POLITICS STARTS SHOW BY RADIO AND FILM

It begins to look as if the innocent citizen who sets out to get a little harmless amusement for himself during the next 12 months is apt to find himself up to his elbows in a mess of underdone political propaganda.

The Democrats are going to the movies and the Republicans are heading for the radio, and the political strategists are hastening to learn the inside secrets of scenario construction, plot development, joke concoction and the like.

There arrived in Hollywood recently the austere and legendary figure of Rexford Guy Tugwell, who is unquestionably the handsomest man who ever was accused of having an undue amount of brains.

It is his notion to put through a movie depicting the familiar old rags-to-riches story in a new guise, with the federal Resettlement Administration, which he leads, in the role of hero.

According to preliminary announcements, a movie is to be constructed showing the devastating effects of the great drouth. At the crucial moment, up will come the gallant men of the Resettlement outfit—landing just in the nick of time, like the marines or the U. S. cavalry—to transplant the harassed victims of the drouth to greener fields.

The idea, one gathers, is that spectators will go away from this entertainment purged by the traditional emotions of pity and terror and filled with admiration for the administration at Washington.

But if this looks like a low Democratic trick to steal a march on the Republicans, it must be recorded that the Republicans are ready to pull a low trick of their own.

The theatrical trade paper Variety announces that the Republicans are preparing a radio show entitled "Liberty at the Crossroads." This, it is said, is to be made up of a series of dramatic episodes somewhat on the order of the "March of Time" broadcasts, contrasting the dismal lot of citizens who live under a Democratic regime with the happy lot which was theirs when the Republicans were in power.

It is rumored that this will be only the first of a series of such shows, and that a $2,000,000 pot is being sought to finance the production of many more.

And it does look as if our rival party chieftains have got us between the devil and the deep blue sea. If we go to the movies, they will have us imbibing one kind of propaganda; if we stay at home and turn on the radio, they will pour another kind down our throats. Perhaps we'd all better get in for working in the garden for the coming year.—B. N.

CAPITOL CHATTER

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, Oct. 7. (AP)—Political significance is being attached to the visit of Governor Allred to Vice President Garner at his Uvalde home. What they discussed was not disclosed.

The governor said it was a social call on the vice president before Garner left for the Orient. It was noted, however, that Governor Allred appeared anxious to confer with him.

The Garner-Allred conference was preceded by visits to Uvalde by Col. Paul Wakefield, one of the governor's close advisors, and by Pat Moreland, the chief executive's private secretary.

Many rumors about Governor Allred's political future have been circulated in recent months. He has declined to give any of them credence and characterized them as political speculation.

The two reports that have gained widest circulation were: 1. Allred would be a candidate in the next democratic primary against United States Senator Morris Sheppard;

2. That he would be offered appointment as United States district judge for one of the North Texas districts.

The governor's close friends believe he will seek re-election unless there is a decided turn in events. Few of his associates believe he is inclined toward the federal judgeship.

Announcement by Col. Ernest O. Thompson that he would again be a candidate for the railroad commission and by William McCraw that he would seek re-nomination for attorney general have given support to the belief that Governor Allred favors the traditional two terms as governor. Thompson and McCraw were regarded as prospective gubernatorial candidates should Governor Allred withdraw.

Speaker of the House Coke Stevenson and Lieutenant Governor Walter Woodul journeyed to Uvalde soon after Governor Allred's visit for talks with the vice president. They likewise refused to comment on the topics discussed and it was not learned whether the possibility of Governor Allred accepting the federal judgeship was reviewed.

Stevenson has remained quiet on reports he would run for governor if a good opportunity presented. Woodul would succeed automatically to the governorship should Governor Allred resign before expiration of his term.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON. — Reconnaissance along the pork chop front reveals an indication that certain packers have been kidding the government as to the amount of their profits.

Also, though roast pork, bacon and eggs, and ham sandwiches will cost more this winter than they do now, prices probably will start dropping next summer and be materially lower by election time.

The AAA's first public hearing on a proposed adjustment program concerned the corn-hog situation. Thanks mostly to drouth, there'll be about 47 pounds of hog products available per person in the marketing year beginning Nov. 1 instead of the normal consumption of 83 pounds.

With no adjustment program, there should be about 62 pounds in the marketing year beginning next fall, meaning lower prices, which should begin to appear earlier.

Meanwhile, the AAA is required by law to operate in two-year programs and fears if something isn't done to keep down corn production there'll be a subsequent hog production in excess of normal consumption.

Packers' profits, often the subject of kicks from housewives on meat strike, were represented as $29,550,000 for 1934 by packers themselves at the hearings. That figure, which is all the government ever had to go on—being unable to examine packers' books—was the total reported to the Bureau of Animal Industry under requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act.

But late in the afternoon an AAA official stated that the figure had been revised to $36,053,331. The only explanation given for this sudden change was that the profit figure for one company (608 companies reported) had been raised.

The new figure means that packers last year made their highest total profits since 1929 and that the profit per dollar of sales was 1.84 cents—highest percentage in 10 years. Evidence indicated big packers had been doing very well, while many small packers were suffering.

(Note to housewives: More information on packers' profits will be brought out by the Federal Trade Commission investigation of food industries. Meanwhile, watch to see whether the AAA corn-hog program lives up to Secretary Wallace's promise to balance production with domestic consumption needs.)

When Robert E. Frear, a Republican from Cincinnati, was appointed to the Federal Trade Commission, a lot was done for the morale of career men in the government who still serve in large numbers here despite the political battles which rage above and about them.

The career men were shown that a non-politician could break through the ranks. At the same time, it was indicated that the administration meant to make an active force of the FTC.

Frear came here about 10 years ago from Cincinnati law practice to join the ICC's valuation staff. He helped Ferdinand Pecora investigate railroad financing, served as an expert with Transportation Coordinator Joe Eastman, and was borrowed this year by Chairman Burt Wheeler of the Senate interstate commerce committee to help on important transportation legislation.

The government might try the AAA principle on the younger generation; pay them for not sowing wild oats.

In one recent survey, it was learned there were 35.5 persons to the square mile in the U. S. The fraction must have been an unlucky jaywalker.

Salt from the ocean would be sufficient to bury the nation one and a half miles deep—science item. Or the salt taken with politicians' statements.

BUCHANAN DAM TO CREATE LAKE ON THE COLORADO 22 MILES LONG

AUSTIN, Oct. 7 (AP)—Down in the sparsely populated "heart of Texas" hill country man power, concrete and steel are being assembled under the banner of a generous "cut" from Uncle Sam's four billion dollar work-relief appropriation to harness the Colorado, Texas' most turbulent stream.

Construction of the main dam, first named "Hamilton dam," was begun in 1931 by the Central Texas Hydroelectric company, an In-sull subsidiary, and work was carried on 14 months with expenditure of $5,000,000 until the In-sull empire crumbled. Recently, the Lower Colorado river authority, created by the legislature this year, bought the dam property, renamed "Buchanan dam," together with the discharge of construction, material and engineering liens, plus inundation damages at a net cost of approximately $2,500,000.

The battle for state authorization and assurance of federal aid to complete the project was prolonged. PWA objected to some proposed conditions in the act creating the authority but the differences were adjusted and $20,000,000 federal money was allocated as follows:

$10,500,000 PWA loan, repayable by 1965 from revenues, for which the PWA purchased revenue bonds (no mortgage on dams or property) $4,500,000 outright PWA grant for construction and acquisition of property; $6,000,000 outright grant for flood control to be expended through the federal reclamation service.

Completed, Buchanan dam will rise 137 feet from the bed of the river, unless federal reclamation engineers increase it five feet, and

Chapter 17
EMILY DECIDES

In Edwin's absence Emily found herself forgetting the narrowness of his mind and remembering the breadth of his love; forgetting the little habits of thought and action that irritated her, and remembering his honesty and stability; forgetting the angle of his hats and remembering the sheen of his hair.

Was it possible, she wondered for the first time, that love as well as charm might be blurred by familiarity?

He was away two weeks, and when he came back Elston had taken on the flaming glory of October, as if to welcome him. Even the tone of his voice as he called her on the telephone seemed different.

"Was it a god trip?" she asked.

"Yes. But the best of it was—coming back. May I see you tonight?" His voice throbbed with his eagerness.

"Of course. I was expecting you." And that evening, before the fervor of his joy at seeing her, her defenses went down.

"Oh, Emily!" he cried. "Don't make me wait too long!"

She smiled gently at him, feeling tender and maternal and protective; feeling everything but the ecstasy that she had longer for; the ecstasy which, five years ago, had been too keen to endure. David had been transferred to Istanbul, and insisted that he was never coming back.

"Not any longer, my dear," she said.

The wedding, they decided, would be the following June. Emily would have preferred, having burnt her bridges, to be married at once, but Frances had definite ideas on the subject of weddings.

You didn't get married hastily; you made the most of it, and allowed your friends to make the most of you. You had to have the required amount of linen and the proper amount of attention and excitement. A trousseau alone took several months, if you shopped properly.

And because this was, she hoped, the last episode of Frances' regimen, Emily yielded to her wishes. It didn't matter a great deal, and perhaps it was wiser to accustom herself gradually to the idea of Edwin as a husband.

There was a certain satisfaction

BUSINESS ANALYST FINDS MANY FACTORS MAKING FOR RECOVERY

AUSTIN, Oct. 7.—It is becoming increasingly clear that the forces which were noted at the beginning of the summer as making for sustained business recovery are becoming more and more effective, and constructive factors not discernible a few months ago are making their appearance, in the opinion of Dr. P. A. Buechel, assistant director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

Late in June, Dr. Buechel predicted that "the period of normal summer dullness will be shorter and lighter this summer than a year ago." A number of factors were cited in support of this opinion, and events during the summer have fully vindicated the survey presented at this time, he points out.

"Despite the undoubted improvement which has taken place in business 'visibility' and sentiment during the past three months, the outlook for the intermediate and longer-term is by no means altogether 'crystal clear,'" he explained.

"The foreign political situation is now casting an ominous shadow over the business horizon. Although for the moment attention is being focused upon the Italo-Ethiopian situation, equally menacing possibilities are latent in the aspirations of Germany and Japan. Statesmanship of the highest order is needed among all the industrial nations of the world if another world catastrophe is to be avoided.

"Behind these political and military disturbances which are so prominent at present are silent economic forces which must be more accurately appraised and directed in the future than they have been in the past two decades. Economic war which has existed among the commercial nations of the world since the treaty of Versailles must be replaced by friendly international trade relations if lasting prosperity is to be restored in the world and military conflict averted. In a word, fundamental causes of world distress must be discovered and acted upon with greater wisdom than has prevailed during the past fifteen years or more.

"Barring a major war, the various individual indexes combine to give a favorable general picture. During the months immediately ahead the consumer's goods industries may be expected to increase their contributions to aggregate production. For the longer term, the capital goods industries are likely to continue with growing momentum the improvement which began early in July. This situation is already being reflected in car loadings, electric power production, and steel production.

"The agricultural situation, particularly the animal industries, including meat, dairy, poultry, wool and mohair production, is especially promising. During the next year or more these industries are likely to witness increasing output at lower unit cost of production with widening margins of profit to farmers. Prospective returns from cash crops such as cotton and wheat also promise to be well above the depression low. Allied industries including food processing plants, manufacturers of building materials, farm implements, manufacturers, and transportation agencies already are reflecting the improved farm income and outlook.

"It is to be hoped that out of the critical international situation there may emerge an order of statesmanship capable of appraising the causes underlying world economic maladjustments—and of adopting policies which will gradually make for more harmonious international relations and the restoration of trade based on sound economic principles. And within our country there remains to be accomplished the solution of the unemployment problem on the basis of sound economics and not upon temporary and superficial expedients. This problem requires statesmen which not only are capable of analyzing the problem but which mother's indignation and her father's disappointment.

The door opened quietly and Frances' voice filtered through the clouds of lace. "Emily, dear, what on earth?"

She sat up slowly. She wasn't crying; her face wouldn't have seemed half so stark if she had been. She said in a broken whisper:

"Mother, I can't do it."

Frances' face rose magnificently to the occasion. She neither stormed nor commanded. She sat down beside Emily and took her in her arms.

"Emily," she said, "I don't suppose there was ever a girl in the world who didn't feel—panic-stricken—at the last minute. It's quite natural."

"It can't be," Emily scarcely recognized her own voice. "Not this." "Yes," insisted her mother. "This is the nerve, all of it. Haven't you ever felt this way before?"

She searched for a simile, "before a tennis tournament or an examination? When you wondered why on earth you'd ever gotten into it?"

"No," said Emily. She knew the feeling, but not the meaning, but it wasn't like this. "They were never this important."

"That's why the feeling is so intensified. When it's all over and you're safely through it all you'll wonder how you could have been so frightened. Going away with Edwin will seem the most natural thing in the world."

"If you broke it off now," her mother went on gently, "it would be the end of everything between you and Edwin. And when he was completely out of your life you'd miss him terribly, and wonder how you could have done such a thing."

Emily rose slowly and wearily from the lace-covered bed.

"Send Mrs. Mims in here, then, and let her fix this veil again."

Frances Felton's face did not change.

Emily plunges, tomorrow, into a disastrous situation.

CONDITIONS ARE FAVORABLE IN AGRICULTURE, LIVESTOCK

DALLAS, Oct. 7. (AP)—Continuation of generally favorable conditions in the agricultural and livestock industries, a further expansion in retail and wholesale trade, and a sharp increase in construction activity are cited by the monthly review issued today by the Federal Reserve bank, issued today, as the constructive forces in evidence in the eleventh district during the past month.

Retail buying at larger cities as reflected by department store sales, the review states, was 21 per cent above the July volume and exceeded that of the corresponding month last year by eight per cent. "This bank's index of department store sales, adjusted for seasonal variations," the review discloses, "rose to 83.3 per cent of the 1929-33 average in August, the highest level recorded during the current year."

Wholesale distribution reflected a seasonal expansion over the previous month and in a majority of reporting lines the volume of business exceeded that of a year ago by a wide margin. Although there was a seasonal recession in collections at retail establishments and in some lines of wholesale trade, the volume of payments compared favorably with a year ago.

The review reports construction activity during August at the highest level in several years. The value of building permits at leading cities, it says, was 125 per cent greater than in July and 235 per cent larger than in August, 1934. The aggregate value of contracts issued in the first eight months of the current year was 129 per cent above that for the same period last year and was the largest for any similar period in four years.

In agriculture, the review states that despite deterioration in some crops during August, the physical volume of production in this district as estimated by the department of agriculture in its September 1 report will greatly exceed that of 1934 and some crops will be the largest in several years.

The prospective production of cotton was reduced in August as a result of depredations by insects and lack of moisture in some areas. The continuation of insect activity remains a potential danger to the crop, particularly in sections where the crop is later than usual. Heavy rains in practically all sections during the past three weeks provided moisture for the maturity of late crops and for fall seeding operations.

Ranges and livestock are in good conditions generally and indications are that there will be sufficient range and dry feed to carry stock through the winter in good shape. There is a broad demand for young stock for restocking purposes.

Financial statistics, the review concludes, reflected no important changes. The commercial loans of member banks in selected cities showed a seasonal expansion between August 7 and Sept. 11, and their investments were increased substantially during the same period. Federal Reserve bank loans to member banks on September 15 were moderately higher than the low volume a month earlier.

The daily average of combined net demand and time deposits of member banks amounted to $825,316,000 in August, compared with $812,870,000 in July and $723,870,000 in August, 1934.

Court Opens To Pass On Many New Deal Acts

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7. (AP)—Meeting for the first time in its $11,500,000 marble mansion, the supreme court assembled today for a new term expected to have vast effect on the future of the nation. Decisions on a number of new deal policies... are anticipated before the term is over.

Already before the court are five cases challenging the validity of the AAA act, the Tennessee valley authority legislation, the Bankhead cotton control act and sections of the national industrial recovery act providing for donation of money to aid in constructing municipal electric plants and for condemnation of land for slum clearance projects. Other new deal statutes which appear destined for supreme court attention include the Guffey coal regulation law, the social security measure, the labor disputes act, the new railroad pension plan, the revised farm mortgage moratorium law and the utility holding company regulatory law.

Approximately 500 cases are on the docket, 100 more than a year ago but about the average for the beginning of the term, which continues until June.

KILLED INSTANTLY GRAND PEARLIE, Oct. 7. (AP)—S. H. Johnson, 14-year Dallas news carrier, was killed instantly today when knocked from his bicycle by an automobile as he delivered his papers. The negro driver of the machine stopped and was arrested.

'Aduwa Italian Forever,' Exults Rome In Parade

ROME, Oct. 7. (AP)—An Italian government spokesman said today Italy's troops would consolidate their quickly-won positions in northern Ethiopia and might not advance as spectacularly for the next few days as they did during their drive on Aduwa.

Facist sentiment at home backed the army in its program of making sure of holding Aduwa, scene of Italy's humiliating defeat in 1896. Crowds which marched behind a band playing patriotic music last night bore banners proclaiming: "Aduwa Italian again. 'Aduwa Italian forever.' 'Aduwa today, Addis Ababa tomorrow.'"

In many cities the demonstrations were linked to manifestations of friendship with France. Masses gathered in front of the French consulate and raised up vivas for France and Premier Laval, together with their cheers for Italy, Premier Mussolini and the Italian army in Africa.

MATHEWS MISSING PITTSBURGH, Oct. 7. (AP)—Friends of C. H. Mathews Jr., vice-president of the Union Trust company of Pittsburgh, and a widely known banker, said they believed he was the C. H. Mathews listed among the killed in an airplane wreck in Wyoming today. The banker had been on a trip to California and was returning, associates said.

FRENCH TROOPS SERVE DJIBOUTI, French troops will leave here tomorrow for Deridawa, Ethiopia, it was announced today, to protect French lives and property and the Franco-Ethiopian railroad center there.

AMERICANS WARNED TO STAY OFF SHIPS OF ITALY AND ETHIOPIA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7. (AP)—The United States was fully embarked today upon a precedent-shattering neutrality policy capped by a formal proclamation by President Roosevelt admonishing American travelers to keep off vessels of Italy and Ethiopia.

As the 17,000 men of the coast guard and customs service took up today the task of preventing any shipments of American arms and munitions to the two embattled nations, diplomats in the world's capitals were busy studying the president's triple move over the weekend.

Besides proclaiming the embargo and the warning to travelers—two steps provided for in the recent neutrality legislation adopted by congress—the president went beyond the text of that legislation in another move. He declared in a statement that Americans who engage in "transactions of any character" with either of the belligerents will "do so at their own risk."

This marked a distinct reversal of policy. In the past the United States has argued for the right of neutral citizens and commerce to "freedom of the seas" passionate controversy about deaths and injuries suffered by Americans and about restrictions on American trade preceded this country's entry into the world war.

The warning to travelers was issued last night after the president had made his other two moves late Saturday night. Since Ethiopia has no merchant marine, the latest proclamation affects only the ships of Italy.
