Wallace Warns There's Danger Of Third Battle

DELAWARE, O., March 8 (AP)—Vice President Henry A. Wallace asserted today a third world war appears inevitable unless the western democracies and Russia reach a satisfactory understanding before the present conflict ends.

"We shall decide some time in 1943 or 1944 whether to plant the seeds for World War No. 3," Wallace said in an address prepared for broadcast at the opening of a conference on "Christian bases of world order" at Ohio Wesleyan university.

"That war will be certain if we allow Prussia to remain either materially or psychologically," the vice president said. "That war will be probable in case we double-cross Russia. That war will be probable if we fail to demonstrate that we can furnish full employment after this war comes to an end and Fascist interests motivated largely by anti-Russian bias get control of our government.

"Unless the western democracies and Russia come to a satisfactory understanding before the war ends, I very much fear that World War No. 3 will be inevitable. Without a close and trusting understanding between Russia and the United States, there is grave probability of Russia and Germany sooner or later making common cause."

"We must extend a helping hand to China and India; we must be firm and just with Prussia; we must deal honestly and fairly with Russia and be tolerant and even helpful as she works out her economic problems in her own way; we must prove that we ourselves can give an example, in our American democratic way, of full employment and full production for the benefit of the common man."

8TH ARMY STOPS NAZIS; ROMMEL MEN RETREAT

Allies Shift to Offensive Action in Pacific Theatre

Aerial Raids On Jap Bases Stepped Up

(By The Associated Press)
United Nations air power poured an increasing cascade of bombs on the Japanese from the Solomons to Burma, Allied communiques announced today, as dispatches from the United States Pacific fleet reported a general feeling among warship crews that the war in the Pacific is entering a new phase.

The widespread belief by the men who man the navy's guns that the Allies are shifting to the offensive in that theater, as well as the European front, was given a boost by the smashing success of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's armies in destroying a 22-ship Japanese convoy off New Guinea last week.

Concerning that defeat the Japanese imperial headquarters today made its first grudging admission, though it was only a half-way acknowledgment in the light of Allied communiques from Australia.

The Japanese communique admitted that two of the Mikado's destroyers and five of his transports had been lost in the Solomons-New Guinea area between February 16 and March 5, a period covered by the convoy battle and numerous bombings in the Solomons as well.

The Japanese communique made no mention of approximately 15,000 Japanese soldiers in the claim to have wiped out in the sinking of the convoy, which General MacArthur said consisted of three light cruisers, seven destroyers, and 12 transports.

Tokyo also acknowledged the loss of only seven planes in that period, although MacArthur's communiques have announced that 102 of the enemy's aircraft were put out of the convoy battle alone.

On the other hand the Japanese claimed to have shot down 113 Allied fighters and to have sunk four Allied submarines.

The latest communique from Australia. See ALLIES, Page 3.

Borger Airman Hits Jap Ship

BY THORBURN WIAIT
WITH U. S. HEAVY BOMBERS OVER BURMA, March 6 (Delayed)—A large force of U. S. heavy bombers soared far over Burma today to hit a 7,000-ton Japanese merchant vessel 10 miles south of Rangoon, plaster the approaches to the important Myingthe bridge six miles south of Mandalay and start huge fires at Moulmein.

There was virtually no opposition from the Japanese during any of these operations and all our planes returned safely.

One and possibly two direct hits, plus four near hits, were scored on a merchant vessel by Second Lieut. Melvin Trimpe, 24-year-old bombardier from Cincinnati, Ohio. Lying on my stomach above the bomb bay I watched Trimpe's bombs crash into and alongside a vessel which was heading north in Rangoon river toward that much-claimed city. A huge cloud of black smoke rose high above the vessel as our pilot, Capt. James Baldwin, 23, of Borger, Texas, veered sharply from the target.

An anti-aircraft battery on the merchant vessel's stern spluttered feebly as we started our bombing run, but Trimpe knocked it out. Not even one Jap fighter came up to greet us.

The merchant vessel we hit was carrying sorely-needed supplies to the Japanese whose communique. See BORGER, Page 3.

Bakers Can Slice Bread Again, Says Washington

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The Agriculture department today agreed to remove restrictions on bakers' slicing of bread for home use, it was learned authoritatively.

The action was taken after the paper and wax situation improved, it was said, and followed consultation between Agriculture Department officials and the War Production board.

Formal announcement of removal of the ban is expected later today.

It was explained the ban was ordered primarily because of the paper and wax situation, sliced bread requiring a greater quantity of wax to keep it from drying out.

The ban went into effect January 18, applying to all bread. However, it subsequently was amended to exclude certain commercial types of bread.

Bakers were understood to have appealed the ban.

Men Over 38 Reclassified; Farm Problem Is Attacked

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—The critical manpower problem was attacked on a broad front today as reliable reports made clear that administration leaders still hope to meet farm labor needs without cutting down on the armed forces.

Over the weekend, 1. Selective Service announced a four-point program for draft deferment of essential farm workers.

Senate Group Favors Allred Appointment

WASHINGTON, March 8 (AP)—A Senate Judiciary sub-committee today voted two to one in favor of confirming former Governor James V. Allred of Texas to the Fifth Circuit of Appeals, Chairman Hatch (D-Mex.) reported.

Allred's nomination had been opposed by Louisiana members of congress and Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex.) who defeated the one-time governor in the state's senatorial election last year.

Charges have been made, and were denied by Allred before the sub-committee, that he resigned from a Texas federal district judgeship to run against O'Daniel, with a promise from the president that if he should be defeated he would again be named to a federal judgeship.

Louisiana Senators Overton and Ellender, opposing confirmation, said Allred was named to succeed the late Rufus Foster of New Orleans and argued Louisiana should have representation on the court because of that state's peculiar Napoleonic code of law.

They had recommended State Supreme Court Judge Archie T. Higgins of New Orleans for the post, and asserted Attorney General Francis Biddle had assured them weeks ago that he would recommend Judge Higgins to the president for nomination. Biddle denied before the sub-committee that he had ever committed himself to recommend anyone before he discussed Allred with the president just before the Texas was named.

Allred's confirmation will give Texas two of the six judges on the Fifth Circuit Court bench and Louisiana none.

5180 Persons View Pampa Air School

By actual count, 5,180 persons from all over the Panhandle visited the Pampa Army Air Field between 2 and 5 p. m. yesterday in the first informal "open house" at the new advanced flying school.

The public relations office announced this morning that the visitors traveled in 1,200 automobiles. The affair was pronounced a great success and the public was commended for its strict observance of army regulations necessary because of wartime conditions.

The throngs of visitors entered the main gates and were greeted by members of the Military Police who handed them mimeographed sheets explaining the nature of the school, what parts of the field could be visited, and the restrictions. No cameras were permitted.

The Panhandle people first made their way to the recreation hall where they viewed a chemical warfare display. Then they separated into smaller groups and were conducted over the field by enlisted men who served as guides.

They saw a typical day room, barracks, and the hangars on the flying line. Special structures were built over the wings of the two-engine training planes so the visitors could look into the cabins. They were also able to climb up into the control towers and watch the day's flying activities from those vantage points.

The hospital was visited in groups of 25 each, the visitors saw the consolidated mess, chapel, theatre, the Link trainer buildings and many other places of interest. Many of the buildings were decorated with flowers sent by Pampa business establishments in observance of the occasion.

No special "show" was put on for the visitors and flying activities continued as usual at the advanced flying school where aviation cadets in their silver pilot wings after nine weeks of intensive training.

Warmer Weather Is Forecast Tonight

Something new was added to weather forecasts today when the weatherman said it briefly in two words:

"Warmer tonight."

That was cheerful news to the Top of Texas area, recovering today from a four-day cold snap, low points of which was Saturday morning when the temperature reading was one degree above zero.

Minimum temperature in Pampa Sunday, and the overnight low, was eight degrees, recorded at 8:30 p. m. The high was 40, at 4:30 p. m. Sunday. Early this afternoon the thermometer registered 32 degrees, only eight degrees less than yesterday's high.

British Knock Out 33 Tanks Without Losing Single One

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, March 8 (AP)—Marshal Erwin Rommel's initial smashes at the British Eighth army have completely failed and "round one is over" with his tanks and infantrymen in retreat toward Mareth line positions north and northwest of Medenine, a competent military source said today.

"Round one has been won by the Eighth army," he added.

Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's men, after stopping two German attacks Saturday morning, disrupted four more thrusts in the course of the afternoon and forced Rommel to withdraw again into the hills, it was announced.

Battered by ground fire and harassed by aerial bombardments, 33 of Rommel's tanks were destroyed while not a single British tank was knocked out, a communique disclosed.

The heavy action at the southern end of the Tunisian front was accompanied by aggressive Allied patrol activity and local gains in the north and destructive aerial blows at an Axis convoy sighted in the Mediterranean between Sicily and Tunisia.

Bombers with fighter escorts sank two vessels of the convoy, left another sinking, set five others afire and shot down six escorting planes, the communique said.

In all, 15 Axis aircraft were declared destroyed during the day, while "none of our aircraft is missing."

American patrols, in two sorties, captured 95 Italians some 20 miles west of Gafsa.

Authorities said however, that other United States patrols had withdrawn westward from the town of Pichon, 100 miles to the northeast, to avoid heavy Axis fire from the dominating hills north and south of the town.

All was quiet in the Ousseltia valley above Pichon.

"In northern Tunisia, our aggressive patrol activity continued and several local gains were made," the communique said.

Rommel made his first attack against British positions before the Mareth line at 4:30 a. m. Saturday and, when this was repulsed by British infantrymen and tanks, launched another at 7:30 a. m. This gained some high ground, but a See BRITISH, Page 3.

Recently he and four other tank maintenance officers were driving from Louisville, Ky., to Fort Knox when their car sputtered and stopped. Knowing something about tank engines they set to work on the engine. An hour later they asked a passing motorist to push them into town.

VETERAN TELEPHONE RE-ENLISTS

Desk telephones—sturdy veterans that figured in the growth of America's telephone system for years and years—are being called back for wartime service.
More and more, telephone materials and telephone production lines have been shifted to supply things the Army and Navy must have. That means less and less for the nation's telephone system. So thousands of these old-timers are coming off the shelf.
They are ready to do their part in meeting today's tremendous demand for telephones.
They are good telephones—first-class talking instruments. And they'll do a first-class job of carrying the calls of a nation at war.

WEDDING PARTY CHARTERS STREET CAR

War transportation difficulties did not bother the wedding guests—they just chartered a street car and the whole party rode to and from the ceremony, the bride and groom holding hands in the center. They are L. E. Smith of St. Louis and Edith L. Ingram of Pittsburgh. (NEA Telephoto.)

Sheep Raising Goes To Dogs in Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La., March 8 (AP)
The sheep raising business in Louisiana is "going to the dogs" and mutton and wool producers are anxious to do something about it. Canines which have developed a taste for lamb and roam the country in packs are costing the state thousands of dollars annually and are helping to contribute to the meat shortage, say agricultural extension workers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Eads have returned from a visit to Paris, Texas.

They were accompanied home by Mrs. Eads' mother, Mrs. Ethel McEwin, who will visit here a few days. Mrs. Eads reports that her grandmother, Mrs. T. B. Bentley, formerly of Gray county but now residing in Paris, is recovering from a recent illness. Mrs. Bentley recently celebrated her 90th birthday.

Attending the funeral of W. C. Austin from out of town were A. E. Lafoon of Miami, Ray Lafoon of Port Cobb, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Merritt of Ft. Worth, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wilson of Elk City, Okla., Mrs. J. A. Jackson of Los Angeles, Calif., and Billy Coker of Los Angeles. Mrs. Jackson is a guest of her sister, Mrs. Claude Wilson, and will return home Wednesday.

Vital Rationing Information

George W. Briggs, secretary of the Price ceiling panel of the county rationing board, today listed the inventory and price ceiling callendary covering grocers, cafes, boarding houses, and bakeries.
Grocers are to file not later than March 20 a statement as of March 10 of their ceiling prices on all goods.
Also, grocers are to make an inventory of all rationed goods that were "frozen" and file this inventory with the county rationing board between April 1 and 10. It has been inadvertently stated in an earlier story that the filing date was March 10.

SERIAL STORY

Glider Girl

By OREN ARNOLD

Copyright, 1943 NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Pat Friday, who has passed her solo flight test as a glider pilot, is busily, happily engaged in working out details of the transcontinental flight Jimmy Carr is to make.

LANGUID AND LATE CHAPTER VII THE transcontinental soaring flight was to start tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. And tonight at 1, Capt. Jimmy Carr and his secretary were still huddling in the field office building.

"All right, that's that," Jimmy snapped, eventually. "Route clear, down to the last notch. First stop at Cleveland, next at Chicago, then St. Louis, Kansas City, Wichita, angle back up to Denver, cut southward again to Phoenix, and hit the Pacific at San Diego."

"What about Great Bend, Kan.?" Pat asked.

Jimmy grinned. "I'd like to drop in on mother, at that."

"Capt. Kansas Carr! Did state pride have anything to do with your choosing two Kansas towns?"

"They're aviation centers. Don't be inebriated, Private Friday!"

"You're really awful," Jimmy said. "I oughta court-martial you. Maybe I will."

"Hush. What about your money?"

"Money?" He looked blank. "Yes, money, Captain. M-O-N-E-Y!"

"So, between one and two in the morning, Pat Friday, in a commandeered peep tower around Elmira cashing checks. She managed to get together about $200 in bills. At least that detail would be off her mind for tomorrow."

"Now, mister," she challenged him again, just after 2 a. m. "It is assumed of course that your personal luggage is all packed. You can wear nothing but dress uniforms you know, because you'll have to be showing off constantly."

John Q. Public will demand that you look nice. Or his wife will, anyway. Your mustache needs trimming on the left. And you could stand a hair cut."

She was standing across his desk, looking down at him. He swallowed, helplessly. "Pat, you—lordy!"

She gave an exaggerated sigh. "Come on," she ordered. "You remind me of my brother."

She and the peep driver, who was sort of special man for Captain Carr, served as valets for him. They rolled up to his quarters and went quietly in. And for an hour they all had fun packing his things. Pat even trimmed the mustache, and the hair around his ears. Then when she went to the peep to be driven to her own home, she paused for a moment.

"Jimmy," she said, quietly, "I'm not teasing or anything, now. Tomorrow morning everybody will be too busy for words, but I want you to know we're for you. Good sailing, Jimmy, and—good-by!"

"She held out her hand and he squeezed it."

"Lordy, Pat," he murmured. Plainly, he was touched.

"Goodby, Jimmy. . . Goodby!" The peep moved away, and Pat felt that the parting was a valdictory, an end of a grand, glorious something that could never be again.

MISS LORRAINE STUART had an appointment at the hair dresser's at 8:30 this morning. It was earlier than she liked to do such things, but this was a special occasion, and she'd need time to be groomed her very best. One of the news reel companies, it had been announced, would film the entire flight story in full color.

She was out of the beauty shop by 9:30, and she went rather leisurely to her apartment. From her bedroom window she could look across two roadways and onto the Double Eagle Soaring Field a mile beyond. But Martha, the colored girl who helped in the house here and was much more excited than Lorraine.

"Mm, mm," Martha grunted, generally. "Miss Lorraine, you got to hurry yourself up. Just look over there already!"

Lorraine deigned to glance out the window. "Quite a crowd gathering," she confessed. "Odd, that so many people would be interested in such a little thing."

"That last was sheer pretense and insincerity; a vain person's effort to impress a servant."

Absenteeism

The Bethlehem Steel company is to be commended for discharging 150 welders who had remained away from their work at the Fore River shipyards without excuse.

A government survey shows three principal reasons for the current increase in absenteeism. First, failure of workers to realize the harm they are doing; second, high wages which enable men to live comfortably without working constantly.

ROOSEVELT AND THE BEATITUDES

If there is anybody in the world who needs to understand the beatitudes and apply them to himself, it is President Roosevelt. He undoubtedly read them in his Washington Day speech, implying that he was being persecuted for righteousness sake.

Certainly Roosevelt is not meek. He has no faith in the common man. He believes that force must be used on the common man to keep him from consuming too much, working too hard and exchanging services with others unwisely.

There can be no righteousness without impersonal rules, without a Constitution. Roosevelt has discarded the universal rule that all men should get all they produce and substituted his own ideas of how much each man should get of the total production. He believes in no free market.

Neither can there be peace-makers who do not advocate a Constitution, impersonal rules, the Ten Commandments by which to live.

Will some defender of the Administration set forth the impersonal rules that the Administration attempts to follow?

Is it an impersonal rule—a beatitude—when one man is taxed at one rate and another at another rate? That is a personal rule. There is nothing righteous about it.

Is it an impersonal rule—a beatitude—when it is a crime for one group of men to combine and keep prices up and not a crime for another group to combine and keep prices up?

Is there anything meek about the man who thinks he is wise enough to know what laws should govern one group and what different laws should govern another group?

The beatitudes are rubber words to Roosevelt. They have no mathematical, impersonal meaning.

What we need to do is to get back to the beatitudes, to respect the equal and inherent rights of all people and not have class legislation, not have one set of rules for one group and another set of rules for another group, as the Administration is doing. There is nothing righteous or meek about that.

Why is it that the government which can do these things: Tell 10 million people to pull down their shades or get pulled in; Charge five million people a flat rate for use of their cars and then tell them they can't drive around the block if and as they feel like it; Take away two-thirds of what a person can earn, and then threaten to double up two years' excise taxes at that rate in a single year; Uproot millions of citizens from their ordinary ways of life;

By RAY TUCKER. Views: James A. Farley believes that Wendell Willkie is the Republican that the Democrats will have to beat in next year's Presidential election.

The Elsbworth and Luce offices are next door to each other. Their secretaries compared notes and discovered that they were "forgotten statesmen."

Mrs. Luce's publicity-minded friends ran to the newspapers with tales of her plight. Other chief executives too, are commencing to look toward home—rather than the District of Columbia—for support.

The tendency since 1932 has been to "let Washington do it." In fact, the New Deal sincerely believes that only the national Government is wise and powerful enough to handle great questions like economics, security markets, agriculture, employment, poverty etc.

INSIDERS: Republican bosses here and elsewhere are now busily engaged in slandering every political door so that Mr. Willkie will not be able to get a foot inside their own doors.

Around Hollywood

Five years ago a black-haired, dark-eyed girl turned her back on Hollywood and swore she would never return. It wasn't a case of sour grapes. She was determined never to act again.

Finally she herself was evacuated and returned to New York with a shipload of refugees. Then, because she had once signed a contract to appear in a summer theater in the east, and had begged out of it, she agreed to guest-star in one play as a personal favor to the producer.

And then Hollywood called again. Paramount needed a European actress to play an important role in the film, "Hostages." Film tests proved that when the young girl, who had been in the film, was in the role, she had no talent—the only actress in Hollywood to ever win two Academy awards for the best performances of the year—Luisa Rainer.

New 'Victory' Ship Goal Set

BY PETER EDSON. Pampa News Washington Correspondent. "There is no limit to the need for ships in a total, global war," says Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chairman of the Maritime Commission, and that explains why plans have been made to continue the huge American shipbuilding program well into 1944 and 1945, with some interesting changes in the existing schedule.

Price project of the new program will be the new, bigger, faster, better Liberty ship, which it is proposed to call the Victory ship. This Victory ship is still in the design stage and no keels have been laid. A number of experimental hulls are being run through the Navy's model testing basin here in Washington to determine the perfect shape, and the first full-size model of a new Lentz-type engine is undergoing tests. This Lentz engine is really something. It operates on the poppet valve principle, like your automobile, instead of the sleeve-valve or turbine principle used in most steam engines.

BEAUTY OF THE NEW VICTORY SHIP. Beauty of the new Victory ship model is that its design will permit the use of any propulsion unit available—the old-fashioned reciprocating engines of the Liberty ships, turbines, Diesels, or turbo-electric drive. In this flexibility, the Maritime Commission will remove one of the greatest causes of slowness in ship deliveries.

Hereafter, every ship has had to be designed for a particular engine installation. Hulls can now be turned out on an assembled production basis, but if a hull was ready and the engine wasn't the hull had to wait. Now, with this new, adaptable Victory ship that permits the installation of any type engine, ships can be completed and delivered on a much better schedule, the ways and the fitting docks cleared for other hulls.

At the present time, about two-thirds of the shipbuilding capacity is devoted to construction of the 10,500-ton Liberties. They are good ships for their purpose. But the Liberty ship is slow—making around 10 knots—and is limited to a cargo-carrying capacity of 8000 to 8500 tons. The new Victory will be able to make 15 or 16 knots and carry around 10,000 tons cargo.

The new Victory ships, in other words, will be ships that can be used in post-war competitive world trade, whereas the Liberties could not. As to what can be done with the Liberties in the post-war era, shipping men have varying opinions. A lot of the Liberties may be sunk by submarines. As for those that survive, the proposal being given most consideration is that they be disposed of to replace the fleets of other United Nations sunk during the war.

OUR FUTURE MERCHANT FLEET

The idea of the Maritime Commission planning for 1944 and 1945 is therefore to build up a merchant fleet which can be used in competitive post-war world trade. It will contract for the construction of new ships according to the demand. It will be able to shift orders to the new Victory ships, to transports, to tankers in whatever numbers needed. But its overall picture, in the number of hulls contracted for and delivered, will look something like this:

Today's War Analysis

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE. Associated Press Writer. The unprecedented Anglo-American bombing offensive against western Europe has been described by Captain Harold Balfour, British under secretary of state for air, as "preparing the way for United Nations forces to invade Europe."

The present devastating air attack is calculated among other things to serve these two vital purposes: (1) It's ironing out Boche resources so that invasion can be undertaken with as few Allied casualties as possible. (2) It's aiding both the Russian drive and the United Nations operations in Tunisia, by keeping the Axis harried Hitler ever on the alert in western Europe.

Whether this aerial bombardment presages an early invasion of western Europe is the secret of the high command.

During my recent tour of the war theatres I found widespread belief in high military quarters that the only way Hitler can be crushed without a protracted war is by an Allied invasion of France right across the English channel.

The most powerful weapon left to Hitler is his army, and that still possesses terrific strength despite its losses in Russia. We can't smash that army unless we get it into a corner and annihilate it.

It would be a great thing if the second front could be opened in France in the near future to coincide with the slackening of which presumably will come in the Russian drives as spring turns the thousand mile eastern front into a quagmire. Action in the west would force withdrawal of Nazi troops and equipment from the east. This would enable the Bolsheviks to recover from their tremendous exertions and prepare for another grand offensive. And it would prevent Hitler from undertaking an onslaught against the Russians as soon as the ground is dried out.

Any invasion of the continent must be preceded by terrific and steady aerial bombardment over a considerable period to destroy industrial centers, supply bases and transportation facilities. Only such devastation can a great army be put ashore from the channel without staging another Dieppe.

I have been assured that it would be necessary to destroy only about 160 targets in western Europe and Germany to prepare Hitler for the slaughter. Actually he could be sufficiently hamstrung by destruction of the 40 most important of these targets.
