ALLIED ARMY WIDENS BRIDGEHEADS IN ITALY

More Troops, Supplies Are Crossed Over

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 4.—British and Canadian forces swiftly enlarged their bridgehead on the toe of Italy today in the face of feeble enemy resistance both on the ground and in the air...

(The United Nations radio at Algiers, quoting a dispatch received at Allied headquarters, said tonight that the invasion forces were successfully extending their gains towards the north and east of Italy's toe...)

(Radio France in Algiers, in a broadcast also heard in London, said Saturday night that the Allied bridgehead had been extended up to a depth of three miles during the preceding 24 hours...)

(The Axis reports indicated that the Allies may have established a beachhead of 45 miles—assuming all the beach from Cape Spartivento to Scilla was held—but there was no confirmation from Allied headquarters...)

(The Associated Press said tonight that the Allies may have established a beachhead of 45 miles—assuming all the beach from Cape Spartivento to Scilla was held—but there was no confirmation from Allied headquarters...)

Marfa Sunday Afternoon, Reach El Paso

Marfa Sunday afternoon, reach El Paso late Sunday, speak at Labor Day exercises Monday, and formally begin his good neighbor tour of the Mexican border states of Chihuahua, Coahuila, Nuevo Leon and Tamaulipas Tuesday morning.

Consul General William Blocker of Juarez, the governor will go by train from Chihuahua City to Torreon.

There he will be the guest Thursday of Mayor Rafael Duarte. At Hacienda Rosario, midway between Torreon and Saltillo, he will be entertained by Federico F. Cardenas.

While President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill have repeatedly made known their desire for a meeting with Premier Stalin, it is understood that the Soviet leader continues to reply that he cannot at this time leave the battle fronts.

Specialists, they are understood to be undisturbed formation, with Soviet approval, of a free Germany committee in Moscow.

The Roosevelt-Churchill view is said to be that the committee represents chiefly an effort to divide the German people from their present Nazi government.

While some in America called this dealing with Fascists, the Soviets are said to feel that in military diplomacy it is all right to deal with the devil or his granddaddy.

Reds Play Down Italian Landing

MOSCOW, Sept. 4.—The first news of the British-Canadian landings in southern Italy was broadcast to the Russian people near the end of the regular 10:30 news report last night.

Harvesters' 1943 Football Schedule Lists Only Seven Contests

Other Tilts Sought By School

A total of only seven games is on the schedule this season for the Harvesters football team, according to a list released by the office of Roy McMillen, business manager of the Pampa Independent School district.

There are four blank spaces on the list, however, and Manager McMillen has been advised by Supt. L. L. Stone to wait before having tickets printed for this season, indicating a possibility that the school may be trying to fill the open dates.

However, Manager McMillen said Saturday, he had no information on what was being done about this. Superintendent Stone could not be contacted as he was out of town.

Of the seven listed games, four are conference tilts, one is with Phillips, and the other two are with Sooner high school teams.

Open dates on the schedule are Sept. 17, Oct. 1, Nov. 5 and Nov. 19. First on the list is Hollis, Okla., on Sept. 24. The game will be played here. Then the Harvesters will journey to Lawton, Okla., for a game against the Oklahoma champions on Oct. 3.

Phillips will come here on Oct. 15. One week later the Harvesters will have their first conference tilt when Brownfield, newcomer to the conference last year, comes to Pampa.

On Oct. 30 the Harvesters play Lubbock at Lubbock; Nov. 12, Plainview at Plainview; then wind up the season on Nov. 25 with a game against Amarillo at Pampa when the Harvesters will seek revenge for the game last year when the Sandies gave a Pampa eleven its worst drubbing in 12 years of conference play.

The old Harvester fight is still present, however, as was shown in comments made by Co-Captains Charlie Boyles and John Paul McKinley, who with Coaches Oth Coffey and Charles O. Criswell were interviewed on a sports review program over Radio Station KPDM Thursday.

While frankly admitting the light weight of this year's Harvester squad, the co-captains commented indicated the Sandies would not have a walk-away when they come to Harvester Field this November.

Cardinals Advance Toward N. L. Flag

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Advancing surely to another National League pennant, the St. Louis Cardinals increased their lead to 14½ games today by defeating the second-place Cincinnati Reds, 2 to 1, in 10 innings.

Joe Beggs, the Red's relief ace, got his first starting assignment since 1940 but he was mastered by Howard Krist, who has been converted from a "fireman" to a regular pitcher for the Cardinals.

Stan Musial, the leading hitter in the major leagues, slammed out four hits in five times at bat, including a game-winning triple.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Next week's football—Yale vs. Muhlenberg and Illinois vs. Camp Grant to name a few early starters. One of the Illinois players is H. Hurricane Mitchell, a 19-year-old freshman halfback who was born during a hurricane. The season won't be all gray for the pros. Pete Cawthon says his Brooklyn Dodger players had so many different kinds of coaching that he had to start from the bottom as if they were a bunch of freshmen.

WHAT, NO MARINE?

(Headline: Army-Navy game assured). From the swamps of Salamaua To the shores of Italy. Our boys will follow football Played at home, across the sea. For the lads who do our fighting In those far-off foreign lands Still love the thump of pigskin And the music of the bands. Though the world is torn with battle Things will ever be the same When they have the cheers and glory Of the Army-Navy game.

QUOTE, UNQUOTE

Joe Louis, (after being floored, accidentally of course, by Sparring Partner George Nicholson in an exhibition at Camp Upton)—"After a hundred days of this, I'll be in great shape—or dead."

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE

The Washington Redskins already have sold out every seat in Griffith Stadium for their six home games and there's no general admission section, either. Vince DiMaggio is the only National League with a chance to bag a homer in every park this season and he'll have to hit one at Chicago this week-end and St. Louis Monday. His only four-bagger at Philly was in the All-Star game.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Lewis Burton, New York Journal-American: "In his efforts to revolutionize baseball, William D. Cox, the boy wonder of Philadelphia, may be taking on too much when he included a feud with the official scorers. That's tackling the Baseball Writers' association, and aside from the U. S. army and navy, Cox couldn't have picked a tougher foe. That is, except the Chinese laundryman."

SERVICE DEPT.

It's Second Lieut. Dewey Fragetta now. The former New York boxing promoter just received his bars at the New Orleans staging area but that doesn't mean he's been staging any fights. Lieut. Harry Wheeler, former Manhattan College football star now adjutant at a marine base in the South Pacific, is known to his buddies by the tale-telling name of "Half-Ton."

Spud Chandler Pitches, Hits Yanks to Win

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Spud Chandler, star right-hander for the Yankees, personally accounted for his 18th victory of the season today, when he pitched a complete game and hit for a 2 to 1 victory over Washington. Chandler's blow backed up his effective six-hit pitching that dropped his earned run average from 1.86 to 1.78, the lowest by an American pitcher in 24 years. He would have had a shutout, but for Roy Weatherly's error in the second inning.

Weatherly dropped Sherrard Robertson's fly. Robertson reached second on a muff, went to third on a hit and scored on scored on Angelo Giulliani's single.

Johnny Niggeling gave the Yanks only four hits, hurling hitless ball for the first five innings. But in the sixth Frankie Crosetti singled, went to second on Chandler's sacrifice fly and scored on a single down the third base line to score Gordon.

RED SOX 2, A's 1

BOSTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Dick Newson won his fourth straight game today when he pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 2 to 1 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics. The Athletics only run scored in the ninth when Bob Estelle hit his tenth home run of the season—a long drive high into the left field screen.

BROWNS 12, TIGERS 5

DETROIT, Sept.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns snapped a string of five straight defeats from the Detroit Tigers today by walloping the Browns, 12 to 5, in a game abbreviated to six innings by the weather. The game was called in the St. Louis half of the seventh.

America Salutes A Home-Front Hero!

Bill Jones is a HOME-FRONT HERO. He doesn't wear gold bars on his shoulders—or stripes on his sleeves. His badge is a little tin thing with his picture on it that he pins on the front of his overall—it admits him to the factory. He doesn't carry a rifle either, this Bill Jones, he carries a lunch pail. He's not much like a hero, you say? You see hundreds like him every day—in fact, you might be him yourself? Just so! You're the fellow we're talking about, THE AMERICAN WORKING MAN or WOMAN.

We know how hard and how long you've been working, plugging for Victory with all your might. There's been little time for rest and recreation for quite a while now. You meet danger every day, even in your routine tasks. So to you, the home-front heroes and heroines, we tender our highest admiration on this Labor Day.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Pre-holiday nervousness enveloped the stock market today and, while moderate firmness was displayed by favored issues, numerous leaders slipped a trifle or did nothing at all.

Slightly mixed tendencies prevailed at the opening and, near the finish, the majority of variations were in minor fractions. Transactions for the two hours were around 150,000 shares.

Among resistant performers were engineers public service which edged to another peak for 1943. Interim support was accorded American Telephone, Western Union, American Express, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber and International Harvester. Laggards included Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Bethlehem, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Sperry and Dow Chemical.

"Bataan" Shows How Expendables Fought

By BROWNWOOD EMERSON

Two pictures rate four-star caliber this week on Pampa screens. Both deal with war, one with America's defenders of the peninsula in the Philippines few of us had ever heard about until the treacherous, slimy Nipponese snake, with fiendish force, slapped us awake from our softness two years ago.

The other has the background of Norway under the Nazi heel. It's no slur on the brave Norse to say that personally I think the movie-makers are overdoing Norway as a locale for war pictures. This is about the third to come to Pampa in which Norway vs. Nazi has been the theme.

The Norse film is "First Comes Courage," a Columbia picture starring Brian Aherne and Merle Oberon. It's the first picture Oberon has made in a year and a half as she has been devoting her time to entertaining American soldiers in England.

Briefly the yarn is this: Oberon has the role of a woman of high birth in a conquered Norwegian town who before the war had been in love with Aherne, now a British commando captain. She pretends to be in love with a Nazi major of the garrison in order to get information via the underground to London.

As you might expect, the Nazis finally learn this but the British learn of the discovery in time and send Commando Aherne to the Norwegian village.

The fade-out is the meeting of the lovers again and their escape from Hitler's madmen during a big Commando raid.

On the LaNora screen Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

There's no sweet romance in a fighting picture of fighting men called "Bataan," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film opening a four-chy run today at the LaNora. It's as full of fight as Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, as tough as a Ragtown or a Red Gulch or Tascosa in its rip-roaringest days.

No swanky uniforms, no parades, no glamor, but blood, death, agony, exhaustion, are all there, just as they still are in the Southwest Pacific where today more Americans are going through similar experiences. Not as tough, though, as at Bataan, for there's enough of them over there now to eliminate the "expendable" angle.

This is a man's picture. There's not a woman in the cast. No air-castle whimsy, the action-jammed yarn tells of the last-man stand of a patrol of 13 men whose job is to blow up a bridge, to hold off the merciless Nipponese cobras as long as possible—and to die, so that you and millions of other Americans like you can continue being Americans.

Yes, this is a picture but the incidents on which it is based are true. Men, Americans, did die at Bataan. Some American soldier died for you—what are you doing today for him?

Although the picture has no connection with the third Victory Loan campaign, which is to start September 9, if you see "Bataan" you'll learn the full import of "they give their lives—you lend your money."

Newcomer Robert Walker, whose performance in "Bataan" won him a new long term M-G-M contract, has one ambition in the picture—and that is to get a Jap. He is seen as one of the 13 gallant Bataan defenders who fought off hordes of invaders. Also anxious to get a couple of Japs are Robert Taylor and Lloyd Nolan, standing, and Thomas Mitchell, primed for action in a kneeling position. Others in the cast include George Murphy, Lee Bowman, Desi Arnaz, Barry Nelson, Phillip Terry and Kenneth Spencer.

Carl Esmond, who has the role of the Nazi major, and Merle Oberon, the Norwegian leader of the underground, are shown here in a scene from "First Comes Courage," showing Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at the LaNora.

Loyalty is the noblest of all virtues and in Samuel Goldwyn's production for RKO Radio, "The Pride of the Yankees," this quality is stressed as it has never been before on the screen.

The yarn is about Lou Gehrig, the "iron man" of the New York Yankees. It tells of his life from the time he was 11 years old, playing baseball on the lots of Amsterdam avenue, up to "Lou Gehrig day," July 4, 1939.

Gehrig was loyal to his family, his friends, his team. He gave everything he had to whatever he

What's ahead? It's comedy and loads of it in M-G-M's "Air Raid Wardens," at the Rex today, tomorrow and Tuesday with Laurel and Hardy in the roles of air raid wardens and seriously intent on doing a job for the government. These congenial-faced comedians prove they can be heroes, if given the opportunity—and they get it in "Air Raid Wardens."

Big pictures of four-star calibre dominate Pampa screens this week.

Throat Cut Fatal To 61-Year-Old Man

The body of Pitkin Elmer Holloway, 61, who died at 4:35 p. m. Friday in a local hospital where he had been taken after being found lying on a bed at home with his throat cut, will be sent to Corsicana tomorrow where funeral services will be held.

Mr. Holloway had been ill for three days. He had been a Dispatcher employe for the past year but had not been working lately due to illness, and had informed his family that he felt like he was going to have a stroke.

Mrs. Holloway, his wife, was out of their house, Orange Court 1, 400-1 S. Starkweather, for 15 minutes Friday afternoon. When she returned at 4:15 p. m. she found her husband lying on a bed bleeding from a throat cut, according to Police Chief Ray Dudley, who with Patrolman Richard Steddard, followed the ambulance that was summoned by R. F. McCallip, owner of the courts, to her house.

Mr. Holloway is survived by the widow, and two brothers, B. F. of Plainview and Price of Corsicana, and by a sister, Mrs. Joe Magness, also of Corsicana.

The deceased was a native Texan, born at Corsicana, February 11, 1882.

California Land To Be Homesteaded

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 4.—(AP)—More than 300,000 acres of government land east of Imperial Valley will be thrown open for homesteading after the war, with veterans getting the first chance at it.

Paul Witmer, registrar of the U. S. land office here, said the land formerly was useless because of lack of water, but now access to the All-American canal has made it valuable.

The territory lies directly east of Imperial Valley and extends 25 miles along the international border and about 40 miles northwest. It is a few miles east of Holtville, Calif., and extends to the sand hills of Yuma, Ariz.

Naval Attack On Sicily Greatest

DONCASTER, England, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The Allied naval bombardment of Sicily during that campaign probably was the most concentrated attack on land targets by warships in history, A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, said today in an address.

The royal navy sometimes approached within 500 yards of the enemy coast to "pinpoint their targets," he said.

Real 'Second' Front Soon

Now that we're in Italy, it seems safe to predict that the real second European land front will be established soon, not because of the pressing vocal demands of Moscow and of Communist fellow-traveler elements here, but because sound military considerations now make a second land front feasible.

Perhaps it will not be accurate to speak of Italy as a "second front." If laymen may be permitted to speculate, conceding in advance that they are merely drawing what seem like logical inferences, it is not one new land front that we should expect, but two or three or perhaps even more.

There seems little question that the tremendous hammering of the Rhinehead is a softening-up process aimed at some specific development in the rather near future. What could this be except an invasion by way of the French coast, the Low Countries, Scandinavia, or some combination of these routes?

Simultaneously, we should fear that equally strong Allied forces would turn northward toward Rome, after drawing a cutoff line east and west across the peninsula and cleaning up some useful airports in south central Italy.

Of course, President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill did say that they were discussing the Far Eastern situation in Quebec. But they did not say that they did not discuss Europe also. And, moreover, reason says that plans for the next act were laid months ago—and that overt developments resulting from Quebec will constitute a later chapter in the tragedy that the Axis faces.

Again, this is all speculation. It doesn't mean a thing. But it is fun to speculate, isn't it?

The Nation's Press

OPA—JUDGE, JURY, HANGMAN (Wellboro (Pa.) Gazette) The close attention which Williamsport OPA inspectors have been giving Tioga county in the "pleasure driving" ban enforcement, despite the county's small population compared with the other counties of the district, is reported to be due to the fact that the Williamsport OPA office believes this county to be the "worst" in the district in violating the ban.

This week representatives of the OPA office held their own hearings here in the absence of the chairman of the rationing board's gasoline panel. If Tioga county is considered the "worst" in the eyes of the OPA, we believe Tioga Countians have a right to ask several questions.

Why, after OPA inspectors have been spending every weekend in the county, with hotel expense accounts of $5 a day each, at the taxpayers' expense, could they bring—even with the help of state and local police—only 13 cases to a hearing?

Why, with the OPA itself conducting the hearings, were they forced to exonerate six of those 13 cases?

Why, if Tioga county motorists are so "bad," did they have to impose penalties in the cases of trifling violations?

Why did they have to revoke a man's gasoline ration for more than four months when he had done nothing more, in the words of the official report, than this: "He drove about two blocks out of his way?"

Why was an almost identical case which came before the same hearing dismissed?

Why was a penalty imposed on a car owner who testified his car was taken without his knowledge or consent, when a case with almost identical circumstances was dismissed a short time ago? In the present case the owner was told he can have his ration back if he can find out who had the car and prove he had a right to have it out. In the name of common sense, if the driver had it out without his owner's consent, how can the latter prove he had a right to have it?

Why, after OPA inspectors drive hundreds of miles back and forth from Williamsport, did they penalize a woman who drove a fraction of a mile out of her way by entering the Mansfield fair grounds instead of parking outside and walking in? As long as America remains a democracy the taxpayers, who support the OPA have a right to ask these questions. And what's more, they have a right to have them answered.

TRUTH IS BEST DEFENSE

(The News and Courier, Charleston, S. C.) In his editorial article, printed in hundreds of newspapers August 7, Mr. Westbrook Pegler tells of six or seven merchant seamen who have acted disgracefully, disloyally, in some instances criminally. He prints details. The tales that he tells may not be true. If they are not true hundreds of financially responsible newspapers in which they appeared will be sued for damages. Mr. Pegler also will be sued. Verdicts will be rendered that will not only put Mr. Pegler out of business and bankrupt him but will silence the newspapers that buy his editorials. Indeed, Mr. Pegler has written day after day throughout years articles about a number of the nationally important "labor" leaders, which, if false, would entitle them to judgments for damages aggregating at least ten or twenty million dollars. The organized unions have ample resources in money wherewith to institute and press suits for damages against Mr. Pegler and the newspapers publishing his articles. They could hire lawyers. They do hire lawyers. No one, however denounced by Mr. Pegler, sues him. What do you infer from that? (The truth is always good defense in suits for damages when the plaintiff alleges that he has suffered in reputation.)

EDITOR METHODIST MAGAZINE CONFESSES HIS BELIEF IN PLANNED ECONOMY

Roy L. Smith, editor of the Christian Advocate, in the August 19th issue begins the first editorial with this statement:

"As one who has long believed in the basic philosophy of a planned economy, in which economic benefits and opportunities are to be democratically distributed, this writer looks forward to the postwar world with grave apprehension."

It is hard to conceive how any man who really understands or believes in Christianity can believe in the men holding office in the state having the right to plan the economic lives of the individual. As one great student of Jesus remarked, Jesus spent no time in the ante rooms of Caesar trying to get Caesar or the state to plan the lives of individuals, as Roy L. Smith advocates. Roy Smith, in the article, begins to see that the citizens are becoming dissatisfied with government planning. Well they might be, as there can be no planning without regimentation and without taking away from the individual his right of conscience and his right to learn by making mistakes.

Smith's Idea of Laissez Faire In the same article, Roy Smith shows how little he understands our government or laissez faire. Listen to this from Roy Smith:

"We saw very plainly what the policy of laissez faire will produce, in the experience of the nation between 1920 and 1938."

It is hard to conceive how Roy Smith can actually believe that during that period we had a laissez faire government—a government that let the citizens alone in their efforts to produce and distribute wealth. The citizens were not let alone. They were interfered with by such laws as the Clayton Amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust law, the income tax law, the federal banking laws, the tariff laws and all labor laws.

And, yet, Roy Smith implies that we had laissez faire and it failed. It would be just as logical and just as fair to say that we tried Christianity during that period and it failed. The only reason that Christianity has not produced results is that it has never been tried, just as laissez faire has never been tried. Both Christianity and laissez faire respect the rights of each and every individual. They regard the hairs on the heads of every individual being numbered. They regard each and every individual as being owner of himself and all that he produces.

And yet Roy Smith wants government planning on the pretense that laissez faire—a government that did not interfere with the initiative of individuals—has been tried and failed.

Here is another statement made by Smith that shows either his stupidity or his dishonesty:

"It is easy to see a widespread revolt against all regulation of competition, financial buccaneering, industrial brigandage, and political piracy, to follow the war."

There certainly is no revolt against any law that would prevent any business man or any corporation from stopping financial buccaneering or industrial brigandage. I presume he means by "financial buccaneering and industrial brigandage," getting wealth under false pretenses—plain robbery. There is no man who believes in laissez faire who objects to any law penalizing robbery, as Roy Smith would imply. He seems to like to use words that make him appear to be more of a defender of the poor than people are who give them better jobs and sell for less. How can there be anything Christian in such language?

Roy Smith would not make such statements if he were not protected by a church or some other organization. If he were in a competitive world, where his desires to have dominion over the lives of others could be pointed out to the same audience to which he speaks, he would never make such foolish statements. His unChristian acts would be pointed out to the same audience and his stupidity would embarrass him.

There is nothing that does a man more harm than having an audience that cannot be reached by his critics. There is nothing that stultifies and goes to a man's head more than to be in a position to talk to people and not permit the statements to be criticized. Light is the greatest educator.

The columns of this paper, of course, are open for Roy Smith or any defender of Roy Smith who will answer questions to give any evidence that laissez faire has ever been tried and failed in this country, as Roy Smith claims.

PIECE WORK ONLY THE COMPETITIVE SYSTEM

Every labor union that tries to do away with piece work as the printer's union and most of the A. F. of L. unions are advocating wage practices that will eventually destroy the competitive system—the American way of life, if they are generally adopted.

Piece work is nothing but an attempt to have each man get all that he produces—no more, no less. It is an attempt to permit all people, not just part of the people, to help establish values. It is an attempt to respect the inherent rights of all people, as the Declaration of Independence attempted to do.

Yes, a free market, piece work, the competitive system—the American way of life, are all the same approach to justice.

FUELING ARMY AIRPLANES

(Akron Beacon-Journal)

It is considered all right for the newspapers to report individual accidents to service airplanes, but the war department discourages "roundups" of these accidents. It doesn't want us to add up the number of crashes or casualties.

Still, the public must have noted that a great many planes are cracking up in this country, all too frequently with fatal results to the occupants. Whether the system of gassing up army planes at air fields has anything to do with any of these accidents, we do not know. But we should like to know, and we think the country is entitled to know.

What suggests these remarks is a dispatch by Thomas L. Stokes revealing that a congressional committee has been investigating the firm that supplies fueling systems to army air fields. He says this company's equipment, wherein water pressure is used to force gasoline into airplane tanks, has been found "inadequate" by the United States bureau of standards; but that the company continues to get the army's business, while competitors with better devices get the cold shoulder. This whole business deserves thorough inquiry not only by congress but by the war department.

The National Whirligig News Behind The News

By ALBERT LEMAN

DRAFT—Reports of alarming regional inadequacies in manpower, endangering our plane production schedules, are likely to spur Congress to consideration of a National Service Act when it reconvenes on September 14. But an inside tip is that the Administration will not seek a labor draft yet—at least until all means for corraling volunteers are exhausted.

Even then Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the WMC will continue to oppose the Austin-Wadsworth Bill, which many Republicans and anti-New Dealers champion as the panacea for employment agency headaches. The former Indiana governor, who has proved to be one of Washington's competent executives since he crushed the Presidential bee buzzing in his bonnet, is expected to present his own legislative blueprint which would work conscription ultimately necessary.

Some time ago he called in representatives of management and labor and told them to write an effective bill on which they could both agree. A rough sketch of it is tucked in a McNutt pigeonhole for future offering. It contains drastic provisions for drafting women too.

SENSITIVE—Politicians and businessmen talk about passing a law to compel toilers to take war jobs, but it isn't a simple procedure. Selectees are forced to don Army and Navy uniforms but they are protected by tradition and clearly specified rights and equalities. There is no precedent for projecting all other civilians into overalls for universal service. Arbitrarily to straight-jacket them without careful attention to safeguards would cause many severe personal hardships and arouse nation-wide resentment.

So the White House, always keenly sensitive to public reaction, in all probability will not seek such power until convinced of its absolute necessity.

MANPOWER—Further expedients may be tried by Chairman McNutt before he asks for the Big Stick. Today the worst shortages are localized. We are paying the piper for not scattering our industrial empire. Many of our Victory plants are bunched together in a few sections often remote from the labor market.

It was essential to install shipyards on the West Coast but it was unwise to concentrate centers for aircraft frames in the same neighborhood. Together, they quickly drained the labor pool and created congested living conditions. A comprehensive survey shows that four out of five wage earners left one Kaiser yard because of poor housing facilities. Aluminum factories to Cairo? Well then you haven't got any right to wear ribbons on your chest."

The sailor was no match for him, either in back talk or a contest with the bottle. Just north of Philadelphia he passed out cold, leaving the merchant seaman to a monologue.

Peter Edson's Column: PEN PORTRAIT OF A HERO, ROUGH AND TOUGH

By PETER EDSON El day coach to Washington: Every seat was taken, of course, and a few people were standing in aisles, all the way from New York. A very young sailor in whites with service ribbon and stars showing he had been in action along the coast, the Atlantic and in African waters, leaned over the back of his seat, arguing with a man in khaki shirt and slacks who wasn't a soldier, for he wore no insignia, but it didn't take long to find out what he was.

"I'm in the merchant marine!" he boasted in a husky voice that could be heard all over the car or above a 40-knot gale. Both of them had pints, about half gone, and so were they. Everyone in the car was trying to ignore them or pay them no attention, but it was hard work. All around were young soldiers, clean-cut kids, behaving themselves refusing the bottle which the sailor and the seaman tried to force upon them.

"I don't drink," said a corporal who sat down beside the sailor. "Besides you better save that stuff. It's going to be rationed."

The sailor was pretty vile mouthed and abusive, but nobody bothered. The merchant seaman was just loud.

"Have you been in the Red Sea?" the merchantman demanded. "The sailor was evasive. "Well, if you haven't been in the Red Sea, you haven't got any right to wear medals. Where did you get those medals, anyway? I haven't got any medals and I've been in the Red Sea and up to Cairo. Have you been

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

There was bound to be a sequel to the box-office surprise, "Hitler's Children" and "Hitler's Women" is it. Every studio in town tried to register the title, but an independent producer, Herman Millakowsky, a fugitive from the Nazis, won out. Beat Walter Wanger by only two hours. And just in case there is no longer a Mr. Hitler by the time the film is released this fall, Millakowsky has an alternate title, "Women in Bondage."

The women of the piece are Gail Patrick, Nancy Kelly, one of the greatest young actresses in Hollywood, Gertrude Michael, Maris Wrixon and Ann Nagel. And for once, the villains are not square-jawed, bone-cracking Cestano agents or officers. The Nazi villain is a woman, a Nazi party leader played by Miss Michael.

Also on the credit side, the Nazi males are pictured not as supermen, but as beaten soldiers, tired of war after two winters on the Russian front.

Like "Hitler's Children," the story revolves around the German master race theme. And is even more daring.

TYPICAL THEME

Nancy Kelly is refused permission to marry her sweetheart, a Nazi officer, because she does not measure up to the physical requirements of the government. When steps are taken to sterilize her, she flees, is captured by S. S. men and then killed when she attempts another escape.

The Nazis try to force motherhood on Gail Patrick in a romance with her brother-in-law when her husband returns home from the Russian front critically wounded. The husband, despondent, commits suicide and before the Nazis are able to arrest her, she uncovers a skylight, guiding American planes on a bombing expedition. She dies as the bombs shatter her home.

We watched Miss Patrick on the set yesterday and it was very realistic indeed. She said she enjoyed this heroic dying business immensely because she is always the gal who slips poison into her husband's coffee, or breaks up somebody's beautiful romance on the screen. This is her first really sympathetic role, and she's happy for the chance to prove to Hollywood that she can be a good girl.

We also talked to Herman Millakowsky, the producer of the picture, who can always film his own experiences if he ever runs out of ideas. Millakowsky was a film producer in Budapest and Berlin who fled to Paris the day Hitler came into power. He fled again, with his wife and two daughters, three days before the Nazis marched into Paris. In Casablanca, the family finally received passage on a boat to New York.

FIRST FILM

"Hitler's Women" is Millakowsky's first American picture. In Europe, he was associated with such stars as Simon, Erich von Stroheim, Jean Gabin and Pola Negri. Millakowsky thinks the public will like "Hitler's Women" because "we are not fictionalizing. We are telling the truth." Another fugitive from the Nazis, Hungarian born Steve Sekely, is directing the picture.

"Hitler's Women" is giving Gertrude Michael a new lease on life. A few years back she was one of Paramount's top stars. Then she had difficulty finding roles. Now she's back as beautiful as ever, and more serious than ever about her career.

Today's War Analysis

By DeWITT MACKENZIE Associated Press Writer

This column Friday suggested that you and I, as long-distance watchers of the conquest of Italy, keep our eye on the unfolding of this drama and the other coked in the direction of possible invasion points elsewhere—and that seems to be worth repeating today.

Just prior to the assault on Italy, Herr Hitler's radio mouthpieces were feverishly predicting that a double-barreled Allied invasion of the continent was imminent. They thought the attempt might come in the Mediterranean theater and from across the English Channel into France. As the signs read, it looked as though the Nazis might have got hold of at least a partial truth.

Of course, we don't need the Germans to tell us that there's going to be an invasion of Western Europe. We've had that many times not of the griddle from the Allied high command. What the high command hasn't told us is when this invasion is to take place—and that's one of the paramount issues of the moment from the standpoint of both Allies and Axis.

The Hitlerites say the western Allies have assembled a great flotilla of transport and landing craft in the Mediterranean. Spain reports the presence of a large fleet of warships and merchantmen at the great British base of Gibraltar. The Nazi controlled Paris radio asserts that another amphibious force is assembling in Britain and that an Anglo-American armada will carry the invasion of France.

Berlin has pointed to the valley of the Rhone in Southern France as one likely invasion place, and has asserted that there are 300,000 French troops in Oran. Well, we long have known that there are many well equipped Frenchmen in North Africa, eager to meet the Nazis on French soil once more, and if there is an invasion of Southern France we may expect them to be part of it.

What are the invasion possibilities? So far as concerns the Mediterranean zone, there obviously may be landings at fresh points in Italy. As this column has said before, action might be taken against the big islands of Sicily, Corsica and Crete. An invasion of Southern France is among contingencies, and a thrust into the Balkans has been considered.

As for the invasion of Western France, which Moscow almost daily calls for, this will take place when the time is ripe. However, the Allied high command recently has said that it won't be rushed into this dangerous operation.

Paper Sack Bandit Dies in Chair

HUNTSVILLE, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Rex Beard, the West Texas paper sack bandit, died in the penitentiary electric chair Friday.

The death penalty had been imposed by a jury which convicted him of the pistol-slaying of deputy sheriff Charles W. Willis of Taylor county. Willis was shot to death when Beard attempted to break from the county jail at Abilene.

Beard was called the paper sack bandit because the state claimed he concealed his pistol in a bag in the course of at least two armed robberies in West Texas.

French May Get Normandie Back

LONDON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Rene Mayer, commissioner of communications and merchant marine of the French committee of national liberation, has hinted that the former liner Normandie may be returned to the French flag.

At the present time, he said, united France has 1,000,000 tons of merchant shipping serving the Allied war effort. He said the British and Americans would be asked to help rebuild the French merchant marine.

Your Health In Wartime

By DR. THOMAS D. MASTERS Written for The News

The great enthusiasm for products of victory gardens may be the source of considerable abdominal distress. The temptation to partake too freely of fresh vegetables is great, when they are just out of the garden, abundant, and cheap.

In addition to the nutritive elements, however, they contain indigestible cellulose or vegetable fiber and certain chemical stimulants to the bowel. In some who overload the intestinal tract with bulky fruits and vegetables, diarrhea may be the result. With others, the injudicious use of such foods may increase intestinal spasm to a degree as to produce constipation.

NORMAL FUNCTIONS

The colon is a muscular tube one-and-a-half to two-and-a-half inches in diameter, and about four-and-one-half feet long. It begins on the right side in the lower abdomen, and follows the course of a capital "M," ending at the rectum.

The right portion of the colon receives the fluid products of digestion from the small intestine. It absorbs the water and remaining nutritious matter, and passes on the semi-solid residue to the left side of the colon by muscular contractions.

The muscular contraction waves normally proceed without one's consciousness. They are effected by various stimuli, chief of which are factors that distend the colon, such as bulky cellulose fiber, and chemical irritants, such as laxatives or the natural, unconcentrated sources of many laxatives—fruits and vegetables.

When the intestinal tract is over-stimulated by the bulky cellulose residue or fruits and vegetables, or by the chemical irritants to the bowel that many of these foods contain, the peristaltic contraction waves may be increased. When the increase is sufficient to produce frequent loose evacuations, the condition is known as diarrhea.

ABNORMAL MOVEMENTS

When such stimulation of the colon is long-continued, when laxatives are used habitually, or among those who are subject to overwork, worry, and other influences of a mental nature, the musculature of the colon becomes firmly contracted, and the disturbed peristaltic waves are then ineffective in moving the contents of the bowel onward. This condition is known as spastic constipation.

A coarse, bulky, stimulating diet will aggravate the irritability of such a colon. With this condition, there is usually a sense of fullness after meals, eructation of gas, and the gurgling of gas and fluid in the abdomen. Spastic constipation must be differentiated from constipation due to insufficient stimulation of the colon, because although the result is similar, the cause and cure are entirely different.

Overstimulation of the bowel with bulky fruits and vegetables is easily recognized and promptly corrected by temporarily eliminating such foods from the diet. Spastic constipation is aggravated by the use of laxatives, and corrected by the diet. The irritation and burden to which the bowel has been subjected. A non-stimulating, low-residue diet corrects the condition.

Legion Pledges Bond Purchases

DALLAS, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Sam D. Forman, Jr., Texas state department commander of the American Legion, today pledged Legionnaires and auxiliaries to sell 42 million dollars in extra War Bonds to Texans during the third war loan drive in September.

Representatives from each of the state's five Legion divisions were named on a War Bond and stamps executive committee: Clarence E. Wolfe, Dallas, chairman; Sam Weiss, Paris; Herman G. Nami, San Antonio; Chas. D. Bennett, Westaco; Wade Cooper, Lubbock.

"The war's fine for these kids—they'll get used to street cars and buses and maybe they won't want an automobile when they're 12 years old!"

ALLIES

(Continued from Page 1) man reinforcements and supplies have been pouring into northern Italy over the Brenner Pass rail line, which was severed two days ago by heavy flying Fortress raids on Trento, Bolzano and Bologna.

A movement of any great number of troops or large quantities of war materials farther south, however, particularly beyond Naples, would appear to be an almost impossible task for the Nazis in the present state of their air force.

They might attempt it, though, Capt. Seriorious declared in his Nazi broadcast today that Italy would become "Europe's battlefield" if it became evident that the main Allied invasion effort was directed there.

An official Allied report, meantime, said that "sortie after sortie" of planes ranged over lower Italy from dawn to dusk and returned to report on targets for their guns or bombs. Of the few enemy planes sighted, five were destroyed and one Allied ship was missing.

American Liberators from the Middle East bombed the railroad yards at Sulmona, 75 miles east of Rome, by daylight yesterday. They ran into stiff opposition and shot down 27 enemy ships while themselves losing six planes.

RAF Wellingtons followed up last night with flare raids on enemy airfields at Capua and Capodichiono in the Naples area, setting fire to several hangars.

Ross Munro, another Canadian Press observer who landed in Italy with the initial assault, reported in a dispatch yesterday that he had not yet seen a single German, though he had seen numerous Italian prisoners.

French underground committee of national liberation, keying its moves with the advance of the Allies onto the European mainland, has ordered the underground committee of resistance inside France to step up its organizing and sabotage activities in preparation for the day when Allied forces land in France.

The underground committee is led by a young, fish and blood president who the Germans by now know is far from being a myth. He remains anonymous except to his close collaborators in France and the liberation committee here under Generals De Gaulle and Giraud.

A De Gaulle aide here said that the resistance committee has an "army" in France, with rifles, machineguns, mortars and some artillery.

Amarillo Gets Polio Expert

HOUSTON, Sept. 4.—(P)—Following a brief lull, infantile paralysis cases again are on the upswing, especially in Northwest Texas, Mrs. George H. Pittman of Dallas, Texas representative of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, said today.

The number of cases has declined slightly in the north central portion of the state, she said, and in the Houston area and in Northeast Texas a few new cases have been reported.

In response to a plea for assistance, a technician from the national foundation has been sent to Amarillo, she said.

BOMBS

(Continued from Page 1) The Lancasters last night not only had to dogfight through Nazi interceptors which, the Stockholm Aftonbladet said, met them as far as 100 miles from the capital, but also had to brave fairly heavy anti-aircraft fire over the target.

In the two previous heavy assaults, the Germans had held down ground fire trying to turn back the raiders with searchlights and fighters.

A German broadcast declared the "entire area of Berlin was surrounded by a dense screen of the heaviest anti-aircraft batteries."

The German communique acknowledged civilian casualties, and considerable damage in some districts of the town, and reported 27 raiders destroyed.

Swedish correspondents in Berlin said the RAF struck the heart of Berlin, and that government buildings, mainly clustered around the famous Wilhelmstrasse, had been hit.

Anti-aircraft barrages were thrown against waves of foreign planes crossing the southern Swedish coast and one bomber crashed, killing the crew.

The armada hitting Berlin was smaller than those in the two previous raids, but they left Berlin well afire, and one bombardier reported a column of smoke rising 2,000 feet.

Youth Is Held On Forgery Charge

A 16-year-old Mexican boy, arrested by Pampa police on a charge of forgery in connection with the passing of a bogus check for $25 to Bob Clements, 108 1/2 W. Foster, has entered a plea of guilty and is to appear before the county judge on Sept. 6, Paul D. Hill, county juvenile officer said yesterday.

The boy passed the check late Thursday afternoon and was arrested by Pampa police at 9:30 that night, Police Chief Ray Dudley said.

A year ago police had arrested the youth on an intoxication charge. He had previously served a term in the Okla. Reformatory at Granite, Okla., Chief Dudley said.

Wilson S. Barnett Dies Friday Evening Funeral services for Wilson S. Barnett, 62, owner of the Barnett hotel, 425 S. Russell, who died at 6:30 p. m. Friday, will be conducted at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the First Baptist church by the Rev. E. Douglas Carver, pastor. Burial will be in Fairview cemetery.

He is survived by his widow, and by one daughter, Frances Washburn, Centralia, Ill. Mr. Barnett had resided in Pampa for 17 years. He was a native of Arkansas, born in that state May 9, 1881.

100 Blocks of Alleys Are Cleaned Up Here More than 100 blocks of alleys have been cleaned up in Pampa by German prisoners working under contract between the city and the war department. The work started on Aug. 31 and is to continue for 20 days under the agreement, which is subject to cancellation by the city, at its option, on one-day's notice.

The prisoners are brought to Pampa from the McLean camp, City Manager W. C. deCordova said, in a truck formerly used in hauling works projects administration laborers. An armored car, in which four guards ride, accompanies the Nazis to and from the camp. Rubbish so that it may easily be chopped weeds and taking up collected is the type of work done by the prisoners.

Discrimination Is Charged Railroads

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(P)—Charges that 23 railroads and 14 rail labor unions have discriminated against negro and Mexican workers will be studied at hearings in Washington Sept. 15-18.

The president's committee on fair employment practice, which will conduct the hearings, said today one of the chief matters to be taken up will be the reported practice of considering negro railroad workers "non-promotables."

This is alleged to have been done, FEPC declared, through negotiation of agreements between unions and railroads which set certain restrictions on the percentage of negroes which may be employed in a stipulated category.

Railroads listed included: Missouri-Kansas-Texas.

Garnet (Don't Quote Me) Reeves stuttered and stammered like a jammed machine gun that has just been fixed but still isn't clear when he tried to tell the society editor of this newspaper about a wedding.
A description of what the bride wore, the flowers, and all the rest of the trimmings of the I-do hurried through him in a 50-yard dash.
All of which brings to mind gripes from male contenders: "Man, poor creature, is so unimportant in wedding stories that he's lucky if he rates a foot-note in 6-point."
"Just to give men an even break, why don't wedding stories contain some notice of the bridegroom? For example, why not describe the suit he wore, and the lone flower he managed to buy for his lapel after being nicked plenty for the bride's corsage, the preacher's fee, license, and all the rest that mount up faster than alphabet agencies and OPA regulations?"
Wouldn't it give Jim Jones a thrill, to read about himself for a change.
Well—maybe, but perhaps that style of writing will come with the time of radar—not now!

Mrs. Don Conley can be seen occasionally doing her down town shopping, and always has very attractive clothes . . . especially her hats . . . Mrs. Ernest Aray is still hanging on to her suntan . . . Draw up a chair and take a gander at the fashions of the world tomorrow, what with trans-Atlantic air shuttles and trans-city helicopter taxis, we, Mr. and Mrs. George Public, will not have to contend with the hustle and bustle of the city, but remain at home on the range and still have a grandstand seat at a world-wide style parade, flashed to us in our own living room by television. Our buyers down in our own little dress stores can see what's in the way of fashion, send out the order and have them in a couple of weeks. . . Sort of "shopping in your living room idea"—more or less—And the important thing is that it is not another fantastic post-war dream. A committee representing business and industry is already hard at work on the concrete plans, appointed by no less a personage than Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York.

A woman's page writer declares there's only on thing to be said about a man who stays out late at night. But wifey knows 2000 ways to say it.
A columnist says the modern girl is on her toes. She has to be kept ahead of the heels.
Mrs. Lillian McNutt is having Christmas 3 months ahead of time. This week she is having herself some fun with the box that her husband sent her from the South Pacific area, which includes a bit of everything, she says, and several pieces of foreign money.

Jitterbugging has taken a nose dive—maybe just temporarily, but right now it's old stuff, even though you couldn't tell by looking in on one of the dances given at the PAAF rec. hall . . . or at the street dance the other night either—but masters of America's dancing schools say that it is old stuff—
So, if you are going to swing that gal, Private Jones, you'd better be romantic about it.
The new dance?? It's called "The Furlough"—and it's in the race for "the dance of the year."
This is a slow-moving romantic fox-trot reminiscent of the whirrs and twirls of the Merry Widow Waltz.
Since the highest peak of dance activity always comes in wartime, it is usually the slow, romantic type of dance that appeals. One of the reasons is that most of the people are expending their energies in the war effort.
Girls like mixed dances, too. Even though the M. C. at some of the dances gets all sorts of "Boooooos" yelled at him whenever he instigates a "Paul Jones" at the dances. Never could figure out why the fellows wouldn't like mixed dances as much as the girls. . . . But to get back to the original idea, "The Jeep," a chugging, change-partners type of dance, similar to the "Paul Jones," is also very popular this year. . . . Does anyone around Pampa know the dance?

Harriet Peeples, the little five footer that writes the column "Prop Wash," is about the cutest little trick we've seen around in many a day. . . . Too bad you readers have to read her columns instead of having Harriet read it to you, because believe me Honey Chile—she's from way down yonder in At-lan-ja Gaw-gia, and her drawl is as thick and sweet as honey!
Everytime Harriet comes around she is always looking as we Texans always suppose that real Southern girls look, because she wears gay print things, her hair in a neat looking up-sweep, and a big red or yellow flower right smack dab on top. . . . And above all she has the traditional peaches and cream complexion too.

Tomorrow being Labor Day should be a welcome date to guys and gals that are keeping pretty busy these days in working for yourselves and for Uncle Sam. . . . Even over the week end there will be lots of short vacations taken here and yon over the country. . . . But to sleep late! THAT is better than any vacation! Of course, dude ranching sounds fun for the summer months, after we have put our efforts into war work, and finally have won.
By dude ranching I don't mean the resort variety in the East. . . . It's the West that has the real thing. Inasmuch as I have already gone this far to tell you about Dude ranching, I (with the permission of Browne Emerson, the fellow next to me who is forever looking his horn about Texas, "the one and only state in the Union") mention that Wyoming (the state north of Texas) is the haven for riders and wranglers. . . . The atmosphere is strictly western, and about one a week at the Dude ranches there is a wiener roast, or hay ride, and in the spring and fall are the seasons for all-day pack trips on horseback. . . . Ah, yes. . . . Governor Nels Smith wasn't just kidding when he sent a wire last year to Top O Texas Fiesta, day visitors and issued the invitation: "Come To Wonderful Wyoming!"

Educate and inform the mass of the people—enable them to see that it is their interest to preserve peace and order and they will preserve them. Enlighten the people generally and tyranny and oppression of the body and mind will vanish like evil spirits at the dawn of day.

Miss Joan Chambers Becomes Bride Of Ensign Jack Osborne

In a double ring ceremony read at 10 a. m. August 26, Miss Joan Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Chambers, of Canadian, became the bride of Ensign Jack H. Osborne, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Osborne, of Miami.
The ceremony was read in the home of the bride, with Rev. Willet officiating.
Miss Peggy O'Neal gave piano music including "Because," and Lohengrin's "Wedding March." Hubert Hext sang "I Love You Truly."
The couple stood before an improvised altar which was decorated with lilies and white gladioli. In the background were cathedral tapers. Candlelighters were Frances Gwin Chambers, sister of the bride, and Stanley Jones, nephew of the bride. The ring bearer was Richard Waterfield who knelt on a white satin anchor shaped pillow.
The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a white satin gown and fingertip illusion veil. For something old she wore a necklace which is 100 years old and belongs to Mrs. Frank McFordie, Canadian, cousin of the bride. She carried a wedding bouquet of roses, white gladioli and stephanotis.
The bride's mother wore a black dress and a corsage of crypidiums. The bridegroom's mother wore a black dress and also a crypidium corsage.
Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held in the Chambers home. The serving table was centered with the three tiered white wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. A flower arrangement of pink roses and candles was placed on either side of the cake.
Wedding guests were served cake by Miss Mary Lee Teepe, and punch by Miss Jerry Ponder. Mrs. Jack King, Mrs. Wallace Locke, and Mrs. Jimmy Woodward assisted with the refreshments.
Ensign and Mrs. Osborne left after the reception for a wedding trip to California. The bride traveled in an aqua blue suit with black accessories. She wore a corsage of orchids.
Mrs. Osborne is a graduate of Canadian High school and also of Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., where she was active in various social organizations.
Ensign Osborne is a graduate of Miami High school and attended Texas A. & M. college for two years. He is now in the Naval Air Corps, and received his wings at Corpus Christi.
The couple will be at home in San Diego, California.

GLAMOR SHINES 'ABOVE BOARD'

LEFT: Big crepe loops cascade in jabot effect down the front of this crepe blouse by Nettie Rosensteel. They are arranged so that the blouse may be worn with V-neck, if desired.
RIGHT: A scintillating sparkler is this blouse, also Nettie Rosensteel's, of brown wool jersey solidly encrusted with bronze bugle beads. The scarf and gloves worn with it are "crushed raspberry" in shade.

Eastern Star Has Mock Initiation

A mock initiation using a ritual written in 1876 was exemplified by members of the Order of Eastern Star, Friday night, when the order held their regular meeting in the Masonic hall, with Ruth Casey, worthy matron in charge.
Approximately 50 members and guests attended.
Refreshments of home-made cake and sherbet was served.

Prop Wash

By HARRIET PEEPLES
The Wilco club really gave a good time last night in honor of Cadet Class 43-1. The Post-ochestra furnished the music. (No adjectives need be used to describe their music because they know how much we enjoy hearing them play!)
As we entered the hall, we were greeted by one of the hostesses and given a dance program. At intermission Capt. Frederichs introduced each member of the club; the president, Lorraine Breedlove, followed by the other members. Capt. Frederichs thanked the girls for the fine work they had done in making this such a successful dance and in soliciting the advertising from local Pampa merchants for the programs. One of the prime advertisements was one which read:
For demerits and Tours See your TACTICAL OFFICER (T I M Marches On) TACTICAL DEPARTMENT, Aviation Cadet Detachment. All the cadets then serenaded the Wilco club with a lusty rendition of the Air Corps song. The dance was strictly informal, but the boys stoutly maintained that they were attired for our benefit in their G. I. summer formal uniforms.
The orchestra announced that one number would be specially dedicated to Mrs. Les Porter, who was celebrating her 16th birthday and her 5th wedding anniversary! One of the highlights of the evening was some honest-to-goodness jitterbugging by little Mary Shelley. Every time a fast piece started, we looked for Mary who is about the best we have ever seen. During the evening free sandwiches, cokes, and beer were served. As you can easily see, everything added up to a cracker-jack dance.
Welcome Class 43-1! And may we take this opportunity of inviting you to a breakfast next Tuesday morning which 43-1 is giving to welcome you to the club and to Pampa.
The breakfast starts at 9:30 at the home of Mrs. Paul Tabor, 1004 North Somerville. Please accept this as your invitation and don't wait for a formal or personal one for that one to chance to see you or to find your address before next Tuesday, so you wives of 43-1, please do come for we want to meet you and have you join in our fun.
The breakfast will be in the backyard so wear a sunsuit so that you may look in the warm Texas sun or, if you prefer, a bathing suit so that you may sit under the sprinkler. We will hold a short business session to elect a vice-president from 43-1. This meeting will take the place of the regular meeting of the Cadets. Wilco club held each Tuesday afternoon at the USO at 2:30.
We unanimously voted to dedicate our scrapbook to Mrs. Tabor and present it to her when all this scrap is over and our book is completed. We asked Mrs. Tabor if there wasn't a member on airplane.

McConnell-Noland Vows Are Taken

Miss Opal Payne McConnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Colgrove of Decatur, Tex., and B. E. Noland, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Noland, of Pampa, were married Wednesday evening Sept. 1, at 8 o'clock in the parsonage of the White Deer Presbyterian church.
The ceremony was read by the Rev. Cassidy, minister of the church.
The bride was attended by Mrs. Roy Kretzmeier of Pampa, and Mrs. W. A. Noland, sister-in-law of the bridegroom.
Roy Kretzmeier served the bridegroom as best man.
The bride wore a brown street length dress and tan accessories. Her corsage was of gardenias.
Following the ceremony the wedding party left for marlboro where a dinner was served.
The bride and bridegroom left immediately after the dinner for Decatur to visit the bride's parents.
Mr. Noland is foreman at the Cadet Ordnance and has been a resident of Pampa for the past 13 years.
The couple will be at home at 410 N. Doyle.

Dare-Devil Commandos Use Leg Make-Up

The new-fangled leg tinting creams which women use to stimulate the sheer silk stockings they don't have wouldn't seem to have much to do with dare-devil Commando raids—but they do. At least, one of them does over here.
In the year that war broke out, Cyclax, London's oldest beauty salon, announced the discovery of the perfect stocking cream. The new product imparted a beautiful suntan effect, was waterproof, guaranteed not to smear, was not oily and would not rub off on clothes. More than that, when properly applied, its matte surface "dressed" the wearer's leg almost as perfectly as a silk stocking would do. Fashionable women went for it in a big way, for country and holiday resort wear.
This was just fine—until the army discovered its unique value as a camouflage pigment. So the Army takes prior claim to all the cream produced and for some time now, Home Guards, in their anti-invasion training, and Commandos, setting out for raids on Nazi-held territory, use it. Tons of the cream are supplied to practically every theater of the war.
So women here who thought they would be able to save their precious stockings for the winter months are out of luck. But while they regret losing one of their most prized cosmetics, they are happy to think that one of their vanity was a "secret weapon" that would save the lives of brave men and help defeat the ugly—ROSETTE HARGROVE

Moon-Bentley Vows Are Said In Church Ceremony, August 21

Miss Betty Ruth Moon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Moon of Amarillo, formerly of White Deer, became the bride of Sgt. Jimmy E. Bentley, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Bentley of Berkeley, Cal., in a double ring ceremony August 21.
The Rev. Earl G. Hamblitt, pastor of the Polk street Methodist church, read the marriage vows.
Mrs. J. R. Shultz, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor, wearing a rose dress with black patent accessories and a corsage of white roses.
Acting as best man was Sgt. James R. Hopping, of the Amarillo Army Air Field.
The bride wore a white lace dress, and carried a large bouquet of red sweetheart roses.
The bride attended school in White Deer, where she was elected queen of her class for three years, and queen of the High school in 1942. She was vice-president of the Senior class when she moved from White Deer to Amarillo, where she was band majorette. She graduated from the Amarillo High school this spring.
Sgt. Bentley was graduated from Berkeley High school where he was active in many school events. After graduating he enlisted in the Army Air Corps in January, of this year. The couple will make their home in Amarillo.

V Notes RED CROSS VOLUNTEERS

By MRS. H. H. HAHN

The American Red Cross is receiving an increasing number of anxious inquiries concerning the treatment of American prisoners of war and the measures being taken for bringing them such aid and comfort as lie within our power under the Geneva Convention of 1929.

The responsibility for the welfare of prisoners of war rests with the governments concerned. It is the function of the protecting Power (Switzerland, in the case of the United States) to see that the Geneva Convention is properly observed by the detaining Powers.

The rights and obligations of prisoners of war are covered by international treaties which have been negotiated during the last 70 years, and which culminated in the Geneva Convention, which comprises 97 articles. In all, 42 nations ratified or later adhered to this latest set of rules for the treatment of prisoners of war.

The International Red Cross committee is the agency which performs certain international humanitarian functions in time of war. In time of peace it accords recognition to new Red Cross societies and promotes adherence to states to the Geneva Convention.

The International Red Cross committee is the agency which performs certain international humanitarian functions in time of war. In time of peace it accords recognition to new Red Cross societies and promotes adherence to states to the Geneva Convention.

It should be explained that the American National Red Cross, of which the Pampa chapter is a part, has no direct contact with prisoners of war. All shipments of Red Cross supplies sent from local chapters throughout the country are made available to the International Red Cross Committee, delegates of which supervise the distribution of relief supplies in prison camps scattered over the world.

Reports on these visits are regularly received by the government concerned. Such reports indicate where camps fall short of the accepted standards, and usually result in prompt correction. According to latest reports, there are 63 International Red Cross Committee Delegates, of Swiss nationality, located over the world according to need. Article 84 of the Geneva Convention requires the copy of the Convention, in the language of the prisoners held there, be posted in each camp. Any prisoner has the right to bring grievances to the attention of the elected camp leader (usually the ranking officer in an officers' camp) who is known as the "Homme de Confiance"—trusted man. This trusted man had in turn, the right to discuss such grievances in private with the representatives of the protecting Power when they visit the camp. With no enemy officials present, the conversation can be free and explicit. Any legitimate grievances are promptly reported to the camp commander.

The War Department has announced that the terms of the Geneva Convention are being "scrupulously observed" in the employment of its prisoners of war in the United States. Their availability for farm work, as well as for other types of permissible labor, has been receiving careful study for the past several weeks. Representatives of the protecting Powers (Spain, for Japan; Switzerland, for Germany and Italy) and Delegates of the International Red Cross Committee visit all Axis prisoners' camps in the United States and see that the provisions of the Geneva Convention are being fully complied with.

In all respects, the War Department states, prisoners of war in the U. S. are treated with the respect due honorable soldiers, and it is hoped that the humane treatment and consideration accorded America's prisoners will be reflected in similar treatment of American soldiers who are prisoners of war of the Axis Powers.

Mrs. J. B. Massa, production chairman, is pleased with the efforts of all who made possible the large shipment which was sent from Pampa this week. Mrs. E. C. Hart and Mrs. L. L. Davis did the bundling and packing. Joe Key, assisted by Charles Flood, tied the bundles. Charles is a lad of about 12 years of age; he came to the production room asking for some Red Cross work that he could do. Four unfinished sweaters were turned in at a late hour, and Mrs. W. G. Kinzer hustled around and arranged for three of them to be finished, while completing one herself.

some way that we could repay her for the work and time she has spent in helping our club. Her reply was, "If any girl has found pleasure in her work with the Cadet, Wives club, just let her remember when the opportunity comes to her to help someone and pass on what she knows here, and she will make it a lot better world. You really can't repay it until someone needs help—whatever the needs might be—that is the way you can repay." See why we love her so? ? ?

When you spy those excellent posters in the dayrooms out at the field announcing the club meetings, give all credit to Martha Porter for she did a beautiful job on them. And let us welcome a newcomer of 43- to our midst, Cass Soder. We are so glad you are here.

Last Tuesday we were set for a big "Welcome-to-our-Club" meeting, but the girls were later than usual arriving in Pampa so we had to postpone our plans; however, we are inaugurating a few new features which we hope will make our club more fun and interesting. Marge Thompson, chairman of the entertainment committee, will have a planned program each week to follow our regular business meeting. Lorraine Dees will be chairman of the refreshment committee. Any hidden or idle talents will be unveiled, practiced, and enjoyed during the war.

This should be lots of fun for all—both performers and audience. To add a bit of spirit to the occasion, we are going to start each meeting by singing the Air Corps song. We concluded the last meeting with it, and after all the singing, welcomed Shirley Shelley and Leona Linc who entered the room, pushing a tea cart laden with hot-buttered-popcorn and ice-cream with lemon juice added. Talk about a thirst-quencher!

Now don't get jealous of that blonde you saw on your husband's knee in the dayroom Thursday night for it was only little Anne Goodwin, who was toddling around jabbering with every cadet in the room and having herself a marvelous time. And no wonder she and her sister Beven held the spotlight for they are both lovely little blonde girls, dressed exactly alike in cute little pink print dresses. Anne is 1 1/2 years old, and Beven is 3 1/2 years. They are Betty and Dexter Goodwin's children and are here to see Daddy get his wings.

There are some other children here for special purposes. Four-year-old Buddy Morris, son of Virginia and H. O. Morris, will be there proudly saying, "That's MY Daddy!" when H. O. goes up to receive his wings.

Two of our other children will be there, but it is probably a few weeks before they realize the importance of this occasion for Mickey and Joe Metchan's son Michael is only two months old, but he'll be there, and so will Mary and John Orr's eight months' old Mary Jay. Altha Mary Jay is quite a youngster, she enters right into the spirit of things by coming to all the club meetings and is so good and sweet everybody wants to take turns holding her. Several of the other boys have children at home, and they are eagerly awaiting graduation when their wives will come and bring them... My! that heavenly word... graduation!!

MODERN MENUS

Shortages may come and shortages may go, but frankfurts are usually on our meat counters.

Thus, it's wise to use these handy packages of good eating from time to time in summer meals. Carefully prepared from first-class meat, frankfurts offer the same B vitamins, minerals and high-quality proteins that all meats do.

Franks are good, served hot in their sleek, tender jackets in a one-plate meal with vegetables. Or they can be "extended" in complete-meal salads and baked dishes. A few slices enhance a hot soup or a meat loaf.

For a quick summer meal that "looks big," serve a frank plank. On a plank or oven-proof platter broil hot, mashed potatoes with franks and bacon atop so the meat juices run tastily down on the potatoes. Sliced tomatoes and sweet onions, and homemade corn relish complete the meal.

Here is the recipe: Frank Family-Style 6 medium-sized potatoes 3 tablespoons fat 1-3 to 1-2 cup hot milk Salt and pepper 1 pound frankfurts 4 strips bacon

Brew potatoes, cook and mash with fat, hot milk, salt and pepper. Pile on a plank or oven-proof platter. Arrange frankfurts on potatoes, and bacon strips atop franks. Broil until bacon is crisp and franks and potatoes are thoroughly heated. Serves 4 to 6.

Flavor of one frankfurt travels a long way when sliced into baked beans, potato soup, vegetable salad, or a creamed or casserole dish.

Franks a la Victoria Garden 8 frankfurts 1 medium-sized onion, minced 1-4 cup butter 1-3 cup flour 3 cups cooked tomatoes 3 cups diced, cooked carrots 3 tablespoons catsup Salt and pepper

Split frankfurts and arrange split side down, in greased casserole. Sauté onion in fat until slightly browned, stir in flour; gradually stir in tomatoes and cook until thickened. Add carrots and catsup, and season to taste with salt and pepper; pour over franks and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 1/2 hour. Serves 6.

Eat While You "Can" To keep your pep high on canning days, be sure to plan a good and satisfying noon meal—whether you can with a group or alone.

One time-saving trick is to duplicate menus for two days running. Two meals good for double-duty are: (1) Lamb-frankfurt meat loaf, potato salad, buttered beans, and frozen fruit salad, and (2) Corned beef, new potatoes, buttered green beans, cabbage salad and fruit pie.

Since the oven is seldom used for canning, an oven meal is handy. For this, prepare the dishes and refrigerate until time for the oven. A good oven meal is: lamb patties, scalloped potatoes and baked tomatoes, to be accompanied by tossed green salad and fresh fruit. Or you could bake a meat and vegetable pie and cherry-cobbler, and serve with perfection salad. Ready-to-serve meats and frankfurts fit into such busy times, too, as do barbecued spareribs re-heated. Let your refrigerator work for you, too, in preparing loaves, salads and desserts.

Food Propaganda Tackles Yanks

PALESTERMO, Sicily.—(AP)—The biggest laugh the American troops got out of any enemy propaganda was an Axis broadcast shortly before Messina fell.

"American aid British troops are starving in Sicily and there is open revolt in North Africa because of food being taken from there and shipped to them," said the Axis broadcasters solemnly.

What made it even funnier to the Yankies was the fact that even then Italian prisoners were complaining that German troops, before pulling out to leave the Fascist soldiers to their fates, were taking all their supplies and telling the Italians flatly:

"After you are caught the Americans will feed you. They have plenty of food and won't let you starve."

Solons Say Texans War Conscious

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—The only two Texas congressmen in Washington at present say home folks are taking the war seriously. Back from a visit to his hometown, Houston, Rep. Albert Thomas says there's nothing wrong with the home front. Home folks want to win the war and get it over with, he insists.

"Of course," he added, "there's some complaining about different bureaucratic regulations. That's any American's right to complain. But the people are not objecting to any privations so long as it really will help shorten the war."

Rep. Ed Gossett of Wichita Falls reports constituents' increasing concern over taxes.

"A great number of people who until the war paid little or no federal taxes now are writing in their views," he says.

Japs Pay Dearly for Shooting At Parachuting U. S. Airmen

By ART BURGESS
 GUADALCANAL, Aug. 30.—(Delayed)—(P)—Thanks to Lieut. Homer W. Faucett, 1941 National AAU middleweight wrestling champion from Indiana, and the gallant crew of his Liberator bomber, the Japanese have paid dearly for firing on American fliers dangling helplessly in parachutes, floating down to sea.

It happened after today's smashing raid by four-engined Liberators and escorting Lightning fighters on Japan's Kuhl airbase on Bougainville in the Solomons. The total bag of Japanese planes for the day was 37.

But Faucett and his companions supplied some of the most dramatic moments on the trip back. Near Vella Lavella island, one of the Liberators was hit by pursuing Zeros. Four men parachuted from the stricken bomber.

Twenty Zeros went after the descending fliers, their guns blazing.

Lieutenant Faucett, 25, whose hometown is Hillsboro, Ind., was in a nearby formation of bombers.

"I checked with the crew first on the inter-phone, talking with every man," Faucett said.

"Pilot to turret gunner: Shall we go back?"

"Turret gunner to pilot: Let's go back."

"When we turned back, one man in a chute was hanging limp after a Zero strafed him. Our gunner dove off another Zero trying the same dirty trick. Then 20 Zeros started working on us at 4,000 feet. We went down to 200 feet and dropped a life raft to the men who had jumped from the other bomber. The Zeros made a coordinated attack, using as many as six coming at us at the same time.

"We would have been shot down

if it hadn't been that our gunners were good marksmen. We half figured we didn't have a chance, so we vowed to get all the enemy we could before they got us.

"When we got home, there were more than 80 bullet-holes and several cannon holes in the fuselage."

But Faucett's Liberator had bagged seven out of the 20 parachute-attacking Zeros.

There were other heroes.

Sgt. Samuel Walker, of Bronson, Tex., nose gunner for Lt. James R. McCloskey, Los Angeles, shot down an attacker as it went into a roll.

Sgt. Van Crain, of Caldwell, Tex., with Lt. John L. Jacobs, of San Francisco, caught a Zero only 600 yards away from the top turret and started it on a flaming dive.

Capt. Eldon Stratton, of Anderson, Mo., teamed with Flight Officer Cecil Moore, San Antonio, Tex., in a bit of dramatic action.

Both were flying Airmobars, A Zero got on Moore's tail. Stratton shot him down. A Zero got on Stratton's tail. Moore shot him down.

After Stratton got two more planes, he was shot down but was rescued.

American losses for the raid were one Liberator and five fighters, but four of the pilots were saved.

Portugal Strengthens National Defenses

LISBON, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar has revealed that Portugal's stepped-up military preparations were defensive but "in the unfortunate times in which we are living may have to be used against foreign enemies as well as against internal elements of national disintegration."

Clamping a tight censorship on speculation regarding the military preparations, Dr. Salazar cautioned against expecting any change in the country's foreign policy.

(The London Evening Standard interpreted the "mobilization" of Portugal as a possible indication the country was ready to declare war on Japan in protest against Japanese atrocities at Macao and Timor.)

Salazar said in a communique that it might be "necessary to reinforce the colonial garrisons according to the evolution of events concerning them."

"In any case," he continued, "there will be a change of guard of those troops long stationed overseas that will in itself justify certain military activities."

(A DNH dispatch broadcast by the British radio and recorded by the Associated Press said the newly arrived war material had been supplied Portugal by Great Britain. Such an arrangement would not be unusual.)

Berlin Bombing Damage Terrific

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 4.—(AP)—Destruction in Tuesday night's assault on Berlin was not so extensive as in the saturation raid of Aug. 23, which was the heaviest blow ever struck the German capital, the Berlin correspondent of Stockholm's Aftonbladet reported.

Censorship prevented his giving any details of the damage.

He said German fighter pilots patrolled the skies over Berlin for half an hour before the first wave of path-finders started dropping incendiaries and target-locating flares. Berliners, expecting an air attack for a week, looked outside air raid shelters until the sirens sounded.

BERN, Sept. 3.—(AP)—British bombers striking Berlin in six waves on Aug. 23 created greatest havoc in the Mariendamm area, and the southern periphery of the capital was "transformed into a miniature Stalingrad" of destruction, a German frontier dispatch to the Gazette de Lausanne said, quoting an eyewitness.

Western Berlin was left a mass of flames, he said and fires still were burning last Friday. The most impressive destruction was reported in the Fehlbeller Platz, the most modern sector of the city.

It was estimated 6,000 buildings were smashed and burned, the account said, in addition to 2,500 hit in the raid of March 1.

All buildings in the Fehlbeller Platz, Bayrischer Platz, and Gurtelstrasse were smashed, and the Stiglitz quarter was destroyed, the eyewitness said.

This same witness visited Hamburg, reporting the city "completely ceased to exist as a living metropolis" with only 20 per cent of its buildings not damaged, and the greater portion of its people having abandoned the city.

CHAPTER VI

DURING the winter of 1913-1914 my savings began to melt. Work was scarce; so I said to Mrs. Isaacs, "Ma, I'm going to take $10 and go to New York on an excursion and look around."

That night I slept on a bunk in the Mills Hotel. Next to me, an Irishman with a voice as deep as a buoy bell was talking to a man beside him, a little man, scrubby, with a two-day beard.

"If we had a bucker-up, we could get a job tomorrow. They need riveting gangs at the Robins shipyards. You're a heater, ain't you, Jim?"

Touching the big Irishman on the shoulder, I said, "I'm a bucker-up and I'm looking for a job."

"Done," he answered. "I'm Tom Delaney and this here's Jim Monahan. You look like a Frenchie to me but we ought to make out all right."

When we got to the shipyards, we glanced discouragedly at each other. There were already about 400 men in line. The foreman came out of his shack and looked us over, picking out a familiar face here and there. When he came to us, Tom told him that we were a riveting gang.

"Duck in," he said; so we went inside the high wire fence. We were put to work on an old boat from Liverpool, a general cargo vessel that was tough and weather-beaten, with leaky bulkheads and spreading seams.

By autumn the yard was humming with the grim excitement of war, and we were working full time and overtime, taking care of the British ships that limped in for repairs. For three years I worked under constantly increasing

104,658 Killed, Wounded, Lost Are Reported

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—(AP)—Army losses in the 38-day conquest of Sicily numbered 7,500 killed, wounded and missing to bring the army's over-all war losses to 70,872 and lift the announced casualties for the armed services and merchant marine to 104,658 since Pearl Harbor.

The latest army figures were given at a press conference Thursday by John J. McCloy, assistant secretary of war. He said that of the 70,872 casualties in all combat zones, 9,209 were killed in action or died of wounds. 20,159 were wounded, 21,704 were missing, and 19,740 have been officially reported prisoners of war.

Of the army wounded, McCloy said, more than 9,000 have recovered completely and returned to active duty. He added that the total of missing included a large number of Philippine scouts lost in Bataan and Corregidor.

Navy casualties announced to date are 21,533; marines 7,099, and the coast guard, 362. The merchant marine summary showed 4,751 dead and missing.

In all the services, the dead now total 19,875. McCloy said he had no report on British and Canadian casualties in the Sicilian campaign but recalled General Dwight D. Eisenhower's Aug. 18 announcement that the total in his command was approximately 25,000.

Casualty summaries of services other than the army: Marines—2,905 dead; 2,506 wounded; 663 missing; 1,925 prisoners of war.

Coast Guard—182 dead; 22 wounded; 158 missing; 1 prisoner of war. Merchant Marine (From Sept. 27, 1941 to Aug. 1, 1943)—627 dead; 4,124 missing.

Russia Attacks Turk Neutrality

MOSCOW, Sept. 4—(AP)—The latest issue of the Soviet magazine War and the Working Class in an article titled, "Who Gains from the Neutrality of Turkey" said "the neutrality of Turkey becomes increasingly more favorable and necessary to Germany."

The magazine said "Turkey secures the safety of the Balkan flank of the German armies and allows the Germans to continue to hold very limited forces there and concentrate the overwhelming part of the German troops on the Soviet-German front."

The article asserted Germany's defeat could be accelerated if Turkey would abandon her neutrality and throw in her lot with the Allies.

MIAMI Fla., Sept. 4—(AP)—Tech. Sgt. Frank B. Kozak of Carbonate, Fla., arrived in the United States with a gripping story of how the crews of two big, four-engine Liberator bombers sacrificed their planes and lives by deliberately diving into Ploesti oil field targets, causing tremendous explosions and fires.

Kozak, a crewman on a Liberator piloted by Lt. Col. Julian Bleyer, said, the two heavy bombers were hit and smoking before they dived downward as a sacrifice "to short-circuit the war." He saw one other big plane crash to earth a moment after.
