Temperature Dips To 1 Above In Pampa

More Snow Is Forecast For Tonight

Pampa was the coldest city in Texas today with the temperature registering 1 degree above zero early this afternoon, dropping one degree from the temperature recorded at 9 a. m. and two degrees from the week-end minimum of 3 above.

A flurry of snow struck the Pampa area early this morning, and it was snowing heavily this afternoon. The weather was too cold for any heavy fall.

Continued cold with occasional snow in the Panhandle and South Plains was the forecast for this area this afternoon and tonight.

The new low of the year for Pampa followed the record made a year ago, on January 4, 1942, when the temperature dipped to a low of 9 degrees below zero.

With the thermometer still dropping this afternoon, indications were that it would be much colder before sunset.

Pampa's temperature was two degrees lower than Amarillo's at 9:30 this morning, when Pampa reported 2 degrees, Amarillo 4, Clarendon 6, Lubbock 11. It was snowing at all four points at the time.

The 7:30 a. m. readings were Pampa 4, Amarillo 5, Clarendon 6, Lubbock 12, indicating a possible zero reading at some points during the day.

Plainview reported an eight-degree minimum, with the temperature still falling. There were flurries of snow there.

The coldest weather of the season was reported at the state capital, Austin's reading being 29 degrees at 9:30.

Minimum temperatures reported by the weather bureau up to 7:30 a. m. included: Big Spring 18; El Paso 41; Abilene 17; Houston 42; Fort Arthur 46; Corpus Christi 44; San Antonio 34; Waco 28; Fort Worth 20; Dallas 21; Galveston 47; Wichita Falls 15; Quanah 10; Midland 21.

Today's forecast was for still colder weather in the northeast and central portions of East Texas and near the upper coast, with temperatures of 16 to 22 in the north and 22 to 27 in central portion and near freezing near the upper coast tonight.

Gas pressure was reported normal again at Tyler today after a 6-inch gas line supplying the city caught fire at a leak and broke Sunday.

Aid For Small Firms Proposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—The senate small business committee today laid down five basic principles which members said would be hailed as "five commandments" by the operators of small enterprises.

They were: "Small business must be more effectively used in war production."

"Small business must be more effectively used in meeting essential civilian needs."

"Small business requires assistance in adjusting to certain war conditions."

"Small business needs better access to capital."

"If small business is to make its maximum contribution to American life, the federal government must improve its approach to small business problems."

The five points were set out in a report of the committee's activities, presented by the chairman, Senator Murray (D-Mont.).

County Judge Sherman White saying "who is that man?" of a "stranger" in county court this morning. The "stranger" was Norman C. Miller, district court stenographer, formerly of Amarillo, who exchanged posts with W. R. Frazier around the first of the year.

Price Board Gets Notice Of Changes In Milk Prices

Confusion over the new price ceilings on milk in Pampa, established in an office of price administration order announced Saturday as effective today, was partially cleared today when James B. Massa, chairman of Gray County Price and Rationing board, said that the board had today received official notice of the change.

The revised price was first announced Saturday in an Associated Press story, setting the new price level per quart for milk in Pampa at 11 1/2 cents wholesale and 13 cents retail. Former price was 14 cents a quart retail.

Dairymen here had not been notified in advance of the change—in fact, the Associated Press story preceded the notice here of the change in price of milk by the Dallas OPA office.

On this basis, one dairyman who supplies a large retail food store, sold his milk at the former price this forenoon, making the retail price at the old level.

Asked about the confusion over the new price, Chairman Massa said the answer was simply to refer to the official notice of the change received today by the board.

Pampa Furnishes Most WAVE Recruits

Pampa had the largest number of candidates sent over who were accepted of any town in the Panhandle when the WAVES applicants from navy recruiters, at which time the complete list of Pampans will be published.

There were three out of five Pampa candidates who were sworn into the WAVES, one who is listed as a SPARS recruit. The other Pampa candidate will take the tests as soon as she recovers from a cold.

Names of the Pampans are being withheld pending official notification from navy recruiters, at which time the complete list of Pampans will be published.

Reds Close In On Rostov From Three Points

The Red army today closed in on Rostov from three sides and stabbed to 118 miles of Kharkov, the all-important Donets valley base in the Ukraine from which the Germans launched their whole 1942 summer and fall drive into the Don bend and the Caucasus.

The Russians triumphantly announced steady gains on the whole eastern front from the Velikie Laki region to the heart of the Caucasus.

Highlighting the new advances were the crossing of the Donets, last natural barrier to Rostov, and the swift new thrust toward Kharkov from Voronezh. The Donets was reported crossed some 12 miles southeast of Kamensk and 85 miles northeast of Rostov.

South of this salient another Russian force held its striking position only 60 miles east of Rostov, and in the northern Caucasus a third army pushed down the Tikhoretsk-Novosisk rail line just 23 miles short of Salsk, railway center 100 miles northeast of Rostov.

The Russians said their forces were fighting in the streets with the Axis garrison of another large town in the north Caucasus. It was not otherwise identified.

Pledging to wipe out the last of the German troops in the death pocket before Stalingrad, the Russians continued methodical attacks on the encircled force which they estimated already had been whittled down to 50,000 survivors from an original 22 divisions of 320,000 troops.

The mid-day communique said 1,000 more of the trapped Germans had been killed and 850 captured, and declared that the last German foothold on the Volga banks around Stalingrad had been wiped out.

Perspiration hurts many fibers. Women who formerly did not notice it's stains under the arms of their dresses may find them now, if they

Clothes Men Like Tops List Of Spring Collection Of Hollywood Designer

By DEE LOWRANCE
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD. — Monica, that titian-haired young designer who makes headline fashion news out of these parts, has done it again. She is celebrating her first year of designing with a collection of spring styles which are not only outstanding among wholesale offerings on the west coast, but hold their own with eastern fashions, too.

Monica's new collection is markedly feminine — the sort of styles that men like, admire aloud, and that women prize for audacity. In a year where fabric shortages are on every breath, where WPB rules have set the silhouette, Monica has given further proof of her ingenuity.

Her day and dinner dresses are well within regulations, she even anticipated them last year, when she presented her first group of models, after quitting custom designing for Hollywood's stars in favor of creating for the greater and, to her, more important American public.

The materials she is using are mainly imported — or the better products of our own mills. Most are confined to her use — you won't find them elsewhere. Her colors, too, are her very own. She mixes them on her palette and has them dyed to order. Beiges, eggshells, neutrals are tints she is especially sponsoring. She accents these by other tones.

Her prints — all her very own designs translated to cloth — have a flair seldom found in prints. The quick exchange of blows demonstrated simultaneously Britain's confidence in her growing air might and the increased strength of her home defenses, which limited the damage inflicted in the London area to a fraction of the havoc created in Berlin.

While the RAF poured more explosives and incendiaries on the ruins left in Hitler's capital by four-ton "blockbusters" the previous night, comparatively few German planes succeeded in penetrating to the heart of London.

Only one bomber out of perhaps 300 which participated in the Saturday night assault on Berlin failed to return, and the British triumphantly maintained they had won the first round of the renewed "battle of the capitals."

That assault was the first on the German capital since the night of Nov. 7, 1941, and was characterized as the heaviest to which the city ever had been subjected by British raiders.

Pay-As-You-Go Tax Bill Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Members of the house ways and means committee are considering a plan to push through a pay-as-you-go income tax act by March 15 by separating this feature from other tax legislation and limiting hearings on the subject.

Rep. Knutson (R-Minn) of the committee said he believed it would divorce pay-as-you-go consideration from the general tax problem, in the interest of speed. He expressed the opinion that the 25 committee members were agreed unanimously that "we must have a pay-as-you-go system," although he emphasized there was no agreement as to what form it should take.

Another member, Rep. Disney (D-Okla.), commented, "I think we should deal with the pay-as-you-go problem separately, put a time limit on hearings and put payments on a current basis by March 15, if humanly possible. In my opinion it is absolutely necessary."

SERIAL STORY 'I AM A MURDERER' BY MORRIS MARKEY

THE STORY: This is the story of the "perfect crime"—the murder of Cal. Wesley Hope Merritt in the library of his Long Island estate—of the events leading up to it. Cynthia, the Colonel's daughter, has just told the story of her life to Yaghu, a foreign correspondent and a new acquaintance—how she was taken from a California convent by the Colonel when she was 10, and how little she knows of the Colonel's life before then. Drunker returns to New York and Cynthia, who seems to be falling in love with him, John Fred West and Henry Prentiss, two astute but momentarily unsuccessful admirers, at the club dance.

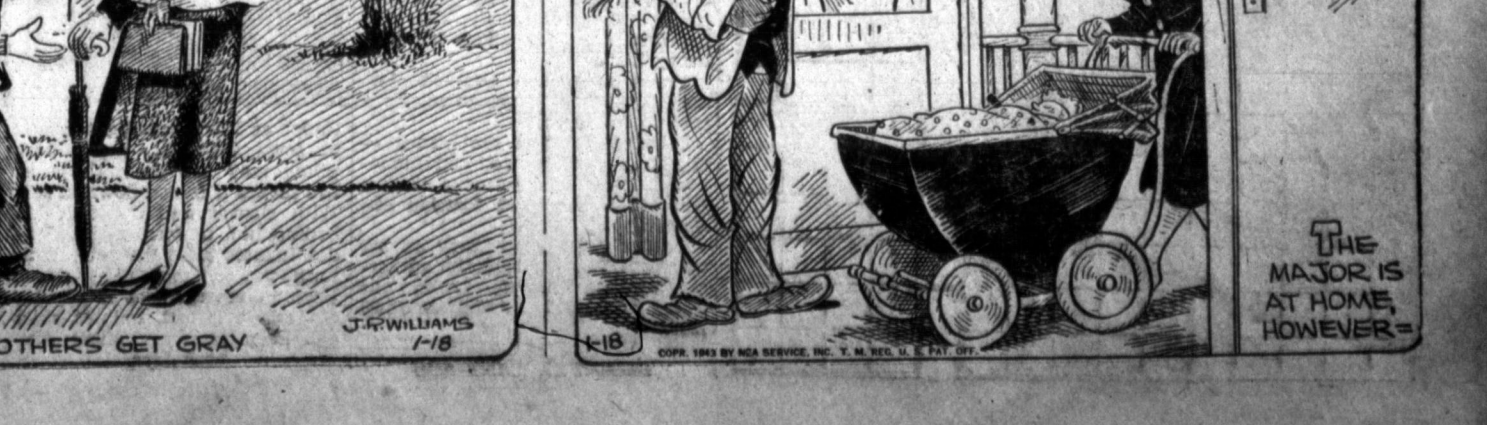

of the sound—sitting at a small iron table, in small iron chairs. "He said, even with a certain gentleness, 'I didn't mean to be rude, Miss Pretty. And I really couldn't manage the buttons.' " "Where's your Man Friday?" "Sick of a mighty bellyache, and gone to the care of a maiden aunt. It was only wanting to see you that made me come here at all." "Why want to see me?" "That is just exactly why. You never would have asked such a question last week. You're not Miss Pretty at all since His Highness showed up." "Crazier things have happened, Prentiss." "Calm yourself. Anon he shall depart, never, never, never to return. Listen, Hank, do you believe I'm the type to keep a lamp burning in the window until I'm an old, old gal, and people coming all the way from Wisconsin to see if the legend is really true?" "None. I don't like that either." "Don't like what?" "You're making fun of your own emotions. That's never any good, in any language. If you really like the guy, I'm not laughing about it. Though, personally, he sounds to me like a stuffed shirt." "I did a foolish kind of thing tonight." "What? Not you?" "Told him the story of my life." "Something I was never bold enough to inquire into." "It was funny. All of a sudden I was just spilling beans all over the place." "Well, I guess it's love, all right." "Oh, Hank..." "Look here, Prentiss. I can take it if you have fallen for this hombie. But I can't take it being the grand old pal that carries around shoulders for his lost loves to weep on. Button yourself up. You're acting like a baby and a cry-baby to boot." "Whereupon she buttoned herself up, and removed the single small tear which had escaped her eye, and allowed her common sense to take command once again. "If you think I'm going to apologize, you're crazy," she said. "If you think I'm going to swear you to secrecy, you're crazier still. The way I read all of the best books, every girl has a right to one of these damn spasms once in a lifetime." "Spoken like Miss Pretty herself." "A hardy woman, Prentiss. One of nature's iron souls."

WAAC Quota In Gray County Set

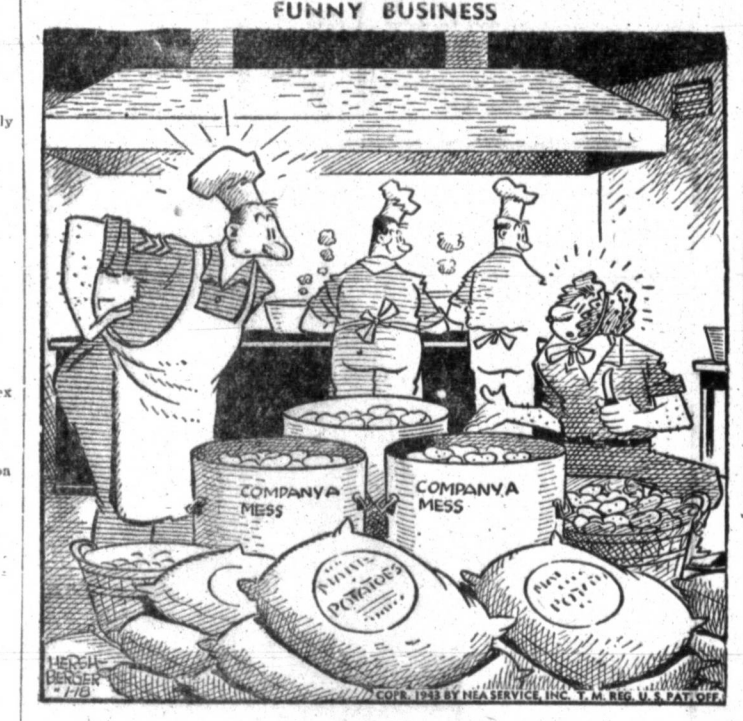

A quota of 19 has been assigned Gray county in recruiting drive set to end March 31 with the formation of a platoon of 32 women to be called the South Plains Westernettes, a unit of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. Over the West Texas district, of which Gray county is a part, the quota is 584 WAACs during January, February, and March. There are 76 counties in the district, with Lieut. Col. Marvin B. Durrette, as commander. Derivation of the name of the new platoon to be formed, the Westernettes, stems from Westerners, nickname of Lubbock High school teams. Lubbock is headquarters of the West Texas Recruiting and Induction district. Rangerettes was the name of the first platoon of WAACs, inducted last month. There were three women from Pampa who signed up in the original unit.

Marines Rescue Marist Sister

(This account by Sergeant Richard T. Veau, Marine combat correspondent of 291 Union street, San Francisco was distributed by the Associated Press.) GUADALCANAL, Solomon Islands, Dec. 12 (Delayed)—Sister Edna Bonnet, sole survivor of a Marist mission served by two priests and three sisters, left the island yesterday by plane. The 34th missionary to be evacuated since the marines landed, Sister Edna had administered to the natives for 18 years. She rode in an automobile yesterday for the first time. A jeep carried her over rutted muddy roads to the airport. The plane that took her to safety was the second one she had stepped by. The first was a Japanese Zero which strafed the village in which she had taken refuge. Last September, she left the mission at Luruvatu to visit some outlying villages. On her way home she was stopped by the natives. They told her the mission had been captured and the two priests and the two other sisters were dead. Natives then took her to their village. For three months, they nursed her through an illness which nearly took her life. On Thursday, she had regained enough strength to make the eight-mile trip on foot to the coast. A navy chaplain, Lieut. Frederick Gehring, U. S. N. R., 40 years old, whose official residence is St. Vincent's Seminary, Germantown, Pa., met her and brought her to the American base in a schooner.

Only 27 Of Original 400 In Famed 27th Group Escape Philippines

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Fighting pilots without planes—that was the 27th bombardment group in the Philippines.

They had pistols, which were not much good against Jap air attacks. And they managed machine guns and anti-aircraft guns. They supplied a detail to fly P-40s, but there weren't enough P-40s. They made up the crews for three old transport planes, operated Neilson field for the interceptor command, and drilled with rifles to make themselves useful as ground troops.

Finally, a few—27 out of more than 400—escaped to Australia, expecting to bring back the group's dive bombers which had arrived "down under." But that wasn't in the cards, either, although they did come back, at last, for a successful and satisfying raid on the Japanese in the islands.

The story of the outfit, the first complete war history of an Army Air force group, was made public today by the war department.

Only 19 survivors of the 27th are left. Most of the 400-odd were left in the Philippines and presumably are prisoners. Of the 27 who got away, eight have since been reported killed or missing in action. But the 27 who reached Australia battled the enemy in the air and won more than a score of decorations for gallantry.

The group was created in February, 1940, at Barksdale field, La., and its first commanding officer was Col. (later major general) Clarence L. Tinker, who was lost in the battle of Midway. In October 1942, group members were trained in dive-bombing and ground strafing.

The men arrived at Manila late in November, but their planes still had not arrived when the Japanese attacked the Philippines Dec. 8. "As we had no planes," one of the pilots wrote, "our main action was getting mad at the ack-ack."

"Then a telephone call came that our A-24s had arrived and were waiting at the dock. A frantic rush to the docks revealed nothing except a group of two in a hazy room that they had our telephone number!"

On Dec. 17 some officers of the group were called to headquarters and instructed to collect 30 pounds of personal baggage and report to Nichols field. There they were informed their destination was Australia. For transportation they had a C-39 cargo plane and "two dilapidated B-18 bombers," all well-ventilated with shrapnel holes.

They reached Darwin, where a flying boat picked them up and took them to Brisbane.

The men got their A-24s but Jap progress on Luzon made it impossible to take the planes to Luzon. The remnant of the 27th did take badly needed drugs to Americans on Mindanao. They went to Java, and in February sank a cruiser and a destroyer. Toward the end of February they participated in an attack on a huge Japanese invasion fleet off the east coast of Java. They fought over New Guinea and—after being reassigned to a medium bombardment group—participated in raids on the Philippines April 12 and 13.

Now flying A-20s, the surviving members of the 27th strafed the Japs along the trails of the Owen Stanley mountains of New Guinea, at Salamaua and Gasmata.

Those who escaped from the Philippines included:

Capt. Gustave M. Hicks (Silver Star), Houston, Tex.; missing in action.

Captain Henry J. Rose (Silver Star), Dallas, Texas.

Major Sergeant William H. Llewellyn, Joquini, Tex.

COYS LOSE HANDCUFFS WITH PRISONER ATTACHED

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The patrolmen knew their prisoner, arrested for disorderly conduct, had a penchant for running away so they handcuffed him before putting him in the police car. Sure enough, while they were stopped to investigate a street argument, the prisoner dashed into the night.

Before another night had passed, he came their prisoner at the police station asking that the cuffs be removed. He had filed them down so deep he couldn't file any further without cutting his wrists. The cost of the handcuffs, $15, was included in his $35 fine.

Munda Attack Is Described

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following delayed report from Norman Bell, Associated Press reporter with the fleet in the South Pacific, is a direct account of the shelling of the Japanese-held Munda airfield by U. S. Naval surface units. The action occurred Jan. 5, and was reported briefly two days later by the Navy department at Washington.

By NORMAN BELL

WITH THE U. S. FLEET IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Jan. 5 (Delayed)

—(AP)—United States warships carried the fight definitely to the Japs in the early hours of this morning by thrusting 200 miles northwest of Guadalcanal and shelling the Japanese-held air field at Munda, on New Georgia island.

With flames spurning and the crashes of naval guns punctuating the night with salvo after salvo of destruction, this action could well mark the beginning of the 1943 victory offensive predicted by Vice-Admiral William F. Halsey, commander of the fleet in the South Pacific.

Munda, as a simple reckoning from the map will show, might logically be the next step beyond Guadalcanal in pushing Hirohito's hordes from their footholds in the South Pacific.

The extent of the damage done by the shelling of Munda is not known, but it was believed that anti-aircraft batteries, set up by the Japanese in an effort to ward off repeated bomber raids by U. S. Army and Navy planes, had been demolished.

Even as the Navy shattered the silence of the tropical night with its bombardment, Army reinforcements from the South Pacific command poured ashore from transports at Guadalcanal.

With the coming of daylight the Japanese at Munda attempted to strike back at the retreating naval force but were met by carrier-based Grumman Wildcat fighters which shot down several enemy dive-bombers.

This attempted counter-blow from the air field fizzled out before it reached other United States surface units cruising near Guadalcanal, with guns manned and crews praying for battle with planes or ships—preferably the latter.

The contact turned out to be only two Japanese Kawasashi four-motored flying boats which kept well out of gun range. There was no further sign of a follow-up action.

"That ain't the way they used to be," said one gun crew member. "Maybe they don't like us anymore."

De Gaulle of the Fighting French

Gen. Charles Andre Marie de Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French, has been the symbol of liberation for France since the Nazis took over Vichy sentry sent him to death (in absentia) for carrying on the fight, but he won the support of many French colonies and the admiration of loyal Frenchmen everywhere. Now the way points to unity of his forces with those of Gen. Henri Giraud in North Africa—a solid French front against the axis.

Russian Forces, Not Weather Stop Germans

By EDDY GILMORE

WITH THE RED ARMY SOUTH-EAST OF ROSTOV, Jan. 18 (AP)—The Red army is advancing over this vast front in amazingly mild weather, disproving any theory that bitter winter temperatures may have contributed to Hitler's current Russian disaster.

Right now as we stand along the windwept Steppe road the Germans according to Lieut. Gen. Rodyon Malinowski, are showing signs of bewilderment but there are signs they may try to make a big stand on the line of the Mangel canal and the northern Donets.

I came to the Zinovki region, which is 50 miles or more toward Rostov from Kichlenok, by train and truck, crossed the Volga, and stood on the banks of the Don and it has sometimes been more of a problem to keep cool than warm.

Sheds Overcoats

It is cold, of course, but the wide, flat and monotonous Steppe stretches out here tonight beneath a Kalmeyk moon.

Dressed for sub-zero temperatures I have stood in streets of retaken towns and Cossack villages and actually shed my overcoat in what the natives say is the warmest winter since 1924 and what the Army commanders say is ideal weather for the Nazi panzers, which are not doing so well.

At the moment, big guns bang about us off to the flanks. Sometimes there is a whine of shells. The Germans are fighting back very hard and the Red army officers are frank to tell you so.

We can't tell what's going to happen but indications are that Gen. Fritz Erich Von Mannstein, German leader commanding this front, may throw in more fresh divisions and tanks to try to halt this Red army drive that is really rolling.

Down here this close to blood and bullets you learn lots of things about this war you don't know, and you go lots of places you have wanted to go.

No. U. S. Tanks

One of the highlights so far was a long, frank talk with Lieut. Gen. Malinowski in a little Cossack village. He opened up maps and talked in the warmest spirit of friendship for the U. S. and Britain.

Incidentally, no commander I have talked to has reported use of any U. S. or British tanks or planes in this drive southwest of Stalingrad, but United States-made trucks have played a big role in transport.

Between 80,000 to 100,000 Germans are surrounded in an area of about 216 square miles outside Stalingrad.

"They're just an armed prison camp," Malinowski said grimly, "and they haven't a chance."

I've talked to numerous German pilots who have been shot down trying to get supplies to this huge group. At one time they sent over about 500 planes daily, but this has dropped off to about 100 with heavy losses.

I've seen enough wrecked German tanks and planes to set up a pretty good army.

Other places you see planes abandoned by the Germans as they fled before the quick Russian onslaught.

At one place near Kasoy on my way here I saw among the gathered, wrecked German tanks, one which was marked "Midvale Steel 1918."

AMERICAN PLANES HAMMER AT NAZI LINES

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 18 (AP)—United States fighters and bombers pressed their aerial onslaught against German land and air communications today while repeated showers kept ground operations at a virtual standstill.

Lockheed Lightning P-38s shot down a pair of Junkers 52 transports returning to Sicily from Tunisia yesterday and a Junkers 88 bomber which was heading for Tunisia, it was announced.

At the same time B-25 light bombers, the North American Billy Mitchells, hammered the railroad junction at Graiba, 30 miles southwest of Sfax, with an escort of P-38s. Bombs were seen to hit the target.

A dust storm hindered further observation of the results.

The RAF said light Bixley bombers machine-gunned and bombed German transports moving supplies and troops from forts at Sfax and Tunis toward the battle front Saturday night.

The P-38s swept out over the Mediterranean to destroy the three Junkers.

Five Plane Workers Killed In Car Crash

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 18 (AP)—Five Tulsa bomber plant workers were killed today in the collision of their automobile and a Frisco passenger train at a city crossing, the state highway patrol reported.

The patrol listed the victims as: Clarence Webb, 25; A. L. Harris, age not given; Thomas A. Hill, 25; Thelma Page, 25; Alfredda Gans, age not given.

Andrew J. Maxwell, grade crossing watchman, told the patrol he stood in the path of the oncoming automobile waving a red lantern, but the driver apparently did not see the warning signal. He said he was forced to leap aside to avoid being struck by the car.

The five were on their way to the Douglas bomber plant, where they were employed. All were killed outright as the impact scattered debris along the right-of-way.

Home Building Due Next Month

Final authorization was received today by Hughes-Pitts, Inc., of Pampa, to start construction on 50 houses here under the rule that permits building of new houses in defense areas.

This means that the way is open to actual building of the houses with all preliminary "red tape" wound up. Construction is expected to begin the middle of next month.

Authorization was received by the local firm this forenoon from the war production board's Oklahoma City office and followed a business trip over the week-end by R. G. Hughes, treasurer of the concern.

There are to be 17 houses built in Hughes-Pitts addition, 13 in Benedict addition, and 20 along Duncan street.

Treasurer Hughes obtained a compromise agreement on the larger floor space area he desired, more than the federal agency favored but still not as much as the local firm wanted. Still a question is whether the authorization will grant the construction of garages along with the houses.

Each of the houses is to contain two bedrooms, a living room, bathroom, kitchen and dinette.

Defense Highway Connecting Both Alaska, Latin America, Proposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 18 (AP)—Legislation pending in the house proposes a defense highway to make a great loop in the interior of the United States, connecting with roads running to Alaska and Latin America.

The measure (HR56) doesn't specify where the defense highway would touch the Mexican border, but the author says he would have wanted the road join the inter-American highway at Laredo and that it should go through or near the important oil fields and military establishments in Texas.

Submitted on the opening day of the new congress by Representative Hare (D-SO), the bill would authorize the secretary of war to provide for the location and construction of a main highway, with auxiliary extensions.

The highway would be in two branches to be known as the east branch and the west branch, each connecting at the Mexican border.

The west branch would begin at Glacier Park, Mont., run west of the Rocky mountains, thence southeast to join the east branch at the border. Extensions would run out from the great loop to make the highway easily accessible to such cities as Boston, Pensacola, Fla., Los Angeles and Seattle.

Commenting on the legislation, Hare said in an interview that while he did not mention in the bill specifically where the proposed highway should cross the border he had in mind Laredo.

"The location of the route would be left entirely up to the secretary of war," he explained. "But it naturally should touch the border at Laredo, it also should come through such vital areas as the East Texas oil fields. It should come by, or be connected with, all major military establishments in the country."

Hare said he had long considered construction of such a highway important to the defense of the country, that it should be hard-surfaced and ready for fast use of military convoys or movement of essential supplies. He would make the highway available to the public, especially during peace time, but subject to payment of tolls.

Construction of such a highway would be a good post-war employment project, said the South Carolinaan.

"But it might be desirable to consider its construction even before the end of the war," he continued. "Who knows but what the war will continue for 5 or 10 years. If so, it could be built and come in highly useful in the prosecution of the war long before we have peace."

Bill Would Prohibit Highway Honky-Tonks

AUSTIN, Jan. 18 (AP)—Rep. Arthur Cato of Weatherford today said he aimed at outlawing highway honky-tonks in a bill filed with the house clerk, forbidding sale of liquor, beer and wine outside incorporated towns.

Cato also filed a bill which he described as setting up a "little Wagner act" in Texas.

It would establish minimum standards of a 42 hour work week at 30 cents an hour in non-agricultural pursuits, as a start, and after a year provide for a 40-hour week. After six years, the minimum wage would be 40 cents an hour.
