We, the Women

The woman who lives in one of the better suburbs of New York decided to raise chickens in her backyard so that she and her family could have something to eat in case of a more serious meat shortage.

The neighbors objected and the case went to court. A supreme court justice granted an injunction restraining the woman from maintaining a chicken farm in the backyard of her home.

His explanation was: "We are all in favor of helping the war effort, but raising chickens in Forest Hills, Queens, is carrying patriotism a bit too far."

Isn't we being a bit too snooty, considering the times, when we decide that a person hasn't a right to keep chickens simply because he lives in a good neighborhood?

The families who live in fine houses have to eat just like anyone else. And money isn't enough to guarantee that they will have all they want to eat.

Haven't they a right to look out for themselves to the extent of raising chickens in their backyard?

MAYBE JUDGE IS RIGHT
The Victory garden has been accepted—even in the neighborhoods that until now grew flowers instead of sweet corn.

Isn't it about time we also accepted chickens in even the best neighborhoods—not, perhaps, as honored guests, but as a wartime necessity?

Or maybe the judge is right—and the time hasn't yet come when food is more important than keeping up appearances, and trying to maintain pre-war concepts of suitability.

Spruce Job Seekers Given Preference

Getting that first job is so easy for this year's sweet girl graduates that some of them may forget that the fundamentals of success in a business career are still the same.

The smart girl is the one who will take the long view about her vocation, and will be as careful to qualify in every particular as though jobs were hard to get and hard to keep.

Jobs are plentiful these days, and easy to keep, too, because every pair of hands is needed, but promotions and advancement are still dependent upon the worker's attitude and the worker's appearance and personality.

Personal neatness and tidiness at the desk or bench are still considered essentials for efficient workmanship. The girl with tousled, unwashed hair doesn't give promise of being particular about the way she does her work.

If she is doing exacting work in a war industry, her carelessness may produce faulty parts. It may also cause accidents.

Both retard the war effort. Personal managers know from long experience that employees who are immaculate about their own bodies and clothes are much more likely to produce accurate work.

From the very outset, therefore, the tidy girl is the one who has the better chance of making good, not only during the present war emergency when workers are so necessary, but later on when victory is won and manpower is normal again.

Daily baths, simple carefully kept clothes, and all the other details that contribute to good grooming, are war-job essentials. They help health, they promote efficiency, and they pave the path to successful careers.

Ferry Pilot Is Killed In Utah

DELTA, Utah, June 16.—(AP)—A forced landing on the newly-constructed Delta airport brought death to First Lt. Delle O. Ulrich, 23, pilot of a two-engine army plane. Civilian officials said the plane overshot a runway and nosed over. The craft was not badly damaged but Ulrich's neck was broken in the smashup. The plane was one of a flight of three. The other two landed safely.

The ferrying division of the air transport command at Palm Springs, Calif., announcing Ulrich's death, said he was the son of Kinley A. Ulrich of Houston, Tex., and Mrs. Kenley A. Grasshopper Plane Favored As Method Of Removing Wounded Men In Mountainous Area

Anita Colby let her victory garden go to her head and discovered it made a fine hat as six shoots of pure Hollywood corn came up.

FORT SILL, OKLA., June 16.—(AP)—The Army Grasshopper Plane—it hops from pasture to pasture without benefit of runways—may salvage problem of removing wounded quickly from the mountainous battlefields.

That at least is the hope of Major Victor E. Frazier, Kansas City, Mo., Flight Surgeon who is making the army's first experiments with the light, easily-handled two-seater at this field artillery school.

The artillery uses the grasshopper for aerial target spotting, but Major Frazier says it will make a good one-place ambulance which can rush in where the larger flying hospitals fear to tread.

"An ideal place for the grasshopper ambulances," said Major Frazier, "would have been the South Pacific. Ambulance planes at Gona and Buna operated off fields located 10 or 15 miles behind the front lines. And the terrain was so rough it sometimes took several days to get the wounded soldiers to the fields."

"The grasshopper planes could have picked up the wounded, one at a time, and transported them to the fields used by the big ambulance planes in a matter of a few minutes."

Sufficient Furniture Will Be Manufactured
WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—The axe that falls on furniture manufacture July 1, in the form of a two-thirds cut in existing patterns, is pretty much a rubber axe after all, the War Production Board indicated today.

Fewer knick-knacks, dust-catchers and whatzits will be produced, but 75 percent of the business always has been in 25 percent of the furniture patterns.

From the manufacturers' standpoint it is not so tough either. They are free to keep on making their most desired and, as WPB points out, most profitable lines.

In contrast with England, where all furniture production is government controlled and only 66 articles of strictly functional design may be made, the American householder may fairly revel in Chippendale, Sheraton, Regency, Duncan Phyfe or Grand Rapids, as his fancy and bank roll dictate.

The elimination of 65 percent of each manufacturer's patterns is intended to simplify producers' lines so as to get the biggest output from available manpower and materials.

Although lack of equipment at present probably will make the air bus service a post-war project, company president, C. E. Wickman said several helicopters may be made available for experimental use, "in the near future."

Negroes Convicted Of Conspiracy
EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL., June 16.—(AP)—The Japanese-Sponsored Pacific Movement of the Eastern World and two negro leaders, General Lee Butler and David D. Erwin, were found guilty Tuesday of conspiracy to violate the War-Time Seditious Act and the Selective Service Law.

Federal District Judge Fred L. Wham heard the case without a jury. The Judge held that the conspiracy, although lawful before the war with Japan and passage of the Selective Service Law, continued after those times.

Butler's trial contention the organization was not Pro-Japanese or Japanese-sponsored, the judge asserted, was "Utterly inconsistent" with his testimony before the Grand Jury or earlier statements to Federal Bureau of Investigation agents.

Gaines County Oil Lease Is Approved

A 10-year oil and gas lease contract on 1,200 acres of Gray county school land, located in Gaines county, was approved by the county commissioners at their regular meeting yesterday.

Jack Markham of Lubbock is the holder of the lease and the commissioners accepted his offer of $1 an acre bonus plus 50 cents an acre rental on the 1,200 acres.

The deal followed an order of the commissioners repossessing the three tracts covered by the lease, for non-payment of interest.

Each of the three original renters, had defaulted on their interest payments, due since taking over the land in 1908.

The tracts in the repossession and in the oil and gas lease are described as Block 9-A, League 287; Block 4, League 290; Block 7, League 290.

Veteran Sailor Killed On Eve Of Promotion

IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC—(AP)—The ways of men and the fates of war.

Bud Lilly, a red-headed Texan, had been in Uncle Sam's navy nearly 20 years, and at last he was getting his big break.

It was nearly midnight last November 30. Bud was on a heavy cruiser off Savo Island in the Solomons. Tomorrow, he was to be promoted from water tender first class to a chief's rating.

Bud couldn't find a spare chief's cap on shipboard. So he'd borrowed an old marine headgear and was polishing it for the big event.

Some of the boys were watching him. They weren't laughing at Bud's handiwork. People at sea rejoice in each other's good fortune.

Bud was doing the talking: "Well, boys, I don't suppose I'll ever wear this, but I'll get it ready."

Maybe it was premonition. Anyway, in the darkness of that night the 5th battle of Savo Island broke out in all its fury. Bud dropped his oil, rushed to his boiler control station.

At one minute to midnight, Bud died at his post in the blast of an enemy torpedo. He never got to be chief.

Bud, about 36, was the son of Mrs. Nancy Elizabeth Lilly of Abilene, Tex. His chief engineer and many of his buddies died with him.

Farm Boys Thrilled At Trip To Air Base

Farm boys from Gray and seven other Panhandle counties, ranging in age from 9 to 17 years, had the thrill of a life time yesterday when they were guests at Amarillo Field.

Highlight of their trip to the air base was an inspection of a B-17 plane, riding in jeeps, and looking over the tents of "Little Tunisia" at the edge of the field.

The boys were guests at luncheon in the civilian mess hall with Brig. Gen. H. S. Burwell, commanding officer of Amarillo Field, as the principal speaker.

General Burwell told the Panhandle youths that he had been raised on a New England farm and appreciated the work these boys had done. The party given for the Panhandle boys was the army's salute to their outstanding records in food production.

Attendance at the party totaled 75, including county farm agents, assistants, and other officials, including C. A. Price, associate editor of the Texas Extension news service; L. L. Johnson, state boys' club agent; Knox Parr, district 1 extension agent.

Wayne Hackney, 9-year-old son of the Gray county farm agent, accompanied his father and the Gray county group to the party and received mention in an Amarillo radio program dealing with the visit to Amarillo Field.

In the Mediterranean, the pulverizing assault on Italy's anti-invasion stronghold of Sicily continued in force yesterday as waves of U. S. Flying Fortresses, Mitchells and Marauders, escorted by fighters, battered the Axis airdromes at Boca di Falco, Castelnuovo, Sciacca and Borizzo. Allied fighter planes shot up targets at Marsala.

Italian headquarters reported that the raiders also attacked localities near Palermo and Trapani and in Arigento Province, Sicily.

London military commentators said the almost continuous pounding of Sicily strongly pointed to that island as one of the first objectives on the Allied invasion schedule, and declared that synchronized attack on Grecian Crete might be expected as a prelude to actual invasion of the European mainland.

Observers saw the reported sealing of the frontier between Allied-occupied Syria and Turkey as screening important military movements at the far end of the Mediterranean.

RAF bombers pounded the enemy for the fifth successive night, slashing at Axis airfields, railways and water transport from Denmark to Brittany in France.

DNB, the German news agency, said Berlin underwent an air-raid alarm lasting more than half an hour, but declared that "no damage and no casualties" were reported.

Overnight targets included an airdrome near Aalborg, Denmark, an airdrome near Dunkerque, barges on the Bruges-Ghent and Lys canals, a factory at Lorain near Nantes in North France, and three locomotives in Brittany.

are contingent upon directives yet to be issued. While both he and the committee shied away from discussing their nature in fear that they be upped by advance note, he hinted that one of them may deal with coal.

The subcommittee gave the board of economic warfare every penny—$36,150,000—it sought. And declared that the testimony of Milo Perkins, the board's director, emphasized "the grave importance of the work that is being done by that organization on the world economic front and the crucial part it is taking in the war effort."

Testimony of Nelson and Brown, of Jeffers and Perkins constituted a few of the highlights bound up in the bulky transcript of testimony. Others included:

1. War transportation director Joseph B. Eastman says that if wartime discomforts, plus a campaign to induce people to eliminate unessential travel, fail to accomplish the desired result, "we may have to dig down into our basket" for some system of priorities.

2. Read admiral Emory S. Land, war shipping administrator, reported that the program for building merchant ships, for the fiscal year beginning July 1, envisions more than double the number and the tonnage of vessels in operation early this year.

3. Deputy petroleum administrator Ralph K. Davies asserted that the critical gasoline shortage on the Atlantic coast could have been avoided by an earlier ban on pleasure driving.

4. Dr. George W. Taylor, vice chairman of the war labor board, declared the WLB intended to stick by the little steel formula "through thick and thin" despite anticipated pressure from workers for wage increases when the 20 per cent cap as you go withholding tax goes into effect.

5. OPA chief Brown expressed belief that the "principal source of black market gasoline, in our judgment, has been the sale of 'T' cards. Sometimes, it is more profitable for a man in the Taxicab business to sell his T card than it is for him to run his taxicab."

The greater part of the committee's reductions in the budget bureau's allocations of funds for the various war agencies came in requests for new personnel, with the denials amounting to approximately 5,400 man-years.

KING

departure, in addition to the queen, were the Duke of Gloucester, his younger brother; the Princess Royal his sister; the Duchess of Fife, his aunt; and the Countess of Southesk, his cousin.

The queen and her fellow counselors are the four next in succession to the throne, excluding minors. Princess Elizabeth is only 17.

The Duke of Gloucester relinquished his military duties last year to give more assistance to the king with state affairs.

The queen's standard flew this morning from Buckingham, showing she was in residence alone.

During his tour the king invested Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander in chief, with the insignia of knight grand cross of the order of the bath, an honor recently granted to him along with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, southwest Pacific chief.

The honor is one of the highest in the king's power to bestow.

King George inspected the British army in France early in 1940, making the trip across the channel in a destroyer, but the present trip is his longest overseas journey since his tour of Canada and the United States before the war started.

The king's visit to North Africa came simultaneously with various reports suggesting invasion preparations from one end of the Mediterranean to the other and steadily mounting axis nervousness at the imminent prospect.

Axis broadcasters declared a great invasion fleet was massing in the western half of the Mediterranean, and from semi-official sources in Ankara came a report that the Allies had closed Syria's frontier with Turkey.

Official Allied sources kept mum, giving no hint what these reports, if true, might portend.

Unofficial observers here suggested the Ankara announcement might indicate that the British Ninth and Tenth armies and U. S. troops that have been quietly building up strength in Syria, Palestine, Iraq and Iran might now be moving or planning to move suddenly.

The Daily Herald quoted German reports that the Allies had built up an "invasion army" in Syria.

The British Broadcasting Corporation interpreted closing of the 350-mile border as a move "to check leakage of information from Syria and Palestine to Germany through Turkey."

Speculation coupled the reported closing with the visit to Turkey this week of Admiral Sir John Cunningham, appointed the British commander-in-chief in the Levant only last week.

The Berlin radio, which reported last night that Cunningham had left Ankara yesterday in the direction of Syria, asserted that Britain was "trying to bring Turkey in on her side, but the Turk will not be pressed."

accused of attempting to obtain an $8,000 fee from a stirrup pump dealer with a promise to influence city council legislation.

Solomon was acquitted of the charges.

It was announced that Hart had been named chairman of the investigating committee.

Hart told reporters that "for obvious reasons" he could not say whether the committee had authorized the immediate issuance of subpoenas.

The group, like the Seabury committee which investigated the administration of former mayor James J. Walker, has authority to subpoena bank accounts of officials of the La Guardia administration and others engaged in business with the city.

Hart indicated that inquiry would be made into the department of sanitation, budget funds of some city departments and the allocation of budget funds to the police department.

During the council meeting, one of the stormiest ever held here, Hart said he was convinced that "there is more to be investigated in this administration than there was in Tammany Hall" and added, "I am sure we will show it."

The La Guardia regi mewas defended throughout by council president Morris, who declared, "this administration is so clean that no politician can besmirch it. Nobody accuses this administration of dishonesty or immorality."

YES, IT'S POLITE TO "EAT AND RUN"

... and, it's really very thoughtful of you —in a diner

Have you had to stand in line for dining car service? If so, we're truly sorry. If not, we're truly surprised!—for Santa Fe is handling more than twice as many passengers as in 1941, and with the same equipment! No more diners can be built during the war.

Five settings are frequently necessary today — two used to do. Dining car employes are working extra hard, doing the very best they can.

Your own good spirit is sincerely appreciated—especially if you're making it a point these days to release your seat as soon as you're finished eating.

We know how restful it is to enjoy a smoke and newspaper instead of jumping right up. But, with hungry people waiting, including military folks, it's definitely polite now to "eat and run."

Heavily crowded trains frequently make it physically impossible to serve everyone in Dining Cars. Many travelers are bringing box lunches and fruit along to avoid delayed meals. Our friendly suggestion for short trip travelers is that they dine before boarding trains or after arrival at destination.

Axis Loses 6 Planes To One For Americans

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—The Axis is losing six planes for every American four-engine bomber shot down over Europe, the War Department says, and this sign of intensified air combat placed new emphasis today on Prime Minister Churchill's remark that bombing Germany out of the war was well worth trying.

The stepped-up tempo of the Eighth U. S. air force, operating out of England, prompted the department yesterday to the unusual announcement of its accomplishments in recent weeks. It was the first statement of this kind issued by the War Department since the United States entered the global conflict.

The statement disclosed:
1—That U. S. air forces had made 18 heavy bombardment missions against targets within Germany itself, 11 of them since last May 14.
2—U. S. planes based in England flew 1,600 sorties (a sortie is a flight by one plane) with four-engine bombers, in daylight precision attacks on industrial centers, naval bases and war plants.
3—The American forces lost 106 planes in this all-out campaign but shot down 571 German craft, many of them no doubt fighters, probably destroyed 187 more, and damaged 231 in combat.

Back From Guadalcanal, Sergeant Belmont Of Pampa Displays Souvenirs From Dead Japs

Showing photographs taken off the body of a Japanese soldier, and Japanese invasion money and 1 and 5-yen notes acquired overseas, S/Sgt. Dewey Belmont of Pampa is home again after five months on Guadalcanal.

Sergeant Belmont, with a construction unit of a marine division, was in a New Zealand hospital for 30 days before he sailed on furlough for the United States, and was in a San Diego hospital for two weeks after his arrival home.

While able to be walking about, Sergeant Belmont is still under medical care while on furlough. The photograph of the Jap soldier, in the sergeant's possession, shows the soldier at home holding a child in his arms. Another picture, larger than the other, is that of a Japanese woman, believed to be the slain soldier's wife.

Sergeant Belmont enlisted in the marine corps in July, 1942; left the States on September 19 of that year, and returned home last May 30.

Besides the sergeant, there are eight men from Pampa and vicinity with him overseas. Seven of these eight were in Belmont's outfit. The sergeant listed them as Bob Gray, Leonard Olsen, W. J. Brown, Herbert Moon, Clay Coston, a man named Potter, whose first name Sergeant Belmont did not know, and "Shorty" Malloy. Aubrey Smiley was another former Pampa man the sergeant had seen overseas, but was in a different outfit.

Losing Ration Books Like Losing $10 Bill

You wouldn't toss out a $10 bill and leave it on a counter, then go off and forget it, would you?

That's figuratively what many Gray county residents are doing by the way they handle their ration books.

Every day there are three or four persons who report to the county rationing board office that they have lost their books.

The district OPA office at Lubbock has warned that county boards will have to become more severe in re-issuing books.

"The Japs came over just about every day we were there," he said, "but we had our guns ready for them. From two to nine planes came over in the attacks, but we only stopped work long enough to dive into a foxhole while they bombed."

"We came in the same time as the army. Our men did have their own arms. They shot at Japs now and then but I don't know if they ever hit anything."

He said there were no casualties among the Seabees.

Plainview Officer In Seabees Returns To States From Alaska

SEATTLE, June 16 (AP)—"We only stopped work long enough to dive into a foxhole while they bombed," Lieut. J. B. Jeffus of Plainview, Tex., said here after his return to the United States with a battalion of naval Seabees, home from overseas duty in the Aleutians.

Leaders said the battalion was the first naval construction outfit to return from work overseas. The thousand or more men returned on an army transport.

Lieutenant Jeffus spent two months with a construction battalion at Amchitka as one of their two construction officers.

"The Japs came over just about every day we were there," he said, "but we had our guns ready for them. From two to nine planes came over in the attacks, but we only stopped work long enough to dive into a foxhole while they bombed."

Lubbock Naval Flyers Missing

DALLAS, June 16 (AP)—Ensign Sidney Carol Claiborne, USNR, of Lubbock, is missing on an operational flight, the public relations office of the Eighth Naval District reported today. The navy land plane he was piloting disappeared June 1.

Claiborne, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Claiborne, of Lubbock, was pilot of one of the three planes which failed to return to their base. Two of the aircraft crashed on the eastern shore of Virginia, but their pilots escaped injuries by bailing out. An extensive search was immediately begun for Ensign Claiborne, but neither the plane nor the pilot was found, the navy said.

MacArthur for President

The day the next President is elected will come near the end of three years of war, with more bloody months, if not years, still ahead of us. Germany and Italy may be out of the contest but Japan is almost certain to be stronger than now and the war may still be going on in Europe as well as Asia. The present break between Poland and Russia is a sample of the possibilities.

Looking at the war from the most favorable standpoint, it is probable that by the time the presidential election rolls around the casualty lists will be heart-breaking and the terrific cost of the war (in which we propose to spend as much as all the other nations of the world, friend and foe together) will make millions of voters anxious as to the future solvency of this nation.

In that case, a new mood may come over the American people. They may say that Mr. Roosevelt has had three years to end the war and it is time to elect a President who will stop surrendering to John Lewis. In such case, the possibility of Gen. MacArthur as a candidate will have to be weighed. If Japan is then our Public Enemy No. 1, the argument that Roosevelt knows more about Asia than MacArthur would sound flat.

The general put in a year in the Philippines immediately after his graduation from West Point in 1903. He served one year in Japan; he was in the Philippines from 1922 to 1925. He returned to the Philippines in 1935 as director of national defense for the Commonwealth government, serving two years. He was appointed field marshal of the Philippine army in 1936. Beginning July 26, 1941, five months before Pearl Harbor, he became commander of the United States armed forces in the Far East.

All told, Gen. MacArthur, by the time the presidential campaign begins, will have spent a total of 12 years in the Far East.

MacArthur's military service in other parts of the world may also be an asset. He was commander of the Rainbow division in France in World War I, participated in the Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel, Meuse-Argonne and other sectors, twice wounded in action. He was with the army of occupation in Germany. He was superintendent at West Point; held other important posts, concluding with five years as chief of staff of the United States Army. He has received the Distinguished Service medal, Purple Heart, Silver Star, from his own country; the Croix de Guerre from France and military decorations from 10 foreign countries.

If the war is going badly a year from now, the public may not care much whether MacArthur is a politician or not. They will want to get the war over with and the boys home.

MacArthur might make a very simple campaign: we have got to get this war behind us. We will not let anything interfere with that. This is the No. 1 task of every American. I am not going to plan a blueprint for a new world in the midst of war. I will not let the wings of the prophet of a social revolution nor to liquidate the New Deal except insofar as its modifications are necessary to win the war. I am going to cross those bridges only when I get to them.

A simple soldier's creed such as that might "take" with the public. MacArthur has brains plus. He has courage. He is a patriot. And the "look of eagles" is upon him. This is the first of occasional sketches of possible candidates, yet is not intended to endorse one as against others.

Rickey Red-Faced over Phils' Shortstop

Dodgers Drop Three Games Behind Cards

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

This is a little baseball laugh that wanders around the major and minor leagues like the chocolate streak in a marble cake and winds up with a very red face for Branch Rickey, the old smoothie of the Ivory markets, as well as a shot in the arm for the Phillies.

It's about the Phils' new shortstop Charley Brewer, who speeds up the infield like high octane gas. And it fits into the diamond picture today because the good Burgers of Philadelphia are still dancing in the streets over yesterday's astonishing antics, which saw the Phils and the Athletics each win both ends of a doubleheader on the same afternoon.

Some flogger Filbert came up with the discovery that it's only eight years since this happened before. But one fan insists he can't recall the occasion—and he says he even remembers back to when Roosevelt was first elected president.

Baseball men tell you Brewer is the guy who is making the Phils run like a 16-cylinder job again, just when it began to look as if they were the same old jalopy. Anyway, they've won five of six starts since he parked his size 15's in the infield. And what makes it particularly funny is that less than seven months ago, the Brooklyn Dodgers owned Georgia Charley.

Rickey practically gave him away—and now the bums need a short-felder like a hitch-hiker needs his thumb. If you don't believe they're desperate, just ask limping Lippy Durocher, who's had to creak around there himself the last few days. It was so bad yesterday, in fact, that Ernie Lombardi, baseball's original gluefoot, even beat out a hit to short, as the New York rights jolted the fading flatbushers, 6-5.

This setback sank the Brooklyn three full games out of first place in the National League, since the St. Louis Cardinals belted the Cincinnati Reds 3-1 on Harry Gumbert's two-hit hurling.

The Phils got Brewer, along with Kosker triplet, in the three-way deal that was supposed to make a "chump" out of owner Bill Cox. Up to then Charley had been moving around so fast his laundry didn't have a chance to catch up with him.

At Nashville last year, the folks said he really had the makings, no Rickey brought him up. But Brainerd sent him to Milwaukee with a bundle of cash—estimated at $15,000—for Hal Peck, the two-located outfielder. The Brewers got him just 10 minutes before the draft meeting last December, and the Reds drafted him right then. The Brewers squawked—but commissioner Landis said the deal "stuck," and Charley's been with two clubs in 10 minutes.

A few weeks ago, Cox traded Danny Litwiler, who was doing the Phils no good, and Earl Naylor to the Cards for triplet, Buster Adams and Dain Clay. The Reds, full up with shortstops and always looking for a fly-chaser, sent Brewer to the Phils for Clay. He's made just one error in six games and has zipped up the infield until you'd hardly recognize it. And Triplet has earned his coffee and cakes with two homers in the same half dozen games. One of them, hooked up with a triple, gave the Phils a 6-4 decision over Boston in their opening game yesterday. Ronny Northey hit for the jackpot in each game and the Phils took the nightcap 2-1 which boosted them into fifth place in the league.

Meantime, making it Philadelphia's biggest day since Billy Penn got together with the Indians, the Cards socked the Red Sox 7-4 and 4-2, with Dick Sargent setting in four runs in the opener and Jesse Flores flipping his eighth win of the year in the afterpiece.

The Yankees went four full games out in front in the American league by whipping Washington 9-5 with a seven-run spree in the eighth frame of a night game. In the other Cleveland-Detroit, Detroit and Cleveland were rained out—the St. Louis Browns belted the Chicago White Sox 5-2 as the American League batting leader, Vern Stephens, collected a homer and a single. Incidentally, the national league hitting race was taken over by Harry Walker of the Cards, who connected safely in his 22nd straight game.

Truett Sewell served up a steady nine-hitter to give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 4-2 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

Flyers To Play Dodgers Here Next Sunday

The fast-stepping Pampa Army Air Field Flyers, fresh from their 19 to 0 shellacking of the Shamrock Athletic Club team, will entertain the Amarillo Dodgers in a baseball game to be played at the air base diamond Sunday afternoon.

Apparently aboard the victory train after dropping two close games to Pampa and Borger clubs, the Flyers will be out to add Amarillo to their list of victims. In the Dodgers they will be facing one of the Panhandle's top clubs, a team made up of former "Gold Sox" players.

S/Sgt. W. R. McInturff, player-manager of the Flyers, a club made up of enlisted men stationed at Pampa's twin-engine army flying school, frankly is well-pleased with the showing his boys made in their Shamrock massacre last Sunday. His three star hurlers, Minyard, Greek and Sams, limited the Shamrocks to but one hit and allowed only one man to get as far as second base.

Minyard, who will probably start on the mound Sunday against the Dodgers, is a former Texas League righthander with words of speed and a tantalizing curve ball. Greek and Sams are both experienced pitchers and are almost certain to share hurling chores with Minyard in Sunday's game.

Some other bright stars on the Pampa Field team are: Berry, a converted catcher who formerly played third base for Cincinnati in 1940; Guittlye, classy shortstop who has had considerable minor league experience and is currently the property of the Washington Senators and Uncle Sam; Heckins, who patrols the outfield and relieves Berry behind the plate, and who pitched for Toledo in the American Association prior to entering the army, and Player-Manager McInturff, who has performed for several seasons as a minor league and sandlot star and is probably the team's heaviest hitter.

MEXICO CITY, June 16.—(Gen. Joaquin Amaro, commander of the Tehuantepec Isthmus defense zone, reported yesterday to ex-president Lazaro Cardenas, now defense minister, the ministry announced.

The ministry also announced nine changes of military zone commanders from one post to another. The only one affecting a border state was the appointment of general Genovevo Rivas Guillen, now commander at Queretaro, to command the Sonora state zone. He replaces Gen. Pedro J. Almada Felix, who goes to the Hidalgo state command. The changes are part of regularly-scheduled shifts in commands.

Freshmen, Naval Students Help Mountain Teams

By ROY ROBERTS
DENVER, June 16.—By dint of eager freshmen, naval students and left-over equipment, there'll be college football in the Rockies in the fall—if it doesn't interfere with prosecution of the war.

To date, the 1943 Mountain States Conference stands as it was drawn. Three of the six member schools are getting ready to play. The others can't make up their minds, but they haven't definitely crossed off the sport for the duration.

Viewed through rose-colored field glasses, the situation by schools is: Co-Champion Utah—Will play if possible and believes it's possible. Co-Champion Colorado—But definitely; the navy came to the rescue.

Utah State—We'll be represented. Brigham Young—Not yet. Definitely could whip up a team of 1943 high school graduates.

Wyoming—If the army changes its mind and lets soldier-students play, yes.

Colorado State—Same as Wyoming.

The conference coaches and athletic directors say public interest, even now, indicates football would be coached.

Coach E. L. (Dick) Romney, dean of Mountain Big Tenors, is getting ready for his 25th season at Utah State on this premise: "We believe in football and furthermore we believe it is as worthwhile to play during war times as during times of peace, unless it interferes with the war effort."

Wyoming's Bernard F. (Bunny) Oakes can't see any hope for much of a team unless the army decides to let soldier-students play on college teams, like the navy is doing with its boys.

Harry Hughes of Colorado State also doubts that his school could scrape up a team unless the army relaxes its rule. Colorado cancelled trips to Northwestern and Missouri. But Dean Harry Carlson thinks he can find transportation for the men within Colorado and possibly to Utah.

Independent Denver lost all of its 1942 players and its coach, Ellison Ketchum, but cheery dean A. C. Nelson detects a "big interest" in football among the prospective freshmen.

The smaller Rocky Mountain conference, a three-team circuit last year, is having its troubles. Colorado College has navy men to draw upon and is organizing a team. Greeley State and Colorado Mines aren't sure they will have the necessary manpower.

Mel Ott Ejected From Contest

NEW YORK, June 16.—(AP)—May be the manager of the lowly New York Giants weigh heavily upon Mel Ott. He was tossed out of the baseball game with Brooklyn yesterday for disputing a third strike, the second time he has been ejected this season.

In his 15 previous seasons as a player, Ott was banished only once.

Soldier Killed Diving Into Pool

DALLAS, June 16.—(AP)—Pvt. Frank Deros, 23 of Camp Bowie, was fatally injured last night when he dived into a shallow swimming pool here.

The soldier, his neck broken, was kept alive for several hours by means of artificial respiration. His home is in New York City.

Meet Of Citrus Leaders Ends

WESLACO, TEX., June 16.—A conference of citrus industry leaders representing Texas, California, Florida and Arizona was concluded here yesterday.

Several speakers complained that the government was making the citrus industry a Guinea pig for experiments in price control, labor, materials and other essentials. Austin Anson of Weslaco, executive manager of the Texas citrus and vegetable growers and shippers organization, and conference host, said little definite action was taken in discussing the citrus industry's wartime problems.

Carl Bell, Forth Smith (Ark.) Southwest American: "As the days go by without definite word from the Brooklyn front office, we're wondering if the Dodgers' proposed baseball school here this summer isn't going to turn out to be a bum deal."

According to Greg Rice, Gunder Haegg's system of training in the woods may be all right for anyone who has "the European ability to punish himself," but American boys who try the same thing are likely to become interested in the scenery and forget to bear down. . . . Carl Voyles, William and Mary grid coach, favors trying to play football as long as he can keep a team together, but he says he definitely won't play any high schools. . . . Carl remembers one Virginia college team that took on a prep outfit during World War I and still is trying to live down the licking it received.

WAS HE WORRIED?

Bill Wallace, Rice Institute track coach, tells this one about Bob Porter, Southwest Conference mile champion who'll run here Saturday. . . . Bob got his first taste of big time competition in the N. C. A. A. meet last week. Took quite a pushing around on the big field on the turns and finished out of the picture. . . . After the race Porter remarked "Coach, I'm glad I'm over. Now maybe I can get some sleep."

Pvt. Artie Dorrell, former welterweight fisticuffer, has refused road work at the University of Arkansas—hoping to place in a squadron cross-country race Saturday. . . . Three years ago, Shelby Buck, who played end for Texas U., walked up to Vic Emanuel's desk in the Houston Post office and announced he wanted to enter the boxing business. . . . "I want to become a main eventer," he explained. He never got far in the ring, so he went to work in the oilfields, then joined the R. C. A. F. and later transferred to the American air force.

Last week word was received that Buck, a pilot in England, had been killed in action. Said Emanuel: "Shelby died a main eventer."

Junior College May Field Best Football Squad

ARLINGTON, Texas, June 16.—(AP)—Klepto Holmes, coach of North Texas Agricultural college, comments like this on news that most of Texas Christian's football squad and part of Southern Methodist's will come to his school in the marine training program:

"Something's bound to happen—I'll never get that ball club on the field."

But if, his fears are not realized there may be a junior college playing in a Bowl game for the first time on Jan. 1—if there are any Bowl games.

Holmes sees many obstacles to such a denouement.

He points out that there will be a commanding officer for the trainees and of course his permission must be obtained before they can compete.

Next, NTAC is a member of the Texas Junior College Conference which has no rule against use of army or navy trainees—but does have a one-year rule against junior college transfers and makes ineligible a senior college man who has competed as an upperclassman.

Another important item would be: will these athletes remain at NTAC long enough to play a football season? If here for only the first sixteen-weeks basic training course they would be leaving some time in October.

Then there would be a question of schedule.

Holmes had planned to engage service teams and teachers colleges since it did not appear there would be a junior college race, but now he finds no Texas teachers college likely to have a team.

What about Southwest Conference teams? Most of them would not comment on this possibility but Coach Homer Norton of Texas A. and M. said: "If North Texas Agricultural College has worthy opposition we would be willing to schedule a game with them."

Holmes wants everyone to be clear on one thing. North Texas had nothing to do with getting these athletes here," he said. "We were just designated for a navy unit. I think, however, the men will want to play football and I'd like to see them do it."

What Bombing Can Do

Herr Goebbels is worried about the Germanic power of endurance. Instructing Nazi newspaper stooges in the lies they are to write, he conceded that the Huns can't take it.

It is, of course, the increasing weight of allied air power that discourages Nazi Joe. A controlled press can keep many secrets, but can hardly persuade the residents of Essen, for instance, that Goering controls the air.

Nevertheless, we should not read too much into this. It does not mean, unfortunately, that the Reich is about to collapse and capitulate. No realistic observer expects victory to come until infantry and tanks are, at the least, on their way overland to Berlin.

Bombing can win the war. How it can do this is most easily understood by going back to the last days of Cape Bon.

There some 250,000 crack German troops, as good as any fighting men in the world, were concentrated in a tiny area. They had only a short line to defend, across the neck of the cape, and the mountainous interior was ideal for defense.

Why? Because no modern army, however capable, courageous and ably led, can fight without tanks, planes, guns, munitions. And we had cut off these quarters of a million men from the tools of their trade.

Bombing can win the war by doing the same thing on a greater scale and by a different process. Some experts say that if we can devastate less than a score of key German cities as we have destroyed Essen, the war will be won.

These cities are the sources of the most vital armaments and munitions. At the same time they are being devitalized, transportation and communication lines throughout Hitler's "fortress of Europe" will be broken up.

Then, when Anglo-American-French forces establish their bridgeheads and start for Berlin, the axis defenders will find themselves as impotent to resist as were the defenders of Cape Bon.

Get Out The Washboard

Laundry owners foresee the time, very soon now, when housewives all over the country are going to have to do much of their laundering at home.

The same situation is arising in connection with dry cleaning. In the south, particularly, where summer is hardest on suits, it is becoming almost impossible to keep spic and span in wash suits.

Does Mother have a washboard tucked away somewhere? Has Father forgotten how to press a bedraggled suit?

Welcome To Argentina

It seems beyond question now that Argentina is coming in out of the cold, which will make the Western Hemisphere solid against the axis and remove the last spot in which totalitarian agents can work openly.

This revolutionary upset unquestionably expresses the will of the Argentine masses who at long last have become Argentina the more heartily to the ranks of democracy.

The Nation's Press

IT WILL NOT BE ANSWERED (The Daily Oklahoman) In seven of the southern states citizens have a pay a poll tax of $1 or $2 before they are permitted to vote in a popular election.

When the house representatives was passing the bill to abolish the poll tax outright in seven states Representative Claire Hoffman of Michigan blandly inquired why congressmen who fight the poll tax are unwilling to abolish the work tax which prevails in all the states and which is many times higher than the poll tax.

However archaic or unnecessary or tainted the poll tax may be, the proceeds go into the general treasury to be spent for the general good. But who knows that becomes of the millions hijacked from helpless citizens with the approval of the government and the acquiescence of a cowardly congress?

Common Ground

"I speak the plain-word primer. I give the sign of democracy. By God I will accept nothing which all cannot have their counterpart of on the same terms."

TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION FAR FROM MODEL UNION

"The Typographical Union—a Model Union," is the heading of the leading article by William Hard in the June issue of the Reader's Digest.

There are many practices in the typographical union which, for some reason Mr. Hard has failed to mention, that should be corrected before it should or could honestly be called a model of unionism.

He implies that the printers union has increased the wages of the printers and reduced their working hours without keeping down the real wages and retarding the shortening of hours of the consumers of their products.

By the simple process of arithmetic, we are compelled to conclude that by increasing hourly wages of the union printers without increasing production per hour, results in lowering the real wages of the consumers by an amount at least equal and in many cases more than the total increase in printers' wages.

The claim by defenders of raising wages by collective bargaining that the increased wages come out of reduced portion of production going to the capitalist, instead of out of the real wages of the consumer, is not borne out by experience.

As to whether the union is democratic, would depend entirely upon one's interpretation of democracy. If democracy means respecting the inherent rights of minorities, then certainly the printers' union could not be regarded as democratic.

Secrecy Mr. Lewis believes that the proposed law will damage his enemies and F. D. R.'s closest labor associates, William Green of the American Federation of Labor and Philip Murray of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

As the hitmanago during the "Rock of Gibraltar" during the negotiations with Edw. R. Burke, representing the Southern factation. He is the former Senator from Nebraska, who gained fame by running out on the New Deal after once defining it in such glowing terms that President Roosevelt himself used the statement in his public addresses.

The slow-spoken, stocky ex-soldier never made a reputation for billiard on Capitol Hill. His prolific profane and his humorless and his quick-witted in committees. His colleagues were amazed when they learned that he had been retained by the mine owners at a reputed salary of twenty-five thousand dollars annually.

Mr. Hard also says that the apprentices are taught by the Bureau of Education of the unions that the union men should strive to reduce its unit costs. Mr. Hard did not peep about the fact that the local printing unions still have it in their power to compel the employer to reset all type produced from paper matrices.

Nor does he tell that the last contract made with the employers in Chicago by the printers' union specifically specified that any production above a certain amount by any union employee is evidence that the worker producing this extra amount is guilty of violating the union rules and subject to discipline.

Nor does Mr. Hard tell that the employer does not have the right to lay off an employee who can merely produce the agreed minimum of type and employ another union printer even if another union printer is able and willing to do 10, 20, or 50 per cent more work on the same machine for the same money.

Nor can the employer of union printers be the judge of efficiency. If he wants to discharge a man because he believes he is inefficient, he runs the risk of having this man reinstated with back pay by some committee—one representative from the labor union, one from the employer and a third person chosen by both.

These practices certainly greatly interfere with reducing unit costs which Mr. Hard contends the printers are taught to try to do.

This seniority and limiting apprentices and the way they are permitted by the union to learn, certainly teaches the printers to believe in the caste system or a dictator form of human relations, rather than in the American way of life, as Mr. Hard contends.

Nor does Mr. Hard tell of the oath that the apprentices are obliged to take before they become printers. It is as follows: "I will not allow my allegiance to the union or the members thereof to be interfered with by any other allegiance that I may now or hereafter owe to any other organization, social, religious, political, secret or otherwise."

It is hard to conceive how any man who is obliged to take this oath can be very democratic. He is obliged to put the union before his God, his family and his government and before the inherent rights that belong to every American whom the unions exclude by their apprentice system from having the right to join the printers union. If the union orders him to do a thing and PUZZLE—Consumers befuddled by OPA's frequent change of schedules may think that they have serious cause for complaint against the confusion prevailing in Washington. But their troubles are mere pinpricks in comparison with the difficulties which official vagueness and inconsistency impose on leaders of the food industries.

On a certain Thursday Prentiss M. Brown's boys issued an order dealing with dried beef, a commodity almost impossible to obtain in many communities. The packers asked for an interpretation of the ruling on Friday and received it in no effort to live up to a contract was on the News, at Mansfield, Ohio. The writer who was publisher of the paper told the printers, with whom the newspaper had a union contract some time in August that at the expiration of their contract, December 31, he expected to run an open shop newspaper but that he would be glad to have all the men stay with him.

The excuse was that the publisher was performing some act that might be construed to hurt the printers' trade union. For years, the printers had in their contract a clause that stated the publisher should perform no act that might be construed to hurt the printers' trade union.

These are just a few of the things that can be mentioned as to why the typographical union, instead of being a model for the American way of life, is a form of unionism that will eventually lead the dictatorship of the proletariat, if its policies are adopted by all other unions.

Communism Is No Dead Duck

THE amazing alacrity and agility with which important public personages, commentators and people who should know better have jumped on the Soviet bandwagon, following Stalin's recent decree dissolving the Comintern, is really something to behold.

Communism today is just as much a world-wide political force as it ever was and the chances are good that far from passing out as a result of the Stalin death warrant, communism will continue to grow.

Today's War Analysis

By MAX HILL, Associated Press Writer

At least one member of the newly formed French committee of National Liberation has had the common sense to strip the organization of its political implications and get down to what he thinks is the basic purpose—a united France.

It is unfortunate that the chief protagonists, Generals De Gaulle and Giraud, cannot be as objective and end their cautious sparring for position, since so much is at stake for all of us.

The question as to whether one is a Giraudist or a De Gaullist is not important. Henri Bonnet, who is minister of information in the committee, said in a recent interview: "We have been appointed as a unit for France, and we will serve as such."

The current impasse is made more complicated by the comparative financial positions of De Gaulle and Giraud. On the one hand, De Gaulle gets virtually all of his funds from the British.

Regardless of the joint committee squabble, it will be the American general, Dwight D. Eisenhower, who has the final say—if he so ground even before the war started.

When the course of the Third International was removed, it was to prevent the growth of Italian and German Communist parties in the post-war world of the Four Freedoms.

Charles de Gaulle has admitted that the strongest element in his support came not from the Catholic, as he had expected, but from the Communists.

Captain From Texas Commands Rangers Training In Scotland

By LEWIS HAWKINS
A RANGER TRAINING BASE IN SCOTLAND -- (Correspondence of the Associated Press)--Well-toughed American rangers with a minimum of illusions and a maximum of guts are coming out of the highlands in sizeable bunches these days, ready in mind and in muscle to be first ashore when the war goes to Hitler's Europe.

The handful of commando-trained American rangers who went to Dniepr now has been multiplied many times by volunteer classes who still train beside the commandos. They all asked for the ranger assignment although they knew they were in for training that may well be the world's hardest and their only reward a call to military chores that are among war's most deadly.

Watching the present group of trainees under the command of Captain Lloyd Marr of Lamesa, Texas, one is impressed by their high spirits and their eagerness.

The American acceptance of the tough British sergeant majors who do most of the training is perhaps best shown by the way in which they return this rally.

One of the latter is likely to call out loudly to a reporter "If you got any more yanks like these, keep 'em home. I've trained hundreds of Americans and these are the worst you'll ever see. They follow up a quiet aside to the newsmen: "These are the grandest boys we've had. They may not be proper soldiers by our standards when it comes to saluting and general discipline but they really have guts and they learn fast."

And after complaining loudly about limey ways and limey food, the American trainees, when asked if their British instructors know their stuff, is almost certain to answer like Sergeant Charles Lloyd of Lansdale, Md.: "Do they? They can do anything they ask us to do and do it better. In fact, they never order us to do anything until they've done it first."

Cavite Goes Up--With the Rising Sun

Chapter 15
CHRISTMAS EVE we hitchhiked a ride in a railroad car headed for Manila, and reached the capital late the following afternoon after narrowly escaping death in an aerial attack on the way in.

Approaching Clark Field we saw huge black clouds of smoke and fires.

The train stopped at a station just opposite the mess on Clark Field. U. S. soldiers were on duty on the platform. I called to one of them.

"They bomb you again this morning?"

"Hell, no! Set it ourselves! Then, proudly, "There's two hundred thousand gallons of aviation gasoline burning there."

"It's a pretty fire but what in hell did you set it for? Isn't this our main field?"

"It was, but a field's no damn good without airplanes. And we are slightly short of them."

I had returned to my room in the hotel and was talking with Rus Brines when Cavite suddenly blew up right in our faces.

The first explosion at Cavite was a blinding white flash which rolled and spread across the bay. There was blast after blast, which rattled all the walls in Manila, and then came the second explosion. There were no enemy planes in the air and we realized instantly that it was not an air raid but that our own Navy had decided the Battle of the Philippines was lost and was itself destroying stores and shore installations and ammunition to keep them from falling into the hands of the enemy. "Jesus!" Russell Brines said, not irreverently, "we've been building that place up for more than forty years. Now we blow it up. That's the end of the U.S.A. in the Philippines for a while."

JUST to see if we could do it we picked up a newspaper and read some of the small type by the light of the explosions nine miles away. The white flashes of burning powder were punctuated by red streaks as exploding shells shot into the air.

"Since Dewey sailed in here a lot of people have watched a lot of spectacular sunsets across this bay," I said, "but nobody has seen any like this before."

"That's a sunrise, too," Russell said. "The Rising Sun of Dai Nippon."

Too dazed to do anything but just sit and watch, I took my typewriter and began to write by the light of the explosions. His story was a masterpiece, not only for its description of the scene but as an account of the general public bewilderment at the way things were going in the Philippines. When I got to New York I went to the AP office to look up the story in the files, but it had never come through. Apparently the censors killed it.

That same night Admiral Thomas C. Hart, commander in chief of the U. S. Asiatic Fleet, climbed over the deck of one of his submarines and stepped down into the conning tower. With his piercing eye, which his subordinates said could drill a hole in the armor of a battleship, he looked around at the men he was leaving behind. He said, "Good-by and good luck." Then he told the captain to set a course for Java.

With Hart in other submarines, the Rear Admiral William Glassford and a number of other staff officers. Only a few high ranking naval men stayed behind.

THESE included some torpedo experts who, while the torpedoes lasted, supplied the PT boats and the submarines that occasionally came in to Corregidor. These men and the sailors who fought with rifles in the jungle, and all the other naval personnel that Hart left behind, fought bravely and well during the Battle of Bataan.

But the Asiatic Fleet as a whole was never an important factor in the fight in the Philippines. It was unable to halt the enemy landings on Luzon or cause any considerable damage to the Japanese Fleet.

That was not the fault of the American naval men. The fact was that the Asiatic Fleet was not a fighting force. It was an ineffective symbol of naval power, a little stick which the United States carried while talking loudly in the Far East. Soon after the war started most of the Fleet went to Java.

EN route to Java, the U.S.S. Marblehead was bombed for hours by Japanese planes which left it lying helpless in the water. Those of the crew who were not killed or captured were rescued and finally brought it safely to New York after an epic trip halfway around the world.

The Houston, and the American destroyer Pillbury and Fox were sent to the bottom in the Java Sea battle, but two other destroyers succeeded in escaping past Bali and reached Australia. Months later I went aboard one of the destroyers in a tiny port in the South Seas to which she had just escorted a convoy. Officers told me that prior to the Java Sea battle four American destroyers had encountered a Japanese convoy in Macassar Straits and had damaged four of the enemy transports in a night sea battle.

That, they said, was all there was to the so-called Macassar Straits battle.

Barber Shop Quartets Compete In Chicago

CHICAGO, June 16 (AP)--A National convention where singing constitutes the major item of business opens tomorrow and for three days delegates will strive to have close harmony prevail at all sessions.

The delegates—who sing for sheer pleasure, plus a little added glory—are from the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A.—which is the society for the preservation and encouragement of barber shop quartet singing in America, Incorporated.

There'll be about 80 of the Nation's ranking barber shop quartets at the convention, competing for the national championship. One of the society's rules prevents the titleholders from defending their championship. A Chicago quartet won the honors last year.

Harold B. Staab of Northampton, Mass., president of the corporation, sounding his keynote for the convention, asserted "singing is a common leveler of humanity." It makes a person forget the material and raises him to the spiritual plane. It elevates the soul. It will build our morale to the limit.

The corporation was formed in 1938 by a few men who wanted to sing other songs than "Sweet Adeline" which Staab explained is not the favorite of barber shop quartets. He said the best quartets shy away from that number because it leads to "implications."

But there are scores of others which are favored by quartets and many of them will be sung by the delegates at the S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. convention.

GREEKS HOLD OUT

ANKARA, June 14 (Delayed) (AP)--A German-Italian drive against Greek guerrillas, which started 10 days ago with tanks, airplanes and artillery in support, has failed to smoke out the Greeks from their mountain strongholds, information from Greek sources said today.

Then a Japanese destroyer raced over and dropped depth charges around the submarine. The waters of Lingayen Gulf are only eighty-six feet deep in that area and the torpedo burst all around the sub. For three days it was pinned to the bottom, after which it finally escaped and got back into Manila on Christmas Day.

Governor Will Discuss Draft At Washington

AUSTIN, June 16. (AP)—Governor Coke R. Stevenson will confer in Washington Friday with Lewis B. Hershey, National Selective Service Director, in the interest of a more uniform policy in drafting agriculture and ranch labor.

The Governor, who will be enroute to Newport News, Va., to witness launching of the new cruiser Houston said further it was possible he would visit the White House.

He declared that Local Draft Boards in Texas variously interpreted politics regarding drafting and deferring agriculture and ranch workers and he felt there was a need for a uniform regulation or understanding to solve an acute farm labor problem.

Regarding the prospective White House visit, the Governor said arrangements were in the hands of Jesse Jones, Secretary of Commerce.

The Governor planned to leave from Houston today with a party of Texans who will officiate at launching the new cruiser which replaces one of the same name which was lost in the Pacific.

In the absence of Lieut. Gov. John Lee Smith who is touring out of the state, A. M. Aikin Jr., of Paris, President Pro tempore of the State Senate, will be acting Governor until Smith or Stevenson return.

Stevenson said it was probable he would attend the 35th annual conference of state Governors at Columbus, Ohio, before he returns to Texas.

Accompanying him on his Northern tour will be Mr. and Mrs. Coke Stevenson Jr.

OCS School To Last 4 Months

Pampa Army Air Field soldiers who qualify for Officer's Candidate Schools in the future will have to attend those schools for four month periods in the future, instead of the 12-week courses, according to a recent war department announcement.

Complementing the increase in the course of instruction from three to four months, OCS classes will be smaller than heretofore. The reduction in classes will vary with the individual schools.

While the desirability of longer courses of instruction and additional training has always been present, it is an established fact that many of the army's best officers today are products of the officer candidate school system. These officers range in grade from lieutenant colonel on down to second lieutenant.

It was pointed out this week that extension of the OCS courses will permit a greater assimilation of the instruction and remove a great amount of pressure from enrollees. The officer candidate school system has already given the Army more than 185,000 trained officers, it was revealed recently.

Since Pampa Field was opened last fall, many enlisted men have qualified for and have been sent to various officer candidate schools, especially to the air force school at Miami, Fla., the anti-aircraft school at Camp Davis, N. C., the infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga., and the signal corps school at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

Old Mayan City Is Discovered

CAMPECHE, Mexico, June 16. (AP)—Descriptions of recently discovered ruins that had been hidden for perhaps more than 1,000 years and which are believed to mark the site of a once flourishing Mayan city were reported by the Campeche state archeological museum.

The ruins were discovered by farm workers burning off jungle growth for an agricultural settlement near Decatur where vestiges of a Mayan settlement had previously been found but not extensively explored.

Piles of stone, disclosing the one-time existence of walls, sculptural works, decorated facades and arch shaped roofs, came to light with clearing off of the terrain. Over 100 mounds believed to cover other ruins also were discovered.

Fortress Gunner Goes Cuckoo Without Oxygen; Tries To Jump From Plane Over North Sea

By LEO BRANHAM
AT A UNITED STATE BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, June 16. (AP)—Air crewmen sometimes do "screw" things when their precious oxygen supply fails as the giant bombers roar through the rarified air at sub-zero temperatures four or five miles high.

Take the case of Sgt. Harold E. Jarvis, 20, of Charleston, W. Va., waist gunner on the fortress "Excalibur," skipped by First Lieut. Clarence Covert of Austin, Texas.

Before he realized the situation, the four-minute supply in Jarvis' "walk-around" oxygen bottle—which he had donned to move more freely about the plane—had become exhausted while the fortress was flying over the North Sea.

When he attempted to plug back into the regular oxygen system Jarvis discovered the hose had frozen to the bottle.

"In a couple minutes I began to go cuckoo," Jarvis related. "It seemed I didn't care what happened. Instinctively I wanted to get out of the bomber. Korff (Sergeant Robert W. Korff, 23, of Glendale, Calif., the fortress' other waist gunner) tells me I put on my parachute backwards and tried to climb out the waist window. In my foggy mental condition I thought I could get relief down below.

"If Korff hadn't socked me I'd be a dead duck right now."

"I just pulled him back into the ship, put him on the floor and sat on him," Korff related. "I forced a tube from another oxygen bottle into his mouth."

When Jarvis was revived he was taken to the radio compartment where he had to remain as he was too weak to participate in the ensuing battle with enemy fighters.

Pocke-Wulf's began attacking "excalibur" as the guns in target. During the one-hour running battle Korff handled the guns in both waist positions.

"Those Jerries kept pretty busy but I poured some beautiful shots into 'em," he said. "I don't know whether I got any as I was too busy to find out."

The only ill-effects suffered by Jarvis was the loss of a few pieces of skin where the metal clip of his oxygen tube froze to his lips.

Spokane Club Declares June 30 Mother-In-Law Day; Praises Her For Efforts On Home Front

SPOKANE, WASH., June 16. (AP)—When it is your Mother-in-Law slaps you down June 30 and with your wife's ming vase, don't be a cad. Grim, brother and kiss her.

June 30, revered by womankind as "Mamma's" last chance to get daughter a June husband, will be Mother-In-Law Day throughout the land.

The great gag-masters of the Spokane athletic round table, who dropped a pre-war bombshell on Washington with "bundles for Congress," came up with the idea today and notified all their approximately 2,500 members in the 48 United States to zip up their grudges June 30 and give Mother-In-Law a happy day.

"Take advantage of the low prices," the notification urged. "Take M-I-L out or take something to her. Our club will help with a big ball."

The club, which in all its famous practical joking has never dared give a mother-in-law a hotfoot, admitted there was a serious thought behind the project but added hastily there "is no pressure back of this idea."

"Thousands of mothers-in-law are home-front soldiers in this war, taking care of the children and the home while the men-folks are at the front and the mothers are in war industry," said the committee in charge. "It would be a fine gesture to show a little friendship toward the person who has suffered for centuries as the victim of worn-out jokes."

Cadet Parents Due This Week

"Especially do we thank you for the train schedules as the ticket agent at Akron couldn't find Pampa listed," Mrs. Robert Morris of Mogadore, Ohio, states in a letter thanking the Pampa Chamber of Commerce for assistance in securing a place to stay when she comes to the 43-P cadet graduation at the end of next week.

Train and bus schedules have been included in letters going to cadet parents due to the fact that Pampa is not listed on all schedules. A number of cases have been reported where people were routed the wrong way, causing extra travel and delays. A few instances have been reported where parents failed to arrive in time for the graduation due to being routed the wrong way.

Letters have already been received from the following parents from the following states who expect to be here for the graduation next week: Ohio, Maryland, New York, Colorado, New Jersey, Michigan, Missouri, Oklahoma, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, and Texas.

Anyone who wishes to help with the army hospitality program are urged to telephone the chamber of commerce office.

Aviation Cadet Applications Up

Aviation cadet applications, especially from enlisted men, are pouring into the legal office at Pampa Army Air Field in numbers well above the goal set for this field.

With the half-way mark in the current aviation cadet recruiting drive not yet reached, it appears almost certain that Pampa Field will contribute more than its share of enlisted men and civilians from this area to the ever-growing army of Americans desiring to fly against the Axis as pilots, bombardiers or navigators.

Lt. Evan K. Shelby is the cadet recruiting officer for the local field, and his desk has been piled high the past few days with applications for cadet training. Many of these have come from enlisted men stationed here who were recently eliminated as pilot trainees and were not previously qualified for further air crew training.

Civilians in this area, who are not yet 17 or who have not been notified of their induction under selective service, are urged to make applications at Pampa Field for cadet training, a field of service packed with action and the chance to serve in the mighty United States Army Air Forces.

Little things that become Big Things

THE U.S. ARMY Ordnance Department, early in 1942, asked one of our executives if we had a factory near a good supply of water, of sufficient size to make small calibre ammunition at the rate of many millions every twenty-four hours. We had such a factory on the Ohio River with enough feet of floor space.

It was well placed near additional unused land and far enough from the city to allow the storage of powder and the loading and testing of ammunition.

The work of preparation was started immediately. The automobile machinery in the plant, which could not be used, was dismantled and put elsewhere. It was replaced by new and different equipment. A specialized laboratory was installed and staffed with engineers, metallurgists, and technicians drawn from our widely diversified staff. Production executives and specialists were also selected from our own personnel. While the factory was being prepared for production, the Frankford arsenal assisted the training of these production specialists who, in turn, were to train the workers and supervise the operation of the many departments of the plant.

The first finished ammunition produced in this newly organized plant went on test in May, 1942. The cartridge cases were then made of brass. Brass is an extremely vital war material. Could steel be used instead? Could steel be worked over the machinery and tools that were provided for the use of brass? Could the steel be treated to withstand the corrosion of a long sea voyage and to resist successfully the humidity of the tropics and the sub-zero temperatures of the Arctic? The U. S. Army Ordnance Department—and our own engineers, metallurgists and technicians believed it could. More engineering talent—this time chemists—were added to the laboratory staff and the larger and more complete Chrysler Corporation's laboratories, in Detroit, were also directed to the solution of this problem.

The first of the new steel casings were made in the month of August, 1942. They were pretty good. Then began severe testing,—spraying with wet salt air, burying in salty mud marshes washed by the tide,—storing in hot damp rooms and open exposure to the weather,—plating with lacquer, copper, cadmium, nickel, chrome, zinc, silver, lead—dipping in dichromate, sealing with plastics. A vast cycle of experiments were tried and tested and the results compared. From all this effort came a standardized product made of steel, and approved for use on all the battle fronts.

The making of this ammunition is really the art of producing many pieces rapidly—many thousands per minute, every day, 6 days a week. Ninety-nine operations are performed to take each piece of ammunition from the lead, steel and powder stage to the formed, loaded, tested and packed, finished article—ready to shoot,—with every piece perfect in shape, finish, and firing efficiency.

We have made our first billion of this steel ammunition. Not that this is a top record for ammunition making but, to us, it is a milestone passed on the road to Victory. We will pass the second and third billion with much less emotion but we really got a thrill out of joining the ranks of the important producers of ammunition.

With this change to steel we release, with every billion rounds, thousands of tons of brass. This brass can now be used in war production where no other substitute is possible. A finished round of ammunition weighs only a few ounces. Little things often do become really big and important.

Thompson Praises Oil Price Hike
