Strategy Cuts Army Spending Estimates

Navy's Share Of Funds To Increase

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP)—A strategy-born $6,000,000,000 reduction in army estimates—most of it to permit greater emphasis on sea warfare—was disclosed tonight by President Roosevelt, although official sources insisted the cut will not affect manpower requirements nor the over-all pattern for waging global war.

Mr. Roosevelt at the same time announced that America's war bill for the fiscal year that started July 1 remains unchanged from January estimates of $100,000,000,000. He cautioned, however, that failure to hold the line on prices and wages would send it higher, and he voiced anew his demands for a "truly stiff program of additional taxes, saving, or both."

The President revived after a five-year lapse his former practice of issuing a summation of budget estimates in the light of economic developments and congressional action since his annual budget was submitted to congress in January. He made only passing reference to the shift in war department funds—out from earlier estimates of $62,000,000,000 to $56,000,000,000. Four billion dollars of that reduction was shifted directly to the navy, making a total for that branch of 23,000,000,000.

Many factors, he told a press-radio seminar on the summation, influence the revisions. Strategy has been more fully shaped, consequently leaving a more balanced perspective of our military needs and the needs of our Allies, he said.

He added, too, that comparatively few battle casualties thus far have meant correspondingly fewer replacements and that damage and loss of material have been less than were prepared for.

"This huge ($100,000,000,000) bill," said Mr. Roosevelt in a statement accompanying the summation, "reflects the many requirements of our aggressive operations in various far-flung theaters of war. It will provide our armed forces with the crushing superiority in equipment which is needed for successful operation with a minimum sacrifice of the lives of our fighting men."

Army Officer Believes Texans Shoot First, Ask Questions Later

MADISONVILLE, Texas, July 31.—(AP)—An unnamed army officer, new to Texas, is about ready to believe what he has always heard back East—that in Texas they shoot first and investigate afterward.

He learned firsthand. Highway patrolmen spotted a man in a stolen car near Hutsville, but they found the army man's car between their's and their suspect. All they speeded up until they were hitting around 90.

The patrolmen pulled to the middle of the road and opened fire. Their bullets nicked the fenders of the middle car.

The thief came through Madisonville at top speed and headed out Highway 21 toward Bryan. The army officer, presumably deciding he had had enough, dropped out of the race. The patrolmen kept on, and avoided hitting a bus only by taking to the gravel and slamming into a fire plug.

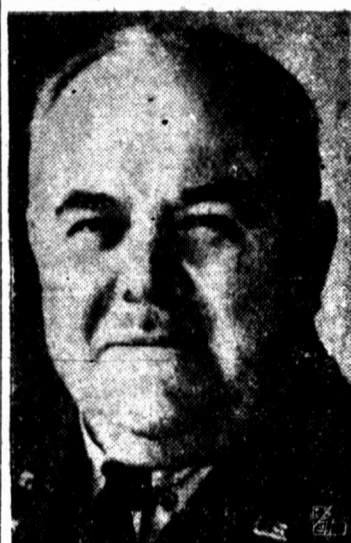

Nobody was hurt, so the patrolmen warned officers in nearby towns but the car thief got away.

Landon Says New Dealers 'Fascists'

KANSAS CITY, July 31.—(AP)—Alf M. Landon pictured the 1944 political campaign tonight as a struggle between "Fascist New Dealers and the American Republic."

Speaking over a National radio network (NBC) under the auspices of the Republican National committee, Landon charged "the postwar plans of the palace guard bureaucrats are to relieve businessmen of all responsibility, and to strip organized labor, farmers and congress of power."

Nation's First Strike Vote Set For Wednesday

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP)—Attorney General Biddle held today that any union group—representing either the majority or minority of the employees—could obtain a strike vote if he conducted August 4 at the Aills-Chalmers Manufacturing company's plant, Springfield, Ill.

His ruling was disclosed by the National Labor Relations Board in announcing that the first strike ballot under the act—passed by congress over President Roosevelt's veto—will be conducted August 4 at the Aills-Chalmers Manufacturing company's plant, Springfield, Ill.

Demand for a vote came from John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers, district 50 after the NLRB dismissed its petition challenging the right of CIO union, certified by the Board as the representative of the plant's workers, to continue as the bargaining agent.

Senator Asks Men over 30 Be Deferred

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP)—Predicting early action by congress to overhaul the selective service system, Senator Taft (R-Ohio), wrote Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey today urging the separation of men over 30 years of age and those younger into different draft classifications.

Taft told an interviewer he felt confident that demands for a halt in the drafting of fathers, linked with indications of an easing off in selective service quotas, would bring the whole question of a re-assessment of the present induction system before congress shortly after its reconvenes in September from a summer recess.

In his letter to Hershey, Taft said he believed that if a division were made at the 30-year age level, it probably would not be necessary to draft those over 30 in the future.

"I feel very strongly," the Ohioan told Hershey, "that men of thirty and younger should be drafted before the older men."

Taft listed six reasons for the proposed change in the present system, under which draft calls go out to men up to 38, with married men being taken after the quotas of single men are exhausted. These were:

- 1. Men under thirty make better soldiers and are more likely to stand the physical strain.
2. Men under thirty are not going to be comfortable staying at home even if they are married. In fact, many have already volunteered.
3. Men under thirty haven't reached responsible positions in the various civilian activities in which they are engaged and can much more easily and with less sacrifice give up these activities. This is particularly true of young professional men.
4. Men under thirty are of less value to their employers because they have not reached the key positions where experience counts.
5. Men under thirty have not built up the standard of expense which older men have assumed. This means that their families will not have to make the severe readjustments which have to be made by many men over thirty.
6. In the case of men under thirty, it is much more likely that their wives will have families still fully able to support them, to which they may return temporarily while their husbands are in the service.

Beef Increase May Be Offset By Less Pork

WASHINGTON, July 31.—(AP)—Meat counters throughout the nation soon should be exhibiting quantities of steaks, beef roasts, hamburger and other beef cuts to give the housewife a wider choice in spending her meat ration coupons.

But this increase in beef may be offset to some extent by a smaller supply of pork during the next few weeks.

All in all, the meat supply situation looks more hopeful for the next eight to 10 months, and with livestock numbers and production at a record level and beginning to outrun dwindling feed supplies, expanded marketings during this period appear fairly certain.

But whether the increased marketings will be reflected in larger civilian rations is a matter that has not yet been determined by the War Food Administration and the Office of Price Administration. However, WPA meat experts are inclined to doubt it, unless livestock marketings should, for a brief period, overwork facilities for storing any surplus meat over present civilian rations and war needs.

The WPA is now operating on the policy that it is wiser to store up any temporary extra production, for future civilian and military use than to allow it to go into consumption at the time.

Gray County Goes over Top In War Stamp Sale; Nets $24,032

The "retailers for victory" July promotion sale of War Stamps went over the top yesterday after a seventh inning battling rally led by a number of Pampa citizens cooperating with the retail trade promotion committee of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, headed by Frank Smith.

Faced with a $7,349 deficit in the goal Friday, the committee went to work. As a result, the quota was reached and passed yesterday with a total of $24,032.05 being sold during the month of July.

A number of the stores around town were contacted and requested to purchase a heavy stock of stamps for resale, in order that the quota might be reached. Incidentally, these merchants will be glad to turn these stamps back into cash.

Chairman Frank Smith announced yesterday, so that anyone who did not purchase his dollar's worth for each member of the family, and others who want more stamps are urged to contact some of these stores.

Floyd Imel, vice president of the Citizens' Bank and Trust Co., who is chairman of the judges committee for the chamber of commerce contest committee on the sale of War Stamps, put the finishing touches to Pampa's efforts to reach the $23,911.00 quota yesterday afternoon by purchasing $2,500 worth of stamps for the bank. These stamps like those stocked up by many retail stores for resale to customers saving stamps to be converted to bonds and the retailers committee has promised to assist in getting them into the hands of retail customers in the next few days.

Other stores who stocked heavily on stamps to help remove the $7,349 deficit included the following: Murfrees, Inc., Montgomery Ward & Co., Ideal Food Stores, Behrman's, Johnson's Cafe, Texas Furniture.

Two Oklahoma Bank Robbery Suspects Held

BROKEN ARROW, Okla., July 31.—(AP)—Two bandits who held a bank president and his wife prisoners throughout the night and calmly admitted the looting to make a delivery while waiting on a time lock, robbed the Arkansas Valley State Bank of $12,000 today and locked six men in the vault.

Six hours later a pair of suspects were arrested near Ponca City, after one of the most extensive Oklahoma manhunts since frontier days. Bank robbery charges were filed against the men by U. S. District Attorney Whit Maury at Tulsa.

Highway patrolmen who arrested the men said they recovered nearly $4,000 and took two guns from the prisoners, identified in the warrants as Paul Bibee, 31, and Chester Don Peeler, 33. Officers said both were ex-convicts.

The bandits appeared at the home of K. M. Rowe, bank president, last midnight and forced their way in at gunpoint. Rowe scuffled with them and was struck on the head with a gun. They tied Mrs. Rowe to her bed and taped her mouth with adhesive. During the wait they calmly ransacked the refrigerator.

Two hours before the bank was due to open, they took Rowe there to be ready when the time lock released. Three other bank officials arrived and were herded to their desks under guard.

The robbers permitted the ice man to enter, make his delivery and leave. When the time lock opened shortly after 8 o'clock, the pair took all of the currency and locked the bankers and two customers in the vault. They were released a few minutes later by a clerk.

Eisenhower Declares Country Must Quit Or Undergo Attack

(By Associated Press) Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower issued a solemn warning to the Italian people last night that the "breathing space" had ended and that the great Allied bombing fleet was about to resume its assault on the Italian mainland.

The Allied commander declared the temporizing of the new Italian government no longer could be tolerated and by radio told the people of that restive country to "be prepared."

It was a cold, curt rejection of any peace feelers that might have been put out by Premier Pietro Badoglio since he came to power a week ago and carried a jolting reminder that "unconditional surrender" still was the watchword of the United Nations.

"Italians," Gen. Eisenhower's message said, "You know that on July 25 we let up on the aerial bombardment of Italy. We hoped thereby to give Italy a breathing space wherein to unite for peace and freedom."

"But the Germans, too, have used that breathing space to strengthen their own positions. And for that full and sole responsibility rests with the new government in Rome. Had that government acted speedily Germany by now would be in full retreat."

"But instead the new government temporized. It permitted the Germans to recover. 'Italians, we cannot tolerate this, and we issue you this solemn warning: the breathing space has ended. Be prepared.'"

The grim warning came at the end of a day in which German civilians in Italy had been ordered by their government to return home and in which Badoglio was represented as seeking to obtain

Zeroes Fail To Halt Raid On Jap Positions

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sunday, August 1.—(AP)—Allied dive-bombers made a heavy and concentrated attack on Japanese positions on New Georgia Island yesterday, the Allied communique said today.

There were no reports on the progress of ground fighting around the Munda airdrome on the Central Solomon Islands. Japanese Zeroes made a futile attempt to stop the smashing dive-bomber attack against the Munda-Bairoko area.

On the other side of the wtopronged drive in the Southwest Pacific, bombers swept the New Guinea coast, sinking more than 14 Japanese barges.

The enemy has been using barges in great numbers in an effort to supply his New Guinea bases. On the western coast of New Britain Island, medium bombers destroyed a number of barges and blew up a supply dump, while four-engine bombers winged west over The Netherlands East Indies and attacked Waingopu on Soemba Island, west of Timor, causing large fires and effecting substantial damage.

Westar Island, near Timor, was bombed in a night raid. Results were not reported.

Giraud, De Gaulle Divide Powers

ALGIERS, July 31.—(AP)—General Charles De Gaulle and Henri Giraud achieved today unification of all the French fighting forces under a single command responsible to a central government in the free world for recognition by the United States as an equal partner in the Allied war effort.

The Decrees named Giraud commander-in-chief of all the French land, sea and air forces in the world and gave De Gaulle presidency of a new committee of national defense.

The new French organization was immediately followed with a demand by the French commission of information, Georges Bonnet, that British and American recognition of the De Gaulle-Giraud setup as a provisional government was "absolutely necessary."

Previously, De Gaulle and Giraud had maintained separate armed forces. Under the old arrangements as joint presidents of the French committee for national liberation they presided alternately. Now Giraud will preside when the committee deals with military affairs and De Gaulle when it handles civil or political problems. When Giraud is in the field with his troops De Gaulle will preside alone.

OUR MEN IN SERVICE

Lieut. Lewis Jones, 23, former carrier for The Pampa News, has been recommended for an Air Medal. He was the pilot of a B-24 Liberator, on lone reconnaissance over Salamaua, that dropped three 500-pound bombs on an ammunition dump, then made a second sweep, dropping three more bombs in the same area. The entire crew, along with Lieutenant Jones, was recommended to receive the Air Medal.

Lieutenant Jones, whose parents reside at 1106 E. Browning, is a graduate of Pampa High school and Cameron college, Lawton, Okla. He joined the army air forces on December 14, 1941, left for Hawaii in August, 1942, proceeding from there to Australia and later New Guinea, scene of the exploit for which he and his crew were recommended, and for which they were congratulated by Brig. Gen. Roger Ramey, commander of the New Guinea bombardment forces.

CANADIAN—Now in training at Santa Ana, Calif., is Av-c Charles Wright, son of Mrs. Wiley Wright of Canatlan.

WHEELER—Pvt. Thomas F. Kelley, corps of engineers, unassigned, has received an honorable discharge from the army and has returned to his home northwest of Wheeler. Disability was the reason given for his release from the service. Private Kelley has been stationed in England the past seven months, and has been awarded a service bar of the European theater. Most of his time in action was during a sub attack on his voyage to England.

MIAMI—S. N. Orrinahan, U. S. N., has returned to his station in Virginia after a six-day leave with his family in Miami.

WHEELER—Jessie E. Crowder, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Crowder of Wheeler, has been commended by his commanding officers for the commendable part taken by him during and subsequent to an enemy air attack on his ship last August.

Crowder, a member of the crew of the U. S. S. Enterprise, has recently been released from the U. S. Naval hospital at Oakland, Calif., where he underwent an operation on his knee. He had been suffering for some time with an injury caused when the deck of his ship blew up. Participating in 10 major engagements and helping escort Jimmy Doolittle and his buddies to the shores of Japan for their raid on Tokyo, Crowder says that he is glad to be alive.

The commendation received by Crowder from his superior officers is as follows: "During and subsequent to the enemy attack on your ship you were stationed in a compartment adjacent to one in which a bomb exploded. Escaping injury, you quickly and with cool deliberation proceeded to the vicinity of the paint storerooms and pyrotechnic lockers and operated the carbon dioxide fire prevention systems in these compartments, after which you joined a fire fighting party and actively participated in the fire fighting as directed. Your quick and dependable performance of duty under great stress is considered to have been particularly meritorious."

The letter was from the commander of Crowder's task force and delivered to him by the commanding officer of the Enterprise. Crowder graduated from the Wheeler High school in 1939 and entered the service May 13, 1940. He had been on the Enterprise most of the entire time before his injury and his recent arrival in Wheeler, for a visit with his parents, is his first furlough since entering the service.

WHEELER—Holder of two medals for meritorious and extraordinary service, First Lieut. L. D. Whiteley, who was raised near Wheeler, is now on furlough.

The young pilot, who has taken part in more than 50 missions and has amassed more than 400 combat hours, has received the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal. In addition, his squadron was cited by the war department for its work last fall in combat in the southwest Pacific.

Among engagements in which he participated were the Battle of Santa Cruz last October and the naval battle off Guadalcanal Nov. 13-15. One of his narrow escapes occurred Oct. 25 when the windshield was shot from the B-17 he was piloting. Another occurred in November when a motor was shot out.

Reluctant to speak of his own experiences, the youthful flier changed the subject to a member of his squadron, First Lieut. R. C. Johnston of Floydada, who received the Silver Star for sighting the enemy fleet in the Battle of Santa Cruz.

Whiteley enlisted in the army air corps in May 1941 and left in October of that year to enter training. He received his commission as a second lieutenant May 21 at Victorville, Calif. He left the states August 9 last year and returned only recently after eight and one-half months overseas.

After a short visit with his mother, Mrs. Lucille Whiteley in Oakland, Calif., he will report to Biggs Field at El Paso to help train a new group of fliers.

Whiteley is a graduate of the Wheeler schools and attended Texas Tech from 1937 to 1941.

CANADIAN—Mrs. Perry Patterson, who served six months in the Women's Army corps at Turner Field, Ga., is home to stay because of the ill health of her husband, a Santa Fe engineer and World War I veteran.

Lee C. Emory, son of Mrs. F. A. Emory of Skellytown, formerly of Pampa, was commissioned on July 26 as a second lieutenant in the army of the United States upon successful completion of the officer candidate course at the infantry school at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Lieutenant Emory was inducted into the army on November 3, 1942, and served with Company A, 88th battalion, at Camp Roberts, Calif., before going to Ft. Benning. He held the rank of corporal before being commissioned.

He is a graduate of East Carroll High school, Providence, La., and of Texas Christian university, Ft. Worth.

SHAMROCK—One of the "top" men in the class just graduated from the naval air technical training center at Navy Pier in Chicago, was Roland C. Bratcher, 28, 213 E.

13th Street, Shamrock, who has been advanced to the petty officer rating of aviation metallurgy third class and now awaits assignment to active duty, serving the warplanes of the navy's crack airmen.

CANADIAN—Home on leave recently was Jerrald Thomas, U.S.N., San Diego, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Thomas. The sailor is one of four brothers in the armed forces. Oldest of the quartet is 34, has been a prisoner of the Japanese since Corregidor was taken in May, 1942.

Market Briefs

WALL STREET
NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP)—Mounting tension over the Italian situation prompted another selling movement in the stock market today and rail and industrial leaders generally dropped fractions to around 2 points.

Two of the least active issues fell from 2 to around 5 points, reflecting scarcity of bids rather than the usual offering.

On the week market, suffering its most acute seizure of "peace nerves" in the wake of the Italian military setbacks, had its widest setback since the beginning of the long advance fifteen months ago. Measured by the associated press stock composite, this decline amounted to 3.6 points.

Today's was one of the most active two-hour sessions in the last two years with volume of 223,460 shares compared with 187,008 the previous Saturday. Of the 821 issues traded, 618 declined, 68 advanced and 185 were unchanged.

The associated press 60-stock average was down .7 of a point at 49.2.

Of a point or more at the close were American telephone, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Caterpillar Tractor, Western Union, Westinghouse, Santa Fe, and Southern railway. Goodyear dropped 3/8, Case 3/8, Pepsi-Cola 1/8 and American air lines 5/8.

Small loans were around in the bond market. Cotton futures were down 30 to 35 cents a bale.

Carb stocks in lower territory included Cite Service, Aluminum of America, Humble Oil and Shell Securities.

CHICAGO GRAIN
CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP)—Ignoring weakness in securities and confusing news from Italy, wheat prices held firm in a fairly active trade today. There were one or two weak spots, particularly in the first half hour, but mill buying gave the market support and final prices were generally higher.

Eye topped about 1/2 cent to new lows for approximately the last month at the opening, but the strength in wheat was soon reflected in the rice market. Selling continued to come from houses with eastern connections, but was in smaller volume than on previous days this week. Traders believed rice was entitled to some advance in view of the extent of the harvest.

At the close wheat was unchanged to 1/4 higher, September $1.44 1/4-1/2, December $1.46. Oats were unchanged to 1/4 lower, September 60¢, and rice was 1/2 lower to 3/4 higher, September $1.01 1/4-1/2.

Max Lanier Pitches, Bats Cardinals to Victory over Brooklyn

Whit Wyatt Loses Close 2-1 Affair

ST. LOUIS, July 31.—(P)—The Cardinals picked up where they left off in Brooklyn on July 4 when they swept a three-game series from the then second place Dodgers. They made it four in a row today over the Brooks by winning, 2 to 1.

Southpaw Max Lanier was the hero of a pitching duel with lame-armed Whit Wyatt. Lanier, who beat the Dodgers 7-2 on July 4, scattered seven Brooklyn hits and won his own game in the ninth by singling Johnny Hopp home with two out.

It was a tough defeat for Wyatt who yielded eight hits, because an error by the usually reliable Arky Vaughan at shortstop paved the way for the winning run.

White Kuroski led off the Cards' ninth with a single to left, but was forced at second by Hopp. Ray Sanders then popped out and Marty Marion hit a roller to Vaughan, who fumbled it. Lanier singled to right for his second hit and Hopp beat Dixie Walker's throw to the plate.

Tigers Whip Yankees In Ninth, 7-6

NEW YORK, July 31.—(P)—The Detroit Tigers came up with a ninth inning rally today to beat the first place Yankees, 7 to 6.

Trailing by 5-4 the Yankees had tied the score in the seventh on Charley Keller's 15th homer of the season and had gone ahead in the eighth on Rollie Hemsley's second round tripper of the year.

This set the stage for the Tiger uprising in the ninth that sent Charley Wenzeloff to the showers suffering his seventh defeat.

Dick Wakefield led off the Detroit ninth with his 126th hit, a single to center. Rudy York flied out but Pinky Higgins singled Wakefield to third. Don Ross singled down the third base line, scoring Wakefield with the tying run.

Austin-Harris Rivalry Expected To Resume in City Golf Tourney

Can Johnny Austin's accurate irons beat the straight drives and exceptional putting of Marvin Harris in the annual city golf tourney in which qualifying rounds begin today?

That was the question golf fans were asking today, as they recalled the 1942 championship, won by Austin, who beat Harris 1 up on 36 holes to take the crown last year.

At the end of the first 18 holes in last year's finals, Harris was leading 2 up. That afternoon, on the last lap, Harris had Austin down until the last four holes, then Austin took three out of the four to win the match at this title.

Harris plays a consistent game, is deadly at putting, and his drives are straight, but Austin can out-hit him and depends on his expert use of the irons to win.

Deadline for entering the tourney is 6 p. m., Saturday, August 7, and match play will begin the following Sunday morning, one week from today.

Roy McKay Returns To Longhorns

AUSTIN, July 31.—(P)—The same way-time fate that a few weeks ago practically gutted the 1943 University of Texas football team today gave it a substantial section of backbone.

Coach Dana O. Bible announced that Roy Dale McKay, key man in last year's backfield of the Southwest Conference champions, had been assigned to the university as a navy V-5 trainee and that prospects were good that he would be eligible despite the fact he already has played three years of league ball.

Under relaxed war-time conference rules, a player in McKay's spot must be approved by a majority of the conference, but university athletic officials believed this would be forthcoming.

With McKay at fullback and Joe MacDioli, hard hitting blocker, also in the lineup, much of Bible's backfield worries are on "their way to solution. He has several known and promising men from the Austin High school Maroons to fill in some of the spots left vacant when marine reservists were transferred to Southwestern university.

Bible also announced he would begin preliminary workouts either Aug. 20 or 23, in view of the conference's agreement to permit an earlier start of training this season.

Medics Tounce 73rd Club 6-3

The "Medics" won the first-half softball championship of Pampa Army Air Field Friday afternoon when they downed the 73rd T. E. F. T. Squadron 6 to 3. The two teams were leading their respective leagues at the half-way mark and a playoff was necessary to determine a first-half champion, who will meet the second-half winner in September for the official Post championship.

The Medics, with Major Morton W. Adler, post surgeon, acting as "coach and chief roofer," scored three times in the 8th inning to break a 3 to 3 tie.

The 73rd won the first game of the three-game playoff series, but the Medics roared back to take two straight and the first-half title.

According to Lt. James Livingston, post athletic officer, an increased work schedule made it necessary to cut the number of softball teams playing at Pampa Field from 22 to 7. As a result, only one league will operate during the second half of the season.

The new seven-team league will play a regular schedule, with the play-off meeting the Medics for the championship sometime in September.

Soldiers Catch Worlds of Fish on Matagorda Peninsula, Known as the 'Womanless Outpost'

MATAGORDA PENINSULA, Foster Field, Tex., July 31.—(P)—A rod and reel come in right handy at this army air forces advanced flying school.

For one thing, there's nothing to do at this womanless outpost but fish and swim and swim and fish, says Lieut. H. C. Alexander, ordnance officer at the range.

And then trout, redfish, including 15 pound fighters, mackerel and other edible varieties abound in the blue Gulf waters that lap Matagorda Peninsula.

When personnel of the gunnery and bombing range feel the urge for a fish dinner, a detail of a dozen men goes to the beach with a seine secured by their commanding officer, Lieut. Col. Charles A. Miller.

And then trout, redfish, including 15 pound fighters, mackerel and other edible varieties abound in the blue Gulf waters that lap Matagorda Peninsula.

There is some hunting in the winter and rattlesnake hunting all the time," explains Lieut. Alexander. "One lieutenant," he relates, "was a rattlesnake hunting fool. Any time he wasn't flying, he'd go off hunting rattlesnakes with a nigger-shooter—some folks call them slingshots. The only rocks on the island were in a pile brought in by barge for concrete. As ordnance officer, I had to issue him ammunition to use in his slingshot. We'd go to the rockpile and I'd issue him a pocketful of rocks. In an hour or so he'd be back with a dozen or more rattlers slung over his shoulder, all with their heads neatly shot off."

Matagorda Peninsula is virtually unchanged since LaSalle became the first white man to step ashore nearly three centuries ago, he adds.

The Pampa Board of City Development has recently applied to Braniff Airways and to the civil aeronautics board renewing a request made first in 1939, seeking a stop at Pampa on the Amarillo to Oklahoma City line. Braniff has recently applied to extend the Amarillo-Oklahoma City permit to Tulsa and east to Memphis. With 77 oil companies, gas companies, oil field supply houses and other firms with headquarters in Oklahoma City, Tulsa, and Bartlesville, the BCD believes a Braniff stop in Pampa would pay.

Braniff Asked To Make Pampa Airline Stop

"It was the fastest round trip and one of the most enjoyable, I ever made," Gaynet Reeves, Pampa Chamber of Commerce manager remarked upon his return from a round trip to Denver in one day last Thursday.

Upon invitation of Frank Austin, traffic manager of Braniff Airways in Amarillo, Mr. and Mrs. Reeves drove to Amarillo about noon last Thursday and made a round trip to Denver that afternoon, flying over the route of the new Braniff extension, as guests of the airline.

The plane, a 21-passenger ship, Douglas transport, left Amarillo at 12 o'clock noon, stopping briefly at Pueblo and Colorado Springs, both going and returning from Denver with an hour's stop in the Colorado capitol, returning to Amarillo at 7:15 p. m. the same afternoon.

Flying from Amarillo to Denver, many defense plants, army camps, air ports and other war industries are viewed in the distance before the hostess comes around to politely close the curtains and remind you of the war department's ruling against no peeping at these plants, Reeves said.

In connection with the Pampa application, Chas. E. Beard, Dallas, vice president of Braniff, has been trip at an early date. Press of business development to visit Pampa to make a personal survey of the possibilities here.

In a letter received today by BCD, Beard promised to make the trip at an early date. Press of business in connection with the opening of the Amarillo to Denver line, as of today, and a recently acquired permission for a line from San Antonio to Laredo will delay his trip a few weeks, Beard wrote, but he promised to visit Pampa at an early date.

American losses totaled five planes destroyed, four pilots of which bailed out to safety. One pilot and his plane are missing.

Chennault also said that the 14th air force had destroyed up to now during the month of July seven enemy ships, totalling 34,000 tons and had badly damaged four totalling 25,000 tons. All this had been achieved, he stated, with only 74 tons of bombs.

Hagen Golfers To Meet Craig Wood's

Detroit, July 31.—(P)—Walter Hagen never was much of a hand at losing, but unless he can guide his challenge squad to victory next week-end the Haig will fall near the foot of the class in Ryder Cup golf competition.

In the international series with England before the war, Hagen led the Americans to four victories in six matches, but his teams have won only one of three in the war-orphaned domestic series that has raised $50,000 for war relief and promises to add another $30,000.

Hagen's squad of pro talent tackles Craig Wood's cup team over Detroit's rolling Plum Hollow course next week-end, trying to square accounts for a resounding 10 to 5 defeat suffered a year ago.

There was no cash involved. Waivers were asked on all players. Rice Football Prospects Gloomy

HOUSTON, July 31.—(P)—Rice Institute's Coach Jess Neely sized up his 1943 football prospects today with the statement:

"Only a handful of the 90 boys who plan to report have played any college football and most of them were not regulars in high school football. I'll have to get them on a gridiron to tell what most of them can do."

Neely said that he hoped to call a brief summer football practice camp next week.

The only name familiar on the Rice roster to Southwest Conference fans is Charlie Malmberg, 200-pounder who has held a regular tackle slot for two seasons.

Neely said he had "hopes of a good line" but that backfield prospects "are gloomy."

"I Will Look to the Heavens From Whence Cometh My Help"

Today, the eyes of the Allied nations and the oppressed, occupied countries of Europe are turned skyward in expectancy and hope. Justice will be dealt from the Heavens. Out of fleecy cloudbanks, out of storm-swept skies, out of the blackness of the night and the sun-flooded hours of the day will come the Delivering Angel in the form of Allied air power.

Already the strength of this power is being felt by the Axis in the lash of crippling blows. Every day Axis air power declines while Allied air power grows. Today the enemy recoils at repeated bombings that blast industry and transportation. Tomorrow, this same enemy will cringe and surrender as the weight of air-punishment becomes too great for him to bear.

Let us speed that day when Victory shall be ours. And let's speed it by the continuous, uninterrupted purchase of War Bonds. Let's not call our responsibility ended merely because we possess one crisp twenty-five dollar bond . . . or a dozen . . . or a hundred. Let's never forget that a mighty force for freedom lies in every bond that we buy. Let's put that force to work!

Owner of Pampa Theaters Heads U. S. Bond Drive

L. C. Griffith, president of the Griffith theaters, Oklahoma City, owners of the four Pampa motion picture places, has been named national chairman for the motion picture industry's part in the 15-billion dollar third Victory loan drive which opens September 9.

A former manager of the company here, C. B. Akers, now assistant general manager of the company, has been named general campaign director.

President Griffith was in New York Friday conferring with movie leaders on plans for the campaign. Griffith is chairman of the Oklahoma county-city war council (Oklahoma City is the county seat of the county that bears the same name as the state) and vice-chairman of the Oklahoma war council.

In the bond sales in "State to Our Heroes" of September, 1942, the total raised through the theaters was $338,540,000, non-maturity value. The project was under the war activities committee of the industry with George J. Schaefer as chairman.

Griffith's appointment for 1943 was seen as a result of the success he made as Oklahoma chairman for war savings for the movie industry.

Baird Is Sentenced To Five-Year Term

SAN ANTONIO, July 31.—(AP)—Newton Perry "Pete" Baird was sentenced to five years in prison after pleading guilty to two indictments here before Federal Judge W. A. Keeling.

In one case Baird had been indicted for the transportation of a stolen automobile from Louisiana to Texas in 1941. In the other he was indicted for transportation of a stolen automobile from Crystal City, Tex., to Minnesota and also the transportation of a gun stolen at the same time as the car.

Baird is under several sentences in state courts, but according to assistant District Attorney J. M. Burnett, will serve his federal sentence before the others are taken up.

Increased police measures were reported gradually bringing better control in the Italian cities where crowds rioted for peace during the week, but it was open to conjecture whether the rioters would long remain calm under resumption of Allied aerial bombardment.

Of Cabbages And Queens

By Jane Bara

Want to hear a little moron story? Ummm huh—so do most morons. Well, we're going to have some anyway, even if they ARE nothing but 1943 versions of the Little Audrey stories our big brothers and sisters used to laugh at.

Signs of the times or romance in the modern mode—seen headlined in a Panhandle newspaper "Edna Esther Kreigel, ARM 3c Petty Officer, Bride of S. A. Combs, ARM 3-c In June Ceremony."

Laff-A-Day comes across with one of B. Brown's cartoons depicting a lady plane spotter 'phoning in this sort of description of a plane just above: "Well, it has a low neck-line, raglan style wings, lowered waist-line with nipped-in bodice and sharply flared tail!"

MODEL GIFT PACKAGE: A French soldier-artist-author dreamed of eating tons of salad greens while he was a German prisoner, suggested the model gift package from home for an American in Germany.

It would contain a jar of salad dressing, many pairs of socks, tobacco—preferably bulk tobacco and not cigars, soap, a bit of sugar, vitamin tablets, and coffee. Another acceptable item would be a box of pepper, garlic or onion salt, or any other kind of malleable seasoning "to give flavor to the tasteless food served in German prison camps."

If you're an average man or woman, very much engrossed in your work, doing all you can to help the war effort, but with not too much contact with young people, you'll find it hard to believe, and even harder to face. These youngsters are either in trouble or are heading for trouble.

The number of teen age girls on the streets and in the dance taverns is alarming. These girls are from twelve to seventeen years old—They have some kooky ways.

Something is being done about it in Pampa however. The Calvary Baptist church has organized game nights which are held each Monday and Thursday nights on the church grounds. There all sorts of games and recreation is offered to people of all ages.

This project, of course, will not stop the delinquency. But, it is more step toward it.

In talking to soldiers stationed at the Pampa Air base there has been a repeated saying: "We don't want to get serious with girls now. We have a job to do, and after that it's marriage for us, not before."

True there are exceptions to all cases, and the statement cannot be generalized, but the general opinion seems to be that girls are getting much too serious with the soldiers in much too short a time.

These things are happening because, in the main, we have neglected these boys and girls. We have assumed either that they could take care of themselves by developing the right mental attitude, or that they were still children and have been too worried about the saddle-shoe, high-school-sweater group. We have been so eager to fill the factories and keep the assembly lines moving day and night that we haven't taken time to see, or to wonder what the teen age does in its spare time.

Mrs. H. F. Barnhart has had as her guest this week Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Curtis, son Kenneth Eugene and daughter Margaret Elizabeth, also Mrs. E. E. Smith and daughter Carolyn Sue of Amarillo, all of whom were guest at a picnic given Wednesday evening in the Hoback home. Other picnic guests were Mrs. W. Mullinax and Miss Lillian Mullinax.

This week the Cadet Wives club, the U. S. O. club that was formed to assist incoming cadet wives in locating living quarters and to acquaint them with other cadet wives and with Pampa people, will endeavor to beat out a column to let us in on what they are doing and thinking.

This week we have had little success in dressing up a name for the column, but finally hit upon the name "PROP WASH"—Prop, wash means the blast of swirling air currents from whirling propellers as a plane's engine is revved up for a take-off or when the plane is in flight. It corresponds to the wake of a ship. The name for the column is only temporary because next week the club members are going to pass the hat for name suggestions; so if there by some miraculous chance there are a few readers of ye old Cabbages and Queens, let me advise that you get around to reading their column before you put your paper down.

A new crop of cadet wives will be coming in soon, and when they arrive the U. S. O. telephones will be flooded with calls, varying from reservation check ups from different states to inquiries from the Bureau of Missing Persons. They are bombarded from daylight to dawn with questions whose correct answers would require the high octane refueling of the brains of "Information Please" and to answer all these questions is as simple as draft registration!

Wives coming in from all parts of the United States to be with their husbands these nine weeks, could very well be seen reading the ads and heard saying: "Here's a room 10 miles away we can have for a week if we get there yesterday."

The soldier in your family that is overseas may not be getting his quota of meat rations now, but the Office of War Information will see that he is well supplied with turkey for holiday seasons. Approximately 10 million pounds of turkey meat will be provided for shipment to American armed forces overseas. The turkey will supply the main course of Thanksgiving, Christmas, and New Year's Day dinners on every battlefield.

Blonde Waitress: "I have stewed kidneys, boiled tongue, fried liver and pigs feet." Soldier: "Don't tell me your troubles, Sister; give me a chicken pie."

Things are going to start happening to T/S Theron G. Webb. And there is just one thing that is going to make us very happy with him again, and that is unconditional surrender—the unconditional surrender of his wedding story that he has been hiding for the past week or so.

Better come across with that story T/S or we'll start a WAVE campaign agin' you and your WACs!

The impact of Pearl Harbor has made us sit up and take notice of a few things we once took so light-heartedly for granted—and among these things has been the value of friendships. The stimulating exchange of arm-chair general's strategy—the "talking it out" over the cracker barrel—the "pouring out of one's heart" with trusted friends.

But the effects of the war on old friendships and new acquaintances has been far-reaching and has all but made for the disruption of old social habits. Some friends are now in the armed services, others have gone to distant war plants, those still around are busily engaged in all sorts of home-front activities with not too much time allowed for sociality.

Nevertheless, the desire to keep these contacts green is a deep one—and a necessary one if life after the war is to be a healthy, happy one. But, how to add to the dynamics of friendships during a wartime period is a question.

Erneston-Wells Vows Taken In Florida

A marriage of interest to Pampans is that of Miss Ellnor Verne Erneston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Erneston, to Lt. Dall Flem Wells, Air Corps Ferry Command, former Pampa resident and nephew of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Sirman, of Pampa.

The marriage service was read July 25, at 4 o'clock in the home of the bride's parents, in Palm Beach, Fla. by the Rev. R. S. Morrissy, rector of Holy Trinity Episcopal church, before an altar of ferns, palms and baskets of white gladioli and roses.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white duchess satin with silk net overskirt, the bodice was made with basque effect and sweetheart neckline. Her tulle veil was caught to a circlet of tuberoses, and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses and baby's-breath, showered with tuberoses.

Lt. and Mrs. Wells left after the ceremony for Arkansas.

Mrs. Wells was graduated from Palm Beach High school and is a past president of the Junior American Legion Auxiliary, Girl Reserves and Children of the Confederacy. She has been voucher clerk at Morrison Field for the past year and a half.

He was vice-president of the Engineers club at Junior College and was drum major at the university. He is in the U. S. army ferry command and stationed at the Municipal airport.

By PAT BROWN Welcome, wives of the class of 43 I!!! You have just arrived here and are probably wondering how you are going to like Pampa and Pampans. Well, before we tell you this we must assure you that we are not receiving a check from the Chamber of Commerce—but you will find the citizens of Pampa always have their hearts and doors wide open for the cadets and their wives—

And speaking of welcomes, we'll be waiting to receive you next Tuesday at 2:30 in the U. S. O. club rooms for the regular meeting of the Cadet Wives club. Incidentally, best we tell you about our club—it was started with some 15 or 20 members, and now we have a membership of around 80 girls. Mrs. Paul Tabor and Mrs. Doc Schwartz were the originators, and believe us when we tell you that they have really worked at it and have something now to show for all their hard working and planning, because new cadet wives that arrive in town would feel somewhat lost if it were not for their help and the help of the U. S. O.—Any cadet wife is automatically considered a member of the club. Just go around to the U. S. O. and chat with Mrs. Pagan, U. S. O. senior hostess, and she will fix you up. We want everyone to become acquainted with each other, most of our girls come here from Garden City and Independence, Kansas, so drop in and maybe you will find someone you knew waayaback "when."

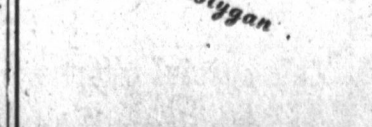

Field Day at the base Saturday was an event! And everyone seemed to have their quota of fun. And weren't we proud of the athletic powers of our respective husbands? We've never seen more of the wives together at one time since we've been here. Must admit that it was a bit dusty and dirty, but what's a little dirt in comparison to seeing and taking in all the fun?

Saw cute Paye Stelzer looking ever so fresh in a dark silk print; Vi Anderson with her luscious blond hair into pig tails (most people are too sissy); noticed Grace Poore in the mess hall drinking lemonade. She looked almost as cool as her drink—she was wearing a crisp white pique shirtmaker that was a hoot—and best we forget to mention it—the food that accompanied the lemonade would put the finest of Chefs to shame—believe us—it was really delicious! Not a chance of getting the recipe for the meat loaf from the mess sergeant, is there?

V Notes RED CROSS VOLUNTEERS

By MRS. H. H. HAIN
One of the most important programs of the American Red Cross is that of Home Service. Daily more and more persons are making inquiries about this branch of Red Cross activity.

What is Home Service? Home Service is the Red Cross welfare program—in terms of what the community and the times need. It meets the needs arising out of an individual's service in the armed forces. It is the immediate contact with the family of the serviceman, the channel through which information can move from the one to the other.

To whom is Home Service available? Members of the Army, Navy, including nurses, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, WACS, WAVES, SPARS, Air Transport Command, and their families; to active service men of the United States or when they are in the United States or their possessions; to ex-service men and their dependents. Members of the Merchant Marine are entitled to certain benefits of Home Service, when such members are at sea or under a specific contract.

Home Service is able to make contacts with any serviceman, due to the fact that a Red Cross field director is stationed at every army camp or post, and with each Marine or Naval unit abroad and at home. Through these field directors the local Home Service group can quickly get in touch with a man, when there is sickness or death in his family, or when the family is worried about his health or wonders why he has not written home.

A family learned that their son was in a military hospital, and the mother became very upset because she did not hear directly from her son. She took her problem to the Home Service group, and the period of suspense was soon at an end. The Home Service worker sent a wire to the Red Cross Field Director on duty at the soldier's station. The Red Cross field director at that station located the man, learned the facts of his condition from the doctor, and then informed the Home Service worker by wire, followed by a letter with complete details. This information was relayed to the family.

Let us see how the Red Cross teamwork functions when a soldier is worried or in difficulty. There are a lot of American troops in Iceland. That's a long way from a little town in Texas where the hero of this story came from. Yes, the Red Cross is in Iceland, too. It has a staff of workers headed by a Field Director, with headquarters in one of those half-barrel huts like the soldiers' barracks.

One evening last winter this young soldier came to the Field Director with his problem. He had left a young wife back in Texas, who now was unable to keep on with her job, because she was going to have a baby. He handed a crumpled letter to the Red Cross man.

"She wrote this letter three weeks ago. I just got it. God knows what has happened since then! I'm worried sick about her!"

"That's all right son," the Field Director told him. "I'll get a cable off to the State right away, and let you know just as soon as the answer comes in!"

The cable was sent to Red Cross National headquarters in Washington. Immediately its contents were telegraphed to the chapter in the soldier's home town. That's where the Home Service worker came into the picture. As soon as the message from Washington was received, she went to see the young wife who was soon to be a mother.

Conditions were not nearly so bad as the soldier had imagined. At least there were no problems that the Red Cross couldn't solve. It was true the young woman needed money. She also needed some one to make arrangements for her hospital stay. The Home Service worker made all necessary arrangements for the event, provided a layette and whatever cash was needed for food. But before she did any of these things, she called reassuring words of comfort to that soldier in far-off Iceland, by way of the Field Director.

Several weeks later that Red Cross man received another cable. It announced the birth of an eight-pound boy and "both doing fine." He lost no time in locating the soldier to tell him the good news. He was a stalwart fighting man, but he thought back tears of happiness.

"Thank God everything's all right," he said. "You folks sure saved me a lot of worry!"

So deep in the heart of Texas as well as on the bleak shores of Iceland, these young parents were tied over an emergency, because Red Cross Home Service was on the job at both ends of the line.

These examples illustrate but one of the functions of Home Service—that of communication. Other functions will be covered in this column at a later date.

Why is a new Red Cross surgical dressing worker like a rookie WAC? Because both have questions about their new experiences and both deserve answers to satisfy their curiosity and to aid their morale as workers in the war effort, according to Mrs. C. P. Buckler, surgical dressing chairman.

The new WAC says, according to Mrs. Buckler: "Why must I make my bed just so and why must my clothes be hung exactly this way for inspection?"

"Army regulations, sister," comes the answer. "Uniformity means efficiency in anything as big as the army. There's a tested reason for specifications. Your job is to meet them."

"The new Red Cross workers asks: 'Why must I trouble to make each one of these dressings so very carefully? And why must I be so neat about my person when I work on them?'"

"Army regulations, neighbor," is the answer. "Uniformity means efficiency in the emergency use of dressings by the Medical Corps. The army doctors have reasons for these specifications and regulations. The Red Cross does not set them up. The Red Cross job is to produce them as the war department orders."

Red Cross dressings must equal uniformity those made by machine. Mrs. Buckler points out. Army doctors do not want miscellaneous type hand-made dressings in contrast to the uniform dressings from a commercial concern.

"The Red Cross has the surgical dressings responsibility because commercial concerns cannot meet the full need in wartime," Mrs. Buckler explained. "Those firms make as many as they can, and the additional Red Cross production must meet the same standards."

"Here in Pampa we of the Red Cross are appreciative of the fine cooperation we have had on this

Gen. Roosevelt Praises Scouts

High tribute to the value of Boy Scout training to men in the armed forces is contained in a message sent by Brig. General Theodore Roosevelt, now somewhere in Sicily, to the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America of which he has been a vice president for the past eight years.

General Roosevelt, son of former President, Theodore Roosevelt, sent the following message, which was published in Boys' Life, monthly magazine of the Boy Scouts of America:

"Needless to say, the Scouts have been continually in my thoughts and particularly during the few days that we are out of the line, having finished one job and before we go into the line again for the next. In this war the Scouts are giving additional testimony to their work. Many of our best officers and men are ex-Scouts. The sergeant to whom I am dictating this letter now is one.

"The other day I was in a front line observation post. A young officer there was particularly excellent in his observation of enemy activities. I asked him where he had developed his talents. He told me that he was an Eagle Scout."

"The Scouts, largely because of their training, realize that we of the United States have more to fight for than any other nation, because we are fighting not only for our flag, our country, our homes, but also to preserve and maintain the finest form of government in the world, the form of government which gives to its citizens opportunities never possible under any other system of government."

"My message, therefore, to the Scouts of America is this: 'Carry in to the war those ideals for which our movement has worked. It is they for which we are fighting and we must win.'" project. Scores of loyal workers have put in many hours in behalf of the thousands of wounded men we know there will be with the new American offensives. But the lists are always open for new helpers, and we will welcome all the assistance we can get. This important war job will go on indefinitely.

Mrs. L. E. Miller, co-chairman of surgical dressings, wishes to express the appreciation of all workers in that department for the use of a large pedestal-type fan which Roy McMillen and Dr. N. L. Nicholl have obtained for them. The room is really a pleasant place to work now, Mrs. Miller declares.

Mrs. Miller explains that, although attendance at the surgical dressings workroom has increased, more workers will be needed now that a new shipment of 4x4's and 8x4's has arrived. We are still behind on the 2x2's, but with some extra work we can get these out of the way and begin on the larger dressings, which many women prefer to make.

Field Day—Why doesn't the Army do that more often?

Did you see the parade of Cadets marching down Cuyler last Monday evening? Ummmm that bunch looked puh-lenty allright! And too we were pleasantly surprised to be able to sit with our husbands during the show! Saw Phyllis Light and Frances Kampe after the parade and asked if they were going to the show. We couldn't help laughing when Frances replied, "Not tonight, we had to get smart—we saw the picture yesterday." By the way, Phyllis, those are pretty fancy matches you use these days—in case the rest of you gals haven't seen them, Frances carries around her LIGHT in a shining duck cover with her name done in white script.

Tuesday morning we went to the coffee given by the wives of 43 H in the honor of the departing wives of 43 G—all this was held in the home of Mrs. Paul Tabor, 1004 N. Sumerville.

Centering the table, which was covered with a handsome cut work cloth, was a low bowl of blue and yellow flaming glasses at one end of the table was placed a silver coffee service, with Pat Brown presiding and with Virginia Adams serving the yummy toasted pecan rolls, etc.—Incidentally, Virginia told us that she had just finished taking the rolls that morning—Now recently Gin—we aren't yet quiet sure whether that story was on the up and up or not—come on gal, tell us where you bought them, cause we think we know cadet wives better than that! We think Helen Schweinert, chairman of the entertainment committee is to be complimented on the success of the affair too, by the way.

While at the coffee we saw Jean Quackenbush, Vicki Miller, Marie Jacobs, Lorraine Selpp, Alice White, and Fay Martin, all of 43 G. Frances Kampe, Helen Allen, Claudia Olson, Phyllis Light, Eva Biecher, Burkey, Frances Collins and Viola Anderson of 43 H. Mrs. H. E. Schwartz was present with her house guest, Mrs. Joe Latham of Franklin, La.

One of the things which the club takes much interest in is the trips out to the base every Tuesday and Thursday nights when we visit the cadets that are ill and in the hospital—We take flowers and such to them, and at least walk in with a smile on our face—and if we happen to bring along a couple of moron jokes, we are immediately welcomed!

WANTED: More cadet wives at Red Cross on Friday afternoons! You may never have made surgical dressings before, but neither had we, and they are not nearly as hard to do as they might sound. We feel that the three hours devoted to such work is well spent, so don't forget to come—you can be of much needed help—so see you at the Red Cross rooms in the City Hall next Friday at 2 o'clock.

Farmer Must Decide Whether To Sell Cotton

AUSTIN, July 31 —(AP)—Texas cotton farmers wondering whether to hold or sell their 1943 crop today were given five reasons for holding and six for selling but the University of Texas bureau of business research let it hang there.

Dr. A. B. Cox laid out the reasons on both sides of the question.

Leaving it up to the farmers, he listed these reasons for holding:

1. This year's 21,995,000 planted acres is the lowest since 1895, and less than half the all-time high of 44,008,000 acres in 1926.
2. Parity prices have been rising an average of 10 points per month for the last five months. On a parity price of 20.34 cents in June, the loan value would be 18.31 cents.
3. Production this year—if the average yield per acre should equal the five year average of 246.1 pounds—would be 1,800,000 bales under last year's harvest.
4. Accumulated civilian buying power forecasts a high rate of post-war consumption.
5. A very large part of the seemingly large carryover of cotton in this country is composed of accumulations of low grade short staple cotton which in normal times goes to export and will be in demand when the war closes.

For immediate sale:

1. Domestic mill consumption is trending downward.

2. Mills are reducing stocks of cotton and holding off in purchases out of the new crop because of uncertainty as to the duration of the war.
3. Future prices are now progressively lower from October to July of next year—July, 1944, futures being quoted at $3 a bale under quotations for October, 1943.
4. Price ceilings on raw cotton are a possibility in prices threaten to go substantially higher than April 7 spot quotations.
5. Cotton goods produced for civilian consumption is lighter in weight than those for war purposes, so that mills would require fewer bales after reverting to civilian orders.
6. There is a substantial accumulation of cotton in India which will be a depressing influence on the price of our low grade short staple cotton when the war is over.

Italy Means Calf-Land

(P) Features.

The name Italy is apparently a Graecized form of a word meaning calf-land or grazing land.

Italy was originally only the toe of the peninsula, now called Calabria.

Sardinians are one of the purest racial groups within the kingdom, residents of nearby Sicily one of the most mixed.

Italy is a region of climatic wonders. The winter temperature of Turin is lower than that of Copenhagen. Milan and Bologna in the northern part of the country are hotter than Naples in the south. On the shores of Calabria tropical plants grow—but five miles inland, snow may fall in September.

Ninety-nine per cent of Italians are Roman Catholics, but an Armenian group in Venice preserve a distinctive group of ancient traditional rites. Albanians settled in the south use the Greek Orthodox ritual and language; and the Catholic ritual around Milan differs in many respects from that of the church in general.

The traditional date upon which the city of Rome was founded was April 21, 753 B. C.

The Italian people on the mainland are waiting for you not with arms but with open arms.

"Random Harvest" On LaNora Screen

By BROWNWOOD EMERSON

James Hilton's new novel, "Random Harvest," is brought to the screen in a straight line story, differing from the book's flashbacks, in a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture of the same title, opening a four-day run today at the LaNora, with Ronald Colman and Greer Garson in the chief roles.

Colman plays a wealthy Englishman who loses all memory of the past in World War I. He is sent to an asylum from which he escapes to be befriended by an actress (Greer-Garson) who inspires him to begin life anew.

He develops his talent as a writer, he and his benefactress, fall in love, are married, and have a child. Then an accident jolts his memory back to the past but leaves a blank of his life from the war on.

Colman goes home, takes possession of a business and becomes powerful. The wife locates him but knowing he has no memory of her takes a position as his secretary, maintaining silence as regards their marriage. How she succeeds winning back his memory and his love provides a haunting and appealing climax.

In the picture below is shown Greer Garson and Author James Hilton. Their careers have crossed again in their climb to fame. Hilton's "Goodbye Mr. Chips," in which Miss Garson won stardom, started their association.

Erich von Stroheim, arch delineator of Russian soldier-villains, returns to the screen in Paramount's adventure film, "Five Graves to Cairo," in which Stroheim has the role of Marshal Erwin Rommel.

Story deals with a British tank corporal, played by Franchot Tone, who accidentally stumbles into Rommel's staff headquarters in an erstwhile British hotel in Sidi Halfaya.

How he gets out of the place with Rommel's secret, aided by a girl at the hotel, and takes vital information to the British armies, laying the trap for Rommel, is the theme of the yarn, showing Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at the LaNora.

"The man you love to hate," as he was billed in the roaring 20s, is shown below in a scene from the picture, the first film portrayal of Rommel.

A radio cowboy who has never been on a horse. That's the role of Joe E. Brown in Republic's comedy, "Chatterbox," opening a three-day run today at the Rex.

Judy Canova has the chief feminine role.

Story opens with a film producer puzzling over what to do with Joe. It's up to the producer to make as creditable a film star as possible out of the timid radio cowboy.

A newspaper columnist learns Joe can't ride and frames him into getting aloft a horse. Judy enters the picture here; her penetrating soprano voice has a disquieting effect on Joe's horse; it pitches Joe into the dust, exposing him as a drug store cowboy.

The story then progresses with Judy helping Joe make a comeback into the affections of his disillusioned fiancée.

Commonwealth Elections

Two members of the British family are holding general elections this summer. South Africa already has voted, and tabulation awaits return of soldier votes cast abroad.

One is, in a sense, almost routine, as though we here in the United States were to choose between President Roosevelt and some Republican opponent as ardently behind the war as he, but critical of his administrative methods.

Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, the old Boer leader, is prime minister. He is ardently belligerent against the Axis. The Nazis were so anxious for the success of his opposition that for weeks during the campaign a German radio station beamed propaganda against General Smuts at the South African voters.

In all probability, reliable observers believe, the sometimes intelligent Nazi propagandists threw a political boomerang. Their interference with the South African poll provided the government with some of its most effective arguments, and won from newspapers an amount of space that the election might never have obtained otherwise.

This Nazi interference made the issue clearer. If General Smuts loses strength, even though he wins the election, Goebbels will be able to claim that South Africa is tired of the war, that the ties binding together the British commonwealth are weakening, and to use this in argument directed to other belligerents and to neutrals.

If, on the other hand, the prime minister gains in strength, the fact that the Nazis made the issue so clearcut will make them look even more ridiculous as propagandists - and less impressive as "supermen" - than they do right now.

No Annexation

Mayor La Guardia does well to reassure our good neighbor, Canada, that the United States does not desire an annex her. The idea has entered so few heads, on this side of the border, that it is virtually non-existent.

For the record, however, it should be made clear that this is because Americans almost universally are against annexation on principle. It does not imply, even remotely, failure on our part to appreciate the virtues either of the Dominion or of its people, both of which are so like us that any differences are traditional and rather mythical.

If the time ever came when Canada of her own free will, without agitation or encouragement from us, by convincing majority, felt that her future lay in a united North America, we think that most United States Americans would welcome her with open arms.

The Nation's Press

Indignant protest is made by the Sons of the Revolution in the state of New York against the supplanting of the American flag by the flag of the "four freedoms" in ceremonies overseas. They feel that the flag that was good enough for Washington and Grant and Dewey and Pershing ought to be good enough for those who represent our country in any overseas ceremony.

The reason for the proposed substitution of flags is by no means clear. We are simply told by the United Press that "the two flags system was arranged in unofficial discussions between Chairman Brooks Harding of the four freedoms committee and representatives of all the United Nations."

But if this arrangement is carried out with or without the orders of our national government, "Old Glory" will be seen no more at any international ceremony. That arrangement with official approval would have barred the Stars and Stripes from the Casablanca conference. It would have barred the flag from the Atlantic conference where the "four freedoms" themselves were made a watchword of the world's embattled democracies.

Before the country can grow as indignant as New York's Sons of the Revolution the country will have to know the reasons for this startling flag arrangement and whether or not the arrangement has the approval of our government. We can hardly believe that our government or any responsible agent of our government would approve such an arrangement. We know that no genuine red blooded American would approve. Possibly it has the approval of one of our recent importations from abroad who came to America to make our country over in a foreign mold, and who has not yet learned to speak our language. There are plenty of such people around Washington nowadays.

Common Ground

"I speak the past-word primal. I give the sign of democracy. By God I will accept nothing which I cannot have their counterpart of on the same terms." -WALT WHITMAN.

PAYROLL TAX GROWING

By the time this is in print the workers will have or soon will have their first 20 per cent pay roll deduction taken out of their envelope. Of course the government is only taking a small fraction of what they will have to take out.

Workers have been told for years by New Dealers and collective bargainiers that they would not have to pay the cost of the government; that the rich would be made to pay on the ability to pay. But now the rich have been taxed so that there is nothing left to tax. The Utopian New Dealers were not even able to tax the rich enough to pay our government costs before the war started.

Of course the workers have been paying for government handouts in the past without knowing it. They have paid by being out of jobs and by higher costs of products. But now they are beginning to pay directly. But what they are paying now is only a small part of what they will have to pay later on, if the present government policy of interference with free enterprise is continued.

This direct tax is a good thing because it will cause the workers to realize sooner that all government costs are eventually paid by the consumer, and when workers realize this they will weed out the government parasites and insist on the government being operated as it should be operated - to make justice cheap and not to make gifts to citizens.

POST-WAR REFUNDS

We notice that some corporations are setting up on their books what is known as "Post War Tax Refunds." It is doubtful whether the government will ever have enough money to refund what they owe the corporations. When a nation gets so decadent that it cannot pay its bills without taxing people and promising to give part of the tax back, it is in a dangerous shape.

Undoubtedly the United States government does not set up as part of our national debt this refund due to different corporations.

Nor does it include in its national debt the accumulated obligations its owes to those who have been paying in to the Unemployment and Social Security Fund. And the total debt of the United States cannot be accurately ascertained or reported without these items being included as part of the national debt.

So the next time you read the national debt figures, remember they do not tell all the story. They do not include what the government owes in tax refunds or the amount of obligations it owes in old age pensions and unemployment insurance.

THE AMENDMENT TO LIMIT TENURE

Sen. Bailey's resolution for the submission of an amendment limiting tenure in the Presidential office to be taken up after the summer recess. Mr. Henning says that if the administration following is told to make a fight against it congress may not be able to get the two-thirds majority required. Sen. Bailey is not trying to head off the fourth term. His interest is in establishing law on the subject and substituting constitutional restriction for the precedent and tradition which worked up to Mr. Roosevelt's time and then, failed. Bailey would let politics take its course in this Republic and get a limitation which would apply thereafter.

Mr. Roosevelt might be willing, when he has extended the Presidency beyond all previous calculations, to have a prohibition written into the Constitution which in effect will give him or who succeeds him the only man who has or who can serve as the chief executive of this Republic for more than two terms. He is jealous of distinctions and wishes his name to be above all other names in the history of his country. Altho the limitation would be a reproach, he might wear it lightly and be content with the distinction. He may, however, think it is too much of a reflection on him for congress to submit a resolution while he is going after his fourth term. He might, therefore, insist that no restriction be imposed until he is thru with the office.

Congress has proved on other subjects that there are two-thirds in each house not bidable. That was demonstrated by the anti-strike bill, a measure of infinitely less importance than the provision regarding the tenure in the Presidency. The present members of congress have had an extraordinary experience with a willful executive and many of them are veterans of controversy with him over fundamental questions involving the permanence of the American form of government. They have seen how tenure in office increases authority and raises the stature of the man who exercises the prerogatives. If any one could fully appreciate the dangers to our form of government embodied in a long term chief executive, it is a member of congress who has had a large part in Mr. Roosevelt's three terms.

Congress is not the final determinative body in this matter. All it is required to do is to show a willingness to permit the states to decide whether or not they want to put a limitation on the tenure of the Presidency. The congressmen only pass the question along. There can be no rational objection to submitting this all-important issue to the states and their people. Other amendments to the Constitution are in prospect. They are destructive amendments. One, we are given to understand, will propose such changes in the country's organic law as will permit it to become a constituent part of a larger union of states, in which combination it would surrender essentials of its sovereignty.

The distinctive characteristics of American citizenship would be lost. We'd be amalgamated with other peoples. The competence of this nation to pass laws regulating its internal affairs would be subjected to the higher authority of the super-federation. The most extreme proposals made by the advocates of this world scheme, such as were endorsed by Associate Justice Roberts of the Supreme court, cannot be carried into effect until the American Constitution is amended to abandon the basic principles of independence.

In view of the fact that such revolutionary ideas are supported by the higher officials in Washington, it would be reassuring if congress would give a sign that somewhere in the national government there still remains respect for the American Republic and desire for its continuance.

It was said of Tony Mullane of the old Cincinnati Red Stockings that he could pitch equally well with the right or left hand. We believe this would be true of some today. -Detroit News.

YESTERDAY'S CHILDREN

The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER. SUPPRESSED - President Roosevelt and Harold L. Ickes have frequently rushed into print denouncing the Congressional ban on Federal employment of Robert Morris Lovett. The Secretary of Virgin Islands has been accused by the Dies Committee of membership in "subversive" organizations and his salary was struck from the recent Interior Department Appropriation Bill.

Mr. Lovett agreed to resign from any society deemed to be un-American by the Department of Justice. But that offer did not prevent the legislators withholding money from him and explaining the reasons for their unusual action in an accompanying report. It is understood, however, that he may be kept on the pay roll through the use of emergency funds although his resignation would be a flouting of Capitol Hill's wishes.

Now an extraordinary bill, carefully suppressed letter casts the whole incident in a strange new light and discloses that Mr. Lovett's superior was defending him, despite prior knowledge and expressed concern regarding his extracurricular activities. It intimates that the Secretary of the Interior pays scant attention to protests received from Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

ASSAILED - Mr. Ickes' confidential message was dated April 25, 1941, before the Soviet entered the war, although it was not until the last session that the Legislature questioned Mr. Lovett's right to hold office in our Caribbean possession. In a three-page communication to his colonial representative the Secretary wrote in part:

"The Department of State has brought to the attention of the President a 'Call to the Fourth Congress of the League of American Writers.' Noting that his aide was a signer of the summons, Mr. Ickes continued:

"This league is generally regarded as a Communist subsidiary. Its policies, of course, always parallel those of the Communist Party."

After discussing and criticizing the aims of this Moscow outlet, the Cabinet member concluded:

"I exceedingly regret this act on your part, especially in view of the fact that, as you undoubtedly know, this Department has frequently been called upon to defend you against the charge (a) that you are a Communist and (b) that you are sympathetic to Communism and, therefore, in effect, a so-called fellow traveler."

"I can only repeat that, in view of the international situation and the announced and deliberate policy of the Administration of which you are a part, to give all possible aid to the nations that are resisting Hitler and Nazism, your signature to this call represents an indiscretion of a high order which is embarrassing to this Department."

Nevertheless, the White House and "Horset Harold" assailed Congress for its action and have indicated they will retain the former editor of the New Republic in a responsible post.

RASCALS - Moscow's appeal to the German people to oust the Nazi regime has caused deep concern in Washington and London and the Anglo-American diplomatic set will admit publicly. Some foreign policy managers profess to see nothing unusual in this gesture for a rapprochement between Stalin and Berlin revolutionists, but others discern troublesome postwar implications.

A curious incident involving an Office of War Information pamphlet indicates that our State Department was upset by the twist of events long before the Soviet Union made its latest move on the European chessboard. For obvious reasons Secretary Hull and Foreign Minister Anthony Eden will not discuss the subject openly, but here is what happened:

The OWI issued a document entitled "Official Statements: U. S. S. R." designed, so that Elmer Davis spokesman explained, to "clarify Russia's aims and intentions." It consisted of liberal excerpts from Red leaders' speeches and their government's proclamations.

The publication quoted quite fully Stalin's address in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the October Revolution. But it carefully omitted his most historic and sensational declaration - namely, that he did not "seek to destroy all military force within the Reich" because it was "impossible and inadvisable." This clause seemed to be a thrust at the Roosevelt-Churchill program, which appears to envisage utter destruction of the Wehrmacht and its survivors. Was it left out purposely?

League of Nations Is Debate Topic

AUSTIN, July 31 - (AP) - Texas High school students will debate throughout the next school year the pros and cons of reconstituting the League of Nations. That's the official subject for the interscholastic league debate tournament.

Wedge. A cartoon showing a man in a suit and a man in a military uniform standing on a large wedge. The man in the suit says 'I DROVE SIX HUNDRED MILES LAST SUNDAY!' and the man in the military uniform says 'MUSSOLINI IS JUST THE THING ITALY NEEDED!' The wedge is labeled 'THE AXIS'.

WASHINGTON, July 31 - (AP) - Representative Thompson (D-Tex.) said today the war department does not contemplate immediate establishment of more Axis war prisoner camps, as he was told that existing facilities can accommodate 210,000 prisoners and only 60,000 are now in this country.

Integration Of Transport

By PETER EDSON. Pampa News Washington Correspondent.

A forthcoming plan to "integrate" all the rail, highway, water and air lines of the United States into 11, 14 or 17 regional systems, each system to provide all types of transportation service in its area, is being discussed with increasing concern by transport representatives in Washington.

This staggering proposal has been in preparation for more than a year. Its genesis goes back to the Transportation Act of 1940, under which congress created a Board of Investigation and Research to study the relative fitness of railroads, motor and water carriers for transportation services. This board held hearings in Washington in June and July of 1942, but its hearings were never published.

A year later, in hearings before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, some of the earlier testimony before the Board of Investigation and Research was introduced by the department of justice. Publication of the senate hearings within the next few weeks will reveal the plan for the integration or co-ordination of all the country's transportation system in more detail, though complete revelation of just how much existing carriers would be crumpled into the 11, 14 or 17 regional systems is still to come.

REORGANIZATION ANALYZED. Chief document outlining the plan for this national transportation reorganization is by Donald D. Conn of Chicago, executive vice president of the Transportation Association of America, identified as a non-political, non-partisan, educational and research organization of 4,000 corporations and 20,000 individuals, air transport, motor truck and water carrier executives, however, identify the Transportation Association of America as a cloak or front for the railroad lobby. Statements of the Transportation Association say that its views and policy are endorsed by the Association of American Railroads, but there is no direct connection between the two.

Conn's statement declares that the subject of national transportation integration has been under study by his organization for a matter of years. The Transportation Association was to present its complete plan to the Board of Investigation in June. It's a month late already and no date has been scheduled for its formal presentation, though it is given that it will be forthcoming.

COMPLICATED TASK. The magnitude of the job is of course staggering. Conn is authorized for the statement that the country now has 35,000 truck lines, 4,700 bus lines, 2,600 water lines, 600 short line railroads, 139 trunk line railroads and 20 airlines. Taking these 45,959 transportation services and combining them into 11, 14 or 17 systems would be a banker's nightmare. It would probably take years to work out the exchange of stock and control to effect the mergers.

The idea of the proponents of integration is that it would give the public better service. The proposal is that a program can be consummated during the war period so as to "avoid the uncertain repercussions of a post-war period of readjustment."

But the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice and the airlines and water carriers and motor bus lines look on with suspicion. To them it looks like a monopoly grab - an attempt by railroad interests to get control of all the other forms of transportation and stifle them. That's why these other carriers would like to see an abortion performed on this integration idea before it gets born or, if it ever is delivered, they'd like to see it stillborn with an early but complete and permanent burial.

BUY VICTORY STAMPS. The principles on which this country was founded and by which it has always been governed is that Americanism is a matter of the mind and heart. -President Roosevelt.

Today's War Analysis

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR. Allied planes are over the Italian fleet every day. This is no revelation of a military secret, it's just something that is bound to be true. But no bombs are dropped. Why?

Outside of a flurry at La Spezia, Italy's important naval bases have gone remarkably soft free recently. Crotona was bombed and bombed, but not nearby Taranto. Bombers from the Middle East went to Bari July 17, but concentrated on the air field. On the whole the Allies appear to have been almost solicitous for the safety of the Italian navy as was Mussolini.

It may be only that our bombers have had more urgent work to do elsewhere. But there may be another answer. There has been the suggestion that the pentium in Italy might even swing so far as to bring her into the war on our side. Don't laugh. Stranger things have happened to people on the back-swing. If Italy is occupied, her shipyards and factories would be available for maintenance and supply of her fleet and, with raw materials from the United States, she might do a much better job of it than she did for herself.

One expert with whom I discussed the subject disagrees. He says the Italian fleet is too dispersed, making bombing not worthwhile during the other more urgent Mediterranean campaigns of recent months. But several others think the harbors of La Spezia, Bari and Taranto are black with ships, with additional concentrations at Genoa, Venice and even at heavily-bombed Naples. They say the ships are not coming out, cannot come out in the face of aerial reconnaissance and superiority, and that they are not holding any more Allied naval strength in the Mediterranean than would be necessary anyway.

BUY VICTORY BONDS. Office Cat. . . . Policeman (after the collision) - You saw this lady driving toward you. Why didn't you give her half the road? Motorist - I was going to as soon as I discovered which half she wanted.

Then there was the man who was unscrambled from the wreck of his car and rushed to the doctor's office: Doctor (objecting) - I don't believe I can do anything for him. You see I'm only a veterinary surgeon. Ambulance Driver - That's all right. This fellow was a jackass so I think he could get around that curve on the wrong side at sixty miles an hour.

Even in this time of scarce farm hands and Victory gardens, one "gentleman-farmer" found it necessary to dismiss his gardener for dishonesty. However, for the sake of the man's wife and family, he gave him a recommendation telling the man's qualifications truthfully by framing it this way: "I heartily certify that A. B. has been my gardener for over two years, and that during that time he got more out of the garden than any man I ever employed."

OUR IDEA OF A SOUND SLEEPER IS A PERSON WHO SNORES. Have you heard what the Mayan said to the Refrigerator? "Close the door. I'm dressing!" Perhaps you have heard this one: "I cracked Motorist (opening his eyes) - I had the right of way, didn't I? Bystander - Yes, but the other fellow had a truck."

Reclamation Of Farm Land After War Is Sought

WASHINGTON, July 31—(AP)—Agriculture, which sent 1,200,000 men to war in the last three years, will have a long row to hoe when they come home again and war programs are plowed up to plant a new peacetime economy.

But it should do the chore without a "back-to-the-farm" trek by city dwellers.

That is the consensus of a presidential committee of 12 federal specialists who blueprinted general plans for converting the nation from a war to a peace once final victory is scored.

The report said that 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 acres are suitable for reclaiming through irrigation in the western states and another 5,000,000 could be drained and cleared in the Mississippi delta.

Texas-Piloted 'Fort' Downs Four Planes In Five Minutes

WASHINGTON, July 31—(AP)—Four German Messerschmidts brought down in five minutes is the record of the B-17 Flying Fortress "Short Stride," piloted by Lt. Eldridge G. Shelton, 22, of Plainview, Tex., as it sped home to its United States eighth air force base in England from a recent mission over Germany, the war department said today.

The "Short Stride," which has figured in numerous spectacular episodes of aerial combat, was 10 miles to the left of its mission when the Messerschmidts struck simultaneously.

The plane's No. 4 engine was knocked out, its ailerons were shot through. Cannon shells riddled the radio room and started a fire, which the radio operator, Technical Sgt. Winfield W. Maulle, of Milligan, Ky., extinguished quickly.

The fortress lashed back: Fifty rounds from the navigator's gun hit a Messerschmidt coming in head-on. The navigator, Lt. Robert A. Hocklin, of Marquette, Mich., saw the enemy plane blow 'n.

The flight was gunner, Staff Sgt. Buford J. Manley, of Arroyo, Tenn., fired 100 rounds at another fighter coming in low. The ME fell in flames.

Another Messerschmidt, coming in toward the tail, was blown to bits by the rear gunner, Staff Sgt. Frank J. Garrison of Atlanta, Ga., the fourth fighter was destroyed by the top turret gunner, Technical Sgt. Arthur P. Christen of San Jose, California.

"Shoot-nant" Shelton then brought "Short Stride" back to base without further incident.

Injured Saved From Hangar

WASHINGTON, July 31—(AP)—When an American bombardier of a United States army air force airdrome in the western desert of North Africa caught several men inside the hangar, two officers and nine enlisted men of the Ninth Air Force, disregarding the fragmentation bomb which was exploding inside, rushed in and removed the injured.

The War Department announced that these men have been awarded the soldier's medal for their act of heroism. The citation states:

"By their decisive and courageous action, they probably saved the lives of at least two men by removing them from this area, infested with exploding bombs, to a point where they could be given immediate medical attention."

The men decorated included Master Sgt. Vernon C. Taylor, Hale Center, Tex.

Decline of Proven Reserves Continues

TULSA, Okla., July 31—(AP)—The decline of proven petroleum reserves in the United States continued during the first half of 1943 following the downward trend of the past five years, the Oil & Gas Journal said today.

New discoveries and extensions to previously productive fields fell short by 27,807,000 barrels of balancing with crude oil production for the period.

New reserves were estimated at 437,963,000 barrels, compared with production of 709,770,000 barrels. The magazine credited 170,552,000 barrels of the new reserves to discoveries, and 267,411,000 barrels to extensions to existing fields.

Only three major discoveries or extensions were listed—the development of oil production on the flanks of the Katy Gas-condensate field in Waller, Fort Bend and Harris counties, Texas; deep oil-bearing production in the west Texas permian basin, and extensions of tenease production in the Elk basin, Wyoming.

some sort of confidential report account for my absence. But I'll never divulge who you are."

"To save the honor of my name—or of yours?"

"Not quite fair, Raoul." Then the other broke down.

"Not quite fair. I know. That's always been the trouble with me. Not quite fair." He swore then, viciously.

"Get out of here," he cried, "before I change my mind. Tell the devishes I'm sending you on some special task. Hurry back to where you came from. On the day after tomorrow, when you'll be safely on your way, I—ah—as bitterly as before—shall carry out your orders."

Forty-eight hours later, the rickety Ford was bearing Lincoln, Nancy and Zaman, Khan away from the jungle.

Lincoln sighed. "I guess," he said, "Raoul is right. I'm a romanticist, a sentimentalist. You see—I can't help feeling sorry for these devishes, these fanatics, when Raoul will tell them—the Lord knows how—that their grand, glittering dreams are over."

"What do you think your brother'll do?" asked Nancy. "I've no idea. But maybe he'll enter a dervish monastery. Would be the very thing for him. He's really today a Moslem at heart—a fatalist."

LINCOLN AND RAOUL

CHA-TER XXVI

LINCOLN'S thoughts raced. No, no—he could not kill Raoul, Raoul, his half-brother, of whom he had always been so fond, to whom he had looked up during childhood days. Raoul who had sinned—sure enough—but too, had been sinned against, by his stepfather's harsh, puritanical refusal to help.

Years had passed. And something had happened to Raoul. Something had warped his soul. This something, in its ultimate effect, was of dreadful danger to the cause of the United Nations—and so...

"No, no, no! He could not kill. There must be another way—and, all at once, he found it.

"Listen, Raoul!" he said. "I shall tell the devishes precisely who you are. I shall tell them that you're not a Moslem, a descendant of the Prophet Mohammed, inspired by Allah, but—contemptuously, a renegade Christian who hates his own people for decidedly unsavory and selfish reasons. And what will happen then? Let me tell you! Your whole house of cards will collapse."

"And we'll both be killed." "I don't mind, where I'm concerned. At least, in not enough to keep me from..."

"The devishes," interrupted Raoul, "may not believe you."

"What, bitterly, 'do you care?' 'I care very much. I am deeply fond of you—in spite of everything. I'm a little embarrassed—I suppose it's no use trying to help you out—oh—with a bit of money?"
