Americans Destroy 26 Axis Planes in North Africa

U. S. Forces Withdraw In Sened Area

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Feb. 5 (AP)—American aerial raiders smashed heavily at German airbases and auxiliary fields in the Gabes area yesterday and in this and other fighting, shot down 26 German planes and damaged 26 more while losing 10 of their own, a spokesman announced today.

While the air war reached a white heat, United States armored forces withdrew from the Sened railway station in central Tunisia, 65 miles northwest of Gabes, after "accomplishing the purpose of their mission," the spokesman said.

An Allied communique had ignored the Sened sector, reporting there was no change in the ground situation.

British troops in the Bou Arada sector to the north maintained control of the heights of Djebel Mansour which they captured the previous day and beat off Nazi attacks.

Twenty-five of the Axis planes destroyed yesterday were downed in action directly related to the Gabes raids and the other was caught in one of the aerial sweeps across the front. The attack followed another bombing of the docks of Bizerte Wednesday night.

Duplicating their successes in European and Pacific theaters, two formations of B-17 Flying Fortresses shot down 24 Nazi fighters in running engagements continuing for 50 miles. Escorting P-38 Lightnings bagged another German fighter. One B-17 and four P-38's failed to return.

Five Allied fighters were lost in other forays over Axis territory. The edge of 26-to-10 yesterday followed a 48-hour period in which German and Italian fighters had held a slight advantage in the number of planes shot down.

The Luftwaffe's failure to break up the Flying Fortress operations by miles intercepts with Messerschmitt 109's and Focke Wulf 190's was regarded by officers here as a heartening development of the Tunisian campaign.

Observers said the latest model Nazi fighters flew in flames like a shower of meteorites as the bomb-

Teachers Will Inspect Field

Faculty members of Pampa's schools will be the guests of Lieut. Col. Daniel S. Campbell, commanding officer of Pampa's Army Air Forces Advanced Flying school tomorrow when they pay the field an inspection visit.

Buses will leave the Liberty Bus station at 11 a. m. and are scheduled to arrive at the post at 11:30. It is estimated that more than 115 teachers and guests will make the trip, bringing the total number of visitors received and entertained at the field to almost 800.

B. R. Nuchols, principal of the E. M. Baker school, is in charge of arrangements for the buses and luncheon.

Woods Opposes Closing School Five Days

FORT WORTH, Feb. 5 (AP)—Texas schools could not spare a full five days (as suggested by the Federal government) to aid in February's rationing program, L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction, had advised OPA officials here today. Woods expressed the belief, however, that the schools could do the job thoroughly in three days.

"The Federal government has asked that schools be turned over to the program from February 22 through February 27," Woods said, "but we simply can't spare that much time. I have suggested that we use Thursday, Friday and Saturday, which would mean that students would miss only two days of school."

Pay-As-You-Go Tax Supporters Lose Ground

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Congressional supporters of the Ruml pay-as-you-go plan to cancel all 1942 individual income tax obligations conceded they were on the defensive today and started casting about for reinforcements.

There appeared virtual unanimity of opinion among the 25 members of the House Ways and Means committee, however, that some of last year's taxes would be forgiven. The question was, how much?

One thing was certain. While a majority of the lawmakers were in favor of writing a pay-as-you-go law as quickly as congressional procedure permit, the laborers will not erase the requirement that all taxpayers file their 1942 returns and pay at least the first installment (at present statutory rates) by March 15.

Beardsley Ruml, chairman of the New York Federal Reserve bank, argued the merits of his plan for five hours before the committee yesterday, declaring "income tax debt has become a modern form of penance" and "a national danger."

When he completed his formal statement, committee members fired question after question, the trend indicating more of the members were hostile than sympathetic and when the session ended friends of the Ruml plan acknowledged privately that they could not now muster a majority of votes in the committee, although they expressed confidence of gaining strength before the hearing ends, probably next week.

Farley Continues His Tour of Texas

AUSTIN, Feb. 5 (AP)—Former Postmaster General James A. Farley was to leave today for Dallas en route to his home in New York from a visit to Mexico City.

Farley said he expected to arrive in Dallas between 4 and 5 p. m. and that he would stop on the way in Waco, Hillsboro and Waxahachie for brief visits.

He will drive to Fort Worth Saturday before continuing to New Orleans for a brief rest.

McLean Instructor Dies in Air Crash

SWEETWATER, Feb. 5 (AP)—Bodies of Donovan D'Spain, 21, civilian instructor at Avenger field, and Cadet Paul Millard Johnson, 27, who were killed in a plane crash 16 miles northwest of here yesterday, were shipped today to their homes for a brief rest.

The body of D'Spain went to McLean, Texas, and that of Johnson to Denver, Colo.

D'Spain attended Abilene Christian college where he was a member of the school's CAA class.

Auditor Reveals Drop in County Expenditures

Transition to war time economy and the resultant demands for manpower have brought reductions in some county expenses, County Auditor R. C. Wilson told the county commissioners in his annual report for 1942, dated Jan. 28, 1943, and filed this week with the court.

There has been a sharp decrease in this county's outlay for pauper costs and loss of employees has caused some over-all reductions in labor costs, other than road work.

Many items of office equipment have been frozen and usual replacement costs have not been incurred. County expenses have been materially lowered as evidenced by the jury fund reduction of $2,092.41.

Lack of labor, material, and equipment will preclude further work other than maintenance, on the Alamed-LePors road. At the close of the year the balance of funds allocated for this purpose was $49,524.57.

The county experienced no material loss of income in 1942 and excellent tax collection percentages were maintained.

Construction of the air field road at a cost of $15,000, together with the increased cost of labor and materials, contributed to a new high in road expenditures.

For 1942, Gray county spent $338,806.71, received $323,983.47; Jan. 1, 1942, balance was $210,310.32; Dec. 31, 1942, $195,487.03; 1942 tax valuation was $29,299,137; state tax rate 75 cents, county tax rate 60 cents, a total of $1.35.

Navy Reveals Borger Man Killed in Action

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—The Navy announced today 67 casualties in Navy forces, including 7 dead, 13 wounded, and 47 missing.

This brings to 22,739 the total of Navy, Marine corps and Coast Guard casualties reported to next of kin since December 7, 1941. The grand total includes 6,461 dead, 4,029 wounded and 12,238 missing.

The casualties announced today included: Casidy, Kenneth D., Marine, dead; Mother, Mrs. Neva I. Casidy, 301 East 9th street, Borger.

Flynn Case Goes To Jury Today

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 5 (AP)—The state concludes today its final argument for conviction of Film Actor Errol Flynn on charges of statutory rape, with the case scheduled to be placed then in the hands of the jury, probably some time during the afternoon.

Deputy District Attorney John Hopkins scathingly denounced as "rubbish" yesterday the contentions of Flynn's attorney that the two complaining witnesses testified against Flynn in a hope of avoiding prosecution for acts of their own.

EDITORIAL ECHOES

Courtesy Card Difficult to Get

If you have never had a cause for being polite and courteous, you have now. In order to be in the Victory Corps, a student must have a courtesy card. Our names will be presented by our homeroom teachers before the faculty committee. If we receive no blackball there, then they present the list to Student Council which also has the opportunity to turn down our names.

Our school could use a little better manners. This should stimulate us to improve in many ways. Our teachers, our parents, and our friends may notice a difference in our conduct. If some of us need improvement, we should take advantage of every opportunity to show how we are trying to be courteous and mannerly.

Everyone wishes to earn points and be a member of the Victory Corps.
 Peggy Jean Jenks.

Calling All Girls!

This is a call to all girls in Pampa Junior High. Girls, we accepted a challenge during Girls Club last week to have more girls in the Victory Corps than the boys have.

Well, we must get busy. The first step in getting in the Victory Corps is the Courtesy card. Then there are the intramural games. When your coach asks you to play, get in there and try. Some points come from out of school duties. Which one fits you best? Whatever it is, girls, begin now getting those points. Maybe it's keeping a child or selling scrap metal or making model planes or making insignia for the members of the corps to wear. Plan something there. Then the lowest grade may need to come up. Whatever needs the time, give it more and get passing grades with a few A's and B's to spare.

Imogene Ray.

Courtesy Card Changes Things

Pampa Junior High is not the same anymore. Had you noticed?

Back slapping, pushing, and general misbehaviour has improved. The little matter which occasions all this courteous behaviour is the Courtesy Card.

It would be fine to own one of these little cards. This card is complimentary. It says your word is always good. Instead of bringing a signed note from your home when you are ill, just tell the assistant principal and he believes you. Instead of a special Library card to leave the classroom for a book, this card will suffice.

The Courtesy Card is a big order for some whose conduct was not so good. For others it will be easy to get. Their reputation is good with everybody.

When you get a Courtesy Card, you can be sure that you are high in the esteem of Pampa Junior High.

Patsy Phillips

Good From the Courtesy Card

A new atmosphere has been noted in Junior High since the Victory Corps has been explained in detail. It must be the Courtesy Card which has caused the change.

Several honors come from carrying a Courtesy Card. When we are absent or tardy, this card will take the place of a note from home. When we go to the Library, we may show this card. Everybody who gets a Courtesy Card will be proud of it.

Let's start now.

Students All Out For Victory Corps As New Developments Open This Week

Boys Club Learn Details on Corps

Donald Rowe opened Boys Club in the gym last Wednesday at third hour with the principal, Mr. Winston Savage, slated for the main speech.

He explained the various fields in which students may win points toward becoming members of this new war organization.

"Getting the courtesy card is one of the greatest honors and will be the biggest step in achieving an entrance for officer candidacy," said the principal. He explained the athletic realm as the physical fitness channel, the passing grades counting 100 points with the extra points for A's and B's as the second field of endeavor, the variety of jobs and accomplishments from military and aeronautical to first aid and regular jobs counting, and finally the Courtesy Card which means the student's conduct is irreproachable.

Following this part on the program three wrestling bouts followed. Jerry Nash (125 pounds) lost to Maurice Lockhart (135 pounds); Glen Crouse (178 pounds), an ex-student and visiting in the school that day while on furlough from the U. S. S. San Francisco, lost to Raymond Vanderlinden (180 pounds). The sixth bout opened the fun with Gene Vault (80 pounds) losing to Alvin Kurtz (75 pounds).

GRAZINGS

Re-elected from last term as officers in room 112 were four coaches, the president, and traffic officer. These students were in order as mentioned above, Bobbie Tidwell and Leatrice Winton, coaches; Kenneth Stephens and Lewis Boyson, assistants; Jackie Rains, president; and Dorothy Jean McFarlin.

Several Junior High boys work at the advanced flying school on Saturday and Sunday and continue attending school the other five days.

Students recall the interesting record of the principal, Mr. Winston Savage, gave students of the colors of the earth's strata and the prehistoric animals found. He spoke to history students in the absence of Mrs. Dan Busch one day.

If you can't make both ends meet, make one end vegetable.

Red Skeltons in room 113 sometimes sound more like a lot of baby-talk.

"You are the fellow who makes up your mind whether you'll lead or linger behind."

Will the annual materialize or not—that is the question.

Hobbies have been known to change the course of persons' lives. Note the hobbies from these sixth and seventh grade students.

Red Gay food collects hair bows for one year and has 120 bows.

Jo Ann Copper collects old money and stamps.

Nilita Fraher has a collection of strangely shaped buttons.

Dolls attract Dolores Hart. Her oldest doll was given her by her mother when she was four years old.

Lois Neva Spencer and her mother have collected Indian head pennies.

Jeanette Hackney has collected 75 toy dogs in five months.

Airplane pictures attract Eldon Morris. He has quite a collection.

Lerdia Flimmings likes to receive pictures of her best friends.

Mary Garvin has recently started a stamp collection.

Match folders from many addresses make Dick Osh's hobby.

Henry Reynolds, whose father is instructor at the civil pilot training school, collects airplane models.

You're the only army job that I abhor.

When the M-M-M-Moon shines over the guard house.

It'll be mopping up the K-K-K-Kitchen floor.

Somebody found these lines in Jackie Rains' old notebook of last semester. Jack makes good grades or better than most of us—this might be an omen.

Now I lay me down to rest.

Before I take this awful test.

If I should die before I wake.

I'll thank the Lord no test I'll take.

A note for the army air corps: Helen Linton is still scrubbing her shoes after Dorothy Maddox turned around during English class and spilled a pint beside her. Helen may buy a fountain pen yet.

Congratulations to room 211 for winning the 9th grade tournament in basketball last week. Outstanding players were: Charles Beard, Dee Griffin, Junior Coffee, J. W. Winborne, Randall Clay, Tommy McPhillips, Jimmie McTaggart.

Last year Hitler's spring offensive was in second gear. This year his reverse is good enough.

"Professor, 'How Could You?' is still recalled from last spring. We are betting on 'Atta Boy, Walt!' being just as good this Friday night. What scene will last best in our memories? The high point of last spring was Johnny Campbell dressed as the professor's wife.

Miss Rusk asked Frank Perry what fish are the most frugal, and this was his bright answer: "Tuna."

Breck Combs received a letter upon receipt of his knife by the War Department. His knife was the kind wanted for close engagements with the enemy in the tropics, and Breck gave it up when Walter Winchell made the appeal in his Sunday night program several weeks ago.

Three Act Play 'Atta Boy, Walt,' To Be Presented February 12

Friday night of next week the woodshed comedy, "Atta Boy, Walt," will be presented for parents and friends of Pampa Junior High in the school auditorium with a cast directed by Mrs. Rex Rose which promises good interpretation of lines written for 16-year-olds.

The unusual woodshed setting gives a new angle on hobbies and troubles of normal Junior High boys and girls.

The play was written by Betty Knapp and is a recent production with dress typical of the careless fashion of young fellows who believe that what they have on at the moment is suitable for all occasions.

Walter Nelson, played by Pat King, is "Just boy" at that period between the gang-age and the first interest in matters feminine and the many things that go to complicate adult life. He takes for granted the admiration of Mary Ann Phillips, the prettiest girl in school, played by Ida Ruth Taylor. But he has indicated enough of his interest by giving her his most prized possession, a stuffed owl—for which he is ridiculed by his sisters, Peggy and Shirley, played by Sharilyn Paacock and Phyllis Ann Parker.

At the time the play opens Walter is far more concerned over a flashing light signal he has arranged with his pal across the street, Billy Herbert, played by Jimmie McTaggart.

Their system, based on Morse code, works well in their estimation—to well for the local police. This is because they struck on S. O. S. as their call letters, a fact which disturbs the airplane on a trans-continental route crossing the town. Walter's father (D. B. Jameson) has delivered an ultimatum: one more use of the code-car, and the woodshed workshop, pride of Walter and Billy, will return to its former use as a general catch-all for household cast-offs.

Walter's life is further complicated by the fact that Mary Ann is showing a fast growing interest in one Gordon Andrews (Jack Hood), the smartest boy in school, who has already reached the stage where a necktie is indispensable. Gordon has aspirations for radio-singing, and small item in Mary Ann's eyes, since Walter's singing is closely associated with a frog.

Mary Ann visits the workshop just before Trigger Daniels (Randall Clay), a criminal attempting to contact his mob, following a jail-break, stumbles on the woodshed and mistakes the radio arrangement for a real short wave set. He gives Walter and Mary Ann, whom he comes together, the alternative of getting contact with the mob car, or a taste of lead.

Walter, feeling that his father's wrath would be less painful than acting as target for a bullet, sends his pal, Billy, to his room, hoping that Billy will be smart enough to understand the inferences of the unfinished message. While they wait for either the mob, or the police to appear, Mary Ann takes matters into her own hands. With the aid of a baseball bat she proves that the female is more deadly in her aim than the male. Only it is Walter's head she works on as well as Trigger's.

Of course, matters are worked out satisfactorily, and Walter takes his deserved place in the hearts of the townspeople and especially in Mary Ann's. As a magnanimous gesture he permits her to kiss the bump on his head—and all ends happily.

Joyce Pratt, Jack Dunham, and Jackie Rains have worked as stage Jackie Rains and Billy Clay have worked as stage crew. Members of the cast and crew are chosen from Mrs. Rose's development class which meets four hours a week at third hour.

Pat King has the experience of one play from last year when he played the part of Mary Ann in "Professor, How Could You," directed by Mr. C. T. Hightower, who has had charge of dramatics in Junior High for five years until this year. He is slated to leave for army training soon.

Room 107 put one by everyone the day of the half-holiday after exams when they had their homeroom party seeing "Mountain Rhythm" at the Rex. Afterwards they had ice cream at Borden's.

Many Officers Are Re-elected

Four boys were re-elected to the former offices in Room 202: Richard Hughes as president; A. Z. Griffin, vice president; G. W. Garbills and Hobart Fatheree as coaches for boys. New officers were these: Nickie Frazer, secretary; Lois Ann Briscoe, program chairman; and Lilly Martin and Alma Davis, coaches for girls.

The teacher is Miss Jess Bumpass.

Alvema Miller will lead Room 212 as president for second semester. This is an eighth grade room with Mr. John Hartley teacher.

Other officers follow: vice president, Dolores Conway; secretary, Doris Flood program chairman, Floyd Brandt; coaches (girls), Doris Flood and Betty Davis, (boys) Neal Keyes and James Ford; traffic officer, Hazel Nice.

Joyce Kinard is to be president of Room 104 for the second term where Miss Inez Cribb is teacher. Other officers follow: Arietta Lowther, vice president; Betty Jo Kyle, traffic officer; and Betty Reigh, secretary.

Billie Jean Hollis heads Room 207 as second semester president. The teacher is Miss Essie Mae Leaverton who followed a half dozen substitutes after Miss Lola Campbell left before Christmas.

Other officers are these: vice president, Barbara Cannon; secretary, June Sanders; Coaches (girls) Alice Jean Robinson and Jodelle Elliott, (boys) Frank Green and Glen Cary; parliamentary, Vernon Valentine.

Grace Davis was the choice of Room 221 for president where Mrs. Tom Simmons is teacher. James Gray is her assistant. Other officers: secretary, Adell Roberts; Coaches (girls), Ida Ruth Taylor and Jean Sutton, (boys) Jimmie Savage and Ray Williams; parliamentary, David Hill; reporter, Leona Young, and patrol representative, Jack McCord. Mrs. Simmons is the treasurer.

Soldiers Thank School Official For Equipment

Mr. Winston Savage, principal, received a letter of thanks from the director of physical training at the Air Base here last week which read in part:

"I wish to thank you on behalf of the officers, cadets, and enlisted men for the equipment. This has been a wonderful help to all the men, and will make possible many hours of pleasure. The money was spent for the following materials and at the following places:

Low and Campbell, Dallas $50.56
 Pampa Hardware, Pampa $15.75
 James L. Livingston
 Lt. L. A. C.
 Director of Physical Training"

Junior Council donated this money for basketball equipment which will make possible the city tournament including the team from the Air Base as well as the Junior High Reporter team, city teams, and Senior High teams.

Chinese Translations Whip the Japs

Whip the Japs! Whip the Japs!
 Cut the treasurers! Cut the treasurers!
 Rescue China!

The Children's March

Go! Go to get revenge for our country!
 To fight for freedom!
 Go! Go to kill all of our enemies.
 All of our children should be come on up!
 Let's stick together.
 That will be a great strength.
 Why should we be scared of the small fry?

(These are the translated words into English by Harry Joe who says songs in the schools in China include those which inspire patriotism and fighting for their country.)

Hatcher 'Pinchhits' For P. E. Teachers

Charlie Hatcher, ninth grade student, looked the part of "coach" complete with striped shirt, whistle and blue sweat pants several days lately when two of the physical education teachers took turns being absent from school.

Baseball and phonograph were the order for most of the lower-grade classes. Charlie admitted that he liked his job despite the foolishness of boys. He said, "I guess I would like to work toward this job as a profession."

On the Reaper team for the past several years and outstanding athletics Charlie has long had a flare for games and athletics.

The two missing instructors were Mr. Haskell Tolson, who visited military practice for high schools in Tulsa last Friday, and Mr. Joe Orsler, who was absent with a visit down state over the weekend.

Background, Plot Early Pioneers In Major Play

Tears filled the eyes of those who saw the pioneer drama presented last Thursday afternoon in the Junior High auditorium to a full house of school children from grades four to nine.

The story dealt with captive children whom the Indians were forced to return when terms were made with the white settlers—nine years after they had been snatched from their parents in the Allegheny mountains near Carlisle.

Mrs. G. F. Prieuf, president of A. A. U. W., an educational society in the city, sponsored the arrangements. D. B. Jameson, Junior High dramatics student, assisted with lighting. The players were from New York, the Clare Tree Major players who brought "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" two years ago and "Beauty and the Beast" last fall.

Mr. Killebrew Writes Fog Thick, Army Hot

Mr. Carroll Killebrew wrote the principal, Mr. Winston Savage, a letter last week, which the principal posted on the office bulletin board for all to read.

He started with "Dear Boss," and closed with "Your Has Been." He said, "Mr. Jones, don't make the kids take it too hard for the army will make 'em mean enough."

He complained about the thick fog and how they had to chop holes in it to get the B-17s and B-24s off the ground. His address is 2532 E. Houston, San Antonio, Texas.

CHAFF

One of Mr. Gallman's innumerable war jokes follows:

A captured German soldier said: "The Nazis are sure to win this war, for we have ships so big the captain runs around deck in an automobile to give orders."

The guard in charge returned with this answer: "That's nothing. Our ships are so big and it takes so much food to feed the sailors that the cook goes down in the potatoes in a submarine to see if they are done."

Bobby Marsden: It's funny how one's thoughts keep pace with the weather.

Mary Frances Jones: Yes, it certainly is a rain night.

The three Chinese girls who have not married are these: Tu-Young-Tu, Tu-Dumb-Tu, and No-Yen-Tu.

Help the girl into the car.

Also help her out of it.

Will she think you're a thoughtful gent?

There isn't any doubt of it!

Charlie Beard: I had it on the tip of my tongue a moment ago, and now it is gone.

Wanda Sue Campbell: Maybe it'll come back if you think hard.

Charlie: I don't think so. It was my stamp I was going to put on my letter.

Scholarship, Merits, Fitness, Card Are Requirements for Membership

Choosing developments last Friday was the first step for many students in working toward admission into the Victory Corps. Others report beginning definite work toward attaining certain physical goals. Some have accepted little jobs which will bring them points in the "Work Field," for the Victory Corps.

The Victory Corps has a four-fold nature which includes attainments in scholarship, in many athletic accomplishments, and in working outside of school toward winning points as listed below. The Courtesy Card is the fourth estate which will be honorary and card is formally presented in writing to Junior Council.

Definite instructions for meriting the 350 points for the Victory Corps are listed below:

- To belong to the Victory Corps a student must earn 150 points on the following schedule:
  - Pass successfully a 15 hour First Aid course—30 points.
  - Pass successfully a 15 hour Aeronautics course—30 points.

Tri-Hi-Y Girls Attend Church In Body Sunday A. M. With Sponsor

Tri-Hi-Y girls of Junior High attended church services at the First Baptist church Sunday morning, with lunch at the White Way following the worship hour. The sponsor since its organization is Miss Ruth Barton, seventh grade homeroom teacher, who helped start the club more than a year ago.

This club has done many worthwhile deeds and developed through the ideals set down by the Young Women's Christian association of which it is a junior organization. The brother organization is the Hi-Y, which was organized by Cpl. J.

Aviation News

By Bill Sullins and Howard Qualls

Britain's "catafighters" have proved themselves efficient in this war. A German long range bomber might approach a convoy expecting to do a great deal of damage to a number of ships. Suddenly, an Allied fighter appears from nowhere. It is a matter of a minutes before the bomber is shot down.

How is it done? The "harmless" looking catfighter is sitting on the deck of a freighter. At the approach of the enemy bomber, it is catapulted into the air. The "cata-fighters" have no landing gear, have tremendous firing power, and so are perfect for ships not of the carrier type.

Many times pilots of these planes are lost either from combat or from the dangerous landings at sea. The air scoops fill with water so quickly, the pilot can not leave the cabin until he is swept beneath the waves.

One pilot told a story which showed that hauling out is safer. He was carried 30 feet below the surface before he could escape the cabin.

The loss of a catfighter is not so great a loss as one of a long range bomber. The British catapults are springs instead of powder for throwing the plane into the air. The plane warms up before the trigger is thrown.

Fighters depend on speed and maneuverability—other things being equal. The ship that can go the fastest and make the sharpest turn survives.

The Spitfire is one of England's greatest fighters. It is not been what they are the Battle of Britain in the skies might have been a different story. It has two air scoops, one on each wing, and it now has a four-blade prop.

Characteristics of two pursuit planes of our own country: P-38—two motors, tapered wing, mid-wing, rounded wing tip, pursuit nose horizontal, tailplane connecting twin tail booms. P-39, single motor tapered wing, low wing, rounded wing tip, pursuit cockpit, pursuit nose, single fin and rudder.

Victory Corps Takes All But 12 Journalists

Due possibly to the fact that journalism work does not add to the Victory Corps standing, students left eight grade class with Miss Orsler. Punct to join other developments.

'Hey, Joe' Cost Japs Lives in Philippines

DALLAS, Feb. 5 (AP)—The words "hey, Joe" cost many a Japanese sharp-shooter his life in the early fighting on the Philippine islands. T. V. Corbett of Sherman, former air corps soldier who lost a leg on Luzon in December, 1941, declared yesterday.

Key, Joe Cost Japs Lives in Philippines

Now a patient at a veteran's bureau hospital near here, Corbett explained that the Japs continually attempted to lure Filipino soldiers from cover by shouting "hey, Joe." But the Japs never could fool the Filipinos, he said.

Common Ground

DR. ELLIOT'S OPINION OF LABOR UNIONS Since I have been repeatedly pointing out that labor unions had a bad effect upon the character of the members, I want to give the opinion of Dr. Elliot...

My objections to the trade unions are altogether educational and moral. They seem to me to have had a bad effect on the character and happiness of their members...

The first and last of these practices are grave violations of the universal moral sense. The second and third rob the workingman of strong motives for self-government and make it probable that he will do no hearty, zealous, faithful work...

I cannot agree with you that the trades unions have brought happiness to any workingman. Higher wages, shortened hours, better clothes and more meat do not necessarily contribute to genuine happiness...

All well read, thinking people believe that the progress of civilization depends on universal, steady, productive labor; the unions seem to believe that the less one works the better.

The confused society we are now having is the natural aftermath of the effects of labor unions on the character of its members. Labor unions know no moral law. Their norm of rightness is force or threats of force.

Unhappy Birthday

The Third Reich didn't have a very happy birthday party in Berlin the other day. There was no flag waving, by official order. There were those impudent neighbors from across the channel who had the bad taste to heckle the speakers.

The RAP's birthday "singograms" came whining down from the skies and landed with a disconcerting thud just about the time Goering and Goebbels were clearing their throats before launching forth in the familiar defense of the boss as Europe's savior.

Goering, Goebbels and Hitler had selected Russia as the main target of their anniversary remarks, and there was no time to change signals. To be sure, Goering had an hour of unfortunate interruption in which he might have made some alterations or additions...

When the all-clear sounded and Goering gathered up his speech and his dignity, his tilt with the ogre of Bolshevism went on as scheduled. While he spoke to the assembled soldiers of German efforts in the East to save Europe from a fate worse than democracy, his audience must have been listening with one ear while the other was cocked for the familiar drone of enemy bombers.

There wasn't much aid or comfort in the message. Hitler, of course, told the old, old story of his 10 years of power. But for the first time Goering and Goebbels uttered some statements that bore the ring of truth.

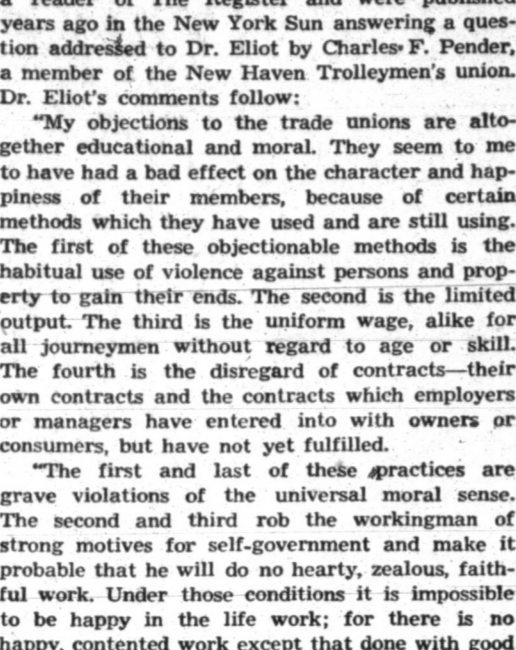

As for Goebbels, no one will question his statement that "Battle" was the slogan in those days of the National Socialist movement from its very inception and "Battle" has remained our slogan unto this very day.

At least one of Goebbels' sentences can be chosen as common. "It is obvious," said he, "why our enemies storm against the new Reich as if desperate and from all sides."

It is indeed obvious, Herr Goebbels, and we shall try to bring it home to you even more clearly as the war progresses.

News Behind The News

The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER The stubborn Senate fight on Mr. Roosevelt's 'old family friend,' Edward J. Flynn, culminated in his withdrawal from the arena, as predicted by the writer on January 23rd...

The Spanglers will wage the battle on two domestic issues—bureaucracy and taxes. It is no coincidence that two prospective or second-place candidates—Governors John W. Bricker of Ohio and Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts—have lately devoted major tryout speeches to these subjects.

Hence the Capitol Hill minority will lean slightly toward the internationalistic side for this session. It will all come about because of a glass of champagne. Two years ago Coward was touring the United States in England...

Then our upper chamber refused to ratify the covenant or join the international tribunal. England and France engaged in a game of power politics with the Reich as the pawn.

When a nation starts to discard the universal rule that all men are equal before the law and that there should be no classes, then there is no end of change; then every change requires another change.

It has never been necessary to discard the universal rule. It has only been done by those people who recognize none of God's impersonal, eternal laws; by people who seem to think that they are wiser than God.

On this subject of change, Fenet, the French statesman, having in mind the failure of the French Revolution, said: "It is better to preserve what it is not necessary to destroy."

We are going through about the same obsession for change as in the French Revolution. But the French Revolution did not bring the four freedoms, nor will our discriminatory laws bring four freedoms.

The freedom of youth to work and to plan, the freedom of age to keep and to enjoy the fruits of past labor. Fortunate is America that there are still a few papers left like The Chicago Tribune, big enough, and strong enough, and bold enough to defy the tyrants and the would-be tyrants, the demagogues, the wastrels of honest men's earnings...

If America remains free, the credit will belong to a few courageous men such as the publisher of The Chicago Tribune, willing to risk his wealth and if need be, his life, in the struggle to preserve our country from the borers from within.

If this battle is lost, then the weak sister publishers of the fat, soft, characterless lickspittle press will lose their wealth, too. Already they have lost their independence, and such liberty as they have left is an obvious burden to them. Pitifully they look to Washington for relief from freedom and the responsibility that goes with it.

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Service Staff Correspondent Exclusively yours: Sometimes the plot behind a motion picture is just as dramatic as the plot they put on the screen. For example, Noel Coward's hit, "In Which We Serve," it all came about because of a glass of champagne.

The pictures started a roar of protest in London. No man, editorial writers screamed, should be drinking champagne when the folks at home were taking it on the chin.

Mae West turned down an offer to star in PR's "Queen of Burgundy" because, she said, "I want to get away from such unrefined backgrounds." Why, Mae! ... Day Eddie Cantor's daughter, Marilyn, got that radio announcing job, she wired papa: "Have job. Cancel the weekly check until further notice."

Below The Surface

(The New York Sun) The War Labor Board's hearing on the strike of Pennsylvania coal miners cannot be expected to go below the surface, but even a superficial inquiry may put an end to a strike condemned by the WLB itself as being "against the welfare of the nation in time of war."

At least part of the local unions of the United Mine Workers which have gone on strike have gone so in protest against an increase in union dues. If it seems fantastic that public welfare should be put in jeopardy by a dispute over dues between the rank and file of the union and its leaders, let it be remembered that the road was cleared for just such fantastic action by the government at Washington. If the United Mine Workers had to collect their own dues, the leaders of the union might be a little more sensitive to the opinion of rank and file members. Since, as a result of government pressure over a term of years, the mine owners act as collectors, of union dues through the check-off, it is natural that resentful operators. The miners are not the ones to be called illogical; they are merely carrying to its logical conclusion an illogical "social gain" won for them in the past.

Though John L. Lewis and other U.M.W. officials contend that the strike is unauthorized, since the miners walked out while a contract was in force, it will seem to many observers that the real authority for the strike which endangers the welfare of the nation was established by those who fought to obtain the check-off for the miners.

Echoes From Capitol Contabs

By PETER EDSON News Washington Correspondent Raising chickens on wire has become such a science that poultry fanciers say a brood of hens or fryers can be kept in a small basement pen without any trouble or smell. The chicks are fed cod liver oil in lieu of sunshine, and not getting any exercise, the meat is wonderfully tender. Because of this development a lot of people have figured they would raise their own chickens in the back yard or the attic, and so beat meat rationing. But department of agriculture experts, while admitting this is a good idea, point out that most cities have ordinances against keeping chickens in town and advise a checkup on local zoning laws before building a pen or buying baby chicks.

Nelson Rockefeller's Inter-American Affairs magazine, "En Guardia" (On Guard), which started out with a circulation of 50,000, is now up to 475,000 for the combined Spanish and Portuguese editions. Idea of the magazine is to sell the U. S. war effort to Latin American big shots. The magazine is not for sale, but is free to the right people—that is, to diplomats, politicians, local officials, and business men who should be made friends and influences.

Today's War Analysis

By GLENN BARR Associated Press Writer The Chinese new year begins today and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's government, in a graceful gesture toward its allies, is dedicating the festival to a celebration of the new treaties by which the United States and Britain last month abandoned extraterritorial rights for their nationals in China.

This provokes some interesting speculation as to Chungking's motives in linking a political demonstration with an ancient popular festival. It may have been to make sure that a true holiday spirit would prevail during the official celebration.

But one purpose certainly was to emphasize to the Chinese public the value the government places on its ties with the Anglo-Saxon powers, despite widespread disappointment over the benefits to China thus far of her adherence to the United Nations.

The Chinese armies, supported now by a small measure of American air power, continue to hold their own against the invader. Two Japanese attempts this winter to drive into Yunnan, China's southwestern bastion, have made no real progress and the line of the great rivers near the Burma border still holds. As far as military operations go Japan has made no major gains except the conquest of Burma and closing of the Burma road. But it was not the Chinese army that lost Burma. And the Chinese continue to keep a large part of Japan's forces, perhaps 750,000 men, fully occupied.

But while General Chiang's fighters seem to be doing all right there is increasing evidence of strain on the home front. The pressure of the Japanese blockade, which has been effective in varying degrees since the capture of Canton more than four years ago, is ever more keenly felt. There is tragic famine in Honan and food shortages elsewhere. Crastic inflation bears heavily on the people.

It would be strange therefore if there were not discontent among the Chinese people, probably the world's most patient. The Japanese pressure by propaganda and intrigue is more constant than the military pressure. General Chiang is fighting a battle on the home front no less masterly and heroic than that of the battlefields.

Against this background his gesture toward America and Britain is an indication of his determination to foster among his people a sense of gratitude toward and solidarity with China's allies. It seems to indicate that he at least understands why he was not invited to Casablanca, why the promised help must be so long coming, and retains his confidence that sooner or later the great power of the United States and Britain will be exerted to make all China free.

Odds-Makers Install Beau Jack As Favorite Against Zivic Tonight

Feder Takes Fritzie To Win, Though

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—It looks like the old numbers game with Beau Jack tonight, what with the merry tunes the customers are playing on Mike Jacobs' cash registers and the fancy odds the bewildered betting boys are offering against Fritzie.

On the one hand Uncle Michael is looking for a crowd of more than 15,000 of the cash contributors and a bundle of more than $50,000 in the "sock" by the time the two thumpers go to work at 9 p. m. (CWT) in Madison Square Garden.

On the other hand you have a picture of the slightly silly prize-makers, somewhat shell-shocked after going weeks without a winner, installing the Beau a 5 to 12 favorite in the morning line, for no apparent reason.

The odds appear as out-of-line as a slightly bent pretzel, especially when coming from such big-hearted boys as the bookmakers, who have been known to give away, absolutely free, such things as air (hot) and the right time.

You have it on good authority that the little negro jackrabbit from Georgia definitely will not be armed tonight. As a matter of fact, most folks believe the one-time hoodlum has more than enough natural equipment to just about chase flat-nosed Fritzie clear up into the Garden's second deck.

Fritzie is betting on himself this time. What's more, he'll have a ten-pound pull in the weights—something like 145 to 135.

As a result and in spite of the fact Jack is on a year-long winning streak, which has carried him to recognition as world lightweight champion in New York, this corner rides with Fritzie this time 'round the merry-go-round.

Six Games Scheduled For Southwest Teams

By The Associated Press
Six games are scheduled tonight and tomorrow night by southwest conference basketball teams but a couple of battles not counting in the championship standing feature the card.

The Rice Owls meet Corpus Christi Naval Air station in a series at Corpus Christi and it will be the last chance for a conference team to knock over the unbeaten Semets.

NAS has defeated Texas twice, Rice once, Texas A. and M. once and Texas Christian once and if the Comets take care of the Owls again they can claim the unofficial conference championship.

On the home from Baylor's cellar-dwelling Bears journey to Fayetteville to play runner-up Arkansas which has been beaten once—by Rice.

One other conference game is scheduled with Texas at Christian playing A. and M. at Fort Worth Saturday night. Southern Methodist engages Grand Prairie Naval Air station at Dallas. The Mustangs beat the service team last week.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Feb. 5 (AP)—West Texas State, long a claimant of the "world's tallest team" title, will have to move over and make room in the clouds this season for Valparaiso University's quintet.

The team, consisting of four freshmen and a sophomore, averaging 6-foot-6-inches and is buoyed up considerably by the Watkins brothers, Don and Wallace, of Michigan City, Ind. They have to stoop to get their 6-foot-10-inch frames under the rafters.

Tutored by Loren Ellis, just two years out of the high school coaching ranks, the Crusaders have won 12 of their 16 games with a 59% average.

Birmingham Buys Entire Ball Club

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 5 (AP)—The Birmingham Barons of the Southern Association bought a whole ball club today to help relieve the shortage of manpower on their roster.

President Paul Florence announced the entire roster of 23 men of the Anniston, Ala., team of the Southern league had become his property.

Florence does not yet know how many of the 23 are in the armed forces, or how many will report for practice next month.

Regional Basketball Tournaments Planned

AUSTIN, Feb. 5 (AP)—With district play in conference a schoolboy basketball ending Feb. 15, the University of Texas interscholastic league today announced new emergency regional executive committees would be set up throughout the state to supervise regional tournaments.

Regional committees will consist of the superintendent or principal from each of the four district winners in the district, R. J. Kidd, university league athletic director, disclosed.

Regional winners will be eligible to compete in the state basketball tournament here March 4-6.

Boxing Instructor Enters State Meel

LUBBOCK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Private George Nutter, 30, of the South Plains army flying school, spent half his life boxing and training boxers at Great Falls, Montana. Several of his proteges won state championships and better.

But it had been five years since he entered a tournament himself. George said he didn't much like to tackle his own pupils, mostly featherweights like himself. Too much faith in his own coaching, he joked.

But he got a chance to practice unorthodox, his own precepts when he won the district golden gloves title here and earned a crack at the state championship.

District 2-A Playoff Opens

Special to The NEWS.
WHITE DEER, Feb. 5 (AP)—Playoff for the north half of district 2-A, Interscholastic League basketball, will be held in the White Deer High school gymnasium today.

The winner of the round-robin play will meet the winner of the south half of the district next week to determine the district championship.

Three teams will be entered. The first game was played this morning between Perryton and Canadian. At 3 o'clock this afternoon, White Deer and Perryton were to play, and at 8 o'clock tonight, White Deer will meet Canadian.

J. C. Knowles of Berger is the referee. Admission to each of the games will be 10 and 25 cents.

Previous scores indicate that Perryton has a slight edge over the other teams, since the Rangers beat Canadian by a large margin in two games, while the White Deer Bucks barely nosed out the Wildcats in their two tilts.

3 simple ways

TO GET THE MOST LIGHT FROM YOUR LAMPS ...and help your eyesight, too!

Here are three simple and economical ways to get more light from your electric table and floor lamps. Follow these suggestions, and you'll help your eyesight, too.

1. Keep lamps clean ... dust free
Reflector bowls and lamp bulbs gather more dust than you think. The dust collected on them in from one to three months can deprive you of much of the light your eyes need. Cleaning them with a damp rag, or washing will give you from 25% to 30% more light. Remove bulbs and reflector bowls before washing or cleaning with damp rag.

2. Replace dark shades
If your lamps have dark shades or shades now turned yellow inside, you are losing light that your eyes need for easier seeing, less eyestrain. You may be losing as much as 50%! Clean them regularly, or if they're too dark, replace them with fresh shades, and you'll get a lot more light. (Even light-colored silk shades will give you more light if brushed weekly.)

3. Place lamps to make light more useful
Put them where they give eyes most help. Often, two or more of the family can use the same lamp when furniture is properly arranged. (One suggestion is shown above.) And don't get too far away from the lamp; a difference of twelve inches can cut your light as much as 50%.

Save Metal by having Appliances Repaired
Lamps and other electric appliances should be made to last for the duration of the war, if possible, so that vital metals can be conserved.
Make your electric appliances as good as new. Take them to an Electric Shop today for repairs.

SERIAL STORY

THE TERRIBLE EYE

BY EDWIN RUTT

CHAPTER I

THE living-room in the converted barn was dark, save for an occasional electric-blue spark that crackled along a set of coils. The coils were attached to a large ominous-looking machine standing against the far wall. Only the mere outlines of this machine were visible in the gloom. And the shadowy figures of Jonah Logan and Mahoney, moving restlessly about the room, lent a sinister touch. It was as though a couple of the baser conspirators had foregathered in a chamber of horrors. Jonah Logan stopped prowling to light a cigaret. The flare of the match revealed an open, slightly-humorous face, notable for gray eyes and a wide mouth that crinkled at the corners. The sudden illumination also revealed an ordinary movie screen designed for home use.

Illustrated by George Scarbo

"You know, Mahoney," Jonah said, in a kind of awed whisper, "the possibilities of this thing are so vast, so tremendous, that sometimes it almost scares me."

"I detected no sense of the magnitude and—er—sweeping consequences of this invention. And yet, Mahoney, you now enjoy an odd distinction. You, Mahoney, are one of the two men alive who can see the Battle of Waterloo. Just as it was fought."

up from the low hills on each side of the valley. And, with startling abruptness, a great company of horsemen, light gleaming off drawn sabers, off epaulettes, off the metalwork of bristles, poured down the slope in the foreground. They charged in a swift-moving mass across the uneven terrain of the valley. And from the farm, and the wood around it, arose other white puffs, like cotton balls tossed into the air by unseen children.

"Gosh," Mahoney exclaimed. "That ain't a bad picture!"

"Not a bad picture?" There was annoyance in Jonah's voice. "Why, man, it's super-colossal."

"Okay," said Mahoney. "I says it was swell."

"Yes, but I detected no sense of the magnitude and—er—sweeping consequences of this invention. And yet, Mahoney, you now enjoy an odd distinction."

"You," said Jonah solemnly. "You, Mahoney, are one of the two men alive who can see the Battle of Waterloo. Just as it was fought."

THERE was an impressive silence. "Well, what do you know?" Mahoney said, at last.

Jonah, apparently satisfied, shut off the machine. "No use wasting power. It's working perfectly. But I sure wish that Henry L. Channing was here tonight."

"Look, Chief," said Mahoney. "I'm only your assistant. But darn if I can make sense out of us comin' in up here to Connecticut, Juggin' all our junk an' hikin' this—this shakedown. He swept a disgusted hand over the converted barn."

"I've told you," said Jonah irritably, "that we came because I can't get an interview with Henry L. Channing in New York. I've written him about 25 letters. And all I've gotten in reply are formal notes, from secretaries. I quote from one, typical of all: 'If you will state your reasons for desiring an interview, Mr. Channing will take the matter under advisement.' How do you like that?"

"Well, why didn't you state your reasons?"

U. S. Capture Of Sened Told By Army Writer

(Editor's Note: James A. Burchard, former New York newspaperman now on the staff of the army publication stars and stripes, describes the American capture of Sened in the following dispatch written for the Associated Press.)

By JAMES A. BURCHARD SOMEWHERE ON THE TUNISIAN FRONT, Feb. 2 (Delayed) (AP)—At 5:30 a. m. today a tremendous column of medium and light tanks, heavily armored half tracks, motorized infantry and all the rest that goes with an armored outfit roared eastward.

At 4:40 p. m. this formidable force had advanced 20 miles and captured Sened, its first objective. In plain language, all hell had broken loose—with the Americans dishing out the fire and brimstone.

I saw the opening of the battle for Sened and a nearby motorcycle seat in the first reconnaissance car of the column with Sgt. William Wilbur of Manning, S. C., and five men of his command. We really got where the shell and shot were Nine Stukas plastered us. Six Messerschmitt 109's strafed everything in sight. Artillery, mortars and machine-guns of surprising strength were opened up in an effort to halt the American sledgehammer.

They delayed it admittedly, but before the day's fun in this mountain-rimmed valley was over the German and Italian had lost their town, five tanks and plenty of men and supplies.

The air action started when we were still six miles from Sened. Messerschmitts blew up one American scout car and a nearby motorcycle was wounded. A half-track went up in flames. Another on reconnaissance had three casualties.

One of these, a sergeant, kept working his 50 caliber machine-gun despite a shrapnel wound in his left foot.

As we took up a position two miles from Sened, enemy artillery and mortars concentrated on small companies scouting along the foothills. The Americans replied with machine-gun fire and for more than an hour great quantities of lead whistled over the landscape.

Two heavily-laden camels plodded unceremoniously up a nearby mountain ridge.

Suddenly our platoon radio warned us to move back half a mile because our artillery was opening fire. As we moved, nine Stukas rained their bombs, flattened out and whizzed over the mountains.

There were casualties from that Stuka surprise, but a few moments later the first machine-gun from an American 105's started landing exactly where they would do the most good. The enemy guns fell silent.

Two more Messerschmitts came over, but to our flanking tanks they might have been nothing more than bumblebees.

At 3:30 p. m. came the signal to attack. Our medium tanks rumbled forward. In 70 minutes our first mission was accomplished—Sened was in our hands.

Considering the scope of the operation and the men involved, our losses were light. American tank crews, most of them under fire for the first time, worked like veterans.

When I left they were saying "on to Maknassy," and others were paraphrasing "marching through Georgia" with the words "from Maknassy to the sea."

The most active volcano in Europe, Stromboli, rises more than 3,000 feet above the Mediterranean sea and is eight miles in circumference at its base.

American Food Aids Russians

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard told the house foreign affairs committee yesterday that American food is keeping Russia in the war and contributing to the victories of the Soviet army.

"It is the men—Russian men—who are winning the all-important battle there," he said. "But if the supplies of American food which are going to these men fraction though it is of the total supply, were to be cut off tomorrow, they would almost surely have to stop fighting."

Wickard, as food administrator, testified in connection with legislation authorizing continuance of the lend-lease program for another year.

Prisoner Treatment Is Described by Head Of McLean Alien Camp

By BROWNWOOD EMERSON
Background of international law on the treatment of prisoners of war and alien civilians, called "internees," was explained by Col. Norman E. Fiske, commanding officer of the McLean alien internment camp at the regular weekly luncheon at noon Wednesday of the Pampa Rotary club at the Schneider hotel.

"There has been a great deal of mystery about this camp," the colonel said. "It has been called a 'Jap trap.' We hope it will be but we don't know yet. It is a neutral, interested for and protected the interests of Britons and Frenchmen held in Axis camps. In this connection, the colonel told of serving in such an office while in Italy. There in a mountain camp he found the British soldiers receiving the Red Cross food packages which they liked much better than the basic Italian soldier meal. The Britons would burn up the Italian rations. Meanwhile, famine gripped the country around the camp, children were starving, and when news of what the British prisoners had done was revealed, the camp commander faced what threatened to be a revolution.

Colonel Fiske asked the soldiers, who wanted both the Red Cross packages and the Italian rations, though they destroyed the latter, which they preferred. They chose the Red Cross packages, which contained canned goods, candy, tobacco, and other articles, but mainly food.

Commander On Spot
Advice of the colonel to the Englishmen was that they had better cease burning the Italian food or stand the chance of having their Red Cross packages eliminated, also. At another camp, the colonel told how the camp commander was quite proud of his woodcarving ability and how the prisoners imitated the officer. This pleased the commander so much he loaned them knives and permitted the use of other woodcarving equipment.

Upshot of it was the commander one morning found a large number of prisoners had escaped by using the knives to tunnel their way out. It is the duty of a soldier, just a prisoner, to escape if he can, and a few men, at least, are trained in how to accomplish this," the colonel said.

Being fair to prisoners and yet not being so lax as to permit escape makes the life of a camp commander a difficult one, he said. "There's no glory in it but a lot of work and responsibility."

How international law works in strange fashions, even in war time, was exemplified in a story the colonel told of the North African campaign when a bold attack by Rommel resulted in the capture of a dozen British staff officers, along with their men.

In Army 26 Years
Rommel wanted to brag about his victory and was all for packing the generals in a plane and sending it to Berlin. Italy intervened, said the action was on Italian territory, hence the prisoners belonged to Italy, not to Germany.

Somehow, the Italians made their claim good and the generals, happily for them, were sent to Rome instead.

Colonel Fiske was introduced by Walter E. Rogers. In his introductory remarks he said he had been in the army 26 years, had his first assignment in Texas, at Fort Bliss, as a cavalry officer, but had served two details on the general staff, one in the field artillery.

Concluding his speech, the colonel invited the Rotarians to visit the McLean camp after it was completed so they might understand "what it was all about." This, he said, must be done before the prisoners arrive, as after that there will be no visitors.

While the colonel gave no specific information on the camp, its size, cost, location, when it was started, when it will be completed, and how operated, his speech was good background material.

Air Base Represented
There was a score of guests attending the luncheon, along with club members. Guests were Capt. Earl A. McDowell, Q. M. C., and Capt. John T. Massingale, post engineer, Mc-sits repelled their passes with .50 caliber machine guns. There was little action on the drawn-out front lines in Tunisia, with the Germans apparently not ready to attempt to widen the corridor by which Marshal Rommel is expected to try to withdraw to the Tunisia-Bizerte area.

This corridor, averaging about 70 miles in width from Bizerte to the Mareth sea, offers the Allies a number of chances to choke off the Axis with a sudden attack toward the sea.

similar ordeal of fire in their escape from Flanders in 1940. Two Russian thrusters to or near the Okhotsk coast, further threatened the beleaguered 200,000 as the Red armies pursued the same divide-and-annihilate tactics exploited by Adolf Hitler in his early campaigns in France, the lowlands and Russia.

The German radio said Russian marines had landed on the Black Sea coast north of Novorossisk to disrupt any Axis retreat toward the Kerch peninsula for escape across the Crimean.

Further north, along the Sea of Azov, Red army headquarters said the Russians had captured Starominskaya and Kanevskaya, thus cutting every rail line the Axis Caucasian armies might have used for a retreat into Rostov.

Starominskaya is 38 miles from the Azov sea port of Yelak and about 50 miles southwest of Rostov. Soviet dispatches estimated that about 250,000 other Axis troops were entrenched behind vast fortifications at Rostov, with Red army planes closing around the base from three directions—30 miles southeast, 56 miles east and 70 miles north.

Simultaneously, London quarters declared that Germany and her allies had lost more than 1,000,000 men in the Russian campaign since last November 19 when the Red armies unleashed their great winter offensive.

Glamour Girls Accused Of Spreading Disease
PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 5 (AP)—A 200 percent increase in two months in the venereal disease rate among navy men coming to Philadelphia for recreation was reported today by Lieutenant Commander Clarence J. Buckley, venereal disease control officer at the Philadelphia navy yard.

"It isn't the prostitute but the glamour girls of 12 to 17, loose on the streets and chasing uniformed boys, spread most of the disease today," Buckley said at a regional conference on social hygiene.

"These kids with mistaken patriotism outnumber the streetwalkers ten to one."

Walker, J. R. (Bob) Posey, Raymond Allen, Roy McKernan, Clifford Braly, Frank Pope, Crawford Atkinson, and Brownwood Emerson.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—Mild recovery crept into the stock market today after most leaders had spent the greater part of the session at slightly lower levels.

Among a handful of stocks touching new 1942-43 tops were Ohio Oil, Pullman, Budd Manufacturing, and Omnibus Corp. Occasional resistance was displayed by Western Union, Great Northern, Standard Oil (N. J.), and American Smelting. Backward at intervals were U. S. Steel, Santa Fe, American Telephone, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Du Pont, Woolworth, Dow Chemical, and International Harvester.

There was a revival in Ohio Oil common stock when the company would redeem all outstanding preferred stock.

Bonds were uneven. At Chicago wheat was up 1/2 to 1 cent. Cotton, toward the front, was off 1/8 cent. to up 25 cents a bale.

Way to Make Sea Water Safe Evolved

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—One of the greatest terrors of being shipwrecked—having water, water everywhere and not a drop to drink—is on the way to being overcome by naval medical research.

Dr. A. C. Ivy of Northwestern University, director of research at the navy's new medical research institute at Bethesda, Md., said today that studies there on the problem of making salt water fit to drink by persons cast adrift in the open sea had progressed to such a point that "I think it's hopeful—absolutely."

While he said he could not disclose details of the methods under study, Dr. Ivy said ten different processes were being tested—either mechanical, chemical, electrical, or heat-emulating.

"Our aim," he said, "is to perfect a process under which the equipment won't be too weighty, or take up too much space, for we must think of persons being cast adrift, say, on a rubber raft."

Teacher Ordered to Pay For Boy's Injuries

HARTFORD, Conn., Feb. 5 (AP)—Two years ago while punishing 10-year-old Donald Galway at his school in Fairfield, Harry D. Williamson, the 200-pound principal, knelt and used the boy in an effort to restrain him.

Superior Court Judge Patrick B. O'Sullivan, awarding young Galway $9,140.57 yesterday in a suit against Williamson for injuries, held that while it was a pupil's duty to "submit to reasonable discipline" he need not do so "with the air of a Saint Cecilia while being crushed under the weight of a 200-pound schoolmaster."

The boy suffered a spine injury, should have at least a 3x4-foot writing surface. A library table would also be appreciated. Those with tables of the type needed to donate are asked to call C. P. Pursey, 211 N. Ballard, telephone 113. If possible they should bring the articles to the N. Ballard address.

Field Instead Of Port Raided By Our Planes

By OLEN CLEMENTS
GUADALCANAL, Jan. 28 (Delayed) (AP)—A delayed start on a bombing mission against the northern Solomons today may have given a reprieve to enemy shipping in short-land harbor but it brought unscheduled destruction to Kahili air-drome on neighboring Bougainville island.

The raid, which was staged at dusk, was made by a group of Flying Fortresses in command of Major George Howard, San Antonio, Tex.

"We started out to hit shipping in Shortland harbor but got there too late," Howard said. "So we hit Kahili instead. Fires were started in revetments, and gunners on several ships saw them blazing for 20 minutes after we had dropped our bombs and got away."

Several Zeros hopped the big bombers but caused no damage. The Kahili expedition was only one phase of a busy day's program for American airmen in this zone. Earlier in the day dive bombers scored hits on a Japanese destroyer and tanker between Choiseul island and the New Georgia group in the central Solomons. Capt. John Nislen of Oklahoma City and Lieut. Bruce Erwin of Fort Worth, Tex., reported both the tanker and destroyer were afire and the dive bombers were still working on them.

Nislen and Erwin reported also that Marauder medium bombers started fires in an attack on Vila plantation, Kolombangara island, where the Japanese recently established a new airport.

Pilots accompanying Major Howard in the Kahili raid included: Lieut. James Price, Bishop, Tex. BUY VICTORY BONDS

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"I was just tellin' my brother Fred this morning, Judge...there's never been a time in our lives when we got to live up to that old sayin' 'United we stand, divided we fall' more than we have to today."

"How true that is, Herb. And for the life of me, I can't figure out why, at a time like this, some folks insist on raising a question like prohibition. I can't imagine anything that would tickle our enemies more than to get us folks over here taking sides against each other, arguing about an issue like that. We've got a he-man's job on our hands to win this war and we can't be wasting our minds, our money and our strength fighting about something we tried for nearly 14 years and found couldn't work."

"I say there's a time and a place for everything, and this is no time or place to be doing any fightin' except the kind that's going to win the war."
