Just because you have a fairly good tan, don't think you can skip September 30, 1936, were revoked in all the sunburn precautions you wills written by the couple after took earlier in the summer.

"A second sunburn can be just as painful and ugly as the first one," says Lois Brewster, pretty Powers alleged model who is spending her days off death May 24. working in friends' victory gardens. Because cameras are such critical recorders, Lois has to make doubly sure that her weekends out in the wind and sun won't result in flaky, peeling skin.

"You needn't worry about look-ing unattractively oily either, while preventing old Sol from painting you lobster pink," she's found, "Use one of the non-greasy and nonsticky lotions, which keep your skin s' smooth and opaque as velvet." And one of the best of these new unburn preventives. I discovered has the added feature of being a mosquito repellent.

American Colonel Single-Handedly Knocks Out German Tank with Anti-Tank Gun in Sicily

By HAROLD V. BOYLE WITH THE ALLIES IN SICILY— P—Leaves from a war correspond-

The rumble of artillery fire woke us this morning and we went out to watch the battle of the vineyards. A number of American tanks were crawling along just below the ridge line, firing over it in livid flashes. then waddling on to close with we saw enemy shells begin bursts us. Over the ridge, a column of black smoke arose from some vehicle hit directly

One colonel stepped to within a few paces of a giant 52-ton Tiger tank and single-handedly knocked it out of the battle with a lucky shot from his anti-tank gun. Such a deed can be compared only to David slaying Goliath. The colonel's feat was perhaps the most re-markable of the Sicilian campaign.

Colonels are known troughout the army for their "Greta Garbo complex"—they want to live alone. But in the ship that brought us to Sicily, 18 distinguished wearers of
