Eternal Flight Is Envisioned With Electric Wind Power

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE |per or silver, capable of carrying a lot of current. AP Science Editor

NEW YORK - Electric winds The particles are atomic to drive interplanetary space ships are proposed by Prof. Her-

Electric winds are the invis-tractional state in the invis-tractional state is a state in the invis-tractional state in the invis-tractional state is a state in the invis-ing authority on rocket ships. neering plans are told in the magazine Radio-Electronics.

You can, Oberth says, set the sharp point of an electrode close te a lighted candle. When the current is turned on, a wind from the candle-point will blow out the flame. The wind is ordinary air pushed by the stream of invisible atomic particles from the electrode point. This sort of wind, Prof. Oberth says, is of no use for driving a ship in the earth's atmosphere, because the wind is too weak.

But out in space, with no atmosphere to retard them, these particles will take off much faster. Each tiny takeoff will give a kick, in the opposite direction, to the electrode from which the particle comes.

Now comes the daring new thought. The faster the take-off of a particle, the harder is its thrust or kick. And if you get the particles moving fast enough Oberth says they will drive a ship despite their scarcity.

But Oberth says it will be able to carry space boats, which are smaller ships, for landings and take-off. How to get this ship out into

Better Jobs

By R. C. HOILES

Our Revolution I want to continue to quote today from Frank Chodorov's article in Analysis magazine under the heading of "About Revolutions." Under the sub-heading of "Our Fathers' Tradition," Mr. Chodorov observes:

"Just how far our revolution has gone along this path is seen when we make comparison with that of the nineteenth century. The dominant doctrine of that era held the individual to be the be-all and end-all of all life. He was the only reality. Society was not a thing in itself, but was merely an agglomeration of individuals working cooperatively for their mutual betterment; it could not be greater than the sun or its parts. The individual was not the product of nis environment, but the respoi.sibile master of it.

"The nineteenth century had a dogma, too, and it went by the name of "unalienable rights." These were held to be personal prerogatives, inhering in the individual by virtue of his existence and traceable to God alone. Government had nothing to do with rights except to see that individuals did not transgress them; and that was the only reason for government. Its functions were entirely negative, like a watchman's, and when it presumed to act positively it was not minding its business; it should be called to account.

"In the practical affairs of life, doctrines and dogmas have a way of losing their virtues; even integrated philosophies fall apart when men start applying them. The individualism of the nineteenth century suffered considerable mayhem, even from those who paid it most homage --- the advocates of laissez-faire. Their insistence on their right to do as they pleased turned out to be the right to exploit others, a right were pledged to hold in leash. They built up the power of the State by demanding privilege from it.

"By the middle of the nineteenth century, this privilege-business had given individualism a bad character. The reality was far He declared, "'Bourgeois nashort of the earlier dream. NEW YORK - (P) - Author-ities say Connie Schaff, New York University basketball ace. has admitted accepting a $1,900 bribe to fix a game last New Year's Day between NYU and Cornell. The new charge against Schaff, already under arrest for a purported attempt to bribe a teammate, was made by Assistant District Atorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor.

O'Connor said last night that Schaff several days ago told of taking fix money for the NYU-Cornell game and trying to get another player to do likewise. Schaff is one of 13 players or former players, involved in college basketball's blackest scandal, accused of rigging results of at least 16 games at Madison Square Garden during the past three seasons. 806

O'Connor said Schaff admitted he talked with two fixers before the Cornell game at the Garden and agreed to try to line up enother NYU player for the fix. The bribe payers and the other player, who turned down the bribe offer, were not named by O'Connor. Assuming that Schaff had a partner in the scheme, the promised payoff was $3,000, O'Connor said

After the game - won by Cornell 69 to 56 in an upset -Schaff was quoted as saying, the money men gave him $1,900 and told him:

Award As The Best Animal Actor In '50

Talking Mule Wins

HOLLYWOOD -- (P) - Francis, the talking mule, is the winner of the American Humane Association's first annual "Patsv" award as the best animal actor of 1950.

Francis was awarded a goldplated statuette in a presentation ceremony at the Carthay Circle Theater. Bonzo, chimpanzee star of the film "Bedtime for Bonzo," was to have presented the awards, with the aid of actor Ronald Reagan. -- But Bonzo was suffocated in a fire last Sunday. Bonzo, whose real name is Tamba, won an award for his work in another picture last year "My Friend Irma Goes West." Other award winners were Flame, an acting police dog; Black Diamond, a movie horse Jackie, a movie lion: Jerry Brown, another horse, and, of course, Lassie.

Film celebrities participating included Diana Lynn, James Stewart. Bill Demarest, Chill Wills and Rex Allen.

The animal Oscars are called Patsys as an abbreviation of the designation Picture Animal Top Star of the Year. The choices were based on balloting by 500 film critics and columnists.

BLOSSOMS OUT - . Twin beauties are screen actress Virginia Mayo and the newlydeveloped crimson rose named for her. The "Virginia Mayo, Rose" is featured at the California International Flower Show at Hollywood Park, Calif.
