Racial Violence Plagues Nation Over Weekend

By United Press International
Weekend racial violence injured 17 policemen and was the apparent cause of a $250,000 fire which destroyed a citrus packing house at Riverside, Calif. A dusk-to-dawn curfew was imposed on Mullins, S.C., after rock-throwing and other violence.

In Forrest City, Ark., a racially mixed group of 150 persons met Sunday in an attempt to lessen racial tensions which have forced closing of the schools. The schools were to reopen today.

The Riverside trouble began Saturday night when two officers went to a dance hall to break up a fight. They tried to arrest one youth but others freed him. Reinforcements were called and 60 policemen responded. About 300 youths stoned police, who fired warning shots. Grass fires were set and snipers shot at police.

The outbreak subsided about 2:30 a.m. Sunday. An hour later, the Findlay Citrus Co. packing house was destroyed by a $250,000 fire which also damaged two railroad boxcars and two apartment houses.

The 7,000 residents of Mullins were ordered off the streets Sunday after windows were smashed and a warehouse destroyed by fire. A patrolman was hit with a bottle in the outbreak Saturday night. South Carolina State Police helped quell the disturbance. Fifteen Negroes were arrested.

In Atlanta, a plainclothes policeman's attempt to arrest a hippy youth who recognized him led to a confrontation in which police used tear gas against other youths who tried to free the suspect.

Police in Atlanta lobbed a dozen tear gas canisters into the crowd of hippies and loaded at least four wagons with youths. Other hippies screamed "pigs" at the police and "free our brothers" as the wagons left. Mayor Ivan Allen arrived two hours later and was told by Hippie leaders that police used clubs even on youths who did not resist. Police denied the charges.

The Forrest City meeting of 1,500 persons, called a "community service for goodwill" was held in the football stadium in the town of 15,000.

118 ABOARD.
MEXICO CITY (UPI)—A Mexican Airlines jetliner with 118 persons aboard, mostly Americans on a nonstop flight from Chicago, crashed into a swampy lakebed Sunday night and split into three pieces on an approach to International Airport here.

At least 27 persons were known dead and 80 injured, officials said today. Some of the 111 passengers and seven crew members aboard the Trijet Boeing 727 were unaccounted for.

Another Mexican Boeing 727 crashed June 4 north of Monterrey, killing all 79 aboard, including Mexican tennis star Rafael Osuna.

The Mexican Civil Aeronautics Bureau said the plane from Chicago pancaked into the Texcoco lakebed about a mile from the end of the runway while coming in for a landing. Visibility was four miles in a drizzle.

The tail section snapped off and landed about 100 yards from the fuselage. The fuselage was sheered off just behind the cockpit. The wings were broken. Rescuers had to struggle hip-deep in mud and water to bring out the dead and injured.

Green Berets' Attorney Says General Abrams Will Be Subpoenaed To Testify

SAIGON (UPI)—A New York attorney said today "there's no question" that Gen. Creighton W. Abrams would be subpoenaed to testify at the Green Beret murder trial. He said the court should be open to the public at all times.

The testimony of Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, "would be very important," said Henry B. Rothblatt who represents three of the eight special forces men involved in the case.

Drug Interception Begins Along U.S., Mexico Border

Hospital District Absentee Voting Starts Today

Absentee balloting in the Oct. 11 special Hospital District election opened today in county clerk's office on the second floor of Gray County Courthouse.

Absentee balloting will continue through Tuesday, Oct. 7, according to Gray County Clerk Charlie Thut.

Only property owners, who are registered voters are eligible to vote.

Thut said voters must sign an affidavit with a description of their property or have a street address. He said it will expedite matters, too, if voters have their registration slips with them.

The Hospital District Election was called by County Commissioners to let Gray County decide if High and General and McLean Hospitals should stay under county government or establish a hospital district and become self-governing.

Pointing out the advantages of becoming a district, County Judge S. R. Lenning Jr. said a board governing hospital administration would be elected by the people, rather than appointed.

Authorities Hope To Dry Up Narcotic Flow

By United Press International
Operation Intercept, a federal stop and search operation intended to dry up the flow of narcotics across the Mexican border into the United States produced more delays than drugs today.

Operation Intercept went into effect Sunday and was continuing. Every automobile coming into the country from Mexico was stopped by beefed-up customs staff and thoroughly searched.

Customs agents in charge at Laredo and El Paso said they had found no narcotics. Customs agents at Hidalgo refused to say whether they had intercepted any narcotics.

One woman complained at El Paso that she left home Sunday night intending to be gone 45 minutes, got caught in an inspection line at Zaragoza bridge and was stuck five hours. She had three children with her.

"That's just not true," Ray Dwigans, district customs director at El Paso, said. "The most they were held up at that bridge was about three hours."

"The motorists seem to be with us. They understand what we are trying to do, to dry this thing up so that kids won't buy marijuana with their lunch money."

"Cars were backed up about 12 blocks into Mexico Sunday but it was not as bad as I had expected," Oran Pugh, agent in charge at Laredo, said. "People are cooperative."

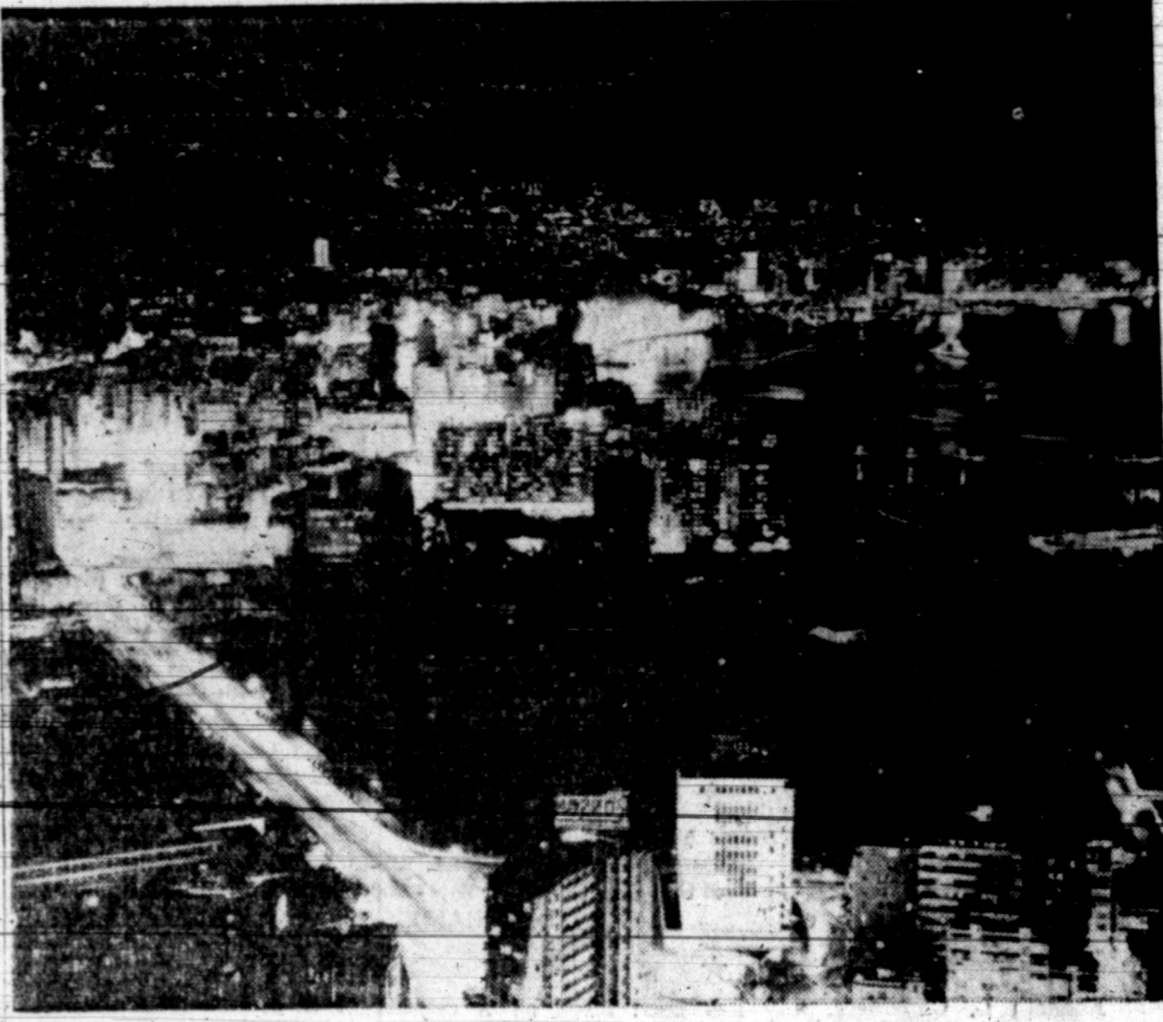

It took about 45 seconds to search most cars at Hidalgo. Cars were picked at random and given three or four minute searches. Observers at Hidalgo said no tourists being searched "did not appear too happy."

One agent at El Paso said the big pushers were not coming through because of publicity about Operation Intercept. Another said the idea of the operation primarily was to make the Mexican government crack down on marijuana growers.

A dispatch from Chihuahua State in Mexico said Mexican authorities were serious about their counterpart to Operation Intercept. The Mexicans call their project Operation-Extermination.

The dispatch said Mexican federal judicial police Friday penetrated the High Sierras around Uruac and burned 150 acres of marijuana and poppies.

They arrested plantation owners Adam and Manuel Valdez and seized 400 pounds of marijuana ready for smuggling.

B52s Drop 100 Tons Of Bombs Following Marines Withdrawal

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. B-52s today unloaded 100 tons of bombs onto targets just below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), following on the abandonment of three nearby artillery bases by U.S. Marines who are leaving the war zone.

The Leathernecks forsook fire support bases Russell, Cates and Fuller Sunday and headed south to Quang Tri and Dong Ha to join other troops from the 3rd Marine Division who are going home or to Okinawa before Dec. 15.

At Marine Headquarters in Da Nang, U.S. military sources had good news for other Leathernecks—effective, immediately, they will serve 12 months in Vietnam instead of 13. It meant going home a month early for 72,000 Marines already in the combat zone.

Phase two of President Nixon's troop cutback accelerated with the naming today of the Navy units to be pulled out by mid-December. The U.S. Command said most of the 5,000-man Navy cutback would involve Sebree construction battalions.

Despite the announcement of more men going home, U.S. spokesmen said the number of American troops in Vietnam rose by 2,200 last week to 510,000. The spokesman said it was a normal fluctuation.

Even as the cutback took shape, North Vietnamese people in attendance. This will ground fire knocked down three U.S. helicopters during an invasion of the foothills above the Que Son Valley, where fighting killed 1,000 Communist troops and 80 Americans last month.

Helicopters said the U.S. Americal Division troops battled for three hours with the dug-in guerrillas overlooking the valley of the northern coast. One GI was killed in the fighting and clashes. Nine were wounded.

The Que Son fighting followed by 14 hours a Communist attack against other Americal Division soldiers farther south. Spokesmen said 11 GIs died and 10 suffered wounds in a 45-round mortar barrage and a small arms assault at dusk Sunday.

The Leathernecks from the 3rd Marine Division, picked for withdrawal from Vietnam by Dec. 15, left fire support bases Fuller, Russell and Cates along South Vietnam's northern tier and began moving back to bigger base camps.

ON HAYNSWORTH

Four Former Justices To Present Testimony

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A Senate subcommittee plans to hear testimony from four former Supreme Court justices, possibly to ask them about conflict of interest allegations against Supreme Court nominee Clement F. Haynsworth.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., a strong supporter of Haynsworth's nomination, said the four former members of the High Court would be asked to testify about the outside activities of federal judges. He said the testimony would be intended to air the issues and find avenues for their solutions, not to interrogate any individual judge or expose specific wrongdoings.

The four asked to appear before Ervin's subcommittee on separation of powers are former Justices Stanley F. Reed, Charles E. Whittaker, Arthur J. Goldberg and Tom C. Clark. The three days of hearings were to begin Sept. 30.

Squatters Continue Battling Bobbies

LONDON (UPI)—Hippies seized another London building today in a challenge to police who had driven them from a mansion near Buckingham Palace with the help of a mobby promise of free food and medicine.

About 40 of the youths occupied a house on Russell Square, near the British Museum and London University. The house is leased by Irish University Press whose executive chairman, James McMahon, said he will try to obtain an immediate eviction order.

Amarillo Votes On City Sales Tax Today

AMARILLO (UPI)—City officials expected a light turnout today in a vote to determine if Amarillo will adopt a city sales tax.

Amarillo is the only city of 100,000 or more population in Texas that has not adopted the tax resolution. The vote was recommended last Wednesday by a revenue study committee composed of 200 people. Without the sales tax the city faces a $13 million loss in 1970-71. There was no opposition to the sales tax until last week when one of the three Amarillo television stations opposed it. Only 200 absentee ballots were cast as compared to 1,600 in April for the city-commission election which drew a record of more than 27,000 voters.

Girl Scouts Contribute Many Hours Of Humanitarian Service

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of articles concerning the work of the United Fund's participating agencies.)

Busy fingers stitched tiny dresses for Salvation Army dolls. Strong arms taught camping skills to enthusiastic youngsters. Other hands stuffed envelopes for the Tuberculosis Drive.

Young hearts and hands and minds are encouraged to reach out and help others in the program that is Girl Scouting. Senior Troop Two under the leadership of Mrs. J. P. Brumley contributed many hundreds of hours of service in Pampa last year.

These lively, vivacious Senior Scouts worked on a number of projects. They dressed dolls for the Salvation Army, taught camping skills to younger Girl Scouts, stuffed envelopes for both Scouts, stuffed envelopes for sorted and aged clothes for the Welfare Index, and served at both Established Camp and Day Camp. They completely organized the Brownie Holiday.

In talking about their various projects, the Senior Scouts feel that service to the community was time well spent.

"The main thing is that it is a great opportunity to work with other people and understand their problems," said Linda Brumley. "Teaching and working with younger girls is rewarding. When they learn a skill from you, you feel like you have accomplished something," she said.

Senior Scout Eva Whiteley said, "As you get older, helping others means more to you. The full force of problems you encounter broaden your understanding of life."

"I guess one of the important things about service work is learning to get along with others. I've enjoyed it; it was lots of fun for me," said Susie Stowers.

It is quite a remarkable achievement for girls in high school to have accomplished all the service projects last year. Besides keeping up their grades, several members of the troop have served as class officers, student council members, and choir and band members.

"With all these activities and demands on their time, it is a genuine effort on the part of these girls to do this service work," said their leader Mrs. J. P. Brumley.

These cheerful, attractive, and enthusiastic young women represent only one group of 1500 Girl Scouts in the Quivira Council. The four levels of scouting are Brownie, Cadette, Junior and Senior.

Girl Scouting opens doors to good times and maturity to girls from 7 to 17. Each girl is given the opportunity to live up to her highest abilities in exploring the three worlds of the arts, the home, and the outdoors.

Girl Scouting gives a girl practical skills in the world of the home. Girls learn to do such things as make a bed, cook a meal, and set a table.

As Girl Scouts encounter the world of the arts they are exposed to a variety of experiences in music, theatre, the dance, and crafts.

In meeting the challenges of the out-of-doors, Girl Scouts learn to conserve nature and appreciate its beauty. They may become accomplished campers with all the practical skills for family camping trips at their command.

But, Girl Scouting is deeper than all the fun times, new friends, valuable skills, and service to others. The entire program is set in the framework of the Girl Scout Promise and Laws. This ethical code of laws gives a girl a sense of values that she may make critical judgements that enable her to live in harmony with our society.

Such a program for guiding and growing great girls is of inestimable value to Pampa. Your support of the United Fund will make the continuation of this Girl Scout program possible.

 captains and about 120 solicitors or workers.

Duncan said today "These workers are really the most important part of the entire operation in that if each of them doesn't do his or her own job and do it successfully, the entire mission will fail." He also went on to say that there hadn't been a mission failure yet and that he certainly had no intention of anything but success.

This year the total goal of the United Good Neighbor Campaign is $60,000, the highest ever in Pampa. The increase in the goal is due in part to the severity of hurricane Camille, to which $3,000 has been directed by United Fund officials, but the rest of the goal stays almost 100 per cent in Pampa.

Agencies participating in the United Fund here in Pampa include the USO, Pampa Milk Fund, Pampa Welfare Index, Texas Medical Research Foundation, Gonzales Warm Springs Rehabilitation Center, Salvation Army, Red Cross and Local chapters or councils of the Boy and Girl Scouts of America.

Gala Event Set Of Optimists' Installation

Pampa Optimist and Optimist Clubs will have a joint installation of new officers at a 7 p.m. dinner meeting Saturday in the Optimist Eoy's Club. Guest installation officers will be Allen Clark of Amarillo, lieutenant governor of Zone D for the new Optimist officers and Mrs. Dudley Steele of Pampa for Opt-Mrs. Club officers.

Among the dignitaries expected to attend is Gov. Bill Howard of Fort Worth, North Texas District governor. Jim Hughes will be master of ceremonies. Guest speaker will be Spencer Mayes of Graham, who describes himself as "Private Mayes, Hero, World War I."

Wearing the olive drab uniform he wore home from Germany in 1919 (now a bit snug in the middle) Mayes creates a laugh-riot with his "blow by blow" description of how he led a charge of eight doughboys over the top in an attack on German lines.

As the story goes, if Mayes had not stopped to scratch a cootie the entire unit would have been annihilated. Hence, a hero was born. Mayes presented the act in 1942 for the Graham Rotary Club and now 25 years later after many repeat performances is putting on the same act.

By HELEN THOMAS
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dwight D. Eisenhower's golfing cleat marks on the presidential Oval Office floor will become a part of the historical memorabilia at the Smithsonian Institution or this library at Abilene, Kans.

President Nixon's office has been refurbished and the old wooden floor has been replaced with a replica of the parquet floor at Thomas Jefferson's Monticello.

Nixon used to fondly point out the marks on the floor left by his Republican presidential idol in the fifties.

An unveiling of the President's newly decorated office is expected soon. The colors, fabrics and new layout, executed under the direction of Sarah York interior designer Sarah Jackson Doyle, has been kept secret.

Nixon is very fastidious about his surroundings and has been very much personally involved in making selections in furnishings. On that score he is very much like two predecessors—Lyndon B. Johnson and John F. Kennedy, both of whom were decisive in how they wanted their much-photographed office to look.

Like Johnson, Nixon likes a cleanly swept desk. He has only a few mementos and his papers are in neat manila folders. He also has prominently displayed photographs of his daughters.

Johnson showed the same pride in his family and of course grandson, Patrick Lyndon Nugent.

But unlike many of his predecessors, Nixon and his family will spend Christmas in the White House. The Nixons have a sentimental attachment to their first Christmas in the presidency.

A day or so later, however, the President and his family are expected to fly to California for a holiday sojourn at the Western White House.

1970 CHRYSLER

New Chryslers Quieter Riding

The 1970 line of Chrysler cars feature major improvements to the suspension system which significantly reduce road noise and vibration. The 13-model line goes on sale Sept. 23.

The completely new styling which appeared on the 1969 Chryslers has been refined with changes centering mainly on the front and rear of the cars and new body-side ornamentation which is distinctive for each of the five series: Newport, Newport Custom, 300, Newport, and Town and Country wagons.

"We have accentuated the basic good looks of Chrysler through styling refinements and have further developed mechanical aspects which make the car quieter and more luxurious," Glenn E. White, Chrysler-Plymouth Division General Manager, said.

The reduction in road noise and vibration has been accomplished through the installation of rubber insulators in the suspension system to eliminate continuous metallic paths for the transmission of noise and vibration to the body. The insulators separate the front frame structure from the passenger compartment and mount the rear axle and springs in a rubber "sandwich."

Working in conjunction with these changes are forward body reinforcements to insure a shake-free feel, a rubber coupling added to the steering column to prevent transmission of vibration to the steering wheel, and additional sound insulation to the rear seat and shelf panel area to further reduce noise in the passenger compartment.

The noise and vibration isolation system is standard on all models except convertibles and station wagons.

New grilles, a new full loop rear bumper, rear deck, and associated body panels significantly update front and rear end appearance. The massive full loop front bumper is retained.

Nyet To Global War
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban says that while the Soviets are supporting the Arabs in their dispute with Israel, "My feeling is they don't want a regional war to turn into a global war."

Appearing on a television show (Face the Nation—CBS) Sunday, Eban said the Big Four powers could best promote peace in the region not by getting involved themselves in a settlement but convincing the parties involved to settle their own differences.

Opposite Poles
 PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Councilman Joseph Zazyecny criticized the Philadelphia 1976 Bicentennial Corp. Thursday because it had no Polish-Americans on its board of directors.

Councilman John B. Kelly Jr. president of the corporation, informed Zazyecny that former councilman Leon Kolankiewicz, a Polish-American, was a corporation director.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 23, 1969
Your birthday Tuesday: This year the Sun changes from Virgo to Libra in the tropical zodiac at 1:07 A.M. (EST) Tuesday. In other years the change has been at different hours, occasionally on the day before or the day after depending on the year and the astronomical facts of the time. The year ahead of today's Virgoans is complex and involves basic change of career; for Librans born today the year is much smoother with the changes focused more on personal life.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): It is wiser not to telegraph intentions Tuesday. Work from the protection of institutions, physical or symbolic. A search will reveal facts which can be turned into cash.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Cultivate your friends and associates. Offer an apology where you feel it might be appropriate from the other fellow's view and proceed. Observe your regular health care activities rigorously.

GEMINI (March 21-June 30): Tidy up the loose ends, push directly through the day's work without becoming involved in side issues. Older people will help with details of neglected matters.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Self-improvement programs and progress concern you most Tuesday. The challenge is to find the time and energy to change yourself from within while carrying on the routines. Celebrate your success a bit at night.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The chances are that you are attempting too much change and improvement in too short a time. Strike a balance with mate or partner to avoid future distress.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Settle any imbalance in your relations with those you care about. Opportunity is strongly favored. Distant conditions must be taken into account in your commitments.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your ability to see both sides of everything serves to an excellent degree now. Begin to follow a more independent course. It is your responsibility to make sure it is really independent instead of merely different from conformity.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Life is pleasant enough Tuesday, with a chance to advance the welfare of mate and associates while doing well for yourself. Avoid haste, concentrate on details of creative quality. Serious study is suggested for the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): The morning finds you at odds with yourself over some casual thing; your unconscious conflicts do not permit simple acceptance of your own deed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Attend the affairs of all those who depend on you for advice and guidance. Daily routines promise to be just that, no large demands or problems.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Confidential matters come to your attention and require early solutions. Home improvements are favored, no matter at what level, so see what you can do.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Your friends all have too many ideas about money and how to invest it. Your social needs bring more people into your life as time goes on, including occasional individuals who do not see life in your terms at all.

Two or more servings of protein foods are needed every day to maintain an adequate diet.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter from "Fat Man's Wife," because I'm a fat man. I'm 20 years old, 6 feet tall, and weigh 285 pounds.

Your contention that "there are a lot of fat men who haven't suffered any loss of love" is ridiculous.

I haven't had a date in months and I don't blame any girl for finding me repulsive. But it's a vicious circle, because feeling unloved, I eat more and more, and get fatter and fatter.

I've been told that I'm intelligent, have a good personality, a good sense of humor, and it's only my bulk that keeps the girls away.

So, Abby, you are wrong, and here is one fat man to prove it.

FATSO
DEAR FATSO: There are no statistics available on the amount of loving one gets in relation to his weight, but I do know that not all fat men (or fat women) are "repulsive" to the opposite sex.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's grandmother is a dear little lady of 79, and my problem is that she loves to sew. I only wish she knew how.

She insists on making things for Tammy, my four-year-old daughter, and Abby, some of those creations are pretty awful. I don't know where she finds the material, and she must use patterns from 1922.

Also her workmanship leaves much to be desired. (Crooked collars and button holes so large that nothing stays buttoned. She doesn't "finish" a hem - she just hacks off the bottom with a pinkie shears).

She keeps asking me, "Why doesn't Tammy ever wear that little dress I made for her?" I keep saying, "Oh, it's too nice, Nana. She's saving it for a special occasion." I hate to lie. But what can I do?

IN A PICKLE
DEAR IN: Have Tammy wear one of Nana's "creations" when you visit

Nana - or when Nana visits you. That's not much of a sacrifice considering the pleasure it would give an elderly lady.

DEAR ABBY: Please try to make this letter good enough to use in your column. It's a message on behalf of all the adopted kids in this country.

Dear Adults: Please, please give us a chance. Why do some of you keep remarking about how we are bound to turn out "bad" like our unloved mothers? I am 16 and I am proud to say that I'm adopted.

To all parents who have adopted children: We love you. You are our real parents. Everything we learn, we learn from you. All we inherit from our other parents are our looks, but you make us what we are. It's you and your friends we watch and try to be like.

How could any mother look at a tiny infant and think she may turn out "bad" because of a mistake made by a man and woman that child never even knew?

And to those people who think you can inherit a bad character, how do you account for the minister's child who goes to prison for rape? Or the police chief's daughter who gets hooked on drugs? Inebriation? I don't think so.

Please, give us adopted kids a chance. God bless you, Abby.

1970 PLYMOUTH FURY

New Models, Styling For Fury

Substantial improvements in styling and the addition of two new top-of-the-line models are features of the 1970 Plymouth Fury line, which goes on sale September 23.

The Fury line has been restyled front and rear to give all models a more massive appearance. There are full-loop bumpers which encircle the horizontally-designed grille and the taillamps.

The new models are in the Sport Fury series: the sporty S-23 and the GT, which adds a high performance model to Plymouth's standard-size line.

"We've spared no effort in creating the 1970 Fury," Glenn E. White, Chrysler-Plymouth general manager, said. "The car is an exceptional value, and we are very optimistic about its potential for the new model year."

The front and rear styling changes greatly enhance the inherent strengths of the aerodynamic body styling theme," he said. "Fury for 1970 offers a long, wide, lean freshness and boldness in the true big car context."

The Fury is 214.9 inches long overall, up four-tenths of an inch from last year. Its wheelbase remains at 120 inches. A new wider rear track of 62 inches complements the integrated loop bumper rear styling.

The Fury interior features the highest style level and more trim options than ever before available.

The Sport Fury series is expanded to include four-door sedans and hardtops in addition to the two-door hardtops.

The exterior ornamentation and the interior trim and appointments achieve a readily discernible differentiation for the Sport Fury from the Fury I, Fury II, and high volume Fury III lines.

Four body styles are available in the Sport Fury series—two-door hardtop, two-door formal hardtop, four-door sedan, and four-door hardtop.

The Sport Fury features concealed headlights and a special grille, premium tail lamps and a vinyl rub strip on the body side. The interior is luxurious and offers such standard features as premium door trim panels with carpeting, wood grain, and puff padding highlights, and a contour back bench seat with center arm rest in choice of all-vinyl or cloth and vinyl.

Optional individual bucket seats are available in the two-door, and for the first time, in the four-door hardtops with choice of combination fixed center seat and folding arm rest, or wood grained center console with a floor mounted shifter.

Major emphasis for the Sport Fury series is placed on the availability of the two new models and an optional package which create special versions of Sport Fury, and are directed at the specific interests of certain kinds of buyers.

The new Sport Fury S-23 model offers sporty exterior features such as a new "strobe" stripe and rallye wheels.

For the performance-oriented buyer, the new Sport Fury GT brings high-performance into a full size Ford car. The GT includes similar exterior treatment as the S-23, however, its emphasis is primarily on performance equipment and increased identity with exhaust tips and 170 x 15 wide lettered tires.

The standard engine is the powerful 440-cubic-inch four-barrel, rated at 350 horsepower. In addition, a new high output 440-cubic-inch, six-barrel engine rated at 390 horsepower is optional.

All Sport Fury GT's have a heavy duty suspension package, free flow exhaust systems with four exhaust tips, and high performance 170 x 15 wide tread fiberglass belted tires with raised white side letters.

The optional Brougham package makes Sport Fury one of the luxury leaders in its class. The Brougham four-door has a 50-50 split bench front seat with two individual arm rests, individual adjustment of passenger and driver's seats with a recliner on the passenger seat.

The two-door carries individual Brougham buckets with a combination fixed center seat and folding arm rest.

Road noise in all Furies is reduced by the addition of silencing barriers in the rear pillar, shelf and seat areas.

Fury III offers the widest body model choice—two-door sport hardtop, two-door formal hardtop, two-door convertible, four-door sedan, and four-door hardtop.

The Fury line has seven possible interior colors to harmonize with eighteen available exterior selections. There are six vinyl roof color choices in three different grades—tortoise grain, gator grain, and board grain.

The premium Sport Suburban wagon features concealed headlights and a special grille. A cloth and vinyl bench seat is available in Sport Suburban models in 1970.

The 122-inch wheelbase wagons, which last year introduced the industry's first effective rear air deflector to keep the rear window clean, have rear seat radio speakers available for the first time.

Television In Review

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The withdrawal of a cigarette sponsor from Debbie Reynolds' new NBC-TV series was virtually a foregone conclusion after she protested its commercial on her debut last week.

Once she vented her feelings Wednesday—and quit the series for a day over use of a cigarette advertisement—there was little the sponsor, American Brands, could do but withdraw.

After all, from a business standpoint, it would be rather absurd to continue sponsoring a show after its star has disapproved of your product, resulting in widespread negative publicity. At any rate, the cancellation by American Brands, parent company of American Tobacco, was announced Friday.

The firm was one of several alternating sponsors. And although replacement advertisers are available, the cancellation figures to hurt financially some of those involved in a major way in the show.

Reason: When the series was first offered to advertisers, the network and production company were in the driver's seat. Now there is, in effect, a rush sale in midseason (10 shows are shot, and budgets set up).

Translation: Buyer's Market. Amid the fuss over the sponsor withdrawal, NBC-TV also introduced two new series during the weekend, an Andy Williams variety show and "Bracken's World," an hour serial concerning people who work in a movie studio.

Here's 1970.

Plymouth makes it

1970 Hemi-Cuda.

This year, there are 10 new Barracudas. And we've changed the look substantially. (We've packed a 426 Hemi engine under a "Shaker" hood on one of them and called it the Hemi-Cuda.)

However you look at it, our Barracuda is all new. We've moved it two inches closer to the ground. Pushed the wheels farther apart on our standard torsion-bar suspension. Put a tough optional bumper on the front that comes in most paint colors. And given the interior the design and comfort of a jet cockpit. If you want a car that makes it... Plymouth makes it.

1970 Sport Fury Brougham.

Here's our luxury model. (One of 28 Fury models with a new wide stance.) It's big enough inside to carry six adults in comfort. It's plush. But the price is still Plymouth. With a front seat that has individual adjustments for the driver and passenger, center armrests, and a reclining back on the passenger's side.

Of course, the carpeting is thick, the headlights are hidden, and the price is still Plymouth. Whether you like your luxury in small packages, or as big as a 1970 Sport Fury... Plymouth makes it.

Upsets Spice Prep Action

Over Weekend
By United Press International
The top-rated high school football teams in Texas are hoping for a return to normalcy this week. Things were anything but normal last weekend.

Fully half the teams in the top ten listings of Classes AAAA and AAA were either beaten or tied last weekend. The survivors of that mass of upsets, however, are expecting smooth sailing this weekend. Uppermost on the list of survivors—Class AAAA's top rated team Austin Reagan—will be going after its 32nd straight victory against San Antonio Alamo Heights.

Ablene Cooper will go after its third win of the year and second straight district decision against Midland Lee. Cooper was the top winner in Texas last weekend, bumping off West Texas rival Odessa Permian 21-7. Cooper was No. 2 in the state before that game and Permian was No. 5.

Lombardi, Allen Get Rams, Skins To Winning

By United Press International
The start of a new season was a time for new coaches celebrate Sunday, but the man who enjoyed it the most was George Allen, the coach who replaced himself.

Three of the four new coaches in the National Football League made successful debuts as the 1969 season opened and two of them pulled off upsets.

But the key victory was turned in by Allen, who was fired by Los Angeles Rams' owner Dan Reeves last December and then rehired in January when the players rallied to Allen's side. The Rams showed Reeves made the right decision in the end by upsetting the defending NFL champions, the Baltimore Colts, 27-20.

Alex Webster, whose New York Giants upset Minnesota 24-23, Chuck Noll, whose Pittsburgh Steelers nipped Detroit 16-13 and Vin-e Lombardi, whose Washington Redskins beat New Orleans 26-20, were the three new coaches making successful debuts. The loser was Jerry Williams, whose Philadelphia Eagles lost to Cleveland 27-20. In the other games, Green Bay started to prove the "Pack Will Be Back" by beating Chicago 17-0, Dallas topped St. Louis 24-3 and Atlanta upset San Francisco 24-12.

Los Angeles, trailing 17-10 in the third period, rallied for the triumph over the Colts. A 31-yard run by rookie Larry Smith set up a 12-yard TD pass from Gabriel to Willie Ell on that tied the game 17-17.

On the next series, Ed Meador intercepted a Unitas pass on the Colt 35, ran it back to the 11 and Bruce Gossett kicked a 15-yard field goal that put the Rams ahead 20-17. Bob Klejn then recovered Preston

Broncos Catch Jets In Big AFL Upset

By United Press International
The New York Jets bring out the best in their opponents—especially the Denver Broncos. The young and spirited Broncos outplayed the Super Bowl champs 21-19 Sunday and ran their winning streak against the Jets to three games. Denver, a 10 point underdog, upset the Jets 21-13 last year and in 1967 pulled a 33-24 surprise. Playing in Mile High Stadium before 50,583, the largest crowd ever to see a football game in Colorado, the Broncos had their blood boiling with emotion. But on the third play of the game Joe Namath, operating on a pair of gimpy knees, calmly tossed 54 yards to Matt Snell and Jim Turner gave the Jets a 3-0 lead with a 15-yard field goal. Moments later, safety Jim Hudson grabbed a Steve Tensi pass and Namath directed a 65-yard drive in 12 plays that culminated in Bill Mathis' one-yard touchdown run. Turner kicked a 49-yard field goal near the end of the quarter to give the Jets a 13-0 lead.

But the Broncos didn't get down on themselves, not even after Tensi, their starting quarterback, left early in the second period with a bruised knee. Floyd Little, who later was to leave the fiercely played contest with an injured shoulder, and Steve O'Neill's punt yards and two plays later scored from the one. O'Neill had previously set an all-pro record with a 98-yard punt.

Pete Liska, a castoff from the Canadian Football League, replaced Tensi and threw a 21-yard TD pass to Mike Haffner to give the Broncos a 13-13 lead at the half.

An enraged defense led by Rich Jackson and Paul Costa stopped Namath cold in a scoreless third period and almost put the Jet's star signal-caller out cold in the fourth period.

Our Capsule Policy
The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

A Double Disservice

Governmental tax and regulatory policies having to do with encouraging exploration and development of resources will have an impact on our future well-being that few really comprehend. How many of us appreciate the fact, for example, that future expansion in the gigantic natural gas distribution industry depends upon assuring U.S. investors that there will be adequate supplies of gas for years to come?

At present, the gas industry serves 40 million customers. In a few years, there will be 60 million. A gas industry spokesman points out that distribution and transmission segments of the industry will have to increase their investment in plant from $35 billion currently to $75 billion by 1985. He warns that to attract this huge capital investment to the transmission and distribution segments of the gas industry, necessary supplies of natural gas must be assured.

Like his colleagues in the petroleum industry, this spokesman has testified to the necessity of providing the tax incentives that will encourage petroleum and gas producers to intensify exploration efforts. Exploration has trended downward for the last 12 years, in spite of the fact that independent studies and conclusions of the U.S. Department of Interior have indicated that the physical resource potential for natural gas supplies in the United States is entirely adequate.

Gas and utility pipeline companies anticipate that they will need to spend $10.3 billion on construction of new plants in the next four years. These billions of dollars for needed development in the gas industry must come from the voluntary investment of savings of private citizens who have confidence in the continuing growth of gas as a major natural resource industry.

Short-sighted governmental tax and regulatory policies can not only determine incentives to the oil and gas producers but can also shake the confidence of investors — thus rendering a double disservice to the nation.

Man Masters Computer

Few frustrations in this modern life are better calculated to reduce even the most mild-mannered person to a seething jelly of impotent rage than to find oneself in a letter-writing duel with a bill-collecting computer, says Don Oakley of Newspaper Enterprise Association.

The company has made a simple error. One has receipts and canceled checks to prove it. It could easily be adjusted. But the computer blithely ignores all protests and continues to grind out statement after statement.

There is, fortunately, still time for man to assert his mastery over the machines he has made, and at least one state has taken a step in that direction.

In Maryland, a newly passed law states that if a customer does not get an answer "in clear and definitive terms" within 60 days after making a written inquiry about the status of his account, he is not liable for any service charges that come due from the time the creditor receives the inquiry until the matter is finally straightened out.

The law applies to any kind of bill with a finance or service charge on it — department store revolving account, gasoline credit card, bank card, check-credit, etc.

Good as the new law is, it could be even better, suggests Consumers Union.

One useful amendment would be to take aim at credit departments that not only ignore letters pointing out errors but compound the situation by sending out a sequence of nastier and nastier collection notices. In penalty for unwarranted dunning, the creditor would be required to forfeit the principal along with the interest.

Also, a really tough law might make it a criminal act for a creditor to send a false delinquency report to a credit bureau if it was based on a billing error which he made.

Most Americans, however, would be content to go along with the Maryland law as it now stands — happy to know that, at least to some extent, human beings are being put back in control of the computer.

pedestrian deaths in Detroit and suburban Wayne County. It was found that 106 of the victims were crossing a street outside a crosswalk or in the middle of the block. Another 102 were crossing at intersections. The rest were walking or standing in the roadway.

Alcohol was the single factor most commonly associated with these fatalities. Of 195 victims over 12 years of age tested for alcohol, 61 per cent had been drinking — and half of these showed over .10 per cent alcohol level in the blood, the federal standard for intoxication.

Walking May Be Hazardous

By all means, look out for that crazy driver—but keep an eye on that careless pedestrian, too.

Pedestrian deaths account for a sizable 18 per cent of the more than 50,000 traffic fatalities in the United States each year.

According to a report by the University of Michigan Highway Safety Research Institute, accidents involving pedestrians are most likely to occur at night, in clear weather, under artificial lighting and on a dry, straight asphalt road.

The institute studied 206

Need Of Storm-Stricken

Hurricane Camille, one of the most devastating storms ever to hit this country, fittingly called forth one of the greatest outpourings of help from the American people in Red Cross history.

The organization first estimated that 41,000 families suffered losses from the hurricane's raging winds and high tides in Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama. Later surveys, when workers were able to get into more remote areas, raised this figure to 69,000 families.

More than 18,000 dwellings were destroyed or damaged so much as to be uninhabitable. Another 1,000 families lost trailer homes. In addition, hundreds of small businessmen, farmers and fishermen lost their livelihoods. Later, in Virginia, flooding spawned by the backwash of the hurricane affected over 1,200 more families.

The initial nationwide relief appeal was set at a minimum of $9 million and the quota for at least 45 cities was quickly met. The emerging story of the full extent of the tragedy, however, forced this to be increased to $15 million.

Camille thus set another record as the most expensive disaster operation the Red Cross has ever carried out.

Red Chinese Speeding Up On Missiles

Intelligence reports indicate that the Red Chinese are making much more rapid progress in missile development than our government expected. These reports should serve as a warning and should be carefully considered by all those who seek diplomatic relations with Peking.

The intelligence information gathered by the United States and several other countries indicates that sometime this year communist China will probably testfire a 6,000-mile intercontinental ballistic missile, and is also expected to test an intermediate range ballistic missile, which could carry a 100-kiloton warhead one thousand miles.

The reports also indicate that the Red Chinese will probably have several hundred nuclear bombs in the ten-kiloton range by 1971. This estimate is based on Peking's December 17, 1968 tests, during which their eighth nuclear device was exploded in the atmosphere. The 1971 date represents a three-year gain in communist China's nuclear weapons program.

If their missile development continues to proceed at its present pace, the Chinese communists should be able to begin stockpiling missiles by 1972. By 1975, they should be able to deploy about 100 intermediate range missiles and 15 to 20 ICBMs. This is much sooner than previous Western estimates of Red Chinese progress in this area.

These new intelligence reports indicate how dangerous an enemy Red China is. Peking has shown itself to be militantly hostile to the West and to all free nations. Mao's generals have used conventional troops and weapons against South Korea and South Vietnam. Now Red China has a nuclear capability and will soon have a missile fleet as additional weapons in their arsenal.

Clearing House

Get something you would like to get off your chest? That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested there should be more letters to the Editor, that people should speak their minds. So, in the public interest, write to the Editor and "get it off your chest."

Editor:

I understand Congress is preparing to vote on whether or not to remove the Postal Service from their control. There are Administration demands that the Post Office be turned over to a Government Corporation. I feel that there is nothing so magic about corporations and in fact, many corporations have failed during the past few years.

I understand that even the telephone companies are having their problems in some areas of the country.

Even though postal efficiency can undoubtedly be improved by modernization, I feel this can be accomplished without turning the Post Office lock, stock and barrel over to a Board of Directors who would not be concerned about service.

Before it is too late, I would suggest that concerned people write their Congressman to demand postal reforms without turning the Postal Service over to a Board of Directors.

The end result has to be higher rates and less service because corporation officials will try to realize a profit or at least break even. This cannot be done so long as the American people express themselves.

SENSING THE NEWS

Closing Unions' Loophole

By THURMAN SENSING
The biggest "tax shelter" in the land is owned by the monopoly unions. This fact should be brought home to every working, taxpaying citizen of the United States. Big Unionism shouldn't be allowed to get away with pretending that it is sincerely interested in closing loopholes in the nation's tax laws.

The union chiefs hope to trick the taxpayers into believing that they are "on the side of the angels" insofar as tax reform is concerned. This was made clear as soon as the House of Representatives revealed the Tax Reform Bill of 1968. One of the provisions of the bill is that it applies a 100 per cent tax rate to any private foundation that uses its money "to carry out propaganda or otherwise attempt to influence legislation" and "to influence the outcome of any public election including voter registration drives."

No sooner had the Committee's stand been disclosed than the AFL-CIO Executive Council urged the Senate to "improve and strengthen" the bill and "guard against attempts by lobbyists to preserve and widen their special interest loopholes."

Now, that's on a par with a housewife who locks up the cheese and buys two or three mouse-hunting cats. No organization in American society is more interested in loopholes in the tax law than the unions. If they didn't have access to the loopholes, they would be out of business as political manipulators — and they know it. Yet the AFL-CIO Executive Council brazenly pretends that it is opposed to special interest loopholes.

Anyone familiar with the workings of politics at the state or national level knows that the unions use tax-free dollars, collected under compulsion, to suit their political purposes.

The big stick that unions use to achieve their political goals is the money they spend for the election of candidates they favor and the promotion of legislation that aids their efforts. A business firm has no tax-exempt outlet to aid candidates or promote a specific bill. Any money a business gives to support the enterprise system is money that is taxed. Yet a labor union has free rein to spend tax-exempt dollars as it wishes, disrupting industries and communities and engineering the election of pro-union candidates.

Tax-exempt union properties are a privileged sanctuary in American life. Unions own or control apartment houses, banks and myriad other properties. The banks controlled by unions can offer cut-rate loans to politicians — a particularly vicious way of influencing legislation. It has been estimated that unions derive approximately $1.5 billion annually from their business ventures and untaxed investments. The untaxed profits from these enterprises are used to promote partisan causes and campaigns.

The outrage represented by this privileged sanctuary is compounded by the fact that it is a form of wealth built on slave labor — the unwilling contributions of union members that is Great numbers of Americans don't want join a union, but in many cases they have no choice. The unions take the position that they "own" jobs, and if a man wants to get on a business payroll or stay on it, he has to join the union. In many unionized industries, the union worker lives with great physical fear. If he were to oppose the union leadership, he would be beaten up or worse. It is a fact to say that tremendous amounts in union dues are extracted by the threat of force.

Up to now Congress has closed its eyes to the coercion basic to Big Unionism — to the intimidation of workers who don't want their dollars to be spent supporting candidates they oppose. The time is long overdue when Congress starts paying attention to the "civil rights" of union members who are victims of ruthless, power-hungry union bosses. It's also time that unions be compelled to pay taxes on their investments, just as everyone else has to do.

Tranquilizers have their greatest value in the treatment of mental patients who otherwise have to be cared for in a mental hospital. But that is not where most of these pills are taken. Their regular use may cause such side effects as jaundice, skin rashes, shortness of breath, blood diseases and delirium.

The search for safer tranquilizers has been only partially successful. Even the mildest may produce a drowsiness that lowers the user's efficiency and may make it unsafe for him to drive a car. The progressive relaxation set forth by Dr. Edmund Jacobson in his book, "You Must Relax" (available in many public libraries), provides a sound substitute for tranquilizers with no harmful side effects.

Q — What damage can be done to the digestive tract by nervous tension?

A — It can cause spasms throughout the entire tract. In the esophagus, this is interpreted as a lump in the throat or a choking sensation. Although all the factors involved in the cause of a peptic ulcer are not known, nervous tension is undoubtedly one of them, possibly because it causes the outpouring of an excess of acid by the stomach. In the intestines the spasms result in pushing along of the food too fast for complete digestion — spastic colitis.

This is often confused with appendicitis and, if great care is not taken to make the correct diagnosis, the victim is likely to have an unnecessary operation with the removal of a normal appendix.

Q — Is it possible to develop cancer or leukemia by constantly worrying about it?

A — No. Worry will neither cause nor prevent cancer.

Art of Relaxation Is Far Better Than Tranquilizer

As a means of promoting relaxation and relieving tension our drug manufacturers have invented a class of drugs called tranquilizers. About 150 million of these tablets are sold every year but they are not an unqualified blessing. In fact, most of the persons now taking them would be better off if they would cease trying to cure their ills with pills and learn through patience and persistence the art of progressive relaxation.

JOHN GOLDSMITH

Nixon 'Heads Off' Wise In Senate, GOP Wrangle

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON, — Public jockeying by Republican senators to grab the leadership mantle of the late Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., exposes for all to see the fragmented Senate GOP.

Division among Senate Democrats—liberal vs. conservative, North vs. South—is an old, old story. Now it is quite clear that Republicans have their differences too, though the factions are not so easy to define and regionalize.

For President Nixon, who has been well aware of these party splits, the leadership wrangle may signal difficulties in weeks ahead. The President's legislative initiatives may have even tougher sledding in the very dilatory Congress which is now in session.

One of the characteristics of the Senate GOP squabbles is that, while they are essentially differences between "liberals," "moderates" and "conservatives" there is also an element of personality conflict involved.

Sen. Hugh Scott Jr., R-Pa., is viewed as the liberal contender for the leadership post. Scott, however, is not the darling of all the GOP senators who would like to be regarded as GOP liberals.

By the same token, Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Nebr., has emerged as the candidate of GOP conservatives whose views were essentially those of Dirksen. However, Sen. John F. Williams, R-Del., who fits that mold is understood to oppose Hruska as a result of a controversy long ago.

Unlike the Southern caucus of Senate Democrats, which meets on matters of interest and can be listed by state and senator by senator, membership of the GOP power bloc is thus uncertain and the split on any given issue is frequently in doubt.

CAMPUS-LIKE REVOLT
Even before Dirksen's death there were rumblings in the Republican cloakroom of something like revolt.

"There's a revolution," one veteran GOP senator told "us," "but it's a little like the campus revolts in that Republican senators don't quite know what they are revolting against."

Some of them, he said, objected to Dirksen's occasional clashes with the Nixon Administration, but then, Hugh Scott is regarded by some as just a duplicating machine for the White House.

There's also a strong feeling against Vice President Agnew, our informant said.

His lobbying for the Administration right on the floor of the Senate in the fight over the surtax extension violated all the Marquis of Queensbury rules that we are so proud of around here," he said.

Some of the ill feeling against Vice President Agnew, our informant said.

"This lobbying for the Administration right on the floor of the Senate in the fight over the surtax extension violated all the Marquis of Queensbury rules that we are so proud of around here," he said.

Some of the ill feeling aimed directly at the White House and its handling of patronage and of the representational chores of lawmakers—the requirement that members of the Senate help their constituents or, at least, appear to try.

"One trouble," snapped one angry GOP senator, "is that the only person in the White House who has ever been elected to anything is the President himself."

In that stormy climate, it is clear that President Nixon is well advised to keep clear of the Senate leadership fight. The same goes in spades, for Vice President Agnew.

the Marquis of Queensbury rules that we are so proud of around here," he said.

Some of the ill feeling against Vice President Agnew, our informant said.

"This lobbying for the Administration right on the floor of the Senate in the fight over the surtax extension violated all the Marquis of Queensbury rules that we are so proud of around here," he said.

Some of the ill feeling aimed directly at the White House and its handling of patronage and of the representational chores of lawmakers—the requirement that members of the Senate help their constituents or, at least, appear to try.

"One trouble," snapped one angry GOP senator, "is that the only person in the White House who has ever been elected to anything is the President himself."

In that stormy climate, it is clear that President Nixon is well advised to keep clear of the Senate leadership fight. The same goes in spades, for Vice President Agnew.

BETTER WEATHER AHEAD? — The long view is not an easy one to take, especially amid the immediate pressures of the White House.

Dirksen was as Nixon noted in his eulogy, a talented politician. His experience in both the House and Senate made him all able legislative technician who could get things done in Congress.

Having said that, however, it must be quickly noted that Dirksen had done his thing as a minority leader, operating as a loyal opposition for Democratic Presidents Kennedy and Johnson. Recently he had seemed uncertain and sometimes unhappy working with a Republican chief executive.

President Nixon is, of course, looking to the day when his Senate leader will be a majority leader working to advance White House initiatives. In the end, after the squabbling is over, the President may be well served by a change.

No matter how the Senate fight comes out—the new GOP leader is initially going to be more responsive to the wishes of the White House and, for a while at least, less of a prima donna in trying to press his own.

And sometimes, as the Democrats have found out over the years, a good fight clears the air and makes it easier to go in the President's words, "forward together."

PATRICIA YOUNG SAYS

Those Young Marxists Have Nothing That's Really New

By PATRICIA YOUNG VANCOLVER, B.C. — These young Marxists who act as if their attitude was something new and daring make me smile. The truth is, like measles, most of us had it and came through without doing too much harm to ourselves or others. In my day we didn't call ourselves radicals, revolutionaries or activists. We liked to think of ourselves as "intellectuals" and wore the Bohemian uniform of straight-long hair, horn-rimmed spectacles and tight silk jersey dresses.

I found myself in this company by reason of having been a "literary protégé" at the age of 13, a published writer at 15 and an author at 17. I remember the hundreds of left-wing publications passed on to me by older friends, the Pub-parliament on Hampstead Heath and the endless meetings behind bookstores in Sho and Bloomsbury. How clear and concrete the issues seemed in those days. We were the self-appointed apostles of dissent and were unconcerned as to the economics or administration of our "brave new world." After all, there were millions of bourgeois who could be harassed once we decided upon what we wanted!

Then there was Henry, lean, sardonic and a champion of the "masses" so long as he didn't have to work. Henry was a bit miffed at my getting a book published — until I explained it away as a sociological study of conditions among the working classes of East London. My moment of truth came on VE Day when Henry and I arranged to join the throngs celebrating in Trafalgar Square. There were patriotic songs, flags and cheers when the lights of London went on after five years of blackout. But Henry, he sneered at the patriotic songs and bourgeois sentiments of patriotism. The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission recently spent a couple of foggy days trying to get a clear picture of how the automobile pricing process works.

A sense of bewilderment pervaded the hearing, but two general points did emerge from the testimony. It was established that:

1. Most of the new cars being sold today have automatic transmissions and enigmatic price tags.

2. A buyer can never be sure whether he is getting a good deal, and sometimes the dealer isn't too sure either.

In the hope of increasing my own understanding of the pricing process, I paid a call on a local auto dealer and asked him to explain as much as he knew about it.

"It really isn't as confusing as the FTC hearings indicated," he assured me. "You see that car in the front of the showroom? If you look on the windshield you will find a price sticker. It lists the base price of the car and the prices of the extra equipment and adds them up for you. What could be simpler than that?"

"I think I've got it," I said. "The total price appears on the sticker and that is the amount you charge for the car, right?"

"Wrong," he said. "The sticker only shows the suggested retail price put on the car by the manufacturer. What it doesn't show is the size of the dealer's heart, which is the most important part of any automobile transaction. Most of the dealers are too big-hearted to charge the full amounts shown on the stickers."

"Then why are you required to display them?"

"They help our customers figure out how much money they are saving when they buy a car from us."

"I said, 'If the sticker price is meaningless from the dealer's standpoint, how do you determine the price of a car?'"

"When we dealers get down to determining the actual prices of the cars we sell, we listen to our hearts."

"How much money does your heart tell you to knock off the price?"

"That varies from dealer to dealer, depending on how soft his heart is and what kind of car you want to trade in. I personally am extremely soft-hearted where trade-ins are concerned."

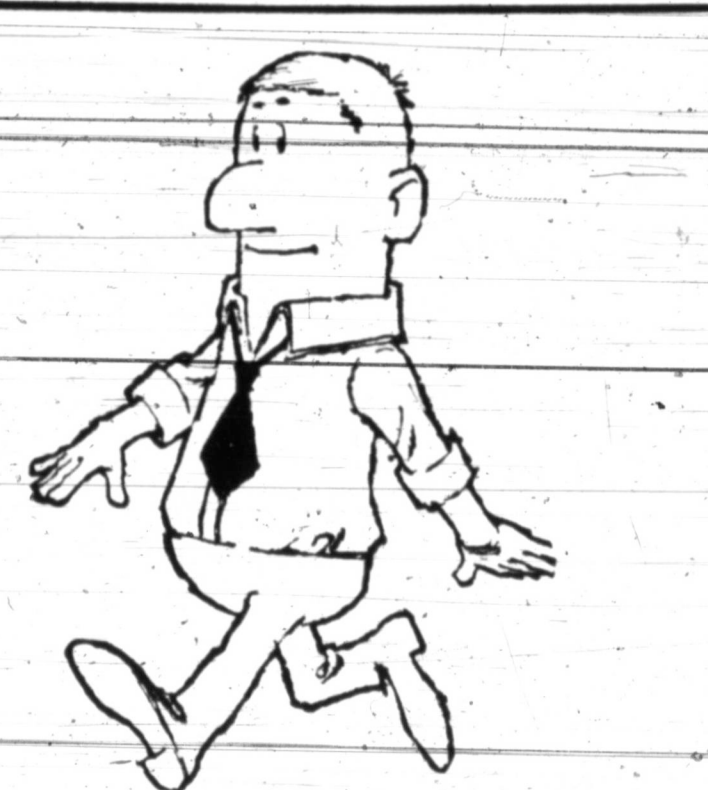

"I now realize why the FTC had so much trouble grasping the principles of auto pricing. The price stickers it examined didn't include the dealer's electrocardiogram."

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP OF TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

Our Capsule Policy

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

A Double Disservice

Governmental tax and regulatory policies having to do with encouraging exploration and development of resources will have an impact on our future well-being that few really comprehend. How many of us appreciate the fact, for example, that future expansion in the gigantic natural gas distribution industry depends upon assuring U.S. investors that there will be adequate supplies of gas for years to come?

At present, the gas industry serves 40 million customers. In a few years, there will be 60 million. A gas industry spokesman points out that distribution and transmission segments of the industry will have to increase their investment in plant from $35 billion currently to $75 billion by 1985. He warns that, to attract this huge capital investment in the transmission and distribution segments of the gas industry, necessary supplies of natural gas must be assured.

Like his colleagues in the petroleum industry, this spokesman has testified to the necessity of providing the tax incentives that will encourage petroleum and gas producers to intensify exploration efforts. Exploration has trended downward for the last 12 years, in spite of the fact that independent studies and conclusions of the U.S. Department of Interior have indicated that the physical resource potential for natural gas supplies in the United States is entirely adequate.

Gas and utility pipeline companies anticipate that they will need to spend $10.3 billion on construction of new plants in the next four years. These billions of dollars for needed development in the gas industry must come from the voluntary investment of savings of private citizens who have confidence in the continuing growth of gas as a major natural resource industry.

Short-sighted governmental tax and regulatory policies can not only determine incentives to the oil and gas producers but can also shake the confidence of investors — thus rendering a double disservice to the nation.

Man Masters Computer

Few frustrations in this modern life are better calculated to reduce even the most mild-mannered person to a seething jelly of impotent rage than to find oneself in a letter-writing duel with a bill-collecting computer, says Don Oakley of Newspaper Enterprise Association.

The company has made a simple error. One has receipts and canceled checks to prove it. It could easily be adjusted. But the computer blithely ignores all protests and continues to grind out statement after statement.

There is, fortunately, still time for man to assert his mastery over the machines he has made, and at least one state has taken a step in that direction.

In Maryland, a newly passed law states that if a customer does not get an answer "in clear and definitive terms" within 60 days after making a written inquiry about the status of his account, he is not liable for any service charges that come due from the time the creditor receives the inquiry until the matter is finally straightened out.

The law applies to any kind of bill with a finance or service charge on it — department store revolving account, gasoline credit card, bank card, check-credit, etc.

Good as the new law is, it could be even better, suggests Consumers Union.

One useful amendment would be to take aim at credit departments that not only ignore letters pointing out errors but compound the situation by sending out a sequence of nastier and nastier collection notices. In penalty for unwarranted dunning, the creditor would be required to forfeit the principal along with the interest.

Also, a really tough law might make it a criminal act for a creditor to send a false delinquency report to a credit bureau if it was based on a billing error which he made.

Most Americans, however, would be content to go along with the Maryland law as it now stands — happy to know that, at least to some extent, human beings are being put back in control of the computer.

Walking May Be Hazardous

By all means, look out for that crazy driver—but keep an eye on that careless pedestrian, too.

Pedestrian deaths account for a sizable 18 per cent of the more than 50,000 traffic fatalities in the United States each year.

According to a report by the University of Michigan Highway Safety Research Institute, accidents involving pedestrians are most likely to occur at night, in clear weather, under artificial lighting and on a dry, straight asphalt road.

pedestrian deaths in Detroit and suburban Wayne County. It was found that 106 of the victims were crossing a street outside a crosswalk or in the middle of the block. Another 102 were crossing at intersections. The rest were walking or standing in the roadway.

Alcohol was the single factor most commonly associated with these fatalities. Of 195 victims over 12 years of age tested for alcohol, 61 per cent had been drinking — and half of these showed over 10 per cent alcohol level in the blood, the federal standard for intoxication.

Need Of Storm-Stricken

Hurricane Camille, one of the most devastating storms ever to hit this country, fittingly called forth one of the greatest outpourings of help from the American people in Red Cross history.

The organization first estimated that 41,000 families suffered losses from the hurricane's raging winds and high tides in Mississippi, Louisiana and Alabama. Later surveys, when workers were able to get into more remote areas, raised this figure to 69,000 families.

More than 18,000 dwellings were destroyed or damaged so much as to be uninhabitable. Another 1,000 families lost trailer homes. In addition, hundreds of small businesses, farmers and fishermen lost their livelihoods. Later, in Virginia, flooding spawned by the backwash of the hurricane affected over 1,200 more families. The initial nationwide relief appeal was set at a minimum of $9 million and the quota for at least 45 cities was quickly met. The emerging story of the full extent of the tragedy, however, forced this to be increased to $15 million.

"Camille thus set another record as the most expensive disaster operation the Red Cross has ever carried out.

Red Chinese Speeding Up On Missiles

Intelligence reports indicate that the Red Chinese are making much more rapid progress in missile development than our government expected. These reports should serve as a warning and should be carefully considered by all those who seek diplomatic relations with Peking.

The intelligence information gathered by the United States and several other countries indicates that sometime this year communist China will probably testfire a 6,000-mile intercontinental ballistic missile, and is also expected to test an intermediate range ballistic missile, which could carry a 100-kiloton warhead one thousand miles.

The reports also indicate that the Red Chinese will probably have several hundred nuclear bombs in the ten-kiloton range by 1971. This estimate is based on Peking's December 17, 1968 tests, during which their eighth nuclear device was exploded in the atmosphere. The 1971 date represents a three-year gain in communist China's nuclear weapons program.

If their missile development continues to proceed at its present pace, the Chinese communists should be able to begin stockpiling missiles by 1972. By 1975, they should be able to deploy about 100 intermediate range missiles and 15 to 20 ICBMs. This is much sooner than previous Western estimates of Red Chinese progress in this area.

These new intelligence reports indicate how dangerous an enemy Red China is. Peking has shown itself to be militantly hostile to the West and to all free nations. Mao's generals have used conventional troops and weapons against South Korea and South Vietnam. Now Red China has a nuclear capability and will soon have a missile fleet as additional weapons in their arsenal.

Clearing House

Got something you would like to "get off your chest"? That's what the "Clearing House" is for. It has been suggested there should be a "clearing house" for the Editor, that people should speak their minds. So, in the public interest, write to the Editor and "get it off your chest."

Editor:

I understand Congress is preparing to vote on whether or not to remove the Postal Service from their control. There are Administration demands that the Post Office be turned over to a Government Corporation. I feel that there is nothing so magic about corporations and in fact, many corporations have failed during the past few years.

I understand that even the telephone companies are having their problems in some areas of the country. Even though postal efficiency can undoubtedly be improved by modernization, I feel this can be accomplished without turning the Post Office lock, stock and barrel over to a Board of Directors who would not be concerned about service.

Before it is too late, I would suggest that concerned people write their Congressman to demand postal reforms without turning the Postal Service over to a Board of Directors.

The end result has to be higher rates and less service because — corporation officials will try to realize a profit or at least break even. This cannot be done so long as the American people express themselves.

Wit And Whimsy

The only commodity on earth that does not deteriorate with use is knowledge.

A clock is something they have in an office so that you can tell how late you wish you weren't in the morning, what time to go out for lunch and coffee breaks before and come back after and how long before you can start stopping work by stalling until.

Did you hear about the Medicare patient who had surgery? He woke up and found a placard on his incision: "This is a Federal project showing your tax dollar at work."

SENSING THE NEWS

Closing Unions' Loophole

By THURMAN SENSING
The biggest "tax shelter" in the land is owned by the monopoly unions. This fact should be brought home to every working taxpayer citizen of the United States. Big Unions shouldn't be allowed to get away with pretending that it is sincerely interested in closing loopholes in the nation's tax laws.

The union chiefs hope to trick the taxpayers into believing that they are "on the side of the angels" insofar as tax reform is concerned. This was made clear as soon as the House of Representatives revealed the Tax Reform Bill of 1969. One of the provisions of the bill is that it applies a 100 per cent tax rate to any private foundation that uses its money "to carry out propaganda or otherwise attempt to influence legislation" and "to influence the outcome of any public election including voter registration drives."

No sooner had the Committee's stand been disclosed than the AFL-CIO Executive Council urged the Senate to "improve and strengthen" the bill and "guard against attempts by lobbyists to preserve and widen their special interest loopholes."

Now, that's on a par with a housewife who locks up the cheese and buys two or three mouse-hunting cats. No organization in American society is more interested in loopholes in the tax law than the unions. If they didn't have access to the loopholes, they would be out of business as political manipulators — and they know it. Yet the AFL-CIO Executive Council brazenly pretends that it is opposed to special interest loopholes.

Anyone familiar with the workings of politics at the state or national level knows that the unions use tax-free dollars collected under compulsion to suit their political purposes. The big stick that unions use to achieve their political goals is the money they spend for the election of candidates they favor and the promotion of legislation that aids their efforts. A business firm has no tax-exempt outlet to aid candidates or promote a specific bill. Any money a business gives to support the enterprise system is money that is taxed. Yet a labor union has free rein to spend tax-exempt dollars as it wishes, disrupting industries and communities and engineering the election of pro-union candidates.

Tax-exempt union properties are a privileged sanctuary in American life. Unions own or control apartment houses, banks and myriad other properties. The banks controlled by unions can offer cut-rate loans to politicians — a particularly vicious way of influencing legislation. It has been estimated that unions derive approximately $1.5 billion annually from their business ventures and untaxed investments. The untaxed profits from these enterprises are used to promote partisan causes and campaigns.

The outrage represented by this privileged sanctuary is compounded by the fact that it is a form of wealth built on slave labor — the unwilling contributions of union members that is. Great numbers of Americans don't want to join a union, but in many cases they have no choice. The unions take the position that they "own" jobs, and if a man wants to get on a business payroll or stay on it, he has to join the union. In many unionized industries, the Union worker lives with real physical fear. If he were to oppose the union leadership, he would be beaten up or worse. It is a fact to say that tremendous amounts in union dues are extracted by the threat of force.

Up to now, Congress has closed its eyes to the coercion basic to Big Unions — to the intimidation of workers who don't want their dollars to be spent supporting candidates they oppose. The time is long overdue when Congress starts paying attention to the "civil rights" of union members who are victims of ruthless, power-hungry union bosses. It's also time that unions be compelled to pay taxes on their investments, just as everyone else has to do.

Art of Relaxation Is Far Better Than Tranquilizer

As a means of promoting relaxation and relieving tension our drug manufacturers have invented a class of drugs called tranquilizers. About 150 million of these tablets are sold every year but they are not an un-mixed blessing. In fact, most of the persons now taking them would be better off if they would cease trying to cure their ills with pills and learn through patience and persistence the art of progressive relaxation.

Tranquilizers have their greatest value in the treatment of mental patients who would otherwise have to be cared for in a mental hospital. But that is not where most of these pills are taken. Their regular use may cause such side effects as jaundice, skin rashes, shortness of breath, blood diseases and delirium.

The search for safer tranquilizers has been only partially successful. Even the mildest may produce a drowsiness that lowers the user's efficiency and may make it unsafe for him to drive a car. The progressive relaxation set forth by Dr. Edmund Jacobson in his book "You Must Relax" (available in many public libraries), provides a sound substitute for tranquilizers with no harmful side effects.

Q — What damage can be done to the digestive tract by nervous tension?

A — It can cause spasms throughout the entire tract. In the esophagus, this is interpreted as a lump in the throat or a choking sensation. Although all the factors involved in the cause of a peptic ulcer are not known, nervous tension is undoubtedly one of them, possibly because it causes the outpouring of an excess of acid by the stomach. In the intestines the spasms result in pushing along of the food too fast for complete digestion — spastic colitis.

This is often confused with appendicitis and, if great care is not taken to make the correct diagnosis, the victim is likely to have an unnecessary operation with the removal of a normal appendix.

Q — Is it possible to develop cancer or leukemia by constantly worrying about it?

A — No. Worry will neither cause nor prevent cancer.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

JOHN GOLDSMITH

Nixon 'Heads Off' Wise In Senate GOP Wrangle

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON, — Public jockeying by Republican senators to grab the leadership mantle of the late Sen. Everett Dirksen, R-Ill., exposes for all to see the fragmented Senate GOP.

Division among Senate Democrats—liberal vs. conservative, North vs. South—is an old, old story. Now it is quite clear that Republicans have their differences too, though the factions are not so easy to define and regionalize.

For President Nixon, who has been well aware of these party splits, the leadership wrangle may signal difficulties in weeks ahead. The President's legislative initiatives may have even tougher sledding in the very dilatory Congress which is now in session.

One of the characteristics of the Senate GOP squabbles is that, while they are essentially differences between "liberals," "moderates" and "conservatives," there is also an element of personality conflict involved.

Sen. Hugh Scott Jr., R-Pa., is viewed as the liberal contender for the leadership post. Scott, however, is not the darling of all the GOP senators who would like to be regarded as GOP liberals.

By the same token, Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Nebr., has emerged as the candidate of GOP conservatives whose views were essentially those of Dirksen. However, Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., who fits the mold, is understood to oppose Hruska as a result of a controversy long ago.

Unlike the Southern caucus of Senate Democrats, which meets on matters of interest and can be listed by state and senator by senator, membership of the GOP power bloc is thus uncertain and the split on any given issue is frequently in doubt.

CAMPUS-LIKE REVOLT
Even before Dirksen's death there were rumblings in the Republican cloakroom of something like revolt.

"There's a revolution" one veteran GOP senator told us, "but it's a little like the campus revolts in that Republican senators don't quite know what they are revolting against."

Some of them, he said, objected to Dirksen's occasional clashes with the Nixon Administration, but then, Hugh Scott is regarded by some as just a duplicating machine for the White House.

"There's also a strong feeling against Vice President Agnew," our informant said.

"His lobbying for the Administration right on the floor of the Senate in the fight over the surtax extension violated all the Marquis of Queensbury rules that we are so proud of around here," he said. Some of the ill feeling against Vice President Agnew, our informant said.

"His lobbying for the Administration right on the floor of the Senate in the fight over the surtax extension violated all the Marquis of Queensbury rules that we are so proud of around here," he said.

Some of the ill feeling is aimed directly at the White House and its handling of patronage and of the representational chores of lawmakers — the requirement that members of the Senate help their constituents or, at least, appear to try.

"One trouble" snapped one angry GOP senator, "is that the only person in the White House who has ever been elected to anything is the President himself."

In that stormy climate, it is clear that President Nixon is well advised to keep clear of the Senate leadership fight. The same goes, in spades, for Vice President Agnew.

BETTER WEATHER AHEAD? — The long view is not an easy one to take — especially amid the immediate pressures of the White House — but President Nixon can well afford to view the Senate leadership battle in broad perspective.

Dirksen was, as Nixon noted in his eulogy, a talented politician. His experience in both the House and Senate made him an able legislative technician who could get things done in Congress.

Having said that, however, it must be quickly noted that Dirksen had done his thing as a minority leader, operating as loyal opposition for Democratic Presidents Kennedy and Johnson. Recently, he had seemed uncertain, and sometimes unhappy, working with a Republican chief executive.

President Nixon is, of course, looking to the day when his Senate leader will be a majority leader working to advance White House initiatives. In the end, after the squabbling is over, the President may be well served by a change.

No matter how the Senate fight comes out, the new GOP leader is initially going to be more responsive to the wishes of the White House and, for a while at least, less of a prima donna in trying to press his own.

And sometimes, as the Democrats have found out over the years, a good fight clears the air and makes it easier to go, in the President's words, "forward together."

Those Young Marxists Have Nothing That's Really New

By PATRICIA YOUNG
VANCOUVER, B.C. — Those young Marxists who, act as if their attitude was something new and daring make me smile. The truth is, like measles, most of us had it and came through without doing too much harm to ourselves or others. In my day we didn't call ourselves radicals, revolutionaries or activists. We liked to think of ourselves as intellectuals and wore the Bohemian uniform of straight long hair, horn-rimmed spectacles and tight silk jersey dresses.

I found myself in this company by reason of having been a literary protégé at the age of 13, a published writer at 15 and an author at 17. I remember the hundreds of left-wing publications passed on to me by older friends, the Pub part-time on Hampstead Heath and the endless meetings behind bookstores in Sho and Bloomsbury. How clear and concrete the issues seemed in those days. We were the self-appointed apostles of dissent and were unconcerned as to the economics or administration of our "brave new world." After all, there were millions of bourgeois who could be harassed once we decided upon what we wanted.

Then there was Henry, lean, sardonic and a champion of the "masses" so long as he didn't have to work. Henry was a bit miffed at my getting a book published — until I explained it away as "a sociological study of conditions among the working classes of East London." My moment of truth came on VE Day when Henry and I arranged to join the throngs celebrating in Trafalgar Square. There were patriotic songs, flags and cheers when the lights of London went on after five He sulked! He sulked at the years of blackout. He sneered at the patriotic songs and bourgeois sentiments of patriotism. I said, "What's wrong, Henry? These are the masses." He sulked a little, but suddenly I was not interested in his "historical inevitability" or Five Year Plans. I wanted to go to Buckingham Palace to see the King. When Henry sneered at the bourgeois and decadent institutions of Royalty, I crossed the line and joined the ranks of the "dirty capitalists." It was then that I knew I could never marry Henry — poor, unhappy Henry who fed his insecure little ego on a diet of negativism and structureless dissent; who had hated for so long that he could no longer laugh, love or enjoy the simple pleasure of being.

The Lighter Side

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Federal Trade Commission recently spent a couple of foggy days trying to get a clear picture of how the automobile pricing process works.

A sense of bewilderment pervaded the hearing, but two general points did emerge from the testimony. It was established that:

1. Most of the new cars being sold today have automatic transmissions and enigmatic price tags.
2. A buyer can never be sure whether he is getting a good deal, and sometimes the dealer isn't too sure either.

In the hope of increasing my own understanding of the pricing process, I paid a call on a local auto dealer and asked him to explain as much as he knew about it.

"It really isn't as confusing as the FTC hearings indicated," he assured me. "You see that car in the front of the show room? If you look on the windshield you will find a price sticker. It lists the base price of the car and the prices of the extra equipment and adds them up for you. That could be simpler than that."

"I think I've got it," I said. "The total price appears on the sticker and that is the amount you charge for the car, right?"

"Wrong," he said. "The sticker only shows the suggested retail price put on the car by the manufacturer. What it doesn't show is the size of the dealer's heart, which is the most important part of any automobile transaction. Most of us dealers are too big-hearted to charge the full amounts shown on the stickers."

"Then why are you required to display them?"

"They help our customers figure out how much money they are saving when they buy a car from us."

"How much money does your heart tell you to knock off the price?"

"That varies from dealer to dealer, depending on how soft his heart is and what kind of car you want to trade in. I personally am extremely soft-hearted where trade-ins are concerned."

I now realize why the FTC had so much trouble grasping the principles of auto pricing. The price stickers it examined didn't include "the dealer's electrocardiogram."

SUMMERS UPHOLSTERY Shop, 2236 N. Dwight, can make old furniture take on the look of new. Mrs. Carl Summers, owner and manager offers capable and professional service to those wanting to recover furniture.

Summers Makes Old Furniture Look New

There is no reason to have old-looking furniture, or to abandon it for expensive new furniture.

Because now, Pampans can make their furniture look better than new with the professional help of Mrs. Carl Summers, owner and manager of Summers Upholstery Shop, 2236 N. Dwight.

Fabrics offered at Summers Upholstery Shop are treated with Scotchgard providing "extra soil defense." It treats the furniture to help it resist soiling, oil and wattery stains, cleans easier and the protective finish lasts, keeping the fabric looking new longer. One added attraction ladies of the house will appreciate is the fact no solvent ring is left when the fabric is spot cleaned.

In pointing out the quality of one particular fabric, 100 per cent nylon with polyester core and 100 per cent nylon jersey backing, Mrs. Summers said the manufacturer tested the material by dropping a 250 pound "mechanical man" on a sofa covered with the material 50,000 times. The fabric was tested after the experiment and the material showed no stretch or wear. It is washable with Tide detergent or cleaning fluid.

In the line of fabrics the shop offers are, all nylons, tapestries, cottons, vinyls, velvets, frizaeas and "just about any kind you can name."

A correlated collection of nylons are offered to help the customer choose the particular

Allstate Offers Best Financing And Insurance

Buying a new or used car is sometimes necessary. But even more necessary is getting the best financing available.

For this reason, Allstate Insurance Company urges everyone who is planning to buy a car to check all avenues for financing it.

Compare the cost of coverage offered by local auto dealers, banks, reputable insurance agents and firms in the area.

And be sure to look into Allstate's Econo-Rate Finance.

There are four simple steps to financing a car through Allstate Econo-Rate Finance.

First, establish credit through an Allstate agent in any Sears store or neighborhood office. (It doesn't matter whether your present car is insured with Allstate Insurance Co. or not).

Once credit is established, a membership card will be issued, and the buyer will have Econo-Rate auto financing, without further credit reference for six months.

When the customer is ready to buy he finds out the exact price of the car—exclusive of insurance or financing.

Third, he visits the Allstate agent whose name appears on the back of the membership card. He will handle all paper work and show the client how much he will save.

Fourth, the prospective car owner picks up his money, pays the dealer and drives away in the new car.

Allstate Econo-Rate Finance is only one of the many Allstate policies to help people use their money most effectively.

The newest Allstate policy, for instance, is the Allstate "Money Back" Plan.

The plan guarantees two things: return of all annual premiums at age 65 and life insurance protection to age 65.

Allstate also offers a Mortgage Cancellation Plan, College and Career Plan, "Starter" life insurance policy for the young man and a variety of other policies.

Allstate is one of the nation's most successful businesses, Sears-Roebuck and Co.

All this adds up to customer satisfaction and savings.

Stop by the Allstate Insurance office at Sears, 1621 N. Hobart, and let Mark Buzzard, Allstate agent, show what Allstate can mean and do for you.

CHRIS WALSH, manager of Vaughn's Service Center is proud to display the Goodyear tires which the center carries. All automotive needs can be taken care of at one stop when you stop at Vaughn's.

Farmers Appreciate On The Spot Service

Farmers as well as "city fellas" can rely on the dependable and capable service of Vaughn's Service Center, 1800 N. Hobart.

The center, under the management of Chris Walsh, opened its doors for business March 1. Since then all motorists have been able to rely on the quality of work and products.

A complete line of Goodyear tires, batteries and all car accessories is offered. Sinclair gasoline and oils, and a three-minute automatic car wash enable a driver to take care of all needs at one stop.

Farmers can be well pleased with the "on the spot" service received at Vaughn's. All tractor tires are fixed at the farm and road service is offered to trucks, tractors and cars.

Headlining the latest "thing" in the tire line is the Goodyear Power Cushion Polyglas Tire. The Polyglas tires are built for a long life. Two body plies of polyester cord plus two fiberglass cord belt plies hold the tread firm, improve roadgrip and reduce tread eating squirm.

Vaughn's also carries the All-Weather IV, Safety All-Weather "Z" Custom Wide Tread Polyglas and Traction Hi-Miler tires.

One particular service to take advantage of at the service center is the expert brake and alignment service.

Las Pampas Grew Out Of A Need

Las Pampas Galleries located in the Coronado Shopping Center grew out of a need in Pampa. Its owner and director, Charles Maurice Gurley, 2212 N. Sumner, Doris Johnson, felt Pampa offered a cosmopolitan atmosphere and appreciation by its citizens for the fine paintings and imported gifts displayed in the gallery. Now, with the gallery in its third year this conviction has been fulfilled.

The galleries are a composite of many shops. The art gallery offers the best of Southwestern professional art, including Peter Hurd, G. Harvey of Austin, Porfirio Salinas, Woody Gwyn, Dirk Van Driest and many others. Only professional art is shown at prices ranging from $35 to $3,500.

Much has been bought for investment purposes, and investors have seen their purchases double in value since the gallery opened. The art gallery is operated in partnership with Mary Elizabeth Cornette, owner of the Canyon Art Gallery.

The gift side is composed of a bridal section offering a selection of china, glasses, place mats and shower gifts. Another section contains fine antiques and brass. Pampa's most complete candle shop is contained at Las Pampas Galleries, covering one wall. A jewelry case offers costume jewelry as well as music boxes. Snoopy has found a home at Las Pampas as may be found as a plush toy, an astronaut or pennant.

The newest addition is the Mod Shop, occupying one corner and supplying the "in" teens. Everything is offered from posters to mod stationary, key chains, pop art wastebaskets and blow-up plastic pillows.

"What's new" is found in the Mod Shop first.

Las Pampas Galleries has made a trade mark of its colorful wrap topped with yarn and daisies. The next time you walk in with a gift, they'll know it's from Las Pampas.

Tourist Boom In Rhodesia

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (UPI)—Foreign tourists are visiting Rhodesia in record numbers and spending a record amount of money despite the economic sanctions taken by other countries to try to end its independence.

The Rhodesian Tourist Board said the all-time high in 1968 marked the country's recovery from the losses caused by the "sanctions, bans and embargoes imposed by hostile countries" after Premier Ian Smith unilaterally declared independence from Britain in 1965.

The 1968 figures listed 266, 421 visitors who stayed a total of 3,369,000 nights and spent almost $19.6 million.
