PLLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE ...

Internal Balance

The armed forces, backed by the President, insist that this nation must raise an Army of 8,200,000 men by the end of 1943 and must put another 2,600,000 men into the Navy, Marines and Coast Guard.

The Army may be entirely right, but there is a strong body of intelligent public opinion which is far from convinced.

The military should understand that laymen do not question the great advantage it would be to have 8,200,000 soldiers in American uniforms instead of 5,000,000.

But this is not an American war. It is a United Nations war. Our effectiveness depends not only upon a balanced national war effort, which the Times suggests, but even more upon a balanced United Nations war effort.

If it is true that we can arm, train, transport, supply, feed, and clothe enough men on the fighting fronts to warrant enrolling 8,200,000, without throwing the entire anti-Axis supply program out of balance, by all means let's put that many into the Army.

But let's not be obstinate or naive. Those who urge that this is impossible include some very intelligent, well-informed persons.

Common Ground

"I speak the pass-word principle. I give the sign of democracy. By God! I will accept nothing which all cannot have their counterpart on the same terms."

TWO SETS OF JUDGES WILL AWARD DUPLICATE PRIZES ON EXPLAINING THE FIRST AND GREATEST COMMANDMENT

Most, if not all, of our trouble comes from lack of understanding the Commandment, the rule of law, that Jesus said was the first and greatest commandment. If we really understood it we would obey it.

For this reason, "Common Ground" is going to give $140 in prizes for the best and most useful explanation of what Jesus meant by the above statement.

There will be two sets of duplicate prizes and two sets of different judges. The first prize awarded by each set of judges in each contest will be $40; the second prize, $20; the third prize, $10.

One set of judges will be those who preach revealed religion. They will be made up of ministers of orthodox beliefs. The other set of judges will be made up of men who believe in a natural religion—a religion of nature.

It will be remembered that Voltaire said, "If you would discourse with me, define your terms." And Lord Kelvin said, "When you can measure what you are speaking about and express it in numbers, you know something about it, but when you cannot measure it, when you cannot express it in numbers, your knowledge is of a meager and unsatisfactory kind."

We need a description that will reduce this Commandment to impersonal rules so that it can be understood and thus be useful. So people themselves can know the difference between right and wrong and will not have to go to some one who claims to have an exclusive right to make such decisions.

It is hard to conceive how this statement can be explained and made understandable to an individual without defining "God" and "love" so that there can be a meeting of men's minds.

Our happiness, our prosperity, our lives in reality depend upon more people understanding this Commandment. As Jesus said, "On these two Commandments, hangeth the whole law and the prophets."

The prizes, by no means will be the most important compensation the winners will get. If anyone can help another understand this most important moral law, he will be performing a great service. His compensation then will be great happiness.

PRIVATE WARPATH

News Behind The News The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

Joint failure of the Treasury and Congress to recognize the inflation explosion in our current fiscal program threatens a further rise in the cost of living.

Every worth-while economist knows that skyrocketing prices cannot be prevented by rationing and ceilings. The solution lies in maintaining a decent balance between the money which folks have in their pockets and the amount of civilian goods on the shelves.

The United States lags far behind in absorbing war expenditures by taxation and other drains on the private purse. England and Canada, for instance, pay their expenses by taking fifty per cent of the necessary funds from the people by direct assessment. The banks hand one-third of the remainder and small investors put up the other two-thirds.

Exactly the opposite policy has been pursued here. Imports and purchases of victory bonds cover about one-third of the spending. Financial institutions are bursting with Government securities which they have been forced to take, although they are not satisfied with the nation's bill to prove disastrous. High-salaried workers, buying at the rate of approximately a billion a month, are left with more dollars than they can use.

Taxing agencies retort that they are moving as fast as democratic temperament and machinery will permit. Returns from income-tapping have jumped from six billion in the 1941 fiscal year to an estimated eighteen billion for the ending June 30th. Capital gains tax on another eighteen billion at this session, we will nearly match the British and Canadian records.

SUSPICION: Herbert H. Lehman's requests for food for North Africa and inhabitants of other lands marked to be retaken by the United Nations appeal the men in charge of the nation's granaries. Although they do not admit it publicly, they doubt whether this country can carry out implied commitments to serve as the world's butcher and baker.

The former New York governor has been using lend-lease money and supplies since he became Director of Foreign Relief and Rehabilitation Operations. His method is not satisfactory to him or to E. R. Stettinius Jr., who administers lend-lease. Mr. Lehman wants to organize an establishment of his own so that he will not be responsible to any other agency.

But that sum is only a drop in comparison with requisitions he has submitted. He would like another billion dollars' worth of goods placed to his account for distribution in Italy, the Balkans and other countries which our troops may invade. As in French Morocco, the argument advanced is that the natives must be kept in a good mood or they may endanger our forces and supply lines.

Note: Congressional suspicion that American wheat, meat and milk may be mobilized to influence post-war setups in foreign lands has been heightened by our use of foodstuffs to bring pressure on Admiral Georges Robert, commander of the French fleet interned at Martinique. But attempts to amend the pending Lend-Lease Act to outlaw such methods are expected to prove futile.

BUREAUCRACY: The National War Labor Board, one of the numerous Bureaus supervising industrial relations, presents the most spectacular example of a "burgeoning bureaucracy." Eight months ago it had only one hundred and eighty-nine employees. Now it boasts a staff of over two thousand, with offices in eleven cities. It has two hundred and thirty-eight "economists" with salaries ranging from $2,000 to $5,000 a year. And this number of specialists will soon be increased to four hundred.

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

For almost a year now, Red Skelton has been dropping by to entertain a group of soldiers manning a searchlight and anti-aircraft gun near his Beverly Hills home.

Two nights later Skelton dropped in again with a telephone book under his arm. He sat down and did nothing but read names out of the phone book. The soldiers howled.

Such is typical of Red Skelton, the red-headed kid from Vincennes, Ind. He finds humor everywhere, is perpetually amused by the human scene. He's irrepressible—and on off stage.

Director Vincente Minnelli, currently guiding Red through "I Doodled It," frequently is remiss about dismissing the company for lunch. Several days Skelton did a good deal of grumbling and complaining about this. Then, about 12:45 one day, Skelton lay in the street just outside the sound stage until a crowd gathered. He explained he had just started to death waiting for Director Vincente Minnelli to call lunch.

At other times, Skelton's humor is surprisingly subtle. Recently a friend gifted him with a new suit. Skelton made an elaborate ceremony out of having one of the sleeves duplicated and sent to his agent as commission.

Needless to say, Skelton is a morale booster of the highest voltage. His one-man entertainment division, since Pearl Harbor, he has averaged 400 army post appearances, better than a night. He's as welcome as a letter from home to servicemen. He goes into a routine at sight of a uniform. Once he entertained half a dozen khaki-clad boys in the studio cafe until someone pointed out they were extras working in a picture.

En route home from another army camp show, Skelton's train made a flag stop one morning at the station. Red looked out the window and saw 10 soldiers on the station platform. He put on an overcoat over his pajamas, stole past his neighbors' snores and entertained the soldiers until the train pulled out.

LOQUACIOUS FAN In return for his army camp shows, Skelton receives more fan mail from soldiers than any comedian in Hollywood. But one from England topped them all. It was from an American private stationed in London.

It read: "Dear Mr. Skelton: "Sincerely yours, Jack Green-thau." The message had been completely blacked out by army censors. At the bottom was a postscript from Mr. Censor himself.

"Dear Mr. Skelton," wrote the censor. "This young man admires you and your work very much. Only he talks too much."

Our policy toward our Japanese enemies is precisely the same as our policy toward our Nazi enemies: to win without adding any unnecessary burdens. Treaties Snag Air Freedom

By PETER EDSON News Washington Correspondent

Continuing this pow-wow on "freedom of the air" for flying—not talking—as started by a La Luce and Senator Wallace, there are today two ways in which a country like the Argentine might grant the right for planes of another nation to fly over her territory.

First, the Argentine government might grant a franchise to an American company to operate the service, Argentina having no aviation industry of her own. Here is set up a contract between the Argentine government and a private U. S. corporation.

The bulk of the present international air traffic arrangements have been handled in this way by U. S. commercial airline operators. These companies today naturally argue that this method offers the most practical solution to the problem of maintaining U. S. sovereignty over its own air, since such a franchise contract does not give to the other nation—Argentine, for example—the reciprocal right to fly its planes to or over the United States.

The U. S. government cuts no figure in a deal of this kind, other than the normal control which any government has over its own citizens and corporate entities. Some government officials are openly hostile to any private citizens making a deal with a foreign government, though other foreign business has been done that way for years.

This brings up the second method by which an international air agreement can be made for planes of one nation to fly over and over the territory of another nation. This is to have the two governments make the contract.

INTERNATIONAL COMPLICATIONS Here you run into complications. When two governments make the deal, tendencies are for them to grant reciprocal rights. "We let you fly over our territory if you let us fly over yours." Or, in the case of a country like Argentina, which has no aviation industry of its own, the country might say to the American State department, "We will let your airplanes fly over our country if you will let us ship to your country and sell unlimited quantities of our superior Argentine corned beef."

As this is a treaty between two governments, it must be ratified by the U. S. senate, and if they run true to form, senators from the cattle-raising states will have something to say about that. Also the U. S. senate is packed with protectionists. It is not likely that any treaty of this kind will be passed in no treaty at all.

An international air treaty between two governments also runs into the problem of national defense. Again consider the case of Argentina. It might grant franchises to Italian and German airlines, as it did before the U. S. got into the war, and as it might do again after the war. Then, suppose the U. S. government wants to come along and negotiate reciprocal-air rights. Irredentist Italians or even Japanese to run it. A situation like that was actually in the making in Colombia before the war, when German pilots and aviation interests formed a company to operate airlines in the Colombian republic—lines which might have been extended by reciprocal agreement with Panama and fly over the Panama canal.

At this point, a pertinent question from Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt: "Well, says she, 'are we going to have a peaceful world or aren't we?'"

If peace has to be enforced, none

Today's War Analysis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press Writer

The war is entering a critical phase in which air power bids fair to play a part far exceeding in importance anything that has gone before.

The air navies are rushing towards bombing operations which will be unprecedented in violence and size. At least the Allied forces are headed that way. The Luftwaffe is keeping remarkably quiet, but it will be surprising if Hitler isn't able to fling a great fleet into the air when he feels that his crisis is at hand.

The reason for this increase in air importance lies in the fact that American and British industries finally have produced sufficient air striking power so that the Luftwaffe at last has a giant competitor.

The most conclusive evidence of the turn of events lies in the terrific bombing offensive being conducted against western Europe and Germany by the Anglo-American forces based in Britain. As explained by British Air Secretary Sinclair in the house of commons, the Royal Air force alone has wrecked 2,000 German war factories, cut Nazi steel production by 1,250,000 tons annually, and driven a million or more Germans from shattered homes. This doesn't include the devastation wrought by the American Air force.

We may expect this bombing to increase in intensity, for it is the forerunner of the eagerly awaited invasion of France by the Allies. Reichsmarshal Goering reportedly has been in Rome conferring with Italian officials. It wouldn't be surprising if this were true, and the mission which would take the Nazi air chief to the eternal city might be the threat of an Allied invasion of Italy as soon as the North African show is over. Here again the Anglo-American airfleet would break trail and might be met by the Luftwaffe.

Allied air superiority in Tunisia is playing a major part in operations which are swinging our way. And it was Allied air supremacy in Libya which was a vital factor in General Montgomery's historic victory over Rommel.

As soon as we have manhandled der Fuehrer sufficiently we shall go all out against Japan. Here again it will be the air which will lead the way for an invasion that will clear Burma of the Japs and reopen the supply route to China.

Our air strength in the South-West Pacific permitted of the unprecedented victory over the Japs in the Bismarck sea.

So the call of the air is increasingly great in all the theaters of war.

Destruction by air is far cheaper in Allied lives and equipment than destruction by our armies. A squadron of bombers can wipe out in a few hours what it might take an army months to destroy.

Sir Commodore H. N. Thornton, British air attaché in Washington, says super 1000-plane raids on western Europe and Germany will be increased "when we get the planes."

Few Commercial Vehicles Remain

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Only 57,573 new commercial motor vehicles remain in the national reserve pool, the war production board reported today. It described this as a "critical situation."

WFB said the reserve pool would be drawn upon only in cases of the most pressing need.

of the victorious nations is going to be able to surrender a thing. Every method of policing the air of maintaining sovereignty of air, will have to be safeguarded.

If, on the other hand, everyone agrees to peace and it is continued on a beautiful 50-50, what's-mine's-yours basis, then all nations must agree to the principle of "the rights of innocent passage and free landings," which means that any plane of any nationality can fly, land, refuel and get service in any place it wants to—provided it doesn't carry arms or pick up passengers.

So They Say

It is right to make provision for a money income for all our people, but we must remember to see to it that we so organize economic life that we are able to provide the wealth out of which must come the money.

Our policy toward our Japanese enemies is precisely the same as our policy toward our Nazi enemies: to win without adding any unnecessary burdens. Not a single ounce of our strength is to be used in a policy of fighting hard on all fronts and ending the war as quickly as we can on the uncompromising terms of unconditional surrender.—President Roosevelt.

War is going to be tough enough a-coming without adding any unnecessary burdens. Not a single ounce of our strength is to be used in a policy of fighting hard on all fronts and ending the war as quickly as we can on the uncompromising terms of unconditional surrender.—President Roosevelt.

Third Issue Of Cadet Dope Is Now Available

The third issue of Cadet Dope, published by the Pampa army air forces advanced flying school to acquaint Pampans with the cadets in training here, is now completed and ready for distribution.

The three-page information booklet contains important facts on where the cadets are from, what states they represent, colleges or universities attended, fraternities they belonged to, companies they worked for in civilian life, and their favorite hobbies.

The cadets of 43-D, who are "covered" in the current dope sheet, come to Pampa from 43 states, Puerto Rico, and the District of Columbia. Eighty-five colleges or universities are represented, as well as 27 national fraternities.

Some of these cadets may have come from your home town, or attended your alma mater, or worked for your old firm.

Copies of the Cadet Dope may be obtained at the Pampa News, chamber of commerce, or the public relations office at the air base.

STAR OF SHOW

Pampa Hopes to Join In Clean-Up Drive

Pampa will repeat and perhaps swell its triumph in the 1942 nation-wide clean-up campaign if sufficient trucks can be obtained to haul off trash, City Manager W. J. deCordova said Saturday.

With trucks hard to secure and hard difficult to find, the city manager said it might not be possible to put on such a thorough clean-up this year as last, but if at all possible, a clean-up drive would not be overlooked. Last year's campaign was held May 17-23.

In the city manager's office is the statute presented to Pampa for its record in the 1942 campaign by the National Clean-Up and Paint-Up Campaign bureau, Washington, D. C.

While Pampa did not win top honors, it did receive an award, fronted on the plate on the front of the statute.

The statuette is 2 feet high, of walnut, flanked by two Ionic columns. On top of the base is a silver-plated figure.

Camel Caravan Is Presented At Army Air Field

The Camel Caravan road show was presented last night in the recreation hall of the Pampa air forces advanced flying school.

Among the entertainers were Joey Rardin, who gave novelty songs, dances and impersonations. Comedy of the evening was furnished by Pid Gordon, who performed comical papers on the violin.

"Tiny" Ellen Sutton, "the Sophie Tucker of radio," was also on the show. Russel and Renee were presented in their dazzling tumbline act, and a beautiful acrobatic and tap dance routine was handled by Darlene Ottum.

The Prairie Pioneers, stars of radio and stage, accompanied the numbers and did some specialties of their own.

At the conclusion of the show cigarettes were distributed to the audience by two beautiful Hollywood starlets, members of the show, which is one of several now touring the country giving free performances to the men in various army camps, naval stations and marine bases.

Motion Picture Cameras Record Life at Field

A new plan of recording on moving picture film important events at Pampa Army Air Field was inaugurated last night when the first "shooting" took place in the post recreation hall during the presentation of the Camel Caravan show.

Primarily of an experimental nature, the success of the project last night will determine the permanent adoption of such a program.

Behind the lens was Private William Noel, a production man for both MGM and Warner Brothers studios in civilian life.

The filming of the show was made under certain technical difficulties, chiefly lack of facilities for sound recording. Arrangements will be made, however, to tie-in sound effects through the use of a public address system whenever the film is shown.

Out of this experiment it is hoped that a film library can be initiated, composed of films on all important and outstanding activities on the field.

From time to time, these "news reels" will be shown for the enjoyment of military personnel.

Aviation Training Tougher Than Paratrooper Course, Says Man Who Has Been Through Both

The famed United States army paratroopers are one of the toughest outfits in the world, but their training grind doesn't hold a candle to that of an aviation cadet, according to a man who's been in both and hence ought to know what he's talking about.

Aviation Cadet Joseph P. Firebaugh, Jr., who will soon get his silver pilot's wings at Pampa's new army air forces advanced flying school, also won his wings at Fort Benning, Ga., as a member of the paratroopers, and hence should speak with some authority.

"The paratroopers go through five weeks of plenty tough training," Cadet Firebaugh says, "but all in all, it can't compare with the 36-weeks' grind a cadet goes through to get his pilot's wings."

Cadet Firebaugh, who will graduate with the class of 43-C very soon now, is from Watsonville, Calif. He studied at San Jose State Junior college in his home state for a year prior to his enlistment in the army in the summer of 1941.

It was during his training as a paratrooper that Cadet Firebaugh made up his mind to be a pilot. "I had toyed with the idea for some time," he says, "but didn't decide once and for all to become a cadet until I had been up and made a couple of jumps during paratroop training."

Training to be a member of the sky-borne paratroopers is extremely thrilling, according to Firebaugh. The men have to make five correct jumps during their five-week course, besides putting in long hours of practicing how to handle the chute, how to correctly fall and pack the chute, and other problems in addition to a rough-and-tough physical training program.

Cadet Firebaugh hasn't found it necessary to use his parachute since he left the paratroopers, but should the occasion demand, it's a cinch he'd know how to do it.

Seven Privates Will Get Camera Schooling

Tryouts For Junior Play, "I'm In The Army Now," Begin Next Week

"I'm in the Army Now" by Ned Albert is the three act play that the junior class has selected to present this year as their annual play. Miss Virginia Vaughn, director said Thursday.

Tryouts for the play will be held next week and all members of the junior class are urged to try out.

"I'm in the Army Now" is not a war play but the story of a family and how the mother pampers one of the children. This child is the oldest and therefore he is eligible for the draft. His mother, fearing that he would have to go because he is single, goes to the draft board and tells them that Bronson, her son, has a chronic ailment and is not physically fit for the army. Nevertheless, Bronson passes his physical with flying colors and heads for an army camp. The scene in which he leaves home burdened with comic gifts from all the family is one of the best in the play. While Bronson is away at the army the rest of the family slowly declines. So when Bronson returns home on an unexpected furlough, he is astonished to find the family almost living with the dogs. He therefore decides to make the whole family join up and his hilarious efforts to accomplish this feat are "I'm in the Army Now."

Proceeds from the junior play go toward the junior-senior banquet. All juniors are urged to see Miss Vaughn if they are interested in helping work on the play or if they wish to be in the play. The cast includes six boys and six girls.

High School Is Asked To Conduct A "Jeep" Campaign in April

In a letter received by Principal D. F. Osborne, the Treasury Department has asked that our high school enter in a campaign to finance the construction of a jeep through the sale of War Bonds and Stamps in the amount of $900. Dr. Osborne said Thursday.

The Treasury Department is launching a special campaign for the Schools at War with a goal of 10,000 jeeps by April 19, which is the anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord. On this day special Schools at War programs will be held in many sections of the country.

Upon the successful completion of a "Jeep" campaign, schools will receive a special certificate which will be similar to the Distinguished Service Certificate, but will feature a picture of a jeep and the following wording:

"For service to the War Saving program, through the successful completion of a Schools at War Jeep campaign, this citation is awarded to..."

The rules for conducting a "Jeep" campaign are as follows: For these campaigns $900 will be considered the cost of a jeep. Past jeep campaigns do not count for these certificates except that campaigns already under way and scheduled to terminate after March 1, 1943, if they otherwise qualify under the rules, may be awarded this certificate. Certificates will be awarded only to those schools which have successfully conducted a campaign to finance the construction of a jeep through the sale of War Bonds and Stamps in the amount of $900. The campaign must have definite opening and closing dates. Schools must have succeeded in reaching their goal during the announced period. The goal must be higher than previous War Savings sales in any case not less than $900. Schools which qualify should send details of the campaign to the State War Savings office.

Drastic Situation Faces High School—"We Are Inkless"

A drastic situation is at hand! But maybe not as drastic as it may seem! Pampa High school is "inkless."

When you start to write that English theme or do your book-keeping and find yourself inkless, don't get panicky; it happens in every room in the school daily. We have been out of ink for about a week, and the supply you have been using is just what we have in stock. So use it carefully and don't be too wasteful.

The situation may not be as bad as it seems; perhaps some of our kind teachers will hold up production until we get the ink in. Well it's a thought anyway.

Bill: I believe so, especially widows.

Hubby: Here's a lovely diamond ring for your birthday, dear!

Wife: Yes, but you know that I wanted a yacht.

Hubby: Yes, but where can I buy an imitation yacht?

Jinks: That's a fellow who's going places.

Jenks: Ambitious, eh?

Jinks: No. His wife's out of town.

Game Warden: Yes.

"NOTHING" TO LOOK FORWARD TO?

Why go on? Why have any extra-curricular activities? You may have asked yourself these questions many times. No school trips can be made; no wiener roasts in the country. "No nothing," you say. You feel that there's nothing to look forward to.

It is true that there will be no long trips, not anything that takes transportation. Have you ever stopped to think why we can't have these things. We're in a war you say. Yes, we are fighting so that someday we can take long band trips, have school picnics, and so the girls can have some one to escort them to the Senior banquet.

We aren't giving an iota compared to those things that day, a week, or maybe have to give. But remember, someday we will get them all back!

"TEXAS OUR TEXAS"

How well do you know Texas history? What do "San Jacinto," "Goliad," and "Sam Houston" mean to you?

We're all proud of our state, but I wonder if we know what we are proud of. Many who have come to Texas to the army bases have heard so much about Texas that they would like to read a Texas history. Are you, who live in Texas, who attend Texas schools, who use Texas textbooks, so anxious to learn all about your famous state?

Anyone can acquire courtesy. History is full of examples. Robert E. Lee was especially noted for his courtesy. Try it a day, a week, until you have acquired a habit.

Instead of "bawling out" a classmate, try showing him a little courtesy based on kindness. Courtesy is a habit that can be developed.

"Life is not so short that there is no time for courtesy"—Emerson, B. D.

ARE YOU A CAVEMAN?

The cave man had his day. He ate his lump of meat by tearing it apart with his teeth. He saw something he wanted and grabbed it. Someone got in his way and he knocked him down.

No one wants a cave man around today. Along with houses and chairs, tables, and knives and forks, we have adopted standards of kindness and courtesy.

Do you offend other people by your rudeness? Have you lost friends that way? People judge character

Stripes, Polka Dots Preval in Material

Stripes and polka dots prevail in material being used for pajamas and shorts which the first year sewing girls are making. These are the first garments the girls have made.

Joan Hawkins, sophomore, is working on a pair of brilliant red stripes, while Lou Ellen Giles, also a sophomore, is sewing on a pair of shorts that are light blue striped.

Others making pajamas are Arctome Long, Corene Clemmons, Betty Jo Holt, Virnell White, Marion Whitten, and Doris Mae Jarvis, sophomores.

During the rest of the semester dresses will be made at school, and the girls will make one home project of their own choice. The class is under direction of Mrs. Leslie Hart.

Holiday To Be Celebrated By All-School Dance Friday

Making a comparison between the schools in the United States and the schools he attended in Hungary was the main topic Dr. George Huszar of the University of Chicago discussed when he spoke before the high school student body Friday morning.

Mr. Huszar stressed five important differences between the schools of Central Europe and those of the United States. First, there is a division of school years and of the school periods. Second, the sports of the schools are different. Mr. Huszar said that the majority of Hungarians do not know what football and baseball are. The third difference is that their schools are educational. Fourth, the schools are based upon propaganda, and the schools of the United States are based upon education. Mr. Huszar said that students of Hungary are not taught to think for themselves, but are taught what to think. The fifth difference is that the schools are dictatorial in nature.

A discussion and questions followed Mr. Huszar's talk. The main point that he tried to put over to the students was the fact that a democracy believes in democratic education—students are taught how to think, and not what to think, which is the system of Central Europe.

Mr. Huszar also spoke on "The Nations Cooperating in Wartime" Friday night at 8 p. m. at the Junior High school auditorium. He was the second speaker of the Institute of International Understanding sponsored by the Pampa Rotary club.

Mr. de Huszar, born in Switzerland, studied in Budapest, the University of Geneva, the Institute of International Studies in Geneva and the University of Chicago.

He has been a delegate to a number of international conferences. While in Geneva he attended the sessions of the League of Nations and the International Labor office, and thus has had a first hand opportunity to observe the diplomatic events that prepared the ground for the present war.

Since coming to this country, he has delivered many lectures and radio talks. At present he is research assistant in sociology and anthropology at the University of Chicago.

C. A. Huff, Pampa Rotary president, is in general charge of the lectures brought here by Dr. de Huszar. He is chairman of the club's international service committee.

The third forum will be held March 26, with Dr. Hew Roberts of Iowa, speaking on "Cooperating in the Orient." The final lecture will be by Dr. Gerhart Seger of New York City, who will discuss "Patterns of Cooperation for the Post-War World."

Seniors Discuss Class Booklet

At two class meetings last week seniors discussed the possibility of printing a small senior booklet to make up for not having an annual. Kenneth Lard, vice-president, said.

While no definite conclusion has been reached, because of the high cost of the book, most of the seniors seem to prefer to concentrate on printing the best senior edition of the Little Harvester possible, he stated. It would be in tabloid form so that it might be kept more easily.

Other than the booklet the class discussed plans for the annual kid day picnic, April 1.

"If we can get enough cars the class will have a picnic at Lake McClellan. If not we eat in the park," Imogene Miller, president, said.

That Mr. B. G. Gordon, mathematics teacher, has been appointed head sponsor in the place of Miss Pearl Garen, who is now a WAVE, was also announced at the first meeting.

Journalism Class Goes Unpublicized While Publicizing Others

One of the most unpublicized classes in school, and one which publicizes others the most, is the sixth period journalism class under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Firebaugh, society editor of the Pampa News.

Before she left for the WAVES, Miss Margaret Tomberlin sponsored the class. Only nine students are in the class, making it one of the smallest in school.

The class has just finished a study of sports stories including how to cover and write up sports events.

Material covered this semester includes editorials, make-up, proof reading, headlines and other various subjects.

Court Term Here Is Quietest On District Records

An all-time record for a quiet court term was believed to be established here in 31st district court. Under the old court system, the January term came to a close last week, but under the new law the term can't technically be termed closed, as the "continuous" court term system now in effect.

District Judge W. R. Ewing is convinced that it is perhaps just as well that the court term was quiet due to the fact that it might be difficult to obtain jurors. In fact, one might even quiz the war man-power division about the problem.

During the current term at Pampa, they had a total of 200 prospective jurors summoned but all that could be assembled was 60.

Not once in the entire court term was a petit jury used, with the technical exception of one time when a six-man jury was called for a hearing on a change of venue.

The possibility that male jurors might be hard to obtain has added impetus to a legislative bill, proposed, but not enacted, that women be allowed to serve on Texas juries. Judge Ewing has been asked to support the bill, but he has not yet done so.

Women are quite equal, and even surpass men, in most fields of endeavor heretofore the exclusive domain of the lordly male, so why make serving on the jury an exception, the judge has asked.

Not that Judge Ewing has definitely given a yes or no to the question, but he intimated he was open to logic from either side, despite his basic objection to women jurors.

Another technical court problem has come up in this term on the subject of the "continuous" court term, devised to speed up trial of cases without lay-overs from one term to another. While the law was called an emergency and therefore effective at once, does this apply in cases in the 31st district court when the current court term was right in the middle of the session? Judge Ewing said he was making an inquiry on this point.

The continuous term, he explained, did not mean that the "terms" would not have the same starting date, but did mean that such terms would be extended.

Tomorrow the judge goes to Miami to open a court term there. On March 22, a petit jury panel of 100 is to report here, from which a jury is to be drawn to hear two cases in which a statutory offense is charged. Members of the grand jury are to reconvene on April 5.

Judgments recorded recently in 31st district court here include: Pampa Independent School district vs. John E. Hill, cause settled, case dismissed; same action in a similar case, with same plaintiff and Hillson hotel as defendant; three divorce suits dismissed on notice of plaintiffs not desiring to prosecute.

Lee Way Motor Freight, Inc., et al vs. Carl C. Freeman, change of venue granted to 8th district court of Hemphill county on plea of defense of privilege.

Divorce granted: Richard T. Slater vs. Diana Slater, defendant's name of Diana Vanderford, restored; J. G. Wolfe vs. Agnes G. Wolfe; Oravella Hayley vs. J. W. Hayley; Sybil Cash vs. C. J. Cash, custody of a daughter, Charles Marie, 10, and of a son, Robert Clay, 8, to plaintiff; Vertye Hughes Rose vs. J. C. (Cal) Rose; Mary Belflower vs. Vanice Belflower.

Victory gardens. Use of Florida Fe Railway lands along the company right-of-way for employes' gardens has been offered by E. J. Engle, president, as an aid to the nationwide gardening plan to aid in food production.

Use of such lands was restricted to employes through necessity of protecting property in accordance with war-time regulations.

"We are happy to cooperate with the Victory garden program which is encouraged by the government," Engle said. "Some employes may not have suitable space for home gardens. Use of property along the right-of-way, wherever practical, will solve this problem for many."

"With military conditions cutting deep into the supply of fresh and canned vegetables for civilian consumption, the Victory garden seems to be the only answer. We hope employes take advantage of this offer."

Urban Interest Mounts

Locally, there hasn't been much activity on the part of urban dwellers in planting gardens, Agent Hackney believes.

However, they're keener about gardens this year than ever before as evidenced by the invitation of a club here to have Agent Hackney make a speech to them on April 9 on insect control.

Also, 6,000 copies of a booklet on gardening has been distributed in Pampa.

The office of price administration, czar of food along with tires, fuel, and gasoline, has boosted the Victory garden movement.

However, gardeners will need certificates from the county rationing board to purchase rationed beans and peas for planting.

These certificates are to be presented to grocers against seed merchants. The merchant will use the seed certificate to replenish his stocks, just as he uses point coupons from Ration Book 2.

Point values of beans and peas are: up to 2 ounces, one point; 2 and up to 4 ounces, 2 points; over 4 and up to 6 ounces, three points; over 6 and up to 8 ounces, four points; over 8 and up to 10 ounces, six points; over 10 and up to 14 ounces, seven points, and over 14 and up to 15 ounces, eight points.

Fortress back to a safe landing at the base after a German 20-millimeter shell crashed against the corner of the cockpit, injuring the pilot.

Patterson took over the plane while Williams crawled up from the nose compartment and treated the wounds caused by shell fragments. Williams also helped Patterson, who was cut on the face by flying debris.

"He flying got the Distinguished Flying Cross," said the navigator, Lieut. Charles Spere, Jr., of Hollywood, Calif. "He was there helping two wounded men with no oxygen at 18,000 feet (an altitude in which oxygen is considered essential to maintain consciousness)."

"I talked to the pilot and told him to answer me by nodding his head or shaking it," said Williams, who before the war drove a truck for a wholesale grocery firm in Dublin.

"I put bandages on his face and on his shoulder and held them on very tight. I would say 'nod your head if your shoulder is still bleeding' or 'shake your head if your face is still bleeding' and in that way I worked on him until he was as well off as we could make him."

"Two Focke-Wulfs came up on us all of a sudden," Navigator Spere said. "The first one before I had a chance to see him. Then I heard a crash and knew we had been hit by a 20-millimeter shell. Then the second one came at us. I couldn't get my gun to cover him in time but I held down the trigger and let a stream go in his direction and he went off."

"Patterson did a wonderful job bringing the ship back. The pilot knew enough about what was going on to tell him to bring it in on the proper runway."

It is quite a trick to land a Fortress single-handed because usually the pilot has the co-pilot reading the dimming altitude out to him every few seconds.

"All Pat said as we were coming down," Williams related, was: 'Are you sure this is the right field? ... Are you sure this is the right field? ...'

Patterson brought the ship into a smooth landing. In spite of his injuries the pilot was able to climb out of the ship and walk to a bar.

ingly deaf and used a hearing device. His pleasures were yachting, raising flowers, playing backgammon, shooting grouse in Scotland. He shot grouse with King George VI.

The monarch invited Morgan to London to attend his coronation in 1937. Morgan went but suffered a second heart attack and could not be present.

His first attack was in 1936.

One of Morgan's likes was plenty of room—big yachts, big automobiles. Once he had an English car made to order with a special top so he could sit in it without taking off his high silk hat.

He was an ardent churchman and Bible student and for many years he was a warden of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John's of Lexington, Locust Valley, Long Island. There, he passed the collection plate.

At Christmas time in peace time, he annually imported tons of tea from China to distribute among his friends.

of curious ever gathered around the roomy cottage.

Time put its mark on the face of one of the nation's most powerful figures was desperately ill.

In fact, Morgan had been in bed for more than a week before the outside world learned that he was ill.

Son of the first John Pierpont Morgan who founded the famous banking firm in the 1890's, Morgan headed the firm through the First World War, the world depression of the 1930's, and in this Second World War.

During the First World War, his bank handled for the Allies loans amounting to hundreds of millions of dollars and after the war floated billions of dollars in loans in Wall Street for foreign governments.

The United States lend-lease program took care of the Allies' most pressing needs in this war and bankers found their greatest usefulness in helping finance this government's bond issues.

Time put its mark on the House of Morgan and on the banker, himself.

He was wounded by an assailant seeking to discourage his efforts in helping the Allies in the First World War; the well-guarded bank building at 23 Wall Street was scarred by a mysterious blast in 1920; in 1933 a senate investigation opened to the public view, for the first time, the bank's records and its varied enterprises.

In 1940 the name of the firm was changed from J. P. Morgan and company, a partnership, to J. P. Morgan and Co., Inc. Morgan became board chairman instead of a partner.

Because the firm is now a corporation, the Morgan name may be perpetuated even if there were no more Morgans to carry on the banking tradition, although there are.

The old partnership rules would have made it necessary to drop the J. P. Morgan title if a Morgan had ceased to have a hand in the business.

Morgan resembled his father, weighing about 200 pounds, broad shoulders, heavy eyebrows, small eyes, large nose and the same tone of voice.

In later years he grew increasmore than 1,000 tons of bombs were loosed Friday night by hundreds of four-motored bombers against Essen, already described by Air Minister Sir Archibald Sinclair as the second most devastated city in Germany.

Smoke shot up 1,500 feet high, returning pilots said, and the conflagrations still raged Saturday afternoon in the middle of the vast Krupp armament enterprises. The British lost 23 bombers.

The air correspondent of the authoritative British press association said the Allied air offensive was to be compared to the concentrated all-out artillery barrage which Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery smashed a path through Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces at El Alamein in Egypt last October.

The Russian mid-air communication acknowledged that heavy fighting was continuing at Kharkov and that numerically superior "enemy" tank and infantry forces succeeded after repeated attacks and at the cost of severe losses in pressing back our troops.

It admitted large German tank and motorized forces had spread the fighting to the north as well as to the south of the city, and to the Izium area to the southeast where 700 Germans were killed and 17 tanks knocked out.

Overrunning German fortifications in a powerful push toward Smolensk, 230 miles west of Moscow, the Red army "took a whole series" of populated places, including the railroad station of Ugra, west of Vyazma, the communication said.

The German high command admitted it had not been able to expect completely the Russians from Kharkov, and the Russians acknowledged in a midday communique that they had been forced to fall back again to the west of the city after killing thousands of the foe.

The Germans, broadening their drive to the northwest, claimed the capture of Gralvoron, Bogodukhov and Akhtyrka, all west of Belgorod, 40 miles northwest of Kharkov. These operations menaced Kursk and threatened the Russian speeches of the southwest of that important town toward Konotop and the Dnieper.

The Russians said in their midday bulletin that they were overwhelming German resistance east and northwest of Smolensk, 230 miles west of Moscow. Capture of Smolensk would do much to nullify any German success at Kharkov.

Drive To Continue

"The War fund drive will continue for the remainder of the month. There are many districts and companies that have not been able to complete their solicitations, so this money will be coming in to swell this minimum goal to a full war fund basis."

"Every worker must complete his list. Just as much effort should be put forth still in order for every person to have a part in this great work."

The war fund campaign here was a part of the national drive that began on March 1, will end on March 31. It is being conducted by 3,755 Red Cross chapters.

What Red Cross Has Done

Relief sent by the Red Cross to the millions made homeless by the war in foreign lands since September, 1939, totals $64,000,000, of which a good part has been spent in purchases of products of the American farmer.

Wheat and rice for China relief, millions of yards of cotton and wool cloth made into garments for bombed-out families in Great Britain and the Middle East and war orphans in Russia, and a million pounds of cotton products for surgical dressings have been purchased for the Red Cross by procurement agencies of the United States.

Out of the total of $64,000,000 expended since September, 1939, $5,000,000 has been spent in the relief program for American and United Nations prisoners of war. Through December 15 last year, 1,040,000 packages for our men held prisoners by the Axis have been shipped by the Red Cross.

Relief has also been extended to victims in bombed-out area of Great Britain and the Middle East, also to Greek and Polish refugees in Egypt, Syria, and Iran, as well as other nations in Europe and the Near East prior to their occupation.

Parents Warned Delinquency Problem Demands Attention

That juvenile delinquency has risen 30 per cent in the United States during the last few years and the problem needs immediate attention was the warning given Thursday to members of the Horace Mann Parent-Teacher association by Winston Savage, principal of the junior high school. The group met at the school for a regular session.

Urging that parents be more particular about the company their children keep, Mr. Savage pointed out that most of the delinquents are children between the ages of 12 to 16 years who are receiving insufficient guidance at home.

He named stealing, staying out of school and getting into trouble, and the "man craze" as the more prevalent types of delinquency, emphasizing the latter.

Explaining how parents may help to overcome the "man craze," he said, "Don't let them learn the hard way, through experience, but prepare them for normal adult lives as respected citizens of the community by teaching them the fundamentals of life at an early age."

"For the Good of All" was the topic discussed by the Rev. James E. Frost, assistant pastor of the Central Baptist church, who discussed the need of more education. RED CROSS VOLUNTEERS

By MRS. FRED ROBERTS
Joe Key, chairman of the board of the Pampa Red Cross chapter, has just announced the appointment of Mrs. Carl Wright as chairman of home nursing. Mrs. Wright, whose husband is vice-president of the General Atlas Carbon Black company, has only been in Pampa about four months but is already taking a vital interest in Pampa activities.

In the West New Brighton branch of the Staters Island, New York, Red Cross chapter, Mrs. Wright had charge of the organization of all first aid classes. She and Mr. Wright were very active, too, in the establishment of havens to which those injured in case of air raids could be taken. These havens are located in churches. From the havens, patients more seriously wounded would be taken to casualty centers, and from there those who require special medical care removed to hospitals. Mr. Wright, whose hobby is woodworking, has made some 114 stretchers for use in case of air raid disaster and so many traction splints that he hasn't kept count of them.

Mrs. Wright became particularly interested in home nursing when she assisted the home nursing chairman of the West New Brighton branch in visiting the many classes throughout that large area. She says that with hospitals overcrowded and understaffed, many persons who in normal times might be hospitalized, must now be cared for in their homes.

"It is up to us to know how to carry out the doctor's orders so that his valuable time will not be wasted," Mrs. Wright said.

No home nursing courses are being conducted in Pampa at present, but they will be started very soon. If you are interested in joining one, call Mrs. Wright at 2135. Through these courses you will learn how to establish a healthy home and how to maintain healthy habits. You are taught how to recognize the symptoms of illness and how to isolate those suffering from contagious diseases from other members of the family. Maternal and child care, as well as bedside nursing, also are stressed.

"The strain placed on medical and public health facilities through the loss of physicians and nurses who have answered the call of the armed forces must catch real attention of Pampa unprepared," said Mr. Key in announcing Mrs. Wright's appointment.

On Monday evening at 7:30 in the city commission room in the city hall, C. A. Husted will teach the second lesson in first aid for a class just recently organized. It is not too late for additional men and women to enroll in this class.

Mrs. Earl O'Brien, sewing and cutting chairman, says that more cuttings are needed on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons. If you can find a few extra hours by budgeting your time a little better, do give those hours to the Red Cross.

Mrs. Raymond Harrah, with the help of girls of the Kit Kat Klub which she sponsors, got 118 comfort kits ready for shipment this week.

The number of hours worked on surgical dressings in February is as follows:
—Mrs. R. G. Allen, 9 hours; Mrs. I. W. Spangler, 12; Mrs. George Appleby, 3; Mrs. Vic Banks, 9; Mrs. Ed Bissett, 6; Mrs. Irvin Cole, 9; Mrs. R. J. Epps, 6; Mrs. D. J. Taylor, 3; Mrs. Bert Robinson, 8; Mrs. Geo. Rainour, 18; Mrs. Lottie Ochiltree, 18; Mrs. Tom Bliss, 15; Mrs. Wm. Finkbeiner, 18; Mrs. A. R. Bagley, Jr., 6; Mrs. John Hankins, 6; Mrs. Edmund LaPorte, 3; Mrs. Alberta Zigler, 8; Mrs. L. W. Day, 3; Mrs. Roy L. Brown, Jr., 7; Mrs. R. H. Morse, 3; Mrs. C. N. # Park Service Will Take over Big Bend

MEIA, March 13 (AP)—The National Park service will take over within a month administration of the huge Big Bend Park area between Alpine and the Rio Grande, Raymond L. Dillard, Texas State Park Road board member, told a meeting of club women here.

Asserting that "Texas has reached the end of the Big Bend Park trail after ten years of planning and hard work," Dillard told the group yesterday that this week would see the end of the final condemnation suit in the land acquisition program of approximately 700,000 acres.

This park reserve, which the National Park service has promised would be the first national park developed after the war ends, was purchased for $1,500,000 from more than 5,000 individual land owners, he said.

New Andy Hardy Film Opening Here Today

That typical All-American boy, Andy Hardy, returns to a Pampa screen today in another of the popular Hardy family series, titled "Andy Hardy's Double Life." The picture opens a three-day run today at the LaNora.

Booked for the same days at the Rex is "My Sister Eileen," starring Rosalind Russell, Brian Aherne, and Janet Blair.

LaNora
Mickey Rooney (Andy Hardy) gets into legal troubles, finds himself "engaged" to two college girls, and finally gets started for college after a series of hilarious predicaments.

The picture opens on the eve of Andy's departure for Wainwright college. He sells his jalopy to a friend, who gets in an accident, and Andy is held responsible as owner of the car.

No sooner is he out of that trouble than he meets a flirtatious girl, who insists she construes his romantic behavior as a proposal of marriage. Also his father wants to go to college with him and introduce him to the president, and Andy knows that will ruin him with the fellows.

How he gets around his difficulties provides hilarity galore, with several deep touches of human interest and an inspiring "man to man" talk with his father.

Mickey as the irrepressible Andy has lost none of his effervescence and Lewis Stone as the judge and father turns in his usual faultless performance, as do Fay Holden as Andy's mother, Cecilia Parker as his sister.

Sara Haden plays Aunt Milly and Ann Rutherford his girl friend Polly, who conspires with a girl psychology student to "frame" Mickey with the proposal situation to teach him a lesson.

The new girl in the picture is Esther Williams, famous as a national swimming champion, who is beautiful and a clever actress.

George B. Seitz directed with skill from the direction of other pictures in the Hardy series.

Rex
A screen version of a stage success that is sure to please Pampa audiences is "My Sister Eileen," based on a series of magazine stories by Ruth McKenney, and adapted to the stage by Joseph Fields and Jerome Chodorov.

The stories describe the adventures of two "career" women from Columbus, Ohio, seeking fortune in New York City.

Ruth Shervod, older and more level-headed, wants to be a writer, but spends most of her time watching in amused amazement the complications into which her kid sister Eileen is constantly falling.

Eileen is a devastating bundle of blond dynamite a cute little eyeliner with a flair for hilarious trouble. She manages, without trying, to be the most man-chased blonde in the city.

Stellar Beauty Can Be Seen By Texas This Week

By E. K. MEAD
Written for the Associated Press
Texas evening skies will be well worth watching this month.

Not only student navigators who have become star conscious since Pearl Harbor but all Earthlings who appreciate stellar beauty can witness one of the most brilliant celestial shows that the heavens can produce.

Each this year brings into view the three brightest planets and 10 first magnitude stars—a magnificent display rarely surpassed.

Over near the western horizon soon after sunset you will see the brightest of them all (except for the sun and moon) the planet Venus which is swinging around the sun and approaching the earth. It will grow brighter every night as it draws closer, but as it starts outrunning us around the inside solar racetrack, it will set earlier every night and finally disappear into the sunset, appearing next on the other side of the sun just before dawn.

Venus is much like the earth in size and temperature, but no one has ever seen its surface because it is hidden by a thick atmosphere of sulfuric acid clouds. If Venus supports any form of life, her cloudy raiment would obscure it from the most powerful telescopes.

Next in brightness is the giant planet Jupiter, thousands of times larger than the Earth, which will be found in the constellation Gemini (the twins) almost overhead about 9 o'clock C. W. T. Jupiter has only about one fourth the brightness of Venus, rating a magnitude of minus 1.9 against a minus 3.4 for the queen of the skies.

The other bright planet is Saturn, next to Jupiter in size and adorned with a beautiful belt of rings, supposed to be composed of "moon dust" or remnants of an exploded satellite. Saturn will be found between Jupiter and the western horizon on the constellation Taurus, the Bull, quite close to the bright red star Aldebaran.

This is the top flight planet, named for the ancient Greek "wanderers" because they appear to wander among the fixed stars in their race around our nearest star, the sun.

The "fixed" stars, which never appear to change their relative positions are actually blazing suns like our own and are many light years beyond our solar planetary system. They shine with their own light, whereas planets and the moon shine with light reflected from the sun.

Brightest of all the stars visible this month is Sirius in Canis Major, known as the Dog Star. Sirius is bright because it is comparatively close to us—a mere 82 trillion miles.

It should be emphasized tonight, we wouldn't know it until 8.6 years hence because Sirius is 8.6 light years away.

Sirius will be found in the southwestern sky about 9 p. m. to the left of the prominent constellation Orion, the warrior. Above it is the "little dog," Procyon, which is also bright because of its nearness, 63 trillion miles.

Rigel, the bright star just below the three stars that form Orion's belt, is 843 light years away (the number of miles couldn't be written in this column). It must therefore be a very bright star. Above the belt is the giant red star Betelgeuse. In the west is Aldebaran, in Taurus, and above that is Arcturus, the Charioteer, with its yellow star Capella. Follow, one of the twins near Jupiter is also a first magnitude star.

Low in the east, Bootes is coming into view with the brilliant red star, Arcturus, whose light opened the New York world's exposition several years ago. Spica, a blue star in Virgo in the southeast, and Regulus in Leo, the lion, bring up to 10 the first magnitude stars of the month.

In April all of the stars will have moved two hours westward—that is, they will rise two hours earlier and set two hours earlier. That doesn't go for the planets, however. The wanderers move up and down the path of the zodiac on a separate time table of their own.

STEEL PLANT URGED

Only Severe Sickness Saves French Youth

BERN, March 13 (AP)—Only paralysis or a severe case of tuberculosis can save a French youth from Germany's program of mobilizing French workmen for the Nazi war industries, under which France literally is being bled white of manpower, dispatches from France said today.

Medical examinations are being held throughout France in an effort to fill the German demands for workers, but the young men selected "feel with reason that they are simply being railroaded to Germany," a dispatch from Marseille to the Tribune de Geneve said.

The youths are given a casual thump on the chest and even those who "normally" because of illness would be rejected for military service are declared "fit," the dispatch said. "No illness, except serious tuberculosis or paralysis obtains grace from the examining doctors, who rarely ask the youths to remove their shirts."

Meatless Days Old Stuff to Navy

WASHINGTON (AP)—When the American navy was a fledgling—10 years before its successful war on the pirates of Tripoli—the first navy ration law of 1794 provided for meatless Wednesdays.

The authorized ration was 1/2 pound of rice, 4 ounces of cheese, 4 ounces of molasses or 2 ounces of butter, one pound of seabiscuit or hardtack and a pint of rum or one quart of beer per man.

On other days sailors also enjoyed salt meat, without the benefit of refrigeration, and dried beans or peas or potatoes and turnips—if they were available.

Says Rubber Solution Is Simple As ABC

WICHITA (AP)—The country will have a better chance of solving the rubber problem" by sometime in 1944," J. J. Newman, B. F. Goodrich vice-president says, "if we boil the situation down to a simple set of 'ABC's and act accordingly."

"The A," he says, "is for allocate—dividing up all the rubber we have or can get or make so it will do the most effective job possible in keeping military machinery moving and the civilian economy rolling. B is for build—building the plants to make synthetic rubber as fast as possible. And C is for conserve—conserving what we have to be sure that none is wasted."

Death Sentence Sought For Britain's Starlings

LONDON (AP)—The fate of millions of pigeons, sparrows and starlings in Britain is in the balance. A jury of farmers and agricultural experts is expected to recommend death by dope for most of them, particularly starlings, named as partially responsible for the spread of hoof and mouth disease among cattle.

Broadway Takes To the Fields

NEW YORK (AP)—It was supposed to be a good year when, a year ago on Broadway, the playwrighting Fields family had four hits going at once.

This year the Fields family topped itself with five. Additions to the list are the smash-hit musical comedy, "Something for the Boys," with the book by Herbert and Dorothy Fields, and the successful farce, "The Doughgirls," written by Joseph Fields.

The latest Fields enterprises were launched a week apart in January. Still on the boards at the time were "Let's Face It," the musical with the book by Herbert and Dorothy; "Junior Miss," comedy by Joseph in collaboration with Jerome Chodorov; and "My Sister Eileen," by the same two collaborators, which lasted just long enough to make it five plays at one time. The late "Eileen," one of Broadway's most successful plays of all time, raised its first curtain Dec. 26, 1940.

Joseph Fields' collaborator, Chodorov, now is in the navy, as was Fields in the last war. But Joseph kept his name alive by naming one of his characters Chodorov.

The Hat Didn't Have Even A Gas Card

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP)—The way Glenn Bennett tells it, "it was a bit of a blow."

The wind was raging and Bennett's five-gallon hat blew away. A week later he received a package from Ted Samuel of Kimball, Neb. His hat was in it.

Bennett's name and address was stamped in the band of the hat and his only explanation is that it must have blown all the way across the state of Wyoming before it came to rest in Kimball.

Service Men Turn Star-Gazers

NEW YORK (AP)—The sixth in the Hayden Planetarium's series of courses in celestial navigation and star identification is drawing large numbers of service men because of practice problems applicable to both marine and air navigation. More than 2,500, including laymen and service men, have attended the winter courses.

LONDON, March 13 (AP)—The Vichy radio, in a broadcast recorded by the Associated Press, quoted advices from Vienna today as reporting the death of the Duchess of Bavaria, mother of Queen Mother Elizabeth of Belgium.

Indian Freedom Due in 1957?

By ROBERT N. COOL
AP Features Writer
Ever since the gentleman adventurers of the Honorable East India company found themselves unwilling heirs to a dissolving Oriental despotism, the 57th year of each passing century has been a peculiarly eventful one for Anglo-Indian relations. This phenomenon was first recognized by the Indians themselves.

In 1657 the British set up a trading empire in Bengal with its capital at the port of Hugli; the name of Joe Charnok, future founder of Calcutta, also first appeared on the East India company's rolls in that year.

Exactly a century later, on June 23, 1757, British rule of India was established at one momentous stroke by Clive's victory at Plassey over a Mohammedan army that outnumbered his men more than three to one.

A hundred years later, in May, 1857, the Sepoy mutiny presented the gravest peril to British domination that has been seen before or since. Native troops, made uneasy by western reforms and colonial bungling, turned upon their white officers in the Punjab. A Moslem ruler was set up at Agra; hundreds of Europeans were slaughtered. Finally, with the help of loyal warrior tribes, the British suppressed the rebellion, and ended the antiquated regime of "John Company." The British government took over.

During the mutiny, according to G. Anderson and M. Subedar in "Expansion of British India," "Vague prophecies foretelling the downfall of British power after the completion of a hundred years' supremacy were retold."

Today, with leaders of both sides agreed on the principle of freedom, such prophecies must carry even greater weight in the native bazaars.

If the present crisis is weathered and after the war Britain elects to follow the American precedent with the Philippines of a 10-year "waiting period," it is possible that the British "Raj" will reach a natural, planned conclusion 200 years after Plassey, 100 after the Mutiny—in 1957.

Violators of China Price Ceilings Booed

CHUNGKING, March 13 (AP)—Violators of a price ceiling program were paraded in disgrace through the flag-decorated streets of Chungking today and confiscated opium paraphernalia was burned in a public bonfire as an austerity keynote was sounded in a celebration of the 18th anniversary of the death of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the Chinese republic's first president.

Switzerland still uses the ancient crossbow as a weapon.

Soldier Chases Girls--But He's No Bad Wolf

AP Features
KEARNS FIELD, Utah—This is the army—with variations, and Tech. Sgt. Elbert Bish loves it.

Sergeant Bish's sole duty is to meet girls. He makes the rounds of soda fountains, movie lobbies and other public places in Salt Lake City just to meet girls. His approach sounds like the old come-on: He offers them a good job.

But Bish is no wolf. He's honestly looking for girls to fill scores of positions open at the basic training center of the army air forces technical training command here.

The idea of tagging girls in public places came to Bish after girls stayed away in droves from the employment offices. His superior officers gave in after remembering he is a married man and a father.

So far civil service has employed more than 100 stenographers and clerks to whom the sergeant spun his line. Bish estimates he has approached more than 300 and only one took him to be "a fresh guy."

He quickly dissipated her suspicions so quickly that she was one of the first to take a job at Kearns under the Bish go-out-and-get-'em plan.

Positions for girls at the field pay from $1,260 to $2,600 per year for a 40-hour week. And there's always the free soft drink. Sergeant Bish is glad to buy for his prospects.

Horse Thief-Chasers End Association

STRAWBERRY POINT, Ia. (AP)—The 77-year-old Strawberry Point Horse Thief Detective association has voted itself out of existence, believing its years of usefulness over.

The association was organized shortly after the War Between the States, when the rough wooded section of northeast Iowa was a rendezvous of horse thieves. Soon the volunteer mounted patrols inspired such fear in the thieves that there was no work left for them to do.

However, each January the association met and duly elected 12 riders who were to "hold themselves in readiness at all times to start in pursuit of stolen horses." Membership was handed down from father to oldest son.

The world has more than 250,000 airplane pilots today but there were only about 1000 when the war began.

Timoshenko of the Red Army

1915: Fired U. S.-made machine gun as corporal in czar's army against Germans. Court-martialed for striking officer.

1918: Black Sea Partisan leader. Plotted with Stalin, Voroshilov, Budenny.

1922: Learned to read and write at Reds' Frunze Military Academy.

1940: In command against Finland; evolved strategy to break Mannerheim Line.

1941: Saved Moscow; 1942: launched counter-drive that stopped Nazis at Stalingrad; 1943: commanding Leningrad offensive.

Towering, shaven-headed, wound-scarred Marshal Semyon Timoshenko—now directing the Soviet offensive in the north—was the first general of World War II to beat the Germans at their own game. He saved Stalingrad by matching the Nazis division for division and by using encircling counter-attacks. Before that he saved Moscow in the old, old Russian way: a fighting retreat plus hounding guerrilla attacks. Shunning politics and purges, the 48-year-old peasant-born Bessarabian came up slowly from a revolutionary Caucasus platoon leader in 1918. German-taught, Timoshenko lives only for the army; the individual soldier is but a unit of mass strategy. His code: physical fitness, training, death for diabedence.

Browns Don't Want To Sell Franchise

SAN ANTONIO, March 13 (AP)—Harold Winters, San Antonio city parks commissioner, says there may be some mistake about the St. Louis Browns wanting to sell their Texas league franchise here.

Seeing a report in the press that Bill DeWitt, vice-president of the Browns, had offered to sell the franchise for about $5,000, Winters called DeWitt in St. Louis and said he was told the Browns did not want to sell—that DeWitt said his organization would be ready to operate the local franchise just as soon as the way permitted the Texas league to resume play.

Food Problem On Alcan Road Hard to Handle

BY SAM JACKSON AP Features Writer

EDMONTON, Alberta — A frail medical officer along the Alcan highway went to his commanding officer and said: "Unless these men get some fresh meat in one week I am going to make a personal report to the surgeon-general."

The meat came through. Many men in the 30 or 40 stations I visited, in hitch-hiking 1,000 miles on the new road, have some- how got the idea that they are "expedient"—that they are to be liquidated for the sake of the road.

I had ample opportunity to talk with officers of the Northwest Service command at Whitehorse. I could see that this was not true. They want the men to be comfortable and they want them to have fun.

Contractors for the Public Roads administration, who have to keep their men on a voluntary basis, manage to get through everything they want.

One of the most lavish and one of the most frugal meals I have had in my life were taken within 30 miles on the Alaska road. The first was taken at a contractor's camp, the second at the army's.

E. W. Elliott, who is under contract for a number of army jobs, said the chief worry of his Seattle office, next to getting and keeping men, was buying food. But they seem to know how. At two of his general mess tables where I dined there was soup, unlimited servings of one or more meats, three or more vegetables, two kinds of dessert, a multitude of condiments and sauces, and as much coffee as you could drink.

Up here, the mere appearance of a civilian in an invitation to dinner, and seldom is a charge made.

Issue of vitamin pills supplements the food when necessary. Also, for emergencies, each camp has small cans called Ration A and Ration B. One is corned beef hash and the other largely sugar and chocolate concentrates. I sampled them and they are not palatable.

Whether food is served with a little flourish or just thrown at you depends on the individual company officer. I have seen the tents of two officers which were as far apart in livability as the worst slum of New York and a room in the best hotel.

On the shore of Lake Muncho I had business with a lieutenant who was doing his road work doggedly and well, but whose tent was several degrees below a cartoonist's version of how the caveman lived.

But the officers' mess was presided over by a Negro plainly from the old South, and it was as neat and cheerful as comfortable table arrangements, a sawdust floor and effectively hung oil lanterns could make it.

Under the frost-topped tent, I was served hot biscuits. The quiet watchfulness of the Negro cook could not have been excelled by a waiter at the Waldorf.

Serial Story Glider Girl

By OREN ARNOLD Copyright, 1943 NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Heralded from coast to coast, Capt. James Carr's glider flight, with Pat Friday as passenger, is attracting a great deal of public attention. The pilot has arrived in Chicago, and Pat has retired to her hotel room—where she is suddenly confronted by Loraine Stuart, who has a gun in her hand. Pat's ready wisdom saves her from possible injury to Loraine's hands. When Loraine produces an order, commanding Pat to return immediately to Elmira, the order, Pat notices with sinking heart, is signed by Captain Carr.

FORGERY CHAPTER XII FOR the past few hours, that embryonic hope which had lurked within Pat Friday had been growing. It was an unadmitted hope but a very real one; a hope that Jimmy Carr might think she was a woman to treat as a woman, a somebody to be loved, instead of a cute little-sister somebody to be teased. Not that she disliked the teasing—indeed she loved it!—but now she knew that teasing had been the sum of it all.

"He gave you this?" she murmured, stupefied, to Loraine Stuart there in the Chicago hotel room. Loraine didn't answer. "Where did you get this order?" Pat wasn't coherent because her mind was whirling. And yet, she could remember enough. There had been two hours since she saw Jimmy. At the great Chicago airport where their sail- plane landed, crowds had engulfed them. Reception committees had things in hand. Jimmy had technical aspects of the flight to see to, reports to make to Army officials and the like, while she acted more as front for the public to see. It was a part of their pre- arranged plan. And so it had been two hours since she left Jimmy at the air field.

That was time enough for Loraine to have followed him and gotten the order. Of course, Loraine was originally scheduled to be Jimmy's passenger. Loraine was his fiancée. Of course. . . . Of course. "All right," Pat blurted now, "I'll go now. I—thank you, Loraine. I'm sorry. . . . Sorry for everything, I mean—the flight. It shouldn't have been mixed up this way, for Jimmy's sake and— and yours. . . . I—good luck, Loraine. I'll go now." She held on to the Army order, signed by Capt. James Carr himself. It ordered her back to Elmira immediately, in the same plane that had brought Loraine west.

"Good—good luck, Loraine," Pat repeated, not seeing her. "Take good care of Jimmy. Take good care of him." She was out of the door again, and all at once the fatigue returned to her, engulfed her, left that horrible sensation of loneliness intensified. She, Pat Friday, had no parents, no relatives except a beloved brother on an airplane carrier somewhere near Australia. And except for Jimmy Carr, she really hadn't made any friends lately, either. Life had been too rushed, duties too stern. And she had had only four hours' sleep in 36 hours of strain and hurry. She managed to get a taxi without further recognition. The reception committee that brought her had dispersed.

In the taxi, going toward the airport again, she wished she might at least see Jimmy. She wanted to tell him it was all right. Everything was all right, even if he—if he did feel it necessary to demote her, in effect. Even if he didn't quite have the—well, the nerve, or something—to tell her face to face. Perhaps he wanted to spare her any embarrassment. Sure, that's it. Jimmy wouldn't want to hurt anybody. Better just send a signed Army order, formal and all. He—she couldn't—couldn't have known that Loraine—would put on a crazy act with a gun.

JUSTIFYING Jimmy Carr, she was almost in tears. It would be good to fly again. She hoped the pilot was all ready and waiting. They would be back in Elmira before too long. Maybe she could sleep a little en route, then go to bed and forget the whole thing. But no. No, she would never really forget this experience. Not if she lived a billion years. The airplane pilot turned out to be homely, friendly Ed Bryan, who had often towed Patsy in a sailplane. "This is a heck of a note, Miss Friday," Ed drawled his speech. "You reckon everything's okay?" That surprised Pat a little. "Surely, Ed," she said. "It's all right." She tried, weakly, to be facetious about it. "C'est la guerre." "I guess so. But—it wasn't all just regular. I'm talking about my scooter!" over here with that Stuart dame, and such. "What do you mean, Ed? Regular?" "Well, I tell you. If I hadn't

"He took off in a terrible hurry, Ed. Miss Stuart was unavoidably delayed back at Elmira, and there had to be a woman passenger to save embarrassment all around. Don't you see?"

"The pilot didn't answer at once. He had opened his flying jacket and taken another Army order out. Under the light there on the landing field, he studied first one paper then the other.

"I ain't right bright, Miss Pat, but you know I'm yours and Captain Carr's friend, and—well, to tell you the truth, I used to be a policeman. Detective bureau work, a little, down in Atlanta, Ga."

"I got another Army paper here that Captain Carr signed. About something else. But I saw him sign that one. And it ain't the same word as the other one is. Miss Pat, this order Miss Stuart gave you is forged!"

Veteran Legislator Declares Soldiers Can Take Care of Selves

By WILLIAM E. KEYS
 AUSTIN, March 13 (AP)—A pin dropped on the rug would have clattered when 73-year-old W. W. Bridgers, veteran house of representatives member from El Paso, addressed his colleagues.

Irked by debate on a liquor curfew bill passed on a "protect the youth" argument, Bridgers, former city judge, printer, attorney and writer in his own right, said:

"I resent this sentimental gush about protecting our boys in the army."

Then he went on to say youth needed no protection.

A man with a wealth of experience, he told the house just how he stood personally on the liquor question.

"I have had one drink this session. I haven't had a bottle of beer in a year."

Discounting the arguments for protecting the soldier against liquor he added:

"This talk about protecting the soldier against drinking is pure drivel. Men in the army don't drink any more than they did before they went in the army—possibly not as much."

Drinking in the army is nothing new anyway, he explained, telling the story of a group who complained to President Lincoln that General U. S. Grant was a drinker.

"If you can find out what brand he drinks let me know because I want some of the other Union generals to get the same kind," Lincoln reported to have told the petitioners.

It was Bridgers' opinion that debates on protecting youth were pretty far afield for the legislature which has many pressing problems before it.

"Before the war I held grave fears about the youth of this nation," he said.

"But since Pearl Harbor those fears have disappeared. There never has been such a patriotic outpouring by the youth of this nation and they are getting the job done. Let's leave them alone."

One proponent of the liquor curfew bill—which includes Sunday prohibition against sale and public consumption of all alcoholic beverages—was Rep. Houston McMurtry of the Delaware river and defeated a drunken Hessian army.

This roused Rep. Joe Ed Winfree of Houston, father of a soldier and a sailor.

"Washington's army defeated the Hessians because of the American's courage, guts and their faithfulness to American ideals," he shouted.

The house took cognizance of Texas Independence day by working. A concession to the holiday was an address by Rep. Houston McMurtry of Henrietta on General Sam Houston.

Incidentally, McMurtry was nearly howled down by cries of "no" on the previous day when he mentioned Texas Independence day was Houston's birthday also. McMurtry proved the howlers wrong.

He made a fine address on the Texas hero and members ordered it printed in the Journal.

All very nice until March 3 when McMurtry discovered that an error in printing resulted in this sentence:

"In 1840 he had at last found marital happiness..."

What McMurtry said was marital happiness.

A correction was ordered.

Texas had a new governor—officially—the other day.

Introduced by the master of ceremonies at a public ceremony a slip of the tongue resulted in this statement:

"Ladies and gentlemen, our governor—Steve R. Cokenson."

Legislature Cites Shamrock Gunner

Special to The News.
 SHAMROCK, March 13—Cpl. Max F. Scroggins, son of H. L. Scroggins of route 2, Shamrock, was among eight Texans who last week were cited for bravery by the state legislature in resolution 130.

The resolution, a copy of which was sent to the Shamrock Texan by State Representative Ennis Favors to be delivered to the corporal's father, was adopted by the house of representatives "for the great victory won over the Japs in the battle north of New Guinea."

Cpl. Scroggins was a gunner on one of the United States bombers which trapped a 14-vessel Japanese convoy near New Guinea on Tuesday, March 2, and bombed four, (probably six and possibly nine) of them.

The Shamrock youth was at the guns of one of the first of three ships to strike the Japs in one of the greatest victories the United States has scored on the Japs in the Southwest Pacific.

The grant is for expenditures between now and May 15, it was stated by Charles P. Tait, assistant director of the office. The plan calls for one state and three area consultants to work on the staff of the state education department in developed extended school services for care of the children.

The federal agency estimated that between 35 and 50 per cent of the women available for work are mothers of children under 16 years of age.

FOG CAUSES FATALITY

HENDERSON, March 13 (AP)—Dewey H. Edwards, 44, of Jacksonville, was killed in an automobile collision during a heavy fog Thursday night near Turnertown.

Texans on leave from normal peacetime positions to serve here in connection with war program is R. L. Peurifoy, former head of the engineering division of Texas A. and I. College at Kingsville. He's here with the office of education.

THOSE GREAT MOUNTAINS of burrs outside of Central and West Texas cotton gins, heretofore disposed of by burning, may mean additional cash income to farmers some day.

R. B. Pender of Arlington has perfected a process for chemically treating and compressing them so that they make an excellent substitute for cork.

During a recent visit here he had his product tested by government scientists, and it was found well suited for such purposes as filling expansion joints in concrete roads or runways, or for floats on life rafts.

If commercial utilization of burrs on a large scale can be worked out, it would be particularly beneficial to West Texas cotton farmers where the staple itself is brought into the gin, with the so-far useless burr finally being separated and piled up outside to be set afire.

A GROUP OF SOUTH AMERICAN newspapermen visiting Washington called on that good natured Texas cattleman who holds down the post of assistant secretary of agriculture.

The Latin-Americans got a big kick out of this question by Hill, drawn out with a real Texas accent:

"Are you boys like the reporters up here, where they pick out all the faults of us public officials and then tell the public all about them?"

Panhandle Girl Returns From Port of Spain

By L. T. EASLEY
 WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Back from Trinidad is pretty, dark-eyed Annetta Goble, former Texas congressional secretary, after a year with army engineers building defense works in that Caribbean island.

Two years ago she left her Panhandle home in Shamrock to come to work here for Representative Gene Worley. She had previously worked for him, a fellow townsman, when he served in the Texas House of Representatives. After a year here she signed up with the war department to go to Trinidad to work in administrative headquarters there.

The first six months on the island, just 7 miles off the Venezuelan coast in South America, she lived in an army barracks on a military reservation. The remainder of the time her residence was an apartment in the island's big town, Port of Spain.

Hundreds of soldiers and sailors were on hand there for every girl on the island, she says, but she fell for a civilian. He's Herb Lindsay of Pensacola, Fla. They're engaged, and, as a matter of fact, may reach Texas on a honeymoon by the time this is in print.

She and Lindsay met in Trinidad, where he also was working with the engineers. They came back to the states a few days ago by plane, Lindsay stopping off in Pensacola where he is to work. Miss Goble came on back to Washington to visit friends, then bought a train ticket back to Pensacola. She said it was uncertain just when she might be married, but that it was possible

B-24 Bomber Found In Arizona Mountains

TUCSON, Ariz. March 13 (AP)—The rugged Galiuro mountains today reluctantly yielded the wreckage of a B-24 army bomber missing from Davis-Monthan Field with 11 men on board since January 18.

When first sighted from the air by a civil air patrol pilot, base officers believed it to be the wreckage of a B-17 from Lockbourne Field, Columbus, Ohio, which disappeared on a flight from Portland, Ore., on March 3.

Two Lieutenant Generals Named

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—President Roosevelt today had nominated two officers who have played leading roles in the North African offensives to be lieutenant generals.

They are Maj. Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, commander of the Allied air force in North Africa, and Maj. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., commander of armored divisions there.

she would be back in Texas a few days to visit friends.

When she reached Washington Miss Goble had a nice sun tan, but she picked that up at a Florida beach en route here. In Port of Spain she lived only a matter of feet from the water, but docks and wharves made it worthless for swimming and sunning. The nearest beach was 10 miles away, she said, so she didn't get much of that recreation there. Picture shows, dancing and horseback riding were the principal sources of recreation.

There were jungles a few miles away from where she lived, said the Texas girl, but she never got out in them.

U. S. to Panama Highway Work To Be Speeded

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Warlike needs for over-land transportation today appeared likely to hasten completion of a direct highway between the United States and the Panama Canal.

Central American republics are reported speeding construction of the remaining links in the inter-American highway which, with the new Alcan highway through Canada, will provide a system of over-land roads connecting Alaska and the Panama Canal.

The joining of Alaska and the Panama Canal—a distance of about 8,000 miles—will represent "one of the most spectacular road-building feats in history," said Edwin W. James, chief of the Public Road Administration's Inter-American regional office.

James reported in the commerce department's publication, Foreign Commerce Weekly, that the road may be completed long ahead of previous expectations.

As a central artery of overland transport, the inter-American highway will aid the internal economy of Central America and may help relieve the coffee shortage here, James said.

He added the road was virtually completed from the United States border to Oaxaca, Mexico, 340 miles south of Mexico City, and the sister republic had obtained $30,000,000 from the Export-Import Bank of Washington to aid in finishing the link to Guatemala.

FDR Discourages 4th Term Talk

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—President Roosevelt told inquiring reporters Friday that he did not think he had any views to express on two White House conferences recently in which the question of a fourth term was mentioned.

Let's get on with the war, he suggested, when asked whether he had anything to say about recent meetings with officials of the Democratic national committee and with Representative Sabin (D-III).

It was the first time the fourth term question had risen, even indirectly, at a press conference.

Nix Loses Last Chance of Appeal

DALLAS, March 13 (AP)—W. L. Nix, former East Texas oil operator, has lost his last chance to defer sentence of two years for oil tax violations, Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davison Thursday overruled his plea for stay of execution on a mandatory.

The mandate, issued by the U. S. circuit court of appeals at New Orleans, which denied Nix's appeal, arrived Thursday morning, and, after the hearing on his request for a few days' stay to wind up his affairs, Nix was committed to custody of the U. S. marshal and placed in county jail to await removal probably to Fort Leavenworth.
