It is so simple that even a child could play it. But the trouble is, the child will not play it. The trouble is, the child will not play it. The trouble is, the child will not play it.

Irish Seniors Give Program

SHAMROCK — (Special) — High School seniors overcame another hurdle in their plan for raising money for the annual senior trip next spring. They gave a "sock hop" Wednesday night at the gymnasium.
 A sock hop is a dance where couples dance in socks. The theory being that shoes will scuff the gym floors. Shoes are removed at the door.
 Seniors hired a nickelodeon charged 50 cents stag or drag and netted $11.25 after paying for the juke box rental.
 The sock hop was the brain child of Albert Purcell, C. O. G. Smith and Virgil Snell, senior boys. It was another in the series of fund-raising stunts which include retreatment stands at athletic games, a Halloween carnival booth, candy sales and straight, non-sock dances.
 Mrs. Helen Laycock, senior sponsor and commercial teacher, chaperoned the "sock hop."

 Date for his trial has not been announced.

Texans Holding Important Posts

By TEX EASLEY
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Four Texans hold key jobs in a program aimed at helping free nations to help themselves.

They are employed by the State Department in the Mutual Defense Assistance Program (MDAP). Their jobs deal with allocating funds to the various government agencies which have a hand in the program, and with determination of the military value of particular operations.

A Houston man who served on the staffs of both General Dwight D. Eisenhower and General Omar Bradley in World War II is the MDAP liaison officer and works with the armed services.

He is Eli Stevens, a graduate of West Point who was promoted to colonel before he retired because of combat injuries received in North African fighting.

Richard R. Bogardus, El Paso; Floyd B. Moyer, Denison and Dero J. Cagle, San Antonio, handle disbursement of funds to the armed services, Commerce Department and other government units carrying out the defense assistance program.

Bogardus was in the army finance office at Fort Bliss before coming to Washington two years ago. He attended El Paso public schools and Texas College of Mines from 1930 to 1932. His wife, Marguerite, holds from Commerce Department in the Census Bureau. From 1933 to 1936 he was with the RFC as an accountant.

The principal aim of the MDAP is to strengthen the free nations by supplying materials to boost the arms-making capacities of the free world.

Still another Texan in a related field of foreign assistance is E. N. (Skinny) Holmgreen of Bryan, a Texas Aggie of the class of 1922.

Holmgreen is deputy director of the food and agriculture division of the Economic Cooperation Administration.

His job is to see that the war-torn countries outside the Iron Curtain get adequate food and the materials to rebuild their agricultural economy. About half the $8,000,000,000 spent so far on the ECA has gone into the program in which the former Texas county agent is active.

Proud of the fact that European countries have staged a remarkable comeback, Holmgreen says he hopes that he can work himself out of a job.

After finishing A&M, he worked in the extension service, at College Station and was Galveston county agent from 1941 to 1943, before entering the Army. He was with the American Military Government for a period in Austria. He was in the 36th Division's invasion of Salerno, and was with a group of 38 Aggies of the VI Corps who held a muster on the beachhead of Anzio on April 21, 1944.

His wife, Claire, is from Carrijo Springs. They have a son, J. N., living in Houston; another son, Richard, of Bryan, and a daughter, Shirley, who is studying aeronautical engineering at the University of Texas.

The life of American diplomatic people in a distant land is described by Rep. Clark Fisher in an account of his recent trip to the Middle East, just published in the Congressional Record.

Fisher reports there are 214 Texans in the foreign service, most of them scattered over the globe. They are among the 7,000 American nationals in the U. S. foreign service stationed in 284 posts in more than 70 countries.

Here are some of the top Texans in the foreign service: John D. Crawford, now assistant secretary of state for United Nations affairs; Fletcher Warren, Wolf City, former ambassador to Paraguay, now director of the State Department's office of South American Affairs; R. R. Rubottom, Jr., of Brownwood and Corsicans; and Tom Mann, Laredo, both handling Latin American affairs; Douglass Balentine, Bigflat, vice consul in Guatemala; John Burnett, Bowie, vice consul in Kobe; Jack Howison, Bogata, vice consul in Istanbul.

Name Changed For McLean Legion By New Charter

McLEAN — (Special) — The American Legion Post No. 315 has received its new charter whereby it may function under a new name.

The change was made from the Andrew H. Floyd post to Floyd-Corbin-Florey Post 315 as announced by Commander George W. Terry.

The change of names is to honor three boys instead of one. The former name was in honor of Andrew H. Floyd, first and only McLean boy lost in World War I. The change includes Andy Corbin, first casualty from McLean in World War II, and Webb Florey, first and only one so far in the Korean conflict.

Floyd came to McLean in 1903 with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Floyd, now deceased, and was killed in France in November, 1918 at the age of 28. Corbin was the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Corbin of McLean and was killed in action in June, 1942 at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, at the age of 19. Florey was killed in Korea in September, 1950, just one month after arriving in Korea. He was the 20-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Florey of McLean.

Whalley Gives Review For Kiwanis Club

Herman Whalley, immediate past president of the Pampa Kiwanis Club, was principal speaker at the club meeting, Friday noon. Whalley gave a review of the club's activities during the year of 1950, which information was included in the year's achievement report.

Whalley gave a detailed report on the 1950 activities of five outstanding committees in the club. Included in the report were the agriculture and conservation committee, the boys and girls committee, public and business affairs committee, support of churches committee and underprivileged children's committee.

Whalley said, at the close of his report, "This Kiwanis Club is an organization and we can do anything we set our minds to."

Other guests included Paul Brown, Gray County chairman of the March of Dimes drive and George Newberry one of the directors.

Brown pointed out the importance of the drive and gave some facts and figures concerning the present status of the local polio fund. He requested volunteers from the club to help with solicitations Sunday afternoon.

Similar requests have been named at the other civic clubs in Pampa, throughout the week. Newberry informed the group of the March of Dimes Cavalcade of Stars, to be held Jan. 26-27 to help raise money for the cause. He passed out 10 tickets each to club members to sell. Reserved tickets may be obtained from Clyde's Pharmacy.

Leslie Hart, president, announced that the Kiwanis show, scheduled for Feb. 5-6, has been postponed until later during the month, due to the illness of some of the cast.

HERE'S HOW!—Sandra McKiddy, all of 21 months old, shows the photographer how easy it is for a little girl to roller skate. Sandra is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlice McKiddy, 329 N. Skating Fans Could Envy Little Pampan

A lot of roller skating fans might look with envy upon little Sandra McKiddy, should they see her skating down the sidewalk in front of her home at 329 N. Banks. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arlice McKiddy.

Although she is only 21 months old, and has been skating just since September, Sandra handles the wheels like a veteran. It all started when the man of the house refused to learn to skate with Mrs. McKiddy, an ardent fan. "Well," said the

Pampa Girl Stars In Movie Gutter

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — So you want to be an actress? For five months after she signed a contract, red-haired Mary Castle, of Pampa, Tex., studied 8 hours daily, six days a week, with drama, voice and ballet teachers on the Columbia lot. They finally agreed recently that she was ready.

So they threw her into the gutter. There, counting the rehearsals and retakes, she lay for the better (or worst) part of three hours, playing a hit-and-run accident victim.

Henry Goes on Jewel Hunt With Pair of Horse Shoes

By HENRY McLEMORE
"HOW TO STUMBLE UPON A FORTUNE IN GEMS!"

These blaring words in a newspaper advertisement made me drop my tating shuttle, turn off the TV, and wire for a copy of "Gem Hunter's Guide."

Next time you trip on a rock," the ad said, "examine it carefully. You may have walked into a real fortune."

All over the U. S. diamonds, pearls, opals, garnets, amethysts, jade, rubies, topaz, sapphires, turquoise, zircons, and other precious stones are waiting to be picked up."

While I was putting on my hat and slipping into a pair of stout walking shoes, I continued to read the ad.

A youth pitching horseshoes in an open lot picked up a stone and kept it in his pocket for 15 years before he discovered it was the largest alluvial diamond ever found in the U. S. — 34.46 carats in weight.

A cowboy found an opal worth $280,000. Gems are all around us, half hidden by surface dirt, even in the New York City area.

Jean yelled, "Where are you going?" when I tore out of the door, and I yelled back, "To find the diamond for that engagement ring you have been asking me for for sixteen years."

I bought a pair of horseshoes at one of the many livery stables which dot Park Avenue, went to Central Park, and started pitching.

A cop grabbed me by the arm. When I told him I was looking for an alluvial diamond he grabbed me by both arms.

When I showed him the ad about the boy who struck it rich he wanted to get in the game with me, and we pitched until sundown. But we didn't find a single diamond — only a handful or two of pigeon blood rubies and square cut emeralds, which we gave to the urchins who kept score for us.

It was a disappointing day, but tomorrow will be different because I have a list of all the places in New York where excavating is being done. With steam shovels throwing up tons and tons of rock every hour there is only an outside chance that I won't come home with a diamond big enough to enable me to ask Jean to become engaged to me.

The Gem Hunter's Guide," if the ad is to be believed, tells exactly where to find scores of precious gems, and how to identify them. I don't know the name of the editor of this book, but he must be just about the most unselfish man in this country.

Instead of going out every morning with a bushel basket and returning at nightfall with a king's ransom in gems for himself, he is willing for $2.95 (plus two bits for postage and handling), to let you do the harvesting.

To think that used to worry about the phone and light bills, and how I was to scrape together the money for the rent and insurance.

Two weeks after this book gets in my hands I have little doubt but that I will be spoken of as the Aga McLemore in society columns, and my fiancée, Jean, as the Begum.

Who knows but what I finally may wind up so rich as to be able to break my leg skiing? Or shake a cane at the press. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Gay Paree 'Thrilling' Wacs But Gowns Beyond PFCs

NEA Staff Correspondent
PARIS (NEA) — A detachment of 36 wide-eyed Wacs arrived in Paris for "temporary duty" in Communications at the Hotel Astoria, temporary SHAPE headquarters. Twenty-four hours later they were already hard at work on their regular Army schedule.

But they had managed to snatch a few quick glances at gay Paree. What little window-shopping they have done has made them doubt whether they will ever be able to afford that little Paris frock they always dreamed of owning.

The group now in Paris was chosen out of a company of 120 stationed at Heidelberg, Germany. Some have spent almost six years in the Army, others signed up a little over a year ago. Outside of Cpl. Dorothy Craven of Thomaston, Mass., who spent two weeks of her furlough in Paris last spring, none of them had ever been here before. Their knowledge of French is of the high-school brand. "But we somehow know enough to catch a taxi. It's wonderful how these cab drivers seem to understand," said one of them. "It's all so thrilling," said Cpl. Rose Retallick of Easton, Md. "We only knew 24 hours ahead where we were going. Personally, I'd love to stay on but I'm getting married to an Army corporal next month and naturally I'm anxious to get back to Germany."

Pfc. Doris Moore, a pretty brunette from Ashland, Mass., was torn between the desire to stay on and that of going back to her "swabbie" fiancé in Heidelberg. She thought at least half the girls had boy friends back there.

What they are most ecstatic about is their billets. "After barracks life, it's just heavenly to share your room with only one other person and be able to luxuriate in a real bath," said Pfc. Patricia Lane, of Lenox Dale, Mass. "First thing I did was to buy the biggest jar of bath salts I could find."

Patricia has spent six years as a Wac. She left a clerical job in Washington to join up in 1943, served five years in the Pacific, went home for a year and rejoined for another three years.

"Sure you get tired of Army life — parades, the chow, living in barracks," she commented, "but then most other work is routine, too. In Heidelberg we are well taken care of — plenty of entertainment, excursions and so forth. It's an easy life to slide into but, hey, we'll have no difficulty in sliding into this particular way of living."

The girl in charge of the detachment is Sgt. Ruth Maddox of Gloucester, Mass. She has five years Army service behind her. "I'm keeping my fingers crossed I'll be detached permanently to this GHQ," she said. "Because I know I could be very happy here."

Off duty, the Wacs are allowed to wear civvies. "I saw a dream of a dress just around the corner — white brocaded silk, terribly simple, a wide green velvet belt. I suppose it costs the earth!" This from Cpl. Retallick who planned to buy her wedding dress, perfume and really feminine lingerie in Paris. She was drawing $100 a month, she explained, and even in francs that didn't seem to go a long way, judging from prices she'd seen so far.

It is estimated that if the existing water in lakes were added to the ocean, the water level would be lifted two feet.

Prayers Are Made For Cholera Relief

RANGOON — (AP) — Prime Minister Thakin Nu knelt alongside Mandalay citizens on a sun-baked field to pray for the termination of a cholera epidemic gripping the sacred city 800 miles north of Rangoon. Reports from Mandalay say the epidemic is taking a daily toll of 42 lives.

According to the reports there is vaccine sufficient only for 50,000 of the city's approximately 200,000 population.

Naval Jet Base To Open In July

KINGSVILLE — (AP) — The Navy will begin operating its advanced jet training base here two months earlier than expected. Rear Admiral John Perry, chief of advanced air training, announced the base will open in July 1. The unit will be transferred here en masse from Pensacola, Fla.

The base is expected to bring 7,500 more people to Kingsville, thus boosting the population by 40 percent. Admiral Perry said the base may be in operation as long as ten years.

The jet training here will be the last stage of training for the cadets, who will be commissioned at the close of their training. Admiral Perry, addressing 225 local business men last week appealed for cooperation between the community and the Navy in working out such problems as housing, school facilities, and transportation.

Pennsylvania Sets Record For Flights; No Red Planes

By HAL BOYLE
WITH U.S. EIGHTH ARMY, Korea — (AP) — A young Pennsylvania flier during the first six months of the Korean campaign flew more jet plane combat missions than any other man in history, and he did it without ever seeing an enemy plane in the sky. This odd distinction fell to Lt. Robert J. Swartz, 24, of Butler, Pa. It didn't please him at all—the fact he chalked up more than 130 combat trips and never once got a chance to test his

Editorial Defends Chinese Loyalty

PENANG — (AP) — An editorial in the Chinese-edited, English language daily, "Straits Echo," said here that Chinese in Malaya will someday prove that they refuse to accept "second place in their loyalty" to this country. In the midst of his confusion and noise AP Correspondent Tom Lambert rushed to the only telephone line still working. After a heart-breaking delay he managed to get through to Tokyo. Tensely he asked the operator there to connect him with his office. "Oh, Mister Lambert," she said chattily, "I haven't heard from you for some time. How is everything?" "Not so good," said Lambert. "What's the trouble?" asked the operator sympathetically. "Have you got a cold?"

Washington . . . by Peter Edson

Russian Propaganda Makes Satellites Hope For Liberation

By JOHN FISHER There are indications that Moscow may have overdone its crusade of violence and hatred. Its ceaseless war talk has frightened its own people and satellites, spurred Europe in rallying to General Eisenhower and aroused in both political parties in Washington a determination to spoil Stalin's plan to wipe out America and take over the world. The dictator realizes that his schemes will be ruined if the great American soldier-statesman succeeds in his defense system.

Marshall And Mrs. Rosenberg

By DAVID BAXTER Considering that we're supposed to be at odds with the communists, why the Sam Hill do those fellows in Washington have to place about the most doubtful characters in the country in positions of authority?

As though Acheson, a Frankfurter "hot dog boy," wasn't bad enough, we had to have Roosevelt's old political "general," George Catlett Marshall, placed in charge of our defense—which seems to consist mostly of arming everybody but ourselves.

So They Say

We must never again face a great national crisis with ammunition lacking. A few guns to fire and no decisive procedures for procuring vital arms in sufficient quantities. can double the food production of places where they don't have enough to eat. If Dr. Bennett and his organization can do that, Point Four is in for a big year. It is refreshing to find a dirt farmer of this type in the State Department. He would like to see the world made better, but not by building TVA's on every river or trying to put two cars in every garage right at the start. Mechanization, he says, would only cause mass unemployment in most countries. Dr. Bennett tells the story of Horace Holmes, a Tennessee and North Carolina county agent who went to India a few years ago. It is an example of what one man can do with little or no money, if he has a head full of experience and common sense. SUCCEEDED Horace Holmes was hired by the United Provinces government of India as an agricultural planning adviser. He went to work on a 100-square mile area near Lucknow. In less than three years he was able to increase wheat production by 67 percent and Irish potato production by 200 percent. He did it without tractors and without fertilizer—both of which were too complicated for the natives to understand. He did it simply by taking what he found and using it to better advantage. He found the natives plowing with one spike on a stick. They barely scratched the surface. Their furrows were four inches apart and they plowed the field both ways. It took forever and the crops were often washed out by heavy summer rains. Horace Holmes simply rigged up half a dozen spikes on the sticks and he set them so that they plowed deeper. Then he taught seed selection. And by the speed-up of gang plowing with half-dozen spikes he saw that the crops were planted before the big rains came. When it came time to harvest, Horace Holmes found the natives walking one team of oxen interminably around a threshing mostly because of Regulation W on credit controls, is estimated to save one million tons of steel in 1951.

The only confusion existing among committee members, he said, was the fact that no one knew just what would be needed, when and how much. Many of the present restrictions may be made more stringent within the next few months when the National Production Authority knows what it will need, what will be short and how soon it will be needed.

On price controls, Boyd said not only the retailer will have to cut back, but the manufacturer also. He used the lumber industry as an example when he said a formula would be drawn up this time instead of the way price control was handled the last time. He pictured the lumber producer being allowed to make a decent profit on such large volume items as two-by-fours instead of being cut to the bone as was the last case. "During the last war we could get plenty of flooring because the lumber manufacturer could make a decent profit and get it to us, but not so with two-by-fours. Thus, we weren't able to get the things we needed and plenty of what we didn't need.

Other things that are sure to vanish from the open market in a few months are plated brass plumbing fixtures, the will be replaced; copper tubing after June 30; galvanized items due to a zinc shortage for civilian use. The man who will administer the production orders and restrictions, James Follin, administrator of the construction division of NEA, Boyd described as a "practical man" and in whom the committee feels will do as honest and effective a job administering as anyone could.

World War II for educational purposes. The announcement made no estimate of cost, merely noting that funds already had been appropriated.

AEC officials declined to amplify the announcement or to indicate the type of production at Pantex. With "radioactive materials" ruled out, other manufacture in which AEC might be interested could conceivably involve: Caprol, a form of hydrogen and a possible ingredient for making hydrogen bombs; parts and mechanism for atomic bombs; or guided missiles and artillery shells to be fitted with atomic explosives. Experts have said it is theoretically feasible to fit such missiles with atomic explosives.

Scientists have developed a new form of carbon hard enough to scratch glass. It is made directly from coal without primary carbonization to the coke, charcoal, or carbon powder normally employed in existing techniques.

Southwest Workers Receive Back Pay

DALLAS — (AP) — Workers in the Southwest last year received $484,748.23 in back wages due them because their pay was not up to legal minimums, the wage and hour division of the U. S. Department of Labor reported.

Regional Director William J. Rogers said the pay went to 6,000 workers for 804 firms in Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and New Mexico. The average for each was $17.72. "Workers who are paid less than 75 cents an hour (the minimum for firms in interstate commerce) now have reached an all-time low in purchasing power — and the necessity for protecting such low-paid workers becomes greater with every price increase," Rogers said.

Judge Bruce Parker and a quick answer by Ed Myatt.

Judge Parker asked what would happen if a bond issue for development of the present site expires before another location is provided.

Myatt replied: "The only possible solution would be for everyone to go out to the northwest field since they wouldn't have any place to take off or land."

The meeting Friday wasn't near as brisk as the previous week's session. But by rapid elimination of the northwest site and an almost equally rapid elimination of an alternate site along U. S. Highway 60, two miles east of town, only the E. Browning port was left to work on.

'Fashions Through The Years' Topic For Venado Blanco

WHITE DEER — (Special) "Fashions through the Years" was the topic of study at a meeting of the Venado Blanco Club Tuesday evening, in the home of Mrs. H. T. Peacock, with Mrs. Ray Vineyard as co-hostess and Miss Mildred Cole in charge of the program.

A request to wear a costume representing the style of an earlier period resulted in a display of some interesting changes in fashion. Most distinctive were those of the "flapper" era, won by Miss Virginia Alexander, Mrs. Luke Geurin, and Mrs. John Banks. The "turn-of-the-century" period was represented by Mrs. Alvin Smith, Mrs. Fred Mullings, Miss Claudia Everly and Mrs. R. Y. Corder; and a somewhat later period by Mrs. Leslie Talbert and Mrs. J. W. McCulloch.

Creating a great deal of amusement also was a display of baby pictures of the various members, and a collection of Burr McIntosh magazines of 1906 and 1907. The program was concluded with a discussion of "Fashions through the Years" by Miss Cole.

Others present were Mrs. E. B. Wailes, Mrs. Fred Mullings, Mrs. D. I. Biggers, Kenneth Gibson, Hope Rusk, and Miss Helen Walker.

Mrs. Charles Hickman, Jr., Is Elected President Of 20th Century Allegro

Mrs. Charles Hickman, Jr., has been elected president of the Twentieth Century Allegro for the next club year. Other new officers are Mrs. R. E. Reid, vice president; Mrs. J. W. Garman III, secretary; Mrs. James Leverich, treasurer; Mrs. Bill Davis, reporter; Mrs. Harold Rinehart, critic; Mrs. G. M. Walls, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Clifford Braly, Council of Clubs representative.

These officers were elected at a meeting Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. James Leverich, 1217 N. Russell. Co-hostess was Mrs. J. W. Garman, Jr.

The program, "Invest in Education and Democracy," was led by Mrs. E. Reid, who was assisted by Mrs. Robert L. Edmondson and Mrs. J. W. Garman III.

Mrs. Reid stated "To some people education and our schools are a matter of fact, to others a matter of controversy." She then introduced Mrs. Edmondson who spoke on "American Public Schools."

In opening Mrs. Edmondson said "Education is one of the biggest businesses in the United States. It is the hope of a free future. It is failing by many who truly educated men — are we producing good teachers?"

"We have reason for pride in our schools and reason for concern and controversy. Our schools are settling a fate of humanity. The school problem is outstanding. What should be the pay requirement laws? What about the distribution of teachers? What should our teachers in high school stress?"

"Today's parent often feels the school good for his child, responsible as he is in bringing up his child. When Americans think about education, they are complacent as a whole; but there is need for changes and improvement. And to reform our schools is to reform ourselves."

Mrs. Edmondson concluded by saying "Schools reflect the society they serve."

Mrs. Reid then introduced Mrs. J. W. Garman III, who told of schools for the deaf and the blind.

Mrs. Garman said "The Texas School for Blind in Austin is state supported. In it only 400 of the estimated 780 blind children are educated. All through the 11 grades at the school numbers are especially stressed. Besides the regular school, the children are given vocational training such as basket, broom and mattress making, sewing and weaving. Each child has his own things and cleanliness is above the average of a public school."

"The School for Deaf is also in Austin. Parents must pay a small fee for the children. However, the school is supported by money appropriated by the legislature from the state general fund. In the state school the children may finish high school."

Mrs. Garman said "I would like to go to college, as there is only one college for the deaf in the United States."

Members present were Mrs. Bill Waters, G. M. Walls, Betty Brock, Price Doster, Jr., J. W. Graham, Jr., Jerry Thomas, Harold Rinehart, R. E. Reid, James Leverich, Robert Karr, Charles Hickman, Jr., J. W. Garman III, Robert L. Edmondson, Robert Duket, Bill Davis, George Cree, Jr., and Clifford Braly.

Grace Friend

UNWELCOME SUITOR
Dear Miss Friend:
I met a girl several months ago and I fell for her right away. She was everything I dreamed about a girl even to the way she wore her sort of long blonde hair. But here's my problem: I have asked her for dates at least a dozen times and she always refuses. What can I do to get her attention?
Jack

Dear Jack:
Perhaps the girl has another friend. Perhaps, even though she looks like a dream, she wouldn't be as much fun as you think. In any case she has made it plain that she doesn't care to date you, why not quit calling. You will only embarrass her and make her more determined not to go out with you. Let her alone for awhile and see if you can't find some other girl. She may change her mind when she sees you with someone else.

RESTAURANT ORDERING
Dear Miss Friend:
Is it correct for a woman to order her own dinner when she is the guest of a man in a restaurant?
M. B.

Dear M. B.:
It is considered correct for the man to order after the woman has told him what she would like. There seems to be a tendency nowadays, however, for the woman to give her dinner order directly to the waiter. I suppose the best thing to do would be to discover which your escort prefers and conform to his wishes.

The fire was extinguished before any damage occurred.

Coupons Being Used For Legal Tender

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Snipping the red tape of currency restrictions, which can keep books, scientific apparatus and educational films out of the hands of people who need them the most, has become a $1,000,000 business, according to the U. S. National Commission for UNESCO.

Two years ago UNESCO — the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization — launched a "coupon scheme" intended to start books moving across borders previously closed by foreign exchange controls. Today, UNESCO coupons have joined the scant ranks of currencies accepted in most parts of the world.

Three men from Pampa, who serve on the executive board of the Adobe Walls Boy Scout Council, will meet Monday night with A. W. Paris, president of the council, in Berger at the Berger Hotel to plan the year's program.

The group included the council commissioner, district commissioner, Ray Evans, chairman of the Santa Fe District, and E. C. Kilpatrick, a member of the council of the Explorer committee.

The meeting of the council operating commission chairman was called by Paris so that the plans may be developed.

Attending from Pampa will be Huey Laycock, chairman of leader training; C. A. Huff, chairman of finance, and W. B. Weathered, chairman of organization and extension.

A meeting of the staff to district commissioners was held last week with Carl Fisher, council commissioner, in charge. He will have a staff of about 14 men to serve each unit of the district.

Many men from the trade area responded to the call, especially those in cotton acreage for this season. The supervisor for FHA can be seen any Wednesday morning in the rooms to the rear of the city secretary's office.

Thomas also showed some slides on the cotton outlook and use of fertilizer and insect control. He brought some poison grain for the killing of kangaroo rats, which was distributed among the farmers.

Heavy Demand For Light Oils Is Cause For Allowable Rise

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—The oil industry is facing its first heavy demand for winter heating fuel oil in three years.

Record refinery output of such oils caused the Texas Railroad Commission last week to order an unusual middle-of-the-month increase in the state's crude production allowable. The increase will be continued into February.

Members of the commission and crude purchasers admitted the hike is seasonal only, that allowables can be expected to decline in March unless military requirements take a sharp upward swing.

The current winter season has not been as cold as in 1947-48 but somewhat colder than the last two seasons.

A survey made last week by the Chicago Journal of Commerce edition of the Wall Street Journal said the current winter in the heating oil consuming area through January 14 had been 17 percent colder than the same period last year.

Last week United States refineries processed light fuel oil at a rate of 1,437,000 barrels a day. The 1947-48 record was a February daily average of only 1,116,000 barrels a day. A year ago refineries were processing only about 1,000,000 daily.

Heavy fuel oil output also is on the increase. The daily production rate week before last was 1,398,000 barrels a day, compared to a year earlier 1,151,000 and a January, 1948, average of 1,244,800.

Refineries also are getting more light fuel oil out of each barrel of crude processed than ever before.

For the week ending January 6, 21.4 percent of the crude processed became light fuel. A year earlier the percentage was 19.0, compared to 18.72 in 1948 and 19.87 in 1948.

During the first week of 1951, however, refineries were processing 4,347,000 barrels of crude daily, compared to only 4,524,000 a year earlier, 5,654,000 in January 1949 and 5,397,100 in 1948.

For the week ending January 6, 90.0 percent of the crude processed produced the four principal refined products, gasoline, kerosene, and light and heavy averaged 5,761,510 barrels daily, an increase of 26,300 from the previous week.

Record crude output levels were reported last week by company and government officials in Arabia and two Canadian provinces, Saskatchewan and Alberta.

Arabian American Oil Co. said Arabian production last year averaged 546,703 barrels daily, 14.7 percent over 1949.

Saskatchewan officials said oil production there the first 11 months of 1950 totaled 626,008 barrels. They predicted December output would send the year's total above the 1,000,000 mark.

The Alberta Department of Natural Resources said production there the week ending January 8 was a record 103,448 barrels daily, compared to a previous record of 101,592 set during the final week of October.

Heavy fuel storage totaled 41,675,000 barrels, a decline of only 240,000 from the previous week but 18,400,000 below the same date last year.

The mid-month Texas crude allowable increase of 161,661 barrels a day gives the state a new January daily average permissible flow of 2,750,292 barrels. The state's actual production approximated 2,440,000 barrels.

The new February allowable is 2,758,953 barrels a day, up 170,323 from January 13. United States crude production

Thieves Get Scrap Needed In Defense

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—Shortage of raw materials sorely needed for defense has caused a wave of scrap metal thefts in Western Germany.

German Police records list thousands of thefts of scrap brass, tin, zinc, copper and lead. The thieves are spurred by rising prices offered by scrap dealers. Even the youngsters are getting into the mad hunt for metal. Police blame most minor thefts on children, some as young as seven years. They say the children often are encouraged by their parents.

CAIRO — (AP) — Egypt is short of jails. Mahmoud Omar Kapodan Pasha, director general of the administration of prisons, has asked the government to set aside money to build five new jails. He said that no new prisons have been built for a number of years, while the population has increased considerably.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. McCune, 811 N. Frost, is now working in the public information office at Reese Air Force Base, Lubbock, as a public information specialist. He had formerly been a member of the Air Force band there.

McCune attended PHS and later graduated from North Texas State with a bachelor of arts degree in journalism. Before entering the Air Force he was employed as laboratory technician with the Cabot Co.

Among Pampa area youths enlisting in the Air Force the past week were Calvin Clinard, McAdams of Pampa and Berryman McCabe Breining of Lefors.

Pfc. Bill Bird, an ex-Harvester, is now confined to the Osaka Army Hospital in Japan. He had been in action in Korea since September. A veteran of WW II, Bird reenlisted in August. His address is APO 1007, Annex 2, Osaka Army Hospital.

Girl Scouters Name Leaders

New officers were elected by the Girl Scout Leader Club last week, with Mrs. W. E. Hinton selected to serve her second term as president.

Mrs. B. B. Palmer was elected vice-president and Mrs. Bob Andis, program chairman. The leaders were told by the president of the campcraft meeting to be held in Amarillo Feb. 7. Purpose of the meeting is to teach leaders new activities of camp and to help them plan these activities.

Mrs. Hinton also announced a meeting to be held Jan. 26 in the Girl Scout office to make plans for the Friendship Fair to be held in the spring. Each troop is to send at least one scout representative to the meeting.

Mrs. O. L. Statton and Mrs. R. H. Nensiel reported on the progress of the scout house re-decoration and remodeling. The program also included a

PHS Choir Sings At Canyon Clinic

The A Cappella Choir of Pampa High School sang by special invitation in the choral workshop at West Texas State College in Canyon Saturday.

The choir was one of a small group selected to participate in the workshop, which is the official Interscholastic League Clinic for the northern portion of Region I.

Dr. Chester L. Francis of the University of Oklahoma was on hand to offer general criticism and to conduct the choir. The choir sang "Up With Me Into the Clouds" by Donald Selvey and "The Beatitudes" by Leonard S. Glarum.

Also attending the workshop were a few members of the other organized organization of Pampa High School and some from the eighth grade choir.

Directors of the organizations represented are K. W. Baumgardner, Miss Grace Crump and Miss Eloise Lane. Assisting Dr. Francis were Dr. William Prosser, head of the music department at WTSC; Dr. James E. Richards, director of the A Cappella Choir and chairman of the department of music at East Texas State Teachers College; Ada V. Clark, assistant director of music education at WTSC; and F. W. Savage, state director of music activities of the Texas Interscholastic League. Faculty sponsors accompanying the students from Pampa were Lula Owen, J. L. Spencer and Jack Nichols.

Other choirs that performed included those from Wellington, Lefors, Borger, Dimmitt, Amarillo (Bel Canto Chorale), Phillips and Friona.

Observing choruses were from Hartley, Wheeler, Quail, Childress, Tulla, Hereford, Briscoe, Dumas, Claude, Wildorado, Amarillo (sophomores), White Deer, Canyon and Kress.

Two years ago, 95 percent of valley shipping was done over the railroads, McLeish said. Today, 95 percent is done by trucking concerns.

The remaining five percent will probably go to trucks if the increase is granted. Railroads are pricing themselves out of business.

The railroads on Jan. 5 announced they will ask the Interstate Commerce Commission and state regulatory bodies for permission to raise rates by six percent.

They said the increases are necessary because of recent wage increases for railroad workers and higher costs of materials and supplies.

Austin Anson, of the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Growers and Shippers Assn., said the news was especially disappointing because shippers in recent months have been encouraged by rail service.

"Missouri-Pacific made a vast improvement in its St. Louis service with the help of diesel power," he said. "The speeded-up service reflected in additional tonnage."

School Bids Opened By McLean Board

McLEAN (Special) — The McLean school board, in a call meeting Wednesday afternoon, opened and examined the five bids for constructing a new grade school building.

The bids were all above the available $150,000 voted in the spring, thus the board rejected all bids.

Bids were received from J. T. Gorman of Borger; Neill Singleton, Amarillo; Wedding and Cochran, Amarillo; Claude E. Mathis, Amarillo; and Timmons Construction Company, Amarillo. The lowest bid was $218,797, and after five deductions for alterations it stood at $198,295. No action will probably be taken until it is again advertised.

Robert M. Grasson, fencing coach at Yale, is the father of a fencing family. His son, Albert, is his freshman coach. Son Maurice is head fencing coach at Westeyan.

YOUR VERY OWN

The desk, which was once more or less confined to the library, has moved out to assume important living room prominence. Unlike many other pieces of furniture, it is not generally considered household community property... but is often reserved for a particular family member. If it is father's practice to bring work home, then in all probability the desk will be considered his. Or mother may lay claim to it... for here is where she will plan her menus, issue invitations, write letters to absent family members and friends, send out announcements of engagements, marriages and births.

The selection of a desk need never be difficult, for there are types and sizes that fit graciously into any style or period room.

The most popular today is the flat-top, knee-hole type of desk. It combines the functions of a table and a chest of drawers... and may be found in Modern and Contemporary versions as well as Eighteenth Century styles.

The Modern desk in the above sketch has been placed to take full advantage of light from the double window. Space for concealing portable typewriter has been provided in a side drawer. Other drawers are regulation size. Come in and let us help you select the desk that best suits your personal requirements.

THE STORY: Paul Twing had kidnapped Judy Twing, 8-year-old daughter of his dead brother, Judy had been abducted by her mother, who had deserted Judy's father and caused him to kill himself. Public sympathy is on Paul's side, but nevertheless Paul is charged with kidnapping and faces a death penalty if caught. In a coal-mining town, Paul meets May Jenkins, a waitress, who sympathizes with him and insists on accompanying him to New York, where Paul starts for New York, where Paul's captain friend is getting them out of the country. In New York they separate, planning to meet at 5 o'clock the next afternoon. May finally obtains a room for herself and Judy.

VIII

The landlady softened as she took the money from May Jenkins. "And what's this young fellow's name?" she asked.

"John," May interjected quickly before Judy could reply. Judy was almost asleep on her feet and May was afraid that weariness might have overshadowed the fun and excitement of the long game they were playing.

The landlady said, "There's a nice little boy just your size in the room behind you, John. You'll have somebody to play with while you're here. C'mon, Miss, I'll show you the bathroom. You'll find towels hanging in the closet here."

The morning sun shot an oblique shaft of light into the room early the next day. It traveled across the deep mahogany stain of the window sills and found the mirror over the dresser, then bounced off, touched the dull white enamel of the bedposts, and rested on May's closed eyes.

She stirred and woke. Judy was sleeping soundly beside her. It was 7 o'clock. May turned over to sleep some more, but the movement brought Judy to life. Before she were eating breakfast in a corner drugstore.

While eating, May and Judy eagerly discussed the plans for the day. They decided to enter that strange affair known as the subway, get off downtown, and have a good look at some of the great big buildings.

The white coated clerk behind the counter told them how to find the subway and, in a short time, they were picked up and carried along by the work-bound, sober-faced horde that swept down the steps into the vast cavern below the ground. Several trains roared into the station, inhaled a struggling number of humans into their already packed craws and rolled on again.

They clung tightly to each other and for once Judy was too consumed by this wholly new adventure to ask any questions.

THE train had jerked to a stop and then sprang back to life at several stations before Judy regained her aplomb. The curiosity that had been building up in her little head came tumbling out in a torrent of queries. Her voice was shrill with excitement and a number of passengers who were pressed in about them turned smilingly to see her. May laughingly struggled with the answers.

Judy twisted and squirmed striving to take in all her big eyes could encompass. A man stood behind Judy, holding on to a strap with one hand to support his swaying body and clutching the morning paper in the other. He had it folded vertically so that its full length was exposed. As Judy turned in his direction the newspaper was squarely in front of her round flushed face.

"Look! her shrill little voice cried out, "It's Uncle Paul's picture!"

The people about them who had been following Judy's antics with quiet amusement twisted and turned to see the picture the little fellow was pointing to. The man holding the paper had heard her too and turned the sheet so that he could see who the child's uncle was.

May felt the blood race from her head leaving her dizzy and weak. She felt it churn and boil in her stomach. She clutched Judy to her. The train jolted to a stop and they were thrown up against the people behind.

Still clasping Judy, May turned and thrust her way through the close packed mob that blocked her way to the now open doors.

As she gained the exit she heard a loud voice call out over the multitude of noises that surrounded them, "IT'S PAUL TWING'S PICTURE!"

WITH the strength of frenzied panic, May thrust people on the platform aside and ran. Another train stood on the other side of the platform. Its doors were slowly sliding shut. Spurring herself on and literally dragging Judy who was screaming, "You're hurting me! You're hurting me!"

May managed to grasp the rubber edge of the subway car door before it was fully closed. She forced it back and pulled Judy through the opening behind her. The door, no longer held back, slipped shut with a bang.

May turned her terrified eyes back to the dim platform as her train gathered momentum in leaving the station.

She saw two men running, pointing at her train. She could see that the men were shouting. Other people on the platform had stopped and were staring at the departing train.

Ham Radio Helps Hospitalized GIs

FORT BLISS Texas — "Am in Navy hospital in Japan, only slightly wounded, don't worry. Write me at APO..." Such are the messages of comfort to the folks back home from soldiers, sailors, airmen and marines over "ham radio," with K5WAC, the military amateur radio station at Fort Bliss, handling local messages and relaying the bulk of the messages to points in the middle west, south and east.

Approximately 4,000 messages, some to mothers, sweethearts or wives telling of hospitalization, some telling of the safe arrival from the states, have been handled by the Fort Bliss station. Master Sergeant Fred Wuenschel, chief operator of K5WAC, has handled the huge "traffic load" almost single-handedly, often working as long as 18 hours a day to assure relay of the messages from the servicemen.

Most of the messages have come from the Navy Hospital at Yokosuka, Japan, where Marine Captain Gene Goss and Master Sergeant F. A. Martin, who operate amateur relay of the messages to the hospital. Messages are collected and sped state-ward, often arriving many days before mail reaches the home folks' telling of the hospitalization.

The majority of the messages are received stateside by W8HQX, at the Camp Pendleton, Calif., Marine Base, with T-Sgts, John Gellott and J. E. Spade and

Sgt. Louis Peterson handling the receiving and relaying of the traffic. The next step for middle west, east coast and southern United States messages is K5WAC at Fort Bliss. This station acts as "net control" for the further relaying of messages to amateur stations near the addressees.

The Coliseum at Rome was opened for use in 80 A.D.

TANK BATTERY — This tank battery, located in a city dates back to 1909. Wooden tanks are the most famous Spindletop oil field at Beaumont, probably the last remaining in the field. They dot the oil landscape like clusters of grapes. The structures are made of cypress timbers. Artist Milton Turner pictures the scene on the 50th anniversary of the discovery of oil in large quantities. (AP Photo)

Spindletop Is Daddy Of All Texas' Booming Oil Towns

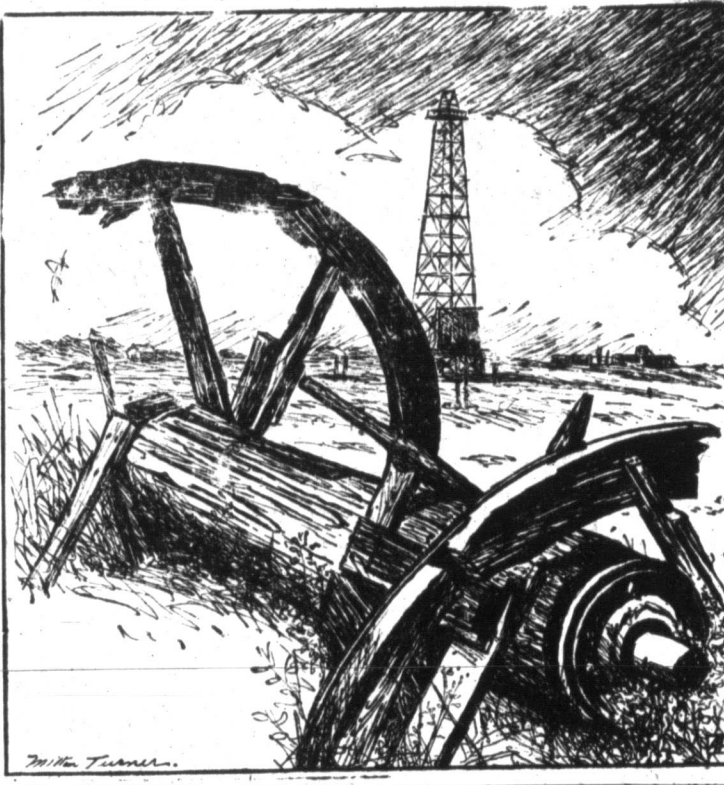

BEAUMONT — (AP) — Texas has had many colorful boom towns like Ranger, Electric and Longview, but the daddy of them all, the pioneer, is Spindletop. Old-timers here for the 50th anniversary celebration of the famed oil field say there has never been anything like it.

When the Lucas gusher was brought in Jan. 10, 1901, it was the world's first big producing oil well. It blew in making an estimated 100,000 barrels of oil a day and was unprecedented, history-making. It marked the beginning of the modern oil industry.

From a comparatively small city of 9,000, Beaumont's population jumped to 50,000 in a 30-day period. There had been no fever like it since the gold rush of 1849 to California. People came from all over the world. Men slept in the three hotels of the city in six-hour shifts and paid the then high price of a shift. Two dollars was paid for the use of a chair in a lobby. Grocery stores and banks never closed. And with rain and mobs of people, unpaved Pearl Street became a quagmire. It took six horses to pull a carriage. A young school teacher at the time, J. W. Kinnear, says there was little violence or trouble. "People were too busy trying to make a fast dollar," he said. "Even small boys made good money. They would stand in line for mail at the postoffice and then sell their spots for as high as $50. They would then promptly get back in the line again at the rear."

A nostalgia for the old days is felt by the old-timers. Artist Milton Turner has captured in drawings some of the scenes that they cherish — and old, wooden bull wheel and one of the first tank batteries. These wooden tanks are the most lasting monuments in the Spindletop field. They dot the oil landscape, these fading structures of cypress timbers.

But famed Spindletop, which derived its name from a mound of trees which looked like an inverted top, is by no means through as an oil field. A petroleum engineer for the State Railroad Commission, G. P. Cokinos, said: "This celebration is by no means a funeral. There is a lot of oil left and new producing sands are being discovered all the time. Spindletop not only has a past, but a future."

Eyes Are Offered To Blind Official

CAIRO — (AP) — An Egyptian law student has offered his eyes to replace those of Education Minister Taha Hussein Pasha, who has been totally blind since early childhood.

The student is Abdel Hadi Heikal, who is enrolled at Egyptian University's School of Law. Friends of the blind minister say the offer probably will be turned down with thanks. A similar offer came from a Spanish student during the minister's recent trip through Europe.

Taha Hussein Pasha is Egypt's most prominent writer and scholar despite his handicap. His crusade to spread education in Egypt has won him great popular support.

Wildcats Hold Spotlight In Area Drilling Activity

Regular Field Totals Show Gain In Intents, Completions

Wildcats held the spotlight in the Panhandle area last week although a decisive gain was made in the number of new locations and completions in the regular field. Area operators staked 16 new locations and completed 23 wells of which nine were oil, 12 gas and two were dry holes. This compares to 12 new locations and 16 completions for the previous seven-day period.

Anderson Prichard staked a 9600-foot test seven miles northeast of Hart in Castro County while The Texas Co. set the stake for another test on its McGarrough lease in Ochiltree County. The new Ochiltree test is about a mile and a half southwest of a 10,141-foot dry hole drilled last year by Texaco.

Lewis W. Welch is abandoning his No. 1 Lazy R-G Ranch test in Donley County after drilling to granite at 7,110 feet.

Total increased potential for the regular field last week was 612 barrels of oil and 101,615 MCF gas. This compares to 628 barrels of oil and 40,345 MCF gas brought in the previous week.

Keep Your Eye On KPND

By PHIL SOLBERG

This is one Sunday that I would sure like to get serious to start with in hopes that you will take to heart what KPND has to offer this afternoon and the rest of the week on 1340 on your radio dial. I'm speaking about "THE MARCH OF DIMES." Well to really get it off to a fine start KPND is moving its four hours of mystery programs usually heard starting at 2:30 to 7 p. m. This is to make room for four hours of a Variety Program in the interest of the campaign here in Pampa.

The program goes on the air at 2 p. m. sharp with all civic clubs in Pampa participating. The main body of the show will be something like this: You could call up and say "I'll donate five or ten dollars to the March of Dimes if Paul Brown will recite my favorite poem" or "I'll give twenty five dollars if Rusty Ward will sing 'Good Night Irene.'" Now do you get the idea? Believe me it will sure be worth listening to. And the contest is good. Every cent will go to the March of Dimes. You know who are members of these different civic clubs, so think of somebody right now and a little skit you would like him to perform and call 1340 and make your name on the air. THE NUMBER TO CALL IS 1340, KPND.

Also in connection with the March of Dimes two of KPND's disc jockeys have a little contest brewing. Bert Conway, our early morning wax spinner, and Ralph Marti will have a certain period (which will be announced later) in which they will play requests for donations and mainly try to out-do each other in every way possible which will make extra good listening. The nice part about this little contest is, the loser pushes the other down Cuyler Street in a wheelbarrow at high noon. So write in your vote with a request and donation from ten cents on up to your favorite disc jockey and the March of Dimes will benefit.

"1340 on your dial"

You know there is one program which starts on Monday morning which will really beam to the farmers and ranchers. The time is 6:30 in the morning, and it starts off with Ralph Thomas, your county agent, with his latest farm and ranch news. This includes wheat reports and crop news in general and also his interview with one of your farm neighbors. Immediately following Ralph Thomas is the program "Sagebrush Serenade" sponsored by R&S Equipment Co. here in Pampa will be aired. You will hear your favorite Western music and all in all lots of good information for the farmer. It's a solid half hour Monday through Friday with Bert Conway, Ralph Thomas, and the voices of your neighboring farmers. And don't forget this program includes a "TRADING POST" so if you have a special piece of farm equipment you would like to trade, sell or make available for renting contact the Sagebrush Serenade program.

"1340 on your dial"

Here is a listening note especially for the women. Starting Monday morning KPND adds a new personality to its staff. It's a gal this time and the program is called "HOMEMAKERS HARMONIES." The one I am talking about is Beverly Baines and she comes directly to KPND from television in Hollywood. That is the only drawback and that is we don't have television like in Hollywood. Beverly is one of these extra pretty blondes with blue eyes. Well anyway you will get to hear her voice starting Monday. Now her program will include lots and lots of beauty hints on the "Our beauty shop" portion of her show. Later there will be a women of the week part of the program too. Actually Beverly has a married name and that is Beverly Fancher and she is pushing a good old 21 years of age. She was born November 16, 1930, in the fair city of Oakland, California. This of course makes Mrs. Fancher one of those rare if not almost extinct specimens of creatures called a "Native Californian." Right now, however, Bev (that's a nickname) is in the throes of learning the intricacies of becoming a good Texan. Bev, at one time was bent on becoming what is commonly known as a "career girl." But a few years

Synthetics Expected To Help In Event Nation Is Attacked

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK — (AP) — Synthetics will play much more of a part in the half-war on which we are embarked than they did on the last fulltime war.

Should schnorkels cut the trade lanes to the other continents where we now get many essential raw materials, synthetics at home would play a still greater part. In many cases they would have a life saving role.

But as it is, in partly mobilized 1951, the industry is counting upon high prices for natural materials and the channeling of essentials into defense production to put more synthetics and plastics into the materials of every day living: into clothes, carpets, blankets, draperies and slip covers; into tires, autos, household appliances, cleansers.

Shortages in some of the raw materials from which synthetics derive may put a ceiling on how much can be made, but the nation's ability to produce man-made substitutes for natural resources has increased spectacularly since the last war. This mushrooming capacity guarantees supplies for the military if sea routes are cut. It shields civilians from some of the shortages that plagued them last time.

For example, the nation's synthetic rubber plant is 100 times as large as in 1941, and output of synthetic plastics is 500 percent higher than in 1941. Before the last war the nation made 30 million pounds annually of detergents — synthetic soap. Its present production is put at one billion pounds a year.

Man-made fibers have shown similar startling gains in the last 10 years, and factories are being built to produce still newer synthetic fabrics as yet only names to most of the public.

These synthetics and plastics derive from raw materials in which this nation is rich: petroleum, coal, natural gas, wood, grain sodium, phosphate, ethylene gas and chlorine gas. Temporary shortages may plague industry, but these resources are beyond the reach of schnorkels. They brake the greed of other nations who raise prices on raw materials we lack.

Let's look at what's happening this year in some of these consumer goods fields:

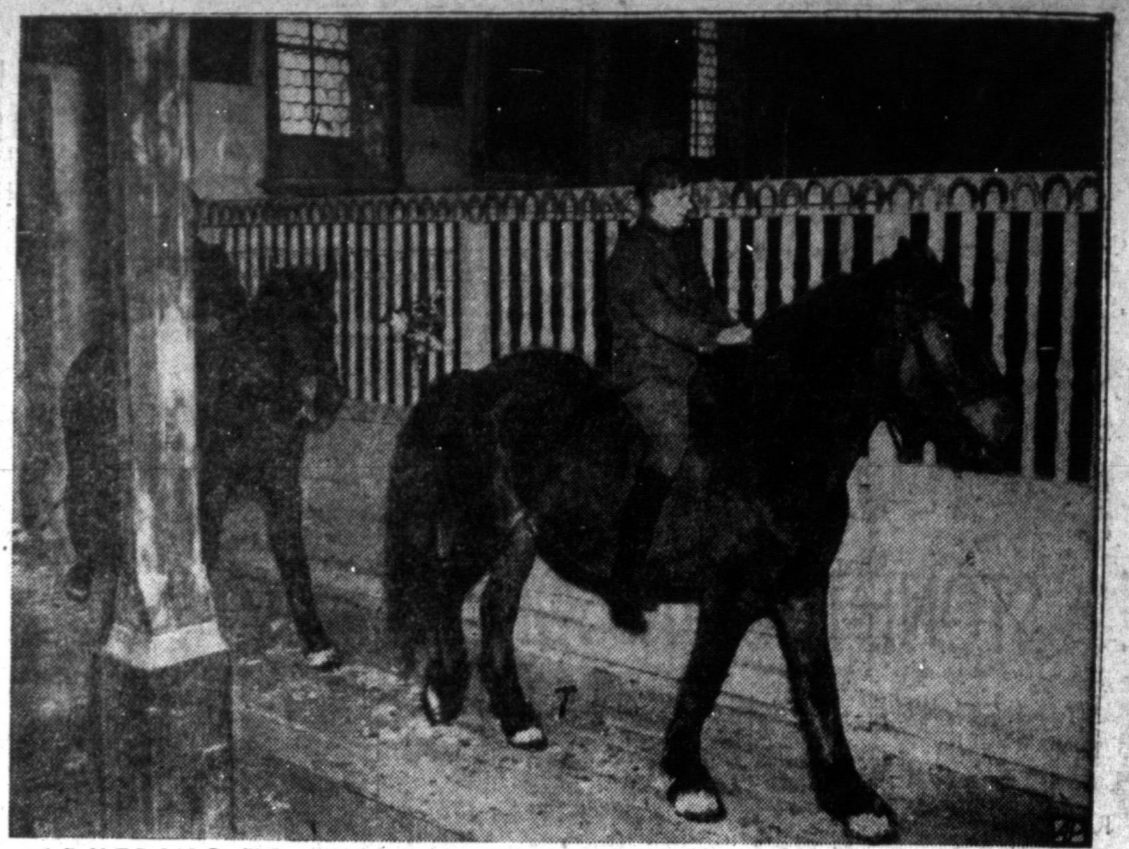

Wool prices have soared to a point where synthetics are a growing threat to the traditional apparel fabric — and we import most of our wool. At least a third of men's suits sales last summer were of garments containing part or all synthetic fiber. Merchants expect the ratio to go higher this summer.

The trade is watching a newcomer, orlon, which is said to have winter-weight wool-like qualities.

Carpet makers predict that this year perhaps half of the carpets made in this country will contain some rayon.

Nylon output, just starting a decade ago, is now up to 200 million pounds a year, and growing. Rayon production is running at 12 billion pounds a year, against 380 million pounds before the last war.

Vinyl plastic production has jumped from 200 million pounds

ADHERING TO CUSTOM — Farmers of Jensenwang, Germany, ride their horses in St. Willibald Chapel, recalling an ancient ceremony of animal benedictions, since discontinued.

Bugs Coming Under Study

in 1949 to a predicted 425 million this year.

And should America's large petroleum reserves be over-taxed by the demands of war, the nation could make synthetic gasoline from coal and from natural gas, as well as extract oil from the huge shale deposits of the west. Pilot plants for all three processes are in operation.

If it turns out to be a synthetic war, the nation is already off to a headstart.

White pine blisters rust, a destructive disease for white pines, does not pass from tree to tree, but lives a part of its life cycle on currant and gooseberry bushes.

AMARILLO — (AP) — Green-teenth of their 1950 crop was taken by greenbugs and drouth. Two kinds of greenbugs nibble the wheat. There's the well-known one which eats the top growth. There's also a vicious brownish one which eats the root system.

The brown bug infestation, like the greenbugs, is spread widely over Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Kansas.

Isolated attempts to control greenbugs last fall failed.

Panhandle and South Plains wheat growers asked for the project after all but one-third
