Defense Area Action Talked By Chamber

The housing shortage here may result in Pampa being declared a defense area, a Pampa home builder told Chamber of Commerce directors, utility executives and real estate men Tuesday afternoon.

Housing here has been termed critical.

Jay Thompson of the Hughes interests told the group housing can be expedited if Pampa can be declared a defense area. Thompson added that the defense area setup would make it possible to have the first units ready for occupancy no later than six months from now.

The group then named a 15-man committee made up of E. L. Campbell, chairman; City Manager Dick Peplin, Joe Key, J. W. Garman, George Newberry, Aubrey Steele, Floyd Imel, Reno Simpson, G. W. Clark, Charles Powell, Garrett Craddock, J. Wade Duncan, R. J. Bradley, Jay Thompson, Jack Dunn and Ben Gull.

Wade Duncan said housing listings now are at a new low, at least with him. He added, he and other real estate men had but few real listings.

One of the biggest problems, E. O. Wedgeworth, manager of the C of C said, was securing housing for Brown and Root's superintendent, Lonnie Estes and his family. Estes, who is in Pampa, needs a house with two to three bedrooms and a garage.

Wedgeworth also told the group the chamber had "quite a few" apartments and houses listed, some of them "nice and some of them undesirable." The chamber so far, he added, has placed two families coming in, but suitable quarters for Brown and Root still have to be located. Celanese officials also need houses, but they want to buy houses, not rent them.

Although the Brown and Root Construction Co. will use 500 to 600 men within the next 30 days to start work on building the Celanese chemical plant, they are not expected to bring all of the men in from outside. Wedgeworth said, they want to use local labor as far as they can.

M'Arthur Clubbers Told To Go Home

NEW YORK — (AP) — An aide says those who insist on booming General Douglas MacArthur for the presidency had better "go home."

Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney made the statement yesterday when asked by newsmen about a MacArthur-for-President Club opened here Monday.

Whitney met with newsmen, assigned to cover the general at his hotel, the Waldorf-Astoria, while the general himself remained in the 37th-floor suite for the fourth successive day.

During the day, MacArthur had visitors from Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio), publisher Henry H. Luce, and the Right Rev. Horace W. E. Donagan, Protestant Episcopal bishop of New York.

MacArthur was expected to remain in his hotel again today, but his wife and their son, Arthur, 13, planned to see the New York Yankees play the Philadelphia Athletics at Yankee Stadium.

At the news conference yesterday, Whitney answered questions on the MacArthur-for-President movement.

MacArthur himself said in San Francisco last week that he did "not intend to run for any political office" and that he hoped his name "will never be used in any political way."

Whitney said that if any one raised the question, MacArthur would tell the questioner to "go home" (See MACARTHUR, Page 10)

Gas Increase Hearing Due Friday Night

A public meeting, to be presided over by Tom Rose, will be held at 7 p. m. in the City Commission room to determine recommendations to be made by the City Commission on the proposed 10 percent gas rate increase.

Rose, appointed temporary chairman by Mayor C. A. Huff Tuesday morning during the closing minutes of the commission session that was devoted mostly to a public hearing on the gas hike, said the discussion Friday would be held to two main points:

1. Should the City Commission investigate the company's books before acting on a rate raise?
2. Should the City Commission go into the reserve of gas for Pampa to determine if the company is living up to its franchise?

Rose told The Pampa News this morning the meeting is open to the public.

This was the aftermath of the public hearing Tuesday morning on the proposed gas increase when the hearing went out of hand and had to be called back by Mayor Huff. Instead of a question and answer session, the meeting turned twice to arguments between some of the citizens and J. W. Garman, president of the power company, the citizens both times starting it.

BARKLEY TO SPEAK

FORT WORTH — (AP) — Official of the United Jewish Appeal announced last night that Vice President Alben Barkley would be here Monday to speak before the Jewish Federation of Fort Worth. M. M. Goldman, federation president, said Barkley was "a warm partisan of the Jewish movement in Palestine."

Whitney said all senior officers in the Far East would use of Chiang Kai-shek's troops. Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert Lovett, declining to comment on any possible use of Chiang's forces, said that the army would assign 500 more men to be assigned to the U. S. military mission on Formosa.

On the issue of Chiang's troops, Senator Keating (D-Ill.) No. 1 MacArthur critic in Congress, told reporters: "I'm not chasing rumors from Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney. He's the man who would want to expand the war. MacArthur was the man released from his command for insubordination and refusal to comply with the foreign relations committee's demands. He can tell his whole story and be cross-examined."

Senator McMahon (D - Conn.) said in a news conference that the committee makes it imperative "that we open up hearings as soon as possible — and I mean open."

The Senate armed services and foreign relations committees have arranged to hear MacArthur May 3 at the start of an over - all inquiry (See RED BASE, Page 10)

House Committee Approves $6 Billion Defense Spending

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee approved today a $6,468,206,000 emergency defense budget and readied itself to consider another military request which may exceed $70,000,000,000.

The amount recommended today for House consideration starting tomorrow is for emergency purposes growing out of the stepped-up tempo will be spent during May and June.

It is in addition to $48,000,000 already voted the military by Congress for the fiscal year ending June 30.

In the immediate offering is the regular military budget for the year starting July 1. Military spokesmen themselves have predicted it may reach almost $80,000,000,000 but the appropriations committee looks for it to be closer to $70,000,000,000. Even the lower figure would be $10,000,000,000 more than the President had estimated in his January budget.

Included in the emergency measure which the committee sent to the House floor today are funds for a new atomic energy commission "Project X" for a quick build - up in the manpower of the Army, the Navy, the Marine Corps and the Air Force; and for a speed - up in procurement of the "hard-ware" for war — tanks, guns, guided missiles, and airplanes.

The Army disclosed, during the hearings, which preceded the committee action, that it plans to cut its June draft call to 20,000 men and to bring home upwards of 20,000 battle - weary Korean veterans monthly starting in May.

It also expects to recall to active service in the next two months 15,000 reserve officers to help train an Army estimated to have a strength of 1,522,000 on June 30.

A large chunk of the new defense money is needed to meet cost increases of equipment and supplies since the war started in Korea. Army officials said, for instance, that an improved model General Patton tank which cost $100,000 in 1945 now costs $150,000.

Truman Calls In Mobilization Team For Conference On Changes In Controls Laws

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman called in his top economic mobilization team today (2:30 p. m. CST) for a conference on what changes are needed in the economic controls law. He is expected to send Congress soon a message asking extension and revision of the Defense Production Act which expires in June. The economic controls are authorized by that act.

Nearly one-fourth of the American economy was brought under a single sweeping price order yesterday which the government said will roll back "the general level of manufacturers' prices."

However, some officials working on the stabilization program contend more authority is needed to hold down prices of food and farm products. The present law forbids ceilings on them below parity — a price defined in farm laws as fair to both producers and consumers.

The parity price for a farm product rises and falls with advances and declines in the prices of things farmers buy.

Those asked to the White House conference included Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson; Herbert A. Bergson, general counsel to Wilson; Eric Johnston, stabilization director and Chairman Leon Keyserling and members of the President's council of economic advisers.

Air Force Planning To Have 87 Combat Wings By June 30

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Air Force is extremely flexible. A wing is a self contained operating unit which may be made up of a relatively few heavy bombers, or scores of fighters.

And Vandenbergh said it clear that now and for some time to come the wings are operating units in name only, not really separate units. Much of the needed equipment, even some of the bases necessary to get squadrons together to operate as a unit, are not yet available, he said.

Vandenbergh said the money sought in the pending bill would "go quite a long way toward making them combat worthy."

Communist Masses Crush Forward On 100-Mile Front

GOP Issues Call For UN Tank Columns Red Base Bombings Stop Reds On East

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Republicans called today for the bombing of Red China bases. Democrats questioned a report that Lt. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway had urged use of Chinese Nationalist troops in battle.

Hot arguments over the conflicting views of President Truman and Gen. Douglas MacArthur on how to fight the Korean war hit a new peak in Congress as a Communist offensive smashed at allied lines some 10,000 miles away.

In the oratorical infighting here, Senator Wiley (R-Wis) proposed that the United Nations be asked to approve aerial attacks on the Manchuria base "sanctuaries" about which MacArthur complained before Mr. Truman fired him as Pacific commander.

Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) asserted that if the UN "ever is to be victorious in Korea," Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa must be used in the battle against the Communist foe.

MacArthur urged the use of Nationalist troops, air operations over Manchuria and blockade of the China coast. He told Congress it was his understanding that top military men — including the chiefs of staff — had shared his views on the need for a military standpoint.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs, has made it clear, however, he agrees with Mr. Truman such measures for expansion of the Korean fighting might lead to World War III.

Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, MacArthur's chief adviser, tossed some flaming gasoline on this controversy. At a news conference in New York yesterday he said Ridgway had proposed to the Pentagon that Chinese troops from Formosa be sent into battle.

Whitney said Ridgway, who succeeded MacArthur in the Pacific commands, made this proposal "after analyzing the situation," evidently shortly after he took over field command in Korea.

Whitney quoted Ridgway as saying the Nationalists were needed to support his troops in their position. He asked whether they might be sent into battle in Korea or on the mainland.

Whitney said all senior officers in the Far East would use of Chiang Kai-shek's troops. Deputy Secretary of Defense Robert Lovett, declining to comment on any possible use of Chiang's forces, said that the army would assign 500 more men to be assigned to the U. S. military mission on Formosa.

TOKYO — (AP) — Communist troop masses crushed forward along the entire western half of a 100-mile battle front today in their third invasion of South Korea.

But to the east, counter-attacking allied tank columns stopped the Reds in their tracks and hurled them back at some points.

On the west central front, United Nations forces pulled back abruptly and broke contact with the Reds. The withdrawal was so rapid some rear elements were trapped.

One was ambushed by Communists wearing white civilian garb or the blue denim uniforms of South Korean supply bearers.

In the extreme west, allies fell back in orderly fashion before swarms of Chinese, exploding their Imjin River crossing. They were less than 25 miles north of Seoul, South Korean capital, out of which refugees poured in dust clouded columns.

A tank-led relief column fought its way to a trapped UN battalion south of Imjin.

Some UN forces counterattacked as Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, told his troops, "in three days of battle (you) have proven your superiority" over the 40,000 attacking Reds.

He expressed confidence the battle would be won by the allies' "enormous superiority in fire power and all types of weapons" in fact a tremendous superiority in everything except numbers.

The bulk of the Chinese in the west were pouring down the Yonchon-Uijongbu invasion route. This highway also leads to Seoul. Allied fighter planes and bombs attacked them all day long.

The most abrupt UN pullback was to the east of this road, in the west-central sector. There the allies broke contact with the Chinese just south of the 38 Parallel. Then they withdrew to new lines north of the threatened Seoul-Chuncheon Highway which approaches the capital from the east.

AP correspondent John Randolph reported the Reds made no frontal attack on the west central front. The only sound of battle came from allied artillery and the roar of airplanes.

Allied reinforcements and counterattacks plugged the hole on the central front. An estimated 100,000 Chinese, including big strapping fellows from the Manchurian plains, were halted seven miles south.

A heavy allied counterattack smashed into Reds pouring down the main road toward Chuncheon. A fierce battle began early in the morning and still raged in mid-afternoon.

Southwest of abandoned Hwachon, UN artillery blasted a path for a counterattacking column. Allies who pulled back from the reservoir city wheeled and hit the Reds on the flank.

Communists attacking Yanggu at the eastern end of 11 - mile-long Hwachon Reservoir were stopped in their tracks.

On the eastern battlefield, a UN tank column rolled northward into the town of Imjin. Korean Redies who had captured the city abandoned it, choosing to fight instead from nearby hills.

AP correspondent Stan Carter said the allies appeared to have stabilized their line below the town.

Red advances were made by leap-frogging one division over another. Fresh troops pushing through dead, wounded and fatigued Reds on the dusty battlefield.

Twice they cut off sizable allied forces. Both times the allies escaped with slight losses. First it was the Turks. Then the Belgians.

Front line officers, like the one command, were confident. But not Korea's civilians.

They fled southward into Seoul, and again southward out of Seoul, in great dust-clouded columns. They were their third disheartened flight ahead of a Red invasion. (See COMMUNIST, Page 10)

Are Commies Pushing Into Big Allied Trap?

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Are the Red forces pushing their way into a spot where the Eighth Army can unleash mass-killing blows?

Or is the long-anticipated Communist offensive bigger and more powerful than that for which the defenders planned?

Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, said last week, just before the Reds jumped off on their offensive, that he thought the enemy would like to make another try and "if he does, we are ready for him."

In this, Van Fleet was expressing a view which has been put forth for several weeks at the Pentagon. He said the enemy chose to attack in the western sector which guards Seoul and the important port of Inchon.

Military leaders here and in the theater had been almost certain for weeks that the enemy would attempt a general offensive. During that time air reconnaissance had disclosed a heavy buildup of enemy armies in reserve. Thousands of trucks were seen daily rolling down from supply sources too much enemy. He was throwing an estimated 500,000 Chinese and North Koreans into the offensive while at the same time building up steadily the pressure on the western sector which guards Seoul and the important port of Inchon.

Narcotics Target For Crime Probes

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The narcotics traffic looked today like a prime target of Senate crime investigators armed with $100,000 and four more months to pry into underworld activities.

In a resolution which was quickly approved by the Senate today, the crime committee headed back into the limelight yesterday with this train of events:

1. Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn.), the committee chairman, yielded to the demands of party leaders not only that the crime probe be limited but also that it stick with it. At his own request, however, he will hand over the chairmanship to Senator O'Connor (D-Md.).
2. Democratic members of the crime committee quickly compromised their differences with the Republican members, who had been calling for continuation of the investigation, and an extension of the probe was whittled through the Senate without objection.

The resolution provided for continuing the crime committee until next Sept. 1 and gave it $100,000 on top of the $285,000 it already has received. It was to have expired Monday.

After Sept. 1, its records are to be turned over to the Senate's regular "crime committee" which has authority to keep underworld operations under scrutiny and use any of the $100,000 not spent by the crime committee.

O'Connor is slated to be named formally as chairman on Tuesday after the crime committee submits its findings and its legislative recommendations to the Senate on Monday.

Until the committee files its report and O'Connor takes over, it was impossible for him to say what course the dramatic investigation would take in the next four months.

A former prosecuting attorney and a former governor of Maryland, O'Connor said in a Senate speech only two days ago, however, that the sale and distribution of narcotics required thorough investigation.

He reiterated after the Senate's vote extending the crime committee that he felt the field of narcotics had not been fully explored because of lack of time.

O'Connor also has mentioned organized prostitution as a phase of criminal activity that should be investigated.

Senator Wiley (R-Wis.), another member of the committee, likewise has stressed narcotics and prostitution as among the matters on which the crime probe should turn their spotlight.

Gasoline Retailers Exempt From Files

Retail dealers of gasoline are not required to file ceiling prices with the Washington office of the Office of Price Stabilization, according to C. J. Taylor, district price executive.

No reports need be filed in Washington. Ceiling prices covering retail ceilings on petroleum products are to be filed with the OPS district office, but only when the dealer computes his prices by adding four cents to his supplier's price or by adding to their cost the same margin used in the base period from Dec. 19, 1950 to Jan. 25, 1951.

OPS also points out that records, receipts and the like are not to be sent to OPS offices, but should be preserved at the place of business and made available to OPS representatives when required.

Philip Murray Reported Ill

PITTSBURGH — (AP) — Philip Murray, 64-year-old head of the CIO and a labor leader, is reported seriously ill. His office said he was stricken Sunday night with acute inflammation of the pancreas after a trip to Youngstown, O.

Attendants at Mercy Hospital said Murray's condition was fair.

In recent weeks, Murray's associates said, he appeared tired but in good health.

For some time he has been under more than usual physical strain, it was explained, because of prolonged meetings with the United Labor Policy Committee and with the recently created Presidential Advisory Board on mobilization policy. He also presided at a two-day session of steel workers here last week.

Rain Ignores Pampa Area

A new weather front rolled into the state with thunderstorms spotted in parts of the Panhandle, but they brought only a sprinkle to Pampa Tuesday.

High winds buffeted West Texas, and in Pampa and the Amarillo sector sand blew throughout the day, with winds reaching 35 miles per hour.

Whipping gales at Lubbock took part of the roof off a store building in the south of the city. The Plains, a heavy hail and rain-storm struck about night fall.

Only rain measured in this area was one-half inch, between 3 and 5 p. m., in Wheeler. The thunderstorm was accompanied by high winds.

Early today the surging bias, which got up to 75 and 90 miles an hour at Big Spring, Tuesday had settled down to strong southerly breezes over the state, and the rain showers were reported in Bryan and Corpus Christi.

In Pampa it was clear with wind velocity reading 28 miles per hour at noon.

Stockholders Reap Reward

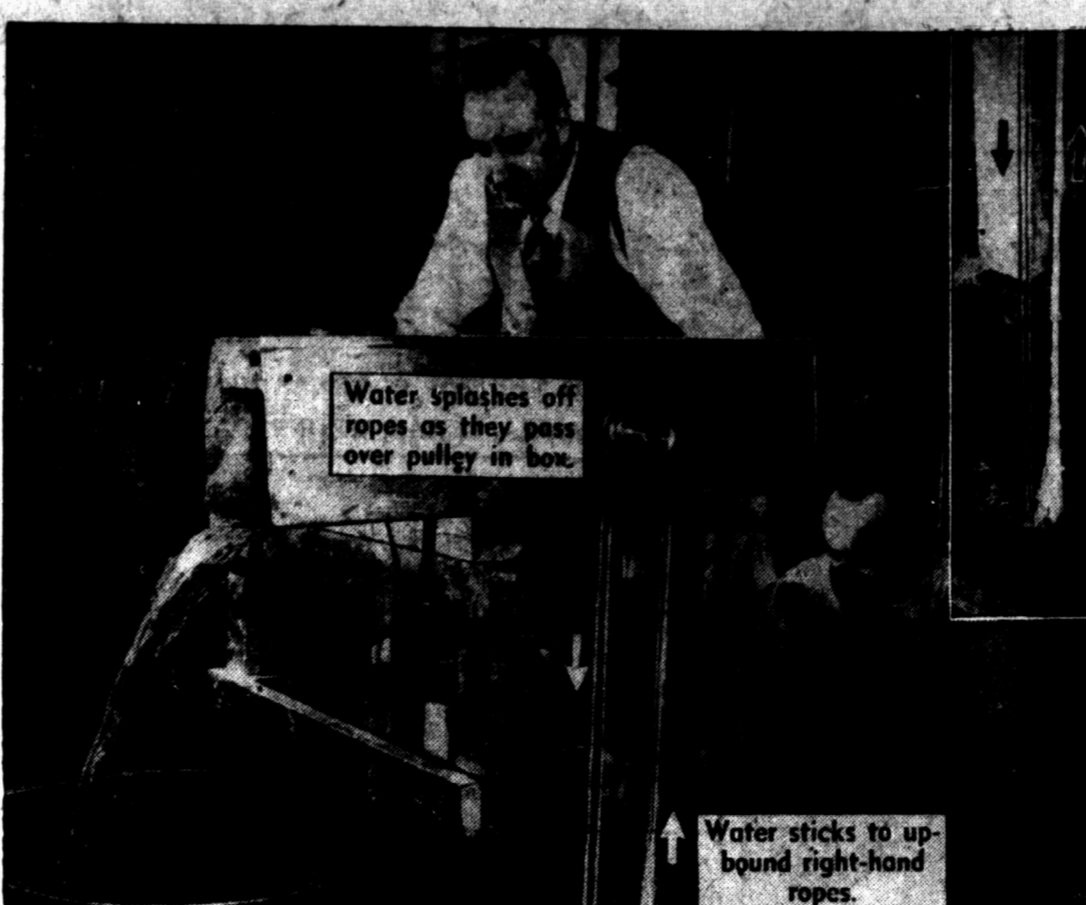

By SAM DAWSON NEW YORK (AP) — Dividend payments are flowing out in all-time record volume to the millions of Americans who hold common stocks.

Higher taxes and the swing to a half-war industrial basis haven't stopped the golden flow this year. The total of dividend payments, which set a new high last year, has gone on to new heights in the first three months of this year.

Not all industries share. Some have even cut payments, compared with the first quarter of last year. And within industries, some companies are better favored than others.

But in most companies, in most industries, soaring sales volumes have pulled earnings to peak levels. Directors continue in many companies, to pass a sizable part of these earnings on to stockholders — although not as great a proportion as in previous years.

Dividends were paid this year by 801 of the 1,043 issues listed on the big board. Of those paying, 588 increased the dividend, 387 paid the same amount and only 85 cut payments.

Parce Was Nevair Like This:

St. Louis Singer Makes Good In U.S.—With French Accent

By JACK F. GABRIEL
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) — La Bakaire is a little bit confused. She's not sure if she's an American girl who made good in France, or a French girl who made good in America. The only thing she's sure of is that she's made good.

There's good reason for her confusion. Josephine Baker — "La Bakaire" to Frenchmen (and a few Frenchwomen) for the past 25 years — is a girl from St. Louis. She was going no place in American show business, so she took herself to exotic Paris.

Fretty soon, La Bakaire was the most exotic thing in Paris. She hid herself behind fetching costumes like a few bananas, exposing quantities of La Bakaire to an appreciative audience. Either she picked the right bananas or else Paris liked the way she put over a song. She became France's biggest hit, and stayed on top for 25 years.

But, she says, she always wanted to come back and conquer America. She's done just that, on her third try at it. But the banana-days are over. The Baker figure is still a joy to behold, but now you can't behold so much of it. She's a well-gowned gal these days.

"I've brought back a marvelous wardrobe with me," she says. "My gowns were designed by leading French couturiers — Fath, Balmain, Dior — and they're valued at $150,000."

She's now on a tour of the U. S. that will take her into night clubs and theaters. "I'm making four and five appearances a day in the theaters, and I change my gown three times at each appearance, never wearing the same one twice in a day."

The St. Louis-born singer thinks in French and speaks English like someone who learned it not very long ago. Familiar with modern American slang, she is not yet quite at home with it.

"I realize I am giving out with a weird mixture," she giggles, "but the audiences seem to understand."

Twice before, she tried to invade American stages. She appeared in the Zeigfeld Follies of 1936, but the show was unsuccessful and she sailed back to the country of which she is now a naturalized citizen. She tried again in 1947, but this time the show didn't even open in New York.

"I was convinced that my appearances over here were jinxed," she says. "I'd had enough." But the third time worked the charm, and now she's swamped with offers for appearances throughout the country. Her weekly salary is said to be in five figures and audiences seem to be finding her worth it, as they break attendance records to see and hear her.

La Bakaire has never worked so hard in her life. "It was nevair like this in Parce," she says. The continuous performances have worn her vitality down a bit, but this doesn't show when she's onstage. "I keep hoping every day that I'll get more accustomed to it. I'm really very healthy and can overcome almost anything."

But there are compensations in her triumph. "This country was once my home," she smiles, happily, "and it's very comforting to find out that I have friends here, too."

It's a NIGHTMARE—that's what you'd say if you met this character while sleepwalking. Ambitions Stay With 99-Year-Old Haverhill, Mass. — (AP) — Benjamin F. Brothers, onetime seaman who once lifted a 720-pound anchor to win a $2 bet, is 99, and he'd like to take another trip to Europe — in a sailing vessel. Brothers, a former deacon of Calvary Baptist Church here, also feels at 99 that he should broaden his religious experience by attending services in a Jewish synagogue. He says he has attended services in the houses of worship of most other faiths.

His sight, hearing and appetite still are good. He has outlived two of three wives and all but two of his eight children, has nine grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren. He thinks hard work, moderate living and plenty of sleep are part of the recipe for long life. He says he always has gone to bed by 7:30 or 8 p.m. but arose early, at 5 or before every morning.

Doctors? For 90 years he never went to one. His only medicines in earlier years were those compounded by his mother from bark, herbs and other natural ingredients.

In proportion to its population, England has fewer telephones than Denmark, Hawaii, Norway, and Sweden.

It Took A Lot Of Sugar To Construct This House

By NEA SERVICE — CLEVELAND — (NEA) — For a whole week, children flocked to look at the little cottage made of candy.

They licked their lips and they looked wistfully at the lollipops sticking out of the chimneys and the peppermint shingles on the roof.

But you never saw such self-control. Or, maybe they remembered what happened to Hansel and Gretel who nibbled at the gingerbread house. Anyway, after a week just one little piece of candy was missing from the candy cottage. Just one little gumdrop. It had been hanging from a branch of the gumdrop tree at the corner of the cottage, and the temptation was too much for some little visitor.

Not that the others weren't tempted, too. The chocolate bar doors were tried, the pretzel stick windows were fondled, and the lollipops in the chimney were fingered.

Around the edges of the lawn, the coconut grass (dyed green) crumbled away a bit, and little fingers picked up the crumbs.

PAMPA NEWS, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 25, 1951 PAGE 9

but that was just being neat. A lot of the youngsters sat there and read Hansel and Gretel, which is what the candy cottage was all about, and tried very hard not to think about the candy on the table.

Mrs. Anne Krcek, who made the candy house, was very pleased with her audience. She's going to make another candy display for the children, this one about "Snow White."

And she's sure none of the seven dwarfs will disappear.

BEAUTY AFTER FORTY

Spray your gray hair with silver lacquer in the evening.
Try wearing blue eyeshadow with a film of silver eyeshadow over the blue.
Wear a deep red rose on the lapel of your jacket and match it in color and fragrance with a mint rose lipstick.
For evening glamour consider the possibility of silver nail polish over pink polish!
If your hair is black and white, try a blue rinse. It will give a soft blue tone to the white hair.

and deepen the sheen of the black. Use pomade on the back of your hair to give it a sleek, off-the-neck look.

Try the flattery of sheer, misty-white face veiling.
Consider the charm of a white straw hat covered with coarse-mesh black veiling. Wear white gloves and chalk-white jewelry.
Greet spring by wearing a huge bunch of artificial violets, sprayed with violet perfume and try violet eyeshadow.
A little fluid rouge, blended with skin freshener, makes a nice powder base for oily, sallow skins. The rouge gives color and the freshener absorbs the oil.
To soften heavy contours, try a light blending of rose-toned powder along the contour, over your regular face powder shade.
When you show your ears it's pretty to touch the earlobes with rouge. It gives a nice background for your earrings, especially pearls.
The flushed skin looks clearer and paler in the evening when green tinted face powder is worn, and you can use a light film of it under your daytime powder, too, with good effect.
Don't wear a chignon at the nape of your neck if you have heavy shoulders or a dowager's hump.
Always change your makeup when you change the color of your hair.
If you like blue-red lipstick but do not like the matching nail polish, choose a silvery iridescent nail polish or buff your nails until they gleam.
Decorate your black gauntlet gloves with a row of tiny silver buttons.

Special guests who took part on the program were Mrs. Edwin Lowrance, who played several numbers on an accordion, and members of the Pampa High School Quartet. Mr. Mott did a pantomime on an old song, "Chloe."
Versus Alexander and children played Mexican music as the guests were being served. Mexican food was served buffet style to about 175.

Explanation Is Due RFC Background

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — (AP) — By this time you may be thoroughly puzzled about the RFC — the Reconstruction Finance Corp. — and where it stands now.

A Senate investigation of the agency made many headlines. The RFC may get in the headlines again, and probably will. This is an explanation of what has happened and what lies ahead.

In the depression days of 1932 RFC was created — while Herbert Hoover was president — and was intended as one of the means the government could use to get business going again.

It has been making government loans to businesses, particularly small ones, which for one reason or another have had difficulty getting them from the usual sources, such as banks.

Congress has various committees which watch the doings of the many government agencies. And the RFC comes within the province of the Senate's Banking and Currency Committee.

This committee has a subcommittee headed by Senator Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat, which had the special job of keeping an eye on RFC.

In the summer of 1949 Fulbright wanted from RFC the answer to some specific questions in his mind about the agency's operations. He wasn't satisfied with the answers he got.

So in February, 1950 his subcommittee began an investigation of RFC but this didn't become sensational until the early part of 1951.

Then his committee's report alleged that some of President Truman's aides had used their influence on RFC to make loans to people in whom they were interested.

At the same time President Truman got from RFC a bundle of RFC correspondence reportedly indicating that some members of Congress had used their influence with RFC, too, to get loans for people in whom they were interested.

Fulbright's committee in the midst of all this made a recommendation that the five-man board which runs RFC be replaced by a single man, a chairman or director or boss.

Why? The subcommittee felt that under the five-man set-up — where a majority of the five can decide on the loans to be made — responsibility for everything that's done is too divided and that it's too easy for any one of the five to pass the buck.

President Truman sent a plan to Congress, in line with this recommendation. Although there was a lot of sentiment in Congress to wipe out RFC, and still is, the plan was approved, narrowly, in Congress.

When it was okayed, Mr. Truman nominated William Stuart Symington, to be the new one-man head of RFC.

(Symington, a St. Louis businessman, had come to work for the government after the war and held these jobs, one after the other: member of the surplus property board which disposes of the government's war surpluses; chairman of the board; secretary of the Air Force; chairman of the National Security Resources Board.)

It was on April 17 that Mr. Truman said he had chosen Symington to head RFC. He is supposed to take the job by May 1. The Senate must approve his nomination.

But — this doesn't end the business. The Fulbright Committee hasn't dropped its investigation of what RFC has done. It still is digging into White House connections with RFC, so there will be more on that score.

Further, it's going to check into those letters which congressmen wrote to RFC to help get loans for people in whom they were interested.

Meanwhile, there's still the chance that Congress may in the end abolish RFC altogether. This would be handled by Fulbright's subcommittee but rather by the Senate's full banking and currency committee.

It is supposed to start hearings shortly on proposals to wipe out RFC. So even though Congress has approved a one-man boss of RFC, and even if the Senate approves Symington for the job, there is still the chance that RFC may be abolished. But that doesn't seem too likely at this moment.

If you want smooth fluffy mashed potatoes cook the potatoes thoroughly and then shake the pan over heat to dry them well before adding the hot milk and beating like mad.

"50,000 MILES-NO WEAR!" — PROVED HERE:
After a punishing 50,000-mile road test, with proper crankcase drains and regular care, engines lubricated with new Conoco Super Motor Oil showed no wear of any consequence... in fact, an average of less than one one-thousandth inch on cylinders and crankshafts.
AND gasoline mileage for the last 5,000 miles was actually 59.77% as good as for the first 5,000! This test proved that new Conoco Super, with OIL-PLATING, can make your car last longer, perform better, use less gasoline and oil.
"50,000 MILES—NO WEAR!" IS FINE, but we back Conoco Super with a 60,000-mile written guarantee on our new cars," states Eugene B. Baxter, Chrysler-Plymouth distributor, Cedar Rapids, Iowa. "We believe Conoco Super will best insure the success of our 60,000-mile guarantee."
"ASK ME ABOUT '50,000 Miles No Wear!'"
"I'VE AVERAGED 5,000 MILES A MONTH since changing to new Conoco Super," reports G. M. Deen, Traveling Salesman, Perry, Oklahoma. "Since switching to Conoco Super I get better gasoline mileage and trouble-free operation. I believe the '50,000 Miles—No Wear' story now!"

Don't Invite An Oil Shortage

Once again last year substantial additions were made to the crude oil and natural gas reserves of the nation. The oil reserves jumped to 25,266,398,000 barrels as against 21,649,489,000 barrels at the beginning of 1950—despite an output during the year of 1,943,776,000 barrels.

There's a lot more to this story than the mere figures tell. The business of finding new underground reserves is tremendously expensive both in time and money. Aerial surveys now help the oil geologist locate promising territory but further information must be gathered laboriously by ground exploration.

Since 1926 Congress has recognized the unavoidably high costs of development peculiar to the oil industry and provided for their coverage in part through the exemption from taxation of 2 1/2 percent of the oil producer's income. Now, in a short-sighted effort to step up Federal revenue, Treasury officials have proposed that this depletion allowance be cut to 1 1/2 percent.

As James E. Shelton, president of the American Bankers Association, recently said, "Private banking and the credit furnished by it are a vital and constructive part of our economy. The banks of this country have a big, a necessary, and a vital job to do in financing the preparedness program and in supporting a sound domestic economy. The banks are ready, able, and willing to do the job. They were never in a better position to do it."

Furthermore, as everyone should realize by this time, government lending which in spite of all the efforts at whitewash, is largely dominated by political considerations is often extremely inflationary. By contrast, the Federal Reserve Board, with the support and cooperation of the private banks, the life insurance companies, and other enterprises, has launched what is called a Voluntary Credit Restraint Program. The purpose is to encourage all lenders to screen their loans and, during the emergency, to refrain from making loans for unproductive purposes which would contribute to inflation by unnecessary and unwisely increasing purchasing power.

Let it not be imagined that the life of a good Christian must necessarily be a life of melancholy and gloominess; for he only resigns some pleasures to enjoy others infinitely greater. — Pascal.

Better Jobs

What Belongs to Caesar? (By a Real Christian Preacher)

I want to reproduce an article from the magazine "Faith and Freedom," the monthly journal of Spiritual Mobilization. It is one of the best magazines I take. It is published monthly and costs $1 a year. It is published at 1521 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles 17.

The article was written by Edmund A. Opitz, Rev. Opitz was until very recently the minister of the Second Parish in Hingham, Massachusetts. He is now a member of the Spiritual Mobilization staff. The article is under the heading of "The Competence of Government" and the sub-heading "This minister gives an explicit answer to the fundamental question: What belongs to Caesar?"

"In the political scheme of Rome, the gods were employed by the State to sanction its own ends. It would have been unthinkable for the Roman gods to enjoin conduct contrary to the decrees of Caesar. Man was a creature of the State. Into this scheme was introduced the Christian idea that all authority derived from God, and that subject and ruler alike were under the law. Subjects were to obey their ruler, but only so long as the ruler obeyed God. This was the principle, however for the practice fell short of limited government under which the individual would be free to pursue his own destiny without coercion by arbitrary force unless he injured another.

"Absolutism is a denial of this principle. In the countries today under totalitarian control, human liberties are focused at a point no higher than the State. And even in the free countries there are tendencies which lead in that direction. But with the acceptance of the Christian idea that there are norms outside the State, superior to the State, by which even the State may be judged, politics in a free society becomes the difficult art of assigning the role of government to play in human affairs.

"In the American system, as projected by Jefferson and his friends, it was the individual who was given precedence over the State. He was endowed with certain rights which he possessed as a matter of course. It is not government which confers rights upon man, man has them by virtue of his nature. Government is not called upon to act except as those rights are threatened, and then only to prevent or punish any trespass on them.

"But natural rights are elusive things. Has anyone ever seen one or touched one? The suspicion that only the things we can handle are real has grown into a dogma. Natural rights, it was decided by so-called advanced thinkers, were only parts of an outmoded theology anyway. By contrast, the enactments of legislatures are substantial things. Laws get things done, they have results, they can be implemented by the force government has at its disposal. When the mentality gained dominance, the way was cleared for government to take a much more active part in human affairs than its negative role in early American thought would allow.

"This is the climate of opinion in which most of us have been raised. Government is a kind of Aladdin's lamp. If you rub it the right way there is nothing it can't do for you. It can work economic miracles and provide us with goods and services which would never have existed without its intervention. And so in much contemporary thought, positive action of government is urged to guarantee security, provide housing, maintain wages, control prices, and subsidize everybody. Are these things economically feasible, and can government adopt this role for itself without trampling on human rights? The answer to both questions is 'No!'

"Political action has notoriously bettered the economic circumstances of certain groups and classes within the nation. But in order for government to provide material benefits for some of its citizens it must have wealth, and there are only two places where the government might get it. Either the government has a private and endless stock of wealth of its own which it can tap by appropriate ritual, before it can scatter wealth on one group of people it must first tax it away from other people. The first alternative is absurd. There is no Big Rock Candy Mountain in Washington, and even if there were, where is the Moses who would smite the rock to make the wealth gush forth? There is no way for government to get wealth except to confiscate what its citizens have produced. Before it can build a housing project or a dam, the government must first deprive its citizens of the clothes, food, education, and sundries they would otherwise enjoy if their means of obtaining them had not been taxed away. What the government puts into one set of pockets it must first lift from another set."

WASHINGTON — President Truman's demand that government agencies reduce construction and activities to a minimum has been disregarded utterly by Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman. His power program's heavy drain on such scarce materials as copper and aluminum has raised protests before secret sessions of congressional committees and within the administration's national defense group.

Careful scrutiny of pending appropriation requests for expansion of the government's public power system discloses that they total more than $90,000,000, and that the completed cost will amount to almost $1,500,000,000. However, by using carry-over funds available under the past year's appropriations, it is estimated that proposed construction will entail the expenditure of more than $2,000,000,000.

Spokesmen for heavy industry have informed the House — Senate Appropriation committees that they cannot fill national defense orders, unless interior and other departments defer building plans during the current emergency.

Another consequence of government competition in a tight market, according to representatives of almost every group, is that the mentalities gained dominance, the way was cleared for government to take a much more active part in human affairs than its negative role in early American thought would allow.

I learned much about success when I worked for the Hoover Company. This great organization started out with a man and an idea—and a philosophy for operating a business successfully by serving human needs. The same spirit of success still inspires the people that work there.

The other day I noticed this advice to Hoover employees in their house organ—the Hoover Sphere—and it is worth passing along. "When you are in a hurry and the light turns red, do you curse, or smile and relax? The man who curses gives himself an emotional kicking and accomplishes no real purpose. The man who relaxes and smiles is kind to himself—and keeps his blood-pressure normal."

"In a hotel, recently, I saw an interesting picture on the wall. It shows Father Time and a Business Man. Father Time is pointing to a sentence in a great book. Under the picture these words appear: 'This' said the ancient, 'is the most important precept of them all,' and bending forward, the successful man reads in letters of gold: 'Don't take yourself too seriously.'"

Laura, The Pope, The M. D. Union

By DAVID BAXTER

Two seemingly unrelated events were in the news a few days ago which point up the principle of collectivization and monopoly which tend to destroy the rights of the individual.

According to the A. P., Laura Diaz, Communist member of the Italian parliament, was tried for "having offended the Pope." That's against Italian law, the Pope and Mussolini having been in cahoots via the Vatican concordat whereby the Catholic church was recognized as the "official" one and anyone who said anything the Pope didn't like would be persecuted—not by the church, of course, the church never persecutes anyone—but by the government taking its orders from the church. Church and state, in other words.

Miss Diaz, as might be expected, was convicted. The fact that she was a Commie is neither here nor there. She could have been a Protestant or a Hindu, for that matter. What is important is the fact that Italy is a classic example of church-state concordats. Get those two together—any church and any state—and repressive laws will be the order of the day while free speech, press and assembly fly out the window. All you have to do is to say or write something the church iron-fisters don't like and you're in the jug you go. It doesn't matter whether you're a Commie or a free-enterpriser. There is no such thing as INDEPENDENCE and individual rights are a capital joke.

When Bishop Donahue of New York declared that "there is no such thing as an American principle of separation of church and state," I feel quite sure that he was father to the thought and that he was anticipating the day when such would be the case. There is little doubt in my mind but what the National Council of Churches would also like to dictate legislation to the government if it could wangle a little more political pressure.

About the same time as the Diaz trial, a villain called Calton organized a medical union for trying to get a law passed in California (as they do in other states) to tighten their monopoly and place physical therapists under their control. Under the guise of "protecting" someone, the union, like all unions and collectives, really strives to protect itself, establish an ironclad monopoly, get into a sort of concordat with the state (as the Catholic church does to "protect" its special interest and everybody's "religion"), and use the state as a weapon to crack down on medical heretics and unwashed infidels amongst the therapists, chiropractors and other ed above, only one instance among many, to go on, we wonder if it is really necessary that we make any sacrifices merely to allow the politicians greater room to play. Only an aroused public can do anything to stop it. It's time we wake up to the fact that our government is in Washington to serve us—we are not here to serve those we elect.

TRAITORS AND POTENTIAL TRAITORS

(The Chicago Daily Tribune) The three defendants convicted in a New York federal court of giving atomic bomb secrets to the Russians may be sentenced to death for their treason. They were convicted of a conspiracy to spy, carrying the death penalty.

Alger Hiss and the rest of Mr. Truman's red herrings have been more fortunate. The administration shielded them so long and so effectively that, by the time they were exposed, the statute of limitations had run and they could only be convicted of perjury for lying about their spying.

Hiss was secretary at the San Francisco conference that created the United Nations. A great many people in this country still have faith in U. N. They refuse to see that the organization opens the door to treason. The United Nations is a scheme to destroy the sovereignty of the United States for the purpose of placing its resources, its productive capacity and the blood of its young men at the service of other nations. The backers of U. N. admit as much every time they argue that the powers of that organization are not great enough, that it must be strengthened.

Stalin is not likely to be so foolish as to risk an attempt to destroy the United States by military action, even with the aid of the atom bomb that American traitors have given him. He has no need to take such risks. The foreign adventures of the Truman administration, undertaken in the name of U. N. as a weak American more than a score of atom bombs could.

McLemore Believes Ol' Diz Is No. 1 Baseball Announcer

By HENRY McLEMORE

Baseball is not a game for scholars. For every Phi Beta Kappa who ever made his name in baseball I can name you a hundred athletes who couldn't differentiate between Caesar and Napoleon, but who could put the ol' wood on the bat, or throw a fast one past a batter in the clutch.

I would go so far as to say that the men whose names are in the record books didn't spend much time leaning against old oaks on the quad, or wearing ivy in their hair. To name a few, Ty Cobb was a star when most college men were writing home for money. Ruth's knowledge was limited to what base to throw to, and Jackson could hardly put his name on a hotel register without using an X.

All of which is an introduction to my favorite person on television. His name is Dean Jerome Herman Dean, if you want his full handle. He is calling the Yankees, I'll admit that his English isn't anything that will cause him to get a full professorship at Oxford. He won't spend his declining years teaching language (or languages) at Yale, Harvard, Princeton, California or Columbia.

But when he calls a baseball game you'll have to admit that he knows his subject. When he says the pitcher was outside with a knuckleball, you believe him. Because he threw that sort of ball when he was far and away the best pitcher in the National League. The same thing goes for his call on curves, fast balls, and change of pace balls.

Red Barber is a good friend of mine, and so is Mel Allen, but neither Red nor Mel would say they know as much baseball as Dizzy does. Dizzy doesn't remember my name, averages. Except his own, Dizzy doesn't tell you where a fellow was born, where his mother was born, and how much the combined weight of his family is. But when he calls a baseball play, you feel as if you are hearing an authority.

He even has to ask his assistant who is catching. But he doesn't mind sticking his neck out and saying a hit is a hit, or if the fielder played it wrong. Of course, I'm biased about it. I'm a fan of the game, and I'm a fan of the man. The idea is the same as when the church runs for the state for "special" protection and as a means of terrorizing the opposition and wrecking independence. It is simply: "We are omniscient. We know better than you do what is best for you and we are protecting you by using the state to make laws prohibiting you from offending us or accepting services other than ours—except by our express permission."

The whole spirit is one of collectivism—the opposite of individualism and liberty. Government by special interest pressure groups, instead of government of, by and for the people with "the consent of the governed."

Every union under the sun has the ambition. Each seeks to benefit its membership at the expense of someone else without the slightest regard for the good of the commonweal as a whole—which means the good of each individual member of the commonweal. So far as I know, far from being influenced by such pressure outfits, the proper function of government is either to ignore them altogether or, if the situation calls for it, to crack any and all of them—whether they would be church, medical, labor or what have you monopolists—over the knuckles and prevent them from harming other segments of the population. I'm not a statesman but that's my idea of the chief duty of government—to prevent people from harming one another or interfering with one another's independent right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

For the love of Mike: What more could GOOD OLD JOE have asked for? Of course with all the thousands of telegrams and letters flooding Washington, protesting the MacArthur dismissal, Harry and Dean had to give them a flat answer of "No." Oh, for a leadership with WISDOM and COURAGE enough to proclaim to the world that we still stand ready to not give MILLIONS, but to give BILLIONS for defense, but not ONE CENT for TRIBUTE. Very Sincerely, W. J. Cornelison, 817 Scott Ave.

Pampa, Texas, April 22, 1951

To the Editor, No one, I believe, is surprised at the stand the Texas delegation has taken in the MacArthur issue, even our own Congressmen, against the so-called Washington candidate, was going to Washington and clean up that mess.

OH YEAH? I have met no one who disputes the right of the President to discharge MacArthur if he had a reason or cause for doing so. How could General MacArthur keep executing directives that were issued in No. 10 Downing Street, London, England, when those directives ordered our boys up to a certain line to stop and be picked off like sitting ducks in a shooting gallery?

Certainly, Britain was well pleased with the discharge of Gen. MacArthur, since he was the only one whom they feared might cause a blockade of the Commie coast to stop their trade of Lend-Lease goods with the Commies. No wonder they exclaimed, "GOOD OLD HARRY," a very familiar phrase. Was it a mere coincidence that only six hours after Gen. MacArthur was shooting a telegram to Morrison, the British Socialist, foreign secretary, proposed a negotiated peace with the Commies, and was it another coincidence proposed to Truman and Acheson, not only a negotiated peace, but also an agreement treaty, giving the Commies Formosa, and letting them help make the Japanese peace treaty, also to accept them as a member of the UN?

For the love of Mike: What more could GOOD OLD JOE have asked for? Of course with all the thousands of telegrams and letters flooding Washington, protesting the MacArthur dismissal, Harry and Dean had to give them a flat answer of "No." Oh, for a leadership with WISDOM and COURAGE enough to proclaim to the world that we still stand ready to not give MILLIONS, but to give BILLIONS for defense, but not ONE CENT for TRIBUTE. Harvesters Scare Sandies Before Losing An 8-7 Tilt At Gold Sox Park Tuesday

By SPECK REYNOLDS

The Harvesters had the Amarillo Sandies on the brink of defeat Tuesday afternoon at Gold Sox Park, but Carl Matney's nine salvaged the conference tilt in the last of the seventh by scoring two runs and winning, 8-7.

Kenneth Brewer, hunted between third and pitcher, but Bob Seitz was run over by Sanders, who came into third without sliding, and jarred the ball out of Seitz's glove. He raced on to knot the game at 7-7.

Coach Dwayne Lyon pulled Dudley and Jimmy Cook took the hill for the Harvesters. Pinch-hitter Basden was walked intentionally to load the sacks. Conrack broke up the game with a bump-back liner over Elmer Wilson at second.

Dudley got into trouble the first inning. He was touched for three runs and three hits. Toby Drum doubled, went to third on a wild pitch. Mark Gunnels hit a grounder to Cox at short and he threw to Smith, trying to catch Drum at the plate, but the Sandie was safe. Sanders dumped single into left, and Orr got a one-base blow to score the second run. Kenneth Brewer hit a grounder in the third run of the inning.

Pampa was blanked in the first, but the Harvesters struck for three runs in the second to knot the game at 3-3. Bobby Seitz started the inning by getting to first on an error. Rick Harden struck out. Lawrence Rice forced Seitz at second for number two. Tolle Hutchins rifled a single into centerfield, and Dudley drove both runners in with a single. The Pampa hurler scored on Wilson's single for the third run.

Dudley settled down and retired the Sandies in the second, third and fourth frames. He didn't allow a hit during this stretch and he struck out four men.

The Harvesters pushed three runs across in the fifth. Dudley started the inning with a hit. Wilson walked, Eddie Scheig and Cox were hit by the pitcher and he struck out four men.

Dudley settled down and retired the Sandies in the second, third and fourth frames. He didn't allow a hit during this stretch and he struck out four men.

Amarillo tied the score at 6-6 in the bottom of the fifth. The Sandies made their three runs on four hits. Dudley whiffed three times in a row to retire the side.

Seitz scored Pampa's seventh run in the final inning. The Pampa third sacker went first on a walk. He was sacrificed to second by Harden. Alvin Ward, who replaced Rice in center, was safe at first on Miller's error. Hack Miller, Blue Sox manager who had defeated Albuquerque Monday night with a four-hit pitching job, tried the old pro man stunt and again right well for better than four innings. The Gassers jumped on starting pitcher Sam Hunter for five hits and as many runs in the first two innings, including a two-run homer by Earl Perry.

Miller took over with one out in the second, retired the Gassers in order until the sixth when they tied to score. Miller singled with two on to load the bases and Manager Eddie Carlson singled to put over three runs and tie the score at 8-8.

The Blue Sox skipper had tied up at 5-5 with a booming home run in the fourth with two mates aboard, hitting the first ball pitched to him by Loren and sending Rudy to the showers. In the fifth, Miller singled with two on to load the bases and make possible a tie start of a three-run rally which the Abilene ahead 8-5.

Borger went ahead in the seventh with two runs on three errors.

Leon allowed one hit and hit one batsman in that seventh inning, and got into more trouble in the eighth, walking Bob Leonard and giving up a single to Woody Pennington, shortstop, who led the Gasser hitting with three singles, which scored Leonard.

But the Blue Sox came back fighting in the seventh and battered around. Oscar Williams led off with a single, Charles Schmidt doubled, and Ralph Rahmes was hit by a pitched ball. Sessy forced Rahmes as Williams scored. Bowland was passed intentionally to fill the sacks again, and Morris Card came through with a two-run single, going to second on a play at the plate. Carl Nauert, first baseman, scored. Bowland, and Babe Tucker doubled to right, scoring Card with another insurance run.

McNeely To Attend District Meeting

Bill McNeely, Harvester baseman, coach, will attend the District 1-AAAA meeting in Lubbock this weekend. One of the main topics will be the drawing up of the 1951-52 conference schedule.

The members will also discuss the possibility of splitting the conference into two halves, north and south. Several coaches in the north part of the district have indicated they would be against dividing the league into two parts.

Teams in District 1-AAAA are Pampa, Borger, Amarillo, Lubbock, Abilene, San Angelo and Pecos.

Skidding Giants Lose To Whiz Kids, 6-4

Every time Willie Werle saunters to the mound for Pittsburgh he increases Branch Rickey's reputation as a master judge of players.

It was back in 99 that Rickey, then head of the Brooklyn Dodgers, offered $200,000 for the left-hand relief specialist. The Pirates disintegrated the offer. And is Rickey thankful. Branch, of course, is now general manager of the Bucs.

Funny thing, Werle wasn't worth a plugged nickel in spring training. In some 20 innings he was manhandled for something like 40 hits and 20 runs. But once they started playing for keeps, he quickly began to look like a million bucks.

He's been in four of the Pirates' six contests and Pittsburgh has won them all. He saved three and received credit for the other. The two games in which Willie did not see action, the Pirates lost.

Werle came to the rescue of starter Vernon Law yesterday, holding the Cubs scoreless for two innings to preserve Pittsburgh's 6-4 victory in Chicago. That made it 10 scoreless innings this season for the 29-year-old native of Oakland, Calif.

Werle started right off on opening day, holding Cincinnati runless in 2-1-3 innings to safeguard a 4-3 victory for Cliff Chambers. He came right back the next day with three score-

Blue Sox Defeat Gassers In Windy Contest, 13-11

ABILENE — (AP) — The Blue Sox had to come from behind twice to beat the Borger Gassers, 14-11, in a series opener sloppily played because of very high winds.

The Blue Sox used four pitchers. Borger threw in the long contest, won by Abilene in the inning with a five-run spree against relief pitcher Martin Hubbard. Rudy Larona, former Abilene right-hander, and Lefty Bob Clutley had preceded Hubbard to the hill.

Aggies Need Two More Grid Mentors

COLLEGE STATION — (AP) — Texas A&M is seeking two men to complete its coaching staff for next fall.

Head Coach Ray George wants an end coach and a line coach. He already has Gil Steinke to handle the backs and Dalton Faircloth to tutor the B team.

George was line coach until Monday night when he was named head man succeeding resigned Harry Stittler.

He won't desert the linemen, however. He will help the new line coach with the tackles, guards and centers while tending to the overall aspects of coaching the team.

Pampa Takes Over First Place With 9-3 Victory Over Amarillo Gold Sox

PAMPA NEWS, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 25, 1951 PAGE 7

Cats Tap Indians

(By The Associated Press)

Who says there isn't anything left to baseball except a game of seeing who can knock the most bats out of the fence?

At least the Texas League is disproving the observation that the diamond game has fallen into a pattern of home runs and scores in clusters.

The pitchers don't prance like they used to some lead out nine innings and do a good job of it while they're in there.

Last night, for instance, five hurlers went the route. One of them almost reached the half of no-hit, no-run fame. He was Ray Narleski of Dallas, who hit for a solid single in the second inning by Tulsa's John Temple, would have made it.

Dallas lifted Tulsa 2-0 although able to get only six hits off Dave Jolly. The Eagles were in trouble a lot because while Narleski couldn't hit he was a pitcher's wild, walking nine.

Another pitching gem was turned in by Wilmer Mizell, the celebrated "Mr. Perfect" of the Amarillo Gold Sox. He showed he had the stuff predicted for him last night by hurling Houston to a 6-1 victory over Shreveport and allowing only five hits. Mizell got better as the game progressed. He retired the last 17 batters in order.

John Mackinson went the route for Beaumont, giving up seven hits as Beaumont slauer-headed the league-leading San Antonio Missions 15-2. Monty Carlson doubled and Manager Eddie Carlson singled to put over three runs and tie the score at 8-8.

The Blue Sox skipper had tied up at 5-5 with a booming home run in the fourth with two mates aboard, hitting the first ball pitched to him by Loren and sending Rudy to the showers. Spuders Lead In Big State

(By The Associated Press)

It's a dog fight for the lead in the Big State League as the clubs move into the second week of the season. The Wichita Falls Spuders hold a half game lead over Waco and the Pirates in turn are only a half game in front of third place Gainesville.

Games last night were wild affairs but the lack of close, well played contests was overshadowed by the fight to grab the lead from the Spuders. The top four teams are less than two games apart.

Howard Bass Scheduled To Pitch For Oilers Tonight

Amarillo's Gold Sox continued to take their lumps in the West Texas-New Mexico League campaign. The Oilers handed Manager Buck Fausett's winless crew its fourth straight setback Tuesday night, 9-3.

The Oilers took over first place in the league, one-half game ahead of Lubbock who was idle last night.

George Payte noched his second straight triumph, letting the Sox down with three singles. The Oiler ace held Amarillo's hitters hitless the first three innings and blanked them in runs the first four.

Rightfielder Tommy Fox drilled a single into rightfield for Amarillo's first hit of the evening in the third. Payte tightened up and got Gynn Braden to fly out to Francis Rice in left, and Bob Murovich grounded out, Nelson Davis to Virgil Richardson.

Payte hit his widest streak of the game in the fifth inning. He issued three straight walks, uncorked two wild pitches and allowed one hit. This opened a home base to three Gold Sox. Pampa got to Murovich in the first inning for two runs. The Oilers plated one man in the second, one in the third, four in the fourth and one in the sixth.

The wallop of the night was delivered by Rice. The Pampa leftfielder has been having trouble in previous games getting hits, but he batted in four runs and got three for four at the plate against Amarillo. He hit a double, and Murovich hit a home run. With two mates aboard in the fourth, Rice blasted one over the rightfield barrier. He singled in the sixth to push Davis in with the final run of the night. Richardson, who continued his sensational fielding, opened the first frame with a double into right. Luis Suarez followed with a booming triple to the center field wall. Deco Woldt hit a grounder between first and second, and Braden slipped and fell in trying to throw Woldt out. Suarez held at third on the play. Richardson and Hank Chatelier each received free transportation to first to force Suarez across with the second tally.

One error, one hit and two bases on balls let the Oilers score in the second. Suarez got to first when Frank Murray let one go through his legs into rightfield. Woldt came through with his second hit. Richardson and Chatelier were walked again by Murovich, and Pampa's third run was forced in.

Rice and Castillo teamed together to notch Pampa's fourth marker. Rice got a one-base knock after Bill Whitehorn slid into leftfield. Payte went down on strikes, but Castillo shot his second double into right-centerfield to score Rice.

Woldt started the fourth stanza with a walk. The speedy Oiler stole second and raced to third when the catcher threw a past secondbase. Richardson grounded out and Chatelier struck out. Davis came through with a single into leftfield to score Woldt. Whitehorn walked, and Rice followed with his circuit; clout over the leftfield fence.

Davis and Rice accounted for Pampa's final run. Davis singled. Whitehorn walked, and Rice followed with his circuit; clout over the leftfield fence.

Three Indicted In Wheeler County For Feed Theft

Wheeler County Grand Jury indicted three men yesterday in the theft of 2200 pounds of feed from a truck belonging to the Light Flour and Feed Co. of Liberal, Kans. The feed, in 100-pound sacks, was stolen in Shamrock April 18 and recovered April 19.
 Charged are Travis Pennington, George Dorman and Homer Chapman all of Shamrock. They were arrested by Sheriff Bus Dorman, cousin of George Dorman.
 They were freed on $1500 bond each. Trial date has not been set.

COMMUNIST

 Dust clouds were so thick it was sometimes impossible to see for more than 10 feet.
 Combat soldiers were dust-caked, too.
 They were fighting a new variety of Chinese troops. These were big strapping fellows. But like their predecessors they attacked with complete disregard of UN planes, artillery and rifle fire.
 "You can fly right over the Chinese and they won't take cover," said Capt. Alfonso J. Coleman, veteran of 161 air missions.
 It was the same story from the ground. A front line officer said:
 "They attack and we shoot them down. Then we pull back and they have to do it all over again."
 "They have no tanks and no airplanes and we've been killing their infantry like flies.

 OPS will follow up with three more major ceilings within a week. These will cover machinery, cotton textiles, and wearing apparel including shoes.
 The new order will bring some price increases — mainly for those who heeded the government's appeal for "voluntary" restraint and then were caught in the Jan. 26 price freeze. But these will be outweighed by the rollbacks, DiSalle said.
 Stripped to essentials, each factory's new price ceiling will be the pre-Korea price, plus wage increases and increased cost of materials. On most materials, increases only up to last Dec. 31 can be counted.

 Howells will speak at the Lions Club meeting Thursday at the luncheon meeting. He will show a sound film of the artists available for next season.
 In charge of the program is Murray Seelye, program chairman.

 $198,000 before Korea now costs $240,000.
 The largest allotment in the bill is for the Army, which was earmarked for $2,850,594,000 of the $2,850,869,000 is requested. The $275,000 cut in Army funds was in the finance service, and Army spokesmen approved it.
 The Navy's share is $1,645,812,000, exactly what it wanted.
 The committee gave the Air Force everything it asked for — $1,928,000,000, which includes a large chunk of money to toll up and expand the aviation industry.
 The Atomic Energy Commission got $46,800,000 of the $31,300,000 it sought. The cut included reduction in "Project X," a top-secret project which the committee reviewed secretly.
 The committee approved $10,909,593 to expand hospital facilities in the United States for the Army. The "expanding patient load," the committee said, will require 49,250 beds, compared with 16,406 available last July 1.
 The Navy's new funds include $417,956,000 for aircraft procurement, $73,044,000 for guided missiles, $365,856,000 to expand production facilities, and $187,000,000 to start building and reconverting ships for the active fleet.
 The plans to cut draft calls, start Korean rotation and bring in more reserve officers were given the committee by top Army spokesmen during closed hearings. The committee made public the transcript today.

Students Win High Honors

LEFORS — (Special) — Lefors High School literary team won high honors at the District Inter-scholastic League contests at McLean High School recently.
 In the typing division, Shirley Perkins won first place, Betty Jo Henderson, second and Gerald Dunn, fourth.
 Rebecca Breining and Alta Mae Kimbley had first and second place wins in the shorthand contest.
 Shirley Perkins and Rebecca Breining took second and third place honors in the ready writing event.
 The winners were accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Helen Lette and Mr. R. C. Wilson.
 In regional competition, Shirley Perkins took second place in ready writing, and Rebecca Breining placed second in the shorthand contests. These two students will compete in the state contests, to be held at the University of Texas May 2, 4 and 5.

 far up on the northeast Siberian border of North Korea and from the Yalu River boundary area.
 Thus the big scale attack this time was nothing like the surprise the UN forces received last fall when the Chinese Communists swarmed into the Korean war from Manchuria and hurled the allies back well below the 38th Parallel.
 For these reasons Van Fleet's forces should be in relatively better readiness to contain the deep penetration the Reds have driven into the UN line — if the firepower of which leaders have talked can outweigh the ponderous mass of Communist troops beating fanatically ahead.
 In the months of comparative quiet since the war rolled to a standstill in the area of the 38th Parallel, the Communists have been re-equipping and supplying troops as well as building up manpower. How much heavy equipment and air support was going into this preparation?
 Communiques have pointed out that no enemy air power or tanks had been seen in "direct support" of the offensive. This didn't mean the enemy might not have such weapons in readiness, to throw them in if the old Asiatic style of winning by sheer weight of numbers, and with disregard for casualties, began to show signs of faltering.
 Reports from the front at the outset of the offensive mentioned heavy artillery fire. However, it was not clear whether this referred to the amount of fire or to the caliber of the guns. Until now, the Reds have used little if any "heavy" artillery, their guns being of types rated as light by American army standards.

 Other reports persist that Aly might come here to plead his case. It won't be the first time that he has pursued, the red-haired actress on his side of the Atlantic.

The two met at a Riviera party in the summer of 1948, and Aly promptly started a courtship that kept him trailing Rita through Mexico, Hollywood, Cuba, and most of the United States.
 They often happened to be on the same plane, and were together on the liner Britannic when both last left the U.S. on Dec. 15, 1948.
 Finally, they announced their betrothal, and on May 27, 1949, the former Margarita Carman Casano, of Brooklyn, became Princess Margarita Khan. The next day, at Aly's Chateau Horizon at Vallauris, France, they were wed according to Moslem rites.
 It was Rita's third marriage. Her former mates were Texas oil man Edward Judson and actor-producer Orson, chairman of whom she had a daughter, Rebecca.
 For Aly, previously married to a British hess, it was marriage number two.
 Complaining of the heat during an African tour, Rita left Aly earlier this year and eventually return here.

 home and read the Bible," particularly the part about "doubting Thomas" (St. Thomas).
 (Thomas was one of the 12 apostles. He refused to believe the Resurrection unless he could feel with his hands the wounds left on the risen Christ by the cross.)

(Eight days later, after Christ reappeared and showed the proof sought by Thomas, the apostle believed and said: "my Lord and my God.")
 Whitney refused to give further explanation, saying:
 "I'm not going to try to interpret the Bible to you. The general said it. To me, it's very clear."
 Earlier in the interview, Whitney said that all top Army, Navy and air commanders in Korea had shared MacArthur's desire to use Chinese Nationalist troops. He said these included MacArthur's successor, Lt. Gen. Matthew Ridgway.

 Whitney also said he "assumed" that MacArthur included Gen. Omar Bradley in his reference before Congress last week about the joint chiefs of staff.
 MacArthur had said that he understood his views on the Far East were shared from a military standpoint "in the past" by the joint chiefs of staff, of which Bradley is chairman.
 Bradley, without mentioning MacArthur's name, expressed his opposition to the MacArthur viewpoint in Chicago last week.
 Whitney also told reporters yesterday that "approval by the joint chiefs of staff" came "some time after Red China entered the war."

A Tribute... To Our Home Builders

We used to call them artisans years ago. Today we call them home builders, which is far more embracing. The sincere architect, contractor, bricklayer, plumber, steamfitter, carpenter, lather and electrician who contributes his specialized knowledge and talent is, in every respect, a man of vital importance. You dream of a home. And these artisans make your cherished dream come true. Yes, we might say that they are the most important people in America. For they are building not only for today... but for all the tomorrows that lie ahead. Let's be thankful our community has such home-loving builders.
