TOURNAMENT'S LAST BATTLE IS SCHEDULED

JIM PARKER AND LEE DANAY MAY BE ON MOUND

Coltaco Gas of LeFors vs. the Runners of Pampa at 8:15 o'clock tonight at Road Runner park.

Many times baseball fans of the Panhandle have read and heard the above, but never before has the announcement had the importance which existed today.

The two teams, old rivals of the circuit, will meet tonight with the prize check for at least $1,000 at stake in the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce, with the title of champion of the 1935 Jaycee baseball tournament.

The Pampa Road Runners will enter the final and deciding game as the defending champions. Coltaco will be the challenger and never before has there been a stronger challenger than Coltaco.

Wesley Fry Is Out To Regain Big Six Title

LEADERS WIN IN NATIONAL LEAGUE TILTS

OTT GETS FIRST HIT IN 28 TIMES AND TIES GAME

MANHATTAN, Kas., Sept. 11. (AP)—When Tom Waldorf left Kansas State college last spring to coach the Northwestern university football team, he left a trunkful of letters and a list of references to recommend a successor.

Fry, who was Waldorf's assistant last year, appreciates the fine football coaching, but he also appreciates that a job is in store for him to keep it going. He has the doubtful advantage of starting to lead at the top where a lip means a lip drop.

The new mentor believes the two other schools with new coaches, Oklahoma with Captain Lawrence and Missouri with Don Papp, will be well improved. As the new coach at Pampa, the Cornhuskers have the rubber ball against their coach, Ed L. L. Iowa State and Kansas both are dangerous.

GRID MENTORS IN SOUTHWEST PUSH PLAYERS

Time was considered the most precious thing in Southwest conference football training camps today as coaching staffs—faced with opening competition within less than two weeks—whipped their prospective stars through practice sessions.

Optimism was feary general at all schools in the conference after two full days of practice yesterday.

Morley Jennings and Bochey Koch saw prospects for a better Baylor university squad after they had looked over 50 huskies who went through brisk drills.

Marty Bell started his work as head coach at Southern Methodist by putting his nearly 50 candidates through two stiff work-outs on the field and a session at the blackboard.

Jack Chevigny sent 38 of his hopefuls through two drills and subjected them to a blackboard drill. The University of Texas mentor stressed pass defense and offense in the first work-out.

Half a hundred huskies, including 10 freshmen, snugged into action at the University of Arkansas. Punters, passes, and spinners for backs and light tackling and blocking for linemen were on the program for the Texas Aggies on the field.

Little 'Buriers' Undertaker In 6 and 4 Match

CLEVELAND, Sept. 11. (AP)—Lawson Little, who shot his first career of golf 14 years ago over an abandoned graveyard in China, has "buried" an undertaker in his drive toward his second straight American amateur championship.

With far more ease than he shot down a trapezoid in the first challenge, the Californian absorbed a couple of punches on the chip yesterday and then followed through by burying the upset hopes of the golfing undertaker from Chicago.

Today, Knox Young, Jr., 26-year-old insurance salesman from Pittsburgh, will try to halt the champion, who hasn't been stopped in 25 straight engagements in his victorious sweep to three successive amateur crowns in England and the United States.

TCU TALKS ABOUT BEST TEAM SINCE 1932 AS WORK BEGINS

FORT WORTH, Sept. 11. (AP)—Reserve material enough to back up a veteran first string almost here and three days of work in the Texas Christian university and football talking about the best team since the undefeated club of 1932.

Twenty-eight veterans, 30 of them lettermen and including the shining lights of the 1934 eleven, plus 21 sophomores, form the squad coached by Leo (Dutch) Meyer and Raymond (Bear) Wolf have ready for action.

The left tackle post has the coaches sitting up nights. It could have been stronger last season, but a problem again this year. Outstanding candidates are Aubrey Blinnie, a strapping 225-pounder from San Antonio, Dave Elmer, 209-pound junior, Paul Hill, 200-pound senior, and Tiny Godwin, 215-pound senior.

Wilson Grosslove and Go with both experienced, look like the starting tackle at present.

Four lettermen will return. They are Walter Bosch, Wil Willis, Melvin Diggs, and E. D. Meyer. Two veteran guards have their positions in the back line. Tracy Kellon, two-letter man, and Wilbur Harrison will flank the center as they did last year.

Texas League's Playoff Series Starts Tonight

By The Associated Press. Four Texas league clubs, rested from the battles of the regular season in which they won places in the playoffs, will meet tonight at the University of Oklahoma to begin the playoffs.

The Oklahoma City Indians, winners of first place in the regular season, faced their neighbors, the Tulsa Oilers, on the Indians' lot, and the Beaumont Exporters moved to Galveston to battle the Bucs.

Winners of three games in each series will meet in the finals. Bert Niehoff, manager of the Indians, said he would start John Niggeling on the mound.

Max Butcher was selected to hurl the opener for Galveston, while the Exporter manager, Ernest Lorbeer, was undecided whether he would start Clarence (Red) Phillips or Pat McLaughlin.

ALLEN FACES LEADERSHIP OF LONG MACHINE

BOYHOOD FRIEND OF SENATOR IS HIS OPPOSITE

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 11 (AP)—Heavy-hearted over the death of Senator Huey P. Long, his boyhood friend, whose political decisions he followed without question, Governor Oscar Kelly Allen, titular heir of the powerful Long political machine, faces the responsibility of providing a leadership that will keep intact the mild-mannered chief executive, who took as much pains to keep out of the spotlight as Senator Long did to catch its full glare, in the emergency has pledged himself to carry on with the principles of his assassinated friend.

Like Long, the 52-year-old former school teacher, now none too robust, has come a long way from the red clay hills in Winn parish where he and the senator grew up on adjoining farms.

Long's rise, however, was meteoric; Allen's without spectacle. Both shook off their early poverty to become rich, Long through his law practice and Allen through business ventures and oil operations.

Allen gave Long financial backing in his race for railroad commissioner in 1917, and when Long was elected governor in 1928 and Allen was elected to the state senate, Long made him administration floor leader and later chairman of the highway commission charged with launching a $30,000,000 road program.

Long went to the senate and backed his friend for the governorship which he won. The boyhood friends now sat side by side in ruling the state, Long, the "dictator," and Allen, his loyal ally, a happy combination of opposites till it was broken by the death of Long.

Governor Allen was born August 8, 1882, in a log cabin on his father's farm in Winn parish. He got his early education between crops by riding a mule from his home to the nearest school house. At 16 he was given a teacher's certificate and with money saved from his teach-

AFRICAN WOMEN ARE SHARPENING SPEARS, SABRES

'Battalions of Death' Being Mobilized In Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 11 (AP)—Ethiopian women set about mobilizing "battalions of death" throughout the empire today, ready for an imminent departure for the front.

In stern seriousness, these daughters and granddaughters of the female warriors who fought with fierce fanaticism against the Italians on the Adua battlefield of 1896 began sharpening their spears and sabres after Emperor Haile Selassie accepted the offer of their services.

Their leader, the beautiful, tiger-eyed Madame Wayzaro Abbath Charkeze, told the Associated Press they had no fear of Italian airplanes and tanks.

"These mechanical things can be made by man, but only God can bestow courage and he will enable us to triumph over the Italians," she asserted.

"When our husbands, brothers, and fathers see us fighting side by side with them, they will have the courage of lions."

Madame Charkeze, 34 years old, with gleaming eyes and a quick step, is a wealthy landowner, but she has abandoned her home and family riches to defend her country, if need be, against any Italian advance.

The women's legion, dressed in natty uniforms of red caps, khaki breeches, leather puttees and Sam Brown belts, submitted an offer to go to the front yesterday and the King of Kings accepted promptly. Their organization, known in Amharic as "for love of country," has a membership of several thousand, with branches throughout the empire.

An appeal to women of the world to fight the "horror of useless bloodshed" was made by Empress Menen in a broadcast to the United States.

Despite the advice of the United States state department, most of the Americans in Addis Ababa were staying here. The Ethiopian government assured Cornelius Van Engert, United States charge d'affaires, that all Americans wishing to leave could do so.

ing, he went for a time to a school at Springfield, Mo., and later to Trinity college at Wabasha, Tex. He taught for a time after that and then entered the business world where he forged ahead on a program of hard work and thrift.

In his early political career, he served as clerk of the Winn parish police jury and later was elected assessor in 1912. He defeated Senator Henry Hardtner, well-known lumberman, to win a seat in the state senate on the Long ticket in 1928.

SENATOR REDDITT TO BE 4TH GOVERNOR IN LESS THAN YEAR

AUSTIN, Sept. 11 (AP)—The resignation of Lee J. Simmons as manager of the Texas prison system occasioned no great surprise in capitol circles.

It had been known he was dissatisfied with conditions surrounding the position, including the salary and the political setup, and being independent financially could afford to step out when he wished. The salary originally $8,000, was reduced to $6,500 by the legislature. Although it cut his salary during an economy wave, the legislature seemed to have unusual confidence in Simmons, listening carefully to his proposals and usually accepting them.

Simmons was a member of the committee created by the legislature which studied prison conditions in 22 states several years ago and made recommendations which resulted in many changes in prison operations.

The new state banking commissioner, Irvin McCreary, has been a banker for 19 of his 39 years.

He was vice-president of the Guaranty Bank and Trust company of Gatesville when appointed by Governor Allred to succeed E. C. Brand, whose term expired. He is a former treasurer and member of the executive committee of the Texas State Bankers' association.

His hobbies are fishing and golf, although he says "work hard work" usually occupies his hours.

A plan is afoot to give Sen. John S. Redditt of Lufkin an "inauguration" party Sept. 12 when he becomes acting governor of Texas.

As president pro tempore and in-terim of the senate, Redditt will succeed to gubernatorial honors when Governor Allred and Lieut. Gov. Walter F. Woodul attend a conference of all states in Oklahoma.

He will be the fourth governor Texas will have had in less than a year, others being Allred, Woodul, and Sen. Ken Regan of Pecos. The last was chief executive a few hours last spring during the absence of Allred in Washington and Woodul in Oklahoma.

Senators gave an "inauguration" breakfast for Redditt which still is talked about. The former governor William Pettus Ho-by and James E. Ferguson, attended.

Car Turns Over, Pampan Escapes Serious Injury

Ray Morrison, employe of the Cargay Gasoline corporation, escaped serious injury last night when his car turned over several times after leaving the pavement—near the outskirts of White Deer. A right tire blowing out, was the cause of the accident, which badly damaged the car.

The injured man was taken to his home in White Deer where the attending physician pronounced his injuries as severe bruises and shock. This morning he was resting well.

City Manager C. L. Sine of Pam-

"Why Bobbie, what did you do to that blouse?"

Yes, Bobbie's clothes are pretty much hors de combat. So are Elinor's. But remember, Mother, it's been a strenuous summer. And, anyhow, you wouldn't exchange coats of healthful tan they're wearing for many times the cost of the clothes they've romped into-tatters.

Furthermore, replenishing the children's wardrobe is not such a purse-wrecking task. In fact, even in the price-climbing times, youngsters can be outfitted at surprisingly small cost—IF you watch the advertisements.

Frocks, suits, coats, knickers, hats, shoes, Stockings, blouses, jackets, underwear—don't buy them blindly. Makers and merchants are constantly putting their best values forward. The place to find them is right here in this newspaper. . . And the time to buy is right now—in September.

Read the advertisements as carefully as you do the regular news and editorial columns. They, too, are "news" . . . news directly addressed to you—in the interest of your family and your pocketbook.

Great Britain stands for the collective maintenance of the League of Nations covenant in its entirety and particularly for the steady, collective resistance to all acts of unprovoked aggression.

Delegates listened in rapt attention and crowds which packed the galleries sat silently as Sir Samuel delivered what they interpreted as a friendly warning to Premier Mussolini that Britain would be strong in urging opposition to any unprovoked war against Ethiopia.

Lengthy applause greeted Sir Samuel's declaration that Great Britain stood for the league covenant in its entirety. This was deemed by league circles a plain allusion to sanctions or penalty provisions of the covenant.

The British foreign secretary pleaded for a calm, dispassionate consideration of the Italo-Ethiopian problem, but warned that this could not be done in an atmosphere of war threats.

A sir of excitement ran through the auditorium when Sir Samuel said that a spirit of war, "even of war for war's sake," has "raised its head in more places than one."

The foreign secretary said: "If only these war clouds could be dispelled, with how much greater effect could we turn to those economic questions that often matter so much more in the modern world than political problems."

Sir Samuel told the assembly the British government was prepared to take its share of any collective attempt to "deal in a fair and effective way with the problem certainly troubling many people at present and which may trouble them even more in the future."

MUNICIPAL BONDS IN COMEBACK

The Texas attorney general's department during the fiscal year ending August 31 approved municipal bonds in the total of $59,030,673—the largest sum in any year since the boom period of 1929-30.

Two things are indicated in these figures. One is that people or various communities are feeling more certain of business and the future. The second is that government grants have made it profitable to vote bonds in order to receive the liberal aid. Refinancing of outstanding obligations to save interest also is popular. Rates have been lowered by as much as 2 per cent.

PWA has offered as high as 45 per cent on projects in grants. The value of these gifts has been lessened somewhat by the labor provisions involved, which make some inefficiency inevitable in certain kinds of work.

The University of Texas experts say that the position of Texas county and district road bonds has been strengthened by state participation in retirement of some of these obligations. The state has paid about 93 millions to take over part of the interest and sinking fund requirements on state designated highways. Gray county has been assisted on highway 33. State participation through one cent of the gasoline tax was 33 1-3 per cent in 1934 and 50 per cent in 1935, and there are indications that this will rise to 75 per cent in 1936. Proposals are being furthered to increase such participation.

Cooperation of bond-holders in releasing bonds for refinancing has been notably good.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Some day, perhaps before election, President Roosevelt will have to admit to the country that business activity has returned to normal, but that there are still six to eight million unemployed.

He will have to explain that the efficiency of private industry, expressing itself in a saving of labor costs, has largely brought about that condition. And doubtless add that until industry can think up some way of absorbing those millions, it will have to pay for their subsistence through taxes.

This problem—call it technological unemployment or the increased productivity per man per hour, which gained enormously during the depression—is one of the biggest stories in the country. The highest officials often discuss it privately, though only an occasional labor leader talks of it publicly.

The most scientific chart of unemployment yet devised by the government (it's kept secret for the time being) indicates that 800,000 more persons were unemployed in June, 1935, than in June, 1934. True, this counts in some 300,000 of "new population available for employment" and about as many more displaced from road building and other public works, but—

In that same period, the Federal Reserve index of manufacturing production rose from 83 to 86, which you might well suppose would have meant re-employment of several hundred thousand men. Remember that this was in the NRA period, before codes were canceled and employers began to increase hours.

The answer is that workers, at an ever-accelerating rate, are being displaced by better management, elimination of the least efficient plants and equipment—and the least efficient labor—pressure through sweatshop, stretchout and speedup methods, new machinery and new inventions.

This goes on in agriculture, mining, transportation, and other fields, as well as in the factories. Dr. Isador Lubin is now in an official position as commissioner of labor statistics and isn't talking publicly about the matter any more. But in 1932 he told a Senate committee that even if business reached its 1929 level, there would still be at least 5,000,000 unemployed.

Productivity has since increased and nobody is anticipating any early arrival at the 1929 industrial production index figure, which was 119 as against the recent 86.

From every front come reports of new inventions certain to displace human labor. Washington this fall will watch closely the performance of the mechanical cotton picker, ballyhooed as able to pick 1,000 pounds an hour as against a man's 10 pounds, a potential instrument of unemployment for hundreds of thousands.

Everyone is talking of pre-fabricated houses—and some warn of what it will do to building trades workers. New single-unit trains threaten the jobs of shopmen, switchmen, brakemen, and firemen. High-line logging operations threaten the jobs of thousands of northwest lumbermen.

NRA halted the process awhile through spreading work by shortening hours and by protecting obsolete plants. But now the chains are off.

Unless something no one can now foresee happens to absorb millions of workers, this problem holds the sprouting seeds of future political issues, future economic progress, future depressions and the future, if any, of national economic planning.

two schools of thought on the question still are widely divided. One group, regarded as liberal, contends the constitution should be amendable to change at the will of the people. They assert changing times and conditions make it imperative that the constitution be flexible if the state is to progress governmentally from the horse and buggy days.

The other theory is based on a belief that the constitution as written dealt solely with fundamentals and that fundamentals never change. They argue the state would have been better off had it never resorted to the practice of amending its basic law. What was a principle of government when the constitution was drafted should be a principle now, they say.

Failure to adopt the amendment authorizing special sessions to submit constitutional changes closed the avenue by which the state hoped to be able to make provision for relief. The constitution now prohibits appropriation of public funds to private persons or corporations. Despite the uncertainty in the relief situation the "fundamentalists" regard that inhibition as highly desirable and believe the framers of the constitution had such a situation in mind when they wrote that provision.

One argument against the amendment was that it would permit a minority to decide constitutional changes. If amendments were submitted at special sessions they would be voted on, usually, at special elections in "off" years when poll tax payments were light.

In support of this contention they point to the vote of more than 1,000,000 cast in the last democratic primary while at the recent special election prohibition repeal attracted only about 470,000. Some members of this group not only would limit submission of amendments to regular sessions but would require that changes be voted on only at general elections.

A third school gradually is entering the picture. It advocates tossing the crazy quilt constitution into the discard and writing a new one in the light of modern trends and experience.

THOMPSON IS QUESTIONED IN PROBE SESSION

STATEMENT IS CALLED 'PERFECT HEDGE,' BY LATHAM

DALLAS, Sept. 11. (AP)—The Texas house of representatives oil investigation committee ended its series of hearings yesterday in a somewhat stormy session at which Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas railroad commission, was questioned.

Members of the committee, appointed to investigate alleged illegal practices in the oil industry, indicated that a final session would be held at Austin next week after the legislature convenes in special session.

Sidney Latham, a member of the committee, and Thompson engaged in several brisk verbal exchanges when the commission chairman was questioned concerning his recent statement that some major companies had planned to cut gasoline prices to break the price structure and fill empty storage with cheap oil.

Latham called the statement a "perfect hedge," saying that if the predicted price cut failed to materialize, Thompson's statement was responsible and that if it had materialized Thompson could have said, "I told you so."

Thompson testified that his statement had saved Texas $500,000 a day by preventing a price cut. He added that the crude price break in California had been followed two weeks later by a reduction in gasoline prices to the consumer in the western states.

The chairman told his questioners that information obtained by the committee on alleged overproduction in some parts of the East Texas field were greatly exaggerated. He said he preferred to go by figures in the comptroller's office on gasoline.

Thompson was the last of three witnesses questioned here. The others were W. J. (Dick) Holt, assistant attorney general in charge of confiscation suits, and a man heard at a closed session.

The Moment Before Guns Roared, as Artist Visioned It

Here is the artist's conception of the terrifying scene as Senator Huey P. Long grappled with his assailant a moment before a bullet tore through Long's body, in the attempted assassination in the first floor corridor of the Louisiana capitol at Baton Rouge. The assassin, Dr. Carl A. Weiss, is shown as he pulled the trigger of his German Luger pistol. Around the struggling pair are shown Long's bodyguard with a sub-machine gun and state policemen with automatics drawn. An instant later, Weiss fell, riddled with bullets, after he had fired a second shot which wounded Murphy Rhoden, the bodyguard, on the left thumb. The throng which had jammed the corridor a minute before fled in panic as guns roared to avenge the wounded senator.

FRESHMEN CLASSES IN HOME TOWNS WILL BE BEGUN SOON

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 11.—Hopes of 123,000 jobless Texas youths today rested largely upon the efforts of two men.

It is to Lyndon B. Johnson, youth state administrator for the National Youth Administration, and to A. A. (Pat) Bullock, veteran Texas educator recently named education director for Works Progress administration, that the more than 100,000 idle youngsters in this state look for help.

Differentiating between the WPA education division and the NYA, State WPA Administrator H. P. Drough explained that the NYA is located in Austin under Johnson. Bullock is headquartered with other WPA state division heads in San Antonio. Johnson has been commissioned by President Roosevelt to administer to the needs of young Texans. All projects handled by Bullock which involve the helping of people between the ages of 16 and 25 will be correlated with Johnson's office.

Help for college and high school students, jobs on work projects and in private industry, training on apprenticeship basis, and establishment of camps for jobless young women will be works attempted in the correlative of the efforts of the two federal agencies pledged to help America's young folk.

With projects still in the formative stage, Johnson has envisioned a program embracing 10,000 young people being aided through college, 5,000 more receiving help that will enable them to attend high schools. As many as possible of the remaining persons between the ages of 16 and 25 will be placed on work projects and in private employment, Johnson stated.

Applications for college and high school aid must be made to the principal of the desired high school or to the president of the chosen college, Johnson instructed young people seeking educational aid. For

UNUSUAL INTEREST IN FAIR WHICH OPENS NEXT SATURDAY

AMARILLO, Sept. 11.—Record crowds are predicted for the Tri-State fair, which opens here Saturday and continues through the following Saturday, Sept. 21.

There is no state fair at Dallas and the Amarillo exposition long has ranked second in size to it, so the Tri-State fair this year will be the largest in Texas," said Wilbur C. Hawk, president of the association.

Throughout the week there will be no charge for admission to the grounds. All exhibits—complete in every department—will be open to the public without charge.

"The fair association is in better shape this year for the opening than at any time during its 12 years," declared O. L. "Ted" Taylor, secretary-manager.

Already the 120-acre "home" of the exposition is a beehive of activity. Exhibitors, many of them from distant states, concessionaires and race horse owners are scurrying about, preparing for the week of education and entertainment.

Horse races start Friday and continue throughout the week of the exposition. So many entries from minor and major circuits have been made the fair's spacious racing plant already is overflowing and many thoroughbreds are quartered in nearby private stalls.

A three-ring circus, recently purchased by Harley Sadler and featuring Jack Hoxie, screen star, will give two performances daily.

One of the longest midway attractions in the United States—Beckmann and Gerety—will also be an entertainment feature. These shows will arrive Thursday, direct from Detroit.

Visitors to the Tri-State fair will see the same noted herds exhibited at the American Royal in Kansas City or at the International in Chicago.

"A visit to the Tri-State fair will be informative to many and inspiring to those who live in the region it serves," declared Mr. Hawk.

POLITICIANS DIFFER AS TO WHETHER LONG WAS THREAT TO PRESIDENT'S REELECTION

DEATH LESSENS POSSIBILITY OF PARTY DIVISION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. (AP)—Whether a strong threat to President Roosevelt's reelection died with Senator Huey P. Long was a subject of disagreement today among political leaders in the capital.

"Long might easily have held the balance of power in 1936," said Senator Nye (R., N. D.). There is little or no doubt he would have been a candidate at the democratic convention. I think he would have gone then into a third party movement. It is difficult to estimate his following but it would have been material.

"His death lessens the possibility of a division in the democratic party and to that extent strengthens the administration.

"Most emphatically, there is no one on the horizon to take his place."

But Senator Thomas (D., Utah), Senator Norris (R., Nev.) and a number of others placed different estimates on the possible consequences.

Expressing belief that Long's death would not affect the outcome of next year's election materially, Thomas asserted a bolt by the Louisiana man from the democratic standard would have given the democratic presidential candidate a conservative vote-getting appeal.

Thomas said no third party movement ever had been effective in the United States and added Senator Long was "born in the wrong place to do damage to the democratic party."

"Suppose he had joined the socialists—where would the votes have come from?" he demanded. "He would have wrecked his own following because they are not the type who follow Norman Thomas."

"Suppose he had connected up with the progressives. If President

Roosevelt has any marking at all, it's progressive.

"Fascism would have had no appeal whatever nationally. If we ever have a fascist group in America, its leader will be very, very different from Senator Long.

"His great strength was his ability to stand alone—probably no one had done it more effectively."

Thomas, who was chairman of a committee which investigated campaign expenditures in Louisiana a few years ago, emphasized he had no intention of belittling Senator Long or his following.

He said, however, that someone else—"using his methods"—could take Long's place.

Senator Norris said he doubted that the administration would be either strengthened or weakened politically as a result of the assassination.

Observers pondering the views of Long's colleagues considered also Postmaster General Farley's assertion at a press conference yesterday that he never had thought there would be a substantial third party movement.

Farley said he expected every state to send delegates instructed for President Roosevelt to democratic convention.

"How about Louisiana?" he was asked.

"I'll stand on the original statement," he replied.
