HOUSE WIVES NEED SPECIAL ADJUSTMENT TO WAR JOBS

BY RUTH MILLET When a man with a white collar job decides to get a job in a war plant the only thing he has to worry about is learning the new job. But when a woman who is a housekeeper decides to go into a factory to work she has a difficult adjustment before her.

So far, there hasn't been much help offered her along that line. But it will come. In New York the American Services is offering a course in "Industrial Preparedness" which is aimed at easing women over the jump from housekeeper to war worker-plus-housekeeper.

It is a practical course, for it aims to help women who have never worked outside the home before to change from a social attitude to a business one, to develop a new set of work habits, to combine a home and holding-down a job.

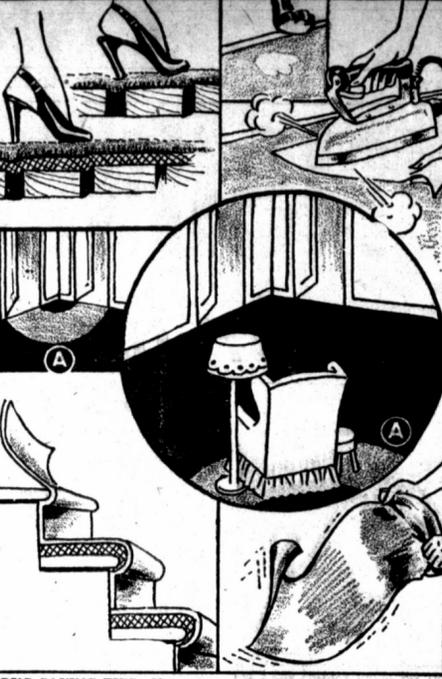

Such courses are needed wherever there are war plants. For the homemaker who decides to take on a factory job is bound to find the going tough at first, as she tries to combine home-making and job holding, without neglecting either.

SHORTCUTS HELP Any ways of managing and any shortcuts that can be taught here are a real help. It will even help her to know that her problems are the problems of most women who combine two jobs—and not just the result of her own shortcomings or inadequacy.

For a woman can easily grow discouraged when she adds a full time job to the job of homemaking—if she doesn't know when she starts out what her problems are going to be and that they can be solved by good management and elimination of non-essential work.

Carson Co. Nursing To Be Discontinued

Word was received this month by Judge W. J. Williams, Carson County Judge and Miss Eva Mae Hardin, County Nurse, that the County Nursing Service would be discontinued July 1, 1943. Mr. P. A. Kerby, business officer gave the reasons as lack of funds, shortage of personnel, and other factors connected with the present national emergency, stating that all funds from the State Department would be withdrawn July 1.

The Carson County Nursing service grew out of the County Welfare Board. In 1931 the Parents and Teachers Association asked the county commissioners to match funds with them for hiring a county school nurse. Mrs. Martin T. Pope served in the position for one year. In 1932 a group of county people met with Miss Olga Bruesch, State Advisory nurse, and organized a county health board. Following this the county Commissioners court, cooperating with the State Health department, placed the first full time public health nurse in the county. Mrs. Hunter was retained for this position and served for two years. She was followed by Mrs. Nettie Kirchhoff in 1936. Miss Fay Lockhart came to the county in 1938 and served for two years. Miss Eva Mae Hardin, present nurse assumed the duties of county nurse in July, 1940. Following the closing of the office

Official Disinterest Delayed Radar's Use

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
(Copyright, 1943, by The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP)—In June, 1930, the developers of radar realized that their discoveries had gone far beyond original expectations.

There was a method which sharply limited the airplane's then unchecked ability to attack with surprise and demoralize defenses before they got into action.

Here was one of the greatest tactical advances in warfare since the original evolution of the military uses of aircraft.

There followed several months of intensive experiments with aircraft detection. Various radio frequencies were tried out. Dr. Albert Hoyt Taylor and his associates, including Carlos B. Mirick, who then directed the naval research laboratory's aircraft radio section, spent weeks bouncing waves off planes around the naval air station and along the Mount Vernon Boulevard on the Virginia side of the Potomac. Mirick's job was to keep a photographic record of the experiments, which he did with outstanding success, Taylor said.

Even the dirigible Akron, which happened to be in the vicinity, was subjected to a few wave bombardments just to make sure that airships as well as planes could be picked up.

All this work was carried on with regular radio waves, rather than with the pulses used in measuring the Kennelly-Heaviside layer (the world's electric roof, about 150 miles up). These waves required comparatively clumsy apparatus, including two widely separated antennae—one for sending, the other for receiving.

This bothered Taylor considerably, for he was a naval scientist seeking to develop a machine compact and simple enough to install on a ship without cluttering it up and antagonizing the officers.

The apparatus was entirely effective, however, and not too clumsy for use on land. At one time Taylor worked out a complete defense system for the city of Washington using the detection equipment then developed. So information about the experiments and their possibilities in defense of the country against air attack was turned over to the army in 1932.

Army research, like that of the navy, was then starved for funds, and no vigorous progress along the lines suggested by Taylor was made before 1936.

The research and development then undertaken by the army signal corps eventually led to the system of radar protection set up around the coastal frontiers of the United States to detect the presence of aircraft while they still are many miles from land.

This left unsolved the problem of what to do about protecting the navy's ships against air attack. For a time the best brains of the research laboratory were baffled. That is, whenever they got a few quick minutes to think about the problem. For radio detection was then but one, and by official standards a minor one, of NRL's projects.

One day Leo C. Young, an associate of Taylor, strolled into Taylor's office with a hopeful gleam in his eyes.

"Remember the Kennelly-Heaviside experiments?" he asked. "Why don't we do this thing with pulses?"

"Well," Taylor replied, "it's a long way up there to the ionosphere. That gives you a long time interval between emission of the pulse and its reception, which is probably why the pulse worked so well in those experiments. I doubt whether it would work on shipboard, considering the compact apparatus and the short distances we must work with there."

But Taylor never was a man to reject an idea simply because he disagreed with it. He told Young to begin work on the pulse principle.

Young started a new line of research and worked more or less alone for three or four months. His problem was typical of all those encountered, before and after, in radar equipment. The scientists were always reaching out for the unknown and the untried; a new electrical gadget, a different coil, or sparkgap or vacuum tube, might be the missing link needed to bring weeks of brain-wracking labor to fruition.

By this time a number of individual navy officers, including Harold Bowen, then a captain, were most interested in plane detection work. To understand the intensity of their interest it is only necessary to recall that for 10 years, General William Mitchell, the prophet of air power, had been preaching the doom of the warship.

During those 10 years the commercially-valuable airplane had made enormous technical progress; shipboard anti-aircraft defense, seemingly with no conceivable commercial uses, had not.

Busy with civilian goods, private research agencies were not interested in solving problems in preparation for some distant dreamed-of war. If there wasn't a predictable percentage of profit through public exploitation, no board of directors could afford to approve it. Whatever progress was made would have to be made by the government itself.

Back in November, 1930, Taylor had made a comprehensive report to the navy's bureau of engineering of which Bowen was then assistant chief, entitled "Radio-Echo Signals from Moving Objects."

The paper told about detection of ships and planes, how and why they were detected and what the tactical possibilities were.

The admirals at the navy department did not even have to digest the thing. It was all there in highly assimilable form, like pre-cooked baby food. This time Taylor got results.

For 10 years he had taken funds from other research projects and disobeyed orders to divert physicists from work the navy thought more important. In all that time he and his loyal associates, like men following a vision, never had become really disheartened, never had decided to throw down their tools in disgust and wait until the navy and the nation got ready to help them. Always, whenever a moment could be spared or stole, they worked on radio detection.

The engineering bureau's radio division studied Taylor's report, which contained the first formal statement of airplane detection work for two months, then officially assigned the laboratory this problem: "Investigate the use of radio to detect the presence of enemy vessels and aircraft. Special emphasis is placed on the confidential nature of this problem."

The emphasis on confidence by those whose responsibility it was to handle security was a bit belated. Publication of the articles on Kennelly-Heaviside measurements of this problem.

The ban placed on the navy's ships against air attack. For a time the best brains of the research laboratory were baffled. That is, whenever they got a few quick minutes to think about the problem. For radio detection was then but one, and by official standards a minor one, of NRL's projects.

Young, alert, affable in an easy, square-cut manner, Robert Guthrie was a natural working mate for Page. The two men have been closely and profitably associated for a decade.

Their advent on the radar scene marked the passing of the main radar development into the hands of a new generation.

This fact serves as a checking point for what had happened in radar development outside the naval research laboratory by that time, and it is interesting to note that while great strides had been made in such potentially commercial fields as television, there was but little that contributed directly to work on radar. This instrument in America was basically developed from start to finish by the scientists on the Potomac.

One type of equipment for which they had gone to the outside world all along, and continued to go, was the vacuum tube. Early in the game they tried out a variety of tubes and quickly found that only two were suitable for their hard use. Both of those were manufactured for radio amateurs, "Hams." Taylor and Page give the anonymous thousands of old time hams great credit for their unwitting contribution to radar.

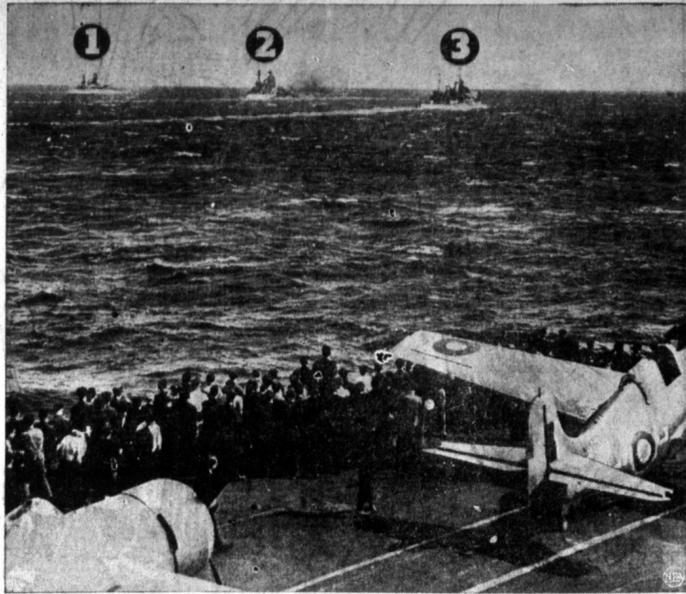

"A ham," said Taylor, "was a tough fellow to please when it came to tubes. If he was trying to talk with Des Moines and he couldn't reach it, he would merely turn up the power. It didn't bother him if he put 150 watts on a 50-watt tube. If the tube burned out, he just thought it wasn't any good. So he'd raise hell and get a new one.

"Those tubes we used were built to meet the demands of the ham. Anything less rugged was not suitable for our purposes."

Page and Guthrie were using those ham tubes in their first experiments and it was not until several years later that funds became available for adequate purchases of tubes specially-designed for radar requirements.

Berlin Getting Hard To Recognize
STOCKHOLM, June 23 (AP)—Travelers returning to Sweden from Germany report that so much of Berlin has been "blowed up" by intensive RAF bombings that "many quarters cannot be recognized."

War Fleet in the Mediterranean

British warships, now masters of the Mediterranean, cruise the blue waters on a tour of target practice preparatory to leading invasion convoys against the continent. From the deck of the aircraft carrier Formidable are seen the battleships Nelson (1) and Rodney (2) and the cruiser Newfoundland (3). The Rodney is firing broadside of her 16-inch guns.

Pampa's Passing Parade

ED ANDERSON, city hall building supervisor, has thrown a monkey wrench into the answer given for the tree located directly in front of the police station.

One Pampa, in answer to a query, said it was a Russian olive. Ed comes back and says it's no Russian olive but an ash. He said the Russian olive trees was on the other side of the lawn and was cut down when it died.

Ash, incidentally, is the best growing tree of all, Ed says.

While on the subject of trees, it might give the service clubs an idea for a quiz program on the kind and number of trees on Albert square, the court house lawn, and in Central park. How many Pampans can do this?

SIGNS OF THE TIMES—Claude Everly, White Deer correspondent for The Pampa News, brings to light difficulties of news-gathering in these days of gasoline rationing, in this comment on a wedding story.

"I could not find out whether the ceremony was performed at a church or not nor who the minister was without driving about 12 miles and in these days I just didn't believe those details were important."

NORMAN C. MINTER, district court stenographer, who has a hobby of collecting potted plants which he displays in his office, also likes photography. On the wall of his office is a picture taken by Montie Ritchey, former JA ranch manager, of a coat branding scene on the famous ranch. Ritchey is now in the ferry command, Stenographer Minter says.

REPORTERS GET toughened to taking it on the chin and as a matter of routine take the blame for all errors in their stories, regardless of whether they made them or not. Not that reporters don't make plenty of mistakes—they do—but with this situation always present it warns a newspaperman's heart to hear a public official admit he—the official—made a mistake.

Take W. C. deCordova, city manager, for example. When Dick Duncan was employed as a life guard at the Pampa pool, Manager deCordova said Duncan had been in the navy, from which he had received an honorable discharge.

It turned out Duncan had been in the marines, not the navy as the story based on the information from the city manager had stated. "I should have told him," deCordova said with a chuckle, "that I said marines but that you got it wrong."

The city manager, incidentally, used to work as a circulation manager and had a fairly good insight into the business as a result.

FEWER CORRESPONDENTS of any Panhandle paper take a keener interest in their work than May Stevens Isaac, Canadian correspondent of The Pampa News. Not only does she cover Canadian and Hemphill activities thoroughly but she always encloses notes with her copy, commenting on this story or that, giving full explanations of some details that might be confusing, and reflecting community opinion.

In a note this week to the state editor, she wrote that the families of men in the armed forces were appreciative of the cuts and stories used of Canadian men in Sunday's issue of this newspaper.

L. H. JOHNSON, manager of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company, has the answer to a complaint made to him yesterday about frequent changes in telephone numbers. Telephone directories are published only once a year. In the meantime there have been frequent changes, especially on party lines, necessitating lots of shuffling of numbers. The telephone company has found it was cheaper to have "information" set subscribers right on numbers instead of issuing directories at more frequent periods.

JOHN V. ANDREWS, city park superintendent, would just about as soon lose an arm as to see some malicious mischief wreck a tree, plant, or bush. He knows the trees in Central park like you know your next door neighbor, and if you want to see an angry man, just watch him after some vandal has slashed the trunk of a tree or stripped its limbs.

And those who have no respect for public property have been acting him "hot up" plenty this summer. Three times it has happened. The last case was when a redwood tree was damaged. Before that horseback riders had made a thoroughfare of the park, damaging the sod. An automobile driven into the park and older children chasing the "babies from the wading pool were other headaches.

EVEN AFTER 13 years, it's still difficult for lots of residents to distinguish between the city hall and the court house, even through the name of each building is carved in stone above entrances.

They still look for the rationing board at the city hall. Puzzled at not finding it, they search signs on the board's former quarters, now a work room for the Red Cross, look perplexed, then doubly so when they ask and find they are in the city hall when all the time they thought it was the court house.

The city hall was opened in November, 1930, the court house in April of the same year.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES—"Official" vocabularies now stress "directives" and "processing," "applicant" and "registration." Remember the days of the panic when the words were "project," "survey" and "man-hours"?

HAVE CHECKERS and dominoes faded out of the picture at the court house? There used to be a time when A. G. (Friday) Brannon and others ganged around the sheriff's department and the justice of the peace offices for long sessions of these games, but it has been a long, long time since there has been any competition.

'Demon Rum' Cases Rise For No Reason

Saturday's customary week-end rush of customers was duplicated at the beginning of the week yesterday for the Pampa police department, with 10 arrests made, nine of them for intoxication, one for affray.

Last week-end there were 16 cases on the blotter of which nine were for intoxication.

One of the nine charged today with intoxication is being held for investigation by the federal bureau of investigation as he possessed no draft registration or classification cards.

Police Chief Ray Dudley, just back from a business trip to Oklahoma City, couldn't account for the unusual spurt of mid-week rum cases as ordinarily "demon rum" cases are most noticeable in the period between Saturday and Monday.

Frugal U. S. Fiscal Policies Urged

COLUMBUS, O., June 23.—(AP)—The 35th annual governor's conference considered today at its concluding session recommendations of a special interstate committee to pursue frugal fiscal policies until the war's end and to formulate plans to prevent unemployment during the transition to a peacetime economy.

The committee, including representatives from each section of the nation, reported delegates to a series of regional meetings agreed the major postwar problem is "full employment of all who want to work," and said its solutions would "require the closest cooperation on the part of government."

It said "government has a three-fold duty with respect to the postwar period: To support and implement the efforts of private industry to supply employment for all who are able and willing to work; to supplement the job-creating efforts of private enterprise through worthwhile public works when necessary; and to develop and supply such public facilities and services as may be needed to protect and improve our American standard of living."

Today on the Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE
WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Our friend Joe is worried—again.

He put it this way: "The income tax will take 20 per cent of my pay, Secretary Morgenthau wants 25 per cent for war bonds, now they want to take 6 per cent for social security, prices seem to be going up. Where am I gonna wind up?"

Well, we pointed out that the pay roll deduction for income tax isn't going to be 20 per cent of all Joe's earnings—it's 20 per cent of the amount above his exemptions (Joe is married, has two children, earns $55 a week).

We told Joe, too, that Secretary Morgenthau acknowledges there are some people who simply can't put 25 per cent into war bonds.

And that congress hasn't shown any inclination to raise the social security to 5 or 6 per cent; as some governmental leaders have urged. However, the present deduction of 1 per cent will go up to 2 per cent next year unless congress postpones the increase again.

We sat down with Joe and listed his weekly deductions as they'll be under the new income tax collection plan:
Income tax—$3.88
10 per cent for war bonds—$5.50
Company pension plan—$1.65
Life insurance (group plan)—$.
Social security—55 cents.
Hospitalization (group plan)—50 cents.
Total deductions—$13.

That'll leave Joe with $42 a week. "But if I put 25 per cent into war bonds, that would be $13.75"—Joe sighed.

"Then I'd have $28.25 taken out of my pay. That'd leave me only $33.75. And how much'll that buy?"

"And if they boost the social security to 6 per cent, that'd be another $2.75 off the check—leaving me $31."

"And besides, they're talking about a sales tax and higher income taxes."

So we got out the latest available figures on cost of living. We looked up the bureau of labor statistics "maintenance level." This is figured for an unskilled overall-wearing laborer with two children. It is stated that this budget doesn't approach the content of what may be considered a satisfactory American standard of living.

It covers food—"An adequate diet at minimum costs," clothes, housing, fuel and light, a daily newspaper, ice for refrigeration, one movie a week.

It's figured for 33 cities. We found that the last revision of the maintenance level was for Dec. 15, 1942. The highest was for Washington, D. C.—$1757.49 a year, or $33.80 a week. Lowest of the 33 was Mobile—$1453.85 a year, or about $28 a week. The average ran to about $30 a week. And we read that the bureau says costs have gone up about 5 per cent since then.

PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1
To say that Britain has more influence in Washington than China is to state the obvious. For that reason, Sen. Chandler has performed a public service in demanding that greater attention be given the war against Japan. It seems plain that he has the backing of high military and naval opinion.

If China goes out of the war and if Russia refuses to help us, after we have helped her—in short, if we are denied air bases against Japan—it will be a bloody business to defeat the Japs with naval power alone.

China's position is desperate. Her power has deteriorated steadily ever since Pearl Harbor. Until then she was getting supplies over the Burma road and other smuggling routes. That is not the case today. The supplies now going in are probably not one per cent of the Burma road traffic at its peak.

To be truthful for once, our accomplishment in the Pacific leaves much to be desired. After six months' effort we captured one island, Guadalcanal; made some gains in New Guinea (which, by the way, is bigger than England, Scotland and Wales); we have done real damage to the Japanese naval and merchant fleet, and we are based on the little island of Attu. So much for a year and a half of war.

But there are 21,000 islands between Australia and Japan, and the distance from Sydney to Tokyo is about equal to that between Chicago and Berlin. And that's going to be a long haul.

A book written by the wife of the Chinese minister to England has been suppressed in this country as too pessimistic. And in view of her silence one is forced to wonder if Madame Chiang Kai-shek has not received hints?

A month-ago Churchill said that Britain would partly demobilize when Germany is conquered. This was a bad blunder and he has since made every effort to correct it. His present assurances of all-out war to us against Japan are made, without doubt, in the best of faith. It is said that British "interests" in the Far East are so extensive that they guarantee British war to redeem them.

However, the hard fact remains that no prime minister can bind his successor. No Congress can bind a future Congress; no President, a future President. Churchill may not live to the end of the war. If his successor is a man like Stafford Cripps, he and his political supporters may not think British interests in India, Hong Kong, Singapore, etc., are worth the price of a long war.

There are other angles. Even if Churchill or his successor are all-out-anti-Japanese, what of the British public? They were in the war for over two years before we entered. For years they have lived only a few minutes' flight from German air bases. When that pressure is over, the demand of Tommy Atkins to get back to his job and his girl may be stronger than any government can resist. Besides, Britain will have a tremendous task to keep Europe from mass murder and starvation when the fighting stops.

Another point is that the very "interests" of Britain in the Far East which are supposed to guarantee her fighting Japan are themselves the white imperialism on which the East, including China, are fed up.

It is a tragic decision whether to invite war-weariness in conquering Germany before going all-out against Japan. However, it is fortunate we have some senators, at least, who are thinking about their own country more than any other.

Borger Writer Becomes Disillusioned After Taking Publicity Job For Aircraft Factory

A salary of from $190 to $225 a month, with practically nothing to do to earn it, didn't suit Valda Cypher, former society editor of the Borger Daily Herald, who recently quit her job at Borger to take one in the public relations office of a Wichita, Kas. war plant.

So she quit her job at Wichita and headed back for the Panhandle.

At Wichita, she found it took three writers, three directors, and three secretaries, working sometimes hours overtime to publish a three column four-page weekly paper, get out a monthly magazine and furnish the local newspapers with several feature stories a month.

Here in the Panhandle, papers with as few as three in the editorial department are putting out a six-page paper as many times a week by 2:30 p.m. daily and not getting 95 cents an hour, for it or overtime either, she said.

The Borger writer found it took one girl in the department five hours to cover a beat that the average reporter could blanket in two and that an average of two or three stories a day was "good" work.

From 10 to 15 stories a day is the average run for reporters on newspapers in the Panhandle.

In the plant itself, it was a different story. There was no loitering there. Many of the workers had sons who would never come back. They had a job to do.

Had Miss Cypher stayed on the new job, she said, "she would eventually become a part of an informal office network of jealousy, malicious words, and mounting troubles that spelled anything but harmony and cooperation."

"Is this what the taxpayers are opening their purses for? Is that what the boys in foxholes and filthy slimy swamps are grinning and bearing it for? Is that what Old Glory, who's climbing a mast in a newly-conquered country every day stands for?" the Borger newspaperwoman demands.

Money Declared Not Really Wealth

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP)—Money today represents wealth "only in limited sense," the office of war information said, and although the average American's income now is about 1.8 times what it was in 1940, it is "not exactly the same kind of money."

Soaring prices already have taken a part, "though by no means the major part," of the increased income, the OWI announcement continued.

They Call It Pacific

by CLARK LEE

There Are No "Minor Skirmishes"

Chapter 21

IN the history books the Battle of Luzon will probably be told in a couple of sentences: "The outnumbered Filipino and American defenders of Luzon withdrew to the jungle-covered peninsula of Bataan and to the fortress of Corregidor, where they held out against large Japanese forces for more than three months. The defending troops were short of food, medicine, and ammunition. When the end came all of them were undernourished and as high as two thirds of their total numbers were suffering from wounds, malaria, dysentery, and other diseases."

History may also note that the delaying action fought in Bataan may have given the United States sufficient time to recover from the Pearl Harbor disaster and to build up its Pacific forces to an extent that the Jap advance was finally stopped at Coral Sea, and Midway.

In itself, Bataan wasn't an important battle, as history-making battles go. But to the men who fought there it was highly important. I learned in Bataan that there is no such thing as "unimportant patrol activity" or "minor skirmishes." To the men involved in those skirmishes they are all important. You don't have to be killed in one of the world's great battles to make your death important to you, your family, and your friends.

Sharing things was a big part of the Battle of Bataan. At first, when there was plenty of everything, it didn't mean much. Everybody had enough food, enough cigarettes, enough quinine. The change from "enough" to starvation rations came with startling suddenness. It seemed almost overnight that there was a severe shortage of gasoline; a complete absence of canned fruits and vegetables; and only a pack of cigarettes and a tin of soap if the soldier was lucky. But the sharing continued. There was no "mine" and "yours." Everything was "ours." It was a big event when a company got a tin of canned corn, or maybe some coffee or a few pieces of candy. Traveling around Bataan I would occasionally share those big events and be able to share some of the cigarettes I had brought from Corregidor.

REMEMBERING Bataan, I think of Joaquin Miranda of the U.S. Engineers. I remembered meeting him in the lobby of the Manila Hotel the night before Pearl Harbor. He had said then that "this waiting is becoming intolerable." When war came he went to Corregidor with the Engineers, for he was a master draftsman. Then he volunteered for a dangerous assignment—to go into Manila and get badly needed information for MacArthur. By night he left Corregidor in a small banca and was embarked on the north shore of Cavite province. In the morning he walked over to the nearest road and hid under a pile of fish in the cart of a Filipino. He rode past the Japanese sentries and got into Manila without being detected. He dressed himself in a white suit and lounged around the streets, watching how the Japs acted and how his fellow Filipinos reacted to Jap rule. He delivered scores of messages from distraught officers on Corregidor to their families in Manila. He was in the home of one officer's wife when a Jap car drove up and an English-speaking captain came into the house.

JOAQUIN slipped off his white coat and went into the kitchen. He busied himself at the stove. The Jap captain brought the American woman, until she was sobbing and the three-month-old baby in her arms was crying. Then the Jap walked into the kitchen. "Who are you?" he demanded of Joaquin.

"I am the cook, sir."

"You don't look like the cook to me!"

"I am sorry, sir, but that is my occupation."

Finally the Jap went away and Joaquin slipped out to Corregidor with his information. He brought up word that the Japanese were mistreating the Filipinos, confiscating the food, and enforcing repressive measures. Filipinos who worked with the American Army or Navy were being tortured and killed. Three or four more times Joaquin slipped into Manila and came safely back who would never come back. They had a job to do.

Had Miss Cypher stayed on the new job, she said, "she would eventually become a part of an informal office network of jealousy, malicious words, and mounting troubles that spelled anything but harmony and cooperation."

"Is this what the taxpayers are opening their purses for? Is that what the boys in foxholes and filthy slimy swamps are grinning and bearing it for? Is that what Old Glory, who's climbing a mast in a newly-conquered country every day stands for?" the Borger newspaperwoman demands.

125,000 Women Work Overtime

AUSTIN, June 23 (AP)—More than 125,000 women are working longer than nine hours a day in essential Texas war industries, Labor Commissioner John D. Reed revealed today in announcing hearings June 22 at Houston on applications of 12 concerns for exemptions to the hours law for women employees.

At 76, He Still Can Chop Cotton

HILLSBORO, June 23 (AP)—At 76, James W. Bryan has finished the first three weeks of cotton chopping this season. He has averaged 10 hours work per day.

Bryan said he has chopped cotton since he was old enough to handle a hoe and has picked cotton since he was five years old.

SQUADRON CHATTER

454TH F. H. & A. B. SQUADRON

The sun of Texas is upon us, and don't some of the boys of the 454th know it! Last Sunday night the barracks were jammed with moaning victims of "oil Sol," blistered at soirees on the lake, golf course and what-have-you. Corporal H. K. Ward spent the day on the golf course and the week under Unguentine. Pvt. Valieno went to sleep while awaiting PT only to wake up several hours later baked like a hot dog. Master Sergeant Carr went down to the lake in a bathing suit and returned with a coat of blisters. Many others have learned that the Pampa sun isn't fooling—Congratulations to new Sergeants Lively, Hodges, Silk, McClure, Wardlaw and Osborn—Pvt. Bill Wingfield is carrying a 15 day furlough back to the Virginia—Cpl. Nick Drues is attending a physical training school in Miami, Florida—The commandos strike at dawn at PT these days. We saw Pvt. Eric Forsberg dangling from a rope on the new cross-country course, as PT instructor Pvt. Vera Wisdonny watched the boys take the hurdles—Pvt. Gitterman's clever signs decorating the message center are cheerful little eye-follies. What happened to our boys at A. S. T. C.?—Pvt. Bob Marino seems to have a new heart—Pvt. Cliff Caldwell seem to have forsaken photography for horticulture—the Photo Lab and PRO have the citizens of Pampa to thank for their new lawns and flower gardens. Thanks Pampans—Shades of PX nights. Vera recently formed "Juke Choir" warbling "Pistol Packing Mama."—Pvt. Ferraro booming "Closing up—in forty-five minutes!"—Brush, Adams, Welch, Dryer, Guilfoyle, Hajecate, Brewer and Beasley are now corporals—Have you noticed the moon over Pampa Park? It's definitely a must-see, or do you enjoy nature?—Sergeant H. R. Best.

328TH AVN. SQD.

An "added touch" was applied at dinner time to the 328th mess hall last Tuesday when T/Sgt. Albert Fish and the band supplied us with some hot swing music. Accompanying the band was Pvt. Barry Shuman, who sang numerous solos very pleasingly. We are highly appreciative to T/Sgt. Fish, the band, and to Pvt. Shuman for their uplifting renditions. Their services were integrating and we trust that this visit is one of many that will take place in the very near future. Another victory was won on the soft ball front, when the 328th triumphed over the 1101st by the score of 8-4.—Pfc. Joseph M. Boyd obtained a short pass to take Miss Dorlean C. Higgins to wife. Elaborate preparations were made to make this ceremony successful. Among the attendees were 1st Sgt. and Mrs. Bertrand T. Lawrence and Sgt. Edward Atkins. The squadron wishes the Boyds a career of lifelong happiness and achievement—Several fellows are on leave visiting relatives and

Could it be because his wife has been calling him "Wally the Watusi"?—Confirmation of a rumor: S/Sgt may come and S/Sgt may go but S/Sgt Cleary's favorite saying for the past week has been, "Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow my wife comes home."—Laff of the day: Houston volunteer to 1st Sergeant: "Say, Louie, how about coming over to my house tonight and we can have our pictures taken together so I can send one to my brother to let him know that I'm in good with the 1st Sergeant."—Portrait of things to come: WACC's—Famous last words: "Bat Lt. Arnall listed the following as "grievances" against the national administration:

- 1—Freight rate differentials.
  - 2—Inequitable distribution of federal assistance, with federal grants being made on the basis of the ability of states to pay rather than on need.
  - 3—Routing of federal patronage in Georgia particularly, through republican state leaders, whether appointees are democratic or republican.
- Gov. Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina had this to say:
"You can't cross a bridge until you get to it, but if the war is going on, as I see it, the most logical and sensible thing to do is to re-elect President Roosevelt."
Gov. Sam H. Jones of Louisiana, said he was not concerned with candidates, but with conditions.
"I want my section freed from economic slavery," he told newsmen, adding he had already "popped off" against the New Deal so many times that he cared not to dwell on it again.
Gov. Prentice Cooper of Tennessee, said the degree of support for the democratic ticket would depend, among other things, on what kind of a decision was handed down on freight rate equality.

Neustiel Is Named Pampa City Auditor

R. Harvey Neustiel, certified public accountant and manager of the Combs-Worley building, was retained as city auditor for the current year in an order passed by the city commission at its regular meeting yesterday.

The order was in conjunction with the annual audit, prepared by Neustiel, and approved by the commission at the meeting. Neustiel is to make quarterly audits and another annual audit at a salary of $900.

A hearing on the city's 1943-44 budget is to be held at 10:30 a. m. next Tuesday in the city commission room.

Other business of the city commission at its meeting this week was the approval of the payment of Pampa public library bills totaling $62.24.

Underlining a statement by Adolf Hitler's own newspaper that the Allied aerial offensive against the continent was "damn serious," the German high command acknowledged today that the populations of Muelheim and Oberhausen suffered "major casualties" during the night.

DNB, however, asserted that the Allies had met their "greatest defeat" so far over western Europe by losing 135 planes from early Tuesday until early today. Official Allied reports said 107 British and American aircraft were lost in the 24-hour period, covering not only three mighty assaults on the Ruhr but also widespread operations up and down the Nazi "invasion" coast.

By contrast, the Germans lost 185 planes in a single day during the 1940 battle of Britain.

Jap Relocation Center Operation Roundly Played

LOS ANGELES, June 23 (AP)—The preponderance of testimony indicates that the administration of the Japanese relocation centers has not been satisfactory, a subcommittee of the Dies committee declared in a statement upon its return from a day of inspection at the Poston, Ariz., relocation center.

The sub-committee, which has been investigating subversive activities on the part of Japanese, in hearings here this week and last, heard witnesses of many viewpoints.

"From the testimony of the committee took 200,000 words; it appears," continued the statement, "that the conduct and management of the centers is determined on many matters by the Japanese themselves. While a measure of self-government should be allowed the Japanese, it should not extend to the degree indicated. The testimony reveals the following conditions:

- "1. Project personnel lack previous experience in dealing with Japanese people prior to their present assignments.
- "2. There has been no adequate segregation made of loyal and disloyal Japanese.
- "3. Government funds have been expended unwisely for such things as teaching the Japanese judo—a form of Japanese military training; teaching the Japanese to play golf—a form of Japanese checkers; paying salaries to lecturers who visited the centers in an effort to install cooperatives in the centers.
- "4. Outbreaks of violence, including riots and strikes, induced by the Kibel group, have occurred, yet the instigators have gone unpunished. The loyal Japanese have not been afforded the protection to which they are entitled.
- "5. Loyal Japanese-Americans have suffered beatings at the hands of pro-Japanese in the centers, yet the miscreants have gone unpunished. The loyal Japanese have not been afforded the protection to which they are entitled.

"6. There are indications that confusion exists as to the responsibility for investigating the personal history and background of the Japanese who are being released at this time from the centers.

"7. There is evidence in the hearings that there is lack of planning by the procurement officers of the projects, particularly in regard to food purchases.

"8. Sufficient work opportunities for the Japanese have not been provided in the various centers so as properly to utilize the available man power in a constructive manner.

"9. More adequate protection should be given to public utilities, dams, reservoirs, and other strategic installations in the vicinity of the relocation centers. The committee is specifically notifying the governors of California and Arizona regarding this situation in their states.

"10. While housing has been provided for Japanese evacuees, overcrowding is apparent. The lack of privacy and the existence of cramped quarters create a condition that should be immediately remedied.

Testimony that Japanese engineers, shortly before Pearl Harbor, were given technical data on the $200,000,000 Colorado river aqueduct that furnishes water to southern California, was also given to the subcommittee.

Ralph F. Stringfellow, special agent for the Metropolitan water district of Southern California, gave the testimony, also, told the subcommittee that 350 pounds of dynamite and 100 caps, enough, he said, to blow up Parker Dam at the aqueduct source, were stolen from the vicinity of the dam.

The special agent told the committee members that parties of Japanese engineers visited various parts of the aqueduct system regularly every few months up to shortly before Pearl Harbor and were given technical information.

He was asked if the 350 pounds of dynamite that was stolen was sufficient to destroy the dam.

"With proper placing of 350 pounds of dynamite I can blow Parker Dam up. I could set it up and set it off with one cap."

Stringfellow testified that the Japanese have maps showing every part of the dam and aqueduct. "I saw the maps they had," he declared. "They were given maps and made maps of it all."

Signs of Peace and you'll want to be there!

What if Peace brings new cars promptly or not? You'll be yearning to get away from headlines—rations—hours of volunteer war work...to get around again with your weary, happy soldier boy—home at last. And with driving restricted now, your car should have plenty of miles left, just so you're not tossing them away these days, by half-ruining your engine with acid.

That's no "new scare." You never yet stopped any auto engine without acid products of combustion trapped inside. But formerly, the frequent fast driving that fully heated the engine kept expelling acid. So the hazard was mild compared to what it is today, when acid works while your rationed engine rests.

One great recognized precaution against this is to OIL-PLATE your engine by changing to Conoco Nth motor oil. Its special added synthetic acts "magnet-like" to attach OIL-PLATING direct to precious inner parts. Much like body parts plated against atmospheric corrosion, the cylinders, rings, bearings and other parts now hard to replace are OIL-PLATED against internal acid corrosion. The close-surfaced OIL-PLATING that combats acid while the car stands, will help your essential transportation today. And may a happier tomorrow see you right off quick on your well-earned Victory tour! Change to Conoco Nth oil now. Continental Oil Company
