Lemon Rinse Gives Hair An Ultra Lustrous Look And Soft Texture

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

It takes a little elbow grease to keep your hair beautiful even when you're blessed with naturally shining locks and a normal, healthy scalp.

Pat OGDEN, glamorous, Honolulu-born blond who is tops among Manhattan models, recommends brushing your hair for five minutes every single night, and using a lemon rinse for that ultra lustrous look.

"Some people think a lemon rinse is drying," Pat observes, "but I find that it keeps my hair soft and bright. I simply squeeze two lemons, strain the juice, mix it into a pitcher of water, and use this as the third rinse after a washing with any liquid shampoo."

A rinse with plain water follows the lemon rinse.

Girls whose scalps are naturally very dry might try an oil shampoo combined with the lemon rinse. Warm vegetable oil, for example, peanut oil, should be rubbed on the scalp and kept on a few hours or overnight, before the locks are washed thoroughly.

MODERN MENUS

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

One of the best tonics for spring is plenty of B vitamins. This group in your food may change just your health to buoyant health, steady the nerves, even improve a frayed disposition.

In their raw or original states most plant and animal foods contain some of the B vitamins, but only a few foods contain very much. For special mention we might star lean pork, liver and kidney and other meat organs, whole grains, dried beans and peas, soybeans, and nuts—particularly peanuts. Other foods that supply vitamins of B group include lean meats, eggs, milk, vegetables, and fruits, according to home economists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The body can store some vitamins, but not the B's. It must have a regular, as well as plentiful, supply. Try to include some B food at every meal, if possible—at least some every day.

The B's are short in many diets because a great deal of vitamin B loss occurs in the kitchen. Heat in cooking destroys some of the B value a food contains, and some leaks out into cooking water. If foods containing B vitamins are reheated, even fewer of these valuable vitamins remain—though the recooked food will still have other food value. Don't discard left-overs; use them, but don't count on them for daily B's. Be sure to rescue B vitamins that get out into cooking water. Save the liquid and serve it with vegetables, or use it in sauces and gravies.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO HOME CANNERS

The Glass Top Seal Fruit Jar Cap for Home Canning was developed as a Wartime product to conserve metal. It consists of a Metal Band, Glass Lid and Rubber Ring.

Because of the difference in the nature of these three materials this Cap must be used differently from any other fruit jar cap. If used properly it will give excellent results. If not used properly, results will be bad, including failure to seal and breakage of jars. Following are simple instructions for use of the Glass Top Seal Cap and must be followed carefully.

1. Do NOT use in Oven Canning.
2. If processing (cooking in jar), leave 1 inch space in top of jar. If using open kettle, leave 1/2 inch space in top of jar.
3. Fit rubber around projection on bottom side of lid.
4. Place lid so rubber lies between lid and top edge of jar.
5. Turn bands tight, then loosen slightly (about 1/4 turn). Bands must fit loosely during processing (cooking). This is important and must be done to insure best results. If using Open Kettle, screw bands tight as soon as jar is filled.
6. After processing, screw bands tight to complete seal. Remove bands 12 hours after canning.

Today on the Home Front

By JAMES MARLOW and GEORGE ZIELKE
WASHINGTON, (AP)—This war is a long pull so don't get excited by President Roosevelt's statement which said:

"With the improvement in the war against the submarine we may even be able soon to remove sugar and possibly later coffee from the ration lists."

Government staffers have reversed the order in which the president placed the two commodities and said:

"The supply of coffee in this country now is better than that of sugar. Lifting of rationing on either is not expected in the near future but non-rationing of sugar is in the distant future."

The supply of coffee now in warehouses in this country is about at the peacetime level. Before rationing is removed, there should be assurance it can be maintained at that level.

The supply of sugar is below peacetime levels, may improve. The president's statement was made in a message to congress vetoing that body's bill which would knock subsidies out of the government's program to control rising food prices.

This was the way staffers in the Office of Price Administration, which controls rationing, and the War Food Administration, explained the presidential statement.

"There was a big IF involved when the president said we soon may be able to remove coffee and sugar rationing. The IF was this: If we can maintain the inflow of coffee at the present rate, increase it in the case of sugar."

The primary consideration—the big IF—was the German U-boat which the Allies are now defeating but which for more than a year after Pearl Harbor knocked off supply ships like fish in a barrel.

We're winning now against the U-boats. If we continue to win, the coffee and sugar situation may be rosy. It will not be if there is an upsurge of U-boat tolls.

Yvette Of Dempsey Case Discovered

CHICAGO, July 7 (AP)—The Daily Times said in a copyrighted story Sunday it had located in Chicago Yvette Marie Colbert, French musical comedy actress who failed to appear as a witness in Hannah Williams Dempsey's divorce suit against the former world heavyweight champion.

Miss Colbert, 28, has been in hiding in a near North Side rooming house with her mother. The Times said, "while lawyers and private detectives scoured the country for her as the key witness in the sensational Dempsey divorce and child custody litigation."

The newspaper said that failure of New York deputies and Mrs. Dempsey's private detectives to find Miss Colbert had forced Mrs. Dempsey to drop her divorce suit in which she charged Dempsey had been unfaithful.

Miss Colbert, the story said, declared she would not return to New York state and reopen the Dempsey case. Dempsey's suit for divorce has been taken under advisement by a court referee at White Plains, N. Y. He alleged misconduct.

North Texas Tax Office Enlarged

DALLAS, July 7 (AP)—Continuing the decentralization of collector of internal revenue W. A. Thomas' North Texas offices from the major headquarters here, the zone office at Lubbock has been designated a division office, Thomas has announced.

This makes the fifth division office in the district, others being at Fort Worth, Tyler, Amarillo and Wichita Falls. The action is being taken because of expansion of tax activities resulting from war levies.

L. B. Barclay, zone deputy at Lubbock, will be in charge of the larger office, which will be located in the Lubbock National bank building. M. M. Rudd has been placed in charge of the recently-expanded Wichita Falls office.

Administration Wants To Retract Rail Wage Order

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—Administration advisors are looking for a thornless path for stabilization director Fred M. Vinson to follow in backingtracking on his veto of the 8-cent railway wage award.

That was the word today from D. C. Speaker, the mythical District of Columbia figure who gives voice to authentic sources that will not be quoted by name.

Vinson's decision not only riled officers of the 15 non-operating railroad unions and the chairman of the emergency board which recommended the raise, Speaker said, but it vexed President Roosevelt, too, because a couple of weeks earlier the president had asked the union officials to accept the eight cents in lieu of the 20 they had asked.

The objective now, said D. C., is a formula which will give the non-operating employees something approximating the eight cents without causing any lost face in the official family.

Vinson's opinion, in the form of a letter to members of the emergency board, said they may reconsider and file a revised recommendation, and suggested they use the "substandard" test of the stabilization program.

I. L. Sharfman, who was chairman of the board, replied that the body "no longer exists as a functioning tribunal."

Even if it were reconvened, Sharfman added, "no useful purpose would be served by a reconsideration of its recommendation on the basis of your memorandum opinion." He said Vinson's opinion sought to mold the terms of settlement of the dispute "which is a function, I venture to believe, entrusted exclusively to the emergency board."

Dr. William M. Lleserson, who appointed the emergency board from the railway labor panel of which he is chairman, has shown no inclination to reconvene the board.

There appears to be no dispute about Vinson's authority to advise the president of the effect of the award on the stabilization program and to reduce the amount accordingly. But there is a dispute whether Vinson had authority to advise the emergency board (if it exists) of the basis on which it might make an award, in view of the fact that the board heard testimony for 44 days and not even the record of it was before Vinson.

Dr. Lleserson believes that such procedure would make emergency board hearings a futile gesture.

Archibald Fullingim Is One-Man Chamber Of Commerce For Texas, Shipmate Writes

The United States is composed of the Lone Star State of Texas and 47 lesser states, Store Keeper First Class J. J. Chasin of Somewhere in the South Pacific has been led to believe from chats with Archer Fullingim, former city editor of The Pampa News.

In a letter addressed to the editor of the "Pampas" News, Chasin writes:

"It has come to my attention, an article written in your paper of March 30, 1943 by one of your former associates, Archibald Fullingim, in which he makes references and remarks in regards to his association with shipmates of his in the 35th Construction Battalion. In as much as devoted a little space about myself, I feel that in behalf of myself and shipmates I should present you with our impressions of him."

"When 'Tex' (that is what we call him) first joined our batt, we were sort of afraid to tackle him for fear of his size and then again he might whip out two guns from somewhere, but after seeing him on the target range and hearing that there wasn't a horse in Texas big enough to hold him without his feet touching the ground we sort of got acquainted.

"There is one thing that has been on my mind ever since he joined us. Did the Texas Chamber of Commerce employ him to spread all the propaganda about how beautiful and advantageous Texas is over all the other states? All we hear morning, noon and night is Texas and now it's got to a point where I have been asking him what Texas has that New York hasn't got.

"As a literary genius I must admit he has us all stopped. The only time we really have peace around the camp is when he is indulging in

Oil Shortages After War Seen By Harold Ickes

NEW YORK, July 7 (AP)—Constantly increasing demand for oil and its products during the war and afterward were foreseen today by Harold I. Ickes, petroleum administrator.

"In certain areas we will probably face actual shortages (of crude petroleum) in the near future," he said in a new book, "Fighter Oil," published by Alfred A. Knopf, Inc.

"Looking ahead only two short years we can see a decidedly disturbing production problem. Beyond that the future is no longer predictable with any confidence."

Ickes, however, forecast the expected expansion of air cargo and passenger transport in the postwar era would be paralleled by growth in requirements for oil.

Eventually, the oil chief commented, the United States will have to import oil or distill it from shale and coal.

Shale deposits were estimated to hold 92,000,000,000 barrels and coal reserves were said capable of producing 1,500,000,000 tons of coal annually for 1,000 years.

For the most immediate future, Ickes said, Americans must choose between "driving as usual" and more "freezing than usual."

"I want it distinctly understood that even with all of the pipelines working 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, we are not going to be able to remove restrictions on our civil

Civilian Deaths Laid To Britain

LONDON, July 7 (AP)—The Germans who laid waste to Warsaw, Rotterdam, and Coventry climaxed their sympathy-seeking campaign against the bombing of their industrial cities with a foreign office white paper today charging Britain with "sole guilt" for what it termed attacks on civilians.

Without mentioning the 40,000 British civilians killed and the 120,000 wounded in German air raids on Britain, the white paper asserted that "German efforts have failed to affect the determination of the enemy to use air terror as a plan thought out in the last detail for the destruction of Europe."

Asserting that the destruction of towns and the deaths of thousands of women and children were a "flaming accusation against the two mainly responsible for the war—Churchill and Roosevelt"—the Nazi white paper threatened to exact "eye for eye, tooth for tooth" reprisals.

18,735 Sub-contractors & Suppliers

GENERAL MOTORS

American enterprise and its time-tested production methods are meeting and fulfilling the most imposing demands ever placed upon the industry of any country

IT HAS BEEN our privilege to play an important part in war production—geared with the supply services of the Army and Navy, and with almost 19,000 other producers who have worked with us.

Figures show how successful this "partnership" has been. But they do not show the valuable direction and cooperation we have had from Army and Navy officials. Nor do they indicate the fine spirit shown by our suppliers and sub-contractors.

While 18,735 organizations have shared our big job of war production, there have actually been more than 68,000 such "partnerships" established. For, in many cases, several divisions have gone to the same source, for different types of work.

It is interesting to note that nearly three-fourths of the firms which have furnished us parts for war products, employ less than 500 people. Of these more than half employ 100 or less.

We have chosen our sub-contractors and suppliers carefully, in order to secure those best qualified for the work at hand.

In this we have had one great advantage: "Sub-contracting" is merely a wartime extension of a time-honored General Motors method. We have always dealt with thousands of suppliers of materials and parts.

And so we have known how to proceed in establishing sources dependable as to both quality and efficiency of performance—not only among organizations with which we have formerly worked, but also with thousands of others.

This sub-contracting "know-how"—combined with manufacturing "know-how"—is largely responsible for the consistent quality of the war goods produced. It also accounts for cost reductions totaling hundreds of millions of dollars.

The "partnership" of the Armed Forces, General Motors and the thousands of other businesses involved—some large, some small—is but one example of cooperative wartime endeavor by the automobile industry.

All companies in this mass-production industry have been cooperating with one another—and with organizations not formerly supplying the automotive industry—in order to utilize all knowledge and facilities suited to the task.

The success of this method demonstrates one fact of tremendous importance to all Americans:

American enterprise and its time-tested production methods are meeting and fulfilling the most imposing demands ever placed upon the industry of any country.

Thoughts On Rationing

From now on we shall talk about rationing with a clear conscience, and when somebody inquires cautiously if we think we know more about rationing than Webster's dictionary does, we shall sniff haughtily and refer to the needler to the American Speech Quarterly, published by Columbia University.

There he (the needler) can discover as did we (the erstwhile bewildered) that the lexicographer slipped up when he said the word should be pronounced ration rather than ration.

Kemp Malone of Johns Hopkins has discovered, and the Columbia University Department of Public Information passes on the news in four pages and almost 1000 words, that once upon a time there used to be two words—ration and ration.

One had its roots in Latin, and was a doublet for ratio, and meant "the relation between two similar magnitudes in respect to quantity." By rhyming ration with relation, it becomes clear that this one was pronounced ration. But about 1815, soon after the burning of Washington, this word became obsolete and disappeared from dictionaries.

The other had its roots in French, and referred to the daily portion of food served to soldiers and sailors, which obviously makes it the lineal ancestor of the word that is causing Prentiss Brown to lose his sleep, his hair and his hope for a happy hereafter. This word had nothing to do with relations, who did not share in the soldier's daily allotment of food, and so, perhaps to distinguish it clearly, it was pronounced with the French "r" which made it become ration.

So it develops that the word in which we are interested should have been pronounced ration all along, and not ration, because ration was dropped out of the dictionary more than a century and a quarter ago and now is anachronistic.

The misunderstanding never would have arisen, and given us opportunity to clear it all up as we now have, but for radio announcers, who looked ration in the dictionary and found that it could be pronounced either ration or ration, but that ration was preferred.

But the soldiers never were fooled. They continued to say ration, and so did more of us, though a few purists insisted upon muddling us all up by saying ration.

If you are still in doubt, here is a little couplet which we tossed together on the spur of the moment:

It's the fashion
To ration.
Remember that, and you can't go wrong, though you may become involved in arguments.

CALIFORNIA KLUXERS.
(The Chicago Tribune)

Marcia Winn of The Tribune reports the existence about Los Angeles of a Native Son counterpart of the Ku Klux Klan, pledged to the task of preventing the return of any Japanese, including the native born, to that region after the war. This we can well believe, because it is in the tradition of California history.

Since the abolition of the African slave trade in 1808, no part of the country has had as vicious a record as California for importing alien labor and then abusing it, because it fulfilled to all the purpose for which it was imported—that of undercutting the wages of native labor. The successive waves of Chinese, Japs, Filipinos, and Hindus were followed in time by the Mexicans, who were brought into the southern and nuttier half of the state to suffer mistreatment that had a great deal to do with the recent disorders in Los Angeles.

Denis Kearney and his sand letters had direct spiritual and political descendants in the deputy sheriffs who, during the depression, tried to deny the Okies their rights as citizens to participate in the delights of the Pacific paradise. Ku Kluxism thus comes naturally to the narrower minds of Los Angeles.

After the war we shall have to do one of two things with the Japanese in this country. We can either amend the Constitution to permit statutory expression of racial intolerance and ship every person of Japanese blood to Japan, or we can give them the protection of the Bill of Rights. As we won't do the first, we must do the second. The citizens concerned will undoubtedly want to return to California, and the rest of the country will see it that they are allowed to do so. It is the Native Sons' problem. They brought them here and they can live with them and like it.

We suggest that Charlie Chaplin and the rest of the fellow travelers in the movie colony stage a pageant in the Hollywood bowl in honor of the four freedoms as applied, not in Europe or Africa or Asia—but in Los Angeles.

IN DEFENSE OF HOME

(Daily Oklahoman)

It will be a glorious thing for the allied nations if the Italian people prove to be completely demoralized and refuse to make a real resistance to a rumored invasion of their country. And that may prove to be the case. The Italians know, or they should know, that victory over the allies means continued bondage to Hitler.

But the allies will be inexcusably unwise if they depend for one moment on the demoralization of the Italians. It is well to remember that the best fighting ever done on earth has been done by armies resisting the invading of their homelands. If there is any courage at all in a people, it nearly always comes to the fore when the invader's foot appears on their soil. The Italians who withdrew in panic from Abyssinia and fled in terror from Egypt, might become as bold as lions in resisting the invasion of Italy. We used to think that the Chinese were poor fighters, but look what they are doing now that their country is invaded.

If the Italians are discouraged and want to quit, good and well. If they shall refuse to defend the homeland, it will be a glorious thing for the invaders. But the allies cannot depend upon non-resistance and a quick surrender. If they enter Italy at all, they must go in prepared for war to the last man. Otherwise, the allies might regret the day they undertook to invade the peninsula.

THIRTY YEARS OF GOVERNMENT PLANNING TO HELP THE POOR

Few people realize that the real New Deal and real government planning to help the poor started 30 years ago. In 30 years, it has grown so that before the war we had more than 12,000,000 unemployed and 12,000,000 people were so destitute that the government felt they had to send them checks. This should be evidence that the more the government plans to help the poor, the more poor people we have; that it is impossible for the government to make any laws to permanently help the poor and the wage-earner.

Now what were these laws that we started 30 years ago to make it so there would not be so much poverty? The first law was the income tax that attempted to relieve the poor from paying their proportionate share of the cost of government on the basis as they consumed wealth.

The next law was the Federal Reserve act that gave the bankers power to create synthetic check-book money out of the air. It gave them the power to loan to people who could not find private citizens who were willing to loan actual wealth or money.

The next law intended to help the poor and relieve poverty was the Clayton Amendment to the Sherman Anti-trust Law. This permitted the working man to combine and penalize any worker who worked too cheaply without violating the Sherman Anti-trust Law. The law also gave the farmers the same privilege.

The next law in 1916 creating the Federal Land Banks was supposed to make credit easy for farmers. And the more credit the farmers got, the more trouble they seemed to be in—the poorer they seemed to get.

These were all laws passed under the Wilson administration. But since the Republican were in office for 12 years and never repealed them they are just as much to blame for their ill-effects as the party that originally passed them. So, we have in reality had New Deal legislation on the statutes—a planned economy to help relieve the poor—for 30 years.

Why Not Apparent
Of course these laws have not completely impoverished the country. The reason the damage they did has not been more apparent is that their bad and ill-effects have been countered by the new tools and equipment and accumulated knowledge gained in the last 30 years. Had it not been for this, these government laws intended to help the poor would have so impoverished us that we would have been able to recognize the cause of our unemployment and poverty.

But these laws intended to help the poor resulted in so much unemployment that during the last 10 years we thought we had to have many more laws to help the poor. Such laws as the Norris-LaGuardia act; the Wagner law; the Minimum Wage law; the Social Security law; ration cards, price ceilings and the thousands of decrees of bureaucrats.

Remember all these laws were passed with one purpose and one belief that they would help the poor. They are all methods of government economic planning. They have all been tried in one form or another since government existed. They have never worked. The reason they have never worked is that they are so wasteful. They waste the most important thing in any society—human energy. Under all these government laws to help the poor, the men with initiative are retarded and restricted in their ability to add to the wealth of the world. They have to get the government's consent when they want to make a contract to put an idea into operation. They often cannot get this consent.

All Violate God's Laws
We should begin to realize that God's law is that each man should live by the sweat of his brow; that "gift is contrary to the law of the universe"; as Emerson said; that life is nothing but struggle; that men grow and develop their talents to produce wealth by individual energy rather than to being fed and clothed by the labor of others; that when they are fed and clothed by the labor of others, they get more and more helpless and demand more and more.

Divine Providence has ordained this requirement: that each man is required to exercise his faculties in order to have them grow and develop his character and his soul.

And when a people, through the best of intentions and the best of goodwill, attempt to violate these decrees of Divine Providence, they only add to the poverty, misery and suffering of humanity. We should learn this from the results of 30 years of our own government laws attempting to help the poor. If we do not learn it, we will have more poverty, more misery, in spite of the fact that we have better knowledge as to how to harness the forces of nature to improve the lot of man. Even this knowledge cannot hold in check the poverty that will come from government planning to relieve the poor that interfere with the use of human initiative.

CONSTITUTIONAL GOVERNMENT IMPERILED

(Denver Post)

The United States Gypsum company has challenged the constitutionality of a war labor board directive that it enter into a maintenance of union membership contract, with a check-off of union dues and initiation fees from wages. "The company," President William L. Keady says, "respects the right of its employees to join a union and has no objection to legitimate union practices. However, the company strongly objects to the war labor board's attempt to compel it to enter into a contract which it believes to be illegal or to compel it to join in a surrendering of its fundamental freedom. If administrative commissions are allowed to go unchallenged in cases like this, our constitutional form of government is imperiled."

Worth Considering

The American Business Congress has asked Congress to extend the coverage of war damage insurance without collection of further premiums, on the basis that thus far there have been no losses and that substantial damage in future is not very probable.

In view of the fact that this insurance is designed as protection for property owners and not as a money-making business or a gamble, the suggestion seems very sane. The possibility of more than token raids by Axis forces in this hemisphere becomes ever more remote. A dividend, in form of extended insurance, would seem to be in order.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER

DISSENTING—The United Mine Workers of America will soon file suit in Alabama, in accordance with the Wage-Hour act, for payment of the disputed portal-to-portal money. With vengeance and blood in their eyes they are accepting the advice of the National War Labor Board. They are asking that remuneration if granted by the bench be made retroactive to 1938 when the above mentioned law was enacted. The sum to which they would be entitled as the result of a favorable decision runs close to one billion dollars. Alabama was selected as the site of their litigation because they won a similar action in that jurisdiction last year when they demanded compensation for travel time of iron ore diggers in that region. They came out victorious in the District Court. The lower body's decision was upheld by a two-to-one vote in the Circuit Court in New Orleans. Ironically enough, the dissenting jurist explained his objection on the grounds that the same principle might be extended to the Lewis coal mines, thus leading the consumers with a fearful financial burden.

DISGUST—John L. scored another unnoticed triumph when Secretary Ickes named Carl E. Newton, president of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway Company, operator of the pits under Government control. Mr. Newton is a lieutenant of Cyrus Eaton, Ohio industrialist and coal operator, who has been in the Lewis corner from the opening round of his bout with President Roosevelt. They have conferred constantly since the start of negotiations for a new contract last March.

Mr. Eaton owns several properties affiliated with the Southern Coal Producers, and he may pull out in disgust owing to their refusal to reach some sort of settlement with the UMW. For the alteration is costing the bosses millions of dollars every day it is prolonged.

BAD—Although war rulings and statutes have squeezed the bootlegger into a wasp-waisted bottle, the Treasury still maintains a force of more than eleven hundred agents for policing illicit trade. In recent weeks the furiously mounting price and rationing of booze have increased their work.

The Morgenthau men are concentrating on supplies and equipment such as sugar, copper, gasoline and motor vehicles in their attempt to check the illegal upsurge of John Barleycorn. They scan sales of these articles and question dealers regarding the purchasers.

The regulations imposed by the Office of Price Administration make it comparatively simple to keep an eye on operators. Under present conditions these men cannot obtain the materials necessary for their nefarious doings. Had today's me-

What a soldier thinks about the girls he has left behind was written into a film script yesterday by a soldier, not a scenarist. Screen newcomer Bill Carter, honorably discharged from the army after injuries suffered in the early African campaigns, is called upon in one romantic scene of Columbia's "Without Notice" to tell Marguerite Chapman what a soldier thinks about the girl back home. Given carte blanche by Director Richard Wallace to make up his own dialogue from his own thoughts on the subject while fighting the Nazis, Bill said:

"You don't know what it's like there, and I hope you never do. You keep thinking about home and things—well, like you, I don't make any sense, but I feel sense. I used to be awake at night and think—about—well, about somebody like you, something clean. It hurt to think about it, hurt away back behind the eyes. If you were in Africa and I was here and it was you that came back and talked about me like I'm talking about you, I guess you wouldn't make any sense to me like I'm not making any sense to you. Well, the sense of what I'm trying to say is that I kept reaching out to you there, trying to touch you."

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—The Maritime Commission has offered the American President Lines, formerly the Dollar Steamship Lines, for sale to private ownership. ## Cost Of Living Bonus In Canada

By PETER EDSON
Pampa News Washington Correspondent

ALL right, if subsidies are out as a device to hold down the cost of living, what—if anything—next? One of the ideas being mentioned seriously by the OPA thinkers is a plan similar to Canada's "Wartime Wages and Cost of Living Bonus Order," and if you think subsidies are too hot to handle, wait until you get a hog of this neat little alternative. It has been mentioned by Price Administrator Prentiss Brown himself in a trial-ballooning sort of way, so it isn't just something to laugh off lightly. Anyway, the background is this:

Canada's overall price ceiling went into effect Dec. 1, 1941. At the same time, a general wage ceiling went into effect.

Along with the wage and price freezes, it was provided that there should be a cost of living wage bonus paid to make up for any increases in the cost of living which might subsequently occur. The bonus consists of a 25c per week increase in wages for each point by which the official cost of living index rises over October, 1941 prices. This applies to all adult males and all workers receiving basic wage rates of $25 a week or more.

Today's War Analysis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Writer

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's declaration of faith in Allied victory over Japan—the outside limit for which he daringly sets at two years—is pleasing to read on this sixth anniversary of the start of the China-Jap conflict, especially coming as it does from one of the greatest leaders of our time.

However, this statement would be dangerously incomplete without the General's accompanying caution to his people that the "present marks the beginning of the greatest trials." The Allies have before them "the hardest stretch of the road to victory."

As matter of fact, while such encouragement is legitimate for the heavily burdened Chinese people, it's doubtful whether it is particularly beneficial for some of China's Allies. It's likely to inspire over-confidence, as witness the complacency which has developed in some parts of the United States since the Allied victory in Tunisia.

We have an echo of this self-satisfaction, I believe, in WPB chairman Donald Nelson's statement of his confidence in the output of ground ordinance, miscellaneous munitions and merchant vessels, which he characterizes as a "very serious matter."

This column has maintained that the American public could stand good news without becoming complacent. Passage of time, however, causes one to wonder whether this judgment is correct.

As regards China we are telling nothing less than the plain truth when we point out that her main asset at this moment is the magnificent spirit of her people who for six years have endured suffering which would have broken many nations. This will to win, plus vast reaches of territory to swap with the invaders for time, has enabled them to hold out.

We must recognize that China's ability to assume major offensive operations, or even withstand enemy attacks, depends on the assistance which America and the other Allies can give her. General Chiang has comparatively few resources at his disposal, either to make war or to sustain anything like normal living conditions in the unoccupied regions.

There's no reason to doubt Chiang's view that his great country will have the final participation with the other Allies in victory.

The thing the United Nations have to worry about is whether they can make their help effective soon enough to reduce the time of final victory. Generalissimo Chiang today issued an appeal to the United Nations to strike in force at Japan immediately because he feels this is the opportune moment "to reap great results" in reducing the time of final victory. He declares Nippon now "is at her weakest as her ready resources are approaching a point of exhaustion."

General Ho Ying-Chin, Chinese war minister, also restates that Japan has suffered 3,000,000 casualties and says she is facing an acute manpower shortage. He further asserts that Nippon is far weaker in sea strength, has not more than 3,000 first line warplanes and has been surpassed by the Allies in the air, and has difficult material and food problems.

All this is encouraging to the Allies, but the fact remains that we have before us a titanic job of blasting the Japs out of their hold on China and other occupied countries. Time is of vast importance.

England Halts Wool Exports

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—Great Britain has halted all exports of wool cloth from the United Kingdom to the United States, central and South America during the quarter ending September 30, the commerce department reported today.

Linking the action with Britain's manpower shortage, the department said it was the first time the diminishing flow of such imports to American markets has been shut off completely.

GASOLINE WHOLESALERS are ordinarily not possessed of imagination beyond being keen business men and making $2 grow where only $1 grew before—which is good business sense, but hardly an index of the type of imagination shown by one wholesaler who added a bit of zest to his business by naming one of his trucks bearing a Colorado license, seen at a local filling station, Dust Bowl Clipper No. 7.

RAY DUDLEY, Pampa police chief, hasn't had it happen to him, but it could, just as shown in a cartoon in a magazine. The chief, in the cartoon, was riding in a patrol car, while the radio as saying, "Calling police chief, your wife says breakfast is ready. One cup of coffee—that is all."

Panhandle Lumber Company, Inc. 420 W. Foster Ph. 1000

THE BORGER Daily Herald is having picture troubles. It has six pictures of men in service and no information to go with them. The same thing happens to other newspapers, for desks have to be kept cleared of out-of-date copy, data, books; otherwise, up copy could be turned out.

THAT'S WHY newspapermen have a yen to lose every saved clipping, book, letter, or anything else, into the wastebasket. The stuff piles up at a Spitfire clip, and the newspaperman either has to make his desk a filing cabinet, or run himself ragged returning books, documents, letters, and the like.

THE PUBLIS ISN'T much given to calling back for such items. Three times The Pampa News, for example, has exhorted readers to call for their pictures of their boys in the armed forces. There's still a sizeable collection gathering dust here, along with oil field pictures used in a Fiesta edition years ago, and a curious collection of keys, billfolds, that dates back almost as far as the time Hugh (Red) Breeding and W. S. Fleetwood, former employes, used to deliver The Pampa News in the towns around here, some of which today no longer exists.

IF PANHANDLE newspapers get the wrong information this week on activity in the Panhandle oil field, the Pampa office of the Texas Railroad commission, has an iron-clad alibi.

It all happened because Mrs. Gertrude Lowther, clerk, for the past three and one-half years in the office, quit to take a job with a private firm, and Miss Pearl Bristow, the other feminine employe, was on vacation in San Antonio. She's due back Tuesday. Not liking the feminine chore of typing, the accountant male called this newspaper to send a man there to type out eight copies for distribution to newspapers, one copy, of course to this daily. Ordinarily, the weekly oil report is prepared by the commission office.

DAN E. WILLIAMS, chairman and the rest of the army hospitality committee, can take the orchids for the swell job they've done in sponsoring accommodations for parents of Pampa Field cadets, here to see their sons get their wings.

Simple as Texas hospitality is to Texans, it leaves the Northerners and Easterners gasping in amazement. One woman, mother of a cadet in the last class, came to The News, lauded Pampa to the sky, then expressed a desire that she could take back a souvenir of this fine city.

What she wanted especially was a pennant. Likely, pennants are a drug on the market and have been for some time, but maybe it's an idea for the CC to work on.

GLENN T. HACKNEY, county farm agent, had a lot of fun with a joke on the farmer by whom he was employed while the county agent was on vacation recently. The farmer met Hackney and other harvest hands walking back to the house from the field, and asked them what was wrong. "Oh, we just decided the hours were too long and the work was too hard," Hackney replied, leaving the farmer stunned. What had happened was that the men were headed back to get more oil to fill an empty tractor tank that had run dry.

WERE WAITING for a companion story of this sort from the Negro soldiers stationed at Pampa Field: Cpl. Robert Dunn of Westville, N. J., writes from Africa that Negro artillerymen provided a battle cry for Americans on one sector in the Tunisian campaign.

With each fire order, says an AP story, the boys kissed the projectile and as it went on its day chanted in rhythm, "Rommel, count 'em, 'em, 'em." With each subsequent fire order they sang out, "Rommel, count 'em, 'em, 'em."

Young Jail Owner Receives Order

HARVARD, Neb., July 7 (AP)—Sixteen-year-old Robert Pinckney said today the city council has recognized his claim to ownership of the city jail, but there's a provision attached that calls for more legal consultation.

Pinckney said he had a letter from the city council indicating the jail was his, but that the council expects him to raise the sidewalk near the structure to street level and to trim the weeds and grass on his property—all within seven days.

If he doesn't carry out the order, "The necessary action will be taken against the property," Pinckney was advised.

Pinckney bought the jail and several lots at a tax sale for $8. The jail was listed by error, city officials said.

Food Production Is Not Expected To Equal 1942

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY CHICAGO, July 7 (AP)—Farm production—the No. 1 indicator of how much Americans will have to eat—has been favored recently by beneficial weather, but it is expected to fall short of the tremendous 1942 output.

How far it will be under the bumper level depends upon climatic conditions, the harvest labor supply, available stocks of feed and other factors, but Marvin Jones, the new war food administrator, has stated there would be enough food for a "healthful diet."

In sight, at the present time, are less grain, vegetables and fruit than last year, but more meat animals.

A better balance of late between sunshine and rain offset to a great degree the pessimism occasioned by excessive spring precipitation and floods in the midwest, rain and cold in the east and drought in some southern and southwestern sections. The improvement has been widespread but not general.

A nationwide check of farmers, processors and state and government officials by the Associated Press showed there was considerable concern over the important corn crop. It was planted as much as a month late because of protracted May downpours. It has been thriving lately, but some experts warn that an early freeze would prove disastrous.

The War Food Administration has advised that the civilian share of pork and lamb will be larger in the current quarter than in the second quarter of 1943. Record-shattering shipments of livestock to slaughtering centers has been forecast for the October-to-December period.

But the raw meat "harvest" is conditioned to some extent on the future availability of feed and transportation. The National Canners Association calculated, on the basis of current information, that the 1943 vegetable pack would be 8 to 10 per cent below the 1942 record, and that the fruit pack would be 20 to 25 per cent lower.

No accurate census was at hand, but estimations on the number of gardens seeded in vacant lots and back yards, along railroad rights of way, on golf courses and elsewhere ran from 12,000,000 to 19,000,000.

The latest Department of Agriculture report indicated that less wheat, rye, oats and barley would be gathered this year than last. Moreover, the estimated wheat production (730,524,000 bushels) and the probable rye production (33,841,000 bushels) would fall to equal the 10 year 1932-41 average.

MEAT—Current cynosure of millions of covetous eyes—offers a much more optimistic set of statistics. The trade seems to agree that the meat animal economics figured there were 78,000,000 cattle on ranges and farms Jan. 1, 1943, an increase of 3,000,000 over the year before; reckoned the 1943 pig crop at 125,000,000, or 20,000,000 more than in 1942; and computed sheep and lambs at 55,000,000, a slight increase.

But the scarcity of feed for livestock, poultry and dairy herds has cast a cloud of uncertainty over the right background of the picture.

State School Tax Rate Cut Seen

AUSTIN, July 7 (AP)—Gov. Coke Stevenson said he believed the automatic tax board scheduled to meet late this month could reduce the tax rate for school purposes 10 cents.

Present rate is 33 cents on the $100 valuation.

Stevenson told his press conference his estimate was based on the large balance anticipated in the available school fund. A spokesman for the comptroller's department told the state board of education that the balance would be approximately $7,700,000 on Sept. 1, largest in history.

Stevenson said the increased per capita apportionment, which the board raised from $22.50 to the $25 maximum, would raise scholastic costs $4,000,000, leaving a $3,000,000 balance.

The board of education, continuing its session today, postponed until next month issuing the textbook proclamation calling for bids on school books.

CHAPTER V

"That's that," the man asked, "sufficient reason to hate me?"

"Of course. And you would understand, were you a woman. For are there not still kisses waiting for you, and not for me?"

Once more Silt Foshia was silent. Then she added in a calm, flat voice:

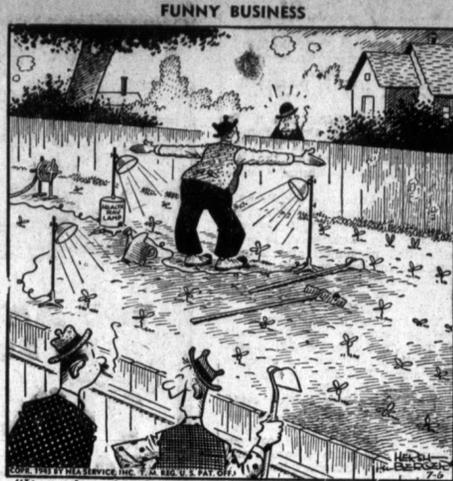

"It is queer how, in this matter of growing old or not growing old, you are almost like a fernghee, a foreigner, a Christian—Allah's curse on all unbelievers!—to whom Shaitan, the Fallen Angel, the Stoned, has granted the knowledge of eternal youth."

The American drew back in alarm. Had she guessed his identity?

It was an embarrassing situation, fraught with most dangerous possibilities. For she knew who he was, she might talk to the local Moslems; tell them that, once, he, the military governor, the Christian, had passed for one of them and had even joined the Bi Hasanyiah, an Islamic brotherhood, thereby mocking at their faith, bermsching it. And these Arabs were thin-skinned.

His thoughts were in a turmoil; were broken by the sound of faltering steps from the inside of the house and a voice that asked:

"Who is the pilgrim who knocked Silt Foshia?"

"It used to be fish, but now it's the cucumbers he's raising!"

$6000 Awarded In Crash Case

An agreed settlement of $6,000 was approved in a judgment filed in 31st district court yesterday in a case in which Virgil W. Wilbanks and wife, Nellie Wilbanks, and their daughter, Mary Margaret Wilbanks, were plaintiffs and E. M. Keller the defendant.

The suit was based on an automobile collision occurring between 9 and 9:30 p. m. October 2, 1942, on Highway 117 9 miles south of Spearman, when the Wilbanks were riding in a 1939 Ford Pick-up truck en route from Moore county to Spearman.

Their car was in collision with a truck owned by Keller and operated by his employee, E. C. Dorman.

In the judgment, $3,000 is awarded the adult Wilbanks and $3,000 to Mary Margaret Wilbanks, a minor, less attorney fees.

This was the only judgment filed

War Incomes To Get High Tax

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—Congressional and treasury experts collaborated today in drafting a new tax formula whereby persons whose incomes have increased because of the war will pay a larger share of the war's costs.

Such a plan, if written into law, would apply to individual income the principle of excess profits taxes as now applied against corporate income.

The house ways and means committee yesterday ordered the experts to study and report on the feasibility of such a tax, and at the same time announced it would begin consideration Sept. 8 "on a non-partisan basis" of a new general tax measure with new and higher levies.

Treasury experts and the committee's staff were asked to suggest "alternative means of raising additional revenue," including information on a sales tax, the so-called spending tax, compulsory savings and increased individual and corporate income taxes.

Under the excess-profits scheme a person who earned say, $24,000 before the war and now receives $4,800, would pay more taxes than another person whose income before the war was $4,800 and still is.

er on the draw fired and the enemy soldier fell.

Lieut. Satterthwaite said he didn't know who was more surprised—he or the Japanese. "I thought I would find some souvenirs inside," he said, "but I'm satisfied as it is."

Lieut. Col. David Ross of Berea, Ky., was leading his regiment in an assault when one bullet nipped his upper arm and another ruined his canteen. He refused to retire and calmly put on his first aid bandage himself. Then he continued forward.

While units of all services participated in the various stages of the Rendova occupation, the actual storming and fighting was the army's show.

Troops participating were excellently trained for jungle fighting. Their morale was high and they have reason to hate the enemy.

They are in complete command of Rendova Island, looking forward to their chance to drive on to New Georgia and eventually into Tokyo.

Registered Jersey Bull Purchased by Wheeler Circle 4

WHEELER, July 7—A registered Jersey bull has been purchased by the Wheeler County Bull Circle of Wheeler, from J. C. Rigler of Plainview. The name of the animal is Dexter and is registered 428518.

The whereabouts of all registered Jerseys is known and carefully watched over by the American Jersey Cattle club, with offices in New York City. This important job is made possible through registrations and transfers made by Jersey breeders everywhere. Tattoo identification, somewhat similar to fingerprinting, keeps individuals of this dairy breed always known.

Jerseys make up 42 percent of all dairy cows in the United States. Because they produce the world's richest milk, and because there are more Jerseys than any other breed in America, their role in National Defense is an important one. Increased production of Jersey milk guarantees the protective food needs of here and abroad.

Shamrock Receives 1.44-Inch Rainfall

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS
SHAMROCK, July 7—Farms, ranches and victory gardens of the Shamrock area received 1.44 inches of rain this week, after the mercury had skidded to 62 degrees, according to figures released by the Traders' Compress.

The rain was especially beneficial to the row-crop farmers on the tight land of this area and to the victory gardeners.

The moisture followed a cool weather after the mercury had hit the season's high of 103 degrees on last Thursday at 4:45 p. m.

Although cotton and feed crops on sandy land farms of Wheeler county had not suffered from dry weather, the rain will be beneficial. The lengthy dry weather had permitted late cotton to get up to a good stand and the rain was not believed to have caused any damage.

Wheat farmers were not particularly happy to receive the precipitation right at this time due to the mid-harvest season for them. Wheeler County Agricultural Agent Jake Tarter stated, however, that the moisture would only slow the harvesting and would cause no damage.

The Wheeler area received an inch and a half of rain but the fall was lighter both east and west of the county seat.

The rain brought the year's total precipitation in the Shamrock area to almost 5 1/2 inches.

"Will my call to X-ville* delay a war call?"

Traveler: I thought maybe ordinary personal long distance calls were out for the duration.

Operator: No, indeed! X-ville is only sixty miles away. We hardly ever have delays to near-by towns where there are no big camps or war factories.

Traveler: That's fine! I do want to call, but it's not terribly important.

Operator: Believe me, we appreciate the way everybody tries to help. The operator will always tell you if others are waiting for the line. She'll ask that you limit your calls to five minutes.

*To telephone users: "X-ville" stands for any town within about 100 miles of here which is not busy with war work and not near big cantonments.

WAR INCOMES TO GET HIGH TAX

WASHINGTON, July 7 (AP)—Congressional and treasury experts collaborated today in drafting a new tax formula whereby persons whose incomes have increased because of the war will pay a larger share of the war's costs.

Such a plan, if written into law, would apply to individual income the principle of excess profits taxes as now applied against corporate income.

The house ways and means committee yesterday ordered the experts to study and report on the feasibility of such a tax, and at the same time announced it would begin consideration Sept. 8 "on a non-partisan basis" of a new general tax measure with new and higher levies.

Treasury experts and the committee's staff were asked to suggest "alternative means of raising additional revenue," including information on a sales tax, the so-called spending tax, compulsory savings and increased individual and corporate income taxes.

Under the excess-profits scheme a person who earned say, $24,000 before the war and now receives $4,800, would pay more taxes than another person whose income before the war was $4,800 and still is.
