NEWS OF OUR MEN and WOMEN IN UNIFORM

take up arms in defense of Americanism.
"It meant much to us over here to know that we have such good Americans right in our own home town."

S-Sgt. Roy E. Showers Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Showers, Sr., Box 1297, Pampa, has arrived safely at his new destination in the Pacific, according to a card received here by his parents.
This was the first contact the Showers had with their son since April 16. At that time Sergeant Showers was in San Francisco. He wrote that "it looked like he was at the jumping off place."
The Pampa soldier is a former Harvester football player, graduate of Pampa High school, and former West Texas State college student. His present address:
S-Sgt. Roy E. Showers Jr.
A. S. No. 18075424
48th B. S. 345th B. G.
P. O. No. 3893
C-O Postmaster
San Francisco, Calif.

Both the brothers are native Pampans and graduates of Pampa High school. Nolan graduated in 1933. Donald in 1939, and the two were inducted in to the army on the same day, July 27, 1942.

Three Pampans, all former Pampa school teachers, are among the WAVES at Smith college, Northampton, Mass. They are Miss Margaret Tomberlin, midshipman; Miss Pearl Garen, ensign; Miss Ullene Zeek, seaman.
The 900 WAVES went through precision drills in a demonstration of which motion pictures were taken by cameramen of Fox Movietone News, Pathe News, Paramount News, and News of the Day, and stills by International News Service. Associated Press writers covered the demonstration.

From "Somewhere in Africa" has come a letter of thanks dated June 8, 1943 to Pampa Auxiliary 1537 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.
Pfc. Robert W. McDonald, who left Gray county on December 7, 1941, the day the Japs stabbed American in the back at Pearl Harbor, thanked the women for his sewing kit presented him on his departure.
"Besides thanking you all for the gift," writes Private McDonald, "I want to thank you for being such good Americans... to commend you for the indispensable spirit of Americanism that prompted you to give each man that left his home and loved ones and went out to

SHAMROCK—Paul Zeigler, son of Dr. and Mrs. B. A. Zeigler of Shamrock, has been promoted from first lieutenant to captain. Captain Zeigler, a surgeon on a hospital ship, has been overseas many times. 2 Independence Days Observed Here in Texas

While other states have only one Independence day, Texas has two, the Fourth of July, the national observance, and March 2, anniversary of the signing of the Texas Declaration of independence.
Had Texas remained a republic it would this year be celebrating the 107th anniversary of its independence as the Texas declaration was signed at Washington-on-the-Brazos on March 2, 1836.
Texas independence, however, was not secured by the signing of the March 2 declaration. The sweeping victory at San Jacinto on April 21 of the same year, when Sam Houston's 800 Texans defeated Santa Anna's 1,600 Mexicans assured Texas its independence, and eventually changed the history of the entire western part of the United States.
If Texas had lost at San Jacinto, the state would not have been annexed by treaty to the United States nine years later, there would have been no Mexican war, which resulted in the United States acquiring most of the present Pacific coast and Rocky Mountain region.
David G. Burnett was named provisional president at the Washington-on-the-Brazos convention at the time the Texas Declaration was signed, and Sam Houston was again chosen commander in chief of the army.
Washington State park, on the highway between Breen and Navasota, is the site of the pioneer town where Texas' independence was declared.
Author of the Texas declaration was George Campbell Childress, who was chairman of a five-man committee that drafted the document.
A replica of the independence session house, a statue of Childress, an auditorium and an amphitheatre has been constructed at the park and the old Anson Jones house removed to the site. Jones was the last president of the Texas republic.
Texas' Declaration of Independence is similar in form to that of the United States, listing the wrongs suffered by the people, concluding with a statement that the "people of Texas do now constitute a free, sovereign and independent republic."

1776 JULY 4th
This July 4th the drums of war roll out their battle cry again, and Freedom... the spirit of '76 is the undiminished spirit of '43! But, it takes more than battle cries to win the war—and the peace... it takes the dollars you put into war bonds and stamps. Make this Independence Day another Bond Day in honor of the fighting sons of freedom on all the far flung battlefronts of the world. If you can't get into the Big Parade... let your dollars march!

Golf Tourney Scheduled At Club Monday

An 18-hole handicap for both men and women golfers, to be played Monday, has been arranged at the Pampa Country club as the feature of the Independence day week-end.

Today, Frank Baker, local pro, will compete with four other professionals at the Huber Golf club near Berger in an exhibition match, which proceeds go to the army relief fund.

On the local links today, Mrs. Carl Leuders and Mrs. Mark Heath will meet in the finals of the ladies golf tourney. It will be an 18-hole match in the semi-finals Friday. The Health defeated Charles Dukenkel 1 up, on 20 holes.

There were three teams tied for first place in the Scotch foursomes Thursday.

Carl Snow and Mrs. O. M. Prigmore, gross 47, net 35; Mark Heath and Mrs. Haskell Maguire, 44—35; O. M. Prigmore and Mrs. Heath, 44—35.

Patty Wins Open, Joins Marines

CHICAGO, July 3 (AP)—Patty Berg played the greatest guessing game in golf to capture the women's Western Open and successfully cap her comeback in tournament competition.

Not Kirby, the supple southerner from Atlanta, Ga. made Patty go the entire 36-hole tourney yesterday, and the little Minneapolis redhead staged one of the most sensational rallies in the 14-year history of the open to win, 1-up.

So Patty set out on the 37th green when she aimed needed binoculars to find the cup 30 feet away. That putt meant a birdie and also a chance to move into the lead for the first time in 30 holes.

She was correct more than once, but her greatest putt came on the 37th green when she aimed needed binoculars to find the cup 30 feet away. That putt meant a birdie and also a chance to move into the lead for the first time in 30 holes.

She finally got out on the corner of hole eye, took her stance and stroked. The ball broke just right and curled over the slants into the hole. That was the match, for the two rivals halted the 36th and final hole in par 5's.

Patty seized the opportunity to even the match on the 37th with a second successive birdie, after sticking a 150-yard approach 3 feet from the pin. This amazing shot, coupled with her 30-foot putt on the 37th decided the outcome.

Patty, in winning her second open title in three years, was only five over par during the 36 holes.

After her victory, Patty signed an application to join the Marines, Women's reserve, and will take her physical examination in Minneapolis Wednesday.

Joe Wants To Play Some Baseball

LONDON, July 3 (AP)—Joe Krauskas, of Hamilton, Ontario, is in Britain as a radio mechanic, and on fire to play ball.

"And I don't mean soft ball," he declared.

Joe, the former American league pitcher with the Cleveland Indians and the Washington Senators, was in the largest group of Royal Canadian air force personnel ever to be dispatched overseas and which landed recently at a British port.

Sunday School Class Named For MacArthur

A Pampa Sunday school has been named for General Douglas MacArthur.

The Salvation Army has organized a new class and named it after the famous general. Capt. Herschel Murphy is the teacher.

Another new class has been formed and named the Evangeline class, after General Evangeline Booth, Ret. of the Salvation Army.

These classes will have an attendance contest for the next quarter. At present the MacArthur class is leading.

Attendance at the Salvation Army Sunday school has doubled in the past two weeks.

Including a series of evangelistic meetings, James Elton Wood, youthful speaker, will preach on "Holiness, What It Is and What It Is Not" at 11 a. m. today and "A Solemn Duty" at 8:15 tonight at the citadel, 831 S. Cuyler.

Second Softball League Is Formed At Air Base To Boost Competition

Interest in softball at Pampa Field reached a new peak last week when a new league was formed to take care of the ever-increasing demand for more competitive leagues on the part of soldiers stationed here.

The new league, according to Lt. James Livingston, post athletic officer, will be composed of eight clubs and is to be known as "Post League No. 2." Play will start immediately, with each team playing two teams a week. At the end of the season, tentatively set for the first week in September, the leading teams from the two leagues will meet for the PAAF post softball championship. Trophies will be awarded to both league champions, as well as the post titleholder.

Members of the newly-formed loop are: Medical Detachment, Cadet Mess, 51th Service Squadron, 653d, 454th, Headquarters, 1102nd and the Post Exchange. All are different clubs from the ones playing in League No. 1, with no individual player being allowed to play for more than one team.

Meanwhile, the boys from the Post Exchange moved into first place in League No. 1, as the former front runner, 1103rd, dropped their first game of the year.

The Post League No. 1 standings, as of today, are as follows:

TEAM	WON	LOST
PX	5	0
1103rd	5	1
852nd	4	1
808th	4	1
853rd	4	2

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, July 3 (AP)—That yawning gap at shortstop in the Dodgers' lineup (which Red Barber may or may not have filled) doesn't even draw a yawn from Aviation Cadet Claude Corbit, who might have handled the job very well. . . . But Claude expects to be playing for the Dodgers after the war if it doesn't last too long.

"I'm only 27; I am still young and have several good playing years ahead of me," he said. . . . Corbit is going through the final stage of training at the Columbus, Miss., army air field.

ENCOURAGING, EH?

George Stricker, the National Football League drummer, reports that during the recent meeting at Chicago a gent who frequently had put the touch on Buffalo's Charley Murray for meal money turned up for the first time in two years. . . . He had heard the league had been formed and he wanted to bargain for a piece of it. . . . "He had $10,000 in his pocket and the unconscious body of Murray on his hands," says George.

Canadian Club Conducts Food Preservation Show

CANADIAN, July 3.—Miss Argen Hix, Hemphill county home demonstration agent, assisted by members of the Home Economics club, gave a demonstration on food preservation in the laboratory of the home economics department of Canadian high school Wednesday afternoon.

This demonstration was sponsored by the home economics club and was for information especially for those not owning a pressure cooker.

Bringing and krauting of vegetables which lend themselves to these methods of preservation was shown. Also drying of both fruits and vegetables as a method of preserving valuable vitamins.

Storage of fruits and vegetables which may be kept well through the winter was explained.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE—I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

Let Freedom Ring. One hundred and sixty-seven years ago, in downtown Philadelphia, a little band of fearful but courageous men proclaimed to the world certain human principles which, from that day to this, have been the lodestar for this nation.

Nothing in the Declaration of Independence was really new except its compilation in a single document in words that rang with sincerity and purpose. It is, as many have said, a document of glittering generalities, and yet it has provided inspiration for all the peoples who from that day to this have sought to struggle toward genuine, working democracy.

Of all the pungent phraseology in that Declaration, probably none expresses either the spirit of America or the goal toward which we now are fighting so well as one short clause:

It is all very well for ideologists and evangelists and zealots to dream of how we might make the whole world over into our own image, but the great mass of our people have in mind just two things they want to see come out of Victory.

First, that this nation itself shall maintain a government that derives its powers exclusively from the consent of the governed.

Second, that the rest of the world shall be guaranteed the opportunity to establish governments that derive their powers from the consent of the governed.

Everything else is secondary. Everything else flows from this one thing.

If, in the course of generations, we can assure that the governments of the world shall all derive their powers from the consent of the governed, everything else will follow automatically.

For all people, everywhere, want to same things that we do—freedom, prosperity, peace.

Deeds Are What Count

In opposition to the Smith-Connally bill the C. I. O. advertises that “representing most of the country's organized war workers” it has given its solemn and unconditional pledge against any stoppages whatever for the duration of the war.

It is very questionable whether the C. I. O. does represent most of the organized war workers; there is also the A. F. of L. and there are some substantial independents, including the Mine Workers.

The leadership of the C. I. O. presumably meant its “solemn and unconditional pledge” against war strikes, but in fact there are war strikes daily, many of them involving C. I. O. groups.

The Smith-Connally bill has serious flaws; but some powerful law unquestionably is needed, right now.

The Nation's Press

The mimeographed form on which the war labor board notifies the parties to a labor dispute to appear for hearing carries a warning that there “should be no publicity” in connection with the hearing. The word “should” creates a star chamber hearing just as certainly as if WLB had announced it would throw the parties into jail if they talked about the case.

At least one local defense attorney has told his clients not to bring impending hearings to the attention of the public. It might prejudice the WLB hearing panel, say the lawyers.

And what sort of a dispute is it that the WLB decrees cannot be discussed. Does it involve the production of war materials? Is it linked in any way with the lives and fortunes of our men on the fighting fronts?

The answer is no. The matter has to do with the unionization of some clerks. It is a controversy that has been going on for years. The national labor relations board has been working on it for months and only last week decreed an election must be held.

How then did the WLB get into this, you might ask. The WLB was created to cut through the red tape and delay that interrupts production in war plants. It is an emergency agency created by presidential order. There is no appeal from its decisions. Its function is to keep the arms and supplies flowing out of the factories even though it steps on sensitive and powerful toes. To that extent it is justified and will be endured.

But the WLB no longer confines itself to war plants or essential industries. It has allocated to itself authority over all labor disputes everywhere. NLRB, though an established government agency deriving its authority from congress and subject to the control of the courts, on all of its decisions, would not dare dispute the war labor board. Usurpation of authority by the hell-for-leather executive agencies is becoming more and more common.

So the war can stand by when WLB sends a hearing panel to Omaha to listen to the case of the retail clerks. The NLRB can sit outside, hat and brief case in hand, hoping it won't look too silly.

And all the while the strong boot of a wartime agency gradually forces its way into the doorway which guards constitutional rights.

WHEN APPEALMENTS ENDED (The Daily Oklahoman)

It was back in 1798 and John Adams was president when the United States frigate, the “Crescent,” sailed from an American port to the Barbary coast. In the harbor of Tunis this frigate was delivered as a present from our government to the bey of Tunis. A costly cargo, including 26 barrels of silver dollars, likewise was given to the bey. And all of those presents were given to a pirate ruler to induce him to permit our ships to sail the Mediterranean unmolested.

For more than 10 years the policy our government pursued towards the Barbary states was a policy of appeasement. Actually we paid an annual blackmail to the pirates. Each year's blackmail amounted to $1,000,000. And that policy of appeasing the sea raiders continued until Jefferson became president.

Instead of paying blackmail Jefferson launched a real war to establish the freedom of the seas. American frigates and marines fought the pirates of Tunis and Algiers and Tripoli and they fought them so effectively that they freed the Mediterranean from pirate control.

Although the war with the Barbary states

Common Ground

I speak the plain-word primer. I give the sign of democracy. By God! I will accept nothing which all cannot have their counterpart of on the same terms.

PRICE CEILING BOUND TO FOLLOW BELIEF IN COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

Things do not just happen. There is always a cause for everything. There is a very definite cause for our people permitting our government attempting to establish prices. It is a natural inevitable result of people believing that collective bargaining, which is nothing but price fixing, is beneficial to the working class of people.

Of course, collective bargaining, instead of improving the lot of the workers, is like price fixing of the government; it makes things scarcer and harder to get.

This is true because, for every dollar that collective bargaining raises the wages of the collective bargaining group, it lowers the real wages of other workers more than a dollar. This is simply a mathematical conclusion. It is true because collective bargaining price fixing interferes with the efficient use of labor and tools.

Just so price fixing is harmful to the workers, because it interferes with production. People will not produce things that are wanted when the price is set below the labor cost of production.

And now, even the Administration is admitting that price ceilings will not work. Administration officials are claiming that they can make them work by giving a subsidy. But a subsidy is just another way of fooling the people.

Yes, price fixing is nothing but an extension of collective bargaining. It is an American, un-Christian and can only lead to more and more poverty and a lower and lower real wage for the workers as a whole.

Representative Sam Hobbs of Alabama has introduced a new bill that would tend to keep communists off of our government payroll.

Representative Hobbs' bill would bar any Communist from being eligible to a government job. It would make it unlawful for any person who has been engaged in subversive activities or who subscribes to a philosophy destructive to the American system to accept employment in any government service.

I can think of no reason why that should not be a good law. Certainly any government has a right to protect itself. And Communists certainly should not be permitted to accept a job in a government that is supposed to stand for equality before the law, that all men are free to pursue happiness on the same terms when the Communists do not believe in this principle.

A man who accepts pay from a government that would destroy, is as guilty of a crime just as a spy in war times is a criminal. We must realize that most governments are destroyed not from enemies without but from enemies within.

Men who do not believe in the American principle that all men are free should not only have the right to hold office but should not have the right to vote. To permit them to vote will eventually destroy the form of government our forefathers attempted to establish.

I would be glad to have any point out any reason why the above suggestions would not promote a better government and a government that would permit character to develop.

was a minor war, it presented some thrilling successes and many examples of extraordinary courage. And it was a fine rehearsal for the larger struggle that came with Great Britain just a few years later. In the second struggle the issue was the same; the men who fought in the harbor of Tripoli and in the battle of Lake Champlain were fighting for the same objective. They fought in both wars for the freedom of the seas.

Joseph E. Davies, former United States ambassador to Russia, had the title of his book, “Mission to Moscow,” painted in bright yellow letters in English and Russian, on one side of the government plane that carried him to Moscow with a letter from Roosevelt to Stalin.

It appears a good idea, basically, but somewhat lacking in the old zipper. “Joe Davies Carries the Mail” or “Moscow or Bust” would, it seems, have more happily blended the appropriate and the commercial. Nor is yellow paint an altogether acceptable medium when neon is still available.

It is impossible to give too much attention to these fine points, for upon them depends the impression we Americans create in other countries.

Before the middle west is restricted as to gasoline consumption beyond what is necessary to save tires, it should be established beyond reasonable doubt that this would help the afflicted east.

If the serious situation in the east can be relieved by making other sections share the shortage this should be done even though it may be true that much of the trouble arises from bungling in Washington.

But no section should be penalized merely on the theory that misery loves company. If restrictions elsewhere will not make it possible to get more fuel to the east, there should be none invoked.

“Bet The Folks At Home Are Having A Big Time Today”

Africa Waits by Achmed Abdullah. A drawing of a man in traditional attire looking out at a landscape with camels.

THE STORY: Lincoln Elliot, American, has just been made military governor of a French colony in Central Africa. Long ago he had enlisted in the Foreign Legion following a bitter quarrel with his father over a matter of inheritance, and this is the climax of his career. But as he sits alone that night, reflecting on the important job ahead of him, the chaos of the African drags awaken old memories.

He remembered how, years ago, in this same town of Mounetville, promoted to sergeant and with quite a little free time on his hands, he had on occasion deliberately forgotten the chant of an American, a Christian. Remembered how he had mixed with the Moslem natives, often, when he was on furlough, for days at a time wearing their clothes, eating their food, fearing their fears, hoping their hopes, dreaming their dreams and—oh, yes—sinning their sins.

Nobody, neither his comrades nor his Moslem friends, had ever known that the Lincoln Elliot, sergeant in the Foreign Legion, and Terek el-Medjahiri, the young Arab from far-off Syria—“Allah! Allah! What a queer occasion that Syrian have!”—who occasionally wandered into town, were one and the same.

Yes, he remembered. Remembered the color of it. Color of gold. Color of blood. Color of passion.

Remembered the scent of it, a mingling of musk and sweat, roseoil and garlic. Remembered the life of it, stammered, untrammeled, savagely, gloriously free.

And, as he remembered, he felt in his heart an unrest that set his nerves to tingling.

He had already poured a generous two fingers of whiskey, when, drowning the chant of the drums, there came from a near Arab house a confused symphony of voices, unrestrained Oriental laughter, high-pitched yells, the tinkle-tinkle-tinkle of a woman's glass bracelets, a Negro's clinky, junjly talk. The sounds leaped up like fragments of some half-forgotten melody; they mocked him—and tempted him. . . . and, suddenly, he laughed.

“Free!” he thought. “Free, once more, for the last time! To the devil with duties and responsibilities—for the space of one night!” And he left the veranda and, walking on tiptoe, went to his bedroom.

HE listened. The house was quiet. The servants were asleep. His second-in-command and good friend, Capt. Robert Pelletier, also of the Legion, who had the room next to his, was snoring heartily.

He locked the door, pulled down the window blinds, lit a lamp, undressed. Feeling very much like a conspirator in some screen melodrama, he opened a trunk which held some of his more intimate belongings. He looked at the contents, smiled, went to work.

Studying his face in the mirror, he found it burned a clear mahogany by the tropical sun of many seasons. Given the right costume, he could pass anywhere for a desert Arab. Only his mustache was too military, too long. So, in the proper Moslem style, he clipped it away from the lips and shaved the corners.

Then, with agile fingers that had not forgotten the trick of it, he crowned his head with a white cotton skullcap and tied over it the Bi Hassaniyeh, passing with aching limbs and fear-chilled heart through the initiation ordeal of fire and water, of steel and rope, of scorpion and snake; had thus become a member of the Legion, and learned its secret passwords.

It was—or, rather, had been—a Moslem society, admitting both men and women. For years it had been powerful in Central Africa had, finally, become too powerful to be tolerated by the Europeans.

For its leaders had begun to mix politics with the religious and mystic rites. Relying on the superstitions awe with which the Negroes regarded them, they had taken an active interest in anti-European intrigues.

So the French government had stepped in. The Lodge had been declared illegal. Many of the members had been jailed and more exiled. And when, some weeks earlier, on the eve of his departure, Lincoln had conferred in London with General de Gaulle and Winston Churchill, he had been given a mass of confidential information in regard to the equatorial colony which he was to rule—whom to trust and whom not to trust, whom to flatter and whom to threaten, whom to bribe with gold and whom with honors and whom—oh, yes!—to liquidate, if need be—the Bi Hassaniyeh had not even been mentioned.

The Lodge, no doubt of it, had been dispersed. Its power was gone. It was today no more than a pale memory. Still, here was its talisman, the iron bracelet; and why shouldn't he wear it? So he slipped it on his wrist.

He extinguished the lamp. Cautiously he left the room, the house, and walked out into the streets, lost himself in the dense, trooping shadows cast by the Mosque of Swords.

Once more, for the last time, he would dip into the secret river of Islamic life; would forget, for the space of a few hours, the crushing burden which Fate had put upon his shoulders.

Potato Flood Follows Famine

By PETE EDSON Pampa News Washington Correspondent

REMEMBER that potato shortage of a few weeks ago? Well it's a potato surplus now. And you're actually going to have to start eating potatoes till they run out of your ears, just to save them. There are actually so many early potatoes coming out of the ground that it's a problem finding what to do with them to keep them from spoiling.

The surplus may not have filtered down through the distributive channels in the land, but the Department of Agriculture predicts that they will before long, so get ready for a potato feast to make up for that famine of last spring.

As you'll recall, that shortage was caused by two things. First, a demand for more seed potatoes to increase the acreage and the yield for this year. Second, bad weather and a late growing season in the south, which delayed arrival on the market of the first new potatoes.

You know what happened next. A potato black market in which even the people who lived on the tenth floors of crowded apartment districts were signing phony certificates so they could pay exorbitant prices for seed potatoes—not to plant—but to eat. It was one of the dirtier disgraceful lows in wartime mob psychology and human behavior.

POTATOES, POTATOES, POTATOES ALL those neat early potatoes which didn't arrive on the market when expected have now come to market—late. From North Carolina, Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, potatoes are being dug and coming out of the ground, flooding the market and running right into the normal supply of early spuds being harvested on time from the next tier of states, Virginia to Kansas.

Those early potatoes don't grow the thicker tougher skins that the later northern potatoes do, so they won't keep as well. Cold storage facilities for early potatoes are limited. Furthermore, these early potatoes aren't as suitable for drying or dehydrating or canning, though they can be handled in this way.

War Food Administration has therefore come through with assurances that it will support the market, buying all surplus potatoes not taken up in regular trade channels at prices up to 92 per cent of parity, which figures out roughly at two dollars, more or less, per hundred pounds.

STUFF YOURSELF ON SPUDS HAVING bought up these surplus potatoes, the War Food Administration agencies will do everything they can to get them used. Shipments will be diverted to areas not receiving their proportionate supplies. If necessary they will be distributed to retail agencies and hospitals. A large pack will be canned.

Above all else, consumers will be asked to eat potatoes as they never ate potatoes before and to keep on eating them as long as the surplus lasts. Victory gardeners who planted potatoes will be asked to refrain from digging their first, tender but immature little spuds, but to save 'em, let 'em grow to full size in the ground and harvest them late, so as help eat up this surplus on the market now.

The moral of this potato tale, if any, is that you never can tell what fickle old Mother Nature is going to do and all the agricultural economists, price experts, rationing lawyers and congressmen in the world can't control the weather or the growing season.

What has happened in potatoes might happen on her beef situation. Right now, as you know, beef cattle aren't coming to market. They're being held on the ranges, and cattlemen are frankly worried about the dangers of overgrazing. If a dry spell should come along and the grass lands start to shrivel up, you might see the biggest stampede of range cattle towards market that this country ever experienced.

You might even get some roast beef to go with your potatoes and make roast beef hash, and wouldn't that be something. It just goes to show you what uncertainties these government regulators have to gamble with in trying to manage the war on the home front.

With Sicily and Sardinia occupied, the way would be cleared for bigger operations, but if these two big islands are the first objectives, the Anglo-American expedition quite likely will pause before entering another phase of the attack.

Today's War Analysis

By DEWITT MacKENZIE Associated Press Writer

This is the date which the German-controlled Paris radio has been persistently predicting would produce the Allied invasion of Europe—but today, with the invasion still in the future, the Paris station scoffed at the Allies, sarcastically intimating that their plans had gone awry.

It was a patent effort to get out from under the forecast which the station had been drumming for a week. Certainly prophecy is a tricky business, calling either for vast rashness or great cleverness. Still, had the Paris broadcast angled out July 3 as the approximate rather than the specific date—and assuming that invasion doesn't come before midnight tonight—he might not have been so far off at that.

One suspects that the Allied high command would agree with him broadly for indications multiply that we are close to the zero hour of some sort of invasion in the Mediterranean. As previously pointed out, Sicily is a good bet, and the big sister island of Sardinia might be coupled with that for a double.

Dispatches from Spain report heavy movement of Allied shipping into the Mediterranean. A considerable British naval unit, including the warships Nelson and Rodney, are reported anchored in the roadstead of the Rock.

Both Sicily and Sardinia—particularly the former—have been blasted with bombs to a point where they are in dire straits. Palermo the Happy, capital and chief port of Sicily, has been bombed until American airmen operating Flying Fortresses have reported that this big city is about “finished.”

The airfields of Sicily, which caused the Allies so much anguish during the fighting in North Africa, also have been blasted until the movement of Axis warplanes from them is said to be light. The British and Americans possess supremacy in that theater.

The three thousand year old city of Messina, which is one of the most important strategic spots in the Mediterranean, has been torn to pieces.

American and British bombers have paid special attention to Messina because its ample harbor is the railway junction with the mainland. The Allies need to sever this communication, to cut off reinforcements and supplies, before attempting invasion of Sicily.

Anglo-English forces are proceeding methodically with their preliminary bombardment of Italian positions, giving indication that they don't intend to be rushed. One would expect a similar procedure when it comes to invasion of the Italian mainland, if in deed that is attempted.

With Sicily and Sardinia occupied, the way would be cleared for bigger operations, but if these two big islands are the first objectives, the Anglo-American expedition quite likely will pause before entering another phase of the attack.

UMW Asks Miners To Work Again

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The leadership of the United Mine Workers admonished all members today to return to work because "there is nothing to be gained" by continued striking and "the war cannot be won without an adequate supply of coal."

"Thousands still are off the job in the coal fields."
"By returning to work," said the editorial in the United Mine Workers Journal, "the mine workers are not forfeiting collective bargaining or their right to negotiate a wage agreement with the coal operators embodying portal-to-portal pay and other benefits."

Ash Trays, Pianos, Furniture Sought For Pampa Army Field

From ash trays to pianos is the range of articles wanted by the camp and hospital service committee for Pampa Field.

Irvin Cole, chairman, Saturday said these items are needed for the sun rooms, day rooms, and guest rooms at the air base.

Day rooms are recreational rooms where soldiers go to play games, read, and enjoy music; sun rooms afford a comfortable place for convalescent soldiers to read or play games at the station hospital.

A homelike atmosphere adds a great deal to the pleasure of the men using these rooms.

Guest rooms are for the use of relatives of men critically ill in the hospital.

At the present time, the committee needs these furnishings for three sun rooms:
Window curtains, 58 inches long, 35 inches wide, for 14 outside windows, two windows facing ward.

Three radios, six throw rugs, any shape or design, three letter writing desks, six lamps, either floor or table, six lounge chairs, six magazine racks, 15 ash trays and stands, three sofas or settees, preferably wicker, radio, piano, or musical instruments.

Pampan having articles to donate are asked to call Mrs. W. R. Campbell, committee secretary, telephone 2370. They should give Mrs. Campbell information concerning the gift so that a complete list of gifts may be kept.

Provision will be made for transporting large items, such as pianos, were requested. Smaller articles are to be taken to the Pursley Motor company, 211 N. Ballard, where supplies will be collected.

Gifts Acknowledged
In case your gift is a magazine subscription, turn it in to the secretary to prevent duplication.

First organization volunteering to furnish a sun room is the Pampa Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

Acknowledgement was given by the committee for the following donations:
Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Benton, radio; Grover Hiesckel, Pampan now in the armed forces, $10 who requested that his mother purchase some needed articles for the base; Mrs. L. K. Stout, banjo, marble game; Marilyn Keck, table lamp.

The North Plains Camp and Hospital Service Council, of which the Pampa committee is a member, will hold its next meeting, the third since the council was organized, at 2 p. m. July 13, at Pampa Field.

Latest needs of the air base were discussed at the local committee's meeting held Monday night at the city commission room in the city hall, attended by 50 persons, representing various clubs, churches, and associations.

Organizations that have not been contacted to have a representative on the committee are asked to telephone Mrs. Campbell.

Ray Ellis, Red Cross field director at the air base, explained the purposes of the sun, day, and guest rooms and why certain articles were needed, at the meeting Monday.

Representatives Listed
Officers of the local committee, besides President Cole and Secretary Campbell, are: Joe Key, alternate chairman, and James Sturgeon, treasurer.

Representatives attending the meeting Monday night were V. L. Lawrence, painter, American Federation of Labor; Frank M. Culbertson, volunteer special services chairman; Pampa chapter, American National Red Cross; Mrs. Ervin Pursley, Brownies; Mrs. I. B. Hughes, Twentieth Century club.

C. P. Pursley, Kiwanis; Mrs. W. Purviance, Women's Society of Christian Service; First Methodist church; Dan E. Williams, Kerley-Crossman Post 334 of the American Legion; Robert Fink, associate pastor, First Christian church; Loraine Bruce, American Association of University Women.

Mrs. E. C. Sidwell, Mrs. W. S. Dixon, Mrs. George Friau, Presbyterian auxiliary; Mrs. O. A. Wagri, Order of the Eastern Star; Mrs. D. L. Lunsford, Gray county Council of Home Demonstration Clubs; Mrs. H. H. Hiesckel, Worth While club.

Mrs. R. E. McKernan, women of Holy Souls parish; Mrs. M. F. Roche, home service chairman, Pampa chapter, American National Red Cross; Hugo Olsen, executive, Adobe Walls council, Boy Scouts of America; David P. Eaton Jr., Gray county assistant, farm agent.

Mrs. Erant Smith, Parents Education club; Mrs. W. R. Campbell, P-TA council; Mrs. J. B. White, executive secretary of the Pampa Red Cross chapter; Irvin Cole, Rotary; Ray Ellis, Red Cross field director, Pampa Field; Evelyn Kidwell, Sub Deb club; Janice Wheatley, Kit Kat club.

Mrs. V. L. Hobbs, Sam Houston P-TA; Mrs. C. H. Anderson, Junior high P-TA; Mrs. Max Brown, Junior Art and Civic club, LeFors; Mrs. Frank Tuttle, American Legion auxiliary and high school P-TA; Mrs. Homer Dogget, Vicsnes club; Mrs. D. E. Robinson, B. & P. W. club.

Mrs. N. L. Nicholl, Beta Gamma Kappa and Girl Scouts; Mrs. H. M. Nelson, Miami, Wayside Home Demonstration club; Mrs. Burt Graham, Order of the Rainbow; James G. Sturgeon, Veterans of the Foreign Wars of the United States, Pampa Post 1637; Joe Key, Pampa Red Cross chairman; the Rev. S. D. McLean, pastor of the First Christian church.

American warplanes renewed the assault on Italy's island capitals of Palermo, Sicily, and Cagliari, Sardinia, and bombed the Castelvero airdrome in western Sicily.

On the Russian front, the long battleline cracked with perhaps the liveliest actions in four months of stalemate.

A Nazi broadcast admitted that German troops had "fallen back to strongly fortified new positions" near Korohuzh, 50 miles east of Smolensk on the central (Moscow) front, and the Soviet command said the red armies were continuing to pound enemy defenses before Smolensk.

Sharper fighting was also reported on the Leningrad front, west of Rostov and in the Caucasus.

A Berlin broadcast said German troops had beaten off a soviet landing attempt near Novorossisk, siege bound black sea naval base, after a heavy fight, while the Russians told of blasting German ships on both sides of Kerch strait.

Nazi troops were reported concentrating across the strait, on the Crimea peninsula, indicating that the Germans might be preparing for a new thrust into the Caucasus.

Greatest Spud Crop Being Dug
LUBBOCK, July 3 (AP)—West Texas is digging its greatest spud crop.

During the next six weeks, nearly 100,000,000 pounds of new potatoes will go to market from 13 Panhandle-Plains counties, county extension agents estimate.

Herford, with a potential market this year of 400,000 hundred pound bags, and Plainview with a promise of 200,000 bags, are the leading potato markets.

This year, because potatoes were designated as a war crop and higher ceiling prices were allowed, the acreage in the 13 potato counties has been more than doubled.

Last year, 3,413 acres of potatoes were harvested, with a yield of approximately 360,000 sacks.

Worley Treasures Picture Showing Him, Tom Connally, Allred in Model T Campaign Car

By L. T. EASLEY
WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The longer a congressman remains here the more pictures — mostly news pictures — he collects and hangs on his office walls.

Senator Tom Connally undoubtedly has more than any Texan here, the walls of his "inner" private office being almost solidly covered.

Hanging prominently in Congressman Worley's office is a picture made in Galveston about 1934 at a state Democratic convention. It shows Gene, then 25, sitting proudly behind the wheel of a 1922 model-T Ford touring car, with top missing. Beside him, seated with whatever dignity was possible in that vintage car, was Senator Connally. In the back seat were James V. Allred, then governor, and the senator's son, Ben Connally.

"I had just been elected to the state legislature," recalls Worley, "and I reckon that old rattletrap was as much responsible for my good fortune as anything. I had campaigned in it."

"Someone had asked me during the campaign what I was going to do with my old car when I got elected, and I had made the office being almost solidly covered."

"I happened to meet Governor Allred shortly after that and asked him if he'd take a ride, so I could make my word good. The senator and Ben Connally were with him so they got in too, and then we had that picture made. That was the first time I had met any of them."

Worley said he paid $40 for the car while he was a student at the University of Texas, sold it for $25 four years later to another student, Sherwood Brown, now a state representative from Galveston.

By Jane Bara

If you think last Fourth of July was tame as far as the traditional sound and fury are concerned, just try to celebrate today! The only fireworks to be seen now are those our fighting men are dropping on the Axis—unless manufacturers have some hidden stocks on hand! Such pyrotechnic perennials as Roman candles are now very flares and the powder that once went into firecrackers now goes into cannon that are helping to make the world safe for bigger and more glorious Fourth!

Mrs. G. C. Walstead returned from San Antonio this week where she attended the wedding of her daughter, Louise. Mrs. Walstead says that there is no place like home especially when you live in the Panhandle of Texas in the summer time. San Antonio was a little on the warm side she said.

When a pretty girl tries to treat a bashful fellow white, he turns red.

The Frank Carters are roughing it this summer—they recently moved to the Worley ranch.

Out in St. Louis a happy turn of events came from a local bus ride when a young lady remarked wistfully to a fellow passenger that she knew no one here, and that she and her Corporal would have to be married in this friendless, cheerless city before the justice of the peace—dewdrop tears welled up in her starry eyes—nobody would come to the wedding.

But her new acquaintance decided differently, there surely would be friends at the wedding. She told fellow workers at a war plant. They got together and held a shower. The entire group was present Sunday at the ceremony and reception and escorted the pair to the union station as they left for a visit with the bridegroom's parents.

Most love triangles are wreck-angles.

In the way of fashion—Miss Mable Davis is sporting a blouse of a blue gray silk—it's on the pretty side, and ever so feminine.

It is often said that war is harder for those who remain behind than for those who go. Millions are now experiencing the sleepless nights, the ceaseless worry of remaining at home while others go to war. No small source of concern over loved ones in the service is the fear that they may not receive proper medical care. This can be dispensed with. The men in military service are receiving the best that medical science can give them.

In reviewing the military record of the first year after Pearl Harbor, the American Medical Journal says: "During the year the only serious incident from a medical point of view was the jaundice associated with 'inoculation' against yellow fever. Since January, 1941, and up to now, excluding battle casualties, the death rate has been the lowest in the history of our army. During World War I, 1 patient of each 3 with meningitis died; now only 1 in 20 dies. Prompt diagnosis, efficient care and sulfonamides have made the difference."

The American public owes a debt of gratitude to the medical men that it will never be able to fully repay. The countless thousands of men who will return after the war, thanks to the skill of doctors serving in the front lines, will not forget that debt.

In hopes of a giggle—Teacher: "James, give me a sentence using the word 'diadem'." James: "People who start across railroad tracks without looking diadem sight quicker than those who 'Stop, Look and Listen'."

Mr. and Mrs. Al Head visited a few days in Pampa this week with friends. Mrs. Head was formerly Miss Jo Finnigan of Pampa. They are being transferred from Bartlesville, Okla., to Berger.

You can't tell, maybe a fish goes home and lies about the size of the bait he stole.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Graham of Kerrville, Tex., former Pampans, were guests of Mrs. Graham's sister, Mrs. B. O. Kelly, this week. The Grahams were en route to their cabin near Eagle Nest, N. M. Their young daughter, Nancy, has been most industrious while she has been away from Pampa. She returned with a number of paintings which she had been working on, and was anxiously awaiting the approval of her art teacher.

Miss Ann Buckler looked especially lovely the other evening in a yellow straw cartwheel hat.

Cupid is working overtime, and has made quiet a haul here in Gray county. Thirty days hath June, according to the nursery rhyme, and there has been a grand total of 53 marriage licenses issued during the month. Getting down to fine points it averages 1.76666666 and 6's on and on to eternity) and ten-thirtieths marriage license per day.

Orchids, in fact a whole dozen of them, should go Mrs. I. W. Spangler this week for her swell job of entertaining last Sunday evening. The affair was a U. S. O. picnic held in the back yard of her home west of the city. In blue denim overalls, plaid shirt, and her hair piled high she took care of everyone in good fashion. At present she is taking lessons on the Solovos, keeping care of a spacious yard, being a lot of fun and a swell hostess. And speaking of the U. S. O.—their new home will be something!!! It is nearing completion, and Mrs. Pagan is working with a vengeance in getting furniture, game tables and such moved over. . . . A catchy tune that took shape over in the U. S. O. is "That's My Darlin' Rose," words and music by Pvt. David Rubin. . . . (and it only has one flat!!!) The song was written in honor of the men overseas, that left their best girls on these shores. "That's My Darlin' Rose" is on sale at a local music store, and copies are going like hot cakes. . . . So here's hoping that the Pampa air base can produce one of the future hit song writers.

There is a very narrow margin between keeping your chin up and sticking your neck out.

Now that it's the season once more Pampans are going to hate to waste all those good worms they dug up out of their Victory gardens. So to those people "Why Can't I Go Fishing?" is dedicated. . . . "To Whom It May Concern:—I have: My birth certificate, employees' identification, registration certificate, social security, Red Cross donor certificate, auto license, used car stamp, trailer license, fishing license, Victory garden.

I have paid my taxes bought war stamps and bonds and I am paying 20 per cent of my salary and have contributed to the Red Cross, the U. S. O. fund and the United War fund.

I have had my tires checked as per regulation and keep my car tuned for proper mileage, and observe the 35-mile-per-hour law and all other laws.

I have obtained from the board application for tires for trailer; oil for cooking; and mosquito kiting; gas for outboard motor and I am allowed 90 miles for pleasure driving.

Now—why can't I go fishing for two weeks when my boss gives me two weeks vacation?

Mrs. Paul Tabor and Mrs. Harry Schwartz are doing a swell job in their work with the Cadet Wives Club. . . . They do all sorts of nice things for them in the way of entertaining. The club was attended by 27 members at the last meeting. Each cadet wife is automatically eligible for membership in the club.

Ever so often there comes to light a person who does not know a moron story. These rare creatures are found primarily in the dark uninhabited corner lurking behind a heavy set of books or a calculating machine. They wonder why Webster defines "moron" as a sluggish, dull, stupid, moderately feeble minded person; that most morons can do nothing but work under supervision and can be happy with tasks too simple and monotonous to satisfy an intelligent mind. He just does not get it!!! Especially when he hears the so-called intelligentsia going around telling such gems as: You have heard the one about the little moron who turned out the light in his car because he was going to strip the gears, the one that was so modest that he went into the closet to change his mind, the little moron who backed off he bus because he heard someone say they were going to grab his seat, though he was going to die and he didn't want to so he went into the living room, put crackers in his shoes to feed his pigeon toes so they wouldn't eat his corns, ate bullets so he could have bangs . . . and on and on and more-ous.

New seasonal colors are the grays and greens, the "camouflage" colors. Particularly stunning are the creations in reddish and brown. Some are trimmed with lace dyed to match, others with bugle beads or sequins (which, by the way, are coming into the fashion parade with a bang).

Also in the way of fashion, the well-known play clothes in light weight multi-colored chambray are marvellous for coolness and comfort. Things with big patch pockets to hold your garden tools, a trim V neck and short sleeves, pinafores and jumpers, are still extremely popular for these hot days. The beauty of the jumper is that you can leave the blouse off most of them and be well-dressed for the sun.

Schneider-Grapenthien Marriage Is Solemnized In Church Wedding

Miss Heidi Nellie Schneider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schneider, 717 N. Gray, became the bride of Louis Edward Grapenthien, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. Grapenthien, Chicago, Ill., at the First Methodist church, June 30.

The double ring ceremony was read by the Rev. E. B. Bowen, minister, at 8:30 p. m.

Music for the wedding was played on the church organ by Mrs. John Skelly. Miss Meribell Hazard, soloist sang "Because" and "Love You Truly." Mrs. Skelly played "Indian Love Call," and "Schuber's Serenade" during the ceremony. "Wedding March" from Lohengrin, and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" were played for the processional and recessional.

The altar was set with six tapering cathedral candelabra interspersed with tall white baskets of gladiolus, woodwardia ferns and palms.

Brides maids were Miss Leona Grapenthien, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Ann Chisholm, Mrs. J. E. Leverich, as matron of honor. The attendants dresses were identical, fashioned with square neck lines, fitted bodices and full skirts. Each carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations. Bands of white carnations were also worn.

S/S John Keith served as best man, with Sgt. Alvin N. Fedde and M/Sgt. Eugene Sims as groomsmen.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin bridal gown fashioned with a high neckline and tiny dressmaker buttons down the front of the waist, long fitted sleeves and a floor length bridal veil of uillson and lace from a halo of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with white orchids. Her only accessory was a strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom's parents.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue ensemble with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The serving table was set with an Italian cut-work cloth, centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. Candles in crystal holders with white tapers were placed on each side of the cake. Punch was served from a crystal bowl.

After the reception the couple left for their honeymoon trip to Colorado Springs. The bride traveled in a two-piece navy-blue suit with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was of white orchids.

After July 4, the couple will be at home in Pampa.

The bride is a graduate of Pampa High school and attended Texas Tech for two years where she was a member of the Koshiah club. For the past six months she has been employed at the Pampa Air base.

The bridegroom graduated from Lane Tech High school in Chicago, Ill., and later attended Northwestern University. At present he is stationed at the Pampa air base.

JULY 4 THOUGHTS

The Fourth, which commemorates the independence of these United States is a fitting day on which to re-evaluate the Four Freedoms for which we fight! Let us remember that in essence true Americans fought for those same freedoms in the dire 1770's—and that they are the sum total of all that makes life worthwhile. To truly honor our forefathers who fought for liberty—let us give every support to those who today fight to encircle the world with the glory of the Four Freedoms, that every man, woman and child may henceforth live in peace and security.

Mind Your Manners

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

- When creamed meat is served on toast do you lift the toast off with the meat when you serve yourself from a serving dish?
- In helping yourself to such a dish how do you use the serving fork and spoon?
- If you disapprove of tipping should you eat in restaurants or at cafeterias and lunch counters?
- Should children be taught to say "No, thank you" or "I don't like that" when refusing food at a table?
- Should children who eat with the family be allowed to take part in the dinner-table conversation? What would you do if—
After finishing a meal in a restaurant you find you have no change for a tip?
(a) Don't leave a tip?
(b) Get change from the cashier when you pay your bill and walk back to your table and leave a tip?

Answers

- Yes.
- Take the toast covered with the other food on the serving spoon and hold it in place with the serving fork.
- The latter, if you disapprove enough so that you refuse to tip.
- The former.
- Certainly.

We the Women

By RUTH MILLETT

You want to do something for the woman whose husband has gone to war? Well, try bolstering up her ego.

The man who made her feel glamorous, smart, and important isn't around any more and chances are her opinion of herself has struck a new low.

Compliment her on a new dress. Don't just admire the dress,—but emphasize how pretty she looks in it. That is what she used to hear.

If she invites you over for a meal, rave about the food. When she whipped up one of her specialties for her husband he used superlatives.

When you ask her to your house don't say, "I'm having a little party and I thought it might cheer you up." Instead say, "I do hope you can come because the evening won't drag if you're around to liven things up."

Tell her once in a while the nice things you heard someone else say about her.

Kid her a little. She probably hadn't been teased or laughed at indulgently since her husband went away.

SEEK HER OPINION

Ask her advice once in a while. She is bound to have moments of feeling pretty helpless and inadequate—and knowing that someone else thinks her judgment and her opinion are important is bound to give her new confidence in herself.

Never give her the idea that you feel sorry for her and that the reason you call her up often and try to see more of her now than in the past is because you think she is a poor, lonely creature who needs cheering up. That will depress her more than if you just left her alone.

Build up the war wife's ego—if you want to build up her morale.

French War Hero Star Of New Metro Picture

By BROWNWOOD EMERSON

"Assignment in Brittany" offers something different to Pampa theater goers. You can't dismiss it as just another war picture, for its combination of action, adventure, and love against the romantic background of the quaint French province, means the difference.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film, showing Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, at the LaNora, is based on the story which ran as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post.

Briefly, the yarn is about a British secret agent who poses as a French poilu and his love for a peasant girl in a land over-run with Nazis.

There's extra meaning in the chief male role, played by Pierre Aumont, who makes his American film debut in this picture, for before coming to this country he fought the Nazis until the collapse of France, and won the Croix de Guerre.

Following his escape to America, Aumont played opposite-Katherine Cornell on the stage.

Susan Peters has the chief feminine role, the loyal French peasant girl who loves Aumont, the French officer masquerading as the poilu, to whom she was engaged.

To get away entirely from the war angle, take a look at the LaNora's current booking, "Cabin in the Sky," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer musical fantasy, retaining song hits of the original show, and featuring Eddie (Rochester) Anderson, Ethel Waters, of the original stage production, Rex Ingram, Lena Horne, Louis Armstrong with his famous trumpet, Duke Ellington and band, and the Hall Johnson choir.

Highlighting the picture are the songs, "Happiness is a Thing Called Joe," "Cabin in the Sky," "Here I Go Again," "Honey in the Honeycomb."

The picture is on the LaNora screen today through Wednesday.

Louis Armstrong and Mantan Moreland offer a light to their irate boss, played by Rex Ingram, whose plans are not going well at all in this scene from M-G-M's musical fantasy, "Cabin in the Sky," now playing at the LaNora Theatre.

ing as a bundist, who returns to the "Fatherland," for an advanced course in sabotage.

Back to the 80s goes the plot of Warner's "Gentleman Jim," account of the life of James J. Corbett and how he won the world's heavyweight championship. Handsome Errol Flynn is "Gentleman Jim." Alexis Smith provides the heart interest, and Ward Bond does a masterful interpretation in the role of the great John L. Sullivan. The picture opens a three-day run today at the Crown.

Now that corn meal is being enriched with the vitamin B complex, there's a nutritious reason too for serving it as a substantial breakfast dish. But make your corn bread of bacon drippings, chicken fat or cracklings to save our national fat supply and your own red points and money.

The Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics has just issued a pamphlet called "Fats in Wartime Meals." It's an important document, especially so in homes where hot breads and homemade pies and cakes are customary. Here are two fat-saving recipes good for a substantial and easy to eat breakfast.

Crackling Corn Bread

Two cups corn meal, 1/2 cup sifted flour, 4 tablespoons baking powder, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 egg, beaten, 2 cups milk, 1 cup cracklings.

Sift together the dry ingredients, add milk, to which beaten egg has been added, and mix well. Stir in the cracklings cut into small pieces or ground through a food chopper.

Cracklings are the crisp brown pieces left after fat is rendered. Pour the mixture into a greased pan and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) 30 to 40 minutes or until well browned. Serve piping hot. If you use sour milk in the above recipe, add 1 teaspoon of soda and omit the baking powder.

Biscuits, Wartime Style
(Makes about 12 biscuits)

Two cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons fat (drippings, rendered pork, beef fat or lard), milk to make soft dough (1/2 to 1 cup).

Sift the dry ingredients together and cut in the fat well. Stir in enough milk to make a soft dough. Drop the dough by spoonfuls onto a baking sheet and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for about 15 minutes or until lightly browned. The fat may be reduced to 1 tablespoon but this makes a crisper and less tender biscuit. To make a "lid" for meat or vegetable pie, roll the dough about one-half inch thick, cover the stew, and bake in a hot oven.

TOMORROW'S MENU
(Eat the Basic 7 Every Day)

BREAKFAST: Blackberries, milk, crackling corn bread, fortified margarine, honey or jam, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Raw vegetable and egg salad with mayonnaise, cheddar cheese, hot biscuits, wartime style, clear jelly, tea, milk.

DINNER: Tomato juice, meat loaf extended with rolled oats

Wacs Is New Name For Women's Corps

WASHINGTON, July 3 (AP)—The WAACs are now the WACs.

President Roosevelt signed Friday legislation dropping the "A" organization the Women's Army Corps.

The new law also puts the WACs under army regulations, raises the membership age limit from 45 to 50 years, and provides that officers shall exercise command only over women of the corps and other army members "who are specifically placed under their command."

"Planes Enough to Hide the Rising Sun"

Chapter 30 IN MANY ways, the Battle of Savo Island on the morning of August 9 was as disastrous for the United States as the Pearl Harbor attack eight months and two days before. It delayed our whole schedule for further attacks in the Solomons, took the initiative out of our hands, and put us in a defensive position which we were still maintaining at the end of the first year of war.

PT Boats Are Doing Heroic Job In Pacific Against Japs

By MERLIN SPENCER

AN ADVANCED BASE SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, July 2 (AP)—A torpedo crashed into the side of a Japanese submarine off the coast of New Guinea one moonlight night during the Christmas holidays. The submarine broke in two and sank with all aboard. American patrol torpedo boats had gone into action.

Word of the sinking of the submarine by a swift, hard-hitting torpedo boat commanded by Ensign T. F. Bruno of Pensacola, Fla., was relayed jubilantly by word of mouth along the Papuan battle front.

The Japanese learned of the PT boats' arrival, too. Japanese barges seeking to run the Allied aerial blockade under cover of night, found the PT's in their midst, clashing at them with machine guns, cannon and depth charges.

Two boats skipped by Lieutenants (jg) John S. Baylis, Jr., Upper Montclair, N. J., and Russell Hamachek, Manitowoc, Wis., dealt one of the last blows of the Bismarck sea action.

The PT boats are dealing deadly blows at the Japanese, but word they had gone into action was withheld until it had been determined definitely that the Japanese knew the boats were here.

When night cloaks the Pacific in darkness, they slip from their hideouts like beasts of prey going on the hunt. Painted to blend with the jungle background, the PT's brave enemy waters where jagged reefs stand as a constant menace.

Two boats skipped by Lieutenants (jg) John S. Baylis, Jr., Upper Montclair, N. J., and Russell Hamachek, Manitowoc, Wis., dealt one of the last blows of the Bismarck sea action.

The PT's have been death on Japanese landing barges although the latter are heavily armored and have put more than one hole in the American boats.

Skip Dean's boat accounted for approximately a dozen at one time. It was a dark night and Dean was lying off shore with most of his men getting a long needed rest.

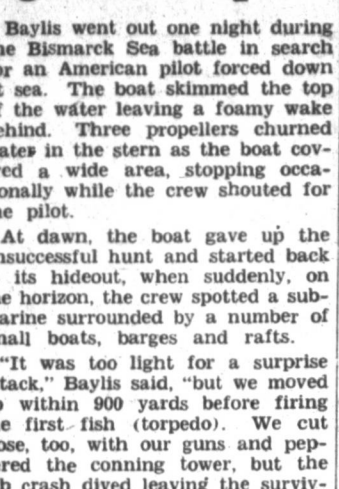

The Japanese were attempting to load the boat which looked something like a sub in the darkness while Dean ran up and down the deck shouting, "Get the hell off my boat."

After disposing of them, Dean found two more barges near the shore and sank them.

PT's on the north coast of New Guinea have been doing a heroic job in maintaining the blockade of Lae and Salamaua during the night when airplanes are unable to operate.

One commander summed up the work: "The water is full of reefs and virtually uncharted. The enemy is the least of our worries. Many of our boys are only a year out of college. Some were lawyers. Some were insurance men. One was a jewelry salesman. But they all have the right spirit and have done a hell of a good job."

Airfield in Sicily

Sicily's airfields have already been blasted by Allied bombers and when invasion comes, they are likely objectives for paratroopers. Here a group of Nazi airmen relax near one of their bombers at an airfield in the shadow of Mt. Etna (upper right.)

REVOLT—President Roosevelt's handling of the Smith-Connelly Bill has labor lobbyists and Democratic members of Congress muttering to themselves these days.

Early in the exciting week House Majority Leader John W. McCormack assured anxious colleagues that F. D. R. would approve the proposal. He did not get the tip directly from the White House but from several key Senators who affirmed they had received that promise from the Chief Executive.

The C. I. O. and A. F. of L. bigwigs were so certain of Congressional "metooing" that they did not buttonhole their favorite legislators in an attempt to persuade them to uphold the President.

Green-Murray spokesmen maintain that the head man could have mobilized sufficient votes to sustain his veto if he had tried. He needed only eleven more ballots in the House and three in the Senate that number of New Deal coat-tailers were absent from both chambers because they had not received word that F. D. R. would turn thumbs down on their handiwork after having intimated that he would sign.

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

Miss Constance Dowling, recently of New York and now of Hollywood, is a little confused. So am I. But Papa Goldwyn says everything is going to be all right—in technicolor.

Blond, lovely and 21, Constance is Producer Samuel Goldwyn's latest discovery. She's being ballyhooed as a triple-threat girl by Mr. Goldwyn's press agents—"she can sing, she can dance and she can act."

Constance knew her mother would not approve of the Paradise, so she built up an elaborate story about working nights as a telephone operator. The hoax worked for almost a year until a friend of her mother's happened to look up from his salad at the club one night and there was Constance giving with all her might on the dance floor.

Mr. Roosevelt failed to inform Capitol Hill bosses that he would send back the unapproved measure so late in the week, therefore members were advised that they could go home for the week end Friday.

As a rule, when rejection of such an important proposition is scheduled, the Chief Executive notifies his men in advance in order to round up a supporting majority.

MUM—The ups and downs of Louis Glavis provide one of the Capitol's most amazing mystery dramas. His friends contend that if he could be made to talk, he might explode more secrets around the national lot than any other man in the Administration.

It was Mr. Glavis's report on the Cuggenheim coal interests' attempt to corner valuable Federal properties in Alaska that precipitated the famous Pinchot-Ballinger scandal in the Taft era.

Three army commanders have recently been transferred to that area from the Pacific, the newspaper added. It also coupled a special Japanese military conference, which it said was now in session in Korea, with the Manchuria preparations.
