Stronger Strike Bill Is Favored

WASHINGTON, May 7 (AP)—Representative Wright Patman of Texas feels that senator Tom Connally's wartime plan seizure bill does not go far enough.

As the house received the senate-approved bill yesterday, Patman urged punishment under criminal statutes for persons guilty of attempts to delay production of war materials in any plant or mine.

The Connally bill authorizes wartime seizure by the government of struck plants or mines and also provides stiff penalties for instigating strikes or slowdowns in war production, plants that have been taken over by the government.

Rule Explained Governing Army Men Over 38

Further revisions of regulations governing the transfer of enlisted men 38 years of age and over to inactive status for the purpose of accepting employment in essential industries are explained in a war department announcement received at Pampa Army Air Field. The revisions now pending at the local base. Under the new provisions, the individual enlisted man must have attained his 38th birthday on or before February 28, 1943, and must have enlisted or been inducted on or before that date. Prior to July 1, 1943, the enlisted man must submit to his commanding officer a written statement, requesting his transfer to the enlisted reserve corps and must support his own statement, with written evidence from the prospective employer or other reliable person, that he will be employed in essential industry, including agriculture.

Acceptance by the immediate commanding officer of the man requesting transfer will not be considered as a promise of release. Before the transfer can be effected, the commanding officer must forward the letter of the enlisted man and the evidence of employment to the state director of selective service of the state in which he proposed to be employed. The state director will return the request for release and offer of employment with recommendations of disposition. If the recommendation is favorable, the state director will indicate the local board to which the man must report within five days of his release, and the release will be accomplished immediately, unless such transfer would seriously handicap the organization or unit to which he is assigned. If the recommendation from the state director is unfavorable, it will be accompanied by a statement as to why an unfavorable report was given. If the release is effected and the enlisted man is transferred to inactive status with the enlisted reserve corps, he must abide strictly to the terms of the agreement to remain employed in essential war work. Failure to comply will result in his immediate recall to active duty. In addition, failure to report to the local draft board indicated in the favorable recommendation from the state director, within the five day limit, will subject the enlisted man to immediate recall to active status.

Famed 'Dime And Prayer Mother' Gets Winter Home

MACON, Ga., May 7—(AP)—Macon's "dime and prayer mother," Mrs. R. A. Godfrey, who has endeared herself to scores of service men through her gifts of a 10-cent coin and a printed prayer, told this story:

She went to Macon Hotel last Saturday in response to a call from a woman who identified herself as "Mrs. F. N. Hollan." The white-haired Mrs. Hollan explained that she had come to Macon to see Mrs. Godfrey because of the latter's courtesy to her son in the army.

"You gave him a dime and a prayer last October in front of a cafe, while he was stationed at Camp Wheeler," she said. "It meant more than anything in the world to him and he means more than anything in the world to me. That is why I have wanted to find you and do something for you in return."

"So," she concluded, "I am giving you a winter home in Miami, Fla. My son says it's awfully cold in Macon in the winter, so perhaps you will enjoy using it."

Arrangements have been completed for the transfer of that property, Mrs. Godfrey said.

KEEN EYES MAKE STRAIGHT SHOOTERS

It's a big job — the job ahead of us. It's going to take boundless energy. It's going to take good eyesight. Our nation's armed forces have good eyes, for only men with keen eyesight have been selected for military duty. Those of us at home must protect our precious eyesight, now, more than ever before. To maintain the utmost efficiency in every branch of the nation's war effort, men and women must see well!

10 Ways to Protect Precious Eyesight and get the most efficiency from Electricity you use

1. Shade every light to eliminate glare.
2. Use indirect reflector lamps wherever possible.
3. Avoid sharp contrasts between brightly lighted surfaces and dark backgrounds.
4. Guard against light reflected into the eyes from shiny surfaces.
5. Keep fixtures, and especially globes, clean.
6. For close eye-work, do not work in your own shadow.
7. Use the right size globe.
8. When redecorating, use light colors on walls and ceilings.
9. Rest your eyes by closing them occasionally.
10. If your eyes feel strained or unduly tired, see a competent eyesight specialist.

Are You from Texas? Then You're Probably An Individualist, Ready for Fight Anytime

By RICHARD WEST Associated Press Staff

If you're a Texan, you're probably an individualist, you don't want anybody meddling in your business, you'd rather be a rancher than a banker and you like to fight—anywhere, anytime.

You'd pay anything for a thick steak broiled on charcoal, you're too energetic to relax and you cuss the weather and bureaucrats.

There are exceptions. But from the time Stephen Austin crossed the Sabine from Missouri until Coke Stevenson kicked about gasoline rationing the Texan has been a pretty definite type.

There's a new history about Texas and it belongs on yourself beside Walter Webb's Texas Rangers and Frank Dobie's Longhorns.

It's Texas, the Lone Star State, by Rupert Norval Richardson, professor of history at Hardin-Simmons University, who turned down the presidency of his school to follow the paths of pure scholarship.

The 390-page book is timely and complete. It appears when there are a million new faces in the Lone Star State—soldiers training for a bigger fight than Texas ever faced, shipworkers from the East, timber loggers from the Old South. They've yearned to see and know Texas. Richardson answers their questions.

The Texan has always been a fighter.

Most of the time he was fighting for what he called his rights. At other times it didn't take much of an excuse. Sam Houston said a loaded pistol and rifle hanging over the hearth were not for decoration. John Ford's Texans, fighting for the Confederacy, fought and won the last battle of the Civil War—even after Lee had surrendered. Ford didn't know about it until the prisoners he took told him.

San Antonio was settled in 1718, the Indians were still taking scalps near there a century and a half later.

Out of these fights for survival the real Texan as the world thinks of him emerged—a hell-for-leather individualist, steeled in hardship, lustful for adventure.

With a pistol on his hip and a song in his soul he followed the grass and pushed the frontier westward. He lived largely to himself. He became one with his horse. The less the government interfered the better.

His Longhorns bred quickly and in a sixteen-year period he drove 4,000,000 of them up the trail—selling a $4 cow on $40 market.

THE PIONEER TEXAN was a rough customer and the state he loved was rougher.

Josiah Wilbarger was scalped by the Indians in 1833 and left to die. He lived twelve more years.

It was a man's country. The ration of men to women in 1850 was eleven to nine and more than 80 per cent of both were under 40. Fred Olmstead, an Easterner, said the roads were little better than cow tracks.

The prevailing home was a crude

Medical Aspect Of Draft Rule Is Discussed

CHICAGO, May 7—(AP)—The Journal of the American Medical Association in an editorial on medical aspects of selective service dependency regulations said today that "any child born after Sept. 15, 1942, could not be considered as having been conceived before Dec. 8, 1941, in the absence of overwhelming evidence on the contrary."

The editorial said that as a result of recent regulation changes "it will become necessary for local selective service board to determine beyond reasonable doubt in certain borderline instances whether a child has been conceived before or after Dec. 8, 1941, in order to classify the registrant correctly."

The longest possible period of gestation has not been legally defined in this country.

"In the United States each case is decided on its own merits, since there is no law in this country or England which defines the duration of gestation."

"For practical purposes the burden of proving any pregnancy lasting more than 280 days would seem to rest on the claimant. Under such circumstances the claimant would

'Traffic Jam' In Office Of County Judge Eliminated

A "traffic jam" in the office of County Judge Sherman White has been ended with the placing of a library table, owned by the county but loaned to the U. S. O. center, in the office.

Back in the '30s the county commissioners had their own room, now occupied by the AGA and TES offices. Then the commissioners met in the county court room, since taken over by the county rationing board.

This forced them to hold their meetings in the county judge's office, and they grouped themselves around the judge's desk.

When the entire commission met around one lone desk, along with any others who had business to transact, conditions began to resemble the traffic situation in a Gotham subway, so the library table was put into use to relieve the congestion.

KEEN EYES MAKE STRAIGHT SHOOTERS

It's a big job — the job ahead of us. It's going to take boundless energy. It's going to take good eyesight. Our nation's armed forces have good eyes, for only men with keen eyesight have been selected for military duty. Those of us at home must protect our precious eyesight, now, more than ever before. To maintain the utmost efficiency in every branch of the nation's war effort, men and women must see well!

10 Ways to Protect Precious Eyesight and get the most efficiency from Electricity you use

1. Shade every light to eliminate glare.
2. Use indirect reflector lamps wherever possible.
3. Avoid sharp contrasts between brightly lighted surfaces and dark backgrounds.
4. Guard against light reflected into the eyes from shiny surfaces.
5. Keep fixtures, and especially globes, clean.
6. For close eye-work, do not work in your own shadow.
7. Use the right size globe.
8. When redecorating, use light colors on walls and ceilings.
9. Rest your eyes by closing them occasionally.
10. If your eyes feel strained or unduly tired, see a competent eyesight specialist.

For the Record

Nazi brutality has long since become so vile that human beings have tended to build up a sympathetic immunity to new atrocities. Under such circumstances, one sometimes begins to wonder whether harsh measures "necessary" to keep a rebellious people in subjugation are being magnified into deliberate sadism.

Therefore it seems fitting, now and again, to renew the record, so that the people who are fighting may be seen in true perspective—so that we may realize that the German people, and not merely a few that the German people, and not merely a few brass hats, are below the level of animals.

From time to time Poland fights, organ of the Polish Labor Group, smuggles pertinent reports out of the tortured homeland. Here are a few examples. Fort VII of Poznan has become a training school in sadism for young Gestapo members. It was here the Nazis first used poison gas to put prisoners to death. To celebrate the anniversary of Hitler's assumption of power the Germans at Fort VII held a feast, with entertainment.

The feature event was a "hunt in honor of the Fuehrer," in which, an hour before midnight, prisoners were freed from their cells and ordered to run along the corridor, while guests took potshots at them. Nine were killed. A cavalry sergeant named Hoffman was proclaimed "king of the hunt." This game of hare-and-hounds has become a favorite of the Huns there. On a later occasion 52 were killed thus.

In a sanatorium for Jewish workers' children near Warsaw Nazis ordered the staff to leave the premises. When most refused they were shot, along with all of the 250 children inmates. A doctor, with proper Nazi permits, entered the Warsaw ghetto to minister to a sick Jew. While he and another physician were discussing the case SS guards and Lithuanian Fascists surrounded the house, took everybody they found, including the doctors, into the courtyard and shot them.

Out of 85,840 prisoners who have passed through the notorious Oswiecim concentration camp—8620 of them women—more than 57,000 have died. By order of Himmler, the Warsaw ghetto is being "liquidated." This is done by packing selected occupants into railway cars—as many as 120 to 130 in a car—sealing it hermetically, moving it onto a siding, and leaving it there a few days before any survivors are started eastward.

Have these in mind, when if you are told that this is only a political or economic or nationalistic war.

Overwhelmed Indianapolis raid wardens asked Washington for 7740 helmets. In August they received a shipment of 8340; later another 7740 came along; in February they got 3200 and in March 250. This totals 19,530 helmets for an inland city which has held only one test blackout.

In addition, Indianapolis has received 48,000 feet of fire hose—twice the quantity needed—without nozzles; 60 auxiliary pumps that can not be used because Washington will not approve fittings to connect them to fire hydrants; 240 ladders—twice the number needed—for which there are no trucks; and a few other things.

Naturally the public has assumed that rationing is designed to prevent waste, to give every citizen a sufficiency, to guarantee the feeding of our forces, and to supply our allies with enough food to carry on.

Common Ground

By E. C. HOLLES

What those who believe the state can solve our economic problems fail to realize is contained in the question: What bureaucrats are to control the bureaucrats? When we give up our form of government, where the government receives its authority from the consent of all the governed on important principles, the question is, who will control the bureaucrats?

The Administration's way of controlling bureaucrats is to appoint another bureaucracy over the established bureaucracy. When one bureaucracy cannot solve an unsolvable problem and people become disgusted with it, the only thing the Administration can do is to establish another bureau over an old bureau or appoint a new head over the old head, as is the case with Mr. Prentiss Brown over Leon Henderson.

Years ago, we established the Department of Labor to help settle wage problems. It became ineffective and we established the National Labor Relations Board. This bureaucracy fell down and the President established the War Labor Board in an attempt to settle coercive demands of labor.

All of these bureaus kept on granting fictitious wages so that the President had to discard all these bureaus and appoint Prentiss Brown as the final authority on whether or not wages may be increased.

Yet all these bureaus have not been able to control prices. So we have had to have the Office of Price Administration. But in order to control prices we have to give up our right of choice and let the bureaucrats run our lives.

The beauty and harmony of a constitutional democracy is that the people themselves are the final judge as to the values of things. And the values of things are too important—too close to life and happiness—to be turned over to the bureaucratic politicians.

A government with the consent of all the governed on the important things in life is the primary difference between a totalitarian state and a Christian, or a true democratic state. Then we have no trouble as to who will control the controllers or what bureaucracy will be put over another bureaucracy.

When we depart from the single standard of rightness—that all men are equally free—and adopt a double standard of rightness, as we have been doing in this country for the last 30 years, the eventual result is more bureaucracies. The cumulative effect is the government telling the housewife how much she dare pay and how much she dare have of this and that.

When people take the position, as Mrs. Roosevelt has, that the welfare of mankind can be improved by labor union methods, they place themselves in very embarrassing positions. Any person who would not cross a picket line now, or any time, is giving evidence that they have a double standard of rightness; that they believe there are no eternal principles; that the inherent rights of each individual is of little importance to them so long as their lip-service to humanitarianism warrants them being seen and heard of men without rendering any real service.

News Behind The News

BET The MacArthur-for-President boom has not been buried by prominent leaders of the Republican Party. It has just been wrapped in moth balls temporarily, and the inside fact is that it enjoys more real strength now than it ever did in the past.

The politics pushing the candidacy of the General are not personal friends of his; some of them have never met him. But their surveys convince them that he would have the best chance of defeating President Roosevelt, and they want a winner. They are also motivated by the fear that their two leading contents, Wendell Willkie and John W. Bricker, will mangle each other so badly at the convention that neither can be nominated.

The progress of the movement on behalf of the hero of Bataan will depend, of course, on the war's trend in his area. Should he be engaged in a hard campaign by nomination time, it would be dangerous for the G. O. P. to attempt to draft him. Its king makers would be subject to the charge that they placed partisan victory ahead of the defeat of the Axis.

Should Mac be kept in the Army when he reaches retirement age next January that circumstance would raise difficulties. Under the Stimson edict against officers running for public places which they did not hold before they donned uniforms, the General would have to resign at a time when his services might be most needed. Despite these obstacles, numerous key insiders insist that he is the opposition's best bet.

RULING Envoy William Phillips is now on his way to the White House to report on his mission to the Marquess of Linlithgow's blunt refusal to allow Mr. Roosevelt's representative to meet Gandhi merely a snub by an uncooperative stratagem. But there is a much deeper purpose in the episode.

Regardless of the ostensible hints by Premier Smuts that the United States may be asked to have a voice in postwar colonial settlements, the move by the Viceroy of India serves notice that His Majesty's government in Downing Street will brook no meddling by any state even the U. S. A.—in the affairs of its Commonwealth.

If we are an unwelcome adviser now when Albion is in peril, how much less so shall we be when a triumphant Britannia is at peace! Since the days of Good Queen Bess a combination of farsighted statesmen and ubiquitous traders, backed by sea power, have built the Empire. The heirs do not contemplate giving away their legacy.

World opinion of British control of subject races fell when inept civil and military officials failed so wretchedly in the Far East. This can be partly blamed on lack of sturdy stock resulting from the First World War, which killed off so many brilliant sons of England's ruling families who otherwise would have managed her far-flung territories.

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

THIS is the story of an accident, a mishap that led to acute embarrassment, boiling anger and finally to stardom. She was 15 years old—a fledgling dancer, with her heart set on a stage career. She had tried the radio, had sung with an orchestra and had appeared in a number of amateur shows. But somehow she had failed to make an impression. The public, or at least that portion of it which had seen and heard her, simply wasn't impressed.

Then one day she read an advertisement in a Los Angeles newspaper calling for chorus girls at the Hillstreet theater. The candidates were to be given their chance before the audience. Those who received the most applause would get the jobs.

She was the third contestant. She was wearing shorts held up by a halter around her neck. As she danced, the halter broke and she grabbed for her shorts to keep them from falling off. The audience roared with laughter and hooted and cat-called. The girl was so embarrassed she broke into tears. Then anger came to her aid. She became so mad she didn't care what happened and finished the number waving one hand in time with the music and frantically holding up her shorts with the other.

The audience, which had been laughing and hooting, suddenly changed its tune and cheered the plucky miss as she danced off-stage. And, to her surprise she was one of seven girls selected for the chorus line. It was lucky for her that she won the approval of that first audience. If she hadn't received that job, a movie talent scout who visited the theater several weeks later might not have discovered her as a screen possibility.

The all-out battle phase of the conflict is fast approaching. Donald M. Nelson has supplied the materials; now the blood-test is at hand. In this crisis President Roosevelt has a driving personality dominating the War Department just as Abraham Lincoln chose Edwin M. Stanton, a pugacious character in many ways similar to today's rubber czar.

A shrewd political reason underlies the possibility. Those of Irish extraction are none too pleased with certain aspects of the struggle. Their traditional grudge against England and their dislike of Communism hold back their enthusiasm. The fact that James A. Farley is on the outs with the Administration and that Joseph P. Kennedy has not been called by the White House disheartens them.

But if Bill Jeffers, one with his own racial background and a regular Democrat, sat in the driver's seat steering our war machine their interest might be strongly aroused. There's vote-getting magic in the thought that a fighting Irishman heads the fighting service.

WASHINGTON, May 7 — (P) — Lend-lease Administrator Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., disclosed today that the United States had shipped $1,825,477,000 worth of goods to Russia by April 1.

An overwhelming majority of 6,000 long tons, reached Russia today, Stettinius said, adding that losses were suffered principally on the north Russian route.

The shipments included more than a million tons of foodstuffs, "many tens of thousands" of trucks, jeeps, and other military vehicles, and several thousand planes.

Stettinius reported that total lend-lease shipments to all countries since inception of the plan amounted to $7,104,731,000, aside from planes ferried by air and ships moving under their own power, which amounted to an additional $675,000,000.

New Tax Bill Complications

By PETER EDSON

THE proposed new tax bill reported to the House of Representatives by the Ways and Means Committee isn't a law yet, so maybe it's unfair to bother you with some of its provisions. The bill will unquestionably be amended in many ways before it becomes law, but just to give you an idea of what's cooking, take the case of an average guy and consider briefly what the various withholding tax and tax forgiveness proposals would do to him. It will give you an idea of how complicated life might become.

Soldiers will be exempt on service pay up to $3500, so take the case of an over-draft married man with no dependents making $4000 a year and claiming all personal exemptions. The income tax return he filed March 15, 1943, would have shown him liable for a tax of around $52. Assume he paid the first quarterly installment of $13.25, that will pay another $133 come June 15, a total of $286. So far so good, but what happens next?

Under the proposed new tax bill, $286 would not be counted as payment on the taxes to be collected on the man's 1942 income as the man thought when he filed the return. Instead, the taxes would be considered as a credit against the taxes he will owe on his 1943 income. That makes it a kind of pay-as-he-went plan, a kind of current, advance income tax payment on this year's income, instead of a payment on last year's income.

RUMPL PLAN VS. NEW PROPOSAL BUT now see what would happen to the taxes on 1942 income, since the taxes already paid in 1943 aren't to be counted against that bill. Under the original Ruml plan, those taxes would have been forgiven entirely under the new proposal they would not be forgiven entirely but would be reduced by applying the 1941 tax rate to the 1942 income. This would not mean that taxpayers would have to make out a new income tax return, figuring what they owed in terms of the previous lower rates. Instead, by a simple formula in the new tax bill—a table, not a precise calculation—taxpayers would be informed of what taxes they owe on their 1942 income. In the case of the $4000-a-year man mentioned above, the new tax on 1942 income would be $236, which the man would still owe the government.

Under the new bill the man would be given three years in which to pay this $236 taxes on 1942 income. He would show it on the income tax return which he will file March 15, 1944. If the man chose to pay all his taxes on 1942 income at that time, he would get a 6 per cent discount and would have to pay only $221.84. If he paid onethird, or $78.67, on March 15, 1944, he would get a 2 per cent discount on his liability of a 6 per cent discount on his remaining liability and would have to pay a total of $231.28. Or, if he paid in the three equal installments, March 15, 1944, 1945 and 1946, he would get no discount at all. In cases of hardship he could well get three-year extensions on any one year's payment as it comes due.

Now go back to the collection of taxes on 1943 income. If Congress does not change the rates, the tax on Mr. $4000-a-year's income would still be $532. In addition to this income tax, however, there will be 1943 Victory taxes amounting to $115, deducted from his pay, which would make his total federal tax bill for this year $532 plus $115 or $647.

WITHOLDING TAXES BUT this man has already paid in $266 in his March 15 and June 15 income tax payments as mentioned in paragraph two. In addition to this, the new tax proposes to start on July 1, 1943, the collection of 20 per cent withholding taxes deducted from the pay envelope. Three per cent of this would be considered Victory tax and if per cent a credit against taxes on 1943 income. In the case of the $4000-a-year man, paid $33.33 a month, $110 a month of which would be exempt from withholding taxes, the withholding tax deduction would amount to $47.70 a month, as calculated by tables in the tax bill itself. For the last six months of 1943, these withholding taxes credited against income taxes due would amount to six times $47.70 or $286.20. Add this $286.20 to the $266 already paid in and it gives a total of $552.20 which the man will have paid-as-he-went through 1943. His total tax bill for the year being $647, however, when the man makes out his income tax return to submit by March 15, 1944, it will show he still owes the difference between $647 and $552.20 or $94.80 as taxes on his 1943 income, payable in 1944. Complete pay-as-you-go taxation is thus never accomplished. There's always a day of reckoning in which it will be found the taxpayer owes something else.

The thing to do about all this right now is—nothing. The bill isn't a law yet, and it probably will be changed. Even if it isn't the collector of internal revenue will have to figure this all out for you and send you a bill for what you should pay Sept. 15 and Dec. 15, 1943, if anything. Few taxpayers could figure it out for themselves.

Today's War Analysis

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Mussolini the Duce and his stooges are giving a realistic exhibition of condemned men saying farewells after walking their last mile. That really isn't surprising; there can be small doubt that Italy is facing a crisis.

Many ominous signs warrant the Italians in fearing an Allied invasion of their fatherland as Tunisia falls. The Paris radio says a big Allied convoy has sailed from Gibraltar. It's reported to include 20 transports loaded with landing barges and armored vehicles.

Unrest is seething in the Balkans—the territory that Mussolini once vainly considered his "sphere of influence," while Hitler grinned. The Turks are polishing up the buttons on their uniforms—just in case. On the anniversary of Mussolini's creation of his empire in 1936, he has declared to his people:

"The great enterprise is not finished; it is simply interrupted. We will return." So Mussolini and his henchmen are preparing their country for the shock of final defeat. But he won't return to his African empire. Little Haile Selassie has resumed the throne of the Lion of Judah. Other territories have gone by the board. The Allied high command continues to let the Axis do all the talking about invasion plans. The only thing we can say with certainty is that it would be logical for the United Nations to strike a quick blow at least against Sicily and Sardinia in conjunction with the finish of the Tunisian battle.

Such an operation would serve the double purpose of unblocking the shipping route through the Sicilian channel and paving the way for invasion of the Italian mainland. If these two great islands were seized immediately, this also would effectively cut off the escape of any more Axis troops from Tunisia, since they have been making Sicily and Sardinia their first refuges in running the gantlet.

Office Cat... Judge—What brought you here? Prisoner—Two policemen. Prisoner—Drunk, I suppose. Prisoner—Yes, both of them.

CHINA — Japanese command says 7,300 Chinese troops killed, 2,500 prisoners seized in Japanese offensive in Shansi and Honan provinces.

On the Tunisian front, the backbone of Axis defenses was apparently buckling and there was every indication that the long and bitter campaign was entering its final stage.

With Tunis insufficiently fortified to withstand a long siege, it appeared likely that Col. Gen. Jürgen von Arnim would retreat into the rugged hills of the Cap Bon peninsula for a last-ditch stand.

Allied headquarters said Gen. Montgomery's British 8th army made a local attack at the western corner of the Enfidaville line, some 40 miles below Tunis, and reported "considerable artillery and patrol activity" along the line.

In the skies, Allied warplanes carrying out as high as 2,000 sorties in a single day, shot down 20 more Axis planes and sank a total of 11 enemy ships, it was announced.

American troops driving southward from Mateur were reported advancing in the hills only four miles from Tebourba, 18 miles west of Tunis.

(Others mentioned by Vishinski in connection with the espionage charges were first secretaries Arlet and Zalenski of the Polish embassy, and second secretary Gruyau and Glogoski.)

(The Moscow broadcast also quoted Vishinski as reiterating Russian charges that the Polish government in London was "under the influence of pro-Hitlerite elements" and asserting that Polish officials, press and radio are continuing to circulate false reports concerning relations with Russia.)

(Vishinski, the broadcast added, asserted that "allegations that Soviet authorities have hindered or are hindering the departure from the U. S. S. R. of Polish subjects are false.")

(The Russian charges followed by only 24 hours the publication of a letter from Premier Stalin to the Moscow correspondent of the New York Times in which he replied to the correspondent's queries concerning Russia's views on Poland by saying he favored establishment of a strong independent Polish state after the war.)

A Shiny Pair Of Silver Wings Can Mean A Lot Of Flying Things!

"He wears a pair of silver wings, but he's not a pilot. What is he?" That's our $64 question for today. Give up? Well, he could be a navigator, bombardier, an aerial gunner, a member of a flying crew, a tactical observer, an aircraft observer, a flight surgeon, or even a paratrooper.

Out at Pampa Army Air Field, when an officer or an enlisted man struts by, proudly wearing a pair of wings on his chest, the soldiers give him a knowing once-over—and mentally classify him and his aerial rating. How well could you do? Do you know what each wing emblem means? If you don't, the neat back in your easy chair, light up your pipe and continue reading this article.

There are two higher grade versions of the same set of wings worn in the Air Forces, but seldom seen in these parts. They are the wings of a "command pilot" and a "senior pilot". A Command Pilot's wings are the same as an ordinary set of pilot wings, except that they have a five pointed star, surrounded by a wreath, atop the U. S. shield.

Tunisia in Texas

A comparison of Tunisia with Texas shows how small the North African battle area really is. Our biggest state is six times as large as Tunisia in area and nearly three times as big in population. The actual battle area along the Tunisian coast covers only 15,000 square miles.

Portable Pipelines Developed By Army

WASHINGTON, May 7 (AP)—The army has developed portable pipelines to carry gasoline supplies to motorized units in the field, the office of war information said today in a review showing the difference between the petroleum needs of this and the first World War.

OWI said the new pipeline comes in self-contained half-mile units, each complete with a centrifugal pump driven by a 20 horsepower gasoline engine, and can be moved by cargo trucks and used independently of any other units.

Quoting "Army Motors," publication of the motor transport school at the Baltimore Quartermaster Depot, OWI said:

"These self-contained sections, alone or in combination, are said to be able to deliver gasoline through swamps and forests or over mountains at a rate of approximately 200 gallons per minute.

"The pipe also can be used to assist or even replace floating gasoline tanks for ship-to-shore operations."

The OWI said that: A mechanized division burns up 18,000 gallons of gasoline an hour proceeding at normal speed; a heavy bomber at cruising speed uses 200 gallons and a fighter plane needs 100 gallons in an hour.

The amount of petroleum and petroleum products shipped overseas in the first 12 months of this war was more than 80 times that shipped over in the first 12 months of the last war.

In the first year of the last war, the OWI said that:

LABOR

(Continued From Page 1) quits his job. If the employer is unable to furnish the information either workers or employers may get full information from the employment service office. It is especially important said Hood, that all workers learn the facts about the regulations if they plan to seek work in another community or another state, because in many cases it is necessary for workers to establish clearance with their last employers before they can be given work in a new job, either locally or elsewhere.

Under the new stabilization plan, any employer in essential activity may hire any new employee who for the preceding 30 days was not engaged in essential activity. Employers not in essential activity are forbidden to hire any new employee who during the preceding 30 days was engaged in essential activity, if the new wage rate would exceed the rate most recently received by the new employee.

Employers engaged in essential activity may hire workers from other essential employers without regard to wage rate, but only if the worker presents a "statement of availability" from his former employer or from the United States Employment Service of the War Manpower Commission.

Workers in essential activity shall be issued a statement of availability by his employer, or by the United States Employment Service (if the employer refuses to issue it), if the worker is discharged, laid off for an indefinite period, or for seven days or more, or can establish that his present employment does not utilize him at his highest skill, or that he is employed at less than certificates of availability for other reasons than those listed, if they desire to do so. In addition, the United States Employment Service may issue a certificate of availability to a worker when it is established that separation from his present employment would further the war program.

No restriction is placed on the movement of workers from one job not in essential industry to another job that is not essential. The regulations apply to farm workers, as they are essential.

"Essential work" means employment in any of the thirty-six activities listed by the War Manpower Commission as essential to the war effort, and a copy of this list is on file in every United States Employment Service office.

The regulations also make provisions for appeal by either worker or an employer, if either is dissatisfied by the ruling of the United States Employment Service or any case where a "Certificate of Availability" is requested, said Hood.

SERIAL STORY DARK JUNGLES BY JOHN C. FLEMING & LOIS EBY

CAPTURE CHAPTER XXIX "WHAT now?" Allison whispered. "We'll have to figure out some way to keep those boats from sailing! If Renaldo is selling this stuff to the axis that will be one load of vital material they'll never get!"

"Sticking your nose in where it doesn't belong!" he said bitterly. Then he noticed Allison. Whismers showed plainly on his handsome, dark face. "How'd she get here?" "You thought she was safely locked up in the mountain estancia?" Barry said sharply.

Worship where your labor is not in vain. Matt. 15:9.

Next Sunday is Mother's Day. Every man, woman and child should go to church next Sunday. In honor of their mothers. Many people will not have the privilege of seeing mother, but honor can be rendered to her by going to the house of the Lord, and worshipping mother's God, the God of great mothers.

Abraham Lincoln honored his mother. "When he received the message that he had been nominated President of the United States he arose, put on his coat and hat, and said to his friends: "There is a little woman at home who would like to hear this." He spent the evening with his mother.
When Napoleon Bonaparte was asked, "What do you regard as the greatest need of France?" he replied, "Mothers, mothers, mothers."
Many great men have paid tribute to their mothers, John Randolph said in the House of Representatives: "If it had not been for my godly mother, I, John Randolph, would have been an infidel."
Calvary Baptist church, 824 South Barnes street, will honor the mothers in the services of the day, record attendance in Sunday school at 9:45 is looked for. At the 10:50 o'clock service the pastor's subject will be "Mother." Training union service of the church will be at 7 o'clock, evening worship at 8:00.

Calvary church is making this month membership month, urging every member to attend every service of the church throughout the month if possible. We honor and respect our mothers, because we love them, we should go to our church home and worship our great heavenly Father because we love Him.

St. Mathew's Sunday Church Services
Mothers Day will be observed at St. Mathew's Episcopal church by two services. The first of these will be the quiet Communion service at eight o'clock in the morning.

Christian Science Sunday Services
"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 9.
The Golden Text is: "As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive" I Corinthians 15:22.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them" (Genesis 1:27).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Deity was satisfied with His work. How could He be otherwise, since the spiritual creation was the outgrowth, the emanation, of His infinite self-containment and immortal wisdom?"
