HOUSE REVERSES SELF ON LIQUOR ACT

Twinkles
Much as we like to defend the dependability of newspapers, we confess that you can't depend on 'em in war time. Later histories usually contradict many of the best war yarns.

You can't believe what you hear about human wars either; anger makes folks see differently.

Americanism: Trying to end the debt by setting up projects abroad, then regretting not having enough men to work them.

PWA loans and grants were considered extravagant, but some of these WPA projects call for 75 to 95 per cent federal funds. We don't wonder that they're turned down.

A small town, where you can know the folks, located beside a big city where you can see things, is our idea of a good place in which to retire.

Musing of the moment: The world's wheat carryover continues about the same—800,000,000 bushels. Not counting the million Gary county hopes to add next summer. Political promises made last year seem to be just promises. Maybe the good die young; if so, the good folks seem to be having a lot of fatal auto accidents lately.

Brevitorials

OUR MAIL is extra heavy today, so we're going to share a few of the items with you. First on the heap is an advance release on Progressive Farmer, with the answer to the question, "What increased farm prices?"

Dr. George F. Warram of Cornell, who is given much credit for the president's gold devaluation policy and who certainly would not underestimate its influence on prices, estimates that 60 per cent of the cotton price increase is due to the devaluation and 40 per cent to the reduction in supplies. Oscar Johnson, manager of the Cotton Producers' Pool, attributes 50 per cent of the price increase to change in our monetary system and 50 per cent to Triple A activities. A careful analysis of all the data and of economists' varying viewpoints that led to the conclusion that with six varying sets of conditions of "what might have been" as mentioned below, cotton prices would have been as follows:—

1. With no cotton acreage control and no change in the gold-weight of the dollar, cotton prices would now be 5 to 6 cents.
2. With the 1933 cotton adjustment program but no 1934 cotton adjustment program and no change in the value of the dollar, 8 1/2 to 7 1/2 cents.
3. With the 1933 and 1934 cotton adjustment program but no change in the dollar cotton prices would now be 8 1/2 to 9 1/2 cents.
4. With devaluation of the dollar but no cotton adjustment program, cotton prices would now be 7 to 8 1/2 cents.
5. With devaluation of the dollar and the 1933 cotton adjustment program, but no 1934 cotton adjustment program, 9 1/2 to 10 cents.
6. With devaluation of the dollar and the 1933 and 1934 cotton adjustment programs (conditions which have existed), 12 1/2 cents.

ON THE SAME SUBJECT, Dr. A. B. Cox of Texas university writes that the change in U. S. policy toward the cotton problem is now one of encouraging marketing rather than holding by means of U. S. purchases and loans above the market price. He adds:

"One must not get the impression that this change of policy towards marketing this year's cotton crop on the part of the government will solve the cotton problem. The seriousness of the situation is revealed by the fact that the administration has had to resort to outright subsidy for the cotton growers in order to ease over an increasingly difficult problem. The subsidy which is in the form of a guaranteed price is equal to the difference between the price of middling 7-8 inch cotton in the ten designated markets on the day the farmer sells and 12 cents. On September 20, for example, the average price of middling 7-8 inch cotton in the ten markets was 10.58 cents. The subsidy payment for farmers who sold cotton on that date would be 1.42 cents regardless of the quality of the cotton or the prices they received."

"SUBSIDIES WILL be given only to growers who agree to cooperate in the Government's cotton program for 1936. This subsidy in conjunction with rental and benefit payments will probably secure the cooperation of most all cotton growers. The momentous decision of the government in the case of cotton, therefore, lies just ahead. Will the erroneous doctrine that planned short crops bring the farmers more money than large crops continue to shape government cotton policies? High values of occasional short crops due to unforeseen conditions furnished the base for this doctrine. It is not evident that we cannot have restricted production without planned restricted consumption? Have not the results of the last two years demonstrated that plan-

EXPENDITURE OF $90,909 IN CITY ASSURED

AUDITORIUM TO SEAT TOTAL OF 1,800 PERSONS

Pampa's PWA application for $90,909 to construct a high school auditorium and additions to the north and east ward schools was given presidential approval yesterday, with the understanding that the $90,909 grant would become effective when the $50,000 loan asked is validated by a school bond issue in that amount.

The grants were received by the school board from Senator Shepard, and by Gilmore N. Nunn, general manager of THE NEWS, from Congressman Marvin Jones. The congressman put his influence behind the local application. His telegram to Mr. Nunn follows:

"President approved loan and grant $90,909 Pampa Independent school district for constructing high school auditorium building and additions to two existing buildings. Estimated to require 6 months to complete. Loan $50,000 grant $40,909. He added that he was pushing the other Pampa applications under WPA."

The high school auditorium would be placed between the wings on the north side of the present building, independent as to construction but connected by corridors with each wing, with the main entrance on the north. A balcony, stage, and dressing rooms would be provided. A seating capacity of about 1,800 would make it the city's largest auditorium.

Employment would be furnished over a 6-month period. It is not likely that construction can begin before January 1. The bond election must be called and the issue approved before the 45 per cent grant or gift can be obtained. There could be no increase in the school tax rate, already at the maximum. Actually, the school district has nearly enough cash as a surplus in the interest and sinking fund, but cannot use it until an election is called. Moreover, 4 per cent bond's must be voted and deposited with the government to back the $50,000 loan. As a matter of financing, the cash surplus would likely be used to buy up 5 per cent outstanding bonds to save interest.

Plans for the auditorium were prepared by the school architect firm of Rittenberry & Carter of Amarillo. Julian Montgomery, state PWA engineer, revised the plans.

RAIL CAREER OF BROTHERS BOOMS AGAIN

Van Sweringers Have Four Obstacles To Surmount; Key Securities Bought.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—With controlling securities of their giant railroad network in their pockets, the Van Sweringer brothers of Cleveland steamed off on another phase of their rail career today.

On the way back to complete mastery of their railway system, the brothers will have to pass a number of danger signals, Wall Street banking circles said.

In these quarters it is believed that the actual bidding-in of the key securities by the Van Sweringers yesterday was merely a part of departure.

With the aid of George A. Tomlinson, Cleveland steamship operator and George A. Ball, Indiana glass jar manufacturer, the Van Sweringers bought at open auctions stocks and bonds which they had put up as collateral for loans which, with bank interest, totaled about $50,000,000.

The collateral was placed on the block by a banking group headed by the First National Bank of New York, J. P. Morgan & Co. The bankers realized about $4,703,000 and suffered a loss of approximately $45,397,000. The brunt of the loss, it was said in Wall Street, was borne by the Morgan firm.

Now that the Van Sweringers have bought back the collateral, they must surmount four obstacles, rail men declared.

First: They are confronted with pending receiverships of two of the units of their rail domain, the Missouri Pacific and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois. To this burden is added:

RESCUE SHIP LANDS GROUP AT KINGSTON

450 Passengers And About 250 Of Crew Of Stranded Liner Taken to Jamaica.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 1. (AP)—The 450 passengers and about 250 of the crew of the marooned liner, Rotterdam, came ashore today to the peace and hospitality of Jamaica.

They landed from the rescue ship, Ariguan, shortly before 7 a. m. in heavy frames of mind apparently unperturbed by the interruption of their pleasure cruise on a coral reef at Morant Cays, 60 miles southeast of Kingston, early yesterday.

Most of the passengers were asleep when the vessel went aground and they remained aboard ship until 4:30 p. m. yesterday when their transfer to the Ariguan began.

Mrs. Otto Schumacher of New York said she felt the ship bump and that then, after a brief interval, there were two other small bumps in quick succession. She realized then that the Rotterdam was aground.

Other passengers told how Capt. J. Van Duken, who is remaining aboard the Rotterdam with about 250 of the crew, and his officers comforted the passengers and they remained aboard ship until it was said the vessel had drifted from her course.

The S. S. Midas is among a group of ships which are standing by the Rotterdam today as she tries to back down off the reef.

Myrtle Bank and Constant Spring hotels, the latter of which was reopened to care for them.

They will return to New York Sunday on the S. S. Volendam.

200 P. O. Boxes Plugged For Non-Payment Of Rent

Two hundred boxes at the post-office were plugged this morning for non-payment of box rent for the next quarter. Owners will be given two days in which to pay the rent. After that time, the boxes will be sealed, the mail placed in general delivery or a route, and the boxes rented to persons on a long waiting list.

Need of extended mail service in residential districts is shown by the number of waiting lists for boxes. A survey of the city is expected to be made soon to determine if enough connecting sidewalks have been built to allow the additional service.

There are several additions in the city with enough houses to warrant mail delivery, but they are inaccessible in wet weather because of large gaps of dirt streets with no sidewalks.

Mrs. D. E. Roundtree was admitted this morning to Pampa Jarratt hospital to undergo medical treatment.

I Heard . . .

Joe Vincent, long before he came in sight this morning, "Yep, it's a boy, left-handed, just like his dad." The heir arrived at 1:30 o'clock this morning at Pampa hospital, weighing 6 pounds, 5 1/2 ounces. He has been named Joe Wiley Vincent. Mrs. Vincent's son was "just fine" at press time.

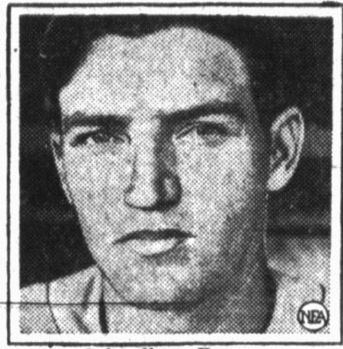

Frank Ford, veteran jurist from Decatur, county seat of Wise, discoursing on the liquor situation in Texas today. He predicted that the house and senate would not get together during this special session and that another would have to be called, with the question finally going to a committee, which also would not agree. "Too many jokers in the woodpile," remarked the veteran.

EX-SENATOR PURL ORDERED TO TELL OF HIS CHAIN STORE LOBBYING ACTIVITIES

chain store representative, relating lobby activities in Texas last spring. Senator Joe Hill of Henderson, whose motion also ordered Purl to bring all his correspondence with Lyons, said it was the committee's duty to pursue further the inquiry, "maybe not confining it to Purl."

Congressman Wright Patman of Texas temporarily discontinued his one-man investigation of chain stores after being advised by G. I. Lyle of Houston, official of the A. and P. stores, that authorization for supplying certain information sought by Patman had not been received.

BY-THE-DRINK PLAN NOW HAS A NEW CHANGE

SOLONS VOTE TO RECONSIDER LICENSE SYSTEM

AUSTIN, Oct. 1. (AP)—The house today refused to adopt a motion to clinch the victory scored yesterday by advocates of a monopoly system of control of the liquor traffic and indicated it would reconsider rejection of the private license plan.

The house voted 71 to 68 against the parliamentary motion to reconsider and table, leaving the way open for reconsideration of the vote by which the monopoly plan was adopted. Yesterday the house voted 72 to 67 for a monopoly over sales in unbroken packages in state stores with sales by the drink prohibited.

Despite the action, sponsors of the private dealer and sale by the drink bill faced another hard test. The first amendment pending would provide sale by licensed dealers only in unbroken packages.

The amendment was identical with a bill passed last week in the senate, 17 to 8, prohibiting sale of liquor for consumption on the premises where sold.

Monopoly leaders criticized overnight work of the part of private license advocates.

Rep. A. B. Tarwater of Plainview charged the people had definitely decided against both private license and prohibition, while Rep. Ross Hardin of Prairie Hill asserted adoption of the monopoly plan at this session would kill all chances of its adoption at the general election in November.

Majorities of the house and senate agreed yesterday that the sale of whiskey in unbroken packages should be a fundamental of liquor traffic regulation.

Band Uniforms Will Be Bought

Uniforms for most of the members of the high school band will be bought by the Athletic association. It was decided last night in a joint session with the school board.

The association also is considering the problem of enlarging the football stands for the Amarillo game. It is likely that the stands will be raised to the height.

The school board employed two more teachers last night. They are Miss Marjorie Savage, of Elk City, Kans., former student of Emporia Teachers college, and Miss Evelyn Sudbrook of Pease, former student of Sul Ross Teachers college. Miss Savage will teach at the Horace Mann school, second grade, and Miss Sudbrook will take the sixth grade at Baker school.

Reece Hardin Has Bullet In Cheek In Freak Mishap

Reece Hardin, now a resident of Dumas but formerly of Pampa, is being kidded about a black eye, but it is no laughing matter. In this session, he was shot in the cheek by a bullet from a 22 caliber rifle entering the side of his face a fraction of an inch below the eye. The bullet is still there.

The accident happened last Wednesday when Hardin, with a friend, LeRoy Barnhill of Dumas, were driving near Dumas shooting rabbits. They saw none and decided to have target practice at a tin can. Hardin was standing slightly in front and at an angle to Barnhill who was shooting at a can. A gust of wind caused the gun in Barnhill's hands to move as he fired. The bullet struck the bumper of their car and glanced, lodging in Hardin's cheek.

X-ray pictures are to be taken and the bullet removed when the swelling goes down.

Walter F. G. Stein, scoutmaster of troop 14, accepting a challenge of Harry Clay of troop 4, that he would have more boys for advancement at the next court of honor. Among other things, the losers must provide a picnic.

WTCC Asks Lint Law Be 'Called Off' In 1935-36

Plea Sent Wallace From Vernon Publisher

STAMFORD, Oct. 1. (AP)—A plea by the affiliates of the West Texas chamber of commerce for the allotment feature of the Bankhead cotton control act to be "called off" in West Texas in 1935-36 was on its way to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace today.

Ray H. Nichols, Vernon publisher and president of the regional chamber, said in a letter to Secretary Wallace that "a grim and clock-like nature, rather than fluctuating acreage planting really regulates the size of the West Texas crop."

"Drought," the letter stated, "is the big question mark in the cotton picture, and West Texas has had seven bad droughts in the 17-year period from 1917 in which production has fallen as low as 10 per cent of the normal."

DEATH ORDERED FOR SINGER IN WIFE DROWNING

Sherman Given Death Sentence By Jury Of Yankees

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 1. (AP)—A Yankee jury branded Newell P. Sherman a wife-murderer today in a verdict dooming him to the electric chair.

The wife, victim of "an American tragedy," whose rival was Sherman, was drowned from a canoe on Lake Singletary.

Judge Thomas J. Hammond told the jurors: "You can look the world in the face with the satisfaction that comes of a duty well performed."

The 242-pound slayer displayed no emotion as the verdict was announced at 12:52 a. m. (CST). None of his family was present.

The mandatory death sentence will not be pronounced until the defense has had opportunity to file an appeal.

League Concedes War Is Now Almost Inevitable In Africa

France Is Bargaining For Assistance Of England

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Foreign Staff
GENEVA, Oct. 1. (AP)—Members of the League of Nations today are halting war thoughts today on halting war, as soon as possible after its inception—war, in the opinion of many delegates, being now probable.

The opening of hostilities would mean a quick session of the council to consider the situation and determine who is guilty of having started the war. The principal concern of the league, however, would be to prevent European complications.

If there is council unanimity on the question of guilt, the matter of sanctions immediately rises.

League leaders are already examining the grave problem which may arise when Italy, as is deemed likely, would insist upon exercising the right of a belligerent. This right may include the stopping and searching and perhaps even seizing the merchant ships of neutral countries on the grounds that they are carrying war contraband.

Some league officials see complications from any such Italian insistence. They believe Great Britain, for one, would probably resist such an Italian policy on the ground that Britain is behind the league in enforcing peace and would not really be in a position to be neutral.

The Associated Press learned that several nations regard the situation as so serious they are closely exam-

WHAT FIRE PREVENTION MEANS TO YOU

The coming of Fire Prevention Week, which will be observed between October 6 and 12, makes it worthwhile to meditate on what fire prevention means to you as an individual, a taxpayer, a homeowner and a worker.

Fire prevention saves lives—yours and your loved ones. Thousands of people are now cremated each year because someone was careless.

Fire prevention is the friend of the home. Without it, your home may be burned to ashes—and insurance can never replace the many intangible values each home represents. Money cannot compensate for everything.

Fire prevention tends to keep taxes down. Each time a fire destroys taxpaying property, thus removing it from the tax rolls, higher taxes must be paid by all other property within the community.

Fire prevention keeps insurance rates down. Over a period of years, the rate for each locality is based upon fire loss—many fires mean high rates.

Fire prevention is the friend of employment. When a fire destroys a business, jobs are lost, and thousands of dollars in purchasing power is lost with them. Untold privation and misery can result.

Fire prevention means progressive towns and cities. Cases are on record where a single fire, destroying a town's main industry, has resulted in permanent retrogression, at the expense of property and all other values in the community.

Prevent fire—and save lives and money. Do your part during Fire Prevention Week.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—There is genuine prospect that "Rum Row" as it was known in prohibition days may be a thing of the past.

The various treasury agencies co-ordinating under direction of Harold Graves, assistant to the secretary, have "turned on the heat" to such extent that smuggling of illegal liquor has, for practical purposes, been cut to nothing at all.

Something like a year ago, when treasury agencies, such as the coast guard, alcohol tax division, customs men, secret service, internal revenue agents, and narcotic agents, were placed under co-ordination of Graves, liquor estimated at 2,000,000 gallons a year was being smuggled into the country from abroad.

Now the flood of illegal liquor is believed to be not more than a fifth of that, perhaps less, and certainly a trickle that is robbing the country of less than a million dollars a year in revenue and affecting the liquor market not at all.

Co-ordination of treasury agencies under Graves into a "Treasury Police" force numbering nearly 13,000 men is certainly responsible for a great deal of this curbing of smuggling.

Agreements reached with smugglers' bases such as St. Pierre Miquelon, Belize, St. Johns, and Cuba, to prohibit exports obviously destined for smugglers' trade, has done the rest. The "romance" of Rum Row is pretty much a thing of the past.

Point of the co-ordination of treasury agencies, in which Secretary Morgenthau has taken an active part and interest, is this: liquor smugglers are almost always mixed up in dope smuggling, immigrant smuggling, and domestic distribution of both.

Hence, to have the heads of the various forces concerned with those things meet weekly under the eye and direction of a co-ordinator was a logical step that made them all more effective. It has worked—in a great big way.

Graves, the lean, tanned, energetic man who sits in a plain office across the street from the White House, so close that you could toss peanuts over to the squirrels on the presidential lawn, doesn't put out much on the details.

Six radio trucks, capable of running up and down the coast to any needed point, have opened to government ears practically all the radio conversation between rum ships and their land contacts.

Messages can be relayed to recoding points and back again so fast that you (and the rum runners) would be surprised.

Further, the treasury's contacts with ports of shipment of illegal liquor have been perfected to the point where it is little exaggeration to say that Graves knows to the gallon where every bit of liquor is that evidently is destined for the smuggling trade.

And when 10,000 coast guardsmen, 250 narcotic agents, 1300 men of the alcohol tax unit, 150 customs agents, 650 border patrolmen, 180 secret service men, and some 200 men of the intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau are all turned loose as needed from a central direction, it is usually just too bad for the smugglers.

And that is why Rum Row, the picturesque creature of prohibition days, is practically a legend today.

CAPITOL JIGSAW

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, Oct. 1 (AP)—A hearing on the bill creating a new plan of compensating county officials was largely attended.

Rep. Herman Jones of Decatur, leaning across the hearing table, suggested it would be "a fine day for a bank robbery, for all the sheriffs are here."

Not all the sheriffs were present, but many. Also plenty of tax assessors, county clerks and judges.

Possibly for the first time in its history, the Texas legislature recently failed to pass a bill providing its own pay on the first day of a session.

The reason was a difference between the senate and house whether the former should have a new elevator. Senators long have wanted an elevator to carry them from the first and second floors to their offices on the third floor.

The stairs are long and steep and some of the senators are not as spry as they once were. Even the less portly have agreed there ought to be an elevator.

The house, however, thought differently, and attached a rider to the pay bill prohibiting use of the money for improvements to the capitol. That blocked senate plans to use money from their contingent fund for the elevator.

For a time it appeared that the legislators might be paid in scrip for without an appropriation bill there could be no cash; but two days without pay softened hearts of house members.

They withdrew their riders and everybody was happy.

L. W. Harris of Hillsboro, tax assessor and collector of Hill county, attended the hearing on the county salaries bill.

It was no new experience for him to stand in the legislative hall; some ten years ago he was a member of the house.

"Yes, I was a member of the thirty-eighth legislature," he prefaced his main talk. "Now I am tax assessor-collector in Hill county. It took ten years for me to live down that first term in office and get another chance."

Mrs. R. E. Kolner had as week-end guests Misses Wilma Jarrell and Luetice Quattlebaum, teachers in Hopkins school.

AUTO TRIP OF FOR FRAUGHT WITH DANGER

CAR FORCED TO TURN AROUND ON ROAD AT PRECIPICE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1 (AP)—A massed greeting by thousands of residents and school children awaited President Roosevelt here today as he neared the end of a western journey marked by the dedication of massive Boulder Dam.

The president's special train sped early today over Mojave desert toward the coast after Mr. Roosevelt experienced an unlooked for thrill on a narrow roadway on precipitous Mt. Charleston en route by automobile from Boulder Dam to Las Vegas, Nevada.

On a side trip up Mt. Charleston, the presidential car had to turn around on a narrow road which skirted a precipice, and although some members of the party held their breath momentarily, the maneuver was completed without incident.

The president was undisturbed and joked as the machine started down the grade. "I have the key to the situation," he laughed, holding up a key given to him in the ceremonies at Boulder Dam.

In the city's memorial coliseum, seating 100,000, Mr. Roosevelt's greetings to the people of Los Angeles and California was set for 12:18 p. m. (CST).

Three hundred thousand school children were given a full holiday by the board of education so they might see the president. Ten thousand teachers were included.

After the official reception at the coliseum the president was to ride to the national military home at Sattelle for a visit with veterans there. The return route led by the Westwood campus of the University of California at Los Angeles and Hollywood high school.

A bronze monument was to be unveiled by the president at the CCC camp in Griffin park. Another drive past a school, Alhambra Street elementary, a view of the site of the projected union passenger terminal, and the president's busy schedule was marked for conclusion with two hours of conferences in the afternoon with civic and political leaders.

Writ Of Habeas Corpus Refused Labor Agitator

AUSTIN, Oct. 1 (AP)—The supreme court today refused a writ of habeas corpus for Meyer Perlstein, representative of the International Garment Workers' union, sentenced to three days in jail in Dallas for contempt of court.

District Judge Towne Young formally committed the union leader yesterday for inciting striking garment workers in Dallas to acts of violence against factory employees.

The court held Perlstein violated an injunction by inciting workers to disrobe and spank several women employes on a downtown street. He contended it was without his knowledge or consent.

Perlstein also was fined $100.

Oil Production Shows Decrease

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 1. (AP)—Every major area except Michigan showed a decrease last week to bring total United States crude oil production down 15,068 barrels to 2,796,331 barrels a day, the Oil and Gas Journal says.

California, with output down 10,150 at 633,600 barrels, led the reduction.

Texas production dropped from 1,078,735 to 1,78,349 barrels. East Texas production fell from 483,919 to 481,020 barrels.

Oklahoma crude output declined from 494,823 to 492,150 barrels; Kansas from 151,500 to 147,550; the Rocky mountain area from 112,590 to 111,810.

Eastern fields, including Michigan, increased production from 152,566 to 155,470 barrels.

The party will be at 7:30 Thursday evening in the church basement. Games in charge of Mrs. Gaston Foote and plans directed by the hostess committee will comprise the informal entertainment. A church orchestra will play.

The Rev. Gaston Foote will welcome the guests, and Sept. R. B. Fisher will respond. All teachers and school board members, with their wives or husbands, have been invited. In the greeting line will be Mr. and Mrs. Foote, Mr. Fisher, Mrs. John B. Hessey, and Mrs. W. Purviance.

Mrs. R. A. Baker and Mrs. Paul Jensen will have charge of registration, and Mmes. Sherman White, Bob McCoy, Travis Lively, W. R. Ewing, A. C. Greene, Carroll Montgomery, and C. R. Nelson have been named to the refreshment committee.

Mrs. Harold Wright and Mrs. Foote formed the invitation committee. Hostesses for the evening will be Mmes. Mrs. Hessey, president of the society, was in charge of the general meeting yesterday at First church. She spoke of plans for the revival that will start Sunday in the church, and announced that prayer services will precede each evening's meeting.

In the four circle meetings, members took part in prayer services for the revival, then left the church to visit absent and ill members.

Circle five had its meeting at McCullough church for a study from the book, "Toward Christian America." Mrs. H. L. Wallace was leader, and discussions were given by Mmes. C. D. Harris, Ben Ward, C. W. Tolle, Thomas Clayton, and A. McClelland.

Two visitors, Mrs. Charles Boyd and Miss Vermillion, were present with the members.

ITALY CHARGES ETHIOPIANS AS WAR AGGRESSOR

'Menacing Threat' of War Claimed By Italians

ROME, Oct. 1. (AP)—Ethiopia's impending general mobilization was described today in informed Italian quarters as a "menacing threat" of imminent war.

Officials asserted that the Italian army in East Africa had braced itself against a possible attack, but repeated that there had been no Italian advance across the border.

They contended that Italian movements in East Africa were "protective."

Danger of sudden outbreak of war, they explained would not come from the Italian side, but would come from Ethiopia where, they believed, loosely controlled tribesmen might swarm over the border.

The Ethiopian announcement of an imminent mobilization was taken by the press as evidence of aggressiveness which newspapers said should be considered by the League of Nations.

That, and criticism of the British note to France, reaffirming Britain's loyalty to the league, caused the press to resume a critical, sometimes hostile attitude toward Great Britain.

The newspaper Il Tevere published a quarter-page cartoon entitled "Suezide," portraying "John Bull" sitting between closing gates of the Suez canal, gateway to East Africa.

M. E. Church to Meet at Supper

A covered dish luncheon at First Methodist church will start at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening, prefacing the mid-week service. All members of the church and their families are invited.

The choir, which had planned a chili supper for that hour, will join the remainder of the congregation, and will meet for rehearsal at 8 o'clock. Plans for a revival campaign that will start next Sunday will be discussed in the general meeting.

Health Program Is Chapel Plan

Upper grades at Sam Houston school will present the chapel program tomorrow morning, featuring music and a health program. The music directed by A. C. Cox will open the hour, followed by a devotional by Frances Jane Shell.

Health skills will be presented by the fifth grade and the fourth grade. Music includes a solo, Old Southern Chorus, by Harris, Lee Hawkins, a duet by Betty Clark and Everett Westbrook, an accordion solo by Betty Ann Culbertson, a piano solo by Martha Frances Pierson, and a duet by James Harrah and Jay O'Keefe.

Barbara To Get Part Of Fortune

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—To her share of the Woolworth fortune, the former Barbara Hutton stood tonight to add upwards of $400,000 from the estate of her former husband, Prince Alexis Z. Medvedev.

The prince, who was killed in an automobile accident in Spain Aug. 1, left a will dividing his holdings equally among his former wife, two brothers and two sisters.

Attorneys today declined to discuss the size of the estate, but it was recalled that the Woolworth heiress recently indicated it would amount to approximately 400,000 pounds, ($2,000,000). Other reports have placed it as high as $5,000,000.

The prince made his will on Jan. 3, 1934, while he still was married to the American girl, who now is the Countess Curt Hauptzweiventlow. They were divorced at Reno last May 15.

VOL. 5 PAMPA, TEXAS, TUESDAY, OCTOBER 1, 1935. No. 4

HARVESTER PASS DEFENSE AND LINE WORK IS IMPROVED IN WIN HERE OVER BOWIE BEARS

Childress Game To Be Day Earlier Than Scheduled

Playing more substitutes than have had a chance in some time to show what they could do on the gridiron, the Harvesters marched to another victory over the Bowie Bears, of El Paso, Friday evening at Harvester park.

Seemingly to remember the game which, although they won, contributed much to the Harvesters' downfall in the district campaign during the '34 season, the big Harvesters hit the Bowie line with all their force and blocked and tackled so hard that they swept the little Mexicans off their feet, leaving openings through which the green and gold clad gridsters pranced to victory.

"Pranced" was the term used in the press box, where the visiting scribes said that they were of the opinion that the Harvesters looked good but that they would be wise to concentrate on playing football for its own sake.

The Harvesters played steam roller instead of heady football to defeat the Bears 37-0. Even though the little Mexicans had traveled from Glavis that morning, they played a nice game of ball and held the Harvesters near the center of the field much of the time. The Harvesters showed improvement in line work and in pass defense.

The Harvesters travel to Childress Thursday, October 3, to clash with the scrapping Childrens eleven. The game was formerly scheduled for Friday evening, but because of conflicting amusement offerings in Childress at that time the game was advanced one night. The Childrens eleven has won two games and lost one thus far. After defeating Chillicothe 52-0 and Polytechnic at Port Worth, 6-0, the Bobcats were beaten 28-0 by Wichita Falls Friday night. The Bobcats will be crippled Thursday by the absence of their all-district end and captain James Andrews, who was injured recently in an automobile accident. Their coach is faced with a serious problem in trying to replace his star end.

The Harvesters will leave Thursday morning for Childress. Game time will be 8 o'clock. The game will be played at the Childress Park.

WHY CRIME?

Why do men become criminals? We have drummed into us continually the maxim that crime does not pay, but certain forces at work in our population continue to cause the production of numerous men who resort to crime as a career.

Is the law to blame? Does its enforcement, or rather its lack of enforcement, cause us to have so many criminals among us? Possibly it is in some measure to blame, for no police system exists which never makes a mistake which may embitter some man and turn him against society. Failure in the courts to secure just and equal application of the law in all classes of society does not help prevent the development of criminals. There are other weaknesses on the legal side. Some can and should be remedied. Others are an inherent part of any legal system of administering justice. Yes, the law may be partly to blame, but it is by no means alone in its responsibility.

Is the home to blame? Naturally, in some degree, it is. It is obvious that the worst criminals usually do not come from desirable environments. Of course heredity, and probably must, enter into the matter, but that is a thing over which as yet society, as such, has little control. The influence of family is closely tied up with environment, so that in the final analysis society is more to blame for criminal careers that start in the home than are the members of the particular family from which the criminal comes. Such a family may be all that is undesirable. Its own weakness probably helped to make it what it is, but the weakness and indifference of society contributed much toward keeping that family in the mire.

Many other agencies help to produce the criminal. We need a campaign of education to set straight in crooked minds the ideas that attend to the rewards of criminal careers.

Let each man who is tempted ask himself why he should step outside the law. If it be for adventure and excitement it would seem that being a gangster is a delightful business. But the gangster's pleasure is usually short by federal machine gun fire. Modern police devices have so hindered their operations that such noted gunmen as Dillinger, Floyd, and Barrow found it impossible to compete successfully with them.

In the past it has been the policy of the human carter to elude pursuit by a trek into some-out-of-the-way place, but they have not been found. There is no safe hiding place for a criminal today. Modern inventions and advance in criminology have been such that the criminal at every point. There is no safety, no profit, no achievement, no satisfaction to be gained in a criminal career.

Crime does not pay. There are too many odds against the criminal. Defeat in some form awaits those who keep one hand on the bottle and the other on a gun.

Why then do men continue to turn to crime? Is it because deformed intellects tell them that that way lies life? It may be life for a while, but usually is soon becomes death.

On a purely common sense basis, why not live a life of safety within the law, that will net you much more profit as well as pleasure in the long run? You may not become widely known, but you will at least know in your own heart that even though you were inconspicuous you live a man's life.

FFA Club Will Send Two Boys To Kansas City

Thirty vocational agriculture boys and their sponsors, A. E. Frazier and J. L. Lester, spent Saturday in judging livestock, dairy cattle, and poultry.

The agriculture teachers are planning to start shop work this week.

Mr. Lester and Mr. Frazier are pleased that the Pampa dairy judging team placed sixth in the national meeting to be held in Kansas City October 19-23.

The boys chosen to make the trip must be active F. F. A. club members and must be passing in at least three subjects.

The vocational agriculture department is offering a class to F. F. A. boys in express leadership. The sponsors express themselves as being delighted with the type of work being done by the boys.

Extension Head Here Yesterday

Mrs. T. V. Reeves, head of the bureau of public service of W. T. S. T. C., visited the high school yesterday afternoon to meet Pampa teachers and citizens who are interested in taking an extension course in Texas history from the college, for credit toward a degree or for graduate work.

Although a number of persons talked to Mrs. Reeves yesterday, she said that many who had been anxious to take the course failed to appear, probably through some misunderstanding. These persons may communicate with her at Canyon in regard to the course.

Mrs. Reeves was accompanied by her husband and by Mrs. Tommie Montfort, an instructor in the teachers college.

Mother of Teacher Dies Near LeFors

Mrs. J. C. Short, 68, mother of Miss Alice Short of the high school faculty, died at her home near LeFors Thursday night after an illness of about a month.

Mrs. Short was a Gray county pioneer, having come to the Panhandle with her husband in 1880 before the county was organized and before Pampa and LeFors were founded.

Funeral services were held Saturday. Burial was in the Fairview cemetery at Pampa.

New Jobs Offer Room and Board For Needy Girls

Mrs. Frances Alexander announced yesterday that several places in good homes have been made available to girls who need the work in order to continue their school work. These positions have been offered as a result of the request made last week by the committee that Pampa citizens cooperate in the matter of securing work for needy students.

Mrs. Alexander emphasized that any girl who is interested in work should for her room and board should communicate with either her or Miss Clarine Branam at once. The committee members added that they would appreciate being notified of any other opportunities for work for either boys or girls.

ANNUAL STAFF TO BE CHOSEN AT EARLY DATE

Juniors and Seniors To Help Edit Yearbook

Election of members of the high school annual staff will take place after class elections are finished by Mrs. Hol Wagner, faculty sponsor for the annual staff, said yesterday.

Changing of the personnel of the staff to include three seniors and two juniors was announced by Mrs. Wagner Friday. In the past the staff has been made up entirely of seniors.

Nominations for members of the staff will be made by petition in the same manner in which class officers were nominated. Members will not be elected to definite positions but will be assigned their duties following the election.

All who wish to secure copies of this year's annual must order it in advance, the sponsor said. No order will be made for extra copies to be sold after publication.

Senior pictures will be taken as soon as the staff is organized, and work is under way.

Lester Receives Letter Praising Exhibit At Fair

A letter praising the Pampa high school exhibit at the Tri-State Fair was recently received by J. L. Lester from Professor C. Luker, head of the department of agricultural education of Texas Technological college.

The letter read in part as follows: "I want to compliment you on the very excellent exhibit that your students prepared for the Tri-State Fair. I think it is truly an improvement over the traditional type of exhibit in the field of agriculture."

Professor Luker emphasized that the exhibit was difficult to judge and said that much more value than is found in the prize money may be derived from the preparation of such exhibits.

Girls To Begin Tennis Practice

The first girls' tennis work-out of the season was planned for today at the outdoor court at 4 o'clock if weather permitted, Miss Kathleen Wilmar, tennis coach, said yesterday.

The girls were to meet in room 309 for a discussion period if conditions were not suitable for play. "Girls' tennis" being started early this year in an effort to develop an excellent team by next spring.

Cabe's Home Room Chooses Officers

Students in Ernest Cabe's home room, 302, have elected officers for the year. Wayne Harrison was elected president, Louise Roseberry, vice-president, Ruby Scalf, secretary-treasurer, and Joe Merle Johnson, sergeant-at-arms.

SPANISH AND LATIN CLUBS ARE BEING ORGANIZED; GROUP WORK TO SUPPLEMENT CLASS DUTIES

Miss Mary Idelle Cox, head of the language department, is organizing clubs in both the Latin and Spanish classes.

The purpose of the Latin club, as stated in its constitution, is to help those who are studying Latin to get a better conception of the countries whose languages are based on Latin, to hold the interest of those taking the course, and to interest others in the course.

The Latin club is divided into two divisions, with each division having its own officers. The officers of the club are: Katherine Barrett, secretary-treasurer; Betty Blythe, reporter. Officers in the fifth hour class are: Tony Mendoza, president; Laura Mae Gibson, vice president; Janice Purviance, secretary-treasurer; Ruby Scalf, reporter. Officers for Spanish I classes have not yet been elected.

The officers of these two classes and their faculty advisors, Miss Cox, will form a committee to draw up a constitution and by laws for the club. One of the two class presidents will be elected all-club president at an all-club meeting in the near future. The clubs plan to have two or three meetings outside of class periods each semester, although most of the club work will be part of the class work.

ALL STAR TEXANS WILL GIVE BENEFIT PROGRAMS HERE TO BUY NEW UNIFORMS FOR BAND

Class Elections Will Take Place Early Thursday

Apparently small interest has been displayed during the last week in the nomination of class officers for the year. Either this was the case, or else various groups of students, by withholding nominations until the last minute, very few nominations had been turned in late yesterday. Deadline for nominees was 12 o'clock today.

It was expected that plenty of nominations would be made before the deadline, but the spirited campaigns during the next two days. Assembly hour tomorrow will be given over to campaign speeches and other activity in preparation for the general election which will take place Friday morning.

Voting will take place in the home rooms on Thursday. Results of the election will be announced the following day.

NOTABLE NOTINGS

The Harvesters managers, Cal Pierce and Wolford Binns have a new sport. It is hunting peanuts that someone has left during the football game. When they finish searching the grandstand, there's "nary a goober left."

What six-foot, six, 198-pound Harvesters lineman is giving Dorothy Roseberry the rush?

The latest romance (if we're to judge by appearances) is that of Wolford Binns and Frances Harper.

Mr. Dennard wants someone to plan his menu so he can get his meals cheaper.

What young teacher proposed to what young school miss in a speech class Monday? Was he surprised when she accepted?

Who is giving Chubby Stewart the inspiration to make so many touchdowns?

"Teenie" Jeffries was so fascinated over Woolworth's lovely stock that she bought everything in sight. Well, at least until her money gave out.

Snooper noticed Claudia Atteberry in the halls Monday. She is attending Amarillo high school.

Buster Burroughs had two dates Saturday night, an early one and a later one. Evidently it didn't fool the young ladies, because he went riding all by his lonesome on Sunday.

Farmers in Wheeler reported Wednesday that their shoats (pigs to you) had all taken to the tall timber. Why?

Who is the girl with the yellow jacket which has a picture of a ferocious tiger and the name "MeLean Tigers" on it?

Miss Milam wants to know who the tall young man with the blond hair is.

Mr. Stone was seen at the Pampa Ice company getting two watermelons. And in this cold weather, too!

Imagine Eugene Scott as an atom of hydrogen, J. R. Green as an atom of mercury, and Scott Mullins as an atom of oxygen. Ask Mrs. Alexander for particulars.

Snooper hears that "Blondie" Hill is going to enroll in school here soon. Ask Ivan Noblitt for details.

Snooper saw Miss Branom and Miss Cox walking home at about 11 o'clock Saturday night, each carrying a bouquet of flowers.

Mrs. H. S. Rice Dies After Long Illness

Mrs. H. S. Rice, mother of Miss Ethel Rice, former teacher in the mathematics department, died at her home in Hereford last Friday. She had been in ill health for the past six years. Mrs. Rice did not teach here last year in order that she might be at home with her mother.

Mrs. Rice was a prominent member of the Methodist Church in Hereford, working faithfully in the women's organizations.

Misses Cox and Branom attended the funeral in Hereford last Friday.

Attendance Rule Is Again Adopted For High School

Last Monday the rule on absences and tardies became effective. According to this rule, if a student is absent or tardy three times in a class, he must bring one of his parents or his guardian to school to adjust the matter with the teacher of that class. If he is absent from all classes three times, his parent must see all student's instructors. The student is not allowed to return to school without first adjusting his record.

Until last year pupils brought excuses signed by parents, or they were excused by telephone. Absences have been too frequent, however, so this method was adopted last year. This plan provides a means for the teachers and parents to get acquainted and to talk to each other about the problem of attendance.

New Leadership Class Members Select Officers

The community leadership class, taught by A. E. Frazier, a new teacher in the system, is well under way in its study of parliamentary procedure.

The class elected officers Wednesday. They were: Wilbur Irving, president; Edward Haner, vice president; Elsey Vandenberg, reporter; George Forter, secretary; Frank Duff, parliamentarian; and E. W. Hogan, treasurer.

In this class the students are given the opportunity to keep up with such current events as may apply to the development of leadership. The students often enter into roundtable discussions of their own problems in order that each member may develop through thoughtful discussion.

Singers Will Appear Twice In High School Gym

Odie Echols and his All Star Texans, a musical organization made up of five young men, will sing in afternoon and evening performances in the high school gymnasium Tuesday, October 8. Both programs will be staged for the benefit of the high school band. Funds derived from the singers' appearances here will be used to help purchase new uniforms to replace the worn ones now being used by members of the band.

Programs for the performances are not yet available. Numbers included will be of varied character in order to appeal to the musical tastes of all members of the audience.

Large crowds are expected to be present at the programs Tuesday. School officials are urging students and people of the town to attend for pleasure of the programs and as a means of support for the school band.

The afternoon performance will be especially for students. Students wishing to attend will be excused from classes during the program if they will present their tickets at their classrooms prior to the concert.

Admission for students will be 15 cents. The charge for adults will be 25 cents.

Band Has Annual Outing In Honor Of New Members

Pampa high school band members enjoyed a wicker roast northeast of Miami Wednesday evening. A jovous and lively group left the high school at 5:30 o'clock for the annual outing for freshmen band members.

Games of pass ball and baseball were enjoyed by some of the crowd while others were busying themselves with long hikes over hill and canyon. It was a tired but happy group that returned to the tables and fire to enjoy weiners, buns, marshmallows, ice cream, and other refreshments.

Those attending this annual outing were: Janet Cole, Donna Jo Berry, Virginia Roberts, Ann Sweatman, Marjorie Berr, Mattie Brown, Tignor, Rosa La Nell Williams, Edwin K-conce, Jack Allison, Marjorie Summerville, Helen Draper, Bobby Kilgore, Borden March, Raymond Johnson, Martha Ann Martin, George Cree, Bobbie Banks, Clara Hartell, Mattie Brown, Tommy Bicknell, Vernon Casey, Joe Merle Johnson, Bert Simmons, Arvo Goddard, Paul Lutrell, Bob Surratt, Calvin Dittmore, Homer Wiedner, Willie Reece Taylor, and Charlotte Malone, "Little Harvester" representative.

Chaperons for the party were: Winston Savage, band director; Mrs. Hartell, Ernest Cabe, Frank Monroe, A. E. Frasher, Harry Kelley, and Mr. Tignor.

AMATEUR HOUR GIVEN BY NEW PHS TEACHERS

Acrobatics, Singing, Hog Calling Are Features

New teachers in high school presented the assembly program Wednesday morning. The entertainment was staged in the form of an amateur program with Ben Gull acting as master of ceremonies.

Ernest Cabe and Winston Savage opened the program with acrobatic stunts calling for both skill and grace. To demonstrate their versatility, they then sang three songs. They were accompanied at the piano by Miss Anne Louis Jones.

Frank Monroe called on Colleen McMahan, a member of the student body, who sang three songs.

J. C. Prejean, Delmer Ashworth, Frank Monroe, and Florence Pickett started to sing, but vocal trouble caused postponement of most of the song. A. E. Frazier accompanied the quartet as far as it went.

Delmer Ashworth gave a sketch demonstrating the student idea of how a teacher proposes.

Each of the men took part in a hog calling contest, with Harry Kelley having first, warmed them to their task by his imitation of a hog's grumblings. However, the efforts of the callers probably became confused by his also imitating a chicken and a goldfish. Winston Savage and J. C. Prejean tied for first place, triumphing over the offerings of Frank Monroe, Ernest Cabe, A. E. Frazier, and Delmer Ashworth.

Mr. Gull, of the program committee, announced that after tomorrow programs will be in turn given by the various high school classes, the amateur program idea being carried out in them all. An all-school program will follow after the class programs have been presented.

The assembly hour tomorrow will be given over to campaign activities in the class elections which are taking place on this week.

Price Of Wheat Is Up 3 Cents

CHICAGO, Oct. 1. (AP)—Wheat prices soared more than three cents a bushel to above $1.02 for future delivery today as gossip based on private reports that war in Africa would start within a week was circulated about the grain pits. A broad buying movement being the governing class is like being in an automobile; when you're in the car a pedestrian is a worm of the dust, created especially to get in your way and slow you up; and when you're walking you think there ought to be a law against the wild-eyed maniacs whose sole ambition is to get nowhere in a hurry.

"I think that's why government's so unpopular; you lose the common touch."

Emily laughed. "In that case I'd better refuse to run!"

"Go ahead and do it," Charlotte advised. "I'll guarantee to keep you in touch with the common herd and take you down if you get high-hat."

In the end she had taken Charlotte's advice, and been elected Junior representative by a flattering margin. It was an illuminating experience, and she came back from the first "exec" meeting with an amused smile lurking about her mouth.

Charlotte grinned inquiringly. "Well?"

Emily flung herself upon the couch and contemplated the ceiling. The paint was peeling badly, she noticed, and she wondered idly why even the best of southern colleges had to fight so hard against poverty.

"If I had a cigar I'd smoke it," Charlotte understood. "So that's what the special session was about. Was there a definite victim, or was it the habit in general?"

"Charlotte was a victim, and she is camped for a month."

Charlotte lifted an eyebrow. "Only a month?"

"Yes, that was my influence. I almost made a scene, and I certainly disrupted the council's morale. I asked whose business it was if she did smoke and they were stunned. They said it reflected on the whole college, and I said, reflected what? It happened to know that two of 'em smoke during week-ends off campus, where it isn't against the rules, but where it reflects even more. In the end she got one month instead of two, and I got a black eye. I don't believe," she concluded thoughtfully, "that I'm going to be very popular."

Charlotte grinned engagingly. "As long as you're unpopular there's hope for you. And the culprit, who are the majority, after all, will adore you."

Emily looked affectionately at her. The most valuable education she had acquired at Ardmore, she thought for the hundredth time, had come from Judith and Charlotte.

Commencement that year had seemed once more the end of the world. "What on earth will I do without you?" she demanded desperately of Charlotte.

Charlotte was cheerfully packing her books to be shipped home. In two years her library had changed its titles but not its character, and she bestowed far more attention upon its safe transportation than upon packing her clothes.

She had stopped to read a paragraph in "Marius the Epicurean."

Crackers Win From Sooners in 2nd Game

NINE ERRORS CHALKED UP AGAINST TRIBE FROM OKLAHOMA

ATLANTA, Oct. 1. (AP)—The Atlanta Crackers stood all square today with Oklahoma City as the teams traveled to the Indians' home town for the next three games of the Dixie series.

The Crackers evened the count last night with a 9 to 2 victory as the Oklahomans, who had won handsily, went into a slump and booted the ball all over the field. Nine errors were chalked up against the Indians.

Jim Lindsey, Cracker righthander, turned in a seven-hit pitching performance and struck out ten batters with a fast-breaking curve that had the Indians swinging wildly. Easterling, Oklahoma City outfielder, fanned four times on 12 pitches.

The defeat was charged to Russell (Red) Evans, ace hurler for the Indians, who led the Texas league with 24 victories and eight losses in the regular season.

Lindsey was the star of the game. After walking the first man to face him, he struck out the next three to end the inning and made it four in a row by fanning Easterling to start the second.

After that he was in trouble only once, in the third inning, when he again struck out Easterling with the bases loaded.

The Oklahoma City defense began to crack in the second when Atlanta scored three runs on one hit and three errors. From then on the Southern association champions had things pretty much their own way, yielding one run to the Indians in the third and another in the fifth.

The third time will be played in Oklahoma City tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, central standard time.

Pampa water pumping took the huge slump of 17,266,000 gallons last month from 52,894,000 gallons of the previous month.

Daily pumping last month was for an average of 576,533 gallons. The city made the biggest reduction in consumption as the swimming pool slowed to a close and watering of parks and boulevards ceased during the rains.

Chapter 12
DUTY

At the end of the first semester Emily found to her astonishment that she had been nominated for the executive council for the second half of the year.

"What on earth will I do?" she asked Charlotte in dismay. "I don't want to punish girls for doing things I'd probably do myself if I had the inclination and the opportunity."

They were in the "Soc." room at the library, studying for the midterm examination. It was peaceful and quiet among the books, and there ought to be a law against the wild-eyed maniacs whose sole ambition is to get nowhere in a hurry.

"If you'd go on feeling that way after you were elected it would be the best thing that ever happened to the council; heaven knows they're a sanctimonious lot."

"But you'd probably change. Being the governing class is like being in an automobile; when you're in the car a pedestrian is a worm of the dust, created especially to get in your way and slow you up; and when you're walking you think there ought to be a law against the wild-eyed maniacs whose sole ambition is to get nowhere in a hurry."

"I think that's why government's so unpopular; you lose the common touch."

Emily laughed. "In that case I'd better refuse to run!"

"Go ahead and do it," Charlotte advised. "I'll guarantee to keep you in touch with the common herd and take you down if you get high-hat."

In the end she had taken Charlotte's advice, and been elected Junior representative by a flattering margin. It was an illuminating experience, and she came back from the first "exec" meeting with an amused smile lurking about her mouth.

Charlotte grinned inquiringly. "Well?"

Emily flung herself upon the couch and contemplated the ceiling. The paint was peeling badly, she noticed, and she wondered idly why even the best of southern colleges had to fight so hard against poverty.

"If I had a cigar I'd smoke it," Charlotte understood. "So that's what the special session was about. Was there a definite victim, or was it the habit in general?"

"Charlotte was a victim, and she is camped for a month."

Charlotte lifted an eyebrow. "Only a month?"

"Yes, that was my influence. I almost made a scene, and I certainly disrupted the council's morale. I asked whose business it was if she did smoke and they were stunned. They said it reflected on the whole college, and I said, reflected what? It happened to know that two of 'em smoke during week-ends off campus, where it isn't against the rules, but where it reflects even more. Lair of the Tiger, Where World Series Crowd Will Roar

Jammed to the rafters with a screaming crowd of world series fans, Navin Field, Detroit Tigers' home grounds, will appear as above when baseball's classic switches to the American League city. Temporary seats in left field have cut down the distance from home plate to 301 feet, and the big bombers of both competing teams will be shooting for that barrier.

SERIES TEAMS RECALL STARS 27 YEARS AGO

IN '07 AND '08 CUBS AND TIGERS WERE IN PLAYOFF

By EDWARD J. NEIL. DETROIT, Oct. 1. (AP)—Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, the tall tower of Arkansas, burning them in against Leon Warneke, pride of the Ozarks; scrappy Mickey Cochrane master-minding against Happy Charley Grimm—it's a far cry back to the Tigers of Hughes Jennings and Ty Cobb, the Cubs of Frank Chance, Johnny Evers, Joe Tinker, and the great three-fingered Mordecai Brown.

They pick up again tomorrow, these modern 1935 models, where the legendary Tigers and Cubs of 1907 and 1908 left off their world series battling just 27 years ago. Teeming off on the green of Navin field for the first of two games here, they paint by contrast a brilliant picture of the changes that have come over baseball and its annual fall extravaganza in the course of the last quarter-century.

There will be, in all probability, some 48,700 semi-hysterical faithful, all the park will hold, in the half acre of temporary bleacher seats, the double-decked stands that mark the capitol of the baseball, if not the entire sports world, at the moment. Yet the total attendance in 1908, when the Cubs won in five games, was only 62,232.

It's almost certain to hit the $1,000,000 mark again, following the example of another great Detroit pride, Joe Louis, set in the Yankee stadium in New York a week ago with Max Baer, hapless party of the second prize fighting pact. This million dollar gate will net the winning players better than $5,000 each, the losers more than $3,000 apiece, yet the Cubs of 1908 drew down only $1,317 each for the victor's share and the Tigers had to be content with a paltry $970, almost as much as an athlete wants today for use of his name by a ghost writer.

What this series may lack, thru the general regret of Detroit and the Tigers that there will be no chance to even scores with the Cardinals gas house gang from St. Louis, their competitors last year, is more than made up by the glamour of the background of former world series between the Tigers and Cubs. Old timers, through the blur of excitement and the new enthusiasm, might see out there the infield of the 1907 Cubs who beat the Tigers four times and tied once and licked them four out of five in 1908. There was the peerless Chance of that day at first, Johnny Evers playing second and Harry Steinfield at third, with Joe Tinker at short to compare with the Cubs of this day—Phil Carravetta, sensational youngster at first, Billy Herman, Bill Jurges, and young Stanley Hack.

Harvesters Will Outweigh Bobcats 10 Pounds To Man

Stokes Green Shifted To J. R.'s End On Defense

With only three days available for practice, instead of four, the Pampa Harvesters were put through one of the stiffest practice sessions of the season yesterday afternoon in preparation for their game in Childress, which has been changed to Thursday night.

School officials here learned that a large circus would be in Childress on Friday night, and even though the Bobcats have been drawing as many as 5,000 fans to a game, the circus would cut the attendance. Thus came the change to Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

Football Team Will Practice Without Coach

HOUSTON, Oct. 1. (AP)—The striking football team at San Jacinto high school planned practice today without benefit of the school's new coach, Jesse Madden, former Rice Institute star.

DALLAS TECH'S WOLVES ARE TOPS IN DISTRICT NO. EIGHT

DALLAS, Oct. 1. (AP)—Coach Wallace Davis' strong Dallas Tech Wolves, boasting experience and weight, are tops in this year's race for the district eight football championship. The Wolves won the 1934 bunting and appear to be headed straight for another title with only the Sunset Bisons to obstruct their path.

Harvard Captain Found Ineligible

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 1. (AP)—Harvard's "new deal" varsity football team, which receives its initial test this week, was without a captain today because J. Robert (Bob) Haley, regular quarterback for the past two seasons, violated one of the university's most strict eligibility regulations.

whether the change in defense would be permanent or temporary. J. R. has shown a tendency to drift into the tackle position on defense, allowing sweeping end runs to get under way. Last year the big fellow received state acclaim as a tackle and it will naturally be hard for him to shift to an end position at a jump.

The Mitchellmen will again take the field with a wide weight advantage—100 pounds to be exact. The Bobcats will have to give weight in every position excepting one guard job, where a Pampa 163-pounder will face a 198-pound giant where the will be a 13-pound advantage in favor of the Cats.

ROAD RUNNERS WON 50 GAMES AND LOST 23

TOTAL OF 35,000 SAW CONTESTS IN LAST SEASON

Pampa's great baseball team, sponsored by the Danciger Refiners, Inc., finished the season with 50 wins and 23 losses. The team played some of the best semi-professional and traveling baseball teams in the country. Included in the major triumphs of the team was the winning of a series from the La Junta Mexican club and the House of David.

The Road Runners went to the Denver Post tournament, semi-professional world series, and took third money. The team won second money in the Pampa Junior chamber of commerce tournament, falling before Cortez of LeFors.

During the 1935 season 35,000 fans paid admission to see games at Road Runner park. Despite bad weather and delays, 7,503 persons witnessed the Pampa Jaycee tournament.

Gordon Nell, big first baseman, was again the Road Runners' leading slugger. The big fellow hit for an average of .413. Included in his base blows were 22 home runs, 25 doubles and five triples. He led the team in home runs and doubles and trailed Summers and Patton in triples by one.

Following Nell in batting was Manager Fred Erickson, with an average of .385. Sam Scaling took third honors with an average of .382.

Gould Picks Chicago Cubs As Winner Of World Series

Believes Win Streak Will Continue Indefinitely

By ALAN GOULD

DETROIT, Oct. 1. (AP)—For three more or less debatable reasons, not necessarily confined to the baseball "dope" or succulent statistics, it is this writer's belief that the Chicago Cubs will beat the Detroit Tigers in a six-game world series.

It is fairly well known by now that the Cubs are the "hottest" team in either major league, fresh from a 21-game winning streak and booming toward the big show, under terrific impetus. With their streak ended, they may be over-due for a reaction, but they didn't let down until they crushed the last resistance of the celebrated gas house gang in St. Louis and knocked out the incredible Deans.

Secondly, Chicago has a remarkably young, aggressive club that is geared for high-speed. It's an outfit that might crack under pressure but it didn't against tougher opposition than anything the American league could offer the Tigers. It has nothing to lose and everything to gain by shooting the works. No worries about past performances or previous disappointments will beset this outfit.

In short, the Cubs act more like a college football team than an aggregation of professional ball-players. Their attitude is in marked contrast to that of the more experienced but less agile Tigers.

They will enter the series with the same psychological advantage that swept the 1906 White Sox, the famous "hitless wonders," and the youthful 1910 Athletics to victory over the great Chicago Cubs of Frank Chance's day; that carried the miraculous Boston Braves off in 1914 to a sweep over the Athletics, and marked the dramatic triumph of the 1933 New York Giants, spurred on by Blondy Ryan, over the Washington Senators.

There's always the ultimate tumble, but the crest of a winning wave is a good spot and the Cubs are on it now. The Tigers were unable to break even in their last 26 games, winning 12 and losing 14. The Cubs won 23 of their last 26. Cochrane's crew may get caught in the rush unless it snaps back to mid-season form and drive.

Finally, and to be more specific, it is this writer's view that lanky Lonnie Warneke, Arkansas rival of the celebrated Schoolboy Rowe, will give the Cubs a pitching edge. Warneke was the best right-hander in either major league at the finish. His seventh straight victory, a two-hit shutout of the Cardinals last week, was a masterpiece. Rowe also is a great "money" pitcher. Their opening duel should be one of the best in many years.

An even break for the Cubs in the two games here, Wednesday and Thursday, would send them back to thrive on the roar of the hometown crowds at Wrigley field for the next three engagements. A great home team, the Bruins might steam-roller the Tigers in Chicago. All things considered, however, the warring forces seem likely to return to Detroit for a sixth game before the payoff.

Laid end to end, the statistics do not shed a great deal of light on rival prospects. The Tigers have more long-range guns with hitters like Cochrane, Gehring, Goslin and Greenberg. The Cub attack, led by Herman Lindstrom, Hartnett and Demaree, good enough to keep a one-time batting king, Chuck Klein, on the bench. Both clubs topped their league in all-around hitting.

The Tigers look to have more of a defensive than an offensive edge. The Cubs have a superior outfield, however, and more capable reserves in players like Klein, Stainback and English.

The best backstops in baseball will carry a big share of the burden. Gaby Hartnett is the cleanup gloutner for the Cubs as well as the driving force on the field. Similarly Manager Mickey Cochrane is the man behind the Tiger guns. The strain of leadership has not seemed to slow up his playing ability or affect his batting eye.

Man for man, outside of Warneke and Rowe, the pitching prospects are difficult to forecast. The Cubs will match Charley Root, Bill Lee and Larry French against Tommy Bridges, Elden Auker and Alvin Crowder after the opening day's shooting is over. The Tiger staff has an edge in world series experience, as well as a fine assortment of curves. But the Cub twirlers have been "hotter" over the last month of campaigning.

Lee, a freshman and a fast ball pitcher, may feel the pressure. French faces heavy fire from the southwaw hitters in the Tiger lineup. Bridges and Auker, the latter with a puzzling underhand delivery, are only as good as their control. If they have it, they may furnish the antidote for Chicago's impetuous charge.

HITLER WILL STAY NEUTRAL SAYS GERMAN

ALSO STATES GERMANY WILL QUIT LEAGUE OCTOBER 21

GENEVA, Oct. 1. (AP)—A responsible German source disclosed today that Germany would leave the League of Nations officially Oct. 21, determined to remain neutral in any Italo-Ethiopian war.

This authority asserted that the third reich would allow the historic date when its resignation notice becomes effective to pass in cold silence.

He said Germany believed the League of Nations was in a stage of such great evolution at present that there was no reason for the reich to think of canceling its two-year notice, German officials had set this to expire Oct. 21.

Officials explained that while Germany decided to resign from the league October 14, 1933, when it decided to leave the disarmament conference, the actual notice of resignation was delivered officially Oct. 21.

This, therefore, the authorities said, was the date Germany accepted as marking its official departure from the league.

The third reich has also decided, it was learned, to resign from the International Federation of League of Nations unions—an organization which includes League of Nations associations in the United States and Great Britain.

ned restricted production in the United States is offset largely by planned expansion abroad?

"Stated more concretely, what has been the net result of the cotton restriction program? American cotton production during the last two years has been reduced 8,700,000 bales. World carryover of American cotton as of August 1 has been reduced 4,175,000 bales from the all-time high August, 1932. World carryover of all cotton is down about 4,000,000 bales from the all-time high of August, 1932. Foreign production has been increased to about 2,000,000 bales annually. Data from the United States Department of Agriculture and other reliable sources indicate a world crop of all cotton this year of about 26,000,000 bales, with the United States producing about 44 per cent of it."

WELL HAVE MORE of this argument later, quoting U. S. authorities who differ rather sharply.

"We cannot avoid the fact that business is getting better in this country; we rejoice in it. Production of 1936 model automobiles is starting. Manufacturers are optimistic. The Administrative and Research corporation of New York points out that a stepping up of production of durable goods is for the first time wiping out much unemployment. The steel industry, which reflects business conditions rather reliably, is showing new signs of life. New financing is accompanying this development."

AT THE SAME time, the most talked-of factor in business and by business men is the meaning of the administration's "breathing spell" statement. Mr. Roosevelt has asked ministers for their opinion of the public attitude toward the new deal. Evidently Mr. Roosevelt is interested in more than a political gesture. The rather general feeling that business itself can end the depression if left alone is being reported back to the president.

The G. O. P. is of course attempting to organize this desire for less government in business, and is even asking contributions to its campaign fund.

MISCELLANEOUS items: More than nine tenths of the asphalt now being used on roads in this country comes from petroleum refining. Formerly it was imported.

Industry reduced production 59 per cent and kept prices up within 16 per cent of 1929 levels, while farmers reduced production of their products dropped 63 per cent thru 1932. This year will show the lowest death rate ever attained among wage-earners. Suicides are far below the 10-year average. Heart disease still is the No. 1 killer. Mexico announces she will pay her foreign debts, break up a paper monopoly, modernize its communications system, revamp its tax system.

NEGRES CHARGED

MARSHALL, Oct. 1. (AP)—A 16-year-old negro was charged with murder today for the fatal beating of Mrs. S. W. Bailey, 82, in a robbery. The aged white woman, a widow living alone here, was beaten with a shoe last Saturday and died yesterday. Anne Lee Green, the negro, was arrested, and, after charges had been filed, she was removed to a jail in another city.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Oct. 1. (AP)—Late selling in the rails unsettled an otherwise peaceful and steady stock market today.

The market tried to hitch-hike up hill with the motors and specialties, but found the going difficult. Even the favorite automotive issues fell back near the end. There were a number of moderate gains retained, however, and the close was irregular. Transfers approximated 1,350,000 shares.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 1. (AP)—The market held around the opening levels as mid-day approached with active options showing gains ranging from 6 to 10 points.

Offerings were well taken by the ring crowd and the trade and the market displayed a firm tone during the morning.

One of the real bright spots of the season was voiced today when the New Orleans cotton exchange reported that exports during September amounted to 410,000 bales, a sharp increase over the 322,144 bales in September, 1934.

Oct. jumped back to 10.50 as the season progressed, while Dec. was holding at 10.47 and May at 10.65.

Allocations of the loan-grant will be sent to Comptroller General McCard to final approval and issuance of treasury warrants. The government desires to rush construction, hence any considerable delay will result in cancellation of approvals and substitution of others. Secretary Ickes said yesterday.

In some instances, only grants were sought, the sponsors agreeing to finance privately their 55 per cent of the cost. Such projects included grants of $28,637 for a school at Lubbock, one of $47,700 for a Junior college building and gymnasium in Amarillo, and $63,636 to build a school at Vernon.

region's 1934 allotment under the act.

"Under the government's plan for pooling excess cotton certificates, the farmer of West Texas, producing last year only 53 per cent of the total allotment as against 85 per cent in some of the states, suffered a 50 per cent penalty on his certificates. This procedure fell far short of stabilizing the difference between a good and a drought year and left the farmer confronted with the necessity of extensive borrowing from federal and private agencies in order to stay on his farm."

This year, however, Nichols said, West Texas has excellent cotton production and will produce an estimated 300,000 to 400,000 bales more than last year.

"Removal of the cotton tax," Nichols continued, "would benefit the farmers of West Texas to the extent of $10,000,000. This $10,000,000 is needed by the farmers of West Texas so that they may pay up their debt, establish credit and create a normal surplus in order that they may prepare for another drought year."

PARIS, Oct. 1. (AP)—France was officially disclosed today to be bargaining for assistance from Great Britain against Germany, if France were attacked by air, in exchange for aid against Italy if the British fleet were attacked in the Mediterranean.

Premier Pierre Laval, after returning from Geneva, talked with the British ambassador to France Sir George Russell Clerk, but an answer to London inquiries concerning France's attitude in the event of a Mediterranean conflict was to be decided by the cabinet later in the week.

Officials indicated that France would assure Britain of its aid if attacked while enforcing League of Nations recommendations, but said they were likely to leave open the question of cooperating with Britain in other circumstances until promised.

Fifty per cent reductions on beer license fees and gallonage tax held approval of the house liquor traffic committee, which reported a bill to cut $50 annually the fee for dealers selling for consumption on the premises. Those who sold beer for consumption off the place of sale would pay half that amount.

The house revenue and taxation committee recommended an increase of 15 cents a ton in the sulphur production tax, estimated to yield about $180,000 annually. The tax would be 90 cents compared to $2.25 proposed by Rep. J. Franklin Spears of San Antonio.

AUSTIN, Oct. 1. (AP)—A senate sub-committee agreed today an old age pension bill should provide liberal qualifications and include taxes to pay the cost.

The sub-committee favored, four to three, a motion which Senator Grady Woodruff of Decatur said banned disqualifications by property ownership or income. Another member contended, however, the motion did not preclude an income limit.

Senators had not agreed on a method of raising revenue. One bill proposed a three per cent sales tax, which the attorney general held could be validly included in the senate's bill.

The house previously ordered a tax provision removed from its pension bill. Its committee recommended property and income restrictions.

The senate passed a bill by Senator Albert Stone of Brenham to assist financing Agricultural and Mechanical college's stadium, on which payment of bonds had defaulted. The bill authorized the directors to transfer $15,525 local funds to the stadium account during each of the next two years.

Woodul afterward denied the idea was Purl's or that he had discussed it with Purl. He said the purpose was to raise needed revenue and equalize taxes at a time late in the session when passage of tax legislation was out of the question.

Governor Allred asked if Purl was "just trying to puff his wares to his employers."

"I think so," Woodul replied.

Purl related the maneuver would "put the governor in a position where there will be no reason or excuse for a special tax session."

"This will be a nice achievement for Acting Gov. Woodul (Lieut. Gov. Walter Woodul) and he solicited the help of his friends in the 'third house' to help bring it about," Purl wrote.

"Speaker of the House Stevenson deserves a lion's share of credit for making it possible. . . . It took some good 'finesse' to get all that bill up at one time."

Woodul afterward denied the idea was Purl's or that he had discussed it with Purl. He said the purpose was to raise needed revenue and equalize taxes at a time late in the session when passage of tax legislation was out of the question.

Governor Allred asked if Purl was "just trying to puff his wares to his employers."

"I think so," Woodul replied.

A. W. Holt, senate sergeant-at-arms, said Purl told him after the subpoena was served that he would appear before the committee.

Those who sold beer for consumption off the place of sale would pay half that amount.

The house revenue and taxation committee recommended an increase of 15 cents a ton in the sulphur production tax, estimated to yield about $180,000 annually. The tax would be 90 cents compared to $2.25 proposed by Rep. J. Franklin Spears of San Antonio.

during the 1932 campaign he said that "on that occasion I was introduced by a very old friend of mine, a friend of every man, woman and child in the United States, a kindly philosopher—one who would be with us today but for his untimely death in Alaska."

"Will Rogers' kindly humor saw facts and laughed at fantasy."

Mr. Roosevelt made a plea for "liberals" of the country to "find common ground and a common road."

"Years ago," he related "president Wilson told me a story. He said that the greatest problem the head of a progressive democracy had to face was not the criticism of reactionaries nor the attacks of those who would set up another form of government, but rather reconcile and unite progressive liberals themselves.
