

TWO NAZI SPIES DIE BEFORE FRENCH FIRING SQUAD

These dramatic pictures show the end of the careers of two enemy agents, trained in German espionage and sabotage schools before being sent to work in Syria and the Levant States.

Caught and tried at Aleppo by the French, they confessed planning to poison Allied soldiers, to blow up power plants and reservoirs, and to get information about a refugee army.

The scene at the left, shortly before dawn, shows guards leading the condemned men to stakes in front of two firing squads. In each squad of 12 soldiers, half of the rifles are loaded with live ammunition, the other six with blanks; and none of the soldiers knows whether he is about to help kill a man.

The spies have been tied to the posts, in the picture at the right, both have refused blindfolds. A non-commissioned officer raises his saber.

Don Budge Plays in Tennis Match Here Today

Contest Is Feature Of WAC Rally

Hundreds of Panhandle tennis fans are eagerly awaiting this afternoon's gigantic WAC rally and tennis exhibition at the Pampa High School, featuring a court match between the famed Don Budge and Pampa Army Air Field's former amateur star, Lt. Edward Alloo, and a massive parade by cadets and enlisted men of Pampa field through Pampa's business district.

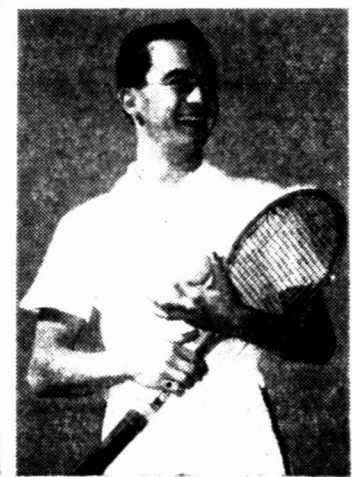

This doubleheader attraction has been arranged in the interest of recruiting in the Women's Army Corps. Just before the main match between Budge and Alloo, Pampa Field dignitaries will feature in a brief WAC recruiting ceremony.

Taking part in the program will be Col. Daniel S. Campbell, PAAP commanding officer, Lt. Col. Walter B. Marschner, executive officer, Mayor Fred Thompson, County Judge Sherman White and Garnet Reeves, chamber of commerce manager.

Today's activities will start at 1:30 when several hundred aviation cadets from the air base, together with members of the ground crew, will march in parade through the business district. This demonstration of military might promises to be of unusual interest and should attract a huge crowd.

The line of march will be as follows: start at the courthouse, south on Russell to Atchison, east to Cuyler, and out Cuyler to the high school tennis courts. Number—See BUDGE Page 8

Cost Basis For Livestock Tax Is Advocated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Frank S. Boise, president of the National Livestock association said today that if the internal revenue bureau insisted in assessing breeding herds at market prices "we will all go to a cost basis which will mean no difference in tax."

He made his statement to a reporter after cattle and sheep growers had concluded their conferences with bureau officials with an appeal for retention of the "constant unit value method" rather than the proposed market price basis for assessing.

Gains Reported In War Chest Drive Here

Optimism was registered last night by Community War Chest officials as reports showed that Pampa's $38,000 drive for welfare funds had passed the half-way mark with slightly more than $21,000 subscribed. Of that amount, $17,000 already has been paid in cash.

R. G. Hughes, chairman of the advanced gifts committee reported that his group alone had turned in $19,000. Charged with raising $23,000 of the total, Hughes expressed confidence that this would be done within the next few days.

Bill Hesse, in charge of collections at Lefors, said $457.25 had been raised there and at McLean, Charlie Cousins reported the total there had reached $1,500.

Lt. Benjamin Bock, in charge of solicitation at Pampa Air Field, said civilian workers at the post are being asked to contribute two days pay. Soldiers at the base also are expected to boost the total.

On Tuesday morning scores of Pampa women from the various P. T. A. groups will begin a city-wide house-to-house canvass asking Pampa housewives to make their contributions.

Mrs. E. L. Anderson, general chairman of the women's group, said housewives will be expected to contribute regardless of the fact that their husbands already may have made contributions.

Women in charge of the various sub-divisions of the house-to-house groups are as follows:

Mrs. R. W. Lane, senior high P. T. A.; Mrs. William Money, junior high P. T. A.; Mrs. Arthur Rankin, Woodrow Wilson P. T. A.; Mrs. See WAR CHEST Page 8

Monday to Determine Coal Strike Status

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—The number of striking soft coal miners climbed to 115,000 today, brightening prospects of a virtually complete industry shut-down by Monday.

Monday may also bring a settlement, in one fashion or another, of the issues which have kept the industry torn with controversy and heated since early spring. The United Mine Workers policy committee meets here, and President Roosevelt has promised that unless this meeting brings a back-to-the-mines movement he will take "decisive action."

Whatever the climax, the general expectation is that this time the situation will force some arrangement, government-imposed or otherwise, holding good for the war's duration.

Allies Consolidate Positions on Choiseul

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sunday, Oct. 31 (AP)—Allied invaders of tiny Treasury Island are pushing its few hundred Japanese defenders toward the northern tip and seaborne American paratroopers who landed there, are consolidating their positions, and are consolidating their positions.

These developments in the newly-opened offensive on the approaches to the last big Japanese Solomon base of Bougainville were announced by headquarters today.

Belatedly it was disclosed that after American and New Zealand amphibious troops landed Wednesday on Treasury, 30 miles south of Bougainville, 25 Japanese disembarkers and fighters tried to interfere. They were intercepted by the north of the eight-mile long island by Lightnings, Kittyhawks and Aracobras which shot down at least 12. All the interceptors returned to their bases.

The report was the first of any appreciable enemy air activity in the sector where his bases were bombed out prior to the invasions. An indication that the Japanese also may be moving inland reinforcements was given in a report that north of Bougainville a troop-laden coastal vessel was bombed and sunk.

On the southwestern shore of Choiseul, where paratroops achieved unopposed landings from ships Thursday at a village close by a Japanese barge staging depot, the communique today confined itself to "our ground troops are consolidating their positions." There was no indication that any fighting had occurred yet.

At South Pacific headquarters of Admiral Halsey, a spokesman who elaborated on MacArthur's communique said the invaders "continued to push enemy forces back." First reports after the landing told of the Japanese withdrawing without a fight.

He also amplified the Treasury air battle, saying the enemy planes appeared in mid-afternoon whereas the landing operations began at dawn that morning. The Allied interceptors slightly outnumbered the enemy. The spokesman made no comment on the results of the Japanese bombing attempts.

Governor's Trip To Washington Is Mystifying

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Governor Coke Stevenson of Texas left tonight for home leaving behind a riddle for those who would attach a political meaning to his two-day visit.

He saw Postmaster General Frank Walker, chairman of the Democratic national committee, and Ambrose O'Connell, vice chairman, after his arrival yesterday, in what perhaps was the high light of his conversations in the capital.

He started today's activities at a brief meeting with Louis Johnson, former assistant secretary of war, Johnson called at Stevenson's hotel. The governor said it was a social call.

At noon the governor was the luncheon guest of Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) at the capitol. Most of the Texas members of Congress, including Senator Connally, were present. Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex.) was not there, but the two met later. Stevenson stopped at the hotel where the senator and Mrs. O'Daniel reside, so the governor dropped down three floors and visited the man.

Club Sponsors Fight For Free Enterprise

The Pampa Kiwanis club Friday adopted a patriotic project proposed by the Kiwanis club of Dallas—a project which the 65 Pampa civic club members will promote in conjunction with a national campaign sponsored by Kiwanis International.

The Kiwanis project will be presented to the people of Pampa and the rest of the nation under the label of "Keep America American."

In explaining the campaign which will be launched nationwide next Monday through newspapers and over the radio, Kiwanis officials said:

"In present day conditions there exist challenge after challenge to our democratic way of life, to our democratic form of government, and to our free enterprise system of commerce and industry.

"American freedom is the touchstone of the remarkable achievements of this nation. This American freedom of individuals and enterprises worth fighting for."

Kiwanians everywhere—and they're being joined by Lions and Rotary clubs over the nation—intend to fight for it. It was explained to Pampa Kiwanians in a two-hour closed meeting in the Methodist church Friday afternoon.

Kiwanian Edgar Henshaw, minister of the Episcopal church, outlined the national program and then a round-table discussion was held in which members discussed the proposal and then adopted it unanimously.

"The emphasis," said the Rev. Henshaw, "is to be placed upon protecting and maintaining freedom of opportunity and the free enterprise system."

Oil Price Fight Will Be Carried Into Congress

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 30 (AP)—Ralph T. Zook, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, declared in a statement tonight that the only course left in the oil industry's fight for a 25-cent per barrel hike in crude oil prices "is through the congress of the United States."

He termed refusal of Fred Vinson, economic stabilization director, to approve the requested price increase "a reflection on the judgment and ability of Petroleum Administrator Ickes and leaders of the industry, all of whom have declared that a substantial increase is necessary."

Fifth, Eighth Armies Both Gain in Italy

(By The Associated Press)
Russia's swift moving armies all but blocked the Germans' land-escape corridors last night to begin the second battle of the Crimea.

Driving southward at high speed, the Soviets took Askaniya Nova, only 22 miles away from Perekop, key to the Perekop peninsula, and another speedy column bore down to capture Genchick, a town commanding the northeastern entrance to the Crimea.

Thus the Russians were in a position to thrust twin spearheads to seal off for good and all the Crimea and its thousands of entrapped Germans.

Since the summer of 1942 the Germans have been in command of the Crimea, using it as a convalescent center for men wounded at the front, and lately had drawn into it the forces pushed out of the Caucasus by the Russian summer and fall offensives.

The Soviet communique announcing the new advances said that advances of as much as five miles were made by the Red armies in the Dnieper bend, southwest of Dnepropetrovsk, as well as the capture of 150 towns and hamlets in the drive which captured Genchick.

In the north, the Red armies' Allied Fifth and British Eighth armies registered new gains after some sharp fighting British troops with the Fifth occupied Mondrago, which is on the west coast adjacent to Mount Massico, Mediterranean anchor of the Nazis' new line. The Americans further inland took the strategically important town of Pietravallano, on the flank of Mount Massico.

The Eighth Army in the eastern sector of the line had the stiffest fighting in Italy but advanced to take Montemilto, on the Trigno river about 14 miles inland from the San Salvo area.

The Allied forces took possession of more than a score of towns and villages in their limited advances.

The Fifth and the Eighth armies now find themselves in Italy face to face with a formidable defense line the See CRIMEAN Page 8

Cotton Pickers In Levelland Demonstrate

LUBBOCK, Oct. 30 (AP)—Hockley County Sheriff Ed Hofacker of Levelland said an angry crowd of cotton pickers of Latin-American origin gathered today at Levelland after a brief fight but that serious trouble was averted through arrival of officer reinforcements.

Hockley County Judge Jim Ellis told the Lubbock Avalanche Journal that "at least 1,000, maybe twice that many cotton pickers gathered in the street and on the court house lawn" across from a restaurant.

The sheriff said the disturbance started during the afternoon when a group of the cotton pickers sought service in a restaurant and were refused, and that some of the patrons of the restaurant attempted to enforce the refusal. He said one cotton picker was injured slightly.

Levelland is 30 miles west of Lubbock.

For a time, said Sheriff Hofacker the situation appeared tense, but city, county, and state highway patrol officers were called from Lubbock and things quieted so that tonight about 70 per cent of the crowd See COTTON Page 8

Italian Regency Is Proposed

NAPLES, Oct. 30 (Delayed)—(AP)—The shelling of both King Vittorio Emanuele and Crown Prince Umberto in favor of a regency for Umberto's 6-year-old son, the prince of Naples, was proposed for Italy today as American and British representatives conferred with a group of the foremost Italian political leaders.

The conferences were believed to have dealt with Italy's future government, and afterward Benedetto Croce, perhaps the country's most powerful political figure, suggested in an interview that a regency for the boy prince under Premier Pietro Badoglio was the answer to the need for a stronger government than Badoglio now heads.

10 Witches' Tales Creep Through History To Plague Superstition of People Today

By DOROTHY ROE (P) Features Writer

Do you have an uneasy twinge when a black cat crosses your path? Think nothing of it—nine out of ten persons have the same thing, and some even turn around and go home. It's all a hangover from the Middle Ages, when witches romped over the highways and byways at night, and their leader was believed to be the devil himself, in the form of a black cat. You may be seeing him tomorrow night—it's Halloween!

The most enlightened of us have our pet superstitions, and here are 10 of the most common, as compiled by Claudia de Lys, author and lecturer:

1—Three on a match. This almost universal superstition was believed to have started during World War I, but actually dates back to the time of the fire-worshippers, when camp fires were lighted, three at a time, from a brand of the chief's fire, after the death of a member of the tribe. The ritual was all right but good to the tribesman who lighted three fires for any other reason! He was insulting the fire gods, and inviting death.

2—Knocking wood. Primitive man started the custom when he touched wood to apologize to the gods for lack of humility.

3—Unlucky thirteen. The ancient Hindus first put the curse on 13, in the days before numbers, when men counted with sticks. The number 12 was called divine, because it could be divided neatly into magic good-luck symbols of triangles or squares. Thirteen spoiled the pattern, and was called taboo.

4—The good-luck horseshoe. This is one of the favorite superstitions of man, with many claims to fame. The horseshoe is shaped like a crescent, and has a nail in all folklore. It has four nails on one side, three on the other, adding up to lucky seven. And it is made of iron, the metal of the gods, which came down from Olympus with the thunderbolts.

5—The lucky rabbit foot. The ancients decreed the left hind foot of a rabbit a countercharm against the "evil eye." Rabbits were believed to have the powers of the "evil eye" because their young were born with their eyes open.

Choiseul Island Landing Is Made Without Battle

BY REMBERT JAMES

ABOARD A U. S. TROOP SHIP OFF CHOISEUL, SOLOMON ISLANDS, Oct. 28. (Delayed.) (P)—American troops with weirdly painted faces and wearing spotted-green jungle battle-dress went ashore at Choiseul Island early this morning before dawn.

They landed within sight of the glowing campfires of the Japanese. Not a shot was fired as our troops stepped ashore from a swarm of landing boats and crept into the jungles between and behind the enemy.

Choiseul, like tiny Treasurers Island, lies about 30 statute miles from Japanese-occupied Bougainville, although it is east of that last major enemy possession in the northern Solomon Islands. It has been used principally as a staging point for Japanese barge and destroyer traffic which attempted to reinforce the central Solomons when American forces isolated Kolombangara this summer.

Choiseul was the receiving station for Kolombangara's evacuees who fled from Admiral William F. Halsey's sea and air forces in small boats and then tried to reach safety at Bougainville.

The only Japanese-aerial interference in the current landings came early this morning when an enemy plane dropped two sticks of small bombs harmlessly into the sea, near our convoy.

I went ashore with the American and New Zealand invaders of Treasurers Island yesterday and then joined the convoy taking our troops to Choiseul where I watched from shipboard, 1,000 yards offshore, while the landing was effected.

Navy Lt. R. E. Farwell, San Diego, Calif., who took the first troops ashore in the darkness before dawn, described his experience as "pretty ghostly."

"We eased up on the beach at a wrecked native village," he said. "Up on the hills we could see the red glow of Japanese campfires. The troops went ashore and found no one there. Then they crept into the brush looking for Japs."

4-H Club Boy Of Hoover Wins Chicago Trip

A 15-year-old Gray county boy today ranked among the 19 best young farmers in the state.

He is John Spearman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Spearman of Hoover, who has been awarded an expense-paid trip by the Santa Fe railway to the National 4-H Club congress to be held in Chicago Nov. 28-Dec. 2.

Annually, the Santa Fe selects the outstanding farm boys of the state for the excursion to the congress. Spearman was the only one selected this year who is from District 1, comprised of 20 Panhandle counties.

The Gray county boy joined the Farrington 4-H club in 1939. His demonstration, on which he won the trip to Chicago, was baby beef.

In announcing Spearman as one of the winners, L. L. Johnson, state boys club agent, notified David P. Eaton Jr., Gray county assistant farm agent, that so far as was known the excursion would be held this year, but that war conditions might cancel the trip.

Spearman described his work in the following report: "For my first demonstration I fed a bull calf and my expenses were $35. We desired to keep it on the place so I sold it for $125 and with some of the profits I bought a trick mare which now has a colt.

"For my next demonstration, I fed a baby beef. My expenses were $48. I had the fourth best calf in the county and the best 4-H club calf. The calf brought me $100 with a $5 prize.

"The next year I had two calves for my demonstration and my expenses were $67.50. I won fifth and seventh place in the county and they brought me $243.08. With these profits and through the kindness of a friend, I purchased a registered heifer; from this I plan to build a registered herd.

"In 1943 I had two Hereford calves in the county show winning third and sixth place, sold these calves for $290.14, as my expenses were $223.24. I made a profit of $66.90. I have two calves on feed for the show for 1944 and they are doing very nice. I bought a registered Hereford heifer for $75 and she had a calf. They are valued at $225, as my expenses have been $89. I have a net return of $156.

"In February I bought 10 grade Hereford calves for $550 and they are now valued at $1,007. As my expenses have been $80, I have a net return of $927 in them. In May I returned to the Hampshire in the Sears, Roebuck contest. I have a net return of $59.75 in her and as I won third place in the county show, I won $50 chicks to be delivered next spring. In April I bought 105 white Rock chicks and raised 101 of them. In July I sold them for 60 cents apiece. My expenses were $38.54, giving me a net return of $23.06."

6—Walking under a ladder. In the ancient Orient, when criminals were executed by hanging from the seventh rung of a ladder, it was believed that evil spirits lingered near and sudden death was "catching."

7—"Keep your fingers crossed!" Everybody says it, when wishing good luck. It's a modern expression of the oldest good omen of them all, the sign of the cross, the symbol of man with his arms outstretched, appealing to the heavens for help in time of trouble.

8—The hat on the head. The ancient Chinese believed evil spirits dwelt in the hair, and some of the invisible imps might remain in the hat. Thus if a hat were placed on the bed, the occupant of the bed might expect the worst.

9—Spilling salt. Among the early Romans, salt was scarce, and therefore precious. Workers received part of their wages in salt—and the weekly pay check is still called "salary." Hence spilling salt in those days was a serious matter, and a quarrel was fairly sure to follow. The ritual of tossing it over the left shoulder is based on the ancient belief that evil spirits congregate on the left, like kibitzers, and that salt, being divine because of its contact with the sea, scared them away.

10—The four-leaf clover. The ancients believed Eve took a four-leaf clover with her when she left Paradise. We of the twentieth century still hold to the ancient ditty: One leaf for fame, One leaf for wealth, One leaf for a faithful lover, And one leaf to bring glorious health.

People Spit on, Stone U. S. Airmen Downed in Germany

The following dispatch, exchanged American prisoners of war on their experiences in Germany, contains material which United States army censors in Britain held up when first presented to them on the arrival of the men in Liverpool Monday. It is now released after two days of consideration.

BY JOHN F. CHESTER

A HOSPITAL IN CHESHIRE, England, Oct. 30.—(P)—Fourteen ill and wounded American soldiers freed from German prison camps and brought here for treatment, said today that the Germans were pessimistic over the outcome of the war and many of them were so angry at Americans they spat upon and stoned them.

One man severely wounded in Sicily, Pfc. Herbert Ehrlich, of Brooklyn, N. Y., said all the Germans he talked to were "pessimistic over the outcome of the war and most of them seemed to think it would be over by January, 1944."

It was the fliers, parachuting down after air raids, who drew the ire of the Nazi civilians.

"The Germans spit on us once or twice and we got plenty of scowls and dirty looks but suffered no actual violence," said S/Sgt. Lester Miller, 26, of Hartford, Conn., tail gunner in a Marauder which was shot down after an attack on a power plant in Holland last May 17.

Another group of fliers found trouble when the loudspeaker in the railroad station at Lueneburg, where they were being taken, announced to the crowd that airmen who had bombed Hamburg were present. One of the men was hit by a rock, civilians cursed them, and threw hot coffee at them but guards protected them from violence.

Other fliers who had a passing glimpse of Berlin, Augsburg and Hamburg told interviewers that bomb damage had been terrific in certain areas and Hamburg particularly was "flat for miles and miles—a shambles."

Ehrlich, who fought through Tunisia, was wounded five times and suffered a collapsed lung in a mortar burst at Trolley. He was given good treatment by Serb doctors near Munich after "a terrible trip from the front" but said he would have died if it had not been for

Red Cross packages of food that arrived regularly. Otherwise, he said, "we would have had spuds, spuds and more spuds and something they call soup but which was water."

Benny Spring, 22, Denver, Colo., former jockey who once studied for the priesthood, told the first full story of the end of the Flying Fortress "Butch" after it had unloading its bombs on smoking Hamburg.

Convalescing from compound skull fractures and shoulder and leg wounds, the repatriated war prisoner, who arrived this week in the first exchange with Germany, said that four of his crew were missing from the July 25 raid and that he was saved by the medical skill of a British prisoner.

Spring said that only the intervention of Nazi soldiers saved him from being manhandled by angered German civilians near Hamburg.

Spring said that Lt. John Van Wier, of Long Beach, Calif., University of Southern California graduate and former glie club member who was piloting "Butch," and Engineer Albert Hebeack, of East Chicago, Ill., former professional wrestler, were last seen trying to fix the automatic pilot after the ball out order had been given.

Still another American in the British hospital, Sgt. Milton Williams, of Omaha, Neb., and St. Louis, Mo., added to his previous story with a description of how the prisoners in one German camp made up teams to get the most out of their diet. It was necessary to supplement the camp food by Red Cross packages in order to keep alive, he said.

"We'd get a man with a bad stomach, a blind man with a missing leg, and a man with good legs who could do our running around with us," said a waitstuffer on a Fortress shot down over Bremen.

"Each of us would share in the work and get a special part of the diet. We'd save bits from our supper and later in the evening we'd add Red Cross food and heat it over the steam pipes for our best meal of the day.

"Some of the people at home who are complaining should be in a spot like this where you really learn unselfishness and what it means to respect human rights."

Red Cross packages of food that arrived regularly. Otherwise, he said, "we would have had spuds, spuds and more spuds and something they call soup but which was water."

Benny Spring, 22, Denver, Colo., former jockey who once studied for the priesthood, told the first full story of the end of the Flying Fortress "Butch" after it had unloading its bombs on smoking Hamburg.

Convalescing from compound skull fractures and shoulder and leg wounds, the repatriated war prisoner, who arrived this week in the first exchange with Germany, said that four of his crew were missing from the July 25 raid and that he was saved by the medical skill of a British prisoner.

Spring said that only the intervention of Nazi soldiers saved him from being manhandled by angered German civilians near Hamburg.

Spring said that Lt. John Van Wier, of Long Beach, Calif., University of Southern California graduate and former glie club member who was piloting "Butch," and Engineer Albert Hebeack, of East Chicago, Ill., former professional wrestler, were last seen trying to fix the automatic pilot after the ball out order had been given.

Still another American in the British hospital, Sgt. Milton Williams, of Omaha, Neb., and St. Louis, Mo., added to his previous story with a description of how the prisoners in one German camp made up teams to get the most out of their diet. It was necessary to supplement the camp food by Red Cross packages in order to keep alive, he said.

"We'd get a man with a bad stomach, a blind man with a missing leg, and a man with good legs who could do our running around with us," said a waitstuffer on a Fortress shot down over Bremen.

"Each of us would share in the work and get a special part of the diet. We'd save bits from our supper and later in the evening we'd add Red Cross food and heat it over the steam pipes for our best meal of the day.

"Some of the people at home who are complaining should be in a spot like this where you really learn unselfishness and what it means to respect human rights."

What you can do when you "BLOW OUT A FUSE"

- 1. TRACE THE CAUSE. When a fuse "blows out" a faulty appliance or a frayed or defective cord may be the reason. Trace the cause and disconnect the lamp or appliance.
2. REPLACE THE FUSE. Replacing a "blown out" fuse is as simple as replacing a lamp bulb. Simply follow the directions below. Better get a supply of extra Underwriter Approved fuses and keep them handy. Be sure the faulty cord or appliance is repaired before it is put back into service.

Panhandle Labor Rule Changes Are Announced

Designed to stop labor from shifting about and to utilize manpower to the fullest, the second employment stabilization plan for the area comprised of Gray and other Panhandle counties went into effect Oct. 15.

It is a voluntary plan as set up by the area labor management commission. For this area F. A. Wells of Amarillo is director. First employment stabilization plan was formed on April 29, 1943. Difference of the new plan over the old is principally what is defined as "minimum standards in general."

"A new employe, who during the preceding 60-day period (under the first plan this was 30 days) was engaged in an essential or locally needed activity may be hired only if such hiring would aid in the effective prosecution of the war only if:

"1. Such individual is hired for work in an essential or locally needed activity or for work to which he has been referred by the United States Employment service, and

"2. Such individual presents a statement of availability from his last employment in an essential or locally needed activity, or is referred by the U. S. E. S. of the war manpower commission, or is hired with its consent."

Copies of a 17-page pamphlet on the subject have been received here by the U. S. Employment service, 306 N. Russell.

Appendices contain lists of critical occupations and professional and scientific occupations covered.

For Gray county, the most important of these are:

Bricklayer, cabinetmaker, oil well cementer, oil well driller, electrician, foreman, telegraph or telephone equipment installer, pumper, refrigerator engineer, stiltman, power switchboard operator, accountant, chemist, chemical, civil, electrical and petroleum engineer.

Lights Go On Again in East Monday Night

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Lights will be turned up again on Nov. 1 along the nation's coasts as the army and navy mark down a victory over the prowling enemy submarine.

In a joint announcement the war and navy departments, the war production board and the office of civilian defense urged that the dim-out be succeeded by a "brown-out"—a semi-dimming to conserve critical resources used in generating electric power.

The lights were lowered originally because the glow from cities on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts silhouetted ships and set up targets for night-ranging subs. But the announcement said that the successful campaign against enemy subs had made the dim-out unnecessary.

Recently the civilian volunteer airplane spotters were freed of their duties when the army signified its ability to watch over the airways. The move made thousands of men and women throughout the country available to other part-time or full-time work.

The urging of a voluntary "brown-out" which would save electricity, coal, oil, gas and other resources, carried with it the warning that unless the public cooperates, mandatory regulation of night lighting will be necessary.

The announcement also noted that despite the end of the lighting ban, all communities must remain in readiness to restrict lighting or even go into total blackouts if the submarine menace again becomes serious.

Sugar Applications For Canning Extended

A pass of the Gray county rationing board was intercepted yesterday by the Lubbock OPA office and returned to the Feb. 29, 1944 stripe.

The county board had set Thursday as the last day to file applications to get canning sugar, with Nov. 1 as the last day on which canning sugar could be obtained.

Now the district office at Lubbock comes back with sugar Bulletin 12 setting the dates of the sugar bowl series as from March 1, 1943 to Feb. 29, 1944.

Not only Gray but other county rationing boards had also set Nov. 1 as the deadline. Reason was supposed to be that ration stamps 15 and 16 expired on Oct. 31.

Under the extension, applicants for canning sugar can now go to the board's office here, file their application to which is to be attached their Ration Book 1, and leave it for the board to judge.

Notice of the Nov. 1 deadline previously set caused an avalanche of business at the office here last week. On one day alone permits were issued for the purchase of six tons of sugar.

Oil Explodes In Train Accident

HIGHLAND, N. Y., Oct. 30. (AP)—Explosions that sounded like the booming of cannon sent thousands of gallons of oil and gasoline up in flame and smoke today in the spectacular wreck of a New York, New Haven and Hartford freight train.

Thirty tank cars, by unofficial count, blew up and ignited when the locomotive jumped the track at a switch siding near Highland on the west side of the Hudson river. No one was killed or injured, but the flames leveled three houses facing the right of way. The occupants escaped.

Texas Boundary Row Involved In Oil Suit

HOUSTON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—An attack by purported heirs of four Spanish grandees upon title to South Texas oil and grazing land worth millions of dollars is being studied by Federal Judge Allen B. Hannay.

Judge Hannay said it would be two weeks before he could wade through voluminous briefs, motions, answers, two international treaties and the Texas declaration of independence—all filed or cited in two civil suits—and reach a decision of plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment.

The motion was filed by D. B. and

R. Tuck Chaffin and E. Garland Brown, Corpus Christi attorneys, for Dimas Ygnacio Ybarra Amaya and others, residents of Guadalupe, Tamaulipas, Mexico. Defendants include the Stanolind Oil and Gas company, the Southern Minerals Corporation and the Robert Driscoll ranch in Nueces county.

The plaintiffs allege that the Nueces river and not the Rio Grande was the southern border of the republic of Texas and that all the land between those rivers was ceded to the United States by Mexico in the treaty of Guadalupe-Hidalgo.

Declaring they inherited 32,440ths of approximately 20 leagues of land granted by the Spanish government in 1808, the plaintiffs contend the clause in the Hidalgo treaty guaranteeing "inviolable property rights" to Mexican nationals applies to the "ceded" land, including the holdings they claim.

The defendants have denied that any part of Texas was ceded by the treaty ending the Mexican war, that only parts of New Mexico, Arizona and California were ceded.

In one brief, Stanolind attorneys said: "The defendant is expected to argue that the Treaty of Velasco was never ratified by Mexico because Santa Anna had lost power when he returned home. To say that the boundary established by the Treaty of Velasco was not the Rio Grande would be to say that Texas did not win the Battle of San Jacinto and its independence."

British Press Director Backs Press Freedom

LONDON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Arguing for worldwide freedom of news, Christopher J. Chancellor, joint general manager of Reuters, British news agency, told a symposium at Netherlands house that this ideal had been expressed by Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press.

"Mr. Cooper believes that a worldwide system of free news agencies—with independent, impartial reporting of news of their own countries and of the rest of the world with no other motive than to supply truth—can do much to ensure the permanence of the coming peace,"

Chancellor said. "He believes, and I am certain that he is right, that one of the strongest contributory factors to war is the distortion of news—the creation of barriers in international news traffic, the suppression of truth and the feeding of propaganda into the news channels of the world."

"We all saw this evil process at work in pre-war Europe." Referring to last April's annual meeting of the Associated Press in New York, Chancellor said that "Mr. Cooper made a plea for an international agreement when this war is over to establish once and for all the principle of truth in news between nations and to give to newspapers of all countries free and unhindered access to the news of other countries."

He told of Cooper's suggestion that the peace treaty contain a clause affecting the news business and saying that even if this could not gain any perceptible change in the freedom of the press abroad, it could at least contribute to gaining two guarantees: first, that "news at its source shall be freely available to all everywhere, and second, that no country shall give preferential transmission facilities to its own press against the press of any other country."

Business Asked To Help Plans After Victory

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. (AP)—Several elaborate blueprints for federal postwar planning have been laid before White House officials but indications now are that President Roosevelt may spike all of them for an informal, piecemeal policy-making done more or less jointly by government, business, labor and agriculture.

The president fitted the newest piece into place Wednesday by creating a war advisory council of business men. This is now widely interpreted as a frank bid for close industry-business cooperation with the administration during the closing months of the war and in the post-war era as production shifts back to peacetime goods.

What probably surprised the eight business and industrial leaders most in their initial meeting with the chief executive Wednesday was his statement that since congress eliminated the national resources planning board several months ago he has no overall long-range planning agency and no funds with which to do such work.

Several of the business men came away with the feeling, later expressed, that recent government efforts to arrange for returning the country to a peace economy are developing without much overall coordination, and will continue to do so unless the president and his assistants, already jammed with immediate problems of the war, can find time to do the job.

Mr. Roosevelt gave the business men a hat full of specific problems on which he asked them to advise. One estimate is that there were 18 different problems in the bunch. The group will report back to him with specific proposals on several of the most urgent of these matters on Nov. 22.

One of these initial proposals will be on termination of war contracts held by about 100,000 prime war producers and more than 1,000,000 subcontractors.

The business men also made it

Berlin Plunged Into Anxiety By Moscow Parleys

LONDON, Oct. 30. (AP)—The Moscow three-power conference plunged Berlin to restless anxiety today. Nazi propagandists relayed Swedish reports that the Allies had given Russia a "fixed date" and all details for launching a major front in Western Europe.

Betraying the Nazis' deep uneasiness over the dangers etched for them in President Roosevelt's disclosure that the conference was succeeding, Berlin sounded this general line:

The United States and Britain have been "compelled to yield to all demands of Moscow," and lost their grip upon exiled governments by giving up their insistence upon independence of small European states after the war. From this, it was argued, Germany would "gain new followers."

Quoting Stockholm's Svenska Dagbladet, one Nazi broadcast said "England and America made a detailed proposition to the Soviet Union regarding a second front with a fixed date" and thus "gained the favor of the Soviet negotiators."

A second conclusion reached at the meeting "as a result of the compliant attitude which was surprisingly shown by the Soviet government" was upon post-war reconstruction in Russia with Allied aid, this report added.

In London, President Roosevelt's announcement was hailed as setting the seal on the defeat of Hitler, and caulked any chink that might have existed in Allied unity.

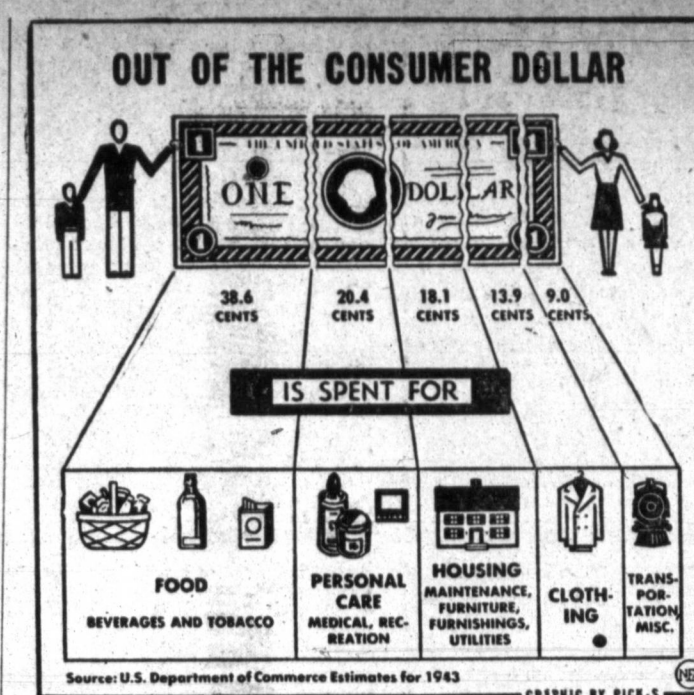

A Transocean propaganda agency broadcast declared that Britain and the United States had knuckled down to all of Russia's demands, and that the exiled governments now "realize that England is no longer able to support or protect them. They realize that they must now make a clear choice between Moscow and Berlin."

Transocean said that British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had agreed in principle to a "reconstruction of the Polish government-in-exile" to include the "Union of Polish Patriots" in Moscow.

DNB said Germany had expected that the Moscow conference would set common policies, "thus dashing German hopes for differences of opinion in the Allied camp."

Hog Dumping Is Feared by WFA

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. (AP)—The war food administration, fearful that farmers may dump more hogs on the market in December and January than processors can handle, has quietly sent out word that the government may not be able to carry through on its guarantee to support hog prices at specified levels.

A memorandum to state agricultural war boards warns of a possible collapse of the marketing, processing and distribution machinery, particularly if farmers follow the normal course of shipping a large proportion of their hogs to market during December and January.

The WFA estimates there are from 25 to 30 per cent more hogs on farms available for marketing during these months than in the corresponding months of a year ago when the market run was at a record level.

Packing and processing plants, on the other hand, have from 10 to 15 per cent less manpower. Further, cold storage facilities are expected to be heavily loaded.

The WFA urges the war boards to appeal to farmers to spread their marketings over a long period, by moving a larger proportion in November.

The government announced early in the year that it would support prices of hogs at a base price of $12.75 per hundred pounds, Chicago basis, for good and choice hogs weighing 200 to 270 pounds. This is $1 below the ceiling price.

There is little likelihood that civilians will get any considerable increase in pork ration allowances during the heavy hog marketings. WFA intends to move the extra supplies into a military and lend-lease reserve.

Suspended Gasoline Stations Sue OPA

DALLAS, Oct. 30. (AP)—Three Wichita Falls service station operators suspended from selling gasoline by an office of price administration hearing administrator filed suit today in federal court here asking Judge William H. Atwell to enjoin enforcement of the suspensions.

Their suit is similar to that of Foy O. Wilmon and Amos E. Wilmon, operators of the Good Luck Oil company of Dallas in which Judge Atwell recently held the office of OPA hearing administrator and suspensions ordered by the administrator as unconstitutional. Judge Atwell enjoined the OPA from enforcing a two-week suspension order against the Wilmons.

The Wichita Falls plaintiffs are Charles Walbrick, C. L. Whitlow and Haskell Benton, who state that suspension orders of one month, four months and six months, respectively, were issued against them by Israel Treiman, OPA hearing commissioner, after hearings in which they were charged with violation of gasoline ration orders.

Judge Atwell set Nov. 13 for hearing on a preliminary injunction.

$1000 Loans For Servicemen Are Asked in Bill

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. (AP)—A plan for lending $1,000 to returning servicemen to settle their debts came up on Capitol Hill today, a possible forerunner of measures for even broader benefits.

Introduced by Rep. King (D-Calif.), the loan bill has been referred to the house banking committee, with indications it will be kept there while a more comprehensive aid program is worked out.

King's bill would permit the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to underwrite loans made to honorably discharged servicemen by private lending institutions. The loans would be for the proven amount of the veteran's obligations at the time of his discharge, but not exceeding $1,000. They would bear 6 per cent interest and be repayable in installments over a three-year period.

No security, endorser or co-makers would be required, the government acting, in effect, as the veteran's endorser.

The soldiers' and sailors' civil relief act passed last year permits veterans to go into court upon their return and have their obligations stayed for a period equal to the length of time they were in service.

Some members of the house military committee who have been studying the subject say the relief thus provided may be insufficient should the war last several more years, because a soldier's obligations may amount, at the time of his discharge, to a sum too large to be handled by a man trying to readjust himself to civilian life.

Emergency Base Hospitals Named

AUSTIN, Oct. 30. (AP)—Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, today announced designation of 13 Texas hospitals as emergency base hospitals, to serve as a "second line of medical defense."

Cox said if patients in coastal hospitals should have to be transferred to areas of greater safety, the emergency group would be activated and compensated by the federal government.

The designations were made by the medical division of the office of civilian defense, said Cox who is chief of the emergency medical services in Texas.

The hospitals are located in these cities and towns: Alice, Beeville, Brenham (2), El Paso (2), La Grange, Lufkin, Laredo, Nacogdoches, Refugio, Robstown and Temple.

The business men gained the impression that the White House itself probably would be the clearing house with War Mobilization Director James P. Byrnes actually putting the pieces together.

Dallas Aviation Workers Hit By Food Poisoning

DALLAS, Oct. 30. (AP)—At least 150 workers at North American's aviation plant near Grand Prairie became ill from food poisoning early today and a six-way investigation into the cause was begun.

Dr. J. L. Goforth, chief of the emergency medical service of the office of civilian defense, who estimated 55 workers were under care in four hospitals, said blood plasma was administered in the more critical cases.

The workers became ill after eating food served from a privately owned cafeteria. Investigators for federal, state, county, and city governments, the company and the cafeteria were checking causes of the mass illness.

A chemist was sent by plane from the state health department at Austin to investigate. Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, said that this was the first large scale instance of food poisoning in Texas war plants that he had heard of.

Dr. J. W. Pickard, Dallas county health officer, said samples of ham were being tested, as well as all other foods served at the plant.

Smaller Plant Operators Get Federal Help

Smaller manufacturing and industrial plants and even suppliers can profit from the services of the Smaller War Plants Corporation. W. O. Coleman, district manager, from the Oklahoma City office told a group of Panhandle citizens at a meeting Friday at the chamber of commerce office.

Coleman explained that the corporation is the only war-related governmental bureau which has been set up by congress. All other war agencies such as the OPA, the WPB and others were set up by executive order.

W. H. Bovee, consultant, of the technical advisory service, from the regional office in Dallas, explained the service this branch of the SWPC can render to manufacturing and industrial concerns.

"These small plants have limited help and can not have the technical staffs, research staffs, etc., that a big plant with a prime war contract are forced to have," Bovee said. "The SWPC therefore steps in and helps these small plants with a multiplicity of problems by directing them to the governmental bureau, to the private research laboratory or to some established agency or firm that can solve their problem."

In this connection, several of the Pampa plant operators did have problems and secured assistance from the officials while here.

Coleman pointed out that now with the major war plant construction program completed or nearing completion that there are more and more materials being released for essential civilian supply.

"This opens operation for a number of the smaller plants that have been shut down or largely shut down," Coleman said. "If any plants have a problem in connection with getting materials to keep operating, we invite them to write us at our office in the Key Building, Oklahoma City, and we will get right on the job to help them out."

Also at the meeting was Roy E. Fitzgerald, also of the Oklahoma City office.

Details Awaited On Dnieper Catastrophe

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. (AP)—German armies have suffered a major defeat in the gigantic battle of the Dnieper, but whether it can be counted a military catastrophe depends to a large extent on the number of prisoners captured by the Russians.

Moscow reports of prisoners totals as well as of casualties inflicted and equipment destroyed are awaited by military men here with intense interest, as a basis for estimating enemy's remaining strength. Germany may have 500,000 men in the Dnieper bend.

Up to the time the Russians broke the Dnieper line and began their continuing race to entrap Nazi troops wholesale within the great bend of the river and in the Crimea, the Germans had suffered two unequalled disasters—Stalingrad and Tunisia, with a total of 467,000 prisoners.

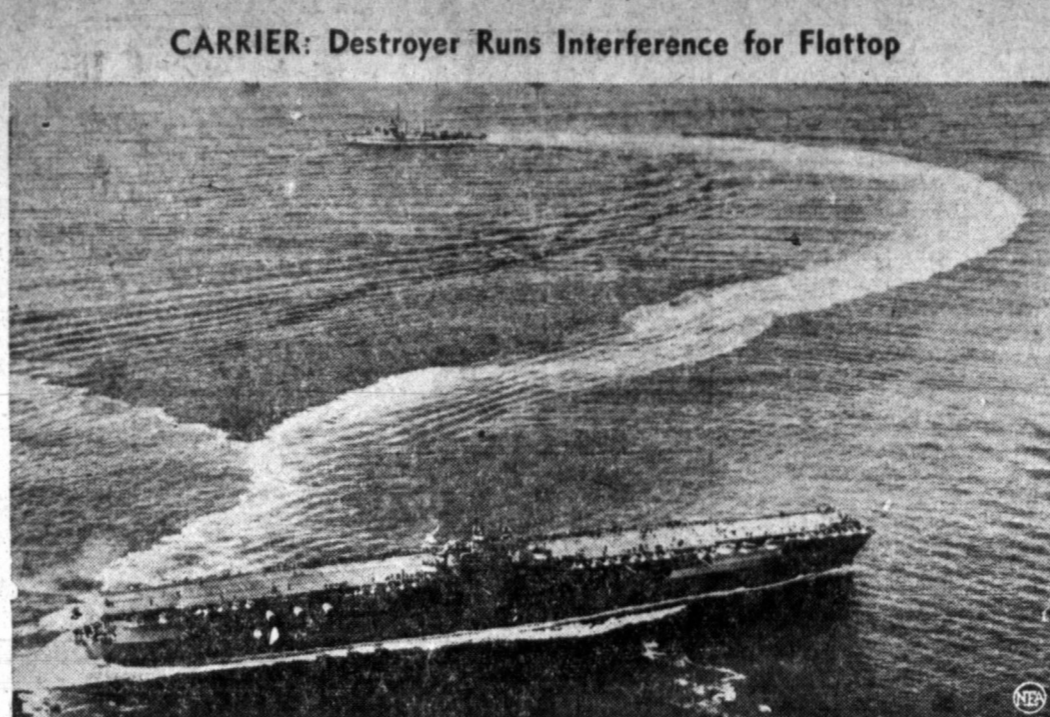

Once the Dnieper defenses were breached the trap-and-destroy tactics of Stalingrad and Tunisia were applied by the Russians with all possible speed. But it has meant a race for strategic rail and highway points in order to apply the squeeze. The German aim has been to hold these points at any cost in order to extricate the main body of their forces.

Gulf Dim-Out Rules Changed By Government

DALLAS, Oct. 30. (AP)—Dim-out regulations along the Gulf coast designed to protect shipping against submarines will be suspended tomorrow midnight.

Dim-outs in critical defense areas, instituted as a precaution against air attack, will remain effective.

In clarifying the regulations affecting the Louisiana-Texas coastal areas, the fourth and eighth service commands explained that restrictions on shore lighting would be lifted, permitting the use of street lights which reflect on the water, beach bonfires, automobile headlights turned seaward and other illumination near the water which would assist submarines in locating targets. These regulations were in effect since June 1, 1942, for an area about 25 miles inland from the coast.

Restrictions not lifted include illumination of buildings above the first floor, rooftop advertising signs, and other lighting which might be of aid to enemy planes. These restrictions apply to critical defense areas where there are war production plants and other air targets.

Conservation of electricity was given as one reason for retaining restrictions in critical defense areas.

The effect of the war department instructions is that Galveston will be allowed to increase night illumination while Houston, 50 miles inland, will not be permitted to do so.

At Ft. Sam Houston, the southern defense command headquarters pointed out that lighting restrictions might again become necessary in the event enemy submarine activity is detected in the Gulf of Mexico.

A headquarters spokesman emphasized that the revised regulations should not be construed as a go-ahead signal on non-essential lighting, that citizens should adhere to the voluntary conservation program of the war production board and the security measures of the office of civilian defense.

Voluntary cooperation, it was said, would prevent establishment of mandatory restrictions as a conservation measure.

At Corpus Christi, Capt. H. H. Hearfield, provost marshal, said shore lighting will not be resumed along the city's five-mile bayfront until Wednesday, pending receipt of detailed instructions.

Badoglio Pays Visit To Port of Naples

BY DON WHITEHEAD
NAPLES, Oct. 28. (Delayed)—Premier Pietro Badoglio made his first appearance in Naples today since this port city was freed from German occupation. He was accompanied by American Minister Robert Murphy and British Minister Harold MacMillan.

Although Murphy described the visit as "routine business," the presence of the American and British North Africa representatives lent prestige to Badoglio's arrival and caused speculation over whether it was an indication that the Italian premier has full British and American support for his government.

WACs Joining Air Forces Have Choices of Many Jobs

Today's Budget-Alloo tennis match and the parade of a contingent of Pampa Army Air Field's aviation cadets will highlight the inauguration of the second week of the current campaign to recruit Panhandle women as "Air WACs" to serve with the army air forces.

Until Dec. 7, a Pampa Field recruiting team, headed by Lt. Evan K. Shelby, will cooperate with WAC recruiting officials in Pampa and Amarillo in canvassing the 23 counties of the Panhandle under PAAF's jurisdiction in this drive.

Lt. Emma Yukna, WAC recruiting officer in Pampa, will be present at today's tennis matches to inform local women on the opportunities offered to women who enlist now as "Air WACs." For those women who may be unable to attend the rally or speak to her today, she and a member of her recruiting staff maintain an office in the basement of the Pampa post office, which is open daily from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. Appointment for evening interviews may be made by telephoning the recruiting office, Pampa 2280, during weekday business hours.

A woman who enlists as an "Air WAC" during the present drive will be definitely assigned to the air forces, and will have her choice of any one of scores of jobs in the AAF. These jobs include that of link training instructor, control tower operator, weather observer, photographic technician, radio operator, mechanic and many other technical posts. After a short basic training course, "Air WACs" will be sent to air fields in state companies for "on-the-job" training.

Opportunities for advancement, both in commissioned and non-commissioned grade, will be almost limitless, due to the expansion program of the WAC on duty with the air forces. Every woman who enlists will also have the opportunity to apply for officer's candidate school.

Saving American Lives

When American forces landed in North Africa last year they stepped into a politico-military muddle that generated excitement and hard words on both sides of the Atlantic. The mixup with the French factions was only a prelude to the current situation in Italy. And Italy is a preview of what can be expected when fighting ceases in Europe.

The promotion of Italy from half-hearted enemy to co-belligerent certainly was welcomed by a great majority of her people, but it made no hit with the neighbors. The French, still smarting from the stab in the back, are scornfully resentful. Both the Emperor Haile Selassie and the Greek government in exile, remembering the brutal and unwarranted invasion of their countries, have protested, with the Greek cabinet resigning in a body. Yugoslavia is said to fear, rightly or wrongly, that Marshal Badoglio's surrender will be rewarded with territory across the Adriatic, and that Count Carlo Sforza, the anti-Fascist patriot, brought along some expansionistic notions on his return from American exile.

And take a look at Italy herself. She is a state without a country. Part of her army and many of her civilians are held prisoner by her former ally, Germany. Another sizable segment of her soldiery is in the prison camps of her almost-ally, the United States.

Fascism is officially dead, though conceivably die-harders are loyal to Mussolini's puppet "Fascist Republican State," the cynical facade of Nazi occupation. Fascism is dead, but communism is still almost as much of a bogey as when Mussolini was in the driver's seat.

Since an American is bossing the Italian military campaign, the responsibility for straightening out this muddle may be accounted ours. And efforts thus far might be considered as temporizing and inept—unless we recall Secretary of State Hull's basic aim in such circumstances, as stated after his much-criticized dealings with the Vichy elements in North Africa.

That aim is the saving of American lives, at any price. It is an aim with which few will wish to quarrel. It is not the State Department's intention to improvise treatment for ancient political sores or fresh wounds at the cost of greater casualties. European feuds and differences can wait for settlement till the shooting is over. And there is no doubt but that work toward such settlement already is going on among the Big Three of the United Nations.

Industrial Feeding

Maybe the Inter-Agency Committee on Food for Workers is a good thing. Maybe our war production is being threatened by unbalanced diet curable only by "industrial feeding," which is bureau-ese for cafeteria or food trucks in factories. Maybe the problem requires the services of 10 directors, acting directors, chiefs and consultants, recruited from the Food Distribution Administration, War Manpower Commission, WPB and OPA, and appointed to the committee.

Perhaps even there is urgent need of the program initiation and planning, claimant agencies, priorities actions, recruitment and training programs, nutrition education, and all the requirements, provisions and adjustments set forth in three tightly-packed pages announcing the birth of this committee.

Maybe it's all to the good. We just haven't happened to hear of any factory workers going hungry. Time was when a person who was strong enough and smart enough to work a full shift making war tools was considered smart enough to get, cook and eat his food without any help. But not now. A committee from the agencies sits down, in an atmosphere heavy with bureaucratic jargon, to plot out a spoon-feeding program that must make the worker wonder if he is man, guinea pig or kindergarten pupil.

Sure, food is rationed and some of it is scarce and shopping is difficult for women workers. We just wonder if appointing still another committee is the solution.

CRUDE OIL PRICES
(The New York Sun)

Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma is not the first to advocate an increase in the price of crude oil as a means of getting more oil, but few advocates have provided more impressive evidence than is to be found in a statement of his printed in the Congressional Record. This statement is in the form of question and answer and the questions are such as the ordinary person might ask.

Why is a price increase necessary? Senator Thomas gives a number of answers, but the most telling one is that the cost of producing crude oil has risen by 53 cents a barrel in the nineteen months since OPA froze the price of crude oil and that the price ceiling now stands well below the actual cost of producing a barrel of oil. If the production of oil were unrelated to the conduct of the war and if the discovery of new oil were off safe concept to civilians, there might be an argument against increasing the price of crude oil for the purpose of increasing production.

Like others who have urged higher prices for crude, Senator Thomas believes that an increase would stimulate exploratory drilling; he cites the steady decline in recent years of the number of wildcat wells drilled. He also believes that a price closer to the cost of production would prevent the early abandonment of stripper wells, more than 10,000 of which were abandoned in 1942.

The question as to whether the increase in the minds of Americans not conversant with the technical details of the problem probably will boil down to something like this: Can an industry producing one of the most important war materials be expected to increase its production if it seeks new sources of production when its basic price is not fixed in accordance with the facts?

ROOSEVELT RIGHT ON CHINESE EXCLUSION ACT

I am glad to see the President take a stand on the revision of the Chinese Exclusion Act. There are so few times I agree with him, that when he does do something that is in harmony with the principles on which this government was formed, I want to give him credit.

I think he is absolutely right in saying that we should repeal the law that excludes Chinese from becoming citizens.

Any one who has ever read "The Importance of Living" by Lin Yutang well knows that there are Chinese who are well qualified to become citizens of the United States and who would help preserve a sound government.

A reader of this column contends that since I advocate the revision of the Chinese Exclusion Act that I am in reality giving up our sovereign rights.

Certainly I believe that our government has the right to determine who can enter this country and who may become citizens.

Certainly this country has the right to exclude people who would communicate diseases or those who have a criminal record. They might even have a sovereign right to establish a quota. I object, however, to the quota because it is immoral and therefore uneconomic as all things that are immoral.

Many people who pose as being practical contend that the Chinese should not be admitted because they think they are unassimilable or cannot be amalgamated.

Certainly no one contends that we want all people to be molded under one pattern. We want a heterogeneous people. As Herbert Spencer pointed out "the higher the state of civilization, the more heterogeneous the people are. The lower, the more homogeneous."

There are many people now in this country that are far from becoming one of us—bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh.

But if we are all alike, we would all want to do the same kind of work. We would have little progress and life would be very monotonous.

A reader of this column contends that 250 years from now we will have fifty million people in California, that he does not want any of the Asiatic people to be taking the place of a white person.

That sounds like Hitler. That we think we are superior to other people. Ideas like this lead to government planning, to wars, to stagnation. This fear of not having things to eat and wear in the future if we do not exclude some races is one of the fears Jesus had in mind when he said "But seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness and all these things shall be added onto you."

In the first place, we do not now know whether the yellow race or white race should predominate in this country 250 years from now. The people who should survive and will survive are those who put themselves more nearly in harmony with nature or God's laws. If the Asiatic race does this, well and good. If the white race does it, well and good.

Yes, we have a perfect right to exclude criminals and carriers of disease, and even to determine on what conditions an immigrant can become a citizen, but the conditions should be the same as those for people born in this country. To refuse to permit people to come to this country and become citizens is to treat them like trees or plants rooted to the soil in which they come into being.

Good government is always in harmony with the brotherhood of man—with good morals. To claim otherwise is to claim that bad things are good.

It is just as reasonable to plan class legislation which on the face of it is evil on the contention that it will be beneficial to us as to contend that a little cancer will be good for us.

Exit, Small Business

A big businessman, Robert R. Watson, sees little hope for the survival of small business after the war. Crisis comes to small business, he says in a recent article, when it attempts to emerge from a one-man business and become an organization. And to survive, these organizations must be built larger, he believes.

Here are his reasons: "In the pre-war years the small manager found it impossible to employ and pay for Social Security accounting, unemployment tax accounting, a labor relations department, an increased purchasing department, a questionnaire answering department, and compete with organizations already large enough to afford these new requirements forced upon business by Washington bureaucracy."

How about curtailing Washington bookkeeping instead of expanding business, did you say? Don't be naive, brother.

For $5 a Month

Some 50,000 residents in public war housing projects in California are participating in a state-wide pre-paid medical care program run by the physicians themselves.

The charge is $2.50 a month for a single person, $4 for a couple, $5 for a family of three or more. This covers all medical and surgical care, hospitalization and nursing, X-ray, laboratory and specialized services.

Some perhaps will call this socialization of medicine. Apparently the physicians who are participating do not. Similar ventures, both in medical treatment and hospitalization, are making well elsewhere. The pattern seems worth using, particularly at a time when doctors are almost as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth.

Fat Salvage—Again

The least successful of all salvage campaigns has been that for waste fat from households. At present we are running some 8,000,000 pounds a month behind schedule.

This fat is needed to make explosives. One pound of bacon and chicken drippings will make a pound and a half of gun-powder to fill shells used by Flying Fortress gunners to repel German and Japanese attack planes. One pound of drippings from a pork roast or the suet from beef will provide explosive to fire four 37-mm. anti-aircraft shells.

We could mention other uses for explosives in war. But why should we? Everybody knows how war depends upon explosives. It isn't ignorance that makes waste fat salvage a failure. It isn't lack of patriotism. What is it? Lethargy?

Whatever it is, how about getting that fat to the butcher?

Peter Edson's Column:

AH, YES—WASHINGTON HAS ITS MOMENTS

BY PETER EDSON
Pampa News Washington Correspondent

Every so often, it is fun to sit back and gasp, gag or giggle at the amazing variety of stuff that comes out of Washington from Capitol Hill and downtown in the executive agencies.

To give you an idea, here's a digest of one day's offerings, most of which undoubtedly did not get in the papers because, apparently, there is a war on, a paper shortage, and other things are considered more important.

There is, for instance, the priceless communique from the Fish and Wildlife Service that science has at last succeeded in changing the habits of the salmon. Thirty-five thousand of them, it seems, have been taught to go lay their eggs some-where else. Beginning in 1939, the salmon were trapped blow Grand Coulee, transported in refrigerated tank trucks to other tributaries of the Columbia, and politely asked to spawn there, here after. The salmon are smarter than you think, for by golly, they caught on. This year when the 4-year-old fry came back to lay their first eggs, instead of heading for the ancestral maternity wards above Grand Coulee, they went to the tributaries whither their mammy salmon had been transported by man for lying-in, and where these Fry had been hatched. So successful has the experiment been that next year all the salmon wanting to go above Grand Coulee will be migrated to other spawning grounds, to change their homing instincts. The same thing will be done below Shasta dam, on the Sacramento in California. All of which proves that man is smarter than fish or is he?

DATES TO REMEMBER

Then there is the "Calendar of Significant Events" for the period Nov. 1-15, issued by the overseas branch of OWI. This is a 40-page affair which you open with that tremulous, what's-goin'-to-happen-next feeling to read:

Nov. 1, 1500—Birth of Benvenuto Cellini.

Nov. 3, 1852—Birth of Emperor Meiji (Mutsuhiro) of Japan.

Nov. 3, 1879—Birth of Vilhjalmur Stefansson.

Nov. 3, 1918—German fleet mutilated at Kiel.

Nov. 4, 1847—Death of Felix Mendelssohn.

OWI isn't the only one to have a monopoly on this hot stuff. The Weather Bureau breaks out with information that it is celebrating the 300th anniversary of the discovery of the principle of atmospheric pressure by Evangelista Torricelli, Italian mathematician.

Everybody, in fact, seems to want to celebrate a birthday, the War Shipping Administration icing a two-candle handout over the launching of the first Liberty ship, the Patrick Henry, which has logged 62,000 miles and is still afloat in spite of rumors she has been sunk. To celebrate this event, a merchant marine overseas correspondent sent back story that the skipper had been tossed into the Mediterranean by a heavy wave—small w, of course.

A friend in the Marine Corps public relations office called up, 28 pounds lighter and all out of breath, to warn that the Marines would be 18 years old come Nov. 10 and what was this department going to do about it. When asked if the age-168 part of it explained why the Marines hadn't been heard from since Guadalcanal, the friend didn't seem to like it.

Fish and Wildlife Service rang the bell for a second time by announcing that Alaska had only 14 game wardens and five airplanes for them to use in protecting the 20,000 moose population up there, but that one might search diligently through many thousands of square miles without seeing a single moose.

It remained only for Congress to take the prize, as you might expect. There, the Hon. arren G. Magnuson of Seattle, Wash., made himself a one-minute speech.

WARTIME HEALTH:

Just Do Away With Things That Keep You Awake

By DR. THOMAS D. MASTERS
Written for The News

Insomnia is no disease. It simply is sleeplessness.

It has numerous causes, and the cure for insomnia depends on the elimination of, or adjustment to, such factors as a simple change as moving into a new neighborhood, with a new set of environmental noises (or even lack of noise), sometimes causes sleeplessness. But insomnia of this type is temporary and disappears when the victim gets used to the new circumstances.

Ordinary insomnia is most often the result of emotional disturbance, such as anxiety, resentment, fear, disappointment—and notoriously, love. Although these disturbances may not be recognized by the person affected as the precipitating factors of sleeplessness, they must be done away with if normal sleep is to be resumed.

Certain stimulants are well-known causes of wakefulness, like coffee, tea, and even alcohol for some people—but not all people are affected by all these things. Stimulating talk, exchange of ideas producing excitement may lead to insomnia also. Sleeplessness may for any one of these reasons come to one who normally sleeps well, and take on the aspect of a bad habit, which can be broken, but which for the time being is extremely annoying.

Persistent, habitual insomnia, particularly in older people, may be of course be due to some organic disorder like hardening of the arteries or high blood-pressure. But elimination of most insomnia except the last mentioned can be undertaken by the victim himself once he recognizes the source of his stimulation and removes it from his scene.

AVOID POTENT DRUGS

The treatment for sleeplessness takes several forms, any one or all of which may prove useful. It is important to set the stage for restful sleep. A glass of warm milk before bedtime can be soothing, and the habit of light reading in bed helps many. Absolute quiet, complete darkness are necessary to some people, and all find a comfortable bed in a well-ventilated temperature beneficial.

The occasional use of a mild sedative such as bromide each night for a week is entirely justified, and will frequently serve to interrupt the habit of sleeplessness. More potent sedatives should not be employed without direction. They may lead to habit formation and their use may detract from the necessity of correcting the other factors which contribute to the cause of insomnia.

Indoor, sedentary workers often find that a day of outdoor exercise is the best sedative of all. Insomnia should not be permitted to continue to the point of producing fatigue, irritability, in inefficiency.

Officers Reported Shooting Game

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The war department will investigate complaints by ranchers that army officers are shooting deer and other wild game on Texas tracts leased for military purposes while civilians are barred from the areas, says Senator Connally.

One tract mentioned in Connally's report of the complaints to the war department comprised 630,000 acres in Webb, Dimmitt and Maverick counties.

So instead of dancing on h't toes she was doing the dance flat-footed. Because the dance is authentic, Al Block said he wasn't worried too much about what Will Hays would think. Except that when he told the local censorship office about the authentic business, they said "A lot of things can't be done in Hollywood."

"Block was worried, though, he said, about the climax of the dance when Marlene throws herself on a red rug and kicks her legs up in the air. He hoped he would censor both Marlene and the camera, else Mr. Hays would have a nervous breakdown.

Shooting Game

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—The war department will investigate complaints by ranchers that army officers are shooting deer and other wild game on Texas tracts leased for military purposes while civilians are barred from the areas, says Senator Connally.

Insomnia is no disease. It simply is sleeplessness.

It has numerous causes, and the cure for insomnia depends on the elimination of, or adjustment to, such factors as a simple change as moving into a new neighborhood, with a new set of environmental noises (or even lack of noise), sometimes causes sleeplessness. But insomnia of this type is temporary and disappears when the victim gets used to the new circumstances.

Ordinary insomnia is most often the result of emotional disturbance, such as anxiety, resentment, fear, disappointment—and notoriously, love. Although these disturbances may not be recognized by the person affected as the precipitating factors of sleeplessness, they must be done away with if normal sleep is to be resumed.

Certain stimulants are well-known causes of wakefulness, like coffee, tea, and even alcohol for some people—but not all people are affected by all these things. Stimulating talk, exchange of ideas producing excitement may lead to insomnia also. Sleeplessness may for any one of these reasons come to one who normally sleeps well, and take on the aspect of a bad habit, which can be broken, but which for the time being is extremely annoying.

Persistent, habitual insomnia, particularly in older people, may be of course be due to some organic disorder like hardening of the arteries or high blood-pressure. But elimination of most insomnia except the last mentioned can be undertaken by the victim himself once he recognizes the source of his stimulation and removes it from his scene.

AVOID POTENT DRUGS

The treatment for sleeplessness takes several forms, any one or all of which may prove useful. It is important to set the stage for restful sleep. A glass of warm milk before bedtime can be soothing, and the habit of light reading in bed helps many. Absolute quiet, complete darkness are necessary to some people, and all find a comfortable bed in a well-ventilated temperature beneficial.

The occasional use of a mild sedative such as bromide each night for a week is entirely justified, and will frequently serve to interrupt the habit of sleeplessness. More potent sedatives should not be employed without direction. They may lead to habit formation and their use may detract from the necessity of correcting the other factors which contribute to the cause of insomnia.

Indoor, sedentary workers often find that a day of outdoor exercise is the best sedative of all. Insomnia should not be permitted to continue to the point of producing fatigue, irritability, in inefficiency.

TARGETS—The Army and Navy have just announced that they require seven thousand additional doctors by December 31, 1943. "To insure even a minimum care of the wounded."

How superb is the treatment given our disabled is clearly demonstrated by these heretofore unprinted facts: Although many of the injured suffer complications from tropical diseases, only two and one half per cent succumb. The Great War's mortality rate was eight per cent.

Sixty per cent of those maimed on Guadalcanal have been returned to the line of duty. Never before in all military annals were such records made.

As this is Navy Week, it is fitting to describe methods used by the sea-going medical fraternity in accomplishing these feats. One is that each devil dog and gub is taught first aid; immediate attention is imperative.

The captain of the Battleship South Dakota collapsed when a steel fragment severed a large vein in his neck and death was a matter of minutes. A chief quartermaster trained for the emergency—not a physician—stanced the flow of blood and saved the skipper's life.

Fallen United States Marines in the Solomons waited even ten minutes before naval corpsmen crawled to their assistance under fire. But medics and stretcher-bearers had to discard Red Cross brassards and white bandages because Japanese sharpshooters deliberately used these conspicuous badges of mercy as targets.

PATIENTS—Fershing's veterans remember the anguish of their comrades, groaning on the soggy ground of the Argonne. Today M. D.'s immediately administer morphine to block off shock and pain and to sustain the victim's morale.

In 1918 boys lay for hours—and sometimes days—in the forests and shell holes of No. Man's Land until rotting, now instant application of sufa drugs destroys gas bacillus, the cause of gangrene.

War surgeons assert that blood plasma, donated back home, is the "giving." A transfusion was given to a dying lad during a jungle cloudburst while doctors used their pouches to keep off the rain. Later he led his platoon in the Battle of Buna.

Those who stopped Boche bullets in France and Belgium were taken from the field in ambulances. Every jolt on the shell-pocked road was torture. Many a kid did not live to reach an evacuation hospital. Now a stricken soldier is lifted into an airplane and carried miles from the rear and danger of warfare.

ANTAGONISM—Wendell Willkie set out deliberately to insult nearly every G. O. P. member of the House in his recent executive session appearance before the "Seventy-Eight Club." He succeeded beyond his most fantastic expectations, according to the majority of his audience.

"I understand," he opened up in what is described as a truculent tone, "that this meeting is loaded with tricky questions. Well, I'm not afraid of them. I can get that nomination any time I strike it. I simply came down here to meet you boys in the case we have to strike up a working agreement later." Meaning, apparently, when he sits in the White House as the big boss.

Time and again he shut off an interrogator with the remark, "Oh, you don't know what you're talking about!" He described as "silly" Joseph W. Martin Jr.'s political leadership because, he said, Martin resorts chiefly to personal attacks on the Roosevelt family.

The President, like Winston Churchill, the 1940 nominee, warned, is the "product of a human egg," and he seemed reconciled to F. D. R.'s continued presence in Washington until that "urge" subsides. Perhaps the only cheer he provided was when he defined the New Deal as "non-Communism or radicalism but sabotage."

Referring to the Missouri group that recently quizzed him regarding his views, he said that it was "a bunch of political liabilities." He referred specifically to Edgar M. Queney, president of Monsanto Chemical Company, and a leading Republican in that state.

Three men I will not support for any office," followed Mr. Willkie. "They are Hamilton Fish, Colonel Robert R. McCormick of the Chicago Tribune and John L. Lewis."

As the greatest regret of the United States workers' chief, next to his former support of F. D. R., is that he backed Mr. Willkie three years ago, the antagonism is mutual.

marine overseas correspondent sent back story that the skipper had been tossed into the Mediterranean by a heavy wave—small w, of course.

A friend in the Marine Corps public relations office called up, 28 pounds lighter and all out of breath, to warn that the Marines would be 18 years old come Nov. 10 and what was this department going to do about it. When asked if the age-168 part of it explained why the Marines hadn't been heard from since Guadalcanal, the friend didn't seem to like it.

Lubbock Team Held Scoreless By Harvesters Until Final Period

Quakers Tie Army, 13-13

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Pennsylvania, a 5 to 2 pre-game underdog in its home town, struck with a spectacular 71-yard pass and run play early in the fourth period today and gained a 13 to 13 tie with Army in a gridiron test between unbeaten teams.

Pennsylvania was back on its own 29 when Joe Michaels coked his arm for a long toss to Bob Odell, a very great football player today. Odell reached up over the heads of four cadets on the Army's 35 and then was chased across the goal line by all members of both teams.

Frank McKernan, the Quaker place kicker, trotted in from the sidelines and added the extra point that brought ecstasy to most of the 71,000 rain-soaked spectators and new life to the Quaker team.

Prior to that touchdown play, the Cadets had soundly outplayed Penn and seemed to have broken the link that has never allowed them to beat Pennsylvania on Franklin Field.

The Cadets scored in the first when George Maxon fumbled on the one-yard line and the ball was recovered in the end zone by Tom Lombardo for a touchdown to climax a 53-yard march.

Pennsylvania's first touchdown also came by the aerial route, Joe Kane tossing to Frank Quillen after Glenn Davis, famed army back fumbled an attempted second period punt return on his own 29 with Walt Buben recovering.

McKernan missed that point and set the stage for his re-appearance in the fourth after Maxon registered another army marker shortly after the third period began.

Army's second came when Michaels sent a puny punt that only traveled to the Quaker 35-yard line. From this point the Cadet started a steady march down field, Maxon doing the heavy work and finally his center and went over from the one-yard marker. Murphy's attempt from placement was wide.

Penn collected only five first downs while Army gathered 12.

It was Odell who saved the Quakers from defeat. Four times he slouched up from his safety position to tackle Army runners headed for sure touchdowns. And when he was hauled late in the fourth period, Penn Coach George Mungler himself walked onto the edge of the field and helped his limping star to the bench.

Youthful Texans Wallop Porkers

BY SAM G. HARRIS
FAVETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 30.—(AP)—The beardless Texas Aggies went completely pass-happy here today to wallop the Arkansas Razorbacks 13-0.

Some 4,500 homecoming fans looked on as the youthful Texans strengthened their bid for southern conference honors by scoring against the puncheon porkers in the second and fourth periods.

Babe Hallmark and Earl Beesley tossed 20 passes, completing 15 of them for 201 yards while suffering two interceptions. Passes accounted for both Aggie touchdowns.

After a listless first quarter of punt swapping, the Aggies opened up with their aerials. They began their first touchdown drive on the Arkansas 33. Hallmark tossed to Don Flanagan for 26 yards and on the next play connected with the end-around runner for a 38-yard touchdown. The first chargin' Aggie line also tied knots in the Porker passing game and the Arkansas intercepted for only three of their 15 attempts.

In all departments of the game as revealed by the statistics, Lubbock was superior to Pampa, running up 16 first downs to Pampa's nine; making three 20-yard penetrations to none for Pampa; gaining 227 yards rushing to Pampa's 134.

The Texans hit pay dirt again midway in the last period when center Wright took in an Arkansas pass on the Porker 40 and moved up to the 34. After two futile tries at the line, Hallmark breezed around his own right end for 24 yards to the 10-yard stripe. One pass missed fire but the next one, to Flanagan, was good for the touchdown. Turner's try for conversion from placement was blocked.

The Burly Aggie line, featuring a cracklerjack guard, Herbert Turley, stopped the razorback running game cold. Turley was largely respected from rushing. The fast chargin' Aggie line also tied knots in the Porker passing game and the Arkansas intercepted for only three of their 15 attempts.

Only 10 Texas Schoolboy Teams Still Unbeaten

Just seven teams make the turn into November's stretch unbeaten and untied in the Texas schoolboy football campaign.

Marshall and Denison fell by the wayside last night but the latter actually won a victory in the conference race although battled to a scoreless tie by Paris.

Denison and Paris were even on penetrations at 1-1. Denison led in first downs 8-5, but Paris outgained the Yellow Jackets, so it was decided that if the district 5-AA drive ends in a tie Denison is to be the representative in the state play-off.

Lubbock started its touchdown drive late in the third quarter but failed to cash in until midway in the next period after Pampa had halted a Lubbock drive one foot from the Pampa goal line.

Moyer intercepted a Pampa pass. Davis advanced four yards. Then a pass, Davis to Grimes, netted the Westerners 12 yards. A second pass, Davis to Lokey, put the ball on the Pampa 10 where Davis took it over for the touchdown. Reiger's kick for the extra point was low.

Longhorns Bowl Over SMU, 20-0

DALLAS, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Mighty Texas didn't allow Southern Methodist the solace of even a first down today in rolling over the Mustangs 20-0 in a Southwest conference football game.

The Longhorn machine sputtered at times but mostly it was driving deep into Methodist territory and using the terrific running of Ralph Ellsworth and J. R. Calahan to batter the gallant Mustangs for touchdowns in the first, second and fourth periods.

A crowd of 12,000 cheered the rugged battle put up by the youthful Methodists but it was obvious from the start that Texas wasn't to be stopped today.

When the running game bogged down Texas took to the air for pay-off punches with Ellsworth switching from his galloping to pitch telling strikes in the clinches.

The first touchdown was on a 42-yard march after fleet Ralph Park brought back a long punt from the toe of Lloyd Parker. Ellsworth and Park took turns at smashing for two first downs, then Ellsworth passed to Joe Magliello who fell on the one-foot line. Calahan ripped tackle for the score and Park added the point.

The next touchdown followed a punt return by Ellsworth to the Mustang 33. It took just three plays, Andy Robinson passing to Joe Parker for 14, Calahan crunching over right tackle for 17 and then rapping guard for the score.

Calahan added the point.

A 35-yard dash through guard by Calahan brought Texas from deep in its territory, where Parker's fine punt had put the Longhorns and Texas got its final score in a hurry. From the 44 Ellsworth ripped right tackle for a first down and in two more tries tore down to the SMU 31. On the first play of the fourth quarter Ellsworth passed to George McCall who took the ball out of the hands of two Mustangs and ran eight for the touchdown. Park missed the goal.

Only 10 Texas Schoolboy Teams Still Unbeaten

(By The Associated Press)
Just seven teams make the turn into November's stretch unbeaten and untied in the Texas schoolboy football campaign.

Marshall and Denison fell by the wayside last night but the latter actually won a victory in the conference race although battled to a scoreless tie by Paris.

Denison and Paris were even on penetrations at 1-1. Denison led in first downs 8-5, but Paris outgained the Yellow Jackets, so it was decided that if the district 5-AA drive ends in a tie Denison is to be the representative in the state play-off.

Lubbock started its touchdown drive late in the third quarter but failed to cash in until midway in the next period after Pampa had halted a Lubbock drive one foot from the Pampa goal line.

Moyer intercepted a Pampa pass. Davis advanced four yards. Then a pass, Davis to Grimes, netted the Westerners 12 yards. A second pass, Davis to Lokey, put the ball on the Pampa 10 where Davis took it over for the touchdown. Reiger's kick for the extra point was low.

Longhorns Bowl Over SMU, 20-0

DALLAS, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Mighty Texas didn't allow Southern Methodist the solace of even a first down today in rolling over the Mustangs 20-0 in a Southwest conference football game.

The Longhorn machine sputtered at times but mostly it was driving deep into Methodist territory and using the terrific running of Ralph Ellsworth and J. R. Calahan to batter the gallant Mustangs for touchdowns in the first, second and fourth periods.

A crowd of 12,000 cheered the rugged battle put up by the youthful Methodists but it was obvious from the start that Texas wasn't to be stopped today.

When the running game bogged down Texas took to the air for pay-off punches with Ellsworth switching from his galloping to pitch telling strikes in the clinches.

The first touchdown was on a 42-yard march after fleet Ralph Park brought back a long punt from the toe of Lloyd Parker. Ellsworth and Park took turns at smashing for two first downs, then Ellsworth passed to Joe Magliello who fell on the one-foot line. Calahan ripped tackle for the score and Park added the point.

The next touchdown followed a punt return by Ellsworth to the Mustang 33. It took just three plays, Andy Robinson passing to Joe Parker for 14, Calahan crunching over right tackle for 17 and then rapping guard for the score.

Calahan added the point.

A 35-yard dash through guard by Calahan brought Texas from deep in its territory, where Parker's fine punt had put the Longhorns and Texas got its final score in a hurry. From the 44 Ellsworth ripped right tackle for a first down and in two more tries tore down to the SMU 31. On the first play of the fourth quarter Ellsworth passed to George McCall who took the ball out of the hands of two Mustangs and ran eight for the touchdown. Park missed the goal.

Pirates Hold Hurricane To 6-6 Deadlock

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 30.—(AP)—Tulsa's hopes for second straight all-victorious season were shattered today by the burly marines of Southwestern University, who battled the Golden Hurricane to a 6-6 deadlock before 10,000 fans in Skelly stadium.

Supposedly shot to pieces by transfers of service personnel, Southwestern showed up with its full crew of former college stars and after yielding a first period touchdown, stormed back to tie the score in the third with a vicious running attack.

The Hurricane found ahead into the lead with a 51-yard aerial march, Clyde Leforce hitting Barney White with the payoff throw from the one-yard line. But Leforce, who had connected with 19 out of 22 placement kicks for extra points in Tulsa in earlier games, missed this all-important boot by a narrow margin.

Southwestern got its touchdown with starting suddenness midway in the third quarter. Leforce had passed to Nip Goodnight on the Marine 26-yard line, but mighty Bubba Barnett, Southwestern tackle, neatly plucked the ball from his arms as he was knocked down.

R. W. MacGruder then heaved a long pass to R. L. Cooper on the four-yard line, and on the next play Cooper plowed down the middle to score standing up.

Thirteen of Southwestern's former Texas, Texas Christian, Rice and Baylor stalwarts had been transferred, but it wasn't effective until Monday, and all of them were in action. Three of the Marine backs—Ken Matthews, Bo Robinson and Jackie Field—were benched by injuries.

Tulsa operated without the services of Al Kowalski, its 210 pound blocking back, and Jimmy Ford, its fleet tailback and No. 1 punter, and their absence was plainly apparent in the Hurricane offensive.

who had preceded him as Texas' chief executive.

The governor called briefly upon Secretary Ickes to express his opposition to the natural gas pipe line that is proposed to be built from Texas to West Virginia.

Shortly before the governor and his secretary, Ernest Boyett, checked out to catch a train for Texas they were visited by Harold Young, aide to Vice President Wallace.

Earlier Stevenson had observed that he hoped to see Young to exchange greetings as friends. Stevenson failed to go to Dallas during Wallace's recent visit in that city.

Major Burrus Jackson of Hillsboro, prominent in Texas Democratic circles, was among those who called upon the governor at his hotel.

Before Stevenson's arrival a check with many Texans, including Connally, Rayburn and Secretary Jesse Jones, found none able to shed any light on the governor's visit. Stevenson asserted there was no political significance to the visit.

After his conference with Walker, Stevenson said they had discussed the unpopularity of price regulations in Texas. He said he had invited Walker to Texas to see what the people thought.

The meeting with Walker and O'Connell was the only one arranged for the governor before his arrival. He said he had been invited to Washington, but didn't disclose the identity of the one who invited him.

"If freedom of opportunity is to be maintained for our men in the service, it must be maintained for those who are carrying the battle of the home front and are now subject to readjustments that are inevitable with a wartime economy."

The Kiwanis clubs of America, it was pointed out, are pledged to do all in their power to perpetuate free enterprise as fundamental to the American way of life.

Officials high in the Kiwanis organization have submitted to their membership and will submit to the people of the nation that there are today forces fighting in our country to destroy the foundations upon which, said the framework within which, this freedom has so successfully operated.

Says Kiwanis International: "Incredible as it may seem, these forces are working now — working powerfully, even as our boys fight and die to keep their America American."

"It is particularly significant," he said, "that the bureau should come along with its plan at a time when market prices are up with the idea that more revenue might be derived. We were threatened with this back in 1928 but it was dropped then. We hope it will be dropped again."

"It is true that the constant unit value method we have been using for 30 years is not authorized in the law or regulations. But it is not forbidden, either, and the bureau has tolerated it all these years."

"The primary result of the bureau's plan to use farm values or market prices will be to force us onto another basis that is entirely too complicated for the average stockman to handle."

The sessions with the bureau were closed, Boise said the group was "very well pleased" with the reception it received from bureau officials; that they "went out of their way to get a full understanding of our views."

He said the bureau officials took the matter under advisement and promised to notify the stockmen of their action.

CABBAGES and QUEENS

Now that Halloween has been amply treated and put with the out-going mail in last week's column, there's not much more to be said on that subject, unless the spooks wrought block-busting damage to your house and garden over this week-end.

Coming on Sunday night, Halloween this year presented a double threat as it gave the celebrators a two-day range for their ambitious attempts to make us all spook-conscious.

Before we take up the subject of Armistice day—and if you are a trained observer you just knew that was coming—we get collegiate: Mrs. Shirley Norris, daughter of G. C. Underwood of Pampa, is a member of the honor roll for the first six weeks period ending October 15 at Phillips university, Enid, Okla.

To be eligible for the honor roll, a student must be enrolled in at least 12 hours of regular college work with an average grade of "C" which corresponds to "B" in other schools.

A supplement to the October 15 release from Phillips, not received here until last week, is the news that Phillips students last year raised $501 for a World Student Service fund. This amount will be turned to the National War fund. The World Student Service fund is an agency designed to help students off over the world in war-wrecked countries.

The $501 raised by Phillips students was on the basis of $1 per student minimum, and the total amount of $501 was the highest of any Oklahoma college. Phillips was among the top per capita schools in the nation.

Closer to home is a story from West Texas State college, Canyon, headlined, "Who's Who For 1943-44 Are Chosen." Sixteen students at WTSO were chosen by the student welfare committee. Dr. Harris M. Cook, chairman, for this blue book distinction. Among them was Mari-belle Hazard, Pampa, a senior, president of the senior class, music major and leader of Gamma Phi sorority.

Dorace Caldwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Caldwell, 319 N. Banks, worked for the Pampa News as an advertising saleswoman last summer. Only 4 feet 10 inches tall, she ran into difficulties sometimes in convincing prospective advertisers that she really was a business woman, not a school girl. Dorace is now a freshman at the University of Texas.

Something new added to the lexicon when a Pampa girl described the motion picture "So Proudly We Hail," as a "four-handkerchief picture." We saw the picture and though it had power, never a teardrop did fall.

An interesting note came last week from Mrs. W. L. Campbell, wife of Dr. W. L. Campbell, after she had accidentally bumped into one of Pampa's men in service in Vallejo, Calif. The sailor was none other than Forrest Vaughn, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Vaughn, formerly of Pampa. Mrs. Campbell writes: "I was highly complimented when Forrest told me that I was the prettiest woman he had seen in six months."

There is a triple significance in Armistice day this year. First, there is the point that World War I did not settle the issue and the Allies did not follow through on their victory. Second, the casualty lists in this war make those of World War I look like the War Between the States in contrast to the present titanic conflict.

A POWDER blue vest-front covered with charming all-over floral design in black sequins makes this fashionable glitter-frock for important dates. Of black crepe, it has short sleeves and corded belt and is worn with a winged cap and black suede gloves. It is good example of the glitter-dress rule that when decoration is eye-catching, lines of the dress must be extremely simple.

V Notes RED CROSS VOLUNTEERS

By MRS. H. H. HAHN

Junior Red Cross, of which H. A. Yoder is the local chairman, is beginning its fall program. This group was asked to furnish Halloween posters for the bulletin board at P. A. A. F. Five large posters were made, one of the most amusing being a witch, made from a broom, wearing an arm band on which appeared "M. P." Menu covers, place cards, and decorations such as cats, pumpkins, owls were also provided. The menu covers featured hand-painted Halloween designs. All of the work on this project was done by Junior Red Cross workers in Junior High school, under the direction of Miss Roy Riley. The items were to be used in the hospital wards at Pampa Field, to help in creating a Halloween spirit among the soldiers.

A course in First Aid taught by Tom Ekerd and H. M. Cone, is being conducted at the Fire Station for the firemen.

Mrs. W. G. Kinzer, knitting chairman, announces that all knitted garments on hand will be shipped during the first week of November. All who can possibly do so are urged to return any finished garments that are still out, in order that a reasonably complete shipment can be made.

The American Legion recently gave to the Camp and Hospital Committee some very attractive red velvet draperies which were a part of the furnishings of the Legion Hut. Members of the Wednesday Sewing Club were occupied this week in making the draperies over to fit windows in a sunroom at the Prisoners of War Camp at McLean.

Mrs. Lorna L. Ramsey of San Gabriel, Calif., was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wright during a recent graduation of cadets at Pampa Field. After her return to California Mrs. Ramsey, in appreciation for the hospitality of her hosts, sent a sum of money with which she suggested Mrs. Wright buy

The Emergency Closet, under the direction of Mrs. Sherman White, was replenished this week by the addition of infant's gowns and dresses. Mrs. Jim Collins who helped in the cutting of the garments tells us that the gowns are of pale blue outing flannel, and the dresses are of batiste, with dainty lace trim. It is possible that some of these garments will remain to be sewed, and can be checked out from the production room this week.

Cutting of convalescent robes is continuing on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, according to Mrs. Earl O'Brien, sewing chairman. A number of these robes are ready to be issued, and the production workers will appreciate anyone's coming in and taking one out to be made.

Mrs. Buckler, chairman of surgical dressings, and her supervisors are delighted with the progress being made since the beginning of night classes. It is encouraging to see new faces at the day and evening classes, and it is hoped more new workers will respond. A number of organizations are making surgical dressings, working as groups, including the Twentieth Century Forum, Business and Professional Women, Teachers association, La Rosa Club; one church group will begin regular attendance the second Wednesday in November and the Twentieth Century Culture Club members will devote the second Tuesday of the month to making surgical dressings were completed in three visits to participate in this program.

Mrs. Buckler announces that 2,200 dressings were completed in three days this week. Perhaps, in the words of Winston Churchill, we have "reached the end of the beginning." "It is not nearly so difficult as I had supposed," one new worker confided. "I did not make very many dressings the first time, less than a dozen, in fact, but I felt so proud when the supervisor would say, after checking a few that I had made, 'Why, that is just perfect.'" She added that her whole week was brightened by a feeling of accomplishment after having given four hours toward making surgical dressings.

According to Mrs. M. F. Roche, home service chairman, the American Red Cross, under its congressional charter and under Army and Navy regulations, acts in matters of voluntary relief and as a medium of communication between the people of the United States of America and their Army and Navy. Even chaplains share in these responsibilities and participates in the program of services to the armed forces. Home Service provides assistance for men in the armed forces and their families and for ex-service men and their families. Home Service offers assistance to discharged ex-service men in filing claims for pension and other benefits to which they are entitled. Red Cross also aids disabled ex-service men and their families. It is the responsibility of Home Service to get in contact with a disabled ex-serviceman by means of a personal visit. The home service worker advises, urges if necessary, that the man keep his insurance in force. Information concerning government regulations and legislation affecting service and ex-servicemen and their families is transmitted by Home Service, as well as information about community resources and assistance available for families. Financial assistance may be required for temporary or for continuing periods. During the temporary period pending the adjudication or payment of family allowances or other government benefits and claims, Home Service itself gives financial assistance for basic maintenance such as food, clothing, shelter, fuel, and medical care and does not refer such cases to other agencies.

The production department of which Mrs. J. B. Masa is chairman, wishes to express appreciation to the women of LeFors for the fine work they have been doing over a considerable period. Mrs. W. C. Breining is in charge of LeFors production, and there is no more faithful worker than she. She comes to the production room, checks out quantities of material, and often has to carry large packages several blocks to where her car is parked. In a short time, possibly a few weeks, she returns a huge bundle of nicely finished garments. In addition to transporting all these items, Mrs. Breining issues the material to her workers, checks the garments and assists members of the group when necessary.

"Stage Door Canteen" Is 48 Star Musical

By JANE BARA
The jive and swing fans will have a field day at the LaNora theatre Sunday through Wednesday...

No less a personage than Katie Cornell herself is the heroine of this love story... It can't miss being one of the best movies ever!

Perhaps no development occurring in the present war has been more intriguing to the public mind than the famous Norden Bomb Sight used so successfully by our bombardiers...

Made with the full cooperation of the U. S. Army Air Force, much of the picture was photographed at the big bombardier training school at Kirtland Field near Albuquerque.

Ann Sibley is the girl (there's always a girl in every good story, you know) in "Bombardier."

Since this column has changed bylines (just for today...) we can take a look at the wardrobe situation in the picture "Good Luck Mr. Yates."

New Routes For Trucks Banned By Eastman

All truck operators in the nation have been forbidden by Joseph B. Eastman, director of the office of defense transportation, to inaugurate new truck operations or extend present routes or delivery areas without prior approval of the ODT.

The amendments, effective immediately, forbid any motor carrier to increase his mileage by extending his operations into areas or over routes not now served by the carrier.

All requests for approval of new or extended operations must be made in writing to the carrier's district office of the ODT's division of motor transport.

In announcing the new regulations, Eastman said: "The increasingly critical truck situation now makes it mandatory that a careful evaluation of new operations requiring additional truck mileage be made in the light of their value to the war effort and the civilian economy."

All operators will have the right to appeal a district manager's decision, of course. But I hope that operators will not request permission to extend their routes or areas unless they themselves are convinced that the additional truck mileage is unquestionably necessary to the country's welfare."

By JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE
WASHINGTON, (AP)—If you as an individual look at the government's cost of living index—which reports that living costs have risen 25 per cent since September, 1939—and perhaps you say: "I know my living costs have gone up more than that!"

The index figures show—by a survey in 34 cities every month—that Americans of moderate income are paying for goods and services in large centers of population. The index is an average for those cities.

Now labor, long critical of the index and anxious for higher wages, marches into the White House, challenges the figures, says they don't tell the whole story at all and that living costs are higher than the figures show.

Germany Pledges To Respect Pope
LONDON, Oct. 30 (AP)—Germany was pledged today to respect the pope and his official family and all the activities of the Vatican in German-occupied Rome.

The Vatican radio, quoting an announcement in the Vatican city newspaper Osservatore Romano, said last night that this assurance had been given by the German ambassador at the Holy See, Baron Ernst von Weizsaecker.

The broadcast quoted the German declaration as saying: "In the same way as Germany has hitherto respected the official buildings and activity of the Holy See as well as its rights and the integrity of the Vatican state, she is similarly determined to do so in the future."

Orphans of the War

America today has countless thousands of "war orphans"... "orphans" who are neither fatherless nor motherless.

There are many right here in this community... children ranging in age from 6 and 7 to 16 and 17.

They are the children of healthy, vigorous, patriotic Americans — of parents who have either gone in war work or who, because of the manpower shortage, are working longer hours at their regular jobs and so are able to spend less time with their children.

Right here in town, you'll see these children on street corners or roving in gangs... unguided, in search of excitement... "orphaned" by the unfortunate dislocations which total war makes in everyone's life.

The problems of these "war orphans" can be dealt with — and must be dealt with if we are to avoid a wave of juvenile delinquency. It must be dealt with through various agencies — charged with seeing that these youngsters get sympathetic help and guidance, that they have supervised activities to keep them busy, that they have decent places to go,

The job facing these agencies today is bigger than ever before. That is why they need your help more than ever before. They get such help when you give to your local united campaign, affiliated with the National War Fund.

Your contribution to this worthy cause will cover the three fronts affected by the war — the home front, the battlefront and our fighting Allies. Seventeen agencies, banded together in the National War Fund, have united with our local agencies — so that you need give only once for all of these. That makes the job of collecting the necessary funds simpler. It eliminates needless duplication and expense. It means that more of the money you give can go directly to the purpose for which it's intended.

Because you're being asked to give only once for all these agencies, you are also being asked to give generously. The job is vital. Add up all you would have given to each of the agencies separately, then double the total. It's an important contribution that you can make to victory and a sounder future!

Navy's Record Against Japs Cited by King

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Describing the Japanese as a "touch and wily foe whose disregard for his own life is exceeded only by his fanatical hatred for us," Admiral Ernest J. King said today that they must be pushed back to their homeland.

King, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, declared in a Navy Day speech: "We plan to follow the Japs very closely on their return trip to Japan. In fact, we propose to speed them on their way."

"The Japanese, King said, "is still convinced that he can wear us out and his known long-term strategy is to keep us at arms length from his important concentrations."

"The navy's job is plainly outlined. We must continue, through all means at our disposal, to break his lines of communication, to strike his naval forces whenever we can make the opportunity. Note that I say 'make the opportunity.'"

"I can report today," he said, "that up to Oct. 1, our submarines alone had accounted for 373 Japanese ships, including 24 troop transports—many of them loaded—and 62 combat vessels. Our ships and carrier-based planes have destroyed more than one-third the total merchant tonnage Japan had at the time of Pearl Harbor. The guns of our warships have wrecked numerous Jap shore installations, our fighting planes have inflicted plane losses on the Japanese at a ratio in excess of four to one."

In its task of carrying supplies to our Allies, he said, the navy has guarded more than $5,000,000,000 worth of food and war materials to Russia alone.

"From May through August, this year," he added, "the navy escorted more than 4,000 United Nations ships across the Atlantic with losses from enemy submarines of less than one-half of one per cent."

Moreover, he went on, hundreds of thousands of American soldiers have been safely transported to European and African battle areas—"convincing proof that our convoy system has been successful."

Slippery Truck Pays Off For Awhile

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 30.—(AP)—A man arrested for stealing a truck at Waco, Texas, told police he got five passersby to help him start it, then made the truck pay its own way to Tulsa.

He sold the truck's three spare tires for $110 in Waco to get a start and drove to Humble, Texas, where he sold the truck's load of hay for $102.50.

Further up the line he sold the truck bed for $65 and finally in Tulsa, he sold the truck for $300 and got an old car to boot. When arrested, he was in company with three girls helping him spend the profits from his journey.

After a three-day search, officers reassembled the truck and returned it to its owner.

Head of Beaumont OPA Board Quits

BEAUMONT, Oct. 30.—(AP)—General Chairman John F. Pipkin and Executive Secretary Earl B. Jolly of the Beaumont war price and ration board have resigned because of differences with the office of price administration.

"Many times I have failed to follow the rules and regulations as outlined by the OPA because I believed and still believe that it was my duty to do so," said Pipkin in his letter of resignation to Mayor Ray Costello.

Jolly said he also was convinced that broad OPA regulations must be tempered by "common horse sense" to meet individual conditions of various localities.

Beaumont members of the civilian defense council said they would try to work out differences with the district OPA office in Houston and would not accept Pipkin's resignation "unless it is absolutely necessary."

'Skin Bank' Formed At Penitentiary

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Organization of a "skin bank" at Eastern state penitentiary, believed to be the first in the country, was announced today by Dr. Herbert M. Goddard, chairman of the penitentiary's board of trustees.

Dr. Goddard said 50 long-term convicts have been typed and found physically fit and ready to make donations of skin whenever they are needed. He added that he planned to organize skin donors in prisons throughout the country.

The development is an outgrowth of recent appeals to the penitentiary for volunteers to give their skin to badly burned children. Long-term convicts Daniel Donahue, John Costello and Thomas J. Caulfield were chosen for the grating operations, all of which were pronounced successful.

100-Octane Gas Production Hits Ultimate Goal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(AP)—Production of 100-octane aviation gasoline already has reached the "ultimate" goal as set by the government in the spring of 1942, the petroleum administration for war reported today.

Thirty-two plants already are complete and 40 more will be in operation within four months, the announcement said, adding that the whole inventory of new facilities is about $900,000,000, of which 75 per cent is financed by oil companies.

The program "considerably" exceeds the synthetic rubber program in size, scope and cost, Deputy Administrator Ralph K. Davies said.

Secretary Ickes, petroleum administrator, said in dedicating a new 100-octane plant at Marcus Hook, Pa., that 26 more plants would be completed before spring. Ickes referred to "catalytic cracking units"—basic units for 100 octane—whereas today's plants include all plants which will turn out the finished product.

Plants already completed include: Continental Oil Co., Wichita Falls, Texas; Gulf Oil Corp., two plants: Port Arthur, Texas; Humble Oil and Refining Co., Baytown, Texas; Magnolia Petroleum Co., Beaumont, Texas; Pan American Refining Corporation, Texas City, Texas; Sinclair Refining Co., Houston, Texas; Texas Co., Lockhart, Texas; Texas Co., Port Arthur, Texas.

Plants under construction include: J. S. Abercrombie-Harrison Oil Co., Sweeny, Texas; Atlantic Refining Co., Atreco, Texas; Crown Petroleum Co., Houston, Texas; Great Southern Corp., Corpus Christi, Texas; Pan American Refining Co., Texas City, Texas; Petroleum Co., Port Arthur, Texas; Petroleum Co., Port Arthur, Texas; Petroleum Co., Port Arthur, Texas; Petroleum Co., Port Arthur, Texas.

Plants to be completed in 1944 include J. S. Abercrombie-Harrison Oil Co., Sweeny, Texas; Humble Oil and Refining Co., Baytown, Texas; Pan American Refining Corp., Texas City, Texas; Phillips Petroleum Co., Houston, Texas; Texas Co., Lockhart, Texas; Texas Co., Port Arthur, Texas.

"And now you have my stuff!"

HALFWAY across to England Rick banked and cruised up and down over the Channel. "About time to start radioing," he said.

Enzell began tapping out the message he and Imhof had drawn up.

"Watch for planes, everybody," Rick bade as they sped on for the coast of Kent.

"A Hurricane!" yelled Pat, and characters and situations are fictitious. Any resemblance to actual persons or happenings is coincidental.
