HARVESTERS TO GET FIRST CONFERENCE TEST TONIGHT

Stagmen Due For Beating From Trojans

By ORLO ROBERTSON
NEW YORK, Oct. 22—(AP)—With the knowledge that there is yet to be a real upset week this football season but with the hopes that the underdogs delay a concentrated attack for another week at least we give you: (visiting teams first)

Southern California-Pacific—A toughie to start with. The Trojans have a powerful line. Staggs has St. Mary's 1942 backfield, including Presto Podesta. Southern Cal to snap Pacific's winning streak.

Georgia Tech-Navy—This one should furnish a good line on the Oct. 30 meeting of Navy and Notre Dame. Notre Dame whipped Tech 55-13. Can't see the Middies doing that well but should win handsly.

Army-Yale—The question here is will Army be scored on for the first time. Maybe the Elis will but Army will do the same many more times.

Illinois-Notre Dame—Illinois has improved steadily but not enough to come close to one of Notre Dame's best.

Colgate-Cornell—Cornell has the backs to rip Colgate's line apart.

Minnesota-Michigan—We would like to overlook this one but it's on the schedule so Bill Daley to lead the Wolverines to victory over his former teammates.

Louisiana State-Georgia—Louisiana won the first game this year 34-27. Can't see any change in the outcome since Steve Van Buren is still around.

Rice-Texas—Texas is challenging for the Southwest Conference title and is not likely to be tripped by the Owls.

Southern Methodist-Tulane—S. M. U. beat Rice 12-0. Tulane whipped 'em 33-0. Tulane.

Southwestern (La.)-Southwestern (Tex.)—A couple of little schools with big teams. Flipping a coin. Southwestern of Texas.

Tripping over the chalk lines—Pittsburgh over Bethany. Texas Christian over Oklahoma Aggies. Texas Aggies over North Texas. Iowa over Ottumwa Navy.

Record Crowd Sees Soldier Boxing Show

Pampa Field's third boxing show for enlisted men, held Wednesday night at the post area, attracted 500 fight fans, the biggest crowd of any of the shows.

Capt. Gilbert Friederichs and Lieut. Edward J. Galichian were referees.

Results of the matches: Traywick, 215 pounds, 853rd squadron, defeated Gude, 225, 852. Coker, 165, 454, won over Gephard, 165, medic.

Serogins, 180, defeated Bankett, 175, both of the 328th squadron. Gilliam, 135, 852, defeated Frier, 135, 1101.

Steer-Owl Game Lone Southwest Contest

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The only perfect record left in Southwest Conference football will be in danger tomorrow when the Texas Aggies meet North Texas Agricultural College at College Station.

This is one of four games for the day but isn't the only test in which a conference member is likely to take the count before an outsider.

For instance Southern Methodist meets versatile Tulane at New Orleans and Texas Christian plays the Oklahoma Aggies at Oklahoma City in a night game.

Texas and Rice get together at Austin in the only conference tilt on the schedule.

NTAC has lost a couple of times, but both defeats came at the hands of the great Southwestern eleven.

The Arlington gridder held a two-touchdown decision over Southern Methodist.

For the second week in a row A. & M. meets a team packing more experience but the youthful legions of Angletland don't worry about a thing like that.

Texas Christian should be a slight favorite over the Oklahoma Aggies but a victory by the latter would be no upset.

Texas is accorded the heaviest margin in pre-game forecasts for its tilt with Rice.

Having missed the most important game of the day in our predictions last week—the T. C. U.-Aggie tilt—we now give our opinion for this week-end anticipated attendance in these games:

Texas vs. Rice, 2:30 p. m. (17,000). Texas by a healthy margin.

Southern Methodist vs. Tulane at New Orleans, 3:30 p. m. (30,000). Tulane to win but it'll be a ball game.

Texas Christian vs. Oklahoma A. & M. at Oklahoma City, 8 p. m. (10,000). T. C. U. to take the decision by a touchdown.

Texas A. & M. vs. North Texas Agricultural College at College Station, 2:30 p. m. (6,000). Texas A. & M. to come out on top in a close one.

GRID TEAM FOR WINTER
SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 22—(AP)—The Salt Lake City air base wings are ready to play football most of the winter, if they can find opponents.

They've already scheduled games through December 5, and hope to fill dates as late as December 19, especially since the recent addition of Center Bob Inzalls, teammate of Michigan's Tommy Harmon, and Tackle Paul Sten of the New York Giants.

The loganberry, regarded as a hybrid of the wild blackberry, first appeared in a private yard in Santa Cruz, Calif.

Sixteen Vets On Brownfield School Squad

Pampa High school will play the three Jones brothers and eight other members of the Brownfield team in the first 1943 District I-AA game for the Harvesters at 8 o'clock tonight at Harvesters Field.

The Brownfield squad arrived in Pampa last night. For four of the Brownfield players it will be their second time against a Pampa team, as one of the Jones boys, Bobby, a tackle, Joe Snodgrass, 280-pound right end and the heaviest man of the betty Brownfield team, Billy Greenfield, a fast broken field runner, and Perry Roach, right half, varied from tackle, will be in the visitors lineup.

A wealth of reserve is at the disposal of the invaders as they have 16 veterans back from last year's squad.

Coach Otis Coffey of the Harvesters won't have Eugene Turner, 182-pound tackle, in the starting lineup, but believes that Turner's injury is not serious enough to keep him out of the game and that Turner will likely see action before the game is over.

Ousted Player Sues Ohio School Coach

BUYVRS, Ohio, Oct. 22—(AP)—A 17-year-old ousted Gallion high school football player, Ralph W. "Bill" Stoner Jr., and his father, ask common pleas court to compel the school's athletic coach to reinstate him as a member of the "squad."

In a second suit, young Stoner and his father seek a $25,000 judgment against Coach James L. Lympner, charging he "deprived Bill Stoner of a scholarship in several colleges and the right to enjoy and receive a college education" by uttering "false, malicious and defamatory statements" about him.

The coach said he barred Stoner from the team after he failed to report for spring practice. Stoner, now a senior, played halfback as a sophomore and junior.

Irish To Play Weak Lakeview Team Tonight

Special To The NEWS.
SHAMROCK, Oct. 22—The Irish gridmen, proud but not "cheaty" of their five straight victories while retaining an un-crossed goal line, will journey to Lakeview tonight for a tussle with the oft-beaten Eagles. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

Coach Bob Clark stated Wednesday that because of injuries and bad grades, a renovated team will be thrown against the Eagles, with several reserves hearing the starting whistle from line-up positions for the first time.

Although the Lakeview eleven is considered the weakest team in District 3-A, with only three Irish regulars starting the game, the Eagles should be placed on more or less even footing with the local club.

The Irishmen have a much more impressive season record than the Eagles, having made 114 points during their five games played to date, while no team has been able to dig to their pay dirt. The Eagles, on the other hand, have been defeated by Wellington, 50-0; Perryton, 40-0; McLean, 7-0; Wheeler, 20-0.

Irish starting line-up: Lumma, lb; Brooks, lt; T. Fuller, lg; Isaacs, c; Dodgen, rg; M. Fuller, rt; Wilson, re; Cole, qb; O'Gorman, fb; Nolan, lb; J. Angerson, th.

Bucks To Battle Rangers Tonight

Special To The NEWS.
WHITE DEER, Oct. 22—The White Deer Bucks will be hosts to the Perryton Rangers here at 8 tonight, in the Bucks' first home game of the season and their second conference go.

The Rangers dropped their first conference scrap to the Canadian Wildcats last week, 31 to 0, while the Bucks were downing the Panther Panthers, 28 to 6. However, observers say that this is not an accurate indication of the strength of the two teams and they are expected to be very well-matched.

Perryton started off the season with a 19 to 12 win over Dumas, lost their next game to Guyton, 19 to 0, then trounced Lakeview, 40 to 6, and went down before Canadian, 31 to 0.

White Deer lost to Wellington, 25 to 0, then defeated McLean, 25 to 0; Hereford, 14 to 13, and Panther, 26 to 6.

Wait, don't butcher the carcass!

A tire run too long to recap is a dead tire! Let your Phillips 66 Service Warden help you meet and beat today's rubber crisis.

Washington rubber authorities warn us that "the tire situation is getting worse, not better, and non-essential drivers cannot expect to get any new tires for at least the next 12 months."

To help the home-front back up the war-front to the limit, you must get every last fraction of a mile out of your present tires. You must Save the Carcass and Recap to Keep 'em Rolling, or your dead tire will become a net loss to the nation's transportation resources.

In our country's interest and in your own, be frugal with your dwindling stock of tire miles... be watchful and intelligent about tire care. At least once a week, have your Phillips Service Warden check air pressure... inspect for nail holes, cuts, and bruises... examine tire carcass to warn you when recapping is advisable.

This is only a part of the tire-saving and car-saving service pledged to you at every Phillips 66 Service Station, to help you "care for your car for your country."

Don't delay. Before it is too late, before your tires are worn beyond the possibility of recapping, drive to your nearest Phillips 66 Station for inspection, advice, and action. Just look for the Orange and Black 66 Shield, the sign of famous Phillips 66 Gasoline and Phillips 66 Motor Oil.

Sailor Guards Describe Raids Off Salerno

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22—(AP)—Three members of the navy armed guard, returning on leave from the invasion of Italy, reported today that they had little rest under German aerial bombardment while protecting their vessel in convoy off Salerno.

The three who stood in the black of night, carrying out 24-hour watches during the six and a half days of attacks off the Italian coast were Seaman First Class William A. Toms of Shreveport, Signalman Third Class George Eymann, Brownwood, Texas, and Signalman Third Class Louis Oeding, Burnett, Texas.

The trio of warriors previously had taken part in the landing in Sicily. "We were on the alert constantly for air raids and the longest we slept was 45 minutes at a time," said Signalman Oeding. "Our crew of the armed guard had to stay with our guns even while we slept."

"While the Germans dropped their bombs aimlessly at our convoy every night we could do nothing but watch and pray."

Then commented Seaman Toms: "We were ordered not to open fire on the raiders because that was just what the Germans wanted. They didn't know where the ships were and were trying to tease us into firing at them. Then, too, paratroopers were coming in at night in huge transport planes and we were afraid we would hit our own planes."

Signalman Eymann said the Salerno entry did not carry the element of surprise that was evident in the Sicilian invasion. He said the greatest happiness of the people in Sicily was "when they were freed from the hands of Hitler and could eat the food they grew on their farms and didn't have to give it up for the good of the Axis."

It required two days for the force to hike 30 miles through the jungle and over rough country. They took a mountain gun with them and laboriously hauled it 400 feet, using block and tackle, up a slope to the rear of the outlaw camp, which was reached from the front by an incline, while at the rear the volcano was almost vertical.

The battle started at dawn. They saw the women start to prepare breakfast, then the men came out of the huts. When they saw the soldiers they made a grab for their weapons.

Outlaws Routed The soldiers fired the mountain gun. The shot passed through one of the huts, killing those inside, and two other men on the opposite side. Rifles accounted for most of the 19 men in the band of 25 who were killed, however. Four or five, the colonel said, got away.

The colonel had ordered his men to "take the chief alive as he wanted to send him to his superior and the chief was captured by a sergeant who knocked out the chief by hitting him on the head with his rifle."

They tied a rope around the chief's neck when he revived and one man marched behind him holding one end of the rope, the other in front holding the other end, a practical way of keeping the outlaw from killing anyone or making his escape.

Chief Grabs Bayonet They came back to the outpost. At 11 that night, the corporal of the guard was talking to the prisoner when suddenly the outlaw reached over, grabbed the corporal's bayonet, pulled it out of the scabbard, and started to strike the soldier, who caught his wrist and twisted it out of his grasp.

Then as the corporal stooped to pick up the bayonet, the prisoner leaped off the porch and made a run toward the water. Colonel Whitney was reading by the light of a kerosene lamp when he heard the guard yell. Immediately he went into action, not taking time to put on a uniform over his undershirt.

Shots were fired in the dark and in the morning they found the chief dead with 14 bullet holes in him. The action took place in darkness, attesting to the fine sense of hearing and excellent marksmanship of the Philippine soldiers.

The soldiers got a scare when, on their extended skirmish line, they heard a shot on a hillside and a soldier say in the imperfect English they were slowly learning, "I got him."

Feared Counter Attack Across the river they saw a large group carrying torches and bolos and feared they were being attacked by a band including the outlaws who managed to escape in the first action. It turned out, however, to be Moros who had been attracted by the shooting and thought the outlaw band was moving in on them. Leading the Moros was a sheriff.

The colonel has been in the army nearly a half-century, joining in 1905, and his army experience has included camps in Texas, prior to his being made commanding officer of the McLean prisoner of war camp.

Second Lieut. Rex Butler, who accompanied the colonel here from the McLean camp, said the official name for the camp is now "prisoner of war."

International Air Routes

Some weeks ago, in a light moment, we wrote about the flood of applications for permission to establish new air lines, and suggested that all one needed was a pencil, some paper and a stamp.

There have been no repercussions. Nobody has taken us to task. This is neither retraction nor apology. But it does seem worth while to note that behind a rather ludicrous flood of irresponsible applications is a good backlog of sound projects sponsored by reputable concerns well capable of operating vast networks of airlines.

Nobody knows just what Pan-American, pioneer and leader in transoceanic flying, has in mind. Its thinking is said to be along the line of a joint supercombine which, in the words of the authoritative trade magazine American Aviation, "would give the United States a single-company front to face the world in global air traffic after the war."

Meanwhile, however, a number of demonstrably successful domestic operators want to branch out. One of the most ambitious is Transcontinental and Western, a domestic transcontinental pioneer, which would like to expand across both Atlantic and Pacific.

Its projects would link New York, Chicago, Boston, Detroit and Washington with London and Paris, and would tie Los Angeles in with Honolulu. Since the line now operates between New York and Los Angeles, this would give it coverage from Paris to Honolulu.

If TWA were permitted to establish such routes, we should have at least three big American international air systems—Pan-American (and Panagra, which it shares with Grace), American Export, and TWA.

The TWA application is worthy of serious consideration because, while the company's commercial public utility service has been entirely domestic, for 18 months it has been operating over-ocean for the Air Transport Command.

It will be a long time, probably, before the Civil Aeronautics Board even tentatively decides on any specific application unless it has a war angle. But informally, on the basis of suggestions which it has invited, the Board already is considering the fundamental approach through which the claims of particular applicants will be judged.

Official thought on the postwar policing of the world appears to have settled back to a level on which the administration can hope to have enthusiastic—or at least firm—popular approval.

For a time, the thinkers were considering an international army to which all nations of good faith would contribute. This United Nations Army would consist, like the old French Foreign Legion, of men of every race, who for the period of their service, would foresear service to the United States, Britain, France, and give obedience to the United Nations.

The current idea is less radical. It contemplates co-ordinated military co-operation against any belligerent, but each nation would retain authority over its own soldiery. The public will like this much better.

Commanding General H. H. Arnold of the Air Corps was not talking about some distant future when he spoke recently about super-bombers that "will dwarf our present Flying Fortresses," bombers that "will carry half a load of bombs across the Atlantic and fly home without stop."

Delmar G. Roos, engineering vice president of Willys-Overland, says that those fantastic-appearing "tear drop" automobiles won't be along in this decade, though they may in the next.

What we should expect after the war are more efficient machines that will cost less to buy and operate—cars that are lighter, though not necessarily smaller; cars with more nearly automatic transmissions; cars that will use less gasoline, ride more comfortably and be easier to handle.

Well, we can get along pretty well with those. In fact, we could enjoy a pleasure ride in almost any old jalopy, right now.

HIGH SHOOTING

(Boston Herald)

It is a familiar conception in military affairs that every new and effective weapon of attack is finally countered with an approximately equal defense. This war has seen the development of bombing planes that can virtually obliterate a large city. The steady improvement in range, bomb load and precision stirs the imagination.

Of course, defenses will keep pace, and the future conflicts will carry aviation still farther along; there is no reason to believe it will be completely decisive. A straw in the aeronautical wind is the report from London that a German reconnaissance plane, flying at a height of 35,000 feet, was downed by three anti-aircraft batteries.

To a layman the chance of hitting a moving speck in the air seven miles up seems remote. By the time the shell had reached that altitude, it would seem likely, that the target would be over another county. But the fact remains that, as planes go higher to avoid ground fire, the guns themselves extend their effective range.

An anti-aircraft gun theoretically commands a conical shaped portion of the atmosphere directly above it. This cone has as its extreme height the maximum vertical range and as its radius the maximum horizontal range. With an extremely rapid rate of fire, plus amazingly developed sights and trained artillerymen, this cone shaped area can be surprisingly well covered.

There are indications that Germany is improving its anti-aircraft defenses. The loss of 36

ROOSEVELT'S PLANS TO REDUCE LIVING COSTS

An Associated Press report quotes President Roosevelt as telling the American Federation of Labor convention that "We anticipate a good deal of success in the roll-back of prices which will stabilize and reduce the cost of living of essentials."

When one reads this statement, one is compelled to wonder whether Roosevelt believed that killing the pigs reduced the cost of living; whether paying farmers for not producing reduced the cost of living; whether limiting work to forty hours a week at regular rates with time and one-half for overtime reduced the cost of living; whether having two million more government bureaucrats than would be needed with a limited government reduced the cost of living; whether the labor union laws that drove people into labor unions at big fees and dues that restricted production reduced the cost of living; whether borrowing billions upon billions of dollars of synthetic credit from the banks reduced the cost of living; whether the tax system that penalized the man for adding to the wealth of the world reduced the cost of living; whether the securities laws that made it practically impossible for little concerns to get risk capital reduced the cost of living; whether setting prices for food so low that farmers could not afford to produce it as compared with cost-plus government jobs reduced the cost of living.

In fact, one wonders if Roosevelt has ever done anything that actually made it easier for working men to make a living. The real cost of living is not the dollars that a man spends to satisfy human want. The real cost of living is the time and human energy and disagreeableness of a job that a worker has to give to satisfy human want.

For 150 years the cost of living decreased by one and one-half per cent per year, but it was all done by production instead of curtailment and restriction as Roosevelt has been proposing to reduce the cost of living. Now he suggests that they can borrow the money and subsidize some things (what he calls "essentials") and thus reduce the cost of living for essentials. But if the cost of living is reduced for essentials and there are no luxuries, then even the essentials cost more human labor than they would cost if non-essentials were not penalized.

As an example, when the automobile business started, an automobile was a non-essential. They were financed largely by people of means, and the buying of automobiles by people of means made it possible for the automobile manufacturers to improve the automobiles, and thus these improvements made them necessities for the common man.

No, there is no possible way of reducing the cost of living except by using better tools to produce more and permitting all the people, not the bureaucrats, to determine the relative values of things.

For Roosevelt to talk about reducing the cost of living after his record, is to insult the intelligence of the people. If there is any man in the United States who has ever added to the cost of living it is Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

heavy bombers on the first American-British-African shuttle raid may be a case in point. The success of the German evacuation of Sicily is ascribable in part to the concentration of anti-aircraft guns. Back in the early days of the war, a Japanese bomber was shot down over Corregidor at a height of 5 1/2 miles by a 4.7-inch cannon. At the time this was regarded as sensational, but such a feat is becoming commonplace.

WHO WOULD PAY?

(L. A. Examiner—By Benjamin DeCasseres) Who would pay for "cradle-to-grave" security in the scheme of taking the guts out of the American people and making them mere parasitic insects on the belly of the state with a bureaucratic gestapo finally in full control? Why, the people, of course, in the shape of wage-absorbing taxes that would cause the last vestige of private savings and private enterprise to disappear.

And that is just what the New Deal state socialists—the wolf of Communism dressed up as old grandma "welfare state"—aims at. Taxes—"the better to eat you my child." Daniel A. Cahn, of Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., says a bookful in this letter to March of Events: "The Shabbath 'security from the cradle to the grave' is the present curse of humanity throughout the entire world. The desire for National Socialism and Communism is nothing else but the greed to control and divide all wealth without extra personal labor, effort and self-development. When peoples are regimented and all life planned, directed and controlled we have the death of the spirit and aspiration for individual growth. We have the development of a caste system and the ultimate pauperism of a entire nation. Individuality is man's estate. When it is frustrated, under whatever cloak, religious, political, sociological, it brings the decadence of an era."

There is one hope, Mr. Cahn—the laws of the universe can be transgressed for only a very short time. Then those laws return in full force—with hammers. Man is an adventurous, egoistic animal. He doesn't want "security" if he is a "going concern"—unless he has been bred physically and mentally for thousands of years, as he has been in Germany, Italy, Russia and all of Asia.

A FAR CRY FROM "DEMOCRACY"

(The Saturday Evening Post)

A few weeks ago, Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, made a proposal which rightly incensed a great many Americans who read about it. Mr. Hillman proposed that the unions in New York pay money out of their treasuries for the support of the American Labor Party.

It was promptly pointed out that this would produce the European "labor front" in America, and that, since the War Labor Board often compels men to join a union in order to work in a defense industry, Republicans and Democrats and Independents would be taxed to support the American Labor Party. To this objection all that Mr. Hillman could reply, in a letter to The New York Times, was that the manner of determining the per-capita tax for the ALP would be decided by "each union in accordance with its own constitution and rules for self-government. . . True, such procedure binds the contributing minority to the will of the majority. But that is the essence of democracy."

But the majority votes are not the distinguishing mark of democracy. Even Hitler permitted them. Democracy insists that the individual has rights which the majority is bound to respect. One of these is the right not to be compelled to support a political party. What Mr. Hillman wants is to solve the financial problems of the American Labor Party by tapping the treasuries of the unions, which have been fattened by "maintenance-of-membership" contracts and dues payments from millions of new workers. To him, it is "the essence of democracy" for the majority of a trade union to force the minority to contribute to the American Labor Party. If the boss deducted a quarter a week from the pay envelope to support the party of his choice, nobody would call it democracy. Mr. Hillman can't make such practices look any better.

News Behind The News

By RAY TUCKER FLIVVER—Shrewd observers—G. O. P.-ers as well as Democrats—concede that President Roosevelt's remarks on rubber duties were in the nature of a daring and imaginative coup designed to perpetuate his reciprocal trade program. He has struck—now—against possible attempts by succeeding Administrations to abolish the Roosevelt-Hull system of a balanced exchange of goods among nations.

Next Mr. Bloom discussed the domestic political reaction from the English point of view: "Unquestionably this will provoke another furious assault in Congress on Britain in the hope that the bricks thrown at Britain will bounce on to Mr. Roosevelt's head. . . But it is evidence, too, that the President considers the criticisms of the five touring Senators, aimed to damage him, have had quite a different effect on the public mind. Indeed, a reaction against the Senate's criticism is widely noticeable—Every car driver in the country will soon take note of the President's remarks!"

COMPROMISED—The House Banking and Currency Committee, where major legislation affecting economy originates, has long been a pain in the neck to the Administration. In the past it was composed, deliberately, or hardheaded realists who had scant patience with such a return to the monetary system. Such an important unit, obviously, should not be made up of crackpots.

It is headed by Henry B. Steagall of Alabama, one of the shrewdest, ablest and most popular men on Capitol Hill. The only reason he is not better known is that he does not seek the spotlight.

Taking F. D. R. at his word when he messaged Congress on revision of the party formula, Mr. Steagall and a majority of his group included the cost of agricultural labor in fixing rubber imports before the war came. The Chief Executive backed away when confronted with a law embodying his original request and the duels sheathed their swords after a fiery exchange. In other words, they compromised.

MUDDLED—Following this experience White House manipulators packed B. and C., infiltrating at least one good New Dealer in place of the same number of suspects. When Mr. Roosevelt's henchmen served their recent proposal for subsidies instead of price increases as a means of reimbursing the farmer for swollen expenses and keeping down the cost of living, they were sure that they could suppress Mr. Steagall.

But again he outsmarted them. His committee framed a measure which gives the Administration only half a loaf. The vote was fourteen to ten, with only three Democrats siding with the chairman. But that is enough, for he gained the support of ten Republican members from industrial states.

The incident is significant chiefly for the light it casts on the

Peter Edson's Column: EASING UP OF CENSORSHIP IS EXPECTED

By PETER EDSON Pampa News Washington Correspondent

Relaxation of censorship restrictions on publication of weather forecasts is probably just the beginning of an easing up on other sections of the censorship code. That in itself is a different kind of news to come out of Washington, where it is the established custom for a government agency to hang only all the authority it is ever given with the grip of grim death, all the while grabbing for more.

In this case, Censorship voluntarily let go. Director of Censorship Byron Price, in announcing that weather forecasts might hereafter be printed in broadest and freest in pamphlets, declared that, "We are reviewing other sections of the press and broadcasting codes to see whether additional relaxations may not be possible and advisable in the national interests."

Last revision of the censorship code was in February, and the war has admittedly moved into new phases since then. Also, the demands have increased for relaxation on some of the censorship restrictions which may have seemed like ideas when first adopted, but are unnecessary if not downright harmful today.

HANDICAPS—The handicaps imposed on farming, aviation and shipping, by having inadequate weather information, are now greater than the dangers of giving the enemy a little

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

Although the period of the film is 1947, Hollywood has discovered a way to include a strip tease in the celluloid version of "Knickerbocker Holiday." In one scene, Nelson Eddy's leading lady, Constance Dowling, appears in 16 petticoats and makes them off—one by one. . . Jean Gabin will sing on the screen for the first time in Universal's "The Impostor." Although noted as a dramatic star, he started his career with the Folies Bergere as a song-and-dance man.

Joan Fontaine is trying to patch up that feud with her leading man in "Frenchman's Creek." Arturo de Cordova. She's written an article about him for distribution in the leading papers of Mexico, hailing him as Hollywood's next big star.

Leatrice Joy Gilbert's role in "Kismet" will be the object of a Bagdad "who-who" by Hugh Herbert as she walks through the market place. . . Sigrid Gurie's three petticoats make their film debut in "Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, His Life and Loves." She leads 'em around as a glamorous film queen of the UFA studios.

Between scenes of "Two Sisters and a Sailor" Jimmy Durante seated himself outside a sound stage to take a sun bath. Ben Blue came by and waved but Jimmy didn't answer. He couldn't see him because his head was too far back. "You're getting pretty high but I won't lose your stack way up in the air like that," said Blue, later. "Gosh, no," replied Jimmy, "I was just trying to get some sun on my chest."

VERSATILE—Role of the late Woodrow Wilson in Darryl Zanuck's film biography of the World War I president will be played by Alexander Knox. But before playing Wilson, Knox will appear in a new Columbia film, "Stone Shall Escape," as a brutal German army officer—the mortal enemy of Woodrow Wilson.

Mama Temple is burning over that photograph of Shirley and Mary Pickford in a national picture magazine captioned, "Two of the Greatest Has Been." Claims it's unfair because Mrs. Shirley's co-starring role in "Since You Went Away." The mag's choice of words could have been wiser.

Roz Russell left her dressing room door open on the set of "Ten Percent Woman" the other day and 39 soldiers, visiting the lot, stamped inside for autographs. After they had gone, Brian Aherne asked, "How do you feel?" "Like an occupied country," snapped back Roz.

Jack Parks, one of Los Angeles' best newspapermen, is Mary Pickford's new press agent. Congrats all around. . . Don Raye, composer of "Mr. Five by Five," is in the army now. . . Incidentally, Cantor will make his debut in "Show Business" as an Indian papoose—on Joan Davis' back.

TOWEL TROUBLE

The ways of film censors continue to amaze us. For a scene in "Double Indemnity," Barbara Stanwyck appears clad only in a towel and a green silk ribbon in her hair. An ordinary white towel would not be permissible, the censors said, but it would be all right if it was a colored beach towel. That's what Barbara wears.

Olive Blakeney, who plays Mrs. Aldrich on the screen, was hired by Producers Pine and Thomas the other day to play a very important dramatic bit in the film, "The Navy Sings." At first she declined, saying the role was too small—only one scene after which she dies.

"But," enthused her agent, anxiously, "it's a dramatic and economic situation in the Capital. When an illustrious Southern Democrat like Mr. Steagall mobilizes G. O. P. brethren against a Democratic President, something is seriously wrong—and not in Denmark!"

The best news to come out of China in a blue-moon is the assurance from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's government that a settlement of its quarrel with the Chinese Communists is in prospect—and that there will be no civil war!

Such a peace would be a godsend not only to China but to the United Nations. To understand the full import of this you must know that the evil spirit of fratricidal strife long has been hanging over this war-tortured country. When I was in Chungking early this year observers could see only one outcome—a terrible civil war which would come at the end of the China-Jap struggle, and might break out before then.

Background for this gloomy view was the fact that there had been many bloody outbreaks in the protracted civil strife between General Chiang's one-party (Koumintang) government and the Communists, who have been fighting for recognition of their party. The dangers have been multiplied by the peculiar circumstance that the Chinese army forces have included several strong Communist armies under their own generals, an arrangement having been made to bury the political hatchet temporarily in the interests of the war effort against the Japs. The latest rupture in the "united front" was only last month when the provincial authorities of Shantung charged that Communist forces attacked the state police.

Now comes Chungking's prediction that peace is in sight. More to the point, Generalissimo Chiang has appointed two Communist leaders, General Chou En-lai and Teng Pi-wu, to a committee of 60 which has been assigned to do the groundwork for a constitutional government. General Chou, is outranked in the Communist party only by General Mao Tse-tung, Communist army commander. Of course, there's still a load of dynamite in the situation, but the Chinese home-front seems to have made a fair start in pulling out of a nasty position.

I had the privilege of meeting General Shou, who was stationed in Chungking as liaison between the Communists and the government. He assured me that his party wasn't working to supplant the government but merely sought recognition along with the Kuomintang. He declared there was no link with Moscow.

Companies Ration Cigarette Sales

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Wall Street Journal said that informal but effective rationing of cigarettes on a nation-wide basis is taking place as makers of the five most popular brands have been forced to place sales on a quota basis.

In the case of three of the brands, have been forced to place sales on a quota basis. In the case of three of the brands, those made by the American Tobacco Co., P. Lorillard Co., and Liggett & Myers, the companies were said merely to be reserving the right to "reduce excessive order," while R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co. was reported to be allotting purchases on the basis of 70 per cent of previous sales, and Philip Morris & Co., was said to be holding sales to 90 per cent of August shipments.

WARTIME HEALTH: Expected Baby's Layette Should Be Very Simple

By DR. THOMAS D. MASTERS Written for The News

Clothing restrictions in war-time are of very little interest to babies—and surprisingly, of very little moment to their mothers as far as the baby's clothes are concerned. The cult of the sun, for babies, as well as adults, is firmly established, and for the past decade or more, the modern baby has been clothed in as scanty a fashion as function permits. There are, nevertheless, certain shortages of labor and material which must be faced—as well as the fact that more and more baby clothes and equipment will be made at home for the duration.

FEW FRILLS

Babies nowadays wear few frills—since overdressing is both impractical and unfashionable. As long as their clothing is light and warm, keeps them dry and comfortable, and is easy to launder and take care of, the majority of mothers have been content for some years with showing off the baby rather than his habiliments. The elaborate layettes in an age of cost-stroke, war-induced economy, and reduced household help would be an absurd anachronism, indeed.

The functions of a baby's clothing—and every young mother in this era of large-scale baby production should be informed of the facts—are to keep him comfortably insulated against weather, clean, odorless and happy. A baby is helpless in ways adults are not. He cannot remove or put on things. He cannot pull up an extra blanket if he gets cold, or take one off if he is too warm. The liquid nature of his food, he belches freely, besides having no control over bladder or bowel. Therefore, his clothing must be planned carefully, with his own special needs in mind.

The baby's clothes need to be loose and roomy, light in weight, porous, not hard, and easy to doff and don. Since he is extremely active, his garments should hang from the shoulders. Cleanliness, simplicity and contentment are the chief objectives.

ESSENTIALS

The war mother should acquire for him certain essentials, still obtainable in one form or another. The government has just released a special allotment of bird's-eye, one of the best and cheapest materials for diapers, and the newborn infant will need between four and five dozen 24x24-inch or 27x27-inch diapers, since as many as 15 and 16 diapers a day are needed at first.

He should have four straight flannel bandages, four V-neck bands, 6-month size, four coat-style long-sleeve shirts, 6-month size, 12 cotton toweling pads 12x18 inches, two rubberized pads 11x17 inches (brown paper, wax paper, or newspaper CAN do), six flannel-ette squares one yard square to wrap up the baby in, as in an envelope, four all-wool lightweight blankets (a 72x90-inch one cut in quarters and hemmed would be fine), four short saques, two coat-style sweaters, one bunting, and one pair of waterproof pants.

If added to these are one nice dress and one petticoat for special occasions like a christening or coming home from the hospital, the baby's wardrobe is complete.

It's Patriotic to Keep Well . . . Read Dr. Masters' daily advice on matters of health.

Associated University Women Have Business Meeting, Book Review

The American Association of University Women held its first meeting Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the city club rooms.

Mrs. Robert Bushen reviewed "The Soong Sisters" by Emily Hahn. She traced the history of the three sisters who have had much to do with the history of China.

Jean Fasson played while tea was being served. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. M. K. Griffith, Mrs. W. S. Dixon and Mrs. Dudley Steele.

The president, Mrs. C. F. Friauf, presented plans for the year during the business session and the following chairmen were announced: education, Miss Pearl Spaug; international education and relations, Mrs. Dan Busch; social studies, Mrs. E. L. Norman; economic and legal status of women, Miss Lillian Mullinax; membership, Mrs. P. E. Leech; fellowship, Miss Josephine Thomas; legislative program, Mrs. M. E. Lamb; program, Miss Clarine Brannon.

Mrs. Busch gave each member a bibliography for International Relations. This contains 30 books, with comments. The purpose of this is to let the members become familiar with some of the current international problems. From this reading, they will be ready to take part in discussions and lectures that will be given during the year. A bibliography is being placed in the city library.

Members and prospective members attending were Mesdames Robert Sanford, Leslie Hart, Perry Gaut, Sam Irwin, Dan Busch, John B. McCoy, George Friauf, Russell A. Chisholm, James G. Keyser, David Eaton, E. L. Norman, Lou Roberts, Robert Bushen, Espar Stoycr, J. B. White, H. J. Derivan, F. E. Leech, Ray Robbins, Fred Hartgen, M. E. Lamb.

Misses Frances Hayes, Margaret Jones, Clarine Brannon, Clara Zosbich, Pearl Spaug, Jean Paxon, Lillian Mullinax and Josephine Thomas.

Father Coupal, PAAF, Speaks At Catholic Parish Council Meet

Parish Council of Catholic women had 25 members present when it met Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Lynn Boyd, 810 N. Somerville.

In the short business session, the Council voted to subscribe to the "Catholic World" for the Public Library. A report on the recent Diocesan Convention in Big Spring was given by Mrs. L. H. Sullivan.

Mrs. Wm. Herr, program chairman, read an article from the Panhandle Register pertaining to the declaration on world peace issued jointly by Catholic, Protestant and Jewish leaders.

Father Frederick Coupal, C. M., auxiliary military chaplain at the Pampa Field was principal speaker. In developing the theme, "The Catholic Woman and her Duties," he pointed out that women control the morals of the world. "They are the fundamental support of the nation. Seek first personal improvement if you would have greater influence in your home and community," Father Coupal said.

During the social hour, vocal selections were rendered by Mrs. J. W. Garman, Jr. and Mrs. Lynn Boyd accompanied by Father Coupal at the piano.

Shamrock Fine Arts Meets In Shamrock

Special To The NEWS. SHAMROCK, Oct. 22.—The Thursday Fine Arts club met at the home of Mrs. Perry Bear Thursday evening.

Bowls of autumn flowers were used for decorations.

Roll call was answered with "My Favorite Character in Fiction" and Mrs. Bedford Harrison, speaker of the evening, reviewed "So Little Time" by John Q. Marquand.

The hostess served a dessert course at the close of the review to a guest, Mrs. Charles Perry, and to the following members: Mesdames Bob Clark, Bedford Harrison, Ernest Hood, Nathan Lummus, Scott McColl, Walter Pendleton, Jr., and Joel Zeiler.

Misses Nell Adams, Dorothy Lamb, Re Lummus, Virginia McPherson and Mary Smith.

You don't need witches' magic to produce tasty low-point refreshments for your Halloween party. Just use always popular crackers with cheese, pimiento, ripe olives, peanut butter, mustard pickles and a little ingenuity. You can rest assured, too, that there won't be many ghosts of spent coupons coming back to haunt you since it takes only three brown points for four dozen of these clever canapes.

Bookkeeping Course To Begin Monday

Announcement was made today by Doyle Osborne, principal of Pampa High school, that a course in bookkeeping would be held for the public.

Classes are scheduled to begin Monday, Oct. 25, in room 219 at the school at 7 o'clock.

W. H. Galloway will be the instructor.

Hopkins P.T.A. Has Speaker At Meeting Tuesday Evening

The regular meeting of the Hopkins P. T. A. met Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the community hall when the president, Mrs. R. C. Mason, introduced Mrs. E. B. Morton who gave the devotional reading followed by a prayer.

Mrs. C. C. O'Bryant read the minutes from the last meeting and the group voted to set Oct. 29 as "game night."

Reports of each committee were given by chairmen and H. W. Laycock, principal, gave a report on the Boy Scout meeting.

Mrs. Faye Galleman, third grade teacher, gave piano selections for the group before presenting Paul Hill, Gray county juvenile officer, who spoke on "Freedom of Normal Life." Mr. Hill was introduced by Mrs. Marvin Stone, program chairman.

Mrs. R. C. Mason was elected to go to Austin to attend the state convention as Hopkins Parent-Teacher Association representative.

The fifth grade won the room award and refreshments were served to 40 people.

A Little Witchery, Good Food, Frolic And Friends Make Gala Hallowe'en

Don't let Hallowe'en slip by without some sort of jollification for the youngsters in your family. A little witchery, good food, frolic and friends can make it a gala evening at small cost in money or ration points.

Or perhaps you would like to cook up a party with friends or neighbors helping with food preparations, entertainment and the work of cleaning up. If you feel that a regular party is out, try putting some spooky twists to the family's dinner menu.

Here are some ghostly suggestions tailored to fit wartime shortages of food, time and money.

Cut out large size biscuits, arrange dates on tops for facial expressions and bake as usual. Use the same idea for cup cakes, cookies or muffins.

Four any meat, fish or chicken stew (rather thick blend) into shallow round baking dish. Make a face on top by using rounds of dough for eyes, then strips for eyebrows, triangle for nose and a curved strip for mouth. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven.

Youngsters will like to cut cats and witches from black paper. Paste onto small sticks or meat skewers and stick into foods as they go tableware.

Pile up mashed, seasoned squash in greased baking dish, smooth on the top with a knife dipped in warm water. Make a comical face by sticking in raisins for eyes, celery strips for eyebrows, bits of beet or red pepper for nose and a thin strip of vegetable curved to give the desired grimace—funny or sad for the mouth.

Popcorn balls made from apple or corn syrup or molasses are a grand Hallowe'en food. Wrap in waxed paper and bring them in on a tray surrounded by rosy apples for dessert for the family. They make ideal party fare.

Here are two dessert ideas:

JACK-O-LANTERNS: Dissolve 1 package of orange gelatin in 2 cups hot water or orange juice. Fill wide sherbet glasses about 1-3 full and chill. Press currants into rounded side of 6 canned peach halves, to make eyes, nose and mouth of jack-o-lantern face. When gelatin is firm, place a marshmallow in the center of each glass and cover with peach half, face side up. Four remaining cold syrups gelatin over peaches and chill until firm.

BROWNIES: Sift ¾ cup cake flour, measure and ½ teaspoon baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt and sift again. Melt 2 squares unsweetened chocolate with ¼ cup shortening, cold syrups gelatin to two half-beaten eggs, blend with chocolate mixture, then add flour, ½ cup chopped walnuts and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Bake in square, greased pan, in moderate oven (350 F.) for 30 minutes. Cut in squares. Makes 24 brownies.

Knights Of Pythias, Pythian Sisters To Attend St. Matthews

Sunday morning at 11 o'clock members of both the Knights of Pythias and the Pythian Sisters will attend services at St. Matthews' Episcopal church.

"Members of the Order, the minister and congregation of the church extend a cordial invitation to any visiting Pythians who may be in Pampa to join with them in this service," Rev. Edgar W. Henshaw, minister, stated. "To aid those who may not be familiar with the Episcopal form of worship a special order of service has been prepared for use and will be available in typed form for all in the congregation."

"The Pythian organization, founded at the time of the Civil War in the United States, has done much to spread the teachings of friendship, charity and benevolence amongst mankind. It has done this not only by its teachings but by actual practice in the establishment and maintenance of homes for orphans and aged persons, by work with lepers, the blind, deaf and dumb children in many parts of the world. The order has always been a firm supporter of the Christian church and urges its members to attend and support always the Church of their choice," Rev. Henshaw stated.

In addition to the eleven o'clock service there will be a celebration of Holy Communion at eight o'clock and the Sunnys school under the direction of Mrs. H. H. Hicks at a quarter to ten. At eleven o'clock the Rev. Edgar W. Henshaw, minister of the Church will preach on the subject "Courage for living." During the service Mr. Henshaw will be assisted by Mr. Stephen G. Surratt, for many years a Lay Reader in the Episcopal Church. Tracy Cary will be at the organ. Mrs. Henshaw will sing as an Offertory Solo, "The Prayer Perfect."

Stay-Awake Marathon Ventured to See Who Dated 'Ugliest Girl'

DENTON, Texas, Oct. 21.—Wide-eyed and allegedly "feeling fine" after going five days and four nights without sleeping two drowsy collegians at North Texas State finished a unique stay-awake marathon with a tied score last Friday night.

It all started last Monday night, when Martin Delgado, Texas City freshman, and Charles Cooper, Waxahachie sophomore, came in after dating their favorite co-eds to find that lessons were piled high on their respective desks.

In a burst of enthusiasm, Delgado announced mock-seriously that he would have to "stay up all night" to bring up his assignments. Cooper immediately challenged his statement and bet his room-mate that he could outstay him in his nocturnal lesson-getting.

At last the two drew up rules, and in its final form, the two-way contest went like this: if both Delgado and Cooper could maintain the sit-up strike until Friday night, the contest would be called a tie; however, if Delgado had succumbed to the wiles of Morpheus before that time, he was to refrain from dating his "best girl" for the rest of the year, and if Cooper had fallen asleep before the deadline, he was to date the ugliest girl he could find twelve times in succession.

And so every night during the contest period, the two boys sat at their desks and studied the whole night through, each holding high hopes of seeing his opponent lose by a doze.

However, both contestants stayed awake for the prescribed period, and finally on Friday night the two fell into bed simultaneously, calling the contest a draw.

WAFLE-LOVERS! Here's a time-saving, trouble-saving idea. Mrs. Edna Nelson of Olympia, Washington writes:

"I'd plan to have waffles for Sunday morning, then there wouldn't seem to be time. So I decided to make the batter on Saturday evening and keep it in the refrigerator.

"I'M PASSING your suggestion along to all my waffle-loving friends, Mrs. Nelson," Kate answers. "They ought to find it real helpful... so thanks a lot.

"I'm also sending you a favorite recipe of mine for cottage pudding—easy as nothing to make and grand-tasting anytime. I hope you like it."

Market Briefs

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—(AP)—While scattered strong spots were present in today's stock market, many leaders and recently climbing specialties came out of the trading end in a mild bout with profit takers. Attempts to keep the forward push going at the start were unsuccessful and, with oils turning somewhat heavy, declines of fractions to 2 points soon predominated. Transfers for the full proceedings approximated 600,000 shares.

Consolidation in the rear ranks the greater part of the time were Standard Oil (IN), Standard Oil of Cal., Socony Vac. American Distilling, Allied Mills, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, American Can, Santa Fe and U. S. Case.

Boeing Aircraft was an exception, advancing a point when directors voted another $1 dividend. This made a total of $2.50 so far this year against $1 for all of 1942. Distillers Corp.-Stearns was given a lift on reports negotiations were under way for the purchase of Frankfort Distillery.

At Chicago wheat was unchanged to off 1/2 of a cent a bushel. Cotton, in late trades was ahead 5 cents a bale to down as much.

HERR SCHROEDER

CHAPTER XXIII

"HERR SCHROEDER has come," the hotel clerk greeted Imhof on his return.

"Is he here now?" Imhof asked as he unhooked his room key from over the numbered pigeon hole for his mail in the little dovecote affair in the hall. Herr Schroeder, he was told, was out.

"Did he say when he was coming back?" Schroeder had not.

Full of his news about Rick, Imhof knocked on Pat's door.

For a moment she could not take in the incredible fact. When she heard the whole story such joy possessed her that Imhof experienced a momentary twinge of jealousy.

"Oh, Ray! Think of it! Now we can all go together!"

"If we can pinch this plane from Schroeder," said Imhof. "We've got to get busy—and work fast. No slips. If Schroeder's gone to that field we're sunk. Go down and see if he's back, while I brew a Mickey Finn for possible eventualities."

She went and Imhof dissolved in alcohol some morphia tablets he had brought with him. Then he joined Pat downstairs.

No Schroeder.

They had started the meager Mittagessen, when Pat's eyes suddenly kindled.

"Lieutenant!" she called gaily, her smile radiant. Imhof turned and saw Schroeder advancing towards them. He rose and greeted them with just the proper amount of friendliness. "Waiter!" he called. "Set a place here for the Herr Lieutenant!"

The little flurry and scurry of the place setting over, Schroeder attacked his meal with German gusto while Pat delicately probed for facts.

"Only five days' leave!" she exclaimed. "Characters and situations are fictitious. Any resemblance to actual persons or happenings is coincidental."

Family Refuses Capital Trip To Receive Late Son's Medal

HELENVILLE, Wis., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Congressional Medal of honor lay in its case today alongside a picture of the late Sgt. Kenneth E. Gruennert in the modest home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gruennert.

It had come through the mail with a citation signed by the president and a letter from Secretary of War Stimson because the Gruennerts had wanted it that way.

The Gruennerts had been asked by the war department to receive the medal for their son from the president. They didn't believe they should go, however, so wrote a letter to the war department. It took a long time to write. This is what it said.

"We feel honored indeed to receive a medal of honor for our departed son, to be delivered to us personally by the president of the United States.

"Under present conditions, however, we can not help but give expression to some of the following thoughts which race through our minds day and night.

"On the back of the B sticker on our wind shield is the question: is this trip really necessary?

"We are in the midst of the Third War Bond drive we believe every cent of money subscribed should be used to supply our boys with the necessities of war and not spent for trips that do not directly help the war effort.

"Only this last week, thousands of other parents lost their loved ones on the battlefields of Italy, our brave boys that were loved by their parents as much as we loved our own. These parents can not all converge on Washington, and because of the common bond we have with them we feel we shouldn't either the loss of our brave boy is still too fresh in our memory for us to make this trip even though it would be in his honor."

The letter found its way to the desk of Secretary of War Stimson. It was evident that it had moved everyone who had seen it for Secretary Stimson wrote back to the Gruennerts with a letter of understanding and sacrifice which deeply impressed not only the president, but all of us in the war department who have been privileged to read your letter. We stand humble in the face of such a demonstration of patriotism as yours—I realize the personal sorrow you are so bravely bearing. May I extend my own sympathy and reassure you that this sacrifice will not have been in vain.

"You have lost a son; the nation has lost a son; we all grieve together.

The citation signed by the president said the medal had been awarded for "leadership so outstanding that it placed victory above the life of the leader himself."

Army Casualties In Italy Drop

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Estimates of American casualties in Italy from Sept. 8 to the beginning of the Battle of the Volturno river have been reduced substantially in recent reports, Secretary of War Stimson has reported.

He told a press conference that the latest report for this period was 870 killed, 3,047 wounded, 2,848 missing, a total of 6,747. The secretary noted that this total was well below the 8,307 he reported in a preliminary estimate Oct. 7, which listed 511 killed, 5,428 wounded and 2,368 missing.

The secretary said that casualties in the Volturno battle, which erly way. He turned to Schroeder. "A liqueur?" he offered, as if to change the subject. "What'll it be?"

"A small brandy," Schroeder accepted.

"Two brandies," Imhof ordered. When the drinks were brought, he sniffed his, took a taste and hastily put the glass down. "Dreadful stuff!" he exclaimed, laying his hands on Schroeder's glass. "I can't trust you to such tricks, Lieutenant." He bent over, looking mysterious. "Come to my room." He rose and beckoned. "I've got some of the real thing—Martell Four Star!" He winked knowingly and rubbed his hands. "You shall have a nip."

UPSTAIRS, while Pat engaged the German's attention, Imhof poured out the drink and slipped the morphia solution into the glass he handed to Schroeder.

"By the flight tonight!" he pledged.

Presently Schroeder passed his hands over his eyes. Their voices seemed to grow dim, their faces wavered before him, the room spun around. He struggled to his feet. They just caught him as he collapsed.

Imhof laid him on the bed, emptied his pockets and from his papers selected those needed for the impersonation. There were several letters, but these he pocketed, unread, along with Schroeder's other things.

"How long is he good for?" Pat asked.

"I don't really know," Imhof acknowledged. "You'll have to stay and watch him." He bound the Nazi securely and gagged him. Next, he stole down the hall to Schroeder's room, to make sure the door was locked. When he returned it was nearly time to start for the field.

"Well, dear," he said grimly, "we've grabbed the wire and it's got us. Now it's fit or burn."

They clung together a moment, then he went downstairs, seized a moment when the lobby was clear to hang Schroeder's key on its hook and left.

Jap-Americans Fight Bravely Against Nazis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—American soldiers of Japanese ancestry led the Italian mainland attack of a famous American division which had distinguished itself in Tunisia.

Reporting this, Secretary of War Stimson said the Japanese Americans had passed the test of Nazi fire with flying colors, and now are "fighting in the battle lines along the road to Rome."

They form the 100th infantry battalion. The division was not identified. All were born in Hawaii of Japanese parents. The secretary told a press conference that reports from Italy described them as typical American "doughboys."

Capt. Taro Suzuki of Honolulu, a reserve officer for 16 years—three years on active duty—led the first company to see action. The fight began at 5:30 a. m. along the historical Apian ways and by afternoon the outfit still was pushing ahead.

"It was our own fight," Suzuki reported to the war department. "The company had to sink or swim by itself. We had walked by blown-out bridges that stopped heavy artillery from being brought up behind us and then worked our way down a winding road. The ben's cut us off from views of our own supporting infantry.

"Our leading scouts rounded a bend and three German machine guns opened up. There was nothing to do but to work on them alone because nobody to the rear could see to fire the heavy stuff. The Germans broke everything loose on us—machine guns, mortars, rifles and heavy artillery.

"You know what stopped all that Nazi wrath? Our little 60MM mortars. We got them on there and they went right in. Boy, it felt good to see them dropping. The machine gunners pulled out after the big guns quit and our riflemen started making rapid headway on them."

Army Will Require 75,000 Men Monthly

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The army will need about 75,000 men a month after the first of the year as replacements to keep its total strength at 7,700,000, Secretary of War Stimson said today.

Asked at a press conference about a report by Senator Downey (D-Cal.) that the army plans to call up a million more men than the 7,700,000 level, Stimson replied that there has been no change in the army's program since that figure was fixed by Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNary, deputy chief of staff.

The army enrollment stood at about 7,300,000 on Sept. 1 and to bring it up to the planned total by Dec. 31 Stimson estimated that 400,000 men plus 300,000 replacements would be needed.

Correspondent Loses Wallet While Bumping Over Arid Australia in Rough Army Jeep

By OLEN CLEMENTS
SOMEWHERE IN NORTHWESTERN AUSTRALIA, Oct. 20.—(Delayed)—(AP)—The jeep seat was hard and the trail was bumpy, in fact had been extremely bumpy for hours as we plowed through the dusty bush country.

Maj. Howard Williams, Salt Lake City, drooped over the wheel with weariness and Lt. William L. Harrington, Salem, Ore., and I tried to find a soft spot on the seat of that jeep. Behind us crept Capt. George A. Hart, Beaumont, Texas, and Lt. Dan Chenevert of Boston in another jeep.

Night was settling fast and we were far from camp. Ahead loomed a cool river, one of the few flowing streams in this part of arid Australia. We stopped, shucked off our clothes and plunged into the cooling stream to wash off the dirt and dust.

An aborigine from the bush came up while we were bathing and offered to take us to his village to do some trading. We hurried down and Lt. Harrington managed to obtain part of the bushman's spear for a pack of cigarettes. That's all we got.

I was thinking what a terrible place to be stranded this would be when I felt habitually for my wallet in my hip pocket. It was gone.

Somewhere along that bumpy road my wallet had bounced out of my pocket and the jeep and was buried in dust. We hunted and hunted but were unable to find it.

It contained 100 pounds Australian $322 American and all my credentials. All I have left is two shillings. I wonder how wallaby steak tastes. Also, are they better broiled or fried?

Nips Build Up Air Fields In Dutch Indies

By OLEN CLEMENTS
SOMEWHERE IN NORTHWESTERN AUSTRALIA, Oct. 18.—(Delayed)—(AP)—The Japanese are building up airfields in the Netherlands East Indies to give them strong protection against any move by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Southwest Pacific forces or those of Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten in Southeast Asia.

The heaviest developments have been noted by Allied reconnaissance on the islands of Timor, Celebes, Ambona, Doon, Kai, Taitbar, Selaroe and Ceram, sprinkled through the Aratura and Banda seas, northeast of Australia. Some are only an hour away from Allied bomber bases in Northwestern Australia.

The Japanese now face growing Allied air power in the Southwest Pacific backdoor to the rich Netherlands which they captured early in 1942, as well as the threat of offensive strikes from the direction of the new Southeast Asia command.

American fliers out here call Timor a "hand-based aircraft carrier." The Kai islands and Ambona have many new fighter strips completed or under construction. Much activity has been noted at Sorong on Doon Island which is at the tip of Dutch New Guinea.

Four new strips have gone in at Fulooro on Timor within the last five months. One bomber strip has been built at Dili in Central Timor and another at Atomba. The old Dutch airfield at Penfoel has been converted into a large field with numerous concrete runways in operation at this time.

Developments also have been noted in the Timbar Islands, southeast of Ambona, on Selaroe Island off Dutch New Guinea and Ceram Island, immediately above Ambona.

American heavy bombers have been pounding Makassar off and on since June when they caught four Japanese cruisers in port. On the last raid there Oct. 9, Lt. Paul Olson, Chicago, said he saw at least 15 fires burning when he got over the target.

Lt. Jack Cox, Hereford, Texas; Lt. Joseph Cesarlo of Erby, Conn., and Lt. L. A. Krueger, Beatrice, Neb., who were in another plane, said they laid a string of 500-pound bombs in the middle of Makassar's oil installations.

Nazis Bow To Vatican Rule

BERN, Switzerland, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A border dispatch to the newspaper La Suisse of Geneva said the Vatican refused to deliver over to the Germans anti-Fascist and anti-Nazi refugees who sought sanctuary within its walls, and "Germany bowed to this decision."

Included in the refugees, the dispatch from Chiasso said, were leaders of the former Fascist regime who became prominent anti-Fascists after Benito Mussolini's fall. Several members of the grand council that voted Mussolini's ouster are believed to have entered the Vatican.

La Suisse's account continued: Although the Lateran pact of 1929 provides that political refugees may not be given sanctuary in Vatican City, the situation has been altered inasmuch as the Holy See still recognizes the government of Premier Pietro Badoglio and the German occupation of Rome in effect abrogates the treaty.

Relations between the Vatican and Germany improved after Luigi Cardinal Maglione, papal secretary of state, received assurances that the reich had no intention "to protect Vatican territory as it had Bohemia and Moravia."

"There has been much talk of the Pope's efforts to have Rome recognized as a holy city by the belligerents in order to save it from the ravages of war. There has been great reserve in Vatican circles regarding this proposal, but the possibility of such an accord is not excluded.

Meanwhile, in northern Italy where resistance to the Nazis is increasing constantly, the arrest of Badoglio supporters including many clergy was reported continuing. An unconfirmed report said that persons under Nazi surveillance included Cardinal Schuster, archbishop of Milan who threatened to excommunicate writers of anonymous letters and others for denouncing political opponents.

More Chaplains Asked Overseas

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. William Barrow Pugh, of Philadelphia, touring world battlefronts as a representative of Protestant churches in the United States, cabled from New Delhi, India, yesterday that "there is an insufficient number of chaplains in critical places."

"I find people everywhere looking to the American churches for inspiration to build the future world on principles of the gospel of brotherhood and good will," his cable said, "it is the greatest opportunity of history."

Britain Tells Greeks To Quit Quarrelling

CAIRO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Warning the Greeks against "internal quarrels," Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, commander of the British Ninth Army, today ordered that "fratricidal strife" in Greece must cease.

His message to the Greeks took official cognizance for the first time of small scale quarrelling between two groups, the leftists and the guerrillas, in the mountains of Greece.

Gen. Wilson told the Greeks bluntly that the United Nations are looking to them to "fight on shoulder to shoulder so the coming day of freedom will not be postponed."

The collapse of Italy, he declared, has confronted the Germans with a serious problem in the Balkans and especially in Greece.

"Germany cannot afford to withdraw troops from other fronts. She can only hope to remain in Greece if she can weaken you by internal quarrels. This is Germany's last gamble and it is the responsibility of each one of you to see that this gamble fails," he asserted.

"I wish to warn you that Germany is not yet beaten and that she is still very strong."

Minor fighting between the leftists and guerrillas in Greece, which apparently has been encouraged by the Germans, is the result of their different war aims. This fighting never has been on a scale resembling civil war but it has sapped energies which would be better employed against German forces.
