Platform declared: We strongly oppose the use of housing or community development programs to impose arbitrary housing patterns on unwilling communities. Neither do we favor dispersing large numbers of people away from their homes and neighborhoods against their will.

DEMOCRATS

To overhaul completely the Federal Housing Administration to make it a consumer-oriented agency. To provide direct, low-interest loans to finance the construction and purchase of decent housing. Promote free choice in housing... through the greater use of grants to individuals, the development of new communities offering diversified housing and through enforcement of fair-housing laws.

The positions above were extracted from the official 1972 platforms of the Republican and Democratic Parties.

FOR MEN ONLY

Male shoppers must be more careful than ever to be absolutely certain that the woolen clothes they buy are really wool, and not clever imitations.

You see, slowly but surely, the manufacturers of synthetic fabrics have been trying to cash in on wool's good names—names like Plaid, Tartan, Tattersall, Harris, Glen, Cheviot, Donegal, Saxony and Shetland.

If imitation is truly the sincerest form of flattery, then the people who make wool menswear can take well deserved time out in the fashion sun.

Real wool, which has traditionally been considered the best fabric for men's suits, simply can not be duplicated. A natural and luxurious fiber, wool has the kind of strength, durability and comfortable "feel" that defies really comparative imitation.

The only way male shoppers (or women who shop for men) can be sure they're getting the "real thing" and not a fake, is to look for the legally required statement of fiber content or the famous Woolmark emblem in the menswear they buy.

Otherwise, they might wind up with a synthetic garment in sheep's clothing.
