Pampa Schools Taking Steps To Combat Poor Penmanship

By GEORGIA SMITH

Pampa schools are doing some things about the trend of criticism directed toward penmanship of Texas students.

A recent survey by the W. A. Sheaffer Pen Co. revealed that Texas school children rated considerably lower on percentage basis of being better penmen than any of the other states.

Mrs. Mary Call, teacher at Horace Mann Elementary School, has been teaching penmanship since 1925 and supervises two penmanship classes.

Last summer, Mrs. Call taught penmanship classes in Canyon and is now teaching a class of other teachers, which meets twice weekly at the junior high school. The class is for volunteers who wish to improve their writing.

The method of teaching penmanship has been changed in the past few years. No more do the children have to sit for an hour with a messy pen staff and master the grueling exercises of ovals and push-pulls that their parents or even their big brothers had to do, according to Mrs. Call.

The teacher presents a letter, drawing it carefully on the blackboard on straight lines that are numbered into four spaces. The letter is repeated within the lines, with parts touching the down spaces.

A rhythm is presented with each letter, when turns the basis of the movement of the student's arm and hand. The teacher counts out the rhythm as she presents the letter and the children repeat her movements on their copy paper. This is the method used by Mrs. Call and she emphasized that it has been approved by all Texas schools.

Students are allowed in the modern method to use fountain pen or pencil, depending on the lesson being taught. Writing with a pen staff is taught later if the student wishes to learn.

In Texas, it has become quite common, even recently, for each teacher to give a penmanship certificate for the progress he observed.

The first two grades of primary, only penmanship is being taught. In the third grade, the student is taught the correct way to write the simple script.

Scout Committees Give First Reports

Reports from each member of the Santa Fe Boy Scout District Committee were heard last week in the first meeting of its kind in Pampa.

Ray Evans, district chairman, welcomed the group and introduced each member.

Ross Buzzard, district chairman of Explorers, reported on the activities and philosophies of the Explorer Posts. "High adventure is the keynote of the explorer program," he said.

His report was followed by a financial report by Harry Wilbur, finance chairman. He emphasized that finance drives do more than collect money. "They create more interest in scouting," he pointed out.

Frank Fata, assistant district commissioner, gave a report for James McCune, explaining the jobs of all the assistant district commissioners. He also pointed

Kiwanis See Movie On Basketball Tilt; Hear Show Report

Art Aftergut, chairman of the boy's and girl's committee of the Pampa Kiwanis Club, was in charge of the program at the club's noon meeting, Friday. A movie on the Baylor-Brigham Young basketball game was presented.

It was announced reserved seat tickets for the annual club show, Feb. 26-27, may be obtained at Clyde's Pharmacy, beginning Monday at 8 a. m. General admission tickets to the show may be obtained from any club member or from Leslie Hart, president. Proceeds will go to the club's underprivileged children's fund.

Texarkana Is Not Like Other Cities

By LUCILLE HOLLAND
 TEXARKANA. — (AP) — Texarkana has two of everything, two mayors, duplicate sets of officials — in short, two cities, one in Texas and the other in Arkansas.
 When the Texas Associated Press Managing Editors Association holds its 40th annual meeting at Texarkana Feb. 18, 19, the editors will see a unique area the Southwest.
 Texarkana looks typical—population about 50,000, altitude 332 feet, annual rainfall 49.48 inches. But there the similarity between Texarkana, U.S.A. and other cities ends.

If the visiting editors and their wives do not have their photographs taken as they stand in front of the big post office building with one foot in Texas and the other in Arkansas, they will have violated a tradition that apparently got under way more than 75 years ago when travelers went through the city on horseback from Washington, Ark., to Jefferson, Tex.
 Those were the days when newsmen wrote the news as they saw it and bore the consequences. Their graves are historic landmarks.
 The editors then did much of their newsgathering in the dozen saloons on Broad Street, now the retail shopping center of the city.

 The local citizenry has had many heated discussions about whether the Arkansas-Texas state line, which forms the crack down the middle of State Line Avenue, is an asset or a detriment. In the old days, Arkansas was for Arkansans and Texas for Texans, and the police departments and fire departments cooperated to keep this feud hot.
 Not too many years ago, a house in Arkansas, across the street from a Texas fire station, burned to the ground before the Arkansas trucks could get to it.

The Texas firemen just sat and watched. They had no authority to go out of the state to fight a fire. Now the two departments work together.
 There has been some talk of having Texarkana declared a district, to be operated the way the District of Columbia is. Newsmen hope it won't come about. News would be sure to fall off if they had just one of everything to cover.
 Texarkana, lying in two states, takes its name from three: Texas, Arkansas, and Louisiana. Oklahoma should be added somehow. The Texarkana Gazette and Daily News has a bigger circulation in McCurtain County, Oklahoma, than any Oklahoma newspaper.

 Census figures on Texarkana do not tell the real story. The five cities that depend on Texarkana, U.S.A., for their economic and cultural life are Texarkana, Texas, Texarkana, Ark., North Texarkana, Texas, South Texarkana, Texas, and Wake Village, Texas, North Heights, Ark., has been threatening to incorporate.
 Largest employer of local labor is Red River Arsenal, commanded by Brig. General Selby H. Frank. It is one of the largest ordnance establishments in the country and employs more than 10,000 men and women. Sixty percent of the employees live in one of the Texarkanas.

Radio Really Being Used In The North

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. — (AP) — This is the country where radio men deliver babies by remote control, and bears may be shot from the window of the transmitter station. At the big 50,000 watt station of the Canadian Army Signal Corps at Yellowknife, key station in the Texarkana, Texas, is dry, but Texarkana, Ark., has ample liquor stores and beer taverns to quench the thirst of the four states area.
 This oasis did a four million dollar liquor business in 1950.

Army's northern network, they hardly bother mentioning happenings such as these. It's old stuff for northern radio men.
 The radio network is called upon to turn its skilled hands to everything from delivering messages to delivering babies. Among its important tasks is a daily report on weather conditions in the Mackenzie river valley, the "cradle" of North American weather. This report is relayed to Washington, D. C., where it is a key factor in making up continental forecasts.
 Radio reception in the north country is exceptional, the Army men report. On one occasion they had a complaint from Philadelphia because a small

Squeeze Is Expected On Supplies Of Corn

DES MOINES — (AP) — The Iowa production and marketing administration says that a total U.S. corn supply of about 3,990,000,000 bushels is expected in 1951, but that heavy feeding operations and industrial needs may put a real squeeze on corn supplies to develop.
 set used here was interfering with Philadelphia police radio. The transmission travelled a couple of thousand miles in spite of the fact it was not supposed to be powerful enough to be heard over the horizon.

Historical Novels On Library Shelves

Remainder of the books from last week's shipment arrived this week in the Pampa Public Library, delayed by the recent rail strike.

Of interest to readers of junior high school age are a group of historical novels concerning persons that are known only to the youngsters in their history books. Each of the books is illustrated and the print is easily read.

These include "Lee and Grant at Appomattox," giving incomplete descriptions of several battles of the Civil War; "Paul Revere and the Minute Men," a biography of the famous rider, describing life in the United States about 1750.

"The California Gold Rush," a novel of one man and his hunt for riches in the California of 1848 and 49. "Voyages of Christopher Columbus," his many trials in the beginning of his first voyage and his discoveries.

Two adult novels were added to the library shelves this week in this same shipment.

"Mr. Lincoln's Army," is an odyssey of General George Brinton McClelland and the army of the Potomac, the story of the early Civil War in the North.

The other is "Diligence in Love," by Daisy Newman. This is a modern novel of a sophisticated advertising woman, Vaughn Hill, who lived among Quakers.

2000 Filipinos Abandon Village

CAGAYAN, Mindanao Island, Philippines — (AP) — A village where 2,000 Filipinos live little more than five months ago has been completely abandoned on Camiguin Island since the eruption last September of Hibok Hibok volcano.

The village of Agoho, on the slopes of the still smoking volcano, has been entirely evacuated. Boulders cover the remaining houses and a huge crack splits the ground through the site of the village school, reports the provincial governor.

SENIOR PLAY PRINCIPALS—Betty Norman and Bob Allford will portray the parts of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert in "Cheaper by the Dozen," the senior three-act comedy to be presented in the high school auditorium March 1 and 2. The play is based on the book and the movie of the same name, written by two of the Gilbert offspring. Miss Thelma Henslee, instructor of drama at PHS, will direct the play.

'Cheaper By The Dozen' Is PHS Senior Class Production

"Cheaper by the Dozen" will be presented March 1 and 2 by the seniors of Pampa High School. Thelma Henslee, director, has announced the cast for the play, which will star Bob Allford and Betty Norman as Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert, parents of the 12 little Gilberts.

Forest Budget Over 1 Million

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The U. S. Forest Service budget calls for an allocation of $1,146,647 to Texas in the year starting July 1.

Protection and management of national forests in the state would account for $250,000. The money would go for forest fire control, maintenance of buildings and equipment.

Construction and maintenance of roads and trails in national forests would account for $276,200.

A total of $187,244 would go for a program of cooperation with the State of Texas in fire fighting and tree planting on state-owned and private lands, and to help small woodland owners by advising them on harvesting timber and good forest management.

The state would receive an estimated $365,000 from sale of timber of national forests, the sum to be used to compensate local governments in counties with national forests. This allocation is based on one-quarter of the timber sale receipts from over the nation.

Estimated expenditures at the East Texas Research Center at Nacogdoches total $53,000.

In addition to these allocations, additional sums may be spent in the state for forest fire fighting and insect control work, out of general appropriations, if emergencies arise.

Increase Forecast In Men's Clothing Prices By Next Fall

NEW YORK — (AP) — Retail prices for men's suits, topcoats, slacks and the like probably will be eight to 10 percent higher next fall than this coming spring, officials of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers forecast.

Spring prices, they said, already have been established eight to 10 percent ahead of those of last fall.

They said the shirt situation appeared more stabilized but that the fall outlook with respect to both suits and accessories was dependent upon defense demands for raw materials, particularly foreign wool.

Moslem Determined She Will Die Right

KHARTOUM, Sudan — (AP) — When Moslems die, they want their body washed before burial with sacred water from Zamzam, a holy well near Mecca.

Fatima Es Shaid, an old woman living near here, has been expecting death for years. She has had the Zamzam water on hand but has had to renew it several times in the last 20 years because it evaporated. She doesn't know how old she is — maybe over 100, she says. She has eight children, 17 grandchildren and 36 great grandchildren and she remembers all their names.

The total cost of the Revolutionary War to American taxpayers was $144,555,642.

India Is Planning Big Output Of Paper

NEW DELHI — (AP) — India will come close to achieving self-sufficiency in paper production within the next two years, as existing mills are expanded and new ones built.

This was disclosed recently when paper manufacturers held a meeting with the National Planning Commission here. The manufacturers said they planned to expand six of the 15 mills now operating and that four new units will be built. They stated that production capacity for all varieties of paper will be raised to 180,000 tons annually.

Pampa Rodeo Will Be Held August 7-11

Directors of the Top of Texas Rodeo Assn. have agreed unanimously to hold a rodeo in Pampa this year. Dates for the show will be Aug. 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11. The directors decided, at a meeting Thursday, to temporarily suspend the annual horse show, held in connection with the rodeo.

The only official action taken regarding plans for the rodeo was the decision to make an attempt to enlarge the cutting horse contest. A purse of $250 will be offered and the entry fees, $50 for each entry, will be turned back into prizes for winners. This is expected to attract many of the top cutting horses in the country.

Prize money to be offered at the show is expected to be set at the next regular meeting of the association, according to Paul Crouch, president. This will give the association time to make cost estimates and to prepare a budget.

No arrangements have been made, as yet, regarding stock for the show. For the past several years, roping and riding stock have been furnished by Goat Mayo of Petrolia.

Shamrock Firemen Answer 118 Calls; Buy New Equipment

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock's fire department made 118 runs during 1950, announced J. D. Mallow, fire marshal. Insurance companies paid $4,624.99 to policy holders within the city limits, Mallow's records show.

Firemen have several new pieces of equipment which are materially aiding in the conquest of fire. Three Indian hand water guns, 500 feet of 2 1/2 inch fire hose, 150 feet of 1 1/2 inch leader line, two signal lights, and two Scott Air-Paks have been added.

Decline Is Noted In Luzon 'Snail' Fever

IROBIN, Luzon — (AP) — A government zoologist reported that outbreaks of "snail fever," which afflicts more than 600 persons a year in this small South Luzon community have been lowered one-half in the past six months.

The disease is spread by snails which inhabit nearby streams. It is known medically as schistosomiasis, a type of liver fluke. Zoologist Benjamin Santos said there were three fatalities among the 600 cases reported.

Secretary Snyder's proposals to hike U. S. excise taxes look good to British tax payers, who pay back-breaking (sales) taxes such as those shown on picture-chart. The high Austin car, shown at bottom, listed at $1206, is taxed $402 England but would be taxed only $241 in the U.S. under Snyder's per cent tax proposal. Price to a Briton, however, is pretty academic, since most cars are earmarked for export. He has to wait up to five years for delivery even if he can afford to buy one.

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock's Lions Club is going to see to it that Shamrock has a park. They have already made the down payment on 35 acres of land just west of the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad, opening on to Highway 68, and they propose to raise the rest in a unique manner.

The park will contain playgrounds, baseball park, picnic areas, tennis courts, swimming pool and other features, when all plans are made reality.

Shamrock merchants are cooperating with the Lions Club in offering discount books with 20 coupons, each good for a discount with each of 20 local merchants, with discounts worth from 50 cents to $100.

Citizens may purchase as many discount books as they wish. Work on the park will proceed as fast as possible.

The Department of Commerce and Labor was created February 14, 1903, and was divided March 4, 1913, into two separate departments.

Pampans Take Part In Truckers Meet;

A group of Pampa truckers were among over 200 Panhandle transportation and supply men who held a meeting at Amarillo Thursday night to talk about state legislature affecting the trucking industry.

The truckers talked of ways and means to halt further restrictive legislation regarding their industry. A committee was set up to complete plans for combating the bills.

All of the men in attendance at the meeting agreed to write, wire or phone legislators of their stand on the proposed legislation immediately, and to encourage their friends throughout the state to do likewise.

What's its Power?

FIREBALL!

(Only Buick can make this statement)

BEND an ear to the deep baritone song of this marvel motor, and you'll know we aren't fooling when we call it Fireball.

Mister, that's Power, with a capital P.

What happens beneath that brawny Buick bonnet happens in no other car in the world.

Years ahead of the rush to high-compression valve-in-head engines, Buick was in there pitching for more power from every drop of fuel.

The result was—and is—a spectacular engineering phenomenon that makes itself felt the instant you touch toe to gas treadle.

You command a rapid-fire sequence of tiny tornados, letting loose their pent-up power every five inches that a Buick travels.

If you could look inside that Fireball engine, you'd see the reason. Instead of the flat-topped pistons used in other cars, Buick uses a turbo-top piston, contoured like this:

So the rushing fuel whirlwinds into a compressed ball that adds a super-charge to the downstroke of the piston.

And you get the thrill—and thrift—of this Buick "first" in every mile you drive.

More than that, you get an engine tried-and-true—an engine that's been polished and perfected in every detail up through the years.

Again and again, compression ratios have been stepped up to keep pace with advances in fuels. Self-setting valve lifters contribute to silence.

Micropoise balance and Hi-Poised engine mountings add two more Buick exclusives.

And the silken might of this Fireball's power has been made more beautifully obedient by still another "first"—Dynaflo Drive.*

So we list as a prime reason why "smart buy's Buick" this Fireball power plant—and a host of happy owners will say "Amen."

Better see your dealer soon, to find out what you've been missing.

Fighting Harvesters Do It Again — Amarillo Defeated

SPECK SPECULATES

By SPECK REYNOLDS

The deep zone defense Amarillo played against the Harvesters Friday night in the junior high gym beats anything I've ever seen in a basketball game. With six minutes remaining in the first quarter, the McNeely team started freezing the ball. To the surprise of the Pampa crowd and the Panhandle crowd, Coach R. G. Hill kept his Sandies' hands off their own goal. Coach Hill immediately moved to the center of the court and held the ball for five minutes. The Sandies even held a brief timeout with Coach Hill putting the ball back in play. The Sandies' defense was so good that Coach Hill had to send in his reserves to get the ball back in play. The Sandies' defense was so good that Coach Hill had to send in his reserves to get the ball back in play.

Locals Use Free Throw Line, Sandie Coach To Win, 34-27

The Amarillo Sandstorm blew like a hurricane the first half here Friday night in the junior high gym, but the former basketball titans of the Panhandle collapsed like the '29 stock market the second semester and the Harvesters came from behind to close out their season with a 34-27 victory.

Coach T. G. Hill's hoopsters held a 23-18 lead at the half, but the Harvesters took the wind out of the Sandies' scoring sails the third quarter.

Marvin Bond opened the third quarter with a free shot; Duane Jeter added two more at the charity line and Tarpley picked up one to narrow the Amarillo lead to 23-22. With three minutes gone, Jeter meshed a field goal to send the Pampanos into a one-point lead. James Claunch and Joe Sullivan swapped field goals, but Bond pumped in four straight tallies to balloon the Pampa lead to 30-25. Claunch and Bond each canned a free throw to give the locals a 32-25 margin at the start of the final stanza.

After Claunch and Jenkins each hit two free shots, the score was glued at 2-2, 15-15 and 17-17 in the first half. After the score was knotted at 17-17, the Sandies splashed at three field goals to take a 23-17 lead. Claunch hit a free throw to make it 23-18 at the half.

Marvin Bond of Pampa and Joe Sullivan of the Sandies tied for high scoring honors with ten points each. Bond pushed in three field goals and four for four at the free throw line. Sullivan canned four fielders and two free shots. First Quarter — Tarpley opened the scoring for the Harvesters with a free pitch. Sullivan hit a field goal, but Tarpley rammed in two free shots to give Pampa a 3-2 lead. Linker hogan hit a set up, but Bond meshed a side shot and Tarpley threw and hit a hook shot to give the Harvesters an 8-4 lead. Swindell and Tarpley exchanged free throws to make the score, Pampa 9, Amarillo 5 at the quarter mark.

Second quarter — Tarpley looped in his sixth straight free throw, but Sullivan notched two at the gratis line and winter canned a spin shot from the side to narrow the score to 10-9, Pampa.

Claunch chalked up one point with a free throw and Jeter hit a tip in winter splashed in a jump shot and Bond followed with a tip in to make it 15-11, Pampa. Winter and Sullivan knotted the score with two field goals, but Jeter sent the Harvesters into the lead with a one-handed shot from the side that dribbled around his man and tied the score with a set up. Jenkins followed with a field goal and Sullivan hit twice from well out to give Amarillo a 23-17 lead.

Claunch chalked up a point at the free throw line to make the score 23-18, Amarillo 27. Third quarter — Bond, Jeter and Tarpley hit combined four free throws to narrow the Amarillo lead to one point. Jeter plunked in a rebound and Claunch hit a jump shot to make the score 26-25, Pampa. Sullivan pumped in Amarillo's lone field goal in the third quarter to pull the Sandies within one point of the Pampanos. Bond pushed in a side shot and two free shots and Claunch hit a free throw to make the score 31-25. Bond connected with a free pitch to finish the scoring.

Fourth quarter — Claunch hit twice at the charity line and Jenkins matched this with two free throws for Amarillo to close out the scoring for the night, Pampa 34, Amarillo 27. Tarpley held the ball five minutes, subs entered game for both sides and neither team scored.

Harvesters went into a deep court freeze, and Coach Hill sent his roundballers into a deep zone. Forward Buzz Tarpley held the ball for five minutes in the center of the court. Hill kept his Sandies "CHAINED" under their goal, and Pampa didn't move the ball in until the last minute of the game. Neither quintet scored in the last six minutes of the contest. Coach Cliff McNeely sent in his five reserves to finish out — last seconds, and Hill immediately cleared his bench of subs and sent 'em into the fray.

IT'S UP THERE SOMEWHERE—Amarillo and Pampa cages game skyward and wait for the roundball to come down in the junior high gym Friday night. Marvin Bond, who hit 10 points for Pampa, is surrounded by three Sandies. Harvester Buzz Tarpley snaps his fingers at the left, and Duane Jeter of the Harvesters is under the net. ## Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR. HEW YORK — (AP) — The International Baseball League may move its headquarters from New York to Montreal ... With the TV "frontier" being shoved back, the central office here no longer is central ... Since Newark and Jersey City folded, seven of the loop's clubs are way up north and Baltimore is left out in the cold or rather the warm, considering its southern location ... That could be the opening for Baltimore, which has long harbored big league ambitions, to bid for a major franchise. Or an even more radical suggestion, put out by an International League who was a just thinking out loud, that the only hope the big minors have of withstanding the television invasion is to assume major league designations for their games as "big league baseball" and, if the various devices to make the viewers pay for what they see are successful, they could collect quite a bit of dough.

Bulldogs Nudge Childress, 53-50

CHILDRESS — Keith Lane led the Berger Bulldogs past the Childress Bobcats here Friday night, 53-50, in the first game of the bi-district basketball playoff series. Lane put on a one-man scoring show for the partisan Childress crowd. The big center cracked the nets for 31 points to account for more than half of Berger's tallies. The two teams met in the second game at Childress on Saturday. The Berger Bulldogs took a 14-8 lead in the first quarter and led 28-24 at the half. Childress cut the lead to 42-28 at the three quarter mark. The overflow crowd of 1,100 fans cheered the Bobcats on in the fourth period but the rally fell three points short. Coach Tex Hanna's quintet owned a 62-42 lead in the final stanza. The Bulldogs started throwing the ball, but Childress thawed out the deep freeze by ger was picking up one. The Berger was picking up one. The clock ran out to end the Childress threat.

Pampa Boxers Register Three Wins Over Irish Glovers Friday Night

SHAMROCK — No TKO's or Lefors won a decision over Bobby Trimble of Shamrock in a 70-pound mixer. Paul Hall of Shamrock decided Diggs of Pampa in another 95-pound scrap. Shamrock's Clarence Jones decided Eddie Clemmons of Lefors in a slam-bang affair. The two 105-pound boxers supplied the fans with one of the better fights of the night. David Bronner of Lefors decided Wayne Smith of Shamrock in a 105-pound fight, and Jerry Herring of Lefors annexed the decision from Forest Thompson of Shamrock in the same weight class.

Two Pitchers Join

BOSTON — (AP) — Two more pitchers have accepted terms with the Boston Braves for 1951. General Manager John Quinn said Saturday, leaving nine unsigned. The signed contract of left hand pitcher Johnny Antonelli — $65,000 "bonus baby" — was in Saturday's mail. He recently was classified 1-A in the draft.

Illinois Track Followers Laz

Laz as the greatest collegiate pole vaulter of all time. In five indoor meets this winter, Laz has vaulted from 14-6 to 14-9 "feet" or vaulting, had a record 14-3 1/4 as an undergraduate. Richards never did better than 14-3 1/4 as an undergraduate. Newcomer in Saturday night's AAU track meet is Goran Weidendel, a 6-5 high jumper and 7,000 point decathlon man from Sweden. He's a freshman at the U. of Washington. One of the leading amateur golfers around Sarasota, Fla., is Heine Manush, the old Tiger outfielder. He hits a golf ball from the south side, too. Abe J. (Globetrotter) Saperstein tabs the little Beloit College basketball team as about the best he has seen this season. The kids, he says, have developed a lot of skill and deception to go with their speed.

Jean Packs Bricks, Bottles And Bedwarmers For Holland

By HENRY McLEMORE

In the past we have always gone to Europe in the summer when the birds were in full bloom, the trees and flowers awakened you with their chirping, and the electric fan, not the dog, was man's best friend.

This time we're going in the winter and to hear Jean talk about what we must take with you'd think we were going to the Siberian steppes. KLM has told us that Amsterdam, Frankfurt and Munich, our first ports of call, won't be much different in climate than New York. But she pool-pooos their meteorologists and goes about shopping like a female Admiral Byrd.

Shopping for herself, that is. I can't help but gain the impression that Jean thinks I am as imperious as a dead seal, and will be entirely comfortable with the same wardrobe that I wore in India in August three years ago.

She was laying out the things we would take this morning and I noticed two plain, ordinary red bricks.

"What for?" I asked.

"In case my hot water bottle and heating pad go on the blink."

Notice the use of the word "MY."

I asked her if she didn't know that 66 pounds was all the weight allowed for a trans-Atlantic flight.

"Sure," she said, "but I'll put them in my shoulder bag and they'll go as hand luggage and won't be weighed. Everybody always cheats a tiny bit on weight."

permanently pampered house dog and threw him upon his own resources to write a livelihood from hostile and unfamiliar forests he would grow fat and strong in the process. An untrained human would probably starve to death.

Canine instinct is a miraculous quality of which we humans know nothing; and from which we could learn much.

DON'T TOUCH PUP'S EARS UNTIL

Before and during a pup's teething period, never tamper with his ears in any way. Don't try to correct his stance no matter how disreputable it may be. Many a dog's otherwise fine ear carriage has been ruined for life by such ear tampering. Until a pup is at least seven months old don't do anything to try to improve his ear carriage. By seven months, as a rule, the teething is over and you will find that the ear carriage is back to normal.

THE QUESTION BOX

Question: A friend tells me that if I breed my hunting dog it will make her a better hunter. Is that so?—J. D.

Answer: I don't believe that breeding a hunting dog makes any difference in its hunting ability. From purely a hunting standpoint I would say the dog would turn out just as well whether you breed her or not.

Question: Would you advise my putting a floor in a dog house I am building?—T. H. D.

Answer: Yes, it is best to house a dog in a kennel with a floor that is 3 to 4 inches above the ground.

Roberts Falls Short Of 'Dimes' Quota

MIAMI (Special)—Although the time for the drive was extended two weeks, Roberts County fell short of reaching her goal of $760 in the 1951 March of Dimes. Nearly $500 of the amount was collected, according to Frank B. Potter, Jr., the county director.

Murder Brings End To Dispute On Dowry

KHARTOUM, Sudan (P)—A native in Madial, in the Southern Sudan, is reported to have killed his three brothers during a fit of temper because they refused to help him collect his "bride price," a sort of dowry, from the bride's parents.

"You can always set fire to the mattress if it gets too cold," I said.

That bit of sarcasm went over her head like a jet, and she continued laying out things—all hers.

Wrap-around wool hats. Bed socks. Red and blue underpants that are called "snuggies" or something like that to disguise the fact that they are plain old woolen drawers. Pullovers and cardigans.

Galoshes lined with fur. Stout walking shoes that a cloudbuster couldn't see through. Raincoats with hoods attached. Every fur coat that her family (thank goodness for that) ever bought her.

Pounds and pounds and pounds of stuff.

"What about me?" I finally asked. "What do I do? Just coat myself with oil like a Channel swimmer and take a change of seersucker suits?"

"You're the one who says it won't be cold," Jean answered. "I'm the one who says it will be. So, why are you complaining?"

Frozen Green Peas Popular Vegetables

WASHINGTON, D.C. (P)—Green peas are by far the most important single frozen vegetable, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The 1950 frozen green pea pack set a new record of more than 154,000,000 pounds, the department says.

The Bureau of Agricultural Economics notes that consumption of frozen peas in recent years has cut into the demand for fresh peas, particularly during the winter harvest season in southern truck areas.

Hemphill 'Dimes' Drive Passes Goal

CANADIAN (Special)—Hemphill County's March of Dimes drive is over the top with a little to spare. Drive Chairman Red Owens reports last week that he had closed the books on the 1951 March of Dimes with a total of $1554.44, well above last year's mark and a little more than the quota set for this year.

DOG NOTES

by PETER BOGGS

MIAMI BEACH'S DOG PARKING PROBLEM

More and more of the people who go to Florida in the winter are taking their dogs with them. A number of these northern dogs are causing the police of Miami Beach a lot of trouble. Not, perhaps so much trouble, but a baffling legal question. The shops along fashionable Lincoln Road don't allow dogs inside their swank interiors. A number of women walking along with their dogs on leashes have solved that problem whenever they decide to enter a store and shop. But in doing so they have given the police one to solve. Here's what has been happening:

The street outside the shops is lined with parking meters. The women simply go up to one, tie their pet to it, deposit a coin and walk into the store of their choice. As of this date the police haven't definitely ruled on the question. "Can a dog be parked like a car?" But if this dog parking craze increases as much as it has in the past few weeks, I can almost assure you that the police will rule dogs just aren't cars.

WORRY WHEN YOUR DOG IS FAT NOT THIN

Very seldom is a dog too thin for his own good. Yet hundreds of dog owners worry because their pets don't put on weight. Once in a while some internal disorder (worms often than anything else) may keep a dog

YOUR WATCH, YOUR DOG AND YOU

Animal psychologists have discovered that the average dog hears 10 times better than does his master. Ever wonder why your dog cocked his ear when to your sense of hearing nothing could be heard? Tests recently concluded showed that a dog could hear the ticking of a watch well from a distance of 40 feet, whereas the average man can hardly hear it from a distance of 4 feet. Yes, sounds are 10 times clearer to a dog than to you.

THE MIRACLE OF INSTINCT

A good friend of mine owned a dog that I considered almost brainless. She showed almost no sense whatsoever and never seemed as if she could be trained, but she had inborn dog instincts. In brief, she had no knowledge, no experience or sense of responsibility, nothing beyond puppy silliness, when her first litter of pups was born, however, from the moment of their birth, she became a perfect mother, expert in every one of all the early intricate, and later, needful chores of maternity.

If she had had 50 years of intensive teaching and 50 litters of pups, she could not have fulfilled better her new and imperative duties.

Why?

No untrained human mother would have had the remotest idea as to what to do in such wholly strange circumstances, with no help or tuition. But, from the very first, my friend's dog knew it all. The answer is: INSTINCT.

Next to Divine guidance, instinct is the greatest force in the dog nature. It teaches immediately what we humans spend years in learning. Even if you took a ### bone-thin. But if, after a reliable veterinarian has looked him over and corrected the condition, he continues to be thin, don't worry.

You can fatten a dog by feeding rice — in moderation — or any one of several of the cereal-like foods. So will a moderation of his exercise if he is inclined to run his weight off. But if he is 100 percent healthy, be grateful that he is thin instead of fat. More dogs die from over-feeding and overweight than from under-feeding or from being too thin. You can definitely prolong the life of an older dog not allowing him to get too fat.

It is the same with dogs as with humans. There are some very healthy human beings who cannot acquire extra weight, no matter how much they eat. Others with light appetites continue to be fat in spite of diets and exercise.

If your dog is well and happy and vigorous, stop worrying about his lack of plumpness. I am sure he is all right and that his healthy leanness should be envied.

information is assembled. Then the owner of the farm and conservation experts draw a plan tailored-made for the individual farm.

In the dust bowl farmers were urged to plant grass on lands considered unsuitable for wheat and other crops. They were cautioned against grazing too many cattle on the grass. Its primary purpose was to keep a cover on the topsoil.

Contour farming — plowing across slopes on a level instead of up and down slopes — was advocated. This created ridges to capture storm water and permit it to seep into the soil.

Stubble mulch farming was recommended too. When a crop was harvested a good stubble was left and later turned back into the topsoil.

The great plains is now virtually blanketed with soil conservation districts.

Texans In Washington

By TEX BASLEY

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Six Texans are helping to operate cultural centers in Latin America through which the State Department seeks to promote good will and understanding between those countries and the United States.

One of the oldest centers is that at Lima, Peru, now in its 11th year, where Mrs. Edwin T. Cornelius, Jr., of Fort Worth is director of courses.

Another Texas woman, Miss Faye Bumpass of Lubbock, was there for several years, teaching English to the natives so they could instruct others.

Miss Bumpass now has an assignment which takes her from one central American republic to another, conducting special English courses and offering suggestions for improvement of the various centers. She spent Christmas in Guatemala.

Other Texans engaged in the program are:

Anita Province of Anthony, N. M., and El Paso, with the State Department here; Louis L. Curcio of Houston, director of the cultural center at Rosario, Argentina; Miss Virginia N. High-tower of Newburg, teacher of English at Santiago, Chile; Mrs. Aurora de Lussard, San Antonio, English teacher at Bogota, Colombia.

The centers seek to achieve their objective through four main channels:

1. Teaching English: From all walks of life, taxicab drivers to bankers, come those who enroll in the classes. Doctors wanting to read the latest American medical reports are among the students.

2. Lectures and study courses on the history, ideals and aims of the United States, given in the native language of the country where the center is located. These courses are designed to offset a popular and distorted conception of the typical "North-American" gained from the movies, some tourists and overly aggressive businessmen.
3. Sponsorship of social organizations, discussion groups, exhibitions and concerts.
4. Establishment of libraries: sometimes the only library to be found in a community is that set up at the cultural center. Books are in both English and the native language.

The chef in the House restaurant got a special course recently in the preparation of Mexican food Texas style.

Rep. Ken Reagan of Midland was host at a luncheon in the Capitol. Mrs. Reagan went into the House kitchen to see that the food was prepared according to Texas standards. The ingredients came from El Paso.

Under the heading, "Old-Age Assistance," an article appeared in the Congressional Record quoting a letter by Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Rosson of Austin.

Put in the journal by Rep. Homer Thornberry of Austin, who asked that his colleagues consider it carefully, the letter said: "You must certainly be aware of the suffering of our aged citizens who are compelled to exist on an average of $48 per month old-age assistance, or $28 per month old age insurance. Compare this income with the $180 per month which our government suggests is the amount required to provide a decent standard of living. How are these people supposed to live?"

'Dust Bowl' Days Over Says Expert

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The man who predicted 17 years ago to wipe the dust out of the dust bowl says the worst of the job is done, that the soil is safe even in the face of possible new heavy plantings under the mobilization drive.

Dr. Hugh H. Bennett, now known around the world for his soil-saving work, says it is his belief the dust bowl's troubles never will spread into disaster size again.

"This is good news for millions of people of the great plains country — about one-fifth of the United States — where drought over wide areas this winter has aroused new fears of dust storms.

Dr. Bennett, chief of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, is quick to add that there are bound to be occasional "dusters" across the great plains, which extend from Canada to Mexico. But he doesn't expect anything like the terrible "black blizzards" that turned day into night time after time during the '30s.

The big drought ended early in the '40s, and the old dust bowl contributed some bumper crops to the war effort and to the food-short postwar world.

Bennett believes the dust bowl country can continue contributing good wheat crops to the mobilization program if rainfall is anywhere near normal.

This is in contrast to some predictions during the '30s that the great plains was turning into an American Sahara. Seventy-two dust storms occurred in the region in 1937 after the big drought was well underway. Thousands of tons of valuable top soil were lifted from mid-America and blown so far it was visible as a saffron haze over Washington, D. C.

Grass and crops withered and hundreds of head of cattle and other livestock had to be shipped to distant pastures or to markets. Many farmers abandoned their farms and moved out.

Dr. Bennett doesn't say this couldn't happen again, but he believes the farmers in the heart of the old dust bowl — centering around the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandle — have learned a lesson.

"Even if we have another seven or eight-year drought we need not have a disaster along with it," Bennett says.

With a new emergency at hand some plains farmers once more are "busting sod" — tearing up grasslands — to plant more wheat and other crops.

"The situation isn't alarming," says Bennett. "The people in the heart of the old dust bowl country aren't breaking out much new land.

the fringes of this country, where some people are planting cotton. "Trouble may come however, on peanuts and wheat on land that is not suitable for crops in drought.

"But I believe if the situation threatens to become serious the farmers will correct it in a hurry, using methods that have demonstrated their effectiveness."

Bennett says a change in the weather, from dry to wet, helped recovery of the dust bowl in the early forties in time to produce the bumper crops needed to win the war.

But he gives most of the credit to the farmers and ranchers who were quick to adopt new methods and new viewpoints.

The soil conservation service provides the farmers with technical assistance and advice, but the farmers have to vote to create districts in which they all join with the conservation service experts in making plans. It becomes their program and their planning, rather than the government's.

This is the long-range program, now recovering 414,292 great plains farms and ranches, or 295,114,983 acres.

Bennett estimates this long-range program is about one-fifth complete but that if men, materials and money are available it could be finished by 1970.

The basic emergency dust bowl treatment Bennett recommended in the '30s was a simple one. It was patterned after what Bennett says is nature's plan for keeping plant cover on the earth to prevent wind and rain from blowing and washing it away.

With the help of the farmers themselves and of many state agricultural officials, other methods were found for helping to keep the powder-dry soil from blowing.

For instance it was found that if ridges were built across fields — with a litter or other farm equipment — at intervals of several yards, these ridges broke the force of winds and decreased soil loss. The ridges also caught and held moisture that came with the infrequent storms.

The long-range program that Bennett and others developed is much more complex.

Actually, it has been made a part of a program to survey every farm in the United States. Agricultural leaders were convinced this was necessary because, while the dust situation was acute in the plains country, more U.S. croplands elsewhere were being damaged by water from rain and snow storms.

In the surveys that are being made soil is classified, slope of the land is studied and other pertinent

MEDICAL EVACUATION FLOW CHART

Korea to California—September, 1950

UN Withdrawal From Korea Involves Great Many Hazards

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK — (AP) — Many Americans today want to know when the United States troops will get out of Korea.
 Most soldiers over there are asking that question, too. And some are asking themselves another question: "Can we get out — even if we try?" They wonder if grabbing a Chinese dragon by the nose isn't pretty much like holding a lion by the tail — a fellow can't tell what will happen if he lets go.
 There is no public answer yet as to when the United States forces will leave Korea. But the answer as to whether they can get out largely intact is: "Yes, the odds are high we can."
 But if the pullout were made under Chinese pressure or to send our troops to another theater, the problem would be tremendous.
 One of the most difficult of all operations is for one army to disengage itself successfully from another attacking army — and get away without a big toll in men and equipment. It is triply difficult to get away by sea, for an army is very vulnerable while it is being loaded on ships.
 However, the American army undoubtedly has the mobility and firepower to protect itself against a Chinese foot army if it decides to race back into the old Pusan perimeter, embark and sail away. An umbrella of air-power and the might of U. S. naval guns give double assurance.
 The handicap might not come from the enemy so much as our allies. What would we do with our native allies — the South Korean soldiers, government officials and civilian workers who have served with us?
 To leave them behind would probably doom tens of thousands to a certain and desperate death. If the decision had to be made to abandon them, this would raise an immediate danger of disunity within the United Nations army itself. It consists now of seven American divisions, the equivalent of another division made up of troops from overseas nations, and at least ten South Korean divisions.
 What would these South Korean divisions do if they learned they were being left to stand alone? Gallantly fight a rear guard action, throw down their arms and surrender, or sell out to the Chinese and then turn and attack the allied troops themselves?
 But if the decision were made to take out all who wanted to go the size of that problem would strain the navies of the free world.
 Some 338,000 men were rescued from the beaches at Dunkerque in five nights. But the United Nations forces in Korea number nearly 500,000, including some 200,000 Americans. There are perhaps 80,000 or more Korean civilians actively identified with the allied cause. And there are probably 150,000 prisoners of war who would have to be removed as hostages to bargain for the safe return of our own troops now in enemy hands.
 These groups add up to 700,000 human lives, double the number saved at Dunkerque. And the Sea of Japan is no narrow lane of water such as the British channel.
 These are the facts allied leaders ponder when they consider the task of a military withdrawal from Korea — so easy to enter, so hard to leave.

Keep Your Eye On KPDN

By PHIL SOLBERG

Hello again, and how are all of you and yours? Happy and healthy I hope. To tell the truth, I am just getting over the after effects of my extracurricular activities of this past week. I'll tell you a little bit about it and then we will let it drop.
 First of all, Jan Olson took sick with a severe case of laryngitis and you know what that means in radio, no talk. Well, being her husband, I should have been the most thankful man in the Panhandle, but being so handy she elected to have me do her program. So, with a sigh such as a husband might expect knowing he doesn't dare talk back, I picked up my talk tips, all her gossip and material she uses for the program and set out to the studio to do the program "AROUND THE TOWN" from 9 a. m. to 9:15 a. m. Well, things went pretty good the first couple days until the Emcee on tagging me "Phyllis" for Phil and my little helper, Gordon Anderson, "Gordella," and believe me it stuck. People I haven't met before in my life waved to me on the street and said "Hi Phyllis." That is the power of radio. Jan is back again and really going strong and I will never kid another woman or anybody for that matter again when they lose their voice.

Yes, lock, stock and turntables, which of course includes Rudy Marti, we will be broadcasting from there in March or April. Building shortages will hold us up just a little but believe me the anticipation just about overwhelms me. You will be hearing and reading more about the progress of KPDN right along which makes us all feel happy as we feel that the policy of "good clean radio entertainment" going to pay off. Remember that a radio station is primarily trying to please the public in every way, so take stock of the listening offered to you out there. Then sit down and drop us a card and tell us your ideas for better listening. We sure appreciate them.
 The Staff Breakfast Program, aired daily at 1:30 a. m., has had a host of good guests to be interviewed. Last week they had terrific response after having for their guest, Mr. Hesse of the Old Age Assistance Bureau in this area. Following the broadcast he received calls from Canadian and Lefors and the surrounding towns requesting more information that wasn't given on the air. We feel that the old people are too often forgotten in every way so it was a real service to them and KPDN will endeavor to cater to the elderly in every way possible in the future. Once again, everybody please write to us if you can so we will have your ideas with us all the time when we make up our programs.

BET THIS IS one of the few times we've nursed sunburns while shoveling snow from our walks. Last weekend it was unseasonably warm... like good old summertime... and most folks took to the outdoors and a real sunburn resulted. Then right off the bat, a cold front moved in and we've been shivering all week. Even that old March wind got in a word or two!

WORST THING ABOUT these cold spells is that it keeps us inside a lot and I don't know why but it's a time when I like to don the chef's cap and spend a lot of time in our kitchen. Coffee cake, jam filled hotcakes, fritters, cinnamon whirling, and oh, just anything that goes well with piping hot coffee... that's the kind of fragrance the family likes to sniff when coming in out of the cold. With the wind whistling outside, there's nothing better than being indoors and listening to the coffee perk, and biting into a gooey, nut-laden bit of sweet dough. And it may not be "de rigueur" but that's one time while eating that all you need is a knife... just for spreading on the butter good 'n thick!

SURELY ADMIRE the fine workers in the Boy Scout drive. They had their kickoff breakfast Monday morning and then reported back all through the week at coffees. Some of the several hundred who tramped through the snow (and slipped on the ice) to gather contributions were Charlie Robinson, Ray Evans, Bennie Waller, Howard Buckingham, Cap Jolly, Calvin Whitley, Johnny Campbell and L. N. Kinnaid. Good job, well done.

THE MAGAZINES ARE full of the evils of television. Children neglect studies, balk at bedtime, and such. But if television ever is available all over, we'll get it too, and I suspect we'll have trouble getting the children away from "Hopalong Cassidy," but they'll just have to learn that Mom and Pop want to get them off to bed so they can get their own favorite shows. One thing, television will get Mr. Peg out from behind the evening News. Can hardly feature his hiding behind a newspaper when some of those TV beauties come right into our own living room.

PAMPA PANORAMA: Lot of the club meetings and valentine parties were cancelled owing to the bitter cold... all the WMU meetings at Centre Baptist were cancelled, but they had a nice crowd at their church dinner the other evening... At their new grocery store, Mrs. Braxton, nursing a cold, said "It's no wonder everyone has the flu... this weather is so changeable!"... And that it is!... School went on as usual though, and the valentine boxes were opened... that's almost as big a deal as the homeroom Christmas party!... Saw lots of husbands taking candy and flowers home to the little lady... Included were Henry Rose, with his hands full of a beautiful potted flower... Good number of people attending the Trapp Family concert despite the impending storm... Good to have the likeable young Johnny Schwinds home again... their parents live here... Margie seems a devoted daughter-in-law... hearing her talk makes me want to meet her "Mother Schwind" and maybe I could take lessons from her... the older Schwinds have a large family... Most times I believe these families are the best kind... but then I start in on the family wailing and I begin to wonder... James Close is a friendly fellow... Saw Mrs. Marvin Bowman drive past the other day... she has such a lovely complexion... Eloise Lane is one of our town's nicest people... Practically birthday twins are the N. A. Cobb and the Tom Bralys' son... they both celebrated last weekend... The E. E. Shefflers have an attractive home... She's frequently occupied with Parent Education Club work... Mrs. Ruth Hutchens is being missed in Bentleys where she was manager... she's taking life easy and first thing after quitting work headed for the West Coast... sunny California sure would have looked good a couple days last week... Mrs. M. F. Roche is a capable speaker... have I mentioned before how good she is at organizing programs and writing little skills, etc?... Like that red tie C. M. Carlock was wearing the other day.

PEG'S PALAVER THIS week is skimpy... all I know is what I've heard over KPDM and read in The News... Got to thinking what a really indispensable thing radio is! It's a housewife's most faithful companion. But there are other things which we are dependent upon when we stick close to home, and don't even get out for food provisions. Don't know what I'd do without the postman who must find this weather next worst thing to a vicious dog. And there's the milk, the grocery and dry cleaning deliveries, and there's the rugged little newsboys who manage to come through with the newspapers. (Have you become aware of the new-fangled brown wrappers that protect the News in wet weather? Really, I don't know how long ago house-to-house delivery began, but I sure am glad there are people like them... people who make a living by good service! They're Peg's pals from here on.

THE MILKMAN HAS been in the limelight all week, and we had a lot of laughs out of guessing the number of milk cartons in the La-Nora Theatre lobby. Everybody joined in the guessing game. Then the ushers asked the milkman how many he had, and he said, "No, I didn't see the Willie Smiths, the Luke McClellands, Frank Leders and Randy Clay, with a nice looking date (his Mom) all enjoying the movies on various evenings last week."

FIGHT FANS ARE talking yet of the beating Jake LaMotta took. Just before the TKO when the crowd was holding "Stop it!" the radio announcer explained LaMotta had repeatedly asked before the bout that it not be stopped. After the referee finally stepped in they said Jake at least had the consolation that he held the lead even to the eighth... and he didn't go down. Well! Being a woman, that seems little consolation for the slaughter he took, but I can understand not wanting to quit, keeping on plugging in his passions for the world championship. He wanted to keep his title... just just just to keep my title as "Peg." And even if I can't keep the secret forever, you won't catch me throwing in the towel and giving up as PEG O' PAMPA

Discussion On Socialized Medicine Forms Twentieth Century Program

A pro and con discussion on "Socialized Medicine" formed the program at a meeting of the Twentieth Century Club Tuesday. The group met in the home of Mrs. Clifton High. Mrs. Guilford Branson was leader for the afternoon.

Mrs. Fred Neslage, vice president, presided at the business session in the absence of the president, Mrs. George Scott. Mrs. W. R. Campbell, chairman of public welfare, reported that needed sheets and aids had been taken to "The Cradle," the Negro nursery. Mrs. Neslage announced the district meeting of TFWC for April 9, 10 and 11 in Amarillo.

On the program, Mrs. Roy McKernan mentioned the objections to socialized medicine in countries where it has been adopted. She told the women that there is really no federal Santa Claus, that compulsory medical insurance paid for by federal funds, in the long run comes out of the people's pockets.

Acknowledging there were many problems in the present system which need to be solved, she said the people and doctors are working voluntarily to solve these. The Kansas medical plan is a splendid example of what is being done, she said, and continued "There are committees being formed by doctors in 25 states already, which are working to improve medical services, believing that the voluntary way is the American way."

Mrs. Branson reviewed and discussed President Truman's national health insurance plan. She stated "Many people now find need for medical care far beyond their capacity to pay. Many who are concerned about the problems of good health for all, and equal chance for medical attention for even the poorest, feel some form of national health insurance is the answer."

After a lively discussion both speakers agreed that the important thing is that each citizen inform himself, feel free to make his own decision, and be prepared to vote intelligently on

Lives Of Mmes. Roosevelt, Rosenberg, Anderson Discussed By Varietas Club

"Women of International Importance" was the subject of the Varietas Study Club Tuesday when members met with Mrs. J. C. McWilliams as hostess.

Mrs. S. C. Evans presented the program, telling of the life of Mrs. Eugenie Anderson, this country's first woman ambassador to Denmark.

Mrs. Evans said "She brought to our country's diplomatic service a woman who possesses in a high degree the personal qualifications and record of public service our Federation would look for in a woman appointed to so conspicuously important a post.

"Mrs. Anderson's appointment means something else—it means that in one European country at least, the United States will be well represented not by a man alone nor by a woman alone, but a typical American family. The Andersons live on a farm near Red Wing, Minn., and their own comfort and prosperity have given them a sense of obligation toward the country which enables them to live freely and happily.

"She is active in her community; she joined the local League of Women Voters, which sharpened her interest in civic, national and international problems and made her aware of the necessity for the citizen's participation in politics. Mrs. Anderson's quiet confidence and healthy, wholesome family have made it possible for her to pursue her political interest and continue her education in preparation for this position."

Mrs. F. E. Imel discussed the life of Anna Rosenberg, assistant secretary of defense, saying that she had the highest military rank of any woman in American history.

Mrs. Imel said "Mrs. Rosenberg faces the problem of deciding how much man power and woman power should be assigned to military use and how much to civilian use. For the past 20 years she has been called in as a specialist in labor relations when regular negotiations failed.

"Born in Hungary in 1902, Anna Lederer was brought to the United States when she was 10. At 19 she had sold nearly $10,000 worth of thrift stamps and Liberty bonds, worked as a volunteer nurse and had organized 1000 high school girls for women's suffrage.

"Anna Rosenberg entered politics because she believed that it is every American's duty to take part in running the government. She went to Europe at the request of Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Truman to check on GI morale. When Anna means business only a brave man or a very stupid man will stand in her way."

Mrs. Luther Pierson talked on the works of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. She said "Mrs. Roosevelt is still the most powerful woman in the country; perhaps in the world. She is one of the few women who can tell the president what to do with a fair assurance that he will do it. She can also round up support for the things she wants done among statesmen and politicians, labor unions, and leaders in other influential fields. Mrs. Roosevelt is powerful in Washington and in the United Nations because she knows so much of what is going on because of her wide acquaintance with people who make policy and because she has the wisdom of an elder stateswoman."

Mrs. J. C. McWilliams served refreshments to the following members: Mmes. Louise Caldwell, J. G. Cargile, H. P. Doster, S. C. Evans, Henry H. Butler, H. T. Hampton, Lee Harrah, F. E. Imel, Dow King, J. E. Kirkman, R. W. Lane, C. L. McKinney, Luther Pierson, Ralph Thomas, Sherman White and Frank Wilson.

Mrs. Dow King, president for 1951, appointed Mrs. Frank Wilson chairman of the yearbook committee. She will be assisted by Mrs. Henry Butler and Mrs. Ralph Thomas.

Mrs. W. T. Fraser Talks To Forum On 'Antique Pottery'

Mrs. William T. Fraser, speaking to the Twentieth Century Forum at a meeting in the home of Mrs. Dick Hughes, quoted Warren E. Cox, authority on antique porcelain. "Do not trust marks save as one of many factors to be considered in buying an antique piece," Mrs. Fraser's topic was "Pottery and Porcelain" and she augmented her talk with an exhibit of antique porcelain.

Consenting to quote Mr. Cox, Mrs. Fraser said, "Look first at the body clay, then the way the foot is made; examine the glaze, the crackle, if any, then the weight of the piece, its color, its decoration, then look at the mark. If all of the above elements are correct, you may be fairly sure you are making a good purchase. But your own eye and intelligent understanding plus experience are your best guides."

Members were served from a table decorated in the valentine motif.

Those present were Mrs. M. X. Beard, Mrs. E. J. Dunagan, Mrs. Ray Evans, Mrs. William T. Fraser, Mrs. J. R. Holloway, Mrs. Biggs Horn, Mrs. Dick Hughes, Mrs. Calvin Jones, Mrs. Frank Kelly, Mrs. Bruce Pratt, Mrs. O. L. Stittom, Mrs. Aubrey Steele, Mrs. Arthur Teed, Mrs. Eben Warner, Mrs. C. V. Wilkinson and Mrs. Crawford Atkinson.

Crimson Holiday

THE STORY: Lavinia Grenable, hateful old harridan, rode to her death when her wheel chair rolled into a ravine at her home. Witnessing the tragedy is Lisa Farwell, whose engagement to Court, Lavinia's oldest son, has been opposed by Henry Farwell, Lisa's father. One thing Lisa cannot forget is the suspicious actions of her father, whom she saw on a ridge near the Grenable place just after the tragedy. The next morning, without intending to eavesdrop, Lisa overhears her father warning Elizabeth Straton, the dead woman's sister, against telling her story until he tells his. Then Angus Kent, a young stranger in the neighborhood, appears and tells Lisa and her father that Lavinia was murdered. The conspiracy broke on the "heredthe door. When they were out of hearing distance of Mr. Farwell, Angus turned suddenly. "I thought, Miss Farwell, that if I came early enough, I could talk to you alone. The police don't know for sure yet that it was your father on the ridge. I don't know your father well enough to tell him, but urge him to be careful what he says until he knows for sure whether one of the Grenables actually recognized him. They're a vicious bunch."

LISA FARWELL'S helplessness of the moment was the same sort of feeling she'd had when she met Court Grenable the night before—when Court kept staring into the ravine and wouldn't let her talk to him while they were waiting for the police to bring his father's body back to the house. But now there was a kind of terror mixed in with the experience. Lisa found her tongue and asked weakly, "When do the police want as for questioning?"

His face tightened but he went on doggedly, whether he included Court she could not know. "They'll hang this thing on anyone. In my five years' practice, I never saw such hatred for any single person as Lavinia Grenable's family had for her."

AND along with all her other feelings toward Angus she added gratitude. He asked softly, almost accusingly, "You haven't said about Court."

"Oh," she blinked, finding it difficult even to remember Court or the things she thought Court had meant to her yesterday. "Do you think he did it?"

Angus had been thoughtful, Lisa realized as she came to understand suddenly that he had come over to her house early in order to prepare her and her father for the sheriff's telephone call. Gratitude brought tears to her eyes and Angus looked away unhappily. "Stay for breakfast," she urged. He moved toward the door with the excuse that the Ellsworths would be expecting him. Lisa followed him down the hallway to

"Your practice?" she hung on the words stupidly. He grinned then. "Law. Didn't I tell you . . . no, there wasn't time. I'm Tim Ellsworth's law partner in the city."

were brutally direct. "Do you think he did it?"

The question should have stirred Lisa's indignation, but she just shook her head.

"No," she said faintly. "Court had no reason to murder Lavinia. He was her favorite."

"Is that the best you can do for your fiancé?" Angus taunted.

"It's not like you to be cruel," she returned.

Instantly she knew she had said the wrong thing. He took her hands quickly.

"How do you know what is and what isn't like me, Lisa, I have to know. How do you feel about Court Grenable, really?"

She drew back, reciting like a lesson well learned, for indeed, she had repeated it to herself frequently enough during the past 12 hours to have thoroughly memorized it. "I'm engaged to Court. I'm going to marry Court."

Angus turned away. "Forgive me," he said.

He started to go out through the door, then hesitated. "By the way," he asked, "could I use the telephone. I want to leave a message to Lane."

LISA led him into the den and he dialed swiftly after she gave him the Grenable number. It was several seconds before a receiver was lifted at the other end of the line. Standing near Angus, Lisa recognized Geri Palmer's voice.

"This is Angus Kent," he said. "I hope I didn't awaken you?"

"Oh, no," Geri said quickly, and there was a pause. "Excuse me . . . Another pause, and then, 'Yes'."

"I want to leave a message for Sheriff Lane, if you'll be so kind as to give it to him. He asked me to meet him at nine o'clock this morning at Grenable's. Tell him I'll be delayed half an hour or so. Thanks."

After he replaced the phone, he turned slowly away and looked at Lisa. "That's odd," he said. "I could have sworn she was crying. Maybe somebody is mourning the old lady."

What's Cookin' In Gray County HD Club Work

By MARY ANNE DUKE ROSE BUSHES

Mrs. Ernest Edwards of the Wayside Home Demonstration Club, who has been a yard demonstrator for the past two years, Mrs. W. E. Mellon of the Hopkins Club, who has continued to improve her yard over a period of five years, know the importance of buying rose bushes with care. Here are their suggestions: First, select the grade 1 plants. These plants will have at least three or four branches 18 inches long, growing from the main crown of the plant, starting at the ground level. Grade 1-1/2 plants are a second choice, and they should have at least two strong canes about 14 in. long, starting at the ground level. Plants of these two grades will bloom more, and a fever will die from transplanting, for in addition to the strong top growth, they also have good root systems.

Second, according to these demonstrators, is to check the rose roots for diseases. The root systems should be checked on all plants for dark rough galls. Also look for nematode knots on the small roots. If diseased roots are planted, they will prove very unsatisfactory and will foul up the soil in your garden.

Next, examine the tops and roots of the plants to see whether or not they have been allowed to dry out. If the stems are a dull green color and show shriveling, avoid them. If not already dead, they may be saved.

Then, check on the age of the plants. It is sometimes possible to buy one-year old budded roses and generally they are satisfactory. It is well to know whether the roses are on their own roots. Many hardy varieties such as Cecille Brunner or Radiance roses thrive on their own roots, but generally, budded roses give better results. Then, last but not least, these demonstrators suggest that roses be purchased from a reliable nurseryman, one that you know.

TIPS ON PLANTING

The best plants will not thrive if they are not handled properly. They should be planted in well-drained, moderately fertile soil. They should be protected from strong winds but should be in the sunshine most of the day. Roses will not thrive in soils that are high in lime, in tight soils which do not drain well, nor in poor white sand.

Set the plants the same depth they were growing in the nursery and avoid planting in old rose beds. Planting in soil that has been in grass for at least five years is a measure of protection from diseases. Don't plant them where they must compete with shrubs and trees for plant food and moisture.

JOHNSON INTRODUCES BILL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Lyndon Johnson (Texas) yesterday introduced a bill to allow Texas and Louisiana to write a compact for division of the waters of the Sabine River. The agreement would require ratification by the state legislatures and by Congress.

BALLET ARTIST—Mia Slavenska and her Ballet Variante will appear here Thursday night at the junior high school auditorium under the auspices of the Community Concert Assn. This is the second appearance in Pampa for Mme. Slavenska and her troupe. The ballerina has been acclaimed as "the incomparable Slavenska" and has danced the principal roles of such ballets as "Giselle," "Swan Lake," and "Nutcracker Suite."

Ballet Troupe Is Returned To Pampa

On the stage Thursday of the junior high school auditorium will be seen by concert members, Mia Slavenska and her Ballet Variante, for the second time in Pampa.

The ballet company was seen here, presented by the Community Concert Assn., in 1945 in the association's first season.

Slavenska was born in Croatia, a kingdom in the Balkans. Dancing became her ambition when she was only a small child, when she saw Maria Yurieva dance. Her parents took her to Zagreb, Croatian capital, to be interviewed by one of the ballet teachers at the National Opera shortly afterwards.

She advanced to Madame Magarete Froman, ballet mistress of the National Opera. Following this, she studied in Vienna and later, Paris. She was 14 years old when she went to Paris.

When she was 16, she returned to Zagreb to become "ballerina assoluta" of the National Opera. In 1936, she won the dance contests in the Olympic Games when 14 nations were represented by their finest dancers.

After this, Mme. Slavenska toured England, France, Sweden and North Africa. Then she joined the Ballet Russe de Monte-Carlo as prima ballerina.

"Ballerina," her first motion picture, was made in America following her career with the Ballet Russe.

In 1945, she formed her own dance company. It was that spring she appeared in Pampa during the tour.

Her program here will include Russian ballet, classical dances and American folk dances. Ten members of her troupe are scheduled to be with her for this program.

Admission to the concert is by membership card only. Mrs. Carl J. Wright, secretary of the association, has asked that no calls should be made to her asking for single tickets. Any person in military service may secure single admission at the door when proper credentials are presented to the secretary.

Government's Picture Partially To Blame For American Civilian's Atom Bomb Woes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The melancholy air which some high military officials feel prevails in the American civilian population may originate in part from the dark picture of atomic menace the government itself is painting. Certainly it may be said that all of whatever national pessimism exists does not arise from the fluctuating fortunes of American forces fighting in Korea.

For the first time since Civil War days the American family is confronted with the definite possibility that the war may come to its own front door. And this time it wouldn't be cavaliers riding into town on a food and clothing raiding operation but mass destruction released in one catastrophic explosion.

The government, the military, the federal and local civilian defense agencies were faced with the problem of preparing the population for atomic war, materially and psychologically.

These precautionary steps are now grimly apparent. Look at them:

Road signs on the outskirts of the nation's biggest city: "In the event of an enemy attack on New York City this highway will be closed to all traffic except civil defense and military vehicles."

School children drilling at what to do in event of atomic attack on their knees, heads bowed to the floor with their arms folded above... a macabre tableau.

Public appeals for blood donations because that is treatment for the radiation sickness.

Warnings... stay away from the windows if you see an unearthly white flash because the following blast will cut you to ribbons with the shreds of glass... wear white clothes, they won't transmit all the searing heat rays of the exploding bomb... don't go into the "zero point" where a bomb exploded on or close to the ground or in water there may be lingering radioactivity there.

The worry of civil defense officials when they saw how a transportation strike in New York City jammed streets and highways with vehicular and pedestrian traffic. What would it be if New York's millions sought in a single moment to flee the city.

Radar antenna, revolving silently, scanning the skies even now for strange, unidentified aircraft.

Air raid shelter signs pointing to subways and basements and underground parking lots.

Official pamphlets and books "The Effects of Atomic Weapons".

"United States Civil Defense, Health Services and Special Weapons Defense".

How to Survive Atomic Attack... unofficial novels, movies.

In two world wars, the government devoted much time and money to "educating" the civilian at home about the causes and results of battles fought several thousand miles distant. Today no such effort is needed to make him aware of war.

The civilian is alert and apprehensive about all this evidence of imminent disaster.

It is ironic that the United States invented the weapon which so alarms its people.

Husband Binds Wife From Associating With A Strong Will

EDINBURGH, Scotland—(AP)—Can a husband's will bar his widow from "any association whatever" with other men after his death?

A Scottish court had that question tossed into its lap today by Mrs. Stella Beaton, widow of a wealthy coal exporter, $187,600 hangs on the answer.

The will of Mrs. Beaton's husband, Alexander, says the money must go to charity unless she "remains true to my memory and does not marry again nor have any association whatever with any other man."

However, five brothers and sisters of the dead man want to share a big chunk of the estate Mrs. Beaton wants it all. She hasn't married again, the court was told, and she hasn't had any association with any other man to which criticism could be directed.

But she thinks the "any association whatever" part is void because it's "contrary to public policy."

The court reserved decision.

New Guayule Program Part Of Expansion Of Rubber Output

By EDD ROUTT
 DALLAS — (AP) — Memory of World War Two's rubber shortages caused the government to step up domestic rubber production on two separate fronts in Texas:

1. Increased production of synthetic rubber from chemicals.
2. A new program for production of natural rubber from the Guayule plant.

Over a million dollars was allocated in January for additional synthetic rubber production facilities at the government's two plants at Port Neches, Tex. Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas announced the Department of Agriculture would instigate a guayule plant growing program in southwest Texas. No natural rubber latex is produced in the United States. Guayule, a grey, shrubby, latex-bearing plant, grows wild over north central Mexico and northward into Texas about 100 miles. Bill Chenault, administrative assistant to the Production and Marketing Administration at College Station, Texas, said about 1,000 acres of southwest Texas farmlands would be planted in guayule seedlings this year. County committees in the area will hand out contracts to individual farmers.

"Next year the small plants will be transplanted to more arid sections of Texas to grow to maturity," Chenault said. The government spent fabulous sums in the early 1940's getting natural rubber from Latin American countries and in establishing synthetic rubber plants in this country.

Millions were spent in guayule. Thousands of acres were planted and a processing plant was obtained in California. Then the war ended. Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco, Tex., partly responsible for the government's new guayule growing program, said that just when the shrubs were beginning to reach an age suitable for harvesting, "we spent $50 an acre to tear them up and clear the land."

"It was one of the most stupid bits of bungling possible," he declared. During World War Two the U. S. suffered a critical rubber shortage and was forced to turn to synthetics. Five of the synthetic plants, which produce 85 percent of the nation's man-made rubber, are located in Texas. The Texas plants operated at near their capacity through most of 1950 to meet an unprecedented demand. The Korean war and soaring costs of natural rubber brought about reactivation of all standby plants and increased production at the others.

Two of the Texas plants are operated by B. F. Goodrich and U. S. Rubber at Port Neches. The other three are at Borger, Baytown and Houston. Although private enterprise operates the plants, they are under strict control of the Rubber Reserve Corp., a government agency.

The government has authorized installations costing about $350,000 at the Goodrich plant in Port Neches, to expand production of cold rubber from one-half to three-fourths of the plant's 60,000 long ton annual capacity. The U. S. Rubber Co. plant will undergo a one-million dollar expansion boosting annual production from 60,000 to about 91,000 tons annually.

Not only will all standby plants be reactivated, but facilities for making components of synthetic rubber — butadien and butaline — will be brought into operation and increased.

At about seven year's growth, the guayule contains the maximum amount of latex it will bear. It can be utilized on a practical basis only by pulling up the entire plant and processing it through crushing machines. New plants must be put out continually to bring a sustained yield.

New Order Boosts Quota Of Air Force To 7 Men Per Week

A new quota of seven men per week has been put on Air Force enlistments at the main recruiting station in Amarillo. Pampa's share of that quota has already been filled for the entire month of February, according to Sgt. Davis A. Brown, local recruiting sergeant. Sgt. Brown said he was accepting no applications for Air Force enlistment until his present backlog has been eased.

Two new sub-stations will be opened in the near future, eliminating part of Sgt. Brown's territory, the largest in the Fourth Army Area. The new stations will be opened at Shamrock and Spearman. The other recruiting stations in the Fourth Army Area are located at Amarillo, Lubbock, Plainview, Childress, Hereford, Borger, Dalhart, Littlefield, Clovis, Tucumcari and Pampa.

Canadian Students Try Out For Conductors In Contest

CANADIAN (Special) — Auditions for student conductor's division of the Interscholastic League contest which will be held at Canyon April 28, 27, and 28, were held by band director James H. Gain on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of this week.

Ten band students tried out, with the group being divided into two brackets. The lower bracket was composed of freshmen and sophomore students and the upper bracket of junior and senior students.

Eliminations started in the lower bracket Monday with Anne Rathjen winning out over Jeannette Raymond, who in turn was defeated by Jan Waters. Stan Douglass defeated Gilbert Forrest, placing him in the finals against Jan Waters.

Upper bracket eliminations were held Tuesday with Opal Fyeatt and Dorothy Bernson paired off for first round, which Miss Bernson won. Kenneth Smith then defeated her, winning a place in the finals. Norma Bernson won out over Patsy McMeans, placing her against Smith in the finals.

Finals were held Wednesday with Stan Douglass and Norma Bernson coming out on top. Both student conductor numbers are overtures, "Janus," and "Magnus."

Mrs. Marilyn Crofford, Miss Lucille Wilbanks, and Joe A. Page served as judges. They stated it was very difficult to render decisions in the finals as the students' scores were extremely close.

Demand May Hold Meat Prices High

DES MOINES — (AP) — The strong demand for meat is expected to hold prices above last year's mark, according to the Iowa State College Extension Service in its monthly farm outlook. However, a nine percent larger 1950 pig crop will soon begin to have to market in large numbers, which may hold pork prices at a moderate level, the service reports.

With feed prices rising, the service says, only a moderately favorable hog-corn ratio can be expected this year. A moderate increase in the 1951 spring pig crop is in the offing if farmers follow through with their intentions, the report states.

Miami Auto Agency Announces Change Of Owner, Manager

MIAMI — (Special) — The local Chevrolet agency, the Miami Motor Co., announced a change in both ownership and name, last week.

The half interest of A. J. Montgomery, of Shamrock, who started the business here thirty years ago, has been purchased by Dale Low and John P. Pennington, and the name of the agency has been changed to Dale Low Chevrolet.

McLemore Recalls Earlier 'Trip' In Beautiful Italy

By HENRY McLEMORE

What was your most embarrassing moment?

Mine came to mind today when I airmailed the Savoy Hotel in Florence, Italy, for a reservation a couple of weeks from now. I am not at all sure that I will get a room, due to the uproar which I unintentionally caused in the dining room of that hotel two years ago.

We had left Rome early in the morning with nothing but a continental breakfast isn't worth bells, and as you well know a continental breakfast isn't worth a continental to Americans who are used to starting the day with ham and eggs and other stick-to-the-ribs vittles.

When we reached the Savoy dining room it was going on two o'clock and we were famished. We were seated at a table against the wall and ordered the works. Antipasto, minestrone, spaghetti, veal scallopini, salad, a jug of chianti, and dessert.

Along about the middle of the meal I realized that my trousers had shrunk sometime during the year, so, under the protective covering of the large white tablecloth that reached to the floor, I loosened my belt considerably. Very considerably, let us say, and settled back to really enjoy the fine Italian food.

The room was crowded but I had noticed when I came in a man in uniform lurching at a table near the center of the room. His face was familiar to me, and mine must have been to him, because we kept darting glances at one another. You know how it is. We both were sure we had met somewhere, but couldn't exactly place one another.

Then, all of a sudden, we both remembered.

"McLemore," he called, "what in the world are you doing here?"

"Major Phillips," I called back, "Well, I'll be—"

With the speed and enthusiasm that an American always shows when spotting another American in a foreign country I jumped up from my table and headed toward the major.

Two seconds after I was in the middle of my most embarrassing moment.

Just before I reached the major's table the loosened trousers that I had forgotten all about dropped around my ankles, tripping me up, and sent me sprawling, flat on my face, at the major's feet.

There I was, in full view of most of the other diners, clad only in my shorts, and still chewing on a mouthful of veal scallopini.

The major looked at me as if I were crazy, as did his wife.

The captain and two waiters helped me to my feet and I dressed as fast as any fireman ever did, chatting away like a magpie to the Phillips and trying to act as if there was nothing unusual about a man losing his trousers in a dining room.

I don't know if I was the most talked about man in the hotel during the week we stayed there, because I don't speak Italian, but I do know I was

JACOBY ON CANASTA

What To Do After A Misdraw

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

The person who accidentally turns up an extra card when drawing from stock gives the player on the left a choice as the answer to today's first question.

Q — The other night I drew a card from the stock and turned up an extra card by mistake. What should be done in a case of this kind?

A — Leave the extra card face up so that everybody can see it. Then complete your own play in the normal way.

The next player may take the exposed card if he wants it; or he may shuffle it into the stock pile if he intends to draw from the stock but doesn't want the exposed card.

If the next player takes the exposed card, the next player thereafter to draw from the stock has the right to take that exposed card or shuffle it into the stock pile.

For example, suppose South accidentally turns up the ace of spades. He leaves it face up on top of the stock pile and completes his play with a discard.

It is now West's turn. If he does not take the discard pile, he has a choice. He may take the ace of spades; or he may slip the ace of spades into the middle of the stock pile and draw the top card normally.

Suppose that West takes the discard pile, leaving the ace of spades still face up at the top of the stock pile. West completes his play, and it is then North's turn to act. If he decides to draw from the stock pile, he has a choice. He may take the ace of spades; or he may shuffle it into the stock pile and draw the top card instead.

Q — Do you have to draw a card at each turn? For example, suppose you can meld out, without drawing, are you allowed to do so?

A — No. You must draw at each turn. There are no exceptions to this rule.

Q — Both sides must meld the opponent at my right discards an eight. I lay down three aces, two nines and a deuce, and two eights, claiming the discard pile (topped by an eight).

The opponent to my left objects, saying that the discard pile can be taken only if the meld totals exactly the minimum of 120. My meld totaled 130. Please set us right.

A — Your opponent was wrong. You were fully entitled to the discard pile. You are always allowed to meld more than the minimum for the initial meld. The rule is meant only to prevent you from melding less.

It takes about seven years for an orchid to progress from sprouting seeds to gorgeous flowers.

Eight Locations Staked; Oil Potentials Up Slightly

Activity in the Panhandle field skidded to a 1951 low last week as operators completed but four oil wells and staked eight new locations. Nine new gas wells were completed and three wells plugged.

Total increased oil potential rose slightly to 266 barrels from the previous week's 208 barrels. Gas potential dropped to 49,355 MCF from 62,862 MCF reported the preceding week.

Rotary Totals Up 108 Units

DALLAS — Rotary rig activity in oilfields of the United States and Canada showed a net gain of 108 units for the week of February 12, to more than offset the loss of the previous week. West Texas and New Mexico reported the greatest increase, up 38 units, followed by the Gulf Coast, up 26 and the Illinois area, up 23.

The total for the week of 2227 busy rigs compares with 2119 in the previous week, 2268 a month ago and with 1970 in the comparable week of 1950.

A comparison of rig operations by principal areas, follows:

Glass Is Slated For New Roles

TOLDEO, Ohio — (AP) — Glass may be used to replace many metals which are being restricted for the current mobilization program, says Dr. George B. Watkins, director of research for Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co.

In World War II, glass was used successfully as a substitute for aluminum. For example, the Federal Communications Commission used it as backing on records for its recordings file. Glass evaporator plates in air conditioning equipment replaced steel plates. One kind of glass today eliminates the need for almost all metal framing and cross-pieces on store doors.

Panhandle Is Host For Oil Convention

The Panhandle chapter of the American Petroleum Institute will host this year to the mid-continent district meeting of the organization this year. The three-day session is to be held in Amarillo March 21-23.

R. C. Kay has been appointed chairman of the general arrangements committee while V. J. Mercier of Wichita, Kans., heads the program committee. To date, plans are underway for the program and committees have been appointed.

Committees and chairmen are: General arrangements, R. C. Kay, 37 members; Program Committee, V. J. Mercier, ten members; Publicity Committee, N. D. Bartlett, 14 members; Registration Committee, Fred J. Neel, 15 members; Hotel and Meeting Room Arrangements Committee, Ralph O'Neill, 10 members; Entertainment Committee, L. R. Hagy, 19 members. The meeting was last held in Amarillo in 1947. Since that time, meetings have been held in Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Wichita, Kans. The mid-continent organization covers Kansas, Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle with district meetings rotated to the four principal cities in the area.

A committee meeting is scheduled Wednesday, March 21, with the first general meeting to be held Thursday morning. In the evening there will be a social hour to be followed by a dance that night.

Other general meetings are to be held Friday morning and afternoon, another social hour Friday evening and the banquet Friday night.

As yet, no speaker has been named, but tentative agreements have been received from two nationally known personalities. General headquarters for the 1951 session is the Amarillo Hotel.

Railroad Commission Revives World War II Spacing Order

By MAX E. SKELTON
HOUSTON — (AP) — The national emergency is causing some adjustments to be made in state oil and gas regulatory practices. Texas officials last week took steps toward aiding in relieving steel goods and manpower shortages affecting the oil industry.

They revived one World War II order and indicated they will take another out of mothballs soon.

The state's railroad commission revised its policy on spacing new wells in those Texas oil fields whose crude production allowances are determined by a formula based 80 percent on acreage and 20 percent on ability to produce.

For all practical purposes, the order means that in the numerous fields affected only one well can be drilled for each acreage unit if it is sufficient to drain the unit adequately.

This means the operators involved now will need sufficient steel goods for only one well for each unit affected instead of two, three or four wells.

Operators attending the Texas statewide production hearing Thursday indicated no serious opposition to the railroad commission's reviving the World War II policy.

Members of the commission established the revised policy in an emergency 15-day order and said it would become permanent if no objections were received during that period.

They said the policy then will remain in effect "as long as the presently declared emergency as to steel continues."

Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman recently said action by state oil and gas regulatory authorities could make it unnecessary for the federal government to issue a well spacing order as it did during World War II.

On the manpower problem, the Texas commission indicated operators soon will be required to make only one oil-gas ratio test each year instead of two. Only high-ratio wells would continue on a semi-annual basis.

The tests are designed, as a conservation measure, to determine how many cubic feet of gas a well turns out while producing one barrel of oil.

Oilmen say they are having difficulty finding the manpower to make such tests.

Ira Butler, Fort Worth, who represented the Texas & Pacific Coal and Oil Company at the Fort Worth hearing, gave the commission some statistics he believes back up such a contention.

A recent survey made by the West Texas North Permian Basin Engineering Committee, he said, shows Texas colleges and universities this year will graduate 30 percent fewer petroleum engineers than last year.

"And over one-half of those being graduated are in the armed forces reserve units or have other military connections," he said.

"Oilmen say they are loath to petition engineers all the time, Butler added.

The attorney said only Texas schools will be included in the 1 percent decline report but that of all schools surveyed by the committee only the University of Oklahoma reported an increase in prospective petroleum engineering graduates for the 1950-51 year on a semi-annual basis.

Area Oilmen Fight For Tax Allowance

Citizens throughout the Panhandle are being asked to subscribe to a membership in the American Petroleum Institute. The drive got underway last week and is to continue through this week.

Sales at the halfway point in the drive are going well according to Fred Neslage, chairman of the Panhandle chapter. But there are still a great number of persons who are yet to be reached.

The Panhandle chapter is currently adding the memberships in addition to tickets to a dance to be held Friday night at the Clover Club, formerly the Southern Club. A good orchestra has been contracted for the dance.

A more serious tone is reflected this year, according to chapter officials. Organizations throughout the country are building membership in order to better combat the threat posed by President Truman and Secretary of the Treasury Snyder who oppose the 27-1-2 percent depletion allowance granted the oil industry shortly after WWI.

This allowance has enabled the oil industry to continue prospecting for and discovering new reserves. The allowance was worked out by tax experts not connected with the oil industry after the first world war showed the vast importance of the oil industry to the national economy.

These experts recommended oilmen be given the right to deduct as much as 27-1-2 percent of their gross income and not more than 80 percent of the net income.

The idea behind the allowance was to offset the steady depletion of reserves. Life of an oil well is limited and new wells must be drilled constantly.

Unlike the capital of other industries which is actually on the market and can be replaced at little or no financial hazard, oilmen's capital must be hunted. These ventures are highly hazardous and four out of five are dry holes from which there is no return on the money invested.

Local officials say the Panhandle field today is a good talking point for retention of the allowance. The President and Secretary Snyder wish to reduce it as little as 15 percent.

They say such fields are marginal producers and can be operated at a limited profit. In fact, the repressuring programs now underway would be seriously handicapped and might have to be abandoned. The projects are increasing by as much as 15 to 20 years by the producing ability of the field and the life of this area.

The Panhandle depends upon the oil industry, they say. The population of Pampa, for example, would decline rapidly, spokesmen of the chapter insist.

For this reason, the people of the Panhandle are being asked to help the chapter and themselves in the fight for retaining the allowance.

Tickets for membership and the dance may be had from any director of the API.

Journal Hits Truman Plan On Oil Taxes

TULSA — President Truman's charge that the oil industry is "grossly undertaxed" is denied and the President's method is criticized by The Oil and Gas Journal, leading oil industry publication.

In an editorial headed "Below the Belt," the Journal took the President to task for describing the so-called depletion allowance as a tax loop hole, pointing out that Congress has deliberately included this provision in every federal tax law since 1913. It challenged the administration to debate the depletion question on its merits instead of trying to make the public think that the oil industry is a tax dodger.

As to the President's charge of under-taxation, the Journal said "The petroleum industry accounts for about three percent of the national income but provides nearly seven percent of the total tax revenue of federal, state, and local governments. It pays every kind of tax that any industry pays, and some that most do not."

KARACHI — (AP) — A resolution passed by the East Pakistan Muslim League Council urging that Arabic be adopted as the official language of Pakistan has been endorsed by the English daily, "Evening Times" of Karachi.

"We should insist that Arabic be provided full opportunity for dissemination and that efforts be made to allow Arabic to grow into the system of our life," the paper said.

SPEAKING OF Furniture

By DON FOSTER

IN GOOD FORM!

Color, form and function are three of the key words—and they are all interrelated. At last we have conquered our inhibitions about color. We now use the colors of our choice lavishly to give freshness, sparkle and individuality to our homes. When necessary, we employ color to modify the apparent proportions of a room to help give it good form. We use dark, advancing colors to draw walls forward; pale, receding shades to push walls back.

Function, the useful placing of furniture, makes a dominant contribution to the room's success. The off-white walls in the room sketched above go a long way toward relieving the choppy effect of the cut-up floor plan—give room a sense of good form and unity. The long hallway has been made charmingly attractive as well as functional by the continuous arrangement of storage chests and book shelves. Feeling of unity is heightened by the relationship of blond Modern chests dining group and coffee table. Shag-type rug of honey beige plays up cocoa-brown upholstery color on roomy lounge chairs.

Color, form and function all play a part in making this room attractive.

We'd like you to come in and talk over your room plans with us. We're sure we can help you over your decorating hurdles.

New York Is Given Boost

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (P) — A word cheer for the New York Chamber of Commerce is provided by Stuart Erwin and June Collyer. Yesterday I reported that a pack of bigtime comics were plotting rebellion against Gotham's anglehold on television. All of them live in Hollywood and want to do their TVing here, too. But the Erwins — they'll be married 20 years in June — are going against the trend. They do their video work in Hollywood but prefer to live in New York. "I know that sounds like treason coming from a home-state boy," said Stu, who was born in

Snow Valley, Calif. "But I like it in the east. It's more invigorating."
 "All my roots are in the east," added June, a native New Yorker. "But I like it for other reasons, too. Our children like the eastern schools. And I enjoy seeing the seasons come and go. The constant sunshine out here is enervating."
 Capsule review: "Valentino" is corn, but pretty interesting corn. It is difficult to recreate that era of wonderful nonsense which fostered the sensational career of Valentino, and this film is not wholly successful at it. But there is enough flowery love-in a king, nostalgia and plain old schmaltz to tempt all but the more sophisticated appetites. The main objection is that the corn gets a little too plentiful toward the end. Anthony Dexter was an inspired choice in the title role.

Hemphill To Have Junior Stock Show

CANADIAN — (Special) — The annual Hemphill County Junior Livestock Show will be held Thursday afternoon at the Canadian City Auditorium, with 4-H Clubbers and Future Farmers competing for nearly $300 in cash prizes in addition to profits from an auction sale which will follow the showing.

Thirteen Hemphill County 4-H Club boys, under the direction of County Agent Walter Grist, will enter stock in the calf show; and FFA members under high school vocational agriculture instructor Herman Henson will compete in the Swine division.

In the calf show, cash prizes in each division will start at $25 for first place, $20 for second, $15 for third, $10 for fourth, $7.50 for fifth, and $6 for sixth. Ribbons will be awarded all winners.

Rosettes and special cash and merchandise prizes will be awarded the Grand and Reserve Champions. Robert Forrest has posted cash prizes of $5 for both Grand and Reserve Champions, Grist said, and others may be added.

A special Showmanship Award is being offered; and two prizes

Sale Of Fruit By Weight Is Protested
CAIRO — (P) — Egypt's fruit sellers went on strike when their government slapped on price controls. One order they protested was that citrus fruits — oranges, lemons and tangerines — be sold by weight instead of by number.

Livestock Company will be the auctioneer.

Earl Blackmore is in charge of arrangements for the sale and John Wilkinson will be clerk. Both are from Canadian.

Kiwanis Show A Week Away

One of Pampa's finest home talent shows, the annual Kiwanis Club play, is only a week away. The 1951 show will be held in the Junior High School Auditorium on Feb. 25-27.

Tickets for the show are now on sale from any member of the Kiwanis Club and reserved seat tickets will be placed on sale tomorrow morning at Clyde's Pharmacy.

This year's show is under the direction of Bunny Shultz. Shultz said that the show this year would be a "Toby" type comedy.

Included in the cast are Jeanne Willingham, Charles Madeira, Walter Eller, Irma Francis Morris, Pete Weiborne, E. E. "Pinky" Shultz, Dorothy Peacock, "Humpty" Matheny and Bunny Shultz.

Proceeds from the show come back to the community through the underprivileged children's committee of the Kiwanis Club.

The formations of the "desert rose," a form of crystal rock found throughout the deserts of the world, are caused by water filtering through layers of sand, and dissolving the minerals found there.

Czechs Planting Mulberry Trees

PRAGUE — (P) — Sixteen million mulberry trees, important in silk culture, were planted in Czechoslovakia last year and the country now has 40,000,000 of them, the weekly "Hospodar," (Economist) says. They are expected to number 100,000,000 by the end of the 1949-53 five-year plan. The leaves are food for silkworms being raised to lessen the dependence of Czechoslovakia's silk industry upon foreign sources of raw material.
