Pampa School Opening Postponed Again

523 Purchasers in Gray County Buy $309,000 Worth of Bonds

Emphasizing the need for every Gray County citizen to participate in the Third War Loan drive, Chairman S. D. Stennis revealed Saturday that 523 firms and individuals have bought Victory Bonds thus far in the campaign. Total bond sales through Saturday amounted to $309,276.25, which leaves Gray county with the sizeable figure of $1,070,723.75 to raise before the campaign ends Sept. 30.

Several Texas counties have already exceeded their quotas, among them Travis county, which bought $4,459,566 in War Bonds, bettering its quota by $177,156.

Travis county's achievement resulted from only one and a half days of campaigning. Another Associated Press dispatch from Washington revealed that General Dwight D. Eisenhower has advised Secretary Morgenthau that he has shipped 13,000 tons of equipment captured in Sicily to this country for display during the drive.

Report Issued on Furnishing Army Hospitals in Panhandle

Pampa's chapter of the American National Red Cross was represented at a meeting of the North Plains Camp & Hospital council, held in Borger Wednesday, at which delegates reported the progress of their camp and hospital committees in supplying furniture and other articles for camp hospitals in the North Plains.

The council's next meeting will be held in Amarillo on Oct. 13. Represented at the Borger gathering were Red Cross chapters of Dallam, Donley, Hutchinson, Potter, and of Pampa and McLean.

Pampa delegates told the council that responsibility for three sun rooms had been accepted and the rooms, at Pampa Field hospital, furnished by the Pampa Rotary club and the auxiliaries of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States.

One day room is being furnished by the Order of the Eastern Star; another has been equipped by the parish council of Catholic women. Articles used in furnishing these rooms include pianos, record players, pictures, rugs, curtains.

Donley county accepted the responsibility for providing the furnishings for one sun room at one of the station hospitals at Pampa, Amarillo or Dalhart.

Italian Prisoners At Hereford Get News

HEREFORD, Sept. 11—(AP)—Some Italian prisoners of war wept, others took the news of Italy's capitulation without sign of emotion, Col. A. N. Risdon, commander of Hereford war prisoner camp here disclosed.

The Italians numbering between 3,000 and 4,000, got the news of the surrender Thursday morning for the first time. They include officers and enlisted men.

Colonel Risdon said the reaction of some was that the surrender had been expected for several months. Others said they had known it was a lost cause for some time.

A few shed tears, the colonel added, but whether for joy or sorrow he could not tell.

Prisoners engaged in labor activities left the camp this morning singing—but they do that every morning, anyway the colonel added.

Employment falls Off in America

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—(AP)—Employment fell by 400,000 persons between July and August, the census bureau reported today, and for the first time since Pearl Harbor failed to show an increase over the corresponding month of the previous year.

The number of workers during the second week of August was placed at 53,900,000 compared with 54,300,000 a month previous and 54,000,000 for the same period of 1942.

The number of unemployed, meanwhile, dropped from 2,200,000 in August, 1942, to an even 1,000,000. This was a decrease of 200,000 from July.

Wing Hit Water, Causing Crash

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—(AP)—The civil aeronautics board said today an accidental contact of a wing with the water probably caused the crash of a Pan-American flying boat at Lisbon, Portugal, Feb. 22, in which 19 passengers and five crew members were injured fatally.

Among those killed or injured were several theatrical and radio performers enroute to entertain American troops abroad. Jane Froman, radio singer, was injured seriously.

The Why and How of the Inverted Gull Wing In the Design of the Chance Vought Corsair

A FEW months ago a new weapon rose from American airfields in the Southwest Pacific to challenge the Japs. It was the U. S. Navy's newest fighter—the Chance Vought Corsair—designated the F4U-1 by the Navy.

Since then this craft has piled up an enviable record as a ruthless sky-raider. In their first fight in the Savo and Russell Islands area Corsairs bagged 15 of 25 Jap Zeros in 20 minutes of dog-fighting. Subsequent engagements showed this first set-to was no accident—day after day the Corsairs have been successful in their forays as strafers, bomber escorts and protective planes.

The most distinctive feature of this new plane to the onlooker is its inverted gull wing. Comparison of the photograph of the Corsair and the drawing of a soaring gull above shows how apt is the description "inverted gull wing."

The aerodynamic and structural reasons for the use of this type of wing are just as apparent to the engineer.

The Corsair was designed and built around the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft 2,000-h.p. Double Wasp engine. Such a powerful engine demanded the largest possible propeller.

The inverted gull wing design permitted the use of the large propeller and at the same time a straight wing had been used. At the same time the aerodynamically efficient attachment of the wing to the fuselage at a right angle was attained. Engineers found such a position offers the minimum interference drag between wing and fuselage.

Other advantages were improved vision for the pilot and a lower overall height with the wings folded to facilitate storage in underground hangars aboard aircraft carriers.

Texans Pleased With Way War Run, Solons Say

(By The Associated Press)

Stay-at-home Texans are pleased with the way the war is going, are ready to sacrifice what it takes to win it but deplore the handling of some home-front problems.

That's the picture gained by five Texas representatives during their visit among the home folks while congress was in recess the past few weeks.

"The people are solidly behind the war effort," said Rep. George Mahon of Colorado City, "but they are disappointed and disgusted with the way many home-front problems are being handled."

Rep. Albert Thomas of Houston: "Of course, there's some complaining about different bureaucratic regulations."

Rep. W. R. Poage of Waco: "The people are ready to make any sacrifice they feel will contribute to winning the war. The federal tax and I feel most government agencies have done a very poor job of clarifying the need for many restrictions."

Rep. Lyndon Johnson of Austin: "I firmly believe 90 per cent of the number of fighting forces, President Roosevelt and his other war leaders have fulfilled the people's hopes."

Rep. Ed Gossett of Wichita Falls: His constituents are increasingly concerned over taxes. "A great number of people who until the war paid little or no federal taxes are now writing in their views," he said.

Mahon reported that among people in his district, interest in the government is at an all-time high, that they are "rightfully dissatisfied" with the present tax law and that "conflicting and confusing statements by bureaucrats regarding rubber supplies, tires, meat, gasoline, drafting of fathers, etc., are harmful to the war effort."

Poage said "I believe the people are ready to fight inflation and advancing prices with effective taxes and forced savings on all increased income."

"There is some hesitation as to cooperation with Great Britain and Russia but a general recognition of the necessity of United action after the war."

Rep. Johnson said: "The people are confident they want no repetition of senate bungling that followed the last war and all agree that the present situation is not one that can be handled by one country, one state or even one nation."

"I believe there is a great awakening for the front-porch warriors whose distinguished record of service consists of giving aid and comfort to the enemy by attempting to destroy the people's confidence in their chosen leadership and by attempting to drown out factory whistles with their grumbling."

Buxton will be at the chamber of commerce office and anyone interested in contacting him may telephone the office for an appointment.

ON THE HOME FRONT

BY JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIEGLER

WASHINGTON—(AP)—American draft-age fathers—no matter when their children were born—today have this cold fact confronting them:

They face army induction.

That policy is: Henceforth any deferment fathers can expect depends upon how close their job is tied into the war, that the first fathers to go into the army will be those in jobs McNutt considers non-deferrable or unessential.

Recently we asked a top WMC official what benefits a father could expect from shifting from a non-deferrable to an essential activity. He said:

"Benefit? Benefit? We should not like to think in those terms. We prefer to think that 99-99-100 per cent of American fathers are thinking of the war first and themselves afterwards."

But we assume that a number of fathers, no matter what their interest in the war, are also thinking in terms of their families; that they are thinking of what they can do to help the war and also of the effect of what they do upon their families.

McNutt issued a number of job classifications; those he considered so unimportant to the war effort he called non-deferrable, that is, carrying no claim to deferment.

from the draft; and jobs that were badly needed in the war. He called the latter essential or critical jobs. Presumably—since final decision in all cases is left to the local draft boards—those essential or critical jobs carry draft deferment. But even that kind of classification doesn't automatically carry deferment, but will depend in all cases upon the location. For instance:

Suppose a father shifted from a position as gambler—which is on the non-deferrable list—into a job in a war plant.

Thus McNutt's contention is that manpower has become so short that henceforth the only basis for a man's status—in the army or a war-related job—is where he will do the most good.

Expecting a Baby?

Mother's Friend helps bring ease and comfort to expectant mothers.

MOTHER'S FRIEND, an exquisitely prepared emulsion is useful in all conditions where a bland, mild anodyne massage medium in skin lubrication is desired. One condition in which women for more than 70 years have used it is an application for massaging the body during pregnancy... it helps keep the skin soft and pliable... thus avoiding unnecessary discomfort due to dryness and tightness. It refreshes and tones the skin. An ideal massage application for the numb, tingling or burning sensations of the skin. For the tired back muscles or cramp-like pains in the legs quickly absorbed. Delightful to use.

Highly praised by users, many doctors and nurses. Just say "I'm pregnant" for Mother's Friend—the skin lubricant. Try it tonight!

Oil Transportation Facilities Hiked
WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Rapid improvement in petroleum transportation facilities available for movement of oil to the Atlantic coast was reported by the Office of Defense Transportation as it announced cancellation of construction orders on 36 wooden barges originally destined for the oil trade.

Joseph B. Eastman, ODT director, said the movement of petroleum products to the Atlantic seaboard during the April-June quarter averaged 1,315,000 barrels a day, exclusive of deep water tanker shipments. Increased transport facilities will be available within a few months, he said.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE—"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Do Your Part: Pampa and Gray County are just getting started on the Third War Loan campaign—greatest yet in the amount of money being asked of Americans to "Back the Attack."

Gray county's share in the 15 billion dollars that the nation is expected to subscribe is $1,380,200, or an average of about $55 for every man, woman and child in the county.

The point is, as emphasized by officials of the Pampa Third War Loan committee, the success of the drive is everyone's responsibility—every wage earner, every owner of a bank account, everybody with an income, has a responsibility in seeing the job thru.

War bonds need no explanation to Pampans who have been buying them regularly and have been carrying their share of the financial load of the war and of the economic crisis that inevitably builds up as a result of war.

Besides providing the guns, tanks, planes and ships to insure victory and to "Back the Attack" on the enemy's own strongholds, buying bonds is the surest way to keeping our money working without bringing on disastrous inflation which could all but nullify the fruits of victory when it comes.

To back the attack is important now. The pre-war economic stability so that millions of American fighting men can return from the war and find a civilian life worthy of their sacrifice is equally important. The best insurance that each one of us, individually, can provide against inflation is the buying of bonds.

Unfinished Chapter: More than twenty million troops and more than eighty million tons of freight and express were moved by the railroads for the Army during the first eighteen months of the war.

These orders called for the special handling of more than 12,000,000 troops and involved the use of 72,968 coaches, 214,881 sleeping cars, 49,987 baggage and kitchen cars, and 101,881 refrigerator, box, flat and gondola cars.

It is doubtful if any person of this generation who has actually lived to see a transportation miracle can ever appreciate what the railroads have done. It is a mortal certainty that if the advisers of the dictators could have seen a preview of the miracle, they would have revised their estimates of the decadent democracies.

The big question now in the minds of railroad men is how will the next chapter read in this history of rail transportation? The miracle of the past eighteen months was accomplished at great cost to plant and equipment. There was no slight of hand about it. Under expert management, trains have moved without rest, and ceaseless operation has exacted its toll of rails and rolling stock.

The railroads have asked for material based on minimum needs, which government authorities who control the nation's resources have not been fit to give them. The authorities undoubtedly know they are risking a transportation disaster.

His Memory Errs: The Japs having been driven out of the Aleutians, at long last, President Roosevelt takes occasion to gibe at those who, he says, wanted the Allies to "withdraw from the Atlantic to the Mediterranean campaigns and divert all our vast combined strength to the removal of the Japs from a few rocky specks in the North Pacific."

That is not quite the way it was. No sane person proposed that the Atlantic and Mediterranean campaigns be given up, or delayed. A lot of us did urge that those "few rocky specks in the North Pacific" gave Japan a position of enormous nuisance value. With this the Army and Navy agreed. We spent many North American lives taking back those few rocky specks—many more American lives, for being belated, than would have been required earlier.

The Nation's Press: returning lately from another long inspection trip for the War Department, Captain Rickenbacker told of a few of the things that he had seen in Soviet Russia—and one of the things was breadlines.

Moreover, breadlines are apparently a permanent part of the Communist way of life, under a rigid caste system. Note the picture of Russia's social and economic organization, after 25 years of Communist "progress," as presented in Eddie Rickenbacker's simple and convincing language:

"Their soldiers are well fed and well clothed. Those in action get the most and best food. Those in reserve get a little less. Those in the zone of the interior still a little less."

"Factory workers get still a little less, but ample to keep them in good physical and mental condition, as was evidenced by the thousands seen."

"However, they are a very realistic and practical people. Only those who are unable to contribute to the war effort will be found in the breadline, where they get a chunk of black bread per day and must, necessarily, shuffle for an existence of their own."

Furthermore, Captain Rickenbacker reports, in Soviet Russia's breadlines "you will find only the old and infirm"—every "healthy man, woman and child" being either an army or labor drudge.

On yes, there is "child labor" in Russia, too. Captain Rickenbacker observed it in the Storo-

"I speak the pass-word universal. I give the sign of democracy. By God! I will accept nothing which cannot have their counterpart of the same terms." —WALT WHITMAN.

REV. JONES USES POISON WORDS: I do not believe I have ever seen anything advocated more wicked than an article in the August 25th issue of The Christian Century, written by E. Stanley Jones under the heading "Sponges on Spearpoints."

He tells about the sponge that was offered to Jesus at the scene of Golgotha. The sponge contained deadly drugs. It would soothe the pain of Jesus. He points out why Jesus refused it. Then he compares this sponge, filled with a deadly drug, to the wages paid labor. I quote from his article:

"Why is labor dissatisfied with its wages, however high they may be? For the simple reason that labor senses the fact that back of the sponge of wages is the spearpoint of domination. Capital has the right to hire and to fire labor. Labor is a commodity to be bought or dropped at the will of capital. Capital owns the tools of industry, and labor can use those tools only at the will of the owner. As long as that condition exists, there will be discontent and revolt. The only way out is to put labor on the same level with capital on a cooperative basis. When capital and labor cooperate in production, in management, in profits and losses, then and then only will we have peace and progress in industry. For then the spearpoint of domination will be gone and there will be equal justice."

Will Jones mean by "domination" and "cooperation"? How can any worker be "dominated" by the owners of tools when he is free to exchange his labor to the employer who will pay him the most for it or is free to rent the land, hire the capital and employ himself and others?

I challenge Mr. Jones to set forth any other way that both employer and employee can be free. It is the perfect cooperation. How could there be cooperation on any other terms?

Mr. Jones is advocating a form of social relations that would lead to the worst kind of domination and complete lack of cooperation. If he would permit his statements to be questioned publicly he might see the final results of his proposal to have workers have the right to use the tools of others without their consent. If his proposal were put into practice a worker could milk another man's cow and take what he wanted without the consent of the owner of the cow. Who would then want to own a cow?

Will Rev. Jones Explain? I know a party who has guaranteed to give E. Stanley Jones $1000 if he will answer questions specifically enough so that an employer of labor will know how much to pay labor, and will not have to ask Mr. Jones for further instructions as to how to comply with Rev. Jones' suggestion that there is a better plan than permitting the employer to cease employing a worker when he prefers another worker and how there could be cooperation if the worker were permitted to use tools without the consent of the owner. And he will leave the determining of whether or not he has been specific in his answer to any professor of mathematics or logic, at the head of any non-state controlled school in the United States, with a school attendance of 100 or over.

He will also give fifty dollars to the first person that gets E. Stanley Jones to consent to be questioned as to what he means by "cooperation" and "domination" and by what rule he would select the labor that was to have the right to use the employers tools without their consent. The address of E. Stanley Jones is 150 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

If E. Stanley Jones is not using words that create poison in the minds of men then I am using poison words. One of us is doing untold harm to society. If I am, I want to know it and quit using them. That is the reason I would like to see Jones accept the $1000 offer for an opportunity to question a man who passes as being a great teacher and leader of men. Then I could pass on his plan if it can be reduced to impersonal rules.

The best way ever devised to test a proposal is the Socratic method of cross examination. The truth always prevails when a theory is exposed to intelligent impartial examination. I, of course, believe Rev. Jones is in error because I never have known him to permit his statements to be questioned. He always speaks or writes where he is protected by the church or the magazine he writes for. He will never share time or space with a student of free enterprise. If his suggestions were practical he would be glad to answer any rational questions.

Rev. Jones has always claimed that he was too busy when he was asked questions that lead to contradictions with other statements he claimed to believe. He always used the excuse that he doesn't care for money. He never explained why it would not be nice to give it to charity.

If he has some impersonal rule of cooperation, as he claims he has, he should spare no effort to have it made understandable to those who inquire as to how to put it into practice. If he cannot explain it he should stop using words that poison the minds of inexperienced people.

Jesus tried to explain how careful preachers should be in what they taught when he said, "But whosoever shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were dropped into the depth of the sea."

Any magazine or church that furnishes him an audience to spread his poison words is anything but Christian no matter by what name they call themselves.

movik airplane factory, of which he says: "In this plant, like most others, 67 per cent of the employees are women and approximately 25 per cent are boys from 14 to 18 years of age, as when they become 18 years of age and are physically fit they go into the army, regardless of qualifications."

And what about working hours in Russia? Well, Captain Rickenbacker says: "The hours of employment are eight hours per day—six days per week—with an additional three hours per day overtime at time and one-half."

"This is compulsory for everybody but married women with children."

Finally, Captain Rickenbacker perceived that Russia has no "absentee problem"—and he tells why: "If an employe is 20 minutes late, he is reprimanded."

"If he continues to appear late, he is given a trial by a court of employes, and if found guilty, his wages are cut first. Continued absence brings about a cut in the amount of food rationed."

"If a flagrant case appears, the employe is discharged as being unqualified to contribute to the breadline, and consequently finds himself in the breadline."

In one of his most revealing comments, Captain Rickenbacker adds: "Bolshevism in Russia is not as we have been led to believe by Communistic enthusiasts in this country."

News Behind The News

By ALBERT LEMAN: SQUABBLES—Winston Churchill's plea at Harvard College for close postbellum partnership between the United States and Great Britain, following Governor Dewey's advocacy of a long-term military alliance between the two nations, has aroused active discussion in New York City.

Even before the two trial balloons were floated, the subject was the cause of many nods and headaches among leaders in Washington. The delicate point will undoubtedly be the theme of debate when Congress meets next week and repercussions will enter into the 1944 election campaign.

Some of Manhattan's most perceptive authorities on foreign affairs believe that the Prime Minister's audacious suggestion is part of a clever scheme to save the British Commonwealth, which is fast losing its power by supplanting sea power.

Even before 1939 certain frank English statesmen admitted to probing American newspapers that their country had neither the financial nor the industrial capacity to maintain a world-wide empire.

On an armistice morning we shall own an overwhelming fleet of modern cargo planes and the greatest shipbuilding capacity as well as actually the most vessels. We could not only supply the world with cargo on Government subsidies or allocated them without restraint to Norway, Holland and other maritime rivals.

Mr. Roosevelt's shrewd trader, knows these facts as does the realist, Mr. Churchill.

A moot question disturbing New York's air executives is whether or not American commercial planes after the end of hostilities will be barred from utilizing the bases constructed in the British Empire by our funds and engineers.

ANGLOPHOBES—The take-it-or-leave-it threat, of course, was couched in diplomatic language. The British offer of the implication was there, and the Moscow-London pact is evidence of its existence.

Noninterventionists refused to accept this proposition as the only policy open to the United States and its allies in the face of a global peace. Or as one prominent western Senator expressed the thought to the writer the other day, "The people in the open spaces whom I represent are not Anglophobes; they are American nationalists who believe we can work out our own destiny without foreign entanglements."

GENEROUS—New voices are raised in championing permanent bonds between Washington and London. This attitude is general in Wall Street. Some of the big fellows say that we shall be a "have not" nation in petroleum inside of three decades. The Standard Oil Company has rights to the world's greatest untapped source of gasoline.

Around Hollywood

This is the story of Hollywood's newest dancing star who learned to dance in an invalid's wheelchair. At the age of 8, in her home town of Boston, her parents decided she should train for a theatrical career. She studied ballet for poise—drama and voice.

Then, at the age of 11, she was suddenly struck down by the crippling malady rheumatism, told by doctors that she would never walk again. For almost two years she remained in bed. Then she was allowed to sit up in a wheel chair.

Her brother, a professional dancer, took to practicing in his room to entertain her. One day she discovered that following his steps on the footrest of her wheelchair helped to get her muscles in action again. A year later nobody could believe it when she walked out of the wheel chair and into a sensational career.

Two years ago she was started on Broadway as the dancing star of the hit musical, "Babes in Arms." Today she's Charles Boyer's leading lady in the film, "Flesh and Fantasy," and the feminine star of the latest Abbott and Costello comedy, "It Ain't Hay." AMBITIOUS BELLOP: He was only a bellhop at the Ambassador Hotel in New York City. But he was ambitious. One day he carried the baggage of a famous screen comedian and his wife and received a $2 tip. It was the biggest tip he had ever seen.

While he dreamed of film stardom, the bellhop continued to collect large tips from visiting screen stars. He made it a business to flatter them. "Gee, you were swell in your last picture," became one of his stock lines. The tips grew larger. From his job as a bellhop he became a steward on a transatlantic liner, then a night club entertainer, then an orchestra leader and then a radio and stage star.

Today you know him as Michael O'Shea, Barbara Stanwyck's leading man in "Lady of Burlesque." But here's the real lopper. A few days ago Michael O'Shea started work on his second starring picture, the life of Jack London. When he stepped on the set he recognized an extra as the wife of the star who had once tipped him $2 for carrying their baggage—Mina Durfee Arbuckle, widow of Fatty Arbuckle.

Relief Checks Are Mailed Out: AUSTIN, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Checks averaging $20.58 were being sent out today by the state department of public welfare to 182,618 old age assistance recipients for September.

The department said average grants to 4,543 needy blind amounted to $24.43, and a total of $241,776 was distributed for the support of 25,133 dependent children.

Today's War Analysis

By DeWitt MacKENZIE Associated Press Writer

Not since the Anglo-French agony in the summer of 1940 has the world's general public been confronted with such confusion of reports as are surrounding the Italian situation—and no small part of this is an artificial fog which is being deliberately created by the desperate Germans.

The situation on the Italian peninsula is of course serious, but we shouldn't let the confusion raise any doubts in our minds, for we may be sure that there is none in the minds of our high command. There are two points to keep well in mind during these hectic days:

1. The Germans are making frantic attempts to shore up the collapsing house that Hitler built. Part of their effort represents a real and grim fight with arms to delay the Allied occupation of Italy and also to save the Balkans. Part of it is propaganda and false reports which are being spread by Axis agents from many points of Europe in an effort to bewilder the Italians and other Axis peoples as well as the enemy.

2. The Allies are doing better than all right. There's no occasion for alarm over the Italian position, although we must be prepared for bitter fighting, as well as some heavy complications such as grow out of the presence of German troops in Rome and their announced assumption of "protection" of the Vatican.

It seems obvious that General Eisenhower and his staff of brilliant officers fully anticipated German reprisals against the Italians and some smart moves such as the "occupation" of Rome. The Allied commander-in-chief's action in keeping the armistice secret for five days speaks for itself. He foresaw the complications which now have come to pass.

An important point is how far the Italians will make good Premier Badoglio's order to resist any attack by the Germans. It may be that as the country steadies down after the first shock, the people will respond to the appeal by President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill to "strike hard and strike home" at the Germans on Italian soil.

Perhaps the knottiest problem which the Allies have to solve is the presence of German troops in Rome. This is especially true because Vatican City is involved.

The thought uppermost in most minds is that the unscrupulous Hitler in his desperation intends to try to hold the pope as a "hostage" if his holiness is still in Rome.

However, while the foe has wallowed in every imaginable sort of crime, it seems inconceivable that he would dare challenge the world by harming the pope. What the Axis chief may be able to do is to exploit this situation so as to hamper the Allied operations to some degree.

Your Health In Wartime

By DR. THOMAS D. MASTERS Written for The News

All previous wars have been associated with an increase in the incidence of tetanus, frequently called "lockjaw" by the public. Injuries received on the battlefield are ideal for the invasion of the organism that causes this disease, and after the disease was established, the death rate was extremely high.

This war, however, has shown a complete reversal of that situation, and has pointed the way to the elimination of tetanus from civil and industrial life. Most of the armies of the world have been immunized against tetanus, and thus far no cases have been shown to occur in those who have been immunized with toxoid.

TETANUS IMMUNITY: Tetanus is an infectious disease caused by a bacillus that produces one of the most powerful poisons known. The germ or its spores are to be found in dirt or soil contaminated by human or animal excreta. They may gain entry to the body through any wound that breaks the skin, and frequently do so in the most insidious manner—through wounds with dirt or soil along the nerves to important nerve centers. The disease usually begins with restlessness and irritability, soon to be followed by stiffness of the neck and tightness of the jaws.

For a man, suspicious wounds were cleaned with disinfectant as soon as possible, and tetanus antitoxin administered. The antitoxin conveyed temporary immunity, and this effect is long sustained. It appears that in many instances it will last a lifetime, and in most cases the immunity has lasted as long as the technique has been known.

TOXOID INJECTION: Tetanus toxoid should be given in infancy, when the threat of tetanus begins. Those whose work involves the possible contamination of accidental wounds with dirt or soil should be immunized. This immunization is accomplished by the injection of three small doses of toxoid beneath the skin at intervals of four weeks. Little or no reaction is experienced, especially when the toxoid is given in early life.

Tetanus toxoid may be given with diphtheria toxoid, and immunity for both diseases established simultaneously. About one year after the administration of toxoid, or following a suspicious injury, an additional dose of toxoid greatly enhances the degree of immunity. It is still very important to cleanse any wound very carefully.

Preventive medicine recognizes the development of tetanus toxoid as a means of essentially eliminating the highly fatal disease from civil as well as military life.

Peter Edson's Column: HERE'S LATEST STORY ON PHILIPPINES

By PETER EDSON

A number of details on early stages of the conduct of the war in the Pacific, not previously made public, have just been released by Gen. George C. Marshall in his biennial report to the secretary of war, covering the period from July 1, 1941, to June 30, 1943.

During the summer of 1941, in co-operation with the Australian government, arrangements were made to improve the landing strips at Rabaul and Port Moresby, and to deliver bombs and gasoline to these points and to Balikpapan in Borneo and Singapore—which were later to fall into the hands of the Japanese.

With these installations completed, the first flights of Flying Fortress were started to the Philippines late in August. By November, 1941, Fortresses had completed the trip, going by way of Hawaii, Midway, then south through Rabaul, Port Moresby or Darwin, Australia, then north to the Philippines. A gap in plane deliveries from the factory, combined with adverse winds prevented the ferrying of an additional 46 Fortresses to the Philippines, prior to Pearl Harbor.

FINANCIAL BOTTLENECK: The problem of financing the defense of the Philippines during the fall of 1941 ran into a congressional stalemate. Fifteen million dollars were taken from the President's emergency funds, and an additional 10 million were taken from Air Force funds, but these sums were quickly exhausted. In September, the War Department asked authorization to expend on defense vessels by the amount of some $52 million available in Philippine sugar excise tax funds, but Congress debated, then denied the request and the War Department did not get the money it needed until the Third Supplemental National Defense appropriation act was passed on Dec. 17, 10 days after Pearl Harbor.

By October, 1941, 500,000 tons of supplies had been assembled for the Philippines, and 20,000 reinforcements. Eleven transports were scheduled to sail between Nov. 21 and Dec. 9, and five cargo vessels by Jan. 6. Six of the troop ships and nine of the cargo vessels were at sea when word of the Pearl Harbor attack was received. Four of the troop ships returned to San Francisco and the other two made Brisbane, Australia, after 15 days of silence.

How the bottom of the military supply barrel was scraped in the early days of the Pacific war is revealed in General Marshall's account of a visit from representatives of the government of the Netherlands East Indies, making a moving appeal for 25 million rounds of small arms ammunition. In the face of the Japanese threat, General Marshall took seven million rounds from mitsa reserve intended for troops in movement to Iceland and gave them to the Dutch. Four million rounds were moved immediately to the Philippines. REINFORCE GARRISONS: The attack on Pearl Harbor made necessary the immediate reinforcement of all U. S. garrisons along the west coast, in Hawaii, Panama and Alaska. In the first five weeks of the war, this involved a movement by rail of 600,000 troops with all their equipment and supplies. By June, 1942, 150,000 troops had been moved into the Southwest Pacific. U. S. forces on the Philippines were 100,000 Filipino militiamen, 12,000 scouts and 19,000 U. S. regulars, of whom 8000 were Air Force personnel. The planes numbered 250, of which 35 were Fortresses and 107 were P-40s.

World's Series To Open On Oct. 5 at Yankee Stadium

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The 1942 World Series, opening in New York's Yankee Stadium on Tuesday, Oct. 5, will be a one-trip affair.

The first three games will be played in New York and the remaining games in St. Louis, regardless of the number necessary to decide the series.

These plans were completed today as the Yankees and Cardinals moved toward the championships in the American and National leagues. The Cardinals need to win only eight more games to clinch the National League flag, while the Yankees must bag 14 more, based on figures before today's games were concluded.

The details were worked out at a meeting presided over by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, and attended by Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, Charles McManus, representing the New York Yankees, and Ford Frick, president of the National League.

If the series should go seven games, it was decided, there will be a day of rest between games six and seven in order to sell tickets for the seventh. The tickets customarily are sold in blocks covering three games each. It was also decided to allow two days of travel after the first three games.

This the fourth game will be in St. Louis, Oct. 10.

All games will start at 1:30 p. m. The profits of games three, four, six and seven, after the players' pool is taken out, go to War Relief and Service, Inc., a baseball organization handling funds raised for charity. This organization will turn over one-half of the receipts to the American Red Cross and the remaining half to the National War Fund, Inc.

Radio broadcasting rights were sold to the Gillette Safety Razor company for $100,000 and this, too, will be tossed into the charity pool. If the series goes seven games, Landis estimated that charity might receive $550,000. If the series goes only four games, the amount would be only about $400,000, Landis said.

The usual World's Series prices will prevail, with box seats for the New York games selling for $6.00, grand stand $5.70, general admission $3.30 and bleachers $1.10.

At St. Louis, however, because of a Missouri state tax, these prices will prevail: box seats $6.90; grand stand $5.75; general admission $3.45 and bleachers $1.15.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Mel Ott has a new three-year contract to manage the Giants and, in our opinion, he'll have a three-year headache just like this year's unless he makes up his mind to become a bench manager. . . . That isn't to say Ottie is washed up as a ball player, but as boss of the Giants he'll not only have to handle the club on the field but also plan out any steps to strengthen the club, keep tabs on minor league prospects and do practically everything but sell tickets. . . . And nobody can handle all those jobs and play a good ball game too. . . . Of course, the situation may be improved if the story is true that Leo Miller, the Syracuse Chiefs' business manager, will move into the Giants' front office.

Performance Of Players Is Cited

Both good and bad points of the 1943 Harvesters showed up during the grid club's first scrimmage of the year against the Irish at Shamrock Friday afternoon, Coach Otis Coffey reported Saturday in discussing prospects for the Pampa High school team.

Neither team attempted to score during the practice session. Each eleven ran the ball for a 10-minute period, and after each play, the ball was brought back to midfield. "Our punting was better than expected," the Pampa coach said. "Billy Sheehan looked good in placing his kicks and he received good protection." Coffey estimated that Sheehan averaged 40 yards on his tries, kicking out of bounds.

Other players showing up well were Billy Washington and Dick Manry. Gene Robbins, blocking back, was hit on the head in the first play of the game, and the coach removed him, but the injury was only minor and Robbins is all right now.

Runners Look Good. Manry also looked good in broken field running, the new mentor went on, and Johnny Campbell and Jim Berry also showed much promise in this department.

As blocking backs, Sheehan again shone, while Don Warren and Jimmy Berry showed up well. Billy Bird, end; Reginald Bridges, center; Herky Lane, guard and Lewis Allen, tackle, looked good on defense, the coach said.

"I was not disappointed by the showing of the squad as a whole," Coffey asserted, "but we still have lots of work to do to iron out the rough spots. . . . Our pass protection was very poor, and we'll have to spend a lot of time on this. Although punt protection was good, we get our kicks off in two seconds and it takes longer for the passer to get away from the ball."

Line Shows Scrap. Among the ball tossers are Sheehan, Manry and Berry. The line showed lots of scrap and pepper, emphasized the coach, but he declared that the boys still had lots of work to do to come up to regular season form.

Shaerock and Pampa will scrimmage again here Tuesday, the time to be decided later. The coach also announced that regular twice-daily practice sessions will continue during the coming week, since school opening has been postponed another week.

"Our defense against running attacks showed weakness," said Coffey, "although I am satisfied at the rate of progress."

The football headman explained that all of the boys got to play in Friday's scrimmage, and only lack of space prevents him from commenting on the performance of each lad.

"We're not neglecting a single boy," he said, "and we are looking toward the future." He revealed that school officials are trying to get another "B" coach to assist in handling the boys. He said excellent cooperation is being received from Charles Criswell, assistant coach.

Other boys the coach commented on were Joe Kree, full defensive end; Larry Fuller, an end coming around fine; Raudall Clay, the best offensive end; Friday; Bobby Curtis, left guard, good on the offensive; Herky Lane, good, aggressive defensive man; Louis Allen, tackle, good line blocker; Co-Capt. John Paul McKinley, who played up to expectations and likes the going rough and tough; Done Rowe, good blocking tackle, and Gene Turner, defensive tackle, who alternate; Wayne Broyles, looked good at end; and Junior Coffey, who looked pretty good returning punts.

Panhandle Beats Friona 6 to 0

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS. PANHANDLE, Sept. 11.—Panhandle Panthers defeated the Friona Chiefs 6 to 0 in the opening football game of the season here Friday night. On the first play in the fourth quarter John Franklin skirted around his right end for 28 yards to score. Marvel's try for goal was locked.

This was the first game under the new Panhandle coach, James McDaniel, formerly coach of the Canadian Wildcats. McDaniel succeeded Jack Atkins, who is now assistant coach and director of athletics in Midland High school.

Panhandle will play at Hereford Friday night in another non-conference game. Hereford was Regional 1 champions last year.

Friona carried the ball to the Panther 8-yard line in the second quarter, but lost it on downs.

The line-ups: Friona—Tackleton, r. c.; Buchanan, rt; Renner, rg; Johnson, c; Leach, lg; Thompson, lt; Norwood, le; Stark, qb; Weis, fb; Manderscheid, lb; Roden, rlb.

Panhandle—O'Keefe, re; Ketchum, rt; Towe, rg; Hawley, c; Wigham, lg; Steplein, lt; Smith, lb; Pruitt, qb; Marvel, fb; Franklin lb; Anderson, rlb.

Officials—Simpson, South Carolina, referee; Griffith, Oklahoma, U. umpire, Christman, North Texas, head linesman.

Spud Chandler Wins For New York Yanks

BOSTON, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Spud Chandler stole the show today as the New York Yankees made it three in a row over the Red Sox, 4 to 0.

This is what Chandler, star Yank pitcher, accomplished: 1, he chalked up his 19th victory of the year against only three defeats, 2, it was his seventh straight win, 3, it was his fifth shutout of the year.

4, He shaved his earned run average to 1.71, 5, He fanned eight to raise his season strikeouts to 119 and 6, He yielded only seven hits and issued but one base on balls.

Enmett O'Neil, rookie Red Sox pitcher from Louisville, stayed on even terms with Chandler for six innings, but in the seventh the Yanks bunched three of their eight hits with two walks to account for all their runs.

Redbird Lead Stretched To 16 Games

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals stretched their National League lead to 16 games today when they beat the Chicago Cubs 9 to 1.

Al Brazier, Cardinal rookie, left-hander, limited the Cubs to eight hits, three of which came in the ninth inning when they scored their only run.

The Cardinals made a total of five hits off Eddie Hanyaszewski during the eight innings he presided, but they took advantage of two of the three Cub errors, got one hit at an opportune time and squeezed home a third run. In all, the Cardinals sacrificed five times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11.—(AP)—

Bobo Newsum spaced eight hits today to chalk up his third American League victory of the season and give the Washington Senators a 9-1 decision over the Philadelphia Athletics. Bob Johnson had three hits, including a homer, and George Case added two more thefts to his base-stealing collection.

Officers to Contest Phillips Net Players

A tennis team representing the Phillips Petroleum company will be in Pampa this afternoon for a clash with the Pampa Field officers' court squad at the high school courts, according to an announcement made at the air base yesterday.

The match is in the nature of a return engagement on the part of the Phillips players, who dropped a 6 to 1 decision to the local officers at Borger several weeks ago.

Playing for Pampa Field will be Col. Daniel S. Campbell, Capt. Francis Humphreys, Capt. Paul Dougherty, and Lt. Edward Alloo. Each will play a singles match, to be followed by a pair of doubles contests.

The matches will start at 3 p. m. Local tennis fans are invited to watch the contests free of charge.

BEAUMONT, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Buddy Scott of Tampa, Fla., and Dallas again is Texas heavyweight boxing champion.

He regained the title last night with a clean-cut decision over Jack Marshall, to whom he lost it in a fight last spring in Dallas, also Marshall's home city. Scott weighed 182, Marshall 192.

The crafty and elusive Scott followed jabbing lefts with straight right blows to the head and rolled up point after point from the opening going. He had Marshall groggy in the 14th and 15th rounds.

Seven Ways to wear out Electric Refrigeration

- 1 Put steaming hot foods in the refrigerator. This increases the inside temperature and overworks the motor. (You should give hot foods sufficient time to cool.)
- 2 Overload your refrigerator with too much food. (This prevents proper circulation of cold air.)
- 3 Let a "blanket of frost" collect on the freezing unit. (When frost is more than one-fourth inch thick, it's time to defrost. In hot weather, frost collects faster.)
- 4 Use a sharp instrument to pry ice trays free. (You may puncture the freezing compartment and cause serious damage. Remove ice trays carefully.)
- 5 Run your refrigerator on "high" longer than necessary when you are freezing desserts or other foods. (When the freezing is finished, you should turn control to normal.)
- 6 Permit a heavy accumulation of dust and lint to remain on the condenser. (This shuts off cool air and requires extra work for all refrigerator parts.)
- 7 Try to fix your refrigerator yourself when trouble develops. (You'll save money, and may save your refrigerator, by calling a reliable refrigerator service man.)

Soldiers Given Extension On Income Tax

Pampa field soldiers won't have to worry about filing a declaration of estimated tax on Sept. 15, according to a recent treasury department order relieving military personnel of the responsibility of submitting such statements.

Instead, any taxpayer now in the military service "is hereby granted an extension of time for such period as may be necessary but not beyond March 15, 1944, within which to file the declaration of estimated tax." This may be found in treasury decision 5291.

To benefit from this extension it is not necessary to obtain specific permission for the extension from the collector of internal revenue. Any member of the armed forces may avail himself of this special privilege at any time he sees fit up to March 15, 1944.

The current tax payment act required service taxpayers whose liabilities were not completely forgiven to file an estimated tax covering the 1943 calendar year on Sept. 15. That portion of the tax which was not paid March 15, 1943, was to be paid in two equal installments, one-half being paid at the time of the declaration of the estimated tax and the rest Dec. 15, 1943.

If a change of status, such as a promotion or an increase in the number of dependents, occurred after Sept. 15, an amended declaration could be filed in December of this year, with adjustment of payment being made at that time.

Under this procedure military personnel would start 1944 free of all tax liability unless individual deferment of tax liabilities until after the war, had been obtained.

It is possible for military personnel to still use this system if they desire, but those who choose to do all their computing at one time may delay filing returns until March of next year. It is still obligatory for civilians to comply with the original procedure.

the Dnieper and the possible encirclement of the huge enemy forces.

The precipitate German withdrawal, now more and more acknowledged officially by Moscow, and indirectly by Berlin, suggested that the Germans might not even attempt to hold all points along the curving Dnieper once it is reached.

Reports reaching London said German generals were convinced that a retreat clear to the Dnieper river would be the best strategy in southern Russia because of Allied threats in the west and south even though this meant giving up a huge territory won at such frightful cost in men and equipment.

'Democracy First,' Is Wallace's Cry

CHICAGO, Sept. 11—(AP)—Vice President Henry A. Wallace submitted to the nation tonight the slogan "Democracy First" in the peace to come.

"The battler, 'America first,' means that sooner or later we shall find ourselves alone, encircled and fighting against a hostile combination," he said.

"But the slogan, 'democracy first,' intelligently followed up and vigorously applied, can lead to peace. As a matter of fact, it is only by applying the principles of 'democracy first' that we can have any chance of lasting peace."

The vice president's speech was prepared for a Chicago stadium rally sponsored by the Chicago United Nations committee to win the peace, supporting the Ball-Burton-Hatch Bill senate resolution for international post-war collaboration to preserve the peace.

Wallace expanded "freedom from want" into seven freedoms and said the first step toward getting them for the senate to pass the Ball-Burton-Hatch resolution.

"I am for the resolution (for a board to hear international disputes, a military force to prevent military aggression and other machinery) as far as it goes, but it doesn't go far enough," he said. "There should be provision for joint action on the problem of unemployment and overproduction due to international causes. There must be power to deal with those international cartels which are strangling production, competing unfairly or using methods which lead to war."

dash of Italy's fleet from the German grasp in its greatest show of spunk during the entire war, in which it has been largely inactive.

The battleships, cruisers and destroyers steamed into port under friendly escort by British warships after a half-hour battle with German bombers which attacked them off Corsica and split in two the Roma.

Linea dispatches corrected previous reports by saying that no Italian ships were visible at Gibraltar from the Spanish town across the frontier.

(At least five and possibly six of Italy's seven battleships have now been accounted for, and seven of its 10 cruisers definitely located. Twelve of its 25 destroyers were in Allied hands or interned by the Spaniards. Fifty to 60 submarines are still unaccounted for.)

In addition to the Italian warships, there were indications that the United Nations would gain some portion of Italy's merchant fleet, although many were at northern ports now in German hands.

The 17 ships which arrived in Malta late last night and early this morning came in two flotillas from Tarento, now in Allied hands, and La Spezia, south of Genoa.

Almost from the moment they left port they were under observation of Allied reconnaissance planes which were helpless to aid them until they came within the range of Allied fighter protection.

The Germans found them near the Straits of Bonifacio between Corsica and Sardinia and a crack British reconnaissance pilot, in the rare position of an observer with a perfect, if dangerous, front seat gave a graphic account of the spectacular fight.

Wing Commander H. Law-Wright told this story:

"The first sign of the attack we saw was when the ships opened fire. For a moment we thought they were firing at us and we took violent evasive action. Then we saw flak bursts far above us, obviously aimed at the high-flying attack."

Law-Wright piloted his Marauder out of range to give the ships gunners free hand and the German bombers pressed the attack for a half hour.

"We saw enormous explosions on one of the battleships. Then creamy white smoke went up about three or four thousand feet. We saw a stick of four bombs aimed at a destroyer but they missed. The smoke on the battleship subsided and it looked as if it was getting under way again.

"Throughout the attack the ships had taken excellent evasive action and their anti-aircraft fire was accurate.

"We flew over the ships and took a look at the damaged ones. We arrived just as it was sinking. Under a big column of smoke we saw the stern under water and the bow sticking up. The ship appeared to break in two and folded up with the control tower and keep forming a as the ship slowly disappeared.

"The Marauder at the scene of the sinking saw a Regio class cruiser and six destroyers steaming around a large patch of oil looking for survivors. Going back to the fleet, Law-Wright saw two German planes attacking from between seven and 10,000 feet.

"Every ship was putting up accurate anti-aircraft fire," he said. "It seemed impossible for any aircraft to live through it. One of the Huns dove at a steep angle, apparently out of control."

Before leaving the vessels, the wing commander signaled "au revoir" which the Italians acknowledged.

Once the ships arrived within fighter range they were covered for the remainder of the trip and one RAF pilot arranged for a British warship escort.

Deaths Reported in Jap Tremor

NEW YORK, Sept. 11—(AP)—The office of war information said today a Tokyo broadcast reported a "rather severe" earthquake shook southwestern Japan last night, killing many persons.

Great damage was reported in the city of Totori, capital of Inaba province, with a population (1930) of 32,600.

The quake was strong enough to be felt in the cities of Kobe, Osaka and Hiroshima but there was little damage in these three cities, Tokyo reported.

The Domei dispatch said many houses collapsed in Totori, which is nearly 400 miles west of Tokyo, and that rescue parties were digging into the ruins of the demolished homes for possible victims.

and road center of Catanzaro.

Nazi troops between this invasion area and Naples suffered very heavy losses under attacks by American dive bombers whose repeated bombing and strafing assaults pinned long motor convoys, northbound, to a virtual standstill throughout yesterday.

Allied heavy and medium bombers also gave the Fifth Army sturdy support in the grim battles raging in the Salerno-Naples zone. The Luftwaffe threw carefully hoarded fighters and bombers into action in increasing numbers but their efforts were aimed almost entirely at Allied ground forces fanning out from beachheads near Salerno and American and British planes were virtually unmolested on bombing forays.

At Taranto, inside the heel, British troops completed their occupation of the town and naval base. (Radio France at Algiers said the British were moving ahead from Taranto in three directions.)

A small Allied force landed on the island of Ventotene off Naples, where the Germans surrendered after a stiff fight. Ninety-one Germans were captured. The Italians offered no opposition.

(A German communique declared that the Italian naval base of Pola on the Yugoslav side of the Adriatic sea and the island of Rhodes in the Dodecanese had surrendered to the Germans.

"The Nazi war bulletin asserted further that "our troops have marched into Milan, Turin and Padua." Another German broadcast declared that "the major part of the Italian peninsula is under the control of German armed forces."

The air warfare continued over central and southern Italy, with the enemy offering little opposition to the Allied formations attacking communications routes and air fields. Much of the German air strength, however, was reported switching to offensive tactics, especially in the Naples area where German planes attempted to bomb Fifth Army troops.

Meat Probers Grob Is Valid

AUSTIN, Sept. 11—(AP)—Attorney General Gerald Mann said in an opinion today that a legislative resolution setting up a committee to investigate the alleged sale of meat unfit for human consumption in Texas is valid, and that the committee may continue its inquiry in the interim between the last legislature and the next.

The opinion was requested by Rep. V. O. Goodman of Fort Worth, vice chairman of the committee.

In another opinion Mann said he purchased tax-free at a post-exchange can not be legally possessed outside the military reservation.

Actress Attacker Is Recaptured

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 11—(AP)—Pvt. George F. Rimke, convicted actress, today was on his way back to the March Field, Calif., army guardhouse from which he escaped Thursday evening.

S. S. Hahn, Los Angeles attorney, told newsmen that Rimke appeared at his office yesterday and asked to retain him as counsel in an attempt to get a new trial in the court-martial which resulted in a sentence of life imprisonment for the private.

Beer Shortage Will Continue

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—(AP)—Little hope of alleviating the present nation-wide shortage of beer was offered today by the War Food administration.

Reporting on a conference with a brewing industry advisory committee, the WFA said government limitations on production and transportation facilities would not permit satisfaction of increased consumer demands.

Production of malt in recent months has been greater than producers had estimated, but war and food uses for malt—such as smokeless powder, synthetic rubber, milk mixes, bakery products and confections—have led the WFA to impose limitations on beer making.

Of Cabbages and Queens by Jane Bara. There are forty-seven rules for winning a war. The first is to fight. Never mind the other forty-six.

Former Pampans who recently enjoyed an evening's entertainment of dinner-dancing and glamorous stage show, surrounded by many of Hollywood's stellar personalities at the Earl Carroll Theatre Restaurant in Hollywood, Calif., were chief guests at the home of Mrs. Albert Hollenbeck.

Are you living in your dinky little two room apartment and getting pretty sick of it? Well consider yourself lucky my lady! In fact, consider yourself very, very lucky!

So swift was the North African round-up that Nazi generals were captured before heart attacks could be ordered from Berlin.

There are just two words that I cannot stand, the executive told his new assistants, "never use them in my presence. One of them is 'swell' and the other is 'lousy'."

Strictly feminine—WAVES are now permitted to marry service men since the restrictions were lifted last year.

Gasoline rationing will put the country on its feet.

A number of women have volunteered their services for hostesses at the USO whenever they have time to give.

BY APPOINTMENT—The big business man had died and gone to—well, not to heaven. But hardly had he settled down for a nice long smoke when a heavy hand slapped him on the back and into his ear boomed the voice of a persistent salesman who had pestered him much on earth.

Everyone seemed to enjoy the rodeo no little end, George Wilson, a GI product from Boston, sat on the corral fence to watch them rope 'em and the 'em, and got so excited that the spectators had more fun out of watching him than they did the cowboys.

It's off to college for another year! Miss Ellen Mary Haley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Haley and Miss Patricia Blissett, daughter of Mrs. E. W. Blissett, will leave today for Xavier, Kan., where they will attend the St. Mary's college.

Mrs. C. P. Buckler, chairman of surgical dressings, announces that surgical dressings, announced that vior of surgical dressings, is to be in Pampa Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 13 and 14, for a course of instruction in surgical dressings work. Mrs. Buckler emphasizes that it is of the greatest importance that all chairmen and co-chairmen attend this conference. The first meeting is to be at 2:00 p. m. Monday—in the surgical dressings' workroom.

Reminder to all surgical dressings workers: On Wednesday, Sept. 15, the regular schedule of work will be resumed at 9:00 a. m. Mrs. Buckler hopes that workers will return with renewed energy, for we have a large quota to fill. Thousands of these dressings are needed now on the battlefields. Let us not be guilty of sending "too little and too late." Instead, resolve that it shall be "Enough, and on time."

One has only to read the list of articles included in last week's shipment from the production room to appreciate the vast amount of work that has been done within a few months time. 115 pairs of demolition gloves, 76 fracture pillows, 30 convalescent robes, 55 pajamas (size 36), 45 pajamas (size 40), 16 lap robes, 3 quilts, 10 fracture pillow cases, to name only a few items. In the knitting department, there is an equally formidable array: 12 pairs knitted army gloves, 17 muffers, 17 navy turtle-neck sweaters, again mentioning but a part of the list. In a summer of unprecedented home canning, the American Red Cross warns of accidental injuries in the kitchen at canning time.

Among the most serious injuries from canning are burns caused by scalding and cuts resulting from the breaking of fruit jars as lids are being tightened. Housewives should be careful of burns on the hands resulting from an attempt to lift hot vessels without the use of pan holders or gloves. Certainly it would be unfortunate, in the patriotic attempt to add to the nation's reserve of foodstuffs, to incur personal injuries brought about by careless practices. Every home canner should heed carefully the safety rules before undertaking her kitchen project.

CAUTIONS: Keep small children out of the kitchen when you are working with boiling liquids and hot jars. And remember that keen-edged knives, steaming kettles, and sharp utensils fascinate children, but cause ugly injuries. Check to see that you are supplied with heavy bowls that will not crack or tip easily. Keep liquids off the floor to avoid slipping and falling. Check each fruit jar to make sure it is not cracked, before you pour hot liquids into it. Don't take chances with paraffin. Use an asbestos pad under the vessel you are melting it in—and remember that addition of water to hot paraffin will cause an explosion. Let the pressure go down to zero and open the pet-cock gradually, before you attempt to open a pressure cooker.

Baptist Students Get Tuition Paid
WACO, Sept. 11.—(AP)—The tuition of ministerial students attending Baylor university and other Baptist schools in Texas during the school year beginning Sept. 21 will be paid by the Baptist general convention of Texas.

President Pat M. Neff of Baylor university, in making the announcement, said that a $75,000 item for that purpose was included in the budget drawn by the general convention's board at Dallas Tuesday.

Meeting of Firemen At Berger Cancelled

Fall convention of the Panhandle Firemen's association, which was to have been held in Berger Tuesday, has been cancelled, Fire Chief Ben R. White, of Pampa, association president, said Saturday.

Chief White said he had received a postcard from W. V. Coursey of Memphis, association secretary, stating that the Berger fire department had found it impossible to make arrangements for the delegates.

No further explanation was given. Chief White said it was his opinion that due to war conditions, the Berger department was busy like all others and could not proceed to make arrangements as would be possible in peace times.

The association meets twice a year, once in the spring, once in the fall. Childress was the convention city for the association last spring.

Cancellation of the fall convention means that the next meeting will be in May, 1944. Berger has offered to be host to the firemen at that time.

Scoutmasters Hold Roundtable Meeting

The first meeting of the Gray district Scoutmasters roundtable was held Friday night at the Scout office in the city hall with W. O. Prewitt, chairman, presiding. Material and instructions were given to the group on the district message plan contest and the six-point program of emphasis, which was approved by the district committee in their meeting on Thursday night.

The Adobe Walls council has accepted President Roosevelt's challenge to the Boy Scouts of America to reach more boys and to strengthen our existing troops that they may do a better job of Scouting. All troops of Gray district will have a part in the fall program and will do their part that the local council may reach its goal.

The following Scoutmasters attended: Ray Goodnight, Troop 80; James A. McCune, Troop 14; David Eaton, Troop 16; P. C. Laffoon and D. R. Bridges, Troop 21; W. O. Prewitt, Troop 4 and Hugo O. Olsen, scout executive. Several Scoutmasters had to attend a called meeting of the Texas State Guard, so were unable to be present at this meeting.

Meeting of Oil States Called

TOPEKA, Kas., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Every oil producing state has been asked to send a representative to the quarterly meeting of the interstate oil compact commission in Santa Fe, N. M., Sept. 24 and 25. Gov. Schoepel, chairman, disclosed.

Two principal topics of discussion will be gasoline rationing and post-war uses of natural gas.

'Pilot 5' Best Drama Among Week's Movies

By BROWNWOOD EMERSON

Despite the old jive, the old songs, the new songs, and all the rest of the razzle-dazzle that goes to make up 20th Century-Fox's film musical "Stormy Weather," and despite the smashing "Mission to Moscow," which is either the most blatant propaganda ever put on the screen or a great, historic picture saluting the Russians, I think the top-flight film of this week in Pampa is Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Pilot 5"

The reason I pick the aviation picture is not solely because it contains action, Franchot Tone, and Marsha Hunt, but because it has two different angles.

First, the film tells the story of political corruption in this nation, and does it without any danger of being accused of fifth columnism. This is adroitly done by showing Tone as a brilliant young law student who runs afoul of gangster politicians, later joins the army.

Second, there is a novel twist that rings the bell in the method of unfolding the plot. Tone takes off from a Java field against a Jap plane carrier.

Tone's commanding officer, curious about the man he has selected from six pilots as the one to go on a suicide mission, seeks to learn more about him by asking questions of the five remaining airmen. The others tell about him, thus telling the story of Tone's life.

It's a unique method of building up a plot and adds punch to the film. David Hertz was the author of this drama.

Lena Horne on the screen is every bit as exciting as she is on the stage or in night clubs—as critics the country over have found "Stormy Weather," the sensational 20th Century-Fox musical current at the La Nora Theatre. The sultry songstress puts her heart into her songs in the film which also features Bill Robinson and Franchot Tone, and Gene Kelly head the cast.

Back on the time schedule: "Stormy Weather," 20th Century-Fox, with Lena Horne, Bill Robinson, Cab Calloway, and songs all the way from "Ain't Misbehavin'" to "My, My, Ain't That Somethin'", including the title melody, at the La Nora today through Wednesday.

"Mission to Moscow" is at the same theater for the balance of the week. "Andy Hardy's Double Life," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, another in the Hardy family series, with Andy (Mickey Rooney) facing a breach of promise suit and being otherwise in hot water before he starts for college. The regulars are in the cast, Lewis Stone, Fay Holden, Cecil Parker, Ann Rutherford, and Sara Haden, the latter of Galveston. At the Crown today through Tuesday.

They had all watches but they couldn't tell directions when they lost their compass. Yes, there is a way this can be done with watches. Despite this inaccuracy, 20th Century-Fox's picturization of John Brophy's "Immortal Sergeant" is good film fare. Action, direction, and plot are good. Briefly it is the yarn of a British army patrol lost in the Libyan desert. Henry Fonda and Maureen O'Hara are the principals. At the State today, tomorrow, and Tuesday.

The Warner Bros. production of that G. I. army show, "This Is the Army," has been voted the BOX-OFFICE Blue Ribbon award for August. The selection is made each month by the National Screen Council.

Proceeds from this month's winner go to the army emergency relief fund but the crowds that are attending the showings all over the country are being well entertained by this Technicolor musical. It stars George Murphy and Joan Leslie with an almost exclusive army cast and is expertly directed by Michael Curtiz. The Irving Berlin songs are proving to be as popular as ever with the great American public.

CLOSE: Robert Walker, the sensational sailor in "Bataan," who was so good in that picture that he was cast for the second male lead in "Madame Curie" even before "Bataan" was finished, almost missed his big opportunity—in his first test for the part in "Bataan." Walker played the sailor as a young man of about 34—Director Tay Garnett, instead of tossing out the test and getting a new actor for the part, had a long talk with Bob, explaining that the sailor was only a lad in his teens—another test was shot—and Bob was well-liked perfect, and he's doing so well in "Madame Curie" that he has been cast for the lead in "See Here, Private Hargrove," even before "Madame Curie" with Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon, is finished.

As might be expected, a flock of rationing gags are going the rounds of the set where Wallace Beery is making "Rationing" at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

For instance, Marjorie Main, who plays a ration board supervisor in the comedy, was telling Beery and other members of the cast about a particularly leathery steak she had

Look into Your Heart before you give me your Answer!

MY NAME isn't important. I'm just one of the millions of fellows over here fighting for America. I'd like to speak for these fellows—to you folks back home.

You see, I think I know what's in their minds, because we often talk things over among ourselves. Mostly we talk about home—about the places we came from and the things we plan to do when we get back. Right now, especially, we're thinking a lot about home, for we're in the bloodiest battles of history—and we know that some of us will not come back. Some of us will never see again the ones we love.

But—we've got a job to do and we're going to do it. What I want to say to you folks back home is this: we'd like to think that you are with us in this bitter struggle of invasion. It would help a lot to know that you are really behind us, backing us up 100 per cent. It's going to take a heap of ammunition—and ships and planes, tanks and guns, to beat the Axis. That's what the 3rd War Loan is for; it's for INVASION. Most of us fellows in the service are putting every dollar we can into War Bonds. But you folks back home will have to carry the big load. We've got to depend on you. Don't fail us, will you?

Yes, it's to you this boy is looking in this critical hour. Today America calls upon you to do your part in the 3rd WAR LOAN. And your part is at least one EXTRA $100 War Bond during the drive. AT LEAST $100. That's in addition to your regular War Bond subscriptions. Invest more if you possibly can—some of you must invest thousands in order to reach our national quota. Invest out of your income—invest out of your idle or accumulated funds.

Remember, this money must come from individuals like yourself. Each and every one must do his share.

Let's do it the American way—willingly, gladly. Do it with the knowledge that you are putting your money into the safest investment in the world—to be paid back with interest by your government.

Sacrifice today—you will be richer for it tomorrow. Back the invasion now—buy at least one extra $100 War Bond in September.

Your Answer is Either "Yes" or "No" in this Roll Call of the Nation—

YES I will honestly do my best to invest in at least one extra $100 War Bond during the 3rd War Loan Drive. I will lend my Government this money gladly to back up our fighting men.

NO I am not lending any of my money to my country, I'm spending it. Sure, I know the boys who are fighting for me need support, but let somebody else make the sacrifices.

Your answer will be given in the number of EXTRA War Bonds you invest in during September.

3RD WAR LOAN

15 BILLION DOLLARS (Non-Banking Quota)

Increase of 20 Per Cent Seen For Wheat Crop

Approximately 20 per cent more Texas Panhandle land will be planted to wheat this fall than was planted last year, according to a group of wheat growers and county extension agents who attended a meeting held at the Methodist church Thursday.

The estimates were compiled by averaging increases planned by the growers present and upon conversations they had previously with neighbors.
The group of farmers came from six counties and represented a cross-section of type and size of operations.

At the same time, the growers looked farther ahead to agree that within a year or two after the war is ended, they will again be asked to reduce wheat acreage considerably.

Most of the increased acreage is expected to come from summer fallow land, partially disrupting the most Panhandle farmers, and from row crop or grain sorghum feed land. In some sections, land formerly sown to barley will be planted to wheat, but in others, it was indicated barley land will again be planted.

Utilization of wheat as a winter pasture was emphasized as being of prime importance this year due to the scarcity of blended concentrate feeds. Wheat pasture contains sufficient protein to take care of either dairy or beef cattle or sheep, it was pointed out in the discussions.

The meeting was a "Farmers' Forum," held under the joint sponsorship of the Texas A. & M. college extension service and the Farmer-Stockman, farm magazine,
Farmer-Deering, editor of the Farmer-
Stockman, president.

Farmers attending included: Welmar S. Tolbert, Rt. 2, Pampa; C.
L. Thomas, Pampa; Irving J. Cole,
Pampa; G. C. Brillhart and F. R.
Wallin of Hansford county; Edwin B. Carroll and J. A. Broadway of Carson county; and Sam Lasey, Jim Taylor and Plyd Keener of Sherman county.

Swarm of Liberators Make Most Successful Raid on Raangoon, Fighting off 20 Zeros

OSCAR OBSERVES
WITH AMERICAN LIBERATOR
BOMBERS OVER RAANGOON, Sept.
6—(Delayed)—In the most successful raid ever made on Raangoon, a swarm of American Liberators destroyed two large freighters totaling eight to 10,000 tons, damaged a cargo vessel, sank several smaller craft and started many fires in the dock area.

Then the big four-engined bombers beat off 15 to 20 Japanese Zeros in a savage aerial battle that lasted almost 50 minutes.

It was by far the greatest exhibition of bombing that I have seen in 16 combat missions. The Libera-tor gunners shot down at least five enemy fighters. Probably destroyed nine and damaged one.

All our planes returned safely although some, including the one in which I flew, bore jagged holes evidencing the accuracy and intensity of the Japanese anti-aircraft fire.

All told, four big waves of Liberators dropped more than 100,000 pounds of bombs on Japanese installations in Raangoon.

In a plane piloted by Lt. James Barzon, 22 of Birmingham, N. Y.,
I saw explosives aimed by Bombardier
Lt. Tanley Hood, 23, of Colville, Wash., crash into and around a 400-foot freighter anchored in the Raangoon river.

Zeros jumped us right after we had made the bombing run. The next 50 minutes seemed like 50 years.

The Japanese came from all directions, sometimes two or three at a time. Their aim was bad, otherwise
I might not be writing this.

I was leaning over the shoulder of the co-pilot, Lt. Col. Bertram Harrison, 26, of Leesburg, Va., when a piece of ack shattered the windshield in front of our faces, showering us with glass. None of us was injured but all of us were unnerved.

"I thought they got me," Col. Harrison said. "That was too close for comfort."

It was the second raid in three days over Raangoon who has just arrived for Harrison who has just arrived over the Andaman Islands he returned on three engines.

"I guess I must be bad luck," said Harrison, a West Point graduate whose wife and year-old daughter are living in San Antonio, Texas.

The Japanese made pass after pass until we were far out over the Bay of Bengal, but our gunners expertly kept them 75 or more yards away.

ton who think up the damfool regulations.

IDEAS—Cordell Hull's choice of C. B. Baldwin as director of economic operations in Italy created some misgivings in Washington until certain high officials gave a confidential explanation of the proposed set-up. They furnished assurance that the forty-one-year-old New Dealer, who has been associated with some of the discredited enterprises of the White House, will serve only as administrator, not as a policy maker.

Uneasiness regarding the selection arose from the fact that Mr. Baldwin originally came to the Capital under the auspices of Vice President Henry Wallace and apparently shared the lower's views to provide every inhabitant of the globe with a quart of milk a day.

Secondly, when he signed up with the Department of Agriculture ten years ago, he had only a limited business experience in a small Virginia town. It appeared that a post which should be filled by a Herbert Hoover was given to a disciple of Wallace, Rex Tugwell, Mrs. Roosevelt and other visionaries.

But "Baldy" acquired considerable skill in administrative affairs during his service with Mrs. F. D. R.'s resettlement organization and Farm Security. These agencies sought to improve the state of low income groups through Government assistance, and despite certain failures in these fields, provoking Congressional criticism, an impartial committee headed by Professor John D. Black, Harvard economist, and the Virginian's executive ability.

The Secretary of State picked him for the tektite job from a host of candidates. His appointment was approved by the interdepartmental Commercial Policy Committee headed by Dean Acheson, the conservative Assistant Secretary of State. And his real boss, besides Mr. Acheson will be W. Averill Harriman, White House backing.

Public Relations Officer Describes Jump From Transport During Pacific Campaign

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Sept. 11.—(AP)—Lt. Monte Kleban, San Antonio, Tex., assistant public relations officer in General Douglas MacArthur's command, made a parachute leap with the paratroopers who seized the western approach to Lae in the Markham valley Sunday.

He was the only reporter to leap here's Kleban's story:

"I counted one-two-three. With a tremendous jolt, my parachute rushmounded above me bringing painful end to the suspense. The suddenness of the drop was amazing. We had no time to guide our chutes, no time to look around. We found out later it was the lowest mass jump recorded.

"We were gazing at the fighters above us, forming a canopy as far as we could see, when the ready bell rang in our transport.

"Capt. Charles S. Galbreath, Tuscola, Ill., our jump master, shouted: 'This is it boys.'

"With muscles tense, 17 of us lined up in the aisle, hooked on to the static line. The bell to jump rang. There was an unwavering surge to the door and we were free from the transport.

"The stiff pit grass was a perfect blind and provided a merciful cushion.

"After freeing myself from the chute, I threw a round into my gun chamber, opened the safety and moved to the rendezvous point.

"Suddenly I saw something move off to the right. Two paratroopers almost stumbled over me and I asked where they were headed, but leaning they were to assemble at the same point as I.

"We decided to go together as a small patrol—Private John Nall, Jr., Winston Salem, N. C., Private H. W. Bell, Norfolk, Va., and I.

"About every ten steps we had to change the lead man as the thick, twelve-foot grass exhausted a man and left him gasping for air. With our 30 pounds of weight and heat, it was terrific.

"After walking to the woods, we took off our equipment, spread out our drying positions and tried to catch our breaths. While we lay in the shade, other men came up and joined the party.

"Catholic Chaplain Capt. John J. Powers, Oneonta, N. Y., threw himself down beside me, soaking wet.

"How goes it father, I asked.

"The priest answered, 'We made it, all right.'

"One of the men called out, 'Say, Father, don't you think the Japs will take a dim view of our doing this to them on Sunday?'

"Powers smiled and replied, 'Better the day, the better the deed.'

"1st Sgt. Charles A. Adams, Birmingham, Ala., came along and asked if we were ready to move, but it was terrific.

UNLOCKING ADVENTURE

By Charles Courtney
COPYRIGHT, 1943, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Charles Courtney is the world's highest paid legal Jimmie Valentine. This is the true story of his many adventures unlocking safes around the earth and under the sea.

CHAPTER XII

IT WAS New Year's Eve. In the sharp light of the one bulb over my desk, the shop looked like an alchemist's den in a surrealistic movie. The rows of lathes and key machines threw distorted shadows, and the festoons of keys, string after string of them hanging along the walls, made crisscrossed patterns on the floor. I was working late, examining a new lock-picking tool. My back was toward the street door, which was not locked because I had promised my wife to be at home in time to see the old year out.

As I bent over the tool, trying it out on a lock, a sudden faint noise caught my ear, the gentle turning of a knob. Swinging around, I saw two men with the collar of their overcoats turned up, their hats pulled down and heavy mufflers swathing their chins. They had stepped inside and were standing in the little outer fenced-off space reserved for customers.

"Mr. Courtney?" asked one of them. "We want to talk to you about a job."

"But the shop is closed now; I am just shutting up. I'll see you during business hours."

"No, it can't wait." They were edging me back toward the desk which was behind my dark, closed private office and out of range of the front shop windows.

I was in for trouble, that was certain. Their hands were in their pockets and they were probably armed, but they were too well-dressed for ordinary thieves.

Backing toward the corner, I stepped behind the desk and motioned them to sit down but the taller one, who walked ahead of the other, said briskly, "Keep later, the front door closed. I was seized with a wave of nausea, and everything was blotted out.

WHILE I lay in bed nursing my bruises, I did a lot of thinking. I was more strongly convinced than ever that economic pressure and the opportunity to make money quickly were tempting the locksmith to sell his skill to crooks. Chances to pick up a little dishonest money arose every day. Petty thieves bought duplicate sets of customers' keys, with the understanding that they would not use them until months later, to make it look like an inside job. And so it went, up to the big gangsters who needed expert locksmiths for their work.

This opportunity to take up safecracking was by no means my first brush with thieves. Even when they were not making me outright offers, they were trying one ruse after another to use me as a means of getting to be honest jobs. My ears still burn when I remember the man who asked me to pick the lock on his Cadillac. The handsome car stood parked on a corner opposite a cigar store, and since the man looked as if he owned it, I neglected to ask him for his license. I went with him and picked the door open. While I was inside, working at the ignition lock, my client said, "I'm going into the store to make a telephone call. Be back in a minute." I nodded and kept at the lock.

"What are you doing in my car?" shouted an angry voice. I looked up and saw an astonished man standing over me. There was no mistaking his indignation.

"This isn't your car," I stammered.

But it was, and it took a lot of explaining to convince him that I was doing what I believed was a legitimate job. Of course, the man who had gone to telephone was never seen again.

After that I took no chances.

Thursday afternoon we attended one of the sweetest weddings we have ever seen, when Audrey Jenkins

Presbyterian church. During the ceremony the organist played the most heavenly music very, very softly—it was so lovely. Neither of their families were present but enough cadets and their wives were there to represent them both. Audrey wore a two-piece crepe dress hat and veil, black accessories, and carried a lovely bouquet of white

Here's German Version of How Mussolini Fell

(By The Associated Press)
The Berlin radio has broadcast its version of Benito Mussolini's downfall—that Mussolini was "dragged by brute force" from the royal palace, strapped to a stretcher and spirited away in an ambulance.
His removal on July 25, the broadcast said, was the result of a secretly-planned coup d'etat behind the present premier, Pietro Badoglio.
"It seems to be certain," the broadcast said, that Il Duce was taken to Ponza island, in the Gulf of Gaeta about 75 miles southeast of Rome.
The radio gave this version of Mussolini's "abduction":
Il Duce had requested an interview with the king to request full powers to halt sabotage, the "cowardly desertion" of generals and other officers of the air force in Sicily, the "unsocial attitude" of superior Italian officers and corruption in the army.
He was taken completely by surprise when, at the close of the interview, the king said:
"I must inform you that your successor has already been design-

Milk Quotas For Dealers Planned

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—(P)— Striving to avoid either milk shortages or point rationing, the war food administration has decided to establish quotas for dealers, holding them generally to the amounts they have been selling in recent months.
The dealer quota plan follows up earlier announcements that consumption of milk and dairy products must be kept from increasing or shortages were inevitable.
The quota system will be put into effect first in urban areas, the agency said, and will be extended as facilities permit.
ated and in fact entered office.
This man is Marshal Badoglio. Put yourself at his disposal."
Mussolini answered that he felt strong enough, in order to save the Italian people, to oppose the crown and if necessary even the army.
As he left, he noted that his car and special guard had been removed from the palace entrance and ordered servants to bring it.
Instead, a colonel approached him and said:
"Your excellency, I have received an order to arrest you. Please enter this car."
The German broadcast said that the Fascist militia had been cryptically ordered to bring it.
Mussolini was powerless to resist.

LEGAL NOTICE
THE STATE OF TEXAS
TO: Carrie McCarty and Ben F.
McCarty, greetings:
You are commanded to appear and answer the plaintiff's petition and affidavit filed in the County Court of Gray County, Texas, on the first Monday after the expiration of 42 days from the date of issuance of this Citation, the same being Monday the 11th day of October,
A. D. 1943, at or before 10 o'clock
A. M., before the Honorable District Court of Gray County, at the Court House in Pampa, Texas.
Said plaintiff's petition was filed on the 10th day of February, 1943.
The file number of said suit being No. 7257.
The names of the parties in said suit are: R. A. Killian as Plaintiff, and Carrie McCarty, Ben F. Mc-Carty and Harry Loveless, as Defendants.
The nature of said suit being substantially as follows, to wit:
Plaintiff alleges he is the owner and holder of certain promissory vendor's lien note dated January 2, 1940, executed by defendant Harry Loveless, payable to the order of John E. Killian, and alleges there is the sum of $960.00 principal, together with accrued interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum due upon said note, together with 10 per cent attorneys fees. Plaintiff sues to foreclose the vendor's lien and a deed of trust lien upon Lot No. 9, in Block No. 1 of the White House Addition to the City of Pampa, Gray County, Texas, as well as to recover the total amount due upon said note. Plaintiff alleges further that the defendant Carrie McCarty and her present husband, Ben F. McCarty, own or are claiming to own the above described real estate or some interest therein, and he alleges that the interest, and ownership, if any, of each and all of the defendants, is inferior to the vendor's lien and right, title and interest held by the plaintiff in and to said property. Plaintiff prays for judgment for principal, interest and attorneys fees due upon said note, and for foreclosure of said liens, and prays for the appointment of a receiver to take charge of said property and collect the rents therefrom pending this suit.
Issued this 26th day of August, 1943.
Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Pampa, Texas, this 26th day of August,
A. D. 1943.
